Floyd crops developing

Cotton is blooming in Floyd County... but not in many fields yet.

Blooms were spotted last week on more mature plants. It will be days and even weeks before some other county

Due to excessive spring moisture throughout most of the county, crops again are late. Hail damage and later rains in southern section of the South Plains made crops in those areas even Richie Crow, county extension agentag, believes that some stress on cotton at this time might be beneficial, causing it to "load up" and also to form a better root system. Cotton has not "set" good roots due to the abundance of moisture until recent weeks.

Strong southwest winds last week accompanied by high temperatures, had a drying effect.

Crow points out that 80 percent of a cotton plant's yield comes from the first three weeks of blooms and 10 percent from the fourth week of blooming.

"The other 10 percent of the blooms come on the fifth week, but you'll probably never get to the gin with that," he says. This situation is particularly true in a later crop year.

The county agent expects "a pretty good aphid build-up on cotton." Hot, dry weather intensifies the aphid problem. However, the hot weather is "just what cotton needs right now."

BOLLWORMS FOUND

Scouts have found "a few bollworms in Crosby County." Worms haven't been found in this county, Crow said, but "blooms with holes in them" have been discovered at Cedar Hill. I'm sure they (bollworms) are here," Crow believes, probably being "an eight to a quarter inch in length now."

A producer reported early this week that he had found bollworms on his place in Dougherty community.

Although cotton needs warm weather, "the hot winds are hurting milo," the agent says.

Some irrigation wells were cranked up" last week, with water primarily going on corn and some on grain sorghum.

Crow expects a few producers to start irrigating cotton, although he questions it at this time.

The agent says corn is looking "pretty good" after rain fell "just right" for the commodity. Floyd County has "quite a bit of corn this year, particularly in the north part of the county. Much of the corn is northwest of

[Second of a three-part series]

"Taking a drink doesn't hurt anybody," is a commonly expressed

But the Texas Department of Public Safety has the facts that consuming alcoholic beverages before climbing behind the wheel of a motor vehicle can be deadly, both to the driver and to the Loving County was the ONLY Texas county which did not record a DWI (driving while intoxicated) involved traffic accident during 1983, the latest year for which complete statewide records are available.

That year, according to the DPS manual "A Look at DWI . . . Accidents, Victims, Arrests," nine traffic mishaps involving DWI drivers were reported in Floyd County.

This county is no isolated example. Statistics for neighboring counties during 1983 reveal the following number of DWI related traffic accidents: Swisher, 22; Briscoe, 4; Motley. 1; Dickens, 8; Crosby, 9; Lubbock, 584;

COSTLY TOLLS

Data reveals that 650 persons perished and 5,892 individuals were injured on Texas highways that year as the result of "drinking drivers."

Armed with this information, the state adopted a rigid penalty schedule for DWI offenders. The mandates include:

First offense (misdemeanor) — Fine: $100 to $2,000; Jail: 72 hours to two years; Probation: May be granted, but defendant must undergo alcohol or drug dependency evaluation; License suspension: 90 to 365 days. On unaggravated first offense, the defendant can take DWI educational course as term of probation; if course is completed within 180 days of date of probation, license will not be suspended.

Second offense (misdemeanor) -Fine: $300 to $2,000; Jail: 15 days to two years; Probation: May be granted, but 12 hour jail sentence is mandatory condition of probation. Alcohol and drug treatment may be condition of probation as well; License suspension:

180 days to two years. Third offense (felony) — Fine: $500 to $2,000; 30 days to two years in county jail or 60 days to five years in TDC (state penitentiary); Probation: May be granted, but 10 day jail sentence is mandatory condition of probation. Alcohol and drug treatment may be condition of probation as well; License suspension:

180 days to two years.

'AGGRAVATED DWI'

The penalty becomes more severe when an "aggravated DWI" occurs. This means that another person suffers serious bodily injury as a result of the defendant driving while intoxicated.

When aggravated DWI occurs, the following punishment schedule applies: First offense (misdemeanor) - Fine $600 to $2,500; Jail: 63 days to two years; Probation: May be granted, but 30 day jail sentence is a mandatory condition of probation. SB 1 (Senate Bill 1), which contained the more rigid penalties and became effective January 1, 1984, provides for automatic suspension of a driver's license when one of these four conditions exists: (1) Criminally negligent homicide or involuntary manslaughter; (2) DWI; (3) Any offense punishable as a felony under motor vehicle laws; and

DRUNKEN DRIVERS COST TAXPAYERS

Authorities believe that the intoxicated driver often costs the public innocent drivers/passengers and taxpayers — more in human suffering and actual monetary expenses than he/she

Although figures are not available for Floyd and other smaller counties, a study undertaken in Lubbock County reveals that "drunken drivers are costing taxpayers millions."

A recent article appearing in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal states: "Every time someone is arrested in Lubbock County for drunken driving, it costs the taxpayers an average of about $500 to process him and take him to court, regardless of whether the suspect ever is convicted."

"Multiply that sum by the number of DWI cases disposed of in fiscal 1984 and the annual cost was $885,000. But the fines collected from those convicted, based on a $240 average, totaled just slightly less than $300,000 in fiscal year

"And that's just the tip of the iceberg.

"When the costs of alcohol-related traffic accidents (averaged over the last three years) and welfare programs are figured in, the total annual expense to the city and county to deal with alcohol soars to an estimated $9.4 million."

JAIL TIME FOR MOST

REPEAT OFFENDERS Floyd County Judge Choise Smith says that drivers under the influence of alcohol are a problem in this county, with "probably an average of four or five DWIs every week . . . some weeks there are more and some weeks less."

While the backlog of cases is not as severe as in most larger cities, "We don't have as many jury trials as I would like," he says. The primary reason is that "many defense attorneys like to plea bargain" for their clients.

Judge Smith points out that he metes out "jail time" for "most repeat DWI offenders."

To persons placed on probation, the county judge "stresses stipulations of their probation." When a probation violation occurs, Judge Smith says, "I think they should serve their jail time."

One recent example of probation violation developed when an individual

The Della Plain Cemetery is located approximately six miles north of Floyada on Farm Road 207.

"No one has admitted damaging the marker, so we can't claim the insurance," this newspaper was informed by a member of the county historical commission. The FCHC official asks that "anyone who saw it happen or has knowledge of the accident please contact us." The individual adds that "the truck owner possibly doesn't even know about the accident."

Asked about his sentencing, Judge Smith admits to being "pretty tough" on DWI offenders. An adult suspect appearing before the judge on a first offense should expect, if found guilty, a fine of $300-$350 plus court costs and 60 days jail time, usually probated for 24

The penalty becomes even more rigid for the second offense, when the fine usually is increased to $400-$450. Judge Smith explains that "there are exceptions" on sentences, depending upon individual situations.

Individuals arrested on a third DWI offense "normally are transferred to the district attorney, because these are

Two men injured Monday in rural traffic mishap

Two men were injured, neither seriously, in the 9:50 a.m. Monday collision of two pickups, 11.8 miles north of Floydada on Farm Road 207.

A 1984 Chevrolet S-10 pickup driven by a 25-year-old Plainview man, Victor, Medina, struck a GMC Sierra driven by John Cockrell, 65, of Floydada in the right front quarter panel as the latter vehicle made a turn across FM 207 into a private drive to hand deliver mail to a Cockrell was traveling north on the farm road, delivering mail for Parnell Powell, who is ill. He reportedly had stopped at a roadside mailbox to deliver mail when he reportedly spotted a patron awaiting his mail on the opposite side of the highway.

Medina, a Coca-Cola employee who was driving a company vehicle, told officers that he dared not swerve his vehicle to the right for fear of hitting the resident awaiting his mail.

The Sierra remained at the approximate location of the impact, while DPS Trooper Douglas Whitworth, the investigating officer, said the S-10 pickup was spun around 180 degrees and continued southbound following theimpact. Both vehicles were extensively

Both men were transported to Caprock Hospital in Floydada for medical attention. Cockrell reportedly suffered severe lacerations to his arm, while Medina had head and knee injuries.

In a Sunday night or early Monday morning hit-and-run, Fred Marble's Chevrolet pickup was struck while parked in the driveway of his residence. Whitworth said apparently a vehicle out of control traveled into Marble's yard, struck the left side of the pickup and then "backed out and left."

CPMHMR Report

Central Plains Mental Health Retardation organization presented it's 1985 annual report to the Floyd County commissioners on July 14. The report relates to Floyd County as a contributing member of the organization.

During 1985, 190 Floyd County residents were benefited by the services offered by CPMHMR. The 2249 persons who received more than 20,000 hours of service at the center included those from Floyd County who received help.

Floyd County contributed $3,616.00 to the operation of the organization in 1985. Under a state matching funds agreement, the state funded an additional $24,170.00 to the organization in meeting the county contribution.

Among the 190 Floyd County residents treated, 8 were black, 80 hispanic and 102 anglo. 118 of these were male and the remaining 72 were female.

Three persons were treated in a drug related capacity, eight for mental retardation, 62 for alcohol related problems and 117 were provided with mental health services.

Those treated ranged in age from under 18 to persons in their nineties. The largest age group to receive services were those between 22 and 44 years of age.

C.L. Abernathy, in presenting the report said, "We are seeing a higher incidence of mental problems among the lower income persons treated. The lowest income groups also have the most alcohol related problems."

Mail orders cost Texans

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said a bill pending in Congress to force out-of-state mail-order firms to collect state sales tax on goods shipped into Texas could bring the state millions in additional taxes.

"Mail-order firms have had a free ride for the last 19 years since a court decision handed them special privileges to legally avoid collecting taxes but we're about to turn that around," Bullock said.

Bullock said U.S. Rep. Jack Brooks is sponsoring a bill-H.R. 5021-that would require national mail-order firms to collect sales tax and send it to states, including as much as $100 million a year

Bullock said he thinks the Brooks' legislation stands a good chance of getting Congressional approval this

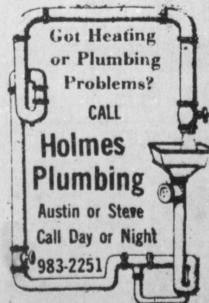

He said tax-free mail-order sales are out of step with the idea of fair and equal taxation. "Our hometown Texas merchants are required to collect sales taxes and do so," Bullock said. "Out-of-state firms shouldn't get special treatment that results in unfair competition to Texas businesses."

Bullock also noted that mail-order sales have increased dramatically in the past few years as firms used more sophisticated marketing techniques and easy credit arrangements.

This is big business that's getting bigger each day, Bullock said.

Bullock said closing the mail-order sales tax loophole should help promote Texas businesses and jobs as well as provide the state with needed revenue.

Special guests were the 1966 foreign exchange student from New Zealand, Kaz Weirzbicki, his wife, Yvonne, and their children Francis and Amy.

Former teachers visiting with the class throughout the weekend were Polly and Fred Cardinal, Emily Johnston, Joyce Kimble, Mrs. Carol (Bell) Reese and Coach Bob Shields. Classmates from other classes who stopped in on the reunion were Nancy (Holmes)

Willson, Sandra (Marler) Frysinger, Steve and Vickie Marler and Gary and Nancy (Nichols) Campbell.

A highlight of the reunion was classmates sharing the events of their lives since graduation through a booklet compiled and printed by Woody and Linda (Rucker) Woodall. The booklet was dedicated to the memory of Jack Osborn and Sue (Shurbet) McLain.

The evening was over much too soon for all, as they left with hugs, tears, and many happy memories of their high school days. A twenty-fifth reunion was planned.

Letter to the Editor ...

Dear Editor: The Third Floyd Family Reunion held June 21st and 22nd, 1986 was an absolute success because of the Floyd County Historical Commission's thorough planning and warm hospitality. They enabled the Floyd family to gather in your levely county and to get down to the serious business of enjoying this special weekend.

The marker dedication was an honorable occasion for all of Dolphin Ward Floyd's descendants. This official Texas marker will enable future generations to understand the sacrifice that was made March 6, 1836.

The women who assisted at the Floyd County Museum HAVE to be commended on their cheerful dispositions and boundless energy. Somehow each woman greeted us all early Saturday morning with big bright smiles, and then they worked hard until Saturday evening impressing one and all.

When we gathered at the Massie Activity Center on Sunday, again our family was impressed with the genuine friendliness of the Floyd County Historical Commission's representatives. I wish to extend our most sincere thanks to Nancy and Don Marble and their tireless army of assistants. Nancy was adopted as a family member long before the weekend was over. We never could have "pulled this reunion off" without her vivacious hard work and teamwork. Thank you to Mary Lou Bollman for her mighty muscles and undaunted spirit that did not wither car during the torrential rains. I personally want to thank the Hesperian Editor, Alice Towery Gilroy, for her lively cooperation and long distance editing enabling me to prepare the article that was printed in the June 19, 1986 edition. We are also thankful to the caterers who served such wonderful food. I know that no one dieted that Floyd County is very lucky to have these enthusiastic residents in their community.

The Floyd family is truly grateful to all who worked and participated in this Sesquicentennial celebration. The people in Floyd County have earned a special place in our hearts and photo albums. Thank you for the memories.

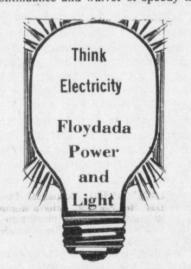

M. Monette Benoit

Dear Editor,

We former residents of Floyd County, now living in California wish to remind all of the readers that our 17th annual picnic will be held at the usual place, Balboa Park in San Diego Saturday, August 16th, starting at 10 a.m. Anyone coming to this area at this time is cordially invited to attend. If a loved one or friend has moved to California recently, please notify them of this important event, and date.

They may call: Doris Brittain (619) 421-6344 until August 12, or Opal Higgins (619) 469-7291 up until the picnic, for more information.

Thank-you so much, Doris Lybrand Brittain 1157 Ocelot Ave. Chula Vista, Ca. 92011-3806

Agricultural lenders are putting increased emphasis on the repayment ability of farmers and ranchers.

"Because collateral based lending has several major weaknesses, lenders are starting to give more consideration to the borrower's ability to repay the loan," points out Dr. Danny Klinefelter, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Collateral based lending considers only the protection of the lender and does not address whether or not the loan will benefit the borrower, notes Klinefelter. This type of lending also focuses on the expected value of collateral at the due date of the note or at the date of the next scheduled payment. Therefore, there is a tendency for lenders to be more liberal and for borrowers to borrow excessively when asset values are appreciating.

"With lending based on repayment ability, collateral is viewed in its proper role as providing insurance and control, not as the justification for borrowing or lending," Klinefelter points out.

The problem is that many lenders and farmers are only going half-way in analyzing repayment ability by only evaluating annual cash flow projections,

Tax reform would help cattle operators in state

Cattle operators should find the tax reform legislation currently in Congress to their liking, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension

The Senate Finance Bill will most likely be the one adopted, with some minor changes, points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga. He compares the provisions of the Senate bill with current law:

- Tax brackets: Currently there are 15 brackets from 11 to 50 percent; the Senate bill reduces this to two brackets, 15 and 27 percent.

- Cash accounting: Currently there are no restrictions in recognizing expenses when paid and income when received. The new bill also has no restrictions except when deducting prepaid expenses such as feed, seed and fertilizer. If these expenses exceed 50 percent of all costs, the excess must be deducted in the year consumed.

— Capital gains: Income from certain assets, such as the sale of breeding stock, is currently treated at a capital gains tax rate of 40 percent. The new Senate bill would eliminate this capital gains rate, but overall tax rates would

- Pre-production costs: No restrictions on costs of raising replacement heifers from conception to first calf would continue.

- Investment tax credit: This tax credit currently is 10 percent of the purchase value for cattle and 6 percent for pickups; under the Senate bill it would be repealed.

- Capital expensing: Current law has a $5,000 limit on the amount of capital investments that normally would be depreciated. This would be increased to $10,000 for farmers and ranchers with $200,000 or less in capital investments annually. Depreciation: The Senate bill would be the same as current law (pickups, three years; cattle, five years; tractors, five years) except that single purpose agricultural structures would be increased from five to ten years. - Health insurance expenses for self-employed persons: Currently no deduction is allowed; the Senate bill would allow a 50 percent deduction.

- Alternative minimum tax (on tax preference items such as capital gains): The current rate is 20 percent, with the first $40,000 excluded for joint filers. With the Senate bill, the 20 percent rate would continue; in addition, one-half of book profit and all passive losses would be preference items.

- Passive investment losses (such as limited partners): Currently there are no restrictions. With the Senate bill, such losses would be limited to the amount of income received from the passive investment; the remainder would be carried forward and deducted against future income.

- Income averaging: This currently is severely restricted and would be eliminated with the new tax bill.

- Personal exemptions: The current level is $1,080. The Senate bill calls for a $2,000 exemption for all taxpayers. phased out for taxpayers with $150,000 taxable income.

- Employer withholding on farm employees: Currently, quarterly withholding is required when labor expense exceeds $20,000. The new law would not require withholding until labor expenses exceeded $40,000. - Effective date: Under the Senate bill, tax changes would take effect on Jan. 1, 1987.

Farmers' cash flow better, but equity positions erode

Farmers' cash flow positions improved during 1985 largely because of continued high direct government payments and greatly increased Commodity Credit Corporation loans, according to a report to be issued August 15 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service. Farmers' equity declined and their debt-to-asset ratios increased due to declining land values, according to the ERS analysis of data gathered in early 1986. Also, private farm lenders have considerable risk exposure in their farm loan portfolios.

Developments during the first six months of 1986 and forecasts for the year suggest little change in operators' income and further slow deterioration in their equite positions. Larger direct government payments and reduced production expenses will essentially offset lower marketing receipts. But continued declines in asset values, particularly land values, will more than offset lower operator debt.

Net farm income in 1985 was in the $29-32 billion range, slightly below the 1984 level of $34 billion, preliminary analysis of the information indicates. Net cash income last year rose to $43-46 billion from $38-39 billion in recent years. Off-farm income continued to grow in 1985, reaching $40-42 billion. Many operators have taken advantage of these relatively favorable incomes to reduce debts.

Overall, debt owed by operators for farm purposes declined about $7 billion, with only the CCC showing a major increase in lending in 1985.

Farm cash flow improved somewhat from 1984 to 1985. Over 55 percent of farms had positive cash flows after considering all sources of family income and cash obligations, including interest, principal payments, and minimal family living expenses. This was up from 49 percent in 1984. Nearly 50 percent of all debt was owed by farms with positive cash flows, as opposed to 36 percent in Debt-to-asset ratios, in contrast, increased slightly.

The Federal Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Workers Protection Act (MSAWPA) has not gotten much attention on the High Plains since last summer. But that could well change as hoe-hands invade this year's weedinfested fields.

There's a beefed-up staff of U.S. Department Labor (USDL) Wage and Hour Compliance officers in the area, and reports to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., indicate they are beginning to make their presence felt.

All employers who used 500 man days of hired labor in any quarter of the previous year are covered by the law. A man day is defined as any day in which an employee does agricultural work for not less than one hour. Employment of immediate family members, however, does not count as man days.

Farm labor contractors also are subject to the law, including a requirement that they obtain and on request display a valid USDL certification of registration.

For farmers the main caveat here, notes PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, is that it's unlawful for producers to hire an unregistered contractor. According to Tony Price, executive vice president of the Texas Cotton Ginners' Association and a director of the National Council of Agricultural Employers, most of the violations recorded to date have been in this area, including contractors cited for hiring or offering for hire illegal aliens.

AUSDL checklist of potential violations provides no less than 17 ways in which covered agricultural employers can run afoul of the law.

Producers not using a contractor, Johnson says, may best avoid conflict with the law by a reverse application of the "rights" granted workers under the MSAWPA. These are detailed on a yellow poster, must be prominently displayed "at the worksite," a requirement that in itself will pose problems for High Plains employers in many instan-

Workers, the MSAPWA says, have the right to receive, in writing, accurate information about the wages and working conditions of prospective employment, and to receive written, itemized statements of hours and earnings for each pay period. Employers therefore have the obligation to provide such information. Also, Johnson advises, records of these statements should be kept by employers, "because without them they'll be hard-pressed to defend themselves if a complaint is filed or if there's question about the man days used to determine whether they're covered by the law.

When transportation is supplied by the employer, workers have the right to be transported in properly insured vehicles, operated by licensed drivers, which have met federal and state safety standards.

If housing is provided, workers have the right to be housed in property which meets federal and state safety and health standards, and to be given written housing information at the time of recruitment.

Requests for additional information, required posters and/or other compliance materials should be directed to the USDL, Wage and Hour Division,

Turnaround beginning for cotton industry

A turnaround is beginning for the U.S. cotton industry, and the new farm law's cotton program is credited as being the major force behind the dramatic reversal.

"Markets are being regained, and foreign cotton-producing nations are having to share in the reduction of huge surplus stocks and excess production capacity," Charles Bragg, National Cotton Council vice president for producer affairs, said today.

Speaking to the Texas Farm Bureau's Cotton Committee in Kerrville, Bragg said U.S. cotton sales in the 1986-87 crop year -- which begins August 1 -are expected to be the largest in recent history. He pointed out that advance export sales commitments for the new season already exceed this year's total

"We think total offtake in the coming season will be about equally divided between export and domestic customers," he added. The Council official said the turnaround is all the more remarkable in light of the near-crisis situation cotton

"Projected world production and carryover stocks were at the highest levels in history," he stated. "Market prices were far below cost of product-

faced before passage of the 1985 farm ion, and exports were projected to be the lowest in this century.' Compounding the situation was the influx of cotton textile imports that was decimating the domestic spinning industry and thus U.S. producers mar-

Bragg said the major change in the new cotton program is the so-called marketing loan under which cotton will be priced competitively in world markets regardless of how low world prices fall. As the U.S cotton industry adjusts to these more competitive world prices, cotton producer income will be protected through target prices and deficiency payments.

"These will be gradually and systematically reduced over the five-year life of the new farm law," the Council representative said.

ready attacking the new farm program on the grounds of cost, Bragg said taxpayer costs of farm programs should be measured against the alternative of a bankrupt agriculture. 'What would be the economic, social, and political consequenes of a bankrupt U.S. agriculture not only in this country but around the world?" he

Bragg noted that public concern for the supply and price of food and fiber has led the federal government to play a major role in supporting and stabilizing farm prices and incomes, and thereby consumer prices.

"Even at today's historic high levels, public expenditures for farm programs represent less than 2 percent of federal budget outlays and less than one-half of 1 percent of this country's Gross National Product," he stated. "That's a bargain by any measure."

GARY KLEYPAS is the pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in the Providence Community-Lockney. He grew up in the small central Texas town of Buckholts. After graudation from high school in 1967 he attended Temple Junior College and received his BA degree from Texas Lutheran College in Seguin. He earned an MDiv degree from Wartburg Theological Seminary in Dubuque, Iowa and was ordained as a pastor in the American Lutheran Church in June 1975. He is married to Sharon Richards from Stamford, Texas and they have one son, Jeff who is in kindergarten.

No Ending

GARY KLEYPASS

Traveling by our car to our church convention takes about nine hours. For our five-year-old son riding in the back seat, anxiously awaiting his grandparents home where he will be staying during convention, turns out to be a long drive. Trying to fill some of the time Jeff started counting. Counting up into the hundreds and growing weary of that he said, "I'll never get through counting! There's always another number." It didn't take long for him to realize that he was doing something that didn't have any apparent ending. The trip was long enough and counting to infinity didn't offer much comfort!

Hearing what he said, my mind immediately began thinking about a sermon and this newspaper article! I got to thinking that, like counting numbers and never reaching an end, this must be what heaven is like. We see life as being finite. There is a beginning and an ending. Work on a project and you complete the project. Plant today harvest later. We begin a task and we end a task. Consequently, we think of heaven and see it as the completion of our life. It is our final goal. For the Christian we think in finite terms instead of infinity, we are born, we live, we die, and by the Grace of God we go to heaven. The end of the story. Heaven itself seems finite.

Certainly not, just like there is no end to counting numbers, with whatever number you stop on there is always one more. That's what eternal life with God is. It is what God planned from the beginning. We are to live with him forever. There is no end to it. Heaven is not an ending but a beginning. And it is a new beginning that has no ending!

"If we have died with Christ, we believe that we will also live with him. For we know that Christ has been raised from death and will never die again--death has no more power over him. The death he died was death to sin, once and for all; and the life he now lives is life to God. In the same way you are to think of yourselves as dead to sin but alive to God in union with Christ Jesus." Romans 6:7-11.

Statistics released on school districts

In the two years since the legislature much by local property taxes as by every 12.5 students compared to a state record-setting increases in state taxes.

Over the past two years, an added $1 billion in state aid was matched by a $1 billion increase in local school property taxes. Last year alone, trustees in 1,063 Texas school districts levied the largest school property tax increase in history ($551 million) for a total tax bill of $4.6 billion.

These figures come from the latest issue of the Bench Marks for 1986-87 School District Budgets in Texas, an annual publication of the Texas Research League, an Austin based educational corporation engaged in governmental research.

School budgets adopted last year called for spending $3,346 per student for current operations. Floydada's budget provided for $3,579.79 per student based on the 1173 students in average daily attendance in 1984-85. SPISD spent $5,672.76 on each of 30 students and DISD spent $6,553.93 on each of 18

Four dollars out of five were spent for salaries. Statewide, payroll expenses averaged $2,705 per student as compared to $2,807.80 in FISD. The tab in SPISD was $3757.17 and $4,031.39 in DISD. Payroll expense is calculated on a combination of salary levels and staffing

The average salary for classroom teachers paid by FISD in 1984-85 was $21,232.00. The state wide average was $23,281 per classroom teacher. SPISD averaged $19,540 while DISD averaged $22,040. Even though the local school trustees and the legislature focused discussion on classroom teacher salaries, only 2/5 of the states districts used

The average administrative salary in FISD was $35,261.00. Average administrative salaries in SPISD were $18,840 and $15,700 in DISD. Salaries for other professional support personnel were averaging $22,748 in FISD. No salaries were budgeted for this category in both SPISD and DISD.
