Four candidates seek Floydada board seats

The only race in the April 4 elections appears to be for a seat on the Floydada Board of Education.

Three places will need to be filled and four people have filed for election.

Two terms have expired, that of June Ware and Harvey Allen. Both have filed for another three years.

Don Hardy is at this time filling in the unexpired term of Adrian Helms. Hardy has filed.

Bill Orman will be the new name on the ballot.

Born and raised in Floydada, Orman graduated from high school here. He is now manager of West Texas Industries.

His wife, Kaye, is interested in various activities one of which is substitute teaching.

The couple has two children. Misti is an eighth grader and Shane is in fourth grade.

In response to the question of why he wants to run for the school board Orman said, "I'm interested not only in the education of my own children, but in the education of all...in good quality education in the Floydada School system."

He went on to say that as a school board member he would "feel obligated to do the best job I could in conserving the taxpayers dollar."

Harvey Allen has served on the school board for two full terms, and is currently vice-president. He was raised in Floydada and attended school here.

Allen is materials clerk and purchasing agent for Lighthouse Electric.

Judy, Allen's wife, is a secretary at the A&M Extension Service.

Mike is the oldest of their two sons and is a freshman at Tech. Norman is a Junior at FHS.

"We have just gotten started into the "Gifted and Talented" program in the system here and I'd like to see it through," Allen said when asked why he is seeking another term on the board.

"I have enjoyed working with the administration and teachers. I am interested in the community. The future depends on the children we are educating today. They must have every opportunity to move ahead," he concluded.

June Ware has served three years on the board. She is a homemaker, mother and full time student. Ware is working towards a degree in History from Wayland Baptist College in Plainview.

Her husband, W.R., is a farmer-rancher. Their son, Clinton, is a sophomore at Clarendon Jr. College. Their daughter, Lisa, is a Junior at FHS.

When asked why she was running for another term Ware said, "To continue my conservative policy in seeking a balance between the teachers, students and taxpayers."

"What I mean by balance is that everyone has an interest; parents, students, and teachers, and in my view, the main function of the board of trustees is to set policies which consider the interest of each group without going over board in any area."

Don Hardy has been serving on the school board the past three months. He said that the business experience he had the past 16 years in Floydada would benefit the school system in some of the decisions that have to be made.

Hardy graduated from Olton High School and after two years in the army moved to Floydada in 1965.

He has been in business since then. He served on the Chamber of Commerce board for ten years.

His wife, Sue, works at the Don Hardy Race Cars Company with him. They have two children; Dedra, 6, and Donald, 4.

"As a family we enjoy living in Floydada," Hardy said. "I hope that we can be of service in making this a better place to be."

No oil found

What's it like on the floor of an oil derrick in a 40 mph wind? Surprisingly steady. Only the canvas and the ropes blow.

The derrick, owned by Rebel Drilling Company located in Odessa, has been drilling for oil on the Wayne Collins farm for the last several weeks.

According to W.C. McKinney, Stanton, they are now at a depth of 4225 feet. The estimated total drilling will be 7000 feet. It is expected they will reach that depth in eight to ten days.

Two weeks ago the drill hit an air pocket with about 200 pounds of pressure. The blow-out caused loss of drilling fluid and set the crews back about 48 hours.

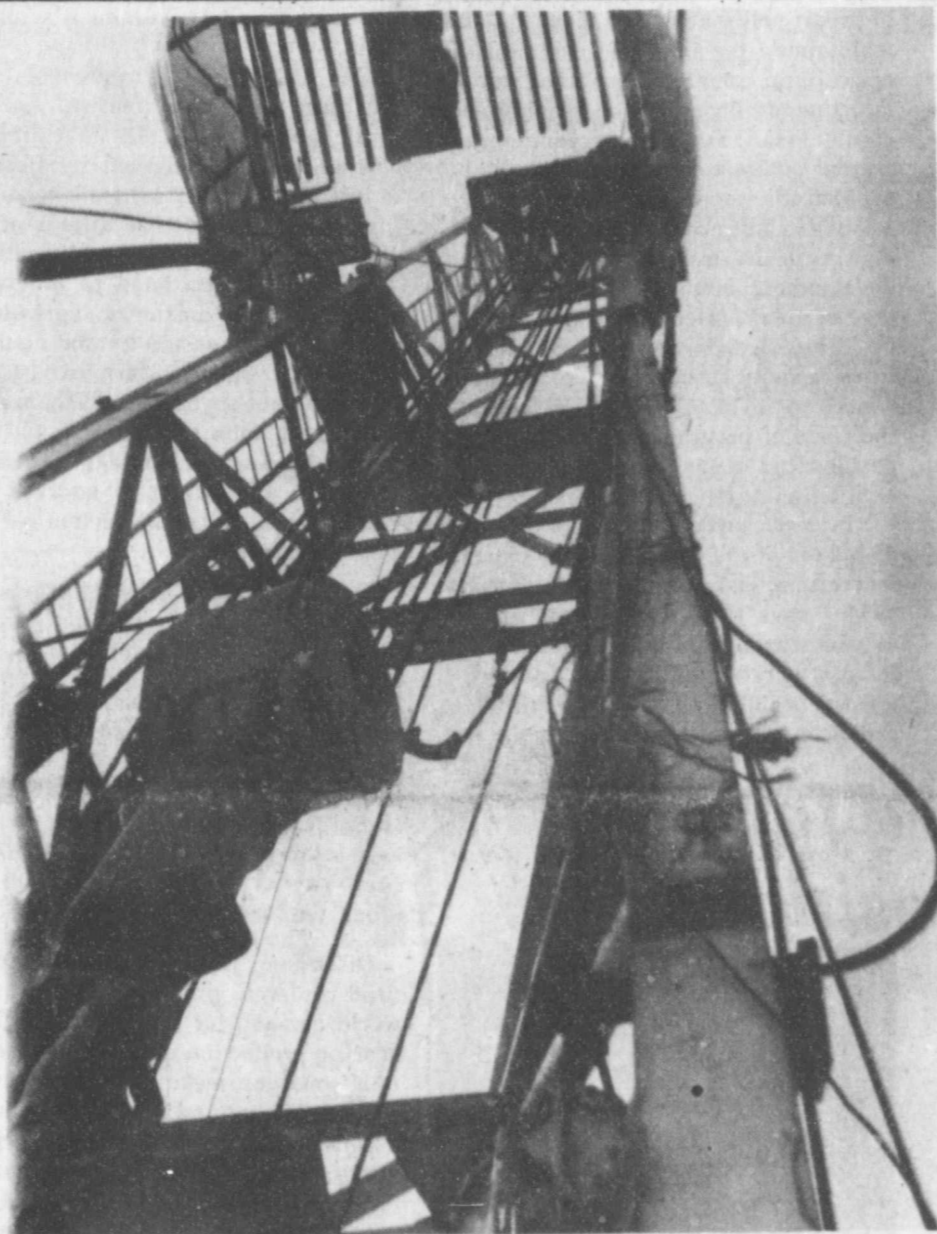

The depth at that time was 2003 feet. The drilling company hauled in 10-pound-brine and pumped it down the hole. That sealed it off.

They then drilled down to 3000 feet and set 8 5/8 inch casing to complete the seal off.

Three crews, two from Stanton and one from Snyder, work in shifts for eight hours a day, seven days a week. They drive home every night.

There has been no indication of an oil or gas level so far in the drilling process.

The rig is located seven miles south of Floydada on the Lakeview highway.

TRIPPING PIPE, pulling it back out of the hole in order to change the drilling bit, can be a problem in high wind according to roughneck, W.C. McKinney. The boom, shown in the center of this picture, swings and is hard to control. This shot was taken from the floor of the rig upward to the top of the derrick.

Meeting planned on bond law

A meeting has been planned March 24 for Floyd County businessmen and community leaders to acquaint them with the new Texas Industrial Revenue Bond Law.

Recently passed legislation allows a city or county to issue tax free bonds for the expansion of an approved industry. This must be done with the cooperation of an approved industrial foundation.

County Auditor, O.M. Watson Jr., is the county representative on the West Texas Economic Development Advisory Committee of the South Plains Association of Governments.

He said that this special meeting was arranged in order for Floyd County leaders and businessmen and women to have information about the possibilities for industrial development offered by the Industrial Revenue Bond Law.

Sylvia Clark, Director of Economic Development for SPAG will explain the new law for issuance of tax free bonds for the expansion of an approved industry.

The industry using the financing of the bonds to expand their facilities repays the bonds.

There is no obligation on the city, county, or industrial foundation.

The Texas Industrial Commission must approve all bonds before they are issued.

The meeting will be held at Lighthouse Electric Coop meeting room at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The city of Lubbock recently issued four million dollars under this plan to help a Lubbock industry expand.

Everyone who is interested in this new legislation is invited to attend the meeting.

Gale winds batter county

Gale-force winds gusting in excess of 60 miles per hour tore through Floyd County Tuesday causing the worst dust storm in the area in some three years.

The dust storm reduced visibility in the county to near zero at times. At least two traffic accidents were blamed on the storm which also knocked out electricity in some parts of Lockney for up to four hours.

Sixteen-year-old Russell Ford of Lockney was injured when the car he was driving went out of control east of Lockney and rolled over and hit a house according to Department of Public Safety Trooper Joe Lopez.

Ford was treated at Lockney General Hospital for a cut on the forehead and later transferred to a Lubbock hospital in satisfactory condition.

While Lopez was investigating the Ford accident, he received another call of a multiple-vehicle accident east of Floydada. Lopez said one car in that accident had apparently stopped and was struck from the rear by another vehicle at a time when visibility was less than a quarter-mile. Another car apparently involved in the collision had already left the scene by the time Lopez arrive.

Lopez said that apparently there were two separate accidents involving five vehicles.

According to the trooper, the first was a rear-end collision involving two cars and the other was a three car chain reaction collision. Lopez said the three car accident apparently occurred when two of the cars came upon the scene of the first accident and a third car crashed into the other vehicles, pushing one car into the other.

No injuries were reported in either accident.

In Floydada the wind caused damage to fences, trees and blew out glass store windows.

A concrete fence was blown down at the Hollis Payne residence at 821 W. Grover.

Some small farm buildings were reported to have blown away.

Strips of tin blew off roofs. One such strip was reported to have blown off of the Floydada Gin and struck a pickup truck.

A power line was down 5 miles south of Floydada.

Plate glass windows were also blown out at the Western Auto store front in Floydada.

At Lockney, a piece of metal blown into a distribution line knocked out electricity to the entire city about 4 p.m. The Southwestern Public Service manager in Lockney, Kenneth Tate, said the entire city was without service only for about 11 minutes. But, Tate said, there was a four square block area on College Street that did not have power restored for about four hours.

In addition, electric power outages were reported at Sterley and South Plains.

Friends plan talent show

If you have ever harbored a secret desire to be a star, now is your chance! A musical-talent review show is being planned by the Friends of the Library, as a fund-raising project.

Scheduled for May 2 at the High School Auditorium, "Reach for the Stars" will be a musical and dramatic program that will provide a place for every talent. Pam Veazey is coordinator of the program and is asking any interested persons to call her at 983-2673 for additional information.

Announcements have been made at Andrews Ward and Junior High School, and parents help in encouraging their children to participate in the program would be appreciated. Adult groups are also invited to plan a presentation.

Organizations might like to be represented with a musical or dramatic skit, the coordinator suggested. Youth groups, such as the Girl Scouts, and adult clubs might make this fund-raising for the Floyd County Library a community service project.

Helpers will be needed behind the scenes, too, Miss Veazey said. Those with artistic ability will be needed to design props and sets, help with costumes and prepare poster publicity.

Selections from popular musicals such as "South Pacific," "Oklahoma!," "Grease," "Sound of Music," "Annie, Get Your Gun," "Mary Poppins," "Fiddler On the Roof," and "The Muppet Movie" are suggested by Miss Veazey. She volunteered to help any group find the right material and provide any other assistance possible.

"Call now and offer your support for this worthy project," urges the Friend's organization.

Whirlwind band takes honors in UIL concert

The Floydada High School Whirlwind Band, under the direction of Bruce Kenner, attended the Region XVI U.I.L. Concert-Sightreading Contest held Friday, March 13, at Dimmitt High School. The band received a Division I in Sightreading and a Division II in Concert.

According to the U.I.L. rating system, a I is superior and a II is excellent. The ratings continue down to a V, which indicates a poor performance.

The band competed with other AAA bands in the North Zone of the Region; including Dimmitt, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Friona, Olton, Idalou, and Lockney.

Each group was required to play three pieces of music of their choosing in the concert portion, and then sightread a piece they had never seen before.

Judges for the contest were Charles Traylor, Larry Harris, Richard Crain, and Sam Robertson, all prominent high school and college directors in Texas and Oklahoma.

Wheat used for security

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said 4 million tons of wheat owned by the Commodity Credit Corporation will be used to constitute the nation's first food security reserve.

"With this action, we have realized a goal set by the Carter Administration to create a reserve which would help guarantee that this country will be able to meet its priority food aid commitments to developing nations. It will help ensure that the United States is a dependable supplier of food aid even in years of short supply," Bergland said.

Legislation to create such a reserve was introduced in 1978; however, it was not until last December that authorizing legislation was passed by the Congress and signed by the President.

"Wheat from this reserve will be used only for food aid and then, only when the domestic supply of wheat is so limited that sufficient quantities of wheat cannot be made available for disposition under P.L. 480 programs," Bergland said. "This insulates the security reserve from the marketplace and prevents the stored wheat from depressing commercial grain prices when supplies are more readily available."

The United States has been a major source of food aid to developing countries during the past 25 years. During that time, the United States has provided more than $27 billion worth of commodities to help meet food needs of these countries.

Between 1973 and 1975, when world grain supplies were in short supply, the United States cut back on its food assistance to meet commercial demands just when the need for food aid was abnormally large. The food security reserve will help permit this nation to maintain food assistance programs when supplies are short, Bergland said.

"Maintaining a regular level of food aid is also important to the economic well-being of U.S. agricultural producers and the economies of both the United States and recipient countries," Bergland said. "We know from past experience that many nations that have received significant quantities of food aid have become major commercial customers of U.S. agricultural products."

The CCC has already acquired the 4 million tons of wheat comprising the reserve as a result of direct purchases from producers and assumption of contracts cancelled by the suspension of sales to the Soviet Union. A small portion of the reserve—300,000 tons—can be used under Title II provisions without regard to domestic supply availabilities to meet urgent humanitarian relief in developing countries suffering a major disaster.

Irrigation costs can be reduced

(COLLEGE STATION) — Costs of irrigating cropland can be reduced by keeping irrigation pumps and power units in good repair to improve fuel efficiency.

Whether or not such repair pays depends on the current efficiency of the pumping unit, says Gary D. Condra of Fort Stockton, area economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

To evaluate the potential profitability of repairs to irrigation units, consider current pumping efficiency, depth from which water is lifted, interest rate, cost and expected life of the improvement, and current condition of the power unit and pump.

Condra uses the following example to illustrate the effect of the current efficiency factor on the profitability of repair work.

Assume an 800-gallon per minute (GPM) pump runs 3,000 hours per year lifting water from 300 feet with an electric motor using 5 cents per KWH electricity. A 10 percent increase in pump efficiency from 40 to 50 percent will reduce fuel costs for the year by about $3,800. However, a 10 percent increase in pump efficiency from 60 to 70 percent will only reduce yearly fuel costs by about $1,800.

Assuming improvements cost $5,000 at 15 percent interest, the increase in efficiency from 40 to 50 percent will pay repair costs in less than two years. On the other hand, increasing efficiency from 60 to 70 percent requires almost four years to pay repair costs.

Condra points out that today probably more pumping plants fall in the 40-50 percent range than the 60-70 percent range. Thus many producers can make profitable improvements in irrigation pumping efficiency before preplant irrigation starts this spring.

However, he adds the evaluation of the unit's current efficiency is critical as a first step.

Growers push soybean exports

(WASHINGTON) — Texas soybean growers have encouraged congressional and government leaders to support policies which will allow the uninterrupted growth of agricultural exports.

Texas Soybean Association National Director Robert Horn says soybean growers are concerned that government proposals, such as import restrictions on foreign autos and intervention in normal commercial trade, would invite foreign retaliation against U.S. agricultural exports.

"In 1980 the U.S. exported more than $40.5 billion in agricultural products with an agricultural trade surplus in excess of $23.4 billion," the Nomesoybean producer said after his meeting in Washington. "America's efficient agricultural industry, coupled with reduced trade barriers, all around our products competitive all around the world. We urge Congress to avoid any actions to impose protectionist import restrictions against foreign products as a means of protecting inefficient U.S. industries."

Soybean producers from Texas and 23

other soybean producing states also emphasized to congressional leaders that the role of the federal government in export policy be one of acquiring and maintaining maximum access for U.S. agricultural commodities abroad and in assisting producers in developing foreign demand. Federal intervention into normal commercial exports should be avoided, they stressed.

Another proposal requested that Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) market development funding reflect a percentage of total agricultural export value FAS enters into contracts with non-profit commodity associations, such as the American Soybean Association, sharing the costs of programs which maintain, develop and expand foreign markets of U.S. agricultural commodities.

"In 1980 soybean growers invested $5 million of their own funds to expand markets — up from $1.3 million in 1974," says Horn. "FAS funding has only increased from $1.3 million in 1974 to $3.1 in 1981, not keeping pace with exports or inflation. Soybeans and their products are our top farm export and foreign exchange earner. The increased exports resulting from these programs benefit our entire economy and more than pay for the government's investment."

The 1981 Farm Bill represents another area of concern. Agricultural exports generated an estimated $83 billion of economic activity. Because of this vital role in America's economy, growers requested that Title I of the 1981 Farm Bill be entitled International Trade and be restricted to provisions designated to maximize agricultural exports. Soybeans account for a quarter of the $40.5 billion in farm exports and growers want soybeans to remain more dependent upon the international free market than on the federal government. Congress was urged to address soybeans in a separate section of the general farm bill.

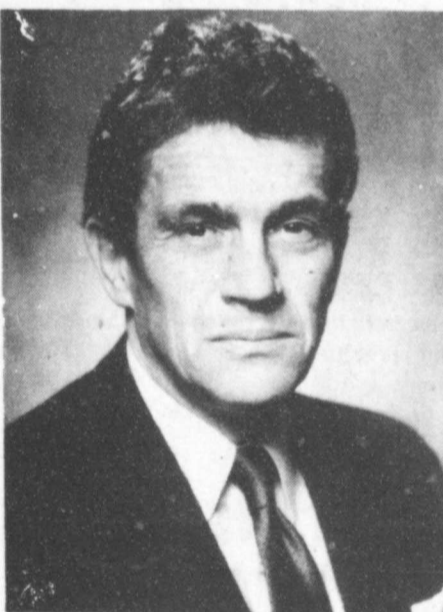

Misconceptions over farm prices and food price inflation was another topic farmers discussed with Congress.

"We asked our legislators to inform their constituents and fellow legislators that food price inflation does not accurately reflect farm prices," says Horn. "Farmers receive only 30 cents of each retail food dollar, the remaining 70 cents pay for labor, transportation and other non-farm costs."

Discussing federally-funded agricultural research, producers said growing world demand for U.S. food and fiber, soaring production costs and conservation concerns make continued investment in agricultural research absolutely essential. Both public and private investment will improve production efficiency and develop new and improved products for the expanding domestic and world market.

Agricultural production and marketing require adequate transportation. Soybean growers urged their legislators to encourage cooperation between Congress, government agencies and private industry to implement programs to improve the U.S. transportation system and our nation's ability to market its farm products. Conservation of natural resources is another concern voiced by soybean growers.

Hahn is named for new Cotton Inc. position

J. Nicholas Hahn

The Board of Directors of Cotton Incorporated has named J. Nicholas Hahn to the newly created post of executive vice president.

According to the board's plan, the post designates the eventual successor to J. Dukes Wooters, Jr., who is scheduled to retire as company president in October 1982.

The move is designed to provide a smooth transition. The timetable calls for Hahn to assume authority as chief operating officer by October 1981, at which time the seven corporate divisions—sales/marketing, international marketing, marketing services/communications, agricultural research, textile research and development, economic research and development, and administration—will report to him.

In October 1982, Hahn is expected to become president and chief executive officer reporting directly to the board. Until then he will continue reporting to Wooters.

Hahn has served as vice president of sales/marketing since 1973. As such, he has fulfilled a key function for the fiber company of American cotton producers in building markets for U.S. cotton.

Hahn has been responsible for formulating sales/marketing objectives and priorities each year, and has been directly responsible for the management of the company's largest division comprising five operating departments—apparel mill marketing, apparel marketing, home fabrics and industrial marketing, fabric development and fashion marketing—in four locations: New York City, Los Angeles, Dallas and Greenville, South Carolina.

Hahn joined Cotton Incorporated in 1971, the year it was founded, as manager of regional offices based in Los Angeles. Prior to that he was with the Mission Valley Division of Dan River, Inc. Altogether, he has devoted 20 years of his career to the textile industry.

Gages purchase

Plainview gin

Ralph and Mike Gage have purchased the Lider Gin in Hale County four miles east of Plainview.

The Gages, who have been operating a gin at Seminole, bought the Lider Gin from Udell Baucum. They will be living on the gin grounds.

Mike Gage says Floyd County residents are invited to stop by the gin and visit. Gage says they have a large quantity of high quality cotton planting seed and will be glad to help with spring planting.

Dope on Drugs

By Sunny McDonald

People, I guess we "blew it" last night for our second meeting of the War on Drugs. Remember our first meeting drew more than 100 people. Our legislative meeting drew a total of one!

In case some of you are not aware, five bills proposed by the War on Drugs Committee are listed below: 1. Bill announced by the Committee that persons over 21 years of age who are arrested for selling drugs to children 17 years of age or younger be imprisoned for a minimum term of 5 years. 2. Bill that adult offenders convicted of selling drugs to children typically are to be in jail at all for the first offense. 3. Bill that in many cases, avoid permanent criminal records. 4. Bill that sentences for drug trafficking in illegal drugs should be substantially increased. 5. New legislation announced by the committee. New penalties for "boat-lift" and "truckload" quantities in minimum mandatory jail sentences of 180 calendar years, and fines up to $100,000. In addition, suspended sentences, probation, conditional discharge, and deferred prosecutions and early release will not be available to persons convicted of large-quantity commercial drug dealing, ensuring substantial jail terms for such offenders.

Another new statute developed by the committee makes it possible to pursue the "kingpins" of the drug trade by making a crime of soliciting and attempts to violate drug laws. Under present law, conspiracy and attempt statutes are not applied to drug offenses; enforcement authorities have been unable to apprehend the financiers of the drug trade.

The committee proposals also include seizure and forfeiture of vessels and vehicles which are used to transport illegal drugs; and for the drugs themselves, as well as other proceeds which can be traced and proven to have derived from the illegal drug traffic. Court procedures related to such forfeitures will be made efficient and reliable, making it possible to eliminate the huge amounts of cash and other valuables flowing into the coffers of drug dealers.

The Committee has also developed a "Head Shop" statute, which outlaws the trade in drug paraphernalia and permits seizure of the paraphernalia itself, making it possible for law enforcement authorities to stop the many "Head Shop" operations which glamorize and promote the use of illegal drugs. Although some drug paraphernalia laws designed to accomplish the same objectives in other parts of the country has been struck down as unconstitutional, the statute proposed by the Texans' War on Drugs Committee closely follows the "Model Drug Paraphernalia Act" originally promulgated by the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration. This "Model Act" is patterned after other Federal statutes which have specifically been held constitutionally proper; and has also been ruled valid by a Federal District Court in Cleveland, Ohio. Consequently, the Committee is confident that its "Head Shop" bill can be sustained against the court challenge which is sure to come from the operators of these drug-related retail outlets.

Representative, urging them to support this legislation. Write to: Senator Ray Farabee, P.O. Box 12068, Capitol Station, Austin, TX 78711 and the Honorable Foster Whaley, State of Texas House of Representatives, P.O. Box 2910, Austin, TX 78769. Letters should be simple, short, and to the point. For example: Dear (name of sen. or rep.): I have (no.) children in school. I am concerned about drug abuse. Please support the legislation proposed by the Texans' War on Drugs Committee.

Sincerely, (your name) Please do write to our legislators. These proposals would represent a strong step toward elimination of the illegal drug problems in Texas.

Hail suppression hearing continues

BY CAROL LEA CLARK

The dispute over the effects of hail suppression continued yesterday in a Texas Water Commission hearing in Plainview.

Testimony was given by opponents of the Plains Weather Improvement Association's (PWIA) application for a permit to conduct hail suppression in parts of Hale, Castro, Floyd, and Briscoe counties.

Owen Thornton, Lockney retired farmer and landowner who is the vice president of the Mackenzie Municipal Water Board, testified that a "large downfall is required to get any runoff into the reservoir" since the Mackenzie Reservoir is filled from runoff of the dry Tule creek system.

He also said that you "wind up with a shower out of what looked like a torrential storm" after clouds are seeded for hail suppression.

According to Thornton the Mackenzie dam was closed in 1974 but there was no sizable runoff into the reservoir until 1977.

Hail suppression activities were conducted in the area from 1970 to 1976.

Dr. Bruce Dod, an earth scientist with Wayland Baptist College, testified that enough silver iodide from cloud seeding could kill micro-organisms in the soil, but he admitted that the levels required to have an effect on micro-organisms have not yet been determined.

Several High Plains farmers, Walter Graham, Owen Thornton, Nolan Hensen, testified they had observed substantial clouds that dispersed without producing rain after they were seeded by airplanes during the 1970-76 period. Plains Weather Improvement Association attorney Gene Owens, in each case, disputed whether cloud seeding could actually be observed from the ground.

The farmers also testified they had experienced less rainfall on their lands in 1970-76, although rainfall levels in surrounding areas had not been reduced those years.

Owens, disputed their conclusions that rainfall was reduced only in areas with hail suppression activities, and as a result of cloud seeding.

After the Citizens for Natural Weather completed their case against the PWIA's proposed permit for weather suppression, Donald Walker, an attorney representing the Texas Water Commission's executive director, submitted into evidence records of rainfall on the High Plains for 1970-78.

Three days were originally allowed for the Texas Water Commission hearing on the weather modification program proposed by the Plains Weather Improvement Association. The hearing began last Wednesday, March 11, but testimony was no where near completion by the end of the day last Friday.

In testimony last week, Wilbur Brewer described the cloud seeding process. Brewer is the president of Weather Modification Inc., of North Dakota, which is the proposed operational contractor for the hail suppression program.

Brewer said that in cloud seeding for hail suppression, silver iodide is injected into storm clouds, with the main purpose being to suppress hail, but also with the hope of inducing some rain to fall from clouds which might otherwise fail to produce precipitation.

Meteorologists will make the ultimate decision of how much silver iodide is used, but the method to be used by Brewer's company is referred to as "heavy seeding," according to Mr. Brewer.

Dr. Pierre Amand, head of the Earth and Planet Science Division of the Naval Weapons Center at Channel Lake, California, also testified in favor of the PWIA project. Amand conducted weather modification programs during the Vietnam War which were intended to lengthen the monsoon season and thus inhibit Viet Cong offensives.

According to Amand, the proposed High Plains project is the most restrictive he has seen because it is highly controlled and defined in scope.

He testified that he believes the program will not negatively affect those inside or outside the target area, and would result in increased rainfall for the area.

Witnesses called by the Citizens for Natural Weather last week painted a different picture of what will happen if hail suppression is approved as a result of the Texas Weather Commission hearing.

A New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology professor who researches thunderclouds, Charles B. Moore, said, "We don't have enough information about what goes on in a cloud," to successfully suppress hail and enhance rain at the same time. Moore also said cloud seeding with silver iodide could be very effective in suppressing hail, but that seeding in amounts necessary for hail suppression would decrease rainfall substantially.

Dan True, an Albuquerque television meteorologist who testified that he has had 25 years experience observing weather on the High Plains of Texas as a television meteorologist in Amarillo from 1954-76, said he noticed that weather patterns and storm systems on the High Plains had begun to change about 1970.

Weather modification activities were begun by PWIA in 1970.

After the Texas Weather Commission hearing is completed, examiner John Green will make a recommendation to the Commission which will in turn make a decision on the permit application by Plains Weather Improvement Association.

DOOR-TO-DOOR SALES—YOUR RIGHTS UNDER THE LAW

Ever had second thoughts about something you bought through door-to-door sales? Did you "keep the item or cancel the contract agreement? You have certain rights when it comes to door-to-door sales under both a federal regulation and Texas law. Federal Trade Commission regulations and the Texas Home Solicitation Sales Act define the rights of consumers regarding door-to-door sales. One right is a three-day "cooling-off" period. According to law, you have an absolute right to cancel the sales agreement until midnight of the third business day after signing the contract.

After you cancel a contract, you must return the goods if the seller requests you to. If you are not requested to return the goods within 20 days, you are under no further obligation. The seller must refund all money you have paid within 10 days from the date of cancellation. Of course, consumers can take two steps to protect themselves from unsatisfactory situations in door-to-door sales in the first place. Make sure you're dealing with a legitimate, authorized sales representative who conducts business fairly and ethically. Also, decide whether purchasing the product meets a real need or if you are acting impulsively.

The Rev. Michael O'Connor's

Perspectives

I cannot take it anymore! Now they tell me ("they" being researchers quoted in newspapers) there is a possible link between my morning cup of nectar, also called coffee, and pancreatic cancer. I can't even pronounce pancreatic without stuttering.

It seems these days that the old saw about things which are fun are automatically bad for you is becoming increasingly true.

Life cannot be lived without risk. There are dangers all around us. When we become too concerned about the possible risks we face, we eventually become paralyzed, able only to worry about what will get us next.

Many of my sincere friends are always telling me my body is the temple of the Holy Spirit, and I should take care of it.

This argument has been advanced for everything from getting me to give up smoking (I did), to getting me to quit eating refined sugar (I didn't), to getting me to exercise regularly (I try).

Now the context in which Paul was speaking when he uttered those famous words deals with sexual immorality, and the problem is becoming "one flesh" with a harlot, an event which most definitely does not glorify God. Paul then adjures us to glorify God with our bodies, because we are not our own having been bought with a price.

The point is we are supposed to use our bodies for godly purposes rather than ungodly. Whether eating refined sugar and white bread fit into those categories is up to you to decide.

As for me, I find it difficult to worry about those kinds of things. Certainly, I may extend my usefulness to God by not killing myself off at an early age, but my control over when I die is not entirely in my hands. Thus, I take refuge in Jesus' admonition to not worry about tomorrow because today has problems enough.

Meantime, I think I'll go eat some bacon and a donut, swirl down some coffee, and try not to hope a health freak breaks his leg on the ski slopes.

Homemakers set district meeting

The District meeting is being held in Seminole for all Extension Homemakers in District 2 on Tuesday, March 24.

Some of the goals are: reaching more people, get more publicity, get a larger membership, organize more clubs and let more people know who we are, what we stand for and where we are going.

We are a part of the National Extension Homemakers Council, the largest organization of Homemakers in the U.S. We have a six point educational program. Currently we have a membership of 25,000 and hope to double that figure in the next 10 years.

Mrs. Jimmy Crawford of Ballinger our State Treasurer of extension homemakers will be the main speaker. We are also looking forward to hearing Wynon Mayes of Plainview, give what she calls "A Medley of Erma Bombeck."

Delegates from Floyd County are Mrs. Syble Temple, Bess Carr and Mattie Norrell. Alternates are Mrs. Trudy Taylor, Murl Mayfield. Several other members plan to attend as guests.

Baptist Women host Lockney Class of '81 with banquet

The Baptist Young Women and The Baptist Women's organizations of Lockney Baptist Church honored the members of the 1981 graduating class with a banquet at the church.

The banquet theme of "Rainbows and Dreams" was written in green foil on the fellowship hall wall next to a large rainbow.

Icicles to simulate raindrops and clouds, imprinted with 1981 and the name of a senior, hung from the ceiling. Happy-face flowers bordered the wall. Long tables, seating eight persons, were centered with artificial grass, mint green tapers and a rainbow.

Entertainment was by a gospel trio from the church. Members of the trio are Terry and Donnetta Keltz and Ken Watson. Mr. Keltz, church music and youth director, was also master of ceremonies.

Invocation was by church pastor the Rev. John Jenkins. The welcome was given by Mrs. Jenkins, who is Baptist Women's director. Senior class president John Fortenberry said the response. Benediction was by senior class member Roxanne Ford.

Special guests were class sponsors Cheryl Russell and Marsha Sharp.

Mrs. Don Vernon, president of Baptist Young Women, was chairman for the banquet. She was assisted by committee chairwomen Mrs. Jim Martin, program; Mrs. Keltz and Mrs. Watson, invitations; Mrs. Ralph Hennagan, food; and Mrs. Richard Cook, wall decorations.

Spelling winners from Lockney and Floydada competed in the Floyd County Avalanche-Journal Spelling Bee Monday night at Floydada Junior High. Seated (l-r) are Jill Smith and Steven Galloway, who represented R.C. Andrews Elementary from Lockney Jr. High were Tamara Elam and Terri Sparkman, both eighth graders. Winner of the match was Roger Alldredge, Floydada, and alternate David Beaty, Floydada.

Rebekah Lodge celebrates St. Patrick's Day

Floydada Rebekah Lodge enjoyed a Round-Up night and St. Patrick's Day program on Tuesday night, March 17.

The hall was decorated in green in honor of St. Patrick's Day.

An old fashioned chuck wagon dinner of brown beans, corn bread, stew, potato salad, cobbler pie, tea and coffee was served to the members and invited guests.

Hubert Davis gave the invocation.

A game of Bingo was played by the group while they visited with their guests.

Those attending were: Elaine Giles, Terri Marquis, JoAnn Burns, Georgia Finley, Willie McCormick, Fay Hart and granddaughters, Salinda and Sarah Jane, Michael and Brandon Gilliland.

All reported an enjoyable evening.

MEMBERS—Alpha Mu Delta Chapter recently pledged in three new members. These are Sharron Fulton, Janice McCandless and Sandra Crawford. The initiation, the Ritual of the Order, was held in the home of Sherry Smith.

Don't Blame Your Age For Poor Hearing

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 82792, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Musical play to be presented by fourth graders at high school

Elephants, Clowns and Circus Sounds is the story of a little boy who wants to become somebody really important.

His struggle and ultimate success is set to music and will be performed by the R.C. Andrews fourth grade March 19 at the Floydada High School auditorium. Show starts at 7 p.m. and the admission is free.

The musical begins with Melvin the Magnificent, the world's greatest clown, in the center ring of the circus.

But Melvin wasn't always magnificent the narrator tells us.

At one time he was just another little boy. The scene changes and we see Melvin as a child.

In his quest to become somebody, Melvin tries everything from being an African hunter to being a spaceman.

But it always ends with the same result...he turns out to be funny. Del and Bill Gray recorded the musical soundtrack that is being used for the performance.

The show, though still in the production and should provide fine nights entertainment.

Doris McLain did the choreography. The lead role of Melvin is played by Shannon Whitfield.

Under the directorship of Bobby Rainer, the students have been working on the play as a part of music class.

The fifth grade class will present "How the West Won" on May 7.

ON SAFARI Melvin tries to be someone but ends up only being funny. How he finally becomes Melvin the Magnificent is revealed during the musical being presented by the fourth graders at High School March 19. Admission is free.

IN THIS SCENE from the play Elephants, Clowns and Circus Sounds the main character, Melvin, played by Shannon Whitfield, sings a duet with his friend (a hand puppet) during rehearsal.

THE NAME OF THE LORD

Many people use the name of the Lord very lightly. They are quick to exclaim, "My God!" or to use the name of the Lord Jesus Christ in vain.

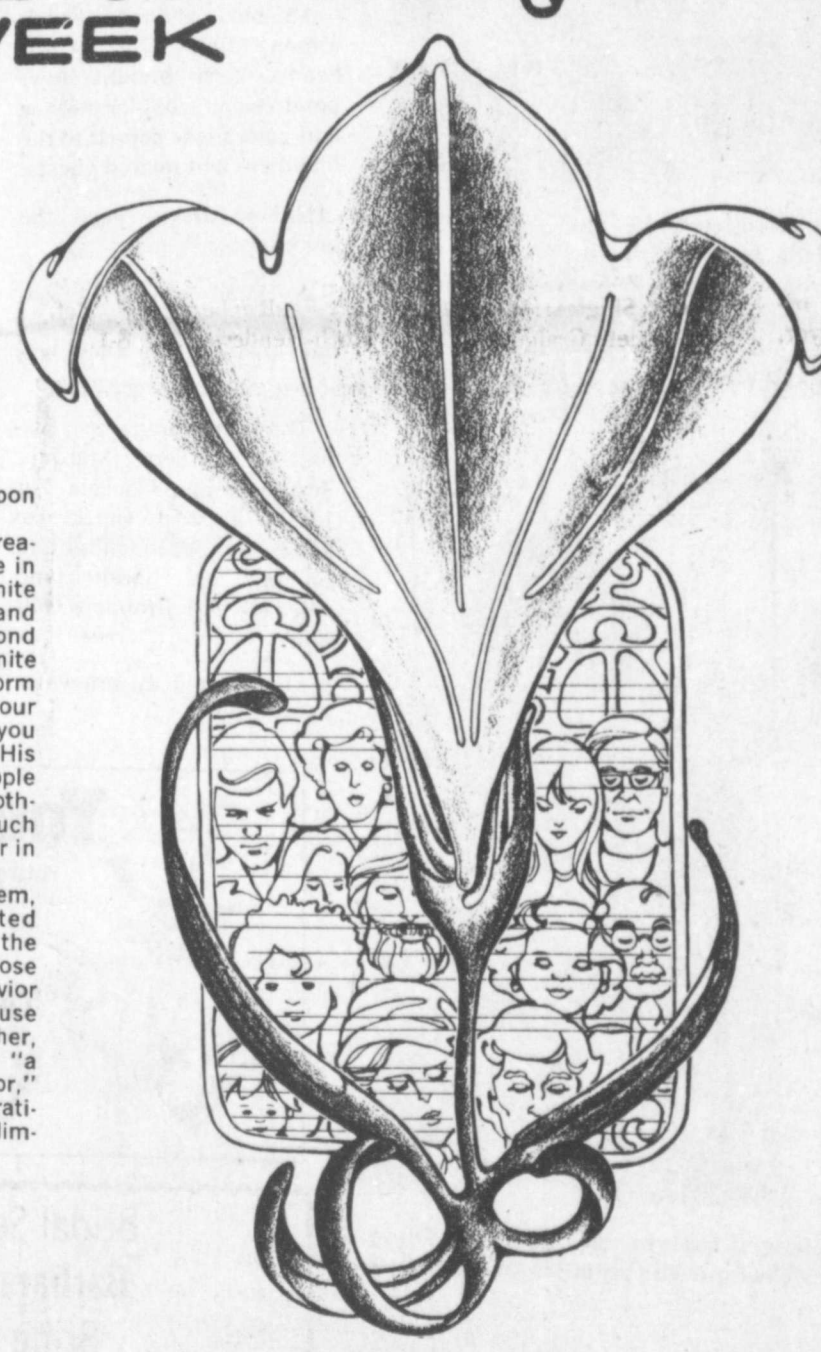

We should all understand that the Bible declares that "God will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain" (Ex. 20:7). This is one of the Ten Commandments which too many people forget or ignore. But it is more than a commandment. It does not merely forbid taking the Lord's name on our lips carelessly; it adds the warning "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; FOR the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Don't commit this sin, He warns, for if you do you will have to face God Himself for it and He will not overlook it.

Now, probably many of our readers have used the name of God and Christ in vain again and again. They have gotten into the habit and find it difficult to stop. Now what? How can such escape the condemnation of God upon this sin?

First, one of the principal reasons for not using God's name in vain is because of His infinite greatness. We should all bow and worship before Him. The second reason is because He—the infinite God—took upon Him human form and, as God the Son, died for our sins at Calvary. Now would you want to curse and swear in His name? You wouldn't want people to curse and swear in your mother's name, would you? How much less should we curse and swear in Christ's name or God's name?

Those who have this problem, invariably have never trusted Christ as their own Savior—as the One who died for their sins. Those who have trusted Him as Savior usually never are tempted to use His name in vain again. Rather, like St. Paul, who once was "a blasphemer and a persecutor" they exclaim with deepest gratitude: "He loved me and gave Himself for me" (Gal. 2:20).

Shelia Faulkenberry chief appraiser for the Floyd County Appraisal District, today urged local citizens to apply for available exemptions which may help residents save on their property taxes.

Shelia noted that for the first time, taxpayers in Floyd County may apply for all applicable homestead exemptions or productivity valuation on their agricultural land by contacting the appraisal district office which is located at County Courthouse Room 107.

The chief appraiser explained that taxing jurisdictions in Floyd County are voluntarily participating in early implementation of the countywide appraisal office. Beginning next year, countywide appraisal will be mandated by law for all of the state's 254 counties.

According to Shelia, taxpayers previously had to file their property rendition statements and exemption applications with each jurisdiction which levied an ad valorem tax on their property. Additionally, if they thought the property was valued too high, a separate appearance was required before each jurisdiction's board of equalization.

"Under the countywide appraisal district, not only can applications be made at one place, but a single appeal of the property valuation can be made," the chief appraiser added.

Shelia said the following types of exemptions are available to property owners in Floyd county:

—General Homestead. Those persons qualifying for a residence homestead are entitled to a $5,000 exemption off the market value of the homestead for school tax purposes. An additional $3,000 county homestead exemption from assessed value is available against the portion of the county tax rate for farm-to-market roads or flood control.

—Persons 65 or older. Elderly citizens are entitled to an additional $10,000 exemption off the market value of their residence homestead for school taxes. And, while an elderly citizen's property may increase in value through the years, the school taxes owed in any one year on the house and yard cannot be greater than the amount owed in 1979, or in the first year the property owner qualified for the exemption, whichever is later. An annual application to the appraisal office is required.

By local option, school districts, cities and counties may offer additional exemptions to elderly homeowners of not less than $3,000 off the market value of the residence homestead.

—Disability Exemption. Citizens who are totally disabled and qualify for the residence homestead exemption are entitled to an additional exemption of $10,000 off the market value of their residence homestead. This exemption applies to school taxes only. A property owner may not receive both this disability exemption and the $10,000 exemption for the elderly.

School district, cities and counties may offer an additional local option disability exemption of not less than $3,000 off the market value of the residence homestead.

—Disabled Veteran or Qualifying Survivor. Certain disabled veterans or their survivors may be entitled to an exemption ranging from $1,500 to $3,000 from the assessed value of any property they own. The amount depends on the percentage of service-connected disability.

This exemption may be applied against the value of any one property owned on January 1 of the year in which the application is made. The disabled veteran must be a Texas resident and complete an annual application at the appraisal district office. Only one property may receive the exemption, and VA or armed forces documents verifying disability are required.

Land which is being utilized for agricultural purposes may be eligible for tax relief. Qualified landowners hold the option of having an agricultural or open-space land valuation applied to their property. Details on what types of land may be taxed on productivity rather than market value are available from the appraisal office.

The chief appraiser added that a comprehensive 12-page pamphlet, entitled, Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities, is available at the appraisal district and from local tax offices. Information contained in the pamphlet is applicable to property taxes which are collected by all levels of local government including counties, cities, and school districts.

She said the publication was developed by the State Property Tax Board in accordance with the Property Tax Code which was passed by the 66th Legislature in 1979.

Q. Tax shelters seem to be the province of the wealthy. Are there any options open to we "anything-but-wealthy" who would like at least a few of the advantages?

A. With an IRA, the eligible employee (one who is not a participant in a pension or profit sharing program) can set aside in a special retirement account 15 percent of total compensation or $1,500 yearly, whichever is less - all of which is deductible on federal income tax returns. And, all interest earned is sheltered from any income tax until the fund is used at retirement. A bonus - if you are eligible for an IRA and have not done so - it's not too late. Before April 15, you may open an IRA account and have it treated as a 1980 deduction.

FIX-IT FACTS

Thurman Davis

Major among do-it-yourselfer aggravations is to get to the point where you're ready to apply that sheet of acrylic to the top of a project, only to find that it has been quietly acquiring scratches through some mystical means. Worse yet is getting the scratches out. The idea is to make finer and finer parallel scratches to the offending original, until you can buff the surface back to clearness. To accomplish this, begin with very fine (150 to 220 grit) sandpaper, and rub very gently. Finish with 600 grit. Use a damp cloth and buffing compound to buff by hand, or use buffing compound on a power buffer. Use a clean, soft flannel wheel on the power buffer as the final step. Hand polish with plastic wax.

Looks can be deceiving

BY MARGIE SAVAGE

Horrors!
How could I have done such a terrible thing!
The evidence was clearly visible through my woven trash basket. There it was, a bright orange can nestled among discarded wads of paper. The evidence was against me. I had consumed a high-calorie soda instead of a low-calorie one. I could just see the pounds mounting on my frail body. How could I have done such a dastardly deed?

I always check labels for nutrients and calorie content before I buy anything. Except for the time I was reaching for the generic brownie mix (for my daughter) and got home with the creamy, white frosting mix. An easy mistake—they were both in the same unmarked packaging.

Or the time I carefully purchased sugar-free cookies only to find, after I had eaten the whole box (over a period of time, of course) that, indeed, they had no sugar, but they did have more calories than the regular kind.

Or maybe the time I grabbed up a couple of boxes of crackers on sale. I learned that none of my family cares much for saltless crackers. I blamed these mistakes on poor eyesight because I know that I'm not absent-minded.

But ordinarily I am very conscientious about what goes into my stomach. So how could I have drunk a regular soda? Quite inconceivable! I don't remember it tasting especially good. I do distinctly remember it leaving an after taste.

I even remember the day I bought that diet soda. I was standing before the open dairy case getting my glasses fogged up, my face frostbitten, and icicles forming on my nose. I was trying in vain to get the can out of the plastic rings that invariably encase them, when I heard my mother's far-away voice say, "Margie Sue, close that refrigerator door."

In my haste to free the can, I laid my billfold on a shelf in the dairy case. Breaking three fingernails, I finally got the can free and slid the door shut.

There I was—my hair limp from the dampness, my glasses fogged up, my nose beginning to drip as the icicles melted, and my face and hands frostbitten—standing in front of the checkout counter with no money. I was so embarrassed!

I rummaged through my pockets trying to find some loose change. All I could find was a paper clip, a tissue, some lint, and a button. But no money. The soda was getting colder and colder in my bare hand. I was about to despair and return my diet soda to the dairy case, when a lady came up and laughingly handed me my billfold. I don't know how she knew I had been near the dairy case much less leaving my billfold there. Red-faced, I paid for my drink with cold cash and left.

It was imperative that I knew exactly how many calories I had consumed because I would have to give up something of equal calorie content to balance out the day (that's The Rule).

I picked up the can which was lying on its side with its top partly buried in the papers. Holding it up, the yellow letters fairly jumped out at me, "Diet." It said, "Hurray! I was legal! I had not transgressed! I was saved!" The pounds quickly melted away from my round little body leaving it almost slim and trim again.

Conservation winners announced

Winners in both the senior and junior division were announced this morning at the Floydada High School assembly. Gilbert Fawver, chairman of the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation Board, presented the awards.

Melissa Morren was the first senior division winner and received a $25. Sylvia Coleman was the second place winner and received $15. Lynley Hudson was the third place winner with an award of $10.

The junior division awards were presented last Thursday morning at the Floydada Junior High School assembly program. Jon J. La Baume presented the first place award on behalf of the district to Teresa Gentry. Miss Gentry received $15. The second and third place winners were included 2nd place to Tammy Holyfield, $10 award and the third place winner was Evelia Elias, $5.

The Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District provided the cash awards to the students. Students who did not receive cash awards but were honorable mention in the senior contest were Irene Alvarez, Benton Easter, and David Myrick. Honorable mention in the junior contest were Sarah Fitzgerald, and Kellie Pitts. All essays were judged by judges outside the county. Miss Morren's essay has been sent on to region and state judging, those winners will be announced later. "The district directors wish to thank all the school personnel and students for making the contest a successful one," Fawver said.

LOCKNEY JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS Evelia Elias (left) and Tammy Holyfield receive checks from principal Raymond Lusk as winners in the junior essay contest sponsored by the Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation board. Second place winner Tammy Holyfield ($10) and third place winner Evelia Elias ($5) both wrote essays of 300 words on "Conservation, Our Best Insurance." First prize went to a student at Floydada Junior High.

new fiber processing line, developed specifically to make more competitive with synthetics may be just the cotton growers have been looking for. Dubbed a vigorous action scouring bleaching line, it may have several side benefits in addition to making cotton more competitive, especially in the non-woven market. One of these is new technology for scouring cotton and possible compliance with cotton standards for textile mills. The new line significantly improves the range of cotton that can be processed as well as the quality of the end product, according to its developers (Cotton Incorporated). The line takes cotton fiber from the gin and converts it to a pristine fiber suitable for surgical gowns, cosmetic wipes and other uses. Eleven mills have already purchased the line, a sign that cotton will not be ground lost to synthetics.
