Kwahadi Dancers perform Saturday

The Kwahadi Indian Dancers from Amarillo will make their appearance at the Junior High Gym Saturday, May 19, at 7:30 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Floydada Boy Scouts and will kick off Floyd County's Centennial Week.

The history of the Kwahadi Dancers started in 1945 with a small group of boys from one of Amarillo's oldest, scout troops, Troop 9. With the help of Troop leaders Ralph E. Ireland and Dr. C.E. Colgate the boys prepared a three minute dance for the Council Cam-porce. They soon found themselves in demand and it was no longer a temporary project.

The group chose the name Kwahadi (Qua-HA-dee) after the roving band of Comanche people who lived in the Amarillo area in the 1800's.

In 1959, after a period of inactivity for the Kwahadis, another scoutmaster, Jack Bryant of Troop 80, called on Ireland to help train a group of boys for troop ceremonies. A new generation of Kwahadis began crafting elaborate costumes, creating new dances, and traveling to Indian events throughout the Southwest.

In 1967, the troop built the Scout Hut a building with plenty of rehearsing and performing space. The Kwahadi program was opened to scouts from all troops in the area. With the hut (Kiva) came the opportunity to perform indoor spring and winter ceremonies, which have been performed annually, approximately 200 performances.

The Kwahadis have performed coast to coast during the summer show tours. Each June or July, 30 to 40 group guys load three tons of costumes, teepees, stage gear, and sound and light equipment and hit the road for two or three weeks.

During his Kwahadi years a boy will have an opportunity to see all regions of the U.S. and its neighbors and perform 300 times or more.

Any scout or employer may become a Kwahadi. Newcomers become members of the Papoose clan and attend craft sessions and beginner dance practices.

The Kwahadis have acquired a large collection of dances, songs, and craft and skills since 1954.

Boys organize and carry out plans for 40 to 50 shows each year plus the summer tour, fun trips, rehearsals, and work sessions. It is not unusual for a Kwahadi Chief to attend 20 meetings in one month.

With over 50 dancers in the active collection to choose from the Kwahadi summer shows are full of a variety of dances for different cultures.

Tickets will be on sale at the door, $4.00 for adults, $3.00 for children under 12 and $2.00 for boy scouts in uniform.

KWAHADI INDIAN DANCERS of Amarillo will be performing at the Floydada Junior High Gymnasium on Saturday, May 19, at 7:30 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Boy Scouts. Tickets will be available at the door the night of the performance.

Gubernatorial candidates plan to speak at Centennial Reunion

Floydada will be over run with news media Saturday, May 26, to cover not only the centennial reunion but also the appearance of the gubernatorial candidates, Ann Richards and Clayton Williams.

Both Richards and Williams are both scheduled to speak, under the pavilion, before the bar-b-que lunch. Each candidate has been allowed fifteen minutes at the podium, and will answer questions from the press at a later time.

Williams is scheduled to arrive at 11:00 a.m. and will be around the courthouse square to greet people until 1:00 p.m.

Richards is scheduled to arrive at 11:30 a.m. and leave at 2:00 p.m.

SPS denies territory infringement

In an article in last weeks Hesperian, it was reported that Lighthouse Electric had requested an injunction, through district court in Floydada, to prohibit SPS from providing all electric-service requirements to the new Azteca milling operation in Plainview.

The new Azteca site, south of Plainview, straddles the service territory boundary between SPS and Lighthouse.

As of May 10, SPS had not been served with the injunction and could not comment on details of the injunction.

"Before construction began, SPS and Lighthouse both made proposals to Azteca to provide electric service to the integrated plant operation," said Gary

Gibson, SPS's vice president of marketing. "Based on its analysis, Azteca asked SPS to provide all of its electric-service requirements."

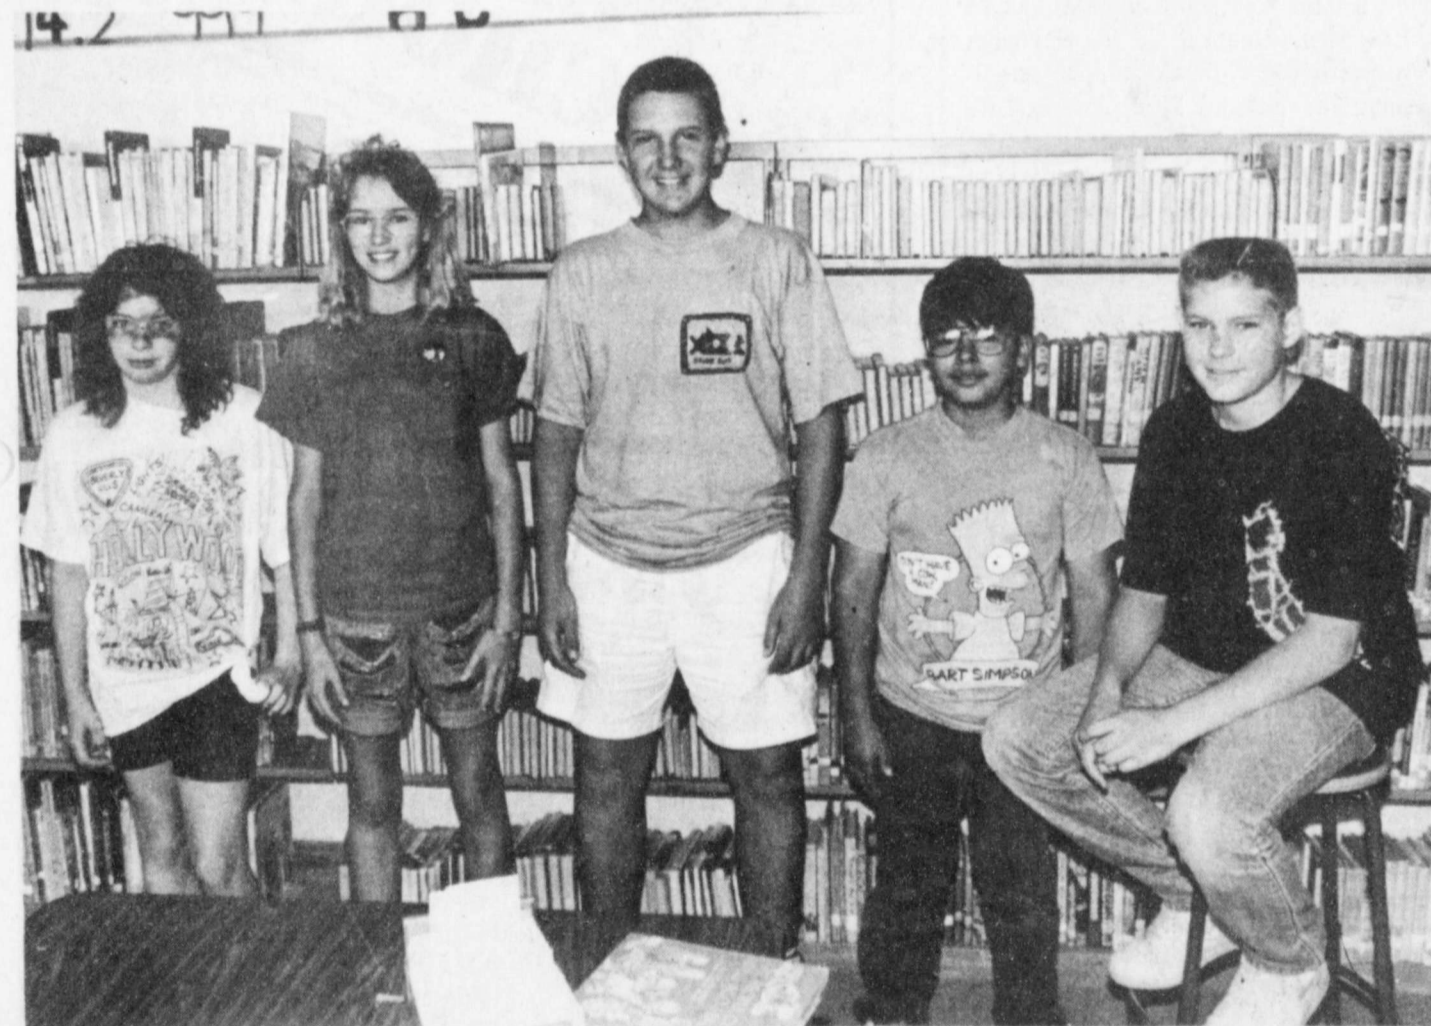

SPS began providing temporary service to Azteca for construction in July 1989 from a location in SPS's certified territory. "Azteca then constructed the necessary electrical facilities to distribute construction power throughout the installation as required for construction," said Gibson.

"On Sept. 28, 1989, SPS contracted to provide permanent electric service to Azteca. SPS will locate its electrical facilities necessary to serve Azteca on the Azteca property within SPS's certified service territory. Azteca will construct its own electrical facilities to distribute electric power as required by its integrated operation.

"An integrated operation, such as Azteca's should not be required to take electric service from two different utilities. The customer recognized the need to take service from one utility for its integrated operation and ultimately selected SPS," Gibson said. "SPS is providing all requested electric service to Azteca from its certified territory."

SPS has not extended, nor does it intend to extend, any of its facilities into the certified territory of Lighthouse to serve Azteca, Gibson said.

W.I.N.D.S. AUTHORS—(L-R) Andrews Elementary students Stacy Lloyd, Tanea Owens, David Watson, Michael Mercado and Zack Abshier will have their published work exhibited at the Friends of the Library reception,

May 25, from 2:00-4:00 p.m. The authors wrote books for Duncan Elementary students and donated the books to the Duncan library.

County Commissioners approve change in insurance companies

Floyd County Commissioners unanimously approved switching the county group hospitalization coverage from Texas Blue Cross, Blue Shield to the Texas Panhandle Medical Group plan submitted by Jim Bob Martin of J&K Insurance in Lockney.

The new coverage will be effective July 1, 1990 as approved by the court. The new plan is expected to equal the old plan in cost, but provide more and better coverage for the employees.

Motion for the action came from commissioner George Taylor. Commissioner Floyd Jackson provided the second.

Approval of the deputation of Tim Burge as sheriff's deputy for Floyd County was given by the court. Burge will be based in Floydada.

The court also approved repairing the roof on the jail at an estimated cost of $3102 by J.Q. Long Roofing of Plainview. The roof of the courthouse will also be repaired, but will have to go to bids as the estimated cost exceeds $5000. Motion was made for the action by commissioner Connie Bearden and seconded by commissioner Kay Crabtree. The vote was unanimous.

County treasurer Glenna Orman presented her financial report for the month of April. Fund balances totaled $378,883.57 on April 1. Receipts of $332,547.44 were taken in and disbursements of $446,897.48 were made, leaving fund balances at $264,533.53 on April 30.

By The Way

By Alice Gilroy

Be sure and check the paper this week for all the centennial goings-on. Next week is going to be very busy for everyone. There are a lot of people in this county who have been working very hard and will be glad to put up their feet and relax on May 28.

Personally, around here - once we get the centennial edition done everything else will be a piece of cake. There are so many people who have worked so hard on this edition, that I don't know where to start thanking people.

We want to thank the postal carriers ahead of time. We know we will not be their favorite people after next week. This is going to be a very large edition and they aren't going to be happy carrying it around. Ya'll be nice to them when they come home with aching backs and tired feet.

We are also not the favorite people of the guys that run Blanco Offset Printing. They are currently doing triple time to get us printed on time, because we are coming down to the wire and they are helping us out all they can.

I went back today and asked them if they were still our friends. I'm not sure, but I think I heard a low rumbling growl coming from Jim Huggins.

I pretended that wasn't directed at me and proceeded to thank him for the great job they have done printing the sections that we already have.

I told Jim that the pictures looked great but I couldn't understand why the old pictures were better looking than the newer pictures. "Was it the film they used, Jim?" "Or was it the camera's? Or is it us?"

"Well," he said, "It was the film they used and the camera's they used and it's also ya'll."

I pretended I didn't hear that either. I also quit visiting while they were putting another centennial section together and came up front where it was safer.

The centennial edition will be $2.00 an issue. Subscribers will get one for free (you can thank the advertisers for that). Now would be a good time to come get your subscription.

We normally print a total of 2950 papers for the county. We will print 4000 copies of the Centennial edition. There should be plenty to go around.

Centennial ball tournament kicks off week of activities

'Old Timers' game will be played Sunday

A men's slow-pitch softball tournament will set the stage this weekend for nine consecutive days of activities and events in conjunction with Centennial Week and the Floyd County Centennial, 1890-1990. Rescheduled from May 4-6 due to conflicting engagements of some of the teams, the tournament will commence Friday, May 18 at 7:00 p.m.

Class C and D teams from Floyd County and the surrounding area - including Abernathy, Plainview, and Lubbock - are expected to be entered in the double-elimination tourney.

All games will be played at the City of Floydada softball park (across the street east of the high school) unless late entries require the use of two fields. In that case, some games may be moved to Annie Taylor Park on Saturday. Admission is free to all contests.

The semi-finals and championship games will be played on Sunday afternoon, May 20. Sponsor trophies and commemorative T-shirts will be awarded to the first through fourth place teams.

OLD TIMER'S GAME

It won't be a "Field of Dreams" (more than likely a "Field of Nightmares"), but as a special, added attraction, an "Old Timers" four-inning game will immediately follow the second semi-final contest of the Centennial Tournament (approximately 3:30 p.m. on Sunday). The minimum age for participants in this "exhibition" is 39. The rosters are yet incomplete, but some notable area athletes of the '40s, '50s and '60s have volunteered (?) to play. It promises to be a lot of fun!

It won't be necessary to bring Visa Cards or American Express - just cameras, camcorders, and liniment - and, perhaps a bottle or two of oxygen. A refreshment stand will be sponsored by the Centennial Commission. After tournament expenses, the proceeds will be used to help defray costs of other Centennial activities.

Letter to the Editor

A special thanks to Sheriff Fred Cardinal, Officer Charles Overstreet and Police Chief James Hale.

Let us make it 100% attendance at every church in Floyd County on Church Founder's Day May 20.

Bishop speaking at FUMC on Founder's Day

Bishop Alsie H. Carleton will be the preacher at First United Methodist Church on Sunday morning, May 20. He was elected as United Methodist Bishop in July, 1968. Previously, he served as Professor, Church Administration and Director of Field Education at Southern Methodist University's Perkins School of Theology. He held pastorates in Northwest Texas Conference until 1953.

Bishop Carleton attended McMurry College, Southern Methodist University, University of Chicago Divinity School, and Boston University. He holds several honorary degrees and also received the SMU Distinguished Alumnus Award.

When Bishop Carleton was elected bishop, he was assigned to the Northwest Texas-New Mexico Area; reassigned to the same Area in 1972 and, again, in 1976 for the 1976-1980 quadrennium.

Bishop Carleton has been delegate to World Methodist Conferences, Jurisdictional and General Conferences. He held positions on the boards of numerous Methodist organizations, which included the Executive Committee of the Council of Bishops. He was president of the General Board of Pensions from 1972 to 1980, during which time the new position program for United Methodist ministers was adopted by General Conference.

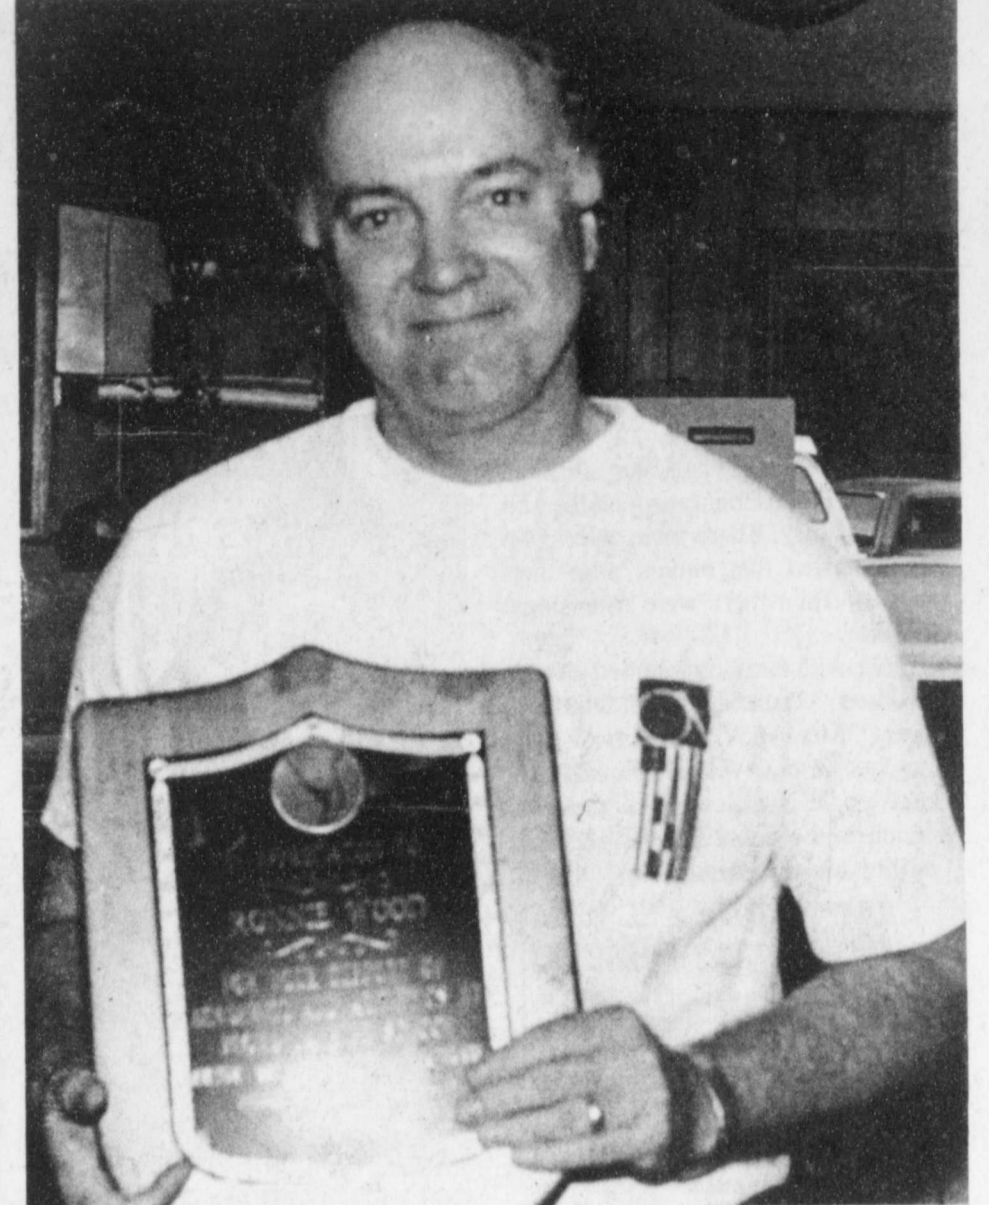

Bishop Carleton retired in September, 1980, and since that time has been employed by McMurry College, Abilene, Texas, as Counseling Bishop and Special Assistant to the President of the college.

A reception honoring Bishop and Mrs. Carleton will be held in Fellowship Hall between the hours of 3:00 and 5:00 p.m. The Carleton family moved to Floyd County from Coryell County in 1924, and to Floydada in 1927 from the Newland Community.

Bishop Carleton is a 1930 graduate of Floydada High School and a former member of First United Methodist Church. He and his wife, Artha Blair, are parents of three children: Thomas B., Jonathan C., and Carolyn A., each of whom was born in a West Texas city.

"It was my privilege to study with Bishop Carleton at Perkins School of Theology, SMU, and I rejoice to welcome him for the Founder's Day activities on May 20," said Pastor Wright. We invite the community to join us in welcoming Bishop and Mrs. Carleton at both the worship service and the reception.

The court postponed acceptance of a motor grader bid for a proposed purchase by Precinct #3. The final decision concerning the purchase will be made on Friday, May 18, at 9 a.m.

Farm work contracts were approved for Joe Rainer, Craig Gilly, Paul Hrbacek and Linda Jones. Two contracts were voided. They had previously been approved for Beth Kropp.

J. J. Foster descendants meet at Massie

The descendants of J.J. Foster will hold their annual reunion at the Massie Civic Center, in Floydada, Sunday May 27. The group planned this gathering for the day after the Floyd County Old Settlers Celebration.

J.J. Foster and his seven children moved to Floyd County around the turn of the century. There were three who were married that moved with their families. Then there were four single children.

Those with families included George W. Foster, "Tedie" Mrs. Jim Southard, "Texie" Mrs. W.A. Amburn Sr. The four younger ones were Clarence, Pearl, Grace and Kent. Several of these remained in the county and raised their families, and are buried here.

Eighty million years ago, when most of Texas was covered by a warm shallow sea, a submarine volcano was formed at Pilot Knob, Texas, in the countryside approximately 15 miles east of Austin. At 710 feet above sea level - some 200 feet higher than the surrounding countryside - the knob is visible for miles. It's visibility made it a guidepost for traveling Indians and explorers thousands of years before anything was known of its violent origins.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY—Rev. and Mrs. Homer E. Smithee will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, May 19. Honoring their parents at this time will be their three children and families, Martha and Don Wilson and children, Quinten and Lynn, and Forrest of Duncanville, Texas; Ruth and Ron Sanders and children, Ruth Marie and Larry Wolf, of Yukon, Oklahoma; Marie and Randy Elliott and children, Sabrina and Bryan, of Mead, Oklahoma. The celebration will be held in the Fellowship Hall of The First Assembly of God Church in Winnsboro, Texas from 2 until 4 p.m. Rev. and Mrs. Smithee pastored the First Assembly of God Church in Floydada from 1948 until 1956. Friends of the family are invited to attend.

Carl Lemons' News and Views from Cedar Hill

WEATHER & CROP COMMENTS

Tiny plumes of dust rose lazily around the feet of cattle as they walked across the waterless bottom of Lake Cedar Hill near sunset on a recent evening. Backlighting by the setting sun the dust particles gave off a silvery sheen, a bright halo that gradually dimmed and finally faded into nothingness as they slowly settled back to earth. In early June a year ago N&V wrote, "The waves of Lake Cedar Hill are lapping at the black-top on both sides of Hi-way 97; one more inch of rain and motorists will get their tires wet when they make the crossing." The inch of rain never came, and now the water is very shallow on the lake's south side. Water fowl can no longer dive beneath the waves to escape their enemies; truly they are "sitting ducks" to any bird of prey who chooses to hunt there.

Last Sunday, then again on Monday, the thermometer touched 96 at the Listening Post and Sunday's winds varied between 30 and 40 MPH. A time of intense dehydration, a time of the widening of the age gap between the well headed, early seeded wheat and that sowed behind summer crops that were harvested in the fall. The older wheat, if all goes well, will coast on to a harvestable yield despite stem-cooking heat and the dry winds. The younger wheat, much of it still in the boot, has a much steeper hill to climb. It will give us a chance to witness a miracle!

Toby, one of my publicity shy friends, is elated about the performance of his cotton. His planter started rolling at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, May 8, and this morning, one week later, he has a rope of green atop his seed furrow. He adds it would be a poor stand should it stop right there but a very adequate number of vigorous seedlings are just beneath the surface and pushing hard.

Most farmers seem happy with the unusual speed at which their seeds are sprouting, performing more like June than the middle of May.

This has to be a rough estimate, but half of Cedar Hill's cotton must be in the ground. With the equipment lined up, the rust knocked off, and the kinks pretty well ironed out this planting should come to a whizzing finish. Cedar's last cotton seed will not be planted when you read this, but it sure won't lack much.

Most of the commercial onion growers have sprayed on a combination fungicide and foliar feed at this time and are feeling better about their prospects. Commercial pepper land is ready and the planting is imminent.

Busby Truck Patch has corn, squash, and green beans up. Three kinds of peppers, four varieties of tomatoes, BE & crowder peas, and okra have been planted, not up yet.

THE LEANING CEDARS

Your writer is sick! Sick that he put off that phone call a few days too long. He tried to call Clara Mize Tuesday and got Ma Bell's "We're sorry" recording. A job opportunity had opened up for George and Betty in Arizona and Clara decided to rent out her house and move with them. They began the trek to Arizona on Mother's Day. Now Clara won't answer that 2613 number anymore, for a while that is, until they get home-sick in Arizona and move back to Floydada again.

THE PRAIRIE CEDARS

May 13: 'Twas Cedar Hill Day at Lake Mackenzie last Sunday!

Deliece Gilly Harrison and her daughters, of Plainview, prepared a Mother's Day dinner for Edna and the Craig Gilly's at the family "cabin on the lake." Trudy brought her mother along for the outing. Deputy Johnny Harrison works the night shift so he had to stay home and get his rest. Mark and Lori, due to their week-long jobs, thought it wiser to go to the Starkey place and do their farming.

The Langleys were out in force to celebrate Mother's Day at Jim and Celia Higdon's home on the shores of Lake Mackenzie. All of Mrs. Ester Langley's children were there except one son, James who lives in California. It was a warm-up for the major Langley reunion at the time of Mrs. Langley's birthday, July 24.

May 13: Cephus Fortenberry treated Imogene, daughter Phyllis Harris, and grandson Terry to a Mother's Day dinner out last Sunday.

May 13: Junior and Martha Taylor were guests in the Plainview home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Davey for a Mother's Day dinner last Sunday. Other guests of the Davey's were Gus and Agnes Taylor Wesley; Mattie Taylor Davis; Bud, Penny, and Erin Taylor, along with a number of other Davey children and their families.

May 14: Although he was still recuperating from a recent operation Pastor and Mrs. Willis Dewey hooked their travel trailer to their Suburban and made the trip to the Assemblies of God campgrounds at Roaring Springs. There they joined a group of other part-time trailer dwellers known as the "West of Fifty" club for a brief stay.

May 14: Imogene Fortenberry accompanied Edna Gilly on an excursion to Plainview Monday. They checked a number of things of mutual interest and took lunch with Edna's daughter, Deliece Harrison.

He who never made a mistake, never made a discovery.

Homemakers Council hears helpful hints on gardening

By Maye Williams

The Homemakers Extension Council met May 10 in the agriculture building, for their regular meeting.

Vivian Curtis, president, called the meeting to order at 2 p.m. She opened the meeting by reading a poem on "Friendship".

Ruth Trapp conducted recreation. She passed out slips of paper which each member in turn read. These slips of paper contained helpful hints on gardening, using ordinary things around the house such as citrus peels, cucumber peels, and Epsom Salt to keep bugs away from plants.

Blanche Williams, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and they were approved. Roll call was answered by eight members.

Mary True, agent, reported 100 trees were planted by the 4-H at various locations in Floydada and Lockney. These are at the High School Park, the R.V. Park, the swimming pool area and the community center in Lockney. Scott Simpson, local nursery man special ordered the trees and let the participating groups have them at cost. He also assisted in the planting. We sincerely thank Mr. Simpson for his interest and generosity.

The Harmony Club report was given by Maye Williams and Ruth Trapp gave the Homebuilders report.

She also stated, beginning in June, she would conduct a program on "Heart Healthy Foods" during the lunch hour one day a week for six weeks. Participation in this program is urged.

She announced a contest for Fair Book covers and expressed a desire for individuals to submit entries to be judged. The theme is "Days Gone By." The dates for the fair are Aug. 30-31 and Sept. 1.

In the order of business, a Memory Tea was discussed for another centennial celebration. The date for this was set for Sept. 14, from 2-4 p.m. at the museum. The council program committee will have charge.

In the order of business, the election of officers was held and the same slate of officers will serve for one more year.

Following the adjournment of the council meeting, Mrs. Mayfield called a TEHA meeting, and delegates and alternates were elected for the State meeting.

A willing attitude to do volunteer work was rewarded for Rosemary Arredondo, Yolanda Barrientos and JoAnn Mendez.

All were presented certificates of recognition in gold frame.

Mr. Ronnie Wood led the closing prayer.

Members of the Home Ec. Class served cookies and punch to students and guests. Miss Gracie Gonzales served from the crystal punch bowl. Miss Rosemary Arredondo served cookies. The table was covered with a red cloth and centered with a vase of red roses. Boys of both classes helped with host duties.

Floyd County churches played an important part in founding and settling the county. Honor those early day pioneers by attending your church on May 20.

CVAE-Home Ec. students visit Amarillo

By Rosemary Arredondo

The Floydada CVAE-Home Economics class went on the school bus to Amarillo Friday, May 4. We first went to the T.S.T.I. library. The director showed a video tape about the school and all the courses you can take there. We went through the computer building.

They showed us a film on how you can compose music or draw pictures on a computer. We saw students in classes. He said, "Computers will be in all businesses in the future."

We checked into the Holiday Inn. We ate lunch at Burger King. Then we went to Amarillo College. The director of the financial aid office, Mr. Ron Mills, met us and took us all through the office skills building. Next, we went through the child care center. Pre-school children of teachers and students can stay there. Students take care of the children and go to classes. They are child care assistant majors.

The director explained the one year certificate and two year degree courses we could take. Then we went back to the hotel and went swimming in the indoor pool. We tried out the whirlpool and sauna. There was also a free game room and indoor golf course, we took pictures.

For dinner, we went to Furr's Cafeteria and the mall. We voted to go skating after dinner. Back at our hotel we decided to rent a movie but our TV was on the blink so we called and ordered pizza from Dominoes. We all chipped in a dollar to pay for it.

The next morning, we watched the Junior class from Vega High School decorate the meeting room in the lobby for their Jr.-Sr. banquet and prom that night. It looked beautiful. They were putting up aqua and silver fairy castles.

We saw a lot of cars at a long building behind our hotel, it was a flea market. Mrs. Williams said we could go there for an hour. We went there in the school bus. We all bought presents for our families. Then it was check-out time.

There were lots of restaurants near our hotel to choose from, we had coupons for Long John Silvers so we ate lunch there. We were all full of food when we got back on the bus and started for Canyon.

In Canyon, we went to a dorm, the recreation center and the museum. It was really a big museum. We saw many things from the past. We drove around West Texas State University. It is a beautiful campus. We were hungry again so we went to Braum's and bought ice cream. We forgot to take a jam box to listen to on our trip but we all had lots of fun talking about what we had seen.

The trip home seemed shorter than the trip up. It was a wonderful trip. We thank Mr. Wood for letting us go. We had to be passing in all subjects, and have all school bills paid up. Students who went on the trip were Susie Segura, Monica Garza, Rue Ann Riojas, Mary Lou Herrera, Yolanda Ledbetter, and Emma Lopez. Our teacher, Mrs. Joyce Williams, drove the bus.

An after-graduation reception will be hosted for Floydada High School graduates, their teachers, families and friends in the High School cafeteria immediately following the graduation ceremony Friday, May 25.

Hosting the traditional reception will be members of the City Park Church of Christ. Drop in for refreshments and visiting.

DeOchoa chosen as outstanding GMR-VEH student

Al Galloway, Instructor of General Mechanical Repair at Della Plain, chose Johnny DeOchoa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rafael DeOchoa to receive an outstanding Student Award for General Mechanical Repair during the breakfast for advisory committee members and other school personnel at Nielson's Thursday, May 3, at 7:00 a.m.

The awards were given by our superintendent, Jerry Cannon.

CROP INSURANCE BULLETIN

The best time to turn in your acreage report is right after you finish planting while its fresh on your mind.

Cotton insurance has a difference set of rules for unit divisions this year. You need to report the crop on each farm separately and indicate the section number as well as the farm number.

Dryland and irrigated cotton need to be shown separately too.

In most cases it will be to your advantage to break your farms down into separate units if we can so that each one will stand on its own when you have a loss.

Come by or call and let us help you complete your acreage report form and we'll answer some of your questions at the same time.

Acres, livestock to be inventoried

Beginning June 1, representatives from the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service will begin contacting farmers and ranchers across the state to help set the 1990 planted acreage estimates and midyear livestock inventories.

State Statistician Dennis Findley emphasized that information from these surveys will help producers adjust their production and marketing plans for 1990. "Good marketing requires good information and advanced planning. Information from these surveys will provide Texas producers with solid facts and figures they can use when making their marketing plans."

"There are many uncertainties facing agriculture," Findley added, "and accurate, reliable figures will give producers a chance to make sound production and marketing decisions during the coming year."

Results of the confidential interviews, conducted by telephone or in person by field enumerators, will be published later this summer. The 1990 planted acreage report will be released June 28 and U.S. cattle inventory will be released July 27.

To reduce survey costs, Findley is urging farmers and ranchers to return the mailed questionnaires as soon as possible. Individual reports will be combined with other reports to state estimates.

"Remember, these are sample surveys, so if you are contacted it is important to provide the requested information, since your one report represents similar operations of the same size and type. Our estimates can be no better than the numbers producers provide," Findley added.

COWPOKES

By Ace Reid

"I like it burnt outside and pink in the middle except when it's my thumb!"

The days of the mid-1930's Dust Bowl are long gone. In the decades since, the Texas High Plains have prospered agriculturally and risen to national importance with the production of crops such as grain, sugar beets, potatoes, carrots, lettuce, onions and castor beans, to name a few. The grit from dusty clouds pushed by northers still causes folks to pull up stakes, but the old-timers tend to see a blessing in disguise. As one Panhandle native put it, "Heck, if it weren't for the dusters, everybody would want to live here!"

Information bank to aid management

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Managers and owners of grazing lands will soon have new decision aid in a computer software package, Grazing Land Applications (GLA), made available through the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS).

The system's intent is to improve management of all rangeland, grazable woodland, pastureland, grazable cropland and hayland in the U.S. GLA helps record, organize, analyze, and transfer the vast amount of information needed to determine the best practices for managing any grazing operation.

GLA resulted from a cooperative research and development effort by the Ranching Systems Group of the Texas A&M University Department of Range Science, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and the Soil Conservation Service. The group is composed of Texas A&M faculty members J. W. Stuth, coordinator, W. T. Hamilton, J. R. Conner and D.

Sheehy. Technical staff includes systems analysts D. A. Riegel, Briggs Myrick, Rich Huff, and technical editor Bonnie Lyons.

The GLA planning system will be distributed nationwide in 3,300 USDA-Soil Conservation Service field offices, probably by this summer. The new system is designed for use by SCS agency personnel working directly with the landholder.

Part of the information in the system is broadly applicable to all users and part must be developed for the individual, Stuth said.

The rancher traditionally has had to make many tough decisions, often based on inadequate information. He or she was expected to function as a full-time business manager with some expertise in bookkeeping, marketing, veterinary medicine, range management, livestock breeding, animal nutrition, and a dozen other fields of specialized information.

Business decisions were often based on information carried in the rancher's head and figures from a notebook in his hip pocket. Such "guesstimates" based on inadequate information were often wrong, Stuth said.

In today's world of vast quantities of specialized information developed through research, the answer to a problem is often known but is not available to the rancher. Sometimes the answer can only be developed through the interaction of a number of complex factors. The computerized planning system gives the ranching industry a valuable tool for organizing many of these facts as quickly as possible, Stuth said.

"While computerized systems are not new in the field of agriculture," Stuth said, "GLA is a unique program in two different ways. It helps the user create forage and animal inventories from such information as animal types, harvest efficiency, plant names, and quarterly forage values specific to his or her resources."

"Such an inventory permits as much or as little detail as needed within a pasture or less acreage. It is flexible enough that a rancher could inventory one acre or more than 100,000 acres."

Another unique feature of the program, according to Conner, is that GLA combines ecological changes with economic factors. It also joins information about climate and rainfall with costs and income so that a rancher can project the economic feasibility of range improvement practices over a period of up to 20 years.

For example, it can quickly help a rancher determine the best brush management program from among several technically feasible alternatives. Or maybe the rancher is considering wildlife and exotic game management for additional income.

"This computerized planning system lets the ranch manager play 'what if...' games using different situations," Conner said. "He (or she) can input information about his unique ranch situation and let that information interact with built-in databases."

"What he ends up with will be estimates about the long-term and short-term effects of alternate technologies on his own particular land resources and finances. Inputs can range all the way from the minimum, 'What's the least I can do to get more production?' to the maximum, 'How much more should I do to get the most production?'"

The forage inventory or the economic analysis sections can stand alone as separate programs from among the numerous components of GLA, Hamilton said. The forage inventory program is now available as a separate package (FORAGE) through the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, while the economic analysis program (ECON) is scheduled for release this summer.

The GLA program is also region-neutral, so that it can be used by big or small operations in any part of the country.

Human help and judgement are still essential for both input of data and utilization of generated information, Hamilton stressed, but the GLA system helps the rancher make sounder decisions based on large quantities of computer-digested information, related to his specific situation.

Initially, GLA will be available to producers through SCS offices. However, the program also will be released through the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Extension Service and can be purchased by individual users. No cost has been established.

GLA will run on any 100 percent IBM compatible computer with a minimum of 640K memory. The program requires the MS-DOS 2 operating system and takes up space of more than two megabytes (plus data) so a hard disk is required.

Hotline offers pesticide info

C. Mark Brown
Extension Agent-Entomology (PM)

Crosby/Floyd Counties

Two little-known but potentially valuable sources of pesticide information are as near as your telephone.

The National Pesticide Telecommunications Network (NPTN) and the Chemical Transportation Emergency Center (CHEMTREC) both provide toll-free numbers for people seeking information about health and safety aspects of pesticides.

The Texas Tech University Science Center operates in the NPTN with support from the Environmental Protection Agency. The hotline, whose number is (800) 858-7378, is available around the clock and is run by graduate students and full-time professionals trained in such fields as environmental science, agriculture, public health and entomology.

The NPTN maintains a current library of technical materials and a computerized data base containing information about specific pesticide products.

The library includes texts, periodicals, EPA position documents and newsletters. NPTN also has access to Medline, Toxline, the National Pesticide Information Retrieval System and other computerized data bases. Emergency calls dealing with human pesticide poisoning are referred to the New Mexico Poison Control Center, (505) 277-4261. The number for the Texas State Poison Center is Galveston is (409) 765-1420 or (713) 654-1701.

Crossland explains peach tree fungus

By Brent Crossland

I have received many questions in the last couple of weeks concerning unusual leaves of peach trees. Leaves re characterized by puckering, thickening and curling. Diseased leaves become yellow to light green and shed after a short time. This problem is caused by a fungus (Taphrina deformans) and is commonly called peach leaf curl.

This is an unusual problem for our area because it is typical of more humid areas. If surface moisture is present and the air temperature is near 68 degrees F, infection can take place. Temperatures above 86 degrees F and below 40 degrees F inhibit the fungus.

After the disease is visible, it is impossible to control. Copper fungicide sprays applied at the beginning of dormancy have proven very effective. This is also a good practice for bacterial canker and some other diseases. Therefore, if you have this problem, you can only treat next fall. However, it should not kill your tree. It may partially defoliate it for a short time.

About 80 percent of the calls received by the NPTN are from the general public and deal with the use and safety of pesticides used in and around the home.

CHEMTREC, the 24-hour poison hotline based in Washington, D.C., specializes in toxic chemical spills, fires and other chemical emergencies. Operators have immediate access to relevant Material Safety Data Sheets and will assist by alerting the chemical's manufacturer of the emergency.

Unlike the NPTN hotline, CHEMTREC discourages calls seeking general information about pesticides, preferring to deal with true emergencies. The CHEMTREC hotline number is (800) 424-9300.

Field Day set for Friday

Wheat producers in Floyd County may want to come learn of the latest production practices at the Floyd County Extension Service Wheat Field Day. The field day will take place Friday, May 18, at the James Hinton farm north of Dougherty on F.M. 28. It will begin at 8:00 a.m.

Fourteen different varieties are in the test. An explanation of the characteristics of each of these will be done by Dr. Brent Bean, Extension Agronomist. Dr.

Bean will also discuss various wheat production practices. Dr. Harold Kaufman will be on hand to discuss wheat disease. Dr. Kaufman is the area Extension Plant Pathologist. Brent Crossland, local County Extension Agent will cover wheat insects.

This wheat year has been very challenging and many questions have arisen. Even though cotton planting is in full swing, Floyd County producers are invited and encouraged to attend.

TAPCO formalizes stand

The Texas Association of Cotton Producer Organizations (TACPO) May 8 and 9 in Dallas formalized its stand on risk management provisions in the 1990 farm bill, joining Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. of Lubbock, the National Cotton Council (NCC) and other farm groups in calling for improved crop loss protection under the existing Federal Crop Insurance Commission (FCIC).

TACPO's position is to be transmitted by the organization's secretary-treasurer David Oefinger of Victoria to members of the Conservation, Credit and Rural Development Subcommittee which has responsibility for recommendations on the issue, to members of the full House Agriculture Committee and to members of the Texas congressional delegation.

TACPO is an association of nine regional cotton producer organizations in Texas, representing producers of some 90 percent of Texas cotton.

Oefinger says the TACPO statement will closely parallel testimony presented May 1 to the subcommittee by Martin County producer and ginner Myrl D. Mitchell of Lenorah. Mitchell, a PCG director and past president, is chairman of an NCC producer task force on crop insurance and cotton spokesman on a federal crop insurance commission created by Congress in 1988.

The commission, producer task force and now TACPO all are categorically against the Administration's proposal that FCIC be eliminated in favor of what they term "grossly inadequate" loss protection through a standing disaster program.

The Administration's objection to the current federal crop insurance program based largely on its failure to attract the broad producer participation necessary to fiscal soundness, and to obviate the need for costly ad hoc disaster programs such as those enacted in three of the past four years.

TACPO nor anyone else denies that federal crop insurance has fallen short of its objectives, FCIC defenders admit. But, they contend, the solution is not to abandon it, but to increase producer participation by offering a better product.

To that end, TACPO, PCG, NCC and the crop insurance commission, among other things are stumping for better yield coverage by giving producers the option to use ASCS yields or proving actual yields, and subsidized premiums on coverage levels up to and including 75 percent. In addition they are suggesting provisions for indemnifying catastrophic losses above 75 percent and consideration for offering coverage on a dollars-per-acre basis.

According to Amy Henderson, Agricultural Coordinator for the Texas Office of State-Federal Relations, there's been no visible progress on the crop insurance questions since the subcommittee's May 1 hearing. The subcommittee has been "up to its neck" in the deliberation of environmental issues, Henderson says.

However, she adds, staff work is thought to be continuing on ways to reduce the cost of a bill proposed by subcommittee chairman Glenn English (D-OK). That bill would provide crop loss protection by combining federal crop insurance with disaster clause to help farmers survive catastrophic losses. Its major drawback, Henderson says, is its cost, said to be well above what would be acceptable to a congress facing severe budgetary constraints.

Floydada, Lockney receive monthly sales tax rebates

The State Comptroller's office sent $138 million in monthly local sales tax rebates to 1,156 Texas cities and counties last Friday. Checks to cities totaled more than $126 million, an increase of 7.27 percent over payments made last May.

Floydada received a rebate of $11,670.23, a decrease of 14.92%. Overall, the current total of $46,876.82 is 3.40% less than the $48,526.85 collected at this time last year.

Lockney's rebate this month was $5,079.08, a decrease of 8.94% from last year. The city's overall total is even more depressed, with payments to date totaling $21,057.21 a 41.87% fall from last year's $36,227.44.

This month's checks include taxes collected on March sales and reported in April by businesses filing monthly returns, and also includes taxes reported by those filing quarterly returns for the months of January, February and March. Merchants collect sales taxes and send them to Comptroller's office with their tax returns. The state keeps its share and sends cities and counties their portion of the sales tax.

All locally collected sales taxes must be approved by local voters and may be used for any legal city or county expenses. Most areas put the money into their General Fund and use it for operations like firefighting, maintaining roads and law enforcement.
