Graham, Vasquez and Mangold bestowed junior crowns

Spring Lipham of Floydada was named 1991 Miss Floyd County in a pageant held Saturday, August 3, in conjunction with the Floyd County Fair. She was crowned by Robin Galloway, the 1990 Miss Floyd County.

Miss Lipham is the 16-year-old daughter of Julian and Joyce Lipham of Floydada. She attends Floydada High School. Her hobbies are swimming, dancing, singing, playing tennis, going out with friends and most of all, shopping.

After graduation she plans on being a successful business woman.

When asked what she would do if she were given a $1,000 she replied, "I would put half in a savings for college, title 10 percent to my church and take my family on a nice vacation."

Her favorite song is "A Place In This World", because she believes God has a place for everyone. Clint Black and the Judds are her favorite country singers.

First runner-up honors went to Danika Dudley. She is the 14-year-old daughter of Darrell and Cindy Dudley of Floydada. She attends Floydada High School.

Her favorite person is her grandfather, Papa. Her future plans include graduating from high school, attending college and modeling. She would also like to do some fashion design. Her favorite What's it all about?

August 10th special election is detailed

By Juanita Stepp

The Special Election slated for Saturday, August 10 will serve a dual purpose. First, it will allow voters to cast ballots concerning two proposed amendments to the Texas constitution. The second aim of the special election will be to allow voters to decide on certain exemptions for the individual County Education Districts (CED) recently created by the 72nd Texas Legislature.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

No. 1 - The first proposed constitutional amendment is Senate Joint Resolution 42. This resolution proposes allowing the voters of a county education district to adopt certain exemptions from ad valorem taxation for residences declared as homesteads and to provide for the taxation of tangible personal property. Vote For or Against.

This proposed amendment would authorize CEDs to allow voters the option of deciding whether to grant exemptions on a percentage (20%) of the assessed value of residential homesteads, approve a $10,000 exemption for elderly and disabled persons, and approve taxing tangible personal property such as non-income producing vehicles, boats, airplanes, etc.

The proposed changes would be in addition to the already existing exemptions allowed by school districts. The current homestead exemption is $5,000. Disabled and elderly persons currently are allowed a $10,000 exemption and enjoy a property tax freeze.

Proponents of this amendment cite the need to leave the power to make decisions concerning taxation and exemptions in the hands of the voters rather than in the hands of appointed CED board members.

Arguments against the proposed constitutional amendment include the fact that passage of the amendment would serve to shift the tax burden from residential property owners to businesses which are ineligible for any of the exemptions. Districts which depend primarily on residential tax bases would be forced to raise taxes more than those which rely heavily on commercial property taxes.

Tax exemptions for some property owners would also result in higher taxes for others. At the present time, only 259 of the more than 1050 school districts in Texas grant a homestead exemption. Passage of this amendment could narrow the local property tax base which contributes about half of all school funding. This would mean higher taxes for the remaining taxpayers in order to meet the required local funding levels.

Those in favor of taxing tangible personal property argue that this tax would spread the tax burden to people who own no real estate or property. The drawback to this is the cost of appraising, verifying and collecting this tax. Many local governing bodies do not collect this tax due to the high delinquency rate and the difficulty of enforcing the tax.

Voters must remember they will be voting for or against all three provisions of this amendment. The three items may not be separated for voting purposes.

No. 2 - The second proposed constitutional amendment, Senate Joint Resolution 5, would authorize the Higher Education Coordinating Board to issue up to $300 million in general obligation bonds to finance educational loans to Texas students attending Texas colleges and universities. Vote For or Against.

Eight-year-old boy saves injured Floydada woman

By Alice Gilroy

It has been said that angels come in all different shapes and sizes and Valarie Green's guardian angel seems to have come in the shape of eight-year-old Shiloh Bradford.

Shiloh's sharp eyes and his father's quick action possibly saved the life of Mrs. Green after she fell in the driveway of her home on West Kentucky on Saturday morning.

Suffering from a broken pelvis, Mrs. Green, 67-years-old, lay for almost nine hours on hot and then cold concrete during Saturday's near 100 degree afternoon temperatures and the evening's rain showers.

"It was about 10:30 a.m. when I fell," said Mrs. Green. "I was going to my garage to get my car out so I could go to the store and service station. My foot twisted on a rock and I went splashing to the concrete. My pelvis was broken in the fall."

More than 80 feet back from the street, Mrs. Green lay in her fallen position, unable to move, until Shiloh Bradford spotted her from his family pickup.

"We were on our way to our shop (Norrell Tractor)," said Charles Bradford (who was driving the pickup), "when my son told me that he had seen a woman laying in the driveway. We turned around and pulled into the driveway to look. I still couldn't see her until I had looked at least twice and really focused on the area that Shiloh was telling me to look."

"Her clothes really blended in with the driveway and garage," said Shiloh, "but I didn't have any trouble seeing her at all."

Shiloh may not have had any trouble seeing her but evidently many people did, because it was not until 7:15 p.m. that Mrs. Green was found.

"I lay there seeing cars go by," said Mrs. Green, "and I was thinking about all the people that were driving by that wouldn't look over to where I was because they were just looking straight ahead at the road."

"I never got scared though. I knew someone would find me sooner or later."

A view from The Lamplighter

Things strange and not so strange are taking place in Austin as the Legislature winds its way to the end of yet another special session devoted, ostensibly, to solving the state's much advertised financial problems.

It has been obvious for some time that this session would be operating with smoke and mirrors, and nothing has happened to change that presumption. First, you may recall, there was the hue and cry about an impending $4.8 billion "shortfall" in revenue needed to just keep things going the way they were. Some of the rhetoric even has us facing a $5.2 billion "shortfall."

Most people, out in the real world, recognize a "shortfall" as the difference between what we bring in and what we must pay to meet our bills. But among the politicians, particularly the liberal politicians, a "shortfall" is the difference between what they have to spend and what they would like to spend, or what they would spend if no one was looking. Accordingly, there can always be a "shortfall" as far as those who believe in ever expanding government are concerned. To that extent the government of Texas has become a mirror image of the national government, where an increase in government spending can actually be sold, with the help of a willing press, as a reduction in government spending, as a "cut" in vital services.

We will end up, as usual, with an increase in taxes and with expenditures on state government going up even more

Redistricting hearing allows public input

By Juanita Stepp

Recently, appointed members of a citizens committee made a recommendation to the Floyd County Commissioners that they adopt Plan 1 for redistricting Floyd County Commissioners Precincts following the changes in population pointed out by the 1990 Census. This recommendation came under scrutiny at a public hearing on Tuesday, August 6.

Seven people attended the Floyd County Citizens Committee public hearing concerning the redistricting of the Floyd County Commissioners Precincts. The hearing, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m., was held in the County Courtroom and got underway at approximately 7:45 p.m. In addition to the seven, E. J. Kinslow, Navolia Kinslow, George Taylor, Milo Mumgaard, Michael Sarbanes, Joseph Stepp and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter, six members of the committee were present. These included Margaret Herrera, John Campbell, Jeff Johnson, Jessie Garza, Fidel Martinez and Kelton Shaw. Committee member Alex Wall was not present.

Two of the people attending, Mumgaard and Sarbanes, were present on behalf of the Texas Rural Legal Aid (TRLA) office in Plainview. The pair stated that they were at the meeting at the request of "some clients who have asked us to look into proposals which more appropriately meet the voting rights act than do the two plans formulated by the Floyd County Commissioners Court."

E. J. Kinslow, one of those in attendance, asked, "Who is the 'We' you represent?" Mumgaard replied, "Some folks from Floyd County who are concerned that their voting rights are protected."

Committee member Shaw asked, "Are these people coming to the meeting tonight to express their views?" Mumgaard responded that he and his colleague were in attendance for that purpose.

Mumgaard then told the committee and those present that they knew that the county had a lawyer and had received advice from him concerning the redistricting. "We feel that advice, the creation of one precinct with 65 percent minority population, is flawed and the main thrust of our proposal is to demonstrate that it is possible both geographically and demographically to create two precincts with 65 percent minority population which would more closely meet the needs of the current minority population which stands at 44 percent."

The proposals submitted by the TRLA representatives were in written form only and were unaccompanied by the necessary maps which would have detailed the precincts as proposed in the two plans. Mumgaard stated that they could provide the maps "in a few days." Herrera told the TRLA duo to submit their maps to County Judge Bill Hardin when they were available and that the Commissioners could then consider their two proposed plans along with Plan 1 and Plan 2 already under consideration.

Committee member Campbell said, "We have already made a recommendation to the Commissioners and in order to consider changing that recommendation, we need to see something definite and we need to see it tonight."

Jeff Johnson asked the pair "Does Plan 1, which we already recommended,

By The Way

By Alice Gilroy

If you are one of those people who gripes about our sports coverage and is always saying you can do it better—we sure would like you to try.

We are in desperate need of a sportswriter(part-time job) for Lockney.

Susy Smith (who was handling our sports) got a real job and has decided to let someone else have a chance.

We need someone with a understanding of football and basketball and who can put it down into words (minus your own opinion).

You would also have to keep track of the other sporting events at Junior High and High School in Lockney. You wouldn't necessarily have to be at all the events, but we would need results of the games.

If you enjoy people and sports, you'll enjoy the job! Give us a call if you're interested.

We are going to handle our football contest differently this year.

Instead of giving out Dallas Cowboy tickets at the end of the contest we will give away more money in 1st, 2nd and 3rd place prizes. Each week players will have a chance to win $25.00, $15.00 and $10.00.

There will only be one contest for Lockney and Floydada and the sponsors of the game will also have a chance to win something.

At the end of the ten weeks, we will draw out the name of one sponsor. The winner will be given $50.00 cash or $50.00 credit. This is one way to thank the people who make all these cash prizes possible!

There is a really neat story in this week's paper about Shiloh Bradford and his family helping out an injured Floydada woman.

Shiloh's father, Charles Bradford, wanted me to mention that the ambulance crew is still in need of more volunteers to help out.

I couldn't figure out a place in the story to put it, so I'm saying it now.

If you're interested, you'll be trained to be an ECA (emergency care attendant). Anybody interested in volunteering should contact Rhonda Guthrie at 983-5089.

The new chiropractor had a good turnout at his bar-b-que on Sunday. He said he served a little over 250 people.

I sure appreciate the work him and his family put into the affair. I wish him Good Luck with his business.

The fair was a big success. It was miserably hot and all the volunteers really hung in there with smiles on their faces. I was very impressed.

The parade on Saturday was great. I personally think it was the best fair parade I have seen in a long time (and it's not just because my kid was on one of the floats).

Thanks to everyone who worked so hard to bring the fair to us. It is no small undertaking and I really appreciate their work.

My husband heard something on a radio program the other day that I would like to pass on to everyone.

The radio host (Rush Limbaugh) was telling everyone about a commencement ceremony at a high school in California.

A California Supreme Court Judge had told the school that because of the laws of separation of church and state that the word God could not be used in the commencement service(his interpretation of course).

They were made to understand that they could not open the service with prayer or give speeches alluding to God, etc.

When it came time for the Valedictorian to give his speech, it was short and very much to the point.

The Valedictorian came to the microphone and sneezed.

All of the graduating seniors on the floor, then stood and shouted—God Bless You!

Five burglaries and two criminal mischiefs were cleared up after the arrest of three juveniles, Thursday, July 25.

According to police reports the alarm at Thompson Pharmacy was activated at 6:59 p.m. The area was checked by police and all doors and windows were secured.

At 8:00 p.m. someone told a police officer that they had seen three juveniles crawl into the window behind Thompson.

Police then checked the area again and found three juveniles in the alley behind Thompsons. The juveniles had stolen property in their possession.

After questioning of these juveniles another juvenile was implicated in the burglaries.

According to Police Chief James Hale, "The juveniles entered Thompsons and then got into the chamber office by way of a shared storage area. The juveniles also burglarized the storage garage of Gary Bennett's which is also close to Thompson's."

"Some of the items stolen during the burglaries were: a jam box, tapes, camera, food and drinks, walkman radio, telephone, T-shirts, pencils, shotgun and an irrigation battery."

After questioning the police have cleared other burglaries and criminal mischiefs, including the July 22 vandalism and burglary of a business in the 300 block of W. California. Over $3,000 in damage was done to the interior of that business.

The person who reported sighting the juveniles at Thompson's has been paid a reward from Crime Line.

Also on July 25, police took a report of a criminal mischief at the highway department. A dump truck was shot by a 22 bullet.

According to Hale, "The shot came from the west side of the highway department and then entered the north door of the highway department, went into the shop area and hit the side of the dump truck. The bullet was found on the floor in the shop area. It appears the bullet made two 90 degree turns, but the case is still under investigation."

On July 25, at 2:31 a.m., John Gonzales Suniga, 30, of Floydada, was arrested for assault after police were called to a domestic disturbance call.

A criminal mischief was reported on July 26 at the Cogdell Clinic. All three outside doors of the clinic were damaged when someone tried to hammer and pry the hinges off of the doors. Approximately $200.00 in damage was done to each door.

July 29, a burglary of a habitation in the 1000 block of S. Wall was reported to police. Stolen from the residence as a wedding ring set valued at $1900.00. The rings were last seen on July 22.

Also on July 29, Rubina Torres, 21, of Floydada was arrested for public intoxication.

July 30 at 7:55 p.m. police received report of a burglary of a home which occurred on July 28. The owner told police that he had left the home unlocked for a short time and when he returned his Quasar Portable TV was missing. The owner set the value of the TV at $400.00.

ACCIDENTS

On August 3, at 10:20 a.m. police investigated an accident at the intersection of 500 5th Street and 100 Georgia.

A Mercury Marquis and a Chrysler Sundance were both traveling north on S. 5th Street when the driver of the Sundance made an improper U turn in the intersection an ran into the Marquis. There were no injuries.

Police also investigated an accident at the intersection of 400 W. Jackson and 200 N. 2nd.

According to the report the driver of a 1976 Ford Granada stopped at the stop sign on W. Jackson and a young boy ran out in front of the car just as the driver was pulling forward into 2nd Street.

The boy was hit on the left hip by the vehicle. He was taken to the hospital by his mother and was examined and released.

City Auto, Inc. recently earned top honors in the 1990 GMC Truck "5 Star Performers" program — an annual nationwide retail truck sales honor and recognition program.

Traditionally, five stars have designated excellence. From Generals to movies to restaurants . . . a "Five-Star" distinction has symbolized the elite, the finest, the cream of the crop. GMC Truck "5 Star Performers" are no exception.

The "5 Star Performers" distinction is the most prestigious honor GMC Truck bestows on its very best dealers.

City Auto was recognized for demonstrating a commitment to excellence by achieving superior performance in the areas of Sales, Customer Satisfaction, Service, Training, Parts and Accessories, and Business Management.

Last year's marketplace offered challenging conditions and difficult objectives for GMC Truck dealerships. City Auto, Inc. accepted these challenges with enthusiasm and achieved success.

This accomplishment is considerable. Out of almost 3,000 dealers, only about 10% are among this elite group of "5 Star Performers."

Congressman Sarpalius plans town hall meeting in Floydada

Congressman Bill Sarpalius will have a town hall meeting at 12:00 noon on Friday, Aug. 16, at the Floyd County Courthouse in Floydada.

The congressman said the meeting is designed to give Floyd County residents an opportunity to share their views and concerns with him and to ask him questions about the activities of their federal government.

"We are living in momentous times," Sarpalius said. "Congress is going to make some extremely important decisions during the next two years, decisions that could have a big effect on people in Floyd County and throughout the 13th Congressional District.

"I want to make sure our voices are heard in Washington, and that's where these town hall meetings can help. It gives everyone a chance to exchange ideas and to decide what is most important to us in our part of Texas. Our government really does work best when we work together.

"I look forward to seeing everyone in Floyd County on August 16," the congressman said.

Hospital board discusses bad debts and recruitment

Caprock Hospital board members met at a called meeting, Tuesday night, at 7:00 p.m., to discuss bad debts and recruitment plans.

Hospital Administrator Terry Keltz explained that the hospital had approximately $800,000 in debts that had already been deemed uncollectable by the hospital and several collection agencies.

"If there has been no activity on what the patient is responsible for, then after 90 days to satisfy the debt or make arrangements for payment, it is given to a collection agency.

"At this point the account is taken out of Accounts Receivable and put into bad debts.

"If the collection agency is unsuccessful in collecting an account and they realize it is uncollectable then the account is turned back to the hospital.

"At that point it is customary not to put it back into bad debts, but to write it off. However, at Caprock Hospital these accounts have been put back into bad debts. The bad debt account really looks scary for that reason because some of these accounts go back to 1980.

"We would like authority from the board to write off these accounts and get them out of our computer."

Dianne Emert, with the accounting department of the hospital, told the board members that the bad debts had always been saved because the board had requested in the past to keep these accounts open. "The reason was that they thought we should have a record of who has not paid so maybe we could have some leverage if that person ever came back into the hospital for treatment. But I have found that it doesn't make any difference anyway. Even if they owe us money, if they come into the emergency room, we can't turn them away. A lot of these accounts are for emergency room work."

Fred Thayer then suggested to the other board members that the accounting department make up a list of bad debts and break the list down into accounts from 0-$500.00; $500.00-$1,000, and over $1,000. "We can write off the figures under $500.00 and try and collect one more time on the larger amounts," said Thayer.

"Maybe we can offer the larger accounts a discount if they pay," said Jim Word. "That is what the collection agency would do, and we might as well try that one more time and get the money ourselves instead of giving it to the collection agency."

The board then agreed to look at the bad debt list and write off the smaller accounts and to review the larger debts.

Keltz then presented the board with a handout in which he outlined Caprock Hospital's recruitment plan.

"We are working on recruitment in different areas," said Keltz.

"Methodist Hospital has three physician search firms working for them which work on a contract basis. The firms are Jackson and Coker, which is a nationally recognized physician search firm and probably the best there is. They also use Merritt, Hawkins and Associates which is second only to Jackson and Coker. Methodist Hospital also has the firm Medical Support Services on contract. These firms are involved in advertising in national publications as well as other areas of physician contact.

"Methodist Hospital is also involved in independent searches of regional services through their area contacts.

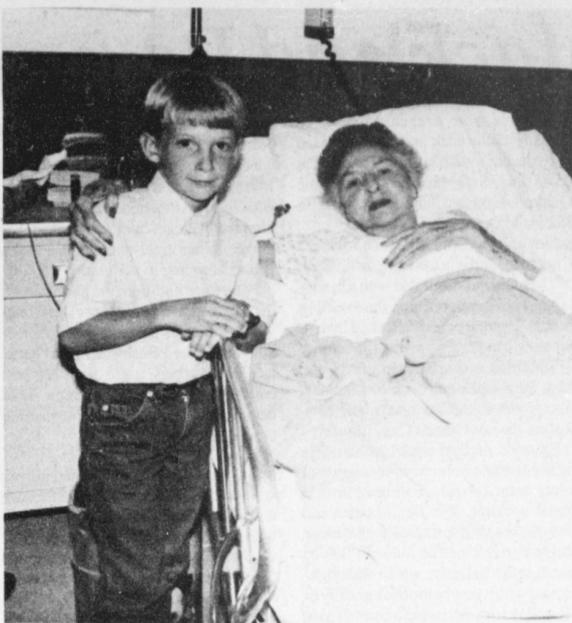

"Here at Caprock, I am working with contingency firms that require no contracts. We only pay them if they find us a physician that comes to work for us. I am working with Management Recruiters of Lubbock; Bruce J. Kelly & Associates, of Leawood, Kansas; Focus Healthcare, of Louisville, Kentucky; Gould Group, of Dallas, and other contingency groups.

"I also attend recruitment programs and follow up on all leads.

"We are also getting help through the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, Friends of the Caprock, and other civic organizations whenever we need them."

The board also discussed upcoming meetings Keltz could attend in which he could meet prospective doctors. Keltz also told the board of two doctors that he had been told about from one of the contingency firms. There was nothing definite on these doctors, but Keltz hoped to be in contact with the doctors soon.

Present for the board meeting were: Administrator Terry Keltz; board members Joy Assiter, Fred Thayer, Jim Word, Jerry Thompson and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter.

A VERY SPECIAL VISITOR--Mrs. Valarie Green (right) was able to thank Shiloh Bradford (left) in person for discovering her laying in her driveway, on Saturday, after she had fallen and broken her pelvis. I felt like if I had to wait until late I could holler for my neighbors who had gone fishing. They usually get back late and they park their boat in the backyard. I think they would have heard me when I hollered."

Charles Bradford (an EMT for Floydada) is not as sure that Mrs. Green would have been heard. "The boat is pretty far off and she was pretty well hidden from her neighbors' view. When we got there her voice was very weak. We could hardly hear her."

"When I first fell," said Mrs. Green, "the shade from the garage shielded me. A pecan tree provided shade until about 3:00 p.m. and then the shade got skimpy. I was worried about getting blistered so I tried to keep my face covered with my hands. Then it started raining on me. It was still raining when the Bradfords found me. I was soaked through and I was freezing. It took a heating pad and six blankets on me at the hospital before I felt like I was getting warm again."

"If she had continued to lay out there through the night after getting so wet, she could have easily suffered from hypothermia," said Bradford. "The doctor said there was already some fluid in her lungs and they immediately started treating her for pneumonia."

"When we found her my whole family did great at following instructions and helping out," said Bradford. "Shiloh got a wool blanket out of the trunk of her car to cover her. My wife (Lori) went inside the house and found Mrs. Green's medication and got on the phone to call the ambulance. I was on ambulance standby and had the keys to the ambulance in my pocket. After the phone call, Ted Porter (also on ambulance standby), came to the house to check on us and get the keys. He came back with the ambulance within just a few minutes.

"B.J. Villarreal (another ambulance volunteer) lived close by and he also came to help. He and his two kids held a card table over Mrs. Green so she would be protected from the rain while I worked on getting her ready to transport to the hospital."

Monday afternoon Shiloh was allowed in Mrs. Green's room at Lockney General for a brief moment for picture taking. This was the first opportunity for the two to speak to each other face to face since the accident, and both were very glad to see each other.

"I'm very grateful to you Shiloh," said Green.

"I'm glad you're better now," answered Shiloh quietly.

Mrs. Green was born in Tahoka and moved to Floydada in 1952. She has lived alone since her husband, James Starks Green, passed away in 1978. She has lived in her current house since 1966.

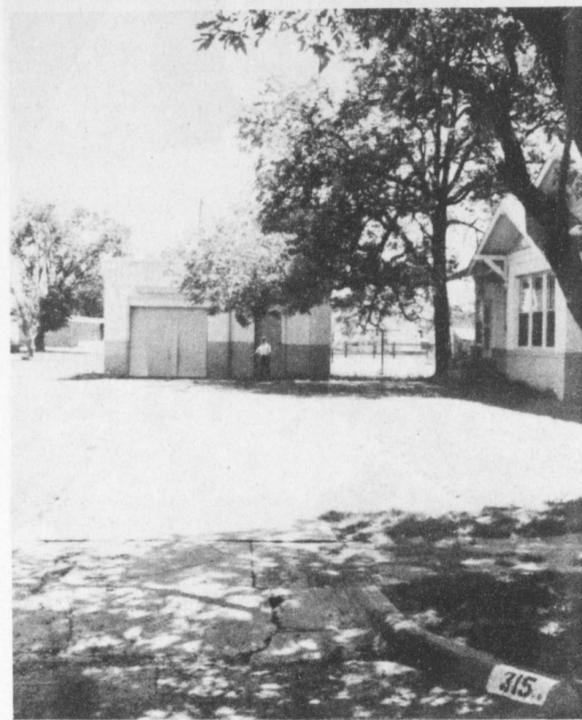

Green's plans for the future include purchasing a beeper system that will call for help if she ever falls again.

Shiloh's plans to be a pharmacist in the future. He also plans to keep watching his favorite TV show—"911".

Hearing allows public input meets the voting rights standards?"

The reply was that it meets the first standard set by the Voting Rights Act of 1964 but does not go far enough. Mumbaard said, "The act requires a voting precinct in which 65 percent of the population is minority if the minority population of the area is more than 20 percent. Case law in the Supreme Court dictates a voting precinct for every 20 percent of the population that is minority. Thus, 44 percent minority population would mean creating two Commissioners precincts with 65 percent minority population."

Another person in attendance at the session, Joseph Stepp, pointed out that this was unfair to the more than 60 percent of the county population remaining. "If you create two voting districts with predominately minority population to accommodate 44 percent of the county population, you are allowing two-fifths of the people 50 percent of the power in the county. This tosses out the principal of majority rule which our entire country was founded on."

Johnson also added the point that however the lines were drawn, they would have to facilitate the providing of county services by the Commissioners. The hearing was called to a close at 8:30 p.m. with no decision in evidence.

Campbell proposed that the committee members remain to settle on a decision and this was agreed to by the others.

A telephone conversation with Margaret Herrera on Wednesday morning, August 7, revealed that the committee decided to let their earlier recommendation for the adoption of Plan I stand. This message will be conveyed to the Commissioners Court.

Courtroom Activities

There were no cases filed in county court.

In district court, Guadalupe Trevino, 17, of Floydada, pled guilty to Burglary of a Habitation and Burglary of a Vehicle.

He was sentenced to nine years which was probated for nine years. He was also ordered to pay a fine of $500.00 and $500.00 restitution.

In J.P. court from July 16 - August 6, there were 64 misdemeanor cases filed. Of those 64, two were public intoxication charges.

Charged on July 27 with PI, were: Vernon Lee Mergerson, 21, of Nacogdoches; and Ricky Session, 32, of Seymour.

Jack and Pare exchange nuptials

Nuptials were exchanged between Christie Laine Jack and Gregory Alan Pare during a double ring ceremony at 3:00 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 3, in the Quaker Avenue Church of Christ in Lubbock. Evangelist Frank Duckworth, pastor of West College and Third Street Church of Christ in Lockney, officiated. The altar was decorated with a candelabra, holding tapers, and the kneeling bench. The unity candle flanked by two separate candles completed the setting. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Delton Jack of Lockney. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pare of Granite City, Illinois. Escorted and presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin brocade fashioned with a round neckline. The fitted bodice and box sleeves were trimmed with beaded embroidered lace. The full skirt flowed into a cathedral train, which was highlighted with a bow in the back and lily of the valley trim. She wore a beaded-pearl crown with beaded venice trim edging the fingertip veil. The bride's silk bouquet was designed of mauve roses and white lilies intertwined with greenery. Attached to the bouquet was a lace trimmed handkerchief which had belonged to her great-grandmother and a Bible belonging to her mother. Following tradition, the bride carried the handkerchief belonging to her great-grandmother as something old; something new was a freshwater pearl necklace and earrings, a gift from her parents; something borrowed was the Bible belonging to her mother, and something blue was her garter.

Bonnie Jordan of Sugarland served her sister as matron of honor. She wore a rose brocade tea length dress designed with rounded neckline, tulip sleeves and candy box bows in front and back. She carried a nosegay of silk roses and lilies. Flower girls were nieces of the bride, Jessica Jordan of Sugarland and Adrian Walthers of San Antonio. They wore matching dresses in a mauve and cream floral pattern and carried mauve baskets. Best man was David James of Granite City, Illinois. Ushers were Jeff Pare of Granite City, Ill., brother of the groom, and Brad Roe of Lubbock. Music during the ceremony was presented by A-Capella Chorus from Quaker Avenue Church of Christ, Lubbock. A reception followed the ceremony. Serving at the bride's table were Regina Kay Walthers, sister of the bride of San Antonio; Lora Evans and Penny Nelson, both of Lubbock. Linda McNew and Stacy Mann, both of Lubbock, presided at the groom's table. Following a wedding trip to Jamaica, the couple will make their home in Lubbock. A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents on Friday evening at the Koko Inn in Lubbock. Clothing helps beat the heat

By Sandra Avant

If you're looking for ways to keep cooler in the Texas summer heat, a clothing specialist suggests taking a look at your wardrobe.

The type of clothing you wear can make a big difference in how comfortable you are indoors and outdoors, said Dr. Ann V. Beard with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

"Color, design, fiber, finishes and the fit of a garment are factors that affect clothing's ability to keep you cool," Beard said. "Choosing clothes that allow your body heat to escape, and those that reflect rather than absorb radiation in direct sunlight will make you more comfortable."

Clothes can absorb moisture through evaporation — the primary means of body heat loss — to help keep you cool. However, if moisture stays on the surface of the fabric, you will feel hot and sticky, Beard said.

When selecting outfits to wear on hot summer days, keep these tips in mind:

- * Absorbent fibers such as cotton, linen, silk, rayon and wool are good choices, although wool is seldom worn during summer months in Texas.

- * Soil-release finishes increase absorbency while stain-resistant and wrinkle-resistant finishes decrease absorbency.

- * Open-weave and open-knit fabrics allow for ventilation unless they are so open that they require additional layers of inner garments. Lightweight fabrics are more comfortable than heavy or bulky ones.

- * Smooth-textured fabrics are cooler than rough ones. And fabrics that do not cling to the body are more comfortable because they allow air to circulate.

- * White and light colors reflect the sun's rays, so wearing these colors makes you cooler. Dark colors absorb heat and will be warmer.

- * Loose-fitting clothing is cooler because it allows for air circulation and the evaporation of body moisture. Look for garments with open or large necks and armholes. Wear full skirts or pants with straight rather than fitted legs. Wear shirts and blouses outside skirts and pants for maximum comfort. Avoid anything that fits tightly. One layer is cooler than several.

- * Inner garments, accessories and cleanliness of clothing affect heat retention, too. Wear absorbent inner garments and be sure to keep all clothing clean. Choose loose, lightweight accessories that do not restrict air flow.

"By making the right clothing choices," Beard says, "you'll be a step ahead in beating the Texas heat this summer."

The special blending of juices and ginger ale create an iced treat you'll want to eat often throughout the summer. Go ahead and enjoy — it's low-salt, no cholesterol and has only a trace of fat.

| 1/2 cup | water | 1 cup | orange juice |
| 1 1/2 cups | sugar | 1/2 cup | lemon juice |
| | 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten | 1/2 cup | pineapple juice |
| | | 3 cups | ginger ale |

In a saucepan, heat the water and 1 cup of the sugar to the boiling point and cook until the syrup reaches the soft-ball stage — 234° F. to 238° F.

Beat the egg whites until stiff. Continue beating while gradually adding 1/2 cup of the sugar. Slowly pour the hot syrup into the egg whites, beating constantly until mixture has cooled. Then gradually beat in the ginger ale and fruit juices.

Place in the freezer until partially frozen, then remove and whip quickly. Pour into freezing trays, cover and return to the freezer. The texture should resemble that of an Italian ice.

C.I. presents apparel ideas

Cotton Incorporated recently presented "Renew," it's Apparel Selling Ideas trend presentation for Fall/Winter 1992-93. "What's most important about this season is color," says Lydia Caffery, director, apparel fashion marketing for Cotton Incorporated.

"Color is an essential selling tool for the season and it will continue to drive the basics," says Caffery. "Our colors for fall reflect the consumers growing demand for intense colors, not just bright or dark." The presentation spotlights four distinct trends: Culture Clash, Home and Hearth, Technature and Great Escapes.

Research for "Renew" was conducted in Tokyo, Paris, London and Amsterdam. "Cotton Incorporated tracks fashion trends 18 months before they impact retail sales," says Caffery. "Through our 'Selling Ideas' presentations we distribute new cotton ideas to mills, manufacturers and designers who translate them into retail products. Our research and marketing strategies help make fashionable items, constructed of U.S. cotton, available to today's fashion conscious consumer."

Booker and Zumwalt attend training camp

Future Homemakers of America, Regional Officers, Lila Booker and Kyla Zumwalt, recently attended an officer training camp at the Texas Utilities Camp in Trinidad, Texas. At their two day stay at TU Electric, they received one on one training in areas such as public speaking, and Parliamentary Procedure, which the officers are required to use as they represent the FHA/HERO chapters across Region I in the upcoming school year.

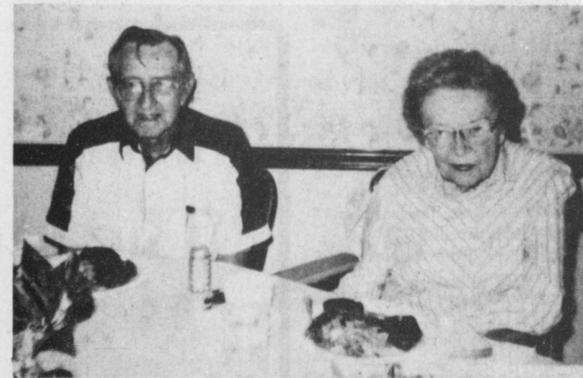

From Trinidad they travelled to Dallas where the summer planned sessions for the regional meetings was order. The Executive Council Meeting lasted for three days. During these intense three days of planning and preparation for the Region I Leadership Conference scheduled for February 28 and 29, FHA Officer advisors, Julie Ellison and Treena Aston worked alongside.

Kyla Zumwalt was nominated and elected as state Recreation Committee Chairperson for the Executive Council Meeting and presided over each of the Recreation Officers from the Future Homemakers of America, Texas delegation.

Lila Booker was nominated and elected as co-chairperson of the FHA/HERO Records Committee.

Lila and Kyla are both eager to begin their projects and workshops in not only the representation of the community of Lockney. They wish to thank all those who have supported them on all of their educational and memorable trips to help further the successes of youth in today's society. To LISD, and the following who recognized and donated to their assistance they sincerely thank you: Brown's Department Store, Kellison Spraying, Robert Webb, White's Auto, D & J Gin, Cargill Seed, att. Richard Larson, Lockney First National Bank and Davis Lumber. These vocational home economics supports have truly made a difference.

Bust pork barrel politics

By Paul Beckner

Hallelujah! Finally, a few brave congressional souls have stood up—not to say something—but to actually do something. After years of horror stories about how Uncle Sam dispenses with your money, legislation has been introduced to try to end that never-ending nightmare known as pork-barrel spending.

Right. And pigs fly. Really, I'm not kidding; in this case they just might.

Freshman Senator Bob Smith (R-NH) along with Representatives Harris Fawell (R-IL) and Tim Penny (D-MN) have introduced legislation that ceases spending on 325 programs contained within the current fiscal year 1991 budget. The targeted programs total over $1 billion in dubious spending. Because the government's fiscal year runs from the beginning of October through the end of September, some of the money is already spent. But, spending for the designated wasteful programs would stop dead in its tracks if the bill becomes law. Taxpayers would save significantly. The effort marks the first known attempt to cut fat from the federal pig with precision of a surgeon, yet with the effect of a butcher.

But can a few earnest congressman grab hold of the federal pig? After all, newspapers delight in pointing out the wasteful spending that received Washington's rubber stamp of approval each year. Lawmakers, of course, complain about pork, though they never mention the funds that went to the folks back home in the same breath. In fact, congressmen often dismiss the hoopla surrounding any number of projects with the lame excuse that what is usually described as pork-barrel spending is just another congressman's project. In other words, everybody participates. And former Senator William Proxmire (D-WI) spent years highlighting government waste and mismanagement with his monthly Golden Fleece awards. Despite years of juicy publicity, no one ever seems to be able to fence the wily pig in.

The bill's authors intend to change that. Smith, Fawell, and Penny, with the assistance of the "Porkbusters" coalition (of which CSE is a leading member), devised an objective set of provisions to determine the most indefensible pork-barrel spending. To be included in the legislation, an item must have met at least three of seven conditions identifying pork.

How has some of the wasteful spending qualified? Some of the items in the bill, for instance, have never been the subject of a congressional hearing.

Many others were classified because they mysteriously wormed into bills that they were not part of originally. This situation usually occurs after both the House and Senate have passed similar bills, but a few differences remain to be worked out between the two chambers' versions. Meetings between congressmen and senators—known as conference committees—take place to iron out areas of disagreement. There, out of public view, much unnecessary pork suddenly appears, and takes on new life as parts of bills that have just had their major differences resolved. Such behind-closed-doors deal-making happens all too often.

A number of pork projects weren't added behind closed doors at all. Some simply had no particular national or regional significance. Others had little or nothing to do with the legislation to which they were attached. But all of the items that are part of this legislation must meet three of the seven conditions.

So, what types of projects received blessings last year to cook all this federal bacon? Just a few samples are guaranteed to give you indigestion:

* $150,000 to interpret the Hatfield-McCoy feud

* $25,000 for a study concerning the placement of a new gymnasium for House of Representatives staff personnel

* $94,000 to study why apples bruise

* $5 million for a new parliament building on the Solomon Islands.

Will your congressman chicken out when given a chance to clean out the big, fat, slippery pig's trough? Call him to find out.

plans to attend college and get a degree in business. She would eventually like to become a postmaster. Her idea of a great vacation would be to go to Holland.

Amber Poole was named fourth runner-up. She is the 16-year-old daughter of Lance and Melissa Poole of Dougherty. She attends school in Floydada and her hobbies include reading, twirling, playing tennis and watching the young pro tennis stars on TV.

She was deemed for her friendly warmth and charm that touched the other contestants in a special way.

The judges select the girl with the most sophistication and maturity at the very beginning of the interview session for the Judges Award.

The judging, after the interviews were completed, ended in a tie. The judges awarded the title of Best Interview to Lisa Perez because she did an excellent job and since she was the younger of the two they felt that she was special.

Miss Perez is the 13-year-old daughter of Severo and Hope Perez of Lockney.

Participation medals were presented to Shonda Guthrie, 17-year-old daughter of Larry and Rhonda Guthrie of Floydada; Amanda Garcia, 13-year-old daughter of Lucy Ann Villarreal of Floydada; Chelsea Patridge, 13-year-old daughter of Lance and Susan Patridge of Lockney; Leigha Wood, 13-year-old daughter of Connie Barnett and Johnny Wood of Lockney; and Shirley Torres, 14-year-old daughter of Olivia and Oseas Torres of Lockney.

she has made enough people recognize that she is a winner."

"If you can walk away from the pageant feeling good about what you have learned here then you are truly a winner. I will always remember my year as Miss Floyd County."

Amendment allows assessment

Cotton referendum passes

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) officially announced the passage of the Cotton Research and Promotion Referendum.

Passage of the referendum will amend the Cotton Research and Promotion Program allowing the assessment of imported raw cotton and the cotton content of imported textiles and apparel, and eliminate the current refund provision. Producer refunds will end thirty days following the official USDA notice dated August 2. Collection of import assessments is expected to begin around the end of this calendar year.

"The successful outcome of the referendum clearly demonstrates U.S. cotton producers' confidence in the Cotton Research and Promotion Program," says Cotton Board chairman William H. McCoy, Jr., producer from Oswego, South Carolina. "The increased funds derived from a uniform assessment will now enable Cotton Incorporated to expand its vital market building activities."

As a result of the successful referendum, the Cotton Board will recommend to USDA a reduction in the assessment rate to be effective for the 1992-93 crop year. Due to the amount of time necessary to implement a change in the assessment rate, a lower level will not affect the 1991 crop.

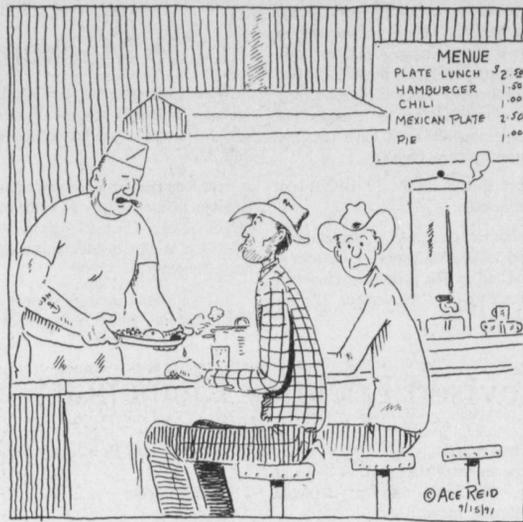

The current assessment rate is one dollar per bale plus six tenths of one percent of the value. The Cotton Board will determine the recommended rate change at its annual meeting in September.

Sixty percent of the U.S. cotton growers and importers voted in favor of the amendments addressed by the referendum.

Cooperative research yields trash extractor

The recent commercialization of multistage trash extractor illustrates the type of cooperative research which is building the U.S. cotton industry's reputation for quality — fiber quality, that is.

The multistage trash extractor is the result of nearly eight years of cooperative research work between Cotton Incorporated and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It provides a solution to reducing the trash and stick content of cotton at the gin level, thereby reducing penalties caused by barmy grades. USDA received a patent for the multistage trash extractor in January 1991.

Researcher Roy Baker, at USDA's South Plains Ginning Research Laboratory, conducted the initial research projects, which led to the pilot-design of the machine. Cotton Incorporated, the research and promotion company for U.S. Upland cotton, provided financial and technical assistance from the beginning.

In the later developmental stages, Lubbock Cotton Growers Gin and New-Tex Gin, in Plains, contributed their facilities and cotton samples to the project. Continental Eagle, a manufacturer of ginning machinery, offered reduced prices on parts for the USDA prototype machine, and Consolidated HGM provided funds to field test the prototype and manufacture the new trash extractor.

Baker says, "In the beginning, our primary research goal was to fulfill the need for better bur and stick extraction which existed in stripper-harvested areas. Burs and sticks tend to get broken up when they reach the gin stand, which can cost producers $15 to $20 per bale in bark penalties.

"In our first few years of research, we examined a number of modifications to the basic sling-off principle of stick extraction," Baker says. "For instance, we looked at various saw and grid designs, different arrangements of saw cylinders, saw speeds and feed rates. From this initial research, we incorporated all the best changes into one single machine and began refining the new features."

"We tested the new features in the laboratory on a one-foot wide machine. It showed positive results. However, we wanted to build a full-size prototype," Baker says.

Through an organization called the Ginning Consortium, USDA made contacts with companies, such as Continental Eagle and Consolidated HGM, which led to further funding.

Dr. Bill Lalor, vice president of Agriculture Research at Cotton Incorporated, describes the Ginning Consortium as "an industry group consisting of researchers, sponsors of research and manufacturers of ginning machinery. The Consortium believes that any information coming out of any lab ought to be put to use, if there is indeed a good use for it. Also, the Ginning Consortium is a unified way for the industry to identify and stop and duplication in ginning research."

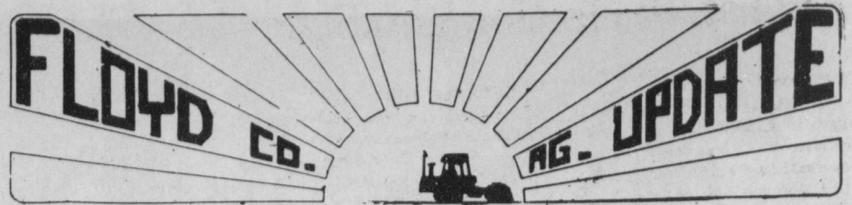

Baker continues, "With help from Continental Eagle on the parts and continuing assistance from Cotton Incorporated, plus our own funds, we built a full-scale, 6-foot wide prototype."

In the first prototype tests, the multistage machine, consisting of five saws, removed 11- to 20-percent more trash from stripped cotton than did a conventional setup, consisting of one bur and stick machine (4 saws) and a stick machine (2 saws).

"Our next step was finding an industrial cooperator who was willing to underwrite the cost for commercialization of the machine," Baker says. Consolidated HGM answered USDA's request for joining a Cooperative Research and Development Contract.

"They paid a majority of the bill to install the prototype in Lubbock Cotton Growers Gin for field testing and provided labor for running the tests. USDA paid for analyzing the samples, and Cotton Incorporated provided a technician for the field tests."

Price slump due to large supply

Cattle feeders' returns plunged deep into the red in early July. Beef supplies were building seasonally, and Choice slaughter steer prices slid to the lower $70s.

Further slaughter increases are likely into late summer. They'll add to the downward price pressure and could bring an abrupt halt to a trend started in 1986—the last time a quarter's total commercial cattle slaughter did not fall below a year earlier.

Prices should rebound seasonally this fall, putting some black back in feeders' ledgers. However, continued strong feeder cattle prices are keeping projected breakevens at historically high levels. And, fall's slaughter may stay above last year's.

Cattle slaughter has increased more than usual since early spring. That's why cattle feeders' returns have been falling far short of covering full production costs for months.

By early summer, estimated costs for finishing 725-pound steers were $79 to $80 per hundredweight (cwt.). With finished steers trading in the low $70s, many producers were losing $60 to $80 a head.

In addition, summer quarter fed cattle marketings probably will increase from spring levels, a sharp departure from the past two years' trends. July to September steer and heifer slaughter could be 2 to 4 percent higher than 1990's third quarter average.

Partially offsetting this increase, summer's cow slaughter should remain below last year's. Total commercial cattle slaughter may therefore average about 4 percent above the previous quarter's and just 2 percent more than 1990's.

Summer's choice slaughter steer prices probably will average between $71 and $74 per cwt., about 4 to 7 percent below the year-earlier level. At times, however, bunched marketings and heavy marketing weights could push prices below $70.

In October to December, fed steer and heifer slaughter could be 1 to 2 percent higher. But continued reductions in cow slaughter should temper the increase in total slaughter.

Fed cattle's weekly prices may range from the lower $70s in early fall to the upper $70s by year's end. For the October-December quarter, they should average in the mid to upper $70s. When combined with fall's lower feed costs, this price rebound should help producers' feeding margins improve.

Cow slaughter also declined about 4 percent under last year's first-half kill. The decrease reflected a cutback in beef cow slaughter, which dropped nearly 10 percent. Dairy cow slaughter rose close to 4 percent.

Horizons are expanded for low-fat ground beef

Low-fat ground beef, the product of industry-funded research, is finding its way into meals eaten all across the country, both in restaurants and homes.

According to the director of Industry Relations of the Texas Beef Industry Council, consumers will see a variety of ways to merge their love for beef with lower-fat diets that emphasize nutrition. The development of low-fat ground beef was funded, in part, by Floyd County beef producers through investments in the beef checkoff, to keep beef aligned with the health interests of today's consumers.

The low-fat ground beef concept is particularly exciting to the beef industry because it offers benefits to those who enjoy eating beef and are concerned with good nutrition, allowing those interests to be more readily combined. Low-fat ground beef provides an additional opportunity for planning healthy and realistic meals.

Another promising possibility for low-fat ground beef is the National School Lunch program, where the product was introduced last year to create lower-fat hamburgers. Low-fat ground beef could allow Texas school children to reduce the amount of fat they consume each day, without having to cut back on their food favorites.

Fresh and frozen beef sold in supermarkets, and prepared frozen beef entrees are additional fields in which low-fat beef is expected to soon be readily available. In fact the product is already among the fresh beef sold at some divisions of major retail chains.

Low-fat ground beef also is being explored for use in special or restricted meals prepared by hospitals, nursing homes and other federally funded food-service operations.

Low fat ground beef is a prime example of how important research is to an industry in terms of keeping products viable and attractive to the current market. Meat scientists, with funding through the beef checkoff, developed low-fat ground beef in answer to perceived needs of today's health-conscious consumers. The results of their efforts are helping meet that demand.

Unit or "man-day" explanation given

Figuring out what farmers are required to do under the Fair Labor Standards Act can sometimes be confusing for everyone, according to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. (PCG).

"We have received several calls from producers since the new minimum wage became effective on April 1," explains PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson. "Many area producers are concerned about whether or not they must pay the $4.25 per hour rate."

The unit used to calculate whether or not the federal minimum wage must be paid to agricultural laborers is the "man-day". One "man-day" is defined as any day in which an employee performs agricultural related labor for at least one hour.

The maximum number of "man-days" a farmer can accumulate during each calendar quarter of a year is 500. Farmers with fewer than 500 "man-days" in each quarter are exempt from the federal minimum wage requirement.

In 1991 a producer that used more than 500 "man-days" of agricultural labor during each calendar quarter of 1990 must pay the federal minimum wage of $4.25. If fewer than 500 "man-days" were used during each calendar quarter in 1990 the farmer is exempt from paying federal minimum wage.

"Man-days" worked by members of a farmers immediate family are exempt from the 500 "man-days" limit.

For 1992 a producer who uses less than the 500 "man-day" limit during any calendar quarter of 1991 will be exempt from the federal minimum wage requirement in 1992. In Texas, however, producers are still required to pay employees at least $3.35 per hour under the Texas Minimum Wage Act of 1970.

Determining the number of "man-days" used in one calendar quarter is relatively easy. A simple example is a farmer who hires three people to work for one week. Assuming each person worked for at least one hour a day for five days the farmer would accumulate a total of 15 "man-days" during the five-day recording period.

Members of a farmers immediate family are also exempt under the federal requirements, even though they may be required to pay the federal minimum wage to other workers.

Volunteers needed to boost puncturevine weevil numbers

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES), Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX) and Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. (PCG) are looking for a few volunteers to help boost the number of puncturevine weevils found on the High Plains.

The weevils, which feed and reproduce only on puncturevine, were first introduced to the High Plains in the mid-sixties to help control this weed, more commonly known as "goat-head". Initial releases survived in much of the area. The surviving weevils eventually helped to curb the spread of the weed.

It is suspected that the weevils caused their own population reduction. After successfully reducing the amount of puncturevine found on the High Plains by the mid-seventies the weevils may have found a lack of host plants. Weevil numbers dropped but unfortunately over the last several years puncturevine has again become a significant pest and the weevil population has been unable to keep pace with the expansion.

The goal of TAES, TAEX and PCG is to give the surviving population a leg-up on its natural expansion by recruiting a number of farmers and ranchers around the area to purchase weevils and release them on their property in the next several weeks. The resulting natural control should eventually help reduce the puncturevine population.

"The idea behind finding a few farmers and ranchers in the High Plains area to help boost populations of these very beneficial weevils is really a monetary one," explains Roger Haldenby, PCG Boll Weevil Control Program Coordinator who is working closely with Dr. Don Rummel, Research Scientist TAES. "By enlisting the aid of area producers we should be able to give the population of the puncturevine weevil a significant boost and hopefully reestablish this effective control of the puncturevine."

Interested parties should contact either Roger Haldenby (806) 792-4904 or Dr. Don Rummel (806) 746-6101 by August 12. Further releases are planned for the spring of 1992.

Livestock need access to abundant, safe water supply

If livestock do not have daily access to adequate amounts of safe water their intake of feed, including roughages and concentrates, will be reduced, production will be lowered and the owner will suffer an economic loss.

Safe supplies of water are essential for livestock, as water makes up from 60 to 70 percent of an animal's weight.

Consumption of water is more important for livestock species than their eating food nutrients. The amount of liquid needed depends on the weather and the type of food an animal consumes.

Stress may occur if an animal is deprived of the opportunity to drink sufficient water. Dehydration also may result.

Dry cows require from 8 to 10 gallons of water daily, while cows in their last three months of pregnancy will require about 15 gallons. Cows in milk need about 5 times as much water as the volume of milk they produce. Calves require much more water after weaning than before, as they seek to compensate for the milk they no longer receive.

Livestock may have health problems if they have access only to substandard water, caution Dr. F.C. "Buddy" Faries, Jr., an Extension Service veterinarian; Dr. John C. Reagor, head of diagnostic toxicology with the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory; and Dr. John M. Sweeten, Extension Service agricultural engineering program leader.

They said poor acceptance of the low quality water may mean less water intake by livestock. If the animals have access only to water containing mineral or organic contaminants, this may be a clue to the causes of substandard performance and nonspecific disease conditions.

Producers need to evaluate the quality of water for livestock and determine whether performance of livestock will be affected, if water could serve as a carrier to spread disease, or if acceptability or safety of animal products for human consumption will be affected.

Water quality problems most common that affect livestock production are high concentration of minerals (excess salinity), high nitrogen content (nitrates, nitrites), bacterial contamination, heavy growths of blue-green algae and accidental spills of petroleum, pesticides and fertilizers.

Elements found in water that seldom offer problems to livestock because they do not occur at high levels in soluble form, or because they are toxic only in excessive concentrations, are iron, copper, cobalt, zinc, iodine and manganese.

These elements do not appear to accumulate in meat or milk to the extent that they would cause a problem, according to Faries, Reagor and Sweeten.

August 10 election detailed

The state cannot issue bonds without specific authorization in the state constitution. Previous amendments authorized issuance of $85 million in 1965, $200 million in 1969 and $75 million in 1989, all dedicated to funding student loans.

Those favoring this amendment say that the loans are urgently needed and would enable more than 15,000 financially needy Texas students to attend college. They cite the fact that the program is designed to operate as a revolving, self-supporting fund with the bonds being paid back with interest by the borrowers.

Those against this constitutional amendment argue that the state already has $2.8 billion in bonded indebtedness and does not need to incur more. They state that the $300 million for general obligation bonds for higher education loans will not stand as a single debt. It will be added to the overall debt of the State of Texas. Opponents of the amendment cite the need for a comprehensive evaluation of overall state debt before voters are asked to add more debt to it.

CEDELECTION

The enabling legislation directed CEDs to present their propositions at the same August 10 election. The following three items appear on the Floyd County Education District ballot.

No. 1 - Exemption of 20 percent of the market value of the residence homestead from ad valorem taxation in Floyd County Education District. Vote For or Against.

No. 2 - The exemption of $10,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of an individual who is disabled or age 65 or older from ad valorem taxation in Floyd County Education District. Vote For or Against.

No. 3 - The taxation of all non-income producing tangible personal property, other than manufactured homes, in Floyd County Education District. Vote For or Against.

LOCAL VOTING SITES CHANGED

This special election with both a state wide constitutional amendment election and a county wide CED election has prompted a bit of alteration in the local polling sites. Instead of the usual 16 voting locations throughout the county, there will be six locations which will be utilized for both the constitutional amendment election and the CED election.

WHERE TO VOTE

All voters in Floyd County Commissioner's Precinct #1 will be voting at Floydada High School. This will include voters who usually vote at the Southwest Floydada, Allmon, Sandhill, Harmony and McCoy locations. The election official at that location will be Lorene Newberry.

Voters living in West Lockney, Providence and Lone Star will vote at Lockney High School. Mrs. Hazel Johnson will be the election official at this location.

East Lockney residents will vote at Lockney City Hall under the direction of election official J. D. Copeland.

Voters from South Plains, Cedar Hill and Northeast Floydada will vote at the Floydada Volunteer Fire Department. The election official at that locale will be Neta Marble.

Goodnight voters will continue to vote at the Fairmont Baptist Church. Their election official will be Mrs. Jack Figg.

Southeast Floydada, Baker and Dougherty will vote at the Floyd County Courtroom in the Floyd County Courthouse. Kathy Green will be the election official at that site.

WHEN TO VOTE

Ballots may be cast from 7:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. on Saturday, August 10. Voters are asked to bring their voter registration card with them in order to vote. In order to be eligible to vote, voters must have registered at least 30 days prior to the election.

ASSISTANCE FOR VOTERS

Anyone who is unsure of their proper voting location may contact the Floyd County Tax Assessor/Collector's Office to determine where to vote. Those unable to find their voter registration card may obtain verification of their eligibility to vote at that office, Room 116, in the Floyd County Courthouse.

The office will be open from 7:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. on Saturday, August 10, for the convenience of Floyd County voters.

ABSENTEE BALLOTING

Absentee balloting ended on Tuesday, August 6, with 29 ballots being cast, according to County Clerk Margaret Collier. The absentee canvassing board, Chuck Holmes, Sammy Hale, Bob Vickers and Albert Scheele, will count the absentee ballots and report them on August 10 along with the other official results from each voting location.

than it is now. At the same time we will hear our state leaders, when it is all over, bragging about how they actually saved us money, how they kept the wolves from our door, how they deserve to be reelected so they can save us some more next time. Unfortunately a sizeable segment of the Texas population will fall for the line, relieved that their new tax bill will be only on the order of $2 billion, rather than the $5 billion they had been expecting. The difference, as far as the taxpayer is concerned, is the difference between being bled to death by small cuts or large cuts. Somehow, some day, some one is going to have to take a look at the patient.

We are not saying the job of holding the line on expenditures is easy, or will ever be easy. The political pressures from those who live off state government are heavy and always present. University Presidents descend on the Legislature, and from comfortable quarters in the Four Seasons hotel, loudly proclaim that any reduction in their requests for more money will be sheer disaster and will drive Texas back to the stone age. So it goes across the board. Any attempt to get a handle on the massive expenditures in "welfare" are met with cries of outrage.

Consider this one example: In the Legislature last week a strong opponent of abortion came up with an idea. Rep. Billy Clemons, a Democrat from Pollock, suggested it would be better, and cheaper, to pay "non-pregnant persons" $300 to accept, voluntarily, birth control implants. They would get another $200 if they kept it in place for five years. The House of Representatives thought it was a great idea and accepted his amendment without argument. Clemons said it could save the state billions of dollars in welfare payments to unwed mothers. Then Rep. Ron Wilson, a black legislator from Houston, had second thoughts, probably after he was contacted by the welfare lobby. This would send a "terrible message," he said. "Why do we want to encourage certain eligible individuals not to bear children?"

Why indeed? The House then voted, 75-61 to strike the amendment.

So gird up your loins gentle reader, and prepare to pay more for your gas, more on your property taxes, more on your sales taxes, more on just about everything. We can't afford to offend Rep. Wilson's constituency.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
The citizens of Lockney and Floydada are very caring people.

Our granddaughter came prematurely and was in the hospital in Lubbock for three weeks.

It didn't matter where I went, into any business, on the street or on the phone, someone asked me how she was and gave me encouragement.

She is home now and doing fine. I'm glad we live in a place small enough that everyone cares.

Thank you for caring,
Neta Marble

To The Editor:

I am urging Floyd County residents to vote for a constitutional amendment that would authorize a County Education District to adopt certain homestead exemptions if approved by voters in that district in the upcoming August 10 Election. I am also asking Floyd County to vote against the second constitutional amendment which would allow the state to sell additional bonds to be used for student loans.

Texas Farm Bureau policy states that we are for increasing homestead exemptions and for restricting state indebtedness by limiting issuance of bonds to fund state expenditures.

Statewide passage of Amendment No. 1, which Floyd County Farm Bureau favors, would allow the three propositions attached to that amendment - if approved by Local Education District voters - to become effective. One proposition would allow voters in each County Education District to determine if their district should provide a resident homestead exemption not to exceed 20 percent of market value but no lower than $5,000. Another of the propositions would allow an additional disabled and elderly homestead exemption of $10,000. Floyd County Farm Bureau favors these propositions.

I am urging a "no" vote on the third proposition which would allow the voters in each County Education District to determine if their district should tax non-income producing personal property such as automobiles, boats and airplanes. I am also urging a vote against Constitutional Amendment No. 2. This amendment would allow the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to sell up to $300 million in general obligation bonds to be used for loans to students attending institutions of higher education in Texas.

Public Notice

On April 9, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to request that the optional feature "Call Transfer Disconnect" be available to all PLEXAR I customers by including the feature in Southwestern Bell's PLEXAR I tariff. Currently, this optional feature is available only on a customer requested basis.

Call Transfer Disconnect (CTD) is an optional feature that allows PLEXAR I customers the ability to transfer a call to another telephone number within or outside their PLEXAR I system, hang up, and permit the two remaining parties to continue with the call. The PLEXAR I user is then free to place or accept another call. CTD is not intended to be used to avoid toll charges. Therefore, CTD will not be available to PLEXAR I customers subscribing to optional Extended Metropolitan Service or Extended Area Calling Service.

If the company's application is approved, the monthly rate for CTD will be $4.00 for each PLEXAR I station line. Prior to the June 19, 1991, interim rate approval, Southwestern Bell was billing customers who receive the service $1.50 for each station line equipped with this feature. In addition, under Southwestern Bell's proposed tariff, every line within the PLEXAR I system must be equipped with this feature. The nonrecurring charge for the additional lines which must be equipped with CTD will be waived for existing CTD customers. The tariffed monthly rate will apply to all existing and future CTD customers.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

FLOYDADA JAYCEES POUR SLAB—The downtown Floydada picnic park is on its way. Wednesday, July 31, members of the Floydada Jaycees and their families were present for the pouring of a concrete slab at the entrance to the park. Landscaping and greenery will come later.

Concrete for the project was courtesy of an anonymous donor and was delivered by Floydada Redi-Mix. The centrally located park will eventually provide a nice place to eat lunch outdoors for downtown workers and other city residents.

Congress okays Pearl Harbor medal

The Department of Defense wants to honor veterans of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor nearly 50 years ago, and has launched a nationwide search to locate them, says U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm.

"Sailors and soldiers who served at the naval station and at the airfields and other military facilities on the island of Oahu on Dec. 7, 1941, are eligible for a bronze medal commemorating their service," the senator said.

Under a bill approved by Congress last year, Gramm noted, Pearl Harbor veterans, including civilian employees of the Navy and other services, or their families may be awarded the medal.

An estimated 100,000 service personnel were stationed in the vicinity of Pearl Harbor when the massive air attack that pulled America into World War II occurred, killing more than 3,000.

The medals will be struck by the U.S. Mint after a design is approved by the Treasury Department.

Eligible veterans or next of kin may apply for the medal by calling the Navy's Awards and Special Projects

Office at 1-800-545-4052, or writing to 5E589, the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20350.

Bottled water may not be healthier drink

There are many reasons to drink bottled water. Your tap water may sometimes taste "off." However, many people drink bottled water because they think it's "healthier" and "purer," which in most cases is not always the truth.

Because of this change in attitude "sales of bottled water have quadrupled during the last decade," reports the "University of California at Berkeley Wellness Letter" in its June 1991 issue. Some bottled waters are high in sodium and fluoride, which are also present in tap water.

A government report given in April 1991 found that bottle water "may contain levels of potentially harmful contaminants that are not allowed in public drinking water."

The newsletter suggests that if your tap water comes from a municipal system, there's no health reason to forsake it for the bottled variety.

The truth about dipping and chewing tobacco

More than 87 percent of oral cancer cases are directly linked to smokeless tobacco and cigarette use.

Smokeless tobacco is available in two forms: chewing tobacco and snuff. Chewing tobacco is a mixture of tobacco and molasses. Tobacco is "chewed" by sucking on a golf-ball size wad or a piece between cheek and teeth. Snuff is powdered or crushed tobacco. It is "dipped" by placing a pinch between the lower lip and gums.

There are five common myths about dipping and chewing tobacco.

* "Athletes use it. It must be safe." Smokeless tobacco causes a variety of mouth problems including leukoplakia, which, in turn, could lead to cancer.

* "It's safer than smoking." Snuff contains 10 times the amount of nitrosamines, the same cancer-causing substance found in cigarettes.

* "No one ever died from it." Of an estimated 25,000 new cases of oral cancer discovered every year, more than 9,000 die.

* "A little bit now and then won't hurt me. Besides, I can stop at any time." Smokeless tobacco contains high levels of nicotine and the habit is hard to kick.

* "There's no evidence it's dangerous." Research has shown it takes only a few months of regular use to develop mouth problems like leukoplakia which can turn into cancer over time. The Surgeon General, the International Agency for Research on Cancer, the World Health Organization and the National Institutes of Health have all concluded that there is a direct causal relationship between smokeless tobacco and oral cancer.

Everyone knows how dangerous cigarette smoking is, but what they don't realize is that dipping and chewing tobacco is just as dangerous," said Doris Scales, R.N., of Methodist Hospital's Hodges Cancer Center.
