Its time for our more or less annual exhortation on the subject of shopping at home. To set the stage, a small, true story.

We were visiting with a retired employee of Southwestern Bell down in Austin a few months ago, discussing this very subject. During his active years with the company he covered the area around Lubbock, where he lived at the time. On this particular occasion he dropped by the newspaper offices in Slaton, a town southeast of that city.

At the moment of his visit, the newspaper editor was fuming. Asked what the problem was, the editor said something like "look at this...news release," which he did. It was a press release from the local school teachers organization. They wanted it run in their local paper.

The press release laid out the agenda for the teachers' year end banquet and subsequent activities. They were going to have a banquet Friday night, and the next day, on Saturday, they were all to go over to Lubbock for a day of shopping. They evidently did not even realize the incongruity of the situation.

Each and every one of them received his or her income from local citizens, one way or the other. Either from local property taxes, or from the state, which in turn taxed locals, along with everyone else, and returned the money in the form of "state aid". And during the year, of course, they had leaned on local businesses for a host of "worthy causes" on behalf of the schools.

Now we are not going to tilt at windmills on this thing. We understand the dynamics of the matter as well as anyone. Shoppers look for bargains. If they did not, newspapers would probably be out of business, since that is where most people turn when they are looking for a place to shop for bargains. But sometimes what looks like a bargain is not a bargain at all, if all things are considered.

For instance: It is 50 miles, or better, to Lubbock. The government figures it costs at least 24 cents per mile to operate a car, including of course all the expenses that go toward operation and upkeep. A round trip is better than 100 miles. That comes to $24.00, not counting one's time. If one could save 5 percent on his or her purchases, a dubious assumption, the shopper would have to spend $480 in order to save enough money to keep and operate the vehicle used to make the trip.

Now we know we have overdrawn the picture. The car is already there, whether used for that trip or not. And we know that in some instances the shopper may find items there they cannot find here. But they can't get the service they get here, nor do they make the contribution to jobs for their neighbors and their kids that comes from shopping at home when possible.

As we said earlier, we are not going to tilt at windmills, or wax exceedingly eloquent on the subject. We are just trying to make the point that Floyd County money circulating in Floyd County helps the citizens of this county more than that same money circulating elsewhere. And recognizing the fact that sometimes shoppers will find it more or less necessary to look elsewhere, we hope as much money as possible stays home and helps build the local community.

By The Way

By Alice Gilroy

The Miss Floydada Pageant went off without a hitch. It was so smoooooth! The young ladies and the little young ladies did a grand job.

Anne Carthel was superb as the Master of Ceremonies. She looked so poised and elegant up there. A perfect beauty for a beauty pageant.

The entertainment was great. I really admire the people who can get up in front of all those people (and there were a lot of people) and sing and dance. It was a lovely evening full of lovely ladies.

Not being raised in Floyd County I have a hard time understanding the rivalry between the two towns. I've heard it used to be a lot worse. I know a lot of it is in good fun, especially during football season, but some of it seems very serious.

It is a real shame the two towns have a hard time getting together on community development and sometimes compete against each other. It is really sad because both towns have such fine people in them. Just think what could be accomplished with the go getters from both communities.

It does seem to be changing somewhat, and over such an unusual issue. The two towns have decided to work together to keep a landfill in the county instead of going to Plainview or Lubbock.

Don't you think it's funny that garbage has brought us all together?

There is not much I can say about the war in the Mid East. It is all a very depressing subject. We all have our opinions on it and rightly so. That is one of the things our people have fought for so many times, and our young men have died for—the right to have an opinion.

But—I can't help but wish the anti-war demonstrators would shut up. I'm not for war. I want it to be over. I want our men and women to come home. But they are not going to, until it's over. One of the things that could make it last longer is Hussein's impression that the country is divided over the issue. The more chaos caused at home the harder it is to accomplish any objective. The communist have practiced this over here for many years.

I sympathize with the mother on TV that said she was demonstrating because her son was a soldier over there and that was how she felt she could help. But how does that make the men and women who are risking their lives, feel?

How does it make Hussein feel? I can see him smiling. I hate the thought of him smiling.

How does it make those POW's feel? You can bet Hussein makes sure they see it.

It makes me remember Jane Fonda during the Vietnam war. That stupid ignorant woman would come back after a trip to North Vietnam and tell everyone what murderers the Americans were, and how well treated the POW's were.

I remember my father (who was a Japanese POW for 3-1/2 years) making sure I understood exactly what was happening to those prisoners because of Jane Fonda and people like her (something the press never saw fit to make people understand).

After the prisoners came home, they confirmed the cruelty they had undergone. They told of how the beatings (too horrible for any of us to imagine) were worse before and after Jane's visits. They were bombarded every day with how the country could care less about them and their cause. Jane and other anti-war protestors encouraged this and it doesn't seem we learned any lessons from that.

The one thing that can help a prisoner and soldier survive in all this terror will be his strength of mind and spirit. He will find this through prayer and in support from his country. Let's be sure we give it to them.

110TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT—With the swearing in of Randy Hollums as the new District Judge for the 110th Judicial District, came a few minor changes, most of them in new and long state titles. The employees of the 110th are (l-r) Terri Wyatt, court reporter; Benny Bal, Community

She had fines totaling $455.50 against her which had been partially worked out under a community public service program. She spent 4 days in jail and paid $100 in fines before being released on Tuesday, January 22.

A theft was reported at Nielson's Restaurant the morning of Sunday, January 20. Thirty-five plastic letters from the establishment's sign were taken. The theft was valued at $17.50.

R.C. Andrews recognizes teacher, parent volunteers

During the monthly school board meeting on January 14, R.C. Andrews PTA President Debra Jo Fawver presented certificates to the "Educator of the Month" and "Parent Volunteers of the Month". The "Educator of the Month" is chosen from those employed at R.C. Andrews Elementary School and the "Parent Volunteer of the Month" is a parent or parents who have volunteered their time to work during school hours or on projects for the R.C. Andrews PTA.

Receiving the "Educator of the Month" Award was Mrs. Elayne Reid. Mrs. Reid has had a long association with Floydada schools. She attended R.C. Andrews and graduated from Floydada High School. While attending F.H.S. she was a twirler with the Whirlwind band and Miss F.H.S. her senior year. After graduating with the class of 1951, she attended McMurry College, then West Texas State College, obtaining her degree in 1955.

Upon returning to Floyd County, Elayne started her teaching career at R.C. Andrews where she is presently teaching Remedial Reading. This is her 29th year in the teaching profession. She has done graduate work at West Texas State, Texas Tech, and North Texas

State. Elayne and her husband, Charles, have two children who both graduated from Floydada High School. Joe Reid lives in Amarillo and Donna Reid Kraybill in Stillwater, Oklahoma. Charles and Elayne have three grandchildren, Karson, Karol and Kasey Kraybill.

Reading, traveling, stained glass, crafts and crocheting are some of Elayne's favorite hobbies. Charles and Elayne are members of Carr's Chapel United Methodist Church. Elayne believes that education gives each person the freedom to do or become whatever he or she desires. She tries to encourage her students to have self-confidence, high expectations, attainable goals and to see themselves as they want to be in the future, always keeping in mind, "If it is to be, it is up to me."

Parent volunteers receiving the "Helping Hands" Award were Kerry and Sue Reed. They are long time residents of Floydada. They have a son, Jason, who is in the fourth grade. Mrs. Fawver said these two parents are always willing to help in any way they can. They helped with the R.C. Andrews Halloween Carnival and the Bookfair held in September. The R.C. Andrews PTA is very thankful in having parents such as these volunteering their time to help our students and teachers.

Have a good week!

6th graders to receive gift book

The 6th grade students in R.C. Andrews will receive a gift-book titled The Way To Go.

Presented to them by civic-minded leaders in this community, The Way To Go, is the centerpiece of the Youth Development Program. Many communities throughout the nation are participating in this program.

The Way To Go, handsomely bound and illustrated in full-color is a collection of eight short stories. Written to appeal to young people in today's world, the stories reinforce traditional moral values. For instance, one of the stories emphasizes the importance of being a responsible person; another shows how highly honesty should be valued; another focuses on the danger of drugs and alcohol.

The program is described as being a response to a growing concern felt by parents and others throughout the nation. Too often, it is maintained, young people are in innocent victims of harmful influences that undermine the sound values parents are trying to teach their children in the home. National statistics on drug and alcohol related accidents involving teenagers, on missing children, teenage pregnancies, teenage suicides, are cause for alarm. The great majority of parents do not have these problems. Nonetheless, they worry about them: peer pressure is a strong influence on young people.

The response of the local sponsors of this program, when asked why they are participating in it, can be summed up as follows: "This community means a lot to me. Our young people are our most precious resource. They are our future. This program is good for our young people, their parents, and our community."

The sponsors are: Floydada Coop Gins, City Auto, Inc., Thompson Pharmacy, HWI Higginbotham-Bartlett Co.

'Wind roll over Muleshoe 83 - 60

The Whirlwind Varsity Boys defeated the Muleshoe Varsity 83 to 60 in district action at Muleshoe on Tuesday, January 22. According to Coach Mike Cocanougher, "The boys were a little sloppy during the first half, turning the ball over quite a bit. It was nip and tuck during the first two and a half quarters, then they settled down and began to play better."

scoring 20 points and making 11 rebounds. Jamie Suarez made 12 points and Ryan Burns had 11 points and 9 rebounds. Chad Williams scored 5 points and Billy Villarreal netted 2.

The team now has a 13-10 record for the season with a 3-2 record for the first half of district competition. The second half of district play will kickoff on Friday, January 25 here in Floydada. Four games are slated, beginning with the Junior Varsity Girls at 4:00 p.m. The JV Boys will play second, followed by the Varsity Girls and the Varsity Boys.

Leading scorer for the team was Kenneth Collins with 33 points and 15 rebounds. Michael Henderson also hit both categories in the double digits,

Tulia Hornets sting

By Bill Gray

Although four Whirlwinds scored in double figures, Tulia's height advantage and quick transition game proved to be the difference as the Hornets defeated the 'Winds 83-69 in basketball action at Graves Gym on January 18. It was Floydada's second consecutive district loss.

Kenneth Collins paced the Whirlwind attack with 23 points and 5 rebounds. Chad Williams and Michael Henderson each had 11 points, with Henderson adding 10 rebounds. Jaime Suarez added 10 points and Ryan Burns registered 9 points and 7 rebounds.

According to Coach Mike Co-

'Winds last Friday

cocanougher, "The 'Winds played hard the entire game. We had trouble controlling the boards because of the size difference; they have three big players: 6'6", 6'5" and 6'4". We were close until the third quarter when they scored 31 points while we were held to 17."

Cocanougher added, "We were 21 points down in the fourth quarter and managed to pull within 9. But we just couldn't make up the difference. The boys showed a lot of character and pride; they could have given up, but kept on fighting. I am very proud of their effort."

The Whirlwinds are now 2-2 in league play, and close out the first half of District 2-3A action at Muleshoe on January 22.

Ninth grade boys win consolation championship

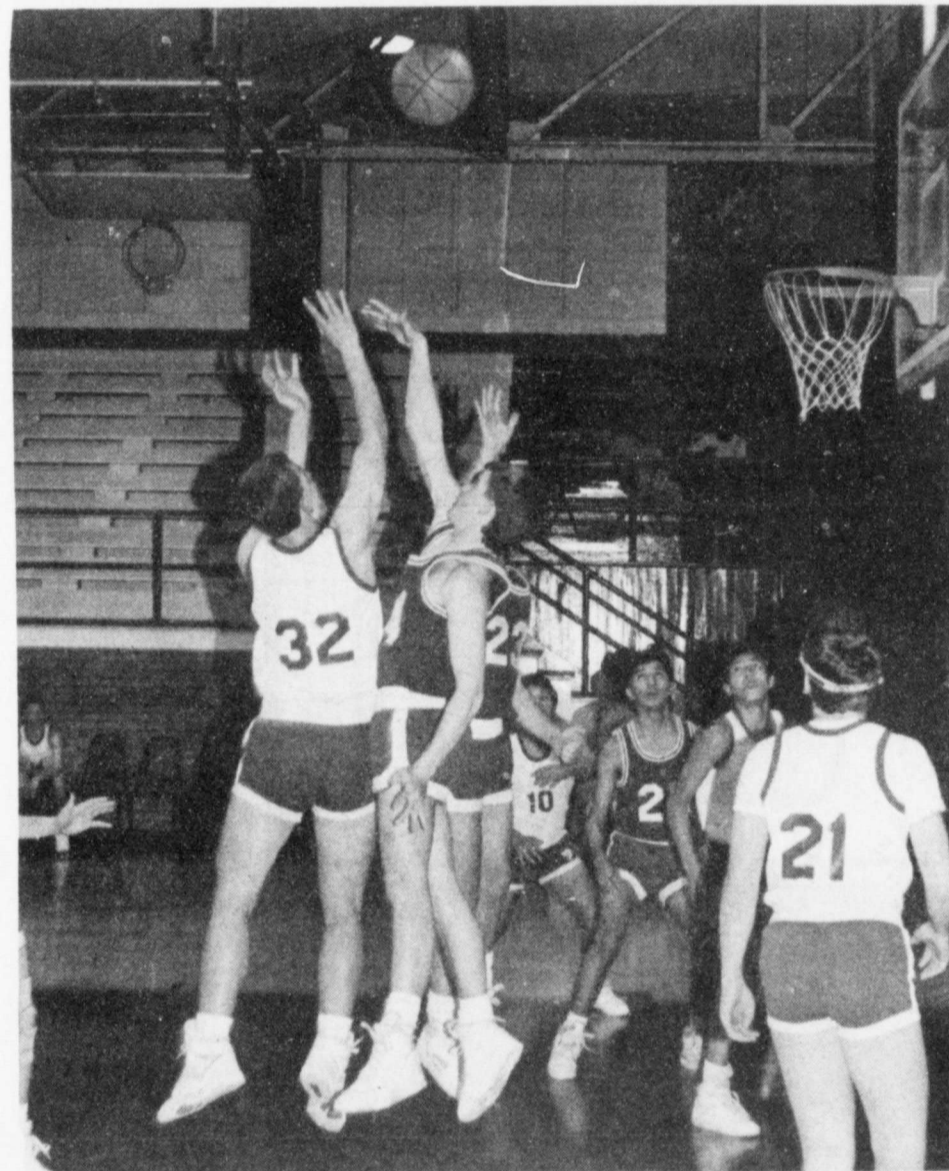

By Bill Gray

Floydada's 9th grade boys won the consolation championship at Valley's JV basketball tournament on January 17-19. After a 55-40 opening loss to Claude, Floydada was victorious over Silverton and defeated Valley in the consolation finals on January 19.

Brandon Gilliland's 18 points paced Floydada in the Claude game. Rod Vela and Tate Glasscock each had six points in the losing effort. Gilliland popped for 23, Vela had 10 and Glasscock scored 6 in the 48-35 victory over Silverton.

Floydada defeated Valley 48-40 in the consolation championship with Gilliland's 21 points leading the way. Glasscock registered 10 points and Israel Medrano contributed 5 points in the finals. The 9th grade boys have shown a great deal of improvement. After having won only a single outing last year, the squad has registered four victories so far this season.

UP FOR TWO — Brandon Gilliland (32) goes high for a scoring attempt in ninth grade action against Dimmitt on January 21. Israel Medrano scored 13 points and Gilliland tallied 12 in the 65-42 loss to the young Bobcats. Staff Photo

Senior Stars of '91

By Becky Porter

Attending FHS all of his life, David Cortinas has become very appreciative toward his school.

When asked, "Is there anything you would like to change about FHS?" He replied, "No, leave it like it is."

David is the son of Robert and Angelita Cortinas. He has two brothers, Robert Jr. and Daniel, and two sisters, Angie Cortinas and Janie Hule.

David is involved in our local DECA Chapter and works at Pizza Gold after school. Last summer he worked with a road construction crew. He played football in the 9th grade.

David attends St. Mary Magdalen Church, and has been involved in CYO, the Catholic youth group.

Some of David's favorites are: "Can't Touch This" by M.C. Hammer, and mystery and science fiction novels.

David hopes to attend college to become a police officer and later down the road he'll get married.

God Bless and Good Luck!

Our second star for this week is the fourth period office aide, Mary de la Fuente. She is the daughter of Antonio and Beatrice de la Fuente. She has three brothers and three sisters. Mary has attended FHS her whole educational career.

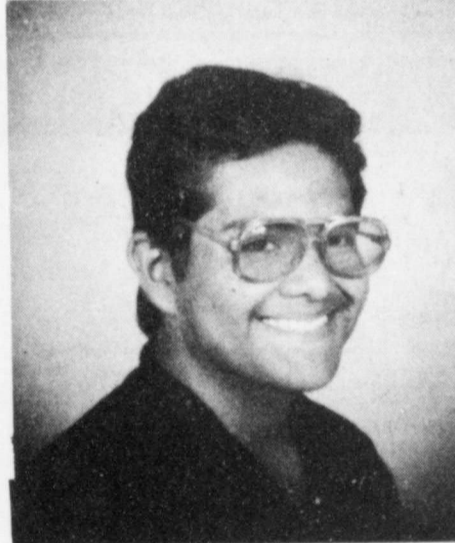

She has been active during high school playing in the "Spirit of the Winds" band. Mary attends Templo Assembly of God where she is active in the youth group.

Mary enjoys talking, playing the clarinet, and Algebra I. Her idea of a great night out is staying home with family or going out with friends.

When asked, "What is one thing you remember about the first grade in school?" Mary replied, "I was afraid of the third graders. I would be scared to go eat breakfast by myself, so the teacher would go with me!" That's all changed now though. As a senior Mary is popular with other students, and isn't shy one bit!

After high school Mary plans to attend Wayland Baptist University in Plainview. She hopes to become a teacher.

Good Luck and God Bless you!

What's going on at R.C. Andrews

Monday, January 28, 1991 will be the first PTA meeting of the new year for the R.C. Andrews PTA. The meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The speaker will be Maria Gamble from the Lubbock Service Center. This is a very important program for parents. The PTA will be sponsoring a workshop at a later time on Life Management Skills for our children. This workshop will be led by Mrs. Gamble. The program on Monday night will be to give parents an insight into this workshop. Other things going on at R.C. Andrews are: The school yearbook is now on sale. The price is $6.00 per copy and the deadline to place orders is Feb. 15.

These will be a cherished keepsake for all students and teachers. The recycling program is going well. If anyone has aluminum cans or paper for recycling they can deposit these items in the dumpsters on the west side of the school grounds. These dumpsters were donated by the City of Floydada and are being used to collect these recyclable items. Paper of any kind except newspaper is being collected. The money made from this project will be used for the students at R.C. Andrews. The computers for classroom program sponsored by Furs, Inc., is going great. Cash register receipts from any Furs store are being collected to purchase computers for R.C. Andrews. These receipts may be left at the office at R.C. Andrews or with any PTA officer. This is a great way to get equipment for our school and everyone in the community can participate. The R.C. Andrews PTA appreciated all the support it has received from the community this year. Debra Jo Fawver, President, says that the people have been great and hopefully through PTA our community and schools can grow and become partners in our education system for our children.

Don't Quit!

When things go wrong as they sometimes will,
 When the road you're trudging seems all uphill,
 When the funds are low and the debts are high,
 And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
 When care is pressing you down a bit,
 Rest, if you must, but don't quit,
 Life is difficult with its twists and turns,
 As everyone of us sometimes learns,
 And many a failure turns about,
 When he might have won if he had stuck it out;
 Don't give up though the pace seems slow,
 You may succeed with another blow.
 Success is failure turned inside out,
 The silver tint in the clouds of doubt,
 And you can never tell how close you are,
 It may be near when it seems so far;
 So stick to the fight when you are hard est hit,
 It's when things seem worse that you MUST NOT QUIT

News and Views From Cedar Hill

News and Views "must go on" but this week it won't be so easy. There is a soreness in your writer's knuckles; they were sharply rapped one day last week, by an unhappy reader who lives in Clovis, NM. It was one of those "domino" things where a blow aimed at one target got bounced around from one entity to another until finally it located yours-truly, then with the precision of a "patriot" missile, it zeroed in and proceeded to whack me soundly.

The whacking reader, in this instance Mary (Fortenberry) Dorris, is an ex-resident of Cedar Hill, a history buff who has a major fix on "the old home community." It so happened, away back in the beginning, that she cut out the very first N&Vs that were written and put them in her Cedar Hill scrap-book; after all this upstart writer would give-out pretty soon, and she would be the proud possessor of a few "class 13" collector's items. Now, a thing repeated a few times becomes a habit, and habits, like tadpoles that turn into frogs, sometimes become an addiction, or an obsession, take your pick. Poor thing, little did she anticipate at that early date, the voluminous proportions that her innocent little scrap-book collection would eventually attain!

Now she, along with a multitude of other subscribers, has fired a missile at the blocking-job done by the poor people who handle the "nut and bolt" assembling of The Floyd County Papers. The Hesperian staff's fragmentation, or, more specifically, the continuing from page to page of the N&V column, greatly multiplies the work that she must do; the searching, scissoring, fitting, paring, and securing needed to shape that rambling N&V column into an attractive scrap-book format.

So now our missile-of-dissatisfaction has been fired by the woman from Clovis, it has become airborne, and, with it's guilt-seeking guidance system now beginning to function, it quickly exonerates the Hesperian staff, veers somewhat in it's search for the true culprit, then, with the tenacity of a bulldog it locks on a undeviating course that places full blame on N&V's author :: this humble writer!

OK! We'll confess! Only once, maybe twice, has N&V arrived on time! The Hesperian staff must go ahead, blocking their material for the paper, and, by the time they get their hands on N&V, a nook here and a corner there is all that is left. It is a wonder any of it gets printed! There was a time when the Hesperian staff took turns punching-up that writer from Cedar Hill, then Rosemary Gonzales became particularly proficient in dealing with problem procrastinators and soon she assumed the role of the organization's official ostracizer. As matters now stand Rosemary has the doubtful distinction, among the paper's personnel, of being this writer's preferred personal persecutor.

These things do gall us, they have become a burr under the blanket, and we are tempted to rise once more, with a will undaunted, and forever slay the dragon called "Delay." Then, after a moment's pause, and we peruse the pathways of the past, we see that they too were trails of torture, literally littered with ruined resolutions, now dead and discarded. Nevertheless we hereby resolve, this one more time, to repent and turn from our wicked ways; the days will be cloudless, deadlines will be welcome, and the eternal streets will be paved with the purest gold.

READER'S COMMENTS

Diamond Bar, CA, Dec. 13: letter, Betty J. (Lemons) Kusserow. "I read your Fortenberry article and enjoyed it very much. Do you have it on floppy disk? If you do, could you send me a copy? It would be easier to make print-outs to send my sisters."

Lockney, Jan. 6, card, Dorsey Baker.

"I located an extra Baker Family History Book. Come by my house and I will loan it to you. The recent items you wrote on The Fortenberry Family; do you have each and all together? If so I would like to buy one copy."

Hereford, Jan. 17, '91, card, Robin Fortenberrys. "Wake up! The old Cedar Hill Clan have been missing the news. We appreciate your writing it, hope you will continue. We got 8 in. snow. Robin about the same health wise. Hope you are in the paper this week!"

Lubbock, Jan. 18, telecall, Joe Earl Wilson, Retired school teacher. "I read a weekly column in my Hesperian written by a Carl Lemons. Are you the Carl who attended Wayland College with me in '36/'37?": Right on, Joe! Howdy!

WEATHER

Yep, it is colder this year! Exactly 7.79 degrees colder for the first week in January if figures can be trusted. This year's high was a chilly 41 degrees compared to last year's toasty 69 on January 8. The coldest for '91, 20 registered on two different days, measures against last year's low of 23.

Moisture in the form of snow, rain, and frozen fog, has been quite varied across the community. Three different people reported the same, "nearly an inch." Here at the Listening Post a conservative .41 was the most we could see.

CROP COMMENTS

WHEAT in the tromped-flat lake-bed near the Listening Post is living a hectic life. Like a boxer it continually bobs and weaves; now you see it, now you don't! On our warmest sunny afternoons the wheat becomes quite visible and you think, "That wheat wasn't that large yesterday." Then another norther blows in, the wheat draws up, and you can't see it anymore.

Our little rains and snows are not adding to the soil's moisture reserves, but they are furnishing all the wheat plants can use during their present stage of dormancy. Roots are growing, reserves are building, five weeks from now and wheat will start it's annual spectacular growth!

CRP news on the radio Tuesday assures interested persons that a new plan, this one called the "ECRP," will be offered to eligible land owners some 30 days hence. The "E" stands for "enlarged." The enlarged version will be less limited to erodable land, will accept a higher quality of cultivated land than the earlier CRP.

CATTLE AND HAY

Wheat, like the marines, is supposed to arrive in the nick of time and save the day, but nevertheless worried cattlemen are watching those hay supplies and speaking in hushed tones. Cattle markets, like all the rest of our economy, are moving cautiously, apparently isolated from the usual wild swings of wartime.

Historically wars are fought and paid for by booty seized and peoples plundered, but Uncle Sam has never indulged in such. It leads one to suspect that a bill is being run up that will surpass the savings and loan fiasco. If it were not for the politicians telling us that the last big losers, the Japanese and the Germans along with the Saudis, were going to reach deep in their pockets and pay for all of today's fireworks we might start preparing ourselves to face a war bill that of course will never, never be presented to the US Taxpayer!

OUR LEANING CEDARS

Today our leaners are few and far between. Imogene Fortenberry has been in Lubbock much of the past ten days helping her sister-in-law, Lottie (Easily) Love care for Eldon Ray Love, Lottie's hospitalized son. Cephus is not well enough to be of much help there, so part of the time he is here, part time there.

THE FROSTBITTEN CEDARS

It is amazing how quiet it is at Cedar! About once a week the deer will send a scout up on the plains to check the wheat fields, then they stay off the caprock and fare another week on shin-oak browse.

Saturday Jan. 26 will be a big day for County Future Farmers and 4H Club members. It will be show day at Floydada, Lockney, and also Silverton. Jan. 19: Charla Yeary took her show lambs to the ovine beauty shop in Floydada last Saturday. Her lambs were joined by all the other candidates for blue ribbons in getting their pre-show trims and manures.

Mandi Yeary will be exhibiting her second year this coming Saturday. After being in the sheep competition last year Mandi has made a switch and will be showing pigs this year.

Both of the Yeary sisters received honorable mention from their exhibits a year ago so great things are hoped for them.

Jan. 19: Another exhibitor from Cedar Hill will be Future Farmer Traca Lemons. She attends school and is a FFA member at Valey school between Quitaque and Turkey. The entries from Valley will be shown in Silverton. The Briscoe show will also be held on Saturday.

POST YARD PERUSALS

Yes, the postman delivered Linda Fay Lemons the ticket mailed to her by the Texas Department of Public Safety. The most fortunate accident in which she could ever hope to be involved had to have at least this one fly in the ointment.

A few minutes after her car laid gently over on it's side as the result of an icy skid south of Quitaque on Friday, Jan. 5, a number of Quitaque men lifted and righted her car and she drove merrily on home. A most fortunate thing, not a dent in the car as a result of the tip-over!

But some passerby informed the Highway Patrol there had been a turn-over and Patrolmen must do their duty. Linda was interviewed by telephone and the ticket, in perfect order, was delivered the following mid-week.

You know the partolman has a point! It would look bad should a superior find there had been a widely publicized turn-over that the trooper-on-the-road knew nothing about. Yes I guess a lot of patrolmen would have written that ticket, but this should definitely be one for negotiation.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS IS ALWAYS UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

Perry announces new staff

The Texas Department of Agriculture is ready to meet the challenges of the 1990s, according to Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

"The staff is now virtually complete and the reorganization of the agency is well under way," Perry said. "Farmers and ranchers now have an outstanding group to serve as their advocates as the 1990s progress."

Perry said he is proud of the wide experience the Texas Department of Agriculture will put at the disposal of the public. For example, our new Deputy Commissioner, Barry McBee, comes to us from the White House. Barry brings with him an overview of world economics that can greatly benefit Texans."

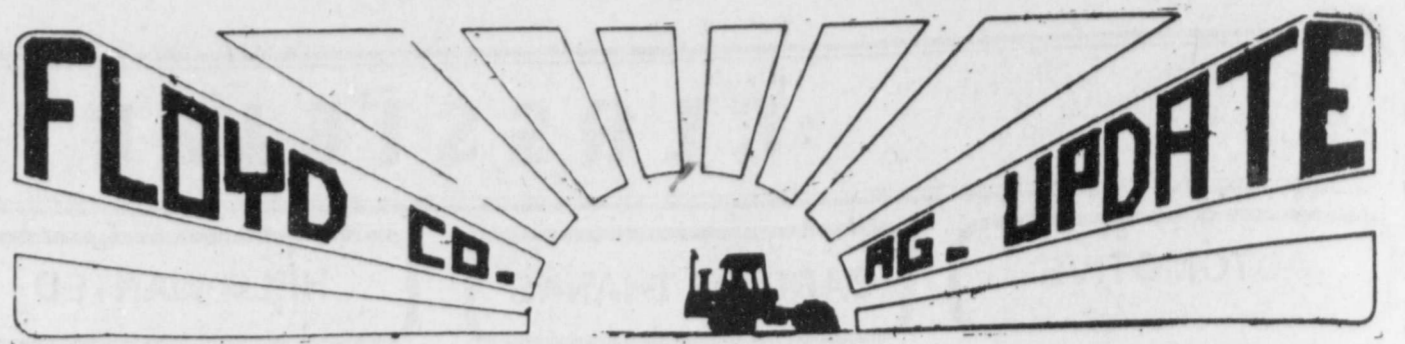

Perry pointed out not all of his new management team are newcomers to the Texas Department of Agriculture. "Alvin Ashorn, who will serve as Assistant Commissioner for Regulatory Affairs, has served the agency for 23 years. He knows farmers and ranchers from all over the state and is familiar with their needs and their problems."

Perry added that Ashorn is just one of many long-time TDA employees who will continue to work for the department.

Perry released a list of the staff management people who will be directing the department. Deputy Commissioner Barry McBee, Associate Deputy Commissioner Ken Luce, Deputy Director of Public Information Katie Dickie, Director of Internal Audit Celia Thompkins, Director for Special Projects Monica Hearn, Director of Information Resources and Research Mariano Camarillo, III, Special Assistant Larry Beauchamp, Assistant Commissioner for Marketing and Development Mark M. Ellison, Assistant Commissioner for Regulatory Affairs Alvin Ashorn, Assistant Commissioner for Intergovernmental Affairs Margaret Spearman.

Since some titles will differ from those used in the past, he advised anyone with questions to call the Texas Department of Agriculture in Austin at 512-463-7446 or their nearest District Office

PCG county meetings set to begin

The annual series of county meetings for the election of directors to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, will get underway in February and continue through March according to PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson. A meeting will be held in each of the 25-member counties, featuring informative programs on the cotton producer organization, its activities and other subjects of interest to the cotton industry.

To avoid conflicts with other activities whenever possible, the responsibility for arranging these meetings is given to the current directors in individual counties. Directors elected in county meetings will be certified by the membership at the PCG annual meeting, after which the Board will convene and elect 1991-92 officers. Current officers include President Larry Nelson of Tulia, Vice President Wayne Huffaker of Tahoka and Secretary-Treasurer Frank Jones of Lamesa. Details are not complete, but the annual meeting has been set for the morning of April 11 in conjunction with the opening of the Texas Cotton Ginners Association Convention and Trade Show. The TCGA convention will run through April 13.

By attending these meetings, expressing their views and taking part in selection of their representatives to the Board, Johnson says, cotton people can help assure that future PCG actions and policies will reflect the true needs and desires of cotton people in the High Plains area. An active Board of Directors that will devote the time and effort to adequately and accurately represent the majority view of the people is the key to PCG's success in meeting membership needs, he continues. Current directors and PCG staff members will be on hand at county meetings to discuss legislative and administrative issues that affect millions of dollars in producer income every year, Johnson reminds in urging attendance.

Each of the counties in PCG's area is represented by two directors, one a businessman and the other a cotton producer, elected for two-year terms on alternate years. Producer directors are being elected in 1991, excepting in Hale and Swisher Counties. All producers and agribusinessmen are invited to election meetings, but under PCG By-Laws only current dues-paying PCG members will be eligible to vote in elections or be elected a director.

Directors now serving Floyd County are Dan B. Smith of Lockney, Producer Director and Steve Lloyd of Floydada, Businessman Director. The office of Producer Director will be open for election this year. The date for the election will be announced at a later date.

Information on the time and place for each meeting is announced in advance by news release, and is otherwise available from the PCG office in Lubbock, telephone 792-4904.

Food supply is continually monitored

Responsible farming is an important part—but not the only part—of a comprehensive food safety system. Our federal and state governments work together with farmers to make sure the food we eat is safe and wholesome.

At the federal level, the Environmental Protection Agency—the EPA—determines the safety of farm chemicals, including how they can be used and in what amounts. On average, a chemical is studied and tested for nine years before its approval. Periodically, the EPA retests pesticides, making sure they meet the agency's newer and tougher standards. But permissible use levels are always set at levels 100 to 1,000 times lower than those that would be harmful to human health.

The Food and Drug Administration, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and state regulatory agencies continually monitor our food supply. The tens of thousands of food samples they take annually show that 99 percent of our food products meet or exceed government health standards. Those that don't can be recalled, and the violators can be prosecuted.

Farmers run tests, too. Many pay private labs to test for chemical residues in the food they produce. If problems exist, farmers can take immediate steps to correct the situation.

Even though it's an effective system that many experts think is the best in the world, our government is constantly upgrading its testing and sampling procedures.

Farmers support efforts to keep our food safe, including continued scientific investigation by government agencies. If certain chemicals pose unacceptable risks, then they should be removed. Farmers believe that they use chemicals properly, and they support constructive steps to ensure that these practices continue. They also support the strict enforcement of chemical use regulations and continued research to develop newer, safer products.

Farmers believe that people have every right and even an obligation to learn more about food safety, nutrition and good health practices. Farmers want to be part of that education process. They're working to help the public better understand who they are and what they do. And they want to better understand the public's concerns.

The 1990s will be a decade of decision for the public, farmers, and policy makers alike. There are conflicting views on food safety issues, such as pesticide residues. Some steps may be taken to improve an already strong system.

In the meantime, health and science experts such as the Surgeon General, the American Cancer Society, the National Academy of Sciences, and the federal government tell us that tiny traces of pesticide residues aren't a significant threat to our health. In fact, these authorities urge us to continue eating a balanced diet that includes plenty of produce.

Clearly, eliminating all chemical use is not the answer to improving our food safety system. Advancements in agricultural science have made things better—not worse. Our food now is better, safer, and more abundant than ever.

However, the future is equally promising. Scientists are developing plants that need fewer chemicals to grow and that will be pest and disease-resistant. Manufacturers are developing safer pesticides that kill only the targeted pests, and then degrade safely. And farmers will continue working with researchers to improve pest control techniques that use as few chemicals as possible.

One thing's for sure. The world will need more food—not less—in the future. Each week, another two million mouths need to be fed. Agricultural science will continue helping us feed those at home and abroad.

Farmers will continue supplying consumers with safe and abundance amounts of food. They will keep working hard to make our food safety system even better. Most importantly, they are dedicated to addressing consumer concerns about farming because consumers are very important to farmers
