Stages of development for the bald eagle

Recent sightings of bald eagles in Floyd County have led to confusion over the markings of the bird. The classic white markings of the adult bald eagle are not obtained until the bird reaches the age of 5. Very often people will mistake an immature bald eagle with a golden eagle because a young bald eagle does not have a pure white head or white tail. Immature bald eagles are brown except for whitish wing linings and, usually, whitish blotches on underparts. The head and tail gradually whiten with each molt as birds reach adulthood. The golden eagle also has feathers on his legs which taper down to the talons.

iar sight in Floyd County, however Collins. you should look again--it just might be a bald eagle circling above you.

Recent discoveries of the National Bird in this county have brought a lot of attention to the area and shocked many people who believed the bird of prey was usually found living in high mountainous areas.

The local game warden, Mark Collins, believes he is very fortunate to have been a part of the recovery of two injured bald eagles.

"Since Christmas there have been two eagles picked up and I've seen several more healthy eagles flying in the same general area," said Collins.

According to Collins, the first eagle was picked up by Craig Edwards on a ranch off of the Caprock. "The bird was in an advanced weakened state," said Collins. "It had severe puncture injuries--probably received after fighting with another raptor (bird of prey). The bird was already extremely "Edwards called me about his find and I took the bird to the South Plains Rehabilitation Center in Lubbock. They already had the equivalent of an emergency room all set up and ready for the eagle. It lived one day and then

Approximately three weeks later Collins received a call concerning another eagle. This one was found by Larry Williams in a wheat pasture on top of the Caprock and a few miles southwest of the South Plains com-

"Williams spotted the bird lying in the field and so he picked it up and put it in his tool box," said Collins. It was in a state of shock--which was very lucky for Mr. Williams. Eagles are extremely vicious. If it had not been in a stunned state, or had come out of shock, Mr. Williams could have suffered serious injury had the eagle grabbed him."

According to Collins, Williams thought the bird was a Golden Eagle--because it did not have the classic white head and white band on his tail. "Immature bald eagles do not have the Hawks have always been a famil- classic white markings on them," said

Williams transported the eagle home to his wife and she put the bird in a rabbit cage and covered it with a blanket. No one expected the bird to live. Collins was called that night and arrived first thing in the morning.

"I couldn't believe it when they told me how they got the bird home and that they were able to put the bird inside the cage."

"Mrs. Williams told me she thought the bird was probably near death because it was so quiet and limp. When I took the blanket off the cage she couldn't believe it was the same bird. The eagle went crazy trying to get to me and get out of the cage. You would have thought they had a jaguar in the cage. He had made a miraculous recovery and was in a very foul mood," laughed Collins.

Collins had to make a wire handle to lift up the cage to keep the eagle's talons and beak from ripping his hands apart.

This eagle was also taken to the rehabilitation center in Lubbock and is very much alive and very healthy.

"The eagle has a 6 1/2 foot wing span and it took us about 15 minutes just to get him out of the cage," said Collins.

"The eagle was thoroughly examined and all they found was evidence of a slight concussion," said Collins.

"I assume the eagle was probably involved in a fight with a hawk--because a dead and partially eaten hawk was found nearby. When the birds fight in the air they lock talons and can't continue to fly. Very often they come crashing to the ground and I believe this is probably what happened in this case.'

The eagle is now being pampered and getting ready for his release. "He was being exercised within 2-3 days after being brought to the center," said Collins. "They put the eagle on a tether line about 150 feet long. It only takes 2-3 flaps of the eagle's wings and she is at the end of that line."

Plans are now being made to release the eagle in Floyd County in approximately 2 weeks.

"A lot of game wardens could go an entire career and never pick up a Bald Eagle," said Collins. "It is very unusual to find any and now there have been two found in the same gen-

"The rehabilitation center had never received a Bald Eagle and now they've gotten two in a short period of time. When you think about the area the eagles cover--what are the odds of not only two crashing in the same area--but of them being found?"

Since the two eagles have been found in Floyd County, Collins has seen five other healthy eagles. Three of them were full grown with the white head and white tail band.

"The eagles follow waterfowl north and south," said Collins. "In other parts of the state the draw is waterfowl and fish."

According to Collins, a sizeable portion of eagle mortality is lead poisoning. "Lead shot was outlawed because of the effect it has on birds of prey," said Collins. "An eagle only has to ingest a small portion of lead shot to kill it. Even though the lead is outlawed the ducks still eat shot which has been laying in lake bottoms for many years. The eagle kills the duck which has eaten the lead and then the eagle gets sick. If the eagle is found in time they can be saved."

Because it is the National Bird, penalties associated with killing an eagle, or even possessing any part of an eagle (or any bird of prey), are very harsh. "It doesn't matter whether you killed it or not--you aren't supposed to have any part of it," said Collins.

"It is lucky that the two residents who found these eagles did the responsible thing and called me. However I would urge anyone else who may find one to use extreme caution. The birds are very dangerous. Call the Sheriff's office or call me at home-whether the bird is alive or dead.

"I enjoyed having the opportunity to be a part of finding these eagles,' said Collins. "I consider it a privilege to work with some of God's most magnificent creatures."

FLOYDADA--The "True Love commitment to God, themselves, Waits" campaign, a part of church youth programs since 1993, is coming to Floydada campuses.

Area churches are promoting the program and are encouraging their youth (7th-12th grade) to sign the "True Love Wait" pledge cards which will be displayed at the Floydada Junior High and High School campuses on Thursday, February 13th.

According to Marlon Prichard, youth director for the First Baptist Church in Floydada, "This public display is to help teenagers stick with their commitment to stay sexually pure until marriage and to encourage others to become involved in abstaining from sex until marriage."

strange animal encounters By Alice Gilroy

Game warden remembers

Floyd County's local game warden, Mark Collins, has had a variety of strange encounters with animals during his 9 year career.

Serving as the game warden of Floyd, Hale, and surrounding counties, Collins is usually kept busy with deer, waterfowl, pheasants, birds of prey, fur bearing animals (skunks, raccoons and possums) and snakes.

Most recently he has enjoyed being part of the recovery of two injured Bald Eagles found in Floyd County.

Besides the usual assortment of animals on the South Plains, Collins says one of the more unusual species he has run across in Floyd County was an Elk. "It wandered up here from New Mexico," said Collins. "I doubt it was bugling up any cows while he was here.

Collins also remembers that Dalhart was home for a Wyoming moose for awhile and a New Mexico black bear was seen on Canadian's river bottom.

ways work alone and are always spread very thin, they learn very quickly to improvise in any given situation.

"Everybody we deal with has something on their person they can hurt us with," said Collins. "Game wardens know they'll obviously be faced with guns because the people they are dealing with are shooting at something. You just hope they don't use the guns on you."

Not only do game wardens deal with dangerous people, they also have to deal with dangerous or frightened animals.

"There are no hard and fast rules when dealing with wildlife," said Collins. "Animals don't play by rules, so we learn to improvise. My primary concern is always to keep myself safe, and second, to keep those around me safe, and third, to keep the animal

Collins has learned the hard way that you can't "out-quick" an animal. "Even a sick animal can out move you," said Collins.

He learned one of these lesson while nursing an injured red-tailed hawk back to health. "I thought he had become familiar with me over the course of a few days," said Collins. "I was feeding him and let my guard down. When I dropped him back down into his tall box he literally bounced off the bottom of the box and straight up onto my hand.'

The hawk's talons pierced through Collins hand "like an ice-pick."

Very often Collin's animal encounters draw crowds of curious on-look-

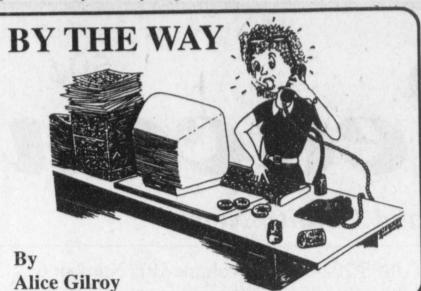

While working in Woodville, Texas, Collins encountered a beautiful spike buck deer. What was unusual about the encounter was the location of the deer.

"You've heard about the 'bull in the china shop'--well this was the same version except it was a deer," said

According to Collins there was a very large china shop in Woodville which was full of very expensive china, crystals, ceramics and figurines. "We wouldn't even let our children go into the shop," laughed Collins. "When I got the call that there was a deer in the shop I thought it was a joke--but it wasn't.' When Collins arrived he found a crowd of people standing outside the

I was reminded this week about the "True Love Waits" program the local churches are encouraging among their "True Love Waits" has been around since 1993 and has affected hundreds of thousands of teenage lives--for the risk.

According to "True Love Waits" literature, the purpose of "True Love Waits" is to, "communicate to youth the spiritual, emotional, and physical value of remaining sexually pure until marriage.'

The program, "challenges families to address within the home the biblical standards of sexual behavior and to provide churches and youth organizations a way of supporting parents and their youth as they commit to sexual purity.'

"True Love Waits" is an alternative to the "safe sex" message.

A "covenant" card is signed by the teenager to abstain from sex until marriage and the teenager is then praised by his church and family for this commitment.

Next week the Floydada High School campus and Floydada Junior High School campus will display "True Love Waits" pledge cards in a joint effort with churches to promote this program.

It is a wonderful idea and I applaud the schools for participating.

It was interesting that Marlon Prichard brought me the information on the "True Love Waits" program right after I finished reading an article in last Sunday's Parade magazine.

The article was entitled, "What Teenage Girls Say About Pregnancy."

Seven hundred and twenty girls, age 12-19 were surveyed and asked what they thought would "prevent home. pregnancy" among unwed teens. Some of their answers were very in-

These statistics sure give parents something to think about. The pressures children are under these days is enormous. Our culture very often forces them to view sexuality on TV before they are mature enough to handle it, and to treat it casually among their friends and peers before they fully understand the dangerous results of their actions.

My heart goes out to young teenage moms who, along with the rest of us imperfect people, have made mistakes in their lives. Only this mistake will be a part of their lives for as long as they live. We have somehow got to stress that contraceptives, which don't work 100% of the time, cannot be counted on to keep these mistakes from happening. Abstinence has got to be preached and hammered

We've been told for many years that the Democratic party is the party of the poor, the oppressed, the "disenfranchised", while the Republican Party was the party of the rich, the privileged, the "ruling class." Those of us who grew up in the politics of half century ago heard that repeatedly, and, to a large extent, we believed it.

Hard as it is to believe, that image, pushed by liberal politicians and liberal media types, is evidently wrong. Many of us suspected it might be wrong for years, even if it might have been true at some time in the distant past. Oh, it is true of course that the rich and powerful contend for influence in the Republican Party, just as they do, and have always done, for influence in the Democratic Party. But if we are to believe what we are now reading regarding the corruption that has become the hallmark of Bill Clinton's White House, rarely, if ever, have the rich and powerful held such sway in access to those who run our Federal law prohibits the raising of campaign money on federal property, but the Clinton people take the position that the White House is the President's "home", and therefore different. Like any other American, they insist, he can invite whomever he wishes into his "home", and charge them whatever he wishes. Besides, gentle readers, you won't have to pay the money up front, on the premises. That'll come later, off premises. And besides all that, the election is over, and what's anyone gonna do about it? Whirlwind Basketball Report

By Bill Gray

Lubbock Cooper 63, Floydada 50 FLOYDADA - Lubbock Cooper's domination of the first and third quarters led to the Pirates' 63-50 victory over the Whirlwinds at Floydada on January 21. The visitors jumped out to a 13-5 lead after the opening period. The teams traded baskets throughout the second quarter, but the Pirates held the upper hand following intermission to pull out the victory.

Although Floydada controlled the boards 50-27 and three Whirlwinds scored in double figures, Cooper's 46.2% shooting from the field was the big difference. The Whirlwinds connected on only 17-of-61 field goal attempts (a paltry 27.9%) Coach Jim the paint. We are playing hard, but just Knight noted, "We just couldn't seem continue to make a lot of mental erto make the easy shots. We totally rors. dominated the boards, but could not put the ball in the basket!"

Ticen Harper paced the Whirlwind scoring with 13 points Harper added 14 rebounds (8 on the offensive end) for a double-double. Vernon Cooper and Justin Payne had 11 points apiece and Michael Molinar was credited with 5. Michael Black and Mario to 34-13 by intermission. Nunez each had four points and Paulo Mendoza connected on one field goal. Mendoza and Black each pulled down 11 rebounds.

Brownfield 61, Floydada 31

The Whirlwinds fell behind early at Brownfield on January 24 as the Cubs coasted to a 30-point victory. Floydada continued its scoring slump by connecting on only 12-of-43 field goal attempts (27.9%) while the Cubs shot 53.2% from the field. The taller, more physical Cubs also controlled the boards 29-17.

For one of the few times this year, no Whirlwind scored in double figures. Michael Black led Floydada with 9 points and 6 rebounds. Justin Payne was 2-of-4 from 3-point range for 6 points. Vernon Cooper, Michael Palacios, and Paulo Mendoza each had four points. Michael Molinar and Mario Nunez each had a field goal. Coach Knight commented, "It just seemed to be the same old problem...we just couldn't score in the paint. Brownfield's defense had a lot to do with it, but we just had our problems trying to get the ball in the bucket."

Slaton 69, Floydada 51

The Slaton Tigers outscored the Whirlwinds 24-15 in the final period to win going away at Floydada on January 29. The 'Winds continued having troubles putting points on the board as they hit only 16-of-43 field goal attempts (37.2%). The Tigers connected on 24-of-44 from the field (a respectable 54.5%).

Vernon Cooper had one of his better outings of the season in district play by hitting 5-of-11 three-point attempts and had 30 total points. The veteran senior was also 7-of-13 from the charity line and pulled down 5 rebounds. Michael Palacios added 10 points to go along with two rebounds and a pair of assists. Justin Payne and Mario Nunez each knocked down a 3-pointer and Michael Black scored three points. Although held to only two points, Ticen Harper had a good night on the boards with 11 rebounds (9 on the defensive end). Coach Jim Knight said, "Our shooting percentages are still killing us. We hit only 9-of-25 two-point attempts. and missed a number of shots inside

Seminole 72, Floydada 43

The Whirlwinds started off at Seminole on January 31 by going 0-of-10 from the field and were never really in the game against the state-ranked Indians. Seminole led 15-0 after the opening period and stretched its lead

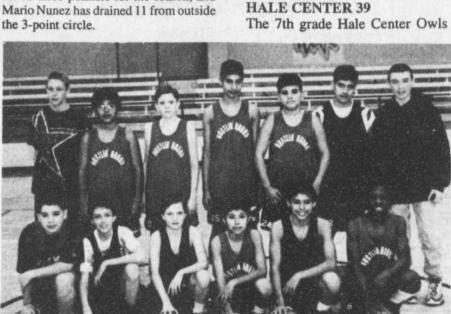

Michael Black paced the Whirlwinds with 13 points and 6 rebounds. Vernon Cooper, averaging 16 pointsper-game for the year, was limited to 7 points. Ticen Harper was credited with 8 points and 7 rebounds (6 on the defensive boards). Justin Payne hit one-of-three from 3-point range and had 5 points. Three-pointers were also tossed in by Cooper, Black and Michael Palacios.

Winding down their season, the Whirlwinds play three of their final games at home. They will entertain Lubbock Roosevelt on February 4.

Bill's Notes

Vernon Cooper leads the team in scoring for the season (through 26 games) with 417 total points. Michael Black is second in scoring with 192 points. Black barely trails Cooper 185-183 in total rebounds. Ticen Harper, a mid-season addition to the varsity, has pulled down 112 Justin Payne has been the most prolific

Whirlwind from 3-point range in terms of shooting percentage (54.5%), but Cooper leads the team in total 3-pointers with 32 from long range. Michael Palacios has hit 16 three-pointers for the season, and Mario Nunez has drained 11 from outside on Thursday in connection with the Earth 2000 Project.

Friday will be FACTS Day. Families Acting for Community Traffic Safety will allow members to make a difference in their communities by improving traffic safety especially in the areas of impaired driving and safety belt usage.

This annual event highlights the diversity of programs and opportunities available through Future Homemakers of America-in-depth programs, community service, leadership roles, personal growth, new friends

This years theme is "Building Strong Leaders in Families, Careers and Communities." It emphasizes that since 1945, FHA/HERO members have risen to action to make a difference in these three areas. During FHA/HERO Week, members plan and carry out activities to address teen and societal concerns and show how family and consumer sciences skills help them solve problems.

Better Business Bureau Report

Over the recent holidays, we all heard about the that children that had gotten their hair or fingers caught in the mouths of the dolls they had received for Christmas. In response to concerns related to the Cabbage Patch Kids Snacktime Kids dolls, Mattel, Inc. with cooperation of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission voluntarily announced a refund program for all dolls purchased since the toy's introduction in the fall of 1996.

Mattel is offering consumers a full cash refund of $40. The company also withdrew the product from all retail shelves and will discontinue distribution of the 'french-fry' eating dolls. To receive a $40 refund, which includes estimated shipping and handling costs, the dolls must be returned to the Mattel Distribution Center, 14310 Ramona Ave., Chino, California 91710 or consumers may call Mattel at 1-800-335-1700. If you need further information, call the BBB at 763-0459 or (800)687-7890.

weevil program was worth at least $100 per acre to my clients," he said. Though the project strongly suggests serious economic impacts in the absence of a regional weevil control program, the task force acknowledged that the study has some limitations.

"The movement and adaptation of the boll weevil is a biological phenomenon and no one can accurately predict how quickly this insect will move across the High Plains," Dr. Jim Leser, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

gist, noted that the study also considered only current technology since it is not known at this time what future developments might include, and the analysis used weather patterns for the past 10 years as an indication of what weather will be like in the future.

Due to uncertainty on rate of future movement of the boll weevil, a worst case and best case situation also was evaluated, according to Dr. Don Ethridge and Dr. Edward Segarra, agricultural economists with Texas Tech University. The best case situation showed a reduction in regional business activity of $57 million compared to an $820 million loss for the worst case.

PLUG IN AND POWER UP! TAEX offers program on new AgEnviroPlan Stripped of power? Power strip it!

By Mark Griffith

TAEX - High Plains

Research Foundation, Halfway The Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX) is introducing a new program for producers in the TexaHigh Plains. This new programis designed to assist producers whose operations are located within or adjoining playa basins.

Playa basins are naturally occurring depressions common to the Texas High Plains landscape and are considered environmentally sensitive landforms since they focus surface water runoff as recharge to the Ogallala aquifer. There are approximately 20,000 playa basins located within the Texas High Plains and most are involved in some form of production agriculture operation and thereby subject to scrutiny and regulation. To respond to regulatory pressure now and in the future, TAEX has developed an extension program to assist the producer in developing an environmental management plan for their

The Agricultural Environmental Management Plan, or AgEnviroPlan, is a site-specific plan for agricultural production operations in or near environmental sensitive areas such as the Texas High Plains playa basin region. It is formatted in such a manner to improve the communication and cooperation between the producer and state and federal agencies. This extension program helps the producer to organize their environmental docu-

The producer is one individual who is the most knowledgeable about their piece of the environment in which they apply their skills and talents for producing goods. This program is a "bottom-up" approach to agricultural environmental compliance emphasizing the producers experience and knowledge about their particular operation. The "top-down" approach to environmental regulation has, in the past, produced more confusion and frustration among producers trying to comply with "one-size-fits-all" type of legislation or regulation.

Each AgEnviroPlan contains an inventory of the farm/ranch attributes (most environmental systems are characterized by eight general attributes; air, water, land, ecology, human aspects, economics, sound, and resources), production alternatives for the farm/ranch, and the expected or anticipated environmental interaction of each production alternative. When complete, the producer will be able to make a well-informed decision in choosing the production operation alternative which will stabilize or enhance the environmental quality of the farm or ranch.

The Texas State Senate Bill 503 makes provisions for producers that have a plan such as the AgEnviroPlan which is complete and implemented are exempted from nonpoint source pollution class action litigation. Producers whose operations are within or adjacent to playa basins are at risk of such litigation and to eliminate that risk, producers are encouraged to develop and implement an agricultural environmental management plan. The AgEnviroPlan is beneficial to beginning producers or producers with limited experience in production agriculture. By developing, organizing, and evaluating production alternatives, these producers will explore production methods of which they may not be aware.

Many producers express the frustration that without their input the future of their operation is debated and decided by individuals and agencies far removed from the boundaries of the farm or ranch. The AgEnviroPlan is designed to allow the producers input to be communicated in a format recognized by federate and state agencies which in turn promotes cooperation by these agen-

TAEX has also developed a curriculum to support this program. The County Agent has the ability to recognize this training with CEU credits which is helpful to the producer to maintain pesticide applicators license.

The program is presently open for two or three producers per county. For further information or enrollment contact Mark Griffith, Extension Assistant-Water Quality, High Plains Research Foundation, Halfway; by telephone at 889-3315 or by fax at shop and more people gathering to watch the show. "The call had gone out on the scanner and people from all over heard the call and came to see how I was going to get the animal out of there.'

The shop was located on the extreme edge of town next to large piney woods. The buck wandered in the door, down a long aisle and stopped--frozen--at the back of the shop.

"I told the owner I would get the deer out but that I could not promise that it would not be a disaster," said Collins. "She told me to go for it."

The crowds were moved back away from doors and windows so the deer might find his way out on his own. That didn't work.

After approximately 30 minutes Collins peeked in and saw that the deer had not moved. Crouching and moving slowly down adjoining aisles, Collins created just enough movement for the deer to slowly move instinctively away from him. Little by little the deer was herded by Collin's shadow into an adjoining restaurant. The doors were quickly closed by Collins so the deer could not re-enter the china shop.

"Now all I had to worry about was a large plate glass window," said Collins. The game warden then tossed a lasso around the deer and tackled him.

"That deer was kicking and fighting so bad that my pant leg was ripped right away. Every time he kicked he dug into my leg a little more. I was losing the battle and I was exhausted. I finally ordered a man, who was standing there enjoying the show, to come and help. He grabbed ropes out flat and slide his way in and out, of my back pocket and hog-tied the deer. We put it in the back of my blazer and I took the deer somewhere safe." Miraculously, nothing was broken in the shop or restaurant.

Alligators are also a common sight in east Texas. "I've never had a problem alligator but that he wasn't made a problem by people feeding them," said Collins.

"Folks would feed them like pets and when the gator would start staying at the house the homeowner would have to call the game warden to come and get the gator and take it somewhere else."

This was the case of a family who had a gator living under their house. "They had been feeding it and now they were afraid it would eat their dog

"They wanted me to crawl under the house and pull him out without hurting him," said Collins. "I had dealt with gators before but I always had room to maneuver."

Since he was going to have to lay Collins called in an off-duty game warden for assistance.

"I pulled myself in under the house with a very long pole laid across my back. I steered the pole and noose and my partner--outside the crawl space--kept out the slack in the rope. I would steer toward the gator's head but since he was hissing at me the whole time it was hard to slip the noose around After what seemed like hours Collins was able to slip the noose around the head. "As soon as the rope was on I hollered for my partner to pull the rope taunt, and keep that pole straight. I was sliding out backwards out as fast as I could. That gator was rolling and moving fast.

"I really thought about shooting that gator but people get upset when that happens," said Collins.

People make pets out of just about anything and Collins tries to respect their wishes--but sometimes it can be difficult.

"We had to evacuate people from their homes during a flood in east Texas," said Collins. "All we had was a small river boat and we were going from one home to another.

"At one house a rather large woman kept begging me to take her pet pig too. The pig was not a small pot-bellied pig. It was a full grown pig. I kept telling her no--the pig couldn't go. Before I knew it the pig waded right up to the boat and jumped in. The woman jumped in right after. Then we had a real weight problem!

"As usual there was a crowd of people watching this from a distance. I heard a lot of laughter from the shore. But we did make it back to shore--pig

A&M study warns of boll weevil damage

High Plains regional business sales are expected to drop by $500 million a year if impending boll weevil populations are left unchecked, a report

Floydada Care Center News

By Jo Wilbanks

FLOYDADA - Hi! Once again it's time to share with you. Here it is February. It has been said that February is a short month so you could hurry and get winter over with.

Residents have been enjoying the sunny days watching the birds eat at the feeder on the east side. Corky Guffee brings the seeds to the bird feeder. Thanks Corky. The residents held their resident council meeting Tuesday, Feb. 4. Our meal of the month chosen by residents is pork chop, pinto beans, potatoes and apple cobbler.

We have four birthdays this month. They are Travis Parr, Ophelia Sanders, Vicent Garcia and Louis Arrendondo.

We welcome a new resident, Preston Badgett. Myra Hall is back from the hospital. Our love and sympathy go out to the family of Ottis Johnson. We will all miss him. Jo Wilbanks attended the funeral of Vernon, Monday, Feb. 3, at 2 p.m. Our Valentine party will be Feb. 14 at 4 p.m crowning King and Queen and Jr. Queen and King. There will be refreshments and entertainment and a meal at 5 p.m. for residents and Members of the organization will soon receive a renewal packet reminding them to renew their annual membership, and also asking for their help in signing up new members for the organization. Efforts to raise funds for the construction of a new Floyd County Library continue to be the top priority. Organization president Joyce Lipham states that despite the importance of expanding the number of members, membership alone will not be sufficient to attract the needed grants. The community must also demonstrate substantial financial support for the project by raising approximately half the cost of constructing the facility. Building costs for the new library facility are expected to be about five hundred thousand dollars. With this in mind, Friends of the Floyd County Library have established a fund-raising goal of $250,000. Traditional fund-raising activities, which will continue, have

Evangelist to speak at First Assembly of God

FLOYDADA - Vance Mitchell, pastor of First Assembly of God Church in Floydada, extends a cordial invitation to the public to hear Evangelist Ed Rimer on Sunday, February 9th through 12th.

Evangelist Ed Rimer has had a wide scope of ministry since 1961. Besides having pastored for eleven of those years, the Rev. Rimer was also the evangelist and bass singer with the Kings Quartet for eight years. While in that phase of his ministry, he recorded eight albums and several singles under contract with Calvary Records of Nashville, Tennessee. Brother Rimer still uses his vocal talents in his meetings.

His wife Joyce now sings with him and they have recorded their first album under their own label. Brother Rimer has also authored several books. "The Unveiling", a verse by Verse Commentary on the Book of Revelation has been published by Brentwood Press of Columbus, Georgia. Other books to his credit include: "Antichrist Is Coming!", God's Word On Angels", "The Rev. Lucifer D. "FOCUS ON THE FAMILY" with Dr. James Dobson

OUESTION: How can I shape my 9-year-old son's will without damaging his spirit?

Dr. Dobson: It is accomplished by establishing reasonable boundaries and enforcing them with love, but by avoiding any implication that the child is unwanted, unnecessary, foolish, ugly, dumb, a burden, an embarrassment or a disastrous mistake. Any accusation that assaults the worth of a child in this way can be costly, such as, "You're so dumb!" or "Why can't you make decent grades in school like your sister?" or "You have been a pain in the neck ever since the day you were born!"

Rather, I would suggest that you respond decisively the next time your son behaves in a blatantly disruptive or defiant manner. There should be no screaming or derogatory accusations, although he should soon know that you mean what you say. He should probably be sent to bed an hour or two early. The following morning you should discuss the issue rationally, reassuring him of your continuing love--then start over. Most rebellious preteenagers respond beautifully to this one-two punch of love and consistent discipline. It's an unbeatable combination.

QUESTION: How should parents deal with childish responsibility when it involves neither defiance nor passive aggression?

Dr. Dobson: Kids love games of all sorts, especially if adults will be involved with them. It is often possible to turn a teaching situation into a fun activity that sensitizes the entire family to the issue you're trying to teach.

Let me tell you how we taught our children to put their napkins in their laps before eating. We tried reminding them for two or three years, but we simply weren't getting through. Then we turned it into a family game.

If one of the Dobsons took a single bite of food before putting his napkin in his lap, he or she was required to go to the bedroom and count to 25 in a loud voice. This game was highly effective, although it had some definite disadvantages. You can't imagine how foolish Shirley and I felt standing in an empty section of the house, counting to 25 while our children giggled. Ryan, particularly, never forgot his napkin and loved to catch the rest of us in a moment of preoccupation. He would sit perfectly still, looking straight ahead until the first bite of food went in. Then he would wheel toward the offender, point his finger and say, "Gotcha!"

For all of those many parenting objectives that involve teaching responsibility (rather than conquering willful defiance), game-playing should be considered as the method of choice.

Evangelist to speak at First Assembly of God

FLOYDADA - Vance Mitchell, pastor of First Assembly of God Church in Floydada, extends a cordial invitation to the public to hear Evangelist Ed Rimer on Sunday, February 9th through 12th.

Evangelist Ed Rimer has had a wide scope of ministry since 1961. Besides having pastored for eleven of those years, the Rev. Rimer was also the evangelist and bass singer with the Kings Quartet for eight years. While in that phase of his ministry, he recorded eight albums and several singles under contract with Calvary Records of Nashville, Tennessee. Brother Rimer still uses his vocal talents in his meetings.

His wife Joyce now sings with him and they have recorded their first album under their own label. Brother Rimer has also authored several books. "The Unveiling", a verse by Verse Commentary on the Book of Revelation has been published by Brentwood Press of Columbus, Georgia. Other books to his credit include: "Antichrist Is Coming!", God's Word On Angels", "The Rev. Lucifer D. Satan, and Doctrines of Devils", "The Seven Feasts of Israel", "Iraq - It's and Monday through Wednesday at History and Prophecy", "Your Ques- 7 p.m. The church is located at 701 tion And My Answer", "Touring Is- West Missouri in Floydada.

Brother Rimer conducts question and answer sessions following the evening services. The 130 full-color chart on the Book of Revelation is the largest of its kind in the world, and will be used in the meetings for your enjoyment and information.

Service times are Sunday morning at 10:45 a.m., Sunday night at 6 p.m.,

City Park Church of Christ hosting lessons on faith

FLOYDADA - City Park Church of Christ will be hosting a series of lessons focusing on faith, February 9 through 12. Speakers will travel from other congregations in the area. Lessons presented will focus on the theme: Faith for the 21st Century. Gene McCarty, minister for the congregation invites everyone to attend any or all of this series of lessons. Speakers will be:

Sunday a.m. - Abe Lincoln (Seminole

Monday p.m. - Leonard Harper

(Crosbyton) Tuesday p.m. - William Eudy (Levelland)

Wednesday p.m. - Ken Free (Ralls) Wednesday p.m. - Silas Short

Sunday morning starting at 9:30 a.m. there will be Bible class. Worship with sermon and song will be at 10:30 a.m. Also, there will be a pot luck meal Sunday at noon and refreshments will be served after each Sunday p.m. - Willie Mays of the evening lessons. The evening meetings will each begin at 7:30 p.m.

Deadline near to lock in college costs and fees are a source of sleepless eficiary graduates from high school, nights for many Texas families.

The Texas Tomorrow Fund can help you relax - but only if you sign up by February 18.

This plan allows you to lock in your children's or grandchildren's future college tuition and required fees today. For a newborn, a full four-year public college plan costs just $82 a month - a savings of more than $28,000 over what those costs are projected to be 18 years from now.

You can prepay the cost in a single lump-sum payment or with monthly

Today, the rising costs of tuition installments from now until the benand a variety of college plans can be adjusted later on if your child's needs or your own financial situation

More than 40,000 Texas families signed up during the initial enrollment period last year. In fact, more than 100 students are already attending classes in community colleges, public universities, and private schools across the state - courtesy of their Texas Tomorrow Fund contracts. If you sign up by the deadline of Feb. 18th, your first payment won't be due until the first of May.

"FOCUS ON THE FAMILY" with Dr. James Dobson

QUESTION: How can I shape my 9-year-old son's will without damaging his spirit?

Dr. Dobson: It is accomplished by establishing reasonable boundaries and enforcing them with love, but by avoiding any implication that the child is unwanted, unnecessary, foolish, ugly, dumb, a burden, an embarrassment or a disastrous mistake. Any accusation that assaults the worth of a child in this way can be costly, such as, "You're so dumb!" or "Why can't you make decent grades in school like your sister?" or "You have been a pain in the neck ever since the day you were born!"

Rather, I would suggest that you respond decisively the next time your son behaves in a blatantly disruptive or defiant manner. There should be no screaming or derogatory accusations, although he should soon know that you mean what you say. He should probably be sent to bed an hour or two early. The following morning you should discuss the issue rationally, reassuring him of your continuing love--then start over. Most rebellious preteenagers respond beautifully to this one-two punch of love and consistent discipline. It's an unbeatable combination.

QUESTION: How should parents deal with childish responsibility when it involves neither defiance nor passive aggression?

Dr. Dobson: Kids love games of all sorts, especially if adults will be involved with them. It is often possible to turn a teaching situation into a fun activity that sensitizes the entire family to the issue you're trying

Chit & Chat This & That

By Wanda J. McLendon

LOCKNEY - Hello! Well the sun is shining at my back door. I really don't know what that means but my mother-in-law used to say it. So if you know, please tell me.

We want to say congratulations to Loana Barrugon in dietary for employee of the month and Jessie McGhee, chosen as resident of the month. Job well done.

We are getting ready for our Valentine Party, Feb. 14 at 2 p.m. in our lobby. We'll crown our Valentine King and Queen at the facility. Also our school children will be crowned. Hope to see you there. We'll be having refreshments also. So if you have a favorite cookie recipe, bring it and cookies, and we'll be more than glad to taste them for you.

Also, pick out a day to visit with us. We love to have you. We really enjoy doing Meals on Wheels again. We missed seeing you all down at the Senior Citizens. Glad we're back. Thank you all for showing up for the Family Council. We appreciate you all and the hard work you do.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) -- A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new easy applicator liquid form. Arthur Itis, is guaranteed to work or your money back.

OFFICIAL NOTICE OF NOMINATING COMMITTEE MEETING

10:00 a.m. February 13, 1997 Lighthouse Electric Cooperative, Inc. Headquarters East U.S. Highway 70 Floydada, Texas

In accordance with Article IV. Section 4.06 of the Bylaws of Lighthouse Electric Cooperative, Inc., the Board of Directors has appointed a Committee on Nominations to prepare a list of nominations for Directors to be elected at the annual membership meeting of the Cooperative on April 24, 1997. Three (3) Directors, one each from District 2, District 5, and District 8, will be elected in 1997. Although Directors are nominated from the District which they represent, all members in attendance at the annual meeting vote on all candidates who may be properly nominated.

SECTION 4.02 QUALIFICATIONS: No person shall be eligible to become or remain a director of the Cooperative who is a close relative of an incumbent director or an employee of the Cooperative, or is not a member in good standing of the Cooperative and receiving service within the District he represents; PROVIDED, that the operating or chief executive of any member which is not a natural person, such as a corporation, church, etc., or his designee, shall be eligible to become a director, from the Directorate District in which such member is located, if he or such designee (1) is in substantial permanent occupancy direction or use of the premises served by the Cooperative, and (2) is a permanent and year-round resident within or in close proximity to an area served by the Cooperative; BUT PROVIDED FURTHER, that no more than one (1) such person may serve on the Board of Directors at the same time. No person shall be eligible to become or remain a director of, or to hold any other position of trust in, the Cooperative who does not have the legal capacity to enter into a binding contract or is in any way employed by or financially interested in a competing enterprise, or a business selling electric energy or supplies to the Cooperative, or a business primarily engaged in selling electrical or plumbing appliances, fixtures or supplies to, among others, the members of the Cooperative. No person shall take or hold office as a Director who is the incumbent of or candidate for an elective public office in connection with which a salary is paid.

SECTION 4.05 DIRECTORATE DISTRICTS

The territory served by the Cooperative shall be divided into nine (9) Directorate Districts. Each District shall be represented by one director and the Districts are described upon the map on the territory served by the District attached to the Bylaws and made a part hereof.

SECTION 4.06 NOMINATIONS

It shall be the duty of the Board of Directors to appoint, not less than thirty (30) days nor more than one hundred eighty (180) days prior to the date of the meeting of the members at which directors are to be elected, a Committee on Nominations, consisting of not less than five (5) nor more than eleven (11) members. The Committee shall prepare and post at the principal office of the Cooperative at least twenty (20) days prior to the meeting a list of nominations for directors to be elected, listing separately the nominee(s) for each Directorate District from or with respect to which director must, pursuant to this Article, be elected at the meeting. The Committee may include as many nominees for any director to be elected from or with respect to a Directorate District as it deems desirable. Any fifteen (15) or more members of the Cooperative, acting together, may make additional nominations in writing over their signatures, listing their nominees(s) in like manner, not less than fifteen (15) days prior to the meeting, and the Secretary shall post such nominations at the same place where the list of nominations made by the Committee is posted. The Secretary shall mail to the members with the notice of the meeting, or separately, but at least ten (10) days prior to the date of the meeting, a statement of the names and addresses of all nominee(s) for each Directorate District from or with respect to which a director must be elected, showing clearly those nominated by the Committee and those nominated by petition, if any. The chairman at such meeting, after all nominations so made have been duly announced, shall call for additional nominations from the floor and shall ascertain and announce, after any nominations made from the floor, the particular Directorate District from or with respect to which any additional candidates have been nominated.

CARDS OF THANKS

I have said thank you many times for the support everyone has shown me during my years of showing, since this is my last year, I have looked back at all the memories and friends I have made. I hope all of you will continue to support this program so everyone involved can experience everything I have.

I want to thank the Chamber of Floydada for the shows they have sponsored and the plaques I received for Showmanship. I also want to thank Floydada Co-op Gin for buying my steer.

Last but not least, I want to thank R Photography for taking and donating the pictures of the Grand and Reserve Grand animals and owners. I have several pictures that I will enjoy for a lifetime. Thanks everyone.

Local TSTA meets

By Joyce Williams

FLOYDADA - Voting for state leaders in Texas State Teachers Association was on the agenda Wednesday, January 29, when the local TSTA met in the R.C. Andrews Cafeteria after school. Also elected were leaders in National Educators Association. Secretary, Jan Willson was assisted in the counting and recording by Sherry Colston, substituting for Sallye Lyles.

During new business, the president, Joyce Williams, reviewed plans for future meetings this spring, including the college scholarship for a graduating high school senior interested in the teaching profession, the state TSTA meeting, local elections and the spring banquet.

Treasurer's report was given by Sherry Colston, with a report of funds for the scholarship.

Membership chairman, Penny Giesecke reported no complications in her department. The president appointed a nominating committee composed of Sue Daniels of Duncan Elementary, Martha Lunsford of R.C. Andrews, and Sherry Colston of Jr. High.

The next meeting will be in March.

Harmony Club News

By Doris Snodgrass

The Harmony FCE Club met January 27 at 2 p.m. in the Harmony Community Center with Karen Miller as hostess.

Vivian Curtis called the meeting to order and roll call was answered by "name something you do to stay healthy." Each member discussed several things they and their family do to stay healthy.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The district meeting was discussed and Vivian

Curtis and Juanita Poole were elected to go to council where a delegate will be selected to represent Floyd County. Vivian Curtis gave the program on

"Prescription for Family Health."
