Six cent decrease in county ad valorem tax

A last minute motion by Precinct 4 commissioner Jack Lackey resulted in a 6 cent decrease in the ad valorem tax rate for Floyd County taxpayers for the 1987 budget year. Acting on the second day of the September regular session of the court, Lackey moved to reduce the tax rate by 4 1/4 cents on the road and bridge fund and 1 3/4 cents on the general fund prior to adopting the 1987 budget.

The motion was seconded by Precinct 3 commissioner Thomas Warren and carried with a vote of 3 to 1. Lackey and Warren were joined by Precinct 2 commissioner Bob Jarrett in voting for the tax rate reduction. Precinct 1 commissioner Sam Spence voted against the measure.

"I think we are asking for trouble in the future," said Spence. "The surplus funds in this budget have been carried for several years and have decreased the past two years, indicating that we have spent more than we have taken in. This means that if we cut taxes, we will probably not have enough to get by if anything unusual occurs during the year."

A second motion by Lackey called for the adoption of the 1987 budget with the amended changes made necessary due to the lower rate. Warren again provided the second and the budget was adopted by unanimous vote.

A summary of the budget will be published in the Hesperian as soon as the amended changes are completed and the newspaper receives the new figures. The tax rate decrease will lower expected revenues for the county by $133,902 in 1987. This decrease is in addition to a decrease of more than $200,000 caused by lower property values due to a recent loss of valuation on county property and the anticipated loss of revenue sharing funds amounting to $125,000.

Chief appraiser Shiela Faulkenberry of the Floyd County Central Appraisal District was told that any cost of correcting tax statements already completed will be the responsibility of the county as they were late in setting the rate. Faulkenberry said "The law requires that the tax rate be set by September 1 and we had already begun the process of preparing statements." Among the more serious matters the court considered in relation to the 1987 budget was a request from the sheriff that extra personnel be hired to insure that the jail meets the proper standards and will not be closed by the state Jail Standards Commission.

Sheriff Fred Cardinal had asked the court to consider hiring additional personnel to function as jailers following a report on jail deficiencies made by Joe Slater, supervising inspector for the Jail Standards Commission. A number of other violations were listed on the report including:

1. Inadequate storage for first aid equipment and medications.
2. Inadequate lighting in prisoner cells and day rooms
3. Fire alarm not functioning
4. Inadequate records of safety drills and equipment

5. Inadequate booking forms in use
6. Incoming inmate property receipts improperly handled
7. Plan not implemented to designate classification and cell assignment
8. Food preparation areas not properly inspected by state authorities at regular intervals
9. Supervised physical activity not

Floydada 'holding our own' with enrollment

While most South Plains public schools are experiencing a substantial decrease in enrollment, Floydada schools are "holding our own."

Information from Supt. Jerry Cannon shows that 1,260 youngsters were registered as Floydada school students at the conclusion of the first week of the 1986-87 year.

This represents an increase of 40 over the 1,220 following the first week last fall.

Forty-one children were enrolled in the pre-kindergarten program, which is being introduced in Floydada schools this fall. Comparing other classes, Floydada schools have one fewer student than last fall.

Comparisons of school membership following the first week this year with the equivalent date last fall include (1985-86 figures in parenthesis):

Duncan Elementary — 416 (389)
R.C. Andrews Elementary — 327 (311)
Floydada Junior High — 190 (184)
Floydada High School — 327 (336)

What can we say. It's wet, wet, wet. Some of our producers are reasonably pleased, some are cautiously optimistic, some are downright unhappy. A lot, an awful lot, will depend on what happens next, and for how long.

We've travelled over West Texas a great deal since the first seed of cotton was put in the ground this year, and until this last siege of moisture set in, the best crops we had seen anywhere in this region were right around here. Now we keep our fingers crossed, watching the calendar and the weather, and waiting. Being the eternal optimist, we believe the end result will be good, rather than bad. But right now about the only thing certain is that we are likely to see a confused bunch of ducks arrive this Fall. They'll probably think their compass went wrong and they ended up in Louisiana.

Speaking of things that are all wet, confused, and without a compass:

The Texas Legislature met again this week. Our Governor, Mr. White, and out Lt. Governor, Mr. Bill Hobby, and the Speaker of the House, Gib Lewis, were all quoted over the weekend as saying great progress had been made in the expensive, fruitless, special session of the Legislature that ended last week. If the recently failed special session can be called "progress," we will have to accept a new meaning of the word. The Governor has a way with words. He said the session was a success because he and the legislators were "closer to a solution" of the state's revenue problems than they were 30 days ago.

We are also, if the governor has his way, a lot closer to another tax hike, which will be the third of his three years in office. There was the first, massive increase in taxes presided over by Mr. White. Then there was a second hike that wasn't really called a tax increase. It merely levied new costs on state services, costs that were borne by the people. Now the governor is insisting that we accept a "temporary" 20 percent increase in the state sales tax.

Our readers may remember that we predicted, when the special session was called by Mr. White, that it would end in a deadlock. It did. Now we face another. This one is likely to end in a "compromise", with Mr. Lewis getting more of the cuts he wants in the state bureaucracy, and Mr. White getting the increased taxes he wants. When it is over, this session will be called a "success" by those who fashioned the final product. The people affected, on the other hand, may define it differently.

And while the Texas legislature was worrying over money, a legislator up in

The first Whirlwinds

This being early September and the fall months just around the corner, an appropriate subject might be high school football. Not the currently played UIL sanctioned sport we know in high schools today, but a more informal version played in years past, specifically in the early 1920's.

Sixty five years ago, the Floydada High School football team ran onto the playing field under the green and white colors just as they do today, but they had no official mascot and no nickname, according to Jim Huggins in the Floyd County History Book.

The "Whirlwind" connotation began just prior to a bi-district confrontation between the Floydada team and the Amarillo Sandies in 1922.

Coach J.C. Wester, being interviewed concerning the chances of his Floydada team against its big city opponent, reportedly told an Amarillo sportswriter "We just have 17 boys and our team will only be a small whirlwind in front of the Amarillo Sandies."

Playing without such advantages as shoulder pads, hard helmets, huddle, hand-offs and hash marks, those early Whirlwinds indulged in a decidedly more informal game of football than is today's norm. The quarterback called the play from the line of scrimmage and the center snap went directly to the ball carrier.

Following a tackle, the play resumed at the spot where the ball carrier went down. If the ball had been carried out of bounds, it was brought a step in bounds to begin.

Wester's early day teams were known for executing trick plays and generally ran off a short punt formation. They were pretty good in the passing department according to some old timers. Passing was a challenge in the early days of the game before the shape of the pigskin was changed to make pass throwing easier.

Also to be considered was a rule at that time which called for a five yard penalty on a team which threw incomplete passes on two consecutive downs. This made pass throwing a risky business.

Substitutions were seldom made due to two major factors. The first was obvious, teams were smaller (compare 17 in 1922 to the 1986 roster of 35). The second reason was a peculiar rule which forbade a player who left the field from returning for the rest of the half.

Green and White seek second victory Friday in Roosevelt

Roosevelt's Eagles rarely struck fear in the hearts of football opponents...until last year. The Maroon and White surprised everyone around — except their coaches and parents — by emerging from a dog-eat-dog district race with a playoff berth in hand.

And they were not one-year-wonders. At least not in the eyes of Dimmitt, which was walloped 38-12 by the Eagles in their season grid opened last Friday. Beaming over their new-found offensive threat, the Whirlwinds are chomping at the bit to check out the Eagles. That opportunity comes Friday night when the two squads clash on the Roosevelt turf.

Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m. Flexing their muscles in a 29-8 decision over Crosbyton in their season debut last week, the Winds are eager to prove they are for real. They realize, however, that Roosevelt will prove to be a stern test. A slight favorite last week, the Whirlwinds are regarded as underdogs this Friday.

"They are real strong on defense. They do things well on offense, too, but they're outstanding on defense," Coach Joe Paty says of the Roosevelt protective unit which limite Dimmitt to seven — that's right, seven — total offensive yards and zero first downs. The two Bobcat touchdowns came via the fumble route. The first was covered in the end zone and the second on the one-yard line.

UNIFORM IN SIZE

Coach Paty says his team's next opponent is "pretty uniform in size." The Eagle front wall consists basically of 180-190 pound performers, although its has no exceptional large players. Roosevelt is "really aggressive on defense."

The Eagles flew high offensively last week around their one-two punch of tailback Greg Sheppard and fullback Mike Damron. The duo combined for 230 rushing yards against Dimmitt. The Whirlwind mentor says Damron tips the scales around 185 and "They like to run him off tackle. He runs with a lot of authority." Sheppard is "quick and has good speed."

Willis, an end, is "a lot like Greenhaw (of Crosbyton), although he may not have quite the speed." The 6'3" athlete is a standout hurdler in track.

'FEEL GOOD ABOUT PERFORMANCE'

Paty says the coaching staff "feels real good about our kids' performance against Crosbyton. We made a lot of mistakes, which is typical of a first game. Our kids responded real well and took advantage of some Crosbyton mistakes."

Coach Paty commended Crosbyton. "I was real impressed with them. They're a scrappy bunch who will get after you."

WHIRLWIND HONOR ROLL

Whirlwind coaches will choose players for six different honors each week. Those reaping spotlights for their first game performances were:

*Game breaker — Linebacker Noe Soliz, credited with two interceptions, the first of which set up the Winds initial touchdown and the second which he returned personally for a TD. Soliz also was tabbed as most valuable player on defense.

Most valuable player, offense — Quarterback Ty Stovall, who "ran the option well in his first varsity game."

Most valuable player, special teams — Rupert Jimenez, five tackles on punt and kickoff teams. Blocking award — Tight end Randy Enriquez, "an outstanding job."

Big hit tackle — Defensive tackle Clay Lowrance, two quarterback sacks "from a new position. He responded well."

Assault charges filed following altercation on Saturday night

A bevy of criminal activity — two fights, burglaries of a business and pickup and a bicycle theft — plus a series of automobile accidents have kept the city police department jumping in recent days.

Assault charges against Gilbert Garza and Johnny Garza and possession of a prohibitive weapon charges against Manuel Suarez were filed early this week in connection with a Saturday night altercation on the highway department parking lot which left a 20-year-old man with severe lacerations on the back of his hands and lesser cuts in rib areas on both sides of his body. The victim was taken to Caprock Hospital in a private vehicle.

The "fight," which occurred about 11:30 p.m., "involved six to eight people," according to Police Chief James Hale. Because persons were involved in addition to those named the possibility exists that additional charges may be filed.

Some of the same individuals reportedly were involved in a confrontation earlier Saturday.

"A bloody nose" resulted from a Friday night fight at the Exxon station parking area. No significant injuries "that we know of" resulted in medical attention being required.

PICKUP BURGLARIZED

A pickup was "broken into early Monday morning" in the 600 block of West Missouri. An "equalizer" and tapes, valued at approximately $150, were stolen.

Reported Friday was the theft of two one-ton chain hoists (orange in color) from Davis Farm Supply. The burglary reportedly occurred "sometime within the past two or three weeks" but the loss was not discovered until Friday.

Valued at about $240, the chain hoists were located near the store.

The series of bicycle thefts which happened this summer apparently has not concluded. A bicycle was taken, apparently about 10 p.m. Friday, from a porch in the 700 block of West Grover.

Police Chief Hale says "Every bicycle we've had stolen has been a Huff or a similar type." This style is described as being similar to a dirt bike and is extremely popular with youngsters at present.

RASH OF ACCIDENTS

A series of vehicle accidents, none resulting in serious injuries, has been investigated.

About 5 p.m. Friday, a three-vehicle accident occurred in the 200 block of South Second. According to officers, Dianne Sigman Hollis of Lockney had stopped her 1984 Plymouth while attempting a turn into Pay-N-Save. Ricky Don Benjamin of Floydada reportedly had stopped the 1980 Ford he was driving, to allow the Hollis car to turn, and his auto was struck from behind by a 1981 Chevrolet pickup

NO INTEREST

Just when I think I know everything . . . I find out I don't! I just knew there would be a big crowd of taxpayers at the school budget hearing last Tuesday night. You know how many interested taxpayers attended? . . . a big crowd of one . . . me.

Fact is, there were not even many school teachers there . . . wondering if they would get a salary increase or decrease.

After 38 years of newspapering I have learned people don't attend city council, commissioners court, hospital or school board meetings unless something controversial is on the agenda.

I wish our people would attend these meetings and genuinely be interested in what's going on . . . be interested in the progressive steps our boards are making . . . be more interested in the problems they face . . . give some input or information that might help them make good decisions. — Wendell Tooley, The Tullia Herald

10. Jail is under staffed and does not provide a primary duty jailer at all times.

11. Emergency door requirements not complied with.

12. Uncertified city police are called to check on prisoners.

Cardinal was authorized to correct all listed items with the exception of hiring additional personnel on a motion by Jarrett, seconded by Lackey. Spence again was the lone dissenting vote.

"I feel that it is a mistake to take a chance on having our jail closed after investing so much money and time trying to keep it up to standard," stated Spence. "The Jail Standards Commission told the judge that if we did not meet the staffing requirements, they would close the jail."

The court intends to meet the jailer staffing requirement by changing the budget allocation for four dispatchers to a budget allocation for four jailers.

Said Jarrett, "Let Cardinal handle the situation with the personnel he already has. If he has to shut down the radios to do it, then so be it."

County Judge Choise Smith reminded the court that the state does not require the county to maintain a dispatcher service, but apparently does require jailers.

"I just can't see where a sheriff with a staff of nine can't manage to look after prisoners and manage to dispatch," said Warren. "He should be able to satisfy the standards with the present staff. He can make jailers out of dispatchers or deputies or whatever it takes."

All members of the court agreed that the other deficiencies listed on the report are within the routine realm of the sheriff and should be within his ability to correct by making his staff more aware of proper record keeping and general maintenance of the jail facility.

The second major issue considered prior to the adoption of the tax rate and the 1987 budget was the issue of rural fire service. The court considered the proposal of the Floydada City Council that they renegotiate the 14 year old agreement from $3,000 per year plus a fire truck to $3,000 per year plus $200 per rural fire and a fire truck.

The final decision was made to offer the city a truck to meet their specifications, $3,000 per year and $100 per rural fire call. This was approved on a unanimous vote by the court following a motion by Jarrett, seconded by Warren.

Moving to more routine matters, the court opened bids for the purchase of a scraper to be used by all precincts, primarily for excavating garbage pits at the landfill. Three bids were received.

Yellowhouse Machinery submitted a bid for $114,570 after trade in on a JD 762 model and a bid of $96,612 on a JD 762A model. The low bid of $88,247 submitted by West Texas Equipment Company was accepted unanimously on a motion by Spence, seconded by Warren.

The court approved the purchase of a new Xerox machine for the county clerk's office. The cost will be $4080 and the service agreement on the machine will be $375 per year. The old machine currently in use has been the source of more than $10,000 in revenue since the first of the year according to a report from Margaret Collier, county clerk.

Farm work contracts were approved for two taxpayers in Precinct 4. They were George Taylor for Taylor and Fortenberry, fill in a tank in the northwest 1/4 of Sec. 92, and Hershel Swepston, repair washed out ranch road 25 miles northeast of Floydada.

A resolution to approve the sale of lots 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, and the west 60 feet of lot 14, Block 64, Original Addition, Floydada, was tabled until the October meeting. The property is held by the taxing entities after failing to bring enough to satisfy delinquent taxes in a sheriff's sale.

A series of line item adjustments were made on the current budget to allow the payment of the current monthly obligations of the county at the request of county auditor Bobbie Hamilton.

County treasurer Glenna Orman made her financial report stating that the county began the month of August with $68,485.99, taking in $1,084,494.01 and paying out $1,076,003.73. This leaves a balance of $75,986.27 to begin the month of September. Orman also reported a total of $891,000 on deposit in certificates of deposit which have earned interest totaling $66,811.02 so far this year.

Gary Lancaster, CPA from Matador, Texas submitted a written proposal for the conducting of the 1986 audit of financial records for Floyd County at a cost of $3,000 to $3,500. The proposal was accepted by unanimous vote on a motion by Warren, seconded by Jarrett.

In addition to members of the court, Floyd Jackson, the Democratic candidate for Commissioner Precinct 2, was present at the two day session. Also in attendance was D.M. Cogdell.

Mrs. Hollis and Benjamin both reportedly sustained neck injuries and Lawson sustained a cut lip. According to officers, the Lockney woman and Lawson were treated at Caprock Hospital and released.

The Benjamin vehicle reportedly had the greatest damage, with the other vehicles having only "minor" damage.

Drivers' vision being hampered by the sun was at least partially to blame for two multiple-vehicle accidents about 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The first, which happened at the intersection of Third and Missouri streets, developed when Ray Hernandez' '74 Thunderbird was traveling west and attempting a turn onto Missouri when it struck a '79 Ford being driven east on Missouri by Joe Martinez. The Martinez auto was struck in the left side and suffered "pretty heavy damage" while the Hernandez car had lesser damage.

Hernandez informed officers that the sun obstructed his vision.

While Hale was investigating the first accident, he heard the impacts from a second mishap which occurred "just east" of the Third and Missouri intersection. This involved three vehicles, plus a fourth "non-contact" auto.

A 1977 Chevrolet Monte Carlo, driven by Willie B. Eakin, was westbound on Missouri when, witnesses told officers, it entered the next lane in which Norma Castillo Hernandez was also westbound in a 1980 Buick Regal. Mrs. Hernandez' vision also was bothered by the sun and her vehicle struck a parked vehicle.

The latter car, a 1977 Ford LTD belonging to Eula Mae Wilson, was parked in front of a residence.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

GENERAL ELECTION

NOVEMBER 4, 1986

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 15 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among the counties in which the property of the railroad is located for purposes of property taxation, and would delete the requirement that the Comptroller participate in making the allocation. To comply with both statutory and constitutional law, the apportionment currently is being made by the State Property Tax Board in conjunction with the Comptroller.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among counties for purposes of property taxation."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 33 proposes a constitutional amendment that would replace the constitutional requirement that the subject of a bill be expressed in its title with a mandate that each house of the legislature adopt rules of procedure that would require the subject of each bill to be expressed in its title in a manner that gives the legislature and the public reasonable notice of that subject. Determining compliance with the rule would be the responsibility of the legislature. Currently, a law is invalidated if a court finds its caption is defective. The amendment would provide that past and future enactments may not be held void on the basis of an insufficient title.

The amendment also would eliminate the suggestion that the state's laws be revised every ten years, and instead would provide for continuing revision of state laws.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment requiring each house to include in its rules of procedure a rule that each bill contain a title expressing the bill's subject, and providing for the continuing revision of state laws."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 73 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the Legislature to authorize any county, city, town, or other political subdivision to use public funds or credit to pay insurance premiums on nonassessable life, health, or accident policies. Due to the prohibition in the constitution against the lending of credit and granting of public money, political subdivisions currently are prohibited from becoming shareholders in associations such as mutual-insurance companies, in which policyholders are shareholders. A nonassessable mutual insurance policy does not allow a company to raise capital by assessing the policyholder an extra amount on a premium. This amendment will allow mutual insurance companies and stock companies to bid for life and health group policies of political subdivisions. Public liability will be limited to the payment of premiums specified in the contract.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment allowing political subdivisions the opportunity to engage in and transact business with authorized mutual insurance companies in the same manner as with other insurance companies."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would repeal the prohibition against branch banking by state banks and would allow state banks and national banks domiciled in this state to establish and operate banking facilities at locations within the county or city where they are domiciled. The amendment would also authorize the Legislature to permit a state bank or a national bank domiciled in this state to engage in business at more than one place if it acquires a failed state bank or national bank domiciled in this state.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide that a bank may offer full service banking at more than one location within the city or county where its principal facility is located, subject to limitations and restrictions provided by law."

team's co-captains, is "definitely out" for the Roosevelt game after reinjuring his shoulder against Crosbyton. He initially bruised the shoulder during the Cooper scrimmage and missed some work last week before being reinjured during the first game. "There is no dislocation or break," doctors have assured coaches.

David Medrano, wide receiver-defensive halfback, injured an ankle in the Crosbyton contest and it was "still pretty tender" early this week. His status for Roosevelt was not definite at press time.

Chad Pernell, who sat out the Crosbyton match with a lower back injury, "possibly will see limited action." He also is a wide receiver-defensive halfback.

Leif Younger has returned for conditioning drills, "but that's all."

Coach Paty expresses appreciation to the large Whirlwind following which filled the visitors' side of Crosbyton Stadium. He points out that such support is encouraging to players.

The Winds are becoming accustomed to being the "visitors." They played one scrimmage on the road and are playing their second consecutive regular season contest away from home. They return next Friday, Sept. 19, to check out the home grounds against Olton.

Free enterprise talk stirs Farm Bureau group

Floyd County Farm Bureau is known throughout the state. President Doug Galloway told a gathering of approximately 160 persons Saturday night at the organization's annual meeting, and State FB President S.M. True also alluded to this fact.

Among highlights of the event, held this year in Duncan Elementary School in Floydada, was a stirring address on "The Free Enterprise System," given by Rusty Galloway of Floydada, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Galloway. He has been chosen to present the talk in state competition.

Galloway was one of four Floyd County youngsters who attended the '86 Citizenship Seminar and related their experiences at the annual meeting. Others were Alissa Hambricht of Floydada, Julie Davis and Matt Mitchell, both of Lockney. They were introduced by Jerry Davis.

Neil Burnett, District 2 director for Texas Farm Bureau, presented a plaque to Bud and Penny Taylor of Floyd County, winners of the District II Young Farmer and Ranchers Contest. They are not to be considered for state honors.

'FARM PROGRAM WORKING'

"The new farm program is working," the state president told the gathering. He pointed to the increased purchases of cotton by foreign countries. He advocated that the program should be given a chance to continue, although he acknowledged that it is "extremely complicated."

True added that "foreign countries don't like it (the U.S. farm program)." He told of talking with a farmer from another nation who "knows more about our farm bill than I do." The man confessed, "I don't like it. It'll be harder for me to sell wheat," but added that if he were a U.S. farmer he would favor the program.

"We're now playing by the same rules they (foreign producers) have been," True added.

The state president, a Hale County resident, said "I could spend my entire time talking about Floyd County Farm Bureau. I use Floyd County as an example many times." He noted that this county has been used by TFB in three pilot programs because of active and cooperative members here.

True has appointed Dan Smith of Lockney, a past FB county president, to a blue ribbon panel "to study and plan for the future of agriculture and the goals that Farm Bureau should strive to obtain in the next 10 years."

Officers and directors of Floyd County Farm Bureau for the past year have been: Doug Galloway, president; Martin Stoerner, vice president; Phil Dunavant, secretary-treasurer; Ken Campbell, Delmas McCormick, Warren Mitchell, Bud Taylor, Jerry Davis and Dan Smith, directors.

DIRECTORS NAMED

In the directors election, Davis and Dunavant were re-elected, and Ronnie Aston was named to succeed Warren Mitchell, who is retiring from the board. Smith conducted the election.

Galloway presented a plaque to Mitchell in behalf of his six years of service as a director. The Lockney farmer has served two years as president of the county organization.

During his president's report, Galloway said "This has been a good year (for Floyd County Farm Bureau), considering the economy." He pointed to a defensive driving course, the Citizenship Seminar and many other endeavors sponsored by the organization.

He reminded county members that James Race has been promoted to district sales manager for Farm Bureau Insurance and that he has been succeeded as county agency manager by Clar Schacht. Schacht also recognized James and Sherry Race.

In giving the membership report, McCormick said FCFB consisted of 1,022 members last year. Although this fiscal year does not conclude until October, he said "We expect to maintain that level."

Mitchell presented the Tasco report, encouraging members to purchase quality tires, batteries and tillage tools through authorized Floyd Bureau outlets: Tipton Oil Co. in Floydada and Jackson Tire Co. in Lockney.

Stoerner presented proposed local, state and national resolutions. Thirteen of the 15 proposals were adopted.

Stoerner also handed a plaque to Galloway, who has served as president during the 1985-86 fiscal year.

FAIR QUEEN — Angle Hinsley of Floydada was crowned August 23 as Miss Floyd County Fair Queen. A Floydada High School student, Miss Hinsley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hinsley of Floydada.

Campbell explained that FCFB sponsors a county fireman to the Texas A&M fire training school year and also donates $50 to fire departments for answering calls to members' rural property. Danny Nixon attended this year's fire school.

Following a catered meal, Galloway called on McCormick to offer the invocation. Davis led in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Galloway extended the welcome and introduced guests. Minutes of the 1985 convention and the financial report were given by Dunavant.

Drawing for door prizes was conducted by Taylor prior to adjournment. Keith Patzer and Ronnie Aston were winners of $50 gift certificates, redeemable at either Jackson Tire Co. or Tipton Oil Co. Flower arrangements were won by Mrs. Grigsby Milton, Dorothy Anderson and Mrs. B.P. Sandefur.

Lowrance and Emert prime forecasters in round one

Gene Lowrance and Weldon Emert were the two prime prognosticators in the initial week of The Hesperian's football contest for 1986. Each man missed only two games.

By virtue of the tie-breaker, Lowrance receives the $10 first place check, and Emert earns the $6 second place check. Lowrance guessed that the Whirlwinds and Crosbyton would score 42 points, and his guess was only five points away from the actual 37. Emert predicted 17 points, a difference of 20.

No fewer than seven contestants submitted entry forms with only three misses: Andy Hale, Paige Cannon, Steve Brooks, Jean Hale, W.O. Newberry and Trudy Hazlett, all of Floydada, and Jim Curtsinger of Lubbock.

Dr. Hale was the closest of the seven on the tie-breaker, predicting the Whirlwinds and Chieftains would put 32 points on the board.

Tie-breaker guesses by the other six, who receive honorable mention, were: Brooks, 29; Miss Cannon, 26; Curtsinger, 24; Ms. Hazlett, and Newberry, 18 each; and Ms. Hale, 14.

Coming close with only four misses were: Sherry Hale, Mary Emert, Dell Gray, Tiffany Gentry, Ina McDowell, Lisa Mosley, Steve Morales, Dolan Hanna, Michael Padgett and John Campbell.

Number of winners guessed the first week are the scores for these contestants in the race to become the season winner and the recipient of two tickets to the Dallas Cowboys game on Thanksgiving Day. Points will be accumulated for each contest.

The Hesperian expresses appreciation for the number of contest entries received, which was the highest in recent years. Second contest appears inside this issue.

Contestants are reminded that they need only to circle winners inside the official entry form and place their tie-breaker score guess inside the football before submitting to this newspaper's office or having mail entries postmarked by 5 p.m. Friday. They may keep the outer portion, containing the footballs, for their records.

Belinda Vallejo-Hinojosa say nuptial vows

Belinda Vallejo and Arturo Hinojosa Jr. were united in Holy Matrimony on Saturday, September 6, 1986 at 4:00 p.m. at St. Michael's Catholic Church in Ralls. Father Roland Buxkemper presided over the Mass. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Vallejo Jr. of Floydada and Ms. Amada Hinojosa of Ralls.

The church altar was decorated with two fifteen candle spiral candelabras on the ends, and a fifteen candle arch candelabra in the center. In front of the arch was a basket of white gladiolas and pink roses.

Presented in marriage by both her father and mother, Miss Vallejo wore an exquisite gown of white satin designed by Venus. A wedding band neckline led to an illusioned yoke and fitted bodice which had been ornately designed with Venise lace, hand beaded and sequined forming a peacock. The Renaissance sleeves were accented with lace, pearls and sequins. A basque waistline led to a full ballroom skirt that flowed around to create a cathedral length train, the skirt and train featured peacock forms that had been covered with pearls and sequins. A single wilked ruffle trimmed the edge of the gown and created a pyramid on the train. To complete the look, the bride selected a wreath from Edward Berger. The wreath featured schiffli lace that was covered with pearls and scattered sequins. A cluster of lace at the back of the crown flowed to cathedral veiling which had been lavished in pearls.

Maid of honor was Diana Vallejo, sister of the bride of Floydada. She wore a white tea length dress with a white hat. The bridesmaids were Laura Vallejo of Floydada, Esmeralda DeLeon of Floydada, Irma Garcia of Floydada, JoAnn Hernandez of Ralls and JoLinda Quintanilla of Ralls. They wore dusty rose tea length dresses and matching hats. They carried a single pink rose with babies breath and greenery. Chamberlains were Rabel Contreras of Floydada, Jose Alaniz of Floydada, Jesse Mendoza of Pampa, Joe Hernandez of Ralls, and Marcello Martinez of Ralls. They wore tuxedos from the After Six collection, with a dusty rose jacket and matching accessories, with white pleated pants.

The primeros padrinos were Ricky and Hilda Vasquez of Floydada. The padrinos de 1asso were Felix and Petra Resendez of Ralls. The padrinos de aras were Ramiro and Sabina Cantu of Lubbock. The padrinos de rosario y biblia were Mario and Rosa Reyna of Slaton. The padrinos de coquines were Ignacio and Ofelia Quintanilla of Ralls.

The ladies wore royal blue tea length dresses and the men wore tuxedos from the After Six collection, with a royal blue jacket and matching accessories and white pleated pants.

Best man for the occasion was Eddie Diaz of Ralls. The groom, best man and father of the bride all wore the Black Spenser tuxedos from the Lord West collection.

Ushers were Eloy Villarreal, cousin of the bride of Amarillo and Morry James Martinez, cousin of the groom of Ralls. They wore white tuxedos, one with dusty rose accessories and one with royal blue accessories.

The candlelighters were Michael John Hernandez, cousin of the groom of Ralls, and Joni Jo Quintanilla, cousin of the groom of Ralls.

The flower girls were Brenda and Teresa Cantu, cousins of the bride of Lubbock. The ring bearer was Paul Vallejo, brother of the bride of Floydada. He wore a tuxedo from the After Six collection, with the dusty rose jacket and matching accessories with white pleated pants.

The train carriers were Jose Luis Resendez, cousin of the groom of Ralls, and Jessica Calderon of Ralls. Jose Luis wore a tuxedo from the After Six collection, with the dusty rose jacket and matching accessories with white pleated pants. Jessica wore a dusty rose tea length dress.

The music during the wedding ceremony was provided by Charlie and Irma Reubelcado of Crosbyton and Armando and Amelia Luna of Ralls.

The reception and dance were held at the Merchants Building in Lubbock. Music was provided by Cierra Band of Lubbock.

What scoreless tie? Winds win 29-8

The Amrillo sportswriter who predicted that the Floydada-Crosbyton game was "a good candidate for a scoreless tie" was wrong...dead wrong!

The white-clad Whirlwinds rode a rejuvenated offense to 29 points—17 in the first half—in their '86 football debut Friday night in Crosbyton. This, coupled with a stingy defensive effort, produced a 29-8 victory and in the process ended a two-year season opener drought against the scrappy Chieftains.

Thanks to Noe Soliz' interception on the first scrimmage play of the campaign, the Winds rang the scoring bell 116 seconds into the game. With a stable of hard-running backs operating behind an aggressive offensive front consisting of center co-captain David Pyle, guards Roel Cisneros and Joe Gonzales and tackles Jeff Smith and Darin Martinez, the Green and White raced to a 14-0 first quarter advantage. Smith's 21 yard field goal with 59 seconds remaining before the bands played staked the Whirlwinds to a 17-0 halftime advantage.

SOLIZ INTERCEPTS

Soliz' interception and return to the Crosbyton 23 on the initial scrimmage play pointed Coach Joe Paty's crew in the right direction. Julio Flores, a solid 182 pound junior who was a thorn in Crosbyton's side all night, gained 1 after the Winds were charged with holding and then hauled in a 15 yard aerial off the arm of junior signal-caller Ty Stovall. Hector Flores scampered for 10 steps and a first down just outside the 10. Julio bulled for 6 steps before Stovall, another Floydada standout, scampered around right end for just over 4 yards and the initial touchdown. Smith's kick was true but a delay penalty erased the effort and Marlon Greenhaw blocked his second kick. This left the scoreboard showing "Visitors 6, Home 0" with 10:04 still to play in quarter number one.

Crosbyton was unable to gain a new series after the kick and the Whirlwinds were again spinning.

Hector Flores broke for 8 yards, Stovall kept for 4 and a first at the Crosbyton 47 and Hector went for 7 before Julio Flores rambled 15 steps for another first at the 35. Julio, Joe Collins and Hector gained 3, 2 and 6, respectively, before Daniel Medrano hauled in a 15 yard Stovall strike at the 9. Hector made 1 and Julio 5 before Stovall picked up his second TD, this time 3 steps around left end. The count went to 14-0 with 2:59 left in the first quarter as Ralph Casillas was all alone on a fake PAT attempt to take a pass from Sylvester Mendoza, the apparent holder.

FINAL OBSTACLE — Hector Flores [41] finds only one Crosbyton player, Sonny Pena [6], blocking his path as he picks up yardage. Four Chieftain defenders are in pursuit and an unidentified Whirlwind blocks out Marlon Greenhaw [88]. Floydada quarterback Ty Stovall [10] has handed off to Flores. — Photo courtesy of Crosby County News

The youthful but quick Chieftains got their offensive engine rolling for two first downs and advanced 6 yards deep into Floydada territory before Ray Morales swiped a pass to kill their effort.

Crosbyton, which has advanced to the playoffs three of the past four years, opened the second period with every intention of narrowing the gap. Paced by waterbug Greg Williams and Sonny Pena, they went for gains of 15, 20, 5, 4 and 6 steps before a pass was dropped in the end zone and the Winds took possession at their own 25.

Midway through the second quarter, the purple clad home team again went on the warpath as Williams went 33 yards with a pass from quarterback Brian Owen and David Saenz raced another 14 yards to the Floydada 19.

MOMENTUM SHIFTS

Ole Mo (momentum) walked directly across the field as Stovall caught a Williams fumble in the air and returned to the Floydada 22.

This possibly was the game's most crucial play, repelling the purple warriors' bid to cut the lead in half while at the same time spurring the Whirlwind offense. Hector and Julio Flores alternated on carrying assignments for successive gainers of 21, 18, 11 and 11 steps which ended at the Crosbyton 17. Stovall netted 2 on as many tries before Julio Flores bolted around eight end for 9 yards to the enemy 6. A 3 yard loss on a pass completion and two incompletions brought out the kicking tee for a 26 yard field goal attempt by Smith. The boot was wide right but the Chieftains were offside. From 5 yards closer, Smith drilled his kick through the uprights on a 21 yarder to pad the visitors' lead to 17-0 with 59 seconds left in the half.

Relying primarily on sheer muscle and aided by a roughing the punter infraction, the Winds accepted the second half kickoff and marched steadily upfield on a 13-play, 75 yard march for their third touchdown. Julio Flores, who had netted 8 and 1 1/2 on the previous two attempts, drove the final six inches around left end to paydirt. The offensive consumed over half the third quarter prior to Flores' six-pointer with 5:25 left in the stanza. It was 23-0 after Smith's PAT attempt was wide.

Longest pickup was fullback Collins' 17 yarder up the middle.

CHIEFS SCORE

An errant punt attempt — which resulted in a 6 yard loss — handed Crosbyton a golden opportunity early in the final quarter from the Floydada 20. And the Chieftains rang the cash register for their lone touchdown of the night.

Williams sped for 4 yards before Pena slipped behind the defense to receive a 16 yard scoring strike from quarterback Jessie Salinas. Greenhaw repeated the maneuver by accepting a Salinas pass for the two bonus points which left the scoreboard showing a 23-8 count with 7:52 remaining.

Minutes later, however, Dame Fortune frowned on Crosbyton's passing efforts as Soliz intercepted about the Chieftain 32 and raced into the end zone. This came with 6:43 left. It remained 29-8 as Stovall's rushing attempt for two bonus points was halted shy of the double stripe.

Longest play of the contest almost netted another "6" for the fired-up Whirlwinds. Quarterback Shannon Bar-

Calculations and miscalculations of Whirly and Windy

WINDY'S OPINIONS

What a week. The local teams all did real good and the team down state also managed to get the job done. Guess we all should know by now that you should never pick against Landry and his football angels.

Was told that Whirly had to meet with the dubious J.R. to even find out how to select a winning team. It seems he couldn't make up his mind and that only after reviewing my guesses was he able to make up his mind. Seems 2 against 1 is not exactly fair, but with it being those 2, there is still no competition.

This week's predictions are about as easy as last week's. The Whirlwinds looked good in winning their game, and except for a few defensive letdowns, showed to have made much improvement over last year. This week, the offense gets tested harder, but as we all know in this part of Texas, once a wind gets started it's hard to stop. Mild upset with the Winds winning, but remember I told you so.

The Horns rolled and did they ever show their stuff. This may be one of the surprise teams on this end of the state. Petersburg will be competitive down the road, but not Friday night. Lockney continues to roll.

Tech did a fine job with their first game and gave their fans something to get excited about. Raiders are known to play the top teams tough. Expect they will try hard against Miami, but will be overpowered. Hope they can at least keep it close.

Now to Dallas. Over the years probably the NFL's luckiest team and this could include 1986. Should never guess against luck, but some time or other it is bound to run out. Short week to regroup and travel and Detroit is a troublesome field for the Pokes. Defense breaks down and Lions get by.

By the way J.R. maybe you trade H.W. and get needed linemen now.

WHIRLY'S OPINIONS

We had a good kick-off to the season with the Winds starting off on the right foot. Way to go Winds! Just keep that momentum rolling. We're all behind you. I'm glad I missed the Cowboy game even though it pulled my sparkling average down to .750.

Through the grapevine I heard that old Windy was trying to pick UCLA over OU this week. I guess he hasn't heard that OU beat UCLA last Saturday. Windy, please don't bet on any instant replays. I think I know how you might come out.

Well, let's see what we have for this week.

Floydada vs. Roosevelt: Look for a little tighter game this week, but the Winds will notch their second victory.

Lockney vs. Petersburg: Also should be a close game, but the Longhorns should hang the Buffs.

Tech vs. Miami: Miami will win, but it could be an interesting game as the Raiders have a history of playing against the really good teams.

Cowboys vs. Lions: The Cowboys may not have it all together yet, but they are showing promise and will take the Lions to the cleaners.

Suarez places in Levelland cross country

Manual Suarez placed seventh Saturday in the Levelland cross country meet. Teammate Brad Saens finished 29th. Also competing were Whirlwinds Daniel Medrano and Leif Younger. The Levelland event was for male runners only.

Both Whirlwind boys and girls plan to participate this week in a Brownfield cross country.

bee lofted a bomb to Ricky Benjamin on a 54-yard pass-and-run which was halted at the 2. Two snaps later, a purple shirt defender came out of the pile with the fumbled ball to return control to Crosbyton.

Final excitement — prior to the Whirlwinds' victory celebration on the field and inside their dressing room — was a 25 yard scramble by the fleet Williams out to the Crosbyton 36.

Offensive fireworks created by the Green and White were their most impressive in recent seasons as they produced 29 points, 21 first downs and 355 net yards gained on the ground via the airplanes.

The mighty defense shared the glory, bending a couple of times to Crosbyton's speed but yielding only 8 points.

Students prepare for '86-'87 school year

By Andrea Reed
 The old saying that nothing good comes all at once held true for the first week of school at Floydada High. This course of four days was spent becoming re-acquainted with one another, going over rules as well as regulations, and settling down into classes.

With an aim for an outstanding season, the Freshmen, Junior Varsity, and Varsity football teams have diligently been keeping up with their rigorous workouts, while the band members strive on their motto "practice makes perfect" by regularly attending morning practices. It is during this time that they mainly work on marching form and technique. Many dedicated band members and athletes, as well as supporters, have reportedly said that they are looking forward to and hoping that this will be the "year of the Winds."

Unfortunately, few of the various organizations and club have formed.

The reason for this is because of the fact that students (as well as teachers) are still becoming adjusted to the hectic classes and various rules. However, one organization which has begun to hold its weekly meetings is the Student Council. The first meeting was held on Monday, which was when they discussed different things such as annual money-making projects and activities. Under the guidance and direction of sponsor Jan Thayer, are the 1986-87 officers. They are: President - Alfred Medrano, Senior; Vice-President - Ty Stovall, Junior; Secretary - Leif Younger, Senior; Treasurer - Hunter Smith, Senior; Reporter - Andrea Bonner, Junior. Right before school was dismissed this past year, these lucky students were elected, according to popular vote, by the student body.

Another organization/club which has begun to take root is the Speech/Drama club. This organization held its first meeting on Tuesday morning. Led by sponsor/coach Lou Burlison, the members who attended discussed topics of issue such as money-making projects and club officers.

Moreover, the 1986-87 annual staff has begun its long, difficult task of putting the yearbook together. The editors have been selected and they are the following: Editor - Andrea Reed, Junior; Asst. Editor - Cynthia Covington, Senior; Asst. Editor - Daralyn Williams, Senior. During the month of July, these three girls, accompanied by advisor Janet Cunningham, attended a 3-day workshop which was held at LCC. It was here that they selected a theme and cover for this year's annual.

At this time of the year, spirits are high and most are looking forward to the various activities. Some people are more concerned with sports while others are more concerned with the different clubs and organizations. Whatever the case may be, most seem ready and willing to put their best foot forward and make this the best year so far.

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

By Florence Van Hoose

Monday morning devotions were by Trinity Church. The rest of the day the residents had self-directed activities since it was a holiday.

Tuesday morning devotions were by Brother Neeley Richardson. He spoke about the frailties of man. Thank you, Brother Neeley for the banana break. In the afternoon we had a "back to school party." Shirley Varner taught arithmetic and Leona Neff was in charge of the spelling. Ruth McIntosh played the piano for the rhythm band. Then we had four freezers of homemade ice cream brought by Companions 'n' Caring. The Companions were Ola Smith, Ruth McIntosh, Dorothy Neff, Shirley Varner and Dolores Cannon. "Thanks ladies" we appreciate it very much. We want to thank Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Leatherman for the potatoes donated to the nursing home.

Wednesday morning devotions were by the Rev. Earl Blair. In the afternoon Jo Bryant came and played Bingo with us. "Thanks Jo."

Thursday morning devotions were by Florence. In the afternoon we watched a good movie about horses.

Friday morning devotions were by Letha Mulder, Mrs. Withers and Nettie Adams. In the afternoon we went on the bus ride to Plainview and were treated to ice cream at Wendy's. The residents who went on the ride were Addie Lindley, Una Clark, Iva Wells, Gertrude Feuerbacher, Faye McMahan, Della Halencak, James Taylor, Florence Curry, Olive Russell and Maude Galloway. Thanks Wilma for taking us on the bus each week.

This week's visitors included: Dorothy Neff, Lucille Sisson, Pauline Pierce, Jennelda Fulton, Alma Smith, Ola Smith, Bettye Chowning, Hazel Bradley, Winnie Neil, Lucille Sisson and Jettie Moss.

School board approves drug deterrent policy

A routine meeting of the Fisd school board was held on Tuesday, September 9. Among the matters considered and approved were a drug deterrent policy for proper procedures when a student is found with prohibited substances at school, an instructional time chart detailing the time students spend in each instructional setting at R.C. Andrews Elementary and the Texas Teacher Appraisal System manuals and forms to be used in teacher appraisals this year statewide.

Superintendent Jerry Cannon reported on the enrollment during the first week of school and to date this week. First day enrollment totaled 1197 and had risen to 1271 on Monday, September 8.

The board authorized the dismissal of school on Wednesday, September 10, and Wednesday, September 17, at 2:30 p.m. to enable teachers to attend a workshop meeting.

The matter of approving the sale of several city lots held by the taxing entities following a sheriff's sale was tabled until the October meeting.

Carla Robinette was hired by the board as an aide to Norma Rainer in Special Education.

Administrative assistant Jimmie Collins reported to the board on the proposed settlement by the involved insurance companies concerning the bus accident which occurred the first day of school. Collins told the board that the insurance adjusters had determined both the bus driver and the driver of the involved pickup to be at fault. Therefore, the insurance companies agreed to share the cost of the settlement by sharing the cost of fixing the pickup. The school insurance company, Farm Bureau, will pay medical bills incurred due to the accident. Due to the fact that the school does not maintain collision insurance on school buses because of the prohibitive cost, the school will be liable for the repairs to the bus. This is estimated to run about $850.

The board authorized the repair of the bus but instructed Collins to speak with the insurance companies to determine why, if the blame is placed at 50-50, the insurer of the pickup will not bear a portion of the cost of repairing the bus.

Superintendent Jerry Cannon told the board that progress is being made by the special task force appointed to develop a redistricting plan for the district. According to Cannon, the committee hopes to have a completed plan available for the board to review within the next few weeks. He also informed the board that another meeting of the task force will be held on Saturday, September 13.

Volunteer wheat can hurt new crop

Volunteer wheat in summer fallowed fields may look innocent enough, but these rogue plants can significantly hurt the coming wheat crop and should be eliminated.

"The problem is that volunteer wheat hosts a growing number of insects and disease-causing organisms," points out Dr. Travis Miller. "These insects and diseases reduce grain yields and frequently require one or more applications of expensive fungicides or insecticides. Such problems could be avoided or reduced by one or two light tillage operations or the use of an effective herbicide," notes Miller, an agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Evidence is mounting that volunteer wheat is responsible for a good portion of the rust problem that has plagued the Texas wheat crop the past two years. Favorable weather conditions and huge acreages of susceptible wheat varieties have added to the problem.

"Informal surveys in several areas of the state are revealing the presence of leaf rust in volunteer wheat this summer," says Miller. "A good job of volunteer wheat destruction will reduce early rust infestation and may impact the progress of rust in the field next spring."

SOIL TESTS are an inexpensive, effective method of monitoring soil pH levels. In general, aluminum toxicity problems in wheat develop when soil pH levels drop below five.

Cotton sales high as price drops

A drop in U.S. cotton prices has sales moving briskly, and that means farmers need to keep a wary eye on market developments.

U.S. cotton prices dropped about 40 cents a pound at the beginning of August, says Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. This, combined with a weaker dollar, is expected to substantially increase world trade, discourage foreign competitive production and increase cotton consumption.

Thus Anderson sees improved prospects for a fairly reasonable U.S. cotton supply-demand balance by the end of the 1987 crop year.

"Recently announced provisions for implementing cotton certificate programs on inventory adjustment and first handler certificates have added momentum to the potential of a 14-million-bale offtake this year," says Anderson. "This compares to an offtake of 8.4 million bales in 1985. With a new crop potential of 10 to 11 million bales, 1986 ending carryover may decline 3 to 4 million bales from the 9.3 million 1985 carryover."

The volume of cotton certificates to fulfill from the CCC loan during the certificate's nine-month life is sizable, adds the economist. Each of the estimated 2.5 million bales of "free" cotton on Aug. 1 generated a certificate value equal to two to four bales. This "free" cotton alone should boost loan equity demand substantially because it will equal to nearly all the remaining 6.85 million bales of old cotton under CCC loan.

Further, under current world price levels each first handler certificate for a 1986 bale purchased will result in a

SHORT COURSE ON COMPUTERS AND BEEF CATTLE

A short course to help beef cattle producers with computer applications will be held at the Stiles Farm Computer Training Center Sept. 23-25. The Stiles Farm is located in Williamson County on U.S. 79 one mile east of Thrall or seven miles east of Taylor. The short course is called "Records and Management Decision Aids for Beef Cattle Producers (High Rainfall Areas)" and will offer hands-on training in micro-computer use and use of various software packages (computer programs), says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

value of about one to two bales, notes Anderson. On Aug. 1 the adjusted world price of U.S. cotton was 22.37 cents, with the coarse count adjustment a minus 3.33 cents. Much of the Texas cotton crop has a 5- to 15-cent per pound adjusted world price value.

"All this suggests heavy trading in the equity market to redeem a large amount of certificates during the 1986 cotton season," the economist points out. "The world cotton price is probably overreacting on the downside, so continued wide swings in prices may occur. If the market makes a noticeable upturn by early 1987, expect renewed interest in forward contracting."

"Since cotton commodity options are available for roughly 15 to 17 months ahead, producers and buyers have considerable flexibility in pricing opportunities," says Anderson. "They can use pricing strategies such as options and futures to accomplish price insurance and at the same time benefit from a possible upward price move."

Other problems aggravated by volunteer wheat overwintering in fields are the brown wheat mite and wheat curl mite along with wheat streak mosaic virus complex (for which the wheat curl mite serves as a vector). Destruction of volunteer wheat, which is the host prior to planting, is the best and least costly control of these mites and the virus disease they cause, explains the agronomist.

The Russian wheat aphid, which has gained considerable notoriety since its discovery in Texas wheat last March, will readily survive on volunteer wheat and wheat grasses which are found in fallow wheat fields, according to Miller. He recommends careful seedbed preparation and destruction of volunteer wheat and grasses in and around wheat fields to reduce this pest's habitat and initial infestation levels.

Contrary to numerous detractors in the media, the current cotton program is working as intended and if left alone will continue to do so.

That's the consensus view of almost all if not all professional, academic and government analysts who understand the real source of the cotton industry's ailments, say officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. "And there's new supporting evidence for that view almost daily," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson.

The industry can be propped up to an extent by makeshift manipulations, but nothing fundamentally good is going to happen to U.S. cotton until the heavy burden of excess U.S. and world supplies is lifted, Johnson maintains.

"That requires an increase in U.S. cotton marketings at the expense of foreign competitors, which in due time will force a decrease in foreign production," he says. "And that's exactly what the cotton program was designed to do."

For the most recent and most compelling evidence that the program is doing its job, Johnson points to the latest issue of USDA's "Cotton and Wool Situation and Outlook."

USDA reports that 1986-87 exports of U.S. cotton are expected to reach 6.2 million bales, more than triple the 1985-86 level. As of August 21, with the program in full effect less than a month, export sales for 1986-87 delivery already totaled 3.7 million bales compared to less than two million exported in all of the previous year.

With almost all of these sales set for delivery in calendar 1986, leaving seven months before the end of the marketing year August 1, 1987, some industry analysts think USDA's 6.2 million bale projection falls well short of actual export potential.

The report puts U.S. exports at 29 percent of the expected world export total, an increase of 19 percent over 1985-86. Major losses of export market share are expected to fall on the Soviet Union, China and Pakistan, together dropping from 42 percent to 34 percent; Africa from 18 to 13 percent, and Latin American countries from 12 percent to 7 percent.

On the domestic scene mill use of cotton in 1986-87 is expected to reach 6.8 million bales, up eight percent from the 6.2 million consumed in 1985-86 and the highest in 12 years. This would bring the year's total offtake to 13 million, nearly 60 percent above last year and among the largest volumes seen in the past 20 years.

This offtake and a 10.5 million-bale current year crop will bring the U.S. carryover on August 1, 1987, down to seven million, about 25 percent below the 1986 year-end surplus.

Johnson gives due credit to Cotton Incorporated's consumer demand-increasing work for a part of the growth in domestic consumption, but says "most of this would not be happening without the competitive pricing of U.S. cotton made possible by the current cotton law."

Aluminum toxicity in wheat: a preventable problem

By keeping a close eye on soil pH levels and exercising prudent management practices, area wheat growers can avoid potential problems with aluminum toxicity, says Robert E. Lee, a Canyon-based district sales manager for a seed company.

"Since the introduction of intensive wheat management practices the last few years, there has been a significant increase in the number of aluminum toxicity problems reported," says Lee. "Fortunately, this problem can easily be managed if growers take periodic soil tests and are alert to several potential danger signs."

Sufficient nitrogen levels are critical for optimum wheat yields, but higher application rates can lower the soil's pH level to the point where the plant is susceptible to free aluminum. "Although the soil has a tremendous buffering capacity," says Lee, "eventually it can't withstand the nitrogen's acidic effects."

To date, most problems with aluminum toxicity in wheat have been reported in southern Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and other areas where soils are particularly weathered. Precise levels of aluminum toxicity are difficult to pinpoint, says Lee, because soil fertility needs vary according to soil and climatic conditions, field history and other management factors. However, he says, aluminum toxicity problems generally develop when soil pH levels drop below five.

"The recommended soil pH level for this area is in the 6.5 to 7 range," says Lee. "But some soil pH levels in this area have been reported as low as 4.1."

There are, however, several aluminum toxicity warning signals to keep in mind, he says. "Plants will not tiller well and tend to grow similar to crabgrass," says Lee. Some phosphorus deficiency symptoms may also occur, such as a yellow-green plant color and a purple tint on the leaves and lower portions of the stem. And, he says, plant growth may appear spotty because the pH level will not be uniform throughout the field.

Lee says soil tests are an inexpensive, effective method of monitoring soil pH levels. He says county agents, university extension specialists, farm supply firms and private consulting firms conduct soil tests on a routine basis.

"The best way to avoid potential problems with aluminum toxicity is to closely monitor fields and add lime once the soil pH level reaches 5.5," he says. "Once the pH level has reached 5.0, it's too late because yields have already been affected. But an application of lime should bring pH levels back to the 6.5 range." Certain wheat varieties are also tolerant to aluminum toxicity and low pH levels. According to Lee, some of the most tolerant varieties include: Bounty 202, 203, and 205; AGC 105; Atlas 66; and Garst HR48 and HR64. He recommends consulting with university extension specialists, county agents, and seed dealers for assistance in variety selection.

Most importantly, Lee emphasizes that growers can't expect to eliminate aluminum toxicity problems by reducing the rate of nitrogen applications. "In intensive management programs," he says, "growers must continue to use high fertility level to obtain maximum yields. Although aluminum toxicity is a potentially devastating condition, its effects can be minimized with proper management."

IRAQ TO BUY U.S. COTTON LINT AND YARN

USDA has shifted GSM-102 credit guarantees to allow Iraq to buy $20 million worth of cotton and cotton yarn in fiscal 1986 instead of the $8 million originally allocated. Of the $20 million allocated for cotton, USDA earmarked $12 million for cotton lint purchases and $8 million for cotton yarn.

National Cotton Council officials said this is one of the first opportunities for U.S. cotton yarn to be sold under GSM credit guarantees.

Meanwhile, Iraqi officials — working with the Council's overseas arm, Cotton Council International — are planning to come to the United States on a September buying mission. They are expected to spend about 10 days making contacts with U.S. raw cotton exporters before making actual purchases.

At present prices, the $12 million credit for raw cotton purchases could allow Iraq to buy about 60,000 bales of U.S. cotton.

USDA also increased the credit guarantee line for purchases of oilseeds and protein meals

Mrs. Mark White lauds husband's record during Floydada visit

"Texas, I believe, is at a critical crossroad," Mrs. Mark (Linda Gale) White, wife of the Texas governor and Democratic candidate for another four-year term, told approximately 55-60 Floyd County residents during a Friday noon reception in her honor at Light-house Electric Cooperative's Community Room.

"Are we going forward or are we going to retreat into the past?" she said, alluding to the November general election.

Mrs. White said that "tough decisions" have been made on education, highways, health care and water during her husband's administration "to take us proudly into the 21st century."

Aiming at White's general election opponent, former Governor Bill Clements, Mrs. White asked "What did Clements do during his administration when times were good?" She mentioned that the former governor vetoed an additional prison, which today "would cost twice as much to build."

"Where were his (Clements') priorities?" she asked.

Mrs. White told the Floyd group that Clements claims that state taxes and revenues have grown appreciably during the White administration, but that these actually are "dedicated funds" for education and retirement increases and can not be used for other purposes.

"Bill Clements presided over some of the largest state spending increases in recent history," Mrs. White continued. "Under Bill Clements the total state budget increased an incredible 56.9 percent. He also submitted a budget to the Legislature in 1983 which was $932 million in the red. Had the Legislature adopted Clements' budget recommendation, Texas would have been saddled with a $1 billion deficit or tax increase."

She stated that her husband's opponent is "twisting numbers." She added that Clements "doesn't have a secret plan" for Texas' troubled economy.

White has "brought more diversification to the state's economy, his wife claimed.

She told the group that TECAT tests for public school teachers were necessary because a tax bill was needed for educational improvements and that many Texans desired the test.

Speaking of the educational bill, House Bill 72, Mrs. White said "There are 1,100 school districts in Texas and 1,100 different interpretations of HB 72."

During a question-and-answer period, Mrs. White said, "I'm not sure what he'll (White) do about pari-mutual." A pari-mutual bill was introduced during this summer's special session of the Texas Legislature that is expected to bring the issue before the state's voters in 1987.

Alton Higginbotham, who introduced Mrs. White, said "She brought the sunshine with her. It's not often that we want dry weather in West Texas." Her West Texas campaign tour began Thursday.

Dr. Paul Glasson sworn in as appraisal district director

A short September 4 session of the board of directors for the Floyd County Central Appraisal District handled a routine agenda. This first meeting held on Thursday saw new board member Dr. Paul Glasson of Lockney, sworn in to fill the vacant post on the board.

Chief Appraiser Shiela Faulkenberry told the board that seizures of personal property were scheduled to begin on Monday, September 8, and on Tuesday, September 9. With 10 cases for delinquent taxes originally considered for seizure, Faulkenberry noted that "6 had come in and taken care of the matter.

The other four would be served for seizure early in the week."

Faulkenberry also noted that seizure orders would be filed "regularly" until the current backlog of delinquent personal property taxes has been cleared up.

The appraisal office is currently working to process and mail the new tax bills. Taxpayers should find the notices in their mailboxes in a few weeks. Payments may be made beginning October 3 with a discount for early payment offered.

70 persons attend Campbell, Center and Fairview reunion

More than 70 persons were in attendance for the Campbell, Center, Fairview reunion held on August 31 in Floydada at Massie Activity Center. The group enjoyed a covered dish meal and conducted a business meeting at the gathering.

Officers were re-elected to their current offices. Serving for another term will be Kenneth Robertson, president; Weldon Cumbie, 1st vice president; Louis Anderson, 2nd vice president; Floyd Montgomery, 3rd vice president; Rue Nita Robertson, secretary-treasurer, and Muri Mayfield, reporter.

Mrs. J.E. Green had 10 family members present and the Lightfoot family had nine. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Denison were honored for being the longest married couple in attendance.

The group chose Labor Day weekend of 1988 for their next reunion.

The memorial list noting those who have died since the 1984 gathering was read by Letha Lightfoot. Among those listed were Sarah Myrtle Huckabee, Edell DuBois, Otis Anderson, Clarence Foster, Mrs. Johnnie Mae Lewis, Brother R.L. Shannon (former pastor of Center Church), Arthur Cooper, Mr. Q. Carter, Joe Robertson, Mable (Hambrick) Laminack, Hattie Fuqua, Ethel Graham, Ola (Huckabee) Warren, Vada (Rutledge) Meredith, Ester (Tyler) Tubbs, Carl Jackson, Charlie Perry, Revere Irwin, Claud Snodgrass and Gertrude (Bartlett) Hollums.

Lola K. Phole registered those attending. Included on the final register were Mr. and Mrs. O.G. Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Perry, Alma Dunn, Bob Bradford, Burl and Doris (Spence) Huckabee, Everett and Maggie Perry, Louis and Ferne Anderson, Ray and Anne Smith, Nell (Pratt) Ferguson, Walton and Veda Wilson, Mrs. J.E. Green, Arel Rainer, Myrtice Rainer, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Denison, Lloyd Cumbie, Cora Hartline, Joe R. Lakeview News

By Joyce Williams

Sept. 11:

A 3 inch rain pounded our community Thursday. Dirt roads are under water. Playa lakes are full of water and pink clover. Cotton farmers need hot sunny days, but Sunday's temperatures were in the low 50's. Nights and mornings are cool to cold.

Your Crosby County neighbors put on a fine performance in "God's Country." Several Floydada natives were in the cast, including Jacque Crawford James, director and Jon Jones, singing cowboy. Mrs. Tom Porter sewed several costumes for the quakers and early settlers' scenes.

Georgia Mae Erickson stepped into her kitchen Friday evening at Casa del Sol, and whipped up a little supper for 195 guests from the Ranching Heritage Center. She cooked it, served it and left with the guests to claim her front row center seat at the amphitheatre in her cousin, Viola Brown's pasture north of the Rock House. Among her guests were Dean Bess Haley, head of the Texas Tech University Home Economics department. Floydada guests included Mrs. J.P. Moss.

The Norman Muncy's attended "God's Country" the first evening, with their ranch homestead forming the natural backdrop for the play.

Mrs. Connie Lou Bertrand is wearing her lanyard as physical education aide at Floydada elementary grades this year.

Blanco Canyon is beautifully green with late grass from all the recent rains and cool weather. Wheat farmers are also beaming. Fall rains usually bring a rich array of wild flowers the next spring, so will watch for that display.

Early breeding pays in beef heifers

Synchronizing estrous in beef heifers and exposing them to bulls 30 days earlier than the rest of the cow herd are two practices that can pay dividends for cattlemen.

"Getting a heifer bred early during her first exposure to the bull can affect her total lifetime production," says Dr. L.R. Sprott, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Early bred heifers will wean more total pounds of calf during their lifetime than those conceiving late in the breeding season."

A demonstration by the Extension Service in Victoria County showed that the combination of estrous synchronization in heifers and 30 days earlier exposure to bulls can have a substantial impact on expected returns to cow-calf producers. Working with Sprott in the demonstration was Victoria County Extension agent Darrell Dromgoole.

In the demonstration 50 virgin heifers were divided into four groups: those exposed 30 days early with synchronization, those exposed 30 days early without synchronization, those exposed at the normal start of the breeding season with synchronization, and those exposed normally without synchronization. All synchronized heifers were given one shot of a commercially marketed prostaglandin compound and then turned in with the bulls.

Results show that the early exposed synchronized heifers will return $25.25 more per head than heifers exposed at the normal start of the breeding season without synchronization. Heifers exposed early without synchronization will return $13.38 more per head than those exposed normally without synchronization.

"These are expected returns above the cost of labor and the synchronization drug based on pregnancy rates and daily calf gains of 1.8 pounds per head," notes Sprott.

Heifers exposed at the normal start of the breeding season and receiving a shot will return $3.15 per head more than their unsynchronized counterparts, adds the specialist. "This $3.15 increase would be higher if more of the synchronized heifers had become pregnant," notes Sprott. "Failure to conceive in this group of heifers was due to the fact that some were not cycling, and they must be cycling to respond to the synchronization drug."

"Success with the currently marketed synchronizing drugs depends a great deal on the percentage of females cycling prior to receiving the drug," the specialist points out. "In this study the drug did not pay for itself if less than 60 percent of the heifers were cycling."

According to Sprott, the demonstration illustrates that in a herd of normal cycling heifers, synchronization by itself and a 30-day early exposure to bulls have the potential to generate more income and help reduce the costs of growing and maintaining replacement heifers. The combination of synchronization and early exposure to bulls looks even more promising.

"The unique thing about these treatments is that they lend themselves well to commercial cattlemen who are not using artificial insemination," emphasizes Sprott. "All heifers in this demonstration were pasture-bred by bulls. Obviously, artificial insemination could have enhanced the genetic value of offspring and thus created additional income."

Water not taken for granted

Residents of the Texas High Plains generally enjoy a knowledge that they have a good source of high quality water from the Ogallala aquifer to meet their needs. However, the quality of this water, which is used for both agricultural and municipal purposes, cannot be taken for granted.

Irrigation water quality can affect crop growth. For instance, high salt concentrations can significantly reduce a plant's ability to utilize water. Thus, monitoring water quality is extremely important.

The High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 cooperates with the Texas Water Development Board and the Texas Department of Health to protect the quality of water in the Ogallala aquifer through a water quality monitoring program that has been in operation since 1976.

Basically, the district takes water samples in select areas within its service area each year, sampling wells in each area approximately once every five years on a rotating basis. The Texas Department of Health, under contract with the Water Development Board, analyzes the water samples. Results are shared with the Water District and, in turn, with the owners of the wells sampled.

Water District Geohydrologic Division Director Don McReynolds explains, "We're collecting samples of water from the District's network of privately-owned water-level observation wells to establish baseline water quality data in new wells and to monitor changes in water quality in wells previously sampled."

"We're sampling observation wells because most of these wells have been sampled previously. This way we can compare each new analysis to previous analyses to see if there's been a change in water quality. However, if for some reason, we cannot obtain a sample from the observation well, we may select a pumping well as an alternate to get a water sample."

The District carries out its own water sampling effort as well, checking areas where there may be a high risk of water contamination. For instance, the District routinely samples in areas where petroleum production activities may create water quality problems.

"We sample wells in areas of potential contamination, such as feedlots, sewage disposal areas and industrial waste disposal areas, where there is a greater risk to water quality as a result of these activities," McReynolds notes.

Over the years, the most common problem associated with water quality in the District's service area has been high concentrations of sodium chloride and other salts, which are often associated with oil field activities.

If contamination is found, District personnel sample other nearby wells to determine the extent and, if possible, identify the cause. The District also notifies well owners of the problem and provides suggestions for corrective measures. However, if the problem lies within the jurisdiction of other agencies such as the Texas Water Commission, the Texas Railroad Commission or the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, then these authorities are informed of the problem.

The water quality analysis process consists of tests for selected chemical constituents, including chlorides, sulfates, nitrates and fluorides, as well as other elements.

CARD OF THANKS

Dear Friends,
Words can never express the depth of our gratitude for the outpouring of love and support during our time of grief. At times like this, it is so reassuring to see and feel the unity of old friends and new friends toward a common goal — to reaffirm the commitment of true and lasting friendship. That exemplifies the cloud with the silver lining which gives us hope and courage when we feel such a deep sense of loss for our loved one, M.D. Arterburn. The kindness and thoughtfulness of your deeds are gifts that we could ever receive. For all that you have done, our family thanks you. We will hold you in our hearts and minds always.

Sincerely,
The M.D. Arterburn Family
Lorene, Deanne and Tony

9-11p

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation for the many kind deeds our neighbors and friends have shown us during Alfred's illness. He is convalescing nicely at home now.

The prayers, beautiful flowers, food, cards and calls were deeply appreciated.

May God's richest blessing be with you.

The family of Alfred Harrison
