A view from The Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

Oh dear. All is not well in the land of perks, PACs, privilege, and pay raises. Now some of the Congressmen, stung by the reaction of citizens over revelations of stiffed restaurant bills, kited checks, and kingly lifestyles, are moaning that people out in the hinterlands just don't seem to understand. And it's not just the Congressmen who are moaning, it's some of those people who hang around Washington, depending on the "system" for their own livelihood.

Consider the comments of John White, quoted in a recent news story distributed by the New York Times to subscriber newspapers. (You remember him, probably, as our very own Texas Commissioner of Agriculture. Then he went off to Washington and became, in time, the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. While in Texas he was forever bleeding about the plight of the "little people," and things like that. When his tenure in that job was over, he stayed on as an influential member of the insiders who have run things there for years.) Here's part of what he told the Times reporter.

"If you can't have a private elevator and be able to cash checks, I really don't see any reason to go through all this rigamarole. If you don't have a policeman to stop traffic to let you walk across the street, like you are somebody, how are you going to know you're somebody?"

How indeed?

They also quoted John as saying "You might as well be in Des Moines." It may turn out that way.

And then there was Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Beaumont, Texas), who has been in the House, seemingly forever, with the ardent backing of his District's liberal-labor-black coalition. He has made a career of bashing "rich people", and of course getting rich in the meantime. If memory serves, he is also Chairman of the Government Operations Committee in the House, and a very influential member. He is terribly put out, the story said, with the current "sanctimonious" tone of the debate on privilege.

"There is a move afoot to destroy the Congress as we know it. In the future the kind of people who run for Congress will be coming up here living in sleeping bags and sleeping in their offices and riding bicycles to work."

Really? On $125,000 per year? With lucrative pension benefits and all sorts of freebies? Living in sleeping bags? One wonders what kind of bejeweled bags they will sleep in.

Concerning Jack's comment about people wanting to "destroy Congress as we know it", we would say "right on." People are not trying to destroy Congress. Some of us, it is true, are trying to destroy those attitudes that have come to symbolize Congress in recent years.

Rep. Pete Rose (D-N.C.) moaned "Clearly the bloom is off the place, so far as members feeling fed up with this kind of nickle-and-dime criticism."

He went on: "A member of Congress from a Sun Belt state came up to me today and said, 'I gave up a good job as county executive with good pay to come up here in the middle of all of this. I could be playing golf this afternoon if I was home.'"

Well we suspect that if that member's constituents knew who he was they could help relieve his agony.

Perhaps in all this we have the most telling indictment yet of a system gone awry. A system of perks and privilege that many have complained about for years, complaints which have gone largely ignored by the people who run Congress. They have felt completely secure, and to a great extent they have been secure, thanks to special interest PACs. They simply did not care. They knew, for instance, the people would not approve of their most recent pay hike. So they ran it through in the dead of the night and let the people complain. It

"Forty-six years is a long time"

Record teaching second generation

by Neta Marble

Forty six years is a long time. . . but Lucy Dean Record's love for music and people has not grown jaded. She has just celebrated her 46th year of teaching private music lessons and is now teaching children of some of her first pupils. She related, "I still love teaching, it is my favorite thing. I serve as organist for the First United Methodist Church in Lockney and I play for funerals, weddings and other events."

Mrs. Record has received numerous honors through the years. She was named Lockney's "Woman of the Year" in 1969 and in May, 1990 at the Lockney High School graduation she was presented with a silver tray by James Poole, principal at Lockney High School. He thanked her for playing the piano and organ for the past 54 years at the high school graduation exercises. The inscription on the tray read, "In Appreciation for Musical Service - LHS - 1936-1990. As she accepted the tray she stated, "I love serving the community and it is so nice to have so many good memories to look back on."

She has played for many banquets, beauty contests and other events, as well as provided solo and ensemble accompaniments. Because so few people can provide the talent Lucy Dean has served many times beyond measure for her community. "I have never really minded to be called on to provide music, for I know it can mean so much and I love my music."

Mrs. Record attributes her success in the music field to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C.H. Rose, who encouraged her. Through the depression years her mother washed and ironed for her music lessons because money was so scarce. Among her teachers were the late Roberta Barker and Miss Heflin, and then for many years Mrs. G.D. Tate and her college professors. She also contributes her success to the many parents who entrusted their children to her instruction.

Lucy Dean Record was born in 1924 in the family home and has lived most of her life in Floyd County. She graduated from Lockney High School and attended Texas Tech where she started to work toward her music degree. World War II interrupted her plans.

In 1942 she and C.L. Record were married and in 1945 they returned to Lockney and she started teaching music. Betty Johnson Gilbert, Jeanette Hall Marr, Clydell Hill Jack and Tom and Leedell Colvin were among her first pupils. Piano lessons were $1.00 for thirty minutes.

Lessons were held in the old red brick school house and after it burned she taught in the swimming pool shower rooms which stood near the site of the former Lockney Christian College "Alamo" building. Children attended school in the "Alamo" until the new school building was finished.

She completed a series of examinations with the St. Louis Institute of Music and after one summer session in St. Louis she received her certification. She became a member of the Guild of Piano Teachers and through the years has entered her students in the auditions that are held in the spring.

After the new elementary school was finished the school provided a room for private piano teachers and she taught there for several years. In 1952 a small frame house was moved onto a lot across from the school.

She sold supplies to her students but when the new state law in 1963 required licensing for the sales tax she became a full fledged business named Record Music Shop and Studio.

When the new elementary school was built on West Willow she moved her studio to a central location so that she would be easily accessible to all the school students.

Through the years Mrs. Record has taught as many as 99 students in one week and taught continually from 7:30 a.m. until late at night. She has commented, "Teaching is hard work and the steady pressure is demanding, but I love the children and the music, and it has been so rewarding to me."

She has taught some families for many years continuously. Jill Whitfill was the fifth child of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Edd Whitfill to take lessons from Mrs. Record and she taught the Whitfill family for 24 continuous years. She has had families drive from Floydada, Plainview, Silvertown, Kress and many of the surrounding communities.

She teaches not only piano but organ, guitar, accordion and theory classes. The theory classes are so necessary for a good music background.

She commented, "It would not have been possible to carry this load all these past years without the help of my husband, C.L. His untiring efforts made my work possible and my work load at home lighter. C.L. missed only one recital in all those years and he moved a lot of pianos for those recitals."

The new school legislation (Housebill 72) has curtailed her teaching hours but she still teaches three afternoons a week and her shop is open other days when customers need something. She closes for the summer months but she has not made any plans for retirement.

Models are reminded to attend the rehearsal Sunday, at 2:00 p.m. at Duncan cafeteria.

Lockney General Hospital to receive funds from DHS

The Texas Department of Human Services will send checks totaling almost $26.7 million to rural hospitals, including Lockney Hospital, to help offset their costs for treating indigent patients. Lockney's share of that payment will amount to $216,849.

Rick Peters of the DHS provider reimbursement department said the checks represent eight months of payments to the hospitals through a "disproportionate share" program. The program was approved by the Legislature in July to increase Texas' share of federal Medicaid matching funds.

The program is designed to assist hospitals that have a disproportionate share of low-income or uninsured patients.

Tickets will be sold for a 12 gauge shotgun and a quilt. The quilt pattern is "Around the world", and the quilt is now in the frames at the Floyd County Museum. Anyone who wishes, may go to the museum and help with the quilting.

Clippings and limbs are not allowed in dumpsters

Citizens of Lockney are reminded that they CANNOT put their grass clippings and tree limbs in the dumpsters.

Triple C Trash Contractors reported that they had several dumpsters with clippings and limbs and that they cannot dump those containers.

Citizens are asked to spread the clippings in the alleys behind their house.

By The Way

Little bits and pieces here and there.

If you want some good eating, don't miss the Spring Style Show in Floydada, March 30. To get in the door you have to bring $2.00 and any type of salad. It is so much fun! They just don't give you big enough plates.

I heard on the radio the other day that an elementary school in Jacksonville, Fla., made a ruling that small children could not check out Snow White because of the violence. They have to have parents permission now to read it.

The part about the witch telling the hunter to rip out Snow White's heart was offensive to someone. It was also considered too gruesome when the hunter brought the deer's heart to the witch instead.

Now mind you, I'm not sticking up for violent books for youngsters, but don't you think school boards have lost their consistency in dealing with problems.

It reminds me of the "Berry's World" cartoon in the paper the other day. Two small children were standing in front of their teacher and she was telling them,

"Well Yes, you can have condoms, but just don't ask me for Bibles."

There was also an unusual story in the Readers Digest a while back. It was under the heading of "Isn't That Outrageous."

It told a story of a woman who smothered her two year old child. She was charged with the crime after making a confession to the Welfare Services. When it got to court she was released because she had not been given her Miranda warning before telling the welfare worker what she had done.

She walked out of court glad she was free but upset that she had had to go through all of that. She said when leaving, "If I had just kept my mouth shut I wouldn't have had to go through this." She also muttered something about now she was free and that is what she wanted all along.

Oh By The Way. She also had another child that had been taken away from her when she got charged with this crime.

I wonder if the Child Protective Services will have to give the child back now, since technically the woman didn't kill her two year old.

I want to pass this story along for all you fishermen out there. You better remember that there are fish out there waiting for the day they can pay you back.

In the Saturday, February 29 issue of the Austin American Statesman, there was a story about a fisherman that hooked a lake trout and when he cut it open there was a thumb inside.

The thumb was traced to its owner who had lost it in a boating accident more than six months earlier.

The story goes something like this—Robert Lindsey of Green River, Wyoming, was boating on the Flaming Gorge Reservoir on July 27 when he dived in front of his boat to help his friend's daughter, who had fallen into the water.

The boat went over Lindsey and its propeller cut off his thumb, index and middle finger. The two fingers were found and reattached.

More than six months later a fisherman hooked the trout, Feb. 13, and discovered the thumb in the stomach.

The county coroner said the fish probably ate the thumb less than 24 hours before it was caught. He said the thumb was probably preserved by a process call saponification, which occurs in moist, dark places and converts flesh to a chemical condition like that of soap.

Lindsey said he would probably put his thumb in a jar on a shelf so he could show people.

He said, "As soon as I saw it, I was pretty sure it was mine!"

Donut Man's Jokes of the Week:

Passenger: I'd like a round-trip ticket.
Ticket agent: Where to?
Passenger: Back here, of course!

George: I can't even pay my bills! What've I got to be thankful for?
Dan: You can be thankful you're not one of your creditors!

Sams travel to Lake Whitney

On Thursday, March 19, a group of Whirlwind Sams left Floydada to travel to the Thousand Trails Lake Whitney Preserve for their March campout. The trail boss who made arrangements for the trip was Robert McPherson and his wife, Betty. The group had coffee at the roadside park near Post and had lunch at a roadside park east of Abilene. The group attended a Thousand Trails welcome party that night.

On Friday morning, after coffee and doughnuts at the pavilion, the group left for Hillsboro where they enjoyed seeing some old historical buildings and browsing through many antique shops around the old historic courthouse. Lunch was at the Golden Corral, followed by an afternoon of shopping at the Southwest Outlet Mall. That evening the group had hotdogs and roasted marshmallows around a bonfire, but because of the cool weather they moved into the pavilion for games soon afterwards.

Saturday was a free day for various activities and games. Many played games of Bingo and Robert McPherson was the grand prize winner of an extension cord. Breakfast was served at the pavilion that morning and a delicious steak dinner was served on Saturday evening followed by a dance at the family center.

Joining the Sams for the steak dinner and weiner roast were Sam and Audrey Spence and a couple from New York who were traveling with them. Also dropping by on Saturday were Lorene Newberry, her daughter, and family. Also associate members Paul and Dortha Westbrook joined the group for most of the activities; they now live in Pittsburg.

On Sunday morning, breakfast was again served at the pavilion. After church services at the family center, most of the group left for Floydada, with some going on to East Texas to continue their vacation.

Making the trip to Lake Whitney were the following: John and Geneva Cockrell, Bill and Norma Feuerbacher, Keith and June Patzer, Blanton and Ruby Hartsell, John and Christine Lyles, Mac and Marge McElyea, Harold and Charlene Norrell, Wayne and Roberta Russell, Kenneth and Barbara Willis, and William and Faye Bertrand, guests. Joining them at Lake Whitney from various places in Texas were Claude and Frances Weathersbee, Bob and Jean Kendrick, J.W. and Betty Gilbreath, W.B. and Eula Mae Cates, and Harold and Carol Reese.

Pharmacist's discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON -- After solving the problem of his own obesity, a pharmacist, now director of National Dietary Research, may have discovered the solution for others with the same problem.

Dr. William Morris, pharmacist, inventor and author has discovered a natural food tablet, aptly named Food Source One, that replaces some of the calories normally obtained from food. Food Source One replaces high calorie fats with other natural food ingredients with little or no caloric value so you can lose weight without giving up all your favorite foods, as explained in NDR's Lifestyle Maintenance publication, available where Food Source One is sold. "The secret to meaningful weight loss is not in decreasing the amount of food you eat, but in controlling the fat," says Dr. Morris.

According to Dr. Morris, weight loss results while using Food Source One will depend on how many pounds a person needs to lose. However some overweight people are experiencing extraordinary results with Food Source One. A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 71 pounds. She stated "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!" "Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it," says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great!" she added.

Food Source One is available at pharmacies without a prescription.

After 29 years as the plant operator of Floydada, Morris will retire to "fishing and traveling", March 31. A chalk drawing on the bulletin board in the city's breakroom depicts a smiling cartoon caricature of Morris with a countdown of days until retirement underneath.

Morris was born in Kaufman County and moved with his family to Floyd County when he was approximately 14 years old. He helped his father in the farming operation until 1957 when he went to work for Consumers Fuel.

In 1964 at the age of 34, Morris started to work at the City of Floydada as the plant operator. He has held the same position since that time.

"The city has put in three additional engines since I've been here," said Morris. The plant hasn't changed a lot and it has always been in the same place. We've just added on. In 1979 we tied on to the SPS substation. From then on we got power from the SPS substation. Now we only generate electricity when the power goes out at the substation.

"The engines were added because the demand for electricity increased. The demand is now on the decline because air conditioners and other appliances are more energy efficient."

Morris has been married to his wife, Delma, for 42 years. They were married in Clovis, N.M. in 1950. They have two sons, Woodie Lynn, 38, who works for the city of Lubbock; and Donald Lee, 34, a medical student. The Morris' also have two grandchildren.

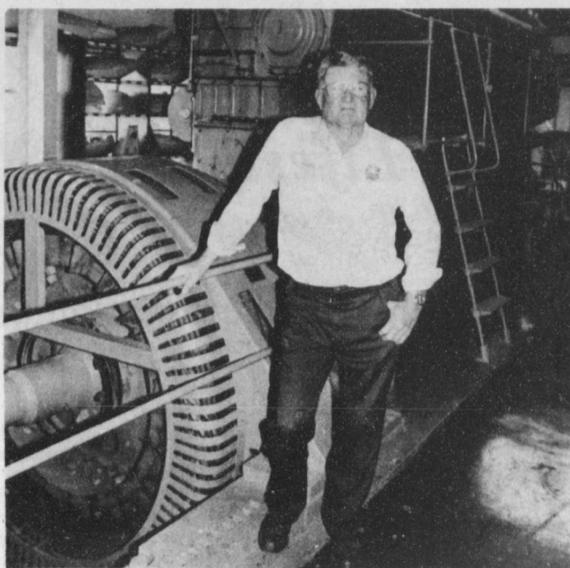

Morris said that he will have plenty of things to do to keep him busy during his retirement. Fellow employees quipped that Morris will also stay busy coming back to the power plant everytime they have to call him for a problem. "He will probably have to take his phone off the hook," said Gary Brown, city manager, "because I plan on calling him everytime we have a storm and the electricity goes out."

"He better get an answering machine," said co-worker and Electrical Superintendent Connie Galloway. "He can put a recording on the machine that says, 'Gone Fishing, Gone Fishing.'"

TAKE ACTION FROM TORNADOES

Tornadoes can strike at any time, any place, in Texas. Listen to National Weather Service bulletins for weather information. If a warning is issued or you see a tornado, immediately take shelter below ground or in an interior hallway or bathroom on the ground floor. Stay away from windows.

If you're outside, lie flat in a ditch or ravine and cover your head with your arms. Do not stay in or under your car or mobile home, since both are easily moved by tornadoes. Do not try to outrun a tornado or drive away from it in your car.

principals office. All applications should be completed by May 10 and returned to Mr. Poole.

A committee consisting of Claude Brown, Pat Frizzell, Bill Turner, Bill Race, Charles Ball and Eddie Teeter will make a selection and present the scholarship at the high school awards assembly in May.

Galloway and Lee recite nuptials

On Saturday, March 21, 1992, Tammi Jean Galloway and Johnny Todd Lee were united in marriage in a double ring candlelight ceremony at 7:00 p.m. in The New Salem Primitive Baptist Church. Elder Jim Jackson, pastor, performed the ceremony.

Tammi is the daughter of Jerry and Winola Galloway. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Lavada Neff. Johnny is the son of Mrs. Paula Riesner of Lubbock.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected an elegant white satin gown by the designers of Majestic Bridals. The traditionally styled gown featured a sheer illusion yoke with a sweetheart cut bodice and a wedding band collar. The bodice of the gown was richly adorned with Schiffli lace and pearls. The full length sleeves were complimented with a candy box bow at the shoulder. The sleeves carried the same rich lace and beadwork. The front of the skirt, as well as the train, was adorned with cutout lace motifs adorned with white iridescent sequins and pearls. The back of the bodice was designed with a low back romantically screened with illusion and at the waistline, a candy box bow finished a satin peplum that dropped across the train.

For her hair, the bride selected a band of pearls and demi silks with a pillow pouf. A double layer of white illusion cascaded the back of the hair.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of purple and white roses entwined with baby's breath, English ivy and seed pearls. Something new was the bride's dress, something old was the bride's Grandmother Neff's first wedding rings and a locket belonging to her late Grandmother Galloway tied to the bridal bouquet. Something blue was her garter and something borrowed was a strand of pearls belonging to her mother. The bride had pennies with her birth year and that of the groom in her shoes for good luck.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Sherry Vick, sister of the bride; maid of honor was Miss Jana Finley and bridesmatron was Mrs. Karen Elliott, Pattonville, cousin of the bride. They each wore purple tea-length dresses and carried purple flowers entwined on white lace hearts.

Miss Maggie Vick, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a purple lace over colton purple dress accented with bows on the skirt. She carried a purple lace trimmed basket of flower petals. Dresses for attendants were by Hart Designs.

Serving as candlelighter were Miss Krissy Patterson, cousin of the bride of Pattonville, and Mr. Andrew Coats, cousin of the bride, of Lubbock. Krissy wore a purple dress and Andrew wore a brown suit.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with tails. He wore a purple tie and cummerbund. Serving as best man was Charles Pruitt of Lubbock. Groomsmen were Perry Brickley and Kevin Neill, both of Lubbock. Ring bearer was Casey Lee, Lubbock, nephew of the groom.

They wore black tuxedos with lavender ties and cummerbunds. Ushers were Gary Vick, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mike Muniz.

Musical selections were presented by Mrs. Janice Sims, Lubbock, on the claviole and vocals by Andy and Belinda Coats, Lubbock, cousins of the bride. Richard Sims took care of the sound system. Andy and Belinda sang "Love of A Lifetime" while the mothers and grandmothers were seated. They sang "Honestly" while the candles were lighted. Andy sang "If" as the bride's attendants came in. Janice played "The Wedding March". Andy, Belinda and Janice all sang "The Wedding Song."

Mrs. Sheryl Stephens, Lubbock, cousin of the bride, was at the guest registers. The table was covered with a purple lace over cloth. It was accented with purple flowers.

Passing out bird seed bags were Anna Coats, Lubbock, cousin of the bride; Alyssa Sims, Lubbock, and Lauren Lee, Lubbock, niece of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents. The bride's table was covered with a white eyelet cloth. The four tiered cake was trimmed with purple flowers and topped with a crystal miniature bride and groom. The centerpiece was a crystal vase of purple roses. On each side were crystal candleholders with purple candles. Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Jill Fowler, Lubbock, and Mrs. Neva Anderson, Crosbyton, cousin of the bride.

The groom's table was laid with a lace over purple cloth. This table featured a chocolate cake decorated with a miniature motorcycle. Fruit kabobs, dip, fresh vegetables, crackers and coffee were also available. Serving at the groom's table were Karla Pruitt and Dana Neill, Lubbock, friends of the groom.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Leona Neff, Dorothy Neff, Ona Ruth Neff, Debra Graham and Julia Finley.

Rehearsal was held Friday night prior to the wedding. A barbecue brisket and all the trimmings supper was served. Pre-wedding courtesies included a miscellaneous shower March 1 at The New Salem Primitive Baptist Church and a lingerie shower March 14 at the home of Sherry Stephens. Co-hostesses were Jana Finley and Belinda Coats. A surprise party was given Tammi by her co-worker at The Dialysis Center of Lubbock on March 17. A luncheon honoring the bride and her attendants was held at the Pizza Gold March 19. It was hosted by the bride's mother and grandmother.

Tammi is a 1984 graduate of Floydada High School and a 1989 graduate of Texas Tech University Health Sciences School of Nursing. She is employed by The Dialysis Center of Lubbock. Johnny attended Monterey High School in Lubbock and served four years in the U.S. Marine Corp. He is employed by Buford Dry Wall Co. of Lubbock.

One act play cast is ready for district

Members of the cast and crew for the one-act play, "The Liar" by Carlo Goldoni, will be presenting the play at the district meet to be held at West Texas State University on April 1.

The Lockney High School students will present the play at an annual dinner theatre on March 31 at the Lockney Elementary School Cafetorium. Brisket, beans, salad and dessert will be served from 6:00 to 7:30 p.m. and the play will begin at 7:30.

The liar, of the title, is one Lelio who returns home after a long absence and is immediately embroiled in a series of hilarious escapades. Lelio's problem is that he seems unable to speak the truth when a whopping lie serves his purpose better. Before long he has thrown the budding romances of two lovely young sisters into a turmoil, discredited their rightful suitors, deceived his own befuddled father (who has not yet recognized him) and created such a tangle of misunderstandings that it is doubtful whether things can ever be set straight. But happily enough, the truth does ultimately triumph.

Members of the play cast and crew are: Jennifer Fortenberry, Lila Booker, Andy Perez, Clay Golden, Allen Martin, Cody Jackson, Ignacio Luna, Max Green, Mary Lindsey Poole, Tony Ascencio, Mark Terrell, Tiffany Ellison, Coby Marr, Lance Patridge, Trudi Lambert, Amanda Henderson and Tony Banda.

Tonda Jolley is sponsor of the group. Tickets for the dinner theatre need to be purchased in advance and will not be available at the door.

Floydada loses to Mustangs

By Bill Gray

Denver City junior Fabian Flores pitched a one-hitter, allowed only one walk, and struck out five Whirlwinds, to lead the Mustangs to a 21-1 baseball victory over Floydada on March 20 at recently-named Watson Field. The game was halted after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

The Mustangs improved their season record to 4-2, as the first-year 'Winds fell to 1-4. Floydada's next home appearance will be on March 24 when the Whirlwinds host the Ralls Jackrabbits. Floydada hopes to get back into winning form against the 'Rabbits, a victor over the 'Winds on March 10.

Denver City opened innocently enough with two runs in the top of the first inning. After holding the 'Winds scoreless in the home half of the first, the Mustangs exploded for 11 runs in the top of the second inning. Losing pitcher Billy Villarreal (0-2 for the year) allowed six base-on-balls and registered one strike-out before being replaced on the mound by David Johnston. Johnston faced five Mustang batters and allowed only one base hit, but also had trouble finding the strike zone.

Mustang senior Prentis Studivent pitched two innings in relief of Flores, faced six Floydada batters and struck out four. The Denver City fire-baller received credit for the save. Mike Ochoa pitched four complete innings for the Whirlwinds. The sophomore faced 27 batters, allowed nine hits, and had one strike-out. Ochoa gave up six earned runs and walked six. The Whirlwind pitchers allowed a total of 16 walks in the contest.

Coach Jimmy Webster commented, "Denver City is a quality program that has been playing baseball at the high school level for 10-15 years. We knew it would be tough for us... it was more so than I thought." He added, "Once again we walked 16 batters — 13 of those walks scored. That makes it hard for the fielders to stay on their toes."

Floydada's bats turned cold as Ken Cummings managed the only base hit. The coach noted, "We obviously need to work on our offense as well as our pitching. We are doing a little better at the plate, although we still give in to the pitcher too much."

Webster was pleased with some aspects of the game. Once again David Johnston performed well in center field. He made an outstanding throw to nail a man out at third base. The 'Winds had another relay throw to third base to toss out a second runner. Mike Ochoa pitched surprisingly well, and Cummings continues to swing the bat with authority.

In summation, Coach Webster added, "We're doing a lot of things right. We've got a long way to go, though." The Whirlwinds travel to Wilson on March 27 and return home to host the Lubbock High JV at 4:30 p.m. on March 30.

BILL'S NOTES

Correction

In last week's edition of The Hesperian-Beacon we incorrectly listed Michael Henderson's mother in the All-District story. Michael is the son of Alice Marie Henderson. We apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.

at just about every outing — although the final scores don't always show it. The Whirlwind baseballers are green — very green — when compared to some of their competition. The Mustangs were a veteran club, and it was obvious those youngsters have played for years. The gap between the Floydada players' Little League experiences and the high school level really sticks out against a team like Denver City.

It is most unfortunate several Whirlwind players lost the momentum and transition from Little League play when the mid-level program (participating in the Tri-Counties' League) was curtailed one year ago. For Floydada to continue to build a sound high school baseball program, it is obvious that the 14-year-olds (and some 13 and 15) are going to have to be developed for the upper level.

The refurbished Floydada baseball facility has been named "Watson Field" in honor of the late Preston Watson. It is a fitting and appropriate tribute to a man who gave more than 30 years of his life's labors to the young men and women of the Floydada school system — as a coach, teacher and administrator.

bull, Cocoa. He also likes to collect snake skins.

If Lupe could travel to any place in the world, he would want to go to the Bahamas and take his parents with him. He admires his mom most, and would love to meet hard rock singer, James Hetfield someday.

Lupe is glad to see we now have a baseball team at FHS, but he'd still like to see a volleyball team started here. When asked what he liked best about Floydada High School, Lupe responded, "The teachers are easy to get along with, and there are lots of nice-looking girls." In the future, Lupe plans to attend South Plains College and work as in an auto body repair shop. He also hopes to own his own business in California or Florida someday.

Coming Through in '92

By Christy Benjamin

This week's first featured senior is Aaron Harbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harbin. Aaron has one sister, Jennifer, who is a freshman at FHS. Up until the eighth grade, Aaron went to school in Littlefield. He has been a student here at Floydada for five years.

This year, Aaron is involved in track, band and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He attends West College and Third Church of Christ in Lockney and is involved in the youth activities there. This summer he worked in the kitchen at the Plains Baptist Assembly, and now he works part-time after school at Nielson's.

"Home Alone" is one of Aaron's favorite movies and this senior also enjoys watching "Cheers" and reading White Fang. His favorite food is hamburger, pepperoni and mushroom pizza. His musical interests include Garth Brooks, "The Dance," and Erasure. Calvin and Hobbes is top on Aaron's list, too.

When he's not playing frisbee with his golden retriever, Lhasa Apso, and sheep dog, you can find Aaron water skiing, snow skiing, cliff diving, inner tubing, and hunting when possible. Of course, this athlete/musician likes to pass the time pole-vauling and playing the guitar, trumpet and piano.

Someday Aaron would like to meet the Russian vaulter, Sergi Bubka. He likes gifts from the heart. He says the best thing about FHS is track season, and he also likes having Coach Carr around to help him. Aaron would welcome a trip to Austria someday, but as for now, he's concentrating on joining the Army and trying out for the All Army Team, with hopes of going to the Olympics.

Our next senior is Lupe Trevino, son of Rodolfo and Francisca Trevino. Lupe has four brothers and three sisters. He has attended school in Floydada all of his life, this year he is involved in M.O.C.T. Work Lab.

This talented senior has received awards at the C.V.A.E. state contest. Lupe is also in Who's Who Among American High School Students. He has received Departmental Recognition in English, U.S. History, and Physical Science. Lupe works part-time at Brown's Implement. He also farmed this past summer to make some extra spending money.

Lupe can be found "glued to the tube" every Thursday night, watching "Beverly Hills, 90210." His favorite movie is "Double Impact" and his favorite book is The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. Some of his other favorites include: metallic maroon, Mexican food, seafoods, Metallica, and Led Zepellin. "Stairway to Heaven" and "Sad But True" are Lupe's favorite songs. He also likes to read the ever-popular Calvin and Hobbes and Garfield.

Lupe attends St. Mary Magdalen Catholic Church. He likes to play the guitar and spend time with 00000 his pit

Floydada EMS Report

By Ted Porter
EMS Director

Since January 1, 1992, the Floydada Emergency Medical Service has responded to seventy (70) calls of various illnesses and injuries.

We at the Floydada EMS feel that it is an honor and a privilege to serve this community. We want the general public to know that the ambulance is alive and well because of your efforts in patronage, memorials and outright donations. We appreciate the efforts of each of you in keeping the EMS operating here in Floydada.

Local EMS personnel are doing their utmost to remain physically and mentally prepared for any and all emergencies. Several of our personnel are attending classes and taking other forms of continuing education events to keep ourselves sharp.

Although a lot has been accomplished in the last few months, there is still a lot to do. We are in need of additional equipment to better serve the public. Funds must also be raised for the general upkeep and purchasing of supplies for the ambulance.

As a fund raising project, the Floydada EMS personnel are selling tickets for a Cellular Telephone to be given away on Old Settler's Day. The tickets are priced at $1.00 and may be purchased from any EMS worker. More information may be obtained by calling the EMS office at 983-2875. This is your chance to help us help your community

Resource Conservation and Development

County involved in organizing program

Although the U.S. Congress passed PL-97-98 creating the RC&D (Resource Conservation and Development) program in 1962, 16 South Plains counties are not yet involved. When the national program was adopted, the USDA Soil Conservation Service was charged with the responsibility of administering it. It was designed to provide resource development and environmental protection in multi-county areas.

An organizational meeting is planned in Tahoka on March 25 to establish an area RC&D. During the organizational meeting, a member of each county will select officers for the project and also name the project area. Mr. Leon Ferguson, Floyd County representative, and Jon J. LaBaume, District Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, will attend the meeting although all interested persons are welcome to attend.

The proposed RC&D area will consist of 16 counties: Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Gaines, Dawson, Andrews, Martin and Midland. All 16 soil and water conservation districts and all 16 counties in this area have approved being part of this project. Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District and the Floyd County Commissioners Court approved being part of this project earlier this month.

Although administered by the federal government through the Soil Conservation Service, goals and objectives for each RC&D area are identified by the local people. However, some goals and objectives of existing RC&Ds are as follows:

1. Develop land and water resources for agricultural, municipal, or industrial use and recreation and wildlife.

2. Provide better uses of soil and water resources for farming, ranch, recreation, housing, industry, transportation and other land uses.

3. Install conservation measures for critical area treatment and flood prevention.

4. Reduce air and water pollution.

5. Make needed land use adjustments in land such as conversion of steep cropland to more desirable uses such as pasture, woodland, or wildlife land.

6. Improve and expand recreation facilities, promote and protect historic and scenic attractions.

7. Increase local employment by promoting existing industries to expand and promoting new ones to locate in the area.

8. Improve local and extended marketing of crops, livestock, and forest products.

9. Improve and bring to the area needed community facilities such as schools, hospitals, waste treatment facilities, road and other facilities.

10. Encourage training programs to improve local job skills.

11. Promote improved rural standard of living through economic and rural development.

Any individual who would like further information concerning the area RC&D are to contact Jon J. LaBaume at the Soil Conservation Service, USDA Building, Hwy. 70 East, 983-2352.

Programs and services of Soil Conservation Service are offered on a non-discriminatory basis without regard for race, color, national origin, age, sex, religion, marital status, or handicap.

Series held on free, no questions asked, waste pesticide collections

Waste pesticide and herbicides are a major problem for many farmers and ranchers. Producers are often caught between a rock and hard place when it comes down to what they can do with crop protection chemicals bought when the product was registered for use by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) but had the registrations removed before the chemical could be used. In many cases these chemicals are simply stored for lack of a better alternative.

Farmers and ranchers across Texas were recently given a better alternative according to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG). A series of free, no questions asked waste pesticide collections, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Water Commission and the Texas Department of Agriculture, were held between February 24 and March 5. It is hoped that the overwhelming success of the 1992 effort will prompt the Legislature to allocate additional funds for similar programs in the future.

High Plains producers were given the opportunity to participate in the program on March 5 in O'Donnell, Texas, at the Farmers Cooperative Gin. Official figures from the O'Donnell collection have not been completed but indications are that almost 137,000 pounds of outdated chemicals were brought in for disposal.

The O'Donnell collection site specifically targeted producers in eight counties on the High Plains, although indications are that producers from even farther away took advantage of the opportunity. Additional programs could be set-up in one or more locations in the northern part of the High Plains and encourage producers from this area who were unable to make the trip March 5 to participate.

"Producer response to the initial disposal effort in the southern portion of our area was outstanding," notes Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "Preliminary indications are that well over 125,000 pounds of waste chemicals were turned in at the O'Donnell collection site. Even though the response was higher than expected, additional programs could collect even more."

In addition to turning in the chemicals themselves participants were also given the opportunity to bring in empty chemical containers for recycling.

Farmers have always been considered true environmentalists by anyone who understands the job they do day-in and day-out and participation in this program is another excellent example.

Producing a crop safely and profitably includes the careful use of crop protection chemicals.

"We hope that additional funds can be found to continue this disposal program and remove even more unwanted or unusable waste pesticides and herbicides," says Johnson.

Verett testifies on 1992 cotton disaster legislation

The National Cotton Council has asked the House Agriculture Committee to consider a number of cotton concerns during implementation of 1992 crop disaster legislation.

One "cotton-specific" problem that has arisen is confusion over whether producers will receive disaster assistance for cotton damaged in modules that could not be removed from fields because of excessive rainfall.

Steve Verett, a Ralls producer and Council director, testified here March 3 that many of the modules in Texas formed from the 1991-92 harvest may not yield more than three or four bales, and in some cases, are not ginnable.

"As recently as two weeks ago, there were approximately 12,000 modules in Texas which had not been ginned," Verett said. "They remained unginned not through negligence or poor management but simply because they could not be retrieved from the fields."

Verett said that Council believes that if producers have modules which cannot be ginned prior to the March 13 sign-up deadline, the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service should use the same procedures developed by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation and allow officials to estimate the amount of damaged cotton in the module.

"This would ensure that producers who have incurred the costs of picking and moduling — both being elements of the harvest process — will not be disadvantaged compared to producers who never began picking operations and will be eligible based on estimates of cotton left in the field," Verett said.

Verett told the panel that the Council also intends to ask Congress to consider adopting language in future legislation which clarifies the status of moduled cotton because until cotton is ginned "it essentially has no market value and USDA regulations should reflect that principle."

Congress also will be urged to consider mandatory coverage for income losses associated with quality deterioration in future legislation.

"Producers are disappointed," Verett said, "that the Secretary has chosen not to consider losses associated with deterioration in quality. The loss in income associated with quality determination is just as real as quantity losses."

Verett also pressed for Administration and Congressional review of the impact of 1990 disaster legislation provisions that: 1) disqualify numerous cotton producers for disaster assistance via a $2 million gross income means test, and 2) deny benefits to some tenants because qualification is by a farm rather than by producer.

A dilemma, Verett said, is that although farms can qualify for both 1990 and 1991 losses, farms operated by different producers or owned by different landlords in the respective years may only file a single application for the farm or lose eligibility for benefits.

He testified that in many cases there may be multiple tenants involved who could lose benefits for various technicalities, including farm operators who fail to communicate or reach an agreement for the single disaster relief application.

"Farm aid" to rely on creating demand

Long-term and lasting "farm aid" to Texas farmers and ranchers will rely on creating demand for agricultural products and processing more of their commodities in-state, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

"Publicizing the difficulties that farmers and ranchers face is important," Perry said. "But when the occasional party's over, we should realize that a strong agriculture industry will not be created from donations."

"Farm aid at the Texas Department of Agriculture doesn't just happen every few years. Every day our employees are spreading the word globally about the superior quality of the food and fiber grown in the Lone Star State," Perry said. "TDA works day in and day out to create opportunities for people in all facets of our agricultural economy"

In addition to its efforts to open new markets for producers, TDA through its Make it TEXAS campaign is working to ensure that more food and fiber is processed into finished products in-state, the commissioner said.

Texas processes just 8 percent of its commodities in-state; the national average is 20 percent. The result, Perry said, is Texas is exporting Texas dollars and jobs along with its raw commodities — something he is working to change. For instance, with help from TDA and the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority that gap is being closed by facilities such as a cotton-insulation plant in Post, a lamb meat processing operation in Manor and a cotton sportswear sewing plant in Graham. Each of these facilities loan guaranties from TAFE, which is a TDA finance program that assists agribusinesses.

Helping people learn more about agriculture also is the commissioner's goal with his "Project TEACH" program.

"Most Texans today are urban, and Project TEACH aims at making our youngsters ag literate so they understand where their food comes from," Perry said.

Project TEACH also encourages school food service personnel to buy locally grown commodities whenever possible.

Texas farmers and ranchers face difficulties as evidenced by the severe weather this season, but overall things appear to be improving, Perry said.

Positive economic indicators over the last decade include:

- * Cash receipts to Texas farmers and ranchers have increased by almost $3 billion since 1980, reaching $11.9 billion in 1990. The majority of these earnings — $7.7 billion came from sales of livestock and related-products with $5.8 billion paid for cattle and calves. Perry's "Texas Livestock... Best in Any Language" marketing campaign is increasing worldwide awareness of the state's livestock.

- * Farm profit is up in Texas from an average per farm of $2,706 in 1980, to an average of $18,122 in 1990.

- * The average debt load per farm is down from $75,000 in 1980 to $51,000 in 1990.

Insecticide to control thrip in onion fields receives an exemption

The Texas Department of Agriculture was granted a specific exemption Feb. 26 by the Environmental Protection Agency for the use of Ammo 2.5 EC and Cymbush 3E to control thrips in onion fields being produced for the dry bulb market.

The department was granted the exemption under the provisions of Section 18 of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act.

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said that thrips are a serious economic threat to the Texas onion industry, which was valued at more than $72 million last year.

Thrips are insects that attack the above-ground shoot of the onion, destroying the plant's ability to send nutrients to the bulb. Without the vital nutrients, both yield and quality of the crop are adversely affected. "These two factors result in reduced profits to the state's producers," Perry said.

Certified applicators must follow all directions, restrictions and precautions on the EPA-registered product labels. Farm operators are responsible for notifying individuals who live or work within one-fourth of a mile of a field being spraying and who have requested a prior notification of any chemical spraying.

The insecticides are not to be applied within seven days prior to harvest.

Perry said that TDA and EPA should be notified immediately of any adverse effects resulting from the use of these products.

You can now access the benefits of a large group health plan* specially designed for ag-related businesses.

District Clerk Barbara Edwards attends procedures seminar at Texas A&M

Barbara Edwards, 110th Judicial District Clerk from Floydada, participated in a continuing education seminar concerning the procedures of the district clerk's office between March 16 and 18. Held at College Station on the Texas A&M University campus, the three day event attracted about 500 county and district clerks.

Said Edwards, "The seminar provided valuable information and brought us up to date on the current procedures of the offices of county and district clerks."

The 20th annual seminar was designed to update participants on the duties and responsibilities of their offices. It aims to assist them in becoming more capable and effective in serving the public. The theme of the meetings was "Workshops for Professionals" and included general sessions and discussions of topics including ethics, legal research, probate law, budget presentations, reports, new legislation, grant searches and the preparation of court minutes.

The seminar was sponsored by the V. G. Young Institute of County Government of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the County and District

Clerks' Association of Texas in cooperation with the Texas Association of Counties. Clerks received 20 hours of credit from the Texas A&M Office of Continuing Education for their participation.

They exempt themselves from a host of government regulations which they impose on everyone else. So what? The people may complain, but what can they do about it?

The parallel is too obvious to ignore: When the Soviet empire finally came tumbling down, when the people of that vast region finally had enough of the mess their leaders had made, they were then shocked to learn that the Party of the Proletariat had instead become the Party of Privilege for the ruling elite. Common, ordinary, brainwashed Soviet people were surprised to learn that leaders of the Communist Party, ostensibly the "vanguard party of socialism around the world", had given themselves perks and privileges unavailable, indeed completely unknown, to all other citizens.

The principle difference between here and there, however, is that they had no institutional means of correcting the situation until it all collapsed. We do.

So now we have a Congress that insists on micro-managing nearly every aspect of government life, and the people's lives, revealed as an institution that can't even manage its own Post Office, its own restaurant, or its own "bank." One that seems more concerned with special privilege for itself than it is with the nation's future.

But perhaps we should not complain, gentle reader. If we get too hard on them they may just quit. Then where would we be? Horrible thought.

Either that or they may insist that if they are going to have to put up with all this "nickle-and-dime criticism" they need another pay raise.

Navy Officer Prisk on deployment

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Gary W. Prisk, a 1986 graduate of Floydada High School of Floydada, recently transited the Suez Canal with Tactical Electronic Warfare Squadron 137, Naval Air Station Whidbey Island, WA, on the way to the Persian Gulf and is in the middle of a six-month deployment.

Prisk's squadron is embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS America while it leads a nine-ship battle group through various operations and training exercises. He spent the holidays in Naples, Italy, and then stopped in Souda Bay, Crete, which became that island's second visit from a U.S. carrier in 20 years.

Afterwards, he spent some time in Athens, Greece, where the carrier hosted a parade that included a performance by the ship's 65-member Marine Corps detachment. More than 200 international dignitaries attended a reception and toured the carrier.

Galvan deployed in Persian Gulf

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Steven Galvan, son of Josefina Galvan of Lockney, is currently in the Persian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS America, homeported in Norfolk, VA and is in the middle of a six-month deployment.

Over the past couple months, the carrier and its crew spent the holidays in Naples, Italy, where some of the crewmen helped to rehabilitate a shelter for the homeless, donating more than 1,000 hours to the project.

His ship then travelled to Souda Bay, Crete, becoming only the second U.S. carrier to visit the port in over 20 years. Afterwards, Galvan spent some time in Athens, Greece, where the carrier hosted a parade, that included a performance by their 65-member Marine Corps detachment. More than 200 international dignitaries attended a reception and toured the carrier and its aircraft following the parade.

Most recently, Galvan visited Antalya, Turkey, for a five-day port visit, before transiting the Suez Canal. The USS America is on its second major deployment in less than a year and was operating in the Mediterranean when reassigned to the Gulf.

The 1987 graduate of Lockney High School, joined the Navy in February 1987.

"When business is good it pays to advertise; When business is bad you've got to advertise."

Prisk's squadron flies the EA-6B Prowler, which is used to intercept and scramble enemy radar and communication links.

He joined the Navy in February 1988.

Thank you very much for everything that was done for me while I was in the hospital with heart surgery. All the cards, flowers, calls, visits, thoughts and prayers were very much appreciated. The outpouring of love was overwhelming. God has been so very good to me. A special thank you to God and Bro. Van Hoose for being at my side.

Love to all,
