

CONSUMERS FUEL building that will hold its grand opening Friday, March 19, has been completed.

Consumers Fuel Association grand opening scheduled

The grand opening of Consumers Fuel Association is planned for Friday, March 19, so that the public may tour their newly completed building and facilities.

Free coffee and donuts will be served. There will be a drawing for prizes every hour on Friday. Merchandise specials will begin on Thursday.

The 5600 sq. ft. building has an added waiting area and a total of three bays; one wash bay and two service bays. Tusha Builders, Lubbock, did the construction.

"The older building was outdated and was inconvenient," Larry Barbee, manager, said. "The directors felt that with the new facility we could better serve our customers."

Consumers Fuel is a cooperative owned by its members. Founded approximately 50 years ago they have conducted business from the original building since that time.

Construction of the building began last August. After the first of the year the moving process began. "We're still moving-in," Barbee said.

One of the large warehouses is yet to be moved on to the new property.

Among the services offered by Consumers are; key pump, farm tire, full service, and farm delivery of gas and propane fuels.

It is not necessary to be a member to use any of the Consumer products and services.

In the near future the association will be installing a propane pump for filling bottles and vehicles.

"We invite everyone to stop by and inspect our new facility," Barbee said.

Improvements made on the facilities at Lake Mackenzie

A new group shelter, and bar-b-que grills at every picnic park are part of the added facilities at Lake Mackenzie recreation area this season according to park manager, Neil Taylor.

The shelter will seat about 36 and has lights, bar-b-que grills and water. It is best to make reservations if you are planning to use the facility for your group. The shelter is located on the south side close to Rotary Park.

Restrooms are available.

All of the picnic tables are now covered and are within easy reach of water.

There are electric hook-ups for trailers. The park is also equipped with dump stations. "We had a six-foot rise last summer so it should make good fishing when it warms up some more," Taylor said.

Black bass are being caught now and a resident of Vigo Park pulled in a troutline of 4 1/2 to 6 1/2 pound channel catfish, he said.

Entry permits are on sale now at the Floydada and Lockney City Halls. Regular price of the permit is $25, but the price is discounted to $20 for Mackenzie taxpayers. The discount is available only at the tax office.

"The season is here and we invite everyone to come out and use the facility," Taylor said.

Coast Guard life very different to that of the South Plains

Two young Floydadians are home on leave from the U.S. Coast Guard. The stories they have to tell about their duties on the shore lines of the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico provide an interesting contrast to the life they led on the South Plains.

Janie and Robert J. are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cortinas of 700 Thornton. Janie was married a year ago to Michael Hales, who is also in the Coast Guard, and also was in Floydada on leave. It was Michael's first visit to Floydada.

Robert J. is based at Mobile, Alabama and is attached to the Coast Guard cutter "Saginaw." He lives aboard the ship with 15 other men.

Their job is to construct the range lights used as channel markers in the Gulf. The lights are built on the spot in the Gulf. The crew covers an area from New Orleans to Kribell, Florida. Routinely they are on the water for two weeks and then in port for one week.

The range lights are used in conjunction with buoys so that ships will know how deep the waters are in the channel. The buoys are colored black and red. The range lights are located close to shore and as the ship moves past they line up on top of the other. Their function is to guide the ship as it passes from one buoy to the next. The color of the buoys keeps the ships in their own lane much as the yellow strip down the highway separates traffic moving in opposite directions.

Robert and his crew rebuild the lights that have been damaged by boats or are malfunctioning.

Janie and Michael are stationed in Philadelphia. That city, by the way, is where Michael grew up. He is a Port Safety investigator on the Delaware River through the New Jersey Port and into the Atlantic Ocean.

His duties are mainly search and rescue and law enforcement. They cover 200 waterfront facilities.

The majority of the cases they investigate are oil spills. Two to four barrels of crude oil dumped into the water either accidentally or on purpose will cause at least $100,000 in clean-up costs, Michael said.

They investigate the off-loading facilities to make sure they are in safe condition. If an oil spill does occur, the investigators must determine where it originated from.

"Nobody wants to claim the oil spill," Michael said, because the offender will be fined the amount of the clean-up.

When an oil spill is spotted, the clean-up begins immediately. A Coast Guard Revolving Fund is used to pay for the job. The investigators stay on the case until the violator is found and then they prepare the evidence for court trial. The guilty then pay their fine back into the fund.

It is a civil offense and most of the time the Coast Guard is dealing with foreign ships from countries all over the world.

The spills are caused by heavy seas, or when a ship pressures pumps their lines, or in the off-loading process.

The evidence generally consists of oil trace samples matched with the oil carried by the ship. The investigators determine which ships have passed through the channel at about the time the spill occurred.

Some cases are brought to trial in two or three months, some take as much as two years.

Michael's department also investigates marine casualties and any other offenses that comes under the jurisdiction of the Coast Guard.

Janie is a legal secretary working in the legal records department of the base. Personnel capacity of the port is about 127-130.

She said that it is difficult for women in the service. They have to put forth more effort since they must constantly prove themselves in the predominately male service.

"They play alot of head games with you," she said referring to the men she works with. "It is a real challenge."

Janie and Robert have been in the service for two years and both plan to go back to civilian life when they have completed the next two years of duty.

Robert is trained as a diesel mechanic and plans to go into that type of work. Janie wants to go to college and then into social work.

Michael has been in the Coast Guard for seven years and also plans to leave military service in two years. He likes law enforcement and wants to go into police work.

The military has changed in the last three to four years Michael said. Due to cut backs they don't have the equipment necessary. "If someone is drowning, we have to have the proper equipment for search and rescue," he said. "We sure know how to improvise," he added.

Personal benefits are less now and there is little or no incentive for re-enlistment, were other reasons why he is giving up his military career.

The three have been on a months leave and are returning to their respective ports this week.

Sheriff pleads with neighbors to watch out for each other

Floyd County Sheriff Department is asking for help from neighbors who live outside the city that neighbors watch out for each other," Sheriff Fred Cardinal said. "If a neighbor goes and sees a stranger around his place, call us."

County officials are concerned because many rural residents are arming themselves with shotguns. "The people are edgy and someone is going to get hurt," Deputy Sheriff Olin Poteet said.

If a vehicle is in your area without any specific place to go, get the license number if you can, also the color of the vehicle and call the Sheriff's Department.

"Watch your neighbor," Cardinal said. "You know more about who's supposed to be out there than we do."

Most burglaries case the house first. They watch to see what time the people regularly leave and when they return.

There are several ways they case the property. Some drive by slowly. Some will come up and knock on the door with the pretense of asking directions, or say they are looking for someone.

Sometimes the would-be thieves will pull up in front of the house and raise their automobile hood as if they have car trouble, and then watch to see who comes and goes.

Rural burglaries are on the rise and Floyd County is becoming more of a target area because of its large country population.

An estimated 75% of the burglaries are to the farm residences. The others are to the barn and shop.

All members of the Sheriff's Department are now equipped with shotguns.

Thieves will take anything portable, Cardinal said, and asks that people lock their homes and shops and never leave keys in the ignition of a vehicle.

"If they (burglars) can catch a welder, an compressor or cutting torch out they'll take it," Cardinal said, "because those things are easy to get rid of."

They will take anything from T.V.'s, cameras, guns, and stereos to food from the pantry or freezer. Silver and gold are also items they look for as well as blank checks and anything negotiable.

If an item is marked with an identification number, the thieves will often leave it alone. The Sheriff's Department has engraving tools that they will loan out to anyone who wants to mark their possessions. The best mark is the owners driver's license number.

People should also make a list of the model numbers and serial numbers of their possessions. "Without a serial number, we can't even put it on the computer," Cardinal said.

If you see a stranger in your area call the Sheriff's Department, especially if you see them several times and if they are driving slowly.

Opinion says monetary limits apply

Implement exemptions for farming individuals only

In opinion MW-451 announced in late February, Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White held that the tax exemption for implements of farming or ranching, Sec. 11.161 of the Property Tax Code, is valid.

The attorney general ruled, however, that it is available only to individuals and that there are monetary limitations on the amount of value which may be exempted.

Responding to an inquiry posed by John F. Perry, county attorney for Hopkins County, White held that the Legislature acted under the authority of Art. XVI, Sec. 49, Texas Constitution, in providing the exemption. That section authorizes the legislature, by general law, to protect from forced sale a portion of the personal property of heads of families and of unmarried adults, male and female.

While finding that the exemption was available to individuals, White noted that an individual who has incorporated is not entitled to it. Likewise, he concluded that partnerships, regardless of the type, are not entitled to claim the exemption.

White did rule, however, that non-residents or citizens of a foreign country are entitled to the exemption if their personal property which is subject to the exemption has acquired taxable situs in a taxing jurisdiction in Texas.

In his summary of the opinion, the attorney general made these main points:

"The phrase 'implements of farming or ranching' under Sec. 11.161 of the code includes those items of equipment or machinery whose primary design and primary use or purpose is that of an implement used by a farmer or rancher in conducting his farming or ranching operations; such a determination turns on the facts of any particular case. 'Implements of husbandry' cannot as a matter of law include improvement to real property or fixtures; hence, barns, silos and sheds would not qualify. Items which are neither fixtures nor improvements to real property, such as tractors, cultivators, and trailers, could qualify, depending upon the fact situation in each case.

"Section 11.161 of the Property Tax Code reaches, with the term 'individual,' the same persons reached by the exemption from forced sale provisions, Art. XVI, Sec. 49, of the Texas Constitution and Art. 3838, V.T.C.S. Neither partnerships nor corporations can qualify; a claimant must be a natural person.

"The dollar limitation restricting the amount of personal property subject to the exemption provisions as set forth in Art. 3836, V.T.C.S., apply also to Sec. 11.161 of the Property Tax Code.

(Editor's note: This amount is $15,000 for equipment owned by an individual, or $30,000 for that owned by a family.)

White wrote that if Sec. 11.161 were to be interpreted as not including the monetary limitations contained in Art. 3836, "we would be constrained to declare the section unconstitutional."

He found that "a claimant who is not engaged in farming or ranching for a temporary period, but retains the requisite intent, has not abandoned his personal property homestead and may claim an exemption under Sec. 11.161."

Concerning the fact question of what particular implement properly constitutes an implement of farming or ranching or implement of husbandry as that term was formerly used in repealed Art. 3832, V.T.C.S., White noted that "Husbandry" is ordinarily applied to matters involving agriculture. Staurt v. State, 363 S.W. 2d 398, 399 (Ark. 1978). 'Husbandry' has been defined to be 'the business of a farmer comprehending agriculture or tillage of the ground, the raising, managing, and fattening of cattle and other domestic animals, the management of the dairy and whatever the land produces, and is equivalent to 'agriculture' in its general sense. Therefore, an item which was an 'implement of husbandry' under article 3832 would now be an implement of farming or ranching under Article 3836."

White reviewed various cases which have construed Art. 3832, noting that "courts declared that determination as to what constitutes an implement of husbandry is a question of fact to be resolved on a case by case basis." It was pointed out that previous decisions and attorney general's opinions have focused on the primary design and primary use or purpose to which the vehicle or implement is put.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I'd like to know why people continue to believe that their dog NEVER goes anywhere! I'd like to inform these people that they're living in a fairy tale world.

YOUR "fun loving" pet may be just that by itself but once it gets with at least one other dog it spells trouble. Or at least for people like us that own livestock.

YOUR dog(s) bend irrigation pipe to the point that it can't be used, until it's reshaped. They gnaw the ends and water gates all to pieces, where they can't be used until those parts are replaced, all this for a rabbit.

Livestock is tormented to an unbelievable point. But let me tell you of that point. Like one of our twin's calves that was drug about 250 yards from its mother and brother. Thereafter it was treated for a near dead condition. But the horrible reminder was it's missing ears that we saw every time we had to band feed it.

Horses are terrified to the point they flee most of the time, right through the fences or anything else that gets in their way. We also know about that, our horse is being treated for such wounds. It's a slow and painful treatment.

We can't count the times our livestock was run out of their pasture by YOUR dogs. Yet you have the guts to complain because in their flight for a safer place, they came across your yard.

We love dogs - probably more than the next guy. We have tried ever old wives tale to keep them away. Nothing has worked!

You will probably still say "my dogs don't roam." Well, we're just warning you - you'll notice one day YOUR dog isn't home. And we won't have to tell you what happened to him.

Concerned Livestock Raiser

Letter to the Editor:

I would like to compliment the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and Floyd County Police Department for the hard work they did to recover my stolen property.

I am very disappointed that the court system let someone go just because he was a juvenile when marijuana and the stolen property was found on him.

I am very concerned of what kind of evidence that needs to be presented when it is all presented to the court.

Chamber Clips

BY SUSAN GARMS

A near capacity crowd of 1000 was on hand to see the Floydada Allstars play the Dallas Cowboy Hoopsters in Graves gym Saturday, March 6.

Players for the Hoopsters included the #1 running back in the nation...Tony Dorsett and his teammates: back up quarterback Glenn Carano, Doug Cosbie, Benny Barnes, Robert Newhouse, Tony Hill and Ron Springs. As the plane was 30 minutes late in arriving at the Plainview airport, the beginning of play was delayed somewhat. But the anxious wait was well worth the treat in store as the Cowboys' antics and a well-played basketball game unfolded. Carano showed his quarterbacking tendencies as he "passed for a touchdown" down court. As he stated later, "That was a play to set up a slam dunk," but hadn't quite got it down pat yet.

The money realized from this project will be put to good use in various ways. First of all the Chamber will "kick off" a Spring clean-up campaign by painting the outside front of the building which houses it. Next the money will go toward promoting Floydada to interested industries and individuals. A slide presentation will be produced and booklets printed touting our good community. Many Chamber projects which do not pay for themselves nor are able to be covered in the budget will be made possible by this one night of basketball fun. The hard work by the Board of Directors and other volunteers is sincerely appreciated.

An open house will be held on March 25 from 2 to 5 p.m. to herald the grand opening of the Floydada Independent School District's new offices at 226 W. California St. Jerry Cannon, Superintendent, invites "one and all" to view the new facilities.

TEXAS BUSINESS & INDUSTRY WEEK is April 1-7. This is a week set aside for all Texans to pay tribute to the Contributions that business and industry have made to both state and local economies. Texas Business & Industry Week (TBIW) was originally entitled Texas Industrial Week and was established in 1951 by a concurrent resolution passed by both Houses of the Texas Legislature. The name was changed in 1979 to better reflect the position of business and industry as related to Texas Association of Business.

Kirk Woodward from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, headquartered in Abilene, will be the speaker for the Rotary Club's weekly noon meeting at the Massie Activity Center on March 31. His topic will be "The People Business". This will also help to give a proper start to the Texas Business and Industry Week. You won't want to miss this interesting and entertaining event. Please make your reservations at the Chamber office at 983-3434. The meal is $3.75, the advice, humor and fun are free.

Lock your doors at

BY SGT. RAY MACHA
Floydada Police Department

Warm weather is approaching the South Plains and with it will be the warm long nights of spring and summer. People will once again be out at night jogging, bicycling, etc. enjoying the warm nights.

Unfortunately, along with the warm weather will also be an increase of prowlers and nighttime burglars.

Crime always increases in the summer months here in Floydada and much of it is perpetrated by young adults and juveniles. Often these crimes are committed in conjunction with alcohol, drugs or inhalants. Sometimes these normally passive and nonviolent persons will commit crimes under the influence that they did not really intend to commit. Or they may do something foolish on a dare.

The fact remains that whether they intended to commit a crime or not it has been committed and innocent citizens will suffer property loss or an inconvenience of some kind and hopefully no personal injury.

Already there have been several reports of prowlers in the general area of Andrews Ward School. Many doors have been knocked on late in the night at pranks. Also, some doors have been tried and a little vandalism has been reported.

Unfortunately, many of these reports get to us second hand or several days after the incident occurred. So far as we know, no one's house has been entered, but we are concerned that someone may be victimized if the public doesn't begin to report these incidents at the time of occurrence.

If the police are called immediately, then we stand a possible chance to apprehend the prowler. It does little good to report it a week later.

The proper procedure to report a prowler at night is to immediately call the police. Always call the police first. They can generally respond much quicker than a relative or a friend, and are better equipped to search for prowlers in the dark. After calling the police, then you may want to call a friend or relative.

Make sure when you call the police dispatcher that you give your name, address and phone number in case the dispatcher might need to get in touch with you again. Give all the information to him or her in a loud clear voice. Give the location of the prowler, if possible and whether or not

Try to avoid turning making unnecessary noise to avoid scaring the police can help out on the or your property is jeopardy then turn on noise to scare off the Please stay inside at all possible. Making this type of call officers and I have in the dark who are know if the person was or the possible burglar and citizens have been while confronting each dark.

Do not assume the responding to the call Often the only information the dispatcher is that a being committed at a and when he suddenly is a person armed with a he has reason to be alarmed.

Do not be upset if he immediately to your door on you. If he has not someone is in danger, circle the block first suspicious persons. On the patrol unit a block or approach the area on foot, you do not see car lights of the neighborhood does the police are not there.

Nighttime burglars, difficult to catch simply almost always have the darkness and hearing in the area. But with the public and good burglar they can be captured and a minimum.

Remember to keep your and provide plenty of your house.

Call police immediately see someone prowling in neighborhood late at night.

Do not go outside. Every year police officers and injured answering the Often prowlers and burglars drugs or some other form and are capable of anything what their age or size.

Wedding vows unite Johnson-Norrell

Vickie Ann Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Autry Lee Johnson of Tulia, became the bride of Gerry Max Norrell, March 6, in the First Baptist Church in Tulia. Norrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Norrell of Floydada.

The Rev. Charles Davenport, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Tulia, officiated the double ring ceremony. Traditional pre-nuptial music and selections of the bride and groom were presented by Mrs. Thomas Davenport of Tulia.

Guests were registered by Latonya Shelton, cousin of the bride, at a table adorned with silk flowers of the bride's chosen colors, and a candle made with the wedding invitation made into it.

Vows were exchanged before a twenty-one branch spiral candelabra entwined with fern, lemon leaf and apricot satin bows. Twin seven-branch candelabra with greenery and satin bows completed the setting. Pews were marked with fern and apricot bows, mother's pews were marked with a candle.

As each mother was escorted to her seat, they stopped and lit a candle to be used by their children in lighting the unity candle.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of organza, English net, and chiffon trimmed with silk Venice lace. The gown featured a scalloped Queen Anne neckline outlined with pearl sprinkled Venice lace. Lace appliques centered with pearls were scattered over the shoulders and bodice of English net. Shadow sleeves of chiffon over net were highlighted with lace appliques and gathered onto petal point cuffs. The A-line skirt of organza, fell from an empire waistline, and was bordered with appliques and crystal pleated flounce which flowed into a chapel length train. The bride wore a picture hat covered in organza and trimmed with Venice lace appliques and a finger-tip length veil of illusion.

Her bouquet was fashioned in a cascade of fresh apricot roses, white carnations, and baby's breath with apricot and white satin streamers.

For something old, in the bride's bouquet was a handkerchief which belonged to her late grandmother Mrs. Eula Shelton, and a ring belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Willie Johnson. Also in the bouquet was a ring which belonged to the groom's late grandmother Mrs. Georgia Norrell and a handkerchief belonging to his grandmother Mrs. Willie McCormick. For something new, the bride wore her gold watch, a gift from the groom. Something borrowed was a diamond pendant belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Edd Shelton. Completing the tradition was a blue garter, and in her shoe two pennies minted in her birth year and that of the bridegroom.

Clydesdale to parade in Lubbock

As a special salute to Lubbock's American Business Club (ABC) Rodeo, the world famous Clydesdales will visit Lubbock March 22-27.

The gentle giants, as the mammoth horses are often called, will join the rodeo parade at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 24. The parade begins at Broadway and Avenue D, proceeds west to Avenue X, then turns north to Sixth Street. The Clydesdales will then promenade to the Coliseum. The Clydesdales will also make featured appearances every night of the rodeo, March 24-27. The rodeo begins nightly at 8 p.m.

In addition, the public is invited to visit the Clydesdales at the Texas Tech University Livestock Pavilion on the West Campus grounds from 3 p.m. through 7 p.m., Tuesday, March 23.

Visitors are welcome to bring cameras to photograph the magnificent animals at the parade, rodeo and/or the Livestock Pavilion.

Appearing with the Clydesdales during their Lubbock appearances will be the Budweiser Texas Rolling Store, a shon on wheels loaded with Texans' favorite beer-branded merchandise. The store stocks an entire line of merchandise, emblazoned with a special "Budweiser in Texas" logo, which is not available outside Texas. Many of the most popular Budweiser and Clydesdales items from Anheuser-Busch's standard line of merchandise will also be for sale.

The Clydesdales' appearance, and that of the Rolling Store, will be made possible through the efforts of Standard Sales Co., wholesalers of Budweiser, Michelob, Michelob Light, Budweiser Light and Natural Light beers.

Visitors to the Clydesdales' stables March 23 may watch as the spectacular horses are meticulously groomed by expert housemen. Their coats are brushed to a sheen, their manes and tails are braided with ribbons, and their black and brass hardware is polished daily.

However, all this preparation, which requires five hours of strenuous work daily, does not go unnoticed. The Clydesdales meet millions of people at their 300 annual public appearances, which range from state events to national festivities such as the Cotton Bowl Parade.

A Budweiser tradition since 1933, the Clydesdales are bred at Grant's Farm in St. Louis County, Missouri, where between 20 and 30 foals are born each year. Descendants of the huge horses bred centuries ago to carry knights into battle during the Crusades, the Clydesdales stand just over six feet at the shoulders and weight between 1,000 and 2,000 pounds. They are characterized by their bay color, four fleecy white stockings and feet, a blaze of white on their face, and a black mane and tail.

For public appearances, each horse wears a custom-made black and brass harness and custom-forged shoes, which weigh four pounds each.

Lakeview News

Lakeview Community receives 3/4 inch of rain

BY JOYCE WILLIAMS

A good slow 3/4 inch rain Saturday night has made the Lakeview fields perk up. Cattle have been removed from wheat and the growing season is on.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Harrison ate Sunday dinner with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Max Harrison.

Dr. Dillard Carter of Texas Tech University and Mike Bishop were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bishop. Mrs. Mike Bishop, who teaches art in the Ralls schools, was enjoying spring break with a visit to her parents and other relatives in Oklahoma.

Marlis McGaugh and other students presented the melodrama, "The True Heart Boarding House," for the U.I.L. contest at high school Tuesday.

Guests at the Joe Thurston farm this week included their daughter, Johnny and her husband, Jack Ward. They arrived Saturday afternoon to help Joe and Alta prune trees and stayed for supper. The Lubbock school where Johnny teaches is out for spring break.

Sunday afternoon Sandy and Rob Core of Lubbock brought their two daughters, Alyssa and Ashley, to stay until Thursday with Sandy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thurston. The Cores and another couple flew to San Francisco, California for a spring vacation during the school break. The little girls, who look exactly like their mother, enjoy watching the cotton tail rabbits nibble grass on the front lawn these warm days.

Mrs. Q.D. Williams went to Truscott Tuesday for a birthday dinner honoring her father, Edgar Jones, on his 78th birthday. She took a car load of pot plants started from her own house plants and gave them to her sisters. Oil leasing and production has that area excited. Part of the area is in the Palo Duro Basin. Over one county, in Hardman Basin, a well blew on Wednesday, going for oil and hitting natural gas, too.

On Monday it was still blowing 6000 barrels a day and burning. Fire fighters from Houston were on the way as soon as they finished up a fire there. An oil land man from Vernon said his company is getting their maps together and preparing to start leasing on the South Plains including Floyd County. He said his company pays a standard three-sixteenths and five dollars a year rental. I believe land owners will be ready for an offer. Salmon Brothers, Inc., of Wall Street, report in the March issue of "Oil and Gas Investor," magazine, the drop-in oil rig activity the past few weeks is not entirely due to the world oil glut; they say it is because of severe weather and the problems of moving rigs at this time of year, operators just getting their budgets together for the year, and the drilling fund business - shallow drilling is in for hard times. If interest rates decline, drilling companies can borrow more and drill more, the investment firm predicts.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pyle and children attended funeral services for Paula's grandmother, Mrs. Zach Cummings, held Sunday in the First Baptist Church in Lockney. Paula and the children are recovering from colds during Jason's spring break from his first grade classes.

Holt Bishop ate dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bishop Saturday. Nancy looked in on her father, Sid Brown, while Geraldine and Pete Calloway were in San Angelo for a few days visiting Kay and Speck Brian.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bertrand attended the Community Concert series program in Plainview Monday evening. Guest artists were Keith and Rusty McNeil, who presented a history of America in folk songs. Sunday before last, William attended a Methodist Church choir practice in Matador. While he was gone, Faye accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Orville Newberry to Tahoka. There she visited her daughter, Jill Warren, and family. The Newberrys went on to Lamesa to visit their son, Dale Newberry, and family.

Mrs. Buell Neff and other Neff relatives are staying close to the rest home these days to be near Mrs. Annie Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Capshaw (Lelia Fay Neff) of Arkansas are here to be near her mother, and brought their granddaughter, Debbie. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Woody of Lubbock are also here. Another daughter, Mrs. Pauline Eatherly, was flying in from Arizona. All the relatives took their dinner to the Shorty Neff home Sunday and ate together.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bertrand were Sunday dinner hosts to Mr. and Mrs. William Bertrand.

Fruit trees have bloomed all over the community. Grass is greening in pastures. Those snows and rains last month are paying off now. A terrible sandstorm Monday took lots of roofing shingles off of buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy McGaugh and Marlis took a picnic lunch to Roaring Springs Ranch Saturday. On Sunday the McGaugh's attended the wedding of Phyllis Johnson and Randy Fry at South Park Inn in Lubbock. Marlis and other local students who are attending tap and jazz dance lessons at Plainview are preparing for their spring recital. Onion setting is going on during these warm days.

Mrs. Q.D. Williams visited her niece, Mrs. Ed Mobley and little son, in the Hale Center Hospital last Thursday. The baby has allergies and respiratory problems, but is home this week.

Miss Lacy Golightly celebrated her fourth birthday March 6, with her cousins from Levelland, Amy and Brian Guess, helping share the cake, ice cream and cokes. Other guests were Tiffany and Teresa Gentry, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Guess, Mr. and Mrs. Duane McClintock, her brother, Rance, and parents Mr. and Mrs. Dayne Golightly. Mrs. Dean Watson dropped in with gifts and greetings from her children.

Mr. and Mrs. Dayne Golightly and children and Mr. and Mrs. Duane McClintock were in Tahoka Monday to attend funeral services for Mike Reid, husband of their cousin. This young man was injured in a car wreck and lay in a coma for three weeks. He is survived by his wife and two children. Dayne and Penny were in Ft. Worth visiting her grandmother, Mrs. C.W. McClintock when Cheryl Guess called them about Mike, and they returned home for the funeral.

Mrs. Don Harrison was in Lubbock Tuesday. Several families are visiting out of town during the school vacation.

Waddington Family to appear in Floydada

The Waddington Family of Harrah, Washington will be appearing at the First Assembly of God Church, Floydada, for a special musical concert at six o'clock, on March 21, Sunday.

Members of the team are: team leader, Tim Waddington; his brothers and sister, Aaron, Simeon, Caleb, and Miriam; and Tammi Faith.

The Waddington Family have appeared throughout the United States and Canada. They have ministered at youth rallies, camp meetings, crusades, conventions, state fairs, and rodeos for the last seven years.

They have recorded three long-play albums, which are available in eight-track and cassette, also. Their music is modern contemporary country which they believe appeals to the young and old alike. Their main goal as musicians is to uplift the name of Jesus.

Tim Waddington also preaches a straight forward message with a desire to challenge and stir hearts. His messages deal much with everyday living and the homes of this great nation. Tim, his brothers and sister are five of a large family numbering nineteen children. Tim says that they credit a lot of their ministry to the Godly morals and standards they were raised with.

Pastor Jim Guess invites the public to hear this inspiring young family of musicians. You may call the Pastor at 983-2887 or 983-3319. Admission is free.

RIF DISTRIBUTION — Children and parents of the Texas Migrant Council are receiving books through books which are distributed by RIF three times a year. The books are made to further a child's learning ability and develop their reading skills. Helen Molinar is Center Director and Nellie Riojas is Head Teacher at the Texas Migrant Council.

Fruit trees begin blooming in Center

BY MRS. J.E. GREEN

Monday, March 15: I was surprised to find on Saturday that spring was arriving. For I found fruit trees blooming. And the dead weeds and grass - when I started cleaning my yard - that underneath were green grass, even weeds in bloom. Time flies. I hope not all the fruit gets killed by a late freeze. The shower Saturday night was welcome. It has been dry so long.

FARM NEWS

Farmers Union to kick off Regional Field hearings March 22

The worst economic collapse in 50 years can still be remedied, but it will take major emergency amendments to the Agriculture and Food Act of 1981 to turn things around, George W. Stone, president of National Farmers Union, said.

Noting that 1982 U.S. net farm income is now being projected at $14.5 billion, Stone said this would be a 55 percent drop from the 1979 level. "We are back to the kind of roller-coaster ride farmers used to suffer 50 years ago before the federal farm programs were established in the first year of the New Deal," Stone declared, pointing out that there was a 60 percent drop in farm income from 1919 to 1921 and a 70 percent drop from 1929 to 1932.

"During the years from 1933 to 1973, when we had reasonably strong farm support programs, the swings in farm prices were tamed down to the 20 to 25 percent range," he explained.

Stone called for a grassroots uprising, starting with a series of grassroots mobilization rallies in March and April, aimed at quick legislative or administrative action to undergird farm prices and income.

He announced that the first such rally would be held at the Co-op Cotton Compress in Lubbock, at noon Monday, March 22. Additional mobilization rallies will be held in Kansas, Colorado, South Dakota, Indiana, Wisconsin, Montana, Washington and Arkansas, while state meetings would be held in Minnesota, Oklahoma and elsewhere. Stone warned that "simple finding scapegoats is not going to save farmers struggling to survive.

"We have to do more than just point out what is wrong and who is wrong," he insisted. "We have to change what is wrong about farm price and credit policies."

The grassroots mobilization rallies, which will be conducted as public hearings designed to obtain the views of main street businessmen, implement governmental officials, will be aimed at getting movement in the Congress as well as in the Executive Branch, Stone explained.

"Farmers Union and other people-centered groups are going to have to help Congress reassert itself during this session, in the November election and beyond," he said.

Consider all-risk crop insurance

With the elimination of disaster provisions in current farm legislation, farmers have no public protection for their 1982 crops unless they sign up soon for all-risk crop insurance.

In past years, farmers had the federal disaster assistance program which shared some of the risk of a crop loss at little or no cost to the farmer. Now, however, they must take action, such as purchasing crop insurance, if they want to reduce their exposure to production risk, says an economist with the Texas A&M University System.

"All-risk crop insurance was introduced last year when the disaster program was scheduled for phase out," explains Dr. Steven C. Griffin, economist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"It is largely a self-financed insurance program available through the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) that allows a farmer to choose the level of protection he desires for a particular crop," Griffin says.

For instance, farmers can insure crops for 50, 65 and 75 percent of the average yield established for their particular farms. And they can choose among three price elections (the amount paid per pound or bushel of loss) for a total of nine different protection levels.

Cost of the insurance varies with the level of protection: the higher the price and yield guarantee, the greater the premium cost. Farms are also classified into yield and risk categories. Generally, the greater the average yield or production risk, the greater the premium cost per acre, the economist says.

Griffin suggests that farmers consider three things in trying to decide on crop insurance: the likelihood that the farm will suffer some crop loss in the coming year, the farm's financial ability to withstand such a loss, and the cost of the insurance.

Many agricultural lenders are already insisting that farmers review their risk exposure before establishing annual lines of operating credit, says Griffin, so risk management is a key consideration.

FCIC premium rates are likely to vary considerably because the all-risk insurance program is still in its formative stages and is based on limited historical data, says the economist. However, with large-scale participation and several years of crop loss records, premium levels should become more realistic where they are now too high or low.

"In the meantime, any general recommendation is highly tentative and situation-specific," Griffin says.

By working through the expected gross receipts, amount of paid indemnity or premiums, and production costs of various yield outcomes, a farmer can evaluate whether or not to purchase crop insurance, and if so, at what level of coverage, he adds.

"Crop insurance will likely reduce long-term net profits," says Griffin. "At fair rates, farmers should expect to pay slightly more in premiums in the long-run than will be received through indemnity payments. On the other hand, short-run survivability may be significantly enhanced."

In analyzing crop insurance coverage, Griffin explains that the yield guarantee level is the most significant determinant of protection since indemnity payments are only paid when the actual yield falls below the yield guarantee. Once an indemnity payment has been triggered, only then do higher price elections help reduce the financial hardship of a crop loss.

For example, a Blacklands grain sorghum farmer with an average yield of 45 bushels might consider the highest yield guarantee—75 percent—a yield guarantee of 34 bushels per acre and the lowest price election option of $2 per bushel. The example premium is $4.15 per acre, not the lowest of all possible alternatives, but also not the highest. In this example, if the farmer's yield drops to 24 bushels per acre, he will receive an indemnity payment on 10 bushels at $2 per bushel.

A long run computer analysis performed by Griffin indicates that under this insurance option, production risk, measured in terms of below average net return variability, was reduced 41 percent. With higher levels of price protection, variability of income could be reduced another 10 percent but comes with the cost of $1.65 per acre additional premium or a 28-cent reduction in long-run average net returns per acre.

"Whether or not to purchase crop insurance is not an easy decision," notes Griffin. "In most cases the ultimate decision will reflect a trade-off between expected income and protection from production risk. Some benefits of reducing personal exposure to production risk are not easy to quantify, whether they be increased financial leverage or greater peace of mind. In the long run, survival in agriculture will depend on how farmers choose to manage their exposure to production risk."

Other considerations are that crop insurance premiums are tax deductible, they need not be paid until the crop is harvested, and the insurance policy can be used as collateral.

A good starting point for farmers considering all-risk crop insurance is to find out the premium schedule for his crops and farm classifications from an insurance representative. But, do not delay: some of the closing dates for '82 spring crops are close at hand, says Griffin.

Lubbock financial leader talks about Cotton Incorporated in interview

Over the years, a lot of money has been put into this program, but it's important to me and I think it's imperative to the cotton industry.

Howard Vandell, President of Cotton Incorporated, talking about the importance of Cotton Incorporated in the cotton industry.

The interview was conducted by the Lubbock Day Set for March 18, a day of recognition for all who observe the importance of the cotton industry.

The interview in Lubbock which was conducted with the producer annual meeting of Cotton Incorporated at its headquarters in Raleigh, North Carolina, was held in February. Vandell responded to the following questions:

Q. Since this is a producer program, how can producers in your state get more involved?

A. It comes down to communication with many farmers. We need to tell them about the projects Cotton Incorporated is doing and communicate it to them.

really been a successful venture as far as we're concerned out here. I think that without it there would be dollars coming out of farmers' pockets.

Q. Unless the consumer makes the decision to buy cotton, your efforts to produce it mean little. Recognizing this, Cotton Incorporated has launched a national advertising campaign aimed at the consumer, manufacturer, and retailer. The theme of this campaign is: "Once you get a feel for Cotton. You won't feel like anything else." How do you feel this is helping cotton growers?

A. I feel that their advertising is a good thing and I think it's certainly necessary. The message about cotton must be communicated to the average household. I'm looking at Cotton Incorporated to help farmers in promoting their cotton.

Q. Since this is a producer program, how can producers in your state get more involved?

A. It comes down to communication with many farmers. We need to tell them about the projects Cotton Incorporated is doing and communicate it to them.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER'S new diesel-powered 254 light-duty farm and general maintenance tractor at 21 PTO hp is one of three new models just introduced by the company. Also introduced was model 244 at 18 PTO hp and model 234 at 15.2 PTO hp. The three models provide IH with a complete new line of compact tractors in the fast-growing under 30 horsepower market. The tractors are available with a number of standard and optional features not typically found on models of their size.

Light-duty diesel tractor introduced by Harvester

International Harvester has introduced three new light-duty diesel farm tractors, completing its line in the fast-growing under 30 horsepower tractor market.

The three models are being made available through the more than 4500 IH agricultural equipment dealers and distributors around the world. They were added to the IH line to strengthen the company's ability to compete in a market segment that last year accounted for industry-wide U.S. retail sales of over 40,000 units, with a wholesale value of approximately $190 million.

The under 30 horsepower market is one of the fastest growing segments of the total agricultural tractor market in the U.S. This market is expected to grow about 40 percent during the first half of the 1980's, according to some industry sources.

The IH 234, rated at 15.2 PTO horsepower, model 244 rated at 18 PTO hp, and model 254 rated at 21 PTO hp are in the horsepower range used for a variety of chores on small farms, truck farms and for gardening and landscape maintenance.

Each tractor is powered by an economical three-cylinder water-cooled diesel engine. Each is equipped with standard and optional equipment not typically found on tractors of this size such as electrical key engine shut-off, metered fuel gauge, a differential lock to prevent one-wheel spin-outs in soft or muddy areas and dual flashing lights with turn signals. All models can be equipped with front-wheel drive for extra traction in soft ground.

A complete line of attachments such as mowers, rototillers, loaders, and tillage tools will be carried by IH dealers to match the capabilities of these new models and add to their versatility.

COTTON FARMERS ADVISED NOT TO SKIMP ON FERTILIZER

Although cotton farmers are caught in a severe cost-price squeeze and are trying to cut production expenses wherever possible, one area not to cut back is in that of fertilization.

Farmers should continue to give a high priority to fertilization for optimum crop production. Fertilizer applications should be based on soil test information and realistic yield goals.

Lack of nutrients when cotton starts fruiting can reduce lint yields. On the other hand, too much fertilizer under cotton can be just as harmful as not enough.

Excess fertilizer, especially nitrogen, can delay maturity due to a shift to vegetative growth. Lush growth and large stalks also can contribute to higher insect control costs and lower lint quality due to immature bolls and poor harvest preparation associated with a delayed crop.

While cotton does not need a large amount of nutrients before fruiting, that need increases sharply once squaring begins and during the time bolls develop. Therefore, farmers can still put down fertilizer anytime before squaring to boost production from this year's crop.

So, despite the increasing cost of fertilizer, it's still a good investment. Without adequate fertilization, the potential for a good cotton crop will be severely limited.

This information comes from Dr. Bob Metzger, Extension Cotton specialist.

Commodity Credit loan interest rate increased

Commodity and farm storage facility loans disbursed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation during March will have a 14.875 percent interest rate, according to CCC Executive Vice President Everett Rank.

The new rate, up from 14 percent in February, reflects the interest rate charged CCC by the U.S. Treasury in March, Rank said.

Indemnity rates adopted by the TAHC

New indemnity rates for animals slaughtered because of brucellosis have been adopted by the Texas Animal Health Commission on an emergency basis.

They are: grade beef $50 compared to $62 for the previous rate; grade dairy $250 compared to $368 for the previous rate; purebred $500; this compares to an average rate of $744 for the previous rate.

The indemnity rates are paid with federal funds; no state money is involved. These changes will allow the savings in the federal indemnity rates to be used in other phases of the Texas brucellosis program.

Dr. John W. Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission, explained the emergency changes have become necessary so that the fee basis testing program and first point testing programs can be continued at their present financial levels. He said the Commission is seeking to make this rule change permanent.
