BY TERRY WILLSON

Dr. Havasi will begin her practice at the Caprock Hospital's Cogdell Clinic on July 1. Dr. Havasi, who will be practicing general medicine and family medicine, has been named to the Caprock Hospital staff.

Dr. Havasi, along with her husband, George, will be moving to Lubbock. The couple has been doing research at the Texas School of Medicine, George's specialty. He will obtain his medical degree from the Texas School of Medicine, he said.

Mrs. McClung said the Caprock Hospital is still seeking other doctors. "We have four suites in the Cogdell Clinic," she said, "that can house more doctors if necessary."

"Caprock Hospital has the potential to serve a trade area of 17,000 people," McClung said.

Dr. Havasi's office hours will be 9:30-5:00 Monday through Friday and Saturday mornings.

Dr. Havasi said she doesn't think she and her husband will ever return to Hungary to practice because Russian control would not allow their re-entry. "We loved Toronto," said George, "but we wanted to get away from the hustle and bustle."

Ilona said she thinks the people are friendlier in the southern U.S. She said she and her husband had felt welcomed while living in Lubbock.

"I just don't like the dust storms," she said.

SPS executive says coal is energy of the future

BY TERRY WILLSON

The executive vice president of Southwestern Public Service Company said Tuesday that the South Plains has the fuel needed for industrial growth.

Bert Ballengee told a small group of Floydada businessmen at the First National Bank community room that the chance for industrial growth in Floyd County is still possible.

"People still believe that our area is not the area for industry," said Ballengee. "They have no conception of what we have here in West Texas."

Ballengee said, "Industry is still interested in this area because we have plenty of energy."

Ballengee said government mandate has forced Southwestern Public Service to "get out of the gas business." He estimates that 60 percent of Southwestern Public Service's generation will be coal-powered by 1985.

He said coal prices have increased, but not rapidly as gas. Southwestern Public Service plans more coal plants, but no nuclear plants.

BERT BALLENGEE

The Wyoming Coal is readily available and has many uses for its bi-products. The bi-products are derived from the removal of 90 percent of the particulates. Thus, Wyoming coal is a clean source of fuel, he said.

The main particulate can be used as a cement additive, a cattle feed supplement and a road base component. The use of particulates reduces the cost of fuel.

"We have no plans for nuclear plants because they are too uncertain, too costly and often cannot be completed once construction has begun," said Ballengee.

He said an injection process using carbon dioxide would allow the collection of more oil.

"Thirty-five to 40 percent is still in the hole," he said. "But we can get another 30-35 percent out by injecting carbon dioxide into these holes, the other small percentage is water."

Ballengee said small-town industry is hampered by the potential industry's fear that the work force will not be strong enough to satisfy a plant's needs.

Texas Assessment of Basic Skills Test results announced by school officials

Third, fifth and ninth grade students of Floydada joined about 700,000 other Texas students in taking the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills (TABS) recently. The results are now ready to be announced.

Individual student results, which will be kept confidential, have been sent home. Parents are asked to watch for them and to feel free to contact school principals or the counselor to discuss individual scores.

School officials explain results

BY TERRY WILLSON

The Floydada schools are not merely seeking a return to the three A's—reading, writing and arithmetic, but are seeking a better educational program for all ages.

By 1983, 85 percent of students completing high school will demonstrate the attainment of the essential knowledge, skills and competencies in mathematics, reading and writing.

The Texas Assessment of Basic Skills report reveals that certain areas of learning in the Floydada schools need extra evaluation and effort spent on improvement. This does not mean that Floydada teachers are doing a poor job.

For example, third graders had attained a 41 percent mastery of the punctuation part of the exam. This does not mean that students can't punctuate correctly in any case, it simply means that the student's overall class has not mastered the punctuation questions set forth in the skill test. Parents must use the child's confidential report to determine individual results.

The TABS test is given through the Texas Education Agency by a mandate from the Texas Legislature.

Floydada school counselor Joanne Cagle said the Floydada Independent School District also gives yearly achievement tests. The same SRA series is coordinated throughout the school system. These tests are one way that parents can evaluate their child's progress.

Mrs. Cagle said teachers in all grade levels, not just the ones that were tested in the TABS, were given the results.

"In my experience, teachers are more eager to work toward a better education. I have never seen them (the teachers) so ready to zero-in on our deficiencies," said Mrs. Cagle.

High school principal C.E. Tyler and Superintendent Jerry Cannon agreed that teachers should teach toward learning, not toward tests.

Cannon cautioned parents saying that the test results should not be reviewed out of context. The TABS report is important in locating trouble spots, but cannot be used to gain a complete picture of the student's academic standings.

Tyler said the figures are an aid for assessing and reviewing student's mastery of skills.

"These scores give us something to look at in black and white," Tyler said.

Third grade students in Floydada district scored 82% mastery in the addition of whole numbers. They were fairly high in identification of values of money and reading and writing whole numbers. Lowest mathematics scores were in units of measure. Highest reading scores for third graders were in the 89th and 87th percentiles in phonetic analysis and following written directions. Students' lowest scores in reading were in identifying the main idea. Third graders in our district had most difficulty in the punctuation portion of the writing test with only 41% mastery. They scored 89% in spelling.

Fifth grade students, who took the test for the second time this year, surpassed last year's scores in seven of the eleven reading objectives tested. Fifth graders showed growth in ten of twelve objectives tested in mathematics, and in five or eight writing objectives.

Ninth grade students, also tested for the second year, showed improvement over last year's reading scores in five of eleven objectives in reading. Great improvement was shown in mathematics with growth in ten of eleven objectives assessed. Writing scores also looked good with growth over last year in nine of ten objectives measured.

The ninth grade test was designed to assess minimum mathematics, reading and writing skills which the Texas Education Agency deemed appropriate for a high school graduate.

The third and fifth grade tests were designed as checkpoints to assess progress toward meeting minimum skills in math, reading and writing. An excerpt from "Priorities of the State Board of Education" 1980, states:

1. Consistent with the Goals for Public Education in Texas, students completing high school will demonstrate the attainment of the essential knowledge, skills, and competencies* in mathematics, reading, and writing (composition):

By 1983, 85 percent of students completing high school will demonstrate minimum exit level mastery of the essential mathematics objectives as measured by the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills.

By 1983, 85 percent of students completing high school will demonstrate minimum exit level mastery of the essential reading objectives as measured by the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills.

By 1983, 85 percent of students completing high school will demonstrate minimum exit level mastery of the essential writing objectives on the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills.

2. By 1983, elementary and secondary schools in Texas will have in operation instructional programs capable of producing essential levels of student competencies in mathematics, reading,

Buyers warned of flood damaged cars

The executive vice-president of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association has warned new car customers to exercise "the utmost caution" in purchasing cars which may have suffered flood damage.

"No matter how much it has been reconditioned, a flood damaged automobile should be carefully checked by the consumer for mechanical impairments," said Gene Fondren, on behalf of the franchised new car and truck dealers in Texas.

"Anyone selling a flood damaged auto should disclose to the potential buyer any and all known damage or impairments caused by the water," Fondren said.

Fondren cited the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Consumer Protection Act which provides that it is a deceptive act or practice for any person to fail "to disclose information concerning goods or services which was known at the time of the transaction if such failure to disclose such information was intended to induce the consumer into a transaction into which the consumer would not have entered had the information been disclosed."

Fondren suggested the consumer complete the following five point guide when considering a possibly flood damaged automobile:

1. Check all gauges on the dashboard to make sure they are accurate. Look for signs of water on or in the gauges. Autos that have had water up to the dashboard are likely to be dangerous no matter how thoroughly the car has been reconditioned.

2. Look for signs of corrosion under the hood, inside and under the car on bumpers, behind the hub-caps and around the gas cap. Corrosion of any metal may cause a weak spot to occur.

3. Test the lights, windshield wipers, turn signals, cigarette lighter, radio, heater, fans and air conditioner several times, to make sure they work repeatedly. Flex some wires under the dash to see if they bend or crack. Wet wires and rubber hoses become brittle upon drying and can crack and fail.

4. Start the engine several times. If you see white smoke, this may mean the engine has just been cleaned out. Drive the car to make certain that it accelerates, shifts and stops smoothly. Mud or sand in fuel, cooling, and lubrication systems can cause extensive damage.

5. Check the interior and trunk for signs of mud and water. The back seat can be easily removed to check the stuffing and upholstery. Check the carpet for any dampness. Musty odors and water marks indicate that the upholstery, stuffing or carpet has been wet and may begin to rot.

INSUR-MATION

Floyd County Insurance Agency Jerry Lockney

In a Buy-and-Sell Agreement involving life insurance, the insured purchases the policy on the lives of partners or stockholders and agrees to purchase that policy. The insured's estate is insured's estate?

If proceeds of the agreement policy are not payable to the insured's estate, and the insured has no ownership in the policies or his life, the proceeds are includable in the gross estate and, therefore, subject to Federal estate taxes. Incidents of death would be precluded by a provision in the policy prohibiting the insured from surrendering or changing the beneficiary.

Social Security Cuts May Be Avoided

The Reagan administration has recently proposed $2.9 billion in Social Security benefit reductions.

These cuts, say the experts at the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, will have a disproportionately heavy impact on middle-income families. These reductions, they say, begin to chop away at the edges of the Social Security system.

It suggests that people concerned about fair tax cuts and Social Security might like to write their member of Congress about the proposed budget. Such letters can be addressed to the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Remember thinking that nothing good could possibly come from the heatwave of '80? Something has. Drought conditions, like those of last summer are, if nothing else, ideal for research directed toward finding stress tolerant plants. Corn hybrids, with improved drought tolerance are available this year as a direct benefit of the 1980 blister. On the market this year are seeds with improved root systems and sturdy brace roots to aid in upright growth. New corn hybrids will also have minimal leaf scorch characteristics, as well as larger ear size and, possibly, double ears which will boost yields even if weather stresses call for reduced planting populations. Hybrids with superior germination ability have also been developed, as well as plants with severe cold stress adaptability. Just another example of American producer's determination when there is a need, they will find a way.

Evaporation causes poor lawn watering results

Much of the water going onto area lawns and shrubs is being wasted. It's lost to overwatering, high evaporation and poor application patterns. Since the lion's share of household water use goes out to the yard, it becomes a real waste of money as well.

You can have a healthy lawn and garden without wasting water, and it is not difficult. The biggest improvement you can make is to begin a careful program of home lawn irrigation...if you can figure out when to sprinkle, how much water to apply and for how long.

The High Plains Water District has a few pointers for practical, efficient grass watering tailored for the individual lawn that can save you several hundred gallons of treated, fresh water and save you money on your monthly energy bill. They'll help you make it through the summer without sacrificing your turf while saving water.

A REMINDER

Water alone will not make grass healthy. In fact, too much water can be as harmful as too little water. Excess watering will drain away valuable plant nutrients stored in the root zone, decrease root zone aeration necessary to plant growth and may even inhibit root growth.

Overwatering can promote the growth of disease. It is a waste of water, fertilizer and energy expended on pumping.

You don't need to water every day. Most High Plains soils can store enough moisture to last seven to ten days. Watering a small amount every day or two only serves to wet the top few inches of the soil and cause the plant roots to concentrate there. Plants will be healthier if they are watered long enough at one time to moisten the deeper zone thereby encouraging deep root development.

OK - BUT HOW LONG?

Try this experiment to learn your sprinkler's habits. First, place a few empty topless cans at various distances from the sprinkler making sure they don't lean. After sprinkling for an hour, measure the depth of water caught in each can and average the amounts. Then divide the number of inches needed for your soil type by the average amount of water needed to effectively irrigate your lawn.

For example, assume that you've placed several catch cans, sprinkled for an hour, and arrived at an average depth of 3/8-inches of water in the cans. If the total depth of water needed for your lawn is one inch, then the total sprinkling time needed is found by dividing one inch (the total depth of water needed) by 3/8-inch (the average one-hour catch) — and the answer is 2 hours, 40 minutes. If you needed to apply 1.5 inches of water to sufficiently irrigate the grass and root zone, you'd need to water for about four hours.

SO WHEN DO YOU WATER?

At the first sign of real wilt. Wilt doesn't mean that the grass is dying, only that it's "thirsty." But don't look for it in the middle of the afternoon. Despite plenty of available moisture, many plants will tend to show considerable wilt on a hot afternoon. It's usually temporary. The grass normally will regain its vitality in the evening. Look for signs of real wilting then; it's time to water.

Most likely you'll discover signs of wilt only after five to ten days of little or no rain or irrigation. During cooler weather, this period will be even longer.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU WATER?

Most lawn grasses used in the High Plains have a potential root zone depth of about three feet. This means that with proper irrigation, the grass roots will penetrate and efficiently extract water and nutrients from the soil to a depth of about three feet from the surface.

How much water you'll need to apply to adequately irrigate this three foot zone depends on what type soil you have. If it is totally dry and sandy soil, you will need to apply about three inches; if it's loam (a mixture of clay, silt and sand) apply about four and one-half inches; and if it's a heavy clay soil, about six inches. It will be a rare occasion that your soil will be totally dry to the three foot depth. Normally half of the amounts given above will wet your soil adequately.

Of course, other factors will have a bearing on your irrigation schedule, but this is a good rule of thumb approach for establishing a lawn-irrigation schedule. Combined with careful observation, it should lead to a healthy, resilient lawn as well as to an appreciable savings of water.

Seniors attend "Oklahoma" showing

BY MARY PEARL COWAND

Friday afternoon, June 19, 39 Senior Citizens boarded a bus bound for Lubbock to see the musical production "Oklahoma."

Such a clatter and chatter there was on that bus!

On our arrival at the Civic Center, we found Mr. and Mrs. Menard Field, Ethel Cross, and Guy Garrison waiting for us.

After much confusion about the tickets and where we were to be seated, we were all settled and ready for the show to begin.

The show was very interesting and so well performed. The lighting and costumes were pretty and very appropriate. We had no trouble seeing and hearing the performance.

Our bus driver, who was such a polite and careful driver, told us he would be back to the parking lot at 10 minutes after 10, found that he had quite a long wait, since it was nearly 11:30 before we got back on the bus and started for home.

To the Office on Aging in Lubbock, we owe the pleasure of this all-expense paid outing which we enjoyed and appreciate so very much.

Those making the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Menard Field, Ethel Cross and Guy Garrison who had gone on earlier in their car. Those riding the chartered bus were Eldie Bryant, Thelma Jones, Annie Turner, Nettie Lowrance, Myria Dade, Elva Reeves, Mabel Foster, Lorene Reasoner, Ethel Warren, Ethel Morehead, Ruby Davis, Grady and Esther Freeman.

Others were J.M. Daniel,

Jewel Martin, Flora Fawver, Frances Linch, Nannie Gafford, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Denison, Frances Mitchell, Alma Dunn, Ermon Welborn, Gertrude Carr, Cora Hartline, Ollie and Mabel

Sandhill Hobby Club met recently in the community room of the First National Bank with Mrs. Arlon Miller as hostess.

The business session followed. New officers for the coming year were elected. They will be Mrs. Arlon Miller, president; Mrs. Ruth Trapp, vice-president; and Mrs. R.L. Bullock, secretary-treasurer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

A travel film was shown by Miss Francis Mitchell on an Alpine Tour.

Members present were: Mrs. T.C. Hollums, Mrs. Ruth Trapp, Mrs. Turner Hunter, Mrs. Walter Hanna, Mrs. R.L. Bullock and Mrs. Arlon Miller.

Mrs. Ray Smith, Mrs. Burl Huckabee and Miss Francis Mitchell were visitors.

Not all fruits have the properties needed for making satisfactory jelled products, but with the commercial pectins now on the market, home canners need not depend on the jelling quality of the fruit for successful results. Jellies not only make taste treats for the family, but friends will love them as gifts.

Those interested in knowing about jellies, jams, preserves and marmalades may call or write the Floyd County Extension Agent for a copy of H & GB 56 "How to Make Jellies, Jams and Preserves at Home" and MP-279 "How to Make Jellies, Jams, Preserves, Marmalades and Butters at Home."

CANNING BERRIES

It soon will be berry season again. Berries may be available for cobblers in the middle of winter or for jelly making by canning them.

To can berries, just wash, drain and cap them as though preparing them for eating fresh. Fill clean jars to one-half inch of the top of the jar, shaking the berries down for a full pack. Cover them with boiling syrup made with 2 cups of sugar and 4 cups of water - a thin syrup - or add more sugar for a sweeter taste.

Leave a one-half inch space at the top of the jar. Wipe off the sealing surface of the jar and close according to the type of lid being used, following the manufacturer's directions.

Place the jars in a water bath canner, which is a large container with a rack in the bottom to hold the jars about one inch from the bottom. It should be tall enough to have space to cover the jar with about one to two inches of water and about the same amount of space above the water.

The water should be hot but not boiling when the filled jars are placed in the canner. Place lid on canner and bring the water to a rolling boil, but reduce the heat, just to boiling. This prevents the juice from being drawn out of the jars.

Boil pint jars 10 minutes and quart jars 15 minutes.

Remove the jars from the water bath and let them cool.

The berries may also be canned without sugar. Then sugar can be added according to the way they are to be used - Raspberry or jelly.

Pamela Kay Els-Walter Frank Tracy married June 20 in Kansas

One-hundred persons witnessed the matrimonial ceremony uniting Miss Pamela Kay Els and Mr. Walter Frank Tracy on the evening of Saturday, June 20, at the Nail Ave. Church of the Nazarene in Prairie Village, Kansas.

The 6 p.m. double-ring ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Hardy Powers and the Rev. Herbert Els, both of the Church of the Nazarene, Bethany, Oklahoma.

Cathedral candelabras and an arrangement of calla lilies and antheriums enhanced the altar area. Musical selections were "My Tribute," "Author of Love," "Tannhauser March" (Wagner), "Theme from Water Music" (Handel), "Still as the Night," and "Moonlight Sonata" (Beethoven).

Summer photo

Capturing the spirit of summer in photographs is as easy as getting a child with watermelon to smile, especially if you follow a few simple tips on picture-taking.

To get a candid, slice-of-life photo like this one, try to take pictures while people are being themselves, unposed. Maintain a low profile when approaching your subject, even if it's impossible to avoid notice initially. Timing is essential, because you want to catch that precious smile before it's gone.

Use a camera with a telephoto lens to help you "get in close" without distracting the subject. Close-up pictures capture the true feeling of the moment—and help eliminate distracting backgrounds.

Your camera should be loaded and ready for picture-taking, because that fleeting moment can be gone at the blink of an eye. An aim-and-shoot Kodak Tele-Ektra 300 camera is ideal for these situations because you simply frame the subject in the viewfinder and squeeze the shutter gently. Its built-in telephoto lens will bring or on a window.

—Use fill-in flash for people posing in their faces. —Take snapshots of your camera and subject. Don't place your camera in the steamy glow of a shutter gently. Its built-in telephoto lens will bring or on a window.

—Change your angle and range to your picture. —Get down low for a straight-on view of their faces. —Take snapshots of your camera and subject. Don't place your camera in the steamy glow of a shutter gently. Its built-in telephoto lens will bring or on a window.

In the heat of competition, sports enthusiasts may lose sight of eye safety. The racquet sports—tennis, racquetball, badminton, squash—account for many of the 35,000 sports and recreational eye injuries in a year.

NEGLECT CAN KILL TOO. IT JUST TAKES A LITTLE LONGER.

Child abuse in most minds is synonymous with battered children. But the awful fact is that thousands of parents are abusing their children by leaving them alone. It's called neglect, and it can mean a lack of love as well as a lack of food, clothing and shelter. And just as in the other forms of child abuse—physical, sexual and emotional—it can and often does result in death. Each year one million children feel the pain of child abuse needlessly. Needlessly because it can be prevented if you help.

Abused children are helpless. Unless you help.

RECOGNITION — Buddy Widener (left) receives special recognition of a plaque and personal gift from S&H Promotional Services of The Sperry and Hutchinson Co. for 10 years of issuing S&H Green Stamps which are available at both stores here and in Floydada. # Spence longest-termed resident

BY DON STRASNER

Ninety-year-old Charlie Spence is Floydada's senior citizen, if senior citizenship is based on residency. Charlie is 10 years the junior of another old timer in Floydada. Warnie Hilton, but Charlie has the edge on Warnie when it comes to total number of years of residency in Floydada.

Charlie arrived in Floydada in 1914, a year ahead of Warnie, who came to Floydada in 1915.

When Charlie's relatives and friends threw a big birthday party for him at a bank in Floydada April 9th, it only marked his 90th birthday, but made him the longest-termed resident in the history of Floydada. As far as he can recall, no one else has even come close to living in Floydada for 67 years, except Warnie Hilton.

Charlie was born in 1891 in Carnes Co., Texas (not far from Galveston) to William Clarence and Nellie Gertrude Fisher Spence. His parents were both "immigrants" to Texas, his father a native Alabamian who pulled up stakes and headed west, and his mother a Dutch girl from Holland, who had come with her parents from the "Old Country" and settled in Bellville in Austin County.

Charlie was the ninth child out of a family of 11 children. When the family moved to Bell County in 1896, Charlie was five years old. He went to school two terms in Bell County before his parents moved the family to Runnels County in 1900, 30 miles south of Abilene. His father farmed there until 1914, when he decided to make another move, this time to Floyd County.

It was while Charlie was living and working on his father's farm in Runnels County that he married Maylon Lollar, in 1911.

Charlie remembers that when he arrived in Floydada, Floyd County was having one of its wettest springs on record. He thinks the moisture of that year, 20-some-odd inches, is the greatest amount recorded for a single year up to that time or since that time. "I saw an empty wagon (not counting the driver) being pulled by four horses, axle-deep in mud, trying to get down the street in Floydada."

After three years of marriage, Charlie and Maylon had their first child in 1918. "I had a wife and baby and was farming, so I didn't go to World War I. I was exempt from the draft in 1917 to farm," Charlie recalled.

While they lived on their farm seven miles northeast of Floydada, Charlie and Maylon had two boys, Sam, who still lives in Floydada, and Orvel, who lives in Garland. Orvel has four children, two boys and two girls, and altogether Charlie has five grandchildren and seven great grandchildren, but no great-great grandchildren yet.

Charlie saw both railroads come in to Floydada, the QA&P from Matador and the Sante Fe from Plainview.

"I don't guess there was a foot of pavement in Floydada when I came here," Charlie recalled. "They had a school when I came here, but it wasn't a high school, just a grade school. There weren't but about 65 students all told in 1926 when my children went to school in Floydada," Charlie stated.

"When I came here in 1914, a lot of land had been broken out and the big ranches were breaking up. There was a real bad prairie fire in 1908 that burned a lot of tents in Floydada. They would split a cow in half and drag the carcass across the burning grass to put out the fire. Most of the grass was gramma grass, about half knee-high in most places," Charlie recalled.

Charlie said there weren't but a few communities in Floyd County when he arrived in 1914. He said in 1914 there were just "a few houses and a gin," in Lockney. But to the west of Lockney and Floydada, the town that later was to outgrow all other towns in the area and become a thriving city, was Plainview, booming and growing and a beehive of business activity.

"I got off the train in Plainview in 1914 and the depot was standing in water," Charlie said. "The lakes were running together out in the countryside. There weren't any graded roads leading from town to town. There was only a cow trail from Plainview to Floydada in 1914."

Charlie said he doesn't remember ever seeing a car on the streets of Floydada before WWI. "I bought a Model T in 1919," Charlie said.

Looking back on history,

Charlie thinks that "the state and nation are in better shape than when I came to Floydada in 1914. It (the government) is organized so much better. When I came to Floyd County the cotton buyers bought cotton as cheap as they could and now the government sets the price on cotton. In the fall of 1920, the first bale of cotton I got out, I brought it to town and sold it and brought the landlord his rent and I went in the hole 75 cents on the bale of cotton. He said 'Forget the cotton patch, Charlie. I have plenty of cows to eat it.'"

Reflecting on the fate of mankind as a whole, Charlie concluded the interview by saying "I think that people will learn to adjust with the times as the times change. Some people say that the world will come to an end in the year 2,000, but I don't think it will."

Charlie Spence's life, as well as the lives of all the elderly who have spent their lives living according to the Golden Rule, is summed up by a placard quoting Psalms 91 on display in Charlie's living room, presented to him by relatives at his 90th birthday party: "Because He has set His love upon me, with long life will I satisfy Him."

FIND FAULT WITH A CHILD LONG ENOUGH AND HE'LL FIND FAULT WITH HIMSELF.

Emotional abuse is a form of child abuse that is much more severe than it sounds. It warps children's minds and creates mental problems that will affect them the rest of their lives. Thousands of children are emotionally abused every year. Add that to the thousands who are physically and sexually abused and those who suffer from neglect, and you'll begin to see how severe the problem really is. But it's not hopeless. Most child abusers can be helped. We know what to do but we can't do it alone.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

The filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for interexchange private line and foreign exchange (FX) service. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide interexchange private line and foreign exchange service in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell's tariffs.

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel para servicio de teléfono en Texas con vigencia a partir del 21 de Julio de 1981, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación.

Se espera que el nuevo arancel que se ha solicitado rendirá un aumento de 15.8 por ciento en los ingresos intrastatales de la compañía.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel se ha archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission en Austin, Texas, así como en cada municipalidad afectada y servida por Southwestern Bell, y cada una de las oficinas de la compañía para negocios con el público en Texas tiene una copia para lectura pública.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

El registro incluye, pero no se limita a, propuestas para aumentar las tarifas para servicio de línea privada entre centrales telefónicas (interexchange private line) y servicio de central telefónica extranjera (foreign exchange FX). Cambios en dichas tarifas de servicio también afectarían a clientes de otras compañías de teléfono porque dichas compañías proveen los servicios ya mencionados en conformidad a tarifas especificadas por Southwestern Bell.

IN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

WHEN DOES JESUS WORK

David T. Seay
Minister of Education
First Baptist Church

How long has it been since Jesus worked in your life? One of the sad commentaries on the lives of many Christians are personal testimonies of what Jesus has done in their lives that date back 20, 30, 40, or more years. It sometimes sounds as if Jesus hasn't done anything in their lives since then.

Does Jesus still work in people's lives today? A thousand times a thousand, the answer is "yes!" But when does he work?

First, Jesus works when he sees our faith. In the account of the four men carrying the paralytic man to Jesus, the Scriptures says, "When Jesus saw their faith, he said unto the sick of the palsy, 'Son, thy sins be forgiven thee.'" (Mark 2:5) Active and determined faith will lead our Lord to do something wonderful in our lives.

Second, Jesus works when we want him to work, John 5 records the encounter of Jesus with the crippled man who apparently had lain by the pool of Siloam for 38 years waiting for the stirring of the waters and for an opportunity to enter the water and be healed. Jesus said to the man, "Wilt thou be made whole?" In other words, "Do you want to be healed?" "Do you want God to do something in your life?" It requires some "want to" on our part for Jesus to work in our lives.

Third, Jesus works when we work. Cornelius, the Roman centurion, acted upon the vision from God and sent for Peter. Peter responded to the vision of the unclean food lowered from heaven in a sheet, and responded to the call of Cornelius's men to come to Caesarea. When all was said and done, the Gentiles had received the Holy Spirit because these two men had done something for the Lord. When we do anything for the glory of our Lord, it will not be wasted or lost, and Jesus will work in our lives.

Let the Savior do something this summer in your life--through faith, through "want to", through work.

Perspectives

Since just about everyone else has gotten their licks in about the baseball strike, I thought I might say a word myself.

As I recall my American history, unions were originally formed in order to do something about atrocious working conditions, and extremely poor wages. Such a purpose was a noble one. With people working up to 15 hours a day, in conditions most owners would not have allowed a slave to work in, and for practically no wages at all, something needed to be done.

I am not sure that the same problem exists in conjunction with baseball players, or for that matter any other sports or entertainment personality. This is not to argue the worth of these people to society, as some have done. Athletes and entertainers have always existed, though not always held in high regard, and have done so because we have a need to be entertained and thrilled, or what ever.

It seems to me, however, that what the athletes are looking for is some kind of security against their fleeting stardom. Their careers are admittedly short in many cases, but they were the ones who decided to take the risk.

If they should get stuck working for some turkey who won't pay them what they think they're worth, they should realize that they signed the contract. Somebody has got to be accountable for their actions, why not them?

Admittedly I look at this problem simplistically, and there are probably much more important considerations involved. But I still don't see the sweat shop conditions applying here.

Perhaps the best thing to do would be to get rid of owners, have everybody choose up sides, sponsor the games at so much prize money per man, and the best people win, kinda like golf. Those who can make it, do; and those who can't make it sell insurance.

In any case, let's quit wasting so much space and time on something as trivial as whether we get to see baseball this year, and get on with the business of seeing to it that real injustices are solved.

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. —

Volumes seem to have been written concerning the problems of the marginally-employed worker and the need to protect the employee from the abuses of the employer.

Little thought has been given, however, to the multitude of problems facing the employers of such labor, whether that employer runs a household and depends on a part-time housekeeper or a hamburger stand and hires teenagers after school.

The inclusion of such workers under the minimum wage law creates the first set of problems, with many employers simply unable or unwilling to hire workers at the standard minimum rate.

Even if the federal minimum hourly wage rates are met, the employer may well find himself in the position of the case outlined in the publication, The Exchange, recently. The retired businessman, a widower, told of his experiences in trying to hire a part-time housekeeper. The employee had medical problems that would make it difficult to find employment elsewhere and really needed the job. And even though the employer met federal wage standards, in order to employ her legally, he was required to fill out and file 13 different state and federal forms, plus pay a total of $442.35 a year in Federal Social Security taxes and state and federal unemployment insurance taxes.

All of these problems were encountered, I might add, after the man had found someone willing to do the work. Many potential employees turned down the minimum wage job to live in government-subsidized apartments at low rentals and subsist on welfare or Social Security payments, bank interest and other types of minimal income. Their desire and will to work have been destroyed by the federal largess, he believes.

No wonder that many employers and employees now agree on wages paid in cash from hand to hand, with such income never reported. I am not justifying breaking the law, but I do understand the frustration that can lead to such a practice.

Federal rules and regulations have reached the height of the ridiculous. If I have work to be done and am willing to pay you to do that work; if you need work and are willing to perform the task I advertise for the pay I offer, to what degree does the government have the right to interfere? That is the question.

I sometimes think government has been determined to legislate and regulate common sense right out of the picture and has become far too successful.

We now have a golden opportunity to make significant changes in the way government affects us.

My Savage World

A few years ago, several local people received a brochure describing the pleasures of life in a resort in New Mexico. Living in a small town, naturally the people mentioned this to the more they talked the more excited they became. The trip was more desirable as each person added his imagined pleasures.

The brochure pointed out the trip was entirely free—no condition—the couples accepting the trip must agree to a guide the possibility of purchasing a cabin or lot in the resort.

The group was now in such high frenzy that they were ready to return their acceptance letter to the company.

In happy expectation, they began to get their gear together and explicit plans. Some began practicing their golf swing and picking clubs to a high gloss. The tour had pictured beautiful fairways and lovely weather.

The fishermen donned their fishing gear, checked their tackle to be sure they had all the right lures to catch the big ones that were the ladies went shopping so they would be ready for the fabulous new literature so elaborately portrayed.

After what seemed like months, the expected acceptance came and plane reservations. The trip was finally an actuality. So they journeyed to Death Valley if they could all go together. So each of the returned their acceptance letter to the company.

After waiting a good two hours, the group began to get ready and walked out of the building to see if they could catch a glimpse of the jet. At this point, any plane would have been acceptable.

They were becoming angry, but worse than that, they were humiliated. Their dignity was being trampled on. They began to wander around. Their wanderings were leading them closer and closer to the plane. Suddenly the group was surrounded by armed security guards.

"What's going on here," one of the guards demanded. "We are just waiting for a plane to take us to New Mexico. We have our reservations," the spokesman for the group showed the group tickets.

"Oh, I see. This is the private plane owned by the company supposed to take you to Utopia, New Mexico. But it is already full. There won't be another plane going there until next month since January. There must have been some mistake. Now break it up on the runway."

The group was sorely disappointed as they stood back and watched their plane depart without them. But there was nothing to do but home. They would not return next week or any other time. There was Utopia for them.

Some of the group say they learned a lesson from that experience. "Nothing worth anything is free."

Some just laugh and think of it as a bad joke and like to razz the being so gullible. But secretly they know if they were offered another "dream" they would probably jump at the chance and take the risk of being fooled.

They are the ones that are still watching their mail for that brochure offers them that Once-in-a-Lifetime-Dream-Vacation. Free.

It's Not Easy

I guess I can't redesign the whole world to make it safe for my little daughter.

At the very least I'd like to make a few changes in all the playgrounds my little girl is likely to find, but I guess that isn't possible either.

Today I watched my daughter, little more than a toddler, stand at the top of the first slide I'd let her climb. It looked as high as Mt. Everest from where I was standing.

I watched uneasily, gauging all the angles, planning how I could catch her if she fell from any point on the slide.

As she started down the slide I noticed the look in her eyes. An Olympic skier might have had the same look. Excited, happy, and scared only enough to make her want to do it again and again, which she did.

I stopped counting when she had mounted the slide and come down laughing 25 times. Yet, every time she got to the top and looked down I could visualize her falling.

Why couldn't the designer have put a rail at the top of the slide? Why couldn't the playground designer have come up with a walkway just where a child's head falling from the slide?

No matter how perfectly the child has liked it, I wouldn't let my children's slides had never been used.

Yet, if she didn't have the slide, she wouldn't have the experience. I understand that, but I wouldn't trade the experience for anything else. I understand that, but I wouldn't trade the experience for anything else.

But, I'll be at the bottom of the slide waiting each time till she gets bigger.

Now I understand that the mother's face I saw so often growing up when she was careful, and I would never say, "Ma, I can do it."

Now I understand how she felt.

News and Reviews

Contrary to popular belief, Abner Doubleday did not invent the game of baseball. Doubleday never claimed that honor. In fact, he was a military man retiring from the army in 1873 to become a writer.

He never even wrote a word about the game. But he had a friend who did. In a report on the origins of baseball written by the president of the National League, A.G. Mills in 1907 credited Doubleday. The report was never discredited, so Abner Doubleday was enshrined as the Father of Baseball in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York in 1939.

Baseball probably evolved from the English game of Cricket. In the early days, any number of players could play on any size field. There were no set rules so arguments frequently broke out. Alexander J. Cartwright in 1845 drew up a set of rules for his team, the New York Knickerbockers. He also constructed a 90 foot square diamond. The first recorded baseball game was played in Hoboken, New Jersey between Cartwright's team and the New York Nine. The Knickerbockers won 1-0.

Baseball caught on and professional play was begun in 1869 by the Philadelphia Athletics. The Cincinnati Red Stockings were the first professional team to play a season. By 1946 players were making as much as $5,000 a year.

Bob Feller is credited for the fastest pitch of 98.6 MPH. Later, Mark Koenig, a second baseman for the New York Yankees, pitched a fast ball clocked at 127 MPH.

Little League was started in 1939 and was formed with boys in mind with rules geared to their strength and size. Both boys and girls enjoy playing baseball. Baseball is more popular in the U.S. than any other sport.

Students graduate from Cooking School

Twenty-seven students graduated from Lighthouse Electric Cooperative's "Food Fun for Juniors" classes this summer taught by Rosemary Paty. The three-day cooking school was offered free of charge to boys and girls who have completed the fifth grade as part of Lighthouse Electric Cooperative's youth development program. Two sessions were held in Floydada this summer. Students studied the basics of cooking such as reading recipes, measuring, cooking terms and kitchen safety. As daily meals were prepared, the class learned proper use of small appliances, meal planning for good nutrition, table setting techniques, and the importance of mealtime manners. One of the favorite recipes of the school was Pigs in Blankets. Pigs In Blankets 2 cups bisquit mix 1/2 cup water 12 weiners Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Measure 2 cups bisquit into mixing bowl, add 1/2 cup water, and blend. Knead 10 strokes. With lightly floured rolling pin, roll out dough into a square, 12x12 inches. Cut dough into 12 oblong shapes, each 4 inches long and 3 inches wide. Wrap each oblong around one weiner. The ends of the weiner will peek out of the quit "blanket." Place on an ungreased baking sheet and bake 10 to 15 minutes.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT AND NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

City of Lockney
215 E. Locust Street
P.O. Box 387
Lockney, Texas 79241
(806) 652-2355

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

On or about July 13, 1981, the above-named City will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) for the following project activities:

NORTHEAST LOCKNEY NEIGHBORHOOD REVITALIZATION PROJECT:

Clearance Activities -	$ 22,000.00	estimated cost
Water & Sewer Facilities -	$166,500.00	estimated cost
Acquisition -	$ 6,000.00	estimated cost
Relocation -	$ 76,000.00	estimated cost
Street Improvements -	$254,000.00	estimated cost

The above referenced project activities will be carried out as part of a two year (1981-1982) comprehensive Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. The request for release of funds will cover both the 1981 and 1982 program years. The project will be carried out in a Target Area in northeast Lockney with the following boundaries: North - F.W. & D.S.P. Railroad; East - 1st Street (Locust to Guest) and 2nd Street (Guest to F.W. & D.S.P. Railroad); South - Locust Street; West - 8th Street. A map showing the Target Area is available for review in the Lockney City Hall.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and accordingly the above-named City has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:

NORTHEAST LOCKNEY NEIGHBORHOOD REVITALIZATION PROJECT: Vacant, dilapidated structures will be demolished and cleared. Vacant, overgrown lots and accumulations of junk, debris, abandoned vehicles, etc., will be cleared. Occupants of dilapidated housing will be provided with an opportunity to receive relocation assistance and payments so they may obtain decent, safe and sanitary dwellings. In some cases, dilapidated rental units will be acquired for subsequent demolition, thereby making low/moderate income tenants eligible for replacement housing payments. Sanitary sewer lines will be installed to eliminate use of malfunctioning septic tanks and cess pools. Undersized, unloped, deteriorated water lines will be replaced with adequately sized, looped lines which can provide dependable and adequate domestic water service and fire protection. Dirt street will be paved, curbed and guttered to reduce dust pollution, facilitate drainage of storm waters and improve vehicular and pedestrian safety.

Limited grading and clearing will be involved in project activities but no major changes in topographic features are anticipated. No major changes in land use, population density or demand for community facilities are expected over the course of this project or as a result of project use. Existing support systems and infrastructure will not be negatively affected by the project. Some small short-term increases in air and noise pollution may occur during the construction phase of the project but air and noise activities in the Target Area will return to current levels at the conclusion of the construction phase of the project. No properties of known historic, archeological or architectural significance will be affected by the project activities and the aesthetic improvement of the neighborhood will be improved by proposed improvements.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the above-named City which documents the environmental review of the project activities and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying upon request in the office of the City Secretary between the hours of 8 A.M. and 5 P.M., Monday through Friday.

No further environmental review of such project activities is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City to the office of the City Secretary. Such written comments should be received at the above address on or before July 12, 1981. All such comments so received will be considered and the City will not request the release of Federal funds or taken any administrative action on the within project activities prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

The City of Lockney will undertake the project activities described above with Community Development Block Grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The City of Lockney is certifying to HUD that the City and J.D. Copeland in his official capacity as Mayor consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making and actions and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval the City may use the CDBG funds and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the certifying officer or other officer of applicant approved by the HUD; or (b) that the applicant's Environmental Review Record for the project activities indicate omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the project activities in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to HUD at:

Community Development Block Grant Program
U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development
2001 Bryan Tower Dallas, Texas 75201

Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after August 3, 1981 will be considered by HUD. The Chief Executive Officer of the City of Lockney is J.D. Copeland, Mayor; P.O. Box 387; Lockney, Texas 79241.

Aspirin substitute is preferred by doctors

The aspirin substitute acetaminophen, a component of such medicines as Tylenol, Liquiprin and Tempra, is a preferred treatment for children's fevers, but overdoses can be dangerous, says Baylor College of Medicine pediatrician Martin Lorin, M.D.

Lorin, associate professor of pediatrics, emphasized that while acetaminophen is considered by many pediatricians to be safer than aspirin when used in correct dosage, caution is needed, especially to prevent children from accidentally swallowing the contents of an entire bottle. He is urged that labels on acetaminophen bottles be rewritten to warn parents of the dangers of acetaminophen overdose.

A study by Lorin and three colleagues found that parents are often unaware of the risks of acetaminophen overdose.

"Even with ordinary dosage, aspirin has a great many side effects. It interferes with blood clotting and can cause bleeding of the nose or stomach," Lorin said. "It can cause gastric ulcers, aggravate asthma and interfere with water balance in the body. Acetaminophen, on the other hand, has almost no side effects when used in correct dosage and has minimal side effects even with moderate dosage."

But when ingested in excessively large amounts, acetaminophen can cause liver failure, he said.

"In fact, a massive overdose of acetaminophen can actually be more dangerous than aspirin overdose because liver failure is very difficult to treat," Lorin said.

The Baylor study, conducted among 249 Spanish- and English-speaking parents of patients at a Harris County pediatric clinic and at a private health clinic, indicated that more than 80 percent of the parents realized aspirin overdose can cause death, but only about half knew the danger of acetaminophen overdose.

Fewer Spanish-speaking parents than English-speaking parents realized that acetaminophen overdoses can be fatal.

Parents in the study said they rely on the label dosage instructions on aspirin and acetaminophen bottles. Lorin said for this reason labeling for both medications needs to be studied carefully.

Aspirin labeling was changed after a 1978 recommendation of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration because of earlier findings showing that aspirin dosages were actually too low for some age groups and too high for others.

Similar revision of acetaminophen labels should be considered, according to Lorin.

"Acetaminophen labels should carry a warning in regard to both excessive dosage and accidental ingestions and should be available in Spanish and English," Lorin said.

FIX-IT FACTS
Thurman Davis
Not to belabor a, perhaps, unpleasent subject, but if your house is showing the need for a new coat of paint, you may be tempted to take the easy way out and get the job over quickly and easily by spraying instead of brushing. Problem is, spraying may not be the easy way. First of all, if you spray, be prepared to do a lot of masking - covering windows and all other areas not to be painted, with tape or paper. It's either cover or scrape. Secondly, unless you're prepared to do a LOT of cleaning up - of your car, your neighbor's car, his fence, his windows, - you must select an absolutely dead calm day on which to throw your hands and say "This year I spray", take a look at the improved painting tools on the market such as pad and mitten applicators, improved coverage brushes, rough-surface brushes, and even electric paint removers. Spraying may sound like the easy way out, but be sure you know what you're doing.

Copperhead killed by nervy lady

ASALE NOLAND'S BACK CATCH ON DISPLAY

If you've got any snake-killing to do, Asale (Mrs. Alton) Noland of Blue Ridge formerly of Floydada, can give you a few tips.

She became an expert recently when she picked off a copperhead atop a barbed wire fence from 38 feet away—with a .22 caliber rifle.

While most people would advance in the opposite direction at the site of what they merely thought was a copperhead, Mrs. Noland acted firmly. She had just walked out of her home near Blue Ridge when she spotted something moving on the fence. She stepped a little closer and determined that it was a snake of some sort.

She went back into the house and came back with the rifle and a garden-hoe—just to cover all possibilities. As she emerged from the house, the snake was clearly visible along the top of the fence.

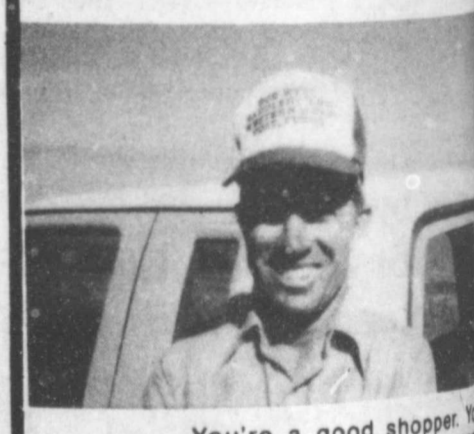

"It must have come out of the woodpile," she said later, still apparently unshaken by the incident.

She stood at her home. The accurate snake shot head, ripping its mouth. It minutes, then it. Once it approached the word copperhead immediately from sheet of wood. She pulled the onto it. It was inch short of long. Later, she one who knew snakes than after looking encyclopedia—confirmed that he induced a copperhead.

The first attempt at colonization in what the U.S. occurred in 1559 when Deluna settled a colony in Pensacola.

Batley's to make home in Lakeview

BY JOYCE WILLIAMS

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Batley Jr. are at home in Lakeview in the new house north of his parents' place, following their wedding Saturday, June 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Batley arrived from Paris, Texas Friday to attend their grandson's wedding. They also attended the 50th wedding anniversary reception honoring their former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Dunavant, Sunday, June 7, at the Wall Street parlor.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Dunavant look back on many joys during their 50th anniversary, but the highlight was having all five of their children home at the same time. Mrs. Dunavant requested they all sing and record hymns that she and Mr. Dunavant can enjoy in their home. This wish was granted with hymns sung by their children, and others recorded by the grandchildren. Eighteen of their twenty grandchildren were present, and six of the ten great-grandchildren were present to honor them. Mrs. Dunavant's aunt and uncle, Mrs. Flora Fawver, and her brother, Mr. W.N. Anderson, attended the reception. The Dunavant children presented their parents with a riding lawn mower. Their daughter, Carolyn (Mrs. John Redding) planned and did the preparatory work. Mr. and Mrs. Redding served Saturday morning breakfast to the group in their home. The other two Saturday meals were served on the lawn at Mr. and Mrs. Dunavant's farm home. Among the many useful and beautiful gifts presented was a family tree quilt of yellow and white checked gingham, made by the Truman Dunavant family of Bayfield, Colorado, listing all their birthdays. Silk corsages were made and presented by their grandson, Ray Dunavant of Bayfield.

The centerpiece was designed by Mrs. John Redding, Floydada. The beautiful three tiered cake was made by Mrs. L.H. Irman of Ft. Worth, mother of Mrs. Milton Dunavant. Hosts for the occasion were the Dunavant's five children and their families.

A light shower Monday morning dropped Sunday's 90+ temperatures to the sixties. Most of the wheat has been cut in the community and the replanted cotton sprang up almost overnight and is now nearly all tall as the earlier planted cotton that did not get hailed out.

Mrs. Q.D. Williams returned home Thursday night after spending several days in Carrizozo, New Mexico where she attended funeral services for her maternal aunt, Mrs. Alice Snell May of Nogal, New Mexico. Mrs. Jack Brown, Truscott, accompanied her sister.
