

A view from
The Lampighter

By Ken Towery

Our cup runneth over. Not only did the rains come in July, affording relief from seeming disaster across the South Plains, Justice William Brennan has quit the Supreme Court, bringing one step closer the day when Americans need not fear looming disaster every time that august body assumes its seat.

For longer than even the middle-aged can remember, Brennan has worked steadily, from his seat on the Court, to concentrate and expand the powers of government in Washington, to reduce the powers of state and local governments, to take over those functions of government which, under the Constitution, should have been left to legislative bodies. In short, for some 34 years he and his liberal colleagues on the Court have legislated the liberal agenda into the fabric of our law. So long has he been there, and so successful have he and his fellow liberals been, that we now have whole generations who think it is perfectly normal for courts to take over the running of entire prison systems, or entire state agencies, or school systems, or anything else that suits their fancy.

We have high hopes that all that is about to stop. We say high hopes. We do not say high expectations. The President obviously relied upon the advice of others in picking his nominee and there is no assurance that his choice will live up to his own expectations, or hopes. That was the case when President Eisenhower nominated Earl Warren and Brennan to the Court. Certainly they did not turn out the way he thought they would. Eisenhower is said to have once commented that he made two big mistakes during his eight years as President, and that "both of them are on the Supreme Court."

Let us all hope that President Bush hasn't made the same mistake. He has nominated David Souter of New Hampshire to the bench. We do not know enough about him to make an informed judgement. About all we can do is hope for the best.

We can't help but be somewhat perplexed and a little amused by the latest flap in local politics, even though we do not suggest it is either perplexing or amusing to the folks directly involved. We refer, of course, to the decision by Judge Cave to order an audit of certain records in the District Attorney's office, then charging the D.A. with contempt of court and ordering her to show cause why she should not be held in contempt, and the D.A. asking someone other than Cave to hear the case.

Obviously, Judge Ray Anderson of the 121st Judicial District did the right thing by granting the D.A.'s request that some other Judge be called to hear the case. In this particular case it would have been ludicrous, it seems to us, for the Judge who brought the charges to sit in judgement over whether D.A. McPherson was in contempt of his own charge. Most people, in our view, could be forgiven for thinking the results might possibly be predictable.

But the intriguing thing, to us, is the real reason behind all this. (There is usually a "real" reason for political controversy to find its way into the public domain.)

Perhaps it is just exactly what the Judge said, that he merely wants an accounting of certain expenditures by the District Attorney's office, an accounting the D.A. has said could have been forthcoming for the asking.

Tucked away deep in D.A. McPherson's "respondent's answer to show cause order and motion for recusal of District Judge David Cave", (filed in Floyd County District Court) we find this:

"Judge Cave was defeated in the Democratic Primary. As of January 1, 1991, Judge Cave will be self-employed. In this context, and in consideration of the fact that as a professional

Becky McPherson granted recuse for contempt hearing

By Juanita Stepp

Becky McPherson, District Attorney for the 110th Judicial District was granted recuse for a contempt of court hearing last Thursday following more than two hours of testimony before 121st District Judge Ray Anderson of Brownfield. Anderson heard arguments by Austin attorney Bob Bass, representing McPherson, asserting that 110th District Judge David Cave should not be the presiding judge for a hearing concerning a contempt charge he has leveled at District Attorney McPherson for failure to produce financial records for a special audit ordered by Cave on June 28, 1990.

Cross examination of three witnesses called to testify came from George Thompson, a Lubbock attorney Cave appointed to represent the interests of the special auditor, Love, Hays & Musick, appointed to perform the audit.

In granting the recuse, Judge Anderson stated, "By granting the request for recuse, I am not saying that Judge Cave has done anything improper. I am granting the recuse in the contempt process because our system of justice is based on processes which must be fair and impartial. Circumstances in this case would seem to prevent Judge Cave from hearing the contempt charge with no appearance of partiality."

Under the recuse order, another judge will be appointed to hear the contempt charge Cave has brought against McPherson for failure to produce financial records of her office for a special audit and a new date for the hearing will be set.

In addition to the recuse order for the contempt hearing granted by Judge Anderson, both sides were given one week (until July 27) in which to prepare and submit written briefs concerning the additional administrative procedures for which recuse was sought. The additional matters in question include whether or not Judge Cave was acting within the jurisdiction of his office in ordering an audit of financial records related to alleged compensation for misdemeanor prosecutions by McPherson in Floyd County since October 1989 as well as his issuance of an additional order requesting all financial records of the district attorney's office for the audit.

District attorney McPherson has stated that she is opposed to an impartial audit of any or all of her records, but "questions the impartiality of the audits as Cave has ordered them."

Judge Cave did not appear in court during the recuse hearing and was unavailable for comment following the decision of Judge Anderson.

Appointment of a new judge to hear the contempt charge is not expected until the additional briefs have been filed on July 27.

Court reconvenes extended session

By Juanita Stepp

Reconvening a commissioners court session which recessed on July 17, County Judge Bill Hardin informed the court, "Gentlemen, we are in the process of preparing an amended version of the proposed budget. This amended version will carry a proposed tax rate of .3355 cents per $100 of valuation on an assessed value of $254,287,741."

Hardin then called for a motion to adjourn as nothing else could be done until the amended version of the proposed budget was prepared and could be adopted.

Precinct 4 Commissioner Kay Crabtree made the motion and Precinct 3 Commissioner George Taylor seconded. The vote was unanimously in favor of the adjournment.

Attending the brief Tuesday July 24, 1990, 2:00 p.m. session were Judge Hardin, Commissioners Crabtree, Taylor, Floyd Jackson and Connie Bearden, county treasurer Glenna Orman and the Hesperian reporter.

Methodist Hospital will assist Caprock in recruit of physician

Methodist Hospital Assistant Vice President Pat McMillian announced that Methodist Hospital will offer Caprock Hospital administrative and financial assistance in recruiting a physician for Floydada. Caprock Hospital currently has three physicians on staff.

"With Methodist Hospital's help, a careful search for a physician who will be an asset to the current medical staff will begin immediately. A new physician who is interested in building a practice through delivery of babies is a top priority," said Leroy Schaffner, administrator for Caprock Hospital.

Attracting physicians to rural areas is difficult for various reasons. A major obstacle is the way Medicare and Medicaid reimburse physicians. Rural physicians receive $9.60 for an office visit on a Medicaid patient and $9.23 for a Medicare patient. If the same physician worked in a metropolitan area and saw the same patients, he would receive $20.93 from Medicaid and $18.54 from Medicare.

When considering that local physicians' clientele consist of 55 percent Medicare patients, 20 percent Medicaid patients and 5 percent who cannot pay, that leaves only 20 percent to pay a full fee. Based on these figures and the differences in fees, a family practice physician makes at least $60,000 more a year in Lubbock than in Floydada.

Another factor making a rural practice less enticing is that rural physicians are on call 24 hours a day. A Lubbock physician often is on call only once or twice a week.

Technology is another problem.

"Caprock Hospital recently recruited a physician who has worked in a rural area. He declined coming to Floydada, stating that the advanced technology in the larger cities was the only reason he would not work in a rural area again," Schaffner said.

Methodist Hospital's assistance in recruiting a physician for Caprock Hospital is the result of an affiliation agreement.

Much needed rains arrive in Floyd County Saturday night

A gentle steady rain over the South Plains brought relief to parched fields in Floyd County, Saturday night and early Sunday morning.

"The crops sure look perky and happy," said one observer traveling across Floyd County highways. "You can almost hear them laughing." There were no complaints heard from any Floyd County community's even though some were blessed with 3" and others with as little as .6".

Eighteen miles east of Floydada on Molly Burleson's farm, Marisue Potts reported 2 1/2 - 3" of rainfall. "It was wonderful," said Marisue.

The smallest amount of rainfall was .6" reported at South Plains by Dean's Automotive.

Lockney Gin reported .75" in town and Floyd County Sheriff's Office reported 1.85" in Floydada.

Barwise Gin reported 1.1" and said, "It was heavier west of us, but this sure was nice!"

Sandhill community measured 1.5" at the Sandhill Elevator.

Q.D. Williams home was contacted for a Lakeview report and Joyce Williams reported .75" - 1" of rain. Joyce said that some Roaring Springs property had received 3" of rain. "But it was a hard rain, and there was a bad run off. The rain we got here was perfect."

On Albert Scheele's farm, west of Providence, 1.5" was recorded.

Aiken Post Office reported 1.5" and Cargill reported 1.7".

Sterley Gin, north of Lockney, reported 1" and Muncy registered 1 1/2".

Hospital board votes for 70.52% tax increase

The Board of Directors of Caprock Hospital District met in regular session at noon Thursday, July 19, 1990.

After reading and approving the minutes of the previous meeting, Leroy Schaffner, administrator, gave the board the following statistical and financial report for the month of June.

Hospital: Admissions, 29; Patient days, 97; Custodial Care: Admissions, 4; Patient days, 94; Observation: Days, 14; Total Patient Days - 205

Out patient visits, 258; Emergency room visits, 155; Total Outpatient Visits - 413

Revenue - $111,817

Est. Deductions from revenue:
Medicare write down, $7,000; Medicaid write down, $4,000; Charity Care, $3,000; Bad Debts, $5,000; Total Deductions - $19,000

Net Revenue, $92,817; Expenses, $101,116; Operating Loss for June, $8,299

Cash flows have improved over the past three months because of the new computer software and increased collection efforts of the business office.

Molly Stringer, Director of Nurses, then reported to the Board on Quality Assurance and gave a brief report on the Quality Assurance studies that are ongoing in every department of the hospital.

Pat McMillian, Methodist Hospital, reported that Methodist is still actively involved with Caprock Hospital.

The Board of Directors then turned their attention to the operating budget for the 1991 Fiscal Year.

1. Hill-Burton funds—Each year Caprock Hospital must write-off an amount to satisfy a grant that was received to build the hospital. This year the board approved $24,000 in write-offs.

2. County indigent program—$20,000 was budgeted for this program and stipulation that these write-offs by for services provided only at Caprock Hospital.

3. Discussion then centered on the rest of the budget: It was estimated that Caprock Hospital will end the Fiscal Year, Sept. 30, 1990, with an outstanding debt balance of $450,000 and a loss of $190,000.

Expenses have been cut to the lowest possible level. To maintain the current level of care at Caprock Hospital revenues will have to be increased to take care of the outstanding debt and make needed repairs to the building.

Reviewing expenses it was noted that expenses were: 1986 - $1,917,848; 1987 - $1,808,611; 1988 - $1,569,110; 1989 - $1,513,070

Revenue has also dropped in recent years but, only by 9.6% where expenses have dropped by 16%. In comparing these two percentages it look as if the Hospital should, and would be making a profit if Medicare and Medicaid contractual allowances did not hit rural hospitals so hard.

Contractual write offs were as follows: 1986 - $242,855; 1987 - $347,618; 1988 - $380,084; 1989 -

By The Way

By Alice Gilroy

Everybody has got some kind of insect, animal or reptile that they are afraid of (everybody except little boys who will pick up anything).

Men will make fun of women running from spiders and then they'll turn to mush if confronted with any kind of snake. I personally will leave the room before I'll share any portion of it with a cricket. But, I would hold a snake in my hands (if it was not poisonous of course).

I'm not fond of rats or bats (flying rats) either. The problem I have with mice is figuring out how to kill them. You don't just walk over and step on them (yech!). Oh sure, you could put out poison but you have to wait for them to die. Or, you could put out a trap and try coaxing him in with cheese (they aren't stupid—that's why there are so many). But I just can't bring myself to beat one to death.

Some people get cats to take care of their mice problems. I have a three year old boy. He has turned in to quite the "mouser."

This week-end we spent some time at a cabin at Lake Hoerner, with some friends of ours. The men fished the whole time and my girlfriend (Sandy), her daughter, and I visited and babysat.

Friday night, while the men were fishing at the pier, us girls (and our body-guard-my son) decided to catch a few "Z's" before they came in and woke us up again. It took us a long time to get Brandon quiet and we were laying real still (in the pitch dark) hoping we could fake him out and make him go to sleep.

Suddenly Sandy sprang from her bed and hit the floor.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"Sorry, everybody—but something major just ran over my foot!"

Well any dummy knew what she meant by "MAJOR". It meant there was a mouse on the loose in the cabin.

The light came on and us girls began an immediate search of her sleeping area. We figured we had moved pretty fast and couldn't understand why we couldn't find him (though secretly I was hoping we wouldn't).

All of a sudden Brandon points excitedly to the evaporative cooler (minus a couple of vents) on the other side of the room. "There he is Mommy. There's the mouse!"

Well—we got real still and kept looking to see what Brandon was looking at. Pretty soon the mouse (BIG BIG MOUSE) moved and we saw him. I had forgotten to close the vent on the cooler and that monster had come in that way.

So being the independent and modern women that we were I immediately starting screaming for my husband to come kill this mouse—I mean mouse.

Lennie came in—slowly—but at least he came. He got a broom and snuck up to the cooler. He reminded me of the movies you see with the commando's plastered against the walls (so you can't see them), with their machine guns raised to their shoulders (only Lennie's machine gun was a broom.)

That poor mouse stayed just far enough in the cooler—looking at us looking at him. Finally he ventured his nose out just far enough to see if we had found what we were looking for—and Lennie took his best shot. WHAM! MISSED! The mouse got away and two more vents broke off the cooler. But at least the mouse ran back outside.

So all is well you say. WRONG.

The next morning Brandon is the first one up and running (of course). Like all little ones, his very first urgent assignment in the mornings is the trip to the bathroom.

After announcing to the whole world where he was going he raced to the toilet. Being a small cabin it wasn't real private so we were all waiting in another room for him to finish. I didn't hear him flush and I was soon to find out why.

After he finished (and only after he finished) he came waddling back into the living-sleeping area, pulling up his jammies. "Mommy—there is a mouse in the toilet."

"No there isn't sugar. We got rid of the mouse last night. Don't worry about it anymore."

"NO MOMMY—There is a mouse in the toilet."

The men were fishing again—so I made myself go look. He was right. There was a mouse in the toilet. Another large and very unhappy mouse (and very much alive—though I'm sure he wished he wasn't).

This time even the men had to think about how to kill him. First they tried flushing.

Though I'm sure the mouse was grateful for the bath, he did not want to leave and swam strongly (and very fast) against the current. He stayed up.

Finally the guys used a fish grabber (I don't know the technical term) and got him out. I wouldn't watch, but Brandon did. He thought the whole adventure was lots of fun.

I love to go to the lake. I love to go to the cabin. But I've been thinking about something.

It was pitch dark in that cabin when the lights went out. During the night I had to feel my way into the bathroom so I wouldn't wake anyone up by turning on a light. What if while.....? NEVER MIND!

Dear Editor,

I have lost touch with a dear friend who is a former resident of Floydada. Her name is Jan Wilson. At the time when we taught school together at Browne Jr. Hi. in Corpus Christi, she was married to a Mike Wilson and had a daughter named Mandy. Jan used to speak of growing up in Floydada, but try as I may I cannot remember her maiden name—so I cannot contact her parents. The last time I saw Jan, she was living and teaching in Duncanville, Texas, near Dallas. I have moved several times since then.

When we passed through Floydada recently on the way to visit family in Plainview, I stopped and got the address of your paper. It was suggested that I write to the editor and put out an appeal to anyone who might know Jan's whereabouts. I would love to get in touch with her again.

Sincerely,

Jan Dodd

Editor,

I am sure your headline "Citizens protest proposed budget" was not intentionally misleading! I think most of the people at the meeting of the commissioners was not to protest the budget as such, but rather because of the treatment of the Justice of the Peace for precinct 2,3.

This was my first trip to such a meeting and nothing would please me more than letting the people elected to tend to the county's business, tend to it.

It seems to me from now on our commissioners should ask themselves (Is it right? Is it reasonable? Is it Legal?). According to last weeks news report, Mr. Taylor was the only one to apply either of these formulas to this matter.

Sterling K. Cummings

Dear Editor,

The folks with the Floyd County Extension Community Development Committee have earned a "pat on the back" for their efforts to bring the county communities closer together, and because those kinds of efforts are few and far between here in Floyd County I'm almost reluctant to dampen their enthusiasm. None of the people I've consulted around town think such a center could be built today without tax dollars, and most aren't willing to foot the bill.

The Caprock Hospital District is in debt to the tune of HALF A MILLION dollars (that means US), and in order to provide minimal health care, we're going to have to raise taxes. A barn for a farmer's market, banquets, etc. would certainly be nice, but pales in importance when compared to adequate medical facilities.

I hope forward thinking folks will always be willing to serve the County when called upon, but I'm of the opinion that now is not the time for such an undertaking.

LITTER COMPLAINTS EXPLAINED

In a recent appearance before the City Council, I expressed my feelings (and those of several neighbors whose homes surround the ball fields at the high school) regarding litter and trash problems. It has now been brought to my attention that several parents and participants are concerned that I am mounting a drive to have the ballfield activities limited or even curtailed.

That observation is totally absurd! I doubt if there is a bigger sports fan in Floydada than myself. A firm advocate of all sports activities, I think that Floydada is fortunate to have such facilities for recreational sports participation.

No one particular person or group of persons were being singled out in our complaints. It is an on-going problem that has existed for years—regardless of whose job it is for the clean-up and upkeep of the fields.

There were more than ninety Little League games played at the fields during the month of June. It is a tremendous responsibility for those running a program to have this much activity, and Larry Noland and the others involved are to be commended for such undertakings.

A more-than-normal windy June helped contribute to the problem as, more likely than not, a lot of trash was windblown from the fields before there were opportunities to pick it up. While the ultimate job of clean-up rests with those running the programs, it behooves all who utilize the fields to be more aware and cooperate in holding down the trash problem.

There are more than adequate trash receptacles on or around the fields, but after a recent softball tournament, the field and the surrounding area were covered with debris. Beer cans in the gutters and baby diapers in the streets were not deposited there by Little Leaguers!

My action before the council was aimed to draw official attention to the litter situation in order that guidelines for field usage can be more defined in the coming seasons. The fields are there for all of us to enjoy and utilize. Unfortunately, there are too many who either don't have pride in the city facilities, don't care, or have the opinion to "let someone else clean up their mess."

Gooch attends training school

Darrell Gooch, volunteer fireman of the Floydada Volunteer Fire Department of Floydada, is attending the 61st Annual Texas Firemen's Training School, July 22-27. The school, attended by nearly 2,000 students representing about 750 cities from more than 25 states, is being held on the Texas A&M University campus this week.

Fireman can choose their course at the school from a list including Fire Fighting, Fire Prevention, Fire Department Officer Training, Fire Department Pump Maintenance, Specialized Fire Protection, and Disaster Rescue Training.

Fireman Gooch is being sponsored by Floyd County Farm Bureau and Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies by contributing toward the cost of the school. Since volunteer firemen are interested in attending this school to help do a better job of fire fighting and fire prevention, 100 County Farm Bureaus and the Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies in the statewide program have sponsored 100 fireman at the school.

"The Farm Bureau Insurance Companies believe Volunteer Fire Departments have been very effective in reducing the amount of loss involved by fire in rural areas," said President S.M. True Jr. of Plainview. "It is our hope in sponsoring this program that the fireman will help the Floydada Volunteer Department to better serve the residents of Floyd County."

Opening your door to an International Student is a great way to grow in a shrinking world.

Maybe the greatest gift you could give your family would be to open your door this year to an international high school student. Imagine what you will learn, as well as what a young person can learn about America from you, your family and your community.

High school students all over the world dream of traveling to America to study and to experience our way of life. We seek volunteer host families who can share their homes and lives with a student for up to 10 months, providing room, board, transportation and friendship. ## Carl Lemons' News and Views from Cedar Hill

WEATHER
RAIN! RAIN! BLESSED RAIN! that fell Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning! It was by no means a deluge, only 1.1 at the Listening Post, but, to an area still reeling from the effects of last month's merciless heat, perhaps the driest June in our history, and, with dryland crops withering on the brink of disaster, it was a restorer of wavering hopes, as welcome as a return from death to life.

Our people are much like the wild eyed narrator in Samuel Taylor Coleridge's "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner." The Mariner's ship ran out of drinking water while still far at sea, and he watched "fifty times four" of his shipmates die in agony, one by one, due to their terrible thirst. He alone was spared, not as a special favor, but rather, as a sentence wherein he was forced to continue living and to spend his remaining years doing penance for the wrongs that he had done. He told how, "The silly buckets on the deck, that had so long remained, I dreamt that they were filled with dew; and when I awoke, it rained. My lips were wet, my throat was cold, my garments all were dank; sure I had drunken in my dreams, and still my body drank."

Although not having experienced such extremes as did the Mariner, our people enjoyed the rain immensely, and their eyes still turn skyward hoping to see more clouds and additional rain.

Lake Mackenzie Fishing Report

"Crappie being caught at the mouth of the creeks on minnows about 18-24 feet deep" and "Channel cats being caught up the creeks using liver and minnows" are some of the reports being given to officials at Lake Mackenzie this week.

The water temperature was 81 degrees Monday morning, with a lake depth of 106 feet.

July 20, Zach and Rhianno Harmon of Plainview caught a 1 lb. 14 oz. sand bass by the dam, using minnows.

A 10 lb. 4 oz. and a 9 lb. 4 oz. striper were caught by trolling with a blue fin in the main part of the lake by Don Knutson of Tulia on July 20.

The Boggs of Levelland used liver as bait on July 21 to catch their 13-1/2 lb. yellow cat in Tule Creek.

Hospital board votes for tax increase

Though more patient revenue is needed. Previous discussion has revealed that an increase of 10% in charges would only yield a 1-2% increase in cash as Medicare and Medicaid have a fixed amount that they pay for each service.

The Board of Directors went into lengthy discussion of the need for a tax increase to be able to keep the hospital open. It was the consensus that revenue will not significantly increase unless a new doctor is hired. Expenses cannot be cut any more without severely limiting services. If the hospital operates as efficiently for 1991 as it did for 1990, it still will likely show a $100,000 loss at current tax levels. With the need to maintain the level of service to cover the anticipated operation loss for 1991, to make repairs needed on the hospital, and to pay on the debt to be carried over from 1990, the board decided an increase in tax revenues of around $300,000 was needed. The board then decided unanimously to increase the district's tax rate to $.42 a 70.57% increase.

With these additions the budget was approved unanimously.

The next item of business was a motion to set Aug. 7, 1990 at 7:00 p.m. for the Public Hearing on the Tax increase.

The Board of Directors then approve the sale of two properties for collection of taxes.

After Executive session the Board of Director's adjourned.

ment signed between the two institutions in January. A representative from Methodist Hospital attends each meeting of the Caprock Hospital District's Board of Directors. Methodist Hospital already has provided Caprock Hospital District's board and hospital personnel with consulting resources that are not usually available to rural hospitals. These resources include:

*Dietary consulting: Caprock Hospital now has the resources of the complete Methodist Hospital Food and Nutrition Department.

*Medical records assistance: All hospitals now have to code billing on all patients. Methodist Hospital sends a staff person to check all coding. Correct coding is important because Medicare pays according to these codes.

*Operational audit: Six department managers from Methodist Hospital spent a day with the department managers of Caprock Hospital.

*Business recommendations: Bob Russell, director of Methodist Hospital's Business Office, visited Caprock Hospital and made some recommendations to improve efficiency.

*Financial data: Financial studies have been presented by Methodist Hospital to the Board of Directors with cash flow statement and other financial reports that have not been available in the past.

*Productivity study: A productivity specialist visited Caprock Hospital for a day and is filing a report with Methodist Hospital and Caprock Hospital.

"Methodist Hospital is committed to strengthening the rural health care network. Their assistance over the months is evidence of their genuine concern for the success of Caprock Hospital," Schaffner said.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The Caprock Hospital District will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase local tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1989 by 70.52%. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in the taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on Tuesday, August 7, 1990 at 7:00 p.m. at Caprock Hospital, 901 W. Crockett Street in the City of Floydada.

FOR the proposal: Joy Assiter, William Bertrand, Kenneth Pitts, Fred Thayer, Melba Vickers

AGAINST the proposal: None

PRESENT and not voting: None

ABSENT: None

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the 24631 effective tax rate that the unit published on July 5, 1990. The following table compares taxes on the average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average home value	17,247	16,885
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	-0-	-0-
Average taxable value	17,247	16,885
Tax rate	.2470	.4200 (proposed)
Tax	$42.60	$70.92 (proposed)

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $28.32 or 66.48 percent compared to last year's taxes.

Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would increase by .1730 cents per $100 of taxable value or 70.04 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Carl Lemon's News & Views From Cedar Hill

once and prospects for a high yield are looking very good. There will be another thirty days of heavy water demands as the plants continue to set bolls and bring them to maturity.

Much of Cedar Hill's dryland cotton had ceased to grow prior to this rain and was doing nothing more than continuing to develop and bloom-out it's existing contingent of squares. This rain will help it to hold and mature many more of those squares without the triggering of excessive new growth. Above normal rains from this date forward would probably result in much new growth; send additional tonnage to the gins; a tonnage of stems and green leaves that would increase ginning costs and lower the value of the lint. Dryland cotton now faces a dual hazard: the danger of too little rain, and the danger of too much rain.

Wheat should volunteer readily following this rain; should generate another plowing and the destruction of a good crop of weeds. Not particularly beneficial, still it certainly didn't hurt.

Onion harvest has begun at Cedar! Jay Lackey's purple onions were dug and moved to the packing shed this past week. The tops of the whites are falling on schedule and they will get their field preparation and be on their way to the packing sheds as soon as the wet ground dries a little. Samples being served on Cedar Hill dinner tables report an occasional monster, onions that just might be large enough to make the "colossal" grade. It still looks like it would take a little over two bags to bring as much money as one bag would have brought a year ago.

Concern continues to mount over the 1990 prospects for fodder for the cattle this winter. Ranchers are very reluctant to dry-sow their hay crop, but drought conditions sometimes generate desperate measures. The time approaches when hay must be seeded whether it be wet, or whether it be dry.

Listening Post peaches, all six of them, have acquired that beautiful pink blush that requires a daily "peach squeezing." Time was when that wasn't required, they could remain on the tree until they became quite soft. No more! Now days the Japanese beetles will find a soft spot no larger than a quarter, summon their family and friends and have themselves a joyful reunion: you gotta gather them a little greener than in times past.

There are black-eyed peas and squashes everywhere, even Mark Gilley's Halloween pumpkin vines have started running and those little buds will soon burst into those huge orange blossoms. Have you tried deep fried pumpkin or squash blossoms that have been dipped in batter? Well, that makes two of us! You must save something for the future!

Have you ever treated your corn ears with three drops of mineral oil to control corn ear worms? If you must under-do or over-do everything just put on two drops of oil instead of three. Let the silks get old enough, maybe three days old, to lose that glossy, virgin look before oiling. That means the pollen has already moved down inside the shuck and the oil will not hinder pollination. Only one application per ear is required so before or after oiling, which ever you prefer, take your scissors and clip off the silks, or clip off the tip of the corn leaf attached to that ear so you will know not to oil that ear the second time when you come back to treat the late-silkers. I had three worms the year I tried it; they drilled in through the shuck between the stalk and the ear! I know it's late; just make a note '91!

THE LEANING CEDARS
July 21: Eunice Langley Covington threw her weight, which wasn't very much, with her doctors and wangled a release from the hospital so that she could attend her mother's 92nd birthday celebration last Saturday. Eunice was able to join the family members for the evening cookout in Neil and Charlene's backyard.

July 22: Cephus and Imogene Fortenberry visited Sarah Beard Sunday afternoon. She is now able to be alone most of the time, probably more than Lois allows her to be. Betty was with Sarah for a few days, but a threatened bout with a cold sent her back to her home to Idalou. Sarah is using one of those multi-footed walkers most of the time now, otherwise she has thinned down to the point where she would have to carry rocks in her pockets to keep the wind from blowing her away.

THE UP AND GOING CEDARS
July 20: Originally planned as something of a meal out for two, Cephus and Imogene Fortenberry's ideas grew and blossomed, last Friday, to the point that they collected his sister, Nancy Evelyn Winn, in Lockney, drove to Lubbock, picked up another sister, Garland and Mary Tucker, and had a dinner out of considerable magnitude.

She was sitting in Neil's picturesque backyard behind a table that just barely supported a humongous birthday cake when I first arrived. At first glance Mrs. Langley appeared tired and it was thought she should lie down and rest. It turned out she was tired: tired of posing behind that cake while some twenty camera operators busily vied for the most poses of Grandma and her cake. Later, with the photo session over, Miss Ester perked up and became as energetic and talkative as some of the others who were twenty years her junior. All of Mrs. Langley's children were present. ## Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

By Jo Bryant

Hi, once again from the nursing home residents and staff. How did you like the party? Wasn't it great? Also have been enjoying the cooler weather.

Monday, I had to go to Tulia. Bro. Bill Wright came and gave the devotion and Gene Wexler came and played the piano for us, we appreciate you.

Tuesday, the residents shared current events, and had some popcorn.

Wednesday, Bro. and Mrs. Sammy Rodriguez came and gave the devotional and singing. It was good to have him back once again. At our weekly Bingo, Edward Jameson won the first bingo. Mary Alice Davis came and assisted the residents for us. The treats were bananas, candy and cheese balls.

Thursday was our monthly birthday party for the month of July. The residents having birthdays were Margaret Lovell, Willard Young, Flo Ella Jarboe, C.C. Burns, Cread Bridges. Mr. Young had some of his family, his brother from New Mexico to visit him. Mrs. Lovell also had some of her family. The ladies helping with the party were Mrs. Ruth Walker, Lorilla Bradley, Eunice Hardy, Evelyn Pollan. They served cake and punch to all present.

Friday, Virginia Cage gave the devotion on giving, "Give and it shall be given to." Evelyn Latta played the piano for us. At 1:30 the residents went on the bus ride to Plainview. McDonald's treated them to some ice cream. They enjoyed seeing the cotton, corn, sunflowers, and milo.

We offer our sympathy and love to the family of Charlie Lewis. We will miss him. We have all our residents back except C.C. Burns, we wish for him a speedy recovery.

Thought: "Seven days without prayer makes one weak."

This week's visitors were: Artie Webb, May Sue, Willie Mae Smith, Mrs. Jack Dollar, Pauline Roberson, Jay and Deanne Miller, Frances Badgett, Myria Dade, Rev. and Mrs. Sammy Rodriguez, Virginia Cage and Irene Wexler.

McCoy reunion gathers at Lighthouse Electric

The 38th meeting of the McCoy Reunion met at Lighthouse Electric Sunday, July 15, in its regular meeting since beginning Thursday, August 28, 1952, at Mackenzie Park in Lubbock.

Approximately 100 persons were in attendance for this first reunion with about one half the number present Sunday. Thirty-eight years have seen many changes in the population of the rural community and also the Old Settlers have since passed away as have many other former residents.

Registration started at 9:30 a.m. with visiting, photo viewing and exchanging and reminiscing being so popular that there was hardly time for eating and tending to business. Also, videos and cameras were popular items for the day especially with Dock Staples and his group of students of about 1938.

Dock and Winnie Staples of Godley were some who traveled the furthest to attend along with Eloise Payne of Kingsland and Darlene Letton of Austin. Some students who enjoyed the day with their former teacher were: Lou Ewing Hood and Carroll Johnston and wife, Jerry of Plainview, Mava Smith Peterson of Lovington, N.M., Ann Lou Payne Sinclair of Haskell, Bob Harless of Pleasanton, Billy Mac Shipley and wife Sharon, and Billie Jo Smith, both of Floydada.

At the 1952 reunion, Mrs. W.W. Smith, who was almost 84, was the oldest present and at this reunion, one of her daughters held the title. Coming from Lakewood, California, Zora Pittman Hudson captured the title of traveling the furthest as she has done for several years.

Flora McNeill suggested that we laminate the records of the reunions that the history might be placed in the museum in the future. Also it was suggested that the article in the 100th Floyd County Celebration edition be placed in the records with those having other information sending it to be placed along with the printed material to help complete the history of the early settlers.

Others present for the gathering were: Wilda Laminack, Paul and Wilma Wheeler of Ralls, Claude and Anna Mae Hartsell of Comanche, Georgia, and Fletcher Stork of Crosbyton, Bennie Sprawls, Dale and Nancy Tardy of Lubbock, Carl Tardy of Roaring Springs, Jim and John Wilson of Edmonson, Floyd and Carolyn Jackson, Bernice Reynolds and Mary Lou Bollman of Lockney, Wynona Willis of Petersburg, Thelma Jones, Marie Tardy, Alma Smith, Crawford Sandefur, Son and Fay Jackson, LaNell Tardy, Billie Jo and Gleva Smith, Rubie Ratjen, Jennelda and Cleo Fulton and Mac and Flora McNeill.

A wooden handmade sign announcing the "McCoy Reunion - 90" brought by Eloise Payne, made by a friend of hers, greeted each arrival and was on the door for the instant glance into the years gone by.

Flora McNeill conducted a memorial for those listed who had passed away since we last met. They are: Dean Griffin, Earl Schoppel, Harvey Tardy, Albert Jones, Mammie Gray, Amy Hartsell Fisher, P.B. "Toodlem" Sandefur, Jeff Puckett, Zella Johnston, Mrs. Sidney Johnston, Lucille Smith Patterson, Cordie Stephens, Harvey Assiter, Wayne Day, Kermit Davis and Bill Switzer.

The McCoy Reunion will be July 21, 1991 at Lighthouse Electric with Mac and Flora McNeill as president and secretary.

Residents celebrate birthdays

July is a "meanie"...
With weather oh so hot...
But we will cool things down, we hope
With a party on the spot.

A lovely lady is Flo Ella
...One we are pleased to greet...
She always looks so "spic and span"
In fact, so very neat!
*****

Greetings to our Mr. Young...
On this his special day...
May everything he's wishing for
Be coming day by day!
*****

Mr. Bridges we will welcome
...His years are 84...
We wish him Happy Birthday
With many, many more.
*****

Another one we welcome
Is Mr. C.C. Burns...
We hope each day gets better
As every "year he turns."
*****

Our Mrs. Lovell we salute
...She counts from 1903...
She's done a "heap o' living"...
And most of it with "glee."
*****

Let's serenade these people
With the same old birthday song...
So, everybody ready
And sing out good and strong!

Thursday, July 19, was party time at the Rest Home with ladies of the City Park Church of Christ hosting. The Hesperian photographer came for the "picture taking" after which everyone was ushered into the dining room with the honorees being seated at the "honor" table.

Their places were marked with special cards and each wore a fresh corsage, compliments of Williams Flower and Card Shop.

We are sorry Mrs. Lovell, Mr. Burns and Mr. Bridges were unable to attend the party.

The table was covered with a pale green cloth and centered with a floral arrangement in shades of pink. Jo Bryant read a brief history of each honoree after which the poem was read and all joined in singing the Happy Birthday song.

A delicious birthday cake, along with angel food cake and a tangy fruit punch was served to the honorees, Home residents and guests which included Mrs. Lovell's son, James and daughter, Gladys.

We always welcome visitors and you are invited to attend our next party which will be Thursday, August 16, 2:30 p.m.

Henry Armstrong was the holder of three boxing titles simultaneously: Featherweight, Welterweight, and Lightweight, in the year 1938.

Senior Citizens News

By Thelma Jones

The senior citizens offer their sympathy to the family of Charlie Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Payne of Vigo Park visited her mother, Mrs. Mattie Wester last Friday. Also visiting were Ed and Jo Wester.

Everyone really enjoyed the good rain. Wish we could have got more.

Bill and Conrina Waters and children of Carlsbad, New Mexico, came Saturday to visit with her grandmother, Mrs. W.J. Wilks. Mrs. Wilks accompanied them all to the Dennis reunion in Memphis, Texas, over the week. It was the 40th reunion for the Dennis family; wonderful time and food. There were four of the Dennis sisters there and one sister was unable to attend on account of health problems.

We are pleased to have Irene King as our new bookkeeper as Peggy is in the hospital at Albuquerque, New Mexico. Also another new helper is Juanita Henry.

Mrs. V. Cross of Paducah, a sister of Mrs. C.H. Wise, is in the hospital at Childress.

We still have a lot of sickness and people in hospitals. Hope all of them a speedy recovery.

I would appreciate it if anyone who has any news, for our news report, to call me before 10:30 on Tuesday morning at 983-3296.

We want to offer our thanks to the Elks Lodge at Plainview for the donations to our center.

Several went to Plainview on the bus last Thursday.

The Bill That Ate Washington

By Edwin Feulner

Instead of raising money for their reelection campaigns during Congress' summer recess, perhaps our lawmakers should spend August combining their own backyards for "pork" to cut from the federal budget. That way they could come back to Capitol Hill prepared — once and for all — to tackle their self-made problem: the federal deficit.

Anyone in the House and Senate who doesn't think he can find any wasteful spending in the federal budget should talk to Scott Hodge, Grover M. Hermann fellow in budgetary affairs at The Heritage Foundation. When President Bush kicked off the budget summit at the White House, and Congress said it couldn't pinch even a few pennies, Hodge found ways to trim more than $130 billion from the bloated federal budget (and he didn't even touch the so-called social safety net programs).

That's more than twice the amount of spending cuts required by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings balanced-budget law.

But will Congress do it? You don't have to read their lips to see what they're saying: "We'll keep spending until hell freezes over."

One depressing example of how Congress has managed to spend more than $1 trillion of taxpayers' money every year for the last three years can be found in the recently approved "emergency" aid bill for Panama and Nicaragua.

Without much exaggeration, this is the story of the spending bill that ate Washington.

Like all good horror stories, it springs from a not-so-frightening premise: that the people of Nicaragua and Panama could use our help. President Bush proposed $800 million in aid. But then something went horribly, irrevocably wrong. The relatively modest (by Washington standards) spending bill began to grow and mutate like a monster on The Late, Late, Late Show.

Instead of costing $800 million, the bill suddenly will cost taxpayers $4.4 billion — a 500-percent increase. Not to worry, Congress was frugal in one area — grimming $80 million from the aid requested by the president.

Don't laugh. This really happened.

Congress approved the bill in May and the president has signed it. Frittered away was $990,000 on a waterfront park in Bay City, Mich., $400,000 to fill in a tunnel in Salisbury, N.C., and literally billions of dollars for all sorts of other dire "emergency" needs.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, chalked up $185 million all on his own to build an automated fingerprint facility in his home state. He also pushed through an amendment forcing the Army to continue development of a new type of tank ammunition it had decided to discontinue. The company that makes the ammo is located, obviously, in West Virginia.

Then, of course, there was the very important $8-million appropriation for killing grasshoppers in the Plains states; $100,000 for peach talks between feuding Mohawk Indians; $72 million for public housing — even though experts say there is already plenty of public housing; another $100 million for the Census Bureau — which can't seem to wrap up its census on budget; and $500,000 to educate drunk drivers.

Oh, but the list goes on! There was the $2.5 million to purchase a cargo boat for the islands of American Samoa, and the $500,000 to train new members of the Chicago school council.

Astoundingly, Bush went for the deal. He gulped hard, but in the end he swallowed Congress' mega-billion-dollar splurge: $5 in additional spending for every dollar he originally requested.

How much longer before the taxpayers see through Congress' dirty little secret: that lawmakers need new spending programs as gifts to dole out to their friends and keep themselves in office, and for no other reason?

News and Views from Cedar Hill

1990! A complete and accurate account of the occasion has been written by a member of the family and will appear elsewhere in this issue.

July 21: When a number of pickups towing horse trailers pass along '97 in a short period of time it tells you somebody is working cattle up or down the highway. Saturday morning broke the record; for an hour there was always an east bound pickup and trailer in sight, sometimes three or four in convoy. Could it be that two or three big outfits had all picked the same day, Saturday, to work cattle? Then came the remembrance; it was the first full day of the Annual Burleson Memorial Roping southeast of Flomot. Stanley told your writer later that there were 530 ropers signed in for the competition, in addition to the spectators. Wow! All the highways to the arena must have been running bank full same as '97. Look for a report by Lou Gene, Beverley, or Carrla elsewhere in this paper. One of them always writes a complete and interesting article on their Annual Burleson Memorial Roping.

July 23: Monday morning found Edna Gilley seriously applying herself to a much needed session of rest and relaxation, or perhaps rest and recuperation is the better term. A week of whirlwind activity saw her taking her mother, Ruthie Belle Luttrell Clark, to Red River, N.M. Monday through Thursday of last week. Back at home Friday evening Edna had most of the county relatives at her house for a "good-bye grandma" supper. Then on Saturday it was to the Lubbock airport to see Ruthie Belle off to her home in Austin. Once back home at Cedar, Edna has been on constant recharge.

July 25. Miss Charla Yeary was off to Lubbock on Wednesday to compete for district honors in 4-H competition. You may read of her specialty in the July 19 issue of the Hesperian. Mandi and Brad packed their bags and stayed with Grandmother Betty at her home in Idalou.

Twyla and Traca Lemons, both now completely recovered from their harrowing fender bender of late June, still preach the gospel: BUCKLE UP!

The White House has 132 rooms and a bomb shelter. It occupies 84,184 square feet.

God's Country cast members travel from far and near to participate in the 1990 fifth anniversary show.

From Lubbock County, Don Williams and Camille Driskell, two original "God's Country" players have traveled over 108,000 miles each since 1986 to contribute their particular talents.

Williams, Dean at Lubbock Christian University, has directed the production since its outdoor debut. Driskell, a 5th grade teacher at Roosevelt, plays Fannie Conroe, a fun loving Quaker. She also is soloist for THE WIND, an original song written by Rick Sudduth and arranged by Zama Norris.

From Floyd County participating this year are Stacy Smith and her daughters, Joni and Shonda.

Stacy, an image consultant, plays the widow in the revival scene. Connie Bertrand, a non-traditional college student, was cast in the role of Elizabeth "Aunt Hank" Smith who narrates the 1990 production.

Tim Julian of Lockney was cast as fun lovin' Texas Ranger S.T. Callihan. Callihan has his eye on beautiful Jeffie Boone of Motley County. Jeffie is played by Kathy Byard of Ralls.

Global warming may alter landscape

West Texas landscapes, with their thirsty soils and treeless horizons, could sweep across nearly all of the state if a recent study is right about global warming trends.

"Given current climate forecasts, by optimistic standards, agricultural land use in Texas would drop by 10 percent," said Dr. Bruce McCarl, an economist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. "But at the other extreme, agricultural acres could drop by 40 percent."

McCarl, with a team of 10 scientists across the nation, examined suspected global climate change and U.S. agriculture. The research included regional implications for 10 of the nation's major agricultural production areas, speculating on changes if certain conditions happen within the next 50-75 years.

Temperatures around the world are going to become increasingly hotter throughout the 21st century, many scientists believe. This global warming, if it occurs, is blamed on a buildup in the atmosphere of carbon dioxide and other gases that trap sunlight that normally would be reflected by the Earth.

For Texas, forecasts indicate that average annual temperatures could be about 10-13 degrees F higher, McCarl said. Added to an already semi-tropical to semi-arid climate, the increased temperature could have a major impact on Texas agriculture.

Adding 13 degrees to the annual average temperature of 57.5 degrees in the Texas High Plains, for example, would make that region more like the current climate in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The Lower Valley's annual average temperature in 1988, the latest available figures, was about 73 degrees.

McCarl and his colleagues used models from atmospheric science, plant science and economics to examine the potential impact specifically for corn, soybeans and wheat crops.

"Dryland crop yields would decrease by up to 44 percent, and irrigated crop yields would decrease by up to 21 percent," McCarl said of the Texas figures. "Agricultural prices would increase."

Because of the increase in crop water demand and reliance on irrigation, he said, there could be a net increase of 5 percent on water use for crops.

"Agricultural benefits to consumers and producers would decrease by $700 million to $3 billion if crop varieties adapted to heat and dryer soil conditions are not available," he said.

Climate forecasts were derived from the NASA Goddard Institute of Space Studies (GISS) and the Princeton Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory (GFDL) models. These calculate likely climate changes under various carbon dioxide levels.

But carbon dioxide, one of the culprits in global warming, could have some positive results for crop production because it stimulates photosynthesis, the process that makes plants grow. Therefore, the researchers also considered two scenarios within each model: one included the expected growth stimulating benefits; the other ignored them.

Using the GISS climate forecast without the beneficial implications of carbon dioxide, irrigated corn yields in Texas would drop more than 14 percent, but irrigated soybean yields would increase almost 13 percent. Winter wheat yields would remain about the same under irrigation and but drop almost 18 percent on dryland acres.

The figures are worse under the GFDL climate forecast without considering beneficial carbon dioxide. Under that scenario, irrigated corn, soybeans and wheat yields drop about 20 percent. Dryland wheat yields decrease by more than 40 percent.

The outcome was less gloomy when the researchers included the beneficial side effects of added carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. But almost all Texas crops still registered lowered yields.

Properly designed and stocked ponds yield better fishing

If your properly designed and stocked pond (tank) is a fisherman's failure, the problem could lie in its predator-prey balance.

"The number one problem is usually the overharvest of largemouth bass," explained Grant Huggins, a wildlife and fisheries specialist with the Ardmore-based Samuel Roberts Noble Foundation. "People like to catch bass. They like to eat bass."

Largemouth bass is considered a predator species. Removing too many bass during a given season can disturb the predator-prey relationship in a pond, adversely affecting fishing in subsequent years.

Most ponds with good bass fishing in this section of the country can maintain balance with an annual bass harvest of up to 10 pounds per surface acre of water. A few ponds with exceptionally productive food chains and good predator-prey balance can sustain up to 25 pounds of bass harvest per year, per acre, but in most ponds the proper harvest is much less. Unbalanced ponds often should not have any bass removed.

These bass harvest guidelines can be especially critical on small ponds, common throughout Oklahoma, north Texas and adjacent areas.

"It's very easy to overharvest bass,"

Huggins said. "For example, on a quarter-acre pond, a maximum proper harvest might end up being one fish per year."

Underharvesting (or not harvesting at all) is almost always better than overharvesting an already-balanced pond.

"In my opinion, if a pond is properly stocked, you could never harvest a fish and it would maintain a proper balance," Huggins said.

The size of bass harvested is also important. A pond should not have too many bass of any particular size removed.

A key factor in a pond's bass producing potential is its "fertility," a term applied to the ability of a pond to produce microorganisms which form the base of the food chain that eventually supports bass, the top predator species.

When a fertile pond is properly designed, stocked and harvested, a healthy predator-prey balance should develop.

A balanced pond, Huggins said, should have all sizes of bass from small to large.

Another key measure of balance is the size of the other sunfish (sometimes called bream, or incorrectly, perch), which serve as the food for bass. In a balanced pond, most of the sunfish caught should be at least six inches long. If most of the sunfish caught are smaller, the pond probably has too many sunfish, too few bass, or both.

One or more specific types of sunfish might be found in any particular pond. Among the most common are the bluegill and green sunfish.

The bluegill is generally considered preferable if bass production is the ultimate goal. The green sunfish, with more tapered body and larger mouth, sometimes competes with bass for food, and does not provide as much food for bass because it is not as prolific a breeder as the bluegill. But the green sunfish is regarded by some as a respectable game fish in its own right.

Managing catfish in ponds, Huggins said, is easy.

"You stock them, and as you harvest them, you periodically restock the number harvested," he said, recommending restocking with catfish at least eight inches in length.

Some landowners will need to restock ponds for an entirely different reason, flooding. Ponds in low areas that were inundated by floodwaters have probably lost most of their stocked fish, Huggins said, and additional, unwanted species might now be present.

Ponds that simply overflowed during the heavy spring rains likely lost relatively few fish. In fact, Huggins said, green sunfish are known to move upstream from other bodies of water into ponds during periods of heavy rain.

If you're wondering whether your pond has a proper balance, or if you're simply interested in improving what's already there, Huggins says this is a good time of the year to begin.

He recommends recording what's being caught, including types, sizes and numbers of sunfish and bass. An additional method of examining some aspects of a pond's fish population balance is to seine certain sections of the pond.

For more information on pond balance and seining techniques, contact Huggins or Mike Porter at the Noble Foundation, (405) 223-5810, or Ken Gee at the Foundation's Wildlife Management Unit, (405) 332-8070.

courses to be offered here in August by South Plains College and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The first course, Electronic Spreadsheets and Their Use in Agriculture, will be held at the college Aug. 14-15. The second course, Farm and Ranch Cash Record Keeping With Microcomputers, will be held Aug. 16-17.

"The electronic spreadsheet has proven to be one of the most useful tools for microcomputer users," said Dr. Jackie Smith, Extension Service agricultural economist and management specialist. This short course will provide an opportunity for new users to learn what electronic spreadsheets are and how they work.

Participants will learn the basic concepts of building and using spreadsheets, how to modify existing spreadsheets and how to develop new spreadsheets to fit their needs. The course is designed for beginning users and will employ the Lotus 1-2-3 spreadsheet.

Improved record keeping, using Quicken 3 by Intuit, will be taught in the second course. "Quicken falls into a new category of inexpensive, but powerful, checkbook based cash record keeping software," Smith said.

Participants will enter transactions, print checks, set up expense categories and enterprise classes, and generate a variety of useful reports. The course also will cover speeding entry of repetitive transaction and interfacing with Lotus.

Sessions of both courses will run from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day. The registration fee is $100 for each course and includes a course notebook, example disks and two meals. Registration will be limited to 20 to allow hands-on training.

If 10 paid registrations for a workshop haven't been received by Aug. 1, that course will be cancelled and registration fees will be returned.

Additional information may be obtained from local county extension agents or by telephoning Smith or Jane Green at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Lubbock, (806) 746-6101.

Drought assistant requested

Texas Farm Bureau President S.M. True has called upon the Texas congressional delegation and Gov. Bill Clements to assist farmers and ranchers who have sustained sizeable financial losses this year due to heavy flooding, drought and hot temperatures.

"It is important that your office be aware of existing conditions both in your district and around the state, and that your assistance will be greatly appreciated in what we believe is a major situation," True told the congressmen.

Alluding from recent reports by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, True noted that the "entire state is now too dry, even in deep East Texas where our pastures are rapidly declining."

True told U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, that Texas Farm Bureau has requested congressional field hearings to assess the impact of the drought.

"Many areas of the state (i.e. Live Oak County) have been under severe drought conditions for up to three years, resulting in no appreciable production or income," True stated in his letter to de la Garza.

Dr. Zerle Carpenter, the Extension Service director, reported that the weather had caused severe damage to cotton, grain and hay crops in the state.

In the South Plains alone, more than a half million acres of cotton will be "zeroed out" due to a complete lack of germination and development this summer, Extension leaders reported.

The Lower Rio Grande Valley has been very short of moisture for some time. A double whammy exists in that region since irrigation of cotton can only be done in a limited way due to the presence of the water.

Additionally, thousands of acres of rangeland have been lost to numerous fires across the state, particularly in West Texas.

Vegetable production, too, has been stunted by the lack of moisture, most noticeably south of San Antonio — that in spite of heavy rainfall this past weekend.

A spokesman for the Live Oak Extension Service said Monday that while the area has received some spotty rainfall this week, "there haven't been any drought-ending showers yet."

Check forage for toxins

By Brent Crossland

Cattle owners are probably aware of prussic acid and nitrate poisoning of cattle. However, I will review some background information on these two disorders. These are of critical importance because of our prolonged drought situation.

Both prussic acid poisoning and nitrate poisoning can occur in sorghum or sorghum cross plants following a drought period. The lush new growth that is occurring from rainfall after a drought or following harvest of forage is suspect for these two toxins. Prussic acid can dissipate from the forage in a relative short period of time while nitrate levels can remain in the forage, even in the hay or ensilage for an extensive period. Nitrates can be tested for by A&M University. Samples can be sent to the forage testing laboratory at Texas in from the County Extension Office.

Dr. Don Dorsett at the forage laboratory makes the following recommendations for sample preparation:

1. Send samples in a paper container (not plastic).
2. Split the stalks in a longitudinal manner into halves and fourths if it is not possible to send chopped samples.

When grazing drought affected fields, please remember a couple of points. Stalks have higher levels of nitrate than leaves so problems may not occur until the leaves are grazed off and stalks start being consumed. Annual weeds, such as careless weeds, are nitrate builders and may cause problems where the corn or sorghum may be low in nitrate. Further information may be obtained from the County Extension Office.

Mulching conserves water

Add mulch to save water in gardens. This one practice can separate the super gardener from an average one, particularly during dry periods.

"This may well be the most valuable cultural practice that one can do to help the vegetable garden and landscape," said Dr. Doug Welsh, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

He said a good mulch can reduce soil packing, blowing and washing, suppress weeds, keep the soil moist, regulate soil temperature, add organic matter and keep vegetable fruits, such as squash, off the ground and free of many diseases.

Welsh said mulches also have advantages in the landscape. "They improve plant growth, enhance the appearance of the landscape and reduce maintenance," he said.

With summer heat drying vegetable gardens and landscapes, the most important benefit of a mulch is to reduce evaporation from the soil surface.

Because of the reduced evaporation, the soil moisture level remains more constant, which promotes root growth. Mulches also modify soil temperatures in home gardens. Summer mulches cool the soil and create a better environment for plant growth.

A thin layer of mulch reduces disease problems. And, since most weed seed require light to germinate, a thick layer of mulch will help shadow them out and can reduce weed problems by 90 percent or more.

Cotton Briefs... Why buy cotton?

PROTECTION. Cotton's fiber structure translates into fabrics with good bulk and cover that weigh less. This structure also allows for a greater insulative protection than could be provided by garments made from other fabrics.

TEMPERATURE CONTROL. The cushion of air that makes cotton soft also insulates and is responsible for the warmth of cotton fabrics. In cold weather, cotton fabric protects against the wind without trapping body moisture. In warm weather, cotton garments help keep the wearer cool by facilitating evaporative cooling of body moisture and release of moisture vapor.

Imitated but never duplicated, cotton is nature's own miracle fiber. Cotton fiber has proved amazingly adaptable to all sorts of fabric forming and finishing processes, while retaining its basic desirable properties. That's why consumers buy cotton.

4-H'ers study aerospace

Nine Floyd County 4-H members recently participated in a two day aerospace and rocketry project, according to Brent Crossland, Floyd County Extension Agent - Agr. The two day course was taught by Crossland and Mary True, Floyd County Extension Agent - Home Economics.

During the training, 4-H members learned about the aerospace industry and the benefits that have been gained from the program. The training also included a session on building model rockets. On the second day, the 4-H members "launched" their rockets at the Floydada rodeo arena.

"Many people believe that 4-H is just cows and cooking," states Crossland. "This is an example of some of the various projects besides the traditional type 4-H curriculum that people usually associate with 4-H." There are many self determined, special interest or short term projects to be offered. For more information about 4-H, contact the Floyd County Extension Office. The 4-H program is open to all youth in Floyd County regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.
