Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

Big things are going on in Austin, and knowing of local folks' deep and abiding interest about goings-on in their state capitol, we thought we would bring you up to date.

As has been previously reported, Governor Ann has appointed Ms. Lena Guerrero, a 33-year-old state Representative from the 51st District here, to help run the Texas Railroad Commission. It had been previously, and erroneously, assumed that his was a job for a person of some experience, but never mind. Anyhow, that opened up the legislative seat, and thirteen people jumped in the race. The District includes the Southeast quadrant of Travis County, beginning in the heart of Austin and running southeast from there. It is the most liberal District in Travis County, which in itself is a liberal stronghold.

Among those running was one Libertarian, probably the best of the lot, one lonesome Republican (he is a University professor and a former Ambassador to an obscure place in Africa) whom even some Republicans didn't vote for, a number of Hispanics, male and female, of various qualifications, and the statewide director of the Gay/Lesbian Caucus, a person named Maxey. He is Anglo.

Mr. Maxey is also director of the Travis County Gay/Lesbian Caucus, a fact of which he is very proud, and which he advertised prominently on his campaign literature, which was passed out door to door. He is also obviously proud of his past political endeavors. He was statewide Field Director for former Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower's campaign in 1982, which normally means he helped select and direct the work of field workers for Hightower. And he was the statewide "special projects" director of Lloyd Doggett's Senate campaign effort in 1984, when Doggett ran against Phil Gramm, and lost. But what he is really proud of is the fact that Ann Richards made him her Travis County coordinator during the last election, and they carried the county hands down. He received a lot of credit for the win in certain circles, and rightly so. In short, Mr. Maxey has become something of a fixture for certain liberal Democratic candidates. When he endorses and works for a candidate, a signal goes out to the Gay/Lesbian community statewide and nationwide. It can be very important, politically and financially.

The Libertarian ran last. He campaigned against any new taxes. Mr. Maxey led the ticket, with about 25 percent of the vote. There was a tie for second place, with Ms. "Lulu" Flores and David Rodriguez each getting 1,170 votes. They are both lawyers. A recount gave the second place spot to Rodriguez by five or six votes.

But Mr. Maxey is learning one of the first lessons of politics. Ingratitude. During the campaign Maxey made much of his closeness to Ms. Richards, displaying photos of the two during earlier times, but she hasn't returned the favor. She's remained very quiet. He may be feeling he's been used, if we can use the word.

The reasons are interesting. While the District is about 40 percent minority, it has been represented in the Legislature by a Hispanic for many years under some sort of "gentlemen's agreement" between liberals and the minority community enforced, in a way, by the local daily newspaper. The newspaper, owned by a huge media conglomerate in Atlanta, has an editorial board made up of one liberal black woman, one liberal Hispanic (Jessie Trevino, who also writes for the Lubbock A-J) and one liberal white, or Anglo. They endorsed Ms. Flores the first go-round, but have not given us their preference for the runoff.

The minority community wants to

Council rejects SPS $2 million buyout proposal

By Gary Brown

The Floydada City Council met in a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 18. The council took action on five items of business.

Southwestern Public Service (SPS) representatives presented a buyout proposal to the council. SPS expressed their interest and views on purchasing the electrical system currently owned by the citizens of Floydada.

After hearing from SPS the council went into executive session to further consider the proposal. After lengthy discussion of the pros and cons of the offer and each council member expressing their views, the executive session was closed.

The council went back into regular session to complete action on the agenda items. By a unanimous vote the council voted to reject the $2,000,000.00 offer from SPS.

An updated employee handbook was then reviewed and approved by the council. This handbook will be presented to city employees and implemented in the near future.

The advertising for sell of surplus vehicles was then approved by the council. These vehicles may be inspected at city hall.

The passing of two resolutions was the final action taken. The first resolution was to accept the water improvements as completed and authorized final payment to the contractor. The second resolution passed stated that the city will not levy a tax on personal property unless changed at some future date.

Being no further business to come before the council, the meeting was adjourned.

Those in attendance were: Mayor Wayne Russell, Council members Leroy Burns, Wayne Tipton, Ruben Barrientos, Amado Morales and Eric Cornelius, City Manager Gary Brown, City

Everyone is asked to bring your photos to the chamber office, 105 W. California, before Feb. 22.

Secretary Jimmie Lou Stewart, SPS representatives Randy Duke, Dave Krupnick and Tiffin Wortham and City employees Connie Galloway and Sharon Quisenberry.

Lions take over airwaves

By Alice Gilroy

Floydada Lions will be back on the airwaves February 23. Floyd County's own KKAP will turn over their controls to the capable and confused hands of the local Lions Club.

All proceeds raised from the sale of advertising will go to various charitable organizations supported by the Lions Club. The organizations include: the Lions Crippled Children's Camp, Eyeglasses for Needy Children, Local Scouting Programs, Local Youth Activities, Lions Diabetes Camp, Wheelchair Ramps and the Lions Eye Bank.

Merchants who have bought the radio advertising will be getting quite a bargain. For $20.00 they are guaranteed three thirty second spots. However, anyone who has ever listened to the antics of the roaring broadcasters know that it almost always takes much longer than 30 seconds to get through one advertisement.

A variety of music will be played throughout the day— whatever you want to hear (if the Lions can find it) and

Public invited to name this year's Pioneer Reunion

Floyd County residents are invited to name the Pioneer Reunion to be held the final weekend in May this year.

By The Way

By Alice Gilroy

There will be big goings on this Saturday. Mark your calendar!

Saturday morning will start off with the annual entertaining Lions Club Radio Days.

This is my personal favorite charity function that the Lions Club is involved in. I always have a lot of fun participating and I also enjoy listening to them.

Every year, the Lions take over Floyd County's KKAP Radio station. The owner of the station, Bob Alldredge, always donates the air space and all the money raised, by the Lions, from advertising, goes to different charitable causes.

Anyway—they are fun to listen to, mainly because they are not pros. It's kinda of like having them sitting in your living room all day visiting with you. OH OH—Well listen anyway.

Saturday evening is the chamber's banquet. General Dempsey (who is a Floydada graduate) will be the guest speaker. Patriotism is the theme of the banquet. I am looking forward to this.

You can buy tickets to it right up until Friday. Come Out And Show How Patriotic You Are!

Neta Marble and I want to thank everyone who helps us out at the Lockney Beacon.

We know we have weird hours there. If it wasn't for the help we get from the community we would be in trouble.

We just can't afford someone to be in the office everyday, or to cover all the events.

People like Peggy Hallmark have helped us out too many times to remember. When we can't be at a school function, we can always count on her. We sure couldn't afford to pay her if she asked for it!

We have other people, (like James and Carol Huggins) who never bat a eye when we hand them a camera and say—"Here, you do it!"

With only one person in the office, we get lots of complaints when we are not there. We really do understand people's frustrations. We get frustrated too.

If we are out on an assignment, we get in trouble because we are not in the office.

If we are in the office, we get in trouble, because we aren't covering a story.

We are really working—ALL THE TIME!

Neta is not there on Tuesday and Wednesdays because she is in Floydada, putting together the Lockney Beacon and making up the ads for both newspapers—in time for the Wednesday afternoon printing deadline.

With the hours we work it is hard for us to understand why some people think we aren't doing anything.

But like I said—we understand your frustration.

If we could add a little humor to your frustration, I would like to print our hours at the Lockney Beacon (and sometimes the Hesperian).

OFFICE HOURS

Some days or afternoons, We aren't here at all, And lately, I've been here Just about all the time

Letter to The Editor

Dear Alice,

To date, our Red Cross Chapter has trained 20 volunteers for "service to military families", eight folks have volunteered their time on an "as needed" basis, we have participated in two local family support programs, and have been presented with a $120.60 donation from the Lockney 4-H Club. This wonderful response makes me proud to be a representative of Floyd County.

If you know of a military family in need or of anyone wishing to donate their time or funds, please contact me at the below listed phone or address. Your support is greatly appreciated.

Booklet available for making a will

The Salvation Army is offering a free booklet to assist the seven-out-of-eight people who have not prepared a will.

With this booklet, the Salvation Army is offering information to help control the distribution of an estate to family, friends and charitable organizations. With an up-to-date will, an estate is distributed by one's own wishes rather than legal formulas.

Some think only wealthy people need a will, or that drawing a will is too expensive or complicated. The Salvation Army wants people to know that, without a will, the state will determine the disposition of assets, the welfare of each day.

Marine Lance Corporal Adolfo Garcia Jr. left for Saudi Arabia with the First Marine Division in August, 1990.

Adolfo, the son of Adolfo and Irma Garcia, born and raised in Floydada, graduated from Floydada High School in the spring of 1985.

Garcia has a sister, Mita, 25, of Floydada and younger twin brothers, Ray and Roy, 18, who attend the Phoenix Institute of Technology in Phoenix, Ariz.

Garcia enlisted for six years in 1988, after attending West Texas State University for one semester. After being stationed at Camp Pendleton, California, he left for Saudi Arabia.

"Adolfo is very proud to be an American and a Marine," Adolfo Garcia Sr. said.

"The holidays were real hard on the family," his sister Mita said. "It was especially hard at New Year's."

Along with spending the holidays there, Garcia celebrated his 24th birthday in November in Saudi Arabia.

"The family had always been close and we rely on each other to get through this tough time. We have talked to him about three or four times, the last being Jan. 22, 1991," Irma said.

The Garcia's received a letter around the second week in February dated Jan. 15. Irma tries to write at least every other day.

"The mail is slow. I don't know if he gets the letters and packages, but I just keep sending them," Irma said.

Secrecy keeps the Garcia family from knowing where he is and what he is doing, yet he is fine they feel assured.

"He can't tell us much," his father said.

In the January 21, 1991 issue of Newsweek is a picture of Adolfo. His mother believes he is in the background of a picture of the soldiers in the Middle East.

"We are very proud of him, but we want him home safe. We are waiting," Adolfo Garcia Sr. said.

BOOK ON Q A & P

A book on the history of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific Railway and the counties and towns through which it ran has been published. It has over 50 pictures. The book was written by Charles C. Britton, son of O.L. Britton, station agent at Dougherty and Roaring Springs.

It can be ordered from Joed Books, Box 1322, Fort Collins, Co., 80522. The cost is $12.95

Fourth graders accept 'TV Free' challenge

The 4th grade class of Ruth Crump recently took on the big challenge of no TV for one week.

As part of a weekly home reading assignment, students recently read a story called, "The Week Mom unplugged the T.V.'s."

According to Mrs. Crump, "The boy in the story was grounded from T.V. for a week. In that time he learned there were a lot of other things he could do.

"So, I issued a challenge to 89 students to spend a T.V. free week. 62 students tried and 44 students succeeded."

Students and their parents were required to sign a contract stating they understood the rules of the challenge. The rules were:

- (1) No T.V. from 7 p.m. Monday, February 4, to Friday, 7:00 p.m., February 8.
- (2) No more than 1 hour of Nintendo

- a day.
- (3) No movies or videos
- (4) Students were required to keep a diary each day telling what they did and how they felt about being T.V. free.
- (5) Parents had to sign each diary entry to verify that the student had not watched T.V.

"I wanted my students to see that they did not need to be dependent on television for their entertainment," said Mrs. Crump.

"I also wanted them to have that sense of accomplishment which comes from successfully doing something that is hard.

Mrs. Crump stated that the T.V. free diaries made for some interesting reading. "Some of the students who were really worried that they would not be able to complete the challenge wrote that they found so many other things to do that they never missed T.V.," said Crump.

"Some students wrote that they spent a lot more time reading than they usually did. One girl wrote that she visited the county library for the first time.

"Other popular activities were helping out in the kitchen, working puzzles and even cleaning up rooms. With the stock shows, piano lessons, gymnastics, scout meetings and basketball games, I can't see how some of my students ever have time for television."

FAMILY PARTICIPATION
Many of Crump's students reported that their families joined in with them in the challenge. "I had parents stop me in the grocery store to tell me how much fun their families were having just doing things together," said Crump.

"The students for whom the challenge to stay T.V. free was the hardest were those whose families kept right on watching television. These boys and girls spent a lot of time in their bedrooms or outside. As a group, it was these children who wrote that they could not wait for the challenge to be over.

"On the other hand, many students extended their T.V. free time voluntarily."

STUDENTS CHALLENGING ADULTS
According to Crump, the 4th graders really caught the spirit of the challenge. Other school personnel, including Principal Ellen Enriquez, were also challenged to be T.V. free.

One class even challenged Mrs. Crump to stay caffeine free for the duration.

keep it the way it is. But now the Gay/Lesbian bunch is jumping ship, in favor of Maxey. The white liberal camp is split, some going with Maxey and some supporting Rodriguez, to maintain the status quo, (ethnically speaking) all the while professing their undying support for the idea that Mr. Maxey's sexual habits should have no bearing on the race. Ms. Richards, who has support in all three groups, finds herself in a quandry. Should she return past favors and pass the word for Maxey? After all, Mr. Maxey has been endorsed by the Central Austin Democrats, the Austin Women's Political Caucus, the Austin Lesbian/Gay Political Caucus, University Democrats, and the Austin Progressive Coalition.

Or should she support Rodriguez, thereby making the Hispanic community happy and the homosexual community unhappy. As of this reading she has kept her distance.

What a few conservatives there are around Austin are watching with amusement and limited interest. We'll do the same, and keep you posted, after a fashion.

WEATHER

Wasn't it wonderful while it lasted? Three whole weeks of springtime that mother nature dished up for us just as the calendar eased into mid-winter! While Florida shivered and trembled fearing for her crops of lettuce and leeks, also her celery and citrus, we on the Texas high plains were basking in a warmth perhaps hardly equal to the famed Winter Garden area of the lower Rio Grande, still we were happy with it.

On Thursday, Feb. 21, as you read this column you are less than two weeks away from seeing blossoms on your apricot trees if 1991 follows the pattern of 1990; we need a temperature drop back to near the zero mark, and we need it as soon as possible, if fruit bloom is to be held back enough to assure a fruit-set this spring.

By far the most beneficial result from this suggested blast of zero temperature would be in the reduction, possibly complete elimination of our harmful insects during the '91 crop year. Early plowing in the fall coupled with record breaking sub-zero cold during the Christmas thru New Years first days of winter had already killed great numbers of our enemy bugs.

This recent warm spell has fooled the wheat and it has rushed into making abnormal growth; some of the surviving insects, in like manner, have responded to the warmth and developed past their point of no return. Given the existing conditions, nothing could do those insects greater damage than a late winter return to extreme cold.

I know it would be unpleasant to many, in fact downright onerous, but let us temporarily sacrifice our personal inclinations to the welfare of the masses and let each one individually order 36 continuous hours, 36 hours will do the job, of zero cold with a liberal mix of snow; DASAP, deliver as soon as possible! Yes, that's tough, very tough, but it is for the fruit and to control the insects.

As soon as the weather man has finished that delivery, just go right ahead and moth-ball your thermal underwear.

CROP COMMENTS

WHEAT has doubled in size since the writing a week ago. Late seeded wheat near the Listening Post was small but visible as far as the eye could follow the drill furrows. Now, a week later, the furrow is virtually filled with wheat and cattle are finding time to lie down and rest as well as graze.

The larger wheat has leaves touching across the drill ridges and those fields will soon appear to be solid carpets of green.

Farm newsboys are reporting that wheat in the upper Texas Panhandle is being damaged by an infest of army cutworms. An occasional field along Hwy. 207, the Silverton Highway, is showing an ominous browning, not in circles like the damage done by green bugs, so it is feared the cutworm is already among us. Tough customers, those cutworms; they work beneath the soil's surface so they, like the boll worm, are most difficult to control using direct sprays.

Lee William Burton, a home grown wheat specialist from "the end of the Fairview road," was quick to point out that current wheat prices allowed the farmer no economic margin with which to battle bugs. Lee William is also concerned that our wheat, with all its tender new growth, may fall victim to winter kill if nature comes through with her usual end-of-winter blizzard.

Definitely in line with Lee William's logic, perhaps even a bit more pessimistic, was the radio comment last Friday noon by Bill Helming, president of the Helming Group, whose daily crop advice is quoted by most of the nation's farm targeted radio stations. Helming's advice to wheat traders on the Kansas City Board of Trade and The Chicago Mercantile Exchange traders was, "Should wheat prices advance as much as 20 cents per bushel, I would be an eager seller!" Oh, boy!

CATTLE AND HAY: With abundant pasture in prospect it is time to review once more the twin dangers of cattle bloat and wheat poisoning with which the cattleman must deal each time his cattle's diet is switched from dry winter hay to the moist succulence of rapidly growing crops. Perhaps it is best to check with your veterinarian or favorite feed store to find what is the latest "cure-all" or "medical miracle" that will reduce your losses to zero. Already an occasional animal carcass is to be seen beside some country road where it awaits the arrival of the proverbial dead cow boy with his winch equipped removal truck.

Some cattle owners found their hay situation becoming extremely tight thirty days ago and when low quality hay was offered they bought. That seemed the only way out. The cattle didn't like it in the first place and ate it with great reluctance. Now the wheat, which the cattle love dearly, is furnishing them a fair living so they are completely refusing the newly purchased hay.

Your writer stuck his foot in that same trap maybe 30 years ago, stacked a few tons of "so so" hay in his barn. That hay had to be used in hen's nests and for sow beds at farrowing time; took maybe 15 years to use it up.

There is a lesson to be learned here! Feed the lower quality rations when the cattle are eager for anything, but save back a few bales of your finest hay to put out when cattle first go on wheat pasture. Cattle will keep eating the excellent hay along with the new wheat, maintain a better balanced diet, and that will be a great help in checking losses due to wheat poisoning.

GARDENERS keep your eyes peeled! You may be able to get some excellent hay for mulch at a reasonable cost. Go "no till" and with a six inch layer of mulch on the ground your soil's fertility will build at a fantastic rate and less than one half as much water will be needed.

THE LEANING CEDARS

My, it's a healthy bunch here at Cedar! To find people qualified to be called ailing we have to step across community lines to Lee Burton's place at the SW corner of the old Fairview School grounds.

Lee William is recuperating at his home from double by-pass heart surgery which he underwent in mid-January. It was a mistake that this affliction came upon him for since childhood his has been an exemplary life. Having never indulged in the use of tobacco, nor in alcoholic beverages, and having always been of a skinny build, Lee William would have been one of the last people in whom you would expect to find a heart abnormality.

Perhaps it was a congenital thing he had lived with forever, but was brought to the surface by the ageing process. Once his surgeons had finished their job, Lee William's clean living really paid off; his recovery has been silky smooth and unusually fast. With that besetting affliction behind him, we may see a different Lee William in time to

A son, Jim Clevenger died in 1984. Survivors include her husband, Ervin of Muleshoe; two sons, Curtis Clevenger of Floydada and Connie Clevenger of Aztec, N.M.; a daughter, Judy Moore of Muleshoe; a sister, Artie Pierce of Bula; a brother, Leslie Kerby of Littlefield; eight grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

MARJORIE TYER
Funeral services for Marjorie Helen Tyer, 83, of Snyder were at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 16, in the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Wylie "Buff" Hearn, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Snyder Cemetery by Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Tyer died Wednesday, Feb. 13, 1991, in Cogdell Memorial Hospital following an illness.

come; weighing in at maybe a plump 185 pounds.

Caroline Burton, Lee William's daughter who once canvassed Cedar Hill on a regular basis as a representative of Avon products, has long dealt with diabetes and its attendant visual problems. During the time of Lee's being incapacitated Caroline has stayed at a home in Wolfforth.

Maybe the reason Cedar Hill has been largely illness free of late is because we were hit so hard in early 1990. Peat Kelley had serious pulmonary trouble most of January. Edna Gilly had knee surgery in January, was down most of February. Charlene Langley was in St. Mary's in late February. February saw Evelyn Winn in the hospital over two weeks.

MY BEAR STORY

Jan. 19: Norma Welch got a surprise visit from four of her Deaf Smith County cousins on Saturday morning. Making the trip back to Floyd County were Mary (Fortenberry) Dorris, Alta Mae (F) Higgins, Ruth (Gill) Fortenberry, and Annie Kate (F) Bradley. It was a wonderful visit; they got to see their Aunt Peat, excellent meal, good conversation, family movie tapes viewed on the VCR, so they tell me, I only have a hazy recollection.

The item above was omitted at the time it should have been written due to a mental lapse on the part of your writer. Men with "Doctors Degrees" refer to such blouts as "psychological rejection"; the human mind, when under stress, sometimes refuses to acknowledge or accept facts; it goes blank, tells you nothing happened.

Your writer had just experienced a major by-pass, he had by-passed his razor four weeks in a row, when the call came inviting him to this cousinly communion. The last clearing of facial underbrush of that dimension had taken two full hours and my poor razor wound up permanently damaged.

"Can't come!" was the quick answer, the logical answer.

"Aw, come on," the wheedling began. "We don't care what you look like, we just want you there." So I went, looking like a bear, feeling mean, like a bear.

On the way over the thought came, "If I am to look like a bear, why not act like a bear" so I burst through the door with a bear-hug and a brushy kiss for all the aunts and cousins within arms reach.

There were screams and squeals aplenty until they made certain I was not a real bear! Understand most of the previous is based on what I have been told, and on logical reconstruction of what must have happened. I was under the severe stress of whisker induced embarrassment that day and memories are not at all clear.

Feb. 11: Your writer has a different razor now; oh how wonderfully well it works. Yes, there is a story involved.

MY RAZOR STORY

Feb. 11: Monday was "commodity day," I had read it in the paper, so I looped through Lockney where I had been signed up but nobody was there. It seemed that I had picked the wrong Monday, got there a week, maybe two weeks too early. I had bills to pay in Floydada and a damaged razor in my pocket that needed repair. In Floydada I paid my Lighthouse Electric. bill then headed west on Hwy. 70. Just west of Davis Farm Supply a flashing red light and a siren's grunt suggested that some city official wished to converse with me.

After affixing my driver's license to his clip-board Officer Snell busied himself filling in all the blank lines on one of his forms. While he did that I put my hand in my pocket, a little nervous maybe, and I felt that bum razor.

When he handed me his clip board and a pencil for my signature, I handed him my razor for his inspection.

After we traded back he gave the opinion that I should throw my razor away and get something more modern. I had to explain that people had been giving me new razor blades forever and my supply would last through the year 2005.

"You know," says he, "My Grand daddy must have had a half dozen razors just like that when he passed away. I'll leave one for you with the Municipal Judge." Now wasn't that nice?

Thirty minutes later, as I stepped outside the grocery store, I was surprised to see Officer Snell pulling away from my pickup. He waved and called, "I left you another razor on your dash!"

I'll bet that was his granddad's best razor; it shaves like a million, well maybe 200 times better than the old one. It figures out at that rate.

Flowers bloom in the desert, towns get excellent officers, and every cloud has a silver lining if you examine it really closely.

Feb. 15: If Presidents birthdays can be kicked all over the calendar, then Edna Gilly's can too. All of Edna's clan, save their two law enforcement officers, Johnny Harrison and his daughter Cassandra, gathered Friday evening in Plainview's Golden Griddle to usher

Edna into that blissful status where she can legally be called "A Senior Citizen." Edna's actual birthdate was not until Sunday, February 17th but who wants to crowd those Presidents.

Feb. 17: Junior and Martha Taylor got home Sunday "too late to see the cattle and farms," from a trip to Cajun country. Leaving home Thursday, they picked up their daughter, Shelia Joiner, in Irving and on Friday drove on to visit with Martha's sister Jim and Dorcas Flores in Shreveport, Louisiana.

Feb. 17: Seems that this was the week of the Grand Tours and Cephus and Imogene Fortenberry also returned home Sunday evening from a visit with relatives to the north. Cephus' brother Fred was in Amarillo in the Veteran's hospital. Fred had fallen at the Clarendon Post Office and cracked a hip bone in early January. He was practically mended Sunday and probably is back in Clarendon now. In Dumas they visited with their daughter Melba Jean and her family. Found Melba swamped in her income tax work. In Hereford they found brother Robin having one of his better days. His emphysema was in near remission that day.

At 12:00 noon, Thursday the 14th, Betty Joe Johnson, 24 of Floydada, was arrested by police for outstanding traffic warrants.

Saturday, February 16, at 5:00 p.m., police received a report of a theft of a cassette tape from a pickup on February 13. This investigation led to the arrest of Darell Cooper, 18, of Floydada. He was charged in city court and paid a fine of $27.50.

A criminal mischief at the junior high was reported to police Tuesday, February 19. According to police, a window was knocked out of a bus parked at the south end of the football field. The damage is estimated at $700.00.

Also on the morning of the 19th, Babes Service Center on East Missouri, was reported burglarized. At this time the police do not have list of items missing. "The only thing we have reported missing at this time is a pistol," said Snell.

By Jo Bryant

Hi, once again from the residents, staff and all. Do hope that this finds you well and happy.

Monday started the week as usual, we had morning coffee and juice break. At 10:30 Bro. Bill Wright came and gave the devotional and Irene Wexler played the piano for us. We always appreciate him and Irene. At 2 p.m. the residents painted a red ceramic heart.

Tuesday, the residents had arts and crafts and finished on their valentines for their room and to give to their family. We want to thank the children from Duncan Elementary School for the lovely hearts which they made for the residents, I know it took a lot of time to glue all the hearts on the large card.

Wednesday was Bingo as usual, Henry Willis had the first Bingo. Bananas, marshmallows and cheese crackers were the treat. In the morning the residents had exercise to music and had a sing-a-long.

Thursday was the day for the Valentine party. A lot of residents received lovely cards, flowers and candy. Lennie Willis was selected Queen and Knox Jameson was elected King. They were voted by the other residents, family and friends. We want to thank all who contributed to the ceramic fund. We received $36.00 that will purchase one month's ceramics and paint.

The King and Queen were presented a ribbon, gold crown, long stem red carnation and a box of heart chocolate candy. Hesperian came and took the pictures for us. We appreciate you too for taking the time to come and do the photos. Ruth McIntosh played "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" on the piano, as they paraded around in the lobby for all to see. Ladies from the Companions 'n' Caring treated the residents to ice cream, cookies and candy.

Also Selma Ortiz made beautiful heart pins, with a tiny rosebud on them for all the residents. Jo Bryant took pictures of all our couple residents: Ruth and Weldon Hammonds, 44 years; Ruth and Ernest Smitherman, 61 years; Bob and Dollie Jameson, Leona and Lloyd McCray, Billie and Walter Hanna, Pat and Mary Lou Bullock. Penny Giesecke Muncy also played the piano for us as we sang some songs.

Friday, Al Benson came and gave the devotional on the "Resurrection and Life." Evelyn Latta played the piano for us. The residents took a bus ride to Plainview, where they were treated to some ice cream from McDonalds. Those going on the bus ride were: Henry Willis, Nettie Adams Billy Probasco, Charles Breeding, Knox Jameson, Brooks Calloway, Peggy Young.

We welcome a new resident, Opal

* Senior Stars of '91 *

By Becky Porter

Being successful in today's world takes hardwork, determination, and lots of talent. Deep inside each of us there are talents left untouched.

Our two seniors for this week have lived with hard work and struggle to make a name for themselves at Floydada High.

Kenneth Collins and Trish Pernell have excelled in athletics and in academics.

Trish Pernell is the daughter of Rick and Donna Pernell. She was born on May 14, 1973 and has one brother, Chad.

As a resident at Dougherty, Trish transferred to Floydada schools seven years ago.

Trish's success as an athletic started in the seventh grade with basketball and track. She competed in many events in track her seventh and eighth grade years, and played as center on 1st string basketball both years.

During Trish's freshman year she ran varsity cross country and became a state qualifier. Trish has also competed in varsity basketball all four years of high school.

Trish was elected cheerleader her seventh grade year and became head cheerleader her eighth grade year. During 9th grade Trish was elected to a tough cheering squad. That year there was only one squad which meant only one freshman would be elected. Trish was the chosen one. She has served on one JV cheering squad and three varsity cheering squads, which made her eligible for head cheerleader this year.

Trish was also elected freshman, sophomore and junior class favorite.

When asked, "What is the best that FHS has offered you?" She responded, "Everyone knows each other and it's a real friendly place!"

After high school Trish plans to attend either San Angelo or Texas Tech to major in psychology.

Kenneth "KC" Collins was born January 9, 1972. He is the son of Tommy Lee and Carrie Collins. He has 12 brothers and sisters. He has attended Floydada schools for nine years.

Kenneth has kept himself busy and healthy while excelling in athletics.

To start out Kenneth made the varsity football and basketball teams his freshman year. He has made a name for himself not only in Floydada, but all over the South Plains. He was named most valuable player of District and All District basketball teams, and All District, all South Plains, All Regional and State Honor Team in football.

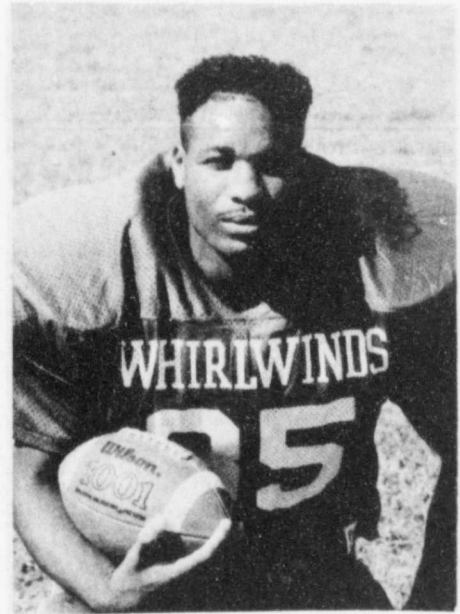

When asked, "What is your biggest fear?" Kenneth responded, "I don't know if I'll like what I do for the rest of my life."

I'm not sure about happiness, but I'm sure Kenneth will be quite successful.

After high school Kenneth plans to attend college on a football scholarship. Good luck and God Bless you both!

One exception was made in the T.V. free challenge, however. The students had permission to watch any important news in connection with the war in the Gulf. "A few did so," said Crump. "Some watched with their backs to the TV." Mrs. Crump said she allowed this because she felt it is important to stay informed.

"I am very proud of these boys and girls," said Crump. "They accomplished something that is extremely difficult. If you don't believe it, then my students challenge YOU to stay T.V. free for a while!"

Crowd enjoys basketball madness

By Bill Gray

Classic basketball it was not! But, for the more than 800 fans jammed into Graves Gymnasium on February 15 for the faculty-student games, it was good, clean entertainment at its best.

Both faculty squads won the battle of the scoreboard, but the real winner was the R.C. Andrews P.T.A., sponsor of the fundraising affair. The last time a crowd of that magnitude filled the junior high gym was for last fall's all-city pep rallies honoring the Whirlwind footballers.

With Duncan Elementary principal Bobbie Weir and Amy Smith leading the way, the women's faculty easily handled the girls, 43-20. But, the Kenneth Collins-coached girls' squad had its moments. Monica Wickware was high scorer for the girls, and showed a lot of ball-handling skills. Monica was also deadly at the free throw line.

The girls had plenty of opportunity to display their free throw ability late in the game when the faculty team was assessed SIX consecutive technical fouls.

... all in fun, of course. The calls were the result of the faculty team carrying referee B.K. Bates off the court for a short time. (Even announcer Clar Schacht and this reporter were assessed technicals for various reasons).

Extracurricular activities were held to a minimum during the boys-men's faculty game, which saw both teams intent on winning the contest. However, some of the antics offered are usually associated with a Harlem Globetrotter appearance.

Coaches Mike Cocanougher and Rex Holcomb held a slight edge in controlling the boards over Michael Henderson, Jammie Davis and Michael Aleman, but the youngsters kept the game close until the final buzzer. Jim Burleson and Kyle Clark made a good backcourt duo, but were hard pressed by Whirlwind regulars Jaime Suarez, Billy Villarreal and Kenneth Collins.

Collins' 360 degree lay-up attempt late in the game was reminiscent of the "Trotters' all-time great, Meadowlark Lemmon. The acrobatic move was a real crowd pleaser! Coach Cocanougher exhibited some of his shooting prowess with long 3-pointers, which helped the faculty keep the upper hand.

With only seconds remaining, and the score deadlocked at 41, Coach Holcomb broke into the clear for a long Cocacougher pass. Holcomb converted the easy lay-up to pull out the game for the faculty, 43-41. The clock ran out as a long attempt by Jaime Suarez fell short.

Except for a few bumps and bruises (and sore muscles on the folks from the faculty and staff), everyone came out healthy. Injuries and fatigue were kept to a minimum by the alert "trainers" who rushed to the court on numerous occasions to administer oxygen and first aid. It was a very successful night for the Andrews P.T.A. All attending — and playing — had a GREAT time.

Referendum on amendment scheduled

Both producers and importers are wondering what effects the proposed amendment to the Research and Promotion Act of 1966 will have on them. The amendment, attached to the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 would eliminate the refund provision and allow imported cotton and the cotton equivalent of imported textiles to be assessed. Producers involved with Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. are no exception.

"We all are very curious about the upcoming referendum," explains Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "Producers reaction to the proposed changes, especially the portion that makes the assessment non-refundable, will determine whether or not industry efforts to place an assessment on imported cotton have been successful."

The curiosity stems from the fact that neither group is exactly sure what ramifications its passage will bestow on the other. Therefore it is no surprise that questions about this issue abound. To answer some of those questions the Cotton Board has released some preliminary information about the referendum.

Many producers are curious about the effect of making the current assessment non-refundable. They wonder if the supplemental assessment rate will be lowered after the referendum is passed. The Cotton Board says it will still have the authority to set the supplemental assessment at a level between zero and one percent. The Board also notes that the current $1.00 plus 6-tenths of one percent of the value of the bale rate would "be the subject of a thorough analysis" if the referendum passes.

Another question being asked is who will be allowed to vote in the referendum. Eligible voters will include anyone involved in the production of cotton, except cash-rent landlords. In common-law states, like Texas, wives will be eligible to vote. Importers will also be allowed to vote on the referendum since the changes in the legislation will place an assessment on imported upland cotton and the raw cotton equivalent of imported textiles.

It isn't known at this time how many importers will be eligible to vote. The Cotton Board explains that due to the large number of small importers a minimum participation level will be established based on the importers annual volume and categories of products. Importers below this level would not be allowed to vote and would not be required to pay the assessment.

How the referendum will be conducted is another often asked question. Eligible voters should receive a mail ballot and explanation from ASCS in the same manner as previous referendums. The referendum is tentatively scheduled to be held May 20-29, 1991. A simple majority of producers and importers voting in the referendum is needed for it to pass.

The NCC has also announced that they are arranging a number of information meetings designed to answer questions from producers and other interested parties. The dates for these meetings have been tentatively set for the last full week of April and the first week of May. The meeting scheduled for the High Plains will most likely be held during the first week of May.

There will also be changes in the make-up of the Cotton Board and Cotton Incorporated (CI). Among them are a boost in the amount of funds that will be collected, the addition of importers to the Cotton Board and an increase in the number of directors on CI's board.

The Cotton Board estimates that if the referendum is passed it will generate 80-percent more revenue than the current program. The additional funds will be applied directly to CI's program budget where the largest percentage will be invested in their national advertising program.

Changes to the Cotton Board itself should the amendment pass probably will come in the form of an addition of two to three importer members to the current 22-member board. Cotton Board points out that no importers will serve on the CI board.

Texas would gain four producer directors on the CI board since each states representation is determined by its support rate and production level.

Plains Cotton Growers is on record in favor of this amendment notes Johnson. He explains that passage of the amendment will provide a mechanism for imported cotton and cotton products to pay its share of the marketing efforts designed to enhance cotton's share of the textile market.

There also will be a change in the way the State Support Program is administered. Under the new program five percent of CI's overall budget would be divided among the states, according to each states percentage of total collections. Depending on a number of factors, Texas would most likely receive $400,000 to $800,000 annually in state support funds. These funds can be spent on textile or agricultural research within the state or be designated for promotion within existing CI projects.

To oversee the distribution of these funds Texas has begun the process of organizing the Texas State Support Committee. Newly elected officers of the committee are: Joe Pennington, Chairman; Larry Nelson (current PCG President), Vice-Chairman; and William R. Bickley, Secretary.

Every five years the Secretary will conduct a review to determine support for the continuation of the amendment. Producers and importers may request a referendum at any time if 10-percent of producers and importers voting in the initial referendum request one.

Gains noted at annual meeting

Cotton has shown remarkable competitive gains in domestic fiber consumption in the past decade, growing from 30 percent in 1981 to 37 percent in 1990. If carpeting and industrial end uses are excluded, cotton's market share has grown to more than 50 percent. That represents more than 3 million bales recaptured from other fibers, National Cotton Council economists said recently in Los Angeles in a report to program committees on the eve of the organization's 53rd annual meeting.

Looking ahead to 1991-92, Dr. Mark Lange said U.S. mill consumption of cotton should remain stable and near the 1990-91 level of 8.4 million bales. He said mill consumption is expected to benefit from renewed demand and efforts to restore inventories in early 1992.

The effect of the recession on textile mills is uncertain, Lange noted, but the rate of mill consumption is expected to be slower in the early months of the 1991-92 marketing year. A return of consumer confidence is expected to give mill use a boost in the spring of 1992.

The textile import problem will continue to have an impact on U.S. mills. Although cotton textile imports eased by about 1 percent in 1990, the increase was still more than six-fold during the decade of the 80's. Between 1981 and 1989, the total textile trade deficit rose the equivalent of almost 5.9 million bales. During the same time period, cotton textile imports increased 3.2 million bales.

Lange said total U.S. cotton offtake for 1991-92 is estimated at 15.3 million bales — 800,000 less than USDA's current projection of 1990-91 offtake.

U.S. exports for 1991-92 are projected to be 6.9 million bales — down somewhat from 7.8 million in 1990-91. The lower export projection is due to China's production increases, the Soviet Union's entry into the international market, and a tight U.S. supply situation, especially in the early months of the season.

Increases in planted acreage in China and the U.S. are expected to boost world production in 1991-92. It is estimated that world production will be 89.5 million bales. World consumption is expected to be close to 88 million bales in 1991-92, leaving an ending stock estimate of 24.7 million bales.

Lange said if U.S. and world cotton consumption levels are to show consistent expansion into the decade of the 90's, sufficient stock levels must be maintained.

Although the U.S. produced a larger-than-expected crop of 15.6 million bales for 1990-91, a beginning stock level of only 3 million bales resulted in a total supply of 18.6 million bales — the smallest U.S. supply since 1985.

Beginning stocks for the 1991-92 are projected still lower, at 2.5 million bales, marking only the seventh time since 1930 that stocks have been below 3 million bales. Adding the Council's 16.7 million bale mid-point estimate of U.S. cotton production results in a 1991-92 total supply expectation of 19.2 million bales — an increase of 7.7% over 1990.

Even with restricted consumption levels brought on by tight supplies and a U.S. economic recession, Council economists said the impact on U.S. cotton may not be as serious as recessions of 1974 and 1982.

However, if current trends continue, Lange said, the U.S. could face yet another pattern of tight supplies in July of 1992 with ending stocks of 3.9 million bales — somewhat less than the target of 4.5 million as envisioned in the 1990 farm law for an offtake level of 15 million bales.

The Munchsters are coming

Look out Mutant Ninja Turtles and Sesame Street!

Cartoon characters called Munchsters and their recipe for beef spaghetti are the newest rages in Texas kindergartens and pre-schools.

Munchsters are colorful characters developed by the beef industry to appeal to youngsters. The Munchsters have only one mission: Teach children good eating habits so they understand the basics of good nutrition.

Approximately half of the 3,381 public schools in Texas that have kindergartens requested the "Munchsters Talk About Food" kit during the 1990-91 school year from the Texas Beef Industry Council (TBIC).

"The response by Texas kindergarten students and teachers to the kit has surpassed our expectations," Anne I. Anderson, TBIC executive director, said.

"We have sent out more than 7,500 kits to Texas kindergarten classrooms at teachers' requests. We estimate that approximately 155,000 Texas kindergarten students have learned nutrition from the Munchsters unit. In Texas, the kit is the most successful and well-received education program ever developed with beef checkoff dollars."

Each unit includes a nutritional information book that students take home. The book encourages students and their parents to discuss proper nutrition together. It also includes cooking activities that parents and children can jointly prepare at home.

For the teacher, the kit also includes nutrition lesson plans, a can of spaghetti sauce, a package of pasta, pre-measured spices and a coupon for ground beef. The Munchsters' spaghetti recipe shows how to put it all together to make a nutritional one dish meal. The unit encourages teachers to allow the children to prepare all the ingredients into spaghetti and meatballs to eat in the classroom.

"We receive a steady stream of letters from Texas kindergarten teachers and their students thanking beef producers for developing the kit," Anderson said. "The teachers appreciate the kits because they meet essential education elements required by the Texas Board of Education. The students send us drawings of cows in pastures and spaghetti on dishes. They enjoy the fun way to learn about nutrition as well as the beef spaghetti dinner they share in the classroom."

TBIC currently is targeting the remaining 50 percent of Texas kindergarten public schools that have not requested a kit. By the end of the school year, TBIC expects to reach approximately 75 percent of Texas public kindergarten classrooms.

Bacteria biggest food safety threat

While our favorite foods nourish our bodies, if prepared, shipped, stored, or handled improperly, they can also carry dangerous and even deadly microbiologic diseases. Government health authorities consistently rate microbiologic food-borne diseases as the greatest food safety threat. Surveys done by the U.S. Department of Agriculture show that as many as nine million Americans may suffer the effects of a food-borne illness annually.

Among the more well-known bacterial food-borne diseases are salmonella (of which there are many types), botulism, listeriosis, and staphylococcus. These microorganisms can cause symptoms ranging from fever, diarrhea, nausea, and chills to muscle paralysis and even death.

Bacteria are everywhere—in the water we drink, in the air we breathe, and on the ground. Even our skin has bacteria on it. In general, these bacteria have little effect on our health. We've built up a tolerance to them over our lifetime.

However, improper handling of food products after they leave the farm gate can introduce additional microorganisms into our food supply. Disease-causing bacteria are the most common culprits. Both the very young and the very old—and those with weakened immune systems—are the most susceptible to these microbial diseases.

But bacterial illnesses are among the easiest to prevent. Thorough cooking and prompt refrigeration are the keys to prevention.

High protein items, like milk, meat, poultry, eggs, and fish/shellfish are the food items most likely to become contaminated by harmful microbes. However, fruits and vegetables can also be carriers of micro diseases.

Eggs in particular have come under scrutiny as salmonella hosts. While salmonella is not found inside the shell, it can be found on the outside of the shell. (Like many bacteria, salmonella is widely distributed throughout nature.)

Carriker has been chosen to chair committees

Lt. Governor Bob Bullock announced committee assignments this week, naming state Senator Steve Carriker (D-Roby) to several key slots in the Texas Senate leadership.

With the early focus of the Legislature on ethics, Bullock assigned Carriker to chair the Senate Subcommittee on Elections and Ethics. The Lt. Governor has already referred the ethics reform bill, which is co-authored by Senator Carriker, directly to Carriker's subcommittee.

In addition, Carriker was named to the chairmanship of the Senate Subcommittee on Agriculture. Carriker will also serve on the full committee on Natural Resources handling water, energy, and environment.

Also, Carriker was named to the Committee on Economic Development and to its Subcommittee on Insurance.

The 30th Senate District consists of 30 counties stretching from Sherman-Denison to the Texas Panhandle. Carriker, who has represented the district since 1988, maintains district offices in Gainesville, Wichita Falls, and his hometown of Roby.
