By Ken Towery

The Congress is set to take up two pieces of legislation that, if passed, will make some fundamental changes in the way American society operates in the foreseeable future. One is the North American Free Trade Agreement, or NAFTA. The other is the Administration's proposal to drastically change the manner in which health care is delivered in this country, who gets it, who pays for it, and how much those who pay for it will pay for it.

On both issues we are of a mixed mind, or perhaps we should say mixed minds. And we will admit that is somewhat uncharacteristic. Usually we have rather definite opinions on pending legislation, just as we have rather definite opinions on those proposing the legislation. But we have not read all the thousands of pages that make up the whole of the NAFTA agreement. Frankly we doubt that many Congressmen or Senators have either. Nor have we read the 280 or so pages that make up Hillary's health care proposals. Again, we doubt that many Congressmen or Senators have read it either. Not that this is so important, in the case of the health proposals, for the Administration submitted some 150 changes in their own proposals within the first week after it was submitted to Congress and before it was unveiled to the public by Clinton.

The issue that is most important to us at the moment however, is the NAFTA matter. It is on what is called the "fast track" in trade agreements, meaning Congress cannot amend the proposal, it must vote it up or down. The health issue will be debated for many months. The "hype," the "spin," is just beginning. The final bill will probably come out in a form only faintly resembling Hillary's original proposals. (We hope). People will, or should, have plenty of time to weigh in on that matter before it is finally put to rest. The NAFTA thing, on the other hand, must be voted on as it stands.

Quite frankly there are many things in the NAFTA matter that trouble us. Though we have not read the details of the proposed agreement (and the devil is always in the details), we are generally familiar with the arguments on both sides. And, to us, there appears to be some rather glaring inconsistencies in those arguments.

It is argued by opponents of the treaty, by Mr. Perot for instance, that we will hear a "giant sucking sound" of industries and jobs heading for Mexico, where workers make about one-seventh what they make here in comparable jobs. Proponents of the treaty say, on the other hand, that American companies are already free to go to Mexico anytime they wish, that the reason so many stay here now is because American workers are generally more productive than Mexican workers. They downplay any huge movement of factories and jobs.

It is further argued by proponents that the treaty would result in an employment boom in Mexico, thereby cutting down on the massive flow of illegal Mexicans to this country. If that were true it would be reason enough to pass the treaty, for the invasion of illegals from Mexico and other Central American countries has literally swamped this country's public service system, and contributed in no small way to the skyrocketing cost of health and welfare here, not to mention public education. In our view until that (immigration) problem is solved, there will be no solving our other problems in education, health, "human services", or jobs.

But who honestly believes passage of this treaty would have any such results? The ordinary Mexican citizen, faced with taking a change of finding a job in Mexico at six or seven bucks a day, or finding one in the United States at several times that figure, will likely opt for the latter, as he has been doing for many, many years. It is not likely he will stand pat in Mexico for years in the hope that NAFTA may make life there more beautiful some day. Until Mexico changes its corrupt one-party political system, until Mexico changes a cultural system that encourages massive over-population, or until America begins strictly enforcing its own immigration laws, that problem

Commissioners and sheriff's department find compromise

Floyd County deputies, dispatchers and jailers met with the Commissioners Court on Thursday, September 30, to voice their concerns on the new personnel policy about to be adopted by the commissioners court.

The new policy would start the fiscal year from October 1, 1993 to September 30, 1994. Under the new policy employees will not be allowed to carry over vacation time, holiday time or sick time into another year.

Employees will be allowed 10 days vacation, 10 days holidays and 10 days sick time each year. If the time is not used the employee will not be allowed to carry it over to the next fiscal year.

Sheriff Overstreet addressed the court asking if it was true that as of that day all vacation time, holidays and compensation time that had been earned up until that day would be lost.

Overstreet asked the commissioners to consider allowing the dispatchers and jailers time to take off earned vacation and holiday time. "I was told to carry over any time that had been left over from the previous year during the time that Fred Cardinal was Sheriff," said Overstreet. "I don't think it is fair that we are being penalized for doing something we were told to do."

Overstreet explained the difficulties covering shifts within the jail when a jailer or dispatcher is sick or off for vacations.

"We still have five employees who have not taken their vacation time and I don't think it is fair that they will lose their time when you shorten the year by three months," said Overstreet.

"How much time are we talking about," said Judge Hardin.

"The jailers and dispatchers have a total of 27 days in holidays and vacation time left from 1992 and earned in 1993," said Overstreet.

"How much comp time do the deputies have left," said Hardin.

"Time off for the deputies doesn't cost you anything," said Deputy John White. "The deputies cover for each other when we take comp time."

Hardin asked Overstreet if it was possible for the jailers and dispatchers to catch up on earned vacation and holiday time within the next three months, and Overstreet replied that it was.

Commissioner Howard Bishop then made a motion which was seconded by Connie Bearden to pay for relief personnel to cover the jailers and dispatchers shifts over the next three months while they take off the combined 27 days they have earned. The court voted unanimously on this motion.

Hardin also requested that Sheriff Overstreet let the court know when the deputies are up to date on their vacation time, and Overstreet agreed.

The court also discussed whether it was necessary to change the period of time to pay on worker's comp claims and decided to leave the policy as it now stands. The court will continue to pay full salary for 180 days on worker compensation claims.

After discussion of workers compensation the court voted unanimously to approve the new Personnel Policy and then adjourned the meeting.

Commissioners and deputies appeared relieved and happy that a compromise had been reached in the matter. "I'm just glad this is over and that we could agree to a compromise," said one deputy. "The court and the Sheriff's office worked well together to come to a settlement."

"I believe that there had been some misunderstanding over this time," said Commissioner Bishop. "I'm glad we were able to straighten it out."

Napoleon Park gets facelift

Floydada's Napoleon Park is undertaking renovations with the help of a grant from Texas Park and Wildlife.

The City of Floydada received the grant, Feb. 10, 1992, totaling $42,688.00. "The grant stipulates that the money will be used for park improvement," said City Manager Gary Brown. "We must furnish labor and equipment in the amount equal to the grant."

Keeping with the agreement, city employees have been busy this week, digging trenches for a sprinkler system.

The park, which is located across from the City Park Church Christ, on 5th Street, will also be equipped with four covered picnic tables, bar-b-que grills and water fountains. New playground equipment, which will be meeting the stringent recommendations of Duncan Elementary and R.C. Andrews Elementary students will also be put in place. "We will plant 50 trees in the park," said Brown. "There will also be limited tennis court renovations, such as patching and cleaning of the existing court."

"The overhead electrical lines will also be replaced with an underground service."

According to Brown, workers should be finished installing the sprinkler within a week and then the grass will be planted. "We anticipate the park being completed and ready by the spring of 1994," said Brown.

Punkin Committee seeks community's artistic help

The Punkin Committee for Floydada's popular annual Punkin Day celebration, is seeking the help of the community in decorating the neighborhoods, downtown Floydada and the highways that pass through the city.

Because of a great deal of positive press already, organizers of the event are expecting a record number of out of town guests for the event.

"We want them to see the city at its best," said Shelly Smith, who is gathering up judges for the decorating contest.

"We already have our judges," said Smith, "now we really need some places to judge. People who come into town really want to see the decorations and we want to show off."

"We will be giving prize money for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place in home decoration, business decoration and highway decorations."

If you want your home or business to be considered call Shelly Smith at 983-2548. "If you like your neighbor's decoration and you don't think they will call, just call the committee yourself, said Smith. "They will be glad to include any home in the contest—just let them know where to look."

Any club, group or individual who wants to decorate a median or highway spot should also call Smith to reserve your place.

Early voting on constitutional amendments begins October 15

Early voting on 16 constitutional amendments begins Oct. 14 and continues through Oct. 30 in the County Clerk's Office, located in the Floyd County Courthouse in Floydada.

Any qualified voter is also eligible to vote early by mail if that individual expects to be absent from the county on election day or during the regular hours for conducting early voting by personal appearance, has a sickness or physical condition that prevents the voter from appearing at the polling places on election day, is 65 years of age or older or is confined in jail.

If you wish to vote early by mail you must submit an application to the county clerk's office before Oct. 27. Votes must be received by Nov. 3 to be counted in the general election.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Proposition 1 on the ballot calls for a proposal from Senate Joint Resolution 9 that would authorize the Texas Legislature to provide for the issuance of bonds for the state financing of start-up costs of historically underutilized businesses.

To carry out the program, the legislature may issue up to $50 million of general obligation bonds to provide funding.

Proposition 2 would authorize the legislature, by general law, to exempt from ad valorem taxation all or part of real and personal property used, constructed, acquired, or installed to meet or exceed rules or regulations adopted by any environmental protection agency for the prevention, monitoring, control, or reduction of air, water, or land pollution.

Proposition 3 deals with clearing land titles in Fort Bend County, Austin counties in which the State of Texas relinquishes and releases any claim of sovereign ownership or title to an undivided one-third interest in certain lands.

Proposition 4 would prohibit a state personal income tax without voter approval and would dedicate the proceeds of any income tax, if enacted, to property tax relief and education.

Proposition 5 would authorize the legislature to prescribe the qualifications of sheriffs. Currently the constitution authorizes the legislature to prescribe the duties, perquisites, and fees of office, but not the qualifications for the office of sheriff.

Proposition 6 would abolish the office of county surveyor in Jackson County.

Proposition 7 would repeal article XVII, section 6, of the Texas Constitution, which currently provides that no corporation shall issue stock or bonds except for money paid, labor done, or property actually received, and that all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void.

Proposition 8 would authorize the commissioners court of McLennan County to call an election to abolish the office of county surveyor.

Proposition 9 would modify provisions of the Texas Constitution dealing with redemption of real property sold at a tax sale.

Proposition 10 would provide an amendment to allow the Veteran's Land Board to issue $750 million in general obligation bonds to augment the Veteran's Land Fund, Veteran's Housing Assistance Fund and to fund the Veteran's Housing Assistance Fund II.

Proposition 11 will read on the ballot, "The constitutional amendment providing that the trustees of a local public pension system must administer the system for the benefit of the system's participants and beneficiaries."

Proposition 12 will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment permitting the denial of bail to certain persons charged with certain violent or sexual offenses committed while under the supervision of a criminal justice agency of the state or a political subdivision of the state."

Proposition 13 will appear as follows: "The constitutional amendment relating

BY THE WAY!

BY ALICE GILROY

I've got a story to share with all you folks that deal with children. Adults think we're so smart—and kids show us up everytime.

I do my best to stumble through a Sunday School class every Sunday morning. Along with another woman (who is the creative one) we manage to bluff our way through very simple questions and astounding answers by these small children.

I decided one Sunday to explain what Baptism was all about. I won't go into all the details, but I tried to keep it as simple as possible.

I explained the old Jewish custom of sacrificing lambs at the altar, for forgiveness of sins (that was a little abstract for their kind little minds). Then I explained how Jesus was our sacrifice and that was why He was referred to as the Lamb. Our sins were forgiven over and over—etc., etc.

Anyway—I was starting to lose their interest a little bit so I really tried to make our baptism sound wonderful.

I said, "When we get dunked in the water—we are getting all our sins washed away. We come up a whole new person. It's like we are born all over again. We are brand new."

Well—the eyes lit up.

Finally I had made an impression. I was very impressed with myself. I started to puff up.

"Yeah!!!", shouted one boy very excitedly. "That's JUST LIKE GETTING SPLASHED AT THE TEXAS WATER RAMPAGE RIDE OVER AND OVER."

Kids can sure bring you back to earth. They can also make you see Heaven better than anyone else.

Hey Floydadans! (Remember—Floydadans is our new word)

It's time to start decorating for Punkin Days. The TV crews and newspapers will be coming in fast and furious between now and the end of October.

Also—we are going to have a lot of out of town guests here on October 30. We want them to leave with a good feeling and liking what they see. So get busy fixing up your yards and businesses.

I can't believe some Study Club or other organization hasn't seized upon the opportunity to decorate a spot along the highway. It's a good way to earn money for your group!

Anyway—the decorating committee is getting nervous. Let's help them out.

Actually—this time of year the whole Punkin Day Committee gets nervous!

is likely to persist. At any rate, if there is no great movement of factories and jobs to Mexico, where are those new jobs in Mexico going to come from?

We have no way of knowing exactly who is right on the "giant sucking sound," Perot or Clinton? Buchanan or Bentsen? But we can see certain inconsistencies in the arguments on both sides, primarily of those pushing the treaty. If, for instance the transfer of factories and jobs to Mexico would be minimal, if those factories are now free to go there under present circumstances, (which they are) if the economy of Mexico is so miniscule compared to the United States, (which it is), if passage of the treaty would have little effect upon the flow of illegals to this country, (which is debatable), then why is the treaty all that necessary in the first place? Why is the government of Mexico so hot to see the treaty go through? If the treaty is so good for everybody concerned, why was it necessary for supporters to spend millions of dollars on high-priced public relations firms to convince people of that fact? If it is a win-win situation, as its proponents argue, why are ordinary people so concerned and offended?

There may well be compelling arguments advanced during debate on the treaty. We may very well become convinced, during that debate, the treaty is in the best interests of the United States as a whole. After all, practically the whole of the Texas political establishment is for it. Our Republican Senators are for it, with varying degrees of enthusiasm. Our Democratic Governor is enthusiastically for it. This state's "big business" is for it, with few exceptions. Most of those academicians who have sounded off are for it. Three former Presidents, Carter, Bush and Ford, were willing to stand alongside Clinton and endorse the proposal. But very few of those folks are out there struggling for a living in the private sector.

While most of the arguments have revolved around the manufacturing and distribution sectors of our economy, our own principal concern is the treaty's effect upon the agricultural sector. And at the moment we are not convinced it is good for the workers and producers of this country as it involves that particular segment of our national life. It may be good for the Wal-Mart, for instance, and those who supply the Wal-Marts, but the picture as it effects the production and movement of this nation's agricultural goods is much less clear to us.

Millions and millions of dollars have been amassed and spent (and more will be spent) on both sides. Much of that money, indeed we would hazard a guess that most of it, comes from people and industries having a direct monetary stake in the outcome. In terms of the total, Mr. Perot is likely to be a piker in this regard, former President Jimmy Carter notwithstanding.

Speaking of Perot. Clearly he has not been able to marshal a bevy of ex-presidents to stand by his side on this issue. But his side, or at least the side he is on, has been able to muster a remarkable diversity of groups in opposition. In a political sense they may have more clout, in the final analysis, than the ex-presidents, and the sitting President.

For us, we do not know, at the moment, exactly where wisdom resides in this matter. We hope to be enlightened as the debate goes on. The outcome will affect all of us, one way or the other. And if you, gentle reader have ideas on the matter, we would be pleased to hear them, and, within the space constraints that always apply, to publish them. In terms of the national debate on this issue, your ideas are important. To us, your ideas are more important than anyone else's.

In the September 30 edition we incorrectly listed the R.C. Andrews student who recited the Pledge of Allegiance during Andrews assembly recognizing Constitution Week. Rudy Adam Arrellano led the students in the pledge and was also pictured with Mayor Hulon Carthel and representatives from Sen. Phill Gramm's office. We apologize for the error.

FLOYDADA—Hi! Once again it's time to share with you on what's going on around here. It's Fall and we are excited about seeing the abundant pumpkin, gourd, corn crop and also the cotton crops look so good.

Monday started the day and week as usual. Bro. Williams came and gave the devotional. Irene Wexler played the piano for us. At 2:00 p.m. the residents painted ceramics.

Tuesday the residents had current events and at 2:30 arts and crafts. They finished making the decorations for their doors.

Wednesday was Bingo as usual. Mary Alice Davis and Ray Beaty, assisted the residents. Bananas, cheese snacks and candy were the treats.

Thursday was word games and snacks. At 6:00 p.m. was the pie social. Thanks to all the family who came; also for those who helped serve the residents the pies.

Friday we didn't get to go on the bus ride, so some of the residents played dominoes and ate popcorn. Judy Poteet came and gave the devotion with her daughter, Janet and lead the singing. Joyce Liphart also played the piano. Our sympathy and love go out to the family and friends of Grace Greene, also to the Audrey Thomas family.

THOUGHT:

"The Power of Prayer"

Nobody knows the power of prayer, But somebody must be listening there With a friendly ear for the heart that calls.

Someone Who knows when a sparrow falls.

Miracles lie in the power of prayer; Faith that can banish the soul's despair!

Hope that can shine like a holy light And brighten the spirit's darkest night!

When earthly help is of no avail There is one Friend who will never fail;

Just lift your eyes - the answer is there. For nobody knows the power of prayer!

LOCKNEY—There were 64 persons present for a delicious supper Thursday night. We had sandwiches, chips, dips, dessert and homemade ice cream.

We have had several guests, which we always welcome.

On the new room at the center, our roofers are running behind, but it's coming along.

We want to thank our host for the last two months, also anyone else who has helped in any way.

We had some good 42 games, chicken foot and domino games Thursday night. I believe Lucie and James have been practicing because they are getting better.

Of course, Sonny didn't have his partner, but we are praying for her a speedy recovery. Flora Lee was in the hospital last Thursday night. Also, I believe they said Bill Thomas had been back to the doctor, so come on kids let's get back in the groove.

Let's still remember all our ill and ailing people and pray for their recovery.

I believe our hosts for this month are Lee, Theresa and Lozella, if that's not right, blame me. We will all get it done anyway.

LOCKNEY—The "Gift of Life", donating organs or tissue after death, is often a double gift - those waiting for transplants receive a second chance at life, and the donor's bereaved family members are comforted in the knowledge that their loss will help save others.

As of July 1991, nearly 24,000 patients were on the waiting list of the National United Network for Organ Sharing, a clearing house for organ donations and recipients. All were hopeful that a family grieving the loss of a loved one might decide to give the gift of life. In Texas alone, more than 800 people are waiting for organ transplants, but misconceptions about organ donation charges may cost waiting transplant recipients their lives.

Donor families are sometimes unaware of the high medical costs involved with life-support or other methods used in final life-saving attempts.

Often, medical bills received after a loved one's death are interpreted as organ removal costs. At no time is any donation-related cost passed on to the patient's family. The patient/family financial responsibility stops when life-saving attempts fail, the loved one expires and donation is authorized. From that moment on, the procurement organization assumes financial responsibility for any costs associated with the donation process. The law is so strict in this area that it is illegal to buy or sell human organs or tissues.

To be quickly identified as a donor, any person over the age of 18 may execute a statement of gift on a personal identification card or on the back of a Texas driver's license. Under revised Texas law, the license or card is sent to the hospital with any individual who is involved in an accident or other trauma. A person under age 18 may make a statement of gift, but it is not effective at the time of death without the approval of the minor's parents or legal guardian.

Because of time restraints, donation procurement officials suggest signing a donor card as opposed to including a statement of gift in a will. It is also recommended that family members discuss anatomical donations at length, so that those who remain may act according to the wishes of the deceased.

For additional information regarding organ donation, contact your attorney or call "Life Gift Organ Donation" at 1-744-4499.

Bradshaw shares photographic art

FLOYDADA—J. Royce Bradshaw has been selected as the artist of the month for October at the First National Bank of Floydada. He will be sharing his love of photography with the public during regular business hours throughout the month.

"My sister Anna Leta said that I would probably surprise a lot of people with this exhibit," says Bradshaw. "I guess she is right, most people do not know that I even take pictures."

Bradshaw has been interested in photography since shortly after his graduation from Floydada High School in 1976. "It takes my mind off of the everyday things, like work," he states.

The artist has been fueled by an ever growing fascination with landscape and wildlife photography. The exhibit at FNB Floydada is his first major public display and the collection of photos is impressive. His work demonstrates a real talent for capturing wildlife in natural settings. "It has improved my patience," said Bradshaw. "Sitting in a blind and waiting for the right shot can be a long process. My other favorite as a subject is landscape scenes."

Photo trips have given Bradshaw the opportunity to do two things he enjoys, travel and take pictures. He has been in 46 of the 50 states and in seven foreign countries. Next on his itinerary is a trip to Germany. "It will be a small group under the guidance of a professional photographer and we will be in the countryside, not the cities. I call it story book castle land," says Bradshaw. "It should provide some really great photo opportunities."

Not intrigued by the processing side of photography, the artist uses professional labs for these services. This allows him to devote his time and resources to taking photos and he has acquired a wide array of equipment for that purpose, sometimes carrying more than a hundred pounds of cameras, lenses and other items.

A Floydada resident since the age of four, Bradshaw was born in Matador and moved to Floydada from Turkey with his parents, Willie and Clara Bradshaw. He is a partner in Caprock Motor Parts with his father. Despite his growing interest in photography, Bradshaw opted to study business at Texas Tech after high school.

Honing skills in his craft has been accomplished on a self-taught basis. "I read a lot of books and talk with everyone I can about photography. I also attend seminars given by professional photographers," says Bradshaw. "A lot of my knowledge has come from experimenting on my own with various equipment, techniques and composition. I really like doing this and I think it has added a lot to my life."

FNB Floydada is proud to present this talented local photo artist to the public and urges all who would like to see his photographs to stop by during October.

American Heart Assn. Walk promotes healthy lifestyle

Citizens of Floyd County will learn how to knock out heart disease with a special event held here and nationwide this month by the American Heart Association.

Citizens of Floyd County will join Kay Brotherton to walk all over heart disease at the American Heart walk, a non-competitive, just for fun walking event held Oct. 16th. Participants collect donations from friends and co-workers to raise money to fund critically needed cardiovascular research.

"Everyone needs to know that heart disease is America's No. 1 killer," said Kay Brotherton. You can help keep your heart healthy by eating a diet low in total fat, saturated fat, cholesterol and sodium; and by getting regular exercise. The Walk will emphasize the heart-health benefits of regular exercise and show graphically how much fun regular walking can be.

"Conditioning your heart is relatively easy" said Kay Brotherton. "All you need is 30 to 60 minutes of brisk exercise 3 or 4 days a week. And you don't have to run a marathon—just walking is great."

Lack of exercise is a major risk factor for heart attack, so getting regular exercise is one of the best things you can do to help keep your heart healthy.

Join Kay Brotherton at 9:00 a.m. at the high school track on October the 16th.

Never Before Like '94

By Melissa Faulkenberry

Mike Ochoa is our first senior in this year's "Never Before Like '94" spotlight.

He is the son of Rebecca Ochoa of Floydada and has one sister, Francis Nieto.

Mike has attended school in Floydada for four years. He previously attended Ralls Middle School. He has been in football for four years and on the varsity team since his sophomore year.

Mike does not work during the school year, but he did have a job working for the school system during the summer.

Naming his favorites, Mike chose "The Outsiders" as his favorite book; blue for color; "In Living Color", TV show; and "Home Alone II", movie. He also likes pizza, sports and Garth Brooks. An ideal vacation spot would be

Las Vegas and his favorite subject in school is English IV.

Someday, Mike would like to take Priscilla Ramirez to Paris.

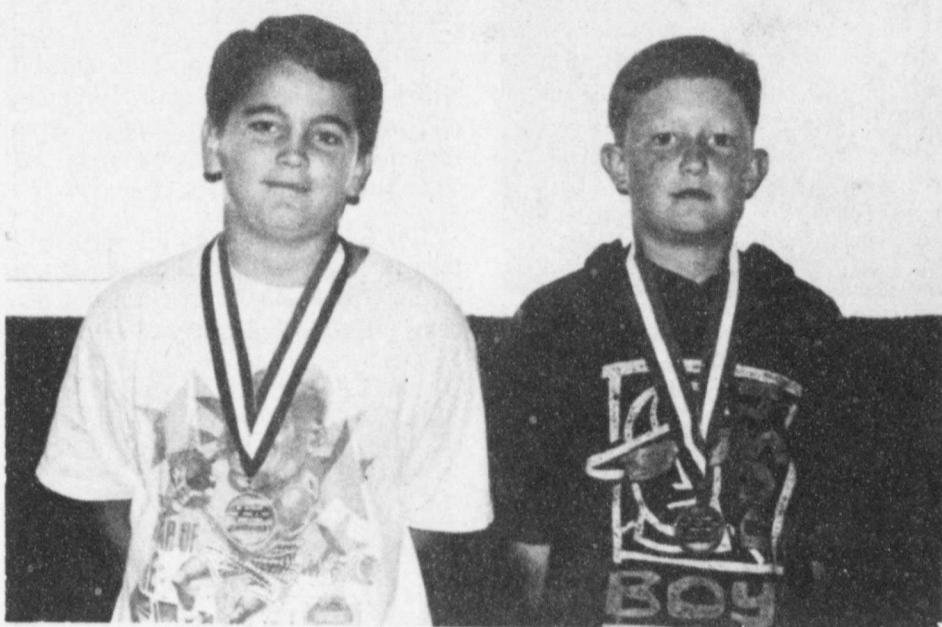

In all the world, he admires his uncle Jack the most, although he would really like to meet Cindy Crawford, someday.

He says that a simple gift from the heart would please him most.

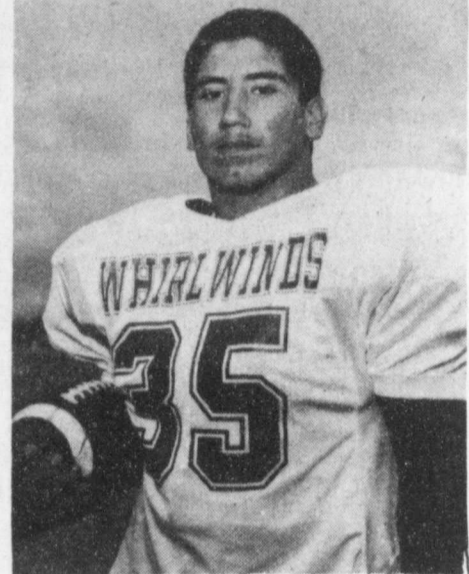

Mike's plans for the future are to go to Tarleton State University and study to be a teacher.

Mike enjoys all the friendly staff at F.H.S., but would like to see an increase in the student body.

Some of his achievements include: All District linebacker, playing on the baseball team, named Class Favorite his sophomore year, member of N.H.S., having been listed on the honor roll for four years and Senior Class President.

'Winds again denied last minute victory

By Bill Gray
FLOYDADA—Floydada's attempt for a winning two-point conversion in the game's final two minutes was foiled by a controversial illegal procedure penalty as the Childress Bobcats held on to defeat the Whirlwinds 14-13 at Childress' Fair Park Stadium on October 1. Similar circumstances surrounded last year's Bi-District playoff, also won by the Bobcats at the same location. The Whirlwinds' 1993 record now stands at 2-3 as Floydada prepares for its district opener this week. Childress improves to 4-1 on the year as the Bobcats open defense of their District 1-3A crown.

The evening started on a sour note for Floydada. The Whirlwinds turned over the opening kickoff, giving the Bobcats excellent field position at Floydada's 30-yard line. However, the 'Cats failed to capitalize immediately on Floydada's early mistake. The Whirlwind defenders stiffened and didn't allow Childress to score on its first series. Floydada took over on downs at its own 5-yard line, but the 'Winds weren't able to generate a first down and were forced to punt from deep in their own territory.

The Bobcats' Jamie McBride returned Mike Ochoa's punt for 25 yards down to Floydada's 18-yard line. Seven plays later, Childress cashed in on the opportunity as Yandy Yarbrough carried a yard for the opening score. Matthew Vitela booted the conversion and the Bobcats had an early 7-0 lead - much to the delight of the large Homecoming crowd.

An exchange of possessions brought the first period to a close. The Whirlwinds pulled to a tie with their longest scoring play of the season just four minutes into the second quarter. Operating from his own 16-yard line, quarterback Sammy Rodriguez handed off to Ochoa, who then tossed back to Sammy on the "waggle play." Rodriguez passed to Elias Gutierrez, who had broken into the clear in back of the Childress secondary at the 45-yard line. The speedy senior raced untouched to the end zone to complete the 84-yarder. Rafael DeOchoa kicked the first extra point of his Whirlwind career to deadlock the score at 7-all.

The Bobcats responded with a long scoring strike of their own on the second play following the ensuing kickoff. Wade Keys passed 61 yards to Peter Rodriguez for the Childress touchdown, Vitela added the P.A.T., and the 'Cats were back on top, 14-7. Sammy Rodriguez threw his first interception of the season on Floydada's initial snap following the kickoff, and Childress was back in scoring territory at the Whirlwind 13-yard line.

Whirlwind defenders Adam Gonzales, Brandon Gilliland, Rafael DeOchoa, Troy Johnson, and Zach Abshier made outstanding plays as the 'Wind stopper unit held. The Bobcats had to settle for a field goal attempt on fourth down. Vitela's 25-yarder was low and partially blocked, and the Whirlwinds took possession on downs at their own 14-yard line. Both defenses took command as the second quarter slipped away. The first half ended with the Whirlwinds posing no particular threat at midfield.

Another turnover dealt Floydada a severe blow early in the third quarter. It cost the Whirlwinds an important touchdown and, ultimately, the ball game.

Highlighted by Sammy Rodriguez's option keeper for 31 yards, Floydada moved 85 yards in 11 plays. However, on Tyrone Henderson's plunge for the touchdown from the Childress' 2-yard line, the ball popped loose out of the end zone and was ruled a touchback. Childress took over at its own 20 to end the Whirlwind threat.

The Bobcats maintained control for the remaining three minutes of the third quarter. They continued a drive into the first three minutes of the final period, but Key's fourth down pass attempt was broken up by Elias Gutierrez. Following an exchange of punts, the 'Winds had one final opportunity for an end-of-the-game rally. They took over at their own 43-yard line with 5:22 remaining in the contest. It was Floydada's deepest penetration into Childress territory to commence a drive.

Sammy connected with Gutierrez for a 35-yarder and a critical first down at the Bobcats' 22-yard line. Four plays later, Rodriguez hooked up with Rod Vela on a 12-yard, 3rd-down pass. Vela made a miraculous catch to place the ball less than two yards from the Childress end zone. Pete Cooper carried in the final 50 inches on fourth down, and the 'Winds were a two-point conversion away from "pulling the rabbit out of the hat" for the victory.

Only 1:56 remained as Floydada elected to go for the winning two-point conversion - rather than settling for the tie. Rodriguez lobbed a beautiful pass to Brandon Gilliland in the corner of the end zone for the go-ahead points, but a late flag was tossed. Illegal procedure was called, and the 'Winds had to try again from the 8-yard line. Sammy's second pass fell incomplete as flags again flew on the play. Holding was called against the 'Winds, Childress declined the penalty, and the game was history. The Bobcats managed a first down on the third play following an onside kick, and were able to run out the remaining seconds on the clock.

The Bobcats open defense of their 1-3A crown when they host the surprising, and undefeated, River Road Wildcats at Fair Park this Friday. Floydada will return to the friendly surroundings of Wester Field for the first time in three weeks to open District 2-3A action against Muleshoe. The Mules have found a way to win, and will bring an identical 2-3 record to Floydada this week.

BILL'S NOTES

Lightning, in the form of unfortunate turnovers and questionable officiating, seems to have a way of striking twice - at least when Floydada and Childress get together on the gridiron. History was repeated on several occasions last Friday at Fair Park. There is one thing certain about playing the Bobcats at their "brickyard" . . . they are going to get the benefit of the doubt in any questionable situation.

The Whirlwinds overcame several big blunders to still have the opportunity to pull out the snap . . . only to have it denied by, you guessed it . . . officiating mechanics on the two-point conversion attempt. No one knew or acknowledged that first whistle which caused a couple of Whirlwinds to move prior to the snap . . . it's just one of those things. But, it sure seems strange (?) that "those things" have a way of happening in the late stages of Childress-Floydada games!

There weren't any spectacular defensive plays to speak of . . . just a lot of solid defensive efforts by a number of Whirlwinds. Sophomore Zach Abshier has developed into a dependable and steady defensive end during the non-conference schedule, and will be counted on to continue playing well in the next weeks. Nose tackle Rafael DeOchoa had his best game of the year, and receives my nod for defensive player of the game. The "waggle" play, which produced Floydada's first touchdown, gets the offensive play of the game, and the pitch and catch participants . . . Sammy and Elias get my nod for co-offensive players of the game.

It won't be the same Mule herd coming in this week. They have learned how to win, and will make some waves this year in district play. Hopefully, their wave won't crest at least for the next couple of weeks. The 'Winds have had it rough for the past three weeks. A return to Wester Field and the district opener at 7:30 p.m. on Friday against Muleshoe should be a welcome relief from the nightmares of Lamesa and Fair Park. The 'Winds get back on the winning track . . . by 15 points. Bill's other pics:

Floydada High School JV team loses to Childress

By Bill Gray
 The Childress Junior Varsity scored 22 unanswered first half points and held on for a 29-8 victory over the Floydada JV at Childress on September 30. Childress scored on runs of 70 and 3 yards in first quarter action. The two-point conversion was good after the Bobcat's initial touchdown. Childress added a kicked P.A.T. following the second touchdown to forge ahead 15-0. At the end of the opening stanza, the Bobcats added a 25-yard TD run and extra point in the second period to take a 22-0 lead at halftime.

Floydada scored on a 20-yard run by Vernon Cooper in the third period to avoid the shutout. Chad Hinkle passed to Frankie Luna for the two-pointer to complete the J.V. 'Winds scoring. Childress added an insurance touchdown in the 4th quarter and kicked the P.A.T. for the final margin of victory. Named as outstanding offensive players by Coach Lee Hurt were Chad Hinkle, Vernon Cooper, Monty Quisenberry and Frankie Maldonado. Recognized for their defensive efforts were Neil Nelson, Tim Rando, Andy Outlaw and Michael Molinar. The J.V. 'Winds travel to Muleshoe on October 7 to open district play against the Muleshoe Junior Varsity.

Mike Anderson wins 5th week in football contest

By Juanita Stepp
 The undisputable winner of the first prize check for the fifth week of the annual Floyd County Hesperian-Beacon Football Contest was Mike Anderson of Floydada. He missed only six games on the weekly contest during a weekend of upsets which included one tie game. Anderson may pick up his check in the amount of $25.00 at the Floydada office on Friday.

Two entries had seven misses for the week. They were submitted by Jean Hale of Floydada and Randall Stapp of Lockney. Both predicted Childress to defeat the Whirlwinds so the tie-breaker score was used to determine the second and third place winners. Hale selected 28, only one point away from the actual total score of 27. She will receive the 2nd place check for $15.00 and may pick it up at the Floydada office on Friday.

Stapp selected a tie-breaker score of 35 points, 8 points over the actual score total. He will be the recipient of a $10.00 check for third place on Friday at the Lockney office.

Honorable mention this week goes to those who missed eight games on the contest. They include Brady Marr, H. G. Graham and E. M. Pyle Jr. of Lockney and Clay Simpson, Rodney Ferguson and Brad Yeary of Floydada. An additional eight entries missed 9 games on the contest including Coby Marr, Owen Thornton and Dickie McCarty of Lockney. Floydada entrants who missed nine were Dwayne Wilson, Chad Turner, Wes Campbell, Mary Ferguson, and Michael Aleman.

Childress 8th graders 28-2.

Following a scoreless first quarter Mario Nunez put Floydada on the board with a 6-yard TD run in the second period. The Breezers added another score in the second period on a 53-yard pass from QB Richard Casillas to Blake Bramlett. Childress picked off the 2-point conversion pass to earn their only scoring of the game on the 102-yard return. Floydada took a 12-2 lead into the locker room at intermission.

The Breezer's Gilbert Garza returned a kick off for a 65-yard touchdown in the 3rd quarter. Cody Stovall passed to Cory Kirk for the 2-point conversion. Childress also added a 3rd-quarter touchdown. Stovall tossed a 15-yard TD pass to Dusty Duke in the final period to close out Floydada's scoring. The visitors added 14 fourth-quarter points for the final margin of victory.

Coach Jimmy Webster commented, "We just need to keep working hard and let things take their place. Our defense needs to get better and our tackling needs drastic improvement." the coach selected Michael Black (RHB), Cody Stovall (QB) and Cork Kirk (SE) as the offensive players of the game, Gilbert Garza also received recognition for his efforts on the specialty teams.

The 8th grade Breezers were the only Floydada football squad to come out victorious over a Childress team last week. The 8th grade Breezers had their best game of the year as they blasted the junior high squads will be in action at Wester Field against Muleshoe on October 7.

Longhorns defeat Hale Center

By Les Reed
LOCKNEY—Other than the nice weather and the offense of the Owls there wasn't too much to talk about during the first half Friday night. But by the end of the evening the scoreboard showed things a little differently as the Horns came back to defeat the Owls 31 to 28.

The Hale Center Owls dominated the game scoring once in the first period and then two more times in the second quarter. Things were not going as planned or at least as a spectator I hoped that they weren't! It seemed as though every drive that the Owls touched the ball points went on the scoreboard. By the half the Owls were up by 21 points.

Overall the Owls had manhandled the Horns out of a victory or at least that is what seemed to be happening during the first half.

With the Horns coming onto the field after halftime many looked for them to simply save face and make up some of the points that they were down. Make up points they did!

The offense began to work under the direction of quarterback Leo Vargas. Within a mere eight ticks of the clock the Horns were back into the picture tied up and pumped up at 21 all!

The scoring drives looked something like this, first Luna took the ball in from 22 yards out. Monroe made the extra point to leave the score 21-7. Shortly after this score the Horns offense moved the ball quickly down the field adding another touchdown as Vargas carried the ball in from 52 yards out. Monroe again made the point after leaving the score 21-14.

Our passing game picked up the pace as Vargas hit on several short passes, moving the ball down the field. Once again our offense found itself with the ball and they tied the game as Vargas ran in from 17 yards out and Monroe made the extra point attempt.

The third period ended with the Owls seeing red streaks. It was a nice change from the first half when the Horns at that point seemed somewhat defeated. The Longhorns came out the second half ready to play ball. It now seemed as though every time the Horns touched the ball points went up on the scoreboard.

During the fourth and final period the Horns scored once again. This was the first time during the game that the Longhorns held the lead. With the game not over yet the Owls gave it one last shot as Cavazos carried the ball in for the score. This left that game tied up with just over five minutes remaining.

The offense knew what they had to do and they also knew that they could not turn the ball over. With the offense in control the Horns faced a couple of 3rd and long plays but with Tanner Johnson and Mikhael Durham they were able to convert these to first downs.

The Horns took the ball to the Owls' 10 yard line where they allowed the clock to tick down to only a few seconds. Now it was up to Patrick Monroe and his ability to boot the ball through the uprights.

When the game was over the time read 0:00 but the beauty of it all was in the score - Lockney 31, Hale Center 28. You guys pulled out a terrific victory, keep up the good work!

Next week we travel to Morton to face off with the Indians. They are coming off of a loss to New Deal but we must be ready to play ball. Come on out and root the Horns to a victory.

HEY LONGHORN FANS!

The 1993 Longhorn Football team has been named "KLBK High School Football Team of the Week" because of their awesome performance against the Hale Center Owls last Friday. Lockney 8th graders post another win

By Coach Scooter Cassler
 Following the heels of a 36-8 drubbing of the New Deal 8th grade teams, Lockney's 8th graders displayed another strong showing against Hale Center's Owls Thursday at Mitchell-Zimmerman Field.

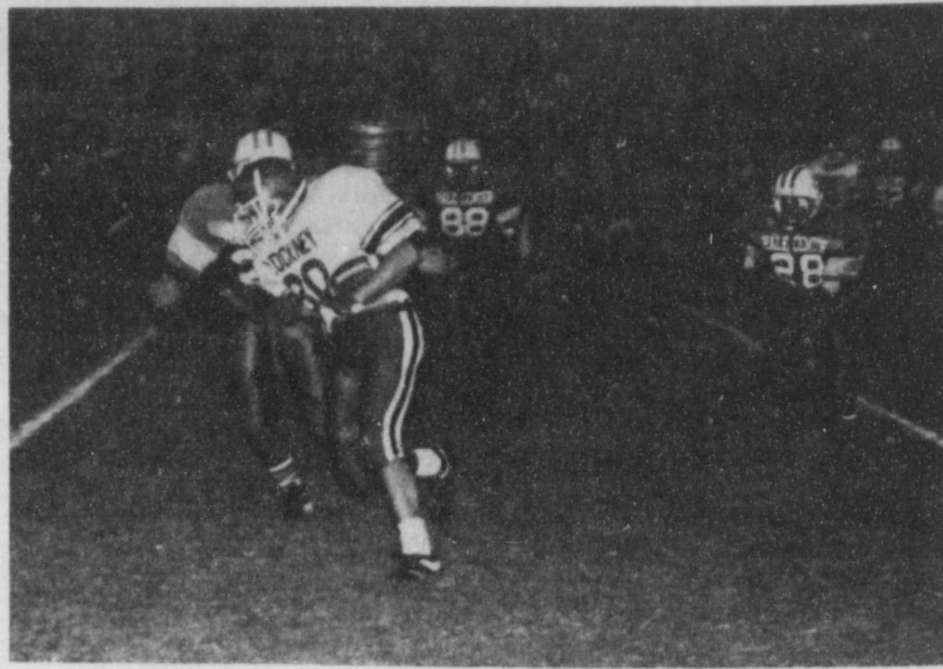

In a very physical, hard-hitting game that saw several injuries on both sides the 'Horns stuffed the Owls 30-6.

Lockney used every player during the game and had success in every part of their game: strong defense, kicking game and a potent offense all throughout the contest.

In an unusual turn of events, starting halfback Devaugh Phillips finished the 4th stanza at quarterback after an injury to starting quarterback Adam Cummings. Cummings was filling in for injured quarterback Carson Johnson.

Both Cummings and lineman Anthony Poole required medical but should return to action this week.

Great job, 8th grade! Lockney is proud of you! Come and support the Horns Thursday at Mitchell-Zimmerman Field following the 7th grade game. See you at the game!

Seventh grade Shorthorns lose to Owls

By Coach Scooter Cassler
 Despite having the football for the last possession of the game, the 7th grade Shorthorns were outlasted by the Hale Center Owls 12-8 Thursday, at Mitchell Zimmerman field.

Although outnumbered 31 Owl 7th graders to 16 Shorthorn players this game witnessed a defensive struggle to the very last buzzer. Though scoring twice from scrimmage, Hale Center was unsuccessful on both point-after-touchdown tries.

Lockney's scoring resulted from a Chris Rodriguez touchdown run of 67 yards on a Hale Center kickoff. The following point-after try was also good realizing the final score of Hale Center 12, Lockney 8.

Lockney's final possession of the game ended in a failed fake punt attempt by Chris Rodriguez.

Come and support the 'Horns this Thursday as they host the Morton Indians at 5:00 p.m. at Mitchell-Zimmerman Field. See you at the game!

Dishonest telemarketers using debit scam

By Nan Campbell, President Better Business Bureau® of the South Plains, Inc.

Fraudulent telemarketers have found yet another way to steal your money, this time from your checking account. Consumers across the country are complaining about unauthorized debits (withdrawals) from their checking accounts.

While automatic debiting of your checking account can be a legitimate payment method, the system is being abused by some telemarketers.

For example, a telemarketer may call saying you won a free prize but wants your checking account number to debit the shipping and handling charge. Once the telemarketer has your account information, it is put on a "demand draft", which is processed much like a check. The draft, however does not require your signature.

This kind of fraud can expose you to large financial losses. Do not give your checking account number over the phone to people you do not know. If someone asks for your account number, ask them why they need it. Beware of offers that sound too good to be true.

A constant recurring question of the Better Business Bureau staff whenever business schemes, rackets and other malpractices are discussed is: "Why don't they pass a law?"

Obviously, in the mind of the questioner, laws are a panacea for all the ills of the market place. The only response is that if it were that simple to prevent criminal acts, there would be no murder, no burglary, no fraud, no crimes of any kind.

Here in Texas, we have a plethora of laws designed to protect the consumer, including a very comprehensive Consumer Protection Act. And, yes, some laws are difficult to enforce. But, all the laws in the world will not protect a

Waste Pesticide Collection Program disposes of tons of unusable chemicals

By Shawn Wade
Preliminary collection totals from Wednesday's Waste Pesticide Collection Program in Hereford indicate the effort was a resounding success according to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG). The program is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Department of Agriculture and funded by the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission.

The program, operated on a "no questions asked" basis, allows producers and other non-commercial users of agricultural chemicals, to dispose of waste pesticides and herbicides in an environmentally safe manner. During the one-day collection effort producers brought in 85 to 90 tons of old, unusable chemical for disposal.

"This collection program is of real benefit to the cotton producers here on the High Plains," says Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "The environmental responsibility of farmers and ranchers is illustrated by the tremendous response this program has generated since it began."

In addition to turning in the chemicals themselves participants were also given the opportunity to bring in empty chemical containers for recycling.

The Hereford collection program was the last chance for producers to bring in their waste chemicals in 1993. It is hoped that additional programs can be arranged in 1994 providing High Plains producers with more opportunities to safely dispose of these unusable and unwanted products.

The First Annual Texas Farmer-Stockman Show will make its debut appearance on the High Plains October 12, 13 and 14. The show will include more than 200 exhibitors and final preparations are underway.

The show site is located approximately 1 and one-quarter miles east of Loop 289 on the Buffalo Springs Lake Road (East 50th).

PCG encourages everyone to come out and help make the show a success. PCG will also have an exhibit at the site and producers are encouraged to stop by and visit with us throughout the show.

Fruit tree care critical in fall

By David Kostroun
Extension Agent-Entomology (PM)
Crosby/Floyd Counties
Sometimes fruit tree care is forgotten or neglected in the fall, but it's a critical time for controlling many peach and plum tree diseases to insure a good crop next year.

Applying a copper fungicide now can stop or help reduce three of the major diseases that attack peach, apricot, and plum trees in Texas. These are peach leaf curl, bacterial leaf spot, and bacterial canker.

The puckered and distorted peach tree leaves that were either bright red or light green in diseased areas last spring were the result of peach leaf curl fungus. The time to control this disease effectively is in the fall by use of a copper-containing fungicide.

Bacterial leaf spot and bacterial canker can be partially controlled by fall spraying with a copper fungicide. Bacterial leaf spot affects both the fruit and the foliage. The infection causes the fruit to crack and the leaves to develop angular spots that drop out. Bacterial canker will kill trees slowly. Damaged areas are slightly sunken and somewhat darker in color than the surrounding bark. As the trees break dormancy in the spring, gum is formed by the surrounding tissue, and may exert enough pressure to break through the bark and flow. The area beneath the canker has a soured odor.

Timing of the fall spray is critical for effective control and for avoiding tree damage. Unless applied correctly, copper, a metal, may cause severe defoliation.

Spraying should be done when 70 percent of the leaves have fallen. Spraying too early will cause leaf shed or cause the spray to be ineffective later.

Sanitation is also a very important part of controlling fruit tree diseases. Dormant pruning of cankered wood and removal of leaves and other debris in the fall is highly recommended. Fungicides can be used to suppress diseases development, but fungicides alone do not fully prevent diseases. So the key to a good crop next year is an ounce of prevention. A combination of sanitation and fungicide application will make all the difference in managing and preventing fruit tree diseases.

Knotgrass well suited for growth in area playays

Playa basins in the High Plains of Texas are typically an under-utilized natural resource. They are extremely difficult to farm, since they are collection basins for rainfall runoff and are likely to fill with water and drown any crop planted in them. They seem to always be muddy when they need to be plowed to control weeds, and many a farmer has bogged his tractor up to the axles trying to plow his playa.

To say the least, most farmers have a difficult time managing their playays, especially to obtain some economic benefit.

James Mitchell of Wolfforth has solved the problem of managing his playays. In 1983, he transplanted some sprigs of Paspalum distichum, or knotgrass, into two playays located on a farm he leases in Lynn County. Knotgrass is a perennial grass native to the Southern United States and is found primarily standing in fresh water marshes or areas that are periodically flooded. The grass is well suited for playa lakes.

The most notable quality of knotgrass is its ability to survive while being submerged under water and then thrive in dry conditions throughout the remainder of the summer. The grass will even grow up to the top of the water and have stems and leaves floating on the surface. Mitchell has seen cattle wade out into water in playa lakes to graze on the knotgrass.

Knotgrass is a warm season plant that grows to heights of one to two feet, and when submerged in water it develops an extensive rhizome system. The plant produces long flattened stolons that creep along the ground and form roots at the swollen nodes. These roots give the plant its name because they look like knots of thread.

Knotgrass growth is similar to bermuda grass. It comes out slowly late in the spring. Once the grass is out, it has a good growth rate.

The grass also has deep roots. Roots have been found as deep as 17 feet into the ground. This allows the plant to reach greater depths of moisture to survive during drought periods.

The extensive and deep root system allows the grass to choke out most lake weeds which have shallow roots and die from lack of water. Knotgrass also provides an excellent wildlife habitat and environmental advantages. More than two million ducks and geese overwinter on the playa lakes, and the seeds produced by knotgrass are an excellent food source for these birds. In the summer, the tall grass provides good places for rabbits and other animals to hide, feed and build nests. "The knotgrass provides a much better habitat than a bare, dry basin," says A. Wayne Wyatt, Water District manager. The grass also prevents wind erosion of the playa lake soils.

The grass is evidently quite palatable to cattle. Cattle prefer the grass to other forages when given a choice and will eat the grass even after it dries up in the late fall and winter. Mitchell plants wheat around the edges and lets the cattle graze it along with the knotgrass in the bottom of the lake beds. If he does not have any wheat and the knotgrass is dry, he supplements it with protein blocks.

Mitchell sprigged knotgrass in both of his lakes. "It is maintenance free," Mitchell said. "In the last 10 years, I have only fertilized the grass two or three times."

The Water District recently had a protein analysis run on the knotgrass growing in both of Mitchell's playays and found that the knotgrass has a dry weight, crude protein of 8.18 percent and total digestible nutrients of 62.14 percent in one lake and 10.6 percent crude protein and 70.7 percent digestible nutrients in the other. Clip samples indicated a yield of 8,075 pounds of dry forage in one lake and 6,653 pounds in the other. A grown cow consumes about 20 pounds of dry grass a day. This year's yield will support about one cow per acre. According to Ken Smith, a research assistant with the animal science department at Texas Tech University, both of these are good protein percentages for a forage grass. He does recommend supplementing protein when grazing or feeding knotgrass hay.

The grass does not do much in dry years, according to Mitchell, but he is thrilled that it survives through dry years and High Plains winters.

The soil around one playa lake is sandy, and in June two inches of rain fell at this playa. This rain may have leached the nutrients and made them unavailable for plant use. This playa has the lowest protein content. Mitchell said he may apply some fertilizer to boost the protein levels.

Knotgrass does have a few disadvantages. The seeds from the grass are extremely difficult to harvest. Each tiny seed matures at a different time, and each stem is covered with seeds of many different maturity levels. Consequently, this grass must be sprigged. Wyatt said he has found the best way is to simply drop a sprig in the mud and stamp it in with his foot.

The grass is resistant to a wide range of grazing practices. Knotgrass can withstand heavy grazing; but for maximum production, no more than 50 percent of the year's growth should be grazed off.

Mitchell said knotgrass has been a big benefit to his production operation. He no longer has to plow the playa lake bottoms, the knotgrass keeps the weeds out, and gets the benefits of grazing his cattle on the grass. The knotgrass saves Mitchell time, and he is able to maximize the production of all his land.

Ray Kitten of Slaton was the first person in the area that we know had knotgrass in his playa and recognized its potential value. He thinks he may have accidentally set the grass out in his playa basin while discarding some dead shrubs which were imported to the area by a local nursery. Or it might have been deposited here by a duck or some other bird. Kitten knows he did not plant it. The knotgrass spread from a small clump of the grass to his entire 28-acre lake bottom during a six-year period.

The Water District has a nursery bed of knotgrass. During the past 10 years, the Water District has given about 50 interested growers a handful of sprigs to start their own nursery beds to transplant into their playays. Many have enjoyed the same success as Mitchell has had. Perhaps your neighbor's playa has an established stand of knotgrass and will be able to share some sprigs with you. If not, come by the Water District office at 2930 Avenue Q in Lubbock, and we will give you some sprigs to get you started.

TAES designs chemigation system to protect environment

Protecting the environment and safeguarding crops against pests are two equally important viewpoints that are often in conflict.

Researchers at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) in Lubbock are finding ways to accomplish both objectives through the use of an advanced chemigation system.

Such a system being developed at TAES aims to combine a high-speed low energy precision application (LEPA) center pivot with a low volume nozzle system. This combination would allow farmers to apply a broad range of chemicals to their crops through the irrigation system in much lower water volumes, says Dr. William Lyle, professor of irrigation engineering at TAES. It would also aid in decreasing chemical wash-off and thus increase the effectiveness of the system.

Most current irrigation and chemigation systems being used involve a non-continuous (start-stop) movement that could cause uneven coverage if applying chemicals with the new nozzle system, said Lyle. The new nozzles have a smaller coverage area so when the system stops, the majority of the pesticide would be applied in one area, resulting in an overdose. When the system starts again, an inadequate amount of chemical may end up being applied in other areas.

Commercial systems now being used have the capacity of running about 6 to 12 feet per minute. The new system being developed has the ability to run 6 to 8 times faster, at 60 feet per minute, said Lyle.

He said the advanced system will get three times as much of the chemical to the target area. More of the chemical being applied at a lower dispersion rate is the objective both researchers and environmentalists are aiming for. To help accomplish this, the system delivers water from a LEPA-type nozzle arrangement. The water is supplied upward to reach the underside of the leaves where the majority of the insects are.

Farmer-Stockman working farm show set for October 12, 13, 14

Several agriculture organizations will come together in a unique show-place at the Farmer-Stockman Show, the first working farm show in Texas history. It will be staged near Lubbock October 12, 13 and 14 on the City of Lubbock farm, just east of Loop 289 on Farm Road 835 (East 50th Street).

Each tent will be aimed at a broad topic or concept, such as Conservation of Natural Resources, Environment and Water Quality, Water Conservation, Health/Well Being/Life Quality, Agricultural Competitiveness, Innovations/Occupations/Organizations/Education, and Efficient Lean Animals Support Modern Lifestyles. The Hub area will be a focus spot for speakers and special programs.

The Department of Agriculture will also have a tent on the show grounds that will be of interest to producers with information ranging from seed quality and certification displays to worker protection standards. Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Rick Perry is scheduled to speak.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department professionals from the Panhandle and South Plains region will have a display and be on hand to discuss conservation, protection, restoration, and enhancement of fish and wildlife resources.

Producers reminded to continue precautions Fowl viral disease under control

A viral disease affecting rheas and emus (flightless birds similar to ostriches) has been controlled in Texas. Still, regulatory veterinarians urge producers of the big birds, poultry and other fowl to continue their precautions to protect flocks.

Dr. James Crumm, an epidemiologist for the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC), the state's livestock health regulatory agency, said an emu in Lampasas and a rhea in Brazoria County died in mid-June from the H5N5 strain of Avian Influenza. This contagious virus can cause fowl and other birds to develop red, runny eyes, a rasping cough and heavy congestion. More than 100 strains of the Avian Influenza virus exist, and some can cause death losses in susceptible poultry flocks, ratites, chickens and turkeys.

Veterinarians and inspectors from the TAHC and U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (USDA-APHIS) conducted intensive tracing to locate ratites that may have been exposed to the infected emu and rhea. As a result, the TAHC and USDA quarantined birds on 38 premises, due either to virus exposure or because the birds had signs of illness.

"Only five premises are still under quarantine," said Dr. Crumm. "Tests at the other premises indicate the birds currently are not infected. On the remaining quarantined premises, we'll run another test to be sure no new infection has developed. During this time, we had no reports of ostriches developing illness, although we did test some of these birds."

TAHC and USDA inspectors and veterinarians took a swab and drew a blood sample from each ratite to be tested. They shipped the specimen to the National Veterinary Services in Ames, Iowa, for laboratory study.

"Some birds had positive blood test results, meaning they had been exposed to the virus, causing them to develop antibodies," said Dr. Crumm. "Many of these birds did not develop illness, and others had recovered."

However, said Dr. Crumm, some states will not allow the blood-test positive birds to enter. He recommended that bird owners check with other states about test requirements and documentation before making shipments.

"We urge ratite and poultry owners to continue practicing good management and watch for any signs of illness in flocks," said Dr. Crumm. "If birds appear to be sick, it's a good idea to call a private veterinarian for assistance."

Dr. Crumm said protecting flocks from germs and viruses is essential. He recommended biosecurity measures that include washing off shoes or boots with a disinfectant before entering pens, and disinfecting cages after hauling birds. Newly purchased ratites should be kept isolated from the existing flock for 21 to 30 days, he said. This will protect the flock, if the new bird is carrying an infection of has other health problems.

"Don't house ostriches, emus and rheas with other fowl," warned Dr. Crumm. "Ducks, geese, pheasants and chickens can naturally carry germs, bacteria or parasites that could cause the ratites to become ill. Being cautious can protect your investments and keep all species of birds healthy."
