Methodist searches for two physicians

Methodist Hospital currently is searching for two physicians to provide medical services to the Floydada community as part of its pledge to assist the hospital in reopening.

"Once we find two physicians, then there shouldn't be any problems reopening Caprock Hospital," said Ron Rives, assistant vice president with Regional Services at Methodist Hospital. "If everything goes as planned, we will make every effort to reopen the hospital by January 1992."

Part of Methodist Hospital's efforts to recruit physicians includes an income guarantee to assist them with setting up their practices.

"Community involvement and support also is going to make a big difference in bringing new physicians to town," Rives said.

In addition to searching for physicians, Methodist Hospital also is helping Caprock Hospital to develop a plan to pay off a financial debt, which amounts to about $280,000, Rives said. About half that amount can be paid off if outstanding hospital charges are collected, and Methodist Hospital staff members are assisting Caprock Hospital officials in recovering those outstanding collections, Rives said.

The remaining balance can be paid with some of the hospital district tax funds that are to be collected in October, Rives said.

"Except for a need for new X-ray equipment, the hospital is well-equipped. However, before it can reopen it will need to be restocked, such as in the Pharmacy, Lab and Central Supply, and we will help with that," Rives said.

Also necessary for the reopening of the hospital is a bank balance of $500,000 so that the hospital can operate for at least 90 days before payments come in for charges to Medicare and other third-party payors, such as private insurance companies, Rives said.

"We are very concerned that the hospital has closed, and we are making every effort to reopen it," Rives said. "Once that happens, we will be much more involved in the day-to-day operations of the facility to ensure that it is managed efficiently and properly."

Bed and Breakfast undergoing renovation for an original look

Although it may not have reached its full potential as a Bed and Breakfast yet, The Lamplighter Inn has opened its doors to week-end guests to enjoy the historical and family flavor of its rooms.

New owners, Roxanna Cummings and her mother Evelyn Branch, are working fast and furious on weekends restoring the interior of the hotel. The beautiful woodwork in the hotel has been painted for many years and is being stripped away inch by inch by Cummings and Branch.

"The hotel was built in 1912 and we want to restore it to its original appearance," said Cummings. "After the wood is stripped off of this staircase it will be a beautiful staircase to walk down during a wedding!"

Cummings and Branch are finding the time to restore during their week-ends off from their full time jobs in Lubbock.

Cummings has managed The Chimney's Apartments for four years and her mother, Evelyn manages Indian Creek Apartments.

"We won't move to town immediately unless business takes off so quickly that we have too," said Roxanna. "Some of the rooms are already ready for guests, and we are taking reservations. Anyone wishing to stay should call 983-3035 and leave a message on the answering machine. It will be checked often and we will get right back to you. We will always be here for the week-end and we will take visitors during the week if you make an appointment."

Roxanna and Evelyn are both West Texas women. Roxanna was born in Brownfield and Evelyn is an Eskota native. Both are very concerned with preserving The Lamplighter in as much of an original state as possible.

"Anyone who appreciates history and architecture will appreciate this hotel," said Roxanna. "There are 28 rooms in the Inn and each one will be decorated in nostalgic themes. We plan on playing up the family aspect of the hotel. We will have histories available of different people who have stayed here."

Historical preservation is a big interest for Roxanna who is a member of the Lubbock Heritage Ranching Center and will soon be the President of the Lubbock Heritage Society.

"We also hope to open up the dining room the way it was in the beginning. At first we will only be serving breakfast, but we hope to include lunch and dinner later," said Roxanna.

Room rates for the historical Inn will start at $55.00 a night and will include breakfast.

Important visitor coming to town!

Methodist Hospital has informed the newspaper that they will be bringing a doctor to Floydada on Friday, June 28, to visit the community and see the hospital and clinic facilities.

Dr. Michael W. France is 33 years old and a family practitioner. No decision has been made by Dr. France to come to Floydada as of yet, but he is being actively recruited by Methodist to serve Caprock Hospital and the community of Floydada.

A citizens organization, Friends of the Caprock, is working in conjunction with Methodist Hospital and the Caprock Hospital Board of Directors to plan a great big Floydada welcome for Dr. France when he arrives. A community wide reception is being planned for the doctor, the details to be announced next week.

"One of the most important things to a doctor is how much support can he expect from the community," said Ron Rives of Methodist Hospital. "They want to know if their services will be used by the citizens if they move to the community. It is very important to turn out and show them you will support them."

Further information concerning Dr. France's visit will be published next week.

Things seem to be coming unglued between the Governor and a good many of her supporters. There are those, however, who say if she keeps going like she is now, she may turn out to be a pretty good Governor. The problem, of course, is that those who were most ardent in their support of her are the people who are now the unhappiest, and the people who voted against her, and will probably vote against her again, are the ones saying the nicest things.

The "ethics thing" is the center piece in all this, although it is by no means the only thing. True, she is in the process of leading state government with those who backed her. That is normal and was to be expected. But she has come a cropper in fundamental areas of political leadership, the ethics thing being front and center. Remember the campaign? She ran hard and heavy on that issue, saying if she were elected there would be no more "business as usual" in matters of ethics in state government. She brought on a highly respected John Hanna, who was something of a nut on "ethics" to be her Secretary of State, trumpeting the appointment as heralding a new day in this regard. Then she brought aboard the sainted Barbara Jordan, who was to be the moral linchpin in her anticipated war to revamp the way legislators and other government officials do their job.

Then, fortunately or unfortunately depending on the way one looks at the matter, she dealt them both out of the loop when it came time to do the nitty gritty work of drafting the ethics bill.

The result was an ethics bill crafted by a conference committee, including Sen. Steve Carraker, and rammed through both houses of the Legislature in the waning hours of the session, when members were essentially forced to vote for a bill they knew little about. The Governor, with an eye to the upcoming Special Session on budget and taxes, and unwilling to displease the House and Senate leaders, caved in and allowed the bill to become law, despite repeated and well-publicized appeals from many of her supporters, including the Austin American-Statesman and Rep. Glenn Maxey, that she veto the measure. She called it a good bill.

(Evidently most people on the South Plains, including a sampling in Floyd and Crosby Counties, disagree with her assessment. A recent survey by Southwest Research Associates indicates only 12 percent of the people think the new ethics bill is an improvement, 51 percent think the legislature's action did little to change things, and 18 percent think they actually made things worse.)

Then she approved a measure that sweetens legislative retirement, by reducing (from 30 to 12) the number of years a lawmaker under 60 must serve before becoming eligible for retirement,

County will seek temporary reduction of voting boxes

A proposal for seeking permission to consolidate voting boxes in Floyd County was unanimously approved by the Floyd County Commissioners during a special session on Monday, June 17. The action, a temporary measure for an August 10 constitutional amendment election, was approved on a motion by Precinct 2 Commissioner Floyd Jackson with a second by Precinct 4 Commissioner Howard Bishop.

Floyd County usually has 16 polling places for an election. The commissioners will petition the United States Justice Department (USJD) for permission to reduce this number to six for the August voting.

According to County Judge Bill Hardin, "Expense is not the big item. Getting three people to work each voting box is the big item. Election judges are paid $12 per day to work a voting box. Each is assisted by two clerks who are each paid $10 per day. The polls are open from 7:00 A.M. until 7:00 P.M." Hardin indicated that finding three people in each of sixteen polling places was difficult for the county as no one wants to sit there all day for ten or twelve dollars.

Under the plan to be submitted to the USJD, there would be a polling place in Lockney for Commissioner's Precinct 2 and Precinct 3 as well as polling places in Floydada for Commissioner's Precincts 1, 3 and 4. The sixth voting place would be at Goodnight for those who live "down under the cap" in the words of Precinct 3 Commissioner George Taylor. Approval must be received from the USJD before the plan will be implemented for this one election.

The August 10 constitutional amendment election will coincide with the election to be held by the newly formed Floyd County Education District. Both elections will have exemptions for homesteads and taxation of tangible personal property on the ballots. The final item to be considered will be the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide educational loans to students.

Absentee voting for the August 10 constitutional amendment election will begin on July 22. Anyone who cannot come to a polling place to vote on August 10 may vote absentee at the County Courthouse in the County Clerk's office during the absentee period. A written request for a mail absentee ballot will

Floydada's First National is rated top bank in Texas

Floydada's First National Bank is one of 16 Texas banks that have been listed among the nation's 200 most profitable community institutions. The listing appeared in the trade publication American Banker.

The average of all banks in this country last year was 0.91 percent.

"Just like anybody's business we owe our success to our customers," said FNB's President Tom Farris. "We have good customers and we also have a very capable and professional group of employees.

Other Texas banks on the list are: First State Bank, Columbus; Fidelity Bank, Fort Worth; First National Bank, Hebronville; First National Bank, Aspermont; Muenster State Bank, Muenster; Elsa State Bank and Trust Co., Elsa; First State Bank, Petersburg; Security Bank, Lewisville; First National Bank, Stanton; Security State Bank, Anahuac; First National Bank, Lipan; First National Bank, Newton;

Interviews for this category will be a 1:00 p.m. at Lockney High School on this same day. Contestants in this category will also wear the official Miss Floyd County T-shirt and white shorts.

Please do this as soon as possible. The shirts will be distributed at the rehearsal on July 27.

The rehearsal for the pageant will be at 2:00 p.m. July 27, 1991 at the Floyd County Fairgrounds. There will be no late entries on this day. Come prepared to have orientation and for refreshments. Bring the shoes you plan to wear for the pageant if possible.

The Little Miss Floyd County Pageant will begin at 5:00 these categories will begin promptly at 10:00 a.m. at Lockney High School. For interview, girls will wear official Miss and Little Miss Floyd County T-shirts. White tennies shoes and white socks are to be worn. Bows may be worn in the hair.

Sheila and Mary Lindsey Poole will be offering pageant preparatory lessons for $10.00 an hour. This includes help in the areas of modeling, interview, make-up and clothes selection. Contact Sheila at 652-2453 for these services.

If you are interested in being in the pageant, please mail, completed forms with $12.00 entry fee plus an additional $10.00 for a pageant T-shirt before July 15 to: Shelley Brock, Box 645, Lockney, TX 79241. Forms can be obtained from Brown's Dept. Store in Lockney or Hale's Dept. Store in Floydada.

11th CRP sign-up begins July 8

U.S.D.A. has announced the 11th CRP sign-up to begin July 8 and continue through July 19, 1991. This sign-up will be the only opportunity to offer 1992 CRP bids.

Farmed wetlands or wetlands that may be farmed under natural conditions, even if the area otherwise meets the eligible land criteria are ineligible for entry into CRP.

There will be only one national bid pool of which only approximately 1,100,000 acres will be accepted. Special emphasis is placed on areas needing wellhead protection. All other bids submitted for consideration will be selected based on the environmental benefits per dollar expended by CCC. This ranking is based on the following seven factors: surface water quality, ground water quality, soil productivity, conservation compliance assistance, tree planting, assistance to State 319 areas (Texas has none), and conservation priority (Texas has none).

If you have any questions regarding the CRP, please contact the Soil Conservation Service, USDA Building, Hwy. 70 East, Floydada, Texas.

I'm full of bits and pieces this week. First of all—don't forget Saturday, June 22 is Beautify Floydada day.

The Chamber of Commerce is asking citizens to bring their hoes, rakes and mowers and help them clean up the streets.

Laura Farris, the president of the chamber, said that they will be concentrating on the streets that lead into the city.

Here is your chance to get out and help instead of griping about how things look. Don't wait for someone else to do it. These folks are going to need some help!

Everyone is asked to meet at the chamber office (105 W. California), at 8:00 a.m. to team up.

Someone gave me an article last week about the penalties for drunk drivers in other countries. I don't know where it came from, and I can't swear it's true, but if it is it sure is interesting.

If you are caught driving drunk in: England—One year supervision, 1 year jail, $250 fine; Norway—The penalty is 3 weeks in jail at hard labor, and one year loss of license. Second offense within 5 years and the license is revoked for life; Finland/Sweden—Automatic jail-one year at hard labor; Bulgaria—A second conviction results in execution; Poland—Offenders are jailed, fined and forced to attend political lectures (I think this is the worst one); Russia—License is revoked for life; Malaya—The driver is jailed. If he's married, his wife is jailed too;

El Salvador—Your first conviction is your last. Execution by firing squad; France—Three years loss of license, 1 year in jail, $1,000 fine; South Africa—The penalty is a 10-year prison sentence, or the equivalent of a $10,000 fine or both; Turkey—Drunks are taken 30 miles from town by police and forced to walk back under escort; Australia—The names of the drivers are printed in local newspapers under the heading, "He's drunk and in jail". (And you thought we were bad!)

We just got a press release from a place called Live Oak Ranch. It told us that nudists from everywhere in the U.S. and Canada are gathering to celebrate National Nude Weekend, July 13-14 at Live Oak Ranch, a family nudist resort 80 miles northwest of Houston. The event is sponsored by the American Sunbathing Association (apparently they haven't been reading the American Cancer Society's news releases on skin cancer).

Anyway—the news release said that nude skydiving performances and nude helicopter rides were among the activities planned.

Hmmmm—I've been thinking. Have you ever heard the joke?
How can you tell a happy motorcyclist?

Answer: By the bugs in his teeth!
Well—How do you suppose you can spot a nude skydiver?

Answer: By the bugs in his —(never mind).

I heard this story at the Lockney Care Center last Friday. It has been heard a few times in Lockney, but it was the first time I had ever heard it.
It seems there was this little boy in the front pew of a Lockney church who refused to be still. Finally mom got tired of telling him to sit down. She stood up, threw him over her shoulder and started carrying him out of the church toward impending doom.
Just as the youngster passed the rear pews, where the teenagers were sitting, he called to them over his mom's shoulder—"PRAY FOR ME!"

Floydada City Council approves disannexation

By Juanita Stepp

An ordinance approving the disannexation of property belonging to Keith Reeves at 605 W. Ollie was passed by unanimous vote at the Monday evening session of the Floydada City Council. Reeves made the request after the city was unable to provide him with all city services.

Mayor Wayne Russell told the council that the attempt had been made to provide sewer service to Reeves' property. The city was unable to obtain an easement from the adjacent landowner in order to cross the property with the sewer line.

Motion for the disannexation was made by Councilman Leroy Burns and seconded by Councilman Eric Cornelius. Voting during the June 17 session, the council passed the motion unanimously.

lowing the installation of the line. Work must be done by a licensed plumber.

Councilman Ruben Barrientoz made a motion for the action and Cornelius seconded it. The council approved the motion by unanimous vote.

The extension of city services is the reason for the acceptance of an alley easement from Albert Juarez and Floydada Growers and Marketing Association. The 25 foot easement will allow the city to provide services to a proposed trailer park Juarez is in the process of opening at a location east of the Silverton Highway. Council approved a motion by Barrientoz with a second by Morales authorizing the acceptance of the alley easement.

CENTER PARKING APPROVED

Center parking was approved for the area on Wall Street from Mississippi Street to Houston Street. Parking spaces will be marked and parking regulations enforced according to the action taken at the regular monthly council meeting. An ordinance detailing the action will be prepared for signing at the July session.

TAX TITLE LOTS SOLD

Approval of the sale of two tax title properties was given by the city council. Final sale will depend on approval by the other taxing entities involved in the property. Motion for the approval came from Burns with a second by Morales.

Rudy Camacho offered $250.00 per lot for Lot 1, Block 57, Original Town and Lot 9, Block 55, Original Town. Tommy Collins offered $200.00 per lot for Lots 1 and 3, Block 35, Original Town.

Other action at the session included the approval of the minutes of the previous meeting and the payment of monthly bills. The council also agreed to paying $25.00 for a yellow ribbon with Floydada's name on it as representation at the July 4 celebration in Austin honoring members of the United States Military Forces.

Attending the session were Mayor Wayne Russell, Councilmen Amado Morales, Ruben Barrientoz, Clar Schacht, Leroy Burns, Wayne Tipton and Eric Cornelius, city secretary Jimmie Lou Stewart, Karen Lawson, T. U. Linch, Jack Ochoa, Joe Stepp and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter.

PUBLIC HEARING ON DEMOLITION PROCEDURES

The council session included a public hearing on two possible demolition projects. The two structures under discussion have both been found to be below standards set for residences according to Floydada City Ordinances.

The first, located at 615 E. Jackson and belonging to Ada Ellis, was approved for demolition on a motion by Councilman Wayne Tipton with a second by Councilman Amado Morales. Council approval of the motion was unanimous.

The second property, located at 621 W. Jackson and titled to T. U. Linch, was extended a sixty day grace period for improvement. Linch was at the session and told the councilmen "I didn't realize that place was that bad. I want to tear everything down but the house and clean up the lot. Then I plan to fix up the house."

Motion for the 60 day extension came from Morales with a second by Cornelius. The vote was unanimously in favor of the stipulation that a bona fide effort be made and that noticeable progress be apparent at the end of the extension.

CITY SERVICES EXTENDED

Phyllis Harris, who recently purchased acreage west of the Floydada Nursing Home, asked that the city allow her to run a line to the city sewer service and grant her city sewer service. The request was approved under the conditions that Harris bear all cost for running the line from her property to a tie in point on the city lines. This would include any street repairs necessary fol-

Robertson finds solution for pesky summer pests

Now that the season for fun in the sun and backyard bar-b-ques has arrived, so have the pesky critters that drive you back indoors. But the day of reckoning has arrived for those flying pests and the Environmental Protection Agency can't even gripe about it.

"Tubby" Robertson is spreading the word on a safe and very effective way to rid your yard and your neighborhood of flies, yellow jackets, and bagworms.

"I got the idea from my wife's brother-in-law, the late Earl Poague of Plainview," said Tubby. "I don't know where Earl got the idea.

"You get an empty gallon milk container (or something similar) and put in one cup sugar, one cup vinegar. Then fill it 2/3 - 3/4 full of water and hang it in your trees. Don't use the artificial flavored vinegar, that doesn't work.

"The bugs are attracted to the sugar and they crawl inside and drown. They don't come back out," said Tubby showing off his full containers of dead bugs.

"I have been using this recipe for 8 years. Before I started using it, I had to spray my tree for bagworms every year. Since I've started hanging out my containers I haven't had to spray anymore.

"To get the bagworms you have to have your containers hung by the 15th or 20th of March. It will kill the "candle bugs" before they lay the eggs for the bagworms.

"If you wait until too late, you won't kill the bagworms, but you'll still get the flies and candle bugs.

"I also used to get yellow-jacket nests under my back porch and since I've put these jugs out I haven't been bothered with them."

The all-natural solution won't kill mosquitos however, or white butterflies. "I've been told that the white butterflies are bad insects too," said Tubby. "This stuff will catch other butterflies though.

"I don't know where this idea came from first, but I have a theory on it. I think the solution has to ferment like whiskey (it takes a week to 10 days to work), and after it sours the bugs crawl down in there- get drunk and drown," laughs Tubby. "If everybody in Floydada put out two jugs in their yard early in the Spring we could get rid of wasps, flies, candlebugs and bagworms."

Tubby and his wife, Pauline, will be married for 60 years in February. Tubby, who has farmed most of his life, moved to the Campbell Community in Floyd County in 1925. He lived there until 1930 when he moved to the Irick Community.

In 1944, Tubby bought a farm in Plainview area and stayed in Hale County until 1948 when he moved back to Floydada and bought the Massie Harris Implement Company.

In 1963 Robertson sold the dealership, "I retired because of 'ticker trouble,'" said Robertson with a smile.

The Robertson's have two daughters, Linda Crader of Floydada, and Deanne Miller of Garland. They also have four grandchildren.

also be honored during this period.

Judge Hardin briefly discussed the possibility that commissioners precinct lines would have to change by redistricting following the census and the change in the county population. He added that commissioners might consider lowering the number of voting precincts permanently at that time. Another consideration for the future, according to Hardin, would be the possibility of making the Justice of the Peace Precincts coincide with the lines of the Commissioner's Precincts.

Present for the Monday morning session were Commissioners Connie Bearden, Floyd Jackson, George Taylor and Howard Bishop, Judge Bill Hardin and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter.

and also incidentally increasing the amount of that retirement pay. Now a legislator under 50 who has 12 years of service can retire at $18,314 per year if he quits this year. Back in the '70's, if memory serves, the lawmakers tied their retirement pay to that of Judges, so when judges get an increase in pay, their retirement benefits go up. And guess who sets judges' benefits? It's a nice, cozy arrangement. One hand washes the other. In this particular incident an amendment by Republican Rep. Buzz Robnett of Lubbock was quietly tacked on a related bill that did the trick. Again, many of her backers urged a veto. In the first place it was a sneaky, sorry way to make legislation. And she certainly owed Robnett nothing. She could have vetoed the measure and revisited the matter later. But she did not want to rile the members in this sensitive area, knowing the Special Session was upcoming. So again she caved.

It is possible that all this maneuvering will smooth the path during the Special Session. But it is also possible that the boom is fading. When it comes to spending and taxes, there will be no hiding.

Tuesday, the Rev. Clark, along with a group of ladies who did the singing, gave the devotional on God's love and mercy. At 6 p.m. the residents had a cookout. It was well attended. Thanks go out to all who helped and made it possible, Durrel Fortenberry, Joe Ortiz and Allen Hoogstra and the volunteers, Selma Ortiz, Sue Hoogstra and Leona Neff, Dovie Holmes and the rest of the families. Hamburgers, dip, chips, dessert and all the trimmings were served.

Wednesday in the morning we had music and a sing-a-long. At 2 p.m. the residents played Bingo. Mrs. Bernice Robinson had the first Bingo. Mary Alice came and assisted the residents who played.

Thursday was the Father's Day party. We had 14 men. They were all acknowledged with a tie. Some words of poems, etc., were shared with them also. Ice cream was served to all present. The volunteers from Companions 'n' Caring who served were Selma Ortiz, Shirley Vamer, Ola Smith, Sue Hoogstra and Leona Neff.

Friday, Lee Burton came and shared the word taken from 1 Cor. 13:1-13 and Penny Giesecke played the piano for us. At 1:30 the residents took a bus ride to Plainview. Wilma Payne drove the bus. McDonald's treated them to some ice cream. The residents going on the bus were Charles Breeding, Knox Jameson, Brooks Callaway, Warren Denton, Henry Willis, Etoile Stanley, Nettie Adams, Peggy Young and Audie Potet.

Mrs. Eddie (Frances) Cantrell of Jennings, La., has been a house guest of Mrs. Fern Milligan for the past two weeks. Mrs. Cantrell and her husband, Eddie owned and operated Cantrell's Fruit Market and Grocery on the north side of the square for 25 years before moving to Aransas Pass in 1970. Eddie passed away there in 1976 and she later moved to Georgetown. She lived there 12 years, before moving to Jennings 17 months ago. She will be going to Georgetown from here to spend the summer with her daughter, Dorothy Chambers and husband, Floyd.

She has been enjoying seeing her friends and former customers while in Floydada. She and Dola Lackey had lunch at the Senior Citizens Center one day and she really enjoyed the people there and the very good lunch and the excellent way the center is being run. She regrets the closing of so many businesses in Floydada especially the hospital and hopes it will reopen soon. In the meantime she wishes the best for Floydada.

The July meeting will be a pool side party in the back yard of member Kathy Allen.

On May 14, 1991, Athena Study Club met in the home of Bettye Jackson at 7:00 p.m. with Shirley Hardin, Tanya Covington and Denise Doucette serving as co-hostesses. Mexican Stack and fried pies were served to the honored guest, Lockney senior girls: Aimee Green, Tandi Gant, Erin Adrian, Anna Cortez, Shedia Hill, Kema Blanco, Lori Gonzales, Angie Moya, Amy Turner, Tina Martinez and Robin Marks.

T-shirts with the girls pictures on them were presented to the seniors as gifts and each girl autographed each shirt.

Roll call was a memorable school experience. All the girls started to school together and are graduating together. Their memory stories were great as were the members stories.

Business was conducted by President Shirley Hardin. Rhonda McCain made a motion to donate $100.00 to the Library Summer Reading Program. Denise Doucette second, motion carried.

New officers were installed by President Shirley Hardin, they are: Bettye

Jackson, president; Mary McCarter, vice president; Dorothy Hooten, secretary-reporter; Jane Archer, treasurer.

Members present were Donnie Meriwether, Dani Johnson, Denise Doucette, Kathy Allen, Gayle Jackson, Veda Hrbacek, Barbara Mathis, Tanya Covington, Dorothy Hooten, Jane Archer, Leslie Patterson, Rhonda McCain, Mary McCarter, Gayle Reay, Shirley Hardin and guest Linda Kidd.

Homebuilders Club

The Homebuilders Extension Club met June 11 at the home of Jonelle Fawver. Call to order was by Barbara Willis, vice president, in absence of Ruth Trapp. Roll call was "A Country I Would Like to Visit." Recreation was "The Kitchen Test" led by Jonelle.

Reading of minutes from the last meeting was by Gladys Widener. She also gave the treasurer's report and read "Thank You" notes from various people.

Plans for the club being hostesses to the Harmony Club during the county wide luncheon at the Lighthouse party room on June 25 were completed.

A program "A Closer Look At A Foreign Country" was given by Sue Lovell. She gave some good hints on packing luggage, traveling, lodging and eating in Mexico and parts of Canada. Parts of Canada speak French only, so she suggested a pocket dictionary for language to carry along with a small atlas of the country you are visiting. She had the latest almanac on Mexico and suggested anyone read such before going to that country.

She related to their train rides, to and from, and eating while in Mexico. Everyone thought she got fond of egg custard with a cherry on top.

Refreshments were served to six members.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Company), in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission), hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for residence Custom Calling Services, effective August 1, 1991, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Company has filed an application with the Commission to restructure and change the rates for certain residence Custom Calling Services.

The Custom Calling Services affected by the Company's application are optional telephone service arrangements that provide the following features: Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three Way Calling, Speed Calling 8 and Speed Calling 30.

The Company's proposal would increase the monthly rate for the individual Call Waiting feature from $2.10 to $3.10 for residence customers. Also, the rates for certain combinations of Custom Calling Features (Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8) would increase or decrease depending upon the combination of features. In addition, the company proposes to obsolete the optional Custom Calling Service feature Speed Calling 30 for residence customers except for existing customers at their existing locations. Following are the feature combinations and their current and proposed rates.

| One Feature Per Line | Current | Proposed |
|--|---------|----------|
| Call Waiting | $2.10 | $3.10 |
| Call Forwarding | 2.10 | 2.10 |
| Three-Way Calling | 2.10 | 2.10 |
| Speed Calling-8 | 2.10 | 2.10 |
| Two Features Per Line | Current | Proposed |
| Call Waiting, Call Forwarding | 3.75 | 4.50 |
| Call Waiting, 3-Way Calling | 3.70 | 4.50 |
| Call Waiting, Speed Calling-8 | 3.70 | 4.50 |
| Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling | 3.70 | 3.50* |
| Call Forwarding, Speed Calling-8 | 3.70 | 3.50* |
| 3-Way Calling, Speed Calling-8 | 3.70 | 3.50* |
| Three Features Per Line | Current | Proposed |
| Call Waiting, Call Forwarding and 3-Way Calling | 5.30 | 5.90 |
| Call Waiting, Call Forwarding and Speed Calling-8 | 5.30 | 5.90 |
| Call Waiting, 3-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8 | 5.30 | 5.90 |
| Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8 | 5.30 | 4.90* |
| Four Features Per Line | Current | Proposed |
| Call Waiting, Call Forwarding 3-Way Calling, Speed Calling-8 | 6.90 | 7.30 |
| Speed Calling 30 | 3.20 | 3.20 |

*denotes rate decrease
Southwestern Bell's application proposes to obsolete residence Speed Calling 30 except for existing customers at their existing locations.

Most of the Company's residence customers in Texas who subscribe to one or more of the Custom Calling Service features will be affected by the proposed rate restructuring. It is expected that the proposed rate restructuring of Custom Calling Services will increase the Company's annual revenues by $15.9 million, which is an increase of approximately one half of 1 percent in the Company's adjusted revenue for the twelve-month period ending December 1990. The restructuring will result in an increase in the Custom Calling Services rates for approximately 2.5 million residence customers and rate decreases for approximately 15,000 residence customers. Also, the obsolescence of the optional feature Speed Calling 30 will affect approximately 156,000 residence customers.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Ag commission lists priorities

By Rick Perry

Texas Agricultural Commissioner
Texans can brag about being number one in the production of cotton, cattle, goats, wool and mohair. Yet when it comes to processing our products, we lose those bragging rights, and that costs us money, economic opportunities and jobs. That's why we're working hard to ensure Texas' future as an agricultural leader. At the Texas Department of Agriculture, assisting the development of value-added processing — converting raw commodities into processed products — is our top priority.

It's been talked about in the past with little success, but here at the department we've launched a new program focused solely on initiating agricultural enterprises within the state. Our program is different, and we call it Make it TEXAS. Our strong working relationship with business leaders, producers and chambers of commerce around the state give us the infrastructure that's essential to this type of program. Also, with the availability of $25 million, recently authorized for the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority, we have the financial backing to assist new processing facilities.

Make it TEXAS is staffed by TDA specialists in the fields of agricultural development and finance who will help identify these new agricultural enterprises. Our agricultural development staff can assist with marketing surveys and cost and income analyses, and can review business plans and feasibility studies. What's more, we can provide financial support to qualifying parties through the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority and three other programs authorized by the voters of Texas.

Value-added is the way to make agriculture become profitable once again by processing more of the raw commodities that Texas farmers and ranchers produce so abundantly and turning those raw goods into finished products — into the leather, cloth, meat, dairy and other food products that can generate millions of dollars for the Texas economy.

We know Texas is the second largest producer of raw commodities in the nation, but we lag behind when it comes to processing those crops and livestock. In 1990, our cash receipts from agriculture amounted to $11 billion. But the success story of the past decade is not who produces the most, but who takes advantage of that abundant production. Thus, the fact we process only about eight percent of our production doesn't make good business sense, since many states do almost three times that.

Despite our leadership in raising major commodities, we've let other states add value to our good through processing and reap the profits as a result. If we could increase the value of shipments by Texas food processors just five percent, we could raise our state's economic output by $2.5 billion. That's the kind of economic development I want for Texas, and it's the kind we've thrown our efforts behind at the Texas Department of Agriculture.

We believe the biggest profits for the state and investors alike will come from value-added industries that process mainstream agricultural products. The opportunities are endless. Cattle raising, for example, is a $5-billion-a-year business in Texas. We raise more cattle on our ranches and fatten more cattle in our feedlots than any other state in the country. What's more, we produce 5 million raw hides a year. Yet 99 percent of these hides are exported to foreign and domestic markets where they are processed into leather. When Texas boot makers buy leather, they have to go out of state to find it. That's money lost for the Texas economy.

Let me offer another example: our farmers raise about a third of all cotton produced in the United States. We have a few processing facilities, but not nearly enough. More than 90 percent of our raw cotton leaves the state. More than half goes overseas and the rest is sold domestically. In recent years, we've captured an even bigger share of the U.S. market by producing the high-yield, high-strength cotton required by modern spinning technology.

But, we believe there's great potential for turning Texas cotton into even greater profits. Using initiative and good common business sense, Texas can create more processing opportunities — not only for cotton but for wool, mohair and a host of other products. Processing natural fiber into yarn, fabric and then into clothing would increase the value of the state's fiber industry many times over.

We want Texas to keep more of those value-added profits right here at home. Opportunities abound. At TDA we envision a high-tech regional hog-slaughtering facility in the Panhandle. Fresh and aged cheeses made from East Texas dairy products. Rio Grande Valley and Winter Garden vegetables frozen at their fresh-picked peak of ripeness. Grain sorghum stalks turned into industrial-use paper. And many other productive, profitable agricultural businesses.

Not only will these businesses increase Texas' agricultural productivity, they will provide a financial base and technical support for further agricultural diversification. As we move toward a global economy, we expect Texas to be a world-class competitor. At the Texas Department of Agriculture, we're committed to taking all these assets and turning them into more jobs and greater opportunities. We want to be a facilitator of innovative business proposals, matching investors and communities and helping both tap into the vast network of resources essential to starting new enterprise. At the Texas Department of Agriculture, Make it TEXAS is more than a catchy slogan, it's a program designed to develop a processing industry within our borders and in doing so, create economic prosperity for the entire state.

Colston to exhibit at Sulphur Springs

Colston, a junior member of the American Angus Association with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri, is one of 88 young Angus breeders who have entered a total of 157 head to compete for championship honors being awarded.

The Southwest Regional Preview Junior Angus Show is sponsored by the American Angus Association and the Texas Junior Angus Association. It is one of four regional junior Angus shows the national organization sponsors each year for its nearly 7,000 active junior Angus members in the United States.

Darnell announces agreement

Cargill's Commodity Marketing Division has concluded a lease agreement to operate the Speartex Grain Company in Spearman.

The Speartex elevator purchases grain by truck from farmers in Hansford and Ochiltree counties for sale to the area's feed yard market and for rail shipment to export ports at the Gulf of Mexico. When market conditions warrant, the elevator can also serve West Coast domestic markets.

"We are extremely pleased to have entered this agreement," said Brannon Darnell, CMD area manager in Amarillo. "It will provide us with a valuable new facility in our network of country elevators. But I also think it's good news for area farmers.

"We will continue to provide a ready market opportunity for producers, connecting them with not just local markets, but also helping provide access to markets around the world through Cargill's worldwide grain merchandising activities."

The Speartex elevator has storage capacity of about 7 million bushels and also provides retail fertilizer sales to area producers.

Darnell said that Jim Williams, manager of CDM's Elkhart, Kansas elevator, will transfer to Spearman to become manager of the facility. He said Cargill will begin immediate operation of the elevator to assure uninterrupted service to farmers.

Blight demands close look

Much of the damage to cotton plants appearing in area fields in the wake of recent storms is from Ascochyta blight, says a plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Growers need to examine their stands carefully before deciding to replant, he cautioned.

"Most of the problem right now isn't seedling disease, except on the youngest plants," said Dr. Harold Kaufman, the extension specialist. "Some of the fields which are blackened probably were desiccated by the dust storms and blowing soil early this month."

But he said fields which he has examined show that Ascochyta, or wet weather blight, is a common culprit.

Ascochyta blight is a fungus which produces sticky spores. The spores don't spread unless rain splashes them to other plants.

"It will be worse in fields where cotton was planted before," the pathologist said. "It starts from trash on the ground from previous cotton crops." Rotation and deep plowing will help next year, but not this year, he said.

Effects of the wind and soil damage can vary widely from field to field in close proximity, Kaufman said. Fields with rows planted north to south appear to have less wind damage, he said. "Fields that had protection from forage sorghum, wheat stubble or other wind-breaks look good," except for blight problems, he noted.

The pathologist urged growers to look very closely at their plants when making decisions about replanting. "If the plant has a green terminal it should come around as our weather warms up and dries out," he said.

Nothing can be done now except to wait for new growth to indicate how many plants are still alive and capable of going on, he said.

"I know growers like to see six to eight plants per foot, but that many aren't required to produce a good crop," Kaufman said.

He noted that Dr. James Supak, Extension Service cotton agronomist, says that as long as a grower has two plants with green terminals per foot of row, even though the plants were defoliated by wind or blight, the grower can still make a good crop.

"I talked yesterday with a cotton farmer who has 30 years of experience out here," Kaufman said. "He said that in most cases during those years when he replanted, plants left from the initial stand made a better crop than the cotton from the replanting."

Boll weevil control preparations are well underway for county

Preparations are well underway for the 1991 Texas High Plains Boll Weevil Diapause Control Program. The program, operated by Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, is now in its 28th year of operation.

In the early 1960's, some cotton fields above the Caprock were found to be infested with boll weevil. This small insect, averaging quarter-inch long, has been the major economic pest of cotton production across the Cotton Belt. Entering the United States at Brownsville, Texas in 1892, it spread clear across to the Atlantic coast by 1916.

Many cotton farmers, driven out of business by the boll weevil in traditional growing areas, came to the High Plains where it seemed that the pest was not able to survive the dry climate and cold winters. By the late 1950's it became evident that the boll weevil was adapting and was indeed capable of surviving and overwintering on the High Plains.

During the growing seasons of 1962 and 1963, high boll weevil populations existed below the Caprock in Motley, Dickens, Garza and Kent Counties. In October of 1963 infestations extended 20 miles west of the Caprock escarpment into High Plains cotton.

As in the previous 28 years, the 1991 diapause program starts with mapping all planted cotton fields below the Caprock within the designated control zone.

As the growing season progresses through September, fields are scouted for boll weevil. Specimens are collected and examined. As the weather cools in September and October, boll weevils move from their reproduction phase to overwintering or hibernation phase. This change is known as diapause. During this phase the boll weevil feeds heavily and builds fat deposits to enable its survival through the winter.

Control of the boll weevil in this diapause phase is the most effective and economic method. The objective of the diapause control program is to reduce overwintering populations so that damaging infestations do not occur the following year. Research has shown that weevils must feed for at least two weeks in order to store enough fat to successfully overwinter and become the breeding stock for the next year's population.

Treatment is made at intervals of 10 to 14 days with ultra-low volume malathion. This continues until a freeze make weevil food and breeding sites no longer available in cotton fields.

To maintain the environmental integrity and responsibility of the program, monitoring sites are chosen each year. Vegetation and water samples are collected and analyzed. The ultra-low volume malathion, used at only 12 ounces per acre, has very low toxicity for humans and animals. It is non-persistent and has no known long-range adverse effects on any desirable species.

The boll weevil program control zone forms a barrier between the infested Rolling Plains and the weevil-free 3-4 million cotton acres of the High Plains. In a study performed in the 1970's, it was estimated that without the boll weevil program there would be a $25 million annual loss in income because of reduced yields and quality, plus an annual increase of $20 million in production costs.

The program is funded by cotton producers in PCG's 25-county area through a per-bale checkoff at the compress and from federal appropriations. For the 1991 crop this assessment will be at 10 cents per bale. The cost-sharing is 70 percent from producers through Plains Cotton Growers and 30 percent from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Nell Swinson ends career at FNB

If you've noticed something different about the lobby at Floydada's First National Bank, it's not new paintings or a new remodeling job—it's something missing.

A friendly face that you may have been seeing for almost 50 years, behind a teller window, has left. Nell Swinson retired May 31.

Nell has been in the lobby of the bank since the fall of 1942. Mr. O.M. Watson Sr., was the president of the bank at the time. Going to work first as a bookkeeper, Swinson says her monthly salary was $65.00.

"Because of the war, prices and wages were frozen," said Swinson. "We learned that you can't have everything. You had to decide what is more important to you. Everyone got by alright."

Although women tellers are who you see operating most windows, when Nell started work the tellers were all men. "I remember J.D. Moore, Earl Crow, Charlie Bedford and Tucker Teutsch.

"I worked in bookkeeping with Evelyn Withers for a little more than a year, and then I moved into teller work."

Except for one year of her life, Nell Swinson has always lived in Floydada. She was born Nov. 1919, to J.E. and Annie Swinson, in the house next door to the home she lives in now.

Mrs. Swinson died in 1940. After the war and the materials became available, Nell had her home at 402 W. Mississippi built. She moved into the home with her father in 1951. She has never married and has lived in the house since that time.

Nell's father, who was a barber, passed away in 1958.

Swinson doesn't recall too many changes in the banking business. "For us, as tellers, the changes were always gradual. It has always been a very good bank and a very sound one too.

"I did go through 3 or 4 remodelings, and I've worked with six different presidents of the bank, including the current one—Mr. Tom Farris."

Although the changes in the banking industry made little impact on her work, Nell recalls the large changes in the town of Floydada.

"I remember at least five grocery stores in the city. We also had two women's specialty shops, a J.C. Penny's, a Hagoods, three dry goods stores and two variety stores.

"I really miss the indoor theatre and seeing the old movies on the big screen. I don't like to go to the new movies now and listen to their four letters words. I don't think that is entertainment."

When asked what stands out in her mind the most about the years she spent at the bank, Nell says that all the different people she worked with meant a lot to her.

"It is so hard to remember everyone I worked with. If I had to do it over again, I would like to get a book and write down the name of everyone I ever worked with, and possibly get their picture.

"I've met a lot of people and made a lot of friends. I know there will be some people from out of town that will come into the bank to cash checks and will look for me because they know that I know them. Now they are going to have to look for someone else."

Martin named board president

Lockney's school board met Thursday night, June 13, at 7:30 p.m. for a regular session.

Paul Lyle, the attorney for the school board was on hand to orient the new directors about their responsibilities on the school board and legal ramifications.

School board officers for the 1991-92 school year were organized during the meeting. Jim Bob Martin remained the president, Dickie Lambert is vice-president; Paul Glasson was elected secretary and Mike Mathis was elected assistant secretary.

Bids for Phase II for construction of classrooms at the elementary school were approved by the board. Jim Hickman, of Tuscha Builders in Lubbock will supervise the construction.

Bids were submitted for numerous projects such as: sheet rocking, chalkboards, tile floors, metal doors, glass doors, etc. The lowest bids were accepted on each item.

Superintendent Dub Hallmark reported that the four classrooms that are being remodeled at the high school will be completed on schedule. Hallmark also advised the board that renovation and repair that is needed at the band hall will also be done before school starts. Summer maintenance is also on schedule, said Hallmark.

Trustees approved the media contract with Educational Service in Lubbock. "We contract with them for use of their film library to use in classroom instruction," said Hallmark.

"We also contracted for one day of teacher in-service of instructional personnel which is required by the state."

Coach Jim Clark reviewed the athletic budget with the school board trustees. Some items needed by Clark will have to be ordered early; such as equipment needed for two-a-days which start Aug. 12.

Pre-arranged absences were discussed by the board. Currently, students may have 5 pre-arranged absences if the child is passing.

Trustees were advised that the laws on attendance counting has changed which will affect total funding for 1991-92. "It will cost the district a minimum of $12.50 every time a child misses a day of school," said Hallmark. "We aren't going to change any policy now, but we hope people will be aware and use discretion. We will look at the rules next year to see if they will have to change."

Hallmark also advised the board that the federal programs on how the school districts are allowed to spend federal money has changed from instructional purposes to supplemental services.

Mrs. Mitchell gave the TAAS test results to the trustees. She reported that 100% of the seniors had passed the TEAMS Exit test and the 93% of the juniors had passed all three sections of the TAAS test.

The TAAS test is an academic skills test which students start taking in their junior year. They are allowed four chances to pass the test before they can graduate.

The school board accepted the resignations of Bert Vandiver, Sandra Watson and Janice Polson.

Hired by the board was: Joe Right, as a coach and teacher to replace Vandiver; Connie Mallet as a third grade teacher and Karen Hooten as Junior High aide. Jim Bob Martin and Dickie Lambert were appointed to the County Education District board (the district created by the state legislature which will join the two Floyd County schools to equalize the property wealth in the county between the two schools).

The county education district will be able to levy taxes at a rate set by state formulas. It will then collect and redistribute these taxes between the schools comprising the district (FISD & LISD). The district will have the authority to hire staff members, enter into contracts and to call elections.

Martin and Lambert will meet with Charlene Brown and Michael Hinsley (from FISD) by June 30, and will then call for an August 10 election to allow voters to decide the merits of homestead exemptions, personal property exemptions for non-income production property items, and exemptions for the elderly and disabled.

A school calendar was adopted by the board which includes Aug. 20 as a workday for teachers and Aug. 21 as the first day of class.

The bid from Jack Morris of Plainview, was accepted for a 1991 15-passenger van. The cost of the van will be $18,420.

The trustees were given a preliminary work copy of the 1991-92 budget to study. They will meet in a special called meeting, Monday, June 17, at 7:30 p.m. for a work session on next year's budget.

Board members heard the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, paid bills and reviewed the financial statement.

Milstead gives program on meteorites

The Lockney Rotary Club heard a program from Eldon Milstead on meteorites at their regular meeting Friday.

Milstead passed around several meteorites, a piece of slag, a geode and a hunk of petrified dung. The geode had been cut off center and there was water in the center around the crystal.

He told those present that there had been two major meteorite showers in this area, one in 1902 and one in 1907. The shower in 1907 followed the exact same path, from Silvertown to Brownfield, as the shower in 1902. Since Plainview was located in the center of the falls they were given the name 'Plainview Shower'. It has been documented that several head of cattle were killed by the falling rocks.

Milstead related that two big piles of moon rocks (as they were called in the early days) had been picked up out of the fields and piled out of the way of the farm equipment on the Duvall and Myers farms at Edmonson. A man from Colorado came along in the early thirties and bought a pickup load of the meteorites for $2.00. "Today", stated Milstead, "they bring $50.00 a pound."

ELDON MILSTEAD

"Contrary to belief meteorites accumulate frost coming through the stratosphere. A few have been found soon after they hit the ground that still had frost on them." He continued, "Man has never been able to duplicate the different metals found in the meteorites. They are a conglomeration of different configurations pressed into each rock."

When asked about how hard they are he replied, "Meteorites can be cut with a diamond saw. There are other rocks that are harder to cut."

"The largest rock that has been found weighed 61 pounds. The largest collection of meteorites can be found at the Smithsonian Institute and a man named DuPont has the largest private collection.

"Several years ago I furnished a meteorite that went to Geneva to a conference. Dr. Dodd, a professor at Wayland University, presented a paper on meteorites and the Plainview Shower. He took one of my rocks that came from the Silvertown area to show.

"I have kept only the few that I have bought. The ones I have kept are special to me. Now when I make a sale the money goes to mission work in Mexico. There is a church down there that is painted pink and turquoise and the sale of the meteorites paid for the paint on that church."

Milstead is a member of the Hi-Plains Gem and Mineral Society in Plainview. They meet regularly and also sponsor an annual gem and mineral show each year in February.

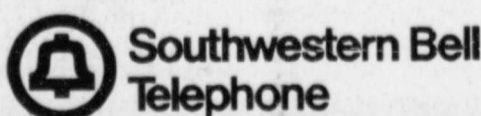

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Company), in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission), hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for Directory Assistance Services, effective August 1, 1991, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Company has filed an application with the Commission to restructure and change the rates for Directory Assistance Service.

To help recover its costs, the Company is proposing to increase the rates for Directory Assistance calls from $.30 to $.40 per call (after the three-call allowance). Southwestern Bell is proposing that there be no change in the number of free Directory Assistance calls allowed each month (currently three) and that customers who qualify for exemption of Directory Assistance charges because of visual or physical handicaps continue to be exempt from these charges. The company also proposes to begin charging $.25 per call for Directory Assistance from pay telephones.

If approved by the Commission, this proposed rate change for Directory Assistance will increase the Company's annual revenues by $15.4 million, which is an increase of approximately one half of 1 percent in the Company's adjusted revenue for the twelve-month period ending December 1990. This proposed rate change would affect approximately 900,000 residence customers, approximately 155,000 business customers, approximately 500 private pay telephone owners and all customers who make Directory Assistance calls from public pay telephones.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

SPECIAL ELECTION
AUGUST 10, 1991

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 42 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the newly created county education districts to hold elections to exempt from ad valorem taxation a percentage of the market value of the residence homestead of a married or unmarried adult. The percentage exempted could not exceed 20% of such market value, and the amount exempted could not be less than $5,000. The amendment would also authorize county education districts to hold elections to exempt from ad valorem taxation not less than $3,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of a disabled person or a person sixty-five years of age or older. Finally, the amendment would authorize elections in county education districts for the taxation of certain tangible personal property exempted from ad valorem taxation by the legislature.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to allow the voters of a county education district to adopt certain exemptions from the district's ad valorem taxation for residence homesteads and to provide for the taxation of certain tangible personal property."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to pass general laws authorizing Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successor to issue and sell up to $300 million of general obligation bonds to finance educational loans to students. The maximum net effective interest rate to be borne by the bonds would be set by law. The amendment would also authorize the legislature to provide for the investment of bond proceeds and to establish an interest and sinking fund to pay the bonds and provide for the investment of such fund. Bonds authorized under this amendment would be paid from the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in an interest and sinking fund established at the end of the preceding year that is pledged to the payment of the bonds or interest.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide educational loans to students."
