Moore-Rose sold to Tahoka couple

The Moore-Rose Funeral Home of Floydada and Lockney has been sold as of December 1, 1988 to Don and Billie White Everett of Tahoka and their son, Gary White of Idalou. The newly purchased business will operate under the name of Moore-Rose-White Funeral Home.

Edell Moore came to Floydada in January of 1951, and went to work for Frank Harmon, who owned the funeral home at that time. In 1954 he became a partner in the business with Harmon and acquired all of the business in 1964.

Alton Rose came to the business in 1961 and later formed a partnership with Moore in 1966.

Moore will continue to work at the funeral home until all is established with the new owners. Rose is planning to retire and move with his wife, Frances, to Athens and be close to his grandchildren. "I want to enjoy my grandkids and do some fishing," said Rose. The Rose's have two sons, Tim who is a fireman in Dallas and Kim who is a postman in Athens. They had one son, Rex, who passed away five years ago at the age of 29. They also have five grandchildren.

Edell who has been married to Lovene for 14 years, has two daughters, Janet Kay Julian of Amarillo and Jenis Tucker of Grand Junction. Lovene also has two daughters, Charlotte Sutton of Auburn, Alabama, and Sharon Vickers

"We want to thank the people of Floydada, Lockney and the surrounding area for all the kindness they have shown to us over the years, and for the many friends that we have made," said

"We feel that the needs of our friends will be cared for in a very special way with the White and Everett family. They have been in the funeral business in a town like Floydada for many years," continued Moore.

"The Whites and Everetts are very proud to be a part of this area and will do all they can to serve the needs of the area," said Moore.

"This has not been an easy decision to make," said Rose. "We feel like the Everett-White family will continue to give you the kind of service we've given you over the years. We've tried to leave our business in the hands of caring people so that we can retire without any worry that you will not be taken care of. We feel after many years of service to the area that the time is right for us to "The White name is well known and respected in the South Plains and West Texas area and we feel they will continue to meet your needs as we have in th past. We will do everything we can to assist them so the transition will be smooth. If you have pre-arrangements with us, we assure you the arrangements will be honored by the new owners," said Rose.

The new owners, Don and Billie White Everett and son Gary White, also have funeral homes in Tahoka and Idalou. Billie and her husband Martin White, started the Tahoka business 35 years ago. After the death of her husband, in 1972, Billie continued with the business. In February, 1987 another funeral home was opened in Idalou, also under the name of White's Funeral

Billie has been licensed since 1959 as a funeral director and also has a teaching certificate in Elementary Education. She started the Distributive Education in Tahoka, and was the first woman president of the West Texas Region Funeral Directors Assoc. She has also served as director of the Texas Funeral Directors Association for several years. She married Don Everett in 1983.

Everett is a retired Vocational Agriculture teacher of 20 years. He is now a farmer-rancher in Borden County, and helps in all areas of the funeral business which is not prohibited by law.

Son, Gary White, will be associated in the business with his parents. White is a mortician and manager of the funeral home in Idalou. "He will help in all operations of the funeral homes," said Mrs. Everett. A graduate of Texas Tech with a degree in Ag Economics, White graduated from mortuary school in Dallas, in 1984.

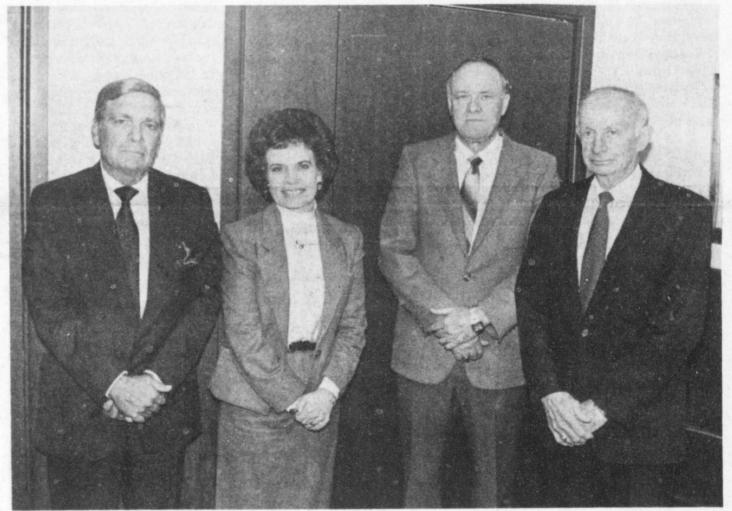

"He has received numerous honors from Tech and is active in civic organizations in Idalou. He will be coming to Floydada and Lockney as needed.

"The Lockney office will be run by Quaid and Rosa Richburg of Sweetwater. They will live in Lockney, and until the office position is filled in Floydada he will also be in charge of the Floydada office.

Quaid is a licensed funeral director and embalmer with over 25 years of experience. His wife, Rosa, will be working in Lockney along with Dowell Brewer. She will be serving her apprenticeship in funeral service. The Richburgs have two children. Their 13 year old daughter, Tonie will be moving with them to Lockney.

Jan Poteet will continue as secretary in the Floydada office.

"We would like to thank all our friends for the trust you've placed in us," said Alton Rose. "We hope we have in some way made your time a little eas-

Parker Furniture closing doors after 47 years

Parker Furniture is closing their doors after serving the Floydada community for 47 years. The floor of the business is almost vacant of furniture after a reduction sale that brought people from all over the South Plains.

Originally the Mitchell Furniture and Hardware Store, this business was established sometime before 1916.

Started by brothers C.W. and R.B. Mitchell, it was a combination hardware, furniture and undertaking store. The shop was first opened in a little wood building on the north side of California Street. It was later moved to the Farris building at the corner of Main and California on the south side of the street. Mr. S.C. Harmon, who went to work for the Mitchells in 1919, ran the undertaking business on the top floor. In 1921, Harmon bought out the Mitchells and continued to run all areas of the business. In 1941 he sold the furniture business to Grady Parker and Harmon remained in the funeral business. Mr. Parker moved to Floyd County from Leon County in 1919. His son

Newell, was only four at the time. Newell Parker married Polly 52 years ago on Nov. 8, 1936. "We were never fortunate enough to have children," said Newell. He then came to work for his father in 1946, after returning from three years of service in the South Pacific. "We carried all kinds of furniture and appliances then and we always have," said Parker. In 1948, another store was added in Lockney, which was run by Herschel Swepston, the brother-in-law of Newell Parker. The store will continue as a separate business and will not be closing along with the Floydada store. Parker acquired the store from his father in 1970.

Helping out in the store over the years has been Newell's sister, Hazel Swepston, who has kept the books in Floydada. Also with the firm for 23 years as salesman and repairman, has been Don Payne. He will continue to work out of his home servicing all home appliances and vacuum cleaners.

The sale of furniture at Parkers willcontinue through the week with all furniture marked down to 10% over

"We have third and fourth generation people coming into this store," said 73year-old Parker. "I'm going to miss working, because I've always loved to work. But while I'm still able I want to get some things done that I haven't had time to do in the past."

"The Christmas Brunch, sponsored by the Floydada Unit of the American Cancer Society, has gained the reputation of being one of the most festive events of the season," said Linda Matsler, president of the local board.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Alice

Over the past several weeks Floydada has shown their love and concern toward their fellowmen by supplying the Spirit of Sharing with an abundance of food and other contributions given during the community-wide Thanksgiving church services.

The Book of Psalms is the hymn book and prayer book of the Bible in which a portion of one verse reads "He rescues the poor who calls to him, and those who are needy and neglected." As the shelves at SOS were filled with food supplied by you, the joy in our hearts toward the communities' generosity overflowed with Christian love. You have once again supplied the needy.

There are too many to thank individually, but through the Hesperian, all of SOS volunteers wish to express their appreciation to the Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts who braved blizzard like conditions to collect 558 canned items, the youth of First Methodist Church who filled sack after sack of groceries, the people of all denominations of participating churches who donated funds the night of the church-wide worship, to all ministers who presented a part of the church service and the beautiful music. To every one who had a part we "thank you."

All we volunteers at Spirit of Sharing can only say "God Bless you as only He can," have a good holiday season and don't forget because you gave, someone less fortunate will have their needs met through the Spirit of Sharing.

Thank You Again from All of SOS Volunteers Peggy Medley, President

Grubbing mesquite wood during the 30's depression

By Will Martin

In 1932 the depression probably had reached its deepest gloom and losest hopes for financial success and reasonable gain. The banks almost all over the world "as we knew the world then", had bailed and thousands of people lost all they owned. Many people were almost starved and with few of the needful things of life.

My sister and brother-in-law had the year before traded a small sandy land farm south of Roaring Springs as payment on a quarter section farm two miles east of what was Blanco school house at that time.

George Yandell was his name. Mary was my sister's name. They had five children then, two boys and three girls from nineteen years old back to five. George had been reared in the timber.

George always called mama and papa, Grannie and Grandpa, and he called me, Uncle Billy.

Some of our family heard that Echols ranch was offering wood for fuel to anyone that would grub it and haul it off of the land. George asked Papa to let Uncle Billy have our wagon and team and he would take his own rig, and we would take some feed for the teams and eats for ourselves and go down to Echols ranch and get a couple of loads of fire wood.

One day George greased his high wheel wagon. The method he used was to use the double tree pin that had a U or you might say a "yoo" shaped top that was used to take the axle nut of of the axle. Then he would put his back to the wheel, pull it almost off. A two pound box of that old dark axle grease was then opened. A paddle was dipped in the grease and spread around the axle two or three times. Then the wheel was pushed back on and the nut was screwed back on. Of course all four wheels were in about three inches of snow. We got up greased this way.

Papa's wagon was an iron low wheel different to George's wagon. If I remember correctly we took the wheel nut off and would sit down facing the wagon with a foot and leg on each side of the wheel. We would scoot the wheel nearly off. Then we would take the paddle and cover the axle well with grease and kick the wheel back in place, and screw the nut back on. All four wheels were done this way. Other people had other ways to grease the wheels of a wagon or buggy but the past description was our habit.

We loaded all the things that we thought we might need after we greased the wagons and were ready to start our trip the next day. As the sun came up the next morning we were two or three miles down the Silverton road. We soon turned east down the road that took us past Center school and we went on east to Rushing Chapel or Church house, I know that Center school house is long since torn down and disposed of and hear that Rushing Chapel is also gone. All the marking left is the grave yard where Mr. and Mrs. S.L. Rushing are buried among other people. I'understand that Mr. Rushing gave the land for the chapel and cemetery. If I remember correctly the Rushing's two story home about one half mile southeast of the chapel was still standing when we were on our wood trip. But it has since burned.

My brother-in-law, George told me he was once a hired hand for Mr. Rushing before he married my sister Mary. I was only about three years old when Mary and George married.

Here is another throw in about the Rushings. When I was in the second grade Lula Bell was my teacher. She was to me a sweet and good teacher.

I don't remember where we stopped and ate dinner and let the mules eat and rest. We picked up some scrap sticks and made a fire to fry bacon and "taters" and boiled coffee. George and my Mama made the strongest coffee and also the hottest, I ever drank. George would pour his coffee out in a cup with always a saucer under the cup. Then he would pour some in the saucer and blow on it to cool it a little before drinking. (About the strong part) - The others in the family always said the coffee George and Mama made would float a battle ship or an iron wedge. On a trip like we were on we would use an empty three pound can to make the coffee in as the camp fire would blacken a home coffee pot to bad, and we didn't have a large regular camp

We finished eating, hitched the mules to the wagons and went on down the white flat road that had a few bends in it.

The skies had high thin clouds most all day that became heavier as we reached Echols ranch headquarters trunk of the tree. The feeder roots about four o'clock. The headquarters were about seven miles under the Caprock. That is if I'm not wrong.

There was a windmill and stock tank near the road. George went over and asked the two ranch hands that were working on the windmill if we were at the right place and where we were to go to grub the mesquite. They told us to go south about one half mile and we would find the edge of where others had started grubbing and that would be where to begin. We drove by the stock tank and let the mules get a drink and filled our water jugs. Then we went to where the men told us to go and took the harness off the mules, gave them some feed and got ready to eat a little supper.

George put a couple of spoonfulls of ground coffee on top of his dinner grounds adding some water and boiled it on our camp fire. The coffee was so strong and bitter I took the heartburn from what I drank.

He would add to it for about four meals before he emptied the container and made fresh coffee. We will leave most of the meal details off to save space as we all know we eat pretty regular.

This first night we spread half of a wagon sheet on a level place and put two quilts down to lay on. Then spread two more to cover with. Then we pulled off our shoes and coats. We left on our pants and shirts, and crawled under the top quilts and pulled the other half of the wagon sheet up over us covering over head and ears. We used the coats as pillows and put shoes under the sheets. In such a warm place we were soon

It seemed only a short while until I heard George say, "Uncle Billy get up and lookie here!" I threw the cover back and the whole wagon sheet was covered and put on our shoes and coats, shaking like a leaf in the chill. At least I was. George seemed thougher than I was. He shook the snow off the sheet and cut some sticks and made a sort of make shift tent, open opposite the wind and building a camp fire in front of the tent. We fed the mules, and George's coffee tasted pretty good to me that chilly morning. It had stopped snowing and the sun came out about 10:00 a.m.

George sharpened our axes and checked our spades. George said, "Uncle Billie, I will help you grub a fair sized tree and you can go from there showed up and we cut them off as close to the tree as we could and cut the other end making a fair sized stick of fire wood. Then we would scrape the dirt back from the top root as deep as we could reach. Then cut the top root and the tree would fall over ready to lift out of the ground.

The land was fairly sandy and easy to scoop the dirt about two feet from the

With one of the sharp axes we would trim away the small brush and cut the limbs in lengths so we could load and haul them home.

We worked that afternoon until sundown, looked after the mules, did everything we needed to do and went to bed. The tent wasn't so snug as the night before but we were tired and we soon fell

The next morning after we ate and looked after the mules we grubbed and loaded wood until about 11:00 a.m. I worked as hard as I could but with his expertise and knowledge George helped me finish my load. We had about all the mules could pull on the partly wet road. So we hitched the mules to the wagon and walked beside the wagon to make the load lighter for the mules.

We were out of horse feed and groceries. We passed a patch of shocked bundled maize before we reached the Caprock. Remembering old time hospitality we helped ourself to about 8 bundles of maize being careful not to damage the shocks. I think the feed belonged to Charlie Lewis. I never got a chance to tell him about it. I don't think he would care even now.

We reached Rushing Chapel about three o'clock with both of us give out as well as the mules and all hungry. We took the mules and gave them a drink from a small tank near the windmill that was there. I suppose to furnish water for people's stock coming to church and to drink. We then fed the mules and went in the kitchen that was open and made ourselves at home with some of their eats. After we ate and cleaned up the kitchen as near as we could like we found things, we rested awhile and let the mules finish eating.

After awhile we hitched up the mules and took off toward Center School house. The sun was down when we reached Mr. Marse Leatherman's place about one mile east of Center, if I remember correctly. The Leathermans had been our neighbors west of town about one year before this time. George asked him if we could camp in an open space in front of his house.

He said for us to put the mules in the lot and feed them some of his feed. Then he told us to come in and get ready for

Mrs. Leatherman's cooking sure was good after our camping out with what we had been eating. We talked awhile after supper. Then we told them we would go to the wagons and make our pallets. But they told us they had a spare bed and we must sleep in there. That mattress sure did sleep well after our hard quilts for about 3 nights.

The next morning after breakfast we tried to pay them what little we had before we left. But they would not take any thing. I never will forget that neighborly hospitality. We reached our house about noon the next day.

Mama fixed us a good dinner and George went on to his home. I unloaded our wood and chopped enough for firewood that night.

I think the load of wood lasted about four weeks after four days of hard work. But in those times I thank the Lord for

DRIVE-IN WINDOW-Feature Attractions may have appeared to be opening a new drive in window, but it wasn't planned. On Friday, Dec. 2, at approx. 10:30 a.m. a vehicle was left running and unattended with four children inside. The car was parked at an angle in front of Feature Attractions. A four year old boy in the car pulled the vehicle in gear, jumped the curb and hit the front door and window of the building, knocking out the wall and shattering glass inside the business. According to Manager Scott Goen who was standing near the area which caved in, "It sounded like a tornado. I know I landed on the ceiling." The children were not injured and the vehicle suffered only very minor damages.

Santa is waiting for all local kids' letters to him, if you' have one the Hesperian will forward them for you. He also would enjoy reading your Christmas stories and poems. Please try to get all these in by Dec. 15. Items from all ages are encouraged.

What women should know about breast cancer

In 1989, one out of every 10 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer. Because the cause of breast cancer remains unknown, it is important for women to examine their breasts once a month. The American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute identify three high-risk groups:

-Women over 50. Two-thirds of all breast cancers occur among older women

-Women whose mothers or sisters have had breast cancer. A woman's risk is increased two-fold if her mother or sister has had breast cancer. The risk is sixfold if both family members have had it.

-Women who have already had cancer in one breast. The risk of developing cancer in the other breast is about three times higher for this group than the average.

Other groups who are also at high risk include: women who have never had children, women who had their first child after the age of 30, women who experienced early menstruation or late menopause and obese women.

As with most cancers, the earlier the cancer is detected, the greater the chance for recovery. ACS statistics indicate a five-year survival rate of up to 96 percent for those women who detect the cancer before it spreads.

According to the NCI, women should become familiar with the shape and feel of their breasts. Any changes in the appearance, shape or feel of the breasts or any unusual discharge from the breast merits immediate medical attention. However, if a woman finds a lump in her

Texas-grown pines - ample supply of yule trees seen

Consumers should find an ample supply of Texas-grown Christmas trees at local markets this season.

"We expect that about 650,000 real Yule trees produced in Texas will be marketed this year," said Dr. Michael Walterscheidt, forestry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Serv-

Walterscheidt said most trees are sold when they reach four or five years of

The estimated value of the crop to Texas producers is around $8 million, and the economic impact on the state is more than $25 million, he said.

The crop of Texas-grown Yule trees is "coming into its own" some 20 years after Extension Service specialists conducted many demonstrations in East Texas to select best adapted trees and study and recommend cultural practices, said Jim Chandler of Overton, also an Extension forester. The demonstration work began in the early 1970s, he

He said this season some 193 tree farms in 73 Texas counties will have Christmas trees for sale.

Both Virginia and Afghan pine trees are grown for the Christmas market in Texas, the foresters said.

They said Virginia pine trees are grown primarily in the eastern half of Texas, and the Afghan pine in the more alkaline soils of western Texas, with Interstate Highway 35 serving as the basic boundary line.

The majority of Texas Christmas tree growers have choose-and-cutoperations, where families can inspect, select and cut their own trees to assure freshness and the exact size and shape desired, the foresters said.

The Extension foresters said about 50 percent of the Texas-grown Yule trees will be offered wholesale, about 44 percent will be choose-and-cut and the remaining 6 percent will be offered in retail lots operated by the tree farmers.

Walterscheidt and Chandler said about half of the Texas Christmas tree farms are now producing marketable

Substitutes can take fat out of holiday cooking

Oil, eggs and whipping cream are three ingredients often included in holiday cooking, but their high fat content makes them poor choices for mass consumption.

The American Heart Association suggests that recipe modifications be made whenever possible to cut back fat intake, said Evelyn Roberts, nutrition and dietetics instructor at Texas Christian University. Most of the AHA suggestions can be incorporated easily into holiday recipes.

"For example, if a recipe calls for fat or oil, use the oil because solid fats are highly saturated," explained Roberts. "If heavy cream is called for, it's often possible to substitute skimmed or evaporated milk."

Since cholesterol has become a major concern to many Americans, it is suggested that fewer egg yolks be used in cooking. To eliminate the yolk, which contains about 300 milligrams of cholesterol, substitute one teaspoon of oil for the yolk. "This will help you maintain the consistency and profile of the Various dips calling for cream cheese or sour cream also are a part of many holiday gatherings, the TCU nutritionist

South Plains News

By Ruby Lee Higginbotham

Last Thursday afternoon, South Plains experienced quite a bit of excitement and work, putting out a grass fire, which started while a worker was welding on machinery parked just a bit southwest of Fred and Carolyn's house. The fire spread to several bales of hay causing flames and smoke, the smoke was so dense at times we couldn't see the Marble's and Park's houses. The weather was kind, with very little wind. Workers moved the burning bales on to a plowed field, where they burned. The smoke was still drifting Friday morning, between 40 and 50 bales of hay burned.

Last week E.J. and Navolia Kinslow made a trip to Russellville and Little Rock, Arkansas, by way of Austin for a visit with their son, Steve and family, going on to Russellville for a visit with Navolia's sister, who is in a nursing home and other relatives.

In Little Rock they visited with a niece. After a couple days in Arkansas they drove to Oklahoma City for a visit with another niece, whose husband has been very ill for some time. They were in Dallas from Friday through Sunday visiting their sons, Barry, Phil and families. Steve and family came up to Dallas to be with the Kinslows. E.J. proudly boasted of having five grandchildren all under five years old.

Phil has three boys, Patrick Timothy, Evan Alexander and Andrew Duffy.

Steve has two girls, Laurel Elane and Kendall Ann. The other two grandchildren, Jennifer and Grant Kinslow, son and daughter of Barry and Bettye. Sounds like the Kinslow name will be around for quite a while.

Mr. and Mrs. I.H. (Sparky) and Maurine Parks traveled to Hereford Monday afternoon to attend a basketball game to see their granddaughter, Autumn play. Autumn is the daughter of J. Frank Parks, son of Sparky and Maurine. Autumn is in the eighth grade in Hereford Jr. High School. Good luck Autumn.

This Saturday the 3rd of December seems more like a day in April than December, a good day to be outside. The good weather seems to be favoring the mers in their cotton harvest.

Several of the best dressed ladies of South Plains and some not so well dressed, were guests at a come as you are breakfast in the home of Dianne Johnson Saturday morning from 7 a.m. until? Connie Johnson picked the ladies up in her Suburban making three or four trips. Breakfast consisted of chili cheese eggs, sausage balls, cinnamon rolls, pound cake, orange juice, coffee and hot cider. Those present were Nelda Staples, Helen Teeple, Kathy Mulder, Mamie Wood, Nancy Young, Pat Wood, Ruby Lee Higginbotham, Carolyn Marble, Kelly Jo Fisher, Jan Beedy, Shari Smith, Gleynne Earle Cummings, Maurine Parks, Janis Julian and hostesses, Connie Johnson and Dianne Johnson.

Zack and Sandra attended an open house for friends in Sunray. Also Mathew and Timothy Fisher were guests of Sterling and Gleynne Earle Saturday evening while their parents, Tom and Kelly enjoyed a Christmas party in the Dwight Teeple home.

FNB ARTIST--Pat Addington, the December exhibitor at the First National Bank of Floydada, is displaying items in a mixed media and watercolor. Her works will be available for public viewing throughout December during regular business hours.

The Milton home was the setting for the golden wedding anniversary of the Miltons. Milton and Lillie Mae Williford were married in Plainview Thanksgiving Day, November 24, 1938. They have lived and farmed, most of their lives in the South Plains Community. A bountiful Thanksgiving dinner was enjoyed by family members: Glen and Donita Daniels of Olatha, Kansas; Jerry, Kim and Lauren Powell, Floydada; Jim, Lisa and John David Barnhill, Lubbock; Bill, Carmon, and Billy Wright, Austin; Bud, Barbara, Rusty and Tyson Edwards, Floydada; Jerry, Darla and B.J. Chappell, Duncan, Okahoma; on Friday, Donita, Carmon and children, Billy and Margan, along with a cousin, Brandon Swarengen had lunch with the Miltons in Floydada.

Sterling and Gleynne Earle Cummings attended the 50th wedding celebration for Leon and Florine Wofford in the home of Mark Sherman in the Lone Star Community Sunday afternoon.

Congratulations to our friends and neighbors, the Miltons and Woffords.

Attendance is down in South Plains Baptist Church. Some of our people aren't feeling well, while others are busy in the harvest.

Last week as Steve Kinslow and family were returning to their home in Austin, they came upon road construction and very slow traffic. The car behind him failed to slow and rear ended him. The family had seat belts fastened and were not seriously hurt, but their station wagon was totaled. He rented a car in Waco and continued on to Austin.

Dec. 3rd: The Dwight Teeples hosted the 13th annual Christmas party in their home. Those enjoying good food, clean fun and laughter were: Mark and Melanie Beedy, Nathan and Kathy Mulder, Nathan and Connie Johnson, Kendis and Janis Julian, Todd and Jan Beedy, Rance and Nancy Young, Bud and Penny Taylor, Carlton and Dianne Johnson, Rogene and Lara Bethel, Kelvin and Jolene Cummings, Joey and Latona Davis, Craig and Trudi Gilly, secrets remain unrevealed.

Oliver and Linda Clarke, Danny and Kim Lambert, Ted and Sue Givens, and Tom and Kelly Jo Fisher. The star of the show was Taylor Mark Beedy, who made his debut into South Plains society wearing a pretty red Christmas suit, a gift from grandmother, Judy.

On Dec. 11 at 6:30 p.m. the Wayland Hand Bell Choir, will present a Christmas program and other special music at South Plains Baptist Church. We invite everyone in the community to come enjoy and be a part of the service and fellowship to follow.

Mildred and Harold Hamm enjoyed the Thanksgiving holiday and weekend with their daughter and family, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas B. and Haroldine, Cristy and Lori Aufdemarte, of San Antonio.

Howard and Annelda Staples had Thanksgiving in their home with their children, Bill, Stacy and Kevin. Becky McNeese and daughter, Holly from Vernon and Brent Williams of Floydada were afternoon guests.

South Plains Hobby Club will meet in church fellowship hall Dec. 8 at 11:30 a.m. for their annual Christmas luncheon. Everyone is invited to come visit and enjoy the pre-Christmas time together. Bring a covered dish and gift to be exchanged.

The cold, clear mornings are bringing into view our neighboring cities and towns, giving one a feeling of closeness to objects which are several miles away, a phenomenon of the weather (the Mirage). Webster's definition is a mirer to be reflected, to look at, an optical illusion, caused by the reflection of light through layers of air of different temperatures and densities, by which a ship, oasis in the desert, etc. appears to be very near and often, upside down; often used figuratively of something that falsely appears to be real. What ever it is or appears to be it is interesting to get out early in the mornings and seeing other towns and objects everything seems to be so tall and close. Truly an optical

Who's Who Among American High School Students includes many locals

Fourteen students from Floydada have been included in the 22nd annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1987-88. Included are Shayla Barbee, Travis W. Bishop, Donna Campbell, Chad Edwards, Jolee Ellis, Ludustia Leatherman, Shane Orman, Angie Bertrand, Amy Burns, Nohemi DeOchoa, Rusty B. Edwards, Tiffany Gentry, Zach Nutt and Crystal Rowley.

Who's Who, published by Educational Communications, Inc., Lake Forest, Illinois, is the largest high school recognition publication in the country. Students are nominated by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups, churches or by the publishing company based upon students' performance in scholarship award contests or extracurricular activi-

Final selection is determined on the basis of criteria which include high achievement in academics and leadership in school activities, athletics or community service. Traditionally, 99 percent of Who's Who students have a grade point average of "B" or better and 97 percent are college bound.

The 22nd edition of Who's Who, published in 12 regional volumes, features 573,000 students, or 5 percent of the nation's 12,000,000 high school students. They represent 18,000 of the 22,000 public, private and parochial high schools in the country.

Who's Who students also compete for over $65,000 in scholarship awards and participate in the publication's annual opinion poll of teen attitudes. The book is distributed to 15,000 high schools, colleges, universities, and public libraries throughout the country.

National Dean's List names three former Floydada students

Three students from Floydada are among the 108,600 students included in the 11th annual edition of The National Dean's List just published by Educational Communications, Inc., Lake Forest, Illinois. They are Steve B. Emert, South Plains College; Allison M. Robertson, Wayland Baptist University; and Daralyn D. Williams, Clarendon College.

Students are selected for this honor by their college deans or registrars and must be in the upper 10 percent of their class, on their school's Dean's List, or have earned a comparable honor. Listed students are eligible to compete for $25,000 in scholarship awards funded by the publisher and may also use a referral service for future employment opportunities. More than 2,500 colleges and universities nationwide use the publication to recognize their academically qualified students.

Duncan PTA projects in progress

The Duncan PTA has several projects in progress at this time. The people of Floydada can help support PTA through these projects. All proceeds go to the students at Duncan Elementary School.

There are several items remaining from the fundraiser which students took orders for. These items range from jewelry, wrapping paper, gifts items to posters. PTA has reduced the prices on these items. Orders will be filled as they are received. If you would like to see these products, please contact either Pam Holmes at 983-5812 or Debra Jo Fawver at 983-3218. This would be a good way of getting your Christmas shopping done and you would be helping the students at the same time.

The students are still collecting Campbell Soup labels for free equipment for the school. You may pick up a list of eligible labels at Shop Rite or Payn-Save grocery stores. There are collection boxes at the grocery stores and at the school. This program runs through March 1989.

Duncan Duster Whirlwind mascot pins are available also. These pins sell for $2.50. Duncan Duster t-shirts are also still available for $5.00 and $6.00. Contact Mrs. Holmes or Mrs. Fawver on either of these items.

The PTA is also holding a raffle for a 13" color TV and VCR combination. Tickets are $1.00 and are available from any PTA officer. These officers are:

Debra Jo Fawver, Judy Schacht, Pam Holmes, Holly Hendrix, Polly Campbell and Charlene Brown. The drawing will be held at the next PTA meeting, January 23, 1989. All proceeds will go to the school.

Sponsors express their thanks for everyone's support in these projects.

Most Farmers want an extension of consolidation. We're against a state inthe 1985 farm bill, with some fine tuning, the president of the Texas Farm Bureau told delegates to the 55th annual meeting here Monday.

S.M. True said other issues facing agriculture include environmental and animal rights issues, school financing, workers compensation, water rights and the federal deficit.

The cotton, grain and beef cattle farmer from Plainview, said preliminary work on the 1990 farm bill will begin next year.

"And we could have to fight some of the battles next year," the state farm leader told the 1,300 delegates representing 216 organized county Farm Bureaus.

True said most farmers and ranchers agree that the present farm bill is working. "It has given us the tools to make American farm products more competitive in world markets," he said. "It has shifted the focus away from growing crops for government storage, to producing for markets here and abroad."

The TFB president warned that environmental issues will become more and more important.

"The Endangered Species Act is a priority issue now and will be for some time to come," he said. "We must have some balance between the environment and the economy. We need amendments providing for economic impact statements before damaging regulations are implemented."

As for groundwater contamination, the farm leader said no one wants to drink unsafe water and no one wants to contaminate drinking water.

"Certainly, we in agriculture must take precautions and do everything we can to avoid being the source."

He added that farmers and ranchers must be included in shaping any regulations that are applied to the problem.

"What we don't want is the Environmental Protection Agency coming in to take control of underground water because of quality," he said.

True told the delegates that the "animal rights issue is creeping up on us like a bad dream."

"If you keep up with the news, you know the promotors of animal rights are fanatical in their zeal to impose their ideas on all who deal with animals from medical laboratories to cages laying hens," he said.

He said it is also evident that the envivonmentalists and animal rightists will be active in trying to insert their philosophy in the new farm bill.

True told the delegates that taxes will be agriculture's biggest challenge in 70th Legislature beginning in January.

He said farmers and ranchers will have to oppose nearly all of the proposals put forth to solve the problem of school financing, an issue brought about by a court ruling the present system is unconstitutional and unfair to poor school districts.

"We cannot support massive school come tax to provide the financing. And we certainly don't want to lose our agricultural use valuation," the state farm

True noted that state Workers Compensation program in Texas is giving all employers, including farmers, a lot of trouble. He said that among all states, Texas is known for having the largest premiums and the lowest benefits for injured workers.

"Our number one objective will be to see that agriculture is included in any reforms (in Workers Compensation) that can be made," True said.

The TFB leader said water continues to be one of the big issues in Austin, and in the case of groundwater, the question is whether there will be local or state

"Our position is that landowners who capture the water beneath the surface also own that water," he said. "We are being challenged by others who believe that groundwater, like surface water, is a matter of state control."

"If is not solved, we face a future of rising inflation and interest rates. Both of these conditions are deadly to agriculture," he said.

More taxes as a solution could lead to a recession here that would affect world and domestic markets for farm exports, True said. He added there is a better way.

"We can freeze spending at current levels," he said. "This would keep the economy growing. In time, economic growth would take care of the deficit."

COTTON HARVEST WINDS DOWN -- Ronald Dale Kitchen dumps a basket of cotton into the module builder in one of the few remaining fields of cotton that has not been stripped. Weeds have been a number one problem in the fields. Wind has driven the weeds into the rows and they are having to be pulled out by hand labor which greatly increases the time it takes to finish a field.

Figures necessitate look at payments

Updated figures from the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) necessitate a new look at the prospective 1988 cotton deficiency payment, say officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock. The size of payment will equal the difference between the 75.9cent target price and the 1988 calendar year weighted average farm price for

Based on preliminary average prices and marketing figures reported through September, PCG and other observers a few weeks ago were estimating that the payment total for the year likley would fall in the 21 to 22-cent range.

But revised numbers for the last seven months of the 1987-1988 marketing year, plus the average price released November 30 for the full month of October "now makes us wonder if we weren't guessing a little high," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Revisions in the January-July period showed average price increases for all months except May and a cumulative increase in marketings of 147,000 bales. The net effect raised the weighted average price for the nine months through September to 57.7 cents, up from the previously calculated 57.3 cents. Volume through September totaled 4,757,000 bales.

The revisions are made after the end of each marketing year to incorporate data received from individual states after monthly reporting dates and to reflect follow-up payments to producer members of marketing cooperatives.

More surprising was the 53.9-cent average price reported for October. That was up over two cents from 51.8 cents in September and almost four cents above the 50-cent mid-October price published earlier.

Marketing volume for October came to 1,630,000 bales, of which trade data indicates only 200,000 bales or so would have been the lower priced cotton from West Texas and Oklahoma. So the unexpected average price jump, PCG thinks, may have been the result of an abnormally heavy influence on the average by far western cotton, much of it being delivered on forward contracts at prices well above the current market. "If that is true," Johnson surmises,"the November and December average price could drop back toward

If not, and the average price for the final two months of the year remains at the 51 ot 52 cents expected earlier."

53.9 cents, PCG figures the average price for the year would be just under 56 cents, yielding a total deficiency payment of about 20 cents per pound. Since the advance this year was 6.4 cents, the remaining payment would be about 13.6

World market prices adjusted to U.S. quality and location

Thursday, December 8, 1988 - The Floyd County Hesperian - Page 9

Acting Under Secretary of Agriculture Richard W. Goldberg today announced the prevailing world market price, adjusted to U.S. quality and location (adjusted world price), for Strict Low Middling (SML) 1-1/16 inch (micronaire 3.5-4.9) upland cotton (base quality) and the coarse count adjustment in effect from 12:01 a.m. Friday, November 11, through 12:00 midnight Thursday, November 17.

Since the AWP is less than the 1987 crop and 1988 crop base quality loan rates of 52.25 and 51.80 cents per pound, respectively, the loan repayment rate for 1987 crop and 1988 crop upland cotton during this period is equal to the AWP adjusted for the specific quality and location.

Because the loan repayment rate for 1988 crop upland cotton in effect during this period is less than the established loan rate, loan deficiency payments will be paid to eligible producers who agree to forgo loan eligibility on their 1988 crop cotton. The payment rate for cotton sold during this period will equal the difference between the loan rate and the loan repayment rate.

The AWP will continue to be used to determine the value of upland cotton that is obtained in exchange for commodity

Based on data for the week ending November 10, the AWP for upland cotton and the coarse count adjustment are determined as follows.

Funding priorities redetermined by TAHC

Commissioners of the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) have redetermined funding priorities for Texas' brucellosis eradication program for fiscal year 1989, in response to recently announced cuts in the federally funded cooperative agreement portion of the agency's budget.

Commissioners have voted that as of January 1, 1989, reimbursements will no longer be made to private veterinarians for administering brucellosis vaccine or testing cattle for the disease. Currently, veterinarians accredited by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture (USDA) and approved by the TAHC may perform brucellosis work and are reimbursed $1-2 per head for administering Strain 19, B abortus vaccine to heifers, and are also paid a small fee for testing animals for brucellosis. Reimbursements came from either state or federal funds, depending on the county in which the veterinarian practiced.

By eliminating the reimbursements, TAHC and federal administrators predict the TAHC will be able to ensure enough funding for testing of cattle at livestock markets, laboratory support, and herd testing by state or federal inspectors or veterinarians.

"The TAHC commissioners made a very difficult choice in eliminating the reimbursements, or 'fee-basis' payments, as we call them. However, using state-employed veterinarians or inspectors to conduct herd testing is the most cost-efficient method for cleaning up brucellosis in Texas," said Dr. Holcombe, executive director for the TAHC. "Because we are under a federal deadline for eradicating brucellosis, and funds are short, we have to make every minute-and dollar-count."

"Although I heartily recommend vaccinating heifers, we have to guarantee enough funding throughout the year to keep the laboratories running and herds tested so that infected animals can be removed." Holcombe said.

"I urge producers to continue having animals vaccinated. Producers may employ any certified/approved veterinarian to do the work," he said. Vaccine will still be purchased with federal funds and provided to certified/approved practitioners at no charge.

Nationwide, the USDA, Animal, Plant Health Inspection Service, Veterinary Services' (USDA-APHIS-VS) fiscal year 1989 budget for brucellosis has been cut by $10.5 million. Although Texas' share of that federal cut is more than $2.3 million, TAHC commissioners could negotiate only on how $228,514 of the reductions were made. The remaining cuts may affect federally funded temporary positions under the supervision of the TAHC, unless federal funds are restored to the budget. If full federal funding is restored, reimbursements for private veterinarian work could also be reinstated.

With USDA approval, TAHC commissioners took emergency action to save manpower by eliminating the requirement for cattle to be permitted when being moved within or from special control counties. Adopting or revising regulations by emergency action is temporary and subject to change until reviewed and finalized at a later date. However, the revised regulation will save TAHC staff members hundreds of hours of paperwork and laboratory time, and give TAHC inspectors more time for herd testing and disease surveil-

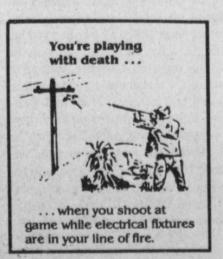

Effective immediately, cattle moved within or from special control counties are not required to have a permit or to be retested after movement. The cattle will be required to be tested and classified negative for brucellosis within 30 days prior to movement. This pre-movement test is required, whether or not ownership is changed.

Special control counties are those in which the highest incidence of brucellosis occurs and includes 17 counties: Austin, Brazoria, Calhoun, Chambers, Colorado, Fort Bend, Galveston, Jackson, Jefferson, Liberty, Matagorda, Refugio, San Jacinto, Victoria, Walker, Waller and Wharton.

Work on light spotted cotton is now in phase two

Under way this month is Phase Two of the Cotton Incorporated-USDA study on light spotted cottons. The testing is conducted to determine how cotton classed light spotted performs as a finished fabric and includes studies of spinning, weaving and dyeing charicteristics. Final reults of this study are expected early in 1989. "We want to find out if this cotton--and particularly that called 'blushy,' which is just off-color enough that it can't go into the white grades - really deserves to be discounted to producers $15 to %16 per bale," says Dr. Preston Sasser, senior director of fiber quality research for Cotton Incorporated, involved in the tests with Agricultural Marketing Service and Agricultural Research Service.

It is a blank page I face this morning. A strange page, a foreboding unit of nothingness that is cold, impersonal, and uncooperative. I stare at it with misgivings and slowly comes the realization, "Today's column is not going to be easy, anything I gain here today will be gained the hard way, it will take work, work, work."

But what of it! I have been to this place many times before! Admittedly it was not the same but on a cold morning in late November 55 years ago I stood at the end of a patch of cotton, pads buckled to my knees, the strap of a cotton sack draped around my shoulders. Over to the left stood the cotton scales, hanging on their three legged tripod, waiting to weigh the first sack of the day. The ground was frozen but it had been too dry to frost. With fingers beginning to ache from the cold it was imperative that I bend my back and start sacking cotton. Just as on other cold mornings nothing went right: a boll reached for would be fumbled, would snap off and fall to the ground; a double handful of cotton tossed toward the mouth of the sack would miss, and have to be gathered up the second time. Knees were tender, wrists were chapped, and there was a catch in my back. Slowly, slowly a rhythm developed, fingers warmed, the back ceased to complain, and dexterity and agility returned. It was still a cold, unfriendly morning but, by the time I had worked ten feet down the row the "cotton harvester" was well and doing fine, thanks.

Now I thank you for being patient while I have keyboarded my way through those first two paragraphs and got myself all warmed up. Now I think I am up to handling last week's:

WEATHER

I feel a little "out of tune" writing what our weather is like when you probably live just across the road or on the nearside of South Plains, but if you happen to live in San Diego, are visiting in Broken Arrow, Oklahoma, or in case you may be fishing down on the coast, you might like to know it has been real dry here this week and on three of those nights the temperature has dropped below 20 degrees. A whopping wind Monday rounded up all of Cedar Hill's empty buckets and plastic jugs and herded them off toward the Ware ranch. Clint there's a yellow plastic 5 gallon bucket, it has electrical tape holding the handgrip together, that I need back to keep my lawnmower gas in.

CROP COMMENTS

Cotton stalks and blown-in debris remained damp and tough through Tuesday, but by Wednesday afternoon strippers were moving quite freely. Weeds that were blown into the cotton, together with the ones the herbicides missed, continue to plague strippers, but each dry day that passes helps this foreign material to be less of a problem. A few strippers paused at midday Thursday while crews hurriedly joined families and friends for a Thanksgiving dinner, then they returned to the harvest. Most crews worked on through the day but, on completion of a "sundown module," shut down early in order to enjoy Thanksgiving supper.

CRP warning! Already the exhaust from a pick up truck has set fire to a field of grass! When Junior Taylor saw that a few head of cattle had strayed into a field of CRP grass he did the natural thing. He drove around them, tooted his horn a few times, quartered back and forth behind them until he had them hazed back where they belonged, then he fastened the gate. He was back in his pickup, driving along and thinking what a good boy scout he'was, when he saw smoke and flames in the field he had just

Junior was lucky. There was practically no wind, there were three cotton strippers with their crew nearby, and there were two fire extinguishers among their various vehicles. Less than one acre of the grass was destroyed. If there had been a 20 mile wind blowing, the fire would have been hopelessly out of control before he even got the cattle out of the field.

Hay: The light shower and snow put sufficient moisture into the windrows, and the atmosphere, for hay baling to resume. Some wind-blown windrows had to be restored using a side-delivery rake, but generally speaking the last of Cedar Hill's hay crop is in the bale.

Livestock: Hogs have certainly disappeared from the county. A few may still be around but you could find a half dozen coyotes a lot quicker than you could find six hogs. Although some spring calves are still ranging with their mothers, most have been weaned and are being conditioned for wheat pasture.

Milo: Although the last Cedar Hill milo has been in the elevator for some time, Producers at Dougherty are still getting an occasional load.

Wheat: The early sowed wheat is well rooted, looks good, and in some cases is furnishing excellent pasture. Most of it has some rust, has a greenbug population, also some spider mites, but nothing is wrong with it that a good rain wouldn't correct. Later sowed wheat has made fair growth and doesn't look bad, but it has a very weak root system. If pastured now, much of it would be uprooted as cattle tugged at the top growth. The recent snow has triggered some rooting, but more moisture is badly needed.

Several months ago I sent my mind coursing up and down the roads of Cedar Hill. It was an enlarged Cedar Hill that extended from the caprock on the east to Hwy. 207 on the west, and from the old Fairview/Cedar line on the south to the Patsy and Lafayette Boone's in Plain-Cedar/South Plains border on the north. I noted each inhabited house and listed all family names and telephone numbers alphabetically, a list that contained 30 names and ran from Arredondo to Yeary. So you are about to witness an ambitious effort to account for 30 families and how they spent their day on Thanksgiving '88.

Cecil Arredondo, his wife and nine children, who live in the Albert and Clara Mize house took dinner with his father, Sylvestre Arredondo and those who live with him in the Roscoe and Edna Lackey house. Sylvestre, now 91 years old, made an emergency trip to the doctor on election day, but is back home now, though closely watched by members of his family.

John and Willie Belaska recently moved from the old Conner place to Floydada, had their Thanksgiving dinner the immaculate way, they lunched at a local restaurant. They are still very busy getting settled in. They televisited with a daughter and her family in

Stanley and LouGene Burleson also chose the immaculate route, dinner out, to celebrate their Thanksgiving. Unable to reconcile schedules with their daughters and their families at Thanksgiving, they plan to make up for it at Christmas

Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Busby, who operate a vegetable farm at the site of the old McCormick store, joined friends and relatives for dinner at a Furr's Restaurant in Lubbock. They visited in the Petersburg home of one of their daughters as they returned home.

D.M. and Johnnie Dell Cogdell, their daughters and spouses, anticipating crowded schedules at Thanksgiving, concerned for Carl's health, and feeling they had something to be especially thankful for, celebrated their Thanksgiving some time ago.

Unable to reach Bruce Conner by telephone, I checked on him via the grapevine. He was invited for Thanksgiving at his sister, Cindy's place near Crosbyton. Bruce lives in the Jim and Viola Conner house.

Craig and Gayle DuBois, who live at Elvie and Rosa Lackey's new place, had their Thanksgiving apart. Craig couldn't get away from his gin job so Gayle took the kids and her grandmother to Nara Visa, N.M., for Thanksgiving with her parents. Transmission trouble with grandma's car in Amarillo caused 1 and 1/2 hours delay, made the goodies taste better.

Cephus and Imogene Fortenberry had two of their daughters and children for dinner. Melba Gene and Troy Smith and Rodney from Dumas, and Phylis and Terry Harris from Floydada and Todd, Phylis' sailor son, from San Diego. Todd will report back to Long Beach where he will assume duty on the USS Missouri. Late Thursday Terry caught a plane in Lubbock to visit a paternal aunt in Oklahoma. Sunday Imogene joined other guests: Todd and his friend Melissa Randolph, Becky Via, and Cindy Osborne for lunch at Phylis' home in Floydada. Cephus ran a module builder for the Yeary strippers.

Durrell and Alpha Fortenberry had Thanksgiving at home. Guests were her son Roy and his friend, Teena.

Gladys Fortenberry joined Eldora Workman, Dallas; Eldora's daughter Houston; and Gladys' granddaughter, Danita and Paul Clark and Lauren, Wautauga, TX, for Thursday dinner at

Edna Gilly's guests for Thanksgiving were as follows: from Plainview, Delise and Johnny Harrison and daughters, Christy and Cassandra; Ruthie Bell Clark, Juanita Teeple, Ricky Reddout and wife, Tanya Reddout and fiance; from South Plains, Dwight and Helen Teepie and sons, Brian and Keith; from Floydada, Clara Redd; from Cedar Hill, Craig and Trudy Gilly and daughters, Amy and Tara and Mark and Lori Gilly and Emory and Jessica. Edna's mother, Ruth Clark, stayed overnight. Jude and Marie Strickland visited Edna Friday

Peat Kelley and Norma Welch joined Early and Nell Pritchett, of South Plains, to take dinner with Connie and Steve Pritchett in Amarillo.

Jerry and Leah Lackey and the kids shut their stripper down early enough to take supper with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Lackey in Floydada.

Lindsey and Billie Ruth Lackey will have to read it in the paper to find out just what they did. They disappointed their daughters and went for seafood at a local restaurant.

Neil and Charlene Langley had as dinner guests: his mother, Mrs. J.R. Langley; their daughter, Kathy, a Tech student; and their son, Andy and Brenda Langley, their son Dusty and their brand new daughter, Whitney LeAnn, (they got her Nov. 19) from Brownfield. Mrs. J.R. Langley was dismissed from Lockney General Friday, Nov. 11. She has been at home and doing fine ever since.

Philand Linda Lemons, Twyla, Traca and Vance enjoyed turkey and the fixin's with her parents, W.T. and Laverne Cooper in Lockney Thursday night. There were more Coopers and kin there than you could shake a stick at!

Carl Lemons accepted a supper invitation to share the Cooper bounty, then at noon Thursday he observed his Ford had a flat. Jacked up and with the lug nuts removed, the wheel refused to come off. Carl hammered and pried, he coaxed and he cried; from mid-afternoon until too late he fought that wheel - in vain! It was fully dark when he telephoned his apologies and his excuses. Next day the wheel quickly responded to a ten pound sledge hammer!

Clara and Betty (George's wife) Mize joined Judy Allen and her son for Thanksgiving dinner with Walton and Veda Wilson. Clara and Betty went shopping in Plainview Saturday. Absorbed in shopping, Clara would remember her cane and have to send Betty back to the car for it.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Roehr are somewhat new as residents of the community. In response to a get-acquainted call Tuesday morning, Mrs. Roehr related that both she and Merle are natives of Silverton, in fact Merle's father is Briscoe County Sheriff. They have a daughter, Shelana, who is 3-1/2 years old, and their son, Mason, is 3 months old. They live two miles east of the intersection of the Flomot road and Hwy. 97 on what was known as the "Hawkins Place" 50 years ago. Merle's job is to keep things going smoothly on the Cogdell ranch. It was back to Silverton and Thanksgiving with relatives for Junior and Martha Taylor served a dinner of such excellence that three cotton strippers had to shut down so their crews could partake of it. Dinner guests were Rex, Wanda and Kandy Davey of Plainview; Bud, Penny and Erin Taylor of Cedar; Mattie Davis and Gus and Agnes Wesley also from Plainview; and Rickey Taylor (Frank's son) and his two sons Chris and Scott from Grapevine, Texas.

Dara Ware and the boys, Cody and Clay, were off to Silverton, Thursday for Thanksgiving with her parents. Clint's stripper was one of those that had an early shut-down, then Clint drove to Silverton to join the family at supper

J.A. Welch must have had to scrounge for his Thanksgiving. Norma was at Connie's in Amarillo. He was probably running a hay baler somewhere, getting his dinner by chewing joints of red top cane and sucking the juice. Possibly he and Carl Lemons were the only ones in Cedar Hill without indigestion Thursday night.

Max Yeary was another who did a sundown shutdown on his cotton stripper. Then he and Vicki were hosts to a number of their Hinkle relatives for Thursday supper. Vicki had symptoms of a blood clot for several days so Tuesday she went in for a thorough check-up. At 4:30 p.m. Tuesday her report was "no blood clot" but rather it was thought to be an infected blood vein. A good trade off, now it will be medicate rather than

That, dear reader, finishes the list of Cedar Hill residents and their Thanksgiving experiences. We will now go to a set of notes handed me by the man who fills the pulpit at the Assembly of God Church. We will quote him verbatim.

"Jude Strickland, interim pastor of the Cedar Hill Assembly. Apparently more than two years of infantry combat service in the U.S. Marine Corps during W.W. II did not teach him "never discharge a firearm from a public road."

It seems Jude got out of his car on a back country road to flush a flock of geese about 500 yards away in hopes they would fly over his son Ron, posted about a mile away. It was then a Mr. Trent L. Anderson with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department spotted him and presented him with a citation for discharging a firearm from a public road. Jude says, "One time will be sufficient!" From now on he will walk out into the field. He says he still believes Romans 8:28-29 (all things work together for good etc.) Jude was more successful on a deer hunt with his brother Bill (Strickland's Restaurant) in Coleman County the first part of last week. They brought home two deer

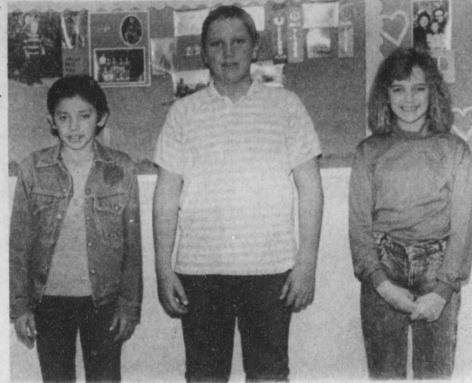

Visitors with Jude and Marie Strickland were their son and family Ron, Linda, Aaron, Matt and Rachel Strickland of Amarillo.

You are invited to hear Dr. Ron Lacy, a physician of Amarillo Sunday, Dec. 4. He and his wife, Sandy, will be visiting with Pastor Strickland and wife, Marie. Dr. Lacy will be sharing what God has done through Jesus Christ in his life in the 10:45 a.m. service."

Brother Jude made additional announcements pertaining to details of services for Dec. 4 which were rendered null and were omitted due to this column's missing the press last week.

State park stocking trout

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said the state's largest ever Rainbow Trout stocking program will kickoff December 1.

Caprock Canyons State Park located in the Southeast Texas Panhandle, three miles north of Quitaque will be in the program for the first time this year. Rainbow Trout will be stocked at the park on Nov. 30, Dec. 14, Dec. 28, and Jan. 11. The fish will be of catchable size and best fishing should be the weekends after stocking dates, but fishing should be good all winter.

The daily bag limit is five trout. The possession limit is 10 in all Texas waters. There is no minimum length limit.

Separate fees are not charged to fish for trout in state parks. Only the normal entry and facility use fees.

Trout stamps and fishing licenses are required as in other public waters, and can be purchased at the park.

The department's popular trout program is operated on a put and take basis with most of the trout being caught by late spring.

For more information call the park from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at 806-455-

Venison can be an exotic holiday meal CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Families who want to break tradition during the most traditional time of year should consider serving venison over the holidays. A succulent venison roast can make as memorable a meal as the finest bird.

Wild venison is no stranger to the tables of Texas hunters who have been bagging deer since the first settlers ar-

Approaching a cut of venison with confidence is the first step in cooking it. As lean as a skinless chicken breast, venison contains less than two percent fat. This makes it ideal for anyone who wants to reduce fat consumption and continue to eat red meat. Its leanness, however, makes venison different than a pork roast or a leg of lamb. It can't be seasoned, put in the oven with a meat thermometer and left to cook on its own.

To compensate for its lack of fat, venison meat must be cooked with added fat, moist heat or a combination of Cook over medium heat, stirring conboth. Moist heat is suggested for most stantly until thickened. Serve immedicuts, whether domesticated or wild, to ately. Makes 8 servings. ensure a tender, juicy dish. Marinating may enhance flavor and tenderness. Carol Guthrie, Texas Department of Agriculture home economist, suggests using a mild marinade with a light wine or fruit juice base. "Venison's mild flavor shouldn't be overwhelmed," she said.

Venison loin, the tenderest cut, can be roasted, but not without adding fat and basting continually with fat or marinade to keep it moist. Loin medallions and the best leg pieces are delicious sauteed. The rule to remember with dryheat cooking is do it quickly and serve the meat rare to medium-rare. Overcooking will toughen and dry the venison. A four-pound loin roasted in a 400degree oven will be ready in 25 to 30 minutes. After removal, wrap the roast in foil and let it stand 10 to 15 minutes before carving. If you don't wrap it, it will dry out almost immediately.

Moist heat is always preferable for venison shot in the wild, which should never be served pink.

During the holidays serve venison cooked in apple cider and white wine, At any other time of year, venison pot roast is sure to please the family.

Combine 3 tablespoons flour, salt, pepper and allspice. On waxed paper, coat meat with flour mixture. Heat oil in large skillet. Cook meat until brown on all sides. Place in oven roasting bag in 8inch baking dish. Pour apple cider, wine and cloves over the roast. Tie bag and cook in 275 degree F. oven for 2 hours or until tender. Remove roast from bag. Cover with foil and keep warm. To make gravy, pour remaining liquid into medium saucepan. Make paste with 1/4 cup flour and water. Slowly add to pan.

Pecan crop best ever

While not a bumper harvest, the 1988 Texas pecan crop has the makings of one of the best ever. And that should be good news for consumers.

"This year's pecan crop should total about 50 million pounds and be of high quality," said Dr. George Ray McEachern, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "That projected yield does not include backyard trees that are not harvested for commercial sale."

According to McEachern, the 1988 crop came a long way from a poor start in the spring and a season-long drought that caused considerable nut shedding in July and August.

However, disease and insect problems were only minor in this year's crop. For example, pecan scab disease was virtually nonexistent due to the dry weather. And pecan nut casebearers, pecan weevils and aphids did not cause major problems.

"The dry weather early in the season reduced nut size," McEachern said, "but, because of this, the kernel filling or percent meat is generally good over most of Texas."

Because this year's crop is plentiful, of good quality and at a favorable price, consumers should stock up on the tasty morsels for the coming year, said McEachern. Should a dry winter follow this year's drought, pecan production would suffer in 1989. So consumers may want to buy larger amounts and store them in a refrigerator or freezer.

"With proper storage, pecans will maintain their quality almost indefinitely," he said.
