Floydada man loses arm in farm accident

Arnulfo Muniz, 30, of Floydada, lost his right arm in a farming accident Thursday morning, November 25. He is currently listed in critical condition at University Medical Center in Lubbock.

Muniz, a farm laborer employed by Scott Simpson, had moved equipment to a farm northeast of town in the Fairview community, when the accident occurred. "We don't know how it happened," said Simpson. "We won't know until he is able to talk to us about it."

According to Simpson, Muniz' right arm was caught in the drive shaft of a boll suction machine about 11:00 a.m. "I think the goose down jacket he was wearing may have saved his life," said Simpson. "The machine couldn't get a good grip on the slick material and the coat was ripped off of him."

Another farm hand who had accompanied Muniz, and witnessed the accident, drove Muniz to Caprock Hospital unaware that the hospital was still closed. Linda Epps, LVN, was summoned from the nearby Floydada Nursing Home and administered first aid. The call to 911 was placed at 11:12 a.m. and Paramedic Mike Reeves arrived at 11:17 a.m.

Reeves called for an Aero Care helicopter which transported Muniz to University Medical Center. At the same time Reeves was stabilizing Muniz other EMS members returned to the scene of the accident in an effort to locate the severed arm.

The arm was located and DPS Trooper Marty Lucke then started to Lubbock with the limb. Another Aero-Care helicopter was dispatched and after meeting Lucke at a Petersburg landing site transported the arm to UMC. Doctors were unable to reattach the arm.

Muniz also suffered a small tear in his spleen, a split in his liver, damage to his stomach, bruised lungs and two broken ribs on his left and right side.

According to Paramedic Reeves, "Muniz could have bled to death driving the almost 20 miles into town, but the way in which the arm was pulled off constricted the blood vessels and kept the external bleeding to a minimum."

Floyd County couple terrorized in hotel room

By Alice Gilroy

County Judge Bill Hardin, 66, and his wife, Roberta, 61, experienced a terrifying holiday when they were held at gun point Wednesday, November 24, in their room at a Holiday Inn in New Braunfels. The couple, escaped unharmed after the man fled from the room apparently startled by Roberta's scream.

The Hardin's arrived at the Holiday Inn at approximately 3:30 p.m. and had just finished unloading the luggage from their car when a man burst into the room with gun in hand and ordered them to lie on the bed.

"Bill shouted at him to get out," said Roberta in relating the incident, "but then the man said, 'You'll do as I say,' and then he closed the door. "We both felt this terrible sense of frustration when he closed the door. He told us to lay down on the bed. Bill just sat down at first and then the man said, 'I said lay down.'"

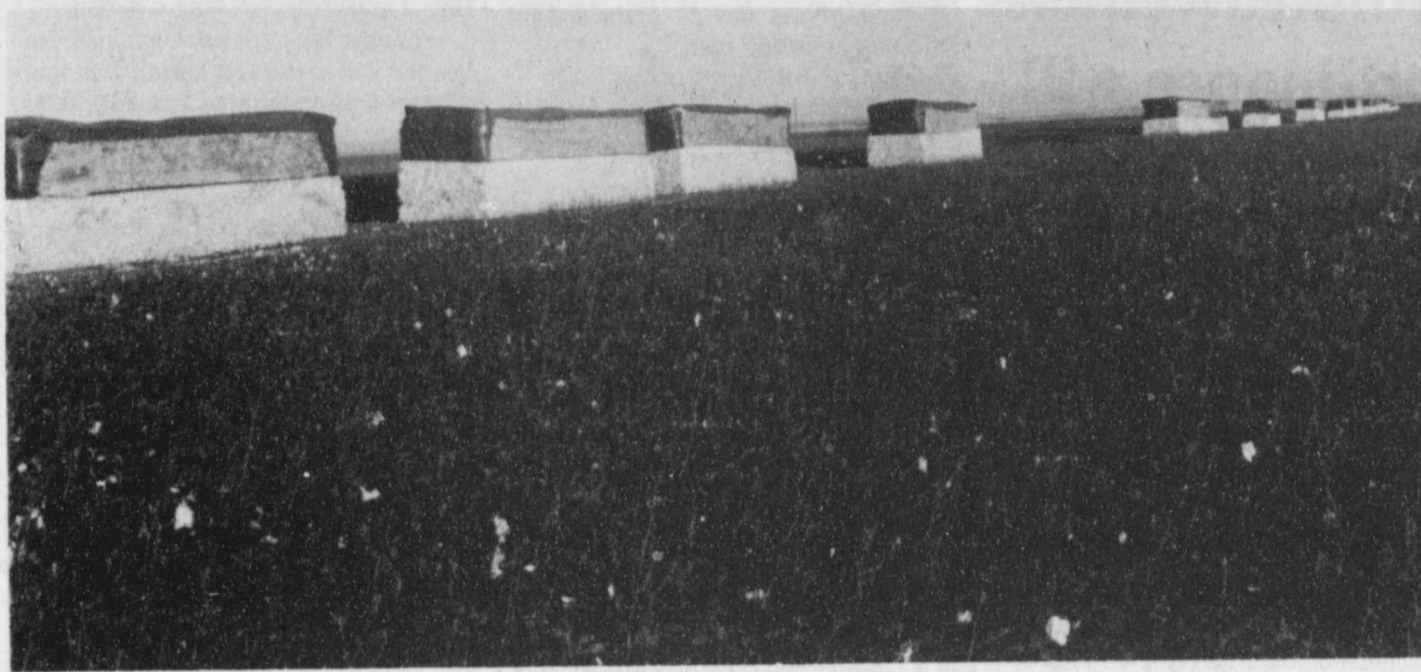

"We both lay on our stomachs and then I felt him put a shackle on my ankle."

Christmas deadline is next Wednesday

The Floyd County Hesperian-Beacon's deadline for Santa letters and Christmas stories for our December 23 Christmas edition will be next Wednesday, December 8.

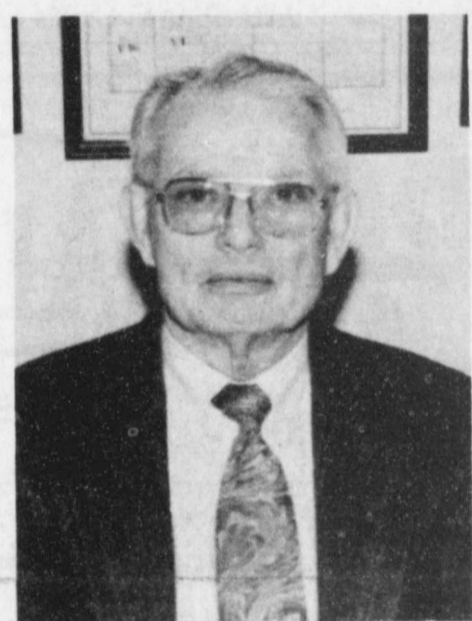

We would like them earlier from the schools if possible, but the 8th is the absolute latest they will be accepted.

The Christmas edition is not confined to children's Santa letters. Any resident that has a favorite Christmas story, poem, recipe, etc., that they would like to share should also submit these to the paper by December 8.

County okays settlement offer

FLOYDADA — Commissioners in Floyd County approved payment of $3,000.00 to the accounting firm of Love, Hays & Musick for accounting procedures performed at the order of former District Judge David Cave in 1990. The payment was a compromise settlement on a bill which totaled more than $7,000.00 for audits on the district attorney's records. A previous payment in the amount of $1,307.50 had been made on the account.

The settlement was authorized during a special called session held on Tuesday, November 30. Motion to pay the settlement figure was made by Precinct 1 Commissioner Connie Bearden and seconded by Precinct 4 Commissioner Howard Bishop. The vote was unanimous in favor of making the settlement in order to avoid court action by the accounting firm to collect on the old debt.

A motion by Precinct 2 Commissioner Floyd Jackson approved an amendment to the original contract for tax collections between the county and the appraisal district. The motion was seconded by Precinct 3 Commissioner George Taylor and approved by unanimous vote. Under the terms of the amendment, the appraisal district will

Floyd County girls partaking in National 4-H Congress

From Melissa Long, CEA-HE

Celebrating Traditions, Creating Visions is the theme of the 72nd National 4-H Youth Congress being held December 4-8 in Chicago, Illinois. The National 4-H Congress works to insure that the youth of today and tomorrow get the best possible opportunities to sculpt a future that will keep this world productive, positive and fruitful.

4-H has a long tradition of assisting youth in acquiring knowledge, developing life skills and forming attitudes that will enable them to become self directing, productive and contributing members of society. This tradition is paired with a vision of a 4-H filled with programs that will enable us to face the future, with skills to meet the needs of the ever changing world around us.

Floyd County 4-H'ers attending the 72nd Congress will be Rhanda Hickerson and Misty Bertrand. Rhanda and Misty both submitted recordbooks on the county level and placed first at district. From district they competed at state and upon winning first they received the opportunity to attend the National Congress. Rhanda's recordbook entry is in the family life category, but Rhanda has also been very active in sheep and recreation projects. She serves as her club's president and recently received the I Dare You Award at the County Achievement Banquet.

Misty's recreation recordbook also includes strong projects in clothing and home environment. Misty was honored with the county's Gold Star Award and scholarship last year and was selected for the I Dare You Award at this year's banquet. Both girls were on the 1992 State Winning Share-the-Fun team that performed at state roundup for over 2,500 people.

While attending Congress, the 4-H'ers will meet national sponsors, attend banquets, workshops, assemblies, and tour various sites of Chicago. It is the educational trip of a lifetime and is a cherished reward for years of hard work in the nation's largest youth organization - 4-H.

National Congress is conducted by the National 4-H Council, the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Those in attendance represent more than 5.6 million 4-H youth in all states, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Guam, America Samoa, Micronesia, and Northern Mariana Islands.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,
I want to take this opportunity to say "Thank You" for publishing my 6th grade students' Thanksgiving writings. The way you displayed them in the Thanksgiving edition made my students very proud! It is truly a blessing to live and work in a community where my students' efforts are supported.
As we enter the holiday season, my wish for you is a Blessed Christmas and a most Prosperous New Year.

Sincerely,
Margaret Jones

Dear Alice,
On November 9, our son Dorman and family lost everything when their apartment in Lubbock burned.
We live in such a wonderful town, you cannot believe the outpouring of love and help that was given to us.

A special thanks to First Baptist Church, Sunday School Dept. III and friends who so freely gave clothes, toys, furniture, money and everything that Dorman needed to set up housekeeping again.

We are so blessed to live in a community where people care and share. Thanksgiving has an extra special meaning to us this year.
May God Bless each of you.
Delmas and Pauline McCormick

you guys, this annual event would not be as great a turnout as it was this season. Another big Thank You goes to Kelly Fortenberry, Jinna Sue Turner, and Jamie Kemp for the bookkeeping job you gals do so very well. (How you can keep up with your guys is outstanding). We appreciate your efforts.

A special Thank You goes to our local FHA Chapter members, Tamie Marble, Terry Luna, JoAnn Encizo, Johnny Mosely, Sandra Pyle and Kim Cumbie for the wonderful serving job you young people did for the dining public. When someone says, "Kids aren't like they used to be", we at Lockney Care Center say, "Oh yes they are - they're better."

When the last item was auctioned, the last pie eaten, the last hurrah was said when it was announced that $3,112.50 had been raised in a very short time. Then the hurrah's really began.

Thanks to all who donated the auction items. Without you all this would certainly not be such a rousing success. If anyone thinks that people don't care about our elder citizens, they just haven't been in Lockney when it's time for the Care Center Auction.

We at Lockney Care Center invite you to come by for a cup of coffee any time you can.

Merry Christmas and God Bless.

MUSEUM OPEN HOUSE

Ending the week-end of Christmas festivities The Floyd County Museum will hold an Open House, Sunday, Dec. 5, from 2:00-4:00 p.m.

NEW LICENSE STICKERS—Floyd County Tax Assessor Collector Penny Golightly displays how the new inspection stickers will be placed on windshields beginning Jan. 1, 1994. The sticker should be placed about an inch above the inspection sticker. If there is a parking sticker already in this area, then they will be placed as close to the inspection sticker as possible. Once it is applied to the inside of the front windshield, do not attempt to remove it, as it will void the sticker, making it useless. If a person has a windshield replaced, they may obtain a replacement sticker by presenting their license receipt, along with a $5.30 replacement fee at the Tax Assessor Collector's office. —Staff photo

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

By Jo Bryant
FLOYDADA—Hi! Did you survive after the Thanksgiving dinner? Do hope this finds you O.K. and ready for the Christmas season.
 Monday started the week as usual as

Bro. Clark Williams gave the devotion and Irene Wexler played the piano for us. At 2:00 p.m. the residents painted ceramics of trees and Santa Claus. Tuesday the residents had art. They colored Santa Claus and a tree.

Wednesday was Bible study at 10:30 and they all shared what they were thankful for. Bingo was played by the residents. Knox Jameson had the first Bingo. Mary Alice Davis came and assisted the residents.

Thursday was Thanksgiving. Some of the residents went out to eat with their family and some had family to come here to eat with them. The residents were given placemats and scripture cards on their tables.

I spent Thanksgiving Day with my daughter, Nila Ball and family in Plainview and did some shopping on Friday.

We want to thank the City Park Church of Christ for coming Sunday.

Our love and sympathy go out to the Allen Rendon family and Minta King family.

We want to welcome two new residents, Irene Sherrill and Kathleen Hagood.

Thought:
"You Get What You Give"
 You get what you give, in, like and in kind.

The trust you instill, is that which you find.
 The joy that you spread must ever return.

A lamp must be filled, before it can burn.
 You get what you give, don't even expect life to give more than she can collect.

All things are weighed on the scales up above.
 And he is found wanting,
 Who's empty of love.

—Grace Easley

Cargill renews partnership with child farm safety program

—From Cargill, Incorporated
The Cargill Contributions Committee has announced it would provide $50,000 in 1994 to continue a partnership dedicated to preventing children from being injured or killed in farm-related accidents.

Cargill and the nonprofit organization, Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, have been partners since November 1992. Today's announcement raises the company's contributions to the nonprofit to a total of $100,000.

"Since the partnership was formed, nearly 200 Cargill locations in the United States and Canada have become business members of Farm Safety 4 Just Kids," said Dan Huber, president of Cargill's Agriculture Sector. "Cargill formed 12 chapters and sponsored many events with Farm Safety 4 Just Kids last year. Cargill is committed to keeping farm children safe."

Cargill's experience with safety is valuable, said Fritz Corrigan, president of Cargill's Fertilizer Division. Corrigan and Huber co-sponsor the farm safety partnership for the company. "The partnership enables Cargill to share its experience with safety and safety training with farm communities and farm families. In our business and in our partnership with Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, our goal is to prevent tragedies."

Farm Safety 4 Just Kids was founded in 1986 in Earlham, Iowa, by Marilyn Adams after she lost her son to a farm accident. Cargill is a privately held merchandiser, processor, transporter and warehouse of agricultural and other bulk commodities. The company is a major supplier of food ingredients and products to food service institutions and restaurants, grocery retailers, wholesalers and food manufacturers. It employs more than 70,500 individuals in 58 countries.

Continuing Education classes offered for pesticide applicators

There will be two opportunities for private, commercial and non-commercial pesticide applicators to receive five continuing education units (CEU's) on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at the Massie Activity Center in Floydada, or Wednesday, Dec. 15, at the Lockney Community Center. The five CEU's will include one hour in Integrated Pest Management (IPM) and two hours in Laws and Regulations which are required.

New federal regulations set for pesticide applicators

—From Texas Department of Agriculture

Changes in federal pesticide regulations require private applicators to follow new guidelines and record-keeping procedures, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said. The Texas Department of Agriculture has mailed these new requirements to licensed pesticide applicators.

"We sent out about 181,000 letters," Perry said. "Any certified or licensed pesticide applicator who did not receive a letter needs to let us know so we can forward copies of the new regulations, because failing to comply with the law will result in penalties."

The letter included information about record keeping requirements in the 1990 Farm Bill, federal worker protection standards, and applicator recertification requirements. Pesticide applicators who have not received the letter should write Pesticide Certification and Training, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, TX 78711. When submitting this information, include applicator's name and address as printed on certificate or license, Social Security number, license or certificate number, correct address and phone number. If the applicator has multiple licenses or certificates, include all numbers.

For more information, contact Kerry Siders, Floyd County Ag. Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, at 983-2806.

TDA licenses or certifies four types of pesticide applicators: a licensed private applicator who uses or supervises the use of restricted-use or state-limited-use pesticides to produce an agricultural commodity on property owned or rented by that person or person's employer; a certified private applicator who can use but not supervise a state-limited or restricted-use pesticide to produce an agricultural commodity; a commercial applicator who operates a business that applies state-limited-use or restricted-use pesticides to land owned by another; a noncommercial applicator who is required to be licensed under the Texas Pesticide Laws who does not qualify as a commercial applicator or private applicator.

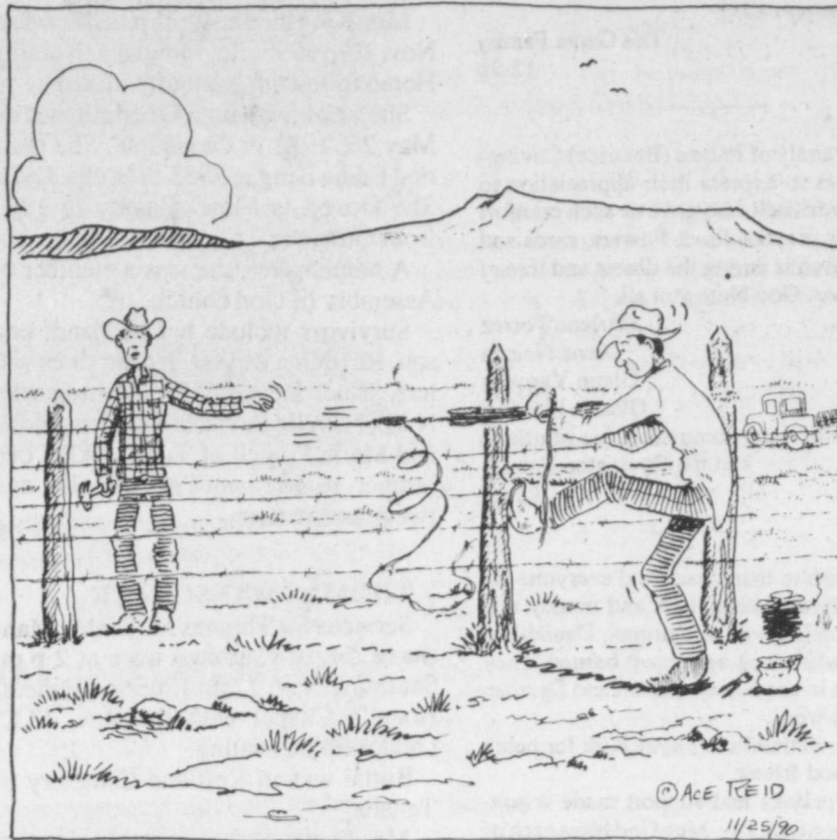

Effective May 10, 1993, certified and licensed private pesticide applicators must keep records of federal restricted-use pesticide applications. Records must include: brand or product name of the pesticide and its EPA registration number; total amount applied; size of area treated; crop, commodity, stored product or site to which the pesticide was applied; location of application; date of application; and applicator's name and certification or license number. Spot treatments must also be recorded. There is no required form but all the above information is mandatory.

Records will be used to develop a data base on the use of restricted-use pesticides. This data base will be used to provide information for policy discussions, to inform consumers about pesticide use and to provide annual reports to Congress on the national use of restricted-use pesticides.

"While nobody wants to fill out another form, this policy should help the agricultural community," Perry said. "We maintain that farmers use pesticides judiciously and safely, and we expect this type of information to confirm that. There's a lot of misinformation and speculation floating around about pesticide use. The more we can get the 'maybes' answered, the better off agriculture and consumers will be."

PCG programs successful in controlling boll weevil spread

by Shawn Wade

For the past one hundred years the Mexican cotton boll weevil has been "looking for a home" in American cotton. The boll weevil has never found that home on the High Plains of Texas thanks to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

PCG has operated the High Plains boll weevil Diapause control Program for the past 30 years to protect the 3-million acres of cotton in its 25 county area. From the start in 1964, the plan was to take a stand against the boll weevil along the edge of the Caprock, the steep escarpment that marks the beginning of the High Plains.

Boll weevil infestation across the state of Texas reached record proportions in 1993. However, the PCG program continues to successfully prevent this highly damaging insect from becoming established in cotton above the Caprock.

The suppression area contains parts of 15 counties and encompasses around 15,500 square miles. There are 5,097 cotton fields within its boundaries totaling 749,279 acres.

The PCG Boll Weevil Program has always been based on an integrated approach to pest management. Cotton producers in the control zone are encouraged to use all cultural measures possible to minimize field infestations. Uniform planting dates, early stalk destruction and short-season cottons help in the fight. The PCG program maps cotton fields in the control zone and carefully monitors boll weevil activity during the growing season using pheromone traps and field scouts.

During the six weeks or so before first freeze, the boll weevil starts to build fat deposits to enable its survival through winter hibernation. This stage of the insect's life cycle is called diapause.

A proven control strategy during this diapause period is to treat infested fields with light application of the insect control agent malathion.

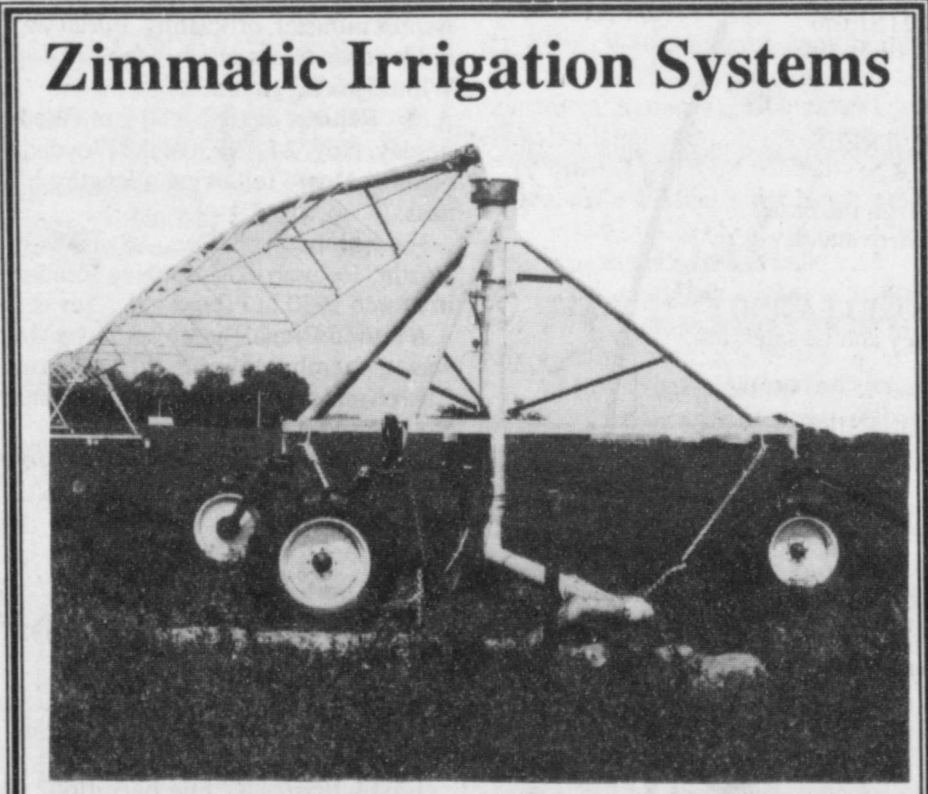

The control phase of the 1993 program started in mid-September, and ended with the freezing temperatures that chilled the High Plains during the Halloween weekend.

The carefully run suppression program combines proven, safe treatment strategies with ultra-modern computer and satellite technology to control boll weevils. Aggregate acreage totals show 1,357,521 acres were treated to control boll weevil during four scheduled program applications. Total program cost this year is estimated to be $3.7 million for a cost per treated acre around $2.73.

A satellite based, parallel-swath navigation system that automatically tracks and records each aircraft's flight path was again provided to the PCG program by its developers, SATLOC Inc. of Casa Grande, Arizona. The system was first used during the 1992 program.

A total of nine turbine-powered aerial application aircraft were used in 1993. Each was equipped with the Satloc system.

Organization of the program is overseen by PCG's Boll Weevil Steering Committee. Producers in PCG's 25 county area contribute to the program through a per bale assessment on their cotton collected at area compresses and warehouses. Some operational costs are shared with the United States Department of Agriculture as part of the National Boll Weevil Cooperative Control Program.

West Texas nursery provides steady flow of trees to plains area

—From the Texas Agricultural Extension Service

West Texas, where trees often are few and far between, seems the least likely of places to house one of the 40 administrative offices of the Texas Forest Service. But since its beginnings in 1976, the West Texas nursery in Lubbock has provided a steady flow of trees for windbreak plantings across the state.

Bob Fewin, area forester at the Lubbock office, said business began slowly but has reached a point today where the Forest Service actually has more demand for trees than it can produce. The Texas Forest Service is an agency of the Texas A&M University System.

"Trees can be and have proven to be an excellent conservation tool," said Fewin. "In the Great Plains area, hundreds of thousands of miles of trees have been planted for conservation purposes."

Fewin began his job in 1971 with a survey of old windbreak plantings using records from the Forest Service nursery in East Texas. He examined what species of trees had been grown there and what trees seemed to survive over time. However the climatic differences between Alto and Lubbock made comparison difficult.

"The East Texas nursery grows 27 million trees a year, but it's over 600 miles away with a completely different growing season," said Fewin.

Thus, based on his findings, it was decided in 1976 that adequate demand had been found for tree plantings on the High Plains in West Texas for starting a nursery.

The first crop of trees from the Lubbock greenhouse was sowed in 1978 and more than 11,000 trees were sold to landowners in the spring of 1979. Field nursery production followed greenhouse planting the next year.

Fewin said that as time has progressed, the program has increased. He estimates that in the 1994 planting season the Forest Service will produce and sell over 110,000 containerized evergreens from greenhouse production and the field nursery will produce over 200,000 bare root hardwood plantables.

All the trees produced in the greenhouse and field nursery are graded but not everything produced is sold.

"If we have a demand for 10,000 Austrian Pine trees, we would have to produce around 30,000 seedlings," said Fewin. "We have a very high cull rate, but it varies from species to species."

Collegiate athletic scholarships offered every year to students

Over 100,000 collegiate athletic scholarships are available each year to male and female high school and junior college student athletes. Contrary to popular belief, students don't have to be all state to qualify. Much of this money goes unused. A new publication with forms, sample letters and tables of factual information is available for student athletes. It takes them step by step through the important process of getting an athletic scholarship and includes college and conference listing. For more information on how to get a collegiate athletic scholarship, send a #10 self addressed, stamped envelope to the National Sports Foundation, 611A Willow Drive, P.O. ## Seven WARNING SIGNS of ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

1. Asking the same question over and over again.
2. Repeating the same story, word for word, again and again.
3. Forgetting how to cook, or how to make repairs, or how to play cards—activities that were previously done with ease and regularity.
4. Losing one's ability to pay bills or balance one's check-book.
5. Getting lost in familiar surroundings, or misplacing household objects.
6. Neglecting to bathe, or wearing the same clothes over and over again, while insisting that they have taken a bath or that their clothes are still clean.
7. Relying on somebody else, such as a spouse, to make decisions or answer questions they previously would have handled themselves.

The above list was developed by the National Eldercare Institute on Long Term Care and Alzheimer's Disease. The purpose of this list is to alert the public to the early warning signs of one of the most devastating disorders affecting older people—Alzheimer's Disease.

If someone has several or even most of these symptoms, it does not mean they definitely have the disease. It does mean they should be examined by a physician.

4-H'ers recognized at Gold Star Banquet in Lubbock

Allen Martin and Mark Terrell, of Lockney, were among thirty-six 4-H'ers receiving recognition as outstanding members of South Plains 4-H Clubs, at the 36th annual district Gold Star Banquet in Lubbock, November 22.

In addition to receiving the Gold Star Award, highest honor presented at the county level by the youth organization, the youths heard Jim Morris, executive vice president and general manager of Texas Electric Cooperatives, Austin, challenge them to live up to their motto, "To Make the Best Better."

Four-H is the youth development program of the Extension Service, an educational arm of the Texas A&M University System.

Joining the youths at the event at the KoKo Palace were parents, government officials, Extension Service faculty fellow 4-H'ers, educators and other community leaders. The event has been sponsored each year by 11 area electric cooperatives: Bailey County, Caprock, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Lamb County, Lea County, Lighthouse, Lyntegar, Midwest, South Plains and Swisher.

In those 36 annual banquets, 1,411 winners have been honored with the Gold Star Award in the presence of more than 12,900 guests.

Floyd County was represented this year by: Allen Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bob Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Terrell, County Judge and Mrs. Bill Hardin, County Commissioners Mr. and Mrs. Connie Bearden and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bishop, and County Extension Agent Melissa Long and her husband Nick Long.

This year's audience was welcomed by Jack Bounds, member services director of South Plains Electric Cooperative. Kaci Schulte of Castro County, South Plains District 4-H Council member responded. David Carver of Hale County, Texas 4-H Council first vice president and district council president, was master of ceremonies. Brandi Rice, Castro County 4-H'er, gave the invocation.

Special guests were introduced by Karmen Pohlmeier of Castro County, district council information chairman. Special recognition was given to 204-H Master Volunteers in the district, adults who have completed 16 hours of training and 50 hours of service. Only 1504-H Master Volunteers have been certified in this nation.

Master Volunteers who were recognized were: Sheila Reagan, Molly Brooks, Janine Brooks and Gail Wyatt, Briscoe County; Judy Williams, Donna Field, Mary Coffman and Paula Shield, Cochran; Terri Jones, Dawson; Paula Lawrence, Alan James and Carrie Gay, Hockley; Roxanne Brashear, Christie Emby and Connie Lewis, Lamb; Judy Gray, Lubbock; Sherry Gicklehorn, Lynn; and Lynn Mahoney.

Gold Star Awards were presented by Dr. Kathy Volanty and Dr. Bob Robinson, Extension Service district directors. Recipients were introduced by 4-H'ers Jim Ed Field of Cochran County, council first vice president, and Brooks Brunson of Lamb County, council second vice president.

Morris urged the audience to remember that the 4-H motto, "To Make the Best Better," might not mean they have to achieve perfection. Sometimes the best solution is beyond your means, he said.

"Take what is available to you and make the most of it," he said. "The lack of resources, the lack of optimum choice or preferable solution should not stop us from doing the best that we can."

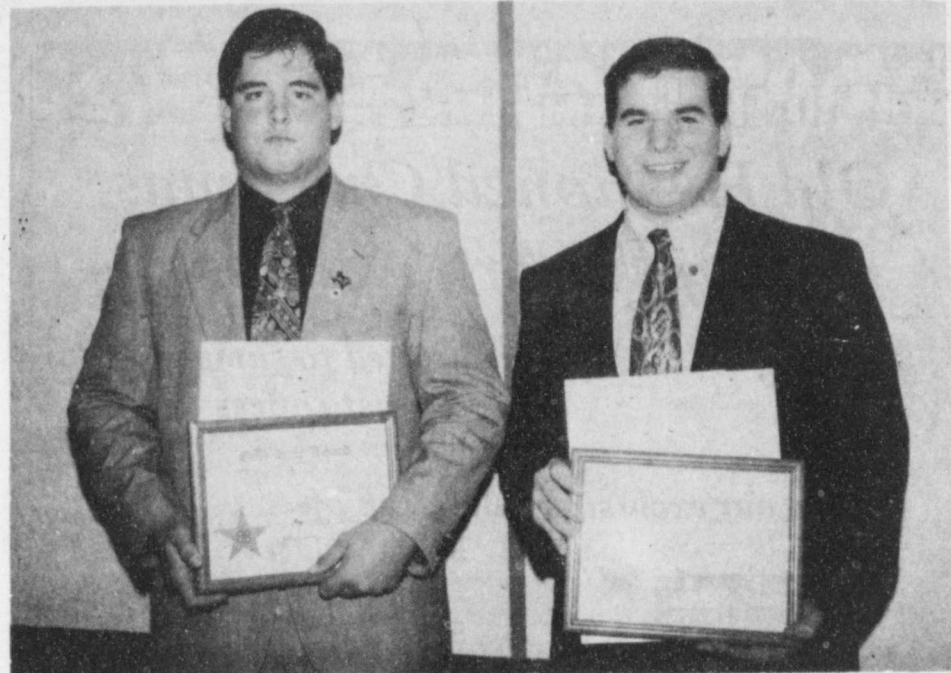

"Worry about being right, not being perfect," Morris said.

Other 4-H'ers on the program, besides those from Floyd County, were: Marianne Toombs and Audra Lee, Bailey; Jody LeBlanc and Casi Kauffman, Hockley, and Chris Bishop and Erin Kloiber, Lamb.

William J. Mangold Jr. named 1993 Ex-student at Kilgore College

(Editor's Note: The following article was submitted by Mrs. W.J. (Martha) Mangold Sr. of Lockney. The article was printed in the alumni newsletter at Kilgore College.)

William J. Mangold Jr., M.D., a plastic and reconstructive surgeon in Tucson, Ariz., and a 1963 graduate of Kilgore College, received the 1993 Ex-Student of the Year Award at the Kilgore College homecoming in October.

The award is made by the Ex-Students Association and was presented at a dinner-dance Oct. 23 at the Community Inn in Kilgore.

Dr. Mangold, a former halfback for the Kilgore College Rangers, attended Kilgore College from 1961-63 and was president of the student body his sophomore year.

He served as president of the Arizona Medical Association in 1990-91. The organization is the professional association which represents physicians and their concerns regarding health care issues in Arizona.

A graduate of The University of Texas at Austin and The University of Texas Law School, Dr. Mangold earned his M.D. at The University of Texas Medical School in San Antonio in 1973.

After his internship, he practiced family medicine with his father, a physician in private practice in Lockney, before returning for advanced medical training in general surgery at Eastern Virginia Graduate School of Medicine and a second residency in plastic and reconstructive surgery at the University of Texas.

Dr. Mangold has been politically active throughout his medical career. He was the first medical student, and then the first resident physician to serve as a member of the American Medical Association's Council on Legislation, and later served as vice chairman of that council. Since moving to Tucson from Texas in 1980, he has served as chairman of the legislative committees at both the county and state levels of organized medicine.

Dr. Mangold, who is certified by the American Board of Legal Medicine, has been deeply involved in organized medicine in Arizona as well as in civic activities in his community for more than a decade. He was elected vice president of the Arizona Medical Association in 1989. He has served as chairman of the board of directors of the Tucson Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Pima County Medical Society and a member of the American Medical Association.

In his spare time he enjoys photography and is an avid distance runner, having participated in the Boston Marathon and other major running events.

He is married to Carol, who is head nurse at St. Mary's Hospital in Tucson.

Boy Scouts set annual Lockney food drive effort

Lockney Boy Scouts will be roaming the streets of Lockney on Saturday, but they won't be up to mischief—they will be doing one more good deed.

Carrying out a traditional event, the Boy Scouts will be placing bags at neighborhood front doors in order to collect food for the annual food drive.

Residents will find the bags on their doorsteps Saturday morning and are asked to fill the bags with non-perishable foods. The Scouts will return to your home the following Saturday, December 11, to pick up your full bag. Just place the bag back on the porch step and it will be gathered up.

The food will then be given to the local Salvation Army and will be distributed to needy families in Lockney.

Mammography unit to be at Saturday Health Fair activities

LOCKNEY—The Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and High Plains Baptist Hospital Mobile Mammography Unit will be in Lockney at Cogdell Clinic, 320 North Main St., on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Exams are done by appointment only. For information, or to schedule an appointment call 1-800-377-HOPE (4673) or (806) 359-4673.

The cost of the screening is $70.00. Funding has been provided by the Texas Department of Health to allow for free breast screenings for women who qualify.

The major goal of the clinic is the early detection of breast cancer. The clinic provides low cost screening which includes a breast exam by a Registered Nurse trained in breast cancer detection, teaching of breast self examination, and a mammogram.

Currently, the most effective method known to win the battle against breast cancer is early detection. Early detection is best done by following the guidelines recommended by the American Cancer Society for breast cancer screening for women who have no signs or symptoms of breast cancer.
