Hundreds gather for Old Settlers Reunion

Kelley, Jackson and Golden's bestowed 1993 Pioneer awards

Crowds gathered on Saturday to enjoy the traditional Old Settler's Reunion. Awards were presented during the business meeting, Saturday morning, to Pioneer Woman Nancy (Peat) Evelyn Fortenberry Kelley, Pioneer Man E.M. "Son" Jackson and Pioneer Couple Oscar and Gladys Golden.

After a brief Memorial Service, Boyce Mosley presented a special Humanitarian Award to Mrs. Martha Mangold, the widow of Dr. W.J. Mangold, in memory of the great humanitarian work done by Dr. Mangold for Floyd and surrounding counties.

A brief history was also given of the Pioneer winners.

PIONEER WOMAN

Floyd County's Pioneer Woman was born Nancy Evelyn Fortenberry on February 25, 1904, at home about 1/2 mile northeast of Cedar Hill School. She attended school at Cedar Hill where her father was a trustee. She was the 10th of 11 children born to the 1890 Pioneer Couple, the late Ceph and Ann Fortenberry.

She was taught to work as most pioneer children, gathering eggs, milking cows, tending sheep, riding horses, gathering fruit from their large orchard and wild plums below the Caprock. Laundry, cooking, sewing, gathering firewood and cow chip were also on her list of chores.

Her favorite pasttime in later years was playing the organ and piano, crocheting, tatting, piecing quilts, embroidery and playing basketball.

She married John R. Kelley, May 9, 1925, in Lockney. The pioneer tradition continued by raising chickens, turkeys, Guinneas, Peafowls, orchard, garden, canning, cooking and sewing. She also helped John with the milking, feeding hogs, plowing with horse and mule team, driving the tractor, hoeing, pulling cotton, shocking and stacking feed bundles.

Nancy (better known as Peat) and John had two children: George Milton, who died in infancy, and Norma Dean (Mrs. J.A. Welch). She has one granddaughter and a host of nieces and nephews. Peat is the only survivor of her generation except for one sister-in-law Gladys (Mrs. Tom Fortenberry), of Broken Arrow, Oklahoma. Peat's husband John, died May 23, 1980.

Peat is 89 years old, lives within one-half mile of her birth place, drives her pickup, tends her cattle and has a garden.

PIONEER MAN

Pioneer Man E.M. "Son" Jackson was born to J.W. and Emma Jackson, June 13, 1911 in Fannin County. He was a member of a large family of 6 boys and 8 girls.

In October of 1916, a the age of 5, he moved with his family and their possessions by train and automobile to Floyd County. They settled in the McCoy community.

On this land was a 40 acre orchard of which two pecan trees are still growing and a 2 storied home, built around 1904 from lumber shipped in from Canyon. After the Jackson's purchased the place the east half was broken out by horse drawn single shanked plows.

Being the eldest son at home when his father died in 1928 much responsibility for the farm became his at the age of 17. He continued to farm this place until his retirement in 1974.

"Son" Jackson and Faye Marble of the Roseland Community in Floyd County, were married in 1940. They have two daughter, Judy Beedy of Floydada and Lynn Dunn of Houston.

After 61 years of living in the old house on the farm, in 1977, Son and Faye built a new home and moved to town where they now reside. The Jacksons have four grandsons, three great-grandsons and one great granddaughter.

PIONEER COUPLE

Pioneer Couple Oscar and Gladys Golden have been married 60 years. Both were born in 1913, just six months apart.

The little boy, Oscar, was born in Bosque County, Texas, to parents, Taylor and Maude Calloway Golden. Floyd County was the birthplace of the little girl, Gladys Frances, whose parents were Burt Ray and Jessie Belt Carthel.

In 1916 Oscar's dad and grandfather moved to the Providence community in northern Floyd County as a result of a land exchange. Taylor and his father came first to build a barn, and six months later went back to Bosque County to bring Maude and the children to their new home on the West Texas prairie. They traveled by train to Plainview and lived in the barn while a house was built.

Gladys was born in the Carthel home in the Prairie Chapel community which had been established in 1905 when the Carthel clan, the children and grandchildren of Joseph Marion and Martha Catherine Carthel, came to Floyd County from Olustee, Oklahoma, to the "sweet water and the cool nights" of the vast West Texas farmland. The family traveled in covered wagons for a week moving into half dugouts until houses could be built.

The Golden children attended the Meteor school at Aiken, the old Bobbitt school, and later the Prairie Chapel consolidated school. This family of thirteen children rode horses and a horse-drawn buggy to school.

The Carthel family of eight children walked in nice weather and rode in a one-horse hack in bad weather to the Bobbitt school and then the Prairie Chapel school.

Oscar met Gladys while they were young students at Prairie Chapel. She thought he was cute, but small and skinny for his age, that is until after their high school years, hers at the new Lockney High School and his at Plainview High School. Then she saw a mature and handsome young man that she later decided to marry.

Following a good wheat crop worth $800, the couple were married in Lockney on June 27, 1933, and toured Colorado for a week with $100 dollars in their pockets.

The Great Depression was in full swing at this time and the young couple lived with the Golden family for several months. Oscar finally rented a quarter of land with a house on it for five years. He worked for his brother for $2 a day for the use of the brother's tractor. After three very dry years, a wheat crop was sown in the fall and the couple went west to California to find work, but returned home in the summer to harvest a bumper wheat crop. As a result, a tractor was purchased and more land was leased. At last, they were on their way to fulfilling their dreams.

In 1942 Oscar and Gladys bought a quarter of land and a few years later sold it, buying land at Aiken where they lived until the past few years. With some cattle, hogs, chickens, and a garden they "got by" and began to have a little money left over. Irrigation became a part of the farming operation increasing yields, and the couple worked together building their beloved farm and rearing their two children, Frances Kay and Larry Don who both attended Lockney schools.

Kay married a Floyd County native, Jerry Williams, and their three children were reared and educated in Lockney with the two boys and their wives living in Floyd County and their daughter and her husband living in Motley County.

Jill Matsler, a Floydada native, married Larry and their three boys went to school in Lockney and are attending college at this time. Larry and Jill now farm and live on the Golden homeplace at Aiken, and Jerry and Kay farm and live at Providence on the Taylor Golden homeplace. Oscar and Gladys have one great-grandbaby, a boy, Brazos Taylor Williams.

In the 50's the Goldens added a registered Angus herd to their farming operation. As a result of this avid interest, Oscar helped establish and was presi-

Dr. Victor Hoang announces closing of Floydada practice

By Alice Gilroy

FLOYDADA—Dr. Victor Hoang and his wife Lisa announced this week that they will be closing the doors of their practice this month.

Dr. Hoang opened his general practice in Floydada, August 10, 1992 in a newly remodeled Cogdell Clinic. When Hoang came to the city, residents had been without a doctor for 14 months.

Many changes have occurred since the Hoangs arrival including a new affiliation of Caprock Hospital District with St. Mary's and the addition of two more doctors at the clinic.

Dr. Hoang has not specified his reasons for leaving the clinic, but says only that it is in the best interest of his practice and his family to relocate from Floydada.

"I only wish the very best for Caprock Hospital, the Board of Directors, and the tax-payers," said Hoang. "I would not be making this move if I felt I could truly contribute to the success of the hospital."

Dr. Hoang and his family will remain in Floydada until June 17 and will continue treating all patients until that time. Anyone wishing to pick up medical records before that date should go to the office during regular business hours and request the records.

"I would like to thank all of the citizens of Floydada for their support during the last year," said Hoang. "We chose to make our home here because we realized the great necessity for medical care in Floydada. During the past 10 months we have made true friendships either through our patients or the kindness of the people of Floydada that we will treasure always."

BY THE WAY!

BY ALICE GILROY

Old Settlers sure was lots of fun. I spent lots of money.

I can always tell how much fun I had by how much I spend. My husband also had a lot of fun.

The weather cooperated until Country Caravan showed up. There were a lot of disappointed people when Country Caravan packed up to leave because of the rain. It wouldn't have been so bad if it had really rained for awhile and made their leaving worth it. I mean—after all—we did need the rain. But instead—not only did we not get to enjoy their entertainment we didn't enjoy much of a rain either.

I sure appreciate all the hard work that went into Old Settlers. There sure are a lot of dedicated people out there.

I shouldn't single anybody out—but the work that goes into that meal is incredible. I can't believe that there are even people out there who would attempt to serve 1,100 people.

I also really appreciate the workers from Cargill setting up those tents. That is way above the call of duty. The shade sure was appreciated by shoppers and vendors alike.

The Old Settlers committee, led by Sterling Cummings, did an outstanding job.

At the risk of bragging (since I was in the play)—the Friday night Tent Show was lots of fun too. I sure enjoyed standing behind the prop wall and hearing people laugh out front. It was hard to keep a straight face while people laughed at the gags. I was just glad they laughed. It would have been terrible to hear nothing from out in the audience. Thanks for participating.

Even though we had lots of compliments on the play my son was not one of my admirers. He thought the play was OK and he thought the other actors were funny—but he didn't think his mother was funny.

He told me in no uncertain terms that he thought my costume was ugly and that he did not think that I was funny when I pretended to eat bugs. He thought that was "disgusting." I don't think he appreciated people laughing at his mother and thinking that she really walked around and ate bugs.

It took a couple of days for him to lighten up.

Letter to The Editor

Dear Editor,

How can we say thanks for all the work everyone put into making the meals for the Floyd County Pioneer Reunion of 1993 so wonderful? We would love to list every person who helped but will have to suffice with this note.

All of you who worked know who you are so please accept our most heartfelt appreciation.

We'll begin with the firewood gathering crew, which was tremendous and then go to the Friday and Saturday gangs. The meal prepared for the crew on Friday was delicious. There were trench diggers, fire builders, fire watchers and safety crews, meat cutters, wrappers, bag makers, seasoners, bean "pickers" and cooks, people to put the meat in the trench and take it out and slice it, onion slicers, servers, tea makers, gofers, people to wrap meat and sell it, people who delivered plates to both nursing homes in the county, people and businesses who furnished so many items and services.

We have many people who have worked every year since we started preparing our meal and had a number of new ones this year. Until you have been a part of the affair, you can not possibly realize how much effort and work is done. That's what makes this all so special to us — the great people of Floyd County who are so willing to join together and make this an outstanding event.

Our thanks to all of you.

Dub Hallmark is subject of 'Roast'

By Alice Gilroy

LOCKNEY—Friends and co-workers gathered Thursday, May 27, for a hilarious and surprise Roasting of Lockney Superintendent Dub Hallmark at the Lockney cafetorium. Hallmark is retiring this year after 15 years as superintendent.

As Hallmark passed out service pins at the annual end of year breakfast, quick witted friends surprised him by sneaking in the back door and interrupting his speech. Speakers gathered at a front table and one by one took their turns roasting Hallmark with good natured jabs.

Travis Thornton was the host for the roast and got the entertainment started with a few remarks of his own. "When Dub and Peggy bought their first house in Lockney their first disagreement was over getting a dishwasher," said Thornton. "Peggy told him he didn't need one. Yep... Dub worships the ground she gives him to run around on," continued Thornton.

Bert Grimes, the superintendent of Petersburg schools also got some good licks in on Hallmark. "I ran into a young lady the other day that told me Dub had been her 4th grade coach," said Grimes. "She said he used to tell them that he was so skinny he had to run around in the shower to get wet.

"Dub is so prompt," said Grimes, "that he is known to sometimes be a whole week ahead of time. I remember one time I got a phone call from Dub. He was whispering on the phone and I could barely hear him. He wanted to know if there was a meeting at the service center that day. He was already there and didn't want anyone to hear him asking that question. It turns out he was a week ahead of time.

"He is also an A-1 quality back seat driver. I just know that when we go to Austin next year I won't be able to get around."

Hallmark was also presented with a framed wood carving of a windmill and quail, handcarved by Bert Grimes.

David Frizzell, supervisor of LISD Transportation related his first fishing experience with Hallmark and also recalled the fear and worry of friends and family after Hallmark's past heart attack.

"I was ready to leave on a fishing trip when I got the call about Dub being in the hospital," said Frizzell. "I was worried about him but I kept thinking about the big fish I could have been catching. Dub recovered and I never forgot my missed fishing trip.

"After the doctor released him and he was able to go hunting again we all went on a hunting trip together. Right before we set out Dub showed us his nitroglycerin pills. He said if he got sick we were supposed to make sure he got a pill in him and then call a doctor.

"I said, 'Just wait a minute!'", continued Frizzell. "I told him he had already blown a fishing trip for me on account of his heart and if he got sick this time I was just going to give him a pill and prop him under a shade tree. I told him we would come back and check on him. If the pills worked that would be great—if they didn't it wouldn't make any difference anyway. We would take him to the hospital or funeral home."

Jackie Lou Holt, secretary and right arm to Hallmark, was kinder and more gentle in her remarks. "I don't know what to say now," said Holt. "We've been roasting him everyday for 15 years already.

"I'll always remember him for his progressive attitude," said Holt. "He was very excited about the new computer system in our office. He really pushed for it and wanted us to have it. He had a terminal put in his office because he was so excited about all the different programs he was going to get to work.

"When we got the computers we each had to think of a password to open our programs. We were told to think of a word that would be easy for us to remember.

"One day," continued Holt, "the computers wouldn't come on. The screens were just black. We worried over them for a long time and even called the computer people on the phone. We tried everything and couldn't get them to come back on.

"We called Hallmark to tell him about the problem and he confessed that he had had a little trouble with the computer earlier. It seems he had forgotten his password and he kept trying a bunch of different words to open the computer. The computer (being a smart computer) knew that someone was trying to enter the computer that wasn't supposed to be there—so it shut itself down."

Dr. Joe Neely, executive director at Region 17 Service Center, also kept everyone entertained with a variety of humorous and phony telegrams congratulating Hallmark on his retirement. Telegrams ranged from messages from Pres. Clinton telling Hallmark he was going to be drafted to Governor Ann Richards telling Hallmark how much his input would be missed on school legislation.

PROVIDING SHADE--Employees of Cargill Hybrid Seed stayed busy on Friday erecting tents for the comfort of vendors and shoppers who would be converging on the square Saturday morning. The tents and labor were donated courtesy of Cargill.

Stafford and Edwards say nuptial promises

Gwendolyn Rea Stafford and Freddie Neal Edwards Jr. were united in marriage Saturday, May 29, at 7:00 p.m. with the Rev. William D. Nix officiating. The ceremony was held at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Amarillo. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bob Stafford of Amarillo. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Rice of Floydada and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edwards of Amarillo.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white silk taffeta gown with a sweetheart neckline embellished with pearl scrolls over Schiffli lace and sequins. The long, leg-of-mutton sleeves were encrusted with lace, pearls and sequins. The cathedral train contained five large tear-drop shaped cameos with seven smaller diamond shaped cut-out cameos. Double edged scalloped cut out lace with pearls and sequins encircled the entire dress.

She wore a layered fingertip illusion veil attached to an open crown of silk flowers and clusters of pearls and irridescent beads.

For something old, the bride wore her Grandmother Smith's wedding ring; her dress was new, she wore the pearls belonging to the late Varah Cagle, maternal grandmother of the groom, and added a blue garter

Maid of honor was Cheryl Stafford, sister of the bride of Amarillo. Bridal attendants were Cathey Herring of Canyon, Monica Kinnan of Lake Dallas, Kelly Rogers, cousin of the bride, of Dallas; Kim Worrell, cousin of the bride, of Hyde Park, New York; Brenda Spear of Arlington, and Tammi Stafford, sister of the groom, of Lubbock. Junior bridesmaids were Leslie and Rachel Lewis, cousins of the bride, of Dumas. Flower girl was Tara Owens of Amarillo.

Soloist was Kay Lynn Edwards, cousin of the groom, of Dalhart.

The bridesmaids dresses were of black silk organza. The gowns were styled with a shirred bodice and sweetheart neckline. Gracing the edge of the shoulders were multiple rows of ruffles. The straight tulip shaped skirts were ankle length. A large bow defined the waist and was accented by a jeweled clip.

Best man was Brandon Eddleman of Amarillo. Groomsmen were Robert McWaters, Rhett Montague, Clay Schott, Brad West, Greg Stafford, brother of the bride, all from Amarillo, and Will Rowell of Silverton. Ushers were Casey Klinch of Dallas, David Stafford, cousin of the bride, of Matador, and Wesley Stafford, cousin of the bride, of Lubbock.

The church altar was adorned with elevated arrangements of tulips, snapdragons, delpheniums, hydrangas, snowballs, peonies and agapantaus, with bear grass, plumosa, dogwood and curly willow grapevine descending from the cross to the table adjoining the seven-branch candelabra.

The mother of the bride chose a dress with a black and white sequined bodice and a long satin skirt. The mother of the groom wore a black silk jacket covered with lace with sheer lace long sleeves embellished with sequins and a chiffon skirt.

The reception was held at the Amarillo Country Club. Waterfalls of white flowers, grapevine and greenery decorated the walls of the ballroom. The tables were decorated with tall centerpieces of falling flowers centered on mirrors placed on top of white cloths and black toppers.

The bride's cake was a white tiered circular cascade decorated with a waterfall of roses. The groom's cake was a stacked German chocolate with a display of chocolate covered strawberries and English ivy. An heirloom silver knife and server belonging to the groom's mother were used to cut the cakes.

After a honeymoon to Paradise Island in the Bahamas, the couple will reside in Amarillo.

The bride attended South Plains College and Amarillo College. She is employed by the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center.

Canner testing is important in safety of home canned products

From Melissa Long, CEA-HE

Home canning has changed greatly in the 170 plus years since it was introduced as a way to preserve food. Scientists have found ways to produce safer, higher quality products in home canning.

Pressure canning is the only recommended method for canning meat, poultry and vegetables. The bacterium Clostridium botulinum is destroyed in low acid foods when they are processed at the correct time and pressure in pressure canners. The only way you can be sure your canner is at the correct pressure is to have a yearly checkup.

There will be a Canner Testing Clinic for your pressure canner's yearly checkup at the Floyd County Extension Office on Saturday, June 5, from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. Jack and Nelda Harper of Lubbock will be on hand to do the testing. Cost per cooker is $4 and they will also have repair parts on hand if they are needed. Please call the County Extension Office at 983-2806 to let us know the number of canners you plan to bring in.

Hi! Back to work after three days off, a little tired but a fun weekend. Must say that Copper Breaks State Park (Hwy. 6 between Crowell and Quanah) is a neat, pretty spot to go. It has rained there a lot, everything is so green. The park is getting ready for an outdoor musical drama called "The Summer of the Wild Plum Moon", directed by Jerry Ayers, Margaret, Texas. A musical retelling of the Cynthia Ann Parker Legend (history of the land) in June.

The fish fry we had was very well enjoyed by residents and family. It was a nice day, not very hot as yet. We thank the family for coming. At 2:30 the residents played Bingo as usual. Kermit Glover had the first Bingo. Mary Alice Davis came and assisted the residents.

Thursday the residents viewed and discussed the current event film. Jim Word came and shared about the Floyd County Museum and brought some antiques.

Wednesday at 6:00, Philip Wilbanks came and played the piano and sang some songs.

Friday, Judy Schacht came and gave the devotion and Joyce Lipham played the piano. Then on the bus ride, Grace Gomez drove us around town. The residents got to see where the barbeque was being cooked. They also got to see the quilt displayed at Hale's Dept. Store, along with some antiques. We want to thank Hale's Dept. Store for letting us display the quilt made by the residents. Dairy Queen in Floydada treated us to ice cream.

Our love and sympathy go out to the family of Loren Thompson and Billie Hanna. We want to welcome a new resident, O.L. Perry of Amarillo, father of Pauline Bruce. We want to thank Travis Jones for delivering the barbeque plates for the residents Saturday.

THOUGHT:

Give me roses while I may smell their fragrance, and see their beauty.

Bring me gifts that I may open with wonder and enjoy them today.

Let me see your smile, hear your voice raised in song.

Hold my hand as we walk together along the pathway, lest I stumble.

Share with me your joys and sorrows.

Give me a portion of your love, that I may know it, feel it's warmth tomorrow.

Your Health ★ Our Care

by Trina Wilson RN

Effective December 1, 1991, every adult admitted to a U.S. hospital began receiving information on patient treatment rights and advance directives so that they could make their wishes known concerning the providing or withholding of medical care. At W.J. Mangold Memorial Hospital in Lockney, this information is in the form of a pamphlet "Patients Rights".

The increased focus on helping patients understand their rights is the result of a new federal law, the "Patient Self-Determination Act". This law is aimed at improving patient knowledge about freedom of choice and at fostering better communication among patient, family, and attending physicians.

This right of self determination allows a patient to make all medical decisions, either relatively simple (choosing the type of anesthesia to use during childbirth) or extremely difficult (determining withholding of hydration and nutrition). There are times when a patient may be unable to communicate treatment desires such as an accident resulting in coma, or an advanced medical problem which may lead to incapacitation. In times like these, an advance directive helps the physician prescribe treatment based upon the patient's desires. By using a directive, a person can indicate what kinds of life-sustaining procedures he/she wants withdrawn or withheld in the event of a terminal illness or traumatic injury.

If you do not have an advance directive in place at this time but wish to establish one, contact your attorney for assistance, or obtain the needed documents and information from Trina Wilson at W.J. Mangold Memorial Hospital in Lockney.

VA Loan Guaranty Program changes announced by Veterans Service Officer

According to Ralph Jackson, Veterans County Service Officer for Floyd County, the Department of Veterans of Affairs (VA) announced major changes in VA's Loan Guaranty Program, including negotiated interest rates on VA-backed loans, adjustable rate and energy efficient mortgages, and direct home loans to Native American veterans.

The Veterans Home Loan Program Amendments of 1992, signed by the President October 28, 1992, authorizes VA to permit veterans to negotiate interest rates on VA-guaranteed home loans with lenders. VA will begin a test on the use of negotiated rates, tracking these loans and comparing rates and points charged to those charged on FHA and conventional loans. The authority expires December 31, 1995.

Legislation also authorizes a three-justable rate mortgages (ARMs). These mortgages will be similar to FHA. ARMs, with the interest rate corresponding to the specified national interest rate index. An annual adjustment to the rate (limited to one percent) is authorized, with adjustments to the loan rate limited to a refinance existing loans. The bill also requires that underwriting standards take into account the status of the interest rate index, maximum and expected amounts of increases in meeting payments, FHA standards and other factors that VA may determine.

VA also is authorized to make direct loans to Native American veterans living on trust land. The loans may be used to build or buy homes on reservations year program for VA-guaranteed ad- and other trust lands.

A new entitlement program for members of the Selected Reserve also is established by the legislation. Individuals with six years of service in the Selected Reserve will now be eligible for VA's loan guaranty benefit. Individuals no longer in the Selected Reserve must have served at least six years and have received an honorable discharge. The program, which is authorized for seven years from the date of enactment of the bill, requires a 2 percent funding fee on a no-downpayment loan. Reservist's will pay the same funding fee as other veterans for manufactured home loans (1 percent), and interest rate reduction refinancing loans and assumptions (.5 percent).

Other provisions include:

*Enhancement of an existing program that permits VA to guarantee loans that include increased funds for energy efficiency improvement.

*Reduction in the funding fee for interest rate reduction refinancing loans from 1.25 percent to .5 percent.

*Extension of the lender appraisal processing program through 1995.

VA-guaranteed home loans may be used by qualified veterans, servicemembers and surviving spouses to purchase, improve or refinance a house or condominium, and to purchase or refinance a manufactured home. Those eligible must make their own arrangements for loans through the usual lending channels, such as banks, savings and loan associations' building and loan associations and mortgage loan companies. Real estate brokers ordinarily will assist in finding a lender. Veterans may obtain information on VA-guaranteed home loans by contacting a VA regional office. The national, toll-free number is 1-800-827-1000.

RAINS CHASE AWAY COUNTRY CARAVAN

Rains held off long enough for the majority of Old Settlers events to be completed, but burst forth just in time to halt the performance of Country Caravan.

Although workers rushed to set up the stage in an effort to beat the rains, the weather would not cooperate. For the 2nd consecutive year fans were disappointed to see the show close up and head for Dimmitt.

BARBEQUE SERVES OVER ONE THOUSAND

Over 1,100 people were served the traditional Old Settlers Bar-B-Que meal during the noon hour. Many days of very hard work went into the preparation and serving of this meal, which was put together by Travis Jones and his industrious crew.

Before the barbeque could even start a large pit had to be dug and the fire had to be lit. A crew of approximately 35 men traveled below the Caprock and gathered 8 trailer loads of wood which was used to barbecue the beef.

SALUTE TO TENT SHOWS

Harley Sadler last pulled up his stakes in this area in the 1940's, and it had been 36 years since Henry Brunk's Comedians' big tent appeared in Floydada, but the shows were brought back to life last Friday with the Salute to Tent Shows under the pavilion. The skit, "Toby Goes To The Funny Farm," was staged and directed by Bill Gray who also starred as "Toby".

The evening's performance also starred: Dallas Ramsey, as "Doc," Roxanna Cummings, as Miss Charity the nurse; Alice Gilroy as the "bug lady", Spring Lipham as "Sweet Thing", Micheal Gilliland as a farmer looking for his cow, Jeanine Helms as a hysterical woman looking for her "lost baby", and Gary Brown as the jealous husband.

Mrs. Dell Gray assisted by coordinating the vaudeville music.

The play was a big success and because of the size and enthusiasm of the crowd it is possible the county may be seeing the return of an annual "Tent Show."

AWARDS

Numerous awards were presented throughout the day on Saturday.

John T. Carthel, 88, was named the Oldest Man registered and Nancy Kelly, 89, was recognized as the Oldest Woman registered.

Six Good Reasons To Vote For Kay Bailey Hutchison For U.S. Senate

1. Her budget as State Treasurer is down by 8%, yet she still earned more for the taxpayers than ever in the state's history.
2. As a small business owner, she will fight taxes and push for more spending cuts.
3. Her #1 priority is reducing the federal deficit by cutting spending, not by raising taxes.
4. She's for across-the-board cuts in the $300 billion the Federal government spends for overhead and has a plan to save $1 trillion by limiting the growth of spending.
6. She wants to stop frivolous lawsuits that clog our courts and drive up health care costs.

New organ installed in Floydada First United Methodist Church

Floydada's First United Methodist Church proudly announces the installation of a new Allen Digital MDS-45 Organ. This instrument, and the remodcled sound system, bring to completion the long-range plans begun years ago. The Memorila Organ Fund had grown very slowly over many years Serious interest was revised approximately four years ago when the Council on Ministries created the Drama Ministry and dedicated any profits toward a new organ. Christian outreach, entertainment, culture, and education were all products of the unique ministry; and this very fine organ, with such great versatility, should also enhance those areas and be an asset to our enure community.

The Allen Organ Company is recognized world-wide for it's advanced technology and superb sound quality. It first introduced and patented digital computer generated sound in 1971 when it abandoned oscillator organ technology as an outdated concept. Tolzien Music Company of Amarillo has equipped this organ with a custom speaker installation in the two Chancel-area chambers, plus an Antiphonal chamber in the balcony. Among the many "voices" available to the organist are celeste, chimes, harp, harpsicord, as well as a variety of brass, woodwind, percussion, and traditional organ sounds.

The public is invited to the Installation Recital at 5:00 p.m. Sunday, June 6th in the Sanctuary at Fifth and Kentucky. Mr. Randy Stevens will be the guest organist. Randy was born and raised in Winters, Texas. He holds a Bachelor of Music degree from McMurry University; Masters Degree from Indiana University, where he was an organ student of Dr. Oswald Ragatz; and has completed course work on his Doctorate Degree at Texas Tech. Currently Mr. Stevens is organist/choirmaster at First United Methodist Church Big Spring, Texas. He is the father of two sons, Matthew 10, and Skylar 6.

A wide variety of music will be played to demonstrate the many capabilities of this new instrument. Toccatta and Fugue in D Minor by J.S. Bach, Carrillon by Leo Sowerby, Fountain Reverie by Percy Fletcher, plus several hymn arrangements of well known hymns will be included. A reception will be held in Fellowship Hall immediately following the five o'clock recital.

TMC graduation ceremonies and cookout held at Wayland

Wayland Baptist University, J.V. Hillard Field was a colorful sight May 19 as children from six area TMC Head Start Centers participated in graduation ceremonies.

The theme for the first (all region) graduation ceremony was 'Heal the World' "dedicated to all persons who have any impact on the healing of another".

Starting off with a welcome by area supervisor, Ernestina R. Gomez, followed with an invocation by Yolanda Rodriguez Godsey, the children appeared in a parade of countries attired in native ethnic dress of France, Japan, Mexico, India, Africa and Saudi Arabia.

The Pledge of Allegiance was recited in English and Spanish by one child from each center.

The children then marched to Pomp and Circumstances to the podium to receive their diplomas.

Master of ceremonies for the event was Dimas Garcia of Plainview, Parent Involvement/Social Service Specialist. Programs were designed by TMC Secretary, Gloria Ybarra.

A cookout at Broadway Street Park was provided for parents, children and staff.

Area graduates receive diplomas at SPC commencement exercises

Three students from Floydada and one from Lockney were among the 764 South Plains College students who were candidates for graduation this spring.

South Plains College conferred the Associate of Arts, Associate of Science and Associate of Applied Science degrees and certificates of proficiency during the college's 35th commencement exercises Friday, May 14, in Texan Dome.

Receiving the Associate of Arts degree was Graciela Margarita Cervera of Floydada, and receiving the Associate of Applied Science degree were Jeannie Elaine Jackson, health information systems, and Michael Paul Goen, real estate. Both are from Floydada. Inez Myrtie Gibson of Lockney received an Associate of Applied Science degree.

"We congratulate you for reaching this educational milestone in your lives," said Dr. Marvin L. Baker, president of South Plains College, during the ceremony. "I want to commend you for selecting a community college to continue your education, and I want to congratulate you for selecting South Plains College which we feel is among the best community colleges in the nation."

"AREN'T WE GOING TO A COME AS YOU ARE PARTY?"--Laura Turner, Jill Graham, Renee Jones and Sara Hinsley thought they were going to a 'come as you are party' and instead wound up judging the beard growing contest at the1993 Floyd County Old Settlers Reunion. Staff Photo

According to new state director

FmHA to expedite farm loans

"Farmers in the state of Texas will get expedited service from the Farmers Home Administration", stated George Ellis, new State Director of the Texas Farmers Home Administration (FmHA). In his first week on the job, Ellis declared an all out effort to act on every Farmer Program loan application, throughout the state of Texas. "I expect the backlog to be cleared by the county and district offices by this Friday," Ellis said.

Any assistace needed by a county or district office will be provided by other district offices, and by the state office in Temple. This effort will affect all farm loan appli. nts who have already submitted a completed application.

Any problem applications which are not acted upon by the June fourth deadline will be completed by June 15, 1993. the Texas Agricultural Loan Mediation Program at Texas Tech University has volunteered its expert staff to help clean up problem applications. Ellis said that he is implementing USDA Secretary Mike Espy's dedication to quality customer service. "We intend to meet the Texas Farmer's needs effectively and efficiently, and we expect our farmers to be able to work with us as partners," Ellis said. If you have any questions about the Farmer Program section of FmHA, please contact the county office nearest you.

Information on crop insurance given

According to American Association of Crop Insurers, Congress must make hard decisions this year on budget deficit reduction. Those decisions will include ways to save money on agricultural spending.

One aspect of agricultural spending, which will not escape scrutiny and greatly needs to be addressed, is how best to provide farmers with a safety net in the event of a natural, crop destroying, disaster.

The program decided upon should be fair to the farmer and fair to the taxpayer—it should be the most cost effective system that truly provides relief. Federally-reinsured, privately-delivered crop insurance is the only alternative that meets those criteria.

It is no longer economically feasible to look to the federal government for assistance at a time when the government is not able to continue existing programs without creating large additional debt.

While such an ad hoc method was politically appealing in the past, last year's "50 cent on the dollar payments" signified the Treasury's limitations on bailouts and the diminished appreciation for such meager help. Those payments were not equitable, timely, or very helpful.

As one Congressional leader said, "These days you ride in with pennies where you used to bring dollars, and everyone starts throwing rocks." In addition, the ad hoc method lacks any type of budget planning and discipline.

Congress needs to make it clear once and for all, that disaster aid is too expensive and inadequate when compared to the risk-management, self-help alternative, crop insurance. On average, the federal government has spent over three times as much annually on disaster payments and emergency loans than on crop insurance.

During the 12 year period 1980-1992, the average annual cost of crop insurance has been $559 million; the average annual cost of disaster payments has been $773 million; and the average annual cost of emergency loans has been $1,077 million.

Choices must be made on a least-cost basis, and the most prudent choice with the greatest possible protection is crop insurance. Disaster aid subsidizes risk taking in fragile arid country side and flood-prone wetlands by indiscriminately paying crop losses. Crop insurance extracts a self-help premium that encourages private and public risk management.

Farmers without crop insurance do not have any assurance there will be any form of disaster aid, and if appropriated, it is often not received until more than a year after the loss. Crop insurance payments, on the other hand, are paid within a few weeks of a verified loss. The federal government's portion of that crop insurance coverage is far less than direct disaster aid that tries to give everyone something. In addition, crop insurance can be tailored to meet almost all of a farmer's loss.

Congress must provide farmers with a sound, improved and fully implemented crop insurance program that gives farmers the freedom of choice. The alternative is continued disaster aid which helps little and drains the federal budget of desperately needed funds.

FLOYD CO. AG. UPDATE

Chemicals pose no health threat

Trace amounts of triazine herbicides and aldicarb insecticide residues were detected in some of the water samples collected in 1993 from 99 playa basins in the portion of the Brazos River Drainage Basin within the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1.

The Clean River Act, passed by the 72nd Texas Legislature in 1991, directs Texas river authorities to identify and assist all possible surface water and ground water contamination sources, with special emphasis on the role of nonpoint source pollution and its effect upon surface water and ground water quality.

The High Plains Water District, in cooperation with other agencies, took advantage of the unusually heavy rainfall that fell last year to obtain samples from playa basins for analysis for the presence of triazine and aldicarb.

"The thought was that if ever a problem would show up, it would be when there was plenty of water runoff to transport chemicals from adjacent fields to the playas," said A. Wayne Wyatt, High Plains Water District manager.

Atrazine, Caparol and Pramitol are common triazine herbicides used on the Texas High Plains. Temik is the brand name of the popular aldicarb insecticide used to control nematodes and some early season insects in cotton.

Chemcial Traces Pose No Significant Health Risk-Researchers from the Texas A&M University Agriculture Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, the Texas Tech University Water Resources Center and Enviromental Service Laboratory, and Water District officials agree that the traces of chemicals detected in 1993 pose no significant risk to humans, livestock, or the enviroment.

"The detection of trace amounts of agriculture chemicals in the playas should not be of major concern at this point," said Dr. John R. Abernathy, Resident Director of the Texas A&M University Research and Extention Center at Lubbock. "The chemicals detected in playa basin water after extreme enviromental conditions are in very small quantities."

Abernathy has been nationally recognized for his expertise in weeds and herbicide research.

Triazines-Of the 99 samples analyzed for total triazines, 97 were found to be greater than the 0.10 part per billion (ppb) method detection limit. 39 samples had values of three ppb or more. 3 of the 39 values were greater than six ppb.

A concentration of one part per billion would be the equivalent of one 500 milligram aspirin table dissolved and equally dispersed in 130,000 gallons of water.

The current drinking water standard for one of the triazines, atrazine, is 3 micrograms per liter (ug/L) or 3ppb. Only 39 of the 99 samples showed total triazine values higher than that permitted by Safe Drinking Water Act standards for atrazine alone in drinking water.

Although water from playa basins is not used for public drinking water supplies, a comparison of the quality of water in playas to the recommended maximum contaminant levels for drinking water supplies gives a clear idea of how low the level of triazines in playa water is.

Aldicarb-Aldicarb was detected in 26 of the 99 samples. The aldicarb values were reported only as greater than or less than five ppb. Only one sample had a value greater than five ppb.

Water Quality "Good"-The investigators concluded that the quality of water accumulating in the vast majority of area playa basins is good. However, Abernathy says that additional research will be needed to learn more about farming practices on land near playa basins.

Further Data To Be Collected-In Phase Two of the study, sediments (mud) will be collected from the same playas to determine movement of any pollutants in the soil profile and if there is movement, what quantities exist at what level of the soil profile.

In Phase Three, samples will be collected from wells near the playa basins to determine if any of the pesticide has entered the aquifer.

"The Water District appreciates the owner and operators of the playa basins allowing us to come onto their property to collect the water and mud samples as well as water samples from wells. The special effort that most producers made to cooperate in the sampling effort demonstrates to us that they are truly concerned about their water supplies," he said.

Industry leader to discuss exports with foreign buyers

According to Willingham, export markets continue to expand for U.S. red meat products around the world.

"We set a new record last year with export sales of $3 billion for U.S. red meat products. That's up 17 percent from the previous year for beef and veal and up 26 percent for pork," Willingham said.

Willingham said both the short-and-long-term outlook for U.S. red meat exports are outstanding. In 1993, USMEF estimates that beef and veal exports, including variety meats, will increase to $2.8 billion. That's a 12 percent increase over 1992. By the year 2000, total U.S. red meat exports will top $7.2 billion, more than double their current levels.

The Washington meeting will focus on key issues affecting the industry's future in export markets, Willingham said. Among these issues are proposed cuts in USDA export programs for value-added produts, the North American Free Trade Agreement and emerging trade opportunities in Korea and the China Pacific region.

Eleven foreign trade teams from Japan, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Mexico, Korea, Singapore and the Caribbean will attend the USMEF meeting and Foreign Buyers Conference.

Texas beef industry leader Clark Willingham of Dallas will join other agriculture leaders June 2-5 in Washington, D.C. for the U.S. Meat Export Federation's board of directors meeting and foreign buyers conference. In addition to officials from the meat, livestock and feed grain sectors, more than 100 foreign buyers will attend.

"The USMEF meeting is also an excellent opportunity for the U.S. industry to meet in person with foreign buyers to talk about our production practices and our quality assurance programs," Willingham said. "These areas make a real difference in distinguishing U.S. products in foreign markets. This is also a unique opportunity for us to learn firsthand what we need to do to increase export sales and to compete more effectively with other exporting countries."
