

Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said, "Fifty percent of all traffic deaths are alcohol related." During the holidays, this percentage is considerable higher because some drivers think the best way to celebrate a holiday is by drinking and driving, whether on vacation or at the area lake. This 4th of July holiday lives will be lost and people will be injured in traffic accidents. "The best way to have a safe accident free holiday this 4th of July is by not drinking and driving, observing all traffic laws, and not trying to pack a weeks vacation into a 2-day holiday," Major Cawthon stated. Be especially watchful for the other driver and remember that your safety and the safety of your family depends on you.

Is education reform deadlocked?

by Cindy Smith

During a lunch recess, Tuesday, June 26, Senator Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls disclosed to the Hesperian that the conference committee comprised of Senate and House members have resolved over one hundred issues during this special session. At press time, there were still a few issues that were still sources of contention.

The state school board will be a fifteen member board appointed by the governor, guaranteeing slots for three Hispanics and one black. The districts will be drawn up based on population. The district which will include Floyd County will extend north of Pampa and south of Lubbock. The temporary board will revert to an elected panel in November 1988. Elected members will serve four year terms.

Farabee pointed out that "in the equalization aid to poor school districts, Floyd County comes out well with the proposal recommended. Tentatively, the Floydada Independent School District will be receiving approximately one million two hundred ten thousand dollars in funding and the Lockney Independent School District will receive around six hundred ninety thousand dollars." Jerry Cannon, superintendent of the Floydada schools, remarked, "We won't turn the money down, but it is hard to believe that it would be that large an amount."

Representative Foster Whaley explained to the Hesperian that "in order to receive this equalization aid, state and local property tax will have to be appropriated in order to qualify - in other words, the local districts will be required to match the amount funded on a smaller scale. Property taxes will have to be raised in order to comply."

The committee arrived at a consensus requiring teachers to take a competency test in their field in order to begin or continue teaching. Farabee stated that all teachers must pass the test within two years, administrators will also have to pass a one-time test. Ronnie Wood, the new Floydada high school principal, wondered about the validity of the test. "There are certain qualities that cannot be measured by testing, such as teaching ability or the way a teacher communicates with students." Wood "hopes that is will be good, but fears that it will put added pressure on teachers."

Students will not be exempt for testing. All high school seniors will have to pass a basic skills test in order to graduate with a diploma. Students must pass all courses with a grade of 70 in order to participate in extracurricular activities and school must offer tutoring sessions. Absences are tentatively liimited to five per semester.

A "career ladder" will be implemented rewarding teachers for superior skills and advanced degrees. This will be in the form of promotions and salary raises. James Poole, Lockney high school principal, believes that "it is important for teachers to go back to school and get in on the other side of the desk. Those who do not continue their education or polish existing skills, well, I am afraid the competency test may get them."

Teacher's salaries continue to be up for grabs. The Senate committee members have said that if teachers are to be given a raise it will have to be appropriated by local property taxes.

Classrooms will be reduced to 22 students for the first four elementary grades. A pre-kindergarten for disadvantaged four year olds will be mandatory.

The school year will be lengthened to 179 days. Classes cannot begin before September 1, starting in 1985.

"Contrary to popular belief the committee has not abolished extracurricular activities," explained Farabee. "Vocational studies may receive a slight cut, but it will be very small. We are putting more emphasis on greater accountability in the vocational education program."

This special session will be ending July 2 and according to Farabee another special session is imminent. Farabee stated that "the special session has been the only way to focus on education. There is so much distraction during the regular session. In ten years as a legislator, this session has been the most demanding with its intensity."

Whaley was not as diplomatic as Farabee, saying that "for some members this has been the most chaotic session ever attended." Whaley is pessimistic about any legislation being passed during the session. He said that "the bill faces three hurdles. The first one is passing the bill in the House and Senate. With this accomplished, the conference committee comprised of Representatives and Senators must reach a general consensus and this new version will have to be reaffirmed in the House and the Senate again. The third hurdle is the appropriations committee which will have to dictate where the money will come from to cover the proposals. The tax bill will then have to pass both houses. Without this procedure and the consensus of both houses the bill cannot pass. This is a monumental task to hope to resolve and pass within 30 days."

Wood family moves to town

"I think I will enjoy the smaller school system and getting to know the students and their families on a one to one basis," stated Ronnie Wood, the new Floydada High School principal. Arriving from Plainview High School where he was a freshman dean and biology instructor, Wood is highly optimistic about the coming 84-85 school year.

He is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons and earned his Masters at West Texas State University at Canyon. His wife, Dianne will be teaching the fifth grade at R.C. Andrews. The couple have two children, Melissa who is fourteen and Kelly, twelve.

The Wood family is moving to Floydada this weekend. Wood emphasized that his wife and children are very excited and supportive of the move. They are "looking forward to establishing new relationships in the Floydada community."

Regarding his hobbies, Wood said that he loved anything connected with the out-of-doors, especially arrowhead hunting. The time that he does not devote to reading educational journals, Wood enjoys reading books on history, which is his other teaching field.

Floyd County

Tax plan revealed

by Cindy Smith

Representative Foster Whaley of Pampa unveiled Wednesday, shortly before press time, parts of the proposed $1.35 billion bill that will affect residents of Floyd County. The basis of the proposals was a 5-cent hike in the state's nickel-a-gallon gasoline tax, a 3.5-cent increase in diesel, and increases in motor vehicle registration fees. August 1, 1985, motorcycle registration fees will be increased from $6.05 to $24.00. Cars weighing less than 3,500 lbs. will have registration fees increased by $18.45. Vehicles weighing more than 3,500 lbs. will be increased from $25.80 to $44.25.

The state tax permit to burn propane in farm vehicles was increased from 72 dollars to $144 per year.

The increased state taxes on liquor and cigarettes will not be significant to the consumer. Whaley injected that "it will not be as expensive to drink as it will be to drive, as far as the increase is concerned."

Farm equipment was excluded under article 9; however, Whaley expressed fear that "when the bill is on the floor of the House, an amendment will be added to include a farm machinery tax. This will break farm implement dealers in the state, causing farmers to journey to Oklahoma or New Mexico to purchase equipment to escape paying the 5% tax. Farmers are having a difficult time as it is-trying to make a living, without having an added tax slapped on them."

Other major aspects of the tax proposals were:

- *A tax on amusement services which include computer software; newspaper, television, and radio advertising; cable television sales and parking fees.
- *An increase in hotel occupancy tax from 3% to 4%.
- *A 20% increase in state taxes on liquor.
- *A 1-cent increase in the state tobacco tax.

Whaley emphasized again that "time is running out for the special session. Tempers are getting short and lawmakers do not want a tax increase during an election year." This 30 day special session, according to Whaley, from accounts heard in Austin, is costing the tax payers of Texas over one million dollars.

DALE NUCKOLS presented Lynda Seymour with a plaque recognizing her as one of the three top Farm Bureau secretaries in Texas.

Seymour receives award

Austin, Floyd, and LaSalle County Farm Bureaus received top honors June 12 during a special recognition of county Farm Bureaus for their service to members of the Texas Farm Bureau Rural Health Association, Inc. program. The top honorees were among 20 county Farm Bureaus recognized for their participation in the TFB Rural Health Association, Inc. program which provides health insurance coverage to more than 55,700 members.

The recognition was part of a dinner given in honor of the 158 county office secretaries representing 100 county Farm Bureaus who participated in the annual TFB County Secretaries Conference, June 10-13.

Dale Nuckols, TFB Rural Health Association, Inc. manager, announced the selections, noting that they had provided a very important service to their county FB members during the past year.

TFB President S.M. True greeted office secretaries who represented the 20 counties honored and presented each with a commemorative plaque. It was the first-ever awards program for the TFB Rural Health Association, Inc. program.

Representing the top counties were Shirley Maher, Austin FB; Lynda Seymour, Floyd FB; and Jessie Plocek, LaSalle FB.

Nuckols noted that each woman would be given an expense-paid trip to the TFB Convention at San Antonio in November, compliments of the TFB Rural Health Association, Inc.

Green thumb workers taught "twister" survival at training session

Parrish used a slide presentation to illustrate the kinds of tornadoes that can develop and to describe the techniques most likely to enhance survival. Slides of twisters that hit Lubbock, Waco, Wichita Falls, San Angelo, Clarendon, and northeast Texas were used in the presentation.

According to Parrish, most tornado deaths result from head injuries caused by flying debris. People in mobile homes are at much greater risk, and in fact may be even more vulnerable than persons in cars.

"The key to survival is to stay in your house and put as many walls as possible between you and the tornado," she said, adding that most tornadoes approach from the west and southwest. "And don't try to outrun the storm--many people are killed when they try to escape in a panic."

Also addressing the group was Gayla Roberts from Lubbock Red Cross who gave basic first aid information and Patricia Doyle, also from Lubbock Red Cross, who gave additional information on tornado safety and awareness.

When the storm sirens blare and the radio warns that a "twister" is on the way, what can you do to improve your chances of surviving a Texas tornado?

For one thing, studies show that if you're in your house, you should stay there. Only 3 per 1,000 people in houses hit by tornadoes are killed--or, put another way, 99.7 percent survive.

This somewhat comforting statistic is especially welcome to the older workers enrolled in the Texas Farmers Union Green Thumb employment program, because most of them live and work in the northern half of the state so often assaulted by spring storms.

More than 50 Green Thumbs from six counties attended a training session at the senior center in Crosbyton, on May 22, and learned how they could save their lives if a tornado should come their way.

"In the case of severe storms, there truly is no place like home," says Green Thumb Director Diane Parrish of Waco, "provided your home is a sturdy house."

Is immigration reform a solution?

Cindy Smith

The House passed an immigration bill that will grant amnesty to millions of illegal aliens by a narrow five-vote margin, Wednesday, June 20. Only three of the twenty-seven members of the Texas delegation voted for the measure. Charles Wilson, Representative from Lufkin, said, "The liberals voted against it because they didn't like the employer sanctions and the conservatives voted against it because they didn't like the amnesty."

The second part of a study on the immigration reform bill and its effects is continued. The first part ran in last week's Hesperian.

Border patrol agent of the Marthra Sector, Chief Hugh Rushton, explains that "in the past, the average age of illegal aliens was under thirty. Now we are seeing older aliens, who bring in their entire families."

June 6, Miguel Diaz, a Mexican national from San Luis Potosi, Mexico (which is about 350 miles south of Monterrey), was apprehended and detained in the Floyd County jail awaiting deportation back to Mexico. In an interview with The Hesperian in jail, Diaz related that he was nineteen and had had only three years of schooling. He was here with his father and brother, who were still at large. Diaz' mother and remaining family members were waiting for the men to get settled, in order to send for them. It had taken the three Mexicans over a month to walk from San Luis Potosi to Dallas where they bought a 1976 Pinto for $600 down and $50 per week for thirty-four weeks at 26 3/4 percent interest.

From Dallas the Diaz trio reached Floydada, where Miguel had been apprehended and thus separated from his family. With tears brimming in his eyes, he admitted that he was frightened and did not know what was going to happen to him. However, he was adamant—he said he would be back. When asked why, he said, "In Mexico I am nothing, here in America I can live and work."

Rushton reported that "fewer aliens are venturing into the farming community. Now most are melting into the industrial community of larger cities and competing with blue collar workers for comparable wages. If the aliens are Hispanic, they tend to disappear into the Hispanic community. One could say that for each job an illegal Hispanic takes, it displaces an Hispanic American worker."

Lee Teran, an attorney from San Antonio, disagrees with this negative concept, saying that "aliens have contributed to the economy and communities. They often have children who are citizens who would suffer, should the family be deported". Teran contradicts the belief that aliens take away jobs, saying, "the undocumented workers bolsters the economy by taking jobs that others do not want."

A farmer in Floyd County who was interviewed said that "he has several illegal aliens working for him. He stated, "At least they will work and appreciate the opportunity to work. The locals won't. They would rather stand with their hands out and get food stamps."

According to a recent study by the Federal government, assuming that there are eight million illegals living in the U.S. now and assuming that they pay taxes at the same rate as citizens; all U.S. taxpayers must pay $7,856,000,000 this year to support illegal aliens alone (This amount is flexible, taking into consideration that the number of resident illegal aliens has been estimated to range from two to twelve million).

One Mexican American interviewed by The Hesperian is against amnesty for illegal aliens. He stated vehemently that "not only are they here unlawfully, but they expect everything free. We are paying taxes for the free lunches and school for their children."

An office worker for the Floydada Independent School District reported that 619 free lunches were dispersed for the month of May. The amount going to aliens could not be determined. However, one school secretary from the Lockney schools, knew that many free lunches went to illegal aliens. She also added that the State requires that only three percent of the total lunches be checked.

Kent Hance, stressed that illegal aliens not only take jobs away from low skilled needy people, but create an additional burden on the state's educational system.

Harvey Allen, Floydada school board member, said that "in certain areas the influx of illegal aliens have overcrowded the school system, which is a burden on the taxpayers, in regard to more classrooms, additional instructors, etc." In Allen's opinion, "it has pulled down the level of education, with the slower students in the same classrooms with accelerated students." He believes that "it holds children back, keeping them from learning to full capacity. The teacher has to devote more time to these students."

Retired Lockney school teacher, Arla Copeland, was asked what the effect of illegal aliens had upon the educational system. In her opinion, "the increased attendance results in the need for more teachers and more free lunches. I think there are more problems with learning. It is not hard to lower the standards of learning, when English is a second language to the majority of students. Don't misunderstand me, I love all the students and I would not substitute so much if I did not. However, I believe that we are doing the children an injustice by making the bilingual education system a crutch."

Irma Herrera, a lawyer and founder of Mexican American Defense League, said, "Unlike other immigrants, the Mexicans have crossed only a border—not an ocean. And we were on these lands before the Anglos were. So there is no reason why we should lose our ethnicity—especially our language."

Controlling the borders of the United States is and will continue to be an emotional battle that will not be resolved with the passage of an immigration bill. Perhaps the residents of Texas sense this friction more keenly because of its Mexican neighbor. This conflict is burdened with victims, the American taxpayer who is weary of bearing an unrealistic load for lawbreakers, those who are taking advantage of the American way of life. Hispanics and other ethnic groups, who although they are citizens, fear discrimination and the loss of civil rights. Finally, there is the undocumented worker, who forsakes his belongings, his country, is often met with hostility, but visions the most menial job as the lowest rung on the ladder which climbs directly into the "land of milk and honey."

RICHARD, BILL AND WALTON represent three generations of Hale's who have served Floydada and surrounding communities for almost forty years.

Business of the Week

In 1929 Walton Hale moved to Floydada and opened up the J.C. Penneys store just when the bottom fell out of the stock market sinking the U.S. into the infamous depression of the thirties. However as times improved, Walter "wanted to be his own boss" and bought out J.G. Marin's Drygoods on the west side of the square, introducing Hale's Department Store in 1945. It has been at its present location at 112 E. California since 1952. Walton, who will be 84 this summer, still takes an active part in the store.

In 1955, Bill Hale joined his father after serving in the Air Force and graduating from Texas Technological College in Lubbock. As a Business Administration major, bill graduated at the top of his class and received a lucrative offer from Proctor and Gambel in Dallas. However, Bill and Carolyn had decided that Floydada was the ideal town to raise a family.

The couple have three sons, Steven Hale is currently practicing law in Floydada and Michael Hale, his twin brother is an architect in Lubbock.

Richard Hale, the eldest son, joined the department store in 1976. Richard graduated from McMurray in Abilene and has done graduate work at Texas Tech University. He and his wife, Gail, have a daughter, Christy who is five, and the couple is expecting their second child.

Hale's currently engages four employees; Martha Williams, Alamar Mercado, Irene Irby and Sue Higginbotham, as well as the Hale's-Walton, Bill, Carolyn, and Richard. Bill remarked that "all our clerks have been with us for several years and we consider our service to be second to none." "We have more employees on the floor because we believe our philosophy is 'Service above all' and we are better able to wait on customers personally. "We regard our customers as our friends."

Bill Hale said, "We have a quality selection of clothing lines for the entire family and also carry home furnishings. We have tried to focus on our shoe department, by offering better quality and more sizes. It has been very successful since we enlarged it in 1955."

Bill added that "since 1950 the Hales and their staff have kept well abreast of current lines and styles by attending national markets at least six times a year. Hale's prices are very competitive and they have not had any problems beating city prices. We value our customers and their patronage and invite new customers to come in and review our merchandise."

Help Your Heart

High Blood Pressure in Women

Nearly 34 million Americans—about one in six—have high blood pressure. Only a small portion of all those who have this disease are being adequately treated. Does it really matter? Yes, because uncontrolled high blood pressure may lead to heart failure, stroke, kidney damage, and more.

Help your heart! Have your blood pressure checked. That's the only way you can tell whether you have high blood pressure. A reading of 120/80 is about normal for most people. A blood pressure reading of 160/95 is considered by most doctors to be high. If this reading stays high on repeated examinations, most physicians would begin therapy.

Doctors don't know what causes high blood pressure except in a few rare cases. Research scientists—many of whom receive financial support from the American Heart Association, its affiliates and components—are studying this mysterious disease.

Men and women, whites and non-whites, are affected by high blood pressure. Dr. Harriet P. Dustan of the University of Alabama Medical Center, Birmingham, gives this advice to women:

* Taking contraceptive pills is associated with high blood pressure in some women. This is more likely to happen if you are overweight, have had hypertension during pregnancy or have some predisposing condition, such as mild kidney disease or a family history of high blood pressure. So it's a good idea to ask your doctor to measure your blood pressure before prescribing the Pill and then to have your blood pressure checked every six months or so.

* Some women develop high blood pressure during pregnancy. In women who already have it, pregnancy may make their condition more severe. This form of high blood pressure may disappear after delivery, or it may continue.

* As a woman grows older, her chances of having high blood pressure become greater than a man's, particularly after menopause.

* Black women—even very young black women—are much more susceptible to high blood pressure than white women.

* If your parents and other relatives have had high blood pressure, there's a good chance that you have it or may develop it, too. If you have it, your children may also develop it. Like adults, children should have regular blood-pressure checks.

To control your blood pressure, you've got to work together with your doctor, nurse, and others. Dr. Dustan says. You may have to take medication every day, perhaps for the rest of your life. And there may be other treatments, such as losing weight, using less salt, and getting more exercise. Don't take life-or-death chances with a disease you can control.

That among these things are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness? Where else but in America can so many people's aspirations and dreams become realities? Let's stand proudly together in honoring the birth of our great nation this Fourth of July!

SHERESE CANNON

Sherese Cannon signs with PSU

Coach Royce Chadwick of Panhandle State University of Goodwell, Oklahoma, announced the signing of Sherese Cannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cannon of Floydada.

In the Floydada school system, Cannon was a three year letterman, all-district player, team captain and voted most valuable player.

Cannon averaged ten points, five rebounds, and four steals per game, and held the school record for the free throw percentage.

Not only a capable athlete, Cannon finished fifteenth academically in a class of eighty-two. She has been cheerleader all four years in high school, serving as head cheerleader this year. Also during her senior year she was selected football, basketball and track sweetheart. She was selected to Who's Who and was first runner up to Miss F.H.S.

Chadwick, commenting on Cannon's athletic prowess, said, "Sherese is a hard worker with an excellent background. I do not think I have ever recruited a girl who has been so highly recommended by so many people. We run an intense program here, and Sherese should adapt easily to our situation."

Reed participates in maneuvers

June 18 (FHTNC)--Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Kendall E. Reed, son of Gene E. and Dona T. Reed of Route 1, Floydada, Texas, recently participated in "Teamwork 84."

He is a crewmember aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Nassau, homeported in Norfolk Virginia. "Teamwork 84" was a NATO exercise to test the ability of NATO forces to reinforce and resupply Northern Europe under winter conditions. It took place in the North Sea, Norwegian Sea, and North Atlantic areas. A combined amphibious assault was conducted by U.S. Marines, British Royal Marines and Dutch Royal Marines in support of Norwegian Forces operating in the Arctic Climate of Northern Norway.

Roy Smith's 80 birthday honored

Roy Smith had a huge collection of fond memories due to his long life of over 80 years. His many experiences had given him a wisdom that would aid any who asked his advice. I was reminded of the fact that the Good Book said, "Honor the face of the old man", as I talked to him. He and his twin brother, Foy were born on June 28, 1901 at Belchville, Texas to Robert Carter Smith and wife, Della Maude Hammons Smith. "Who was the oldest?" I asked. "According to mother, I was born three minutes before Foy."

In January, 1905, Roy's family came to Floyd County. His maternal grandparent, Jake and Amanda Hammons, lived in the Center Community at that time. "Dad had a fine team and wagon when he came here. In fact one day while he was in Floydada a fellow offered to trade him a section of land for them. He turned him down tho, for then he needed horses in order to get along." At first Robert C. Smith had in mind to go back to Belchville, too. But before he did that he decided to buy a farm three miles south of Lakeview.

It was on this farm that Roy noticed that their fences had been repaired in many places. "Have you ever heard of the fences cutters?" He asked me. I was glad I could answer in the affirmative.

"After I started to school and read about the fence cutters in history, I knew then why our fences looked like they did when we first moved to the farm."

Roy also remembered about the time that Bob Smith, son of Uncle Hank Smith, decided he wanted more land up on top of the canyon. He asked a number of people along the line to move over north so far, in order for him to do just that. Back in the days of the free range folks had done things like this. But, when Bob's case came up for a hearing, the judge asked how long the fence had been between Bob and his neighbor. At the answer of twenty-five years or so, the judge announced, "Case dismissed", for if a fence had been in place 20 years it could no longer be changed.

Roy recalled many who moved on to New Mexico to homestead land. They had to live on their land there seven months out of each year for three years before it belonged to them. People often came back to Texas for the other five months; therefore they would stop over and stay all night with the Smith family. "We were enjoyed when this occurred, for we saw very few people back in those days," he said.

In answer to the question of where did you go to church, he replied, "After Jessie's folks moved near us we all began going to the Mt. Blanco School building in Crosby County to meet with the Church of Christ group there." They traveled eight miles for their trip.

"Dad bought the Lakeview Store in 1925. I remember big crowds of people going to the West Texas Old Settlers gathering at the Old Rock House down on the Hank Smith place, but I never did go because I had to work in the store." Lenny Bell, Roy's first wife, and Jessie, Foy's wife, also helped with the store. While at Lakeview, Roy and Lenny Bell had a son, Bobby Roy, who died at birth. Since Lenny Bell suffered from tuberculosis, she spent some time in a sanitarium at San Antonio, Texas. She was at Levelland at the home of Foy and Jessie where some kind of gas was available when she passed away.

The Hank Smith family was no relation to Roy. Once a mutual friend in Hale County where Roy now resides with his wife, Sunshine, told me about Roy the day he saw a truck with a "Smith Hatchery" sign on its side. He commented, "Well, no wonder there are so many Smiths!" Roy has two brothers, G.W. and Bill Smith and three sisters, Ruth and Marie (Jo) Harrison, all of whom live at Floydada and Mona Dunn.

Roy and Sunshine have retired from the furniture store, but have stayed busy with church work and traveling. In the summer of 1982 they went on an ocean cruise from San Francisco, California, along the Alaska shoreline. "Roy felt real well on the trip, even eating supper every night which he doesn't do at home," Sunshine told me. "I'm thankful that Roy has lots of willpower. It keeps him doing things," she added.

A.M. Dorseys observe Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Dorsey celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary on Sunday, June 24, 1984. They were married in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. George Dickey. Two of the wedding party, Peggy McKinney and Elizabeth McKinney Armstrong, the maid of honor, were able to attend the reception in their honor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John K. West.

In January following their wedding the Dorseys moved to the Mount Blanco community in Crosby County, where they farmed until moving to their farm southwest of Muncy in 1942. They have always been active in community life where they lived until ill health forced them to retire and move to their present home in Floydada.

They are both members of the First United Church in Floydada. Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey hosted a dinner in their home on Sunday for some out of town relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner of Valera, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. N.D. Van Dalsem of Coleman, Texas.

In the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. John K. West hosted a reception in their home along with Mr. and Mrs. Johnny West, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bean, Reba Henry, Juanita Henry, and Mr. and Mrs. Bowman Dorsey. A niece, Mrs. Sherri Henely of Houston, was able to be here also.

Bits of Humor, Trivia, and an occasional Word of Wisdom

BY DON & SARA PROBASCO

The trouble with being a leader today is that you can't always be sure whether people are following you or chasing you.

The people to worry about are not those who openly disagree with you, but those who disagree with you and are too cowardly to let you know.

Variety may be the spice of life, but it's monotony that brings home the groceries.

We blame bad luck on others but take credit for good luck ourselves.

Sometimes the best way to convince a man that he is wrong is to let him have his own way.

Consider how hard it is to change yourself, and you'll understand what little chance you have of trying to change others.

We may tire of the pleasures we take, but never of the ones we give.

Give the pleasure to a loved one—select a lovely hand-made gift from the assortment found at "Movies and More", a new shop in downtown Floydada (just east of the Hesperian). There are many lovely items available for your selection, or special orders are taken. ## Club discusses back ailments

The Homebuilders Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday, June 12th with Mrs. Ruth Trapp as hostess. Eight members and two visitors answered roll call with "How I Relax". Reading, handwork, and walking seemed to be the most popular methods to "unwind".

For recreation Ruth handed out questionnaires entitled, "This Is You". Members proved to be quite accurate in guessing the identity of fellow members when the questionnaires were read aloud.

"Oh My Aching Back" was the title of Mary True's program, in which she pointed out that eight out of ten people suffer from back ailments. With visual aids and printed material, Mary showed how we can help prevent and relieve back problems with the help of exercises and proper care.

Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by: Lela Mae Burns, Muri Mayfield, Lillian Smith, Gladys Widener, Inez Walker, Frances McClure, Barbara Willis, Ruth Trapp; and two guests: Mary True and Helen Holt.

Members are invited to attend a Microwave oven and Food Dehydrator workshop on Tuesday June 26th, at 5:30 p.m., in the Lighthouse meeting room.

Will Martin recalls operating sorghum mill

By Will Martin

Papa either bought or traded something for a sorghum mill, possibly around 1920 or thereabouts from Mr. A.D. Summerville. Summerville lived north of us on the White place that belongs to Marble Brothers now. Mr. Summerville quit farming and sold out and Papa took the mill. Getting off the mill subject for awhile and giving a little history on the Summervilles. They had six children. Rubie who made a school teacher. Opal married a Frenchman, Fred Lavoie and they left this part of the country. Emma Della married Emmet Foster who at one time moved to Allmon. A.D. Jr. was the oldest boy and he finished high school in about 1926. Theron was the youngest boy and I think the family left Floydada before he finished school. Mary Alice was the youngest girl.

After Mr. Summerville moved to town he worked at various things. I remember one thing he did and that was run a soda pop bottling works for awhile. If my memory serves me right the building was located just west of the Co-op office. Mr. Summerville ran it for awhile and sold it to Fred Bell. Someone can correct me if I am wrong. Then the Summervilles moved to somewhere out in New Mexico near Carlsbad. If I make no mistake Mrs. Summerville was a sister to Mrs. E.C. Nelson. Mr. Nelson was President of the First National Bank for a good many years and the Nelson family lived several years where the funeral home is now located. I will try to get back to the molasses making.

You have to have cane to make molasses. So I will try to tell what I know about the raising and preparation of the cane for the mill. The cane was planted and cultivated just like maize or corn. Whether Papa used sorghum cane like we use to feed stock with now days or a different type I don't know, but I do know it wasn't sugar cane.

When the heads got ripe in August or early September it was ready for molasses. Papa would have us to take sticks and strip all the leaves off, cut the heads off and pile them up to be picked up later. We didn't have a binder so we would cut the stalks and pile them in bundle sized piles to be picked up in a flatbed wagon to be hauled to the mill.

The mill was a machine made of cast iron with three heavy rollers with springs on the axle to allow the rollers to come tight together to press the juice out of the cane stalks and if you happened to overload, the springs would allow the rollers to spread farther apart. The rollers were turned by a long pole pulled by horses or mules as you can see in the accompanying picture. As you can see, the cane stalks were fed by hand and the juice would run out a chute at the bottom into a vinegar barrel. The barrel is on the opposite side out of sight and the pressed cane is carried away when it gets too big a pile. As you can see in the picture the teams travel around and around to turn the pressing rollers. Now we are ready to take the juice to the cooking vat that can be studied in the other picture. The cooking vat was about ten or twelve feet long possibly four or five feet wide, maybe six or eight inches deep and divided into sections possibly eighteen or twenty inches wide with small doors in them from one to the other with cloth braded on the edge of the door to keep the juice or syrup from leaking from one section to the other until it was cooked to the right stage. We can see a half barrel sitting on the corner of the cooking pan with a cloth over it to strain out the larger juices of cane stalks as the juice was carried from the barrel at the mill and poured into the half barrel that had a spigot on it to let the juice run into the first section as I spoke about in the beginning. If I remember right we had a thing that was made of tin and shaped something like a grain scoop with a handle on it and the whole bottom was perforated with small holes and was made to dip the scum and real small bits of cane off the molasses as it was being cooked to the proper thickness. Papa had a board up edge ways with a handle on it and a cloth tacked on the bottom to push the molasses from one section to another after opening the small doors between sections. After the syrup was cooked to the proper thickness in the last section it was drawn off in a large bucket, allowed to cool and then poured in regular gallon syrup buckets. If I remember right it sure was good but sometimes a little sharp and would burn your tongue a little. Of course we had to have a furnace and a fire under the pan while we cooked the molasses.

Papa bought a wagon load of old auto tires from Mr. J.N. Gullion who was located just across the street from Dr. Guthrie's hospital. Mr. Gullion had a tire store and filling station on the corner. Papa would take a real sharp axe and cut the tires in four or six parts so they would go in the furnace to burn for heat. We used to have a pretty fair sized peach and apple orchard that had began to die out about this time and we cut up the dead trees and mixed them with the tires for fuel also.

Papa allowed some of the neighbors who had small cane patches to make molasses on our mill. They would furnish the fuel to burn in the furnace and of course the cane. I think they would give us a little of the molasses for use of the mill. I don't remember what percent, but not much because to me my Papa was one of the most honest and free-hearted men in Floyd County.

Most of the people about Mama and Papa's age, some older and practically all younger than them called them Uncle Wes and Aunt Sallie Martin.

This blabber may be too long now so I had better hurry to a close. But I wanted to name some of the people in the pictures that perhaps some may know them.

Know your neighbor!

Mike Anderson, crew chief on the Floydada maintenance crew of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, has an interesting and profitable hobby, which has evolved from his love of hunting and fishing. In his spare time, Anderson is a taxidermist.

Pheasants are plentiful in Floyd County and about 90% of his taxidermist work consists of mounting pheasants for his friends. Anderson can mount any type of bird and he has also mounted deer horns and fish. He says that "he does not have time and space for mounting big game heads and he does not care for mounting fish."

Anderson has always been interested in taxidermy, but had never had any opportunity to learn the skill. In 1975 he was in an accident which left him disabled for two years. With time on his hands, he completed a mail order course from the Northwest School of Taxidermy.

Anderson concedes that he is better at mounting pheasants because they are so plentiful in the Floydada area. "My pheasants do look life like and real," he said. "I think I can beat most other taxidermists on pheasants." When Anderson mounts a pheasant or any other bird, it takes about 15 hours in all to do the work. He receives about $75 per pheasant.

Besides his highway work and hobby, Mike is a volunteer with the Floydada Fire Department. He has a wife, Barbara and two sons, Monty, 5 and Dusty, 2. Barbara works as a secretary at the First National Bank in Floydada.

Happy Birthday Mom Wiley and the boys Judy, Sherrie

AT THE MILL (left-right) the boy sitting down was me lazy as usual. The next woman, putting cane in was Aunt Daisey McPeak and the other woman was my Sis Jewel Yandell.

AT THE COOKER (left-right) to the best of my memory, was Mildred McPeak, Ora May Foster, Sis Annie Lee Martin, old lazy Will again be on the other side. Next to the smoke stacks a woman I don't recall. The boy I think was T.J. Foster. The woman with the baby was I think Mrs. Jeff Foster, then Mama, Aunt Daisey and Papa.

Landscape & Gardening

LANDSCAPE IRRIGATION TIPS by Benny Butler

West Texas summers are inevitably hot and dry, and that means homeowners must give careful attention to watering their yards and gardens. Listed below are some tips on getting the most from the available irrigation water so as to keep plants and lawns healthy while keeping water costs down.

1. Practice slow, deep watering to allow roots to penetrate deeper so that plants become more stress-resistant.
2. Soaker hoses and drip irrigation systems work well on trees and shrubs. It's more efficient to water at night or early in the morning because evaporation is less. However, night-time watering can promote more disease problems.
3. Too much water can be as detrimental as or even worse than not enough. The rate at which water is applied should be no more rapid than the rate at which the soil can absorb it. Never fertilize landscape plants when soil is dry. It's best to water the area one day, apply fertilizer the next day, and then water again. Fertilizer will do no good unless it is dissolved and moved down into the soil.
4. Shrubs and trees near foundations, under eaves or on southern and western exposures need frequent watering because they often get less benefit from rainfall and have to deal with heat reflected from walls.
5. Plants on mounds or slopes suffer from drought stress more easily than those on level areas, so these require more frequent watering.
6. Use an organic mulch of pine bark, chopped straw, hay or similar material to reduce irrigation needs.
7. Recent studies have shown that the travelling ("tractor") sprinklers are the most efficient type of sprinkler for applying water to your lawn.
8. Treat water as a valuable resource. Use it to water plants when needed but do not waste water. Although considered a renewable resource, good water supplies are becoming scarce in Texas.

Educational program conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

FCIC allows late insured planting

Crop producers in drought-stricken areas of the United States may choose a late planting agreement option under insurance contracts with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, Merritt W. Sprague, manager of the corporation, said today.

The late planting option is allowed because some farmers may be unable to plant their crops by the corporation's last planting date due to adverse weather conditions. Under the option, growers would be eligible for reduced

Colonies of ants migrating

The fire ant was accidentally introduced into the United States in Mobile, Alabama, in about 1918, from Brazil or Argentina. By 1940, the fire ant had infested five southern states, and by 1977 the insect covered most of nine southern states, including 100 Texas counties.

In 1983, more than 30% of all homes in the Southeast/Southwest reported a serious fire ant problem.

Fire ant mounds can be six to 18 inches high, two to three feet in diameter, and contain 50,000 to 250,000 ants each.

Colonies of fire ants build and live in mounds in fields and yards. The mounds cause equipment breakage in farm fields, and prohibit or limit the homeowner's enjoyment of the backyard. When disturbed, the ants will aggressively sting the animal or human intruder. Fire ant stings are very painful, producing a fiery, burning sensation. The stings have caused death to allergic humans and small farm animals.

Fire ants are migrating west and it is believed they will eventually cover the entire sun belt and west coast because of their strong tolerance for high temperature.

Hire a Veteran month declared

Governor Mark White proclaimed June, 1984, as "Hire a Veteran" month in an official memorandum stating:

"All citizens of the State of Texas appreciate the sacrifices made by veterans and support Public Law 98-77, enacted by our national Congress, which provides eligible employers with reimbursement of 50 percent of the starting wages paid to eligible Korean and Vietnam veterans if employers provide on-the-job training. It is fitting and proper that we recognize the many sacrifices of these men who have fought for their country."

Soil conservationist, Jon LaBaume, has not witnessed any fire ant mounds in this area; however a mound has been reported in the Petersburg area. LaBaume explains that this may be an isolated case. He has not seen evidence of them north of Abilene.

Gail Thompson, also a soil conservationist in the Floyd County office, lived in the Beeville area before transferring to Floyd County. "Fire ants were a menace there. Chemical control was the only method of combating them and everyone had to work consistently or the ants would migrate to another area."

Two chemicals used that have been found effective in South Texas were amdro powder and methyl bromide. Amdro powder is sprinkled conservatively around the mound. In a minuscule amount the ants, rather than consume it themselves, will take it to the queen and when ingested, she will die, thus destroying the colony. Methyl bromide gas is dangerous to use but is employed by running a tube into the mound and saturating the colony.

Although these ants are not an immediate threat to this area, it is predicted that these fiercely stinging, predacious ants will plague the entire State of Texas within a few years.

Leonard Wilson receives tillage research grant

Dr. Leonard Wilson of the School of Agriculture at West Texas State University will head a research study on conservation tillage this summer with the aid of a grant to the university from the United States Department of Agriculture through the Soil Conservation Service.

The $93,150 grant will finance a three-year study to compare conventional tillage with a system using little or not tillage.

Wilson will work with Soil Conservation Service soil scientist Fred Pringle on the project to determine the effects of conservation tillage on yields, moisture storage, soil compaction and soil erosion.

Wilson said that production figures will also be kept on the project to determine the economics of conservation tillage.

In a no-till or conservation till system, residue from previous crops is left on the soil which is not plowed. By leaving the residue on top of the soil, a covering is formed and soils is not exposed. Weeds are controlled by herbicides in this situation or are cut down with sweeps.

In effect, Wilson said, the cost of running a tractor is replaced with the cost of herbicides.

"We are going to try to get a figure on that," said Wilson.

Some farmers don't think about depreciation on equipment and repairs as being items affecting the economics of the tillage systems, he said, and this will also be recorded.

Another expense that the conservation tillage farmer will have to bear is the cost of a special no-till drill to plant through the thickest residue coverage.

The research on crops will be done on the Nance Ranch owned by the university. Wilson said there would be three plots in two areas that would be rotated during the next three years, with the wheat, grain sorghum and a fallow period, but each will be different from the others.

The wheat forage and sorghum crops will be utilized for grazing and for silage or hay for the cattle raised on the ranch.

In measuring soil moisture for the research, Wilson and SCS officials will use neutron tubes and gypsum blocks to indicate how much moisture is retained by the residue lying on top of the soil.

Compaction of the soil caused by lack of plowing and by cattle trampling will also be checked with soil density gauges.

Yield data will be done by clipping areas not open to grazing to determine production figures.

The grant will pay Wilson's salary for the summer, he said, plus that of a graduate. The grant will also reimburse the university for cost incurred in seed bed preparation and planting.

The grant is one of several being given to colleges and universities over the nation for research. Although conservation and farm-related agencies have conducted their own experiments through their own facilities, Wilson said he thought this is the first time they have gone through the schools for research.

Wilson said that he usually teaches the first summer semester, but that he would be working with the research during the summer for the next three years.

Wilson grew up on a farm in Floyd County and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Wilson of Floydada. He attended Texas Tech, where he received a B.S. degree in agronomy. He later received a master's degree in education and taught vocational agriculture in Pettit and New Home.

He received his PhD at Colorado State University at Ft. Collins, and came to teach at WTSU in 1966.

He teaches Introduction to Plant Science, Grain and Forage Crops, Plant Breeding Plant Pathology and Agriculture Statistics classes at the university.

Local dealer helps farmers

Area farmers and SunVue Fertilizers, Inc. are participating in a new program to promote development of better markets for farm products.

The program, called V.O.T.E. (Velsicol's Operation Trade Expansion), is underwritten by Velsicol Chemical Corporation. Under the terms of the program, Velsicol is donating 50 cents for every gallon of their herbicides sold to one of six farm commodity organizations which will spend the funds on market development projects.

In order for the funds to be donated, area farmers and ranchers must cast ballots at SunVue Fertilizers, Inc. when they purchase Velsicol herbicides between October 1983 and September 1984. Velsicol herbicides included in the program are Banvel, Banvel II, Weedmaster, MonDak and Carbyne.

The six producer-supported organizations receiving funds from V.O.T.E. are: American Dairy Association, Cotton Incorporated, National Association of Wheat Growers, National Cattleman's Association, National Corn Growers Association and National Pork Producers Council.

The total contributions Velsicol makes on behalf of each farmer who V.O.T.E.s could raise many thousands of new dollars if all Velsicol herbicide purchasers cast a ballot. The company has put no limit on the total amount of V.O.T.E. dollars they are willing to contribute.

American Dairy Association will allocate funds raised through V.O.T.E. to produce milk and other real dairy foods to the food service and restaurant industry. Cotton Incorporated funds will underwrite a major trade and consumer promotion which will dramatize benefits of cotton over similar products made from synthetic fibers.

V.O.T.E. funds designated to the National Association of Wheat Growers will help build domestic and international demand for U.S. wheat. A booklet titled "Myths and Facts about Beef" will be produced by the National Cattleman's Association with V.O.T.E. dollars to help clear up misconceptions about beef and beef production.

National Corn Growers Association funds will be directed to NCGA's planned Corn Domestic Development Center and its initial goal of increasing corn use for fuel alcohol. The National Pork Producers Council will use V.O.T.E. monies as part of their continuing Consumer Education program.

Farmer-owned reserve corn, oats remain in release

All corn and oats in the farmer-owned grain reserves will remain in release status through June 30, according to Everett Rank, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Rank said the decision on the reserve commodities was made following a review by USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation of average market prices, as reported by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, adjusted to reflect the market price received by farmers.

On June 1, the adjusted price for corn was $3.41 per bushel, 26 cents above the release level of $3.15 for reserve IV corn and 16 cents above the release level of $3.25 for reserve V corn. The adjusted price for oats was $1.93, 28 cents above the release level.

Daily markets reviewed by CCC for corn are Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha and St. Louis. The daily market reviewed for oats is Minneapolis.

For reserve IV and V corn loans, storage payments stopped and interest resumed on May 1. Storage payments stopped and interest resumed February 1 for oats.

Once you've decided to mow with the best, it's only a question of how fast you want to finish.

No matter what kind of lawn you have or how much time you want to spend on it, there's a dependable, top-quality John Deere mower that's designed for the job.

If, for example, you have a lawn of a quarter acre or less, your best bet is probably a walk-behind mower. There are several models available, including the 21-inch self-propelled version pictured above. It comes with a dependable 4-hp engine, a deep die-cast aluminum deck, and rear-wheel gear drive.

If you own a larger lawn, you may prefer one of the five new John Deere riding mowers. Even the 8-hp R70, the lowest cost model, will mow a half-acre in just 30 to 45 minutes, depending on the amount of trimming to be done. It has a 30-inch mower, a full-length welded steel frame, a 5-speed shift-on-the-go gear-drive transmission, and an optional 6½-bushel rear grass bag. Or, if you mow an acre or more, a John Deere lawn tractor may be in order. The 116, for instance, with a 46-inch mower and 16-hp engine, will mow an acre of lawn in about 45 minutes. All five lawn tractors can provide added versatility with optional front blade, snow thrower, dumpcart, lawn thatcher, and rear-mounted grass bagger (for 30- or 38-inch mowers).

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

By Florence Van Hoose
Monday morning devotions were by Trinity Church. The singers were Dartha Westbrook, Shirley Varner, Sabrina Varner, Mildred Thrasher, and the Rev. G.A. Van Hoose. He spoke about having faith and adding other qualities to our faith to help us to be more fruitful Christians. In the afternoon we had arts and crafts and made some pretty butterfly note holders.

Tuesday morning the Rev. Neeley Richardson was unable to be her in for devotions, however, he came earlier for the banana break, which was enjoyed by all. I taught Beno Wilson, Mamie Bradshaw, and Ruth Benson to play a new game with dominoes called Chicken Foot. Beno won the game, and we had a lot of fun playing. In the afternoon we had a good time of Bible study. Those attending the Bible study were Myra Hall, Lura Brashears, Addie Lindley, Beno Wilson, Una Clark, Ruth Benson, and Bonnie Howard. After the Bible study we played another game of Chicken Foot and Bonnie Howard was the winner.

Wednesday morning devotions were by City Park Church of Christ. The singers were Eunice Hardy, Lorilla Bradley, Beulah Baker, Lula Teague, Elva Blum, Eva Tackett, and Mary Spears. The minister, Perry Zumwalt, was out of town. In the afternoon Alma Smith and Mary Corley from the Sunshine Sunday School class from the First Baptist Church came and visited with the residents and treated them to bananas and cookies. We played bingo and Myra Hall bingo'ed first and got the 30 cents coke money. Sue Thompson bingo'ed the most times and Beno Wilson, Lura Brashears, and Myra Hall bingo'ed on the blackout. Candy, bananas, jelly beans, and sugar free candy mints were the prizes. Tonya Hagood and Maxine Jarboe came and helped us with the bingo game. We appreciate their help, and enjoyed them being here.

Thursday morning at coffee time we had an interesting time of reminiscence. We talked about when and where we first met our husbands. The Rev. Earl Blair was unable to be here for devotions so I read some scriptures about Heaven. We had a good time of exercise and the another game of chicken foot. In the afternoon we went on the bus ride to Plainview and bought an ice cream cone and rode down thru the park. It is very pretty and green. The residents going on the bus ride were Emmitt Lawrence, A.J. Huckabee, Dozier Dillard, Beno Wilson, Ruth Benson, Una Clark, Addie Lindley, and Ollie Birnie.
