District Judge asks for audit of funds

By Alice Gilroy

In a move to account for expenses the District Attorney's office incurred from the additional caseload of prosecuting misdemeanor offenses, District Judge David Cave has appointed a county auditor from the Lubbock firm of Love, Hayes and Musick.

The auditor, Mr. Love, will do a limited audit. "As district judge I have general supervisory responsibilities over the commissioners court," said Judge Cave. "For this reason I have appointed an auditor to conduct a special audit. As soon as it is completed the auditor will be terminated."

In an interview with this reporter, Judge Cave stated a chain of events that started when Floyd County's D.A. Becky McPherson began prosecuting misdemeanor cases for the county back in October of 1989, led to his belief that an audit was necessary.

"When Kenneth Bain resigned as county attorney," said Cave, "the commissioners court took applications. They appointed Becky and since statutes prohibit a person from getting two pay checks from the government I inquired about what kind of enumeration she would receive. I was told she would not receive any salary, but would use the money to buy equipment, needed supplies and law books. I thought it was commendable, but I have not noticed any books or equipment bought.

"I then looked at the October minutes and the minutes said she was getting compensation. I asked Judge Hardin about it and he said the minutes speak for themselves.

"Based on that," continued Cave, "that it was compensation—I notified the Attorney General's office. They said the commissioners court had not done anything wrong, but that McPherson was an elected official and if she chose to take another job for pay than she chooses to abandon her job that she was elected too and she would not receive any more pay from the comptroller's office. After I told Hardin that, they had a meeting and amended the minutes.

"I then told them it was against the law to create a slush fund for the D.A. or anybody else. How money has been spent and what has happened to it will be the subject of this audit.

"I want an accounting for $12,250.00. I want the money traced and find out what the money was spent for. I want the remainder returned to Glenna Orman's office."

During questioning by The Hesperian, District Attorney Becky McPherson stated, "I have no problem with accounting for the money. A copy of every check, bank statement and receipt has been provided to Bob Bass, the county's attorney. Judge Cave never asked me what my expenditures were. If he had I would have provided him with a list showing him where the money has gone."

"I admit there was confusion over the original minutes. When I made my proposal (back in October) my letter made it very clear from the very first that I would receive no compensation for prosecuting misdemeanor offenses. I left the meeting after supplying the commissioners with my proposal.

"I never saw the minutes until this was brought up and then I saw a need to clarify the minutes. I did not agree to be county attorney pro tem. In each misdemeanor case I prosecute the county judge has signed a special order appointing me prosecutor, which clearly shows the intent was not for me to be county attorney pro tem."

The proposal, by McPherson, given to the commissioners, but not reflected in the original minutes, stated the following:

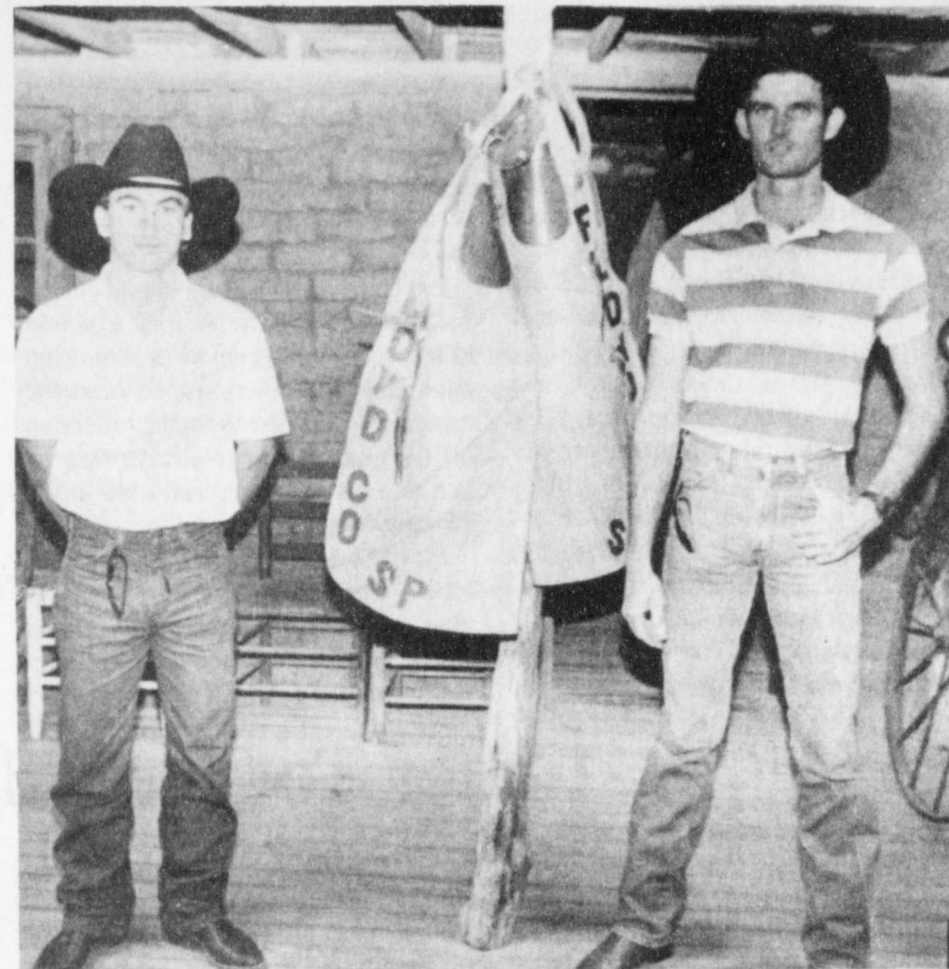

"I would be willing to handle the prosecution of misdemeanor offenses for $21,000 per year rather than the $27,027.00 currently budgeted. The County would also save on the health insurance and tax expenses on two employees since I would not need another secretary and my insurance is through the state.

"The compensation paid to my office would not be used to supplement my salary. I would use the money to buy items such as camera equipment, surveillance equipment, drug testing kits, computers, software and books. I would also supplement my staff's salary due to the increased caseload. It would be my discretion as to how to use the $1,750.00 paid to my office monthly by the county.

"The books I propose to purchase would include the back issues of Southwest Reporter and Texas Digest. I would propose that after the purchase of these books, they would belong to the county and the county would be responsible for the upkeep of these books. Anything else I purchased, unless agreed upon otherwise, would belong to the District Attorney's Office, but would be used to benefit the County."

After consideration by the commissioners, McPherson proposal was accepted, but the October minutes stated, "Motion made by Connie Bearden seconded by Floyd Jackson that the Court appoint Becky McPherson, District Attorney of the 110th Judicial District of Texas, as the County Attorney Pro-Tem

Duo from down under challenges rodeo bulls

By Juanita Stepp

The Floyd County Historical Museum had a pair of unique visitors on Friday afternoon. Two young men drifted in to look about as they whiled away time before the start of the 33rd annual Floydada rodeo on June 29. A little conversation revealed the fact that the duo was here especially for the rodeo and would be competing in the bull riding events on Friday evening.

If a prize were given for the rodeo participants traveling the farthest distance to compete Tony Zammit and Warren Matotek would certainly qualify. The pair are visitors from Australia, spending six months in America to compete in rodeos.

Asked why they opted to come to the USA and ride bulls, Zammit indicated that there is more money in winning in America than there is in the limited circuit of Australia. Matotek (his grandfather was Yugoslavian) added that there is more competition here and more riders.

"We have been in five rodeos in the last two weeks and haven't seen the same riders in any of them," said Matotek. "At home, you compete against the same twenty or twenty five riders at every rodeo. Here there are sometimes fifty or sixty riders at an event"

Rodeos in Australia involve the same events, equipment and scoring as do those here according to the pair. "The main difference is the time they are held," according to Matotek. "Here you have the performances in the evening for three or four hours. At home, the whole community gets together and makes a day of it. A rodeo lasts all day and everyone comes and has a good time. In lots of places, a rodeo is about the only thing that happens all year long."

Both young men "work cattle" for a living back home in North Queensland and have "saved and sold everything" to

16th of September committee formed

By Bill Gray

Plans are now underway for a "tardidada" — an afternoon festival — for a Floyd County commemoration of Mexican Independence Day. A committee has been organized and the officers are: Adolfo Garcia, president; Roberto Delgado, vice president; Soila Reyes, secretary; Rosie Rendon, treasurer; Adelfino Aleman and Victor Cervera, committee members.

The event is an official function of the year-long Floyd County Centennial celebration, and will be held at the courthouse pavilion in Floydada on Sunday, September 16. O.M. Watson Jr. is chairman for all Centennial activities in Floydada.

Scheduled to commence at noon, the festivities will include a queen's pageant, mariachi music, folkloric dancers and food and crafts booths. Rosie Rendon was elected queen pageant coordinator. Those interested in participating can call her at 652-3725 after 5:00 p.m. The persons to contact for booth rental information are Rosie Rendon in Lockney and Adelfino Aleman in Floydada at 983-2797.

Several fund raising ideas are being considered in order to underwrite the project. Robert Delgado has donated a hog to raise funds. Other items discussed for raffles are a shotgun and a possible trip for two to Mexico City, Mazatlan, or Puerto Vallarta.

"Deis y Seis de Septiembre" marks a national holiday in Mexico. Late on the night of September 15, 1810, Father Miguel Hidalgo set off Mexico's War of Independence from Spain. Mexico finally achieved liberty in 1821. The 16th of September is an important part of the tradition and heritage of Hispanic people, and for that reason it was decided in the early planning sessions of the Centennial Committee to have such a celebration in Floyd County this year.

The next meeting of the 16th of September committee will be on July 10 at 8:30 p.m. in the county courtroom of the Floyd County Courthouse. All interested parties are urged to attend.

County Community Center plans continue with survey for residents

The Floyd County Extension Community Development Committee is beginning an interest survey this week to see if Floyd County residents are wanting a multi-purpose community center. Please take the time to fill out the survey, found in this issue, and either return it to the Extension Office or drop it by First National Bank of Floydada or First National Bank of Lockney.

Plans are to build a multi-purpose facility so everyone in the county will use it at one time. The committee wants to build a facility large enough to house activities in which neither community currently has facilities. This center would not take the place of present community centers, but rather be an option for new or expanding activities. Please take the time to make any suggestions that you have on the form or call the Extension office at 983-2806 to voice your opinion. The committee would welcome any ideas or opinions you may have.

The biggest challenge that the committee faces is financing the building and maintenance of the structure. They are hopeful for some grant money, yet that money will most likely have to be met with matching funds. One of the survey questions concerns how YOU propose financing this facility which will be used by almost every county resident at one time or another. Be sure to give this question careful consideration because this question will be the largest determining factor of whether or not the committee is able to build a County Community Center.

The Community Development Committee wants to know if YOU are interested in building, using and maintaining such a facility. Take a few minutes to fill out the opinion poll inside this paper. People are willing to work hard to meet the needs of our county. All they need is support from you. Give your opinion today!

Floydada rodeo is big success

By Bill Gray

Over 250 contestants from three states and a foreign country competed for almost $12,000 in prize money at Floydada Rodeo Association's rodeo on June 29 and 30. Tony Zammit and Warren Matotek were the competitors from Australia. Matotek placed 5th in the bull riding, pocketing $152.00 for his efforts.

A slight break in the very hot weather, that has recently gripped the area, helped bring out good crowds for both nights of the 33rd annual affair. The Maverick Rodeo Company of Tulia once again supplied the TCRA-approved stock, which provided first-class competition for the entrants.

Don McCandless did his usual masterful job of announcing. Brett Marble is the president of the local rodeo association and termed this year's edition as "the biggest and most successful in many years."

The events, winners and prize money were:

Floydada mayor and 17 year civic leader dies

Parnell Powell

Parnell Powell, 72, Floydada's mayor and civic leader of 17 years, died Saturday, June 30, at 3:00 p.m., at Caprock Hospital in Floydada, after a lengthy illness.

He was born August 22, 1917, in Merit. He married Frances Elizabeth Rogers on Dec. 18, 1937, and moved to Floydada in 1938.

Parnell had served two terms on the city council in the early 1950's and was elected mayor in 1973. He also doubled as city judge the past eight years. Never defeated, Powell continued to serve as mayor until his death.

He was a deacon in the First Baptist Church of Floydada and had served as vice president of the annual Pastors and Laymen Conference in 1968. He also served as chairman of the building committee at the First Baptist Church from 1953-1956.

His tenure as treasurer of Plains Baptist Assembly spanned 18 years.

Parnell served as vice president of the Texas Municipal League Region Board in 1985 and served on the legislative policy committee of TML, Region 3, from 1985-1986.

He was a past member of the Toastmasters and served as president of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce from 1966-67. He was also president of the Rotary Club from 1976-77, and listed in Who's Who in Texas in 1975.

He was a charter member of the Floydada Lions Club with 15 years of perfect attendance, and served as president of that organization in 1951.

Powell chaired a committee in 1940 to promote the first Farm-To-Market road in Floyd County. He also served as president of Texas Highway 70 Association from 1955-57 and served as Director of National Highway 70 Association. In 1955 he was appointed Honorary Colonel to the National Highway 70 Association by Raymond Gary, the Governor of Oklahoma.

He served on the Floydada Volunteer Fire Department for several years in the 1940's.

Parnell will also be remembered in Floydada by his years in the grocery business. He began this career in 1937 when he was employed by Looper Grocery. In 1940 he moved to the position of manager of Felton-Collins Grocery until 1949.

In 1949, Parnell and his wife Frances put in their own business known as Powell's Grocery. In 1972 this business was sold.

After selling the grocery business and for many years while serving as mayor, Parnell also delivered rural mail and worked at City Auto as a salesman.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, July 3, at 10 a.m. in the First Baptist Church. Dr. Floyd Bradley, of Plainview, director of the Caprock Plains Baptist Area, the Rev. Jimmy McGuire of Lubbock, the Rev. Howell Farnsworth of Floydada, Rev. Bill Gibson of Plainview and E.D. Morgan of Dimmitt, officiated. Internment followed in Floyd County Memorial Park under the direction of Moore-Rose-White Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife Frances, of Floydada; two brothers, William Bethel Powell of Cortez, Colorado, and Morris Aldridge Powell of Crosbyton; two sons, Arlis and wife Sandy of Albuquerque, New Mexico and Jerry and wife Mary Jane of Houston; a daughter, Melody and husband Ricky Swearingen of Plainview; grandchildren Jerry, Craig, and Hank Powell, Lisa Barnhill, Carmen Wright, Weston and Ashley Swearingen; great-grandchildren Morgan Hopper, Lauren Powell, Billy Wright, and John David Barnhill.

By The Way

By Alice Gilroy

Floydada lost a very good man this week when Parnell Powell passed away. He sure will be missed by a whole lot of people.

When I was typing up a little history on Parnell for this week's paper I was reminded of something I had known all along. Parnell loved this community. From the day he came to Floydada he never quit working to give something back. He wanted to be a part of it—a good part of it.

He wanted to be remembered for the good things he had done for all his neighbors—and he will be. It sure will be different without him around.

Ever since he became ill and was not able to get around much, I started missing him on Wednesday evenings. There is a chair at the front of the office, that I will never be able to look at without thinking of Parnell.

He was one of the first one's here Wednesday's to take a paper "hot off the presses." He would sit in our only comfy chair in here and read the paper with us—enjoying our company and us enjoying his. A couple of us would always have to load up the papers for the newsstands and instead of locking the door while we were gone, Parnell would take care of the office for us. He was our official greeter to everyone else who came in the door and he also sold papers while we were gone.

He was so proud of his children and grandchildren and the things they did for him and Frances. I'm so glad he was well and able to enjoy the grand 50th Anniversary celebration that his family prepared for them. He talked about it for weeks.

I admired the way he stood up for his principals—for what was right. He tried to be fair as Mayor and he truly loved people. It's obvious that they loved him too. He was re-elected as mayor every year since 1973. I've only lived in Floyd County for five years. I wished I had known him longer. I feel cheated.

I'm gonna miss teasing him about his bald head. Everytime we took a picture of him signing a document of some kind he would look down instead of at the camera. He worried about the reflection off his glasses and we always assured him that his bald head reflected more. He laughed. He laughed a lot.

I loved him and I will miss him very much. God Bless You Parnell. Help your family and the rest of us get on loving and helping each other the way you would have done.

He was fined $200.00 plus court costs of $157.50 for failure to maintain financial responsibility. He was also sentenced to three days in jail which was probated for six months.

Also on July 2, Evangelina Martinez, 26, of Amarillo, pled guilty to her June 12 charge of DWI. She was fined $500.00 plus court costs of $157.50 and six months probation.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Being in business for oneself is a great financial undertaking.

Merchandise and/or services have to be available at all times meaning there is an investment involved on the part of that business. Also, rent, electric and water bills must be paid just like any household. Wholesalers have to be paid on a weekly basis or they will cease to ship goods.

Small town businesses are at a disadvantage in that customers require more and better services or take their business to a larger city. No one from here would have a car repaired in Lubbock and then say "Bill me" without a credit card, yet it happens here all the time.

The service or product has been received, but the business must wait for payment until the customer decides to pay. 70% of the time payments are made on time, but the other 30% are not. These are not poor, unemployed folks. They are friends and neighbors, leading citizens of the community, people normally trusted. They are people with jobs and a steady paycheck. It's not that they don't plan to pay eventually, but that they can put it off—taking advantage of small businesses.

To send out a statement costs a minimum of $1.00 (stamp, paper, labor). When a 2nd or 3rd statement must be sent it is money out of the profit. Some businesses try to add an interest or service charge to cover the extra cost, but only 1 out of 10 will pay it. The small business does not have access to his money for all that time and by then their profit is lost. Many folks who would never shoplift or steal outright do this, but the result to the business is the same—LOSS instead of profit. It is no wonder so many small businesses fail in Floydada. The ones who remain are not rich, but struggling against great odds to make a living.

Being able to charge is a privilege which should not be abused. If an emergency arises and full payment must be late, at least have the courtesy to call and ask for more time to pay in full.

District Judge asks for audit of funds

for Floyd County; the compensation to be $1,750 per month, payable to 'Becky McPherson, District Attorney, County Trust Account,' plus the following annual allowances, Supplies of $475.00, liability insurance $1,315.04, and travel of $375.00."

In a special called meeting, June 13,

McPherson requested that the October minutes be amended. She wanted the agreement entered into in October correctly reflected. She requested that the minutes reflect that she would not receive a salary, but the money would be used for law books, which would belong to the county after purchase, equipment, travel, supplements to employee salaries and general office expenses."

McPherson further told the commissioners at the special called meeting that they would be provided with a quarterly accounting to show them where the money is going.

The correction, (or Nunc Pro Tunc order) that the commissioners made at that meeting can be found in detail in the June 21 edition of The Hesperian. In brief the order served to "correctly state the intent of the commissioners court, the orders previously entered being an insufficient recitation of the commissioners court decision of 10/23/89, such insufficiency being a clerical omission, there being no substantive error in the prior minute entry, the same merely being inadequate to correctly reflect the nature and form of the agreement between the commissioners court and the district attorney's office."

The order ends by saying, "It is expressly recognized that no part of the above and foregoing funds shall be paid nor in any way construed, as additional salary compensation paid to the district attorney....."

When McPherson was asked where the money has gone she replied, "Some of the money has been used to obtain grants. We have received grants of over 20,000. Our matching funds will be $8,770.00. One grant will provide for a prosecution system where Floyd County gets an extra employee to set up a county bond program. Instead of bonding companies getting the money from bonds the county will. The employee will screen who to bond and provide our office with more information to insure proper disposition on the case."

"Another grant will provide equipment for the office; computer software, camera equipment, etc. In September when the grant comes up, we will supply the matching funds of $8,700 out of our fund instead of the county providing for it."

"The law books will cost $16,942.57. We have been waiting to accumulate the total amount and plan on purchasing them in September, simply because we wanted to get them all at once. After we buy the books and pay the grant, there will be a balance of $472.57 left in the fund."

During a phone interview and speaking on the behalf of the county commissioners, Bob Bass, an Austin attorney, stated, "I've studied this very carefully and I believe that neither the county or the D.A.'s office has done anything wrong."

"The Nunc Pro Tunc order clearly indicates no intent to pay a dual salary. All she (McPherson) wanted to do was save the county money and I believe it was prudent on her part to ask for help for compensating her staff. Unfortunately the order that was drawn used the word compensation (in reference to the D.A.). I do not know why after the clarification and the clearance from the comptroller office, Judge Cave still sees a need for an auditor. McPherson's letter (original proposal) makes it clear from the very beginning."

Bass went on to say, "I don't believe the District Judge has the ability to appoint a special auditor for the county. He does have the ability to appoint a general auditor for the county. It is a statutory office which has a two year term. Judge Cave did away with this position in Floyd County after his election."

"I think he can appoint a formal statutory auditor but not a special auditor to do a special audit for a single office. The commissionership can but I question whether the judge can do this."

"But since it has been made a public issue, Becky and the commissionership court want it to be resolved, whether than challenge his ability to designate an auditor."

"We will concede this point and turn the books over to the auditor, even though the comptroller finds no conflict in any of the records. I personally looked at all the books. I'm comfortable with the method and manner that the funds have been utilized. We welcome the audit as a means to resolve this controversy," said Bass.

When asked if the auditor's report would be made public, Judge Cave replied, "The auditor will report to the district judge not the commissioners and it will be made public. The county will pay for it on a per hour basis."

When asked how much the special audit would cost the county, Cave replied that he did not know.

WEATHER

There was the rumble of thunder at eight o'clock in the evening on Sunday, June 24; that was the week's nearest approach to rain, seven days with nary a drop. That Sunday also saw the Listening Post thermometers push upward to 114/107 readings. Monday, the following day, saw a cool 100 degrees, the week's lowest high, then on up to 112 DF on Friday.

Note to shopkeepers: check your stock of thermometers! County temperature gauges are approaching their limits; another six degrees and the mercury at the Listening Post will have no place to go! It will likely blow it's top!

Heavy rains on the last day of May brought that month's total up to 4.57 and left community fields soggy wet. In fact the ground would not support heavy equipment until combines and cotton planters started mudding through the fields on June 5. The soil was saturated; additional rain at that time would have flushed directly into the lakes!

Although June is normally one of our wetter months the 30 day total at the L.P. was 1.02 inches. Some locations in the community did receive heavier showers but very few places registered more than a two inch total.

By contrast here are some quotes from the June 29, 1989, N&V. "A few days had temperatures just right for cotton, but a day or two's slip back to the low fifties kept it from being the best kind of cotton weather. While doing shovel work on wheat-ground, it was noted that, six to eight inches beneath those delicate, v-shaped tracings that mark where ankle twisting dry-weather cracks used to be, those old cracks are still down there, open, gaping, just waiting for more rain. After at least eight inches of rainfall, after our lakes have ample water, our land still cries for water. It is insatiable!"

Ah well! Our rains are on hold, they will get here later if not sooner!

CROP COMMENTS
July 2: The paragraphs below were inserted Monday morning, an hour or so after Lynn and Billie Ruth returned their combine to their barn for the umpteenth time. The last entries of the week!

There is no end to the honors and accolades heaped upon people of distinction. The spotlight, once it has shown upon some people, may roam briefly to other areas, but it just naturally gravitates back to those chosen favorites!

Raz Ware's combine went lame and he called on Lynn and Billie Ruth Lackey to bring their machine, already in moth-balls for the season, down in the canyons to the Grey Mule community, that's "Edgin" if you are too sophisticated for Grey Mule, and cut out the remainder of his wheat crop.

So now, in addition to "first load" honors, Bill and Lynn now qualify for the distinction of cutting the last load. This episode also returns Raz Ware and that Grey Mule farm back under the spotlight. On most years Raz cuts the first load of wheat delivered to the Cedar Hill elevator from around the edges of the schoolground where the Grey Mule children used to play.

It was different this year, still the distinctiveness is there. Funny how destiny works. Once it picks you, you just stay picked. ::: Now back to the original crop comments:

Wheat harvest for 1990 was reported as being finished a week ago, and by now it is hard to find a field of stubble still standing. Forty foot plows and powerful tractors make short work of drought-reduced acres.

Indeed farm operators are facing a situation in July, 1990, that is quite unique. With crops planted, wheat cut out, plowing done, ditches cut and most pumps going, and now the hoeing is virtually complete! Farmers will have to exercise their ingenuity to find excuses to keep writing those weekly pay checks to their regular help.

That ingenuity will trigger many a mile of fence removal, a few miles of fence will be built, and many a farmstead will get a long overdue manure. Yep! It promises to be a long hot summer!

Why be concerned? On Sunday morning July 12, 1987, church goes, on their way to morning services, drove across land fills through lakes that were bone dry! A rain that afternoon and another two days later, on Tuesday, had water standing three feet deep over the hardtop before prayer services that Wednesday night. Nothing can fix things faster than nature when she sets her mind to it.

That magnificent cotton crop still seems to have everything going for it, except human concern. Human beans are undecided which calamity will befall the crop! Will it be beaten to death and frozen by a hail storm, or will it die a slow and painful death from heat and dehydration?

Take away the human penchant for disaster and there is nothing wrong with the crop. Of course it straightens up and looks a little better a few minutes after the irrigation water hits it, but of course our annual fourth of July rain will cure all that.

Up to this point diligent searching has failed to find that first bloom, but, never doubt, it will be there come July Fourth.

A little crack that runs longitudinal with the rows seems to be forming down each middle with smaller cracks branching laterally off toward the rows. Nature is preparing traps to prevent run-off of the rains to come.

Sunflowers, the most heat and drought tolerant of our community crops, are really putting on their Sunday best. Those fast growing tops betell a root systems that are vigorously seeking out the soil moisture.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Onions began arriving at the local packing sheds a week ago. The onion people are not particularly happy to see harvest begin just now, but when the tops begin to fall over it is better to risk a soft market than to risk a second growth beginning in the field. Historically onion prices trend upward following the Independence Holiday so there will be a decided increase in the harvest tempo when the fields dry following the rain on July Fourth.

Those onions still in a developing stage, like most of those at Cedar Hill, are continuing their rapid growth and are consuming and transpiring water almost as fast as it can be applied. Some patches are being watered at least once each week.

Pumpkin seedlings, with their great leaves spread like the wings of some huge insect ready to launch in flight, are now up and growing on the Starkey place where Mark Gilley first planted peppers. The first step on the long road to making jack-o-lanterns, but pumpkins never look back, they just go and grow.

Peaches were being shared the last week of June '89 by Leah Lackey. They were grown in the Dougherty area so there should be ripe county grown fruit at the present. This year's peach crop varies greatly from one residence to another. Trees may be well fruited at one location while barrenness prevails at the next place. One strain of the "old Indian clings" distributed by Robin Fortenberry throughout the community a number of years back is definitely the yield leader again this year. Probably not the world's best table peaches but they rank high as picklers, if you can find any small enough to go in regular fruit jars. They also can and freeze well and THEY DO PRODUCE!

Old Faithful, the "never fail" apricot tree at the Assembly of God Church, has come through once again. A much lighter crop than a year ago, and that wasn't a branch breaker, but it has still outdid the peach trees here at the Listening Post.

Commercial truck patches are selling green beans and squash at present. Blackeyed peas are coming on fast and okra is not far behind. Roasting ears have not been mentioned but they too must be nearly ready.

Backyard gardens are coming on stream with radishes, peas, onions, and squash, all sending fare to local tables. Believe it or not but, on June 29, your writer was given a ripe hen-egg sized tomato that he saw picked in a local garden. Acquired at a local hot house back in April, the plant had several small tomatoes at the time it was transplanted. Refusing to die, the plant struggled mightily until it matured three or four tomatoes, then, having perpetuated it's specie, it gave up the ghost and passed away.

PEOPLE

This last week has been a busy one at Edna Gilley's place. Her house has kinda gotten to be a cool place for Mark to eat lunch each day. Then the lady folks at Craig's place started their annual chore in the cotton patch with their spray-buggy. Edna thought they too should share the cool of her home at lunch time. Then Emory and Jessica came out for a day's visit. Craig and Trudy's graduation class had their reunion last week and Aimy and Tara were at Edna's on still another day. "Grandmother Gilley!" That has a rhythmic ring, don't you think?

That is just a fire-drill, a warm-up exercise; Edna's mother will arrive from Austin for a visit to this cool, high-country, this coming Friday.

June 29: Kim and Kelley Mixon of Arlington, Texas came Friday for a week-end visit with her parents, Lindsey and Billie Ruth Lackey. They described the Metroplex as being hot, dry, and hot hot when they left. They returned home Sunday, called back, and reported they had been wrong about the Metroplex weather; it was really hotter and drier than they first described it!

July, 1: Reverend and Mrs. Willis Dewey left for a short visit in Borger, Texas after evening services Sunday. They returned home July 4.

Late June: The old Daris Hill house has still more residents. Lupe, Edna Gilley's hand, has a sister who suffered an on-the-job injury, partial loss of a finger and severed tendons in her hand, while working at Excell Packing in Plainview. Her injuries required daily therapy sessions in Lubbock so their mother was summoned from Old Mexico to come and be with her in the emergency. So the mother and sister of Lupe now reside with him there in down town Cedar and commute daily for therapy to Lubbock.

While digging through Listening Post files the following was brought to surface. "PLEASE COME: to a 91st birthday celebration for Clara Mize on Sunday, July 9, 1989" Clara's true birthday is July 6th, but the nearest Sunday fell on the 9th. Your writer missed that one and, because he missed, was told in no uncertain terms, by Edna Beth Wilson Tye that the originator of N&V has been given a new name, "Mud" Lemons. Hmmm! Has a nice ring, don't you think?

Anyway a card from Clara to the county clan says, "When I look out the window, I see rocks, nothing but rocks!" Now it is thought that these are low-down, step-on rocks, not those towering mountains of picturesque beauty that grace those Chamber of Commerce Post Cards.

There is a lot going on there at Tempe, and George and Betty see to it that Clara shares in the action. Cool shopping malls, a senior citizen recreation facility, and places of worship of course.

Ouch! A deadline hit me! Will tell you a real cheap way to control red ants next week.

FASTEN THOSE SEAT BELTS!

Montgomery and Galloway wed

Suzy Montgomery and Guy Galloway were united in marriage during a ceremony Tuesday evening, June 26, in the Crosbyton Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Montgomery of Crosbyton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Galloway of Floydada.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by William Eudy, minister of the Church of Christ at Graford, Texas. A vocal group from Lubbock sang, "Friends", "So In Love", "What A Difference You've Made In My Life", "Let It Be Me", "Heirlooms", "There is Love", "Ice Castles", "Devoted To

You" and "Faithful and True."

Vousé cups, candelabras, greenery and white daisies adorned the church for the wedding ceremony.

Yellow bows overlaid with white lace marked the pews.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She chose a formal gown of white satin. The dress had a wedding band collar and illusion yoke that led to a sweetheart neckline. Point sleeves, with lattice work piping, were decorated with iridescent sequins and seed pearls at each point. Re-embroidered lace covered the tops of the sleeves and bodice.

The fitted bodice was encrusted with beautiful iridescent sequins and seed pearls. A basque waistline led to a full ballroom skirt. An applique of flowered re-embroidered lace decorated the front of the skirt, matching the shoulders of the sleeves.

The skirt flowed around to create a cathedral length train adorned with scattered, matching appliques. Re-embroidered lace finished off the edging of the skirt and train.

The bride chose a headband styled veil, made up of elegant pearls. White roses, buds and pearls spiraled down the left side. A pouf fingertip length veil was added also.

The bridal bouquet was made of white silk roses accented with baby's breath, pearls, ribbon and two pearl hearts.

The groom was dressed in a black tailed tuxedo with a white pleated shirt, vest, and bow tie. His boutonniere was two white roses with baby's breath.

Serving as maid of honor was Sherry Winters of Plainview, sister of the bride. Bridesmaid was Robin Galloway of Floydada, sister of the groom.

The bridesmaids wore long sunshine yellow dresses of moire taffeta. The fitted bodice with a sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves were overlaid with white lace. The full gathered skirt flowed gently to the floor from a dropped v waist. Their headpieces were halos of baby's breath and yellow and white daisies. They carried bouquets of white and yellow daisies accented with pearls, baby's breath and ribbon.

The flower girl was Brooke Winters of Plainview, niece of the bride. She wore a long sunshine yellow dress of moire taffeta. The bodice was fitted at the waist with a white V-shaped lace collar and puffed sleeves overlaid with white lace. At the point of the collar and at the edge of the sleeves there were dainty, yellow ribbon bows. The full skirt had a gathered ruffle that circled the bottom of the dress.

An apron skirt, with ruffle attached, gently flowed up the center back and was completed with a sash bow. Her headpiece was a halo of dainty white and yellow daisies and baby's breath. She carried a white basket trimmed with white gathered lace and yellow ribbon. The basket was filled with love knots made of yellow ribbon.

Acting as best man was the groom's father, Doug Galloway of Floydada. Groomsman was Rusty Galloway, brother of the groom, of Lubbock.

Candlelighters and ushers were Monty Montgomery of Lubbock, brother of the bride, and Wade Winters of Plainview, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ring bearer was Garrett Winters of Plainview, nephew of the bride. He carried a white satin pillow covered with lace. They wore black tuxedos with white pleated shirts, black satin bow ties and cummerbunds. Boutonnieres were yellow daisies with baby's breath.

At the reception in the church Fellowship Hall following the ceremony, the bride's table featured a four-tiered white wedding cake. The top layer held a bride and groom music box accented with daisies. A bundle of silk white daisies were placed on the other cake tiers.

The groom's table featured a German chocolate cake. A farming theme was carried throughout the table. Both tables were accented with crystal appointments.

Rhonda Fowler registered wedding guests while Shawna Degan, Shelley Crausbay and LeKisha Wiley, all of Crosbyton, presided at the bride's table. Sandra Schwertner of Floydada and Christy Prock of Lubbock served at the groom's table.

Honored guests were Mildred Montgomery of Littlefield, grandmother of the bride; Dorothy Anderson of Floydada and Ben and Tinnie Galloway of Idalou, grandparents of the groom.

The rehearsal supper was hosted by Doug and Elaine Galloway at the historic Smith House in Crosbyton.

The couple are making their home in the Baker Community, southeast of Floydada.

Happenings at Caprock Hospital

By Molly Stringer

The Board of Directors met with the medical staff for a noon meeting on Monday of this week.

Several of our staff are enjoying vacations. Carol Scribner, R.N., weekend night supervisor, has been in Boston attending the National Nurses meeting. She was accompanied on the trip by her mother. They are doing several days of sightseeing and her father flew back to join them. Nell Schuster from Lubbock has been relieving Carol. Mary Perez enjoyed a few days vacation between classes earlier this month.

Roberta Hardin donated some things to our garage sale and we left her off of our thank you list. We appreciate your contribution Roberta, and any others that we might have overlooked.

Misty Warren is a new temporary employee in the front office. We welcome Misty and enjoy having her here.

Our doctors have been rotating calls the past few months. This has worked out very well for them and the nursing staff. One physician is on call after hours and the other two are free to be off and enjoy not being called in for emergencies. They are on call every third day and every third weekend. One doctor will be in the clinic on Saturday morning. This will be the doctor on call for the weekend. We are glad to see our doctors do this and have some much needed time off.

Helen Teeple had a minor eye injury and had to cancel some of her activities this past week. She is recovering nicely and we hope she will be back in full swing next week.

Mrs. Edna Wooten and Mrs. Opal Bentley, daughters of Jewell Price, made a very generous donation to the patio fund. We appreciate their kindness and offer our sympathy to them in the loss of their mother.

Many have asked in the past few months about living wills. Maybe the following information will be helpful.

How to write a living will:
Living wills are often not enforced because of vague language and doctors' fear of lawsuits.

For an effective living will:
1. Talk with your doctor to be sure your wishes are understood and supported. If not, consider changing doctors.

2. Be as detailed as possible. Describe exact treatments that would or would not be acceptable to you and at what point you would want all treatment to be stopped.

3. Designate someone who is familiar with your wishes to make health care decisions for you. (This should be done in an adjunct to your living will.) Note: A friend is better than a relative...especially if the relative is an heir.

4. Sign the will before two witnesses. Initial and date it a few times a year so that it continues to reflect your wishes. The more recent the date, the more likely it is to be honored.

5. Store the original document where your family can easily get to it—not in a safe deposit box, where you may be the only one with a key. Give copies to your next of kin, clergyman, lawyer and anyone else who might one day be asked to help make decisions for you.

Pest Management

C. Mark Brown
Extension Agent-Entomology
Crosby/Floyd Counties
GENERAL SITUATION

The dry and extremely hot weather conditions continue, with records for continuous days over 100 degrees being broken across the South Plains. We have fared better than other counties of our area thus far because of the earlier rainfall we received, but now the moisture situation is becoming critical in dryland crops.

* Some producers are now irrigating cotton.

* Sunflowers are blooming in many fields.

COTTON

The majority of our cotton is now in the third week of squaring. Fields that have been drought stressed are unable to make maximum use of the abundant number of heat units we are accumulating, but most of the cotton has held up well to the heat so far. Most of our program fields are averaging 4 to 6 squares per plant ranging from pinhead to 1/3-grown (pencil eraser size). Square set has dropped to the mid-80 percentile this week, which is still adequate. The square shed we are finding is probably due more to the hot, dry weather than to insect problems. However, fleahoppers are becoming more numerous in the cotton this week. Most fields are averaging counts of 5 to 15 fleahoppers per 100 plants. Once we reach the second to third week of squaring, we can withstand this many fleahoppers without significant loss of square set. The general economic threshold for fleahoppers is when you have 25 to 30 fleahoppers present per 100 plants combined with less than 75% square set. However, my experience indicates that in late planted cotton, when fleahoppers are present and waiting on that first square to emerge from the terminal, as few as 10 fleahoppers per plant can cause at least 25% square loss the first week. Therefore, those of you with replant cotton should carefully monitor fleahoppers and square set during next week.

Once again, I must state that although automatic fleahopper applications are inexpensive, we do not condone them because of destruction of beneficials and pressure on early occurring aphids to develop a tolerance for the OP insecticides. You must scout your fields.

When scouting for fleahoppers, don't get them confused with these commonly mistaken insects: Lygus Bug - Adults twice the size of fleahoppers (1/4" long), often more brightly colored, heart shape visible in center of back; Minute Pirate Bug Nymphs - Excellent beneficial. Move about rapidly, yellow or orange in color rather than pale green; Leafhoppers - Range in color from green to tan, wings held in roof-like manner, tend to walk sideways; Aphids - Move slowly, "tailpipes" sticking up from tail end; Scentless Plant Bug - Tan to pale green in color, 1/4 inch long, antennae with clubbed tips.

SUNFLOWERS

Continue to monitor sunflower fields for presence of the sunflower moth. Be prepared to make insecticide applications for this pest as fields come into bloom. Sunflower moths are historically more of a pest in early blooming fields. These slender, buff gray moths lay eggs in blooming florets that hatch into larvae in 24 to 72 hours. During the first 2 larval stages, which last about 6 days, larvae eat only pollen and floral parts and cause no economic damage. However, the third instar burrows into seeds and heads.

SORGHUM AND CORN

Sorghum producers should continue to check fields for both greenbugs and spider mites. We have found both pests in program fields, but only in small, widely scattered colonies so far. Do not confuse corn leaf aphids for greenbugs. Corn leaf aphids are bluish-green in color and feed in the whorls of the plants, rather than on the underneath side of lower leaves like greenbugs. Corn leaf aphids, unlike greenbugs, do not inject toxin into the plants while feeding and seldom cause economic damage.

There is precious little time for corn producers to decide whether or not to use Comite this season. Of course, the option has already passed for fields that are tasseling. Last year, we received pretty decent mite control with a mixture of Cygon plus either Capture or Asana. Remember that mite colonies tend to increase faster in drought-stressed corn.

Cotton Talks

Five-year farm bills from both House and Senate Agriculture Committees are on their way to their respective floors. Debate on the House Committee bill is expected to begin soon after Congress returns from the July Fourth recess, and Senate action isn't expected to be far behind.

There are minor differences, but the cotton section of both bills basically continues the market-oriented approach that has proved successful in the 1985 farm act. And, says Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., that feature has been the foundation of legislative goals developed over the past two years by the cotton industry.

"We are especially pleased that the marketing loan program as we've known it for the past five years is left intact," Johnson states. Specifically, he points out, both House and Senate measures retain the basic loan formula and terms of the 1985 act, including an eight-month loan extension at the producer's option, a limit of five percent on year-to-year loan reductions, and a 50-cent minimum. Also preserved, Johnson adds, is the all-important provision for loan redemptions at a lower rate when necessary to keep U.S. cotton prices fully competitive with foreign growths.

On target price provisions, Johnson has mixed feelings. Both bills would freeze the rate for the 1991-95 crop years at the 72.9-cent rate in effect for 1990. With almost inevitable increases in cost of production, Johnson says, this feature "is not altogether satisfactory." But, he adds, it would at least end the Secretary's discretionary authority under which target prices were reduced from 81 cents in 1986 to the current 72.9 cents. "And under severe budget restrictions it's probably the best we could realistically hope to sustain in floor debate."

Provision for acreage reduction programs, another issue vital to producer interests, would be continued with the same 25 percent maximum ARP requirement of present law. But there would be changes, "some good and some not-so-good," Johnson thinks.

The "carryover target," now four million bales, would be the greater of four million bales or either a 33 percent (Senate version) or 30 percent (House version) stocks-to-use ratio. And, the Senate version would mandate a paid land diversion program if the 25 percent maximum ARP is deemed insufficient to reach that target. The House bill would require paid diversion only if the carryover is eight million bales or more. Also, both bills call for an ARP announcement no later than November 1 as now, but provide for a revised announcement by January 1 with a mechanism to protect producers in early planting areas.

The "50-92" option, now applicable only to grain, would be authorized (Senate) or required (House) for cotton producers who are prevented from planting.

Marcus Schacht serves aboard aircraft carrier

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Marcus O. Schacht, son of Calvin E. and LouAnn A. Brittain of Lockney recently participated in Dragon Hammer '90 exercise while serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

The purpose of the exercise was to foster allied cooperation among the NATO's southern regional conventional forces. During the exercise, conducted in southern Europe and the Mediterranean Sea, Schacht took part in a combined NATO exercise involving armed forces from the nations of Italy, The Netherlands, Turkey, France, Spain, the United Kingdom, and the U.S.

A 1983 graduate of Lockney High School, he joined the Navy in December 1984.

The Blanco Canyon Amphitheater is an outdoor theater designed, built and maintained as an albor of love by Crosby County volunteers. There are 700 plus reserved seats on permanent benches. Ticket holders are welcome to bring stadium seats for additional comfort. Groups are welcome but advance planning is required since seating is limited and performances are almost always sellouts. Special seating areas have also been set aside for handicapped visitors and wheelchairs. Tickets are $6.50 each and may be purchased by mail. For more information call 806-675-2906 or write P.O. Box 386, Crosbyton, Texas 79322.

Education to be featured on telephone directories

The increased desire to upgrade the Texas educational system is the inspiration behind the cover of the 1990 Southwestern Bell Telephone directory.

The new directory will be delivered in Lockney starting July 5, 1990, said Jim West, Area Manager-External Affairs, of Southwestern Bell Telephone.

The copyrighted photo titled "You're never too old" — by Austin photographer Stan Kears — was taken as part of a photography contest conducted by Dr. Frederick Williams and the University of Texas to portray "The New Texas" theme.

It was selected to be shown as a part of the photography exhibit at the State Fair of Texas in 1987 in which Southwestern Bell promoted economic development.

Residential customers usually receive one directory. For additional copies, customers should call their Southwestern Bell Telephone business office. However, West requests that customers not call right away.

"If your friend across town got his directory before you received yours, you'll probably get one within a few days," he said.

This year, 11 white pages and 16 yellow pages make up the Lockney directory. There are 1,222 white page listings.

Local emergency numbers are listed on the inside front cover of the new directory.

Hearing or speech impaired customers using a TTD/TTY may contact the Customer Assistance Bureau to communicate their telephone needs. They

Liberty Rock Church celebrates building payoff

A celebration of thanksgiving is planned for the Liberty Rock Church in Cone. Dr. Joe Stetheimer who serves as pastor of the church announced Sunday, July 1, 1990, that the final installment on their building would be paid this week. This marks a milestone for Liberty Rock. The property was purchased in November 1986 from the trustees of the First Baptist Church in Floydada. The church, educational building and a three bedroom home are situated on approximately three acres of land located seven miles north of Ralls on the Floydada highway.

The church was formerly organized in March of 1986, having been developed from a home group of some 25 families in the area. Dr. Stetheimer of Lubbock came to the church as pastor in early 1987. Cleve Cypert and Terry Hart serve with Joe Stetheimer as elders of the church. Since his pastorate, the educational building has been completely refurbished and the sanctuary has been carpeted and painted.

Dr. Stetheimer states, "Liberty Rock Church is an interdenominational charismatic church, although independent it is part of the fastest growing protestant denomination in the world."

In a time when over 200 rural churches during the 1980's had to close their doors, this achievement for Liberty Rock was made possible through the favorable terms provided at the time of purchase and the faithfulness of a handful of people to give. The church regularly meets for worship and praise on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. All are welcome.

Floydada SOS meets at Lighthouse

On Wednesday, June 20, the volunteers of Floydada Spirit of Sharing met at the Lighthouse Electric meeting room for a salad luncheon and a time of fellowship. President Helen Lipham welcomed everyone and expressed appreciation for the faithful service by all the volunteers to the people in our community who come to S.O.S. for help. June has proven to be the busiest month of each year because of the influx of migrant workers. However permanent residents turn to S.O.S. all year round for food, clothing and varied emergency aid. S.O.S. has lost a number of workers during the past year and has had to cut service from five to four days a week, closing now on Wednesdays. They would prefer to be open still every weekday, but without additional workers that seems unlikely. If any man or woman in the Floydada area can give as much as one afternoon a month to the work of S.O.S., please contact one of the officers or Anne Willson, who is in charge of scheduling. You are badly needed and will find a real opportunity for service. This year's officers are: President, Helen Lipham; Vice-President, Margie Sue; Secretary, Mary McPherson; Treasurer, Ed Wester. Those present at the luncheon were: Mildred Cates, Lorene Newberry, Evelyn Sparks, Margie Sue, Betsy Dempsey, Ila Marie Warren, Virginia Cage, Helen Lipham, Willie McCormick, Ed and Jo Wester, Elizabeth Armstrong, Helen Martin, Faye Bertrand, Anne Wilson, Evelyn Latta, R.G. Dunlap, Lucille Lobbin, Jewel and Norma Martin, Mary Alice Davis, Ila White, Loretta Burns, Pauline Pierce, Charlene Alldredge, Ethel Carmack, and Ruth McIntosh. Si and Peggy Medley, who have been leaders in S.O.S. since the earliest planning in 1981, were unable to attend. However, it is good news that they are able to be out of the hospital, and everyone wishes them steady improvement.

Australian duo challenges rodeo bulls

come here and compete. Matotek has earned a third place finish at one rodeo and earned a fifth place in the Friday competition in Floydada. The fifth place garnered him $152.28 for his 71 points. Both men are hopeful and confident of riding in the money in the months ahead.

Prepared to spend half a year rodeoing in the states, the two have already competed at Electra, Stamford, El Paso and Seminole. They are entered in several rodeos in the weeks to come. Basing their travels out of San Angelo where they have a "mate from home" going to school, they motor out to competitions driving a Dodge Colt.

One major adjustment for them as they travel the American roads is the right hand drive. They are used to driving on the left hand side of the road at home and are used to vehicles with the driving side on the right. Says Zammit, "It is hard to tell where the side of the car is when you are used to being able to look out and see the edge of the road."

Differences between the United States and Australia are quite evident to the travelers in many ways. Drawing the most comment was the road system in the USA. Matotek and Zammit find our roads "really great." Back in Australia, Matotek says that only the larger cities on the coast have any four lane roads and the traffic on them is horrendous. "Most roads between towns a little on the interior are just two lanes and well traveled," stated Matotek. "All you do is overtake and pass. Out in the bush and away from the coast, the roads turn to one lane tarmac and dwindle down to dirt roads. Many of the lesser traveled routes are only dirt tracks as you move toward the center of the country."

According to the travelers, most folks in Australia drive 6 cylinder or smaller vehicles. This is due to the prohibitive cost of purchasing a vehicle as well as to the expense of gasoline (petrol) and insurance. Matotek calculated that fuel cost in Australia is equivalent to about $2.80 per gallon here. Sold in liters, petrol ranges from 65 cents to about 80 cents in his home country.

A used car priced under $3000 is "usually a piece of junk" and insurance rates are exorbitant, costing nearly a thousand dollars a year according to the two Aussies. Registering an auto in Australia costs about $450 a year.

Zammit says that new autos in Australia are priced almost double what they cost in the USA. One example given was for a small car now being assembled in Australia. The car sells for $28,000 in Australia and is being exported and sold in the United States for $16,000. Matotek adds, "Our government and officials seem more interested in trading with other countries than in what is good for Australia."

Traveling light, the pair brought few clothes, intending to purchase what they need here. "A pair of Wranglers that sell for $15 here cost $75 back home," says

Matotek. "We also lost in the exchange rate bringing our money here. Trading for American dollars, we lose about $250 for every thousand we exchange."

The unusually hot weather we have been experiencing makes the Australians feel right at home. The North Queensland area is in the tropic zone and has no winter. There is a wet season and a dry season, but temperatures are hot all year. According to the duo, weather at home seems to be changing also. They have experienced hotter temperatures and less rainfall in recent years, just as we have here.

Asked what they thought of the little town of Floydada, Matotek said, "This is a big town. Back home, most places away from the coast are just a pub and a post office and a general store. Sometimes all three in one building. The only places of any size in the interior are the larger sheep stations and cattle stations which are privately owned. You are lucky to have all that you do here and to be so close to larger towns."

The two live and work about 400 miles north of Townsville midway up the Cape York Peninsula which parallels the Great Barrier Reef. This places their locale more than a thousand miles north of any good sized city such as Brisbane.

Better known cities such as Newcastle, Sydney, Canberra and Melbourne are more than 1500 miles south of them. Matotek says that about 16 million people live in Australia, with most of them concentrated in the coastal cities. Population is sparse in the remainder of the country and no major effort is being made to change that.

Matotek and Zammit will be returning down under in December but hope to return again next summer for more rodeoing.

1990 Property Tax Rates in CITY OF FLOYDADA

This notice concerns 1990 property tax rates for CITY OF FLOYDADA. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:

1990 Property Tax Rates in FLOYD COUNTY

This notice concerns 1990 property tax rates for FLOYD COUNTY. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Or sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent a floral spray,
If so, we saw it there.

Just thought of us that day.

CITY PARK CHURCH OF CHRIST

"NAME OF THE LORD" by Randall Morris

The Phrase "in the Name of the Lord" as it is used in the New Testament always means "by the authority of the Lord." Although many labor under the assumption that saying "Jesus" or "in Jesus's Name" automatically sanctions, legitimizes, and Divinely mandates our work this is evidently not true.

Remember in Matthew 7:22-23 we read of those who had cast out demons, prophesied, performed many miracles? In their own estimation they had done these things in Jesus's name but the Lord said they were "workers of iniquity" whom he had never known.

Jesus explains why in vs. 21,

"Not everyone who says to Me Lord, Lord will enter the kingdom of heaven; but he who does the will of My Father which is in heaven."

When the seven sons of Sceva "attempted to name over those who had the evil spirits the Name of the Lord Jesus," they must have been surprised that their subject not only said "Jesus I know and Paul I know, but who are you," but also "...overpowered them so that they ran out of the house bleeding and naked." (Acts 19:13-16).

In contrast Peter reports, "it is the Name of Jesus which has strengthened this man" (3:16) as he recalls an incident where one lame for 40 years was healed from his illness in Acts 3.

It is not saying "Jesus" that guarantees success, it is accepting and acting on His authority. "Name" here is synonymous with "authority." Peter healed by Jesus's authority, the Jewish exorcists failed in the absence of His authority.

Although the age of the miraculous has ceased, the principle still holds true: Anything we do in religion "in the name of the Lord" is done by His authority and not because of the mere pronouncement of His name.
