Superintendent Jerry Cannon and his administrative assistant Jimmie Collins presented the preliminary budget for the 1986-87 school year at the July 7 regular session of the FISD board of trustees.

The proposed budget estimates revenues for the year to be $4,135,897 from state, federal and local sources. Total estimated expenditures are pegged at $4,050,831, according to Collins.

"These expenditures include teacher raises mandated by the state in the amount of $114 per month as well as $50 increases for aides and $60 increases for secretaries," said Cannon.

Cannon went on to emphasize the fact that a special session of the legislature could cut funds for schools at the state level due to the budget deficit now faced by Texas.

With an estimated $85,000 in unappropriated funds for the upcoming year, the board was asked to consider adding several projects to the list of appropriated funds.

Among the proposed projects were new ceilings and lighting at high school, renovation of the high school gym floor and hiring a security service using specially trained dogs to conduct a drug education and search program in the schools.

The board was also asked to consider participating in a paving, curbing and guttering project at Menefee and Crockett streets where the athletic clubhouse is located. The cost would be shared equally by the district, the city of Floydada and Floyd County if the project is approved by all three entities.

The corrected plan now states that the school must call and document two moving a student from regular classes and placing the student in an alternative education program. The corrected Orman were absent.

Floyd County Sheriff's Department before the victim realized his residence had been struck.

Deputy Sheriff Raymond Hamilton reached the burglarized farm house, 31/2 miles west of Floydada on West Price Street, four minutes after the call was received by the sheriff's department at 5:20 p.m. and promptly arrested a suspect.

Randy Hernandez, 18 or 19, of Floydada, was stuck in mud "about a quarter mile" from the burglarized residence. Deputy Charles Overstreet reached the site soon after Hamilton and continued the investigation while Hamilton brought the suspect to Floyd County Jail.

Hernandez was charged with burglary of a habitation and public intoxi-

Harvest of onions, the one commodity adversely affected by moisture, is underway, with "a dribbling" of cabbage and cucumbers arriving for processing at the Ruiz facility in north Floydada. Bulk of the cabbage and cucumber harvest is expected to begin next week.

Romeo Jimenez, another Ruiz associate, says "Onions are looking good now, but if it keeps on raining ... I don't know." "About 80 percent" of the onions "have been over 31/2 (jumbos)," Jimenez explains. He says yield depends on the weather.

Board members authorized the taking of bids for new lighting and ceilings at the high school. The estimated cost of the project will be about $11,000. The board approved the renovation of the high school gym floor at an estimated cost of $3,200 to $3,500.

No action was taken on the paving project or the drug education program at this time. The board requested that more information as to the cost and the methods used be obtained before further discussing the drug program. The paving project will be discussed at a later time if the city and the county express a favorable attitude towards the project.

Resignations were accepted from Sonya Gore, high school speech teacher, and Jean Hale, junior high language arts teacher.

The board voted to hire Lou Burleson for high school speech, Clara Harris for high school English and Sherry Colston for junior high language arts.

Collins reported that the discipline management plan previously submitted for state approval was rejected. He asked for board approval of the necessary corrections so that the plan could be re-submitted.

In terms of perfecting the democratic institutions of our society, we make progress very slowly. But if we keep at it perhaps we can turn a wheel now and then.

Before we go further we apologize to our readers for visiting, once again, this business of how we acquire our judges in Texas. It may well be that our readers have heard about all they care to on the subject from this quarter, but some recent developments bear noting.

Within hours after Mr. Raul Gonzales gained the Democratic nomination for another term on the Supreme Court he was quoted in the papers as saying he hoped this would be the last time a Supreme Court Justice was ever elected in Texas. He had suddenly become a convert to Chief Justice John Hill's proposition that we ought to change the system. Chief Justice Hill, our readers may remember, has likewise undergone a conversion and now believes judges ought to be appointed rather than elected. Mr. Hill's conversion came about after two of his fellow Supreme Court Justices began to make news for all the wrong reasons, causing acute embarrassment to the judiciary in general, and Supreme Court in particular.

The latest development, and probably the most significant, is that Lt. Gover-

Labor Day fly-in part of Sesquicentennial

Aircraft coming from every direction will be setting down on the Floydada Airport runway Labor Day when a fly-in breakfast unreels as another segment of the city's Sesquicentennial activities.

Jack McIntosh, chairman of the airport committee, says "We'd be tickled to have 50 (planes), but it's hard to predict people on Labor Day." In addition to the visiting aircraft, organizers "hope to have all the aircraft at our field on display so people can see what we have here permanently." He says "approximately 20" planes are permanently based at Floydada Airport.

Purpose of the Monday, September 1, function is "In general, an opportunity for the non-flying citizens in our community to become familiar with our airport and to stimulate some interest." Floydada Chamber of Commerce and the local Sesquicentennial Committee are sponsoring the fly-in.

Breakfast serving will begin "about 7 a.m. and continue until 9 or 9:30." The meal is to be free for fly-in guests, and a small fee will be charged for walk-in guests.

Sponsors anticipate having an Eagle Rock, same style as one of the first aircraft in the county, and "any other antiques or classics we can encourage to come in." Both the antique and locally based aircraft are to be on display throughout the morning.

By Juanita Stepp

Kaz Wierzbicki, an AFS student at Floydada High School during the 1965-66 school year, returned to Floydada after a twenty year absence and found the town and the area "a bit different than when I left."

"I think that the thing which was the biggest shock to me was seeing farmers working out in their fields on Sunday as we drove in to church," said Wierzbicki. "Twenty years ago, those farmers would have been in church on Sunday morning. I guess it is an indication of the condition of the farm economy in an area when farmers don't feel that they can afford to take a few hours off to go to church. I now run my own equipment on Sundays and late into the evening in order to keep my farm in operation, so I understand why they were in the field."

Wierzbicki lived with the Bill Staniforth family in the South Plains Community as a student and he and his family were their guests for this return trip to attend the 20 year reunion of the class Kaz graduated with in 1966. Accompanying Wierzbicki were his wife Yvonne and their two children, son Francis and daughter Amy.

People at work ...

WILMA GOWENS, senior customer accounts clerk, has been associated with Energas in Floydada for 91/2 years. She and her husband Donnell moved to -Staff Photo Floydada in 1976 from Crosbyton.

The reunion afforded Wierzbicki an opportunity to show his family where he spent a year as a teenager as well as the opportunity to visit other areas of the United States. The family has been to Carlsbad Caverns and left on July 7 to visit Colorado.

NOW A FARMER

Being a farmer himself, Wierzbicki has much in common with his counterparts in America. Things in New Zealand are not a utopia for farmers, either, according to him.

"I have a mixed operation, based on a rotation of livestock and crops," said Wierzbicki. "I produce sheep and cattle and grow barley, wheat and peas."

"Our products compete more directly on the open market than American farm products do and conditions in the foreign trade centers have lead to some bad times for us all.

"My crop yields are about the same as farmers here produce. We are a modern farming country, using all the same techniques. Our farming community has in the past been among the elite in our country. Things are changing now and we are no

Speaking of produce in general in Floyd and neighboring counties, Jimenez believes "Everything looks real good. This (moist) weather helps everything but the onions."

Ruiz Produce Co. has "about 1,100" acres of produce which will be processed in its Floydada facility. In addition to onions, commodities include: cucumbers, cabbage, honeydew melons, cantaloupes, watermelons, bell peppers and jalapenos (peppers).

Jimenez told The Hesperian that cucumbers will be harvested "all the way through." Harvesting of honeydew melons and cantaloupes should start "about the end of the month", jalapenos "in about three weeks" and watermelons "in about 30 days." Workers probably will start gathering bell peppers "around August 10."

Spirit award claimed by cheerleaders

The Floydada Varsity Cheerleaders recently returned from a National Cheerleaders Association summer workshop was held at Howard College in Big Springs, Texas, June 23 to 26. The camp attracted 400 cheerleaders from Texas and the surrounding states.

NCA sponsors the Spirit Award at 280 workshops held across the United States. The Floydada squad was selected for the honor on the basis of popular vote. Each squad had one vote to cast for the cheerleaders they felt added the most to the clinic.

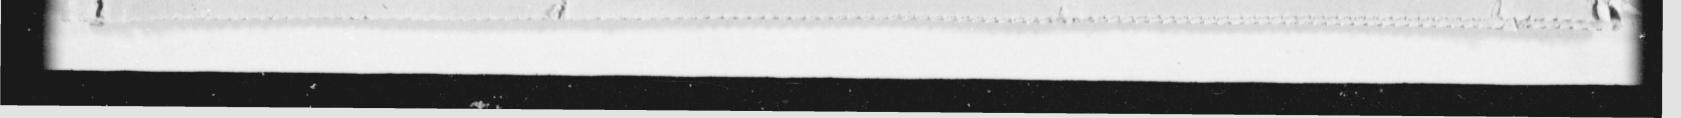

A Spirit Award was presented at the end of each daily session with the winner on the final day bringing a Spirit Stick home. The Floydada girls won the award three nights out of four and received a Spirit Stick to bring back to FHS.

Daily squad evaluation resulted in four blue ribbons for the Floydada Squad which finished as first runner up for the NCA Award of Excellence. 36 squads were in competition for the honor.

The presentation of awards came at the completion of a full workshop of training on cheerleading technique, cheers, chants, jumps, partner stunts and pyramids, as well as leadership, sportsmanship, crowd participation, responsibilities, organization and dedication.

longer maintaining that higher standard of living, although most farm producers do have a university degree, mine is in Geography

"Temperatures in New Zealand are comparable to the southern United States, but the seasons are reversed. We are in the winter season at this time. The terrain of the land is almost a combination of the rolling plains around the Texas Panhandle and the more mountainous regions like Colorado. The area we live in is very scenic and quite beautiful. Our rainfall averages about 35 inches a year and we live in a rain sheltered area. Other areas of the country receive more rain and some get a lot less."

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS

Economic conditions for New Zealand farmers are much the same as they are for American producers.

"Until about six months ago," says Wierzbicki, "we were fairly stable. The business climate for farmers has been worsening for the past several years, but the last six months have seen a major downturn in our agricultural community.

"The New Zealand government and farmers have made many of the same errors that the American government and farmers have made in the past. Everything has been geared towards increasing production and the size of farms. Our output has doubled every ten years while there has been a steady decrease in the number of farms and farm families.

"Recently, government policy towards farm subsidies and assistance have undergone a major change. The government now wants farmers to 'face reality and stand on their own' without government help," continued Wierzbicki. "Heretofore, government subsidy has consisted mainly of providing access to credit for farm loans and offering advice just as your own Extension Service does here. Now the government wants farmers to pay for these services. The majority of us have discontinued the use of the services. We can decide what to plant and when on our own without paying for the service.

The slowly turning wheels of government are causing delays in New Zealand's agriculture related fields just as they do in the United States.

GOVERNMENT UNCERTAINTY

"Parliament has been dragging it's feet on issuing a farm policy this year. When we left to make this trip, there was no word yet on what the outcome would be. Depending on the action taken there, my own situation could be quite unstable by the time I return," said Wierzbicki.

He also expressed concern over the domino effect a depressed farm economy has on other areas in his country.

"People who are leaving the land are moving to the cities, but there are not enough jobs for them nor is there sufficient housing and services to cope with the influx. Our socialist system is suffering and there is a decline in the quality of education for our children as well as in the quality and availability of health care," says Wierzbicki. "If many more farmers leave the land, food supplies will begin to suffer."

Yvonne Wierzbicki maintains a small "hobby flock" of unusual sheep which were first given to her by her mother-in-law when she and Kaz were married. The animals are the product of some "haphazard" breeding according to Wierzbicki.

"They have turned out very unusual in coloration. They are predominately white with multicolored spotted markings in all shades of black, brown, grey and some red, says Wierzbicki.

SKINS IN DEMAND

The tanned and processed skins from these lambs are in great demand for use in the fashion and handicraft industry which draws a large tourist trade in New Zealand. The wool pelts make exquisite rugs which sell for nearly double the price of the traditional white sheepskins. Skins are also marketed as coverings for mattresses and seat covers. The natural fibers are excellent for carrying away perspiration and relieving pressure on people who sit for long periods of time or are bed patients.

nor Bill Hobby has come out for Mr. Hill's proposition. Hobby now says, "The way we pick our judges is obsolete." The elective system was well suited to the Texas of former years, says Hobby, when the state was less populous and mostly rural, but now, particularly in urban areas, the large number of judicial races creates situtation where "there is almost no way the most dedicated, public-spirited citizen can learn the qualifications of the candidates in races ranging from justice of the peace to the Supreme Court."

We welcome the new thinking of Chief Justice John Hill, fellow Supreme Court Justice Gonzales, and Lt. Governor Bill Hobby. Perhaps it will at least cause people in High Places to begin thinking about the situation in earnest, as some of us have tried to do for years. If they do that, they will see that while the Hill proposition is better than we have now, it is only slightly better, and that there is a way, in our opinion, which is far better than either Mr. Hill's plan or the system now in place.

Mr. Hill's plan would do essentially this, as we understand news accounts of his public comments on the matter: A bipartisan commission of lawyers, judges, and other Texans would be created to draft a list of potential judicial nominees for review by the governor, and the governor would appoint jurists from that list. Voters would then have "recall" powers if they did not like the way the judge was operating, but would not have power to choose his replacement, who would again be appointed by the governor from the list submitted from the commission.

We find certain things wrong with the Hill plan, which is essentially that which has been operating in Missouri for a number of years. As a matter of political reality we do not believe the people of Texas want their judges selected by someone else for what would be, as a practical matter, lifetime appointments.

And who would appoint the commission that would decide the potential nominees? Who would assure its "bipartisan" balance? Would the job of the commission be to assure that an equal number of Democrats and Republicans were among the potential nominees, or would it be the commission's job to assure that the potential nominees were completely devoid of political bias? The latter of course is practically impossible, the former would do nothing but assure a Republican governor or a Democratic governor that he had a list of theoretically qualified partisans to choose from. It seems to us that the arguments in favor of the Hill plan skirt the fundamental problem in all this. That is the politicalization of the entire judicial system, which is what we see going on now, and which ought to be guarded against. There is no way of course, absolutely no way, that politics can be removed entirely from the process. The same is true of the role of money in the selection. That can be done very simply. Further, it ought to be done for reasons even beyond the partisan aspects of the present system and the plan put forward by Mr. Hill.

Under the present system it is doubtful that 10 percent of the population has any idea who they are voting for when they go down to the polls, as far as judges are concerned. The political energies of our electorate are directed, by and large, on races for governor, senator, the legislature and similar policy making candidates. There is just no focus, as far as the people are concerned, on the races for Supreme Court Justice, or the circuit judges, or even district judges for that matter. And while the attention of the electorate is focused on these non-judicial races, candidates for the courts wander around the state like lost souls, trying to drum up an audience here or there, visiting various sympathetic law firms for support and contributions. They seldom have the resources to explain their philosophy to the people, and the people, focusing on other races, are physically incapable of sorting out the wheat from the chaff among the welter of candidates vying for their attention. The judicial candidates deserve better than this, and the electorate certainly deserves better than this.

It would be far better, it seems to me, to separate the election of our judges from the highly charged partisan politics surrounding the election of our non-judicial office holders. This could be done by holding separate elections at a time when the emotions of the electorate are not worked up over who is going to be Governor, who is going to Attorney General, who is going to be Senator or legislator. And to make certain that the partisanship of the other contests not spill over into the judicial races, we ought to require that our judges run on non-partisan ballots. Nothing would keep the candidates, of course, from presenting their case to the parties themselves, or to the various special interest gatherings, such as the state convention of the AFL-CIO, or the state associations of trade groups, but it would require that they nevertheless run on a non-partisan ballot at a time removed from the heat of "normal" elections. The electorate could concentrate far better, it seems to me, on the qualifications and qualities of those who would interpret our laws and enforce our laws. The judges would not feel compelled to ascribe their victories, should they attain victory, to the vote-producing ability of this party of that party, with the subsequent feeling

HIGH INTEREST RATES

"Another area of great concern to us is the rate of interest we pay for our borrowed capital and operating money. Rates have zoomed up from 8 to 10 per cent in past years to between 22 and 30 per cent at present. With land values high, this might not be so bad, but land is only as valuable as the price it brings if sold and no one in New Zealand is buying.

"Farmers being sold out are ending up deep in debt because the mortgagee sales are not fetching enough on the land and equipment to pay the outstanding debt on the farm operation.

"Prices on the market are as high as they have ever been, but the cash in our pockets is as low as it has ever been. I got $23 for my lambs last year and now I am only getting $8 to $15. Many producers are just not mating animals to avoid being saddled with $8 lambs."

"We have a lot of fun and enjoyment from these animals," says Wierzbicki, "but we have to devote so much time to maintaining our farm that we have very little time to experiment with this potential money making area."

"Farmers all over the world who engage in the free enterprise system and look to the world market for trade are facing the same woes," says Wierzbicki. "We are going to have to work together to overcome the problems and survive. I hope that by sharing information with each other, we can present a united front and help each other.

"Farmers are traditionally an independent lot and are reluctant to join a protest or an organization to protest, but it is time that we do something to let the world know we are not prepared to give up our way of life and leave the land to accommodate politicians and financiers. Besides, if we all throw in the towel, who will feed the hungry people in this world?"

process. The appointment process would merely move both elements to another arena. True, it ought to, and probably would, reduce the role of money somewhat, but in the realm of politics it would merely take political power away from the people and give it to the commission, and ultimately to the governor, whoever he might be.

Since it is obvious that we can never completely remove the elements of politics or money from the selection of our judges, whether by election or appointment, it seems the next best route would be to remove, as far as possible, the partisan aspects of the of indebtedness that cannot be escaped in the present process.

Obviously there would be those who would oppose the non-partisan election of our judiciary. The present system works very well for political bosses, and it works very well for "plaintiff's lawyers, those who make their living by suing other people for a percentage of the take. But it is a terrible system as far as the people are concerned, and it is equally bad for honest candidates throughout our judicial system.

There's an old saying that goes something like "if it ain't broke, don't fix it." Well, it is broke, and it needs fixing. But if we are to fix it, we ought to go the whole way and fix it right. While the proposal put forth by Mr. Hill, and now endorsed by Mr. Hobby and others, is an improvement over the present system, let us hope that our leaders will see the wisdom of truly striking a blow for a politically independent, professionally qualified Texas judiciary.

Tips for traveling with tots

Summer vacation trips can present an extra challenge to families with babies and toddlers. The Texas Medical Association suggests tips that can make air and automobile travel more comfortable for children and families.

Airplanes are probably the most stressful vehicle for the family with an infant. Changes in cabin pressure can help start an ear infection that shows up a couple of days after the flight. A drop in cabin pressure tends to push mucus from the back of the baby's nose into the tube leading to the middle ear, and this blockage can become infected.

Nursing an infant during takeoff and landing is one precaution that can help prevent ear infections. The sucking movement helps keep the middle ear open, much the way chewing gum does for an adult.

Check with your physician who may suggest protecting the child by giving a combination antihistamine and decongestant, wheih will reduce the amount of nasal secretions and help keep air passages open.

Infants should not be buckled inside a seat belt on an airplane, but held in an adult's lap for takeoff and landing; the child can rest in a portable crib during the flight.

Automobile traveling with young children need not be difficult, but it can be hazardous. Children of all ages risk injury if they are not properly restrained. They should ride in the back seat. The type of harness designed for children is safer than a lap belt and allows more freedom of movement.

According to Texas law, young children and infants must be strapped into a car seat that is securely belted to the seat of the automobile. This safety measure also may make the ride more pleasant, because children react to car travel better if they can see outside.

young people from this area on the tour. The idea of sending young people to Washington was originated by the late President Lyndon Johnson in early 1950's, when as a senator, he selected outstanding young people and offered them the opportunity to visit Washington to see their government in action.

In honor of the Texas Sesquicentennial, this year's trip originated in Austin and included tours of the State Capitol and the LBJ Library, as well as a tour of the Brazos Electric Power Cooperative in Waco, before heading on to Washing-

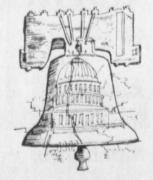

While in Washington, the young Texans had the opportunity to visit their respective congressman, see the House of Representatives and the Senate in session, and tour many of the famous monuments, memorials, and other attractions including the White House, the Kennedy Center of Performing Arts, the Smithsonian Institution, Ford's Theater, Mt. Vernon, the National Archives, the Supreme Court, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Special highlights included participating in the official state ceremony at the White House welcoming the president of Uraguay and in the wreath laying ceremony at the Tombs of the Unknown Soldiers in Arlington National Cemetery.

The group's participation in both ceremonies was arranged by past Youth Tour participant Frederick McClure, former Texas State FFA president and now a member of President Reagan's staff.

In all, the group spent five days of the June 11-24 trip in Washington sightseeing and "learning how our government operates."

"My life has been my family, farming, and sewing for the public," said Billie Rudd. "Then, I decided I needed another interest, so I began to paint."

Billie Rudd, of New Home, has lived in that community for 40 years. She and her husband, E. M. Rudd, farmed for 45 years until he retired recently. The couple has four children and seven grandchildren.

The First National Bank is happy to have the paintings of Billie Rudd on exhibit as the guest artist for the month of July. She considers herself "a beginner in the arts", as she has only been painting for about two years.

"My family and some friends got me interested in art", she said, "and it has been a wonderful and rewarding experience for me".

The artist has studied with Fernie Fullingim of New Home and spent a lot of time in practice and self-study. "Now, I devote all of my spare time to painting, and I am so eager to further develop this interest".

The First National Bank of Floydada invites everyone to come into the bank lobby to see the oil paintings of Billie Rudd. They will be on display during business hours throughout the month of July.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, lack of constant supervision is one of the reasons why drowning is the fourth leading cause of death to children under five years of age. The agency said that of the 600 drownings in residential pools in 1982, nearly 300 were to children under five, and almost one-third were children below two years of age. Another 3,000 children under five were involved in submersion accidents, some resulting in permanent brain damage. "It is vital that parents and caretakers be aware of steps they can take now to help reduce the high number of annual child drownings," said CPSC Commissioner Carol G. Dawson. "The most obvious precaution is constant supervision. Children are naturally curious and have the ability to crawl or walk quickly to the water's edge. One moment you have a healthy child, full of life, and the next minute that precious life is lost or damaged permanently. Continual supervision of children around swimming pools and spas is

In Arkansas, they said they were trying to raise tomatoes to make some cash, and pick-up loads of vegetables and fruits in Tennessee roadsides advertised Arkansas cantaloupe, tomatoes, and watermelon. Tennessee farmers said they are dying, except the dairy farmers and they are "getting tee-totally rich." At Shelbyville, kinfolk have turned the family farm to raising Tennessee walking horses in the national headquarters for the breed. Small towns throughout the South have lots of small industry, so nearly every farmer holds a job in town and goes home to farm. You have to admire West Texas farmers who can stay in the business with the lack of side jobs available in this area.

Study of school tax base reflects sluggish economy in most of Texas

Two-thirds of the state's school districts experienced a loss in tax base between 1984 and 1985, according to the annual study prepared by the State Property Tax Board (SPTB). The agency's 1985 Property Value Study estimates that Texas school districts contained a total of $702.6 billion in taxable value as of January 1, 1985.

Ron Patterson, SPTB's executive director, says a low inflation rate coupled with economic problems in agriculture and the oil and gas industry -two of the mainstays of the Texas conomy-helped shrink the tax bases of many districts during this period. Ken Cockrell and children, Bryan and burden will also shift away from those types of property that decline in value." The study estimated the total market value of the school district tax base at $830.9 billion. From that total, the study deducted $97.4 billion to account for special tax treatment for agricultural land and another $30.9 billion for homestead and other exemptions. The remaining $702.6 billion represents the taxable value of property statewide.

SPTB released preliminary findings of the 1985 Property Value Study to school districts in late January. The agency provided an appeals process for reviewing evidence that districts provided to show their preliminary value findings were in error.

Patterson noted that two clear trends emerge when figures from past SPTB studies are compared. "Since 1981, residential, commercial and industrial real estate have accounted for steadily growing shares of the school tax base. In the same five-year period, the oil and gas share has steadily declined."

Even though rural acreage made up 17 percent of the 1985 market value total, most of this land is either agricultural or timber land taxed at less

"Our figures may not reflect this year's drastic drop in oil prices until the 1987 study is prepared," he noted. State law requires SPTB to estimate the taxable value of property annually for each of the state's 1.063 school districts.

"A school district's taxable wealth is an important factor in determining how much financial aid it may receive from the state," explained Patterson. The Texas Education Agency will use the 1985 values in calculating education aid allotments for the 1986-87 school year. "Although our figures show that total taxable values grew by 1.6 percent between the 1984 and 1985 value studies, we believe the actual growth rate was closer to five percent," Patterson said. Among the 732 school districts that showed a loss in taxable value during 1984-85 were the Houston and Dallas Independent School Districts, the state's two largest. In general, many districts that lost taxable value could be eligible to receive more state aid.

Figures from the study show that a majority of the school districts with the largest growth in tax base-20 percent or more-were suburban school districts in the areas surrounding Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin and San Antonio.

Districts that lost 20 percent or more of their tax bases were located, with few exceptions, in rural counties across the state. "Small rural districts are more directly affected by problems in agribusiness or the oil and gas industry," said Patterson.

"Districts with shrinking tax bases may be forced to increase tax rates in 1986 just to bring in the same amount of local revenue," he added. "The tax

Single-family residential real estate accounted for 30.4 percent of the market value total in 1985. Business property, including utility companies and commercial and industrial real estate, equipment and inventories, made up 31.6 percent of the 1985 totals. Oil and gas values accounted for another 10 than market value. As a result, the taxable value of acreage amounted to only six percent of the statewide school district tax base.

The findings of the 1985 Property Value Study are based on an SPTB sample of more than 170,000 properties. The agency compares its values for the sample properties with the values on local tax rolls to calculate the value estimates for each school district.

The study was done in conjunction with another study that analyzes the quality of tax appraisals performed by county appraisal districts.

Square Dance News

With summer now in full swing, Whirlers have had many and varied activities lately. In June we danced under the pavillion in downtown Floydada. There were seven squares and lots of visitors.

Jim and Carol Huggins spent a week near Red River, New Mexico, and danced several nights at the Community House. They were joined on Saturday night by a whole square of Whirlers on their way to Fun Valley in Colorado for a week of dancing. Those in the square were: Paul and Zora Reecer, Donald and Mavis Reecer, Bill and Martha Mangold, and Fred and Virginia Byrd.

We had a square dancing at the nursing home in Lockney on July 3. Let's hope we are a little more organized next time!

We celebrated July 4th with a picnic and square dance at Lake Mackenzie. After eating all that homemade ice cream and cookies, it was a little hard to get all four squares to dance at the same time, but we all had a great time. We have cancelled our dance on July 19, to go to Tulia and dance at their Swisher County Picnic. Our workshops continue on Thursdays at 8:00 p.m. at the M.A.C.

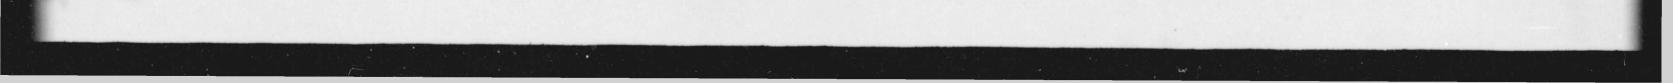

Hope everyone saw the Liberty Squares on Sunday night during the closing ceremonies of Liberty Weekend. Weren't they great!

Youth labor laws explained

Anyone who has hired or is planning to hire youth for agricultural work this summer is advised to be familiar with child labor requirements.

Child labor requirements for agricultural work apply to youth 16 years old and younger working on any farm or ranch. Although these regulations apply only to hired youth labor, they are good guidelines for the protection of all youth, according to Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

AGE RESTRICTIONS

under 16 from operating or riding on a feet; in a pen occupied by a bull, board tractor of more than 28 horsepower or connecting or disconnecting an implement to or from such a tractor.

These youth also are restricted from starting, operating, stopping, adjusting, feeding or any other activity involving cotton pickers, grain combines, vegetable harvesters, hay mowers, forage harvesters, hay balers, fork lifts, auger conveyors, post hole diggers, chain saws or similar equipment.

Labor requirements further restric

On the other hand, permitted jobs include operating garden tractors, loading and unloading trucks and driving a truck or automobile on off-highway farm roads. Youth can hand-plant, cultivate and pick produce; clean barns, storage buildings and chicken coops; clear brush; and harvest trees up to six inches in diameter.

Child labor requirements allow youth to learn the value of work while being somewhat protected from the more serious dangers of agriculture, Nelson points out.

Amendment to the 1985 Farm Bill, Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng has announced revisions to the 1987 wheat program. As part of that announcement Secretary Lyng indicated that the Department of Agriculture is seriously considering implementing the Paid Land Diversion program, saying that he "will reserve the right" to initiate the paid land diversion called for by Boulter at a later date.

The program, which could increase farm income and reduce surplus commodity stocks, is one which Congressman Beau Boulter (R-13) has pushed for in recently introduced legislation.

"The announcement indicates to me that we have gotten the Secretary's attention," responded Boulter, "and that the department is giving our provision serious consideration. I will continue to work alongside the American Farm Bureau, the National Wheat Growers Association and other farm organizations in urging the department to implement this important program."

Boulter's legislation refers to what had been a little known section of the 1985 Farm Bill which gives the Secretary authority to allow wheat growers the option of diverting additional acreage in return for payments in kind (PIK) from surplus CCC stocks. As the farm bill does not require the Secretary to make this option available. Boulter's resolution directs him to do

A key element of this provision is that the payments are not counted as part of the normal $50,000 payment limitation. "My goal in offering this legislation," added Boulter, "was to increase the awareness of, and support for, this little known provision of the farm bill. Needless to say, I am greatly encouraged by the announcement and am cautiously optimistic that we are going

Rainy weather hurts some plants

Plants need rain to grow and produce, but lately many have gotten too much of a good thing.

The result has been some stunting and yellowing of crops and garden plants.

This is caused mainly by a lack of oxygen to the plant's root system as a result of water-logged soils. Thus the plant is unable to function properly and to take up nutrients from the soil. Consequently, plants may not bear as well and may not live as long as under more normal conditions.

Little can be done now to gardens and fields affected by wet weather problems. However, good drainage is important along with planting on raised beds.

Many fields are well into squaring and now is the time to begin looking for fleahoppers. Square set reported around the area has been quite high-with many fields in excess of 90 percent.

Fleahoppers are predominantly a problem during the first three weeks of squaring. Both adults and nymphs suck sap out of the tender plant parts, especially small squares. Most squares attacked are pinhead-sized squares. Base insecticidal application decisions on the number of fleahoppers present, squaring rate and percent square set. During the first three weeks of squaring, the economic threshold is 25 to 30 fleahoppers per 100 terminals combined with less than 75 percent square set. As

They have two children, Phillip who was born in 1962, and Holly born in 1966. The Rev. Farnsworth received a B.A. degree in 1970 from Dallas Baptist College. He attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, receiving the M. Div. degree in 1974. He has served as pastor of Baptist Churches in Alvord, Texas, in Groesbeck, Texas; and Iowa Park, Texas. He became the pastor of the First Baptist Church in Floydada in October 1984.

In God We Trust

By Rev. Howell Farnsworth

What a wonderful weekend of celebration this 4th of July has given America. We all had a lump in our throat as our president lit the torch on the refurbished Statue of Liberty. The fire works made the sky a blaze of color and a tear came to our eye. On Friday the boats and ships passing in review were a beautiful tribute to Lady Liberty. The fire works display on Friday night was something to behold. What a wonderful weekend of celebration!

Do we, as our money states, "In God We Trust"? Is our nation the Christian nation that our founding fathers invisioned her to become with God's blessing? The Bible says "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven, and forgive their sin, and will heal their land." We say in the pledge to our flag, "One nation under God" and our children are not allowed to pray in school. Our money has stamped upon it, "In God we trust" and millions of babies are being killed each year because of a Supreme Court ruling. Are we a Christian nation? The answer seems to say in resounding tones "No". We have become a pagan nation with a few Christians sprinkled around the land. God tells us what we are to do in His word.

In II Chronicles 7:14, God gives the remedy for a sin sick nation. Repent and turn to God and He will forgive us and heal our land. If America is to continue as a nation we must turn back to God. Our Founding Fathers knew where to look for help and strength, they looked to God. We must do the same if we want to remain a strong and mighty nation of which we can be proud to say "I am an American, In God we trust."

The Veterans Administration is once again warning World War II veterans not to be misled by false information regarding the payment of a special life insurance dividend.

Monday morning devotions were by Trinity Church. The singers were the Rev. G.A. Van Hoose, Eula Mae Wilson, Clara Redd, Francis Rose and Lillie Cranford. In the afternoon after the staff meeting we had a good time of Bible study, sharing and prayer.

Tuesday morning devotions were by Brother Neeley Richardson, "Thank you, Neeley for the devotions and also the banana break." In the afternoon we had a Companions 'n' Caring meeting. After the meeting the Companions 'n' Caring served the residents ice cream. That was a nice treat on a hot day. Thanks ladies.

Wednesday morning devotions were by the Rev. Earl Blair. He spoke about the Lord being our shepherd. In the afternoon Jo Bryant came and played. Bingo with us.

Thursday morning devotions were by Florence. In the afternoon we watched a couple of good movies. After the movies Ova McPherson and I beat Faye McMahan and Iva Wells in a game of "42". It was a real close game.

Friday the residents had self-directed age, responding to a reappearance of a 1948, is once again making the rounds resulting in literally thousands of inquiries to the VA from all over the country. It is refueled every few years by the mysterious distribution of "applications" often poorly reproduced and sometimes directed to a nonexistent "Capt. Prosser" at the VA Insurance Center in Philadelphia. The forms claim that dividends are available for the asking and promises World War Il veterans a dividend based on their military service, "even if they haven't kept their policies in force."

The bogus application also claims that Congress has passed a law authorizing the dividends. There has been no such action nor is there any pending.
