We would have to admit to a great

But then a lot of things sort of got in the

Two county races were decided Tuesday in the Democratic Primary and another goes into a April 12 run-off.

Hulon Carthel and Connie D. Bearden, survivors among the five men vying to become commissioner in Precinct One, are headed into the run-off. Carthel polled 225 votes, Bearden was named on 170 ballots, incumbent Sam Spence received 149 votes, Delmas

McCormick garnered 137 and Bill Hopper had 113.

A run-off will not be necessary to determine the commissioner in Precinct Three. George Taylor's 199 votes gave him a plurality against incumbent Thomas Warren, 95 votes, and D.R. (Richard) Sanders, 24.

In the lone county-wide race, Penny Golightly polled 1,492 votes to 391 for Carolyn L. Redding for county tax assessor-collector.

Since there were no Republican candidates for either tax assessorcollector or commissioner, the Democratic nominees are elected to four-year

GORE FAVORED SLIGHTLY

In the Democratic presidential preference, Al Gore had a slight 536 to 500 edge over Michael S. Dukakis. In a crowded, 11-man field, the pair badly outdistanced their opponents.

Dick Gephardt polled 314, Jesse L. Jackson received 172 votes and Gary Hart made it into the three-figure plateau with 118. Other candidates were: Paul Simon, 26; Bruce Babbitt, who has withdrawn from the race, 12; David E. Duke, 9; Lyndon H. LaRouche Jr., 8; Norbert G. Dennerll Jr., 4; and W.A. Williams, 3.

Floydada resident Randy Hollums, district attorney for the 110th Judicial District, carried his home county by a wide margin. Hollums was named on 1,292 ballots. Bill Sarpalius received 281 votes and Ed Lehman polled 177.

In another race which attracted local attention, Warren Chisum strongly carried Floyd County in his successful bid for the Democratic nomination as state representative from District 84. Chisum was favored by 809-363 against J.J. Barlow, Jr.

He will vie against a Republican opponent in the November general election. The victor is to succeed the retiring Foster Whaley.

county has approximately 5,019 registered voters.

A referendum appearing on the Democratic ballot was favored by an overwhelming 1,218 to 218 majority. It stated: Texans shall maintain their right to select judges by a direct vote of the people rather than change to an appointment process created by the legislature."

This is a non-binding referendum. Four county officials were unopposed on the Democratic ballot. The men and their vote totals: Bill Hardin, county judge, 1,433; Kenneth Bain Jr., county attorney, 1,321; Fred A. Cardinal, sheriff, 1,472; and Kay Crabtree, commissioner, Precinct Four, 349. Hardin and Crabtree were elected to complete unexpired terms.

Cardinal will vie against Ray Macha, the Republican nominee, in the general election. None of the others had a Republican opponent.

OTHER POSITIONS

GOP favors George Bush

George Bush was the overwhelming favorite of Floyd County Republicans, garnering 162 of the 231 ballots cast Tuesday in the party primary's presidential preference.

Pat Robertson ran a distance second, receiving 27 votes. Bob Dole was named on 25 ballots, Jack Kemp received 16 and one "uncommitted" vote was cast.

An even greater favorite was Beau Boulter, who is serving as this area's congressman, in his bid for the GOP senatorial nomination. Boulter picked up 216 votes to 6 for Wes Gilbreath, 3 End near for South Plains School for Milton E. Fox and 1 for Ned Snead.

The closest race in the Republican primary was for U.S. Representative from the 13th congressional District. Only 11 votes separated the top three contenders: Bob Price, 52; Larry Milner, 48; and Jim Brandon, 41. Other candidates were: Alan Pickering, 25; Chip Staniswalis, 17; and Ron Buffum, Gary Ivey of neighboring Crosby County received a 125-66 margin against Tom Christian for state representative, District 84.

The next problem will be "what do we do now?" In former days the primaries were in the heat of summer. Now they are not far removed from the dead of winter. Only a few days ago there was snow on the ground. That makes endeavors such as this quite risky. Still, it was a success. And we suspect that success breeds success. We'll see. If you have feelings on the matter, let us know.

As to the election itself, I'd have to admit to some surprises. Not in the Presidential vote, which went about as we expected. But we were genuinely surprised at the way some of the local races went, and we think our surprise was shared by a lot of folks. We, all of us, have just witnessed another exercise in democracy, and that is good. Think how unique it is in this great big world of ours, how many people worldwide long for that opportunity. And the staff of these newspapers is modestly, if justifiably, proud to have been a part of

LAMAR MEDALLION RECIPIENT - Graham H. Childress, Grand Master of Texas Masons, presents a Mirabeau B. Lamar medallion to Floydada High student Pam Lockwood during a Texas Public Schools Week address by Childress on Monday night in A.E. Baker Auditorium at Floydada High School. Local Masons pointed out that 1,000 of the medals were struck for Texas students and, since they were not to be distributed prior to March 7 and Grand Master Childress was in Floydada that night, Miss Lockwood may well have been the first medallion recipient. The Mirabeau B. Lamar medallion's recipient exemplifies the tenents of Freemasonary — that of outstanding character, citizenship and academics. She was chosen by a special committee. Lamar is regarded as "The father of Texas public schools." In addition to the medallion, Floydada Lodge #712 AF&AM also provided a scholarship for Miss Lockwood. "We have planned all this school year for the exhibit," continued Mrs. Hale. "The students have art only two or three periods per week, so we try to be organized and utilize every possible minute of class time in order to accomplish what we need to do."

Gail Burden Hale has been interested in art since childhood and has done some painting herself. There are several pieces of her work on display in the bank. She likes watercolor, acrylic, and oil. "Now that my time is devoted to my family and to teaching, very little time remains for painting," she said.

After graduating from McMurry College with a degree in Elementary Education and a specialization in Art, Gail married Richard Hale and came to Floydade in 1976. The Hales have two daughters. She taught pre-kindergarten and first grade at A.B. Duncan, and 6th grade Science at R.C. Andrews before becoming the full-time art instructor there. She is in her third year in that

Our American Heritage and My Responsibility To Preserve It By David Graves

Americans have had a long and successful history in the two hundred years of our existance. The great part of our heritage lies not in our military power, economic strength, or even our high standard of living. Rather, it lies in our governmental ideals, the attempt to make a land where one can be free to the greatest possible extent; free from tyranny, prejudice and oppression. This is the first time in human history that a government protected the rights of those who criticized it. All citizens have the responsibility to keep watch over our government, and to use our political voice to keep any one person or group of people from becoming too powerful. We must also watch with care to see that the fragile civil rights which we enjoy are not removed. We have the power to control our government, but we must use it or we will lose the control we must have for our fair and just system to work. We must note, we must be always aware of the laws whic we live under, and to weigh with care any change to be made. We must be responsible citizens. But the enemies to our freedom are not only inside of our government, but outside also. Every citizen must be prepared to do his or her part to defend our Constitution, and our system of government. America must be at the forefront of all the free world. We must not compromise in our defense of democracy. We must be slow to fight, using all other methods first, but if it comes to a fight, we must be willing to

Our American heritage is a strong and noble thing, but it is also fragile and needs constant care. Americans must watch with care, for enemies of our ideals within and without. We must be free to voice our opinions, but we must write against any threat of tyranny.

Our American Heritage and My Responsibility to Preserve It By Todd Hallmark

For over 200 years, the Constitution written by our forefathers has been through the test of time. Though the government and the Constitution has been expanded through the years its will always serve as the basic concepts such as our freedom.

The first ten amendments deal with the Bill of Rights. Within these Ten Amendments there are rights that are very important to our daily lives. In those amendments they contain Freedom of Speech, life, liberty, Freedom, and the pursuit of happiness. The Constitution also brings forth another important factor and that is the Constitution is "We, The People of the United States." By that I mean the Constitution serves the majority and not just those who have great influence on our lives. The government itself serves "We, The People of the United States.'

Knowing that not just the word "Democracy" will provide us our freedom our forefathers set up a three branch government - legislature, executive and judicial. Not all men are good men; therefore, that's why they have the three branch government. Congress is able to make the laws while the President has the power to either veto the law or pass it. The judicial government may only interpret the law.

Thomas Jefferson said, "If the nation expects to be ignorant and free...it expects what never was and never will be." We, as citizens, must educate others of their rights and that they are able to express their opinion. We must strive to live according to the law and serve our country to the best of our ability.

Voting is an important part of our job. Voting is a chance for one to voice it's opinion toward a proposition or lawmaking. We as citizens should educate others to the issues being voted and that their vote is very crucial to the running of our country.

The two-party system is another way in which a person may express it's opinion. It is our responsibilty to support one of the two parties and preserve patriotism.

Serving our country may not always come as easy as we would like it. Sometimes one must sacrifice their lives for our country. So, freedom does not come to us, we must put forth effort, time, responsibilities, and sometimes lives. We as people of the United States must always appreciate those who do serve in the Armed Forces.

Our forefathers built a strong government for us to live by. "We, the People" must strive, work, appreciate, educate and live according to the laws that our forefathers built for us to live because of the years it has had time to develop. Although while building it, we have still retained the two basic ideas. Those particular ideas being privileges and responsibilities. Once these are understood I can understand my responsibilities to preserve it.

Our privileges are many, but they are rooted to two basic concepts: Democracy and freedom. Democracy is the belief that all people no matter what their beliefs have an equal share in controlling our government. Within this privilege we have the right to share our feelings no matter their point of view to any issue that we may encounter. Our second privilege is that of freedom. This allows us to do as we wish and not be persecuted for it as long as it doesn't harm the democracy we have established or another individual. To preserve these privileges we have responsibili-

Our responsibilities include the protection of our nation, our need to select the proper people to office, and to support the nation with money. We must be ready to join the armies to defend our nation and privileges that we have. We must also go out and vote to insure our beliefs and rights. Last but not least we must pay for our governments dealings and to support our

These are my responsibilities and yours. Without these our heritage and our nation are at stake.

The Watchdogs of the Treasury today announced that Congressman Beau Boulter (R-13) will receive their highest award in a ceremony marked for March Boulter will receive the 'Golden Bulldog Award' because of his outstanding voting record in the first session of the 100th Congress.

Since its inception in 1964, the 'Golden Bulldog Award' has been presented to those Members of Congress who, by their votes, have de strated their commitment to fiscal responsibility. President and Chief Executive Officer of the group, George Koch, praised Boulter for his voting record saying, "your steadfastness in these times of tough economic choices deserves recognition. We are proud to have the opportunity to present you with the 'Golden Bulldog Award' as a symbol of our appreciation."

Female Deaths

In the last thirty years, there has been a 700 percent increase in the number of lung cancer deaths among women, according to the American Cancer Society. This reflects the later adoption of smoking by large numbers of women and a growing population.

Koch said that this is the third consecutive year that Boulter has received the award.

"I'm honored to be given this award," Boulter said. "The challenge for the future is to encourage more Congressmen to vote to save taxpayers

A Nov. 12, 1925 issue of The Floyd County Hesperian, brought to the newspaper office by O.M. Watson Jr., bears an advertisement for "The Freshman," a comedy moving starring Harold Lloyd, which is to play Nov. 19-20 at the Olympic Theatre in Floydada. It is billed as "the biggest laugh you've had this year."

"This had to be a silent film," The Hesperian was told, "as The Olympic never had sound."

The Olympic Theatre was located where the First National Bank drive-in bank presently is located.

End near for South Plains School

Attending the meeting was a parent who had allowed her son to have an ear pierced and wear an earring. His coach removed him from athletics and stated that he could not participate if he wore the earring at any time. The mother requested the board to allow her son to wear the earring "when he is not at school or involved in athletics."

The board opted to let the "coach and principal" handle the situation as they see fit. The no earring ban for boys in athletic will therefore stand. It was pointed out that the student had been returned to the athletic program and is not wearing the earring at present. HOMECOMING DISPUTE

Ex-Floydada student Hulon Carthel appeared before the board to present his views on the manner in which Homecoming had been set for the 1988-89 calendar. Carthel told the board "I am here on my own, not as a representative of the homecoming committee, to protest the way the date was chosen this time. In the past, the homecoming committee of the exstudents association and the school worked together to arrive at a date for the event, held every four years."

Carthel expressed his doubts that this had been the case this year, saying, "The ex-students prefer a date in October and are usually offered a choice of games to select the date. It is my understanding that the date was set and we were told that was it.'

Principal Ronnie Wood stated, "We were contacted by Larry Barbee, but the date was set by us.'

Superintendent Jerry Cannon pointed out that school starts on a Thursday next fall and "the first game is the next day." Cannon stated "Coach Overton did not want homecoming to be during a conference game and the last two non-conference games are away." This leaves either the first game of the season, on September 2, or the third game of the season, on September 16, for homecoming. The date was set as September 16.

Carthel suggested that in light of the efforts of ex-students to support the school, future homecoming decisions should be based on a fair policy arrived at by talking with the past presidents of the association. He stated, "Coach Overton deserves a say in this because it involves a football game, but I feel that the committee does too." Carthel

Cannon explained that Overton feels homecoming puts too much pressure on the boys and involves too many distractions during conference play.

The board asked that the date be set by "working with the homecoming committee in the future."

SPRING ACTIVITIES

Wood presented several questions that have come up concerning spring activities and asked for the board's opinion on them.

A parental request that tickets be issued for the May graduation ceremony was denied. Graduation will continue to be open to any who wish to attend and seating will be on a first come, first serve basis.

Also concerning graduation, Wood pointed out that many wish to take pictures during the ceremony. The board authorized that Jack Robertson be allowed to continue photographing the diploma awards and no other cameras be allowed. Parents may purchase photos from Robertson if they

The board also opted to continue the past practice of holding "closed" proms and banquets. Only the students involved in the event will be allowed to attend. The Junior-Senior Banquet will be limited to only junior and senior students who attend school at FHS. No dates from other schools or lower classes will be permitted. The banquet this year will be a buffet service in an effort to save money as "funds are short this time."

ADDITIONAL CLASSROOMS

Board action authorized administrative assistant Jimmie Collins to pursue building additional classrooms at A.B. Duncan this year. The addition of students from Doughterty and South Plains will mean the need for extra space said Collins. He presented plans for a 3 room addition at both Duncan and Andrews. The board approved advertising for bids on the Duncan project and will pursue the Andrews addition as soon as the federal paperwork is available. The Duncan project will be financed with state funds.

Advertisements for bids will also be made to sell two school buses. The two, both 1971 models, will be sold to the highest bidder. A new 54 passenger bus will be purchased on a motion by John Dunlap, seconded by Pruitt, and passed unanimously by the board.

The school calendar for 1988-89 was approved as first presented last month on a motion from Michael Hinsley, seconded by Hardy. Passage of the motion followed discussion of local comments concerning having a spring break or a series of long weekends. Opinion ran slightly in favor of spring

The board also approved the selections made by the textbook committee for purchasing new texts for next year.

A survey of the teachers to secure input concerning their work environment and satisfaction will be formulated by a committee composed of teachers, board members and building principals. The object of the survey is to secure "positive input to improve the system."

Collins reported to the board on asbestos regulation in the district, progress on the floor of the Junior High auditorium and tax collections. Collections now total $831,509, representing 92.72 percent of the role. This compares to collections of 90.91 percent at this time last year.

Board approval was given for a North Ward-Della Plains Community reunion June 17 and 18. The ex-students and residents of the area will be meeting at Della Plains School.

The purchase of a workout mat for the field house was approved on a motion by Hardy, seconded by Garcia, and passed unanimously.

Attending the meeting were board members Freddie Morren, Charlene Brown, Hinsley, Pruitt, Dunlap, Garcia and Hardy. In addition, superintendent Cannon was present along with administrative assistant Collins, SPISD board members Ira Henderson, Nathan Johnson, Sue Givins, Fred Marble and Carrolton Cummings. Others attending included Hulon Carthel, Barbara Hernandez, Jerry Livingston, Harvey Allen, Ronnie Wood, Joe Christian, Bobbie Weir, Joe Stepp and the Hesperian

Just as grains, legumes, and other crops may be produced to feed livestock, they also can be the feedstock of energy. Agricultural waste products, methane produced from sorghum, alcohol produced from grain and plant oil fuels all can be used as energy sources.

Within the agriculture industry, many wastes are used economically. Rice hulls, sugarcane excess, peanut hulls, and other items are burned to produce some of the energy used in their own processing.

Likewise, agricultural wastes and residues such as cotton gin trash, sorghum stalks or wheat straw could be used to produce steam, a low BTU gas, or electricity.

A paper by Ronald D. Lacewell and Sharif M. Masud, agricultural economists with the Texas Agricultural experiment Station, considers the economic implications of energy production from agricultural residues and wastes, methane production from grains and plant oil substitutes for diesel.

Fossil fuels currently are the most economical; still, uncertainty pervades the energy economy, the researchers say. Because fossil fuels are finite, alternative fuel sources will begin to evolve in ever-increasing importance,

For an agricultural operation such as a large cotton gin, using the cotton gin trash for energy production is becoming economically feasible, the researchers say. Operations that are in swing throughout the year and are close to the waste product are the best candidates for utilizing agricultural residues and waste products, they say.

"In a facility such as a cotton oil mill, which operates year round, requires substantial heat for drying, and either uses large quantities of electricity or is in a position to sell the electricity into a distribution grid, the economic and financial feasibility are both positive," Lacewell and Masud say. In addition, the cost of disposal of the trash is reduced or eliminated.

Producing methane from grains is another energy alternative, and a large

Solar energy is useful for heating water and in space heating the home, but using solar power to generate electricity is another matter, Lacewell and Masud say.

Solar thermal power plants utilize relatively complicated equipment and are expected to be operated only by large enterprises or utilities having qualified technicians," they say. At present, solar power plants are not competitive, and commercial ventures are not expected until some cost advantages develop, the scientists say.

In a previous study by Lacewell, an average speed of 12 miles per hour or more was required for a wind energy system to be profitable. Although that is the case for the Texas High Plains, the economic incentive is not great, and wind machines are not being widely

'88 pest management demonstration plans

By C. Mark Brown Extension Agent-Entomology [PM]

Crosby/Floyd Counties Each year, demonstrations concerning field crop production, range management, livestock production, vegetable production and pest management are conducted in Crosby and Floyd counties by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. These demonstrations are conducted to keep producers abreast of the latest advances in agricultural technology, and to demonstrate proven methods to help producers maximize profits.

These demonstrations are planned and developed by local Extension agents and by Crosby and Floyd County Pest Management Crops and Livestock committees. The demonstrations are then conducted by the Extension agents with the help of volunteer demonstration cooperators. The following plans include a brief overview of the major pest management demonstrations planned for the 1988 growing season. Producers interested in these or any other topics may wish to have a demonstration conducted on their own farm.

Nineteenth District Congressman Larry Combest and State Soil and Water Conservationist Wes Oneth have been confirmed as speakers for the 31st annual meeting of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., officials of the cotton producer organization have announced.

The meeting is slated to begin at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, April 7, in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center after the 9 a.m. grand opening of the Texas Cotton Ginners Association Convention and Trade Show at the same location. The PCG meeting is scheduled for the west end of the Center's Banquet Hall. Attendees will be given tickets to a PCG buffet luncheon in the east end of the Banquet Hall following the scheduled adjournment at noon.

The TCGA convention will continue through Saturday, April 9, and is expected to draw in excess of 5,000 ginners, producers, oil millers, compress operators and others in the industry from throughout the Cotton

The timing of the PCG meeting is such that conflicts with TCGA activities are avoided, and PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson emphasizes that all producers, ginners and other interested parties are invited to both functions.

Representative Combest is expected to discuss and answer questions on current and upcoming agricultural issues in Washington, with special attention focused on those that will bear directly on cotton producers and support industries in the High Plains area.

State Conservationist Oneth, based in Temple, has been asked to clarify Soil Conservation Service criteria for acceptability of conservation plans required under the fragile lands section of the Food Security Act of 1985. To retain benefits under any federal government program, almost all farm operators on the High Plains will have to adopt and secure SCS approval of a conservation plan by December 31, 1989. The plan will have to be fully implemented by the

"Oneth will be a key figure in compliance with this part of the law," Johnson says, "and can give producers a better understanding of what is expected of them."

The PCG meeting also will include the president's address, the executive vice president's report and progress reports from committees in charge of specific PCG programs.

The 50-man PCG Board, now in the process of being elected in a series of 25 county meetings over the area, will meet after the membership meeting for the election of 1988-89 officers and other business. Current officers include President Myrl D. Mitchell of Lenorah, Vice President Steve Verett of Ralls and Secretary-Treasurer Larry Nelson of Tulia. Mitchell will have served the maximum two years as president and automatically becomes chairman of the board. Verett and Nelson have served only one year in their current positions and both are eligible for re-election or election to another office.

APHID INFESTATION

DEMONSTRATION

Recent studies conducted in Oklahoma indicate that aphids tend to infest clean-tilled fields more readily than conservation tillage fields. This is thought to be due to visual cues received by the aphids from the amount of light being reflected from the soil surface. Demonstration work has been planned to study natural aphid infestation in conventionally tilled vs. minimum tilled fields of cotton or grain sorghum, as well as aphid infestation in solid plantings vs. skip row.

THRIPS CONTROL STUDIES

Thrips are a much more serious threat to High Plains cotton than was once thought. Plans for the 1988 growing season include demonstrating the cost effectiveness of at-planting insecticide applications to control heavy thrips pressure from adjacent, surrounding wheat.

RUSSIAN WHEAT APHID STUDIES

The Russian wheat aphid is a new and serious threat to small grain production in our area. Research and Demonstration needs are wide-open for this insect.

MONITORING OF PYRETHROID RESISTANCE

Although virtually no bollworm budworm resistance to synthetic pyrethroids has been detected in the High Plains, other areas of the state, including the Brazos River Bottom, Scurry County and the Midland area have experienced pyrethroid control failures. Pyrethroid resistance in bollworm-budworm populations will be monitored in our area as part of a statewide resistance monitoring program.

FLY CONTROL

Control of horn flies has been proved to yield net returns for cattle producers. Horn fly control has been hampered in recent years, however, due to developed resistance to the pyrethroid activated ear tags. Demonstration work is planned for this topic, as well as premise control around barns and livestock pens.

These are some of the major demonstration topics planned for 1988. Others may be initiated as requested by Crosby-Floyd producers, or as opportunities for in-season demonstration work are realized.

If you are interested in having one of these demonstration conducted on your own farm, please contact the Entomologist's office (675-2426) or your local county agent. Also, if you have any ideas on demonstrations you would like to see conducted on your farm, please don't hesitate to call. The best and most pertinant demonstration results for our area often originate from individual

Just how are these demonstrations implemented? Normally, a volunteer cooperator interested in the study provides a small plot of land, accessible to viewing by other producers in the agent which will allow a true representation of each treatment in the final results. In the case of insect control demonstrations, a small area within the plots is normally left untreated for comparison purposes. The producer normally provides eq uipment and assistance in planting the demonstration and taking harvest samples at the end of the season. Any chemical or special seed requirement is normally provided through the agent. The agent is involved in collecting field data for the demonstration. Crop harvested from the plots belongs to the producer, and he is responsible for managing the crop in the same way he manages the rest of his fields. Results of the demonstration are provided to the producer and are printed for distribution in the County Result Demonstration Handbook and annual Pest Management Report.

Result demonstrations are a very important part of local Extension education efforts, and the success of these demonstrations is acquired through the volunteer efforts of demonstration coop-
