We're having some second thoughts on the O.J. matter. Oh, we still think he's guilty. And we still believe the jury will not vote to convict. It'll probably end with a hung jury.

But we are now beginning to believe the whole thing is not necessarily a waste of time, as we once believed. In the first place it is probably good for the economy. Millions of dollars are being transferred from O.J.'s pockets to the pockets of his many attorneys. Given what we hear about the living style of at least a few of his attorneys, this will no doubt result in a vast "spreading around" of wealth. Restaurants, bartenders, travel agencies are probably seeing an increase in business. Any number of "experts" have already cashed in, and more are likely to show up.

O.J. has probably stayed about even, although we've read somewhere that he has taken out a $3 million loan against his home. His income from autographed football cards, little statues, and his best-selling book, have probably eased his financial pain, as well as causing great happiness in his defense team.

We suspect the taxpayers of Los Angeles are groaning, but they have grown accustomed to that.

Beyond that however, the trial has given Americans a good look at California's criminal justice system, and it ain't necessarily pretty. Our own view is that the system in Texas is no better, if as good.

America has a long tradition of "jury trial by one's peers" in criminal matters, and we are in complete agreement. Perhaps it is a matter of legal interpretation. Perhaps it can be argued that "trial by his peers" means just that, in its narrowest sense. "The O.J. jury does indeed seem to be the "peer" of O.J. himself." But where do we draw the line? Must white people always be judged by white people, or black people by black people, or rich people by rich people? Should not the law prevail, regardless of the bias of some jurors?

We've always thought that justice is better served when jurors are the most intelligent, most informed, people in the community, not the dumbest. There was a time in America when it was assumed, and taught in the best schools, that informed citizens were more likely to be more responsible citizens. (You note that we said the "most informed" citizens, not the "most educated" citizens...there is a difference.) But the practice of insisting that jurors be selected from among those citizens who are completely uninformed, and who may therefore be more easily swayed by the impassioned arguments of the most skillful (and most highly paid) practitioners, seems to us to be asking for trouble. And that's just what the L.A. jury has had. Trouble, and plenty of it.

And that brings up another aspect of the criminal justice system we have always quarreled with, or at least we have quarreled with ever since we sat on a murder jury. The jury, in whose hands it is to decide the fate of the defendant, is too often treated like a mere bump on a log, assumed to be incapable of separating wheat from chaff, unable to ask questions, unable to take notes, shunted in and out of the courtroom while important questions are argued and decided, forbidden to read or hear anything that might have a bearing on the trial, relying solely on what one side or the other considers important or the judge decides is "permissible." Under these conditions the decision by jurors often comes down to personal biases, personal experiences, a general "feel" of the trial, the acting abilities of "expert" witnesses, all sorts of things that have little to do with the actual guilt or innocence of the defendant.

In the murder trial spoken of earlier, for instance, the defendant was a Hispanic youngster accused of knifing to death his own brother. He had

Tanner Johnson tackles "Down Under" football

By Lisa Mosley
Until this summer, Tanner Johnson's only view from down under had come from an occasional tackle on the high school football field.

But after a unique opportunity came in July, Johnson had the experience of a lifetime playing his favorite sport, football, in the Land Down Under, Australia.

Johnson joined twenty-eight former Texas high school football players on an All-Star team that participated in the Down Under Bowl in New South Wales, Australia on July 8.

Preparation for the team began as they stepped off the plane in Sydney.

"We got straight off the plane and went to the practice field," said

Johnson. "It was really cold and we didn't have any time to recuperate from the plane trip."

"But we had been given playbooks before we met together in Houston, so practice was just a matter of spending a couple of hours working together on specific plays."

Apparently, the few two-hour practices were enough for the Texans to get acclimated to their new environment and each other.

Even though most of his teammates came from 4A and 5A schools, Johnson made a quick impact on the team.

In their opening game against the Australian national team, Johnson started out as free safety, but after the LOCKNEY—Plans are in the final stages for Lockney's annual Old Fashioned Saturday. The popular event, sponsored by the Lockney Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled for Saturday, August 26 and will take place on Main Street between Locust and College.

Several clubs and organizations have already selected spaces on Main Street for food, game and arts and craft booths.

The main event of the day will be the State Finals for the Texas Peddle Pullers Association. A section of Main Street will be roped off and youngsters who have qualified for the event from around the state, New Mexico and Oklahoma will attempt to win a trip to the national finals. Approximately 150 first and second place winners, along with their families, will be in town to compete in the pulls. Cargill Hybrid Seeds is sponsoring the event.

A day camp sponsored by Farm Safety 4 Just Kids is planned for the morning for youngsters between the ages of 8 and 15. Demonstrations include: Chemical Safety, Tractor and PTO, Gun Safety, First Aid, Electrical Safety, Fire Safety, Severe Weather Precautions, Animal Handling and ATV Cautions.

The Day Camp will begin at 8:30 a.m. and continue until 12:30 p.m. Participants will receive a camp T-shirt, Farm Safety 4 Just Kids information packet and a coupon for lunch. Participation is free and applications are now being accepted. Only the first one hundred youngsters who apply will be accepted. (Application can be found in this paper)

The safety program is being sponsored by Cargill Hybrid Seeds and Caprock Industry.

Entertainment will be provided throughout the afternoon. A stage will be set up on the corner of Locust and Main.

A street dance is set to begin at 8:00 p.m. with Clyde the DJ, providing the music.

If you would like a booth space you can contact Marilyn Anderson at 652-3328. Anyone who would like to appear as an entertainer is asked to call Judy Jackson at 652-3355.

Lockney schools boast of new library

LOCKNEY—Construction workers at Lockney High School have been busy this summer trying to complete the new library before the first day of school.

The major jobs are now finished but the finishing touches of the beautiful room won't be completed by the time the first students arrive.

Looking around the modern facility one can't help but become excited about the manner in which LISD chose to use their available space.

"This room started out as the first gymnasium for Lockney High School and Junior High," said Head High School Librarian Kay Williams.

"There was a balcony where you could sit and watch the games. I remember going to boxing matches here. Those events would always draw quite a crowd."

In the 50's, according to Williams, the room became an auditorium. "All the school plays and graduations were held here."

Dovie Davis, the librarian for the Junior High School, also remembered attending many events while growing up. "This room spans several generations," said Davis.

In the mid 50's the new Junior High School was added on to the High School. A new gym was built in the Junior High and the former auditorium was turned into a practice gym. "I hated that room as a practice gym," said Williams. "It was always too noisy, too hot or too cold."

The newly remodeled room will now house the High School and Junior High School Library. The library will now house approximately 12,000 books from both libraries.

Also available in the library will be a computer lab and computers available for research. The librarians will have their own office and teachers will have a workroom. The room also boasts a large magazine storage room (where the magazines will be kept for five years) and other large storage areas.

Both school libraries were very cramped for space and the librarians are now very happy with the room they will have to work with. The new library contains 6,600 square feet which will be quite a change from the combined total space of 2,300 square feet of the Jr. High and High School libraries.

"I feel like we went from zero to one hundred in storage space," said Williams.

"This library will be a great asset to the entire community," said Williams. "We are trying to prepare our students so they can walk into any college library and use it. We feel like this library will enable us to do that."

The plans for the library were a group effort. Although an architect was used he was helped in the process with a lot of input from the three principals, the librarians and School Superintendent Raymond Lusk.

The school also chose to utilize the old high school library space and have converted it into a newly remodeled counselor's room. The old junior high library will serve as a computer lab.

Council considers an increase in water and sewer rates at workshop

FLOYDADA -- Council members for the City of Floydada conducted a workshop on the 1995-96 operating budget at a special called session on Thursday, August 3. City manager Gary Brown briefed the council on the expected revenues for the coming year and on the projected expenditures.

He told council members that the city is estimating revenues at $2,731,529.00 and expenses at $2,876,696.00. This will result in a negative figure of $163,267.00 which will need to be made up through transfers from reserves, Floydada Power and Light, and the sanitation department income.

In light of the increased cost of providing water to Floydada residents due to lower rations from Lake Mackenzie and the increased use of city wells, Brown recommended increasing the basic water rate for users.

He asked the council to consider raising the basic residential rate from $14.00 for the first 2000 gallons of water used to $16.00. Commercial rates would also be increased if council approval is given.

Brown suggested increasing the basic sewer rate by one dollar. This would mean a new rate of $6.50 to $7.50, depending on the number of bathrooms in a home.

Brown also asked the council to approve an increase in landfill tipping fees. This increase would not affect local residents, but would raise the cost for others using the landfill would increase from $20.00 per ton to $25.00.

The proposed budget does not include purchase of any new vehicles, and only very limited capital improvements. No major projects are planned in the water, street or sewer departments. The only major expenditure in the proposed budget is a new computer system for the city offices.

The only action taken at the evening meeting was on a motion by Councilman Clar Schacht proposing a 1995 tax rate of 36 cents per $100 valuation and to set a date for a public hearing on the proposed budget for August 17, the regular council meeting day. The motion was seconded by Councilman Eric Cornelius and all voted in favor.

BY THE WAY

BY ALICE GILROY

Well the time has come. All you parents who lived through your first child's graduation now have to face up to the fact that in two weeks they will be moving off to college.

You are shopping and packing—shopping and packing—trying to keep your mind off the fact that your son or daughter is moving out.

You will no longer know what time they go to bed or come home. You won't know who they are driving off with or what they are driving in. You haven't had time to check the tires on their friend's cars or look under the hood.

You won't be able to run criminal history checks on their friends through the police department.

You will go crazy trying to decide if you should call and check on them and look like a pushy parent or sit by and wait for your thoughtless kid to remember you exist and give you a call.

You will be torn between wanting them to be well adjusted and stay in school and wanting them to be miserable and move back home.

You pray over and over that somewhere-sometime they listened to something you said and they will make the right decisions. Then when they make the wrong decisions you pray over and over they will trust you enough to come to you for help.

You may wonder how come I'm so wise about all this since my only son is just 9 years old.

I know about all these worries because I work with two women who are losing their first born to college this year. Duffy Hinkle's daughter, Pepper, is flying the coop and Jolene Cummings' son, Ken, is also leaving for college.

Duffy said the other day that she knows she is driving her husband, Bill, crazy. She said she is crying at the drop of a hat. She said she is losing her best friend and she is glad she is working because it helps her not to think about it all the time.

Duffy and Jolene, along with lots of other parents, are dealing with a lot of personal changes and upheavals in their homes right now.

I think there ought to be some kind of support group. It could be a secret organization and your kids wouldn't have to know you are attending. After all—the parents are always supposed to look like they have got it all "together".

During the support group seminars parents could learn things like: "How not to look excited that your son or daughter only came home to bring you six loads of laundry!"

Speaking of Duffy. She told me a very funny story about her son, Chad, the other day. I have to pass it on.

Duffy said that Chad was eating a cucumber the other day and saw a jar of pickle juice on the table. Since he loves to dip his food in things he took his cucumber and dipped it in the pickle juice.

Duffy said, "Chad's eyes lit up and he looked so surprised. He said, 'Mom—this tastes great together! Somebody should invent something with these two flavors! They would be famous!'"

Python missing in city Floydada Police Report

Floydada Police are advising citizens to be on the lookout for a "lost" Burmese Python. The "pet" snake was last seen on August 6 at 9:00 p.m. at 423 W. California.

The python is tan in color with green patches, 11 feet long and 8 inches across the width of its back.

August 6, police received a report of a burglary of a vehicle parked in Lowe's Pay-N-Save parking lot. Stolen from the car was a Sony CD player, one CD titled "Hootie and the Blowfish" and a green purse shaped like a back pack.

Also on August 6, at 10:44 p.m., police were called to Friends Convenience Store in reference to someone trying to pass a stolen check. The person left before police could arrive but was later found and after an investigation police determined the check was forged. The case will be presented to a Grand Jury, August 29.

At approximately 1:09 a.m., August 6, a woman complained to police about a man pointing a firearm at her stomach. The man was found and a 12 gauge shotgun and BB gun were found in the vehicle. According to Police Chief James Hale the investigation is continuing and possible charges of Deadly Conduct with a Firearm could be filed.

August 5, David Gonzales Rosales, 24, of Floydada, was picked up in the 500 block of W. Virginia and charged with Public Intoxication and Possession of a Firearm.

brought home a new, attractive, girlfriend. A beer party was in progress. His older brother, 21 or 22 years old, took his younger brother aside and teased him with the comment "Why don't you fix me up with your girl?" Whereupon the younger brother became enraged, went in the house, got his dagger, and killed his brother. His plea, or the plea of his attorneys, was "self defense."

The trial consumed days. There was the array of "blood spatter" experts, telling us more than we cared to know about how blood reacts when it "spatters." And the coroner, testifying about the wounds, and the tearful parents, lying under oath. They had lost one son, they clearly (and understandably) did not wish to lose another. We could not ask questions, we could not make notes, we could not look at the transcript when the trial was over and we began our deliberations. We had to rely entirely on our memory of who said what. The side that made the best, or most lasting "impression", had a leg up. The jury was "hung" for two days. On the jury was a long haired, emaciated-looking hippie, who couldn't make up his mind, but who clearly wanted a verdict of innocent. He accepted the fact that the defendant had killed his brother, but he could not bring himself to vote "guilty." He kept muttering "This is heavy man, this is heavy." Over and over.

Fortunately, (or unfortunately, depending on how one looks at it) on the jury there were two blacks. They were the only ones the hippie would listen to. (He surely would not listen to me.) He somehow felt a closeness to them. They convinced him to vote "guilty," but the argument they used was entirely unrelated to the guilt or innocence of the individual on trial. The black female used the argument, "Look, I know these people. They are always to quick to turn to the knife. They are too quick to turn to violence when their manhood is questioned." It was the "these people" argument that bothered me. But it worked. The verdict, after about three days, was guilty of murder. I suspect he is now walking the streets.

The point being that all the testimony about blood spatters, about the crime scene, the ins and outs of legal maneuvering in the courtroom had little to do with the final verdict. The jury reached its verdict not because of what went on in court, but despite it. And it was very expensive. At $12 per day, even the jurors got a piece of the action. The "spatter experts," we suspect got considerably more.

If we were writing new rules governing criminal trials in Texas, we would require judges to take a more active part in the proceedings, we would allow jurors to pose questions, we would allow them to make notes to refresh their memories, we would provide them with a transcript of the proceedings, if they wished it. We would not require that juries be made up of only those who have been asleep for the past year or so. And we would not lock them up like common criminals while the defendant is allowed to make millions. It's kinda crazy.

Lockney Council accepts cable franchise

By Neta Marble
LOCKNEY—The Lockney City Council met Tuesday, August 8 in regular session and discussed a variety of items on the agenda, including the tax rate and transfer of the cable service franchise.

Council members discussed the tax rates that have been presented to them by the Floyd County Appraisal office. Last years rate was set at .39519. The council was informed that if they lower the rate to .3733 they will take in approximately the same amount of money they received last year. A three percent increase will bring the rate to .3845.

The increase in revenue available to the city is due to the reappraisal of property in the county by the Floyd County Appraisal District

Council discussed the homestead exemptions and the exemptions for those over the age of 65 which the citizens will be able to claim. Those present agreed that although this will not be a large amount of revenue it will be a help to those property owners who qualify.

The council opted to wait until the budget is nearer completion and see how close they were to last years budget before proposing a tax rate. They were in agreement they should not ask for more money than was needed to run the city.

Paul Lyles, city attorney, reported he had gone over the franchise transfer agreement presented by Classic Cable and had made a change in the agreement. The change he made stated the buyer (Classic) may not transfer the Lockney franchise to a subsidiary of Classic or another company without the consent of the Lockney City Council.

He also stated that the current franchise would end in December, 1995 and at that time Classic Cable could present a new franchise agreement to the city.

A motion to accept the franchise change was made by J. D. Copeland and the second by Tina Graves. All voted for.

After a brief discussion on repairs for the swimming pool it was decided that minor repairs could be made with money currently budgeted for the swimming pool. A discussion would be held at a later date concerning a major renovation of the facility.

After a motion by Bil Anderson and a second by J. D. Copeland, the council voted to accept a bid made by Joe Bennett for the purchase of a lot 60' X 120' out of a two acre track in Block SC. Bennett is planning to move a house onto the property.

Dan Smith was appointed as director for the Floyd County Appraisal District. He will fill a two year term effective January 1, 1996.

Jamie Johnson, consulting engineer for Lockney, presented a bid for the paving on Apogee Drive. He estimated the bid at between $13,900.00 and $17,000.00. Although Johnson submitted the bid there was no record of what company the bid was coming from. The council was concerned because the bid was not presented by a specific paving company. Lyles suggested that they contact Johnson and ask him what company was making the bid.

The council agreed that because houses are being constructed on the street at the present time that if the company meets the cities paving requirements and if the bid was under $15,000.00 they would accept the contract.

The paving contracts are made by the city to meet their specifications and then are paid for by the homeowners. At the present time there are three homes under construction, or to be constructed, on this street.

The motion to accept the paving contract if specifications are met was made by J. D. Copeland and the second was made by Tina Graves. All voted for.

Charlotte Hooten, city secretary, reported that the compressor has gone out on the unit that cools the office and break room of the fire department. The council agreed to repair the unit.

Marr reported he had received an estimate for caps for the city employees from England Wholesale in Plainview. England's cost for four dozen caps in red with the city logo in white and black came to $210.00. Bil Anderson made the motion and J. D. Copeland the second to purchase the caps for the employees. All voted for.

Nick Long, president of the Floyd County Progressive Foundation, asked the Lockney Council to consider helping to fund the organization until they have assurance of foundation money for a multi-purpose building. He reports that several foundations are interested in helping with the building project and that proposals to the foundations are being written.

Long proposed that citizens who would like to help could volunteer to round off their utility bills and that money collected would be used by the county organization in their efforts to secure the needed grants.

Lyle told the council he did not think the city could collect money in this manner but that he would check into its legality.

The council voted to reduce the size of the alley behind lots 12-16, Block 2 of the Town and Country addition, from thirty feet to twenty feet. The alley lies along Shurbet Street and according to Marr twenty feet will be adequate for the trash trucks. The request was made by Jim Bob Martin. The motion was made by J.D. Copeland and the second by Tina Graves.

Hooten reported that the insurance for city employees had dropped by $1,600.00 for the year.

Marr asked the aldermen to continue to think about their department needs and to tell Hooten what needs to be included in the budget. A workshop will be held later.

At the beginning of the meeting, Lyle read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were approved as read. Aldermen reviewed the current bills and they were approved for payment. They also reviewed the financial statement.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Gary Marr, Aldermen, J.D. Copeland, Tina Graves, Richard Zavala, and Bil Anderson; City Attorney, Paul Lyles, City Secretary, Charlotte Hooten, and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter.

LAYING A SOLID FOUNDATION--Crews have stayed busy throughout the summer getting the ground work ready for the pouring of the foundation of the new Floydada High School gym. The work seems slow but it won't be long before people driving by will be able to see the progress being made above ground.

Lockney Council accepts cable franchise

By Neta Marble
LOCKNEY—The Lockney City Council met Tuesday, August 8 in regular session and discussed a variety of items on the agenda, including the tax rate and transfer of the cable service franchise.

Council members discussed the tax rates that have been presented to them by the Floyd County Appraisal office. Last year's rate was set at .39519. The council was informed that if they lower the rate to .3733 they will take in approximately the same amount of money they received last year. A three percent increase will bring the rate to .3845.

The increase in revenue available to the city is due to the reappraisal of property in the county by the Floyd County Appraisal District.

Council discussed the homestead exemptions and the exemptions for those over the age of 65 which the citizens will be able to claim. Those present agreed that although this will not be a large amount of revenue it will be a help to those property owners who qualify.

The council opted to wait until the budget is nearer completion and see how close they were to last year's budget before proposing a tax rate. They were in agreement they should not ask for more money than was needed to run the city.

Paul Lyles, city attorney, reported he had gone over the franchise transfer agreement presented by Classic Cable and had made a change in the agreement. The change he made stated the buyer (Classic) may not transfer the Lockney franchise to a subsidiary of Classic or another company without the consent of the Lockney City Council.

He also stated that the current franchise would end in December, 1995 and at that time Classic Cable could present a new franchise agreement to the city.

A motion to accept the franchise change was made by J. D. Copeland and the second by Tina Graves. All voted for.

After a brief discussion on repairs for the swimming pool it was decided that minor repairs could be made with money currently budgeted for the swimming pool. A discussion would be held at a later date concerning a major renovation of the facility.

After a motion by Bill Anderson and a second by J. D. Copeland, the council voted to accept a bid made by Joe Bennett for the purchase of a lot 60' X 120' out of a two acre track in Block SC. Bennett is planning to move a house onto the property.

Dan Smith was appointed as director for the Floyd County Appraisal District. He will fill a two year term effective January 1, 1996.

Jamie Johnson, consulting engineer for Lockney, presented a bid for the paving on Apogee Drive. He estimated the bid at between $13,900.00 and $17,000.00. Although Johnson submitted the bid there was no record of what company the bid was coming from. The council was concerned because the bid was not presented by a specific paving company. Lyles suggested that they contact Johnson and ask him what company was making the bid.

The council agreed that because houses are being constructed on the street at the present time that if the company meets the cities paving requirements and if the bid was under $15,000.00 they would accept the contract.

The paving contracts are made by the city to meet their specifications and then are paid for by the homeowners. At the present time there are three homes under construction, or to be constructed, on this street.

The motion to accept the paving contract if specifications are met was made by J. D. Copeland and the second was made by Tina Graves. All voted for.

Charlotte Hooten, city secretary, reported that the compressor has gone out on the unit that cools the office and break room of the fire department. The council agreed to repair the unit.

Marr reported he had received an estimate for caps for the city employees from England Wholesale in Plainview. England's cost for four dozen caps in red with the city logo in white and black came to $210.00. Bill Anderson made the motion and J. D. Copeland the second to purchase the caps for the employees. All voted for.

Nick Long, president of the Floyd County Progressive Foundation, asked the Lockney Council to consider helping to fund the organization until they have assurance of foundation money for a multi-purpose building. He reports that several foundations are interested in helping with the building project and that proposals to the foundations are being written.

Long proposed that citizens who would like to help could volunteer to round off their utility bills and that money collected would be used by the county organization in their efforts to secure the needed grants.

Lyle told the council he did not think the city could collect money in this manner but that he would check into its legality.

The council voted to reduce the size of the alley behind lots 12-16, Block 2 of the Town and Country addition, from thirty feet to twenty feet. The alley lies along Shurbet Street and according to Marr twenty feet will be adequate for the trash trucks. The request was made by Jim Bob Martin. The motion was made by J.D. Copeland and the second by Tina Graves.

Hooten reported that the insurance for city employees had dropped by $1,600.00 for the year.

Marr asked the aldermen to continue to think about their department needs and to tell Hooten what needs to be included in the budget. A workshop will be held later.

At the beginning of the meeting, Lyle read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were approved as read. Aldermen reviewed the current bills and they were approved for payment. They also reviewed the financial statement.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Gary Marr, Aldermen, J.D. Copeland, Tina Graves, Richard Zavala, and Bill Anderson; City Attorney, Paul Lyles, City Secretary, Charlotte Hooten, and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter.

LAYING A SOLID FOUNDATION--Crews have stayed busy throughout the summer getting the ground work ready for the pouring of the foundation of the new Floydada High School gym. The work seems slow but it won't be long before people driving by will be able to see the progress being made above ground.

Hollis Payne recently spent several days visiting his sister, Alyne Rettig and other relatives around the Ft. Worth area. Jo Payne and her sister Jane Englert of Memphis, Tennessee spent several days in Hawaii.

Wednesday, a week ago, at 2:46 a.m. I hit the floor running to the kitchen area, thinking the smoke alarm was going off. When I found that was not the case, I realized the tornado siren was going off. No wind, no rain. What was going on? Some of my friends said they headed for their cellar, some headed for their closet and some went outside. The alarm lasted over 15 minutes. I had a very hard time going back to sleep. Everyone I talked to said they had the same problem. At least we know the siren works.

Faye and William Bertrand have recently returned from a fishing and sight-seeing trip to Colorado. Lorene Newberry of Floydada, her son Dale of Lamesa, Fay and William's son, Ronald of Lubbock and Charlene and Bob Alldredge of Floydada all met the Bertrands at Lake City and spent several days fishing.

W.B. (Dub) and Margaret Daniels' daughter, Ilene and her husband Byron Kendrick of Pottsboro, have been here recently visiting the Kendricks. Ilene and Byron, before coming here, had spent a week in Albuquerque, N.M. sight-seeing and visiting friends.

Glenn Jarnagin's grandson, Bryan Jarnagin of Goodfellow Air Base in San Angelo spent last weekend here. Gladys Widener had visitors last week. They were her daughter, Ann Brewer and Ann's son, Wayne Chowning and his daughter Kendra, all of Sweetwater. On Sunday they all attended the Widener family reunion held at Plainview with 44 in attendance.

Eula Mae Cates had cataract eye surgery, Monday, Aug. 7. We pray that it was successful and she will have good vision again.

Irene King took her daughter Jimmy Jo, to San Antonio for her yearly checkup. She got a very good report.

Clarence and Opal Guffee's daughter, Sonja Ragsdale of Stratford, and grandson, Reid Ragsdale of Canyon, were here a few days last week.

This past weekend the West-Towry family reunion took place at the center.

I understand the Owens family reunion is to take place August 19 at the country club.

Britt Britton has been moved from the hospital to the Floydada Nursing Home.

We have so many who are on treatment for their illness. Some are doing better and others are still having a hard time. We need to pray for these and for one another.

Salazar and Young united in marriage

Samantha Salazar and John David Young were united in marriage Saturday, July 14 at St John's Catholic Church in San Marcos, Texas.

The Reverend Ignacio A. Blanco officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Salazar of Floydada, and the groom is the son of retired Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Jerry Crawford, also of Floydada.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of satin and organza. The gown featured a sweetheart neckline and ruffled sleeves that fell into points at the wrists. The bodice and sleeves were adorned with tiny pearls and sequins.

The skirt and detachable train were covered with rows of ruffles. The bride's fingertip, double-tiered veil of silk illusion fell from a cluster of satin flowers accented with tiny pearls and sequins.

She carried a cascading bouquet of silk roses in white, purple, and teal accented with sprigs of sequins and pearls. For something old, entwined in her bouquet was a wedding veil of white roses and pearl scallops worn by the groom's mother on her wedding day. Something new was her wedding dress. Pearl earrings, borrowed from the groom's mother, and a blue garter completed the ensemble.

Dalia Arvizu of Floydada, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a dress of cream satin accented with pearls and sequins on the bodice, and a matching headpiece.

Bridesmaids were Mary Salazar of Floydada and Valerie Palacio of San Marcos, both cousins of the bride; and friends, Naomi Lopez of Houston and Kristi Bennett of Floydada.

Bridesmaids wore satin dresses of teal and white, and of purple and white, trimmed with satin roses on the sleeves. They carried bouquets of teal, purple, and white silk flowers with yellow accents.

MRS. JOHN DAVID YOUNG

Corey Peel of Floydada served as best man. Groomsmen were Steven Crawford of Lubbock, brother of the groom; Coleman (Bud) Nelson Jr. of Del Rio, cousin of the groom; and friends, Craig Noack of San Antonio and Damon Love of Montgomery, Alabama.

Roxanna Delgado of San Marcos, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white satin dress with teal roses on the sleeves and carried a white basket filled with rose petals. Jeremy Machado of San Marcos, also a cousin, carried the wedding rings on a white satin pillow covered with

Grandmothers of the bride, Rosa Delgado and Juanita Salazar of San Marcos, and the groom's great aunt, Irene Maranto of Shreveport, Louisiana, were seated immediately before the noon ceremony.

Musical selections, performed by guitarist and vocalist Sergio Gamez and vocalist Esther Garza, included Wind Beneath My Wings, Through the Eyes of Love, and The Lord's Prayer. Scripture readings were performed by bridesmaids Mary Salazar and Naomi Lopez.

Padrinos presenting traditional gifts to the bridal couple were Mr. and Mrs.

John Sheffield of Shreveport, Louisiana, uncle and aunt of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Juan Delgado and Mr. and Mrs. Adolfo Delgado of San Marcos, uncles and aunts of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Machado of San Marcos, cousins of the bride.

The ceremony was followed by a dinner reception and dance at the American Legion Hall. The bride's table featured a three-tiered white wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom backed by a glass heart with wedding bells and love birds. Staircases cascaded from the raised bottom tier of the cake to two smaller cakes flanking a miniature water fountain trimmed with greenery.

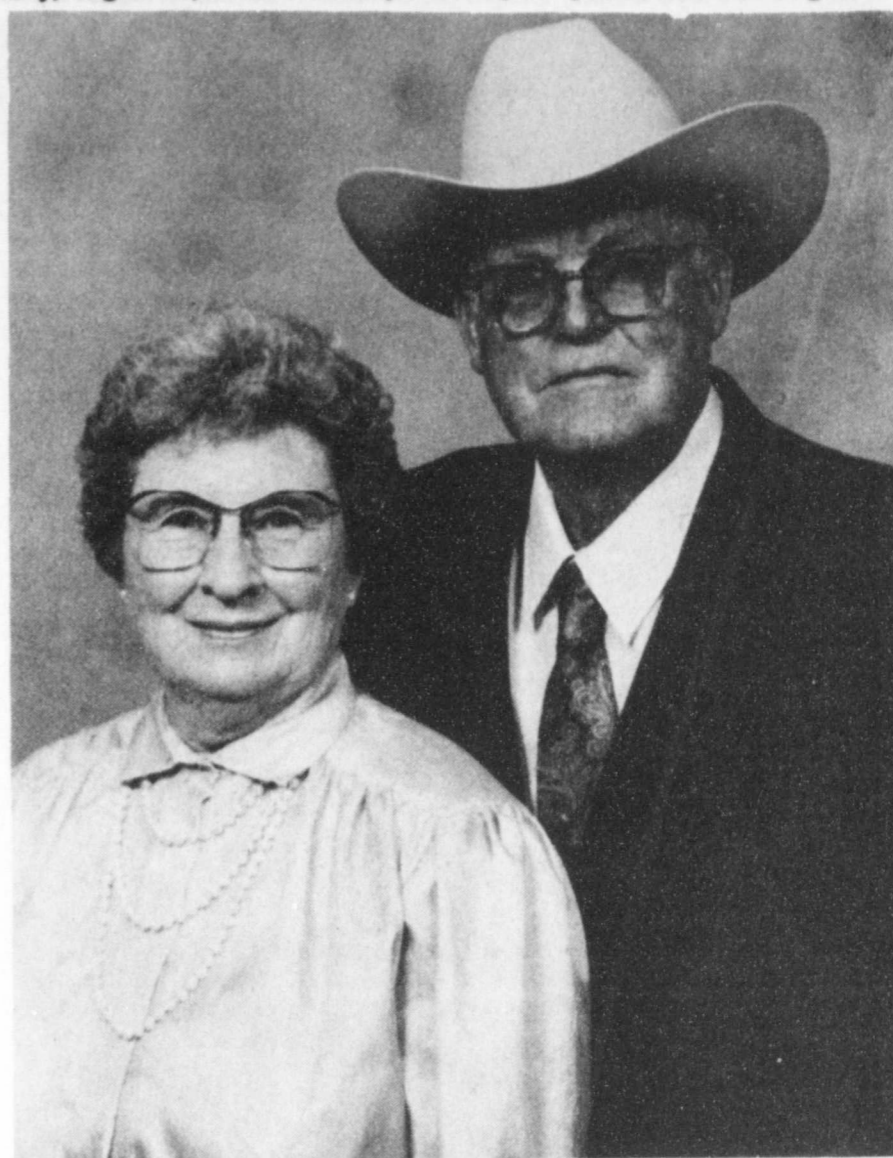

At the groom's table, a chocolate cake, shaped and decorated as an ambulance, was trimmed with miniature first-aid items. Punch was served in a silver punch bowl on the groom's table by members of the wedding party.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio and Dallas, the couple is making their home in Amarillo where the groom attends Amarillo College, and the bride is a junior at West Texas A & M at Canyon.

Rehearsal Dinner
Jerry and Carlyn Crawford, parents of the groom, hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Randolph Air Force Base Officer's Club in San Antonio.

LOCKNEY SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS

BY Gladys Ragle

We were 54 strong at our Thursday, August 3 meeting and everyone seemed to be in good spirits, so we enjoyed a good meal together and visiting. Quite a few stayed for games afterward.

We are still having a few late ones coming in and paying their dues, so if you have not done so this is your last reminder to pay them.

Betty McPherson of Silvertown will be with us on Thursday night, August 10 and give us some entertainment. She plays the piano and keyboard. Everyone should come out and give her a good audience. I'm sure we will all enjoy her.

Bernice Reynolds is still in the Therapy Center in Amarillo, but seems a little better at this time.

Here is a little poem I thought all of us could enjoy:

Patience

Let us, then be up and going,
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait.
"Weekly Words of Wisdom" - Happiness is as a butterfly, which, when pursued, is always beyond our grasp, but, which, if you will sit down quietly, may alight upon you.

MENU

Monday, August 14: Chicken strips, vegetables, salad, dessert
Tuesday, August 15: Spaghetti, vegetables, salad, dessert
Wednesday, August 16: Enchiladas, vegetables, salad, dessert
Thursday, August 17: Polish sausage, vegetables, salad, dessert
Friday, August 18: Chicken fried steak, vegetables, salad, dessert
Meals served with rolls and tea or coffee.
Menu is subject to change.

Floydada City Councilmen attend training session

FLOYDADA -- Two members of the Floydada City Council attended the 30th annual Institute for Mayors, Council members and Commissioners held July 27-31 in Austin. Representing Floydada were Albert Hill, council member from District 1 and Dale Lawson, council member from District 2.

The four day meeting provided an opportunity for municipal officials to attend workshops addressing current municipal issues. In addition, the institute offered a chance for city officials to visit with other elected officials from across Texas and learn how other cities are coping with the challenges faced by municipal government today.

During the meeting, attendees were offered a number of sessions concerning economic development strategies, law enforcement, infrastructure planning and improvement, and financial forecasting. In addition, round table discussion groups were held to allow for an informal exchange of information among municipal officials from cities of similar size.

Greg Lashutka, Mayor of Columbus, Ohio, who serves as First Vice President of the National League of Cities, addressed the delegates at the Friday opening general session. Lashutka gave an insider's perspective on the new congress and it's effect on Texas cities as he spoke concerning Where Things Stand For Cities In Washington.

Hattie Hill-Stokes, CEO of International Productivity Institute in Dallas, enlightened all present at the Saturday luncheon as she spoke on How to Avoid Being Road Kill on the Politically Correct Highway.

Nearly 600 elected officials attended the meeting, which was sponsored by the Association of Mayors, Council members, and Commissioners, an affiliate of the Texas Municipal League. The League is a voluntary association of over 1000 Texas cities. Floydada is a member of the Texas Municipal League.

Also attending from Floydada were city employee Chris McGowen and Councilman Hill's wife Patricia.

Hill indicated that an 83rd annual conference and exhibition for city officials is scheduled for October in Dallas. He said he would be encouraging all Floydada city council members to attend, providing a good representation from Floydada.

Better Business Bureau Report

By Nan Campbell, President

Your business may be solicited to place an ad in a charity's newspaper, journal or magazine. Remember to verify the organization selling the ad space. The publication could be published by a for-profit company and not a bonafide charity.

Call the BBB at 763-0459 or (800)687-7890 for a reliability report. Do not hesitate to ask for the same information you would want to consider before deciding upon any ad placement. How many copies of the publication will be printed? Who receives it? Does the publication cost anything? How often is it printed? What is the estimated publication date? Will it be distributed to the number and kinds of people your business wants to reach?

Ask if they have hired a promoter to produce the publication. If you receive an invoice for an ad without having placed an order, keep in mind there are laws and regulations against this kind of deception.

Most retail establishments today use electronic scanner technology to ring up sales. When an item is scanned, the computer decodes the Universal Product Code, sending the price and other product information to the register. At the same time, the price is shown on the display screen and a receipt is printed for the consumer. But, is the scanned price always right?

It is estimated that scanner errors can overcharge consumers millions of dollars each year. Sometimes there are inconsistencies between the advertised or posted prices and prices stored in the computer. Your BBB suggests you watch the display screen for prices. If you think you are overcharged, speak up. Ask about the store's policy on pricing errors. Check your receipt before you walk away. If you notice a pattern of errors, talk to the customer service department or store manager. And, report recurring problems to your BBB or Attorney General's office.

CITY OF FLOYDADA

BY HULON CARTHIEL, MAYOR

8-10-95 AND 8-24-95

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The City of Floydada will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1994 by 16.35 percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on August 17, 1995 at 7:30 p.m. at Floydada City Hall.

FOR the proposal: Dale Lawson, Albert Hill, Clar Schacht, Leroy Burns, Wayne Tipton, and Eric Cornelius

AGAINST the proposal: None
PRESENT and not voting: None
ABSENT: None

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the .3438 tax rate that the unit published on July 13, 1995. The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average home value	$19,180	$24,185
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	0	0
Average Taxable Value	$19,180	$24,185
Tax Rate	.4000 / $100	.3600 / $100 (proposed)
Tax	$76.72	$87.07 (proposed)

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would INCREASE by $10.35 or 13.49 percent compared with last year's taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would DECREASE by $0.04 per $100 of taxable value or 10 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

COUNTY CORNER...By Jim Bob Reynolds, CEA-AG

Research team combats resistant bugs

Got an itch? Just as mosquitoes have bothered people for generations, a pesky type of greenbug has been a nuisance since 1882 on wheat and 1968 on sorghum.

Dr. Thomas Archer, a professor of entomology at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock, heads a team which has developed a method to detect resistance of greenbugs to insecticides and management tactics to combat insecticide resistance on sorghum and wheat.

Greenbugs are aphids that feed on wheat and sorghum. The aphid sucks the nutrients and liquids from the plants. The saliva used for feeding by the aphid is toxic to the plant, just like a mosquito's saliva causes us to scratch a mosquito bite. Greenbugs can severely reduce the yield of a plant, or even kill it.

Insecticide resistant greenbugs were first detected in Kansas in 1990, and have since spread into the Texas Panhandle, as far as Plainview. They can also be found in eastern New Mexico and eastern Colorado.

The greenbug has developed resistance to most insecticides registered for its use, particularly the organophosphate insecticides, Archer noted.

"There are limited options other than insecticides for controlling greenbugs," said Archer. "You can use resistant plants, but they are only resistant to greenbugs, so you still need chemicals to back them up. Beneficial insects such as parasites and predators can control aphids, but they are not totally dependable.

Archer has used a multi-tiered approach towards identifying the resistant greenbugs, developing techniques for controlling the resistant insects, and a method to use in the field to determine if a population is resistant or susceptible.

The first step was to find the pesticide dosage needed to kill the insects in the laboratory. Greenbugs were placed in a vial treated with insecticides, and then Archer determined the number that had died. This was done with susceptible and resistant aphids.

The question the Experiment Station scientists wanted to answer was how to increase the effectiveness of the insecticides. Their approach was to mix the insecticide with another chemical that would block resistance. A greenbug's body can adjust to one insecticide, and it grows resistant to that insecticide. By mixing two insecticides together, you are giving a greenbug's body two toxins to deal with, and it can't handle it.

Two different insecticide combinations were used by Archer and his crew, Lorsban plus Furadan, and Lorsban plus Prentox. Lorsban and Furadan are individual insecticides that kill greenbugs. Prentox is a synergist, which has no insecticidal activities of its own, but increases the efficiency of the insecticide. These combined insecticides stayed effective longer than they would have if each was sprayed by itself. Lorsban plus Furadan provided peak control for 14 days, and Lorsban plus Prentox provided peak control for seven days.

When combining chemicals you must be careful to solve the insecticide resistance problem and not aggravate it, Archer cautioned. Therefore, farmers should not arbitrarily mix chemicals, but only use proven mixtures determined by research. The price of mixtures depends on the chemicals mixed. Chemicals are being mixed at lower rate than normal rates, but an application that would normally cost $8 to $10 per acre for a single insecticide will cost $10 to $15 per acre.

Gel-electrophoresis has been used to detect resistant greenbugs by looking at the genes of a greenbug to determine if it is resistant or not. This system is highly accurate and expensive. It also takes from two weeks to two months to receive the results. Ed Bynum Jr., a research associate with Archer, has come up with a way to determine in about two hours if a field has greenbug resistance. He uses a process called discriminating dose. Archer and Bynum placed different rates of insecticides in petri dishes, and sent these dishes to different fields with personnel of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Forty-three field tests were tested in 1994. If most or all of the aphids contacting the dish were dead the field was considered susceptible. If 50 percent or more of the aphids were alive the field was considered resistant to the insecticide. Greenbugs from 22 field tests were sent to Kansas for gel-electrophoresis. Of the 22 samples sent, 21 were found to have the same results as the discriminatory dose predicted, which proves the accuracy of the discriminating dose method.

"We will be evaluating insecticide resistance management again in 1995," said Archer. "And with a discriminating dose to tell a person whether or not they have a resistant or susceptible population, a quicker turnaround time, the ability to sample more parts of a field at a cheaper price, and the mixtures to control the resistant populations, we now have a handle on managing insecticide resistant greenbugs in both wheat and sorghum," he said.

The association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members. These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American Angus Association. Most of these registered Angus are used by the U.S. farmers and ranchers who raise high quality beef for U.S. consumption.

The American Angus Association, with over 29,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on over 12 million registered Angus.

Ordinary people having impact on government policy

By Mark McCormick, President
Ordinary people are having an impact on the course of the state the nation, from farm and fiscal policy to regulatory issues, according to Mark McCormick of Floyd County Farm Bureau, Floyd County Farm Bureau President.

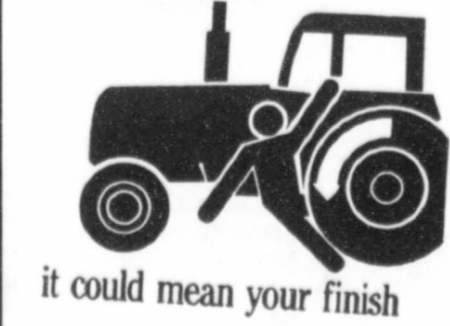

"The key is that our efforts are grassroots, providing a forum and a vehicle for individual people and families to put forward their ideas and concerns in a unified voice to get the attention of elected officials," says McCormick, noting that the farm organization seeks input from its members at the local level, through its policy development activities and a county convention where members can discuss and vote on resolutions.

Those resolutions adopted at the county level have a chance to drive the organization's state and national agenda, he adds.

The county Farm Bureau leader attributes a number of recent successes in the state legislature to member involvement. One particular victory McCormick cites is the passage of a state law that offers protection to landowners in the event of a state government regulation or action that would devalue private property or interfere with its use.

"Passage of the property rights legislation was our number one priority for 1995, and we saw it accomplished. Farmers, ranchers and others came through loud and clear with the message that they should not suffer the loss of their land without compensations. Texas Farm Bureau amplified that message to gain public support and carried it to Austin where legislators agreed," McCormick points out.

BYPASS STARTING...

A very large wasp, the "cicada killer," has made its appearance on the South Plains. This wasp is the largest in our area, being 1 1/2 inches in length.

Fortunately, this wasp is much more interested in stinging cicadas than people. They often can be seen flying and carrying paralyzed cicadas back to their nests in the ground.

The wasps excavate a tunnel into the soil at an angle for a distance up to three feet. The main tunnel ends in a number of branches and cells. The burrow may be dug during the day or night. The excavation will often result in a large mound of dirt. The burrow entrances are left open during provisioning of the nest and may never be closed except when the wasps' entire job is completed.

Depending upon their size, from one to four cicadas are provisioned in each underground cell. The female lays an egg on the last cicada she places in the cell. As many as four females may provision a single nest simultaneously although only one of them made the initial excavation.

The wasp larva which hatches from the egg has a cicada meal waiting. After consuming the cicadas provisioned in the cell, the wasp larva remains underground until the following July when the adult wasps emerges again to repeat the cycle.

Cicada killers are not aggressive and seldom attack humans. The males are not capable of stinging. Only the females can sting.

Cicada killers are considered beneficial insects because they prey on cicadas. However, they can sometimes be present in sufficient number becoming a nuisance. For control you may use the outdoor aerosol sprays containing pyrethrum or dust the nest entrance with Sevin.

Richard Bennett joins American Angus Association

LOCKNEY—Richard Bennett of Lockney is a new member of the American Livestock Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vice president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri.

The American Angus Association, with over 29,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on over 12 million registered Angus.

The association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members. These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American Angus Association. Most of these registered Angus are used by the U.S. farmers and ranchers who raise high quality beef for U.S. consumption.
