Dumb. Dumb. We must take credit for an error that appeared in the lead story on page one of last week's Independence Day edition. In an effort to put a new lead on an otherwise excellent story written by the editor, we put the words of John Adams, our second President, in the mouth of Sam Adams, John's cousin. It was Samuel who became known as the "Father of the American Revolution", and who formed the "Committee on Correspondence" that agitated for the revolution. But it was his cousin, John, who became the second President, and who was also the father of John Quincy Adams, who became the sixth President. And it was John, not Sam, who made the prophecy that July 4 would become, or should become, a day of national celebration for generations to come.

Neither John or Sam would have minded, we suspect, but John's wife Abigail probably would have. She had a high regard for her husband and his place in history. So our apologies to all concerned, especially to our readers.

We've never seen it written in concrete anywhere that it is absolutely, fundamentally, necessary for media liberals to also be monumental hypocrites.

But it does seem to help. It does seem to make their mental gymnastics easier, more skillful, if not less obvious.

There's a big flap going on now, in politics and in the media, about the terrible consequences of Christians becoming involved in trying to influence the course of governmental policies. This is terrible, we are told, and will no doubt have dire consequences for the Republic. And, we are told by liberal columnists and editorial writers for major newspapers, it will also have dire consequences for conservatives in general and the Republican party in particular, since that seems to be where activist Christians are having their biggest impact.

It is being treated as if this is some new, dangerous, phenomenon in American politics.

Well, let's look at it. Let us ignore, for the moment, the tremendous impact religion, and the Christian faith in particular, had on the formation of this Republic. Let us ignore the writings of the Founding Fathers, of Washington, of Adams, of Franklin, of any number of patriots who put their lives on the line during the Revolutionary War. Let us ignore, for the moment, the driving force, the faith, that caused the early colonists to get up and leave their homes, their friends, their possessions, and embark on a journey to a new land fraught with uncertainty and danger in order that they might worship their God as they saw fit, without offending the authorities of their day.

Let us ignore all that, and look at the development and exercise of politics in America since that time.

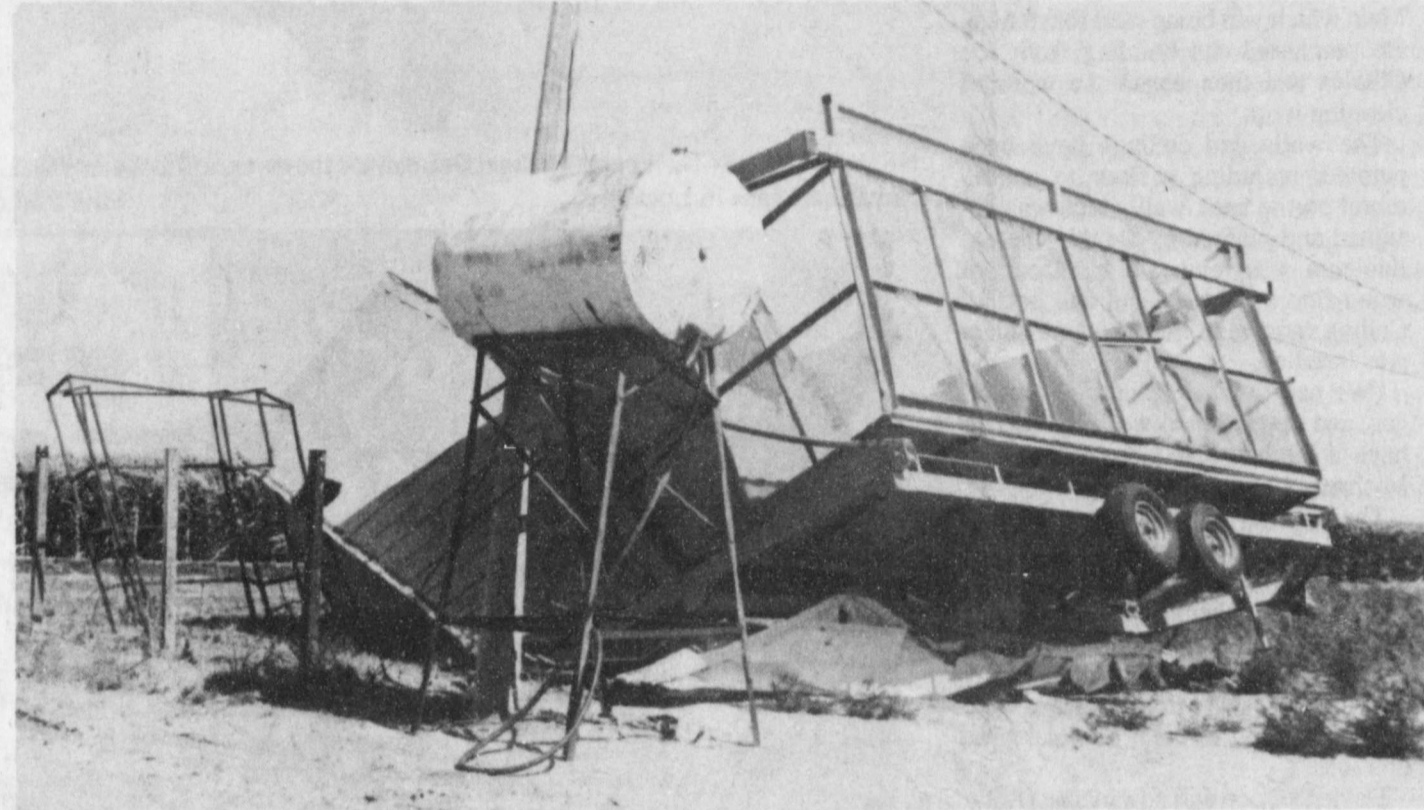

We do not know of a single campaign for the Presidency of the United States since that time that has not involved the issues that religious people are concerned with.

True, there is a segment of the American body politic that takes the position that life is all about getting and keeping, that it is, or should be, all about economics and nothing more, that man is essentially an economic animal, and that government ought not be concerned with such things as ethics, morality, character, in the development of laws under which our citizens live.

But there are others who believe that man does not live by bread alone, who believe the culture, the atmosphere they and their children grow up in and live in, are important, just as important as piling up riches on this earth. They, as far as we are concerned, have as much right to become involved in politics and try to influence the laws under which they live as are those who do not.

The idea that Christian involvement in politics is something new is nothing short of nonsense. Religion played an important part in the election of John Kennedy. It played an important part in the landslide victories of Ronald Re-

Ex-Japanese student visits Lockney

By Cindy Perez

A former exchange student, Noriko Nakayama Ono, of Kamakura, Japan, was welcomed this past weekend at her 30 year high school reunion held in Lockney. She was a member of the Lockney High School Class of 1964.

Noriko first came to Lockney in 1963 as an exchange student from Kamakura, a town of 15.26 square miles and a population of 172,638.

As an exchange student Noriko lived with Owen and Kathleen Thornton and their three children, Patricia (Killingsworth), Kathy (Kellison) and Ronny Thornton. During her one year stay with the Thorntons, Noriko came to think of them as her family, referring to Kathleen as mother and the young Thorntons as brother and sisters.

In Japan, Noriko was the daughter of Shinji and Mikie Nakayama and had three older sisters. Noriko's father, Shinji, is now deceased.

Noriko was enrolled at Lockney High School the day after her arrival to Lockney. She was classified as a senior in the year of 1963-1964.

"I came to America because I wanted to learn more about American culture," Noriko said. "In 1963 the way of living over here was quite different from Japan, but now we have really modernized."

"When I first came here, our refrigerator at home was so small compared to the Thorntons' big refrigerator. But now we have almost the same things you people do, a big color television and big refrigerators," Ono said smiling.

Ono remembered back to the first days of her senior year at Lockney.

"I had to study very hard to pass a difficult test to be able to come to the United States," said Ono. "I also took private English conversation classes with a Catholic church nun. I thought I could speak English well until I went to my first day of school."

"My first class was an American History class. The only word I could understand was 'America.'" Ono said she knew was in trouble and became very afraid she was not going to be able to make it. After her first day she cried to her mother (Kathleen Thornton).

"I think Mother asked the teachers to give me special lessons after class," said Ono. My friends and my sisters also helped me out. After about two months I think I was comfortable with the language."

During her time here and with the Thorntons, Noriko saw many things she never had.

"I had never seen the sky and land touch. In Japan there are so many mountains. You can see the top of the mountains from where I live. But when I came to Lockney, I saw nothing but flat land. I saw the sunset and sunrise for the first time here."

She attended the play "TEXAS" held in Canyon every summer. And went to Red River and Taos, New Mexico to see the American Indians.

She graduated with the Lockney High School class in May of 1964 and continued to keep in touch with the Thorntons and some of her classmates.

Upon returning to Japan, Ono had to complete her Japanese education. She had to attend her senior high school for one more year, to replace the time spent in America. She then began attending college at Doshisha University and majored in English.

She taught English in public senior high schools for three years and did some home tutoring as well. She then pursued teaching English at home, privately for 23 years. She is still tutoring English classes at home and also teaches English conversation at Yokohama and Kamakura Community Centers.

Ono married her husband, Yoichiro in 1969 and like any good parents, Owen and Kathleen Thornton made special arrangements to attend her wedding in Japan. Ono is now widowed and raising her two sons alone. Yoichiro died two years ago from lung cancer.

The Thorntons remember how gracious the Japanese were toward them during their visit to Japan. "They were always giving us gifts," said Kathleen.

Kathleen also remembers the cramped living arrangements of the Japanese. "Everything was right next to each other. When you go outside all you can see are more houses. When we took

Wilson appointed by Governor

First National Bank in Lockney and Floydada Branch announced this week the appointment of Director Robert B. Wilson to the Texas Board of Criminal Justice by Governor Ann Richards.

A Lubbock attorney, Wilson was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Jerry Hodge of Amarillo, who resigned.

Wilson, 51, who served as a director of First National Bank in Lockney for the past eight years and serves as an advisory director at Tulia. He is a member of the law firm of Sims, Kidd, Hubbert and Wilson of Lubbock. A graduate of Monterrey High School, he earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Houston Law School.

Wilson belongs to numerous professional organizations, including the State Bar of Texas, the American Bar Association, the State Bar College of Texas and the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Bar Association. In addition, he is a member of the National Criminal Justice Association and the American Management Association and past president of both the Lubbock County Bar Association and the West Texas Bankruptcy Bar.

Wilson is active in a variety of civic and community organizations. He is a member of the Lubbock Rotary Club and the Boy Scouts of America executive board. He has also served as director of the First National Bank in both Lockney and Tulia.

The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

A strong windstorm blew into Floyd County, July 1, bringing high winds, dirt, small hail and a slight rain. In the Sandhill community it is very probable it also brought a tornado.

Weldon Pruitt is convinced a tornado blew through his property in Sandhill, and if you survey the damage to his property you would probably agree with him. A 40x40 barn (which belonged to Mrs. Weldon Smith) was reduced to twisted metal and splinters, with pieces of the building and contents scattered throughout Pruitt's cornfield. Large equipment near the barn was moved and turned around and across the road more equipment was thrown around.

"I lost everything," said Pruitt. "It was very strange what got moved or destroyed and what was left alone. There is a 2x6 buried in the field and I don't know how we are going to get that out—we can't pull it out."

Across the road from the barn a boll buggy was picked up, carried over a module builder and slammed into a pipe garage. The module builder was overturned and a cotton trailer was picked up and deposited on top of another trailer.

"I wasn't here when it happened," said Pruitt, "but I know it wasn't a straight wind. Neighbors said the wind was whipping in every direction. The storm was moving southeast toward Floydada but the barn was carried northeast."

"One of my neighbors was out changing water when the storm hit. He said the wind was coming in all directions and he couldn't stand anymore so he just laid down in the field until it was over"

Pruitt has already begun the task of searching his cornfield and dragging back pieces of the barn. A large pit has already been dug near the barn's foundation and the remains will be pushed in the pit and buried.

Three Lockney teens injured

LOCKNEY--Three Lockney teenagers were injured July 1 when a pickup truck they were driving in overturned on Floyd County Road 149. Josh Lambert, 14, Devon Phillips, 15, and Charles VanZandt, 14, were transported to W.J. Mangold Memorial Hospital by private vehicle.

Phillips suffered facial lacerations requiring 280 stitches. Lambert suffered a bruised wrist and Van Zandt received minor cuts on his back. According to Phillips, the facial cuts were obtained after his head hit the back windshield which then shattered.

According to a DPS spokesperson, the accident occurred at approximately 11:00 a.m., 10 miles northeast of Lockney on Floyd County Road 149. The pickup truck was northbound on 149 when the driver, Lambert, lost control and overcorrected. The vehicle broadsided in the east ditch and overturned one time.

According to Phillips, the teenagers were on their way to a field to work.

Although Phillips was in the operating room for five hours he was fortunate to have the expertise of a plastic surgeon, Dr. W.J. (Bill) Mangold Jr., perform the surgery.

According to Dr. Gary Mangold, of W.J. Mangold Memorial Hospital, "My brother is a plastic surgeon in Tucson, Arizona. He was coming to town to visit my mother and when he arrived we took him straight to OR to work on Phillips."

Phillips is now at home and said, "I'm doing fine and I'm glad Dr. Mangold was there to help."

Danny Lambert, father of Josh Lambert, was very grateful to the doctors for their efforts in helping all the kids in the accident.

"I have the utmost respect for both Dr. Gary and especially for Dr. Bill for all his help on Devon. I am very thankful that the accident was not worse than it was and that everybody is okay now."

Local health organizations to offer free immunization clinic

From Melissa Long, CEA-HE

Thirty years after a vaccine for measles was developed, 60 percent of Texas children under two are not completely immunized.

This ranks Texas last in the United States and far behind developing nations such as Uganda, India and Mexico, which immunize more than 70 percent of their one-year-old children.

Many parents just don't understand the importance of immunizing their infants, choosing to wait until their children reach school age to have them immunized. But children are at their greatest risk from infectious diseases from birth to age two. And these childhood diseases can cause blindness, deafness, brain damage, permanent paralysis or even death.

A new law has been passed in Texas which requires that all children be vaccinated against diseases such as polio, diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, hepatitis B, measles, mumps and rubella. Four doctor visits in the first year of life will completely immunize the child.

An innovative new program, Shots Across Texas, has been established by the Texas Department of Health to carry out the intent of this new legislation. The program, supported by Texas Medical Association, Texas Medical Association Alliance, Red Cross, Texas PTA, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and other concerned organizations, will work to educate parents and health care providers about immunization.

In Floyd County, a free immunization clinic will be offered as well as other health screenings and finger printing on Thursday, July 14, from 3:00-7:00 p.m. under the Courthouse Pavilion and in the County Extension Office meeting room. There will be refreshments and entertainment for the kids while they are there.

It took years of research and brilliant scientists to develop vaccines to end the threat of childhood diseases, but it takes only the time and interest of the people of Texas to make all that work worthwhile. Please help immunize little Texans by age two.

BY THE WAY!

BY

It's that time of year—farmers are working hard and keeping weird hours.

They get up in the middle of the night, slip on muddy boots, trudge to the pickup and drive out to their fields to change the water. They've done it so many times they don't even think about it. They just want to be home under the covers listening to rain.

It's time to be extra careful farmers. You're working overtime and just a teeny weeny bit stressed—accidents will happen. Be careful. Even though a lot of you are no fun to live with right now your wives really and truly want you to come back home!

I heard a funny story the other day and I thought I would pass it on. Since I didn't get permission to tell this fellow's story I won't use his name — but it is true.

There was the Floyd County farmer who took off in the middle of the night to change his water. He fell asleep at the wheel and turned his pickup over.

The good news is that he turned it completely over and it landed back on its tires. Obviously the farmer woke up. He wasn't hurt and since his pickup was right side up he just drove it on home.

He didn't want to wake up the Highway Patrolman in the middle of the night just to take a little accident report so he waited until the morning to call. I thought that was pretty thoughtful. I would have had to call just to tell somebody what happened!

I wonder how long it took that farmer to fall back to sleep under his covers.

D'Leon's Mexican Restaurant now open

A new restaurant, D'Leon's Mexican Restaurant, is dressing up downtown Lockney.

The DeLeons are already well known in Lockney for their successful Main Street Pizza Restaurant. Michael and David DeLeon, who are brothers, opened Main Street Pizza four years ago after one year of pizza cooking experience in Plainview.

The business has worked out well for the hardworking brothers and Michael decided he wanted to pursue his dream of opening a Mexican food restaurant.

"My grandfather had a little Mexican Restaurant, called DeLeon's Cafe, in Lockney in the mid 60's," said Michael. "It closed in 1969."

To pursue his dream Michael found a vacant building in the 100 block of S. Main which was being used for storage. He purchased the building from Joe Charles and then began the work of cleaning it up.

The walls and ceilings have been painted, including a floor to ceiling mural on the back wall which was designed and painted by David. The old linoleum was removed and the hard wood floors were sanded and buffed. Ceiling fans were hung and a kitchen was installed.

"We had to put in plumbing, water, gas, and do electrical work in order to have a kitchen and bathrooms," said Michael.

The first day of business was July 3 beginning with the "after church" crowd and Michael reported a steady flow of customers into the business.

"I want to please the customers with good food, good service and a friendly atmosphere," said Michael. "I also hope to get the food to them as quickly as possible."

David DeLeon will now manage Main Street Pizza and Michael will manage D'Leon's Restaurant.

The restaurant will open for breakfast and serve: Huevos Rancheros, breakfast tacos, and a variety of other breakfast plates.

Lunch and dinner menus will include: fajitas, carne guisada, taco salad, chili rellanos, enchiladas, tacos, chalupas, cowboy nachos, flautas, tamales and burritos.

The cafe is now a family affair with everyone pitching in as cooks and waiters to help get started.

"We want to thank our parents and family for helping us with this project," said David and Michael, "and we are also very grateful to the community for all of the support they have given us at Main Street Pizza. We hope we can make them as happy with our new restaurant."

NEW OWNERS--David and Michael DeLeon are the owners of D'Leon's Mexican Restaurant in Lockney.

The Lamplighter

 agan. In varying degrees it is, and has been, involved in politics at all levels.

For as long as this writer can remember the center of politics in the black community has been the black churches, and black preachers. Remember the "Rev." Martin Luther King? Or the "Rev." Jesse Jackson? Or the Rev. Abernathy, of the Southern Christian Leadership organization? Liberal columnists and editorial writers, not to mention the host of t.v. "anchormen" saw nothing wrong with their involvement. Indeed they praised it. But those folks generally followed the liberal line, especially in social issues. That was fine. That was good. But let the conservative Christians make a few waves and it all suddenly becomes bad, and a threat to the Republic.

For years the Roman Catholic church in America has been closely allied with the Democratic party. Ward politics in our major cities has for years been closely intertwined with Democratic politics. That too was good. That was fine. But let them begin trying to influence Democratic politics, rather than passively going with the decisions made by political ward healers, and it suddenly becomes bad. The Church hierarchy was supposed to merely turn out the vote and stay quiet. When they began to make noise, when they began to say, "wait a minute, let's look at these politicians who talk one way and vote another" it became bad.

As far as we are concerned we welcome the political participation of all elements of American society in trying to influence their government. For years, liberal columnists and editorial writers have deplored the fact that so few citizens take part in politics. They have written copiously of the need for more citizen interest and citizen involvement. It is now apparent they didn't mean conservatives, generally, and they didn't mean Christian conservatives in particular.

It was certainly not the influence of conservative Christians, or conservative religious folks of whatever persuasion, that led to the current situation in America, the breakdown of the family, the growing welfare rolls, the growing rate of illegitimate births, the escalating crime rate. Those are not things that can honestly be laid at the feet of "right-wing Christians". More likely it can be laid to the fact that those folks were not active enough during critical periods and critical elections.

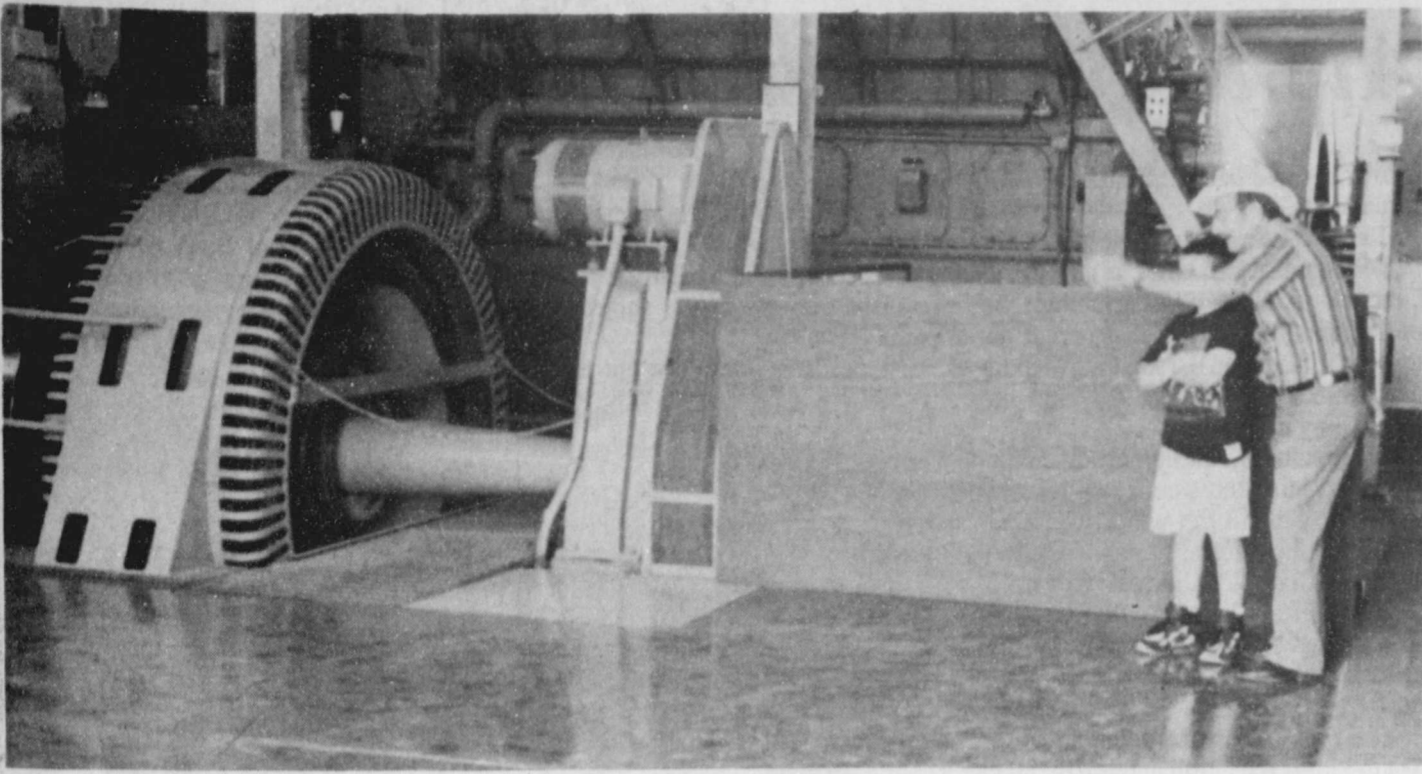

Anyone who thinks the current attack on "right-wing Christians", or "right-wing conservatives", or the "radical right", is accidental, or that it "just happened" is completely ignorant of the ways of left-wing politics. It is the result of a coordinated, planned attack on those who are now fighting back against governmental policies most Americans find deplorable. The decision to embark on this new line of attack was made in the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, headed by Rep. Vic Fazio of California, no doubt with the approval of this Administration. It was picked up by the committee's flacks in the national media with help from their friends in editorial positions at many of our major newspapers.

The aim is clear. It is a matter of "word association". By constantly linking the words "right-wing", with "radicals", with "Christian", and with "conservative", the left hopes to discredit all who oppose them. They know, from previous experience, that some on the right will be driven, by their own timidity, into silence, fearful that they too will be lumped in the media with those labeled by the left as "radicals." When that happens, they hope, the political field will continue to be dominated by those who have gotten us in the position we are now in.

Most of us may be unhappy with what we see going on in Washington (and America) today, but the left is completely happy. They want it to continue. They want government to continue to grow. They want the lives of Americans to be more regulated, not less regulated. They want more of the people's earnings to flow to the federal (and state) government, not less. They want local communities to have less to say about what goes on, not more. In short, the left is supremely happy when the common folk continue to work, ante up their taxes, and keep the mouths shut.

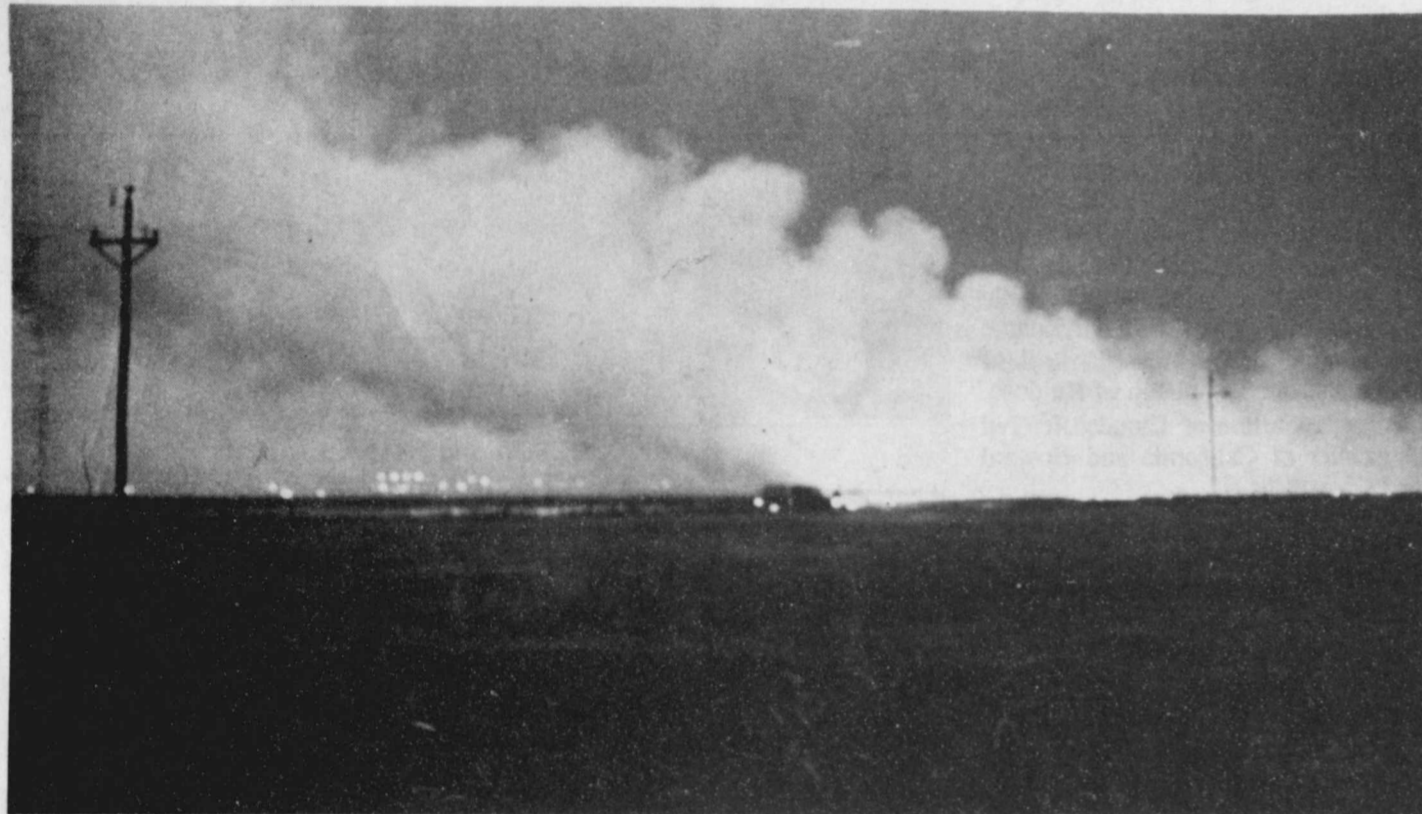

We have the feeling that the decision to attack religious involvement in politics is not only hypocritical, it is apt to be politically stupid. There are, after all, many conservative Christians who are also traditional, life-long Democrats. If, or when, they get the idea their values are being attacked by the leadership of their own party, they always have the option of taking a walk.

FP&L POWERS UP -- City Councilman LeRoy Burns shows his grandson, Rowdy Derryberry, around the power plant at Floydada Power and Light. The facility has been kicked on recently in the afternoons to supplement demands for power created by the unusually hot weather.

The plant also went on line last week following damage to an SPS station in the Amarillo Area. This allowed local customers to continue receiving power even though SPS was temporarily out of service.

Shots Across Texas Day in Floyd County

The people of Texas must make immunizing our children a priority

Age-appropriate immunizations make economic sense to families, employers and taxpayers.

The 73rd Texas Legislature mandated that every child be fully immunized.

Hundreds of local Shots Across Texas community coalitions, corporate sponsors, civic organizations and others are already committing to and participating in the effort.

BUT WE MUST GO FORWARD

The people of Texas are strongly committed to ensuring that every child in Texas receives the proper immunizations. This national campaign is an important effort, and the people of Texas are urged to take responsibility for immunizing our children.

Therefore, I, Bill Hardin, County Judge of Floyd County, Texas, do hereby proclaim July 14, 1994, as

and urge the appropriate recognition thereof.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 5th day of July, 1994

Clarke and Atcheson display art in Floydada

FLOYDADA — The First National Bank of Floydada is proud to announce the bank artists for the month of July, Jean Clarke and her daughter Kay Atcheson. The works of the mother-daughter pair will be available for viewing throughout the month during regular banking hours.

Jean Clarke began painting in 1947 by taking a class from Harold Gore of Lubbock. In the fifties, she studied with Frederic Taubes and completed the Famous Artists Correspondence course.

Moving to Sedona, Arizona in 1961, she began painting the scenery of the northern part of the state. The beautiful trees of the area became her favorite subject and she became known as the "Tree Painter". She taught traditional oil painting classes and workshops in Sedona and Prescott. She began painting miniature oils in 1974 and won top

Davis earns WTAMU business scholarship

The West Texas A&M University T. Boone Pickens College of Business recently announced scholarship recipients for the 1994-95 school year. Scholarships totaled $41,500 to undergraduate and graduate students.

Nathan Davis, an entering freshman pre-engineering major from Floydada, was awarded a CIS Scholarship.

"The general overall criteria for the scholarships was academic excellence and involvement in departmental activities. Sue Taylor, chairman of the scholarship selection committee and instructor of computer information systems (CIS), said.

awards in three international shows for miniaturists.

Clarke continued to paint the southwestern landscapes after returning to Lubbock in 1987. She says that she prefers painting scenes that reveal nature as God created it, receiving inspiration from the beauty of the land untouched by man.

With paintings in numerous collections and miniatures collected by visitors from around the world, Clarke is currently showing at Butler's Gallery and the Godbold Cultural Center in Lubbock. Her miniatures of bluebonnet scenes, particularly the miniatures, are especially popular with Japanese tourists.

Clarke was a charter member of the South Plains Art Guild and is a member of the Lubbock Art Association. She is also a lifetime member of the Mountain Artists Guild of Prescott, Arizona.

One of Her greatest pleasures has been teaching her daughter to paint in oils. Her pride in Kay's progress has culminated in this joint showing at the bank.

Kay Atcheson prefers landscapes, still lifes, animals and people. "My style is realism that borders on impressionism," says Atcheson. "I am in love with color and the excitement it can create."

Atcheson credits her mother, Artist Jean Clarke, with starting her with very good basics of art, color and value studies. She has also studied with Priscilla Marsh of Crosbyton, Jim Shafer, Lonnie Mason, and Paul Milesovich, all of Lubbock, Ann Templeton of Ruidoso, LaWanda Carlton of Cloudcroft, Ted Greshner of California and Howard Carr of Phoenix.

Says Atcheson, "I am seeking a 'painterly' style and I would hope the viewer sees as much beauty in the way I paint as they do in the subject that I paint."

Atcheson's works are currently on display at Godbold Cultural Center and Butler's Gallery in Lubbock as well as the First National Bank of Floydada. Everyone is encouraged to take advantage of the show by two talented area artists by stopping in to see their efforts during the month of July.

"NEIGHBORS HELPING NEIGHBORS"

Japanese exchange student returns to Lockney for 30th reunion

a train ride I felt like I could just reach outside and touch the homes," laughed Kathleen. "Noriko's home is very nice but very small. There is no room for beds so you sleep on mats on the floor."

An American custom that Noriko quickly adapted too and learned to love was the custom of hugging your friends. "In Japan we do not hug—we bow," said Noriko. "I have never hugged or kissed my mother, but I love hugging everyone here."

"When I returned home to Japan after my first year in America my whole family was at the airport to greet me. My brother-in-law was the first person I saw and I put my arms around him and hugged him. I forgot where I was and I knew immediately that I had embarrassed him. He turned very red and I apologized for embarrassing him," laughed Noriko.

Hugging was not the only new custom Noriko learned during her first trip. She also learned a lot of slang words which she took back to teach. The funniest expression that Noriko remembers was, "My mother is going to have a cow."

Noriko has made one other trip to the United States since she was an exchange student. She returned to the United States 16 years ago with her two sons, Shinichi (then 8 years old) and Yuta (then 3 years old). They are now 22 and 19 years old respectively.

"My oldest son was 8 years old then, and he remembers Lockney very well. Before I left both my sons patted my suitcases and said, 'Oh I wish I could go with you.' They were unable to come because Japan goes to school for three semesters year round."

Their summer vacation does not start until July 21. The first semester started in April and does not end until July. They will start school again on September 1 and go until December 25, for their winter vacation. They enter again on January 8 through March 24. Not only do they go to school year round but also on Saturdays. Just recently Japan began a trail basis of letting students out every other Saturday.

Explaining some of the differences in culture and lifestyles, Noriko said for her and her two sons, a hamburger, fries, and coke at McDonald's in Japan would cost about $36.00. A movie pass, for one, will cost $20.00.

For Noriko and her family, grocery shopping is also very expensive. Going to the grocery store and buying about two days worth of groceries would easily cost you $100.00.

American's who dread the expense of supplying their teenagers with their own vehicles need only to look toward Japanese parents and their expenses. Noriko said the cost for her eldest son to get his driver's license was almost $3,000. "A driver's license would cost over $4,000 for me because I am considered a middle aged woman," said Noriko. (She is 49 years old).

"The cars in Japan sell for about what they do here," said Noriko. But there is a catch. "In order for you to buy a car," said Noriko, "you must prove to the police that you have a place to park it. My son has a car and he has to park it almost a six minute walk away." The parking space is so far away because the Ono's apartment building has about 20 parking spaces to supply 70 families.

The deposit and rent on that one little parking space was $150.00 down payment, $150.00 thank you money to the landlord, $150.00 rent. The first payment totalled $450.00 and each month is $150.00 for the one parking spot.

Before she left for America Noriko treated her two sons to a steak dinner. For the two small steaks she paid almost $40.00.

Japan is known for their rice and rice farms. Noriko explained that most rice farms are smaller than one of our normal city blocks. "If anyone in Japan has a farm as big as a city block, they are probably very wealthy," Ono said, "most of them are very very small-about the size of the Thornton's home."

Keeping with the tradition of giving gifts, Noriko came to America loaded down with one suitcase full of gifts from her students. The gifts were given to Noriko to give to her friends in America. The gifts included handmade purses, silk embroidered brooches, handpainted handkerchiefs and a letter written to the Thorntons praising their teacher Noriko Ono.

Noriko also brought a basket full of individually packaged gold coins. Each package contained one coin (5 Yen) which is equivalent to one nickel in America.

Before giving you this gift, Noriko writes your name in English and Japanese on the outside of the envelope. She then hands you the envelope and says, "It is customary for us to give you this coin. We believe that as long as you keep this coin with you we will always be close."

JUST TAGGIN' ALONG--Lockney youngsters found a way to bring the "little tagalong" without him getting too far behind. This is just an easy way for him to relax and not get too tired during the recent hot summer days.

1994 Property Tax Rates in Caprock Hospital District

This notice contains 1994 property tax rates for Caprock Hospital District. It presents information about three tax rates. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Recruit school offered by DPS

The Texas Department of Public Safety is accepting applications for out-of-state applicants until July 15, 1994 and applications for in-state applicants until August 19, 1994 for its December 1994 recruit school.

Following 23 weeks of intensive training, successful applicants will be commissioned as state troopers for the Texas Department of Public Safety, charged with enforcing traffic laws on rural Texas highways. Troopers investigate accidents, recover stolen vehicles and other property, seize illegal drugs, apprehend wanted persons and perform a variety of other law enforcement duties.

After four (4) years with the DPS, troopers will be able to compete for promotions within the Traffic Law Enforcement Division, which includes services such as Driver License, Safety Education, License and Weight ad Motor Vehicle Inspection. Promotional opportunities eventually will be available in other DPS areas, such as Criminal Law Enforcement Division -- Narcotics, Polygraph, Criminal Intelligence, and Motor Vehicle Theft Services -- and the Texas Ranger Division.

The DPS will consider applicants who are at least 20 years of age and have either 60 hours of college credits or prior military or law enforcement experience. U.S. Citizenship, a Texas driver's license and a willingness to accept assignment anywhere in the State are also required. An applicant must successfully complete a written examination, a physical exam, an agility test, oral interviews and a thorough background investigation before being accepted.

The DPS offers state benefits, and a starting salary for Trooper-Trainees (while in training) of $1,721.00 per month. Following graduation, troopers will be paid $1,983.00 per month, with a raise every six months for the first year. Commissioned officers also receive hazardous duty pay and monthly allowances for meals, uniform cleaning and footwear. Uniforms and equipments are furnished by the Department.

For details on this challenging career opportunity, contact your nearest DPS office.

North Ward Della Plains holds all classes reunion

by Bettye Baker King
The North Ward Della Plains all classes reunion was held July 1-3 in the old Della Plains gymnasium. Former students were here from various areas of the United States. Activities consisted of getting acquainted, lunches in the gym, youth and adult dances, and Sunday worship services.

Everyone had an enjoyable time. Donations received during the workshop services were for the benefit of the Annie Taylor Scholarship fund.

The Annie Taylor Scholarship fund was established in the early 1970's. Several people have benefitted from the fund. The fund is in the First National Bank.

Al Galloway serves as president of the committee in charge and Tommy Farris is treasurer.

Contributions may be made to the fund at any time.

Approximately $325 has been collected for the fund and will be presented to students from the Della Plains area to continue their education after graduation from high school. If there is no one eligible, no scholarship will be given that particular year.

Recognition was made of the first North Ward graduate, Ruth Coleman Popnaugh, under the late Annie Taylor, teacher/principal. Ruth graduated from North Ward in 1943. She graduated from Prairie View A&M University and was an honor student several semesters.

She married and traveled extensively over most of Europe with her late husband, Claude, who was a career soldier in the army.

Ruth began her career with the Federal Government at Washington, D.C. in 1951. She taught school in the Military Dependent schools for seven years on two assignments to France and five years in Germany. She also taught school in New Jersey for four years. She performed numerous government work assignments over the years.

Her graduate studies were done at Trenton State in New Jersey, University of Albuquerque in New Mexico, and Highland University in New Mexico, for a double Masters in Business and Education.

Ruth retired from the Federal Government in January 1991, at Kirtland Air Force Base, New Mexico, with a total of 28 years of Federal Service. Since retirement, Ruth has traveled to Australia, New Zealand, and China.

Ruth credits Mrs. Taylor with being an excellent teacher and mentor; and to a large extent in preparing her for an illustrious career.

DONNA LEE REYNA and JOHNNY PERALES

Reyna and Perales

Mr. Daniel Reyna and Alejandra Reyna of Hart wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Lee Reyna to Johnny Perales, son of Juan and Maria Perales of Lockney.

The bride-elect is a 1993 graduate of Edingburg High School but also attended Hart Schools. She is attending Wayland Baptist University in Plainview.

The bride-groom is a 1991 graduate of Lockney High School and is currently employed by Caprock Feedyard in Lockney.

The couple plan a July 16, 1994 wedding at the Aposento Alto de Pentecostal Church in Lockney.

Schinkus and McDowell say nuptial vows

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Schinkus of Dimmitt and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDowell of Wichita Falls are proud to announce the marriage of their children, Brenda Sue Schinkus and Andrew Jared McDowell. The double ring ceremony was held in the chapel of the Trinity Fellowship Church of Amarillo with Jerry Billington, pastor, officiating.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a full train, white satin and lace overlay, shoulder line puff sleeve, pearl accented wedding gown. She carried a bouquet arrangement of spring flowers in her chosen colors of rose, yellow, purple and white. Included in the bouquet were long stem white roses for the mother of the bride and mother of the groom.

Something old were pennies in their shoes. Her wedding attire was something new. Something borrowed was her sister's gold and pearl drop earrings. Something blue was the garter.

Sister of the bride, Sandi Schinkus, served as maid of honor. She wore a fuschia puff sleeve, open back, full length gown. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Ronnie Benjamin of Lubbock served as best man. Rick McDowell of Miami, brother of the groom, and Chas McDowell of Fort Smith, Ark., nephew of the groom, served as ushers. All were attired in black tuxedos with rose and black vests.

The candlelighters were Jeremy and Zach McDowell, nephews of the groom.

Each wore ivory rosebud boutonnières.

The mothers of the bride and groom each lit one of the candles flanking the unity candle as they were escorted to their seats. After guests were seated, Sandi Schinkus accompanied by Karl Restine sang "Wind Beneath My Wings."

Vows were exchanged between the bride and groom, while partaking of communion. Ms. Schinkus and Mr. Restine sang "Perfect Union." The couple lit the unity candle in conclusion of the ceremony.

RECEPTION

A reception honoring the couple was hosted by the bride's parents in the Upper Room of the church. A three-tier wedding cake carried out the bride's chosen colors with fresh spring flowers adorning the french laced covered table with silver accents.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at La Fiesta in Amarillo.

Following a wedding trip, the couple is making their home in Canyon.

The bride is employed by Dr. Mike Flores. She is a graduate of Dimmitt High School and West Texas State.

The groom is employed by St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. He is a graduate of Floydada High School, attended West Texas State and graduated from T.S.T.C. in Amarillo.

Precautions should be taken for food safety

By Melissa Long, CEA-HE

Consumers should be very aware of food safety precautions during the summer when outdoor activities such as picnics, campouts and cookouts are popular.

Often these activities involve food. Unfortunately, the incidence of foodborne illness also seems to rise during these months. Bacteria that cause foodborne illness grow best at warm weather temperatures, specifically at "danger zone temperatures" between 40 degrees Fahrenheit and 140 degrees Fahrenheit.

Foods that are most perishable are called "red flag" foods. They are moist protein-containing foods such as poultry, meats, eggs, milk products, seafood, cream pies and custards. Red flag items also include such foods as fried chicken and hard-cooked or deviled eggs - foods that are sometimes misunderstood as being non-perishable.

It's important to follow the "hot-food-cold food rule" for perishable foods. "Keep hot foods hot (over 140 degrees) and cold foods cold (below 40 degrees)." The combination of these foods plus temperatures in the danger zone spell trouble.

Prevention of foodborne illness starts with the planning of the menu. Do not include "red flag" foods unless you can keep them either "hot" or "cold". If refrigeration is needed, but not available, foods can be packed in an ice chest. It's important not to pack the ice chest too full and use adequate ice or ice packs to keep the foods at 40 degrees. Use shallow containers so food will stay chilled throughout. Also, keep the ice chest in the shade.

Some foods do not require refrigeration until opened and may be better items to take on a picnic. These include canned meats, peanut butter and jelly, breads, crackers, cereal and nut mixes. Dried and fresh fruits are another option.

Plan to eat as soon as possible after you arrive at the picnic site. Store any leftovers promptly and properly, or throw them away. It is best to carry only what you plan to eat. Don't leave foods out for more than two hours. In hot summer temperatures, one hour is a better rule to follow.

If you pick up deli or fast food items, either pick them up immediately before the event and eat as soon as you arrive, or buy them the night before and refrigerate.

Cleanliness is very important to prevent the spread of bacteria. Avoid handling foods more than necessary. Never handle raw foods and cooked foods together. Do not reuse any utensils that touched raw food without washing them.

Spread a clean table cloth on the table before serving the food. Use disposables since adequate hand-washing or dish-washing facilities may not be available. Use these items only once, then throw them away.

SIDERS' SIDELINES

By Kerry Siders, CEA-Ag

Tomorrow, Friday, July 8, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service offices in Floyd and Crosby Counties will sponsor an Irrigation Water Management Workshop at the Massie Activity Center in Floydada beginning at 8:30 with registration.

The program will include information on efficient furrow irrigation, LEPA, county irrigation demonstrations, PET Net, & SPIM irrigation management, chemigation practices and equipment, and cotton irrigation. There will be an optional field tour at Drew Lloyd's pivot just South of Floydada at 1:15 for those interested in new pivot technology, and using gypsum blocks and PET Two general CEU's for private and commercial, non-commercial pesticide applicators will be available during the morning. Speakers for this workshop will include Kater Hake, Leon New, Rose Mary Seymour, myself and the Crosby County agents.

On another note, we are at 870 heat units since May 20. First bloom requires 1,064 h.u.; therefore, we should see first blooms the end of next week. Below is this week's PET, cotton plant monitoring, and irrigation information.

HEAT UNITS = 870	Accum. May 20 - June 28
Total precipitation ave. since January = 10.47
Crop irrigation requirements since planting through June 28 according to PET System minus county rainfall averages:
Corn = 4.5"
Sorghum = 2.5"
Cotton = 0.5"
County Cotton Plant Monitoring Survey
Averages as of June 29, 1994
Height = 6.4
First fruiting branch = 5.8
Total nodes = 8.4
Number of squares = 3.5
Missing squares = 0.1
Percent squares set = 97%

Boll weevil control treatments are crucial

Producers in these areas are also being encouraged to look further down the road in order to manage this year's crop so that the highest level of weevil control possible is achieved.

"It may seem a long time to harvest when we haven't even seen blooms, but producers in high weevil areas need to give some thought now the early termination of this crop," says Dr. Don Rummel, Research Scientist and boll weevil expert from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, in Lubbock. "Regulating growth later in the season, knocking off squares and terminating a mature crop can possibly do as much good (for boll weevil control) as a pesticide application."

For more information about the status of weevil populations producers can contact their county Extension personnel or look for the "High Plains Boll Weevil Report" in the Cotton/Rice Segment of the DTN System.

Non-human outbreak of rabies found recently

The image and plaintive cry of a lone coyote, nose pointed skyward, howling against the backdrop of a full moon has become symbolic of the great Southwest. Sadly, that same coyote has become the carrier of a not-so-great disease here in Texas.

In 1993, the Texas Department of Health (TDH) recorded 533 cases of non-human rabies in a wide variety of animals—from relatively rare occurrences in cows to the growing outbreak among coyotes.

We estimate that annually as many as 1,000 Texans are exposed to the rabies virus and receive post-exposure vaccine to keep them from developing the disease.

Last year, one Northeast Texas man died from rabies, probably transmitted by a bat.

Part of the problem is our proximity to Mexico, where the virus is widespread among unvaccinated dogs. Animals, of course, don't respect the international border and roam freely back and forth across the Rio Grande.

To compound the problem, the canine rabies virus has spread into South Texas' large coyote population. TDH epidemiologists and veterinarians are nervously watching as almost daily reports of infected coyotes and dogs edge northward at an alarming pace.

They are worried because the movement of the virus from coyotes to domestic dogs to humans is all-too-easy: coyote bites puppy, puppy bites child—or worse, children.

But worrying about rabies does just about as much good as howling at the moon. So, at TDH, we aren't just watching and worrying. We're working hard to stop the spread of rabies.

Statewide, TDH's Zoonosis Control Division continues its efforts to contain rabies through educational programs on rabies control and responsible pet ownership, promotion of low-cost vaccination clinics and the support of local animal control programs.

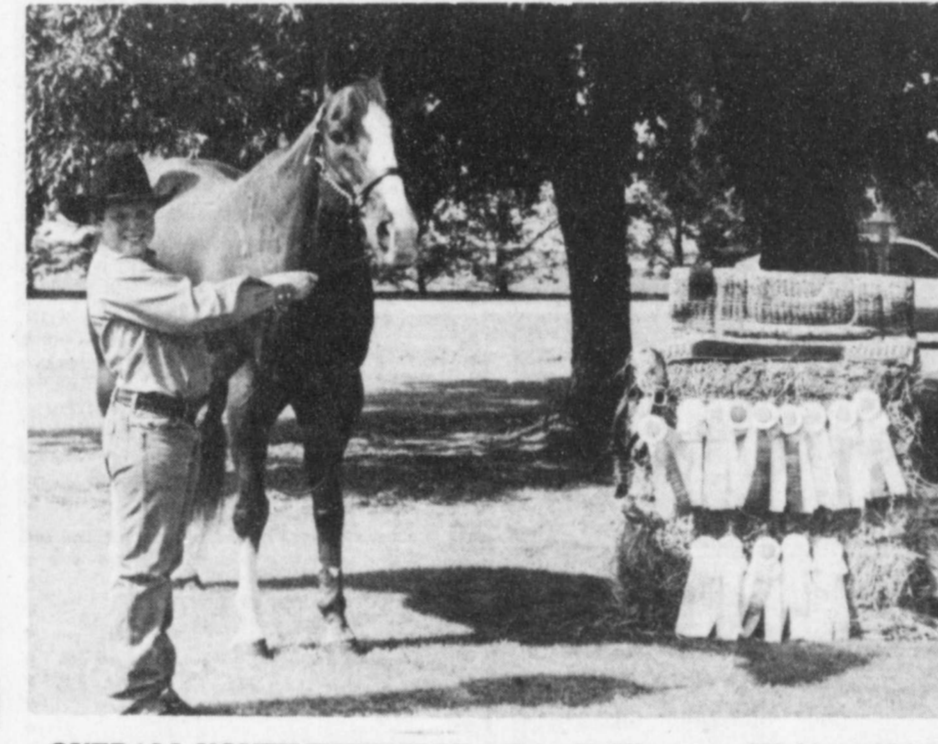

Last year, we opened the Border Rabies Prevention Project in Laredo to oversee rabies control throughout the border region. And because the South Texas outbreak now threatens the densely populated areas of Corpus Christi and the upper Gulf Coast, we are working with city and county animal control officials there to strengthen their efforts against rabies—from stricter city ordinances and more stray animal pa-
