

Public hearing set to discuss FM 689 construction

An open house and public hearing are scheduled next week in Floydada to discuss the proposed construction of a farm-to-market road, FM 689.

The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) and Floyd County will hold both events on Tuesday, June 10, in the courtroom at the Floyd County Courthouse. The open house is at 6 p.m. followed by the public hearing at 7 p.m.

Discussion will focus on the location of the new road which would run east/west from SH 207 north of Floydada to FM 1065 south of Quitaque. TxDOT and Floyd County representatives will be available to answer questions concerning the project.

Anyone with special communication or accommodation needs should contact Mike Craig, TxDOT Plainview area engineer, at (806)293-5484, at least two days prior to the meeting.

Verbal and written comments may be presented at the open house, public hearing, or submitted within 10 days --by Friday June 20-- after the meeting.

BEEN THERE-DONE THAT--All parents who have lived through T-Ball can relate to this photo of 5-year old Morgan Stepp at his recent T-Ball game. Bored with the baseball activities and oblivious to the runner flying past him, Morgan enjoys digging a hole in the turf. The Floydada and Lockney Little League fields have been a bee-hive of activity this summer with exciting (and not-so-exciting) Little League games.

Digs continue at Coronado campsite

Archeologists arrived in Floydada on Old Settler's Day, May 24, to begin another week of digs at the now famous Coronado excavation site in Floyd County's Blanco Canyon.

Dr. Donald Blakeslee, of Wichita State University, was accompanied by Frank Gagne (crew chief and site coordinator) and approximately 20 students and volunteers.

"We found more 16th century metal artifacts--primarily nails," said Gagne.

"We also found a piece of hand wrought metal which may have come from a mule pack or a saddle set-up." The major discovery for the team was a two "post molds".

"We found an area where a post or structure had been staked in the dirt," said Gagne. "We will now set out to determine if it was a simple lean-to, or a more sophisticated structure such as a corral. We also found some metal slag (melted metal) at the site. It could have been some type of horse operation. We will work on figuring all that out in future trips."

According to Gagne it could easily take five years to excavate the Coronado site thoroughly.

"We had six-2 meter pits open and we completed all those pits before we left," said Gagne.

"The real work comes when we get back to the University. We play in the field and then work in the lab."

"There is so much to do at the Blanco dig that it is almost overwhelming--but it is very exciting."

The archeologist was treated to home-cooked meals every evening from museum volunteers and other citizens in the community.

"We had help from many people," said Museum Director Nancy Marble. "The city cooked chicken one night, and the Finley's treated the archeologists to dinner and then a tour of their wildflower garden and homemade ice-cream."

"We also had meals from Kenneth and Juanita Broseh, the Q.D. Williams family and Netti Ruth Whittle and Wanda Turner."

The archeologists plan to return over Labor Day.

The digs in Blanco Canyon are of what is believed to be the site of a major campground of Spanish Explorer Francisco V. de Coronado during his 1541 expedition.

Archeologists have been coming to the site since September 1995 when the findings of artifacts by local citizens convinced them to take a look in the area.

New doctor on staff at hospital

DR. SHAYNE AND DANA WHITE

LOCKNEY--Dr. Shayne White duties have officially started at W.J. Mangold Memorial Hospital.

This week White will join the three doctors: Dr. Gary Mangold, Dr. Kevin Stennett and Dr. Kevin Stewart, already on staff at Mangold Memorial.

White is currently seeing patients on a daily basis at Cogdell Clinic in Lockney.

Dr. White completed his Family Practice residency at Texas Tech Health Sciences Center in Lubbock. He also did his internship at the Texas Tech health Sciences Department from July 1994-June 1995.

Born in Lubbock, November 15, 1967, White graduated from Shallowater High School in 1986. He majored in Zoology, with a minor in Chemistry, at Texas Tech University. He graduated Cum Laude in May 1990.

White entered Texas Tech's School of Medicine in August 1990 and graduated with a medical degree in May of 1994.

While attending college he worked as a Veterinary assistant, bookkeeper and janitor with the Animal Medical Center in Lubbock.

As a Tech student he was named Outstanding Senior in Biology, Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and also named to the Dean's Honor Roll.

He was a member of the Freshman Honor Society and a member from 1987-1990 of the Alpha Epsilon Delta Pre-medical Honor Society.

He is a member of the Committee on Computerization of Family Practice and while in medical school he was a member of Pediatrics, Family Practice, Surgery and Radiology Clubs.

He is currently a member of the following professional societies: American Academy of Family Physicians, Texas Academy of Family Physicians, American Medical Association and Texas Medical Association.

White has also been named as an Outstanding Student of Family Practice.

He is married to Dana Marie White and they are expecting their first child in July. She is also employed at the hospital as a physical therapist.

Temporary Justice of the Peace appointed

LOCKNEY--Due to the illness of J.P. Dottie Stansell, County Judge Bill Hardin, on June 7, appointed Carolyn Jackson of Lockney, to temporarily fill the position of Justice of the Peace for Precincts 2 and 3.

Judge Hardin has the responsibility to appoint a J.P. if the duties cannot be carried out by the elected official. The law stipulates that the position must be filled with a qualified person with at least 4 1/2 years experience as a J.P. If no one can be found that meets that criteria, the county judge can then appoint a qualified voter to fill the position temporarily.

The only qualified person in the precinct, C.L. Mooney, declined the position and Hardin then appointed Jackson.

Jackson is a qualified voter and has training as a legal secretary.

As a temporary J.P., Jackson will have all the rights and privileges afforded a duly elected Justice of the Peace.

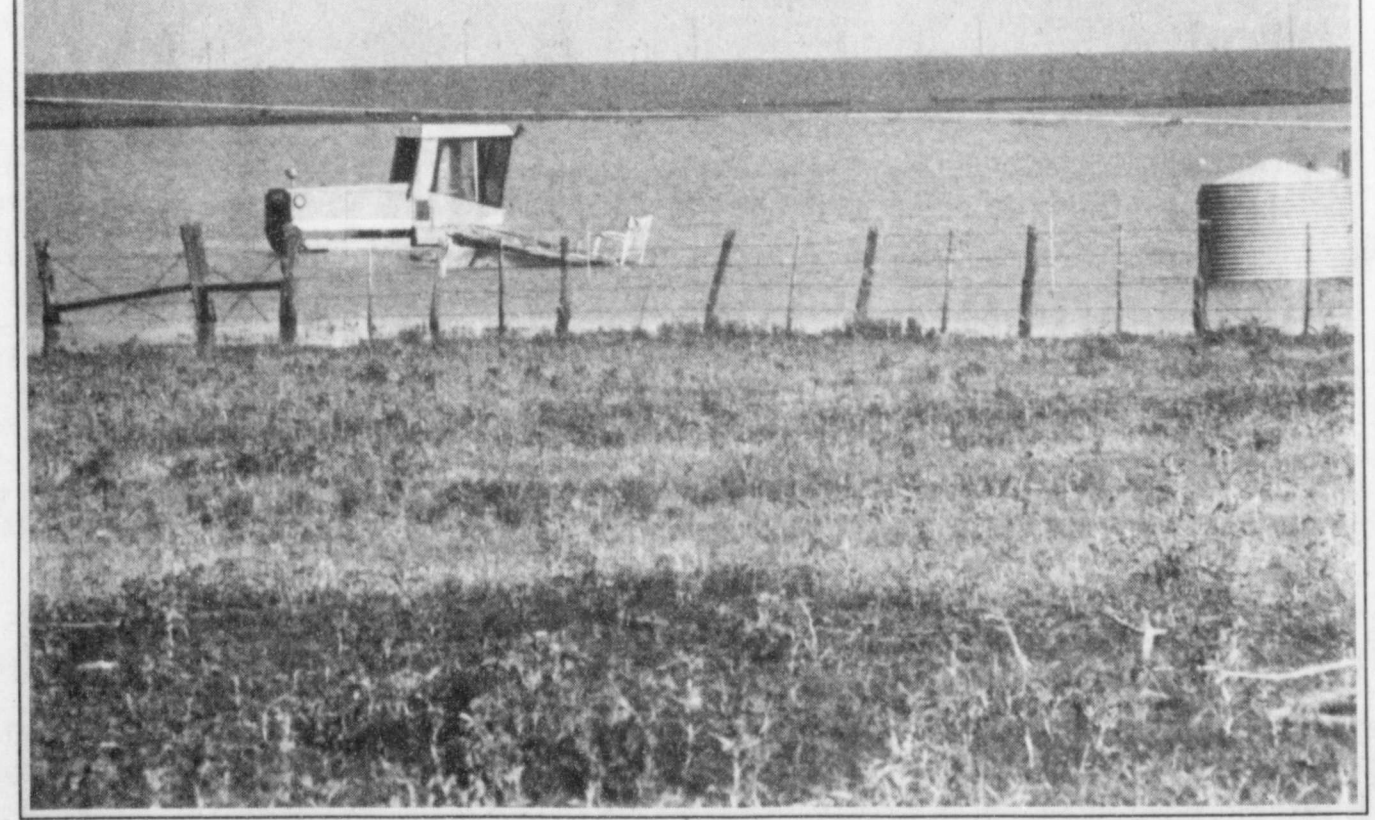

She will be responsible for handling cases concerning traffic violations, hot checks, small claims, Class C misdemeanors, citations by the game warden, weights and measurement officers, inquests, and evictions, etc.

Jackson moved to Lockney from Moore County and attended Lockney High School. She received her G.E.D. from Clarendon College and graduated from Lippert's Business College in Plainview with a degree as a legal secretary.

She worked for Floydada attorney Ben Ayres for 12 years as a legal secretary, kept farming and ranching books for her late husband, Floyd Jackson, and is a volunteer at the Floyd County Historical Museum.

Jackson said the office will not be open for at least one more week in order for her to get organized.

She has two sons Rusty and Aaron Wilson, both of Lockney.

FULL PLAYAS--This old tractor was parked in a very dry playa behind Paymaster, NW of Aiken, until recent rains filled the lake. The Floyd County Sheriff's office recorded 6.38" of rain in Floydada in the month of May. Robert Webb, of Lockney, has kept a rainfall record and said the average yearly rain for the Lockney area is 21.34" a year. Lockney has already received 21.1" this year. Rains have been scattered in the county with some areas getting more than others.

Sarah Martin elected Chairman of South Plains District
Martin continues 4-H tradition

By Melissa Long, CEA-FCS

You might not think that someone from Lockney would have much regard for green...let alone want much green in her wardrobe.

There is one Lockney 4-H'er though that has wanted to add a green blazer to her wardrobe and has worked hard to get one for the past seven years.

The privilege of wearing a green blazer at a 4-H function means you have earned the right to be a member of the State 4-H Council, having won a district election either as president or first vice president of the district 4-H Council and that is exactly what Sarah Martin of Lockney has done.

Sarah, a seven year 4-H'er accumulated the majority vote and was elected Chairman of the South Plains District 2 4-H Council.

May 3rd, is the first time that a Floyd County youth has held this position, since 1983 when Earl Broseh, of Lockney, held that same position.

Candidates from 20 counties apply and give speeches prior to the council elections. Serving as the District Chairman enables Sarah to run for a state council office this August along with representatives from each of the eleven other districts across the state.

Sarah is continuing a 4-H tradition

City Wide Garage Sale brings bargains

FLOYDADA--The annual Floydada City Wide Garage Sale will be held this year on June 7th.

At press time 15 sale locations were already planned. Maps of the garage sale participant's locations will be available Saturday morning at Lowes Pay-N-Save and Friends Convenience Store.

Advertising has been placed in area towns to promote the event and to help residents sell their items on that day.

The annual event in Floydada brings in shoppers from all over the South Plains. Bargain hunters hit the streets early and shopping is usually done in a fast and furious pace for fear of missing out on the next bargain at the next location.

Quitaque to celebrate Trails Day

The annual National Trails Day celebration in Quitaque will be this Saturday, June 7th.

A variety of activities are scheduled beginning with a Lion's Club pancake breakfast at sunrise.

Later in the day there will be a parade, barbecue luncheon, hot air balloon rides, chili cook-off, old time ranch fiddling music, washer pitching contests and motorized tours along the Trailway.

BY THE WAY

By Alice Gilroy

The rain has been a wonderful blessing but I know there are plenty of people who wish it would just stop for a little while.

It is too bad we can't pick and choose the acres we want it to rain on at the specific time we want it to rain there.

If any of us were in charge we would be sure and look out for our little garden or section of land. If our stuff was growing well we probably wouldn't have time to worry if the fellow a few miles away either needed the rain or didn't.

If I could pick and choose I would have a nice little diagram drawn up. I'd tell God I wanted it to rain on my garden just a little bit every other day--so I wouldn't have to worry about dragging out the hose and fighting the mosquitoes.

I'd also tell God how and where I wanted the flowers and vegetables to grow. Of course there could only be weeds in the alley or on the other side of my fence (in the other guy's yard). The weeds would have to quit growing when they reached my grass.

By The Way--speaking of grass and picking and choosing.

My husband and I are working very hard to have some kind of yard. Because of the remodeling on our house, and the construction that has gone on around it, we have very large areas of dirt and no grass.

Since I had such a large area of clean dirt I decided to plant a small garden.

I hoed and hoed and planted tomatoes, okra and squash.

Two days later the hail came and killed the squash.

No matter--I hate squash. Anyway--I really babied my garden. I put a little bitty metal fence around it in the hopes of keeping out children and dogs.

I only mention the fence because it was also supposed to serve as my guideline for where God was not supposed to let weeds or grass grow.

I want you to picture a small garden surrounded by a large area of dirt. Now the wonderful rains came.

Do you know where the grass is growing?

The large area of dirt is still barren.

The garden is completely overrun by grass. Good healthy grass.

The grass has grown up to the little tiny fence line and has stopped. It won't grow outside the boundary of my garden.

I wish I was in charge.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor,

Lets discuss some things about cloud seeding that have recently been said in The Herald and The Cross Section (publication of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1).

In the water district's March meetings to inform the public about precipitation enhancement and to hear public comment, Water District Manager Wayne Wyatt reported that 96 percent of the attendance at those meetings indicated support for his cloud seeding program.

I attended the Plainview meeting with about 13 other people that included Mr. Wyatt and his crew of several people. Myself and two other people were very much opposed to cloud seeding.

I believe there were about twenty people at the Littlefield meeting, again counting Mr. Wyatt, Mr. Bomar and their folks. I do not know the number of approvals or objections.

At the Hereford meeting, I believe there was one person other than the Wyatt-Bomar people. This one person opposed cloud seeding.

If these meetings were typical of the attendance, how many live bodies do you think 96 percent represents as approving cloud seeding?

I challenge your readers to insist that Mr. Wyatt tell us exactly the number of people at these meetings and exactly how many supported cloud seeding.

Citizens for natural weather has about 150 signatures or individuals statements from the Plainview area opposing cloud seeding. I believe if everyone in the water district who opposes cloud seeding would respond we could count many more votes to leave the clouds alone.

These weather modification promoters are using the same tactics they used years ago when citizens for natural weather were trying to stop them.

After three elections it was very apparent that a huge majority of residents of the area opposed cloud seeding.

These cloud seeding people put their intent announcement in the Lubbock and Amarillo papers. Most Plainview and surrounding town missed reading it. We filed a protest and they said we were one day too late.

We have other objections but they say our objections are not legitimate. Briscoe County (downwind of the project) has tremendous opposition. Cloud seeders say these folks are not qualified to oppose. They say the program will not cost anything as the water district is going to pay for the cloud seeding this year. Where did the water district get their money--almost a half million dollars? Who pays next year? Do you need more than one guess?

According to a report in the Herald, I believe they are saying our water district taxes can be increased without a vote by district citizens.

I agree that a timely rain is very valuable. But when a cloud is seeded to induce rain in one area, what effect does that have downwind?

I am about as downwind of this cloud seeding experiment as I can get. Until you have more knowledge and expertise, just leave the clouds alone.

A person told me cloud seeding is successful in Israel. Fine, go to Israel and seed all you want.

Sincerely,
Wayne Bramlet

The Lamplighter

The Texas Legislature went to the well on tax reform and brought back an empty bucket. The tax bill is dead. It is probably just as well.

What started out as a less than perfect proposal by the governor got even less perfect as it went along. By the time each house of the Legislature worked its will, the two branches could only agree to disagree. The whole thing was shelved. We hope this is not the end of it.

Faithful readers of this column will recall that it ended just about the way we predicted. When the governor created his "commission" to hold hearings across the state, he took the income tax off the table. It was not even one of the things they heard testimony on. And when the Legislature crafted its proposal, or proposals, that matter was not even considered.

Without the prospect of a state income tax as a possible alternative, (and a sword of Damocles) hanging over their heads, it became much easier to simply retain the status quo.

We are not great fans of the income tax. But it seems to us that any comprehensive look at the jerry-built tax structure of Texas ought to at least look at the tax to see how it would compare with what we have now. What the argument finally came down to was simply to rearrange the chairs on the Titanic. It became a battle to see which business interests were going to take up the slack for the proposed break for residential home owners. At that point every major business interest had its own rooster in the cockpit.

One can hardly blame them for looking after their own interests. That is one of the engines or representative government. But a quick look at one whose ox might have been gored might shed some light on the outcome.

Little businesses such as ours here at the Hesperian-Beacon pay, among other taxes, a thing called the "franchise tax." It is, when reduced to its simplest terms, nothing but a state income tax on businesses. We have paid it for years, mostly without too much complaining. The Austin American-Statesman, on the other hand, pays no franchise tax. Sometime in the past they formed themselves into a "partnership." In order to avoid that tax. How they did it is beyond me, since the newspaper is only a small part of the giant Cox media conglomerate, a corporation with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia. They have a number of papers in Texas, along with other media interests.

FM 689 to be discussed at public hearing public hearing to Mike Craig, P.E., at P.O. Box 148, Plainview, Tx. 79072. Written comments may also be delivered to TxDOT's Lubbock District Office at 135 Slaton Road or mailed to Davis Melton, TxDOT environmental coordinator, P.O. Box 771, Lubbock, Tx. 79408-0771.

Due to computer changes, The Floyd County Tax Assessor-Collector's office will close the morning of June 11, and will re-open at 1:00 p.m.

Just to satisfy our own curiosity, we ran a check on two recent editions of the paper, one on a weekday, the other on a Sunday. The paper's revenue for any given Sunday is in excess of one million dollars. There are 52 Sundays each year. Weekday revenue, on a daily basis, was about half that of Sunday. That, as our readers might surmise, is a good bit more revenue than here at the Hesperian-Beacon.

We pay a franchise tax for the "privilege" of doing business in Texas.

The Georgia based Cox chain pays no franchise tax, at least on their Austin operation. Their profit goes to Georgia. Ours, if and when we make it, stays here.

(The Austin paper has a consistent left-wing bias, always championing the cause of bigger government, more expensive government. They are all for liberalism; they just want someone else to pay for it).

The price for running a regular ad in the Austin Sunday edition is about $80 for a one inch, one column ad. That runs to over $8,000 for a single full page ad. It is not uncommon for businesses to run several full page ads in a single edition of the paper.

(Apple computers recently ran six full pages in a single edition. They do that, not because they like the paper's editorial stance, but because print advertising pays off. The advertiser is interested in getting his message to as many potential customers as possible, hence, he is interested in the "reach" of the paper. All other things being equal, the more the circulation, the better.)

To repeat: The Austin American-Statesman, with a home base in Atlanta, Georgia, takes in more revenue on a given Sunday than we do in many years. They pay no franchise tax to the state as a privilege for doing business in Texas, but we do.

That is just one small example of how the current tax structure works. It is unfair, in our opinion. And while all tax structures will result in some unfairness, it strikes us that the current system can be improved, and should be improved, even if we have to go to a state income tax to get the job done. Indeed, those small business in Texas that, for one reason or another, have organized themselves as a corporation, are already paying a state income tax.

We have always opposed the idea of a state income tax, but we are coming to the point where, for circuitous reasons, it is beginning to make sense. Why? We'll try to explain.

Government is concerned, at bottom, with two basic acts. Taxing and spending. Certain spending is necessary for a civilized society to hang together. Certain services are necessary and desirable, among these the defense and safety of that society. So we have the armed forces and the police. Beyond that we have many services, some of which are desirable, but not actually necessary. Nevertheless, they all cost money, and that money must be gotten only from people who work and produce in what is called "the private sector." Certain government spending can sometimes "prime the pump", but in the long haul it is only people working and producing in the private sector who produce the taxes necessary to fund government spending, whether for national defense against foreign foes, defense against domestic criminals, or whatever social spending the society desires or will tolerate.

The recent session of the Legislature proved again that "big" people, or big interests, have a lot more influence over Legislation than "little" people. When big interests stand together, even if they are standing for individual interests, not much will get done in the Texas Legislature, or any other representative body, for that matter. Those interests, like the rich and powerful American-Statesman, are not much concerned about the level of government spending, as long as someone else is paying the bill. Indeed, quite often they are on the side of increased spending, since it indicates their own dedication to "the public interest."

But what would happen if the state got its tax money from the salary of people who run the universities or chair the university departments? Or the salary of people who run the vast array of state agencies, schools, or courts? Or the salary of out-of-state corporation executives who run some of the state's biggest businesses? Or the salary of highly-paid lobbyists for various interests before the legislature?

In that circumstance, we imagine there would be a lot less pressure for constantly increased government spending. Those who must influence the legislature would know that they would pay their share of any increased spending.

Somehow, some day, our political leaders will have to do more than confront the issue. They will have to solve it. This time, they at least made a stab at it. Perhaps next time they'll put all the cards on the table.

DeLeon makes dreams come true

By Alice Gilroy
LOCKNEY--Forty-six year old Melida (Meli) DeLeon can tell the local high school graduates a thing or two. She believes dreams really do come true--but only after a lot of hard work.

After six years of balancing a job, housework, family, and school, Meli graduated this Spring from Wayland Baptist University with a BS degree in Occupational Education.

Meli's life has always been busy and her plans always centered around her family. It took a tragedy to change her direction and make her re-think her future.

Born in Lubbock, Meli was raised as a migrant. The oldest of 12 children, she traveled with her family all over the U.S. "We would come to Texas for the cotton harvest. My father was a ginnee for Sterley Gin and Lone Star Gin. We started coming to Lockney in 1956 and I would attend school here."

In 1966, at the age of 16, Meli married her husband Manuel and settled down in Lockney. Two sons, David and Michael, kept her busy at home while Manuel worked as a painter.

Meli started working at Lockney Elementary School as a teacher's aide in 1979. In 1988 a little girl, Marilyn was born.

"Marilyn was born with muscular dystrophy," said Meli. "The doctors gave her only one year to live. She lived for two years and died on Nov. 4, 1990."

After Marilyn was born Meli resigned her position at Lockney Elementary in order to stay at home with her daughter.

The death brought so much grief that the DeLeon's marriage suffered. "We didn't know how to handle it," said Meli. Marilyn died in November and we separated in December."

With her children on their own Meli

moved to Plainview and rented a house. "I started thinking about what I was going to do. I was sure I was going to have to support myself and I didn't want to have to depend on my children to take care of me. You don't know what the future holds and I didn't know who would be around if I needed them. I loved the children and working at the school so I decided to get the education that would enable me to go into the teaching field."

In the Spring of 1991, at the age of 40, Meli entered Wayland Baptist University. "I wasn't the oldest one there," said Meli. "There was a 56 year old grandmother who graduated with my class. I felt very young."

In 1992, Meli and Manuel reunited and Meli moved back to Lockney. Because of the painful memories, the DeLeons sold their home and bought a new house. Meli went back to work at the elementary school in 1992 and continued with her college classes.

"Going to college was hard because I am very family oriented," said Meli. "But my kids grew up with us telling them never to quit. It was hard to live up to my own expectations. There were many times I wanted to say--'Forget it! I don't need this!'"

Meli says her husband was supportive--especially during the last year. "There were lots of times this past year I just wanted to give up but Manuel wouldn't let me. He kept saying--'You've come to far to quit now!'"

Because Meli already has 15 years of experience in the education field she will not have to student teach, but she will have to work in an internship program. Because of her specialization in kindergarten, early childhood and pre-kindergarten, Meli dreams of teaching in kindergarten.

"I love the little children. They have no prejudices. They only want to love you. They are very open little people and I'm very affectionate."

MELIDA DELEON
 By Wilson Photography

Meli says she hopes her determination and graduation might serve as an inspiration to others struggling with college.

"It makes me feel good to have kids come up to me to express their happiness over my graduation. My proudest moment was after the graduation ceremony. Everyone was gathered around me to congratulate me and I looked out over the crowd and saw my husband at the very back standing away from everyone else. He saw me looking at him and he gave me a great big wave and a big smile. It was such a good feeling to have everyone there."

"God has really blessed me. He took a lot away when he took Marilyn--but then he gave a lot in return. I thank God for the determination he gave me."

"I want them to know it wasn't easy and they are also going to face trials. More than anything I want to emphasize to kids that dreams really do come true." And they must--Meli's life is proof.

Business Of The Week

LOCKNEY--Poole's Automotive and Paint Service, located at 208 West Locust in Lockney specializes in automotive repair, motor rebuilding, painting and car restoration as well as irrigation well motors, air conditioning and refrigeration, tire alignment and balancing.

The shop is operated by Doyle Poole Jr. and his sons Brandon and Anthony.

Poole's Automotive was opened in 1956 by Doyle Poole and was located behind Cooper Conoco on South Main.

They were a dealership for International pickups and light trucks from 1960-1973 as well as automotive repair. In 1958 they built their current building on Locust and moved.

Poole related that when they had the International dealership they traveled to Springfield, Ohio on several occasions to bring back pickups and trucks. On one of these trips they were treated to the Indianapolis 500 race on Memorial Day by the International Company.

In the early 60's they sold the City of Lockney two International Fire Trucks, one of which still sees service in an emergency.

When International closed their pickup and light truck lines the Poole's moved totally into the repair business.

They have attended schools to stay up to date with the latest changes in the automotive business.

The Poole's have recently installed an in-house paint mixing system and can mix any original colors from the 50's through the 90's. Metallics can also be added to the colors for a different look. When lights hits their El Camino show vehicle, the color changes from navy blue to purple, with metallic highlights.

When Brandon and Anthony came into the business they were interested in restoring antique and classic cars and are building their business through car shows and word of mouth.

All of the work from the motor to the painting is done in-house and nothing is sent out.

They have entered their cars and pickups in several car shows and have won several trophies.

At the Roadrunners Meals On Wheels Cars Show held in Plainview in May they won a first place with their '68 El Camino and a third place with their '55 Chevy.

Brown and Hurst united in marriage

MR. and MRS. LYN HURST
(nee Roxene Brown)

Miss Roxene Larece Brown, of Canyon, and Lyn Hurst, of Amarillo, were united in marriage at The Wedding Chapel in Amarillo. Rick Mathis, of Amarillo, officiated.

Parents of the bride are Gary and Charlene Brown, of Floydada. Parents of the groom are Calvin and Lyna Hurst, of Wellington. Grandmothers of the bride are Sybil Brown, of Groom, and Ismanell Gray, of Clarendon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white street-length dress. The bride used the time-old custom of something new, something old. The new was the dress and earrings given to her by the groom.

The "old" was her paternal grandmother's wedding ring set. Something blue was a garter made for her by Atha Sue, of Floydada. Something borrowed was a white handkerchief from her maternal grandmother that once belonged to the bride's great-grandmother. Roxene carried a bouquet of gardenias, larkspur, English ivy and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Rhealene Brown, of Canadian, sister of the bride. She wore a hunter green skirt, denim shirt, and a mauve and denim vest. The bridesmaid was Morgan Hurst, of Wellington, daughter of the groom. She wore a denim skirt, hunter green shirt and a denim vest. Both attendants carried a bouquet of mauve roses with baby's breath and English ivy.

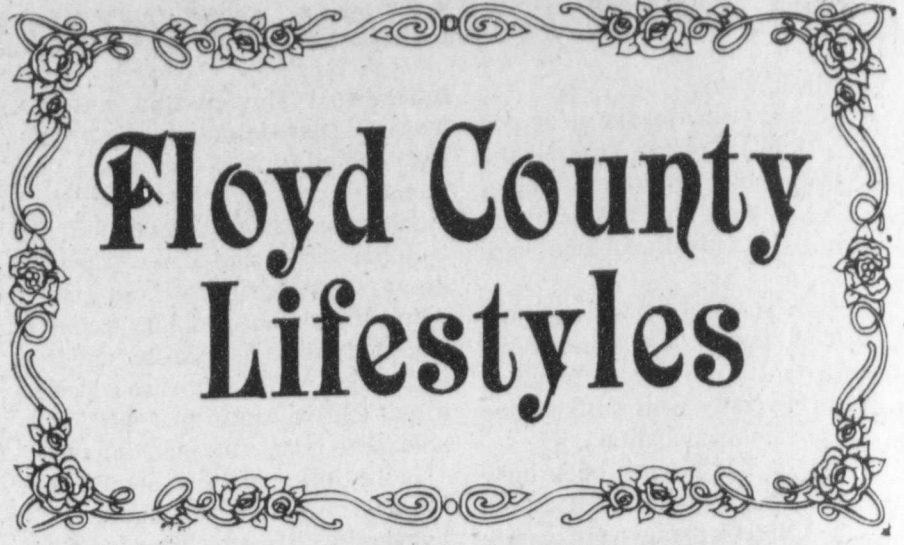

The groom and his attendants were dressed in western shirts, jeans and boots. The best man was Tony Hurst of Amarillo, brother of the groom. Groomsman was Ronnie Hurst, of Pampa, brother of the groom.

A party for Roxene on March 26 was given by fellow employees of the Student Tutoring Service of West Texas A&M University. Hosting the event were Sandra Branch, Michelle Botsonis, Casey Stephens, Jennifer Huckabee and Arturo Aguilar.

Bridal courtesies included a bridal luncheon on the day of the wedding at The Back Porch in Amarillo given by her aunt, Gloria Gray of Canyon and her grandmothers. A party on Friday, March 28, was held for the couple hosted by the groom's family.

A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Roxene was given April 19 in the home of Mrs. Scott Simpson. Hostesses were: Kay Tinney, Trena Simpson, Atha Sue, Darleen Stovall, Sandra Schwertner, Dora Ross, Vickie Norrell, Laveta Morren, Melissa Long, Loretta Leatherman, Donna Henderson, Elaine Galloway, Edris Edwards, Mary Alice Davis, Sue Crow, Linda Crader, Deedie Covington and Ann Carthel.

The couple will reside in the Amarillo area. The bride is employed by Amarillo Independent School District as a math teacher at Tascosa High School. The groom is employed by Tascosa Country Club as the assistant superintendent.

There was a nice crowd at the seniors meeting on Thursday night, May 29th. All seemed to have a good time.

The Millenium Singers from the Plainview Senior Citizens came and entertained. They gave a good musical program. We thank them for entertaining us and hope they will come back soon.

Also thanks to the hostesses for the month of May. They did a good job each Thursday night.

June is membership dues month. If you know someone who is eligible to be a member, and is not, please encourage them to come and pay their dues and get involved with us. Any dues paid late will be due again in June 1998.

We need more people to get involved in working for, and with, the organization. There are several ways to get involved other than just coming on Thursday nights. Also the quilt is finished and tickets are being sold. They are $5.00 each and are available from members, or at the Center. The quilt is a cream on cream Heirloom quilt in the Mediterranean Star pattern.

JEAN DAVENPORT

LINDA PUCKETT

Bank artists featured

FLOYDADA -- Linda Puckett and Mina Jean Davenport have been selected as the First National Bank of Floydada artists for the month of June. The two Post, Texas artists will be exhibiting their works throughout the month during regular banking hours.

Mina Jean Davenport was born and reared in Turkey, Texas and lived all over the nation before returning to Texas. She and her husband enjoy horseshoe pitching and he has always been very supportive of her.

She likes to do detailed oil paintings and pastel portraits of children. Most of her work is on commissioned paintings. Many of her paintings hang in private collections.

"People have always fascinated me and I like to have people in action, with or without animals," says Davenport.

Her dedication to her craft is evident in her work and in her involvement in Kids 'n Art, a children's art awareness project in Post and Tahoka.

Linda Puckett, the second featured artist, is the creator and director of the Kids 'n Art program. She is also in-involved in the Garza County Historical Museum, the Women's Division of the Post Chamber of Commerce, and participates in the annual Tabu'ne Yua'ne. She and her husband Tommy share six children and ten grandchildren.

"All of my life I have been in tune with something that drives me to take a given situation and improve it to the best it can be within the boundaries allowed. Some call that art, but I call it my Indian heritage, which led me to art," says Puckett. She also brings Irish, German, and French heritages to her ancestry and to her art.

"I am rich in heritage and reflect that in my children's book, Of Two Worlds which won third place in the Texas Alliance for Education and the Arts 1996 Sheila Y. Fox Publication Design Award," said Puckett. The native Texan's concern for children has resulted in efforts to teach art to 60 children in Post and Tahoka in addition to her work as an artist.

Everyone is invited to stop by during the month and see the works of these two area artists.

The regular meeting of the Harmony Family and Community Education Club was held Monday, May 26th, at 2:00 p.m. in the home of Doris Elaine Reid, daughter of club member Doris Snodgrass. Mrs. Reid gave our program. She showed us many new products that she has used when she makes crafts, and also many beautiful crafts that she has made using these products. She ended the program by showing us all how to make a birdhouse out of styrofoam and twisted paper, using a piece of corrugated light bulb box for the roof. These turned out to be very cute. Thank you, Doris Elaine, for giving us such a nice program.

Our hostess, Lucille Miller, served us a delicious layered sandwich with petit fours, candy, and punch. Each plate was decorated with a rabbit made out of a napkin. Refreshments were served to Doris Elaine Reid, club members Vivian Curtis, Anna Maude Hopper, Karen Miller, Lucille Miller, Imelda Ramsey, Juanita Pool, Ruth Scott, Arvie Schulz, Doris Snodgrass, Maye Williams, and guest Lupe Pence.

Scholarships awarded to regional high school seniors

The region 17 Education Service Center has announced the winners of two $500 scholarships offered to high school seniors planning a college major in biology. They are Jennifer Lynn from Lockney High School and Cody Leigh-Ann Hash of Ralls High School. Ms. Lynn was sponsored by Lockney teacher, Heather Stowe, and Ms. Hash was sponsored by Ralls teacher, Dale Matlock.

The students were selected on the basis of their research-based essays on "The Impact of Genetics on My Future." According to Dr. Lisa Leach, coordinator of curriculum and instruction at Region 17, "The scholarships were made available to students who attended a Genetics Conference for Advanced High School Science Students held in Lubbock last February. Over 800 students from 17 school districts throughout the region attended this year's conference, hosted annually by the Education Service Center. The conference provides teachers and students up-to-date information in the rapidly changing field of genetics, including DNA fingerprinting, the Human Genome Project, and birth defects."

Farm Bureau supports youth with scholarship money

The Texas Farm Bureau and county Farm Bureaus in Texas in 1996 contributed more than $150,000 in scholarships and to local livestock shows and other youth activities.

The TFB presented $39,700 in scholarships to state and district winners in the Talent Find, Miss Texas Farm Bureau, and Free Enterprise Speech competition.

The Talent Find and Miss TFB contests are open to youths of 16 to 19 years of age in Farm Bureau families. The speech competition, also for FB youths, is limited to those who have attended the TFB Citizenship Seminar, given the required number of speeches on the free enterprise system and are a junior or senior in high school.

Local county FB youth winners include: Meredith Schacht and John Dunavant of Floydada, and Stacy Bigham and Michelle Smith of Lockney.

Each year TFB presents a total of four $4,000 scholarships to a member of the Future Homemakers of America, a member of the Texas FFA Association, and two 4-H Club

Martin family continues 4-H tradition of service and fun

Continued From Page 1 in her family. Her older sister, Cynthia, and her brother, Allen, are both winners of 4-H honors and scholarships; her mother and father, Kay and Jim Martin are both 4-H leaders.

Sarah has served her club in the offices of Vice President in charge of programs, Co. Council Delegate and this year will serve as her local club president. She served as the second vice president of the District Council last year.

Sarah has been active in a variety of projects, activities and camps such as county camp, district Leadership Camp, district Electric Camp, Interstate Exchange, projects such as sheep, swine, recreation, food and nutrition, consumer education, clothing, woodworking and many others. She was on a second place Share-The-Fun team at State 4-H Roundup last year and will be returning for her second year in Share-The-Fun this year as well as competing in the State Fashion Show.

This 4-H'er comes by this honor honestly. Her entire family was involved in elections the same week Sarah was. Sister Cynthia was a 9-year member taking honors at the State Fashion Show, Share-The-Fun and receiving a $4,000, 4-H Scholarship her senior year. As a student at Texas A&M, Cynthia recently received the Outstanding Freshman collegiate 4-H'er Award & Scholarship.

Sarah's brother Allen, also a 9-year 4-H'er was a state record book winner, State Share-The-Fun winner and $10,000, 4-H scholarship recipient. Allen recently was elected President of Aggie council which represents all organizations within the College of Agriculture at Texas A&M. He served as secretary of the Southern Region for collegiate 4-H last year.

At the same time Sarah was being elected to her office, her mom, Kay, was being voted in as an At Large Delegate of the District Adult Leaders Association. Kay has served as Floyd County's Parent/Leader Association president, Lockney club manager and has been a leader for various projects throughout the years.

Sarah's dad, Jim, has served as a 4-H leader as well as assisting with swine projects, sheep projects, county camp, various fund raisers, Floyd County Stock Show Board and much more. He was also vying for a place on the Lockney school board on that same day as well.

The Martins are a prime example of how 4-H can benefit the entire family. Involvement is the key. Congratulations, Sarah. Wear that green blazer with pride because of what it represents and we wish you luck in the State wide elections.

Bethany Baptist Church to host revival in Floydada

A Brownfield family has provided Wayland Baptist University with $240,000 that will be used for renovations to the Van Howeling Hall.

Wayne and Elva Mullins left a savings gathered from years of hard work to further Wayland's mission.

"They never had children of their own," said Barbara Cunyus of Lockney, Wayne's sister, "but they had a deep love for children...this was the way they chose to do what they could to help."

Wayne and Elva Mullins, longtime Brownfield residents, were members of Immanuel Baptist Church and actively involved with children's programs before their deaths.

"The Mullins family represents the type of frugal living, faithful family that settled West Texas," said Dr. David Smith, Wayland's vice president for institutional advancement.

"Wayland Baptist University is proud to accept their contribution and add it to the long list of committed Wayland supporters that make this place special," said Dr. Smith.

Mr. Mullins, who died in 1991, was a farmer, a school bus driver, and a Terry County commissioner from 1958-70.

"He especially enjoyed driving the school bus, because he loved children and enjoyed being around them," Cunyus said.

Mrs. Mullins, who died in 1996, was a great helpmate for her husband's farming duties, and was especially talented at crocheting.

She taught the 4-year olds Sunday School class at her church for many years, until her health prevented her from continuing.

Mr. Mullins is survived by two sisters, Barbara Cunyus and Rita Webster, both of Lockney.

"FOCUS ON THE FAMILY" with Dr. James Dobson

QUESTION: I have a defiant 5-year-old son, and I'm doing my best to cope with the assignment of shaping his will. Lately, I've had feelings of guilt and self-doubt over the constant tug-of-war I'm in. Do other parents of strong-willed children feel the same?

Dr. Dobson: Yes, many do. One of the problems is that parents have been told by the "experts" that managing children is duck soup for those who do it right. That leaves them with intense self-condemnation when things don't work that smoothly in their homes.

No one told them that parenthood would be this difficult, and they blame themselves for the tension that arises. They had planned to be such loving and effective parents, reading fairy tales to their pajama-clad angels by the fireplace. The difference between life as it is and life as it ought to be is a frightening bit of reality.

I'm glad you were able to verbalize your feelings of guilt and depression. That is important. In response, let me give you three assurances that will help you:

1. It isn't all your fault.
2. It won't always be so difficult.
3. You're probably doing a much better job than you think.

Hang in there. Your strong-willed child will someday be a stalwart, respectable, hard-working citizen whose only source of depression will emanate from conflict with his own strong-willed child.

QUESTION: The children in our neighborhood are bratty with one another and disrespectful with adults. This upsets me, but I don't know what to do about it. I don't feel I have a right to discipline the children of my neighbors. How can I deal with this?

Dr. Dobson: Parents in a neighborhood must learn to talk to each other about their kids, but that takes some doing! There is no quicker way to anger a mother than for another woman to criticize her precious club. It is a delicate subject, indeed. That's why the typical neighborhood is like yours, providing little "feedback" to parents in regard to the behavior of their children. The kids know there are no lines of communication between adults, and they take advantage of the barrier.

What each block needs is a mother who has the courage to say, "I want to be told what my child does when he is beyond his own yard. If he is a brat with other children, I would like to know it. If he is disrespectful with adults, please mention it to me. I will not consider it tattling, and I won't resent your coming to me. I hope I can share my insights regarding your children, too. None of our sons and daughters is perfect, and we'll know better how to teach them if we can talk openly to each other as adults."

Parents who take this important first step--and it won't be an easy subject to broach--improve the chances of raising well-behaved children.

Dr. James Dobson is a psychologist, author and president of Focus on the Family, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Correspondence to Dr. Dobson should be addressed to: Focus on the Family, P.O.

Lockney Care Center contributes to Alzheimer's research funding

LOCKNEY-The Unicare Foundation, Inc., a national not-for-profit charitable organization, announced today that it has approved a $15,000 grant to The John Douglas French Alzheimer's Foundation. The grant will fund a joint Unicare/French Foundation fellowship awarded to Dora M. Kovacs, Ph.D. The Unicare Foundation has sponsored fellowship grants with the French Foundation for ten years, for a total in grant commitments of $270,000.

Dr. Kovacs is part of a research team at Harvard Medical School, Massachusetts General Hospital, Genetics and Aging Unit, Department of Neurology. Her work involves biological investigation of two recently discovered genes responsible for the inherited, or familial, form of Alzheimer Disease. Her team is very close to discovering the mechanism which controls the new genes, that are believed to cause familial Alzheimer Disease.

The mission of The Unicare Foundation is to support research and service projects relative to Alzheimer Disease, and to support caregiver education, and quality of life programs within nursing and rehabilitation centers. The Unicare Foundation was established by Unicare Health Facilities, a national provider of health care services. Unicare Health Facilities operates 200 health care, assisted living, rehabilitation and retirement centers across the country. The Foundation's activities are supported well.

Lockney Care Center has contributed to this effort through various fund-raising activities in the Lockney community. We appreciate your support as we strive through education and research to find a cure for Alzheimer's Disease.

The French Foundation for Alzheimer Research is a non-profit organization dedicated to finding the cause, cure and key to prevention of Alzheimer Disease. Its philosophy is to carry out the lifelong purpose of Dr. John Douglas French, in advancing research and healing of brain disease. Dr. French, who was co-founder of the UCLA Brain Research Institute, died January 24, 1989, after seven years as an Alzheimer victim.

Floyd and Crosby Counties
Current Situation

Cool, wet weather has dampened the spirits of cotton farmers, but most would agree it is a lot better than the drought faced last season. Cotton planting is running behind normal and its no time to cut corners. Managing for earliness will be the key to a good cotton crop this season. This can be achieved by avoiding thrips damage to seedling cotton, which under some conditions may reduce stands, stunt plants, and delay fruiting and maturity.

Thrips

Thrips are slender, straw colored insects about 1/15 inch long, with piercing sucking mouthparts. Adults are winged and capable of drifting long distances in the wind. Thrips attack leaves, leaf buds and very small squares and may cause silencing of the lower leaf surface. Thrips damage is most evident during cool, wet periods when small cotton is growing slowly. Thrips damage is further compounded by plant damage resulting from rain, wind, blowing sand, and diseases. Thrips can migrate in heavy numbers from adjacent weeds on crops, especially small grains, and cause significant damage within a few days prior to the appearance of true leaves. Significant damage rarely occurs after the 4-to-6 true leaf stage.

Although no research-based economic threshold has been established for this pest field observations have indicated that control may be justified when an average of one to five thrips per plant is found. The number of thrips per plant to use as a treatment guideline increases as plants add more leaves.

Boll Weevil

The Texas Agriculture Extension Service Boll Weevil Grid Traps were placed in Crosby and Floyd Counties on April 1. These traps have been placed in the same locations for the previous two years. Each trap is labeled with "TAEX" and a number for identification. Anyone may look at these traps, but please do not open them. The Agri-Partners Trapping Grid was established to provide seasonal data about the numbers and movements of cotton boll weevils.

Producers Boll-Weevil Traps

This may be a year in which overwintered-boll-weevil control will really pay. Producers wanting to purchase traps to monitor the weevil situation and make management decision need to get their traps A.S.A.P. The best time to put traps out is just after a field is planted. You need two weeks of trapping data before matchhead-squares to generate reliable numbers. You will need four traps per 160 acres and enough pheromone and kill strips for eight weeks. The pheromone lasts two weeks and the kill strips lasts four weeks. Sources of traps and supplies are Hercon Environmental (717)764-1191, Iseline and Associates (602)897-2051 and Great Lakes IPM (517)268-5693.

Boll Weevil Life Cycle

Emerging overwintered boll weevils usually move relatively short distances from hibernation sites and usually are confined to small areas in fields adjacent to good overwintering habitat. Overwintered weevil emergence begins during early spring and generally peaks during late May and early June. However, significant emergence can continue into early July in some years. The adult weevil is about 1/4 inch long, grayish brown, and has a prolonged snout with chewing mouthparts at its tip. The presence of two distinct spurs on the lower part of the first segment of the front leg will distinguish the boll weevil from other weevils with which it might be confused.

Recently emerged adult weevils feed on squares or bolls for four to eight days before mating and laying eggs. Adult weevils puncture squares or bolls both for feeding and for egg-laying. Egg-laying punctures can be distinguished from feeding punctures by the presence of a warlike plug which the female places over the site after she has deposited an egg in the cavity. The female deposits an average of 100 eggs during her life span of about 30 days.

Eggs hatch into larvae, or grubs, within three to five days under mid-summer conditions. Grubs transform into pupae within a square or boll in approximately seven to eleven days. Adults emerge three to five days later. The time required for development from egg to adult under summer field conditions averages 17 days, with a complete generation occurring in 21 to 25 days.

Punctured squares flare open and usually fall to the ground within a week. Small bolls that are punctured may also fall to the ground, but larger bolls remain on the plant. When direct sunlight and hot, dry conditions cause fallen squares to dry out rapidly, large numbers of weevil larvae do not survive. Boll-weevil populations reach their highest level late in the growing season.

Cloud seeding in the southern High Plains to begin soon

By High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1

Cloud seeding operations to increase rainfall within the 15-county High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 service area and a portion of eastern New Mexico will begin as soon as final equipment is installed at the Weather Modification Inc. operations center at the Littlefield, Texas airport.

"No aircraft will be launched for cloud seeding until the operations center is fully functional," said A. Wayne Wyatt, High Plains Water District manager. "The radar unit is up and running, but there are a few other pieces of equipment that need to be in place before regular flights begin. We expect Weather Modification Inc. personnel to complete this in the next few days."

On May 23, the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) approved a four-year permit to allow Weather Modification Inc. to conduct spring and summer precipitation enhancement programs on behalf of the Water District.

Precipitation enhancement, or cloud seeding, is an attempt to encourage clouds to generate more rainfall than they would otherwise by introducing seeding agents, such as silver iodide. The silver iodide provides additional condensation nuclei to allow more cloud moisture to be converted to large raindrops that can survive the fall through the dry subcloud layer and reach the ground as meaningful rainfall.

An addendum to the original contract with Weather Modification Inc. was approved by the Water District Board of Directors on May 27 to extend the 1997 precipitation enhancement activities to include Roosevelt County, New Mexico. Two other New Mexico counties, Curry and southwestern Quay, indicated a serious intent to join the program; however, they did not have representation at the May 27 special board meeting. They will likely join the program within the next few weeks, according to Scotty Savage, a representative of the Llano Estacado Weather Modification Association, which includes all three New Mexico counties.

Participants will pay a pro-rata share of the fixed and reimbursable program costs, based upon total acreage. For example, the High Plains Water District will pay 81 percent of the program cost for its 6,869,910 acre service area, while Roosevelt County will pay 19 percent of the program cost for its 1,570,880 acre service area. These percentages will be adjusted accordingly if the other New Mexico counties join the program.

"Approval of this addendum has several advantages. The residents of Roosevelt County, New Mexico will benefit from any additional rainfall generated as a result of the precipitation enhancement program. The contractor's permit to seed clouds in New Mexico will benefit producers within the High Plains Water District whose farms are close to the Texas-New Mexico state line. Also, the addition of Roosevelt County will help reduce the per-acre cost to residents of our district," said Wyatt.

The Water District will pay for the program's first year with its operating reserves, but will likely increase taxes to fund the program in subsequent years. The District currently assesses a tax rate of .0084 cents per $100 valuation.

Water District staff are working to establish a home page on the Internet that will contain information about the precipitation enhancement program. "Once it is operational, persons accessing this web site will be able to view Doppler radar images of clouds which have been seeded and obtain updated information about the program," said Wyatt.

The precipitation enhancement program will operate from May to September 1997. The target area consists of all of Bailey, Cochran, Hale, Lubbock, Lynn, and Parmer Counties. It also includes parts of Armstrong, Castro, Crosby, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Hockley, Lamb, Potter, and Randall Counties in Texas and Roosevelt County in New Mexico.

Additional information about the 1997 precipitation enhancement program is available by contacting the High Plains Water District at 2930 Avenue Q, Lubbock, Texas 79405-1499, or by calling (806) 762-0181.

The "marginal" tax rate applies to the last dollars you earn, not your total income. Thus, a single taxpayer with $58,153 of taxable income falls into the 31 percent marginal bracket but pays far less overall.
