Construction team chosen for Unity Center

WORKING TOGETHER--The Floyd County Friends Board of Directors have awarded the construction bid for the Unity Center to both Ed Marks Construction, Marks, and Floyd County Friends President Nick Long. The two have agreed to work together to build the Unity Center. Davis will supply the materials and

The Floyd County Friends project started in March 1995 when the rival towns of Floydada and Lockney came together to pursue a common dream of building a center that would fill a variety of needs. The most pressing of those needs was a safe and larger building for stock shows, and the County Fair.

The board of directors of the Floyd County Friends have been made up of citizens from both towns. Although the football, basketball, track, and baseball teams have battled throughout the years, the board has stayed focused on fighting their battles together.

In that same spirit of cooperation the Floyd County Friends have awarded the building contract for the new Unity Center to local builders from both towns--Ed Marks Construction in Lockney, and Walter Davis Construction in Floydada.

"Walter Davis will provide the pre-fab building," said Floyd County Friends President Nick Long. "Ed Marks will put the building up."

Gary Brown, city manager of Floydada, will serve as the project coordinator and on-site spokesperson.

Hopefully the ground work will begin on or about July 12th," said Brown. "The start-up of the building is estimated to be around August 15th."

"We have legal work to get finished on deeds, etc.," said Long. "We should be finished with all of that by early July."

Long said the board is excited about having both towns represented in the building.

"Ed and Walter have over 30 years of combined construction experience going into this project," said Long. "We feel the quality is there and they have a sincere interest in making sure this is done right."

"We are part of this community and the community is part of us," said Marks.

"I think it is unusual that both of these men live in the same county, are both involved in construction, and they didn't know each other until now," said Long.

"I think Walter is pretty agreeable and easy to work with," said Marks.

"We're both looking forward to this," added Davis.

The first phase of this project will be the erection of a 30,000 square foot building. This will include the main James and Eva Meyer 20,000 square foot arena, and the 10,000 square foot First National Bank Lockney auxiliary building.

"The auxiliary building is going to be 2,500 square feet larger than projected," said Long.

Water level shows decrease

Floyd County ground water levels declined an average of 1.98 feet in 1998 in ninety-nine privately-owned wells. These wells are located in the observation network maintained by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 in its 577,650 acres service area within the county.

This represents a decrease of 177,562 acre feet of water in storage in the Ogallala Aquifer last year in the portion of Floyd County within the Water District boundaries.

Ground water levels within the Water District's Floyd County service area declined an average of 1.14 of a foot annually during the 10-year period from 1989 to 1999. An average annual decline of 1.42 feet was recorded during the five-year period from 1994 to 1999.

Ground water levels in the Ogallala Aquifer within the 6.8 million acre Water District service area declined an average of 2.15 feet from January 1998 to January 1999. This decline is 18.1 feet more than the 0.34 of a foot decline recorded for 1997.

A network of 1,204 privately-owned observation water wells is used to determine the annual change in the quantity of water in the Ogallala Aquifer within the High Plains Water District. The depth-to-water measurements are taken in January and February of each year to allow water levels to stabilize from pumping during the previous growing season.

Ground water declines within the High Plains Water District service area ranged from 0.05 of a foot in Randall County to 3.59 feet in Parmer County.

Drought conditions, including below-average precipitation, above-average temperatures, and hot gusty winds, caused increased ground water pumpage from the aquifer in 1998.

Last year, the National Weather Service reported 13.06 inches of precipitation at Lubbock and 17.15 inches in Amarillo. The historical precipitation totals for these cities are about 18 and 20 inches, respectively.

Due to the lack of precipitation, most dryland producers were unable to make a crop. Irrigators pumped more ground water than usual to supplement the missing precipitation and to provide water for optimum crop/development/production. Towns and cities within the Water District also reported above-average water use by their residents in 1998.

The disastrous 1998 growing season may have been best summed up by one producer who told Water District staff that he "irrigated only once last year - but that irrigation stretched from February to September."

Maps showing the location and well number of observation wells in each county, or portion of a county, were published in the April issue of The Cross Section and this newspaper.

Copies of the April 1999 Cross Section are available by contacting the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, 2930 Avenue Q, Lubbock, Texas, 79405-1499 or by calling (806) 762-0181. The Water District's web site is <http://www.hpwd.com>.

Huggins receives gold medal

Melanie Huggins, member of the Lockney Longhorn Band, recently competed in the Texas State Solo-Ensemble Contest held on the campus of Southwest Texas State University at San Marcos. She earned a First Division on her flute solo and received a gold medal. Melanie just completed her freshman year at Lockney High School, and this is her first time to compete at the State level. She is the daughter of Jim and Carol Huggins.

The Texas State Solo-Ensemble Contest is the largest event of its kind in the world. This year there were approximately 19,000 entries, the largest participation since 1990. An average of 20% receive a Division I. The judges come from all over the United States with contestants from 1A-5A.

Thornberry files measure to bolster nation's security

By Ken Towery

Congressman Mac Thornberry, who represents the 13th Texas Congressional District (which includes Floyd County) this week introduced legislation creating a new agency within the Department of Energy designed to establish clear lines of responsibility and accountability for the protection of America's nuclear weapons secrets.

The legislation is a clear outgrowth of the on-going scandal involving the theft of secret designs for practically all America's nuclear weapons by the Chinese government.

Thornberry, who sits on both the important House Armed Services and House Budget committees, would create the new agency, to be called the Nuclear Security Administration (NSA) and headed by a person with Under Secretary rank, to answer directly to the Secretary of Energy. It would have direct responsibility for, and authority over, the nation's nuclear weapons production facilities and weapons design laboratories. It is those two areas, Thornberry said in floor comments accompanying the introduction of his bill, where long-term weaknesses have occurred that led directly to the theft of American nuclear secrets.

During the past 10 years, Thornberry said, he had become "personally aware of 18 reports critical of the Department of Energy's management of the nuclear weapons complex."

"These reports show that the problems at DOE are long standing and systemic, going to the very heart of the way the Department is managed, structured and organized. They also show a direct link between DOE mismanagement and the total security failure we're just learning about," he said.

"Just as disturbing as the content of these reports," Thornberry said, "is the way they have been ignored. In short, this shows not only that the Department of Energy is broken, but that it is a department incapable of reforming itself, which is why I have introduced this bill."

In his floor remarks, Thornberry paid tribute to DOE Secretary Bill Richardson's efforts (Richardson is a former Democratic U.S. Representative from New Mexico, and former U.N. Ambassador under appointment from Bill Clinton) to improve the situation regarding security at the nation's nuclear laboratories. Richardson, he said, had recognized the problem and had taken some steps toward improvement.

"After the most recent DOE internal management review, Secretary Richardson announced some reforms which begin to move in the right direction. But these reforms still don't move nearly far enough and retain confusing, overlapping bureaucracies without one clear line of command."

Thornberry's proposal would establish that clear line of command.

"Strengthening the lines of authority in this way is something that has been recommended--and ignored--in the past. Just this past April, the General Accounting Office reported that continuing management problems at DOE were a key factor contributing to the security problems at the laboratories, and a major reason why DOE has been unable to develop long-term security solutions to the problems reported by advisory groups," Thornberry said.

In addition to serving on the House Armed Services Committee, Thornberry is Vice Chairman of the Committee's Subcommittee on Military Procurement, which has jurisdiction over the nuclear weapons complex. In a separate statement issued after his floor remarks, the West Texas Congressman noted that he has been pushing DOE management reforms for over four years. In 1996, he authored a reform plan that was approved as part of the FY 1997 Defense Authorization Act and resulted in the "120 Study" of the Department's management structure.

He noted, as well, that he has been working with U.S. Sen. Pete

FISD considers proposal for using utility savings to make capital improvements

FLOYDADA--FISD Board members spent the majority of their regular meeting listening to a proposal for "alternative funding sources" from Johnson Controls, Tuesday night, June 8th.

The proposals from Johnson Controls are presented to school districts as a way to save money on utilities. The money which is saved is then earmarked for modernizing facilities.

According to Mr. Phillip Lowery with Johnson Controls, the 1991 Texas legislature said school districts could now look for alternate ways of funding. The district would not be penalized if they could show that the money spent on capital improvement was money saved in other areas.

Johnson Controls would present a detailed performance contract to the district showing all areas they feel the district could save on utilities.

Lowery told the board Johnson Controls could show a 20% decrease in utility costs that could be redirected to capital improvements.

"We only use the money the district is already planning on spending in the next 15 years. All of the savings generating stays with the school. Johnson Controls gets none of that."

County jail passes state inspection

The Floyd County Jail passed inspection, on Monday, from Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

The Jail had failed a previous inspection in December 1998. Areas cited for improvement were fire prevention and staff.

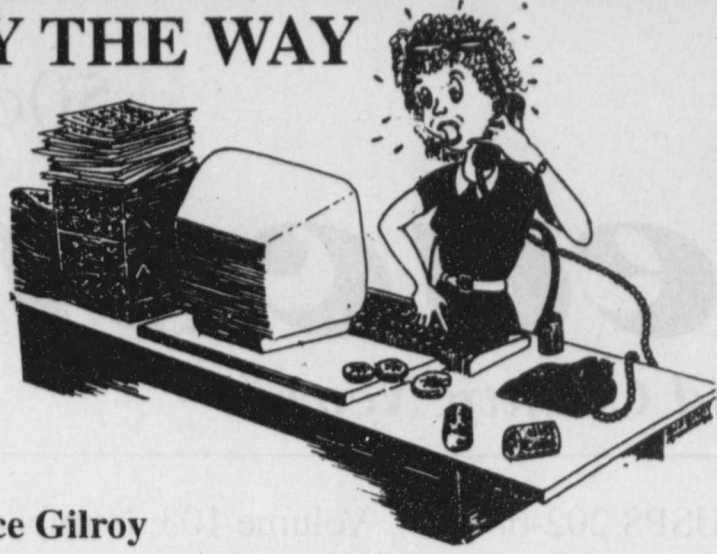

"They told us we needed to replace the cardboard boxes being used in the cells for the prisoner's storage," said Sheriff Gilmore. "We have put in metal boxes."

In the area of staff, Gilmore said, "the full and part-time jailers have agreed to work overtime when needed."

Inspector Mark Wilson gave the jail a passing grade in all areas of inspection.

The following was sent to me via e-mail. The writing was attributed to State Representative Mitchell Kaye, of Cobb County, Georgia. When I contacted Kaye to ask him if he really did write it and for permission to publish it, I was told the real author was Lewis Napper. So if you've seen this on your e-mail change the author's name before you pass it on. I understand Napper doesn't mind it being distributed—he would just like credit for it. I really enjoyed this and wish I had written it.

Bill of Rights (correction)

WE, the sensible people of the United States, in an attempt to help everyone get along, restore some semblance of justice, avoid any more riots, keep our nation safe, promote positive behavior and secure the blessings of debt-free liberty to ourselves and our great-great-grandchildren, hereby try one more time to ordain and establish some common sense guidelines for the terminally whiny, guilt-ridden delusional and other liberal, bed wetters.

WE hold these truths to be self-evident: that a whole lot of people were confused by the Bill of Rights and are so dim that they require a "Bill of No Rights".

ARTICLE I:

You do not have the right to a new car, big screen TV or any other form of wealth. More power to you if you can legally acquire them, but no one is guaranteeing anything.

ARTICLE II:

You do not have the right to never be offended. This country is based on freedom, and that means freedom for everyone - not just you! You may leave the room, turn the channel, express a different opinion, etc., but the world is full of idiots, and probably always will be.

ARTICLE III:

You do not have the right to be free from harm. If you stick a screwdriver in your eye, learn to be more careful, do not expect the tool manufacturer to make you and all your relatives independently wealthy.

ARTICLE IV:

You do not have the right to free food and housing. Americans are the most charitable people to be found, and will gladly help anyone in need, but we are quickly growing weary of subsidizing generation after generation of professional couch potatoes who achieve nothing more than the creation of another generation of professional couch potatoes.

ARTICLE V:

You do not have the right to free health care. That would be nice, but from the looks of public housing, we're just not interested in health care.

ARTICLE VI:

You do not have the right to physically harm other people. If you kidnap, rape, intentionally maim or kill someone, don't be surprised if the rest of us want to see you fry in the electric chair.

ARTICLE VII:

You do not have the right to the possessions of others. If you rob, cheat, or coerce away the goods or services of other citizens, don't be surprised if the rest of us get together and lock you away in a place where you still won't have the right to a big-screen color TV or a life of leisure.

ARTICLE VIII:

You don't have the right to demand that our children risk their lives in foreign wars to soothe your aching conscience. We hate oppressive governments and won't lift a finger to stop you from going to fight if you'd like. However, we do not enjoy parenting the entire world and do not want to spend so much of our time battling each and every little tyrant with a military uniform and a funny hat.

ARTICLE IX:

You don't have the right to a job. All of us sure want all of you to have one, and will gladly help you along in hard times, but we expect you to take advantage of the opportunities of education and educational training laid before you to make yourself useful.

ARTICLE X:

You do not have the right to happiness. Being an American means that you have the right to pursue happiness—which by the way, is a lot easier if you are unencumbered by an overabundance or idiotic laws created by those of you who were confused by the Bill of Rights.

Court of Honor scheduled for Lockney Eagle Scout

An Eagle Scout court of honor for Danny Huggins of Lockney Boy Scout Troop 259 will be conducted at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, June 13th at the Main Street Church of Christ in Lockney. The public is invited.

The Eagle Scout rank is the highest awarded by the Boy Scouts of America. In order to attain the Eagle rank, a Scout is required to earn at least 21 merit badges while coming up through the ranks of Tenderfoot, Second Class, First Class, Star, and Life Scout. He must serve in positions of leadership in his troop and, while a Life Scout, plan, develop and give leadership to others in a service project helpful to his religious institution, school or community. He must also successfully complete an Eagle Scout board of review.

Huggins has been active in Scouts since he was in the first grade, when he joined the Tiger Cub den in Lockney. He has attended South Plains Council Boy Scout summer camp at Camp C.W. Post near Post and four year at Tres Ritos, New Mexico. He has earned two Scout "Fifty Miles Afoot-Afloat" Awards for backpacking trips in the New Mexico mountains, in 1997 at Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimmaron and last year in the Pecos Packer program at Tres Ritos. Huggins has been a Troop 259 patrol leader, senior patrol leader, treasurer, and Cub den chief, and is currently quartermaster for the Lockney troop. His Eagle project involved locating and placing flag holders at the graves of U.S. veterans at the Lockney cemetery. Other troop members helped to place small flags at the veterans' graves this year on Memorial Day.

The seventeen year old Lockney High School senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Huggins, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bramlet, and great grandson of Mrs. Eula Bramlet, all of Lockney.

America At Risk

By Edwin Feulner

According to the recently released report of the Cox commission, Chinese spies have stolen a number of sophisticated U.S. nuclear secrets, including the design of our most advanced warhead, the W-88. It's a heist that places every American at risk.

Keep in mind that the Chinese already have nuclear missiles capable of destroying U.S. cities within minutes. Now they can make those missiles better.

Worst of all, the United States has no defense against missile attacks, either from China or the more than two dozen other countries pursuing advanced missile technology. For all our technological might, the United States—and its cities and people—are sitting ducks.

Yet polls show most Americans are unaware of this. In fact, many people believe we have some sort of missile defense. We don't.

If you want to know exactly what's going on here, pick up a copy of the new book, "America At Risk: The Citizen's Guide To Missile Defense." Written by my colleague James Anderson, the book explains—in plain, simple English—why we need a missile defense and how to develop such a system quickly and efficiently.

(The situation is so potentially serious—and the time to act so short—I would be happy to send you a copy of the book free of charge. Just write to request your copy and mention my name. The address is 214 Massachusetts Ave., NE, Washington, D.C., 20002. Or send your name and address by e-mail to pubs@heritage.org. The entire text is also available on our website at: http://www.heritage.org/missile\_defense/citizens\_guide.)

"Impoverished, unpredictable states like North Korea are developing missiles capable of striking American soil in less time than it takes to watch the evening news," Anderson writes. Just last year, North Korea tested the Taepo-Dong 1, a missile some experts say can reach Alaska or Hawaii. North Korea is now working on the Taepo-Dong 2, an even longer-range missile capable of hitting America's West Coast.

In fact, the technology needed to build city-leveling missiles has spread to more than two dozen nations, including such beacons of enlightenment as Iran, Iraq and Libya. Add in the possibility of accidental or unauthorized launches from Russia or China—which have missiles capable of hitting almost any American city within minutes—and the potential for disaster becomes clear.

So why aren't we building missile defenses right now? According to the Clinton administration, we can't because the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) Treaty we signed with the former Soviet Union forbids it. But the Soviet Union collapsed in 1991, along with any obligation the United States had to adhere to the ABM treaty.

Unfortunately, the president doesn't share this view. Although he says he supports missile defense, he insists the ABM treaty is still valid. But our continued allegiance to the treaty will make it impossible for us to adequately protect ourselves from missile attack.

That's not the only obstacle. Some critics say we shouldn't build missile defenses at all. It will never work, they say. Or it's too expensive. But the nay-sayers are wrong. With today's technology, it is both practical and affordable to defend ourselves against missiles. And with millions of lives in danger, how can we afford not to?

Congress recently passed the National Missile Defense Act of 1999, calling for a missile-defense system to be deployed "as soon as is technologically feasible." But we're not out of the woods yet. Under the legislation, the president would review the system's progress in June 2000 and only then decide whether to deploy it.

The good news is that at least missile defense has reclaimed its rightful place as a top national-security issue. The question is, now that we can defend ourselves, will we?

Thornberry introduces bill to restructure DOE

Domenici (R-N.M.), a member of the Senate's Armed Services Committee, on the plan to establish a Nuclear Security Administration. Two weeks ago, he filed an amendment with the House Rules Committee to offer the plan as an amendment to the FY 2000 Defense Authorization bill. The rule as eventually pulled by the House leadership, is scheduled to be considered again this week.

Thornberry's introduction of the bill to restructure DOE comes on the heels of highly critical remarks of the Clinton Administration's security record by U.S. Congressman Larry Combest of Lubbock, now chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and former Chairman of the House Intelligence Committee.

Referring to revelations by the bipartisan Cox Committee that spies working for the Peoples Republic of China had acquired massive amounts of U.S. nuclear secrets, Combest asked, "How did this happen?"

"Have we turned out the lights on national security? The Clinton Administration is taking an 'everybody does it approach' to this national crisis by claiming the spying began almost twenty years ago," said Combest.

"Although Clinton's advisors knew about the spying as early as 1995, they did nothing to correct it. Preventive steps should have been taken immediately; instead, Clinton's National Advisor, Samuel Berger, waited two years to tell the President that our most advanced technologies were stolen. If this is one of the most significant spy cases of the century, why did he feel that it wasn't important to tell the President immediately?"

WALK ACROSS TEXAS TEAMS

Walk Across Texas teams reach destinations

To many, walking across Texas would be an unattainable goal, but to close to 500 Floyd County residents, it was the driving factor to motivating them to "Walk Across Texas" or 684 miles to South Padre Island.

Sponsored by the Family and Consumer Science Committee of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, 18 teams participated in a challenge to walk from Floyd County to South Padre Island during an eight week period.

The "Walk Across Texas" program was a statewide emphasis with all Texas counties participating to promote overall exercise and fitness in relation to overall health.

Each team was comprised of eight members, except for one bicycle team which was made up of four. Each member walked or rode a bike individually and reported their distance to a team leader.

A recognition event honoring those who participated was held Tuesday, June 1 at the Lockney City Park.

The County Crawlers reached

South Padre Island first and received "I Walked Across Texas" T-shirts. They logged 1110 miles. County Crawlers' members included: Judge Bill Hardin, Mary Shurbet, Penny Golightly, Bruce Ballou, Tim Burge, Peggy Hill, Delia Suarez and Linda Turner.

Accumulating the most miles, (1277), was the bicycling team Three Babe's And A Dude made up of Erika, Laura, Rachel and Mathew Miller. They received gift certificates.

The walking team that reached South Padre Island second and logged 928 1/2 miles was the Silver Thimbles including: Dorothy Stapp, Johnnie Quisenberry, Wanda Smith, Dorothy Hooten, Mervean Carthel, Tanya Covington, Molly Huffman and Mary Sherman. They received Walk Across Texas water bottles.

Another team reaching the destination with 696 miles was the Stand Stompers from the Floydada Parent Adolescent Center.

The Left Overs logged 695 miles to get to South Padre Island, the Bahama Mama's made it with 698 1/2 miles and the Eight is Enough team made it with 684 miles.

All first, second and third grade students, under the direction of Regina Smith participated in the program. Donna Harmon's home room, The Shamrocks, reached South Padre Island first and received Walk Across Texas Water bottles. In individual honors, Titus Miller accumulated the most miles, 100, and Dillon Chesshir came in second with 71 miles.

All teams were recognized for their achievement as well as the celebration event which included: The Chocoholics, The Elite Eight, First National Bank of Lockney, The Secret Agents, The South Plains Strutters, The Stepping Beauties, The Windmills, Women of Excellence #1 and Women of Excellence #2 and The Judy's.

Lake manager reports record attendance

By Tom Davey, General Manager
3,608 people were at the lake over the Memorial Day weekend. All of the RV park was full, and most of the picnic areas were occupied. The beach area was wall to wall tents and people. It was a weather perfect weekend, cool at night and warm during the day.

People that love to camp out have a great outlook on life. They camp next to folks that may have never met, and by the end of the weekend they are sharing food, water or what else they have.

Now that the lake has come up 12 feet from the rains, you can boat into areas that have been dry. My son and I have a canoe and we spent the day going up each creek till we could go no further. A canoe gives a person a new look at the wildlife that live at the lake. We saw the following: birds, Kingfisher, Black Crowned Herring, Redwing, Black birds and many more.

Fishing is slow for some, but I took my grandsons fishing and we caught crappie until we ran out of bait. No keepers, but it was great fun. Speaking of fish, the Texas Parks & Wildlife put 13,000 stripers in the lake on Wednesday.

The RV park is filling up for the 4th of July weekend. If you plan on coming to the lake, call for reservations.

Disabled children benefit from Lions camp

As the school year draws to a close, parents begin searching for summer-time activities for their children. Often, the range of choices may seem limited for parents whose children have disabilities. However, thanks to the Lions Clubs of Texas, many children with physical disabilities can look forward to a summer experience that all children enjoy and dream about—going to summer camp. Texas Lions Camp offers special camping programs that serve children who have physical disabilities and diabetes.

This summer, six one week camping sessions and a day camp will be offered by the Texas Lions Camp for children ages 7 through 16 who have physical disabilities. Prospective campers should have some self-help skills in the areas of dressing, eating, toileting, and bathing. The camp offers a wide variety of activities for the enjoyment of campers, including, arts and crafts, field sports, riding horses, swimming, and camping out overnight.

The Texas Lions Camp also offers a specially designed summer camping session for children who are diabetic ages 8 through 15. In addition to the recreational activities which make camp life fun, a medical team joins the camp staff in helping campers learn to control their diabetes. Individualized attention in health care encourages control of diabetes while children learn to eat properly, monitor their blood sugar, and give their own insulin injections. "Diabetic children face a challenge to take proper care of themselves and take an active role in controlling their disease. Our goal is to assist them with these needs," says Stephen Mabry, Executive Director. Parents are also provided with instruction to help them continue to assist and encourage their children after camp is over.

Further information and camper applications may be obtained by contacting a local Lions Club in your area, or by contacting the Texas Lions Camp at P.O. Box 247, Kerrville, Texas 78029-0247 (830)896-8500 VTDD. Also, look for us on the web at www.lionscamp.com.

FISD considers funding options

Lowery said the district had spent $165,000 on utilities in the past year. He said Johnson Controls could save the district $35,000 a year.

During a slide presentation Lowery showed the board several different areas on FISD campuses that could be improved.

Lowery also told the board that if they voted to have the study done and then decided not to proceed with a contract with Johnson Controls the district was not obligated to pay for the study.

However, if the study was accepted and an agreement was made, payment to Johnson Controls would not be made until after the completion of the improvements and the savings are seen.

Superintendent Jimmie Collins recommended that the board proceed to the next step and see the recommendations by Johnson Controls.

All trustees were in favor of looking at a detailed study.

After the board meeting, Board President Mitch Probasco explained, "Johnson Controls will make their money by sub-contracting the work for the equipment we will buy to save us on utility costs."

Ass't. Superintendent Dick Van Hoose gave the tax report and said, "$1,765,472.06 has been collected. That is 96.33% of our tax roll.

The board approved the sale of two taxing entity lots on the S.E. corner of Wall and California Street to P.A. Kern for $400.00.

"I was told the taxing entities would have to pay over $2,000 to have the buildings torn down at that location," said Van Hoose.

The board voted unanimously to sell the lots.

Mr. Galvan also made a bid for the purchase of a vacant taxing entity lot at 501 E. Tennessee (next to his home), for $200.00. This was also approved.

Bank depository bids were made by

West Texas National, American State Bank and First National Bank of Floydada.

Van Hoose recommended the board consider the bids from ASB and FNB because of basis points paid on CD's.

"ASB proposed a re-purchase agreement if we allow them to re-invest our checking account money. FNB did not bid that way."

The repurchase agreement would pay more interest on the district's daily checking account balance.

Van Hoose recommended the board accept ASB's bid and the board voted unanimously to do so.

The principals budgets for 1999-2000 was presented to the board for consideration and preliminary examination.

Superintendent Collins told the board that a $3,000 across the board teacher, librarian, and certified nurses, pay raises will also be figured into the budget.

"The legislature has promised this will be paid for through increasing basic allotments and Tier II funding," said Collins.

On the agenda was the consideration of giving the Floyd County Friends Unity Center a tax exemption.

"After I was presented with this, I contacted our attorney Paul Lyle," said Collins. "He told me that each taxing entity has nothing to do with that decision. We have a Central Appraisal District that makes those decisions."

"I have been told the Floyd County Friends have already asked Shiela Faulkenberry (county appraiser) if they would qualify for a tax exemption and she told them, 'yes'.

"So this is a moot item for us now."

The board accepted the resignation of Betty and Joe Hinojosa (custodians), and hired the following: Michael Scott, as a new computer teacher at the Junior High School; J.D. Young to replace Daniel Coronado as the P.E. aide at Andrews; and Johnny Kay as elementary counselor.

ROLF SHERMAN, son of Tommy and June Sherman, has excelled in Industrial Technology Education at Kress High School. ## First Lady of Texas encourages summer reading programs for young readers

By Laura Bush, First Lady of Texas

A book is a friend; a good book is a good friend. It will talk to you when you want it to talk, and it will keep still when you want it to keep still--and there are not many friends who know enough to do that. A library is a collection of friends.

--Lyman Abbott
When I was a child, my mother often took me to our local library in the basement of the Midland County Courthouse. These trips to the library were an important part of my childhood and are the source of fond memories today.

I'd pick up a book whenever I felt bored or lonely, and reading would always make me feel better. Little did I know that reading was doing much more than providing entertainment—it was making me smarter and more imaginative.

Common sense dictates that when you exercise every day you grow stronger. The more you exercise, the more you realize the results: more energy, agility, strength and endurance.

We can explain to children that the more they practice reading, the stronger their brains and the smarter they become. For children who have just learned to read (or are in the process of learning), it is vital that they practice the skill regularly. Reading actually improves a variety of skills, including writing, reasoning and imagining.

Like exercise, the less young readers read, the more their reading skills could deteriorate over the months. Children who are rusty at reading by the end of summer have to work very hard to get back in good reading shape once school starts again.

That's why I am urging children and adults alike to read, read, read during the next few months. Open your favorite book and read it again, or pick up books you've longed to read but haven't had time. Now that summer is here, we can take advantage of reading for fun—not because we have to, but because we want to.

Reading opens doors to other worlds, other people, histories and languages. Have you ever finished a book and thought it was so good, you wanted to read it again, or you still think and talk about it months, even years, later?

A wise man once said something similar to Lyman Abbott's quote, above. He said, "You know you've read a good book when you turn the last page and feel as if you have lost a friend."

I think that's true for anyone who enjoys reading a good book. In my youth, my favorite books were from the Little House on the Prairie series. I loved the main character, Laura, because we shared the same name. But perhaps what I loved even more were those special times I spent sitting with my mother's arm around me, listening to her read.

Reading is an essential element of a lot of fun summer activities: playing board games, cooking with recipes, making grocery lists, shopping, playing school, writing on the sidewalk with chalk, or even writing a children's neighborhood newspaper like the Governor did when he was a child.

Because I used to be a librarian, I would be remiss if I did not remind you that library summer reading programs and story times are fabulous events for children. So please take your children (or if you don't have children, take the neighborhood children) to your local library this summer, and look into signing them up for a summer reading program. Your library is prepared to help parents who aren't sure how to use the library to help their children. Just ask your librarian! If your library doesn't have a summer reading program, you can call the Library Science Collection at 1-800-252-9386 to get information on how to start a summer reading program.

Finally, don't forget to read with your children. Now is the perfect time to begin a wonderful tradition of going to the library and reading together. Take it from me: Reading together this summer is a great way to build stronger reading skills and lasting memories.

Pest Management Newsletter

By Ron Graves

THRIPS

Thrips populations are low to moderate in fields inspected thus far. The higher populations are occurring in fields with cover crops that were recently terminated. As the cover crops and weeds dry down thrips move to the seedling cotton. Recent cloudy cool weather slowed crop growth which tends to enhance the affects of thrips feeding.

Although no research based economic threshold has been established for this pest, field observations have indicated that control may be justified when an average of one to five thrips per plant is found. The number of thrips per plant is to use as a treatment guideline increases as plants add more leaves. A good treatment threshold would be an average of one thrips per true leaf. The following list contains foliar applied insecticides labeled for control of thrips.

BOLL WEEVILS

Pheromone trap catches around scouting program fields are higher than in years past with some traps capturing in excess of 100 boll weevils per week.

As cotton nears squaring, pheromone traps should be in place and kept operational. Boll weevil pheromone traps should be placed along field margins near favorable overwintering habitat or near areas of the field with a history of early infestations. For fields up to 100 acres in size, at least four to five traps should be used.

Pheromone traps should be in operation several weeks before the first squares appear in cotton. The treatment decision is based on the "Trap Index" and scouting information. Inspect traps weekly and determine the average number of weevils caught per trap each week for each field monitored. Record numbers for future reference. Weevils entering fields shortly before and during early squaring are the most important from the standpoint of potential infestation. Determine the average number of weevils captured for the week that the first squares (pinhead to matchhead size) appear. This will be the Trap Index. The number of weevils captured in traps prior to and during the early squaring indicates the size of the overwintering population and the need for one or more insecticide applications.

Pheromone traps must be kept operational and inspected regularly to be reliable. Rain, wind conditions and cool temperatures will reduce weevil response to pheromone traps. Therefore, if adverse weather conditions are present during the week of first square, the average trap catch for the previous week should be considered in determining the need to treat.

Pheromone trap data may not be reliable after 25 percent or more of the cotton in an area has begun to square or after 1/3 grown squares are present in a field around which the traps are located. Trap data are most reliable in areas using uniform planting dates.

The 1999 Agri Partners Grid trapping program has been combined with the Plains Cotton Growers Grid trapping program. This data is locked down on my computer at the moment, but should be available for future newsletter.

Distribution of disaster money provides boost to the area

By Shawn Wade

The announcement that payments from the 1998 Crop Loss Assistance Program (CLA) would be dispersed starting June 1 was welcome news to an agricultural community reeling from the effects of a tough 1998 growing season.

In turn, the payments will also provide a healthy infusion of money into the economies of Lubbock and surrounding communities. Floyd County received an estimated $7,828,052 in the CLA program.

Overall, the 25 counties surrounding Lubbock are estimated to receive over $150 million dollars in CLA payments to producers. Overall, the High Plains should account for 30 percent or more of the estimated $456 million in CLA Program money sent to Texas.

Texas' $456 million is the highest single statewide payment total. California is estimated to receive the second highest amount with some $169 million in payments. Nationwide payments are estimated to total some $1.9 billion.

The money paid to producers will make an immediate impact on the entire area as producers make purchases and settle accounts.

"The finalization of this program will no doubt prove beneficial to all segments of the High Plains economy," notes PCG Executive Vice President Steve Verett. "This money will provide a much needed boost to producers, but its ultimate impact will be felt far beyond the ag sector as the dollars are recirculated through the area businesses."

Corn crop may be adversely affected by herbicide "Balance"

From: Texas Corn Producers Board

Farmers who may have used the herbicide "Balance" during spring planting of corn crops should be aware of a potential problem associated with this product, the Texas Corn Producers Board said.

In a producer advisory sent to corn farmers throughout the region, the Texas Corn Producers Board noted that a number of farmers in the High Plains have reported damaged and lost crops, apparently related to the use of "Balance."

"We are working with Rhone-Poulenc to identify any problems with the product and to mitigate any losses to corn farmers," said TCPB executive director Jerry Don Glover. "It is our hope that the losses are minimal."

Farmers who believe they have been adversely affected by the use of the herbicide "Balance" should contact the Texas Corn Producers Board at 1-800-647-CORN. A centralized database is being established by the TCPB to assist in identifying any problems associated with the use of "Balance," said Glover.

When contacting TCPB, farmers should note the type of damage their crops have experienced and the number of acres," said Glover.

Protect Cucurbits with Full-Season Fungicides Program

Fungicides are vital to a cucurbit grower's crop management program because diseases, left uncontrolled, can quickly devastate a pumpkin or cantaloupe crop. A full-season fungicide program is necessary to protect cucurbits from diseases that decrease yields and quality and, ultimately, ruin a grower's bottom line. When determining a fungicide program, choose products that provide:

- highly effective, broad-spectrum disease control
- consistent yield and quality improvements
- a one-of-a-kind tool against resistance.

A program of QUADRIS® and BRAVO ULTREX® fungicides is a cucurbit grower's most powerful weapon against fungal diseases. When used together in a seven-day spray program, Quadris and Bravo Ultrex are highly effective in controlling diseases like gummy stem blight (black rot), powdery mildew, downy mildew and anthracnose.

Begin with an application of Quadris and follow seven days later with Bravo Ultrex with proven Super Weather Stik™ protection. Alternate applications of the fungicides every seven days thereafter. Add a sterol inhibitor with Bravo Ultrex applications for powdery mildew control where needed.

Quadris has a systemic mode of action that controls disease on the underleaf surface—a critical feature since there is some resistance to other labeled systemic materials on the market. Alternating Quadris with Bravo Ultrex gives growers maximum protection against resistance.

In addition, Quadris exhibits excellent crop safety and requires significantly lower use rates than other products. It also has shown to significantly increase fruit weight.

To achieve a higher level of disease control, and produce yields and quality that boost your profits, rely on Quadris and Bravo Ultrex fungicides by Zeneca Ag Products. Contact your local ag chem retailer for more information.

Beef can be part of your heart-healthy diet

Maintaining a heart-healthy diet does not necessarily mean eliminating beef from the menu.

The key is knowing how to select and prepare it, says dietician Lynne Scott, director of the Diet Modification Clinic at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"We have found that it is okay to incorporate beef into your diet as long as it is lean," Scott said.

To be considered lean, three ounces of cooked meat should have less than nine grams of fat. As a rule of thumb, three ounces is about the same size as a deck of playing cards.

Scott suggests choosing cuts that have most of the fat trimmed and very little marbling. Cuts with the word "loin" in their names, like tenderloin, top loin and sirloin, are usually leaner choices.

The grade of meat is also important. "Select" is the leanest grade, followed by "choice" and "prime", which is the highest in fat.

"The myth about beef not being healthy started about 10 to 15 years ago when most of the beef available in supermarkets was very fatty," Scott said. "Now, we don't see as much prime beef in the supermarkets, and an effort is being made to give us a wider selection."

While all beef contains saturated fat, the amount is often unnecessarily increased during preparation.

Scott offers some simple advice for making beef part of a heart-healthy diet:

- Trim any visible fat before cooking.
- Grill, broil or roast the meat.
- Do not use fat, like butter or shortening, when cooking.
- Saute in a coated skillet instead of using fat.
- Serve low-fat side dishes with the meal.

Although it is easy to control preparations at home, do not use eating out as an excuse to settle for beef dishes that are high in fat. Scott recommends asking the chef to trim the extra fat and grill it with very little or no fat.

While beef can be part of a healthy diet, Scott reminds diners to limit portions. The American Heart Association recommends eating no more than 6 ounces of cooked meat per day.

Tobacco chewers invited to participate in Northwest Smokeless Tobacco Study

Chewing tobacco and snuff users who want to quit are invited to participate in the Northwest Smokeless Tobacco Study, sponsored by the National Cancer Institute.

Participants will receive free quitting materials and are asked to complete research questionnaires that will help evaluate the project. The materials include a 60-page booklet that guides smokeless tobacco users through a step-by-step quitting process, and a 20-minute video that features chewers and dippers who have quit successfully.

For more information or to enroll in the study, call 1-800-574-7111.

Prevalence of Smokeless Tobacco Use

More than 5% of American men, and 1% of women, use smokeless tobacco (SLT) daily. In Texas, 6.3% of adult males use this tobacco product daily. In one recent year, 12-15 million Americans reported some use of snuff or chewing tobacco, with at least 5 million using it daily.

Use of smokeless tobacco has increased 10-fold among U.S. male adolescents between 1970 and 1985, and continues to grow.

Among U.S. youth in grades 9-12, 11.5% use smokeless tobacco at least once a month. In Texas, 19.0% of boys (and a growing number of girls) in this age group use smokeless tobacco at least once a month.

SLT is particularly popular among rural males, especially those working in ranching, agriculture, and the wood-products industry. Use is also high among some American Indian tribes.

Health Consequences of Smokeless Tobacco Use

The U.S. Surgeon General has concluded that smokeless tobacco can cause oral cancer and can lead to nicotine addiction.

78.6% of daily smokeless tobacco users have non-cancerous and precancerous oral lesions.

Smokeless tobacco is also associated with cancers of the esophagus, larynx, and stomach, and with cardiovascular disease.

Addiction to Smokeless Tobacco

SLT users have similar, or even higher, levels of nicotine in their bloodstreams than smokers who smoke a pack of cigarettes or more per day.

Withdrawal from regular SLT use results in the same withdrawal symptoms and discomfort observed in heavy cigarette smokers attempting to quit.

Manufacturers of smokeless tobacco systematically alter the nicotine content and pH of moist snuff to gradually move novice users on to higher levels of nicotine addiction as their tolerance increases.

A&M Professor's Patent Helps Improve Preservation

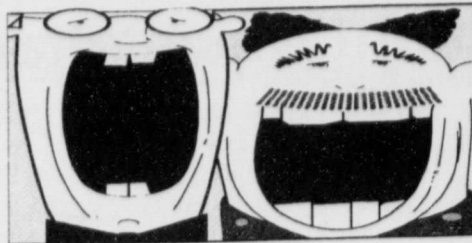

COLLEGE STATION - Texas A&M anthropology professor Wayne Smith calls his new patent "safe chemistry."

Smith and Jerome M. Klosowski, a chemist with Dow Corning Co., have received a patent for preserving a wide variety of organic materials using polyethylene glycol (PEG). The process uses resins, silicone oils and other chemical compounds to preserve samples.

Smith said the items preserved are safe, cost-effective and durable. A second patent application, working with silicone oils, offers advancements into a range of interesting industrial and university research avenues, he added.

"These processes cause less structural damage to the artifacts than other preservatives, such as formaldehyde," Smith said. "Because they are not poisonous (carcinogens), like some traditional preservatives, treated samples are safer to prepare and to handle after treatment."

Silicone preservation assures stability for several hundred years, he noted. Unlike traditional preservation processes that can take months, the PEG and silicon oil (passivation polymer) process takes only days to complete. This makes it easier to manage fragile items found in a shipwreck such as wooden objects, glass, bone, cloth, food pieces and basketry, Smith explained.

Trauma When every second counts

Trauma is the 4th leading cause of death in the United States. Many of these fatalities could have been avoided if victims had received medical attention earlier. The first 60 minutes after injury—"The Golden Hour"—are critical to improving chances of survival. Learn how to detect and respond quickly to emergency warning signs.

- These include:
- difficulty breathing
  - chest or abdominal pain
  - fainting, sudden dizziness
  - weakness or change in vision
  - confusion, or bleeding that won't stop

Recognizing these signs and promptly notifying Emergency Medical Services can save time and save lives.

Carr Chapel hosts old fashioned prairie revival

Carr's Chapel will host an Old Fashioned Prairie Revival, Saturday, June 12.

The revival is part of Carr's Chapel celebration of 95 years of "serving the Lord."

Rev. Steve Rodgers, conference evangelist, and Curtis House, youth pastor of First United Methodist Church in Canyon, will arrive on horseback.

Local groups from the area will provide "old-time, hand-clapping" music, and a youth band will offer contemporary Christian music. The Petersburg Community Choir will sing gospel.

A variety of food will be served, including: "cowboy cookin'" off the chuck wagon; Mexican food by San Juan Methodist Church; desserts by the Petersburg Boy Scout Troop; and drinks by the ladies of Carr's Chapel.

The price of foods helps support the ministries. The dinner and youth rally will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the revival will start at 7:30 p.m.

Bring your own seating, blankets, lawn chairs, etc. Carr's Chapel is located on Hwy. 378, eight miles west of Highway 62. Travel south on Hwy. 62, out of Floydada, and turn west on 378.

The Paper Pulpit

By: Pastor Henry Russell

Most of us have laughed at those two comedians, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, as they went on and on with that "Who's on First" story. Here's one somewhat the same, but down where many folk live:

Fred Somebody, Thomas Everybody, Peter Anybody, and Joe Nobody were neighbors. All four belonged to the same church, but you couldn't worship with them.

Everybody went fishing on Sunday or stayed home to visit friends.

Anybody wanted to worship, but was afraid.

Somebody wouldn't speak to him, so guess who went to church.....Nobody.

Really Nobody did visitation. Nobody worked on the building. Nobody attended mid-week services.

Once they needed a Sunday School teacher. Everybody thought Anybody would do it and Somebody thought Anybody would do it, and Anybody thought Somebody would do it. And you know who did it? That's right...Nobody.

It happened that a fifth neighbor (an unbeliever) came to live among them. Everybody thought Somebody should try to win him. Anybody could have at least made an effort. You probably know who finally won him to Christ...Nobody.

And so, Christian friend, if you leave it for Somebody or Everybody to do the Lord's work, Nobody will do it. Let's not be guilty of neglecting the Lord's work by leaving it to Somebody else!

Tips for giving second chances

By Ron Trusler

There are some instances where it is not possible or advisable to give a person a second chance. However, in many instances, giving someone a second chance is worth consideration. Second chances are not always easy to give or get. They are serious and worth more than a flippant attitude as if nothing ever happened to start with. If you are in a position to give someone another chance, give the following statements serious consideration.

1. Deal with any grudges you have. When there has been some type of failure on another persons part, someone is likely to have disappointment and hurt which can produce grudges. It is best to get those cleared up or they will sneak up and sabotage second chance efforts.

2. Examine your responsibility in the past incident where the failure occurred. Did you communicate your expectations clearly? Did you give someone some responsibility they were not prepared to handle properly? If you determine you had some part in the first failure, make sure that is taken care of this time. If not, failure is likely to occur again.

3. Determine boundaries or guidelines for the second chance. Second chances may not always involve the same area where the first failure occurred. That area may be off limits for now. For example, someone has stolen some money from you. At first, you may have felt they could not be trusted at all, in any thing. But now, you have worked through the hard feelings and you are willing to try again. You may not want to give them responsibilities dealing with money, at least for now. You may need to give them a chance in another area, to prove they are trustworthy. If that works out, money responsibilities, could come later.

4. Clearly communicate the boundaries or guidelines to the other person. I believe it is important to talk through the disappointment, the lack of trust and what is expected in the future. Make the guidelines or expectations clear and simple.

I am sure that any of us can look back and be grateful for the second chances we have been given. Probably, some of us have had multiple chances.
