Scouts honor Flag Day

Thanks to Floydada and Lockney Boy Scouts, hundreds of city residents will wake up Saturday morning, June 14th, to find the American flag waving in their front yard.

Saturday is Flag Day and also one more day for the Scouts to honor the Flag and help raise money for their activities.

Six times each year, on national holidays, the Scouts place the flags in the yards of citizens who have contributed $25.00 to this fund raiser. Floydada Scouts put out approximately 300 flags. Lockney Scouts place 160 flags.

Boy Scouts have traditionally held a deep respect for the U.S. flag and are taught how to care for and display the flag as part of Scout training.

According to the official handbook for Boy Scouts of America, "the official history of our flag begins on June 14, 1777 when the American Congress adopted a resolution, proposed by John Adams, for a new flag, the 'thirteen stars, white on a blue field, representing a new constellation.'

"We take," said George Washington, 'the star from Heaven, the red from our mother country (Britain), separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty.'"

Inspired by three decades of state and local celebrations, Flag Day--the anniversary of the Flag Resolution of 1777--was officially established by the Proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson on May 30th, 1916.

While Flag Day was celebrated in various communities for years after Wilson's proclamation, it was not until August 3rd, 1949, that President Truman signed an Act of

Congress designating June 14th of each year as National Flag Day.

According to the Boy Scout handbook, flag etiquette mandates that the flag should not be hoisted before sunrise nor allowed to remain up after sunset (without proper lighting); at "retreat" sunset, civilian spectators should stand at attention; when national colors pass by on parade or review, the spectators should, if walking, halt, and if sitting rise and stand attention, men uncovering their heads; and on Memorial Day, May 30th, the flag should fly at half mast from sunrise until noon, and full staff from noon to sunset.

When national colors pass by on parade or review, the spectators should, if walking, halt, and if sitting rise and stand attention, men uncovering their heads; and on Memorial Day, May 30th, the flag should fly at half mast from sunrise until noon, and full staff from noon to sunset.

New Floyd County highway could become reality by the year 2002

By Juanita Stepp

Northeast Floyd County residents can expect at least a five year wait before completion of a new state highway in their area according to Texas Department of Transportation officials. Development of a highway connecting State Highway 207 with Farm to Market Road 1065 could begin sometime after July 31, 1997 if construction is approved.

Mike Craig, Plainview Area Engineer for TxDOT, conducted the final public hearing concerning the proposed 16.2 mile roadway. Fifty-two people were present at the combined open house/hearing in the District Courtroom of the Floyd County Courthouse on Tuesday evening, June 10.

Craig told those attending that the project, if approved, would be the "most expensive piece of road ever built in the Lubbock District at an estimated cost of $2,900.00 per vehicle mile."

Construction costs have been estimated at $5,252,000 by state engineers. This would be paid entirely by the state with no local or federal involvement.

Floyd County would bear the cost of acquiring the needed right-of-way and necessary relocation of utilities along the roadway. Estimates of county expenses are being placed at $225,000 to $320,000.

This would include hiring independent fee appraisers and review appraisers as well as relocating two dump sites identified along the route. Right-of-way would be obtained by purchase at fair market value, declaration of eminent domain, or by donation from the landowners.

Another consideration is the fact that Floyd County is a closed range county. Any landowner who has livestock pastures adjoining the roadway would have to fence it at their own expense.

Craig indicated that there were no major drawbacks to approval of the project, but there were no really convincing arguments in favor of construction.

According to environmental studies conducted by Davis Melton, Environmental Coordinator for the Lubbock District, there would be little impact on the local environment along the recommended route. He estimated a short term impact of about $20,000,000 on the local economy during construction, but could not demonstrate any appreciable long term economic impact, which would result from construction of the roadway.

Craig stated, "The highway would play a supportive role in the area and the long term effect would be good, but what is there now works."

The major areas which would benefit from the project would be the improvement to the condition of the existing roadway for those who use it. This would include school buses, mail delivery, farm and ranch producers and tourists visiting Caprock Canyon State Park.

Following the information portion of the hearing, citizens were invited to express their views concerning the project by speaking at the hearing, submitting written comment, or making a statement to the clerk making the official record of the proceedings.

Public written comment concerning the project will continue to be accepted until 5:00 p.m. on June 20. Comments may be addressed to J.M. Craig, P.E. at: TxDOT, Box 148, Plainview, Tx. 79072-0148.

Any comments received will be incorporated into the official record of the project development and considered along with existing data in evaluating the project's feasibility.

Final environmental documentation will be completed by July 31, 1997 and submitted for review. If the project is approved, Floyd County could begin acquiring right-of-way in the spring of 1998. Construction would begin in the spring of the year 2000 and would take 18 to 24 months for completion, with the road opening to traffic in the year 2002.

County agrees to citizens request and formally closes northeast part of W. Ollie

By Juanita Stepp

Floyd County Commissioners voted unanimously to grant a request from local residents and landowners for closing a designated county road during the regular June session. A formal request had been posted as required by law and the eleven petitioners on the notice approved the change.

Making the motion on Monday, June 9, to discontinue the road was Precinct 1 Commissioner RayNell Bearden. A second was provided by Precinct 2 Commissioner Jon Jones and all present voted unanimously in favor of the motion.

The county's action formally closes the northeast portion of West Ollie Street outside the city limits of Floydada. According to Judge Bill Hardin, the designated street in Price First Addition has never been used for traffic.

A motion by Precinct 2 Commissioner Lennie Gilroy approved an unmarked car for the sheriff's department. The vehicle, currently part of the fleet will not have decals and will bear regular license plates. The motion was seconded by Jones and passed by unanimous vote.

An extra vehicle belonging to the sheriff's department will be available for use by the juvenile probation department. Motion for this was made by Bearden and seconded by Gilroy. All voted in favor of the motion.

County treasurer Mary Shurbet made her report for the month of May.

According to the report, the county began the month with $442,122.30 and took in receipts of $111,212.95. Disbursements were $167,222.54, leaving a balance of $386,112.71 in county accounts as of May 31.

She also reported certificates of deposit in the amounts of $420,000.00 in undivided tax funds, $30,000 for Pct. 1, $50,000 for Pct. 2, $130,000 for Pct. 3, and $55,000 for Pct. 4. CD's and interest bearing accounts for the county have earned $28,682.79 during the current fiscal year.

Budget amendments were passed including: increasing the treasurer's travel by $139.50 and decreasing treasurer's equipment; increasing Tax Assessor/Collector's extra labor $8.00 and decreasing TAVC equipment; increasing prisoner care/medical and Prisoner care/prisoner hygiene by $500,000 each and decreasing prisoner care/groceries by $1,000.00; increasing library subscriptions $9.91 and decreasing library books; and increasing law library books $1,000.00

Increased rates on extended calling denied

According to Floydada City Manager Gary Brown, the extended local calling legislation which would have increased the surcharge amount for Extended Calling on your exchange did not pass.

"I thought the bill had a good chance of passage," said Brown. "The bill went like a rocket through the Senate. When the bill arrived at the House State Affairs Committee, it did not get an enthusiastic reception and it died in that committee."

The bill was introduced after complaints from Southwestern Bell. Bell claimed to have lost money as a result of the extended local calling legislation passed two years ago.

Bell claims a loss in revenue last year of $339,519, which would have been earned either from calls to the 983 area or from the 983 area.

The bill suggested a monthly surcharge in addition to the $3.50 and $7.00 charges currently being paid by customers for the extended calling privilege.

Fair Date Set For August

The Floyd County Fair will be held in August this year.

Dates for the Floyd County Fair have been set for August 21st-24th.

Coach Knight presents resignation

FISD hires Van Hoose as Administrative Assistant

FLOYDADA -- Superintendent Jimmy Collins told FISD School Board members, Tuesday night, that Coach Jim Knight had indicated his intention to resign as Boys Varsity Basketball Coach.

Because the school board agenda had already been posted Collins told the board members he was unable to add Knight's resignation to the agenda. It will be discussed at the next board meeting.

Collins said Knight had accepted a position in Panhandle.

Trustees agreed to hire Dick Van Hoose as Administrative Assistant, Curriculum Director and Director of Technology. Van Hoose will have an annual salary of $57,000 with a 2 year contract.

Van Hoose will resign his position as Principal of Caprock Counties Learning Cooperative.

On a split vote trustees approved an additional $1,300 stipend for Ag teachers. This will increase their compensation to $3,000 above their regular salary.

The increase was approved because of the extra time Ag teachers devote to the students after hours.

Mitch Probasco made the motion to approve the increase. Steve Lloyd seconded and voting in favor were: Charlene Brown and Bill Dean.

Opposed were Billy Joe Villarreal and Amado Morales.

Morales was also opposed to Ag teacher Doug Baucom receiving $1,300 because he has the use of a school pickup to drive to work from Dougherty.

Morales made a motion to offer Baucom $500 less with the use of the pickup or the full $1,300 without the use of the pickup to drive to and from work.

B.J. Villarreal made the second. Joining them in favor of this motion were Steve Lloyd, Jack Robertson, and Bill Dean.

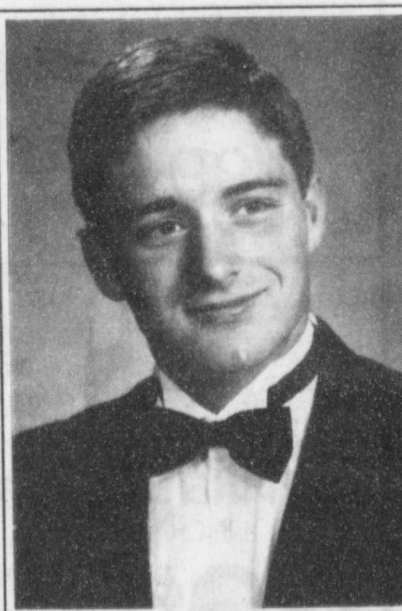

Opposed was Charlene Brown and Mitch Probasco.

Juvenile Probation Officer Bruce Ballou and Dick Van Hoose spoke on the new Juvenile Justice Alternative Education Program (JJAEP).

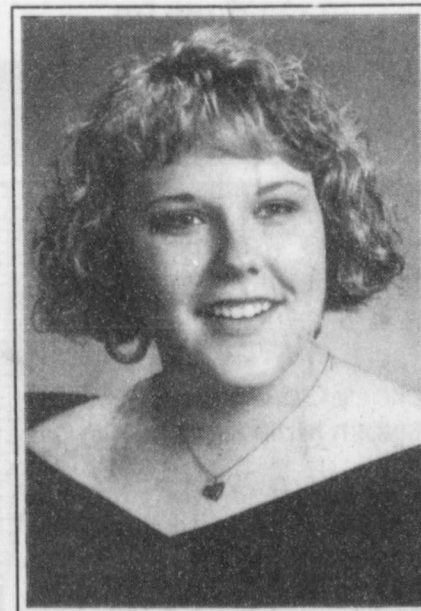

According to Ballou the JJAEP is a wrap-around service for juveniles.

Claude Brown resigns from Housing Authority Board

Lockney City Council handles short agenda

by Cindy Perez

LOCKNEY--Jinna Sue Turner will replace Claude Brown as Chairperson for the Housing Authority Board as of July 1, 1997. The decision was made at the regular session of the Lockney City Council, June 9. Brown has indicated to the council that he wishes to leave the board.

In the same motion the council appointed Aida Palomin to fill Turner's place as a board member. Motion was made by Councilman J.D. Copeland and was seconded by Councilwoman Tina Graves. Both Palomin and Turner will serve a two-year term.

The council reviewed the financial statements and motion was approved to pay bills. Minutes of the previous meetings were read.

Department reports were given by Dickie McCarty, Kenny Hooten and Arsenio Martinez.

McCarty reported to the council that the west sewer lift in Lockney was in need of replacing.

Police Chief Jerry Edwards reported to the council that the new police car has been delivered and is in the process of getting the proper equipment for patrolling.

Martinez brought the council's attention to a leak in the Lockney Community Center. The council instructed Martinez to work at getting the leak and plumbing repaired since the community center will be rented throughout the summer months.

Those present at the June meeting were Mayor Marr, Council members Copeland, Graves, Richard Zavala, City Secretary Charlotte Hooten, and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter.

With the heavy rains in the area, bar ditches have filled with water and are a tempting target for youthful swimmers.

Police Chief Jerry Edwards warns citizens of the dangers involved when youth swim in unauthorized areas.

Bar ditches, playa lakes and other low lying areas not only hold water, but harbor mosquitoes, broken glass and other sharp objects which present potential hazards to children.

Parents are urged to protect their children from these dangers by not allowing them to swim in unauthorized areas.

The Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

It has been a long time since we've seen the state as green and water logged as it is now.

We had to go down to Houston the other day to make a speech and sign a few books. (Well, we didn't really "have" to go. They called and asked, and in a moment of weakness, we said "yes."

At any rate, we went. Then we went down the coast, through Rockport, then south through the King Ranch country to the Rio Grande Valley, through our old home country in Willacy County, looked over a golf course near Raymondville that was once our farm, (about 65 years ago) and came back a different route.

Creeks, rivers, lakes, all were full to overflowing. There was grass and water everywhere. And from the looks of the countryside, there will be plenty of grazing for some time to come. Cattle were fat, contented, putting on weight. A year ago it wasn't that way.

But it wasn't all good. As usual rule, cotton harvest is in full swing in July, in the valley, but this year it was still in various stages of development. Some knee high. Some just getting started. Some fields still fallow. Vast fields of onions plowed up, too wet to harvest. The local paper reported one farmer had to abandon 1,400 acres of cantaloupes, another 900 acres of ready-to-harvest onions. So it went. And all that on top of last year's disastrous crops throughout the region.

As our own farmers here can testify, life on the farm is not always a bed of roses. Quite often it is difficult to live with the weather, and it is always impossible to live without it.

Still, one hears very few complaints. After living with the drought so long, and praying for rain so hard, it somehow seems uncomfortable complaining. Too, they know they have been through all this before, and will again.

And speaking of weather, the government's meteorologists have now upgraded the force of the twister that hit Jarrell, a small community of some 600 about 40 miles north of Austin, to an "F5" category, which, they say, ranks it in the very top of tornadoes, with winds in excess of 260 miles per hour. The storm, which killed some 27 people, was strong enough to rip up asphalt pavement and tear anchor bolts from concrete moorings. Many of the homes were not merely wrecked, they were simply wiped off the face of the Earth, leaving concrete foundations that looked like someone had swept them with a broom. Personal effects were found in communities along the Pedernales River, some 60 miles away. Strange things happened. A heavy screwdriver was embedded in a tree, some five inches deep at about eye level. Bark from what was left of the tree had been peeled clean. It was bad, very bad, as many tornadoes are.

What to say, what to do? We can't say much, except that we are terribly sorry for those who suffered. And we help where we can.

On another unrelated subject, which also bears some good and bad news, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock says he is not going to stand for re-election. That set off a chain reaction, the likes of which Texas hasn't seen in quite a while.

The lines began forming immediately. State Comptroller John Sharp, who has been flirting with the idea of running against George W. Bush for governor, jumped into the race for Bullock's place as Lt. Governor. Two Republicans on the Railroad Commission, Carol Rylander and Barry Williamson, indicate they will run for Sharp's job. Any number of Republicans, including Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry, are looking at Bullock's job as well.

The really good news in all this is that the state's electorate will be able to finally retire Garry Mauro from public life. Mauro has been safely tucked away in office of General Land Commissioner for too long. (That's a job most people don't focus on, and whoever is there tends to stay there, regardless of how bad they do their jobs.) But Bush will obviously run for reelection, and if Mauro does indeed decide to tackle him, Bush will win hands down. Then Mauro will be out of a job, waiting for his good friend Bill Clinton to put in a few good words for him, somewhere. It's one of those "birds of a feather" things.

Courtroom Activities

In District Court, Oscar Castillo, 33, of Floydada, pled guilty to Felony DWI which occurred on May 17, 1997. He was fined $151.50 and sentenced to 8 years in prison which was probated for 8 years. He must also go to the Substance Abuse Facility in Plainview for one year.

In County Court, June 5th, Rogelio Garcia, 40, of Hart, pled guilty to a February 2, 1996 charge of DWI. He was fined $600.00 and sentenced to 6 months in jail which was probated for 2 years plus court costs.

June 5th, Julian Hernandez pled guilty to the May 30, 1997 Assault charge. He was fined $58.00 and court costs. He was also sentenced to 30 days in jail which was probated for 4 months.

June 5th, Arturo Martinez pled guilty to a May 30, 1997 Assault Charge. He was fined $58.00 plus court costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail which was probated for 4 months.

June 5th, Jose Angel Mora, 29, of Floydada, pled guilty to a June 21, 1996 DWI charge. He was fined $500.00 and sentenced to 6 months in jail which was probated for 2 years.

He was also ordered to pay court costs.

June 9th, the Dec. 12, 1996 charge of "Theft equal to or more than $500.00 but less than $1,500" against Don Stormy Crawford was dismissed.

Also on June 9th, the Dec. 4, 1995 speeding appeal filed by Janet Curl Bergman was dismissed.

Local youth reap benefits of Boys State

Justin Payne and Bryan Bybee recently attended the American Legion Boys State conference in Austin.

Payne was sponsored by the Floydada American Legion Post #118 and Bybee was sponsored by the Plainview American Legion Post #260.

Justin is the son of Stan and Denise Payne, of Floydada.

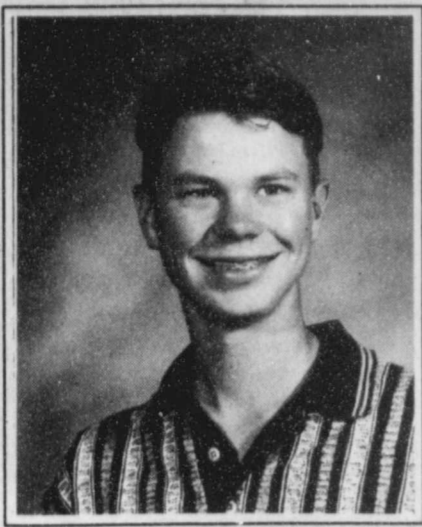

Bryan is the son of Louie and Cynthia Bybee, of the Providence Community in Floyd County.

Boys are chosen to attend the conference from letters of recommendations from the local American Legion, pastors, teachers and principals.

Boys State is a summertime program complete with its governing bodies and elected public officials. Rather than classroom lectures and textbook learning, participation and personal experience in a model state is emphasized.

The American Legion believes there is no better way to assure the survival of our republic than to train our young people in the ideals and objectives of American government.

Young men chosen to be a Boys State Citizen can look forward to a challenging experience, acquiring a better understanding and deeper regard for our nations legacy of freedom and democracy.

Boys State was founded, and its courses of instruction designed, to supplement the information taught in high school civics classes. Boys State teaches that our form of government is good and that its preservation depends on intelligent, informed and loyal citizens.

Over 900 boys from all across Texas comprised this year's Boys State.

"Even though it was a week of hard work, I really enjoyed the chance to meet new people, learn about our government and represent Floydada," said Payne. "It was a great experience."

Bybee was sent to Boys State in memory of his grandfather, Wilfred Stoerner, who was a member of the American Legion.

The Stoerner family has been sponsoring a young man to Boys State since 1990.

"I enjoyed this experience," said Bybee. "My favorite part was going to the Capitol and hearing Gov. Bush speak."

TAAS scores on the rise at Fisd

By Holly Lee-FISD TAAS Coordinator

FLOYDADA--Floydada Independent School District received results from the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills or TAAS tests in late May.

The third graders at A.B. Duncan Elementary School scored 59 percent passing in reading, up 3 points from last years third grade, and 67 percent passing in math which is a 16 point gain from last years third grade.

At R.C. Andrews Elementary the fourth graders scored 51 percent passing in reading and 50 percent passing in math. The fourth graders scored 62 percent passing on the writing test. In the fifth grade, 65 percent passed reading and 70 percent passed math. Fifth graders gained 17 points in reading and 19 points in math from their scores last year as fourth graders. Sixth graders scored 80 percent in reading and 88 percent in math. Sixth graders gained 15 points in reading and 32 points in math from their scores last year as fifth graders.

At Floydada Junior High the seventh graders scored 79 percent in reading and 71 percent in math. In eighth grade 60 percent passed reading, 53 percent passed math and 62 percent passed the writing test. The eighth graders largest gain was 12 points in math from last years test as seventh graders.

The sophomores at Floydada High School took the exit TAAS tests in early spring. In reading 84 percent passed and in math 77 percent passed. On the exit writing test, 91 percent passed. These scores are consistent with last years exit results. FHS has 10 students that qualified for exemption of the TASP test by scoring above a set standard on TAAS.

The exit test must be passed to qualify for graduation from high school. Any student at the high school that did not pass the exit TAAS can retake them during the summer administration on July 15, 16 and 17th. Contact the high school office for more information.

and decreasing law library surplus $1,000.00. The court also approved the transfer of $40,000.00 from Road and Bridge funds to the precincts with each precinct receiving $10,000.00.

Melissa Long and J.D. Ragland made reports to the court concerning recent activities in the Ag and Home Extension services for Floyd County. Monthly reports from elected officials whose offices collect fines and fees were also reviewed.

Commissioners were presented with blank road report forms which they will compile each month and turn over to the district attorney for presentation at the grand jury as required by Texas law. These reports will begin next month.

Commissioners authorized payment of monthly bills and approved one farm work contract as well as voiding a previously approved contract. #1763 for Glen Wood in Precinct 3 to fill in a wash 2 miles east of South Plains was approved. #1662 for Louis Pyle in Precinct 1 which was approved on August 12, 1996 was voided.

Bearden made a motion to retain the current county and district retirement system with no changes. The motion was seconded by Gilroy and all voted in favor.

The final item considered on the agenda was a request from Westar Transmission for permission to bury an underground cable along a roadway in Precinct 1. Motion to approve was made by Bearden and seconded by Gilroy. The vote was unanimously in favor of the motion.

Attending the morning meeting were Judge Hardin, Commissioners Bearden, Gilroy and Jones, Rhonda Guthrie, Larry Guthrie, Mary Shurbet, Margaret Herrera, Tim Burge, and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter.

Don Boatman promoted to General Manager of Southern Operations at SPS

Southwestern Public Service Company has named Don A. Boatman of Lubbock as general manager, Southern Operations.

Boatman now is responsible for electrical operations, design and construction in all SPS-served communities across the South Plains.

He formerly was SPS Southern Division superintendent, a position he had held since 1993.

The promotion of Boatman to general manager, Southern Operations, is a key element in the recent general restructuring and restaffing of SPS, said David M. Wilks, president of Southwestern Public Service Company. SPS is restructuring its work forces throughout its service territory to improve focus on electrical operations and on customer service, Wilks said.

"We are delighted that Don Boatman will manage Southwestern's Southern Operations," Wilks said. "His experience and capabilities have served our customers extremely well for many years, and we are confident that in this new, foremost position, he will play a major role in making SPS the 'energy supplier of choice' of electric customers across the South Plains."

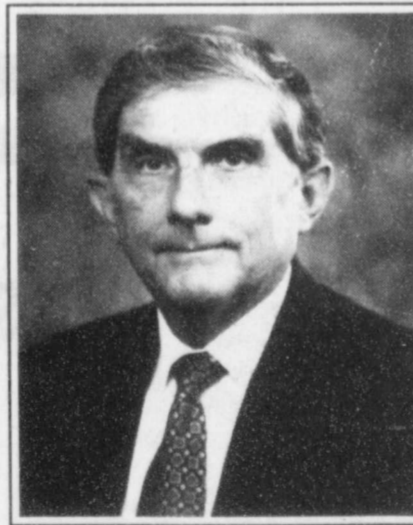

Boatman, 59, has been an SPS employee for 38 years. He began his career as an electrical engineer in Plainview in 1959. He later worked as an engineer for the utility in Littlefield, again in Plainview, and in Borger, before transferring to Lubbock as Senior Engineer-Operations/Design - a position he held from 1979 until 1993.

Boatman earned his bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering at the University of Arkansas in 1959. He is a registered professional engineer, a senior member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, and a member of MENSA.

He serves on the board of directors of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, and is a member of the Greater Lubbock Rotary Club and of the Lubbock United Way Community Investment Division.

Southwestern Public Service Co. is a regional, investor-owned electric utility primarily providing electric service to a population of about one million in the South Plains and Panhandle of Texas, eastern and south-eastern New Mexico, the Oklahoma Panhandle and southwestern Kansas.

Business Of The Week

FLOYDADA--Nick Long and State Farm Insurance are one and the same in Floyd County.

When Nick moved to Floydada in August 1988, with his wife, Melissa, and daughter, Molly, there was no State Farm Insurance office in town.

"There hadn't been anybody selling State Farm here for five years," said Long.

In October 1988, Long opened the office with the help of his wife.

"We started from scratch," said Long. "We had no customers at all. The first day I walked all over town with a broken foot handing out green bubble gum with a business card. We were going to play Idalou in football that Friday night. I would hand someone a piece of gum and a card and say, 'Let's chew up Idalou.'"

"I'm very grateful to my customers who have made the business a success."

The Longs moved to Floydada from Perryton where they had lived for four years. Nick was a radio broadcaster on KEYE in Perryton.

He had been in the broadcasting business for 16 years prior to opening his insurance office.

He still keeps his hands busy on the microphone during football season in Floydada and celebrates 25 years of sports announcing this year.

Raised in Silverton, Nick graduated from Silverton High School in 1971. He worked in radio for a few years before going to college at

East Texas State University. He graduated with a BS in communications in 1979.

In 1982 Nick married Melissa Roberson, of Haskell. Molly is 11. He is helped at work by two employees, Dorothy Hooten, and Connie Johnson.

Hooten has been working for Nick for 8 years and handles auto insurance and payments.

Johnson, a five year employee, takes care of Home and Health Insurance.

"I am very proud of them," said Nick. "They are so good with customers and they are very good employees."

This month State Farm Insurance celebrates their 75th anniversary. Each insurance agent will celebrate the occasion in their own way.

In Floydada, Nick Long and his staff will celebrate with an Open House on Friday, June 27th, from 2:00 - 4:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served and door prizes will be given.

"State Farm has a good reputation for claim settlements," said Nick.

"I've been pleased with the way they've taken care of my customers."

State Farm offers insurance for auto, fire, life and health.

The local office is located at 201 W. California, in the Federal Credit Union.

The hours are 8:15 - 5:15 p.m., Monday-Friday, or by appointment after hours and on Saturday.

Juvenile program discussed with Fisd

The program will take the students with discipline problems from the classroom at the Alternative School and move them to the classroom at the new PAC center.

Plans had been made to start the program in the fall, but four students have already started classes at PAC this summer.

Ballou told trustees there was already improvement.

Ballou said besides regular classroom curriculum the students are also taught manners and decision making.

The JJAEP has an authoritarian approach with a boot camp atmosphere, including push-ups and running.

During the superintendents report, Collins stated the funding for the Chapter I Migrant program had been cut by $84,000. He said Fisd could not absorb the costs without raising taxes, so the only alternative would be to cut staff.

Holly Lee presented the TAAS results to the school board. A separate story on the results can be found in this issue.

Resignations were accepted from Carol Brooks, bookkeeper of central office; Belinda Mattox, theater arts teacher at high school; Lana Benton, teachers aide at Duncan; Pyper Wilkens, business teacher at the alternative school.

Hired were Colleen Reed as business teacher at alternative school; Alex Salazar as Spanish teacher and coach at High School; Armando Rendon as special education teacher at junior high; Edward Singleterry as biology teacher at high school.

The trustees approved the sale of two taxing entity lots to: Francisco and Yolanda Alvarado, for lots 9, 10 & 11 in Block 8, Bartley Heights, 116 S. Wall, for $1,400; and to Erik Alvarado, for Lot 10, Block 27 original town, 607 S. Main, for $400.00.

On a motion by Bill Dean and a second from Charlene Brown, the board approved an Acceptable Campus Rating for Caprock Counties Learning Cooperative.

The trustees approved the January 1997 revisions of the school board policy manual.

Dick Van Hoose presented the tax report and stated that collections to date totaled $1,637,340.80. Collections are 96.32% complete. At the same time last year collections were 96.33% complete.

Safe handling tips offered for fresh fruits and vegetables

By Melissa Long

With summertime here and garden production just around the corner, fresh fruits and vegetables are about to become plentiful. The safe handling of the fresh produce is extremely important. In recent times there have been several incidents of food-borne illness associated with fruits and vegetables and products made from them. In most cases these could have been avoided by proper handling at the distribution and consumer level. The following tips on handling fruits and vegetables will help reduce food-borne illness:

-Wash hands with warm water and soap before and after handling food, especially fresh whole fruits and vegetables and raw meat, poultry and fish.

-Rinse raw produce in warm water. Do not use soap or other detergents (they may contain substances not meant for human consumption). If necessary and appropriate, use a small scrub brush to remove surface dirt.

-Use plastic rather than wooden cutting boards. Bacteria can hide in the grooves of wooden ones.

-Wash cutting boards with hot, soapy water. After cleaning, you can further sanitize with a mild chlorine solution ( 1 teaspoon household chlorine per quart of water) . Always wash boards after cutting raw meat, poultry or seafood and before cutting another food to prevent cross-contamination.

-Store cut, peeled and split fruits and vegetables at or below 40 degrees F. (5 degrees C).

-Stick with pasteurized juices and cider. If you do buy unpasteurized products, boil them for 3-5 minutes.

Wester honored by Unicare

FLOYDADA--Mattie Lee Wester, of Floydada, has received a special Resident/Patient Recognition Award from Unicare Health. She was chosen from over 170 Unicare facilities in the U.S. and Canada.

Wester was nominated by the local Unicare Nursing Home facility in Floydada, because of her determination to further her education late in life. She will be one of five honorees who will attend a special recognition banquet on Monday, June 23rd in Lincolnshire, Illinois during Unicare's leadership conference.

Mattie was born in Huntingdon, Tenn., January 19, 1911. She started to school when she was five and made it to the seventh grade before having to quit to help support her family. "I started to work in a textile factory when I was 12," she states. "They thought I was 16 so they let me work."

While working at the factory, Mattie married J. Truman Boyd. They had four children.

After working at the factory, she was able to start back to school at Knoxville Baptist Academy in Knoxville, Tenn. At the age of 28, Mattie started back to high school as a freshman the same year her daughter, Jo, started first grade.

Mattie and her husband moved to Texas and while she cared for two children he attended Wayland Baptist University.

Her husband graduated and the Southern Baptist Convention appointed them as missionaries. "We would get a church started and then move on," said Mattie. "That's the way they wanted you to do it. As soon as the church was going, we picked said. She declared herself a psychology major and a speech major and up and moved on down the road to start another church."

Counting her childhood and her residence here, Mattie has lived in 78 different locations.

The frequent moves made it difficult for Mattie to go to school. But, whenever possible, she enrolled in classes. She attended the University of Tennessee at Knoxville for a short time at the age of 48, but had to drop out in 1959.

In 1973 her husband was killed in a car wreck. She returned to college in the fall of 1974 at the age of 63.

"They accepted 15 hours from all the other colleges I had attended," Mattie began her lengthy academic career.

Mattie enrolled in only six hours a semester so she would not have to secure financial assistance. She later reduced her class load to three hours per semester because she did not want to get out so fast.

A year after she started back to school, Mattie married J.C. Wester and moved to Floydada. He died seven years later.

Mattie lived alone after his death and continued her education, driving back and forth to Wayland three times a week.

Mattie became the oldest student at Wayland Baptist University and went to the institution longer than any other student--20 years.

Mattie has now earned over 130 hours credit and lacks only one required subject to graduate with a BS in Psychology and a minor in Speech. Her health slowed her down the last year she attended Wayland. However, Wayland Baptist University recognized her achievements during the University's Recognition Day, April 26, 1995.

Only a few months after the presentation, Mattie was admitted to an assisted living center due to a decline in her health. A short time after that, Mattie fell and broke her hip. She is currently a resident at Floydada Rehabilitation and Care Center in Floydada.

Jo Payne, daughter of Mattie, states that if her health had not declined, Mattie would still be going to school.

American Cancer Society to host backyard brunch

The Floyd County Unit of the American Cancer Society will host a summer backyard brunch on Saturday, June 21, from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. The board members are excited about this new event on their calendar, and hope that everyone will join in to celebrate a morning of fun and festive foods!

The outdoor occasion in the lovely yard of Janet and Melvin Lloyd at 906 W. Houston promises to be one that you will want to see repeated as an annual event. The yard will be inviting and one that you should see "dressed in its summer finery." The food will be prepared by local board members and will consist of fresh fruits, chicken puffs, cheese balls and crackers, summer muffins and breads, coffee and a fruity mint iced tea!

Tickets to this fun occasion may be purchased from any board member in Floydada or Lockney, at the First National Bank of Floydada, and at the office of Fred Thayer for a donation of $5.00. Tickets may also be purchased at the door. Get together with your friends and plan to enjoy a morning of fun and fellowship in a beautiful summer setting on Saturday, June 21.

Crawford joins state training program

Last spring, Floyd County Library director Sandra Crawford joined 135 of her colleagues from around the state taking part in the Texas State Library's Small Library Management Training Program.

The program is designed to provide and enhance basic management skills of library directors in smaller communities who have not had formal library school coursework.

Five core courses are offered over a two and a half year period, including Administration and Planning, Collection Development, Reference Services, Cataloging and Automation, and Advanced Management Issues.

Participants attend a two-day workshop each spring and fall until they have completed the entire program, and receive up to 12 hours of State-approved continuing education credit for each session they attend.

These training sessions are intensive, stimulating, and exhaustive. Participants are encouraged to apply the theories and practices learned to their own unique situations, and to network with other librarians in their region. Mrs. Crawford's active involvement in the State Library training program represents a substantial commitment of time, energy and personal expense in an effort to improve her skills as an information professional.

Consumers willing to pay more for cotton products

Findings from a recently-completed market research survey revealed that consumers are willing to pay more for 100 percent cotton nonwovens personal care products carrying the Seal of Cotton. Cotton Incorporated, through Atlanta-based research firm Mills Consulting Group, interviewed 1,000 females, ages 18-49, in six major U.S. markets.

The females were shown three different brands from four product segments--disposable diapers, baby wipes, feminine napkins and tampons. One product from each category was shown with the Seal and two were shown without it. When it came to disposable diapers, 75 percent of those polled said they prefer them to be made of 100 percent cotton, while 52 percent said their buying decision was influenced by the display of the Seal of Cotton.

Overall, the study showed that 57 percent said they would be willing to pay for nonwoven personal care products that have the Seal of Cotton on their packaging. Based on figures from various industry-wide studies, nonwoven fabric consumption is expected to reach 4.5 billion pounds (equal to 9.3 million 480 pound bales) this year.

LOCKNEY--The meeting Thursday night, June 5, was not quite as well attended as previous meetings, but with warmer weather coming maybe it will pick back up.

Laverne and Clementine Carthel are enjoying a visit with their son Wayland and grandson, Chris, from Okinawa. They arrived last week and will be here until nearly the end of this month.

M.W. (Shorty Hartman) was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock on Sunday. He was scheduled for surgery on Wednesday but got very ill and had to go back early. We wish the best for him.

Don't forget--this is the month to pay your membership dues to Lockney Senior Citizens. If you are over 55 years old you are eligible to be a member and we need all the support we can get so the organization can continue to serve the older people of our community.

Children and yard chemicals don't mix

The chemicals you spray around your yard may kill bugs or weeds, but they also could hurt your children.

"It is not uncommon for children to get agriculture pesticide poisoning from inhaling yard chemicals or getting them on their skin," says Dr. Charles Ginsburg, chairman of pediatrics at UT Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas.

Ginsburg advises parents to make sure children are never downwind of any chemicals being applied in the yard.

When yard chemicals are not being used, they should be kept out of reach of children. Don't store chemicals in soda bottles or other containers that would tempt children.

Fast Break Basketball Camp postponed until July

The Boys Fast Break Basketball Positions Camp at the Longhorn Gym in Lockney will not be held this week, June 12-14, due to scheduling conflicts. It has been postponed until July 24-26 from 1:30-5:30 each day. The girls camp will be held on the same dates from 8:30-12:30.

Camp director will be Chris Beard, a former graduate assistant under Tom Penders at the University of Texas. Beard currently serves as the men's basketball assistant and recruiting coach at Abilene Christian University. He will be assisted by Jared Mosley, a two-year letterman for the ACU Wildcats, who was named to the first-team All-Lone Star Conference Academic Team. Mosley averaged 9.6 points per game during the 1996-97 season.

The camp will focus on individual playing positions along with team play. Offensive and defensive fundamentals will be stressed, including individual attention and videotaped critiques focusing on shooting form.

Registration for both the boys and girls camps will remain open until June 30. For more information concerning the camps or to receive an application, contact Jared Mosley at 652-2569. Cost of the three-day camp is $40.

Royanne Mercado attends HOBY leadership seminar

Royanne Mercado, daughter of Roy and Elza Mercado, recently attended the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation Texas Panhandle Leadership Seminar. Royanne represented Floydada High School, and joined more than 100 other young leaders representing as many high schools from throughout Texas April 26, 1997 in Amarillo.

HOBY Leadership Seminars bring together a select group of high school sophomores so they can interact with groups of distinguished leaders in business, government, education and the professions to discuss present and future issues. The goal is to provide the youths a stimulating forum for learning about the American incentive system and democratic process and for broadening their leadership potential and quest for self development.

"The seminar challenged me to think about the world around me and what we, as the future leaders, have to do to positively influence business, government, and society," said Mercado. "I also better understand that my goals and dreams are important and that the leaders have extreme responsibilities in whatever walk of life they pursue."

The Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation was established by the popular actor Hugh O'Brien following a visit to Africa where he was inspired by a meeting with Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

"One of the things Schweitzer said to me was that the most important thing in education was to teach young people to think for themselves," O'Brien said. "From that inspiration, and with the support of others who believe in youth and the American dream, I started HOBY to seek out, recognize, and develop outstanding leadership potential among our nation's youth."

Have a good week!

Cargill Scholarships awarded to three from LHS

LOCKNEY--Kimberly Martinez, Johnnie Mosley and Tim Mitchell, all 1997 graduates of Lockney High School, were the recipients of scholarships awarded by the Cargill Scholars Program.

Miss Martinez received a scholarship in the amount of $3,000. She is one of 460 high school seniors to receive this scholarship. The Cargill Scholars Program was established to help finance the college education of sons and daughters of Cargill employees.

She is the daughter of Kenny and Bertha Hooten, of Lockney, and is planning to attend Howard College.

Mosley and Mitchell received a scholarships in the amount of $1,000. They were among 250 graduates from farm families in 43 states to receive this scholarship. This is the twelfth year for the Cargill Scholarship Program and it attracted 2,385 applicants.

The program is designed to recognize and encourage the academic achievement, accomplishments and talents of young people from farm families throughout the United States.

The National FFA Organization manages the selection process, however, applicants do not have to be FFA members to receive a scholarship.

Mosley is the son of Ricky and Lisa Mosley of Lockney, and is planning to attend Texas Tech and major in Communications and Family Studies.

Mitchell is the son of Warren and Charlotte Mitchell of Lockney. He will major in Agriculture Engineering at Texas A&M.

Cargill is an international marketer, processor and distributor of agricultural, food, financial and industrial products with some 76,000 employees at 1,000 locations in 66 countries.

The two Cargill companies in Floyd County are Cargill Hybrid Seeds at Aiken and Caprock Industries Feedyard, north of Lockney.

Caution urged when allowing children to surf the internet

We all know how the Internet is exploding, especially for children.

Thousands of classroom computers have Internet access and millions of children "surf the net" every day. They see wonderful mind-expanding sites...and are also sometimes exposed to exploitative advertising by marketers and makers of child-directed products.

The Children's Advertising Review Unit (CARU) of the Council of BBBs has completely revised and updated the Standards for Children's Advertising and issued additional new Guidelines for Interactive Electronic Media like the Internet and Online services. Some areas covered include instructing children to ask a parent for permission before giving information out about themselves; e-mail addresses should be solicited on secured sites; children should always be told when they are being targeted for a sale; and there should be a clear mechanism after an online order is placed allowing the parent or child to cancel.

The CARU set of Self-Regulatory Guidelines also cover endorsements, premiums, Kids' Clubs and 900 numbers. These guidelines are available on the national BBB website at www.bbb.org/advertising/carguid.html#media or request a copy by calling the Bureau office.

Besides purchasing a home or buying a car, paying for a college education for your child is a major investment and requires that you start planning early.

Even though grants, scholarships, loans, work-study programs and financial aid packages may be more plentiful than ever before, the key is not to wait until the last minute or even the last year, when your child graduates from high school to become aware of the high costs of sending them to college.

At this time of the year, many graduating high school seniors receive postcards in the mail explaining how they can get grants and loans for college tuition. The postcard may encourage your teenager to send a fee to get information on college scholarships and grant monies.

The Bureau cautions you to check first with the financial aid office of the college of your child's choice. You have many options to consider on how to pay for your child's college education and the Bureau has a booklet available free of charge called TIPS ON...FINANCIAL AID FOR COLLEGE that is available upon request by contacting the Bureau. This pamphlet will help you sort out your options and give you some helpful hints on what to look for and what to avoid.

Moisture and cool temperatures create problems

Seedling disease possible in local crops

CURRENT SITUATION
Rainfall continues to pour across Crosby and Floyd counties. Cotton planting is nearly complete, with some acreage being replanted. Cooler, wet soils are excellent environments for pathogens which make up the seedling disease complex. If you are planting or having to replant, I would advise that you continue using treated seed. It's pretty cheap insurance for healthier stands.

COTTON
Thrips have reached economic threshold levels in many fields that were planted without any type of systemic insecticide. Thrips are migrating in heavy numbers from adjacent weeds or crops, especially drying wheat, and can cause significant damage within a few days. A good rule-of-thumb for establishing thresholds would be: 1 thrips per plant from emergence to 1 true leaf, 3 thrips per plant from 1 to 4 true leaves, 5 thrips per plant from 4 to 6 true leaves. Once cotton reaches the 6 true leaf stage significant damage rarely occurs.

The following chemicals are labeled for foliar application to control thrips in cotton: Orthene, Guthion, Sevin, Bidrin, Cygon, Dimate, Dimethoate, and Methyl Parathion.

Beet Armyworm larvae can be found in several cotton fields throughout the area. The larvae can be identified by a distinctive black dot on each side of the second body segment behind the head. Early-season infestations feed on leaves and terminal areas. Occasionally they destroy the terminal, causing extensive lateral branch development and delayed maturity. However, populations are remaining low and weekly trap catches are averaging less than 2 adult moths per trap per week.

Boll weevil colonization in cotton is closely related to the fruiting of the plant, thus, early planted cotton and fields adjacent to ideal overwintering habitat are much more likely to have significant weevil infestations than cotton planted later in the season or fields farther away from good overwintering habitat.

The need for insecticide applications to suppress overwintered boll weevils can be determined by 1) pheromone trap collections (Trap Index Method); 2) Field Inspection Method; or 3) a combination of both methods.

Boll weevil pheromone traps should be placed along field margins near favorable overwintering habitat or near areas of the field with a history of early infestations. For fields up to 100 acres in size, at least four to five traps should be used. Pheromone traps should be in operation several weeks before the first squares appear in cotton. The treatment decision is based on the "Trap Index" (Table 1) and scouting information. Inspect traps weekly and determine the average number of weevils caught per trap each week for each field monitored. Determine the average number of weevils captured for the week that the first squares (pinhead to matchhead size) appear. This will be the Trap Index. The number of weevils captured in traps prior to and during the early squaring indicates the size of the overwintering population and the need for one or more insecticide applications.

Pheromone trap data may not be reliable after 25 percent or more of the cotton in an area has begun to square or after 1/3 grown squares are present in a field around which the traps are located.

Field inspection method. Fields should be observed very closely when pinhead size squares begin to appear. Inspect at least 100 plants for adult boll weevils. If one or more weevils are found per 100 plants checked or four weevils per 100 feet of row monitored (about 530 weevils per acre) in cotton which was planted after mid-May, apply insecticide just prior to or when first squares reach 1/3 grown stage.

If field or trap inspections indicate that weevils are still entering the field following the first insecticide application, an additional one or two applications may be needed at 5 day intervals. Application should be terminated as soon as possible after the first 1/3-grown square stage to allow beneficial insects and spiders time to re-establish.

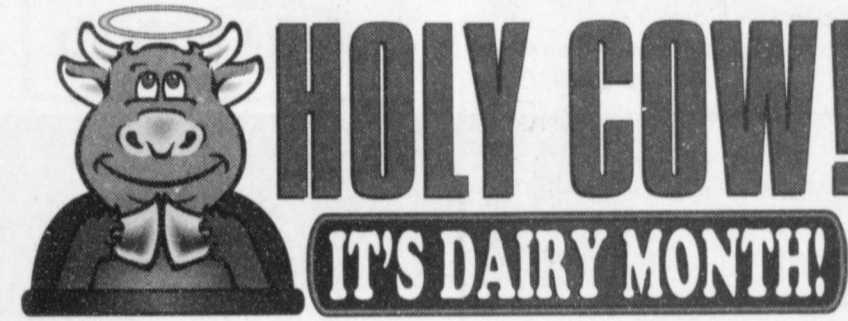

The selection of an insecticide and rate for overwintered boll weevil control can be important in minimizing both the reduction of developing populations of beneficial arthropods and the development of secondary pests. Vydate and Phasor/Thiodan are insecticides purportedly less harmful to beneficial arthropods and appear less likely to increase secondary pest problems. Other insecticides labeled for boll weevil control include: Guthion 2L, Methyl Parathion 4E, Malathion 91% and PennCap M 2F.

Table 1. Trap Index System for Determining Need for Overwintered Boll Weevil Control.

Trap Index	Decision
One or fewer weevils per trap per week.	Do not treat.
More than one but fewer than four weevils per trap per week.	Treatment may or may not be justified. Do not treat unless field inspection at pinhead to 1/3-grown square stage indicates presence of a damaging weevil infestation (see field inspection method) or unless trap catches the week prior to pinhead square exceeds 10.
More than four weevils per trap per week.	Treatment is probably justified.

Texas AHC urges equine owners to test for anemia

The Texas Animal Health Commission has put a "hold" on compliance and enforcement of activities for new regulations for Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA) until July 1, 1997. EIA better known as "swamp fever" or "Coggins" is spread by biting flies who carry fresh blood from an infested equine to a "clean" animal. There is no vaccine, cure, or effective treatment.

"The commission is stressing education by asking producers to voluntarily comply with rules requiring equine to be tested within twelve months prior to being sold, participating in a trail ride, show, fair, rodeo, or exhibition," says Floyd County Farm Bureau President Monty Teeter. There is also a provision requiring dealers to keep records on animals bought and sold. If the disease is detected any infested or exposed equine could then be traced and tested," Teeter said.

A third to a half of infected equine will develop symptoms such as fever, weight loss, or swelling around the chest and legs. Some EIA infested animals will die while others will not.

"Texas Farm Bureau policy supports testing for EIA," Teeter says.

Boll weevil eradication efforts now under way across state

By Shawn Wade
Newly appointed members of the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation Board of Directors met Tuesday, June 3 in Abilene to begin the job of restarting the boll weevil eradication across the state.

Tuesday's meeting consisted of swearing in ceremonies as well as officer elections and discussion about the status of currently operating eradication efforts.

In addition to the discussion of operative programs discussion was also started concerning plans for a referendum to be held in the newly created Southern High Plains/Caprock Zone.

Information received by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. indicates that the Southern High Plains/Caprock Zone (SHP/C) Advisory Committee is being appointed by the Texas Department of Agriculture at this time. It is also understood that the SHP/C Advisory Committee is scheduled to meet June 10, 1997 in Lamesa.

Newly appointed members of the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation Board of Directors, with current officers listed first, are: Rolling Plains-Central, Woody Anderson, Chairman; Southern Rolling Plains-Kenny Gully, Vice Chairman; South Texas-Winter Garden-Tryne Mengers, Secretary; Ag Lender-Mike Wright, Treasurer; Northern High Plains, Jesse Pinkerton; Southern High Plains/Caprock, Jim Brown; Northern Rolling Plains, John Inman; St. Lawrence, Carey Niehues; Blacklands, Donald Stolte; Trans-Pecos, Larry Turnbough; Allied Industry, Craig Shook; Allied Industry, Tommy Chapman; Pest Control Industry, Rick Harcastle; IPM Specialist, Mike McHugh.

All of the currently appointed TBWEF Board members will stand for re-election as referenda are conducted in each zone.

The 1997 Upland Cotton Loan Schedule was released April 9, 1997 with slightly larger discounts throughout the schedule. Base Loan rates for locations on the Texas High Plains were also reduced 5 points to 51.70 cents per pound. The 1996 Loan Rate, Basis Lubbock warehouse was 51.75 cents.

Anyone who would like a copy of the 1997 Upland Cotton Loan Chart with loan values figured to Lubbock warehouse locations can request one from the Plains Cotton Growers office. PCG's telephone number is 806-792-4904.

Have a safe summer!

Protect Your Bt Cotton Investment

With its built-in resistance to worms, Bt cotton has become one of the most exciting industry innovations since pyrethroids. But with growers being charged a $32 technology fee for every acre of Bt cotton planted, additional pest management tools have become a critically important way to protect the Bt investment.

Fill in the gaps in your Bt cotton insect control program by using a broad-spectrum pyrethroid, such as KARATE® insecticide. By mid-season, a wide variety of crop-damaging insects can destroy the bottom fruiting branches of the plant, which account for the most profitable yields. Bt cotton can handle the tobacco budworm on its own. It also suppresses the cotton bollworm. Therefore, that pest and others may escape its protection.

As for boll weevils and secondary pests, such as plant bugs, stinkbugs and fall armyworm, Bt cotton is as vulnerable as any other variety. In fact, Bt cotton may be more at risk since its control is aimed at budworm and bollworm.

Over time, resistance among worms to the Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt) toxin can develop. Uncontrolled secondary pests can significantly reduce yields and threaten profits. Karate can help you avoid Bt resistance by controlling any worms that come through the Bt cotton.

Karate comes from a class of insect control completely unlike the Bt toxin. It provides greater residual control than other pyrethroids and gives you the most performance for your dollar.

A summary of 18 evaluations from five different Zeenea field trials showed that Karate outperformed the competition by controlling nearly 99 percent of the worms after treatment.

Additionally, Karate shows greater ovicidal activity than any other insecticide, which means further reduction of insect populations. Also, the pest control Karate offers is so complete, tank mixing with other insecticides is often unnecessary.

The fewer pests your cotton crop has to battle, the more lint you'll put through the gin.

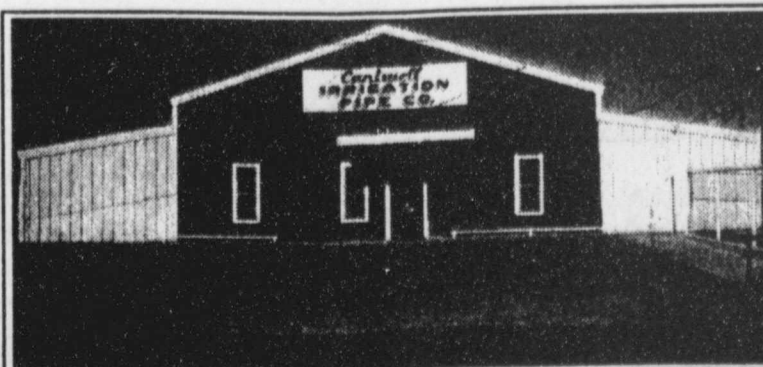

For more information about Karate from Zeenea Ag Products, contact your local ag chem dealer.

National Cotton Council offers on-line risk management tool

Wanting to make cotton production and processing a not so risky business for its members, the National Cotton Council of America launched its "Cotton Risk Management Network".

"We believe this will be a valuable service because while new farm policy provides growers with unlimited planting flexibility, future markets are expected to exhibit greater volatility and thus expose them to increase price risk," said Phillip Burnett, the Council's executive vice president. "At the same time, the fixed, decoupled payments established in the 1996 farm law provide far less of a safety net during periods of low prices."

In anticipation of this new business environment, Burnett said, the Council's Economic Services staff developed the CRMN as a way to provide its members with better market intelligence.

"This on-line computer system was designed specifically to increase our members' understanding of risk management alternatives, to improve their ability to manage both price and production risks and to sharpen their marketing skills," he said.

The Council this week began distributing software its members will need to utilize the network's "risk management toolbox." That toolbox contains a wide range of information from daily market activity to price forecasting and farm models. Users must acquire price and other data needed to run the applications via the Council's Worldwide Web home page (www.cotton.org).

"While the risk management network cannot provide time-specific price forecasting or marketing advice, it will enable users to better understand influences on price behavior," said Dr. Mark Lange, director of the Council's Economic Services Department. "It also provides analytical tools for them to make season-average price predictions with the overall aim of improving their chances of making better marketing decisions."

Some of the network's offerings include: futures market activity for all contracts of cotton, corn, soybeans, and wheat; market news and activity, including spot prices for the various markets and mill delivered prices; world price data, including the "A" and "B" indexes and the growths included in each, the adjusted world price, the loan rate, certificate values, course count adjustment and the transportation adjustment; a price model with a current benchmark world cotton price and variables which historically have explained 95 percent of cotton price behavior to help in producing a season-average world cotton price forecast; historic relationships between the world price and other price series, such as New York futures for use in making comparisons of price behavior; information about the cost of "put" and "call" options on the New York Cotton Exchange; and a farm model which permits users to evaluate various cropping alternatives based on absolute cost and return expectations.

Users can take into account input costs for alternative crops, expected market prices and crop rotation needs. That model eventually will allow users to subdivide farms based on different soil types, production costs and other factors.

"This risk management tool has captured the attention of various federal agencies," Burnett said. "They have indicated to us that this network is on target and are interested in how other U.S. agricultural sectors could be served by this approach."

The CRMN also receives support from grants to The Cotton Foundation from Zeenea Ag Products and the New York Exchange.

Irrigated production acreage on Southern High Plains threatened

Irrigated agriculture remains vitally important in the U.S. and the world as we attempt to feed and clothe a rapidly expanding population with finite land and water resources. Nowhere in the U.S. is irrigation as threatened, as well as the economic base for rural communities that depend on the economic survival of irrigated agriculture, as it is in the Southern High Plains.

This region encompasses parts of five states-the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles, the plains of eastern New Mexico and the plains of southeastern Colorado and southwestern Kansas. Vaux et al. (1996) stated, "The effects of overdrift are likely to be most severe in the southern Great Plains, where significant irrigated acreage may be removed from production within the next 20 years."

The northern Texas High Plains, which is a 26-county area in the Texas Panhandle and only a fraction of the entire Southern High Plains, is a major economic segment accounting for $773 million in annual crop receipts, $1.793 billion in annual livestock and livestock products receipts alone from its 14 million acres of agricultural land (9 million ac in pasture and 5 million in crops) and its 2 million ac of irrigated cropland (Amosson and Ledbetter, 1996). Major irrigated crops in this region of Texas are wheat (49.5% of all Texas' production), corn (48.4% of all Texas' production), and sugar beet (96.8% of all Texas' production).

This region consistently has some of the highest county corn yields in the whole U.S. because it has excellent soils and a good environment and because practically all the corn grown in the region is fully irrigated.

Peanut production is expanding in importance in the eastern portions of the Texas High Plains region and especially in the southern and eastern portions of the southern Texas High Plains and is an important crop in both New Mexico and Oklahoma. Cotton is a major irrigated and dryland crop in the southern Texas High Plains accounting for more than 60% of Texas' production with an estimated value of $3.5 billion in 1994.

The Texas High Plains region, alone, would rank very high in agricultural production as a separate state in the U.S. or as another country in the world. For example, the Texas High Plains would rank as the 6th leading cotton producing country in the world if it was a separate country.

Irrigated agriculture is nearing a crossroads as we attempt to balance needs for water, needs for a safe environment and for safe drinking water, and needs for a safe and dependable food supply.

Gardner et al. (1996) captured many of these cultural dynamics associated with irrigation. They said, "...it (irrigation) is the basis for an economy and a way of life." Many problems face irrigation in the Southern High Plains and especially the Texas High Plains.

However, irrigation has seemed to turn the corner in this region since the mid 1980s as evidence by the gradual increase in Texas irrigated land in the High Plains. A rapid escalation of adaption of center pivot sprinklers using the latest water conserving technologies is evident.

Much of this growth might be attributed to three factors-1) stable short- and long-term energy prices; 2) stable short- and long-term capital costs (interest) along with many supportive investment instruments (in Texas, state supported low interest loans have been available for water conserving technology for several years); and 3) a desire to simplify and automate irrigation labor.

Many additional factors have contributed to this trend besides just three items including: the extension of irrigation will life by using electric submersible turbine pumps, enhanced dependability of center pivot systems, and the maintenance of irrigated area by using lower irrigation capacity (flow rate per unit area) now possible with newer and more efficient sprinkler application methods.

Irrigation trends in this region show gradual but steady growth since the mid 1980s, while dryland area is simply being maintained. The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) likely has reduced both irrigated and dryland crop production in this region, but CRP has probably impacted dryland to a greater extent.

Over a quarter million acres of irrigated lands have been documented by Texas Agricultural Statistics Service to have gone into the CRP. Some of these CRP contracts have already been "bought" and the land returned to irrigated agriculture. Vaux et al. (1996) concluded "...a smaller CRP probably would not have a significant effect on irrigation in the region (this region of the U.S.)."

Although slightly less than 1/2 of the cropped area in the whole Texas High Plains region (41 counties) is irrigated, production from these irrigated lands greatly exceeds the dryland crop production. For the past 28 years (1968 to 1995), irrigated crop production, as a percentage of all under irrigation than dryland in this region, particularly for wheat (Musick et al., 1994).

Although the region is dependent on both dryland and irrigated crops, irrigated agriculture has far greater economic significance in the rural economies for farm equipment sales, fertilizer sales, chemical sales, energy sales revenues, and tax revenues besides supplying the bulk of the grain that makes this region the Cattle Feeding Capital of the World (Amosson and Ledbetter, 1996). Irrigation has also been a contributing factor in maintaining the region's population base (Albrecht and Murdock, 1985).

Yet the questions of how much irrigated land should be maintained and how much ground water can be removed are lingering questions that directly impact how the "sustainability of irrigation can be defined. Neither of these questions can be answered, because they require a historical view from some future time. It is our responsibility to make sure we do not squander this water resource to remain a viable non-irrigated (if that ever happens) production region again.

Nevertheless, free-market forces dictate that irrigation is a viable option and is still economically feasible for this region for the near- and the long-term (Gardner et al., 1996 and Vaux et al., 1996). But irrigation must become even more efficient as demands for the scarce water resource increase from numerous competitors (municipalities, industry, recreation, etc.).

This is the third in a series of six articles on "Tips on Turf." These articles will offer helpful tips to homeowners addressing lawn, garden and tree care management practices.

Mowing, the third part of the "Don't Bag It" program, is of critical importance equally as the Fertility and Watering part of the program.

The rule of thumb for mowing home lawns is not to remove more than one-third of the leaf surface at any one time. You will no longer need to bag your clippings if you follow these guidelines.

* For common Bermuda grass, set your mower to 1 1/2 inches and mow when or before it reaches 2 1/4 inches high.

* For "Tif" Bermuda grass, set your mower for one inch and mow when or before it reaches 1 1/2 inches high.

* For Buffalo grass, set your mower to two inches and mow when or before it reaches three inches high.

* For tall Fescue grass, set your mower for 2 1/2 inches and mow when or before it reaches 3 3/4 inches high.

* For Zoysia grass, set your mower to two inches and mow when or before it reaches three inches high.

Grass clippings left on your lawn will not contribute to thatch, but return valuable nutrients to the soil. They usually contain about 4% nitrogen, 0.5% phosphorus and 2% potassium, as well as all the necessary minor elements needed.

Check List for Evaluation of Mowing Practices

* Increase Height of Cut

-Generally more leaf area
-More upright, less compact growth habit-more spindly, less tillering, less dense stand

-Greater photosynthetic capacity-Greater root growth
-Less rapid growth
-More hardy turf

-Within limits, more resistance to weeds

-Within limits, more resistance to disease and insects

-Less costly to maintain within limits

* Decrease Height of Cut

-Generally less leaf area
-Within limits, less upright, more compact growth habit, less spindly, more tillering and more dense stand

-At the extreme, thin non-aggressive open stand, subject to injury

-Less photosynthetic capacity
-Less root growth
-Generally more rapid growth

-Less hardy turf
-Less resistance to weeds, insects and disease

-More costly to maintain

Weather delays affect crop planting progress

By Shawn Wade
Thunderstorms crossed the Texas High Plains on several occasions during the past week as producers worked to get the last of the 1997 crop planted.

Although hail has been reported with many of the storms that dotted the area, little information has been developed to indicate whether or not significant amount of replanting will have to be done to reestablish stands that ranged in maturity from a few days to a week or older.

There are also some areas, specifically parts of Floyd and Crosby Counties, that have had to deal with a variety of events that delayed planting progress for the High Plains since some areas have replanted cotton while others are just now getting their first planting in the ground.

Another primary concern for producers is also the effects of somewhat cooler than normal temperatures holding the crop back and the possible onset of seeding disease. Each of these things could delay the crop future as the area enters the month of June.

"This time of year we are very aware of the possibility of stands being damaged by hail and high winds associated with thunderstorms," notes PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson. "Hopefully, we will avoid a significant level of damage from hail or other causes and keep replant activities to a minimum."

Johnson concludes that so far the calendar has not played a large role in replant decisions except in the far northern areas of the High Plains.

Weekly boll weevil trap catches indicate weevils are continuing to emerge from overwintering habitats in increasing numbers.

"We continue to see a significant amount of emergence from all areas, including the mesquite habitats that usually have begun to drop off by this time," says Dr. Don Rummel from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock. "At this time boll weevil emergence is at the highest level we have ever seen above the Caprock on the High Plains."

Entering a whole new ballgame is the best way to describe the current position of High Plains cotton producers following a recent approval of boll weevil eradication legislation by the Texas Legislature.

Texas Governor George Bush signed the legislation that would put the eradication efforts back on track in several areas.

"Now that the High Plains has been split into two separate eradication zones it will be necessary to reevaluate the future of eradication activities in each area," notes PCG executive Vice President Donald Johnson. "The first phase of this effort will be putting together a new plan for producers in the Southern High Plains/Caprock Zone and holding the legislatively mandated referendum in this area by August 1.

Giving the Balanced Budget Agreement the Benefit of the Doubt -- For Now

Last month, Congress and the President reached agreement on a plan to balance the federal budget within five years.

If the economic assumptions hold up, this plan will allow us to stop piling up debt for our children and grandchildren to repay. While there are parts of the agreement I don't like -- particularly in areas where it spends too much -- I believe other parts are a step in the right direction.

For example, the plan will keep Medicare from going bankrupt in the year 2001 by adding 10 years to the life of the Trust Fund. The budget plan will also let Americans keep $135 billion more of their own money over the next five years through such common sense tax relief measures as a $500 per child tax credit for working families, a reduction in the capital gains tax, and relief from inheritance taxes. All told, the budget agreement will provide Americans with the largest tax cut since 1981.

The plan is not perfect. However, I doubt a better balanced budget plan could have been agreed to which stood a chance of being passed and signed into law. This fact alone causes me to give the agreement the benefit of the doubt -- for now.

But clearly, the next few weeks will be crucial to making sure that what was agreed to actually gets included in the final plan, and that the tax relief which has been promised to working families and businesses will actually get enacted and go into effect.

For more information on this or any other issue before Congress, please write Mac Thornberry at 412 Cannon Building, Washington, DC 20515.

"FOCUS ON THE FAMILY" with Dr. James Dobson

QUESTION: I want to control and lead my strong-willed child properly, but I'm afraid I'll break his spirit and damage his emotions in some way. How can I deal with his misbehavior without hurting his self-concept?

DR. DOBSON

Dr. Dobson: Breaking the spirit of the child is different from shaping his will. The human spirit relates to the self-esteem or the personal worth that a child feels. As such, it is exceedingly fragile at all ages and must be handled with care. You as a parent correctly assume that you can damage your child's spirit quite easily...by ridicule, disrespect, threats to withdraw love and by verbal rejection. Anything that depreciates his self-esteem can be costly to his spirit.

However, while the spirit is brittle and must be treated gently, the will is made of steel. It is one of the few intellectual components that arrives full strength at the moment of birth. In an issue of Psychology Today, this heading described the research findings from a study of infancy: "A baby knows who he is before he has the language to tell us so. He reaches deliberately for control of his environment, especially his parents."

This scientific disclosure would bring no new revelation to the parents of a strong-willed infant. They have walked the floor with him in the wee small hours, listening to this tiny dictator as he made his wants and wishes abundantly clear.

Later, a defiant toddler can become so angry that he is capable of holding his breath until he loses consciousness. Anyone who has ever witnessed this full measure of willful defiance has been shocked by its power. One headstrong 3-year-old recently refused to obey a direct command from her mother, saying, "You're just my mommy, you know!" Another "mere" mommy wrote me that she found herself in a similar confrontation with her

3-year-old son over something she wanted him to eat. He was so enraged by her insistence that he refused to eat or drink anything for two full days. He became weak and lethargic, but steadfastly held his ground. The mother was worried and guilt-ridden, as might be expected.

Finally, in desperation, the father looked the child in the eyes and convinced him that he was going to receive a well-deserved punishment if he didn't eat his dinner. With that maneuver, the contest was over. The toddler surrendered. He began to consume everything he could get his hands on, and virtually emptied the refrigerator.

Now tell me, please, why have so few child development authorities recognized this willful defiance? Why have they written so little about it? My guess is that the acknowledgment of childish imperfection would not fit neatly with the notion that little people are infused with sunshine and goodness, and merely "learn" the meaning of evil. To those who hold that rosy view I can only say, "Take another look!"

Dr. James Dobson is a psychologist, author and president of Focus on the Family, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Correspondence to Dr. Dobson should be addressed to: Focus on the Family, P.O.
