

TWDB approves $4,000,000 loan

In January, the Texas Water Development Board (TWDB) approved a $4,000,000 Agricultural Water Conservation loan to the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District located in Lubbock.

The District will use the funds to make loans to area farmers and rancher to purchase and install more efficient water conservation equipment. The District's loans will carry an interest rate of 4.8 percent with a five to eight-year term. The District will lend up to 75 percent of the value of the equipment.

The low interest rate resulted from the TWDB securing $2 million in U.S. Department of Energy Oil Overcharge Funds provided through a grant from the state's General Services Commission. The funds were used to buy down the interest rate by two percent on a $7 million block of Agricultural Water Conservation bonds sold by the TWDB on February 2 for loans to this and other underground water conservation districts.

The High Plains Underground Water Conservation District includes fifteen counties (all of Cochran, Hale, Lubbock, Lynn and Parmer counties; and parts of Armstrong, Bailey, Castro, Crosby, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Hockley, Lamb, Potter and Randall counties) covering more than 10,490 square miles in northwest Texas.

Realignment changes area U.I.L. districts

By Bill Gray

Floydada head football coach and athletic director Dean Bates and the other District 2-3A coaches were somewhat surprised after the University Interscholastic League's biennial realignment was announced last week. The district has remained unchanged during the past six years, but several area shufflings in this year's realignment have produced some major changes.

It was a foregone conclusion that the Canyon Eagles would be moved into the 4A ranks, and several area 2A schools were "on the bubble." It was inevitable that the two northern Class 3A districts would be affected.

Due to its enrollment figure, Canyon was moved into District 1-4A, joining Canyon Randall, Amarillo Caprock, Borger, Pampa, Dumas and Hereford. The Tulia Hornets, a long-time district foe of Floydada, replaced Canyon in District 1-3A. That district will now consist of the Hornets, Amarillo River Road, Childress, Dalhart, Sanford-

MY ONE AND ONLY VALENTINE!

TRIED AND TRUE VALENTINE—After 61 years of marriage, John Key, 83, and Madge West, 80, know what being a true Valentine is all about. The couple married in Bovina, Jan. 22, 1933, then moved to South Plains where J.K. farmed. In 1965 West began to build houses and built 34 houses in Petersburg, Dougherty and Floydada. The couple has three children: Ann Bean of Lubbock, Johnny West, Fredricksburg, and Dale West, Pampa. They have six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. The Wests have been members of First United Methodist Church for 75 years. Madge still enjoys her Valentine gifts, especially her heart shaped sucker. "We couldn't afford a sucker this big when we first got married," said Madge, "and we sure couldn't afford a rose." Madge believes the secret to being a successful Valentine is to "weather the storms together and don't run home to Momma when the going gets rough." --Staff photo

BY THE WAY!

BY
GILROY

It's been awhile since I've been on a soap box, so for those of you who don't appreciate my soapbox columns—you won't want to read this.

I concerns the new high school health textbooks which have been "approved" by the State Board of Education.

Last November, the State Board of Education, with a vote of 10-5, placed its stamp of approval on five high school health textbooks with "possible changes" which will be discussed and voted on this Thursday and Friday.

The Board's vote included a provision that the publishers make changes based on the Board's recommendations and public testimony.

During hours of public testimony, many medical professionals, educators, parents and taxpayers opposed the books. They claimed violations of adoption rules and standards which say books cannot contain "offensive" content or "life-styles deviating from generally accepted standards of society." Testifiers told the Board that the books promote homosexuality, contain inaccuracies, are too explicit and do not uphold premarital abstinence as a standard for students. (As a matter of fact, during testimony, some of the illustrations were so explicit Chairman Crawford refused to allow transparencies of them to be shown. It's too explicit for the adults in the room—but not for our children.)

About the same number of individuals testified for the textbooks. Every advocate, except one, represented the homosexual movement.

Activities in the books and teachers resource material include:

*"Vocabulary Dice"—a game that uses terms such as foreplay, sexual orientation and other comments which I won't use in this family newspaper.

*Debate/Discussion about deviant sex, homosexual adoption of children, condoms on school campuses, surrogate motherhood, and a child's right to divorce his parents;

*Decision-Making Exercises about birth control, suicide and dancing in a topless bar;

*Designing "convincing" advertisements for contraceptives that will be placed on the health-class walls, and *finding sources or condoms and birth control pills.

I talked to State Board of Education Member Monte Hasie, of District 14 (he used to represent this district until the state screwed up the lines). Hasie said that this has been an uphill battle. He was one of six members who voted against the adoption of the books and he foresees losing the vote this week on the proposed changes.

Hasie has been very very busy, along with some others, in studying these books and making recommendations. He has proposed 1,112 changes and of those only 608 have been accepted.

Hasie said that one of the topics in the Health books was euthanasia and Dr. Kevorkian's book was the reference for it.

According to Hasie if these books are adopted by the State Board of Education they will be recommended to your local school board. (Your local school boards generally take the state board at their word, of course, and adopt the recommended books.)

Hasie said if he and other members lose the fight and the books are approved and then sent for approval to our local boards, then our school boards have to decide if they want them. If they choose not to buy them then your local board has to buy their own books and not use state funds to purchase them.

It is possible, Hasie said, that two or three books can be fixed—or at least one book will come out of this that he can recommend. Otherwise he will be sending a letter to every superintendent in the state telling them about the controversial material in the books.

In Hasie's opinion (and I agree), sex education should indicate there is only one way to be safe in relationships, and that's through abstinence. Sex education should not promote abnormal life-styles or sexual practices.

"Saying sex is OK if you use a condom is the wrong message," said Hasie. "I want kids to know about contraceptives but I want them to know the risks and these books are not putting out that message."

Hasie said he is well aware of the conservative communities such as Lubbock, Lockney and Floydada. "It will create big problems if these books get into those towns," he said.

He also said that all of his recommendations will have to pass before he'll approve these books.

I appreciate Hasie's work and the others that have helped him out. Since the lines have been re-drawn Bill Hudson is our State Board of Education representative. Hasie (a conservative Republican) said, Hudson (a conservative democrat) also voted against adoption of these textbooks and has been a big help in proposing the changes.

Unfortunately Hudson is not seeking another term on the board and we will have to elect a new member. Hasie recommends a conservative Republican by the name of Richard Watson, from Gorman.

After listening to the constant battle Hasie faces, if he needs Watson's help I'm going to vote for him and send him to the front lines with Hasie.

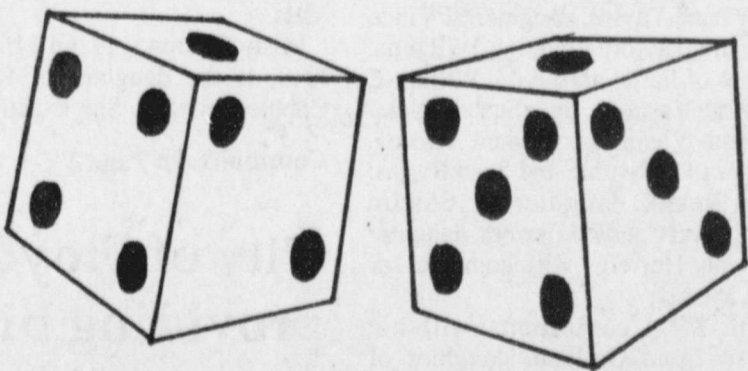

Others who voted against were: Robert Offutt, Dr. Jack Christie, Geraldine Miller, Education Commissioner Lionel Meno voted against after first recommending it.

Those who voted for the books were: Rene Nunez, Mary Helen Berlanga, Esteban Sosa, Alma Allen, Carolyn Crawford and Mary Knott Perkins.

If these changes are voted down—this will become a campaign issue. Remember how they voted.

Remember Your

tion between 1990 and 1993 within the 15-county High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 service area, according to a recent pivot inventory update by the district. This brought the 1993 total number of center pivot sprinklers in use in the District to 6,437.

According to Jon LaBaume, Floyd County's District Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, "Floyd County had a total of 82 systems installed in 1993. Currently 50 pivot systems are being installed with pipeline cost share assistance. In addition, at least 30-35 are being installed without pipeline cost assistance."

The 1993 tally showed Parmer County with 1,258 center pivots; Lamb County, 1,250; Castro County, 786; Bailey County, 671; and Hale County, 604.

The total in other counties in the District were Deaf Smith, 433; Hockley, 349; Cochran, 347; Lubbock, 304; Lynn, 170; Crosby, 141; Randall 39; Potter, 3; and Armstrong, 0.

The largest increase in center pivot use from 1990 to 1993 was found in Castro County where 230 new pivots were installed. This was followed by Hale County with 216; Parmer County, 197; Lamb County, 185; Lubbock County, 135; Deaf Smith, 109; Cochran County, 104; and Lynn County, 60.

"Given an average price of $30,000 per sprinkler system, the additional 1,513 sprinkler systems represent over a $45 million dollar water conservation investment by irrigators within the Water District service area during the past three years," says A. Wayne Wyatt, High Plains Water District Manager.

Many producers have upgraded their irrigation systems to Low Energy Precision Application (LEPA) center pivot systems, which can achieve an irrigation application efficiency of up to 95 percent. Since the water is applied at low pressure directly into the furrow, water losses associated with wind drift and evaporation are virtually eliminated.

In addition, use of a LEPA system can reduce labor costs, reduce fuel costs from 35 to 50 percent, and save from 20 to 40 percent of the water previously pumped for irrigation—when compared to conventional furrow irrigation.

Realignment changes area U.I.L. districts

Fritch and Perryton.

The Shallowater Mustangs will replace Tulia in District 2-3A. Shallowater, a perennial football and basketball playoff contender in District 3-2A, was barely over the Class 2A enrollment limit of 294. There was a possibility that the Mustangs would appeal their move to the higher classification, but the school has now decided against it. Shallowater will join Floydada and the other holdovers Littlefield, Friona, Dimmitt and Muleshoe in District 2-3A.

Hart moves from District 2-1A to replace Shallowater in District 3-2A, where the Longhorns will join Lockney, Abernathy, Hale Center, New Deal, Olton, Morton and Springlake-Earth.

Along with realignment and new district scheduling comes new non-conference opponents for Floydada. For the 1994 football season, the Whirlwinds will probably face traditional rival Lockney, Brownfield, Post, Childress and Lubbock Roosevelt (not necessarily in that order).

Post and Floydada have a long history of athletic competition, having been in the same district together off and on through the years. The Whirlwinds and Antelopes have had pre-season scrimmages for the last several years, but will renew their rivalry with a regular season contest (in all probability) at Post on the third week of this Fall's campaign. Lubbock Roosevelt will return to Floydada's schedule after an absence of several years. The total schedule for the 1994 season is yet to be finalized, and will be announced at a later date.

Tulia's move to 1-3A takes away a long-time Floydada rival in the district wars. Shallowater, expected to be very competitive in boys' as well as girls' sports, has a natural rivalry with Littlefield and should be a strong replacement for the Hornets.

The realignment's biggest impact upon District 2-3A will come at the Bi-District level of post-season playoffs in Region I. The winner and runner-up will be matched with District 4-3A, which consists of Springtown, Lake Worth, Fort Worth Diamond Hill-Jarvis.

Although state powerhouse and defending 3A champ Southlake-Carroll has been moved to 4A classification, a number of strong 3A programs remain in Region I — including Vernon, Graham and Abilene Wylie. All three should be ranked in the "Top 20" when pre-season polls are announced in August.

February is American Heart Month

Activities target young Americans Cardiovascular disease is this country's No. 1 cause of death. However, few Americans know what puts them at risk for CVD, and even fewer know that the risk factors for heart disease, such as smoking lack of exercise and obesity, can actually be decreased with lifestyle changes.

The American Heart Association believes one of the best ways to reduce the more than 900,000 deaths each year from heart disease is to focus educational efforts on children; to reach them before behaviors such as smoking and lack of exercise become hard-to-break habits. The AHA hopes early education will help children live healthier lives as adults and decrease their risks for heart disease.

Every year, the American Heart Association launches a nationwide education campaign throughout February known as American Heart Month. This year's American Heart Month message — "Make Exercise a Family Affair" — emphasizes the importance of reaching children and families and educating them to take care of their hearts by engaging in regular physical activity. Consider the following facts:

Studies show that at least half of today's youth do not get enough regular exercise. Less than 36 percent of elementary and secondary schools offer daily physical education class, which means that many children are not receiving the training to nurture lifelong fitness patterns.

Some 25 percent of all children are obese, and obese children are at an increased risk for obesity as adults. A recent study indicates that U.S. children now spend as much time watching television as they do in school! In addition, watching television enhances the likelihood of weight gain by encouraging snacking and by substituting TV for active, energy-burning activities.

The AHA has a number of education programs for children and families on the issues of exercise, nutrition and smoking. Many schools in our community use these programs as they provide teachers with materials to help them incorporate AHA messages into their classroom activities.

This month, American Heart Association volunteers in Lubbock are raising money to support these school programs as well as many other AHA programs.

MR. AND MRS. Koby Daniel Abney
(nee Jennifer Rebecca Dunn)

Dunn and Abney recite nuptial promises

Jennifer Rebecca Dunn and Koby Daniel Abney exchanged marriage vows in the Indiana Avenue Baptist Church, Lubbock, with the university minister, Russ Murphy, officiating the double ring ceremony.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. Before being given in marriage, the bride presented her mother with a single yellow rose. After the ceremony, the bride presented the groom's mother with a single yellow rose.

Parents of the bride are Ray and Becky Dunn of Lubbock. Grandparents of the bride are Kenneth and Wilma Broadus of Littlefield, Ola Dunn and the late Cleis Dunn of Amherst. The groom is the son of the Rev. Harold and Kay Abney of Lockney. His grandparents are E.J. and Loweta Abney of Ropesville, Margie Peterson and the late Buford Peterson of Morton.

The bride's dress, made by her mother, was a traditional white satin fitted gown featuring a dropped waist, a heart shaped back opening, and a princess style bodice delicately decorated with pearls and iridescent sequins over lace that traveled down the bodice to the center point waistline with a lace covered double peplum ruffle in the back. A lace covered collar above the illusion overbodice top was lightly sprinkled with sequins and pearls coming together in the back with long strings of pearls, iridescent beads and teardrop pearls making a point in the heart opening. The satin pouf full length pointed sleeves were of illusion topped with lace and carefully spaced pearls, iridescent sequins, and beads to give a queen-like style. On the satin pouf of the sleeve was a lace applique with the satin behind cut away and embellished with pearls, sequins and beads. The gown was buttoned down the back with 29 pearl buttons. The bouffant skirt had a large applique in front with several small ones scattered along the sides. Each had handsewn pearls, sequins, and beads. The full-length train was attached at the dropped waist underneath the lace peplums. Various lace appliques with the satin cut away and embellished with pearls, sequins and beads were arranged in a large heart shaped design on the lower part of the train. The entire dress and train was trimmed with wide ventian lace accented with handsewn pearls and sequins.

The bride's veil, also made by her mother, was a hip-length, three tiered bridal tulle ruffled on all edges and attached to a white headband lavished with illusion leaves, delicate flower and pearl streamers, and iridescent sequins that framed her face and down her veil to her right shoulder. Her white satin shoes were embellished with lace, pearls, and sequins.

The bridal bouquet, made by the bride, was a cascading arrangement of white, pink and teal roses, white star-flowers, and baby's breath. Sprays of lace to match her dress, pearl sticks and white and teal ribbon streamers were intertwined into the bouquet. Attached at the center of the bouquet was an heirloom cameo brooch pinned to a white satin ribbon given to the bride from her mother. It was given to the bride's mother from her mother on her wedding on August 20, 1971.

In following tradition, the heirloom cameo brooch was something old, something new was the bride's gown and veil, something borrowed was the wedding band belonging to her maternal grandmother, something blue was the blue ribboned garter, worn by her mother at her wedding. She placed pennies in her shoes minted in the years she and the groom were born.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Cari Schovajsa of Amherst. Bridesmaids were D'Anna Cobb, cousin of the bride, of Edgewood, N.M., Kristen Abney, sister of the groom, of Lockney, and Jennifer Acrey of Lubbock. Whitney Walker served as flower girl. The girls were dressed in teal satin tea length gowns fashioned like the bride's dress. Each carried a bouquet, made by the bride, of pink and white roses with pink and white ribbon streamers. The maid of honor also had teal roses in her bouquet. The flower girl carried a flower basket.

The mother of the bride wore a pastel brocade jacket and royal blue skirt. The groom's mother wore a mauve two-piece suit. Three of the bridesmaids dresses, the flower girls' dress, the bride's dress and veil, the mother of the bride's suit, the bride's maternal grandmother's dress, and the bride's going away outfit were made by the bride's mother.

The groom was attended by his best man, Mike Millard of Lubbock. The groomsmen were Shayne Childers of Plainview, Joe Dunn, brother of the bride, of Lubbock, and Danny Romo of Lubbock. The ring bearer was Grant Gafford of Lubbock. The groom selected a black tuxedo with tails and a white vest and bow tie. The best man wore a black tuxedo with tails and a teal vest and bow tie. The groomsmen and ring bearer were all dressed in black tuxedos with teal cummerbunds and bow ties.

Seating the guests were Scott Peterson, cousin of the groom, of Hillsboro, Donald Rhoads of Ropesville, Matt Gage, cousin of the bride, of Irene, Texas, Brandon Walker of Lubbock, and David Boncler of Lubbock. Lighting the candles were Scott Peterson and Donald Rhoads. Andrea Smiley, cousin of the bride, of Houston, served as the guest book attendant.

Musicians for the wedding included Shayne and Marla Childers singing "Love Is The Reason" and "When I Fall In Love", Kristen Abney singing "Forever Is As Far As I'll Go", and Tony Gibson, pianist and music minister of Indiana Avenue Baptist Church, playing the wedding processional, march and recessional. A musical prelude was provided by CDs of Kenny G.

The church was decorated with a pair of 15-branch spiral candelabras in the baptistry and a pair of 15-branch candelabras at the altar on each side of the unity candle table. The candelabras were accented with greenery and large white bows. Clear mini lights decorated the ficus trees in each corner of the choir loft. A large teal flower arrangement was in the center of the altar.

The reception was held in the chapel of Indiana Avenue Baptist Church. The doorway into the chapel was flanked on each side by white lattice columns accented with greenery, flowers, and mini lights. White lattice work decorated with an arch of greenery, flowers, mini lights, and three large white bows covered the wall behind the bride's table which was covered with white lace and white table skirts. Four bouquets of teal and white balloons were located in various corners of the room.

The bride's cake, made by Peggy Mitchell of Lubbock, was a three tiered white cake with white icing and trimmed with pink. It had fresh pink and white roses on each tier. A Precious Moments bride and groom topped the cake. Flowing from the second tier were six teal and white ribbons attached to small charms for the bride's attendants which they pulled out after the bride and groom had cut the cake. Three charms were an addition to the gift of a charm bracelet given to each from the bride. Each charm had a special meaning: the Thimble - you will have a happy home, the Heart - love will come, the Anchor - hope and adventure, the Flower - love will flower, the Clover - good luck, and the Ring - next to marry.

The groom's table had a teal undercloth with white lace overlay and white skirt. A large two layer German chocolate cake made by the bride's aunt, June Heim of Amherst, was served along with coffee. A table covered with a teal undercloth and white overlay and skirts displayed pictures of the bride and groom from birth to present.

Peggy Mitchell coordinated the reception. Reception assistants were Linda Hurley, Saralyn Murphy, Alice Cunningham, Reva Sears, Jeanette Walker and Eva Smith, all of Lubbock, Beth Sinclair of Wolfforth, and Joy Cobb, cousin of the bride's mother of Edgewood, N.M.

The bride's going away attire was a blue suede cloth skirt and jacket with a creme colored jacquard blouse and creme heels. She wore a fresh orchid corsage and the cameo brooch from her mother. The couple will reside in Lubbock after a trip to San Antonio.

The bride is a graduate of Coronado High School in Lubbock, attends Texas Tech University and is employed by her father at Community Supervision Surveillance. Employed by American Bank of Commerce in Lubbock, the groom is a graduate of Frenship High School in Wolfforth and attends Wayland Baptist University in Plainview.

Pre-nuptial courtesies extended to the couple were two miscellaneous showers in the homes of Reva Sears of Lubbock and Sallie Shaw of Lockney; a lingerie shower, hosted by Cari Schovajsa, Jennifer Acrey, and Shelby Phillips at Gardski's Loft in Lubbock, and a bridal luncheon in the home of Alice Cunningham of Lubbock.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in the chapel of Indiana Avenue Baptist Church. Thirty friends and family members were present. Each person present read a prepared blessing to the couple and then gave it to them on a pink card to keep. Pictures were displayed of the bride and groom from birth to present.

Thursday, the residents played ball toss and listened to some songs. At 2:30 they had their monthly Resident Council meeting. Mrs. Ophelia Sanders selected the menu for March: fried chicken, green beans, potatoes, hot rolls, fruit, tea/coffee.

The residents helped fold the newsletters.

Friday, Wanda Turner came and gave the devotion on Psalm 34. We sang some songs and listened to a tape. At 1:30 we went on a bus ride around town. Dairy Queen, Floydada, treated the residents to some ice cream.

We want to welcome two new residents, Becky Gidley and May Williamson. Becky is the mother of our administrator, Wanda Gibbs, and May is her aunt. We have three residents in the hospital. Knox Jameson is in rehab at St. Mary's; Paul Rolder and Jim Gage. We wish for you a speedy recovery.

Monday is our Valentine's party. We invite all to come. the King and Queen and Junior King and Queen will be crowned. You still have time to cast your votes.

Whirlwinds edge Mules in overtime

By Bill Gray
FLOYDADA—Floydada's Brandon Gilliland and Tyrone Henderson each scored 20 points to lead the Whirlwinds to a thrilling, come-from-behind 59-55 overtime victory over Muleshoe at Graves Gymnasium on February 1.

Henderson also pulled down 11 rebounds and was 1 of 2 in 3-point attempts. Gilliland hit a torrid 78% of his field goal attempts (6 of 8 2-pointers and 1 of 1 from 3-point range). Brandon also dished out 6 assists and 4 of 7 Floydada takeaways for the game.

The teams were deadlocked at 15 at the end of the first quarter, but Muleshoe pulled ahead 31-22 at the halftime break. Floydada overcame a late 4-point deficit to tie the game at 50 to send it into a 3-minute overtime period. Muleshoe scored two free throws in the first minute of O.T., but the 'Winds answered with Henderson's first basket of the extra period (made possible by an excellent lob pass from Gilliland). Henderson's following free throw gave the 'Winds their first lead since early in the first stanza.

Floydada jumped to a 5-point lead in the final minute on a field goal and free throw by Gilliland, but Muleshoe answered with a 3-pointer to pull to within 2 in the final 30 seconds. Tyson Edwards scored his only points of the game on two clutch free throws in the final five seconds to secure the Whirlwind victory.

TULIA 73, FLOYDADA 57

Floydada's faint hopes of securing a post-season playoff berth were dashed in Tulia on February 4 as the Hornets stunned the Whirlwinds 73-57. Tulia's Jerome Hawthorne and Kareem White scored 26 and 15 points, respectively, and led a pressing defense that forced the 'Winds into 17 turnovers. The Hornets converted 14 of Floydada's miscues into points.

Sophomore Zach Abshier was Floydada's top scorer with 14 points. Zach added 8 rebounds in one of his better outings of the year. The Hornets limited Tyrone Henderson to only 13 points, but Tyrone was tough on the boards with a game-high 14 rebounds. Tate Glasscock scored 6 points and handed out 5 assists. As a team, Floydada shot only 32% from the floor — far under their 44% season average for 24 games.

The game marked the final time for the Whirlwinds and Hornets to meet in district basketball action (at least for a while). Under the U.I.L. realignment for the next two years, Tulia will move into District 1-3A.

Federal label changed on herbicides

FMC Corporation has announced changes to the federal label of Command 4EC Herbicide for use on cotton in 1994. Registered for use on cotton for the first time in 1993, Command is a grass herbicide that also provides outstanding control of broadleaf weeds. Because of its broad spectrum activity, outstanding residual control, and performance under both wet and dry conditions, Command was widely used on cotton in 1993.

Growers and consultants who have experience with the product report that Command works well in all tillage systems and that, when used correctly, the versatile herbicide saves growers time and money without reducing yields.

One of the most significant of the label changes requires that every grower who wishes to purchase or use the product on cotton, or in a county where cotton is grown, must be qualified by attending an FMC Qualification Meeting.

Other important label changes to note are:

- *Strict buffer zone requirements.
- *Required use of an FMC-approved drift retardant.
- *Restrictions on spray pressure, nozzle type, boom height, and wind speed.
- *A requirement that broadcast applications be incorporated, and pre-emergence applications be banded.

Anyone who plans to use Command on cotton, or on other crops in counties in which cotton is grown, should call 1-800-468-0441 for more information about the dates, times, and locations of Qualification Meetings.

As in 1993, dealers and distributors must also be qualified to sell Command under the new label. The new Command label requires the successful completion of a Command Qualification Training Meeting to buy, sell, or use the product in 1994. FMC is notifying all dealers, distributors, and growers throughout the South, with notice in the Delta, Southeast, and Southwest Farm Press publications as well as mailing them invitations with all dates, locations and times for the meetings.

The label forbids aerial application and application through irrigation equipment, and requires the placement of an organophosphate insecticides in the furrow with the cotton seed as a seedling protectant. The recommended protectant insecticides are disulfoton (Di-Syston ®) or phorate (Thimet ®).

These insecticides must be applied in-furrow at a minimum rate of 0.75 lb. ai/acre.

PCG announces 1993 Upland Cotton Deficiency Payment rate

—From Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

By Shawn Wade
Following the announcement of final marketing figures for calendar year 1993 Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers says the final 1993 Upland Cotton Deficiency Payment rate will be 18.6 cents per pound.

USDA has not officially announced the final payment rate, however, county ASCS offices have received the information and are in the process of printing checks to be mailed the week of February 7. It is expected that official word of the payment rate will come in the next few days.

"Based on an 18.6 cent final payment rate producers who asked for, and received, the 10.275 cent advance payment will receive a final payment of 8.3 cents per pound," notes Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "Coming on the heels of an excellent 1993 crop, the final payment should really help producers establish a firm financial basis for the 1994 crop."

Upland cotton deficiency payments are calculated as the lesser of the difference between either the 52.35 cent 1993

EPA to allow use of propazine

Provided by the National Grain Sorghum Producers

On January 27, the Environmental Protection Agency, acting on a request by the National Grain Sorghum Producers, cleared the way for farmers in Texas and New Mexico to treat their grain sorghum fields with propazine this spring. The EPA used provisions of Section 18 of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act to grant specific exemptions to allow use of the herbicide on grain sorghum in the two states.

"We are very pleased that EPA granted our request," said NGSP President Gary Bright, sorghum producer from Melrose, New Mexico. "And since EPA granted the exemption early in the year, producers will now be able to use propazine on this year's crop."

Producers in the Great Plains had used the herbicide on sorghum fields for more than 20 years before it was pulled off the market several years ago after the EPA implemented a costly re-registration process for pesticides. Since then, producers have struggled to find an effective alternative. Other herbicides restrict rotation between sorghum and other crops such as cotton, wheat and soybeans.

"When the Griffin Corporation agreed to pursue the re-registration for propazine, we began explaining to EPA officials and to our legislators in Washington exactly why sorghum producers needed to use propazine," Bright said. "After several trips to Washington and with help from many people, we succeeded."

Exemption requests must be made on a state-by-state basis with the state's agricultural department providing the technical information required by the EPA. A request for an exemption for Oklahoma has been submitted to EPA, and requests for exemptions for Colorado and Kansas will be submitted soon. "Hopefully, EPA will grant the exemptions for the other states in time for spring planting," Bright said.

In order to comply with the Section 18 exemption and to ensure the long-term availability of propazine, growers should carefully read and follow all label instructions and use the herbicide only on grain sorghum crops.

Cotton conference examines problems for area producers

—From Texas Agricultural Extension Service

The recent North American Free Trade Agreement holds promise for Texas cotton producers, but environmental regulations and public perceptions will pose strong challenges, more than 300 farmers attending the two-day Caprock Cotton Conference in Crosbyton were told.

NAFTA means new opportunities for cotton farmers, Rick Perry, Texas commissioner of agriculture, told the group. "During the next 10 years (under NAFTA), Mexican tariffs against cotton will be phased out. U.S. exports of cotton to Mexico should increase," Perry said.

Perry said his Texas Department of Agriculture will focus on three strategies to help farm producers reach the consumers of Mexico. He said these include working with commodity groups to send trade missions to Mexico; encouraging Texas companies to pursue new markets in Mexico, and creating trade partnerships with Mexico.

Farmers need to actively combat the public misconception of agriculture and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Rominger. He said the streamlining of the USDA, now being fashioned by Congress and the department, is aimed at making it more cost effective and service driven.

Rominger said criticisms of USDA's $53 billion annual budget—fourth largest among federal departments—as something making farmers rich "is ridiculous." "When you hear in the coffee shop about all this money spent on agriculture," the former California farmer said, "be sure to point out that over half of that budget is for the federal food and nutrition program" which includes food stamps, school lunches and assistance to women, infants and children.

Rominger also noted that 40 percent of the USDA employees are in the U.S. Forest Service, which he said is the nation's largest provider of recreational facilities.

He said that decisions on 36 million acres of land which will soon begin coming out of the Conservation Reserve Program "will be a major part of the debate in the 1995 federal farm bill."

Comments by an Environmental Protection Agency official from Dallas on provisions of the Clean Air Act, worker protection standards and food safety drew pointed questioning from the audience. Asked about wording in the clean air act as it applies to emissions from irrigation pumps, Dr. Stanley Meiberg replied, "In my opinion, the irrigation engines we are talking about do not emit sufficient (toxics) to come under the enhanced monitoring requirement" of the act. Meiberg is director of the air, toxics and pesticides division of EPA at Dallas.

Several producers questioned the wording of the rules, which they say would total the emissions from all the wells on a farm, not individual pumps, thereby requiring them to purchase expensive monitoring devices for each engine.

On the worker protection standards, Meiberg said education is the key. He said EPA has received reports of 10,000 to 20,000 incidents of pesticide poisoning in the U.S. each year. When he believes, therefore, there are thousands more incidents which simply haven't been reported or not identified, he was challenged by one farmer to let producers "be presumed innocent until proven guilty."

New birth announcement policy announced

It has become necessary to implement a new policy at this newspaper concerning the publication of birth announcements.

Effective immediately we will not take birth announcements by phone, mail or FAX. Birth announcements must be placed in person in the Floydada or Lockney newspaper office.

If the parents of the newborn are not married, and wish both of the mother and father's name on the form the mother and father will both have to sign the birth announcement form.

A single mother, without a father's signature, may list her name alone in the announcement.

If the couple is married one signature from a parent will be sufficient. We will also accept a grandparents signature if the couple is married.

There Are Many Forms Of Giving Your Heart To Someone.

In the very near future is coming the day when our feelings of love will be put on display. With a ritual of greeting cards along their part. On a box from the candy store shaped like a heart. Then, obtained from the home, a lovely bouquet. We can show our emotions in many a way. But true love should be more than just symbols like these.

For it is frequently offered in greater degrees, by lending a hand to some person in need. While we pray for the sick ones, whatever our creed. So the place where we worship will show us the way. To the proper observance of Valentine's Day.

What you can do about sex education

By Monte Hasie
(Edited for space)

As a duly elected Republican member of the State Board of Education, I have certain beliefs about health education. I believe age-appropriate sex education is important. Sex education should indicate there is only way to be safe in relationships, and that's through abstinence. Sex education should not promote abnormal lifestyles or sexual practices. Schools should not use what arguably can be considered pornography. "What can I do?" So many times I have been asked the question from parents and taxpayers concerned about the attempt to implement an apparent sexual agenda within the public school system of Texas.

First, we must answer the question: Does someone have an agenda to promote our students to unlawful abnormal sexual lifestyles and promiscuity? Here are some facts. You be the judge.

Fact 1: The Texas Statewide Health Council, appointed by the governor, wrote the State Health Plan. In a December 1992 letter, Gov. Ann Richards said the plan "Should assist in developing realistic solutions...to health needs of our citizens." On Page 105 of the report, the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States guidelines are recommended as appropriate for use in public schools. It recommends the following topics as being appropriate for grades kindergarten through 3: sexual intercourse, gay and lesbian relationships, masturbation. The report also recommends condom distribution on school campuses and explicit advice about abortion for teens.

Fact 2: In the spring of 1993, State Board of Education members were hearing rumblings of explicit and inappropriate sex program available in the schools. This kindergarten-through high school program—"education for self-responsibility-AIDS prevention"—had not been approved by the state board. Nevertheless, it was distributed to all Texas elementary campuses without board member's knowledge.

In early October, I attempted to have this program listed as an action item on the State Board of Education agenda, hopefully to be voted out. Chairman Carolyn Crawford, an appointee of Gov. Richards' (both are Democrats), denied my request even though she was required to honor it.

Ironically, on Oct. 9, after George W. Bush announced his Republican candidacy for governor and said we need to get "back to education and away from condoms in the schools," I was contacted that same night for approval of a letter withdrawing the Texas Education Agenda's endorsement of the condom based "education for self-responsibility" curriculum. Thank-you George W. Bush.

Although removal of the agency's endorsement was a major victory for parents, the battle is not over. The program is being revised and will come before the state board for approval early in 1994.

Fact 3: In November, the State Board of Education heard public testimony concerning the adoption of five high school health textbooks. Medical professionals, educators and a host of parents (approximately 22 individuals) cited the promotion of alternate lifestyles and explicit content in the books, such as a game using such terms as sexual orientation, wet dreams, masturbation, erection. So explicit were some of the illustrations that Chairman Crawford refused to allow transparencies of them to be shown. Even so, they could be used with our children.

About the same number of individuals testified for the textbooks. Every advocate—with one lone exception—represented the homosexual movement.

Space limitations prevent a closer look at Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders' agenda for condoms in schools, Gov. Richards' homosexual appointments, the Centers for Disease Control's master plan for comprehensive school health programs and Texas School Health Summit held (with carefully selected delegates) to develop an "action play" to implement comprehensive school health in Texas.

After much careful and deliberate thought, here are my suggestions as to what you can do:

*Encourage people to contact their State Board of Education members and Education Commissioner Lionel Meno, who recommended that the board adopt the health books.

*Know your candidates. Your participation is important. Be a part of the process—not just an observer. Support the truly dedicated teachers, administrators and school board members who have held education together at the local level. They need your help and encouragement. Who will speak for our children, if not you?
