A view from The Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

For the past couple of weeks we have dabbled a little with the issue of money in politics, and how it was used "in the old days" to place some politicians in office.

Today let's take a look at how it is used now to reward them once they get in office, as well as assure they stay there once they get in.

But first: Rep. Gib Lewis, Democrat, Fort Worth, who also doubles in brass as Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, is upset. Terribly upset. He has been reading news stories of late detailing how some of our Senators and Representatives are using money from their political "officeholders account" for personal expenditures. Things like buying homes, sending their kids to college, buying fur coats for their wives, all sorts of things. He says the stories are causing morale problems for members of the Legislature. It's getting so bad that serving in the Legislature is not "fun" any more, and some members will probably just "get mad and quit" if it keeps up.

The Speaker, as you may remember, has taken a few lumps himself. A few months ago he was in the news because employees of the State Parks and Wildlife Commission stocked some of his ranch property with wild game, and did so outside the normal routine for such activity. He took a very dim view of the fact that it was all revealed to the public. Now he's unhappy, not over the activities of his fellow members, but because it has been laid out for the public to see.

Mr. Lewis is a "leader" in his Party, and a leader in politics generally. If he can see nothing wrong with what has been going on, and takes umbrage only at the fact that the activity has been revealed, perhaps it is no wonder that the underlings see nothing wrong with it. Our suspicion however is that the people take a different view.

What is an "officeholders account", anyhow? Where does it come from, and why is it there?

A few years ago, in one of its periodic attempts to reform the practices surrounding this subject, the legislature passed measure designed to tighten laws on campaign contributions and lobby giving. Many of the changes were beneficial. Detailed reporting by lobbyists was required. Time frames for campaign contributions were instituted, (to keep money from flowing to legislators while in session, under the guise of campaign contributions.) Recognition was given to the fact that Legislators do not receive a big salary, but nevertheless certain demands are made on them that are outside the lawmaking process. That is, they are required, or expected, to make trips back home for parades, speeches and the like. Things that might be construed as "constituent services." So the officeholders account came into being to cover this. It was a way for friends and supporters to share in the process.

But what has happened? Some members, ferreting out the loopholes, and recognizing a good thing when they see it, have gone well beyond the call of duty. And the accounts themselves have grown like toadstools, depending on the attitude, the prominence and power of the various legislators.

Press reports indicate, for instance, that four lawmakers are using their political funds to pay the mortgage on homes in Austin. (Senator John Montford (D-Lubbock) on a $190,000 home in Northwest Austin; Rep. Hugo Berlanga (D-Corpus Christi) on a $58,000 condominium in the Westgate Building next door to the Capitol; Sen. Eddie Bernice Johnson (D-Dallas), a $53,000 efficiency in the Westgate; and Sen. Hugh Parmer, (D-Fort Worth), a $77,000 house in West Austin.)

The list goes on. It even includes Senator Ike Harris, Republican, Dallas, who merely takes routine withdrawals

Commissioners hear Lockney residents on JP office

A group of Lockney citizens appeared before the Floyd County Commissioners Court following a called session. The group wanted to discuss the previously mentioned possibility of the closure of the Precinct 2 and 3 Justice of the Peace office in Lockney. Coming before the court was Justice of the Peace C. L. Mooney, Owen Thornton, Dub Hallmark, Jerry Paul Cooper, Claude Brown, Ronnie Hardin, Jim Bob Martin, Doug Meriweather, Jim Doucette, Judy Jackson and Fred Byrd.

Although the matter was not on the posted agenda for the already adjourned session, the court agreed to hear the residents. County Judge Bill Hardin explained that information the court had received from inquiries to the justice department had already determined that any consideration of closing the office was not possible. (The matter had previously been discussed as a possible means of cutting costs at an October session of the court.)

Thornton stated that the group was there "out of concern about losing the office and hoped that some adjustments could be made to keep it."

Mooney apologized for misunderstanding as he thought the matter was on the agenda for discussion at the Monday session. He then asked the court to "suggest to highway patrolmen that they file all tickets written in precincts 2 and 3 in the Justice of the Peace office in Lockney." He seemed to think that would balance the load between himself and Lowell Bilbrey, JP for precincts 1 and 4. Currently, Bilbrey's court hears most of the tickets written in the county.

Judge Hardin pointed out that the county had no control over the highway patrolmen. He expressed the desire that discussion in this area be handled carefully to avoid the possibility that patrolmen would cease to write any tickets or patrol in Floyd County.

Hallmark stated "If that happens, the county should consult with the superiors of the patrolmen." He added, "These officers are sent here to serve Floyd County and their salaries are paid by taxes local residents pay, therefore they should work with the county to serve the residents of the area."

Precinct 2 Commissioner Floyd Jackson suggested that Mooney contact the patrolmen as he is the person who must work with them and maintain a good relationship.

Commissioner George Taylor of Precinct 3 told the gathering that "With the cooperation of the patrolmen and the JP offices, the load could be better balanced." Taylor said this would eliminate the need for extra help in one office while the other office is idle. Precinct 4 Commissioner Kay Crabtree voiced support of this idea.

Matador woman gives thanks for Floydada hospital

A Matador woman, Mary Lou Torres, will be giving thanks this Thanksgiving, that Floydada has a hospital that is well staffed and equipped. Someday, when her newborn baby girl grows up, she will also be giving thanks.

In labor and unable to reach Lubbock last Wednesday, Nov. 15, Ms. Torres gave birth to her 26-week-old, 2 lb. baby in the parking lot of Caprock Hospital, at 7:30 a.m.

According to Hospital Administrator Leroy Schaffner, "Molly Stringer, the director of nursing, delivered the baby in Torres' car in the parking lot." Stringer has been employed with the hospital for over 15 years and has been director of nurses for two years.

"Ms. Torres left Matador, en route to Lubbock, when her labor started," said Schaffner. "She saw she wasn't going to make it so she came to Floydada's hospital. She didn't make it inside our hospital either."

"Dr. Hale was on hand after the birth and directed the baby's care. She was put in an incubator and given oxygen to get her ready for her first helicopter flight to Lubbock."

The baby, named Janette, was transported to St. Mary's Neonatal I.C.U. by the Flight For Life helicopter.

As of November 20, Janette is still in the I.C.U. unit and will remain there until she can be taken off the ventilator. She is reportedly gaining weight consistently.

"You never know," said Schaffner, "but it is doubtful the baby would have lived to make it to Lubbock without our emergency care."

PURCHASE OF TWO GRADERS
The called session handled several matters including the purchase of two motor graders. Precincts 1 and 2 each approved the purchase of a machine from West Texas Equipment Company.

Connie Bearden, commissioner of Precinct 1, stated, "I am going to go with West Texas because the other bidder did not meet specifications of the bid by including a total cost bid and the warranty was not what we asked for."

Precinct 2 Commissioner Jackson echoed that statement and added, "West Texas was also the low bidder in my case."

Precinct 1 will purchase a Caterpillar 140VHP for $116,139.00. The precinct will trade in a 1975 Galion 160L and a 1970 John Deere backhoe valued at $32,900.00. In return, the seller promises zero maintenance costs for five years or 5000 hours and guarantees to repurchase the machine for $81,000.00 anytime between delivery and five years or 5000 hours. This yields a total cost bid of $2,239.00 to Precinct 1.

Precinct 2 will purchase a Caterpillar 140 VHP at a cost of $113,622.00 and trade in a 1984 Caterpillar 140G for $83,000.00. This yields a cost of $30,622.00 to the precinct. Guaranteed maintenance is set at $3500.00 for 5 years or 5000 hours and the guaranteed repurchase anytime from delivery to five years or 5000 hours will be years without taking another look at the matter.

COURT RESCINDS LIBRARY VOTE

The court voted unanimously to rescind a July 11 motion agreeing to accept a new library building as a gift if it is built. The motion previously passed by the court also pledged funding for maintenance and upkeep of a separate library facility.

Action taken at this time means that the matter will have to come before the court again if a new facility is secured. The motion was made by Bearden and seconded by Taylor. It passed unanimously.

Commissioners pointed out that this does not withdraw county support of the project. They indicated that the action taken was designed to eliminate possible budget expenditures for future

OTHER ACTION

Farm work contracts were approved for J. R. Belt, Wilson Farms, Irene Jones and Royce O'Neal. Gale McPherson was approved for work on two contracts during the November 20 session.

Three bids were approved for the sale of tax title lots belonging to the taxing entities. Calvary Baptist Church offered $300 for Lot 12, Block 22, Original Township. Willie Galvan offered $800 for Lots 9 and 10, Block 101 and Adrain West offered $150 for Lots 1 and 2, Block 2, Honerhea Addition. The sale was approved by the court pending approval by other taxing entities involved.

Attending the session in addition to the commissioners, Judge Hardin and the visitors from Lockney were Chris Vestal of West Texas Equipment and the Hesperian reporter.

Some things are so dependable, we can't help taking them for granted.

It's easy to take your natural gas furnace for granted. It sits quietly in a dark room and year after dependable year, keeps your family warm and cozy through the toughest West Texas winters.

Comfort
Natural gas heat from your furnace is warmer than heat from a heat pump. Your furnace gets your home cozy warm in a hurry, and keeps it that way.

Very Low Maintenance
After its annual pre-season check-up, your natural gas furnace should require very little attention the rest of the winter. What peace of mind that is!

Low Cost

Over the life of your furnace, you'll save thousands of dollars compared to the cost of electric heating in West Texas, it just doesn't make sense to heat with anything but natural gas.

Dependability

From a chilly morning to the coldest days, you'll have plenty of natural gas from Energas to take care of your family. Just set your thermostat and have a great winter!

Dependable natural gas. It's still West Texas' best energy value.

Himes opens dog grooming business

The little four-legged members of your family now have a beauty parlor all their own. Kathy's Kanine Klippers, located at 127 W. California, has been open since mid-August, and loves to make your dog look good, smell good and feel good about himself.

The shop (which used to be Campbell's Plumbing) has been remodeled with new central heating. Clean floors, clean and roomy pens and doggie pictures welcome pets and their owners when they enter Kanine Klippers.

Kathy opens her door for business at 9:00 a.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. She works until done, sometime late into the night.

"I groom most breeds," said Kathy. "I usually do only four dogs a day, as each dog takes 2-2 1/2 hours to get done. I don't do cats."

The grooming process starts for a dog with a good brushing first. "I have to remove all the mats and tangles before washing," said Kathy.

Next the ears get cleaned, the stomach and around the tail is shaved, the hair between the pads is trimmed and the toenails are trimmed. The dog is then bathed, blow-dried and then the hair is cut and styled. A ribbon or bandana is worn home. The dogs are dipped if the owner request it. Medicated ear powder is put in the ears to cut down on ear mites and dampness.

Lucky, a Lhaso Apso, was being pampered during Kathy's interview and obviously enjoying all the attention coming his way. "He was named Lucky because they got him from a pound, and I just love him."

"Once a dog knows this place, most of them will beat down the door to come in. They love looking good and smelling good. Their attitude changes from when they come in and when they leave."

Kathy trained in the art of grooming at Canine Classic Cutters in Plainview. She had to complete 150 hours of grooming time and work on all breeds if they were available.

"We also learned to take care of blind and deaf dogs at the school. That has already come in handy, as have a client whose dog is deaf and almost totally blind. You have to love these dogs a lot and be real gentle."

"Most of the dogs around here are for pets and not for show, so their hair is cut shorter.

"The work is dirty, tiring and hard, but I love it because I like all the dogs," said Kathy. It is obvious from all the wagging tails when you visit the shop, that the canines feel the same way about Kathy.

Besides grooming, Kathy is also the Chamber of Commerce Manager. She is busy in the chamber office on Monday, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. She is married to S.D. Himes, who works at Floydada Ford-Mercury.

The Himes' moved to Floydada in 1981. S.D. was a drill sergeant in the military before coming to Floydada. The last duty station for them before heading to Floydada was Pennsylvania. They have two children, Janet 16, and Joel, 12.

Boot craftsmen learned trade through experience

Floydada is lucky once again to have the advantage of having a much needed service in the community. Your favorite pair of boots or shoes don't have to be thrown away when the soles give out. Keep your feet happy and keep the shoes in the family; take them to Walt's Boot Shop and have them rejuvenated.

Walt's Boot Shop has only been opened since the first part of November, but business is picking up continually. A sign on the door of the shop expresses the personal care given to each item that comes in for help:

We Doctor Boots and Shoes
Heel Them

Take Care of Their Dyeing Need
And Save Their Soles.

"I really enjoy working with leather," said owner and craftsman Walt Via. "I have learned my trade through experience. Doing it is the best way to learn it."

Walt and Gui, his wife of 48 years, live in Abernathy where Gui is employed as a teacher. They have lived in Abernathy for eleven years.

Before Abernathy, the Via's farmed in Happy for 35 years. Walt is also a veteran of WWII.

"I have been making saddles and boots since before I went into the Army," said Walt. "I quit making saddles because of the expense of the materials." Now Walt repairs saddles and makes leggings and all kinds of tack.

Before Floydada, Walt ran a boot shop in Tulia for four years. The Tulia shop is now run by his son. "I am hoping to also sell boots here soon," said Walt. "They won't be the real expensive boots, but they will be good boots."

Walt and Gui have five children; four sons who live in Plano, Tulia, Canyon and Abernathy; and one daughter Becky Via, who lives in Floydada.

as reimbursement for expense.

We would hasten to add that not all members ride this gravy train. Most evidently operate within the spirit of the law, as well as the letter of the law.

We suspect that certain agencies of the federal government will be examining this subject during the coming months. And Speaker Lewis may well be correct. Some members may just get mad and quit.

But whether that occurs or not, we believe it is a subject that ought to be addressed by the Legislature and the people of Texas. There is a place for money in politics. No one is suggesting that people ought not give money to see their favorite candidate elected. The sad part is that there is so little involvement on the part of the "little people," and so much on the part of special interests. As we have noted before, nearly half of all the money that went to elect our State Senator Steve Carricker came from a single industry, the "trial lawyers." And we would think it a matter of simple honesty for the lawmakers to spend political campaign funds on purposes for which it was contributed. If that is asking too much, perhaps they should "just quit" and let someone else have their place.

WALT'S BOOT SHOP--Walt Via is a leather craftsman that takes pride in his work. All your leather needs, such as shoe repair, saddle repair and custom made leggings and tack, can be met in Walt's workshop. Staff Photo

WEATHER

A fast moving cold front dropped our temperature to 19 DF Tuesday morning of last week and nearly that low again the following night. There has been a gradual warming since then but still we have had more nights with ice than not. A couple of days with hazy clouds, two mornings with light dew, otherwise it has been quite windy with bright sunshine. Daytime temperatures, while remaining in the 40s during the coldest period, have since risen to the high 60s; warm enough that wasps, those lucky enough to have survived the first freezes, were exploring every nook and cranny seeking a warm place to spend the winter.

Oddly, after wiggling into your attic to escape the cold, when the first warm day returns, hunger pangs drive Mr. Wasp back outside again to search for food. On any warm fall day, if you happen to be near a bee hive, you cannot help but observe the constant warfare as the doomed wasps struggle to gain access to the warmth and security of the bee's well stocked pantry. Near the hive entrance the foraging wasp will find numerous honey-coated bits of wax, scraps from the bee's table, enough to stimulate his appetite and make him wild with desire to gain access to the warmth and stores within. But barring his entrance into the hive is that constantly par tolling force of tough young bees who serve as the colony's security guards, and they are very anxious to prove their adulthood. Often, when the hungry wasp ventures a mite too close, a zealous guard-bee will seize him by one of his legs and a very spirited tussle will follow which always results in the much bigger and stronger wasp breaking loose. The defeated, possibly wounded, guard-bee returns to patrol duty, and the frustrated wasp pretends to resume eating scraps while actually he is biding his time, looking for an opportunity to dash past the guards and reap his envisioned reward of warmth for the winter and boundless stores of food.

If the wasp is like most he will become discouraged in his watching and wrestling and eventually go away, but should he happen to slip past the guards and make his way some distance into the hive he is in for a fatal surprise. He quickly finds that the guard-bees were only the colony's first line of defense. Inside bees numbered by the thousands are going about their business, but suddenly some mysterious bee alarm goes out that a dangerous intruder has breached the home defenses, and instantly every bee in the hive, save the defenseless, drones and the queen, becomes a active member of their National Guard, armed, dangerous, and willing and anxious to die for hearth and home.

In a matter of seconds the wasp is wading through a mass of furious bees, dragging those of the desperate defenders that have managed to gain a hold on his legs, with his powerful mandibles crushing through the exoskeletal heads and thoraxes of his attackers. Another few seconds and the wasp is spreadeagled, every leg drawn taught by the hives defenders, and a lethal injection of bee venom is beginning to have its deadly effect. Still the wasp's head swivels from side to side, the deadly mandibles wreaking destruction on any unlucky bee that ventures within their range.

Soon the wasps strugglings cease, and, after a time, normal activity returns to the hive. Bee clean-up crews begin tugging at the bulky body of their vanquished attacker and eventually his is dragged out on the hives landing board. Bee instinct demands that all hive wastes be carried away by wing and dropped some distance from the hive. Thus many attempts are made by the clean-up crew to become air-borne carrying the wasp's body by holding fast to a leg. Back and forth the body is tumbled until eventually it drops over the edge of the landing board and falls to the ground, usually with one of the fastidious clean-up bees still clinging doggedly to a leg. After a few more futile attempts to left the wasps body from the ground, the last bee gives up and flies back up to the entrance.

Now, for the first time, it is noticed that the bodies of several other wasps are lying nearby and it becomes evident that the above scene has been played over time and again. Among them also lay the bodies of several bees that perished in the various struggles. Most of the bee casualties are not on the ground for, when they are able, bees always carry away their dead on the wing and drop them at random, in a fashion reminding one of human "burials at sea", thereby they give their comrades the conventional bee funeral.

Studies with a glass bee-hive indicate that six, sometimes seven, bees are killed before a colony overcomes a invading wasp.

Yes, fall and it's weather changes has a momentous effect on all of us human-folks as well as all nature's creatures.

CROP COMMENTS

COTTON farmers are a hard lot to please! Complaints have been heard that harvest is not going as well as it should because the weather is too dry. The stems that hold the bolls to the stalk have become so dry that a stripper's thumping the lower portion of a stalk may cause the glass-hard stems higher up on the plant to snap and send their bolls zinging off to land on the he ground completely out of reach of the machines.

Complaint #2: With two row strippers, when stripping beside rows that have not been stripped the tractor/stripper wheels run over many bolls attached to branches from the unstripped rows and they too break off and are lost.

Let it be noted that there has been no report of anybody shutting down their strippers to wait for a good old cotton-stripping shower.

By the time you read this the field complaints pertaining to the '89 crop will be at an end for many of our area farmers. In the immediate Cedar Hill area Thanksgiving Day will find more of our farmers with their last bale already stripped than there are farmers with cotton still in the field.

Oh, how fast that remainder will go if doubling up occurs, and occur it will.

When you tap in on the cotton gin grapevines you hear the hands talking a mite gloomy; afraid their last paychecks may come before Christmas.

Our Good Ole American System has farmers from out of the community who were hailed out, lost their '89 cotton completely, hard at work among us helping to get the crop out for the Cedar Hill people who prefer not to own harvesting equipment of their own. Both sides will come out way ahead, but I betcha both sides will figure out something to gripe about. After all, "That's the Good Ole American System!"

PEOPLE

Edna Gilley had a mild case of the blues Friday; her mother, Ruthie Bell Clark, and her brother Lucius Hill, pastor of a booming Baptist Church in Austin, and Lucius' daughter, Melanie, stopped by Tuesday to tell Edna goodbye. Edna's mother had sold her home in Plainview, had packed her belongings and was moving them to a retirement housing complex in Austin. Cheer up Edna, this could be a good thing, at least for the Lubbock-Austin airlines.

Craig Gilley and Jerry Lackey, the nearest thing Cedar Hill has to a professional moving team, found time last week to make it to Plainview and help Craig's sister, Deliece Harrison, and her family make an intra-city move. The Harrisons have bought her grandmother Ruthie Bell Clark's home, and all hands were anxious to get the moving done. It was just a few short months ago that Craig and Jerry helped the Harrisons with their last Plainview move.

Miss Kathy Langley's educational progress has made it necessary that she have more flexible hours to devote to her classroom activities. In order to gain that flexibility she has resigned from her jobs in SouthWest Mall Mall and now works at Lubbock's Copper Caboose.

Cephus and Imogene Fortenberry visited with Horace Reeves in Plainview Sunday afternoon. Horace and his family pastored what is now the Assembly of God Church her at Cedar in the early thirties. Horace's wife, Ludy, passed away several years ago, his son Clarence is now deceased, and now his oldest daughter is making her home with him. Horace will be 98 years old in March 1990.

Rev. and Mrs. Willis Dewey are gradually completing their move to the local parsonage. They moved their travel trailer to Cedar 1st week, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Cole, came to visit with them through Thanksgiving. The Church was quite pleased with the Sunday School attendance November 19.

Nannie Fortenberry, who has many relatives and friends among the residents and ex residents of Cedar Hill, has returned to room 103 in the Clovis hospital due to late concern about her good leg. Her sons all live in a comparatively narrow strip just east of the Tx-N.M. border, and her daughter, LoNella Bohannon, of California, plans to stay with her at least until after Thanksgiving.

'Holiday Garnishes' topic of Harmony Club program

Lucille Miller was hostess to the Harmony Extension Club Monday, Nov. 13, at the community center. She read Ecclesiastes 3:1-8 for opening exercises.

Vivian Curtis, president, presided. Roll call was answered with "Something I am thankful for," by all 12 members and Mary True, Extension agent.

Anna Maude Hopper, chairperson of the hostess committee, for the Christmas luncheon, read the menu and members chose what they wanted to bring. The menu was turkey and dressing and all "the trimmings."

Mary True gave the program on Holiday Garnishes. She made a palm tree from a carrot and a green pepper, showed how to use fruits and vegetables for garnishes. Each member made roses from tomato peelings and decorated fancy shaped sandwiches with cream cheese and jelly. This was served with spiced tea, served by the hostess.

Blanche Williams conducted a game where each member wrote down as many "old sayings," or proverbs they could think of. Maye Williams got the most.

Those present were Vivian Curtis, Anna Maude Hopper, Lucille Miller, Imelda Murry, Juanita Pool, Arvie Schulz, Ruth Scott, Maye Williams, Blanche Williams, Doris Snodgrass, Bess Carr, Karen Miller, Rachel and Mathew and Mary True.

Sixth graders express Thanksgiving thoughts

Thanksgiving

By Sonia Enriquez, 6A

On Thanksgiving day we give thanks to the Lord and we should always say what you are proud of, like giving us the life we have and the love and all the happiness in our lives; tell him how much you love him and to help you live the days He has let you and I want to thank God for letting me write this poem; So thank you Lord.

Giving Thanks

By Gabriela Cervera, 6A

I give thanks to God for all the good things he does to us. I am also thankful for the food he gives us and all other good things we love. We love our parents he gave us. I am thankful for all the things he gave us in this world.

Thanksgiving

By Sonia Vela, 6A

On Thanksgiving we know God's with us, and He gives us everything we need. He's also with us everywhere we go. My family also blesses the Lord, because he's the one that gave us the food. To me I think God is a nice person, because he is the one that gave us our lives.

Thanksgiving

By Robert Cantrell, 6A

Thanksgiving is a time for blessing, a time for love and happiness. Give thanks for Thanksgiving Day, because soon enough it'll be here on our way. Autumn is a season to be proud of, a season to remember. Autumn is a season you'll never ever forget. Autumn is a time for joy...a time for happiness, and of course a time for love. Thanksgiving is a loving and caring day. Thanksgiving is a time for joy...and a time for love.

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is beautiful, short and sweet. If you're lucky you'll have something delicious and good to eat.

Thanksgiving

By Demencio Lopez, 6A

Thanksgiving is happiness, thankful and a special holiday to celebrate. It is a special holiday to eat light brown turkey on the plate.

Thanksgiving

By Becky Luna, 6A

Thanksgiving is time for joy. To be happy and joyful. It's time to be together with all your family. It's time to have the good juicy turkey and all those good things. This was the time we made peace with the Indians. And this is how we have the Thanksgiving holiday. This time of year is to give thanks to the Lord for giving us this great food. It's the time when we all join together and pray. I mean all of these words down deep in my heart.

Thanksgiving

By Mary Ellen Hernandez, 6A

What does Thanksgiving mean? Thanksgiving means alot to me. First of all thank the Lord for all the blessings he has given us. Thanksgiving is for sharing, caring and loving your family that you love. Thanksgiving means "giving thanks." Thanksgiving is where you eat turkey, dressing, fruit salad and all that good stuff and in my family we draw names for Christmas. We also say a prayer for letting the Lord know how thankful we are. I have six wonderful uncles and six wonderful aunts, one special mom and my grandparents. Only one of my uncles live in Waxahachie and is not coming till Christmas. I have twelve cousins, one beautiful sister, one brother-in-law, and a cute nephew. We all celebrate Thanksgiving and have a great time together. That's what Thanksgiving means to me.

Thanksgiving

By Kacie Lackey, 6A

I used to look forward to Thanksgiving. Sometimes I wonder who will be living? How many people will die? Just because of the people who drink and drive. I walked to the graveyard to see who was there. The next thing I knew it was poo-the Teddy Bear. Look forward to seeing your family. Not your windshield.

Pumpkin pie as yellow as gold.
Turkey and dressing brown as the trunk of the tree.
Coconut cake white as snow.
Pecan pie is crisp as a potato chip.
Traveling to Arkansas
Traveling is fun to go everywhere.
I hope we have a safe trip.
It is wonderful where we are going.
It is brown and leaves are down.
There are tall trees that look at you.
They are sad because the leaves are down.
They are bare and have no hair.

Thanksgiving Poems

By Pat Barrientos, 6B

Thanksgiving
Thanksgiving is beautiful. It is a day to be hopeful; I like the crisp brown leaves, that fall along the trees.
Reasons for Thanksgiving
Some reasons for Thanksgiving is to be with friends at home; to have a real nice dinner and have a little chat; I like my reasons for Thanksgiving.
A Real Nice Meal
We had a real nice meal. We had to make our deal; After we prayed our prayer, we sat in each of our chairs; We had a real nice chat, after we had our snack; We all had a real nice meal.
Prayer
We had our prayer before we ate;
Thanks to God for this day.
We ask you to bless our food and so we can live longer.

Let's All Be Thankful!

Thanksgiving

By Eric Luna, 6B

The bright leaves have fallen and late autumn has come.
On the farmlands the harvest has been gathered in, safe from the winter storms.
And in the roadside and city markets the stalls are colorful with fall fruits and vegetables.
November is the month to appreciate and share the bounty that is ours; not forgetting those in want.

Thanksgiving

By Sandra Coleman, 6B

Lord, I thank Thee for such things:
For giving us food to share and clothes to wear.
Lord, I thank Thee also much
And for your precious touch.
It makes me love so much.
Lord, I thank Thee for my freedom, roof and fire as I lay by the fireplace on winter days.

A Poem for Thanksgiving

By Brandy Cantrell, 6B

Lord, give us thanks for these such things,
The maple trees and harvesting.
The seasons for the farmer's dear's.
We give thanks every year.
Crisp golden leaves.
The age of old human needs.
Comradship along the way,
We keep in gratitude, this long day.

Reasons for Thanksgiving
A sturdy roof, our daily bread,
And seasoned wood piled in the shed.

To have food enough and a place to dwell,
We work and do it well.

We know good books and share there,
Worth, to plant good food in rich brown earth.

This is living,
For Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving

By Melissa Fowler, 6B

I mean every word,
I give thanks to the Lord.
God gives us rain,
God gives us sun.
God gives us many things to be thankful,
Thanksgiving is a special time.
Call for dinner and hear the chimes.

Thanksgiving

By Hilda Rodriguez, 6B

I am thankful for thee.
Autumn leaves and harvesting.
Pumpkins on pharoh in front of the big floor.
Thanksgiving is turkey, dressing, and kind of food we have for Thanksgiving.
Thank you God for Thanksgiving Day.
God gave our life, health, our food.
November is the month to appreciate and share.
The crisp pecan pie and pumpkin pie.
And on Thanksgiving we have gratitude of memory in our heart,
Nothing is more honorable than Thanksgiving.
God bless this day for Thanksgiving.

Also blessings and praises,
I thank the Lord to be alive.

When I think of leaves
It's time to breathe,
I feel the crisp season
just it and me.

When I call the season fall
I start to bawl
Because it's fall.

It's hard for me to see that fall as to fall back.
When it's fall I can't talk at all because there's no words that are beautiful enough to express the way I feel.

Thanksgiving Day
By Lynn Esquivel, 6D
Thanksgiving Day is the month of everybody's belly getting filled with turkey, dressing;
But be sure you're dressed up that day for relatives or people who are kind to you.

If you're not dressed up, who knows they may get on their knees and hands and yell "moo,"
So that's why you should wear clothes that are new.

That's how important Thanksgiving is.

Whirlwinds' season ends with 17-14 upset

By Bill Gray

The Floydada Whirlwinds' 1989 football season came to an abrupt halt at Dimmitt on November 17 as the Canyon Eagles narrowly defeated the 'Winds 17-14 for the Bi-District championship. Canyon now advances to area play against the Post Antelopes, while Floydada's year ends with a 10-1 record.

Floydada won the opening toss of the coin and elected to receive, but an errant attempt on the kickoff return resulted in a Canyon recovery at the Whirlwind 20. Three minutes and seven plays later, the Eagles were in the end zone on John Eller's quarterback sneak. Eller kicked the PAT and Canyon took the early lead 7-0.

Although the Whirlwinds were unable to generate anything on their initial series following the ensuing kickoff, Floydada's defense stiffened and regained some of the lost momentum. Quarterback sacks amounting to 23-minus-yards were turned in by Jay Mendoza and Freddie Portee.

Early in the second quarter 'Wind QB Grant Stovall passed to Frank Suarez for a key first down at the Eagle 24. The 6-play, 51 yard drive was capped by a 12 yard run by Suarez for a Floydada touchdown. Frank's extra point kick was good and the score was knotted at 7-all.

Canyon regained the lead on a 3-play, 51-yard drive in the middle of the second quarter. Eller rushed for 31 yards on the option, and Derek Pirtle set up the go-ahead score on a 1-yard blast to the Floydada 3-yard line. Jeff Perez took it in from there, Eller tacked on the PAT, and Canyon pulled ahead 14-7 (a lead it was never to relinquish).

Canyon had the chance to put the game almost out of reach in the closing minutes of the first half. A six-play Eagle drive was stymied when Kenneth Collins made a diving interception of an Eller pass at the goal line. Time ran out before the 'Winds were able to capitalize on the turnover, and the Eagles took the narrow 14-7 advantage into the locker room at halftime.

The Eagles took the second half kickoff and marched eight plays down to the Floydada 11-yard line. On the fourth down, Eller connected on a 27-yard field goal to end up the Canyon margin

Floydada's next drive apparently bogged down, as the 'Winds were faced with a 4th and seven-to-go at the Eagle 45. Kenneth Collins lined up to punt, but instead ran the fake for a 14-yard gainer and an important Whirlwind first down. Two plays later, Ruben Chavarria broke up the middle for a 28-yard touchdown. Frank Suarez added the PAT and the Whirlwinds were back in the game, trailing 14-17.

A 61-yard quick kick by Canyon on 3rd-down-23 put the Whirlwinds in a deep hole late in the third quarter, however on 3rd-and-9 from the Floydada 18, Grant Stovall hit Collins with a 32-yard pass which gave Floydada new life at mid-field. The Eagle defense stiffened and the 'Winds had to punt back to Canyon on the third play of the final quarter.

Canyon's John Eller hit Bart Ross on a 39-yard pass, but Ross coughed up the ball and the recovery was made for the 'Winds by Frank Suarez. The time on the clock indicated less than five minutes remaining as Floydada commenced what could have been a game-winning drive.

Three critical penalties hampered the Whirlwind drive as Floydada was faced with a 3rd-and-25 to go at the Canyon 35 yard line. Floydada then went to the "swaggle or flea flicker" play which had worked to perfection a couple of times earlier in the season. This time, it was not to be as the pass fell incomplete in the end zone. A fourth down pass by Stovall was incomplete and Canyon took over at its own 35 with less than three minutes remaining.

Canyon played ball control while registering two first downs. The Whirlwinds had one last chance to pull it out, but Jim Ed Farrow intercepted a Floydada pass in the final seconds. John Eller went down on one knee and the Canyon Eagles ran out the final ticks to insure the 17-14 Canyon victory.

Coach's Comments

Coach Dean Bates states, "It's been a heck of a year! The kids have done everything we asked of them and their attitude was exemplary. Our Seniors invested a great deal of time and energy into their development as top-notch players. They also contributed a great deal of senior leadership, so vitally important for a successful program."

"We as a staff and team are very fortunate to have the availability of such fine facilities (weight and conditioning room, etc.) which have been important in the players' development," the coach stressed.

Coach Bates expressed his deepest appreciation for the outstanding school and fan support all year. The team would have been hard pressed to reach the level it did without the tremendous following and support.

In assessing the Canyon loss, Coach Bates said he was "proud the way we came back after the early adversity." He added, "Regaining the momentum was a credit to our kids and their determined effort. That effort gave us a chance to win the game, and that is really all any coach can ever ask of a team."

Andrews introduces mascot

Thanks to a Name The Mascot contest, held at Andrews Elementary last week, a new "Twister" mascot can now join the ranks and file of other Floydada schools with their proud mascot traditions.

The idea of having a mascot originated in an article researched and written by Andrews student, Tim Rando, which was published in the first edition of the school newspaper, The R.C. Andrews Visions. The article prompted a contest throughout the school, and the "Twister" mascot came into being.

In the article Rando wrote, "According to Mr. Tyer, back in the 1920's Floydada's football team travelled to Amarillo to play the Amarillo Sandies. Floydada beat the Amarillo team by a big margin. In a news article written about the game, they reported wrote that the Floydada team went through the Sandies like a Whirlwind. The name stuck!

"Did you know," the article continued, "that R.C. Andrews does not have its own mascot? A.B. Duncan uses the 'Dusters'. Jr. High teams go by the name 'Breezers', and of course, High School is the 'Whirlwinds'."

"The WINDS class wants your suggestion for a R.C. Andrews mascot. The name needs to have something to do with whirlwinds. If you have an idea for a good name, please write it in the space below and turn it into the WINDS suggestion box outside the WINDS room."

According to Principal, 90% of the students who participated wrote the name "Twister" as a new mascot.

Other names suggested were Whirlpuffs, Zephyrs, Dust Devils and Cyclones.

Two students from each grade, 6 teachers, Principal Tyer and the WINDS class were responsible for picking the mascot name.

Whirlwinds' season ends

fect 10-0 records. The Floydada Whirlwinds were one of those seven!

Thirty-two district champions and 32 runners-up entered Bi-District action last weekend, and three of those undefeated teams were knocked out of the play-offs. A fourth, Mission Sharyland, was tied by Orange Grove 7-7, but Sharyland advances to the second round by virtue of an advantage in penetrations.

6-4 Clarksville bested 10-0 Mount Vernon 21-9; 7-3 Navasota defeated 10-0 Cameron-Yoe 18-12; and 6-4 Canyon edged 10-0 Floydada 17-14.

There is no question that the loss to the Eagles was a "bitter pill to swallow." A key Whirlwind miscue on the opening kickoff not only paved the way for an early Canyon score, but it put a damper on Floydada's ability to gain momentum in the early stages (which was so important in a game of this magnitude). Nevertheless, the Whirlwinds fought back and regained the upper hand at several points in the contest. The 'Winds battled the more physical Eagles dead even the entire game and were in a position to pullout the victory late in the fourth quarter.

A "sure" touchdown pass fell harmlessly incomplete in the end zone, followed by another tipped ball which if completed would have given the 'Winds a first down deep in Canyon territory. The breaks weren't then for the Whirlwinds. The valiant Floydada rally fell short, and with it the hopes of advancing further in the play-offs.

The Whirlwinds have nothing for which to be ashamed. They represented their school and community with upmost dignity all year. No one can take away the 'Winds perfect 10-0 regular season.

It was a successful year in all aspects. The determination of this team brought the name "Floydada Whirlwinds" back to the Texas Plains. They've come a long way since the 0-10 debacle of just a few short years ago!

To the departing Seniors, we say, "Thanks for the memories and thanks for helping regain the respect for the Floydada Whirlwinds." To those underclassmen who will return in these next years, we say, "You helped get us to where we are and it's up to you to carry on the winning tradition that this year's 'Winds re-established." Be as dedicated in "off-season" as this year's bunch and you'll be right back in the thick of things in 1990. Two-a-days are only 264 days away!

Dick Bunnell graduates from Los Angeles Sheriff's Academy

Deputy Dick J. Bunnell, 22, son of Loweida (Myrick) Bunnell, and the late Dick E. Bunnell, of Inglewood, California, graduated recently from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Academy, after many months of intensive training.

The Bunnell's are former residents of Floydada. Loweida and her mother, the late Mrs. Dena Myrick, owned and operated the O.K. Cafe for many years, and Mr. Bunnell owned and operated the O.K. Rubber Tire Co. in Floydada.

There were 116 men and women in Bunnell's academy class #253 that graduated. They were sworn in by Sheriff Sherman Block of Los Angeles County. The ceremonies were held at the Los Angeles Sheriff's Academy in Whittier, California.

Deputy Bunnell received a medal for Sharp Shooter, with a score of 298, two points short of the Professional Medal of 300 points.

Cadets swore to uphold the Code of Ethics at the ceremony, a portion of which stated, "I recognize the badge of my office as a symbol of public faith, and I accept it as a public trust to be held so long as I am true to the ethics of the police service. I will constantly strive to achieve these objectives and ideals, dedicating myself before God to my chosen profession - Law Enforcement."

After two years with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office, Bunnell will then be eligible to apply to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which is his ultimate goal.

Deputy Bunnell graduated from Hawthorne High School and El Camino College. While growing up, he and his sister, Millie Dena Grille, belonged to the Screen Children's Guild. Dick did many commercials, among them: "Jack In The Box", "McDonalds" and "Minute Maid Orange Juice."

He also did parts in T.V. series such as "Chips," "Police Story," and movies, such as "Hello Dolly," and others.

Bunnell was also active in sports. He was called Golden Arms, as he was the pitcher and considered going into professional baseball.

He is also the nephew of Clovis Myrick and Joyce Lipham of Floydada and also related to Easton and Dewanda Blenden of Lockney.

He is the grandson of the late Henry and Dena Myrick and has several cousins in the Floydada area.

Those attending his graduation ceremony were his mother and Nick and Millie Grille and Nicolette (the winner of the $10,000 Johnson Baby Contest).

Water monitoring program begins

High Plains Underground Water Conservation District personnel are expecting to find drier than normal soil moisture conditions over most of the Water District service area when annual pre-plant soil moisture monitoring begins in mid-November.

The southern High Plains normally receives 16 to 17 inches of its annual rainfall by November. Through October, however, most of the Water District service area had received only 11 to 13 inches of rain.

"We anticipate that soil moisture conditions will be so dry that most irrigators in the Water District will need to irrigate to fill their pre-plant soil moisture profile. Having a full soil moisture profile at planting helps ensure maximum economic yields," says Mike Risinger, Soil Scientist with the USDA-Soil Conservation Service and coordinator of the Water District's soil moisture monitoring program.

Data collected at the 271 soil moisture monitoring sites will be used to construct soil moisture availability and deficit maps for the 1990 pre-plant season. The maps will be provided to the news media for publication as soon as they are completed. These maps will illustrate the estimated moisture available in the soil profile for plant use; the moisture distribution within the soil profile; and the amount of water that must be applied to bring the soil profile to field capacity.

Water District personnel measure soil moisture conditions with neutron moisture meters. The neutron moisture meter is one of the most accurate soil moisture measuring devices available. Readings are taken at six-inch intervals throughout the five-foot soil profile by inserting a neutron probe into a previously-installed aluminum access tube. Landowners who allow Water District soil moisture monitoring sites on their land are provided with data regarding their field's individual soil moisture conditions.

The High Plains Water District reminds producers that Water District personnel Jerry Funck, Obbie Goolsby, Arnold Husky and Mike Risinger will be out in the fields taking soil moisture readings from November to January. Blue and white Water District vehicles are easily identified and personnel will be happy to answer landowners' questions while collecting the soil moisture data.

Cattle producers need to present unified front

The animal rights and welfare movements will not go away and cannot be ignored. Therefore, livestock producers should present a unified front in educating consumers about their industry, Dr. Stan Curtis said here last week.

Curtis, a professor of animal science-environment from the University of Illinois, said that livestock care practices such as branding, castration and dehorning are alien concepts to most consumers today and therefore a little frightening.

Curtis noted that the 100 producers attending the 1989 Texas A&M University Beef Industry Conference in the Rudder Center Theatre would understand the logic behind and the practicality of many of these practices. However, many consumers don't, he said.

The animal rights and welfare activists are a minority, but are very vocal and have demonstrated their ability to exert pressure on the media and consumers.

"They are a serious threat to all of animal agriculture," Curtis said.

Livestock producers can take a proactive and a reactive stance when dealing with these activists. He urged livestock producers to make necessary changes themselves.

He quoted Winston Churchill as saying, "Be sure to take change by the hand before it takes you by the throat."

For example, instead of investigating only production and animal health, the industry should welcome research on animal welfare, he said.

"If the public is ethically offended... then it doesn't matter what scientists find," he said.

Livestock producers should assure agriculturalists that the animal welfarists are serious. Over 1,000 letters addressing animal rights and welfare are sent to United States Congressmen each week and the legislature will take action, with or without advice from livestock producers, he said.

Additionally, each producer should point out instances of frank animal neglect and abuse, he said.

There are instances of such abuse by producers, feedlot and market operators and employees, Curtis said.

"There are places we can pull up our own cinches," he said.

There are people in the industry who do not have a humane attitude toward animals. "That does not set well with the public. We have to watch what we do," he said.

Producers should encourage 99 percent brain and 1 percent brawn when working around animals and design working situations around the animal's be addressed and solved by agriculturalists before they appear on national tele-

1988 cotton consumption record

Adapting a hackneyed phrase from political oratory of the past, Donald Johnson says cotton people can "point with pride" to the consumption record compiled by their fiber in 1988.

Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, made the observation after reviewing figures from the 1989 issue of "Cotton Counts Its Customers," an annual market research report published by the National Cotton Council.

The report shows cotton continuing in 1988 to hold a healthy share of U.S.-produced apparel and home furnishings, the two largest market categories, accounting for 83 percent of all fiber usage. The remaining 17.2 percent of fibers goes into industrial uses.

Cotton held the 53 percent share of the clothing market achieved in 1987, confirming that the 4 percent increase from 49 percent in 1986 was no fluke. Apparel continued to be cotton's strongest end-use sector, accounting for almost five million bales and over 60 percent of the year's total domestic cotton consumption.

Consumer preference for 100 percent cotton and cotton-rich blends was also evidenced by an increased use of cotton in knits such as sport shirts, sweatshirts, underwear, non-sheer hosiery and sweaters. Knit items used almost 2.3 million bales, 47 percent of the cotton that we apparel. Comparable numbers for 1987 were 2.2 million bales and only 44 percent of the total.

Woven fabrics however continue to dominate cotton in apparel constructions, consuming over 2.5 million bales or 53 percent of total clothing use. Denim and twill cotton constructions proved the most popular end-uses.

Home furnishings, cotton's second strongest market sector, also consumed 2.5 million bales, about 32 percent of the total for 1988. That equals the 2.5 million consumed in home furnishings in 1987 and is a significant gain from the 2.3 million used in 1986.

A more detailed breakdown reveals that cotton's top five end-uses accounted for almost four million bales, about half the eight million consumed in all end-uses. Men's and boys' shirts, with 1.033 million bales used, topped the list.

They were joined in the top five by men's and boys' trousers and shorts, 976,000 bales; towels and washcloths, 895,000; drapery, upholstery and slipcover fabrics, 541,000 and women's slacks and jeans with 522,000 bales consumed.

The number on factor contributing to the increases in cotton consumption in 1988 and in the steady trend of gains in cotton's market share since the 1960's, Johnson believe, is producer support for the research and market development work of Cotton Incorporated.

"Producers themselves have made the difference," he states, "and it's something they have every right to be proud of."

Sunflowers bring economic sunshine

"If life gives you lemons, make lemonade," so goes the old saying. Well, for some Panhandle cotton farmers, when they got bad weather, they grew sunflowers.

A group of Panhandle cotton farmers did exactly that when wind, rain and hail ruined their crop. In the classic Texas manner, they transformed what could have been an economic tragedy into a profitable opportunity. All it took was bad weather, a cash offer that couldn't be refused, and some of those ubiquitous Texas sunflowers.

It all started with the weather. Last May, a series of storms passed through the Panhandle bringing high winds, rain and hail. As if that wasn't bad enough, another set of storms hit the region on June 1 and stayed through the middle of the month, raining as much as five or six inches on some afternoons.

"By the first week in June, many farmers around here were already looking for alternative crops to grow," said Mike Williams, a Plainview seed processor and owner of Williams Seed and Conditioning Company. "Our cut-off date for cotton planting is around June 5-6."

"Typically, the alternative crops farmers in this area grow are soybeans, cow peas or grain sorghum," Williams said.

However, CITGO Sun Products of Minnesota offered the farmers an attractive price to grow sunflowers, a product long considered by many Texas farmers to be little more than a weed. But, because raising sunflowers commercially is a relatively easy enterprise and does not call for additional investments in new equipment, farmers made the transition to growing sunflowers with few or no problems.

It wasn't a very difficult situation," Williams said. "Typically in our area, we have the harvesting equipment available, which are combines as well as the planting equipment. And the planting practices are the same."

In short, sunflowers are also easy to grow. "That's one thing all our farmers have commented on—how easy these flowers are to grow," he said. "Also, they like the yield results, they like the price. They all make money."

According to Williams, an acre of sunflowers calls for an investment of $75-$80, and grosses at least $195 an acre. A farmer's net income from one acre of this crop is approximately $100-$120.

"An added advantage was that when we talked to farmers about growing sunflowers, they could contract at an established price," Williams said. "They knew what the price was and didn't have to worry about speculating on the market."

Like other West Texas producers, Joe Pate of Lubbock was barely breaking even with his cotton crop.

"In 1989 in West Texas it cost around $150-$175 to produce an acre of cotton," Pate said. "Because this was such a poor production year, we only harvested about 300 pounds per acre, and since cotton was selling at 50 cents per pound, we barely broke even. So, we're optimistic about growing sunflowers. We think that another year or two of production like we've had here in '89, this could definitely become an established crop. We think it's just one more opportunity for West Texas farmers and the economy."

"As it stands right now, the current supply can't meet the demand," Williams said. "Ever since we contracted this crop, the price has moved up a couple of cents per pound. By next year, we'll probably be contracting a penny to a penny-and-half more than we did this year."

By growing the sunflowers without any pesticides or artificial fertilizers, there is the possibility of reaping even higher profits.

"The demand for organics is tremendous," Williams said. "We approached several farmers earlier this year about raising organic sunflowers, but because they didn't yet know how the crop would do, they hesitated. We've had people come back to us expressing great interest in cultivating organically."

Sunflowers are rich in protein and an excellent source of oilseed. The oil has been used in making pottery and ceremonial body painting by American Indians. During the 1600s, the sunflower was exported to Europe but was used only as a garden ornament. It wasn't until the 18th century that it gained importance as a food product. Today, the sunflower supplies a major portion of Europe's vegetable oil and is commonly used in bakery products.

Texas sunflowers will be sold throughout the U.S. and in Europe. Several major food companies, including General Mills, have expressed an interest in buying Texas sunflowers seeds.

Soybean ink used to print seed bags

A story that's worth writing home about is a new use found for soybeans-ink! The special ink is made up of about ten percent soy protein and it's now being used to print seed bags. When customers of Pioneer brand seed pick up the seed they'll plant next season, the bags will carry more than the seed inside them. They'll also carry the soybean grower's product on the outside. Pioneer, the nation's largest developer of agronomic seeds, is experimenting with non-traditional uses of other agricultural products.

The company is using corn starch-based plastic in its popular promotional bags. More than 200,000 are distributed to customers and trade show visitors each year.

"Pioneer is a research-based company," says Russ Berndt, soybean product marketing manager for Pioneer, "and we're doing everything we can to encourage experimentation, development and use of products-derived from agricultural commodities such as corn and soybeans."
