

Supreme Court ruling to help law officer

By Sgt. Raynard Macha
Floydada Police Dept.

The new recent ruling of the supreme court on searches of vehicles without search warrants will undoubtedly help law enforcement officials in the fight against crime. Actually there has been no new ruling, but a clarification of the old rulings of the supreme court so state the justices. They state that their intentions were all along that police officers could search cars without search warrants if they had probably cause to search the vehicle.

Well if that were the case then they sure took a long time to set the record straight. It got so ridiculous to the point that an officer could have a search warrant to search a car for drugs and if he found a closed container in the car he had to get another search warrant to search the container even though he had a warrant to search the car in the first place.

For years law enforcement officials were frustrated in their attempts to curb the burgeoning crime rate in regards to obtaining search warrants to seize illegal contraband or fruits of a crime. With the confusion they stirred up among officers and defense attorneys about what a legal search of a vehicle they caused the courts to be clogged up with appeals and motions for dismissals on the legality of a search.

Cases became difficult to make involving searches, and search warrants. Officers could arrest a criminal with a hundred pounds of marijuana and lose the case in court on a small legal technicality. It was common practice for defense attorneys to attack the grounds or wording of a search warrant to get their client off a charge even though he was guilty, and they were winning often in our liberal courts.

Now with the so called clarification it will be much simpler for an officer on the streets to search a vehicle without a search warrant for the fruits of a crime or illegal contraband if he has probable cause. The court has also ruled in the recent past that a vehicle is a public place and not a private place. That ruling will also help somewhat. The police officer on the street will now have a little more discretion to search vehicles on the scene in the streets of our cities where the real war on crime is being fought.

Actually we have not gained anything new but just the same old power we had before the court became so liberal in its interpretations on illegal searches. Of course police officers will not be allowed to conduct random searches of vehicles or residences for no apparent reason, and it should remain that way.

In a free society innocent citizens should be protected against unwarranted searches of their homes and vehicles, without a reasonable cause for the search. Now where a police officer has probably cause to search a vehicle he can do so without a search warrant to a greater extent and more thoroughly. Of course police officers could still search vehicles before the new ruling but in a little more limited way.

Of course there will be some of our so called civil rights lawyers screaming that we are headed for totalitarian police state, and the police are being given too much power, and that it is a dangerous course we are headed on. They think everyone should be able to do as he pleases regardless of the injury or damage his client does to innocent citizens. A confused and liberal court system is very good business for defense attorneys these days.

I'm not so worried that America will become a police state as I'm worried that America has become a totalitarian judicial state where federal judges who are answerable to no one rule and reign by judicial decree regardless of the peoples needs or wishes. Where the elected officials have no power to make law or policy because of veto power of the courts. Often these judges seem not to be interested in the citizens protection or justice, but rather in imposing their own personal humanistic liberal views on American society.

Of course there are many good judges dedicated to serving society on our benches today. Some have paid dearly for their strong stand against criminals and corruption, such as the federal judge gunned down in San Antonio by a hired hit man. At present however there seems to be no easy way of culling out the bad apples who are appointed to our courts today. Some judges have exhibited some very strange if not insane behavior in our courtrooms lately.

For instance the judge in California who used to keep a windup toy on his bench and would often wind the toy up and release it, and watch it bounce around while court was in session. Here was a man who was responsible for conducting a fair and impartial trial and he was playing with a child's toy. Or the judge who made the statement in court while trying a rape case involving a fifteen year old male to the effect; "I can't find a boy guilty for doing what comes natural". I don't know where he was hatched or where he studied law but everywhere in all societies of the world rape is seen as violent deviate behavior, and considered a serious crime. One of our own supreme court justices was admitted into a hospital in Washington for back problems and was found to be suffering drug withdrawal pains after being in the hospital for a few days without his medication. A man who had been under the influence of drugs while on the bench and noticeably so by many of the lawyers who had argued cases in the court was making decisions affecting the whole course of our nation.

It takes little intelligence to see why the American public has sometimes seen our courts as an adversary rather than a friend. Of course the supreme court justices are trying to appear as conservatives now that they see the slow but steady changes taking place in our country. But I don't think for a minute that their philosophy has changed, only the desire to hold on to the tremendous power they have assembled has taken on a new approach.

They have seen the handwriting on the wall, and are finally concerned that Congress might just start calling their bluff on the important issues of the day. They are worried that Congress might start bypassing them via Congressional constitutional amendments, which will break their power over America. That would spoil all their futuristic changes planned for the populace.

Well I hope that Congress will have the guts to take back the power that was invested in them by our forefathers. It would be nice to see some common sense and sense of justice return to our legal system and our laws. It can only come by way of the ordinary American citizen who is always in touch with reality and a sense of fair play, because he lives in the real world, and doesn't have time to play with windup toys at work.

Pickens, Bean repeat wedding vows May 22

Miss Jan Renae Pickens became the bride of Brent Wade Bean Saturday, May 22, in the Ford Memorial Chapel of the Lubbock First Baptist Church. Bob Utley, pastor of Lubbock's Trinity Baptist Church, officiated.

Jan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pickens of Fort Worth. Brent is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bean of Silverton. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Hilburn Casey of Lockney and Mrs. Susie Autry of Silverton.

The ceremony was performed before a background of candelabra garlanded with greenery, white tapers and pink satin ribbon.

Selected nuptial music was provided by Mrs. L.B. Garvin, Jr., organist, of Silverton. She also accompanied Mr. Scott Creswell as he sang, "Flesh of my Flesh" and "That's the Way."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a copy of a Michele Piccione dress made by the bride's mother. The fitted bodice was a scalloped V-neck, was made of French lace, sprinkled with seed pearls. The long tapered sleeves were also made of lace and closed at the wrists with small covered buttons. The back of the dress was also closed with small covered buttons from the neckline to the waist. The A-line type skirt with a chapel length train was made of organza over satin crepe.

Her waist length veil was attached to a white silk flower head wreath. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of pink roses, stephanotis, white mums, white buttons and baby's breath with white streamers.

Mrs. Sidney Johnson, sister of the bride, of Azle, Texas was the matron of honor. Miss Marian Massey of Mansfield and Miss Maureen Ball of Azle were bridesmaids. Miss Lisa Anderson, cousin of the bride of Houston, was a junior bridesmaid.

All attendants wore identical formal gowns of dusty pink satin crepe with V-necks, ruffled sleeves and self-tie belts. Each carried nose gays made of mini pink carnations, white mums and buttons with long pink streamers.

Steve Johnson, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer. He carried a lace-trimmed heart shaped pillow.

Best man was Jeff Jones of Silverton. The groomsmen were Kyle Bean and Casey Bean, brothers of the groom. Candelights and ushers were Larry Tarver of Lubbock and David McMahan of Princeton.

The bride's mother wore a dusty rose dress made of sheer crepe. It buttoned on the left shoulder with small covered buttons. The sleeves were three-quarter length and gathered at the shoulders.

The groom's mother wore a baby blue dress made of polyester. The dress had an accordion pleated skirt and lace bodice. It was covered by a waist-length jacket made of lace and sheer crepe sleeves. Both mothers and grandmothers wore corsages of mini pink carnations and white mums with white ribbons.

RECEPTION

A reception followed the ceremony. It was hosted by the bride's parents. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over white, accented with silver appointments. The lace cloth was scalloped by pink bows at the corners and at the center of the table. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with pale pink flowers topped with a miniature china bride and groom. Also served were pink chocolate hearts, white rosette mints and finger sandwiches.

The groom's table matched the bride's with silver appointments and lace cloth. German chocolate cake in the shape of a "B" and coffee were served. The centerpiece was a large decorative jar of jelly beans made by the groom's aunt, Mrs. Dub Mercer of Lockney.

Miss Rebekka Sanders, cousin of the groom of Lubbock, distributed rice bags to the guests.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Nellie Goggans of Azle, Kelli Graves of Fort Worth, Mary Anne Reese of Houston, Susar Clark of Dallas, and Callie Robinson of Clovis.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bean, parents of the groom, hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Gridiron on May 21. The tables were decorated with farm scenes made of brass. Pink and white cut flowers accented the tables.

The bride's going-away dress was of dusty rose organza over matching satin crepe. She added a corsage of pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and white buttons with white ribbon.

Bits of Humor, Trivia, and an occasional Word of Wisdom

Don't tell me worry doesn't do any good. I know better. The things I worry about hardly ever happen.

Nothing ages a man faster than his birth certificate.

People who complain that they don't get all that they deserve should congratulate themselves.

Mrs. Smythe was making final preparations for an elaborate reception. "Nora," she said to her long-time servant, "for the first half-hour I want you to stand at the drawing-room door and call the guests' names as they arrive."

Nora's face lit up. "Thank you, ma'am," she replied. "I've been wanting to do that to some of your friends for years."

Conscience gets a lot of credit that really belongs to cold feet.

VA News

Veterans who now hold a National Service Life Insurance renewable term policy should seriously consider converting it to a permanent type of plan, advises the Director, Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office.

Major reasons for converting a term policy to permanent, he said, are that each time it is renewed it costs more, and, if the policy is discontinued, the veteran receives nothing.

With a permanent-type plan, there are certain guaranteed values which make the policy more valuable the longer it is held. For example, a $10,000, five-year renewable term policy taken out at age 40 would cost a veteran $2,928 over a period of 20 years. Conversely, a whole life or permanent-type policy (ordinary life) kept for the same period of time would: Cost the veteran $6,676 but provide him with a cash or loan value of $3,834, or provide a paid-up insurance policy for $5,751, or provide for $10,000 in extended insurance coverage for 13 years plus 165 days in paid-up premiums.

A veteran should not wait too long if he or she expects to convert term insurance. That is because the premiums paid for a permanent-type plan depend on age. So the longer the veteran waits to convert term insurance, the more expensive it becomes to do so. For further information, telephone the Waco VA Regional Office toll-free number listed in your telephone directory.

MEET THE NEW BRUCE PRITCHARD OF PLAINVIEW, TEXAS AFTER LOSING 168 POUNDS IN 22 WEEKS AT DIET CENTER AND HE IS STILL LOSING.

Bruce says: The combination of a nutritionally balanced diet, private weigh-ins, and counseling by a trained professional counselor has made losing weight quick, safe and easy. Diet Center is not a Fad Diet. There are no pre-packaged foods, no drugs, no shots and no contracts to sign.

I am on a well balanced diet of all natural foods that I eat with my wife and two small sons. Best of all my attitude has changed and I feel good about myself. I take pride in being able to go to any store and select what I want to wear and not just what is in the tiny catalogs for large men. Today I weigh what I did in high school.

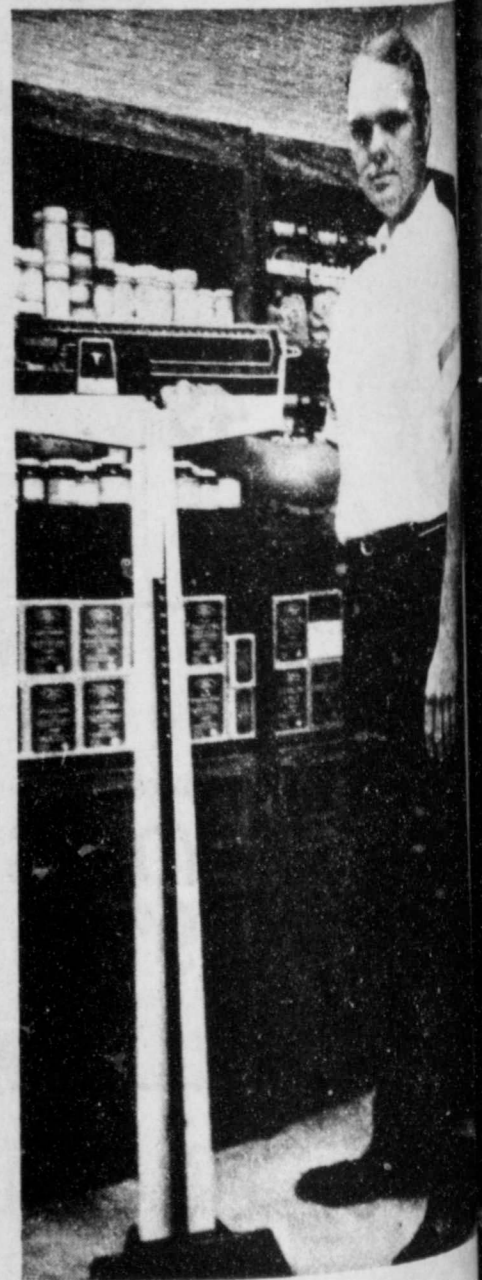

I have tried all kinds of diets and have lost 50 to 60 lbs., but would get discouraged and gain it all back. With Diet Center you have a counselor who cares and is there to help you and encourage you. I was never tired, nervous or hungry. My energy level and enthusiasm for life zoomed because my once dangerously high blood pressure dropped to a normal level. My waist went from 60 inches to 39 inches.

If you have problem I urge you to consider this Nutritionally sound program.

IT WORKS for men, women, and children.

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

BY LINDA EMERT

The weather has been real wet. There were some windows broke and a barn torn up, east of town last Thursday night when the storm hit. There was also quite a bit of crop damage that night. If the rain keeps coming the wheat will be on the ground, and it is getting a little late to plant cotton over again.

Well, Monday Kim Sherman of Plainview came and we had music that evening with a good crowd present. The residents enjoy her. Tuesday we had Bible study. Wednesday we played bingo. One of the residents asked me if we could play bingo every day.

Thursday we had our monthly birthday party. We had two lovely ladies who celebrated their birthdays, Mrs. Alta Probasco and Mrs. Clara Williamson. We had the dining room full with residents and guests there. Friday we had two movies. The residents look forward to Fridays so they can see movies.

Tornado destroys area buildings; no injuries

BY JOYCE WILLIAMS

The tornado that ran through the western side of our community Thursday demolished barns and grain storage buildings but fortunately no homes were destroyed or persons injured.

All the lakes in Lakeview are full. If it doesn't rain the rest of the summer, lake pumps can supplement irrigation wells.

Many cotton farmers have been hailed out after planting the second time. Other causes are thought to be stress from the excessive rain, electrical storms, blowing dust, cool weather and just plain washouts.

Combines are still in wheat fields, waiting for the soil to dry enough to run.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Appling received word this week about their little eleven year old granddaughter, Candy Sanders, daughter of Judy and Don Sanders, who won the title of Miss Cinderella of New Mexico. She was crowned Saturday evening in Farmington. Other relatives and friends of the honored couple attended the luncheon.

OBITUARIES

NEGLECT CAN KILL, TOO. IT JUST TAKES A LITTLE LONGER.

Child abuse in most minds is synonymous with battered children. But the awful fact is that thousands of parents are abusing their children by leaving them alone. It's called neglect, and it can mean a lack of love as well as a lack of food, clothing and shelter. And just as in the other forms of child abuse—physical, sexual and emotional—it can and often does result in death. Each year one million children feel the pain of child abuse needlessly. Needlessly because it can be prevented if you help.

Abused children are helpless. Unless you help.

Berl M. Springer,
Chairman of the Board and
Chief Executive Officer, SPS
Springer president of fusion research group project

Berl M. Springer, board chairman and chief executive officer of Southwestern Public Service Company, is the new president of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation.

The Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation (TAERF) is a non-profit research organization created to advance knowledge of energy, particularly nuclear energy. The foundation was formed in 1957 by the investor-owned electric utility companies of Texas.

TAERF is a primary supporter of the Fusion Research Center at the University of Texas at Austin. The Center houses one of the largest university experimental fusion programs in the world, and its group of theoretical physicists is considered among the best. They are searching for ways to control nuclear fusion reactions for the production of electric power.

Nuclear fusion is the source of the energy of the sun and stars. It is distinctly different from—in fact, the opposite of—nuclear fission, the process used in nuclear powered plants. Fusion reactions join, rather than split, nuclei of atoms. Harnessing the tremendous energy of fusion reactions to produce electricity would make available an almost unlimited supply of energy.

A likely fuel for fusion reactions is deuterium, which is low cost, clean, and abundant. Deuterium is available in water—which covers four-fifths of the earth.

A pitcher of ordinary water, researchers say, contains in its deuterium the energy equivalent of the electricity used in one year in a typical American home. The deuterium in a swimming pool of water could furnish all the electric energy needs of a city for a year.

However, many obstacles remain to be overcome in developing fusion technology. A primary problem is containing incredible heat generated by fusion reactions.

TAERF funds which support the research at UT-Austin are matched several times over by federal funds. But the TAERF support ensures that the interests of the customers of the electric utilities in Texas are served: The support influences the direction of the fusion research program in ways that should eventually produce the most efficient and lowest cost electrical power.

Springer was elected TAERF president May 29. He is a native of Memphis, Texas, and an industrial engineering graduate of Texas Tech University. He started his SPS career as a draftsman in 1948. He later became a statistician-engineer, rate engineer, and rate manager, and in 1969 was elected vice president of rates and budgets. He was named executive vice president in 1972, and joined the board of directors in 1974. He was elected chairman of the board and chief executive officer in January, 1982.

Springer has been active in many local, regional, and national civic and business affairs. He has served as president of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, co-chairman of the Amarillo United Way, member of the President's Council at West Texas State University and at Texas Tech University, and as a director of the National Food and Energy Council. He received the "Distinguished Engineer" award from Texas Tech in 1975.

Members of TAERF are Southwestern Public Service Company, Dallas Power & Light Company, El Paso Electric Company, Central Power & Light Company, Gulf States Utilities Company, Houston Lighting & Power Company, Community Public Service Company, Texas Electric Service Company, Texas Power & Light Company, and West Texas Utilities Company.

Vets' pension checks go up 7.4 percent

More than 600,000 veterans and their survivors will be getting larger Veterans Administration pension checks on July 1 — the result of a 7.4 percent increase in the government's cost of living index.

Some 1.9 million VA pensioners are affected in some way by the cost of living index.

Pensions are paid to veterans totally and permanently disabled from circumstances unrelated to their military service. They are paid also to survivors of veterans who are in need. Unlike compensation paid to those disabled because of military service, pensions are affected by income from other sources.

The 600,000 who will get increases in June (payable July 1) are those who are receiving benefits under the "improved" VA pension plan inaugurated by Congress in 1979. The plan links VA pension rates to adjustments in social security payments. Before the change, an individual's pension was subject to reduction each time social security increased.

Pensions for veterans and survivors under the "old plan" remain fixed and payable at the rates in effect in 1978. But those rates are protected against reduction that would otherwise result from cost of living increases in their income from other sources.

"Old plan" recipients may request transfer to the "improved" plan at any time. VA officials point out. The agency will carefully review each application to advise applicants to choose the plan which works to their personal advantage.

With the June increase (payable in July 1 checks), a veteran with one dependent and no other income will receive $6,980. For each additional dependent, the added amount is $903 per year.

Registration open for writers workshop

Advance registration for the fifth edition of the Panhandle-Plains Writers' Workshop next month at Wayland Baptist University is now open, according to Director Arch Mayfield.

Stated for Thursday and Friday, July 29-30, the Workshop is open to all interested participants at a cost of $35 per person in advance. Registration fee is $40 per person after July 10.

Elmer Kelton, author of 25 western historical novels, heads a list of some 10 professional writers who will appear on this year's program. Kelton, whose most recent novels, "The Wolf and The Buffalo" and "The Eyes of The Hawk," were published by Doubleday, is presently editor of Livestock Weekly in San Angelo.

Other program personalities are Katharyn Duff, former assistant editor and front-page columnist of the Abilene Reporter-News, who will be featured speaker for the Thursday night banquet; Jerry Craven, professor of English at West Texas State University; freelance writer/photographer Linda Craven of Canyon; Bee Zeeck, director of the Texas Tech University Office of News and Publications; Kathy Strawn, author and contributor to various children's publications; and Roy Kornegay, minister of education at Amarillo's First Baptist Church and contributor to numerous church magazines.

Rounding out the list of speakers are three Plainviewians. Dr. Don Cook is tenured professor of English and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Wayland, having published numerous poems and articles. Juanice Myers has written four full-length and three one-act plays, several of which have been produced and won major awards. Mrs. Audrey Boles, Wayland registrar for the past 32 years, has published two genealogical studies and is nearing publication on a third.

In addition to the Thursday banquet, other highlights of the two-day workshop include individual sessions on science fiction, features, children's Sunday school curriculum, and poetry.

A writing competition is also open to interested persons in the categories of fiction, non-fiction and poetry. An awards ceremony recognizing the winners will climax the workshop Friday afternoon.

Persons interested in advance registration or additional information should contact Mayfield at Wayland Baptist University, Plainview, Texas 79072, or call (806) 296-5521. On-campus housing is available to visitors at minimal cost.

Tax relief for two-paycheck families

If you and your spouse both bring home a paycheck, you may be able to deduct up to $1500 on next year's tax return. Differing rate schedules for single and married taxpayers gave rise to the so-called "marriage tax penalty" when two wage earners of relatively equal income are married.

The Economic Tax Recovery Tax Act of 1981 will bring some relief to working couples who have been subject to the marriage tax penalty. The deduction from gross income is 5% of the qualified earned income of the spouse with the lower qualified earned income, or $1500, whichever is less.

For example, if you earn $20,000 and your spouse earns $8,000, you would be taxed on $27,600 ($8,000X5% subtracted from $28,000) rather than the $28,000 combined income.

Although this new provision should provide some relief for many two-earner families, you should continue to keep track of your withholding to avoid owing additional taxes at tax time.

If you find that you are falling behind during the year, the two most common remedies for underwithholding are estimated tax payments or revised Forms W-4. "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate." Estimated taxes are paid directly to IRS in quarterly installments on vouchers that come with the Form 1040-ES, "Declaration of Estimated Tax for Individuals." The 1040-ES comes with instructions and a worksheet to help you determine how much additional tax you must pay to supplement the withholdings from your wages.

If you choose, instead, to give your employer a revised Form W-4, you can claim fewer or no allowances, request that your employers withhold at the higher single rate even though you're married, or, if you're already at the single rate, request additional withholdings.

Besides the unpleasant surprise of a big tax bill, failing to have enough withheld can bring about an estimated tax penalty. Making sure that your current year's withholding equals or exceeds your prior year's tax will insure that you avoid this penalty.

Additional information is available in IRS Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax. The free publication may be requested by using the handy order form in your tax package.

Elimination of the marriage tax penalty will provide relief for many two-earner families. But, a watchful eye to insure proper withholding is still important.

Potentially Dangerous

Traffic fatality reports over the July 4 weekend generally overshadow another category of accidents—fireworks.

Fourth of July and Christmas holidays are when most of the estimated 6,000 to 7,000 fireworks injuries occur in the United States each year, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. About 20 percent of these are eye injuries, caused primarily by firecrackers and bottle rockets.

In Texas last year, fireworks caused 72 reported eye injuries, 48 of which involved bottle rockets, notes Dr. Richard D. Cunningham, an ophthalmologist at Scott and White Clinic in Temple.

"Again this year, a number of Texans will be subjected to potentially blinding injuries from fireworks because of our ignorance or indifference to the hazards posed by these devices," Cunningham writes in the June issue of Texas Medicine, journal of the Texas Medical Association. "Nearly all blinding injuries could be prevented if all participants would use protective eye-wear."

Last year, bottle rockets caused nine of the 12 reported cases of fireworks blindness in Texas and 11 instances of partial but permanent vision loss, the physician says.

Although many states through legislation have sharply curbed or banned fireworks except for religious, cultural or public display, Texas has not. Cunningham notes that Class C "common" fireworks remain legal in Texas under federal law. These include firecrackers not more than an inch and a half long, sparklers, fountains, roman candles and bottle rockets. "Local ordinances are not uniform and are often poorly enforced," he explains.

Organizations including the American Academy of Ophthalmology, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the National Fire Protection Agency have encouraged enactment of strict regulations regarding the use of fireworks.

"These injuries are unnecessary and preventable," Cunningham says. "As citizens we should urge strengthening of state and local fireworks regulations and encourage better enforcement of enacted laws."

Final L.V.N. exam scheduled for Friday

South Plains College at Plainview will be completing its preparations this month for beginning a new Licensed Vocational Nursing class this coming fall. The final administration of the pre-entrance exam this Friday will signal the end of a series of testing dates which have been spread over the previous nine months, and have been used to help determine suitable candidates for the year-long course of study.

"With demand for L.V.N.'s still extremely high, interest in the program has remained strong," states Rick Hudson, Vocational Counselor for South Plains College at Plainview. "For those who have ever had an interest in becoming a nurse, the opportunities have never been brighter." Mr. Hudson added the class has not yet been filled, but that students are still needed to bring the program to capacity.

The L.V.N. Aptitude for Nursing Exam will be given at 8:30 a.m. this Friday, June 25. It will be held in room 101 of the Wheeler Building on the South Plains College at Plainview campus located at 8th and Yonkers. The fee will be $4.00, payable at the time of registration.

Anyone wishing to take the exam must be present by 8:15 a.m. and have with them a completed admissions form. These may be picked up at the college from 8:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information, call Rick Hudson at 293-3605.

FIND FAULT WITH A CHILD LONG ENOUGH AND HE'LL FIND FAULT WITH HIMSELF.

Emotional abuse is a form of child abuse that is much more severe than it sounds. It warps children's minds and creates mental problems that will affect them the rest of their lives. Thousands of children are emotionally abused every year. Add that to the thousands who are physically and sexually abused and those who suffer from neglect, and you'll begin to see how severe the problem really is. But it's not hopeless. Most child abusers can be helped. We know what to do but we can't do it alone.

Abused children are helpless. Unless you help.

Lockney Care Center Capers

BY VICKIE HUTTON

The weather sure has been unpredictable. One of our visitors remarked, "I never thought I'd be so sick of rain but I am!" Let's pray so it will clear up and the farmers can get back in the fields.

Friday was a very special day. We combined our Father's Day party with a surprise birthday party for our Director of Nurses, Elizabeth Foster. Elizabeth never would tell her age! The residents enjoyed reminiscing about their lives and about their fathers. We all learned many interesting things about each other that made us all feel good. Reminiscing is good for the soul.

The highlight of the week was our barbeque Thursday evening. Besides enjoying hamburgers and all the trimmings, the fellowship among the residents and the staff was fantastic. Being together like this is great and we are planning more in the future.

Other games enjoyed by the residents are checkers and dominoes. We have some champion players and they do have some heated games. Those enjoying the domino game were Mary Green, Albert Poole, Bill Holt, Myrtle Payne, Mamie Wofford, and Birda Foster. Our checker players are Lewis Roberts and Richard Lanham.

Our lucky bingo winner this week was Evie Henderson. Thanks again to our faithful volunteers DeLinda Glasson, Ameda Phillips and Linda Holley for sharing their time and talent with us.

We lost a special member of our family this week, Lovell Edwards. Miss Edwards had lived at the Care Center since October of 1977. She will be truly missed. Our sympathy to the family. Billie Self, Edwin Sheek, and Alzia Virden have joined our family. We welcome them and look forward to having them join in our activities. Until next time, enjoy life!

Russell raises money for Mental Health

Mrs. Wayne Russell raised $174.15 in the May drive benefiting the Mental Health Association in Texas.

Bellringer workers collected house-to-house during the Spring campaign.

Proceeds benefit the non-profit, non-governmental agency whose members are dedicated to fighting mental illness while working on behalf of the mentally ill and their families.

"The Mental Health Association exists entirely on donations, such as those raised in the May campaign," said Mrs. Virginia Barlow, state president.

Barlow thanked Mrs. Russell and the Bellringer workers in Floydada, calling them an important team in the movement to promote mental health in the state.

VNS director receives Levi Strauss scholarship

Lee Battey, R.N., of Floydada, and Director of Nurses and Coordinator of Hospice Services of the Visiting Nurse Service, Inc., has received a Levi Strauss Foundation Scholarship to attend the 1982 Summer Institute on Aging at the Center for Studies in Aging of North Texas State University, Denton. The Summer Institute is from June 21 to July 2, 1982.

As a full-time employee in the field of aging, Mrs. Battey was nominated for the scholarship by Gayl S. Maring, Director of Programs on Aging of the South Plains Association of Governments. The scholarships are available only to professionals and service providers in the field of aging who are employed in an area with a Levi Strauss plant or regional office.

Mrs. Battey is the wife of David S. Battey and is an active member of the First United Methodist Church of Floydada. She is a graduate of Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, and has earned a Bachelor of Science in Nursing at West Texas State University School of Nursing, Canyon. She is recognized in the Lubbock area as the facilitator of the Hospice Concept through collaboration with Gayle McComb, R.N., B.S.N., founder and administrator of the Visiting Nurse Service, Inc., which serves Lubbock and the surrounding 20 county area. She also serves as coordinator of the Adult Day Care Center of Lubbock, a demonstration project sponsored by Visiting Nurse Service, which is funded through a demonstration grant from SPAG.

ADAC is a concept which supports working families needs and desires to keep and maintain their family elders with them in their own homes by providing a supervised environment during the day which is adapted to each client's individual needs. Mrs. Battey and Mrs. McComb have developed the first such facility in this area.

Mrs. Battey is a member of the National Hospice Organization, Inc., and is a Certified Hospice Instructor as well as serving as a Hospice Consultant to physicians, hospitals, patients, and their families. She is also a member of Texas Nurses Association, American Nurses Association, Intra-agency Action Council of Lubbock, Christian Nurses Fellowship. She also conducts workshops on Aging and Hospice.

Concurrently with her studies at the Summer Institute, Mrs. Battey has also been accepted into the Graduate School of NTSU. Her courses will include "Management of Senility in the Long-Term Care Setting," and "Hospice: Caring For Patients and Their Families."

At Southwestern Public Service Company, we keep our customers in mind when selecting the type of fuel to use in our electric generating stations. That is why we chose coal as the fuel for our newest power plants. Coal meets the tests of availability, technical and economical feasibility, reliability, environmental standards, and is in line with national energy policies.

Morris Rantz, Fuel Administration Manager, Amarillo.

The economy affects utility companies just as it does all of us. Despite their regulated status, utilities still face the problems of inflation, high interest rates, and soaring fuel costs. And regulation does not guarantee that a company will make a profit. Instead, regulators establish a "ceiling" or maximum amount of profit which a utility may make, a profit level which few utilities are able to reach because of the expenses involved in providing reliable electric service.

Using major electric appliances during "off-peak" hours can help keep down the cost of electric service. Certain times of day, usually between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m., are "peak" hours, when SPS' full generating capacity must be used to meet customer demands. Program Building Committee reorganized

BY JETT V. MAJOR
Floyd County Extension Service's Executive Program Building Committee met last Thursday morning, June 17th at Strickland's Restaurant in

Lockney. This committee serves as the Steering Committee for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Program and Staff in Floyd County. It is through this committee and its sub-committees that County Extension Agents in Floyd County work to identify the educational need of both adults and youth in the county and develop a Plan of Work to meet those needs each year.

Craig Edwards, Chairman, called the meeting to order and introduced the guest speaker, Ollie Liner, who presented a program on Hale County's success with the Traditional Approach to the Program Building Committee Process. Liner outlined advantages and disadvantages of both approaches and then explained why he felt the Traditional Approach that Hale County utilizes would be more effective than the Alternate Approach utilized by Floyd County.

The main advantage was that fewer, more productive and informative meetings can be conducted with the Traditional Approach because most of the work is done in the sub-committees (Crop, Livestock, Family Living, Community Development and 4-H & Youth). Only educational programs and reports are given at overall Program Building Committee Meetings - no business is conducted as is the case in the Alternate Approach.

Following Mr. Liner's program, the Executive Committee voted to change Floyd County's Program Committee Structure from the Alternate Approach to the Traditional Approach. Officer elections were then held and a new Executive Committee, as defined by the Traditional Approach, was selected to begin work immediately on restructuring Floyd County's Program Building Committee to the standards set forth under the Traditional Approach.

Officers and Executive Committee members selected for the reorganized Program Building Committee are listed below:

- James Hinton — Chairman
- Roger Dawdy — Vice Chairman

Texas receives section 18 for Fusilade herbicide in soybeans

The Environmental Protection Agency has granted a Section 18 Emergency Exemption to the State of Texas for the use of Fusilade (TM) herbicide to control johnsongrass in soybeans.

Fusilade, a product of ICI Americas Inc., is a new, selective, postemergence herbicide for over-the-top use in broad-leaf crops to control both annual and perennial grasses. Fusilade is systemic and is absorbed quickly through leaf surfaces. It then moves in both the xylem and phloem of the weed, accumulating in the growth points. This causes normal moisture conditions, putting an end to any further weed competition with the crop. Complete death of grasses occurs in three to four weeks. Fusilade has also proven to be rainfast one hour after application.

Under the Exemption, Fusilade may be applied at a maximum rate of .05 pounds (1.0 pint) active ingredient per acre per season in a spray volume of 10 to 40 gallons per acre. Fusilade may only be applied by ground equipment, and a maximum of 2 applications are allowed throughout the growing season. Applications should be made when rhizome johnsongrass reaches 12 inches in height.

Fusilade should be applied with a nonphytotoxic crop oil concentrate, containing 15 to 20 percent surfactant, at one pint to one quart per acre. Do not apply within 60 days of harvest, and do not rotate or replant crops other than soybeans or cotton within 60 days of the last application.

Before using Fusilade, read all directions on the container label, and follow the recommendations given on the supplemental label.

Fusilade contains 4 pounds active ingredient per gallon.

The condition of Floyd County's cotton crop continues to deteriorate each day due to the cool wet weather and insect pressure. Most producers have lost 50-75% of their acreage planted to cotton and much of the acreage lost had been planted and replanted to cotton as many as three times.

Soybeans are the number one crop going back in the ground this week, as well as many acres of sunflowers and a few acres of grain sorghum.

Thrips and grasshoppers are the primary sources of insect pressure to crops and rangeland at the present time, so I have included some information regarding control of these pests from Jim Leser's "Focus on Entomology" Newsletter.

THRIPS

Heavy thrips infestations and damage were once again evident in many fields of cotton I looked at this past week. You need to continue your vigil for a while longer. Producers need to pay particular attention to late planted (or replanted) cotton and cotton that has been damaged by severe weather. These fields cannot tolerate further delays. Unfortunately, these aren't the only fields with problems. Some fields have plants that should have 4-6 true leaves. All that is there are gnarled stumps. In some areas thrips pressure has been so great (up to 20 per plant as an average), and has lasted so long (three weeks), that multiple applications of insecticides have been futile in minimizing damage.

Fields treated with insecticides at planting time are looking real good this year. But remember - if you planted between May 10th to 20th, seed treatments are no longer effective. In-furrow applications of insecticides at planting have only 1-3 weeks of effectiveness at most left. Heavy rains may have also washed away some of these systemic insecticides, shortening their residual period considerably.

GRASSHOPPERS

Grasshoppers are staging along fence rows, bar ditches and out in pastures. There are no reports of hoppers moving into crops areas at this time. USDA has launched a cooperative rangeland grasshopper control program in Shackelford and Throckmorton counties. More areas are sure to follow.

In areas I have inspected, grasshopper numbers have ranged from 18-60 per square yard. Most hoppers were the differential grasshopper which develop into large yellow winged hoppers. At present, they are only about 1/4 to 1 inch long and do not have wings. Several other species were sighted, including the lubber, P-quad, white-whiskers, and bigheaded grasshoppers. All but the lubber will develop into winged adults (making control of adults with baits a questionable practice at best). Lubber grasshoppers are rare this year, averaging one sighted for every 66 other grasshoppers counted.

Now is the time to control these grasshoppers. Don't wait until they become winged and simply fly over your treated cotton. Many of you did that last year and 90% were disappointed in the results. People blamed chemicals for not being effective and applicators for not doing a good job of applying the insecticides. In general, neither were to blame.

In the stage these grasshoppers are now, they must jump or walk through the crop margins to get to the cotton. They will usually feed along the way. If these areas are treated with insecticide, I believe you will get pretty good control.

What chemical should I use? This depends on what crop is involved and the equipment being used to apply the materials. The chart below is a partial list of those that can be used.

If you are going to spray crop margins by air, I believe Sevin XLR is a good choice. If there are no grazing livestock in the area sprayed, I would probably add about 1/2 pint of parathion per acre to the mixture to get quick knockdown. The Sevin XLR at 1 quart per acre should give you 2-3 weeks residual control but the hoppers must eat it to be effective. This is true with any Sevin formulation, so don't make the mistake of spraying Sevin on a turnrow where there is no vegetation. This also limits the effectiveness of Sevin on the small seedling cotton since there is very little vegetation to intercept the Sevin.

4-H'ers preserve what they

Growing a garden can be fun and productive whether you live in the country or city. One of the most adaptable plants for growing in a large garden, a small plot or a window box is the tomato. It has great potential not only as a fresh vegetable but for preserving as well.

4-H members in the 4-H gardening and food preservation programs across Texas and the nation are discovering this versatility, says Benny Butler, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University system.

If your plot is small or is just a window box or barrel, choose cherry or pear tomatoes rather than the larger varieties.

4-H members in the national 4-H gardening program, sponsored by the Ortho Consumer Products Division, Chev-ron Chemical Co., have learned that an apartment terrace or backyard garden needs plenty of sun. Use aluminum foil, chrome reflectors or mirrors to make sure that your crop gets the equivalent of six hours of sun a day, whether direct or reflected. If possible, put your crop on wheels and roll it to the sun as it moves, suggests Butler.

Once tomatoes are ripe, 4-H members in the food preservation program, supported by Kerr Glass Manufacturing Company have lots of ideas for using them effectively. Soup, pickles, preserves, sauces and relish are a few favorites.

Incentives and recognition for participants in the 4-H gardening and food preservation programs are provided by Ortho and Kerr Glass. Medals of honor are awarded for four members in each program in every county. In the gardening program, the state earns a $75,000 and 18 sectional prize-paid trips to Congress in Chicago. Each state earns a $1,000. During the event, each program receives $1,000. Medals are arranged by the state.

STOP THAT FALLING OVER

Damping off of garden vegetables is common in most Texas gardens and with the cold, wet weather we've had the last few weeks, I'm sure we'll see some of it in Floyd County. Although it is caused by several fungi, pythium is one of the more prevalent. A plant is susceptible to damage from this disease complex from the minute the seed is placed in the soil until it begins to produce true leaves. The older a seedling is, the less likely it is to be damaged by the fungi complex.

The damping off symptom varies with the age and developmental stage of the young seedling. Damage may first occur as the fungi attach germination has flowered to eliminate this problem. Use bolted or bolted as soon as possible to flower stalks which are in the center of the plant almost impossible.

Young seedlings can be attached before they come through the soil. Losses occurring during this period are known as preemergence damping off; losses occurring after the seedling emerges are called postemergence damping off. Mostly the same group of fungi are involved in all stages of damping off.

Stems of young plants attached by damping off become water-soaked and slightly darker in color near the ground. As the lesions or spots enlarge, cells of the plant stems collapse, and the seedling dies rapidly. When the cells collapse, the plant breaks from the weight of the top.

As seedlings mature they are less susceptible to damping off. The plant may not be killed, but it is weakened, and high winds may later break the plant.

The severity of the disease is directly related to soil moisture. The disease is most severe when the soil is near saturation. Moisture affects the movement of the disease. It also reduces the plant's ability to repel the fungi because water-logged soil has less oxygen and lower temperatures.

Nematodes injure the young plants root system and slow seedling growth. This increases the period of susceptibility to damping off. The wound from the feeding also serves as an infection site for the damping-off fungi.

Suggestions for preventing damping off:

- *If possible, plant the garden in a well-drained area.
- *Plant on a raised bed (6-inch minimum).

- *Plant when soil temperature is suitable for maximum seed germination and seedling development (refer to seed packet).
- *Use captan as a preplant fungicide whenever possible.

- *Plant only good quality seed which have been treated with a protective fungicide.
- *In severely infected gardens it may be necessary to apply Vapam R as a preplant treatment.

FLOWERING ONION STALKS

Have you ever wondered what caused onion bulbs to send up flower stalks? This has perplexed gardeners for years, and it happens with such regularity that many gardeners think onions are supposed to flower.

Flowering onions are caused by several factors, primarily temperature. An onion, botanically, is classed as a biennial, which means it usually takes 2 years from planting until flowering. However, if a young onion plant is exposed to alternating cold and warm temperatures so that the plant goes dormant, resumes growth, goes dormant and resumes growth again, the result may be premature flowering or "bolting" of onion bulbs.

Many gardeners remove the flower stalks from their onion plants, but this really doesn't do any good. Once the onion has flowered to eliminate this problem. Use bolted or bolted as soon as possible to flower stalks which are in the center of the plant almost impossible.

Onion flowering is controlled by planting at the right time. To grow onions Texas is famous and Grand varieties of these onions are available in spring. Use only smaller in diameter.

Growing bulb onions but if you plant them right time, you can get a good crop.

Industry unites behind promotion plan

Wheat operators throughout the state will be deducting 1/2 cent from all farmer deliveries beginning with the 1982 crop. The "Implied Concessions" will be expanded to include the market deduction when the market price of wheat in the State is above the State average. A joint announcement of the wheat industry is supporting the proposal. Mike Moelke, Texas Wheat Farmers Union; Texas Grain and Millers Association; and W.H. (Diz) Munday, Texas Wheat Producers' Board, through its technical staff headed by Munday, TWPB.

member of U.S. Wheat Associates for ten years and is closely identified with the export expansion that has taken place—600 million bu. to 1.75 billion bu. between 1971-82.

"Increased support of U.S. Wheat Associates export market development, disease and insect control, transportation studies, and other activities that might enhance the value of wheat production and marketing in the State are the kind of projects that will be recommended to the directors of the Texas Wheat Promotion Plan", according to Bill Nelson, Amarillo, Executive Vice President and Administrator of TWPB. "The current rust and powdery mildew outbreak in the East and Central areas, the continuing greenbug, mite and worm problems in the Rolling Plains and the state-wide freight rate study already being considered, are examples of immediate needs in enhancing wheat profit potential," Nelson pointed out. "The level of and extent to which these can be carried out will depend on the level of interest and support of the producers and the elevator operators in making this statewide effort of 1/2 cent per bushel voluntary program effective in generating funds," the joint announcement of the organizations' Presidents indicated. It was also pointed out that while individual member-developed policies support this unified voluntary self-help program, this joint effort in no way affects the separate approaches to other farm policy issues of these groups.

Posters will be placed by the Texas Grain and Feed Association at each wheat receiving location in the State indicating that the 1/2 cent deduction will be made unless producers request exemption prior to settlement. Procedures in the 34-county traditional wheat area operating under provisions of the Texas Commodity Referendum Law since 1971 will not be affected by the new program, other than have the assurance that now producers in the remainder of the State will have an opportunity to participate.

Show and breeding-slaughter cattle judged differently

What do height and length, ruggedness, heavy bones, smoothness and pattern have to do with breeding and slaughter cattle?

"Nothing," said Dr. Robert A. Long, "but that's what cattle are judged on at steer shows."

The Texas Tech University animal science professor, speaking before the National Steer Symposium at Oklahoma State University, said breeding cattle and slaughter steers should be largely evaluated on the basis of accurate estimates of carcass characteristics.

In terms of cutability and eatability, maximum muscle and minimum fat is important to both packers and consumers. A steer, Long said, cannot produce an excellent carcass without being well muscled.

Long sees it, is to identify the kind of steer which has the most desirable carcass from the standpoint of both palatability and cutability.

"It is the job of breeders, feeders and packers to develop genetic, nutritional and processing programs which produce such carcasses efficiently and profitably," Long said.

The ideal steer, he noted, must have a high muscle-bone ratio, a maximum of three-tenths inches of fat. Choice marbling and be in the 1,050-1,250-pound weight range. How far a steer "sticks-up" in the air should not be a factor.

"Muscle, of course, adds to the weight of the steer and when finish is constant, the heavily muscled steer far outweighs the 'smooth' muscled steer of the same frame size. A large framed steer, therefore, will be considerably heavier than the packer wants if his composition is correct," Long said.

Data which illustrates the constant proportionality of skeleton and muscle has often been misinterpreted to mean that all cattle are the same and, to measure them the longest or largest is best, the researcher said.

"This is in complete error," Long said. "You must know muscle, bone ratio and degree of fatness in order to know composition."

The purpose of the steer show, as

"Why anyone would use frame size in the evaluation of slaughter cattle is beyond me," Long said. "I believe every frame size of beef animal can and does occur with every possible combination of fat and muscling."

The cattle expert said criteria by which slaughter steers and breeding cattle are judged is just plain wrong. He said frame and skeletal size have nothing to do with the desirability of beef carcasses.

In the majority of steer shows in this country, cattle are shown by weight and have been fed and managed so as not to be excessively fat.

"Placing the tall, big framed steers up in class and the small framed ones down means that selection was against muscle or meat which makes no sense at all in the beef production business," he said.

Hot weather precautions

BY C. EVERETT KOOP, M.D.

Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service Washington, D.C.

As we emerge from one of the coldest winters on record, we may tend to forget that the hot months of summer also present potential dangers.

During periods of very high temperature, anyone—especially the elderly and those with medical problems—may build up enough body heat to incur heat stroke, heat syncope or heat exhaustion.

We can't control the weather, of course. But I'd like to alert everyone to some precautions we can take to control the way extreme heat affects us.

1. Drink plenty of fluids, even if you don't feel thirsty. Your body needs considerably more fluid than your thirst will indicate. When the outside temperature is above 95 degrees, you may easily need to drink more than a gallon of fluids a day. (Before increasing your fluid intake, however, consult your doctor if you have epilepsy; heart, kidney or liver disease; or fluid retention problems—or if you have been placed on a restricted-fluid diet.)

2. Don't drink alcoholic beverages.

3. Avoid direct sunlight.

4. Stay in the coolest place possible. If you don't have an air conditioner, try to spend some time each day in an air-conditioned place. Other good ways to cool off are taking frequent showers or placing icebags or wet towels on your body.

5. Wear lightweight, loose-fitting clothes.

6. Avoid unnecessary physical exertion.

7. Don't use salt tablets without consulting your doctor, because salt can compound existing medical problems such as high blood pressure.

The three most serious conditions hot weather can trigger are heat stroke, heat syncope and heat exhaustion.

Heat stroke, a failure of all body cooling mechanisms, is a medical emergency that demands immediate attention and treatment by a doctor. Symptoms include faintness; dizziness; staggering; headache; nausea; loss of consciousness; high body temperature (104° F/40° C or higher); strong, rapid pulse; and flushed skin. In severe cases, blood pressure drops as circulation fails.

Heat syncope results from exercising in the heat or from a failure to adapt to the hot weather. This condition is marked by dizziness, fatigue and sudden faintness. Other symptoms are cool, sweaty, pale skin; weak pulse; and falling blood pressure.

Unlike the victim of heat stroke, the person with heat syncope recovers when removed from direct exposure to the heat. Treatment involves resting (lying down or sitting down with the head lowered), cooling off and fluids.

Heat exhaustion is the form of illness caused by this condition takes the form of illness caused by heat and results from a loss of salt. Symptoms include fatigue; giddiness; elevated temperature; and, in severe cases, delirium. Muscle cramps occur.

Heat exhaustion is the patient rest in the shade, giving cool liquids and, on the advice of a doctor, giving alcohol sponge baths and wet towels to the body.

With advancing age, the body becomes less able to handle stresses such as prolonged hot weather. The elderly are particularly vulnerable to heat stroke. Older people, younger ones and those who have underlying diseases (such as heart disease, peptic ulcer and asthma) should consult their doctor during hot weather.

Mississippian welcomed to South Plains West Texas

BY MRS. MURRAY JULIAN

South Plains, June 16:
Mrs. Gertrude Gaby, from Jackson, Mississippi, is visiting here in South Plains with her daughter, Sara Probasco and Don and family. We welcome her to the West!

Mrs. Louzilla Nichols was present at the first Breakfast at Mamie's, which later became an annual affair. This was back in March, on the 14th, in 1962, twenty years ago. She is happy to know she was present for the first breakfast they had, and this Wednesday, June 16, will be her last, here, as she leaves us to go in September to her new home in Sweetwater, where she will be near her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Whitfill.

Mrs. Sandra Burdette from Lubbock, was a guest at the "Breakfast at Mamie's" this Wednesday, and she was guest speaker for the morning, bringing a review from the book, "See You at the Top," by Zig Ziegler, a wonderful mixture of down to earth helps for everyone to live by, and positive thinking to boost our ego. She told us, "God made man, and then he turned and made woman, and said, I knew I could do a better job than I did." Mrs. Burdette is the cousin of Mrs. Joyce Osborne of our community.

The South Plains Hobby Club met at the home of Mrs. Mamie Wood east of South Plains on Wednesday morning, June 16, at 8:00 o'clock for their annual "Breakfast at Mamie's" gathering with cold, cloudy skies, and a chill in the air.

Nothing daunted, the guests gathered in the beautiful yard around tables for the bountiful meal. Mrs. Julian gave the benediction, and the menu consisted of hot home made sour dough bread made by Mrs. Higginbotham, with assorted jellies, and chili egg casseroles, with a delicious fruit dish of melon balls, strawberries and watermelon, lots of hot coffee and visiting. After the breakfast, Mrs. Sandra Burdette of Lubbock gave an interesting and helpful talk on Positive Thinking, from the book, "See You At The Top," by Zig Ziegler.

This Wednesday was the twentieth anniversary of the first time Mrs. Wood had had the breakfast in her yard. The first one was in March 14, 1962. Those present for the breakfast included, Mmes. Gertrude Smitherman, Sandra Burdette, Dixie Barron, both of Lubbock, Edith Clark, Martha Botkin, Joyce Osborne, Carolyn Marble, Louzilla Nichols, Ruth Walker, Carolyn Redding, Sara Probasco, Gertrude Gaby, Judy Beedy, Sherre West, Pat Wood, Bonnie Moore, Kathleen Thornton, Lulu Teague, Bobbie Kinnibrugh, Mildred Hamm, Bonnie Julian, Ruby Higginbotham, Annela Staples, Jane Bean, Glynn Earle Cummings, hostess Mrs. Mamie Wood, and those who assisted were Mmes. Ruby Higginbotham, Mildred Hamm, and Bonnie Julian.

May all of you have a wonderful summer. The club will have its next meeting in September, in the fall.
