VICTIM OF ROCKET ATTACK — Rescuers in the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh free the body of a woman from rubble after Kmer Rouge rockets hit the city late Wednesday night. More rockets struck the city today. Officials said seven persons were killed and 28 wounded.

To Sign Social Security Bill

The World At-A-Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The small Persian Gulf sheikdom of Abu Dhabi struck it rich in oil and is now using some of the profits to equip its military — only 8,000 strong — with $90 million worth of sophisticated jet fighters from France. "They've got the money so they want to buy some of this, some of that — like out of a mail order catalogue," remarked one U.S. official. However, what Abu Dhabi doesn't have is any experienced jet pilots or jet mechanics, so Pakistani Air Force personnel will fly and service the airplanes for at least several years.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Skylab 3 flight has had mechanical and human errors, but its commander says "by golly we're going to make it" the full 84 days. Commander Gerald P. Carr also said the error-prone early days of the mission are behind because of a new understanding between the ground and the crew on the work schedule. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson also told newsmen from space Wednesday — the 48th day of an intended 12-week space voyage — that their space experience has brought changes of "almost a spiritual nature" in their views of themselves, of other humans and of the possibility of life existing elsewhere in the universe.

Withdrawal Of Troops

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Sources said today the United States has been quietly withdrawing nearly 4,000 more troops from Thailand, reducing its force in the country to about 35,000 men by the end of the week. The report was confirmed by Gen. Kriengsak Chamanand, deputy chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, who said the Thai defense ministry probably would make an announcement Friday. The sources also said the Americans were shipping home about 25 EB66 electronic warfare jets from the Korat Air Base 165 miles northeast of Bangkok. The plane was used in Vietnam for electronic surveillance and jamming enemy radars. The United States had almost 44,000 troops — most of them Air Force personnel — in Thailand when the U.S. Congress ended American bombing in Cambodia in August. In late August and September, it reduced the force to about 39,000 men and 600 planes, but in September the Thai government said the withdrawal was being suspended because of the military and political situation in Indochina.

Fuel For Industries Here Is Cut Back

Pioneer Natural Gas Co. "went back" Wednesday morning to supplying 50 per cent of the normal load of four local industries, D. D. Pittman, district manager, said today. He labelled it "something we've lived with in the past when the weather is like this." Adversely affected by the curtailment were Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., Sid Richardson Carbon Co., Cabot Corp. and W. R. Grace & Co. Agricultural Chemicals.

Temperature Skids To 9 This Morning

A trace of snow and ice was measured at the U.S. Big Spring Experiment Station this morning. Temperature dropped to 9 degrees during the night and stood at 11 at 8 a.m. today.

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — Despite some misgivings President Nixon is ready to sign into law an 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits.

Although Nixon was known to feel that the timing of the hikes would have an adverse effect on the federal budget, aides indicated he would sign the measure today and issue a statement citing some of his objections. Nixon had to act on the bill by midnight or it would die by pocket veto.

The bill would increase the average monthly payment for a retired individual from $161 to $181 and for a couple from $276 to $310.

SPEED LIMIT

The President signed a number of major bills Wednesday including a $73.7 billion defense appropriations act. This was $2.9 billion less than the administration had requested. The bulk of the reduction — $2.1 billion — was in procurement funds appropriated at $13.4 billion.

Nixon also signed a bill increasing by $575 million the total amount of loans and guarantees that the Small Business Administration can make before June 30. The same measure retroactively re-opens the Agriculture Department's easy-term loan program for rural residences damaged in disasters that occurred between Dec. 26, 1972 and April 20, 1973.

Finally, Nixon signed legislation to encourage state adoption of maximum state speed limits of 55 miles per hour and to reorganize seven bankrupt Northeastern railroads with the help of $500 million in federal subsidies and $1.5 billion in loan guarantees.

Nasty Mix Of Snow, Cold Drizzle In Texas

By The Associated Press
Freezing drizzle and rain plunged deep into Texas today, causing travel-crippling ice, stranding hundreds of motorists and leaving at least four persons dead.

BRIDGES ICING
The Weather Service about dawn reported bridges icing in the Victoria area in South Texas. Ice was forming in De Witt and Lavaca counties, with sleet and freezing rain in De Witt County.

Meanwhile light snow fell for a fourth straight day in parts of the Texas Panhandle, and showers or thunderstorms spattered the plains along the Upper Texas Coast with cold rain.

State police reported no major highways were closed but travelers at many points found it simply too dangerous to keep on driving.

TROUBLE SPOTS
One of the worst trouble spots was around Junction in West Texas, where 251 persons were forced to interrupt journeys because ice coated roadways up to one-half inch thick. Four big crosscountry buses and about 25 cars halted there, authorities said. Housing was provided at the First Baptist Church for 81, and others took shelter at a truck stop and restaurants.

A two-car crash on icy Interstate 20 near Thurber, between Fort Worth and Abilene, killed John A. Bennett, 73, of Cross Plains. His injured wife and their daughter, Patsy Miller, 30, were taken to an Eastland hospital.

Officers said Serena Chabra, 3, apparently drowned Wednesday when a car skidded off a glazed stretch of Farm Road 751 south of Greenville and sank in Lake Tawakoni. Her mother, Mrs. Harold Kolb, 50, and grandmother, Mrs. Jackie Kolb, both of Quinlan, were treated and dismissed.

Another accident laid to icing killed Marvin E. Rollins, 64, of Weatherford, whose car overturned Wednesday 2½ miles east of Greenville on U.S. 380. His wife Ruby suffered minor injuries.

Odell Gus Mathie, 47, of Malone, was killed Wednesday when his pickup truck hit a tractor-trailer truck near Hillsboro after the larger vehicle jackknifed because of ice on a bridge.

In Abilene, about 50 bus passengers were stranded overnight. Public schools there dismissed classes today.

Ice made travel hazardous over much of the area around Austin, particularly toward the north and west, and conditions were similar in the Dallas-Fort Worth vicinity and around Temple in Central Texas, state police said.

License Renewals Draw Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has launched a drive to get the Federal Communications Commission to apply antitrust standards to newspaper ownership of broadcast stations.

In petitions filed Wednesday opposing renewal of broadcast licenses held by publishers in St. Louis and Des Moines, the Justice Department argued that "promotion of competitive conditions in the dissemination of news and advertising" should be an important objective in FCC licensing decisions.

The department said renewal of the St. Louis and Des Moines licenses "would be inconsistent with the public interest since the renewal would perpetuate the high degree of concentration."

Broadcast licenses must be renewed every three years. Many major daily newspapers also own radio and television stations.

The Justice Department urged the FCC to deny renewal of the broadcast licenses held by Pulitzer Publishing Co. and Newhouse Broadcast Corp. in St. Louis and by Cowles Communications, Inc. in Des Moines.

Speed Limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — States with speed limits lower than 55 miles per hour will be able to keep the lower limits if the state speed limits were set before Nov. 1, 1973, Secretary of Transportation Claude Brinegar says. Brinegar had said Wednesday that all states with speed limits lower than 55 miles per hour on four-lane divided highways had to raise their limits to 55 or face the loss of federal highway funds.

To Set Limit Of 10 Gallons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy chief William E. Simon said today that oil companies and independent distributors have agreed to set a limit of 10 gallons of gasoline per customer at service stations.

Simon also predicted that gasoline prices will increase over the next month or two, to levels about 8 to 11 cents higher than in early December.

Simon told a news conference his price estimates, increased from his estimate of about seven cents last week, took account of a new set of gasoline price hikes to be authorized Feb. 1.

Simon said the new increases would come as a variable formula designed to give service station owners partial compensation for the reduced amounts of gasoline they can sell, as gasoline production is cut under federal regulations.

Simon has already ordered creation of a standby gasoline rationing program but has deferred until later a decision whether to put it into effect.

He has also asked the public to limit its gasoline purchases voluntarily to 10 gallons per week.

Today's announcement of agreement with the distributors marks a further tightening of gasoline controls, although still on a voluntary basis.

Simon said major oil companies and independent distributors and retailers have agreed to encourage a policy limiting service station gasoline sales to 10 gallons per customer.

He said the companies could enforce this as company policy at the service stations it owns directly but could only urge it upon franchised service stations.

Weather Gives Pupils Break

Big Spring students considered they were the winners today after local schools were dismissed and then weather was not as bad as first anticipated.

Students were out playing in the sunshine by mid-morning as the ice on the streets melted quickly. Law enforcement officers reported that highways in every direction from the city were clear and that the only icy conditions were within the city itself.

School will resume Friday. Suppl. Sam Anderson reminds students of the school time change Monday effective with Daylight Savings time.

Students will attend school from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., those in Grades 1-3 attend from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Kindergarten units attend from 9 a.m. - 11:45 a.m. and in the afternoon from 1:15-4 p.m. Headstart attends from 9:15 a.m. - 3 p.m. The 15 minute discrepancy is to utilize the kindergarten buses, school officials explain.

'Hillbilly Heaven' Awaits Tex Ritter

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tex Ritter, a towering figure in Country and Western music, is dead of a heart attack at 67.

Ritter, who ranked with such greats as Roy Acuff, Ernest Tubb and the late Hank Williams, collapsed while visiting a member of his band at the Nashville jail Wednesday night.

He was rushed to Baptist Hospital, where his doctor said he died of a "massive, sudden heart attack."

Ritter had gone to the jail to visit Jack Watkins, who was locked up Tuesday night on a charge of failure to pay alimony.

'HIGH NOON'
The biggest hits for the soft-spoken Ritter were the movie theme "High Noon," "Wayward Wind," "You Are My Sunshine," "Boll Weevil" and "Hillbilly Heaven."

Among Ritter's 73 film credits were starring roles in such movies as "Sing, Cowboy, Sing," "Marshal of Gunsmoke," "The Old Chisholm Trail" and "Song of the Gringo," his first film.

He also had television roles in Westerns such as "The Rebel" and "Zane Grey Theater."

Although Ritter did not appear as an actor in the film "High Noon," a Western suspense thriller starring Gary Cooper, he sang the haunting ballad that played throughout the movie. Cooper won the 1952 Oscar as best actor for his role in the production.

'RYE WHISKEY'
Ritter's interest in politics led him into the Republican primary for the U.S. Senate in Tennessee in 1970. He was defeated by Rep. William E. Brock III, who went on to unseat Democrat Albert Gore.

Ritter's singing career began 40 years ago when he was paid $100 to record four songs, including the country standard "Rye Whiskey."

In 1964, he was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame, only the second living person to be so honored.

Born Maurice Woodward Ritter at Murvaul, Tex., a community of only 123, Ritter never gave up his love for cowboy clothes. His standard attire was a Western outfit and a 10-gallon cowboy hat.

REAL LEADER
He made his debut as a singing cowboy in Western films in 1936, following the trend set by Gene Autry. During the 1940s, he was recognized as one of the top 10 Western box office stars.

In 1938, while acting, he met and married Dorothy Fay. They later acted together in five movies, and they had two sons.

Only three weeks ago today, Ritter presented one of two copies of a narrative album to President Nixon for his help in promoting country music.

The other copy of the album — which is composed of speeches by Nixon and narration by Ritter — is in the Country Music Hall of Fame.

On learning of Ritter's death, Autry portrayed him as "a fine man, a fine artist and a great American.... He was a real leader."

In addition to his widow, Dorothy, Ritter is survived by his two sons, Thomas and Johnathan.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Turtles Go For Lobsters

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Florida Keys fishermen say they're tired of running underwater smorgasbords for giant loggerhead turtles that bite open wooden lobster traps.

But Dr. Archie Carr of the University of Florida says the turtles can't be expected to change their dietary habits, so fishermen will have to come up with open wooden lobster traps.

In recent weeks, the university's Sea Grant office has received complaints that turtles are helping themselves to too many lobsters destined for restaurant tables.

Several types of marine turtles are found in the Keys, and the loggerheads are most abundant. They can weigh more than 400 pounds and have enormous heads. The front part of the turtle's head is armed with a horny, toothless bill that can slice through the wooden slats of most traps with ease.

Carr said he doesn't blame fishermen for getting angry but the loggerheads have to eat.

"About 25 years ago we had a similar crisis with traps for stone crabs," said Carr, whose 40-year study of sea turtles has won him international fame. "My recommended change from cypress to oak slats apparently had good results."

At least, said Carr, the latest loggerhead problem is less sensational than one that surfaced a couple of years ago. At that time, several skin divers said they were attacked by giant turtles on reefs a few miles offshore.

"The divers wouldn't believe us when we explained that the turtles weren't attacking them," Carr says. "They were trying to mate with them."

New Regulations To Be Enforced

Breeding stock, under certain conditions, now are subject to brucellosis regulations.

Under regulations adopted by the Texas Animal Health Commission, all breeding cattle two years of age and over that change ownership are required to be brucellosis tested.

Breeding cattle may be tested on the farm or ranch, or at an auction markets. Slaughter-type breeding cattle may be sold through livestock markets without tests, but must be sampled for test purposes on the kill floor.

The brucellosis test will be good for movement purposes for 30-days provided the animal is ear tagged and accompanied by test certificates. The new regulations take effect Jan. 15, said County Agent Bruce Griffith.

Two Patrolmen Are Hired Here

Police Chief Vance Chisum announced the hiring of two new patrolmen effective Jan. 16 and the reassignment of other officers.

Alvis Jefferson was transferred from identification to detective and Ken Blackington, patrolman, was moved to ID department.

Charles Carter, 31, former lab technician at Hall Bennett Hospital began duties as a new patrolman.

New patrolmen in Mid-January will be Michael Hillers, 21, and Raymond Bedford, 41. Bedford recently retired from the army.

Some Of Cancelled Shows Deserved A Better Fate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This is the half-way point of the television season that has been widely denounced as the worst ever.

Can the second half be any better? That's a moot point, but there is little to do except hope for the best and prepare yourself for more of the same.

The first half of the season was dominated by blockbuster movies, and the only hit among the new shows was "Kojack," starring Telly Savalas. Most all of the new shows plummeted quickly to the bottom of the ratings.

The networks and the studios like to put the blame for this season on the writers' strike that virtually shut down production for 16 weeks last spring.

Undoubtedly, the writers' strike does account for some of the poor quality. Series were rushed into production with few of the wrinkles ironed out. There was little time to rewrite and polish the scripts.

It does seem, however, that the networks were too determined to stick to the premier schedules, thus forcing the rush. The one show that took its time in getting to the air was "Kojack" — and you see where it is.

TITLE STRENGTH

It's hard to find any excuse for a show like ABC's "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice." I suspect this show was bought simply on the title strength of a hit movie. But what made the movie a hit was its funny and racy sex. The network wouldn't allow the sex, and it wasn't funny.

"Diana" was an ill-conceived show — one critic dubbed it "Mary Tyler Less" — that wasted the talents of Diana Rigg. It was tiresome watching her react to the so-called zanies around her.

"Perry Mason" was a show that just didn't work the second time around. "Love Story" was the most experimental show in a season otherwise devoid of innovation. It rose and fell on the strength of its scripts. Mostly, it fell.

Two canceled shows did not deserve their fate. CBS' "Calucci's Dept." was the funniest new show of the year, with biting satire brilliantly performed. "Adam's Rib," despite an occasional lapse into cuteness, was a pleasing and classy production that brought to television two of Broadway's brightest young faces, Ken Howard and Blythe Danner.

Among the veterans that got the ax was "Room 222," a show that never got the credit it deserved for introducing reality comedy to television. But the series had apparently run its course and ABC wanted to clear the way for a new show next year for Karen Valentine.

Other cancellations include "Needles and Pins," "NBC Follies," "Griff," "Roll Out," and "The New Temperatures Rising." The latter show, however, may be revived next year.

Here are the notable changes coming in January and February:

—A return after many years to half-hour dramatic series, with three such shows on ABC. They are "The Cowboys," "Chopper One," and "Firehouse." The trend in recent years has been toward longer series, with only "Adam-12" holding down the half-hour dramatic format.

—CBS' "Apples Way" is the first contemporary dramatic series without a "franchised hero" and, if it is successful, it will become a TV landmark. Its hero is an architect, rather than a detective or lawyer or doctor or someone who is in jeopardy.

SHOWCASE

—NBC's "Music Country U.S.A." will be the first winter showcase for the growing popularity of country-western music since the Johnny Cash show.

—"NBC Wednesday Night at the Movies" marks that network's return to original movies for the tube. NBC introduced that popular form to television, but in the past several seasons has neglected it.

The new shows, in the order of their premier dates, are:

—"Dirty Sally," a half-hour Western comedy starring Jeanette Nolan as a junk collector and Dack Rambo as a reformed firefighter. The show is a spinoff from an episode of "Gunsmoke." CBS, 7 p.m. Friday, debuts Jan. 11. All times are Central.

—"Happy Days," a 1950s nostalgic comedy starring Tom Bosley and Marion Ross, ABC, 7 p.m. Tuesday, debuts Jan. 15.

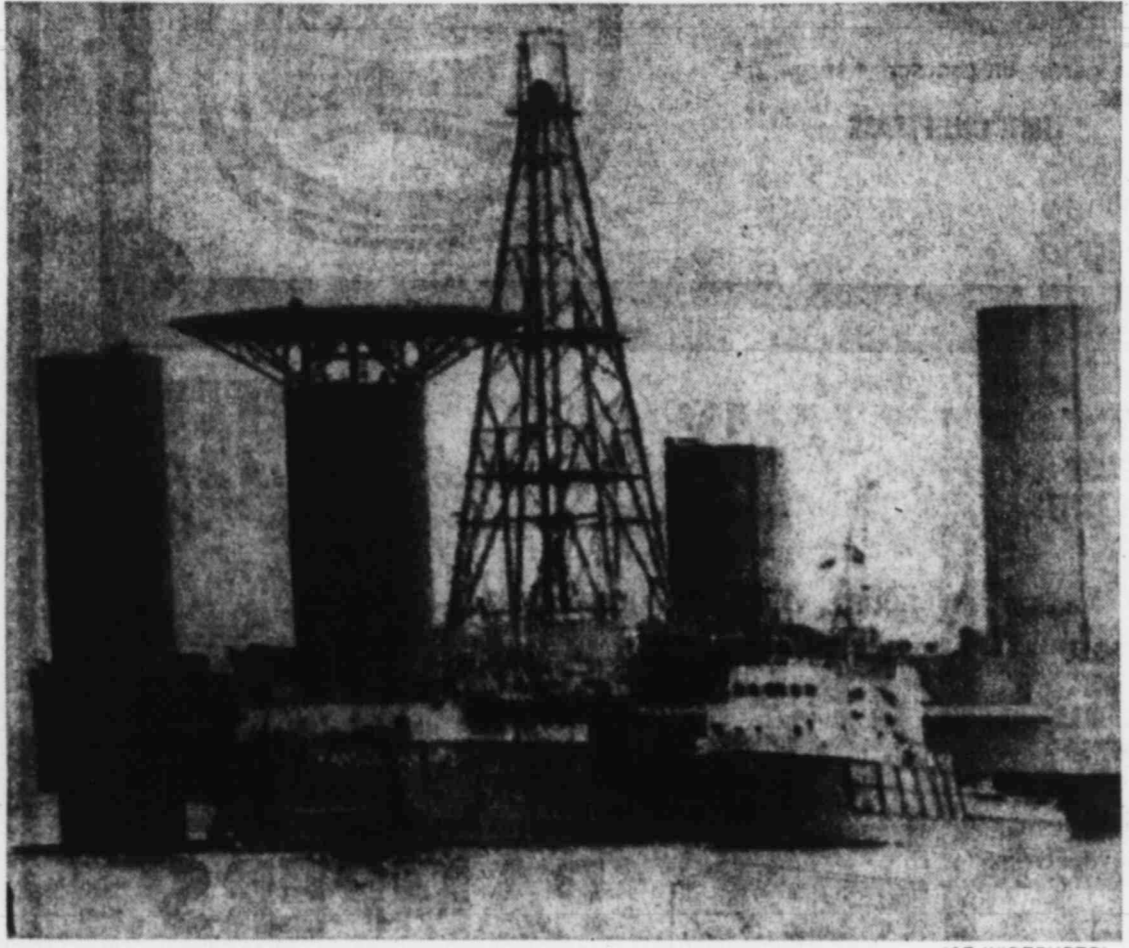

—"NBC Wednesday night at the Movies" will include a number of original films. Among the titles are "The Execution of Private Slovik," "A Case of Rape," "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," "Three Faces of Love," "Boselli's Word," and "A Little House on the Prairie." NBC, 8 p.m. Wednesday, debuts Jan. 16.

—"Doc Elliot," an hour show that stars James Franciscus as a New York doctor who moves to a small town in Colorado. The emphasis is on people rather than medicine. The show was seen in the fall once a month. ABC, 9 p.m. Wednesday, debuts Jan. 16.

—"Chopper One," about two young policemen who fight crime with a helicopter. Stars Dirk Benedict, Jim McMullan and Ted Hartley as the captain. ABC, 7 p.m. Thursday, debuts Jan. 17.

STARS DRURY

—"Firehouse," a half-hour dramatic series that focuses on Engine Co. 23. Stars James Drury, last seen as "The Virginian," Mike Delani, Richard Jaeckel and Bill Overton. ABC, 7:30 p.m. Thursday, debuts Jan. 17.

CREW OF 56 RESCUED — Picture of "Transocean 3" floating oil-rig which sank 100 miles east of Orkney Hes Wednesday. Crew of 56 was rescued. Owner of the rig is Transocean Drilling Company, Oklahoma.

Coming Back After Agnes Hit

LEWISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Nearly a year ago, Tropical Storm Agnes virtually wiped out the community of Lewistown, causing $144 million in damage and throwing 25 per cent or 3,000 or its labor force out of work.

However, today, through a program called "Project Recovery," centered around national advertising and public information campaign, Lewistown has cut its unemployment figure to 12 per cent.

Richard Herbst, project coordinator, said the program, partially funded by the Pennsylvania Electric Co., has drawn hundreds of requests for information from various businesses and industries across the country. As of now, 12 new companies have or are committed to establishing plants in Lewistown which will produce jobs for more than 1,900 workers.

Former Employees Sue Firm For $100 Million

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Alleging negligence, former employees of the Pittsburgh Corning Corp. have brought suit against the company for $100 million.

The case, filed in U.S. district court here, claims the corporation exposed workers to "asbestos fibers in extremely dangerous concentration" and this caused them to "suffer from various stages of asbestosis, lung cancer and other pulmonary diseases."

Disclosures of employee health hazards and new regulations governing air pollution led Pittsburgh Corning to close its Tyler plant Feb. 5, 1972. The damage suit was filed by a Dallas lawyer, State Sen. Oscar Mauzey, as a class action on behalf of former employees of the firm here.

Harold Spencer, Rufus J. Lee and Hubert T. Thomas, the surviving widow of Robert T. Thomas, deceased, a former employee of Pittsburgh Corning who has died as a result of such exposure to asbestos fibers.

Those joining her in bringing the suit "on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated" are Herman Yandle, Arthur Bearden, J. C. Yandle, Besides the Pittsburgh Corning Corp., the defendants are PPG Industries, Inc., Dr. Lee Grant, Corning Glass Works, Inc., Industrial Health Foundation, Inc., Asbestos Textile Institute and John Doe I-X. Dr. Grant heads the medical facilities of PPG Industries and Pittsburgh Corning.

FUEL SAVER BIZ

Removing Emission Control Devices

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The gasoline shortage has spawned a new kind of enterprise in Ohio.

Daniel J. Furey of Columbus says he will go into business this month removing emission control devices from automobiles.

"It's hard to justify devices to decrease air pollution which burn more gasoline," Furey said.

LEGAL?

He hopes to get the company, called Fuel Savers, Inc., in operation by late January or early February.

Furey, a mechanical engineer, said his lawyer, Robert VanHoyde told him the procedure is legal.

Furey estimated 7 to 20 per cent of a car's fuel goes to feed emission control equipment, or about $2 for every tankful for some motorists.

He said a well-tuned car without emission controls causes no more pollution than an out-of-tune car with the latest antipollution equipment.

Furey claims that after 10,000 miles the extra gas consumed by emission control equipment causes residue buildups which actually negate the effect of the controls.

NOT EASY

He said he will charge two rates for the conversion and tuneup—$49.95 for cars with early pollution control systems and $99 for the latest models.

Under current federal law, installation of emission control devices is required, and manufacturers and dealers are forbidden to tamper with them.

After 36 Years...

Yes, after 36 years and three months, to be exact, we have closed our bakery.

Mr. E. C. Burnett, our baker for 25 years, retired Christmas Eve. We were unable to replace him... so we decided to retire also.

We want to thank our many, many customers and friends who were so faithful to us through the years. Severing these ties was the most difficult part of all. Thanks to all for your patronage and friendship.

COOKING ON THE SIDE BURNER — With a wine bottle, glasses and catsup handy Ed Nicholson, of Raleigh, N.C., uses a long-handled fork and spatula to remove packages of hot dogs and beans from the manifold of his car. Proving another energy saving trick Nicholson wired the foil-wrapped beans and wieners to the car manifold and they were ready to eat after a short trip.

Oil Pools Haven't Run Dry, Club Is Reassured

Popular views of the energy crisis range from the notion that it is falsely, contrived crisis to the fear that "the end is near" for the world's economy.

There is a fuel crisis, but that "doesn't mean oil pools have suddenly run dry like slurping at the end of the straw in an empty milkshake," Doug Warren, Cosden Oil Chemical Company regional manager of polymer technical service told the downtown Lions Club Wednesday.

Nobody can agree on what the answers are and that compounds the problem, he added, but a lot of adjustment will come through the pressures in the market place.

For example, he said, most of West Texas crude reserves were discovered back when it cost 30 cents a barrel to find oil, and that was all right so long as the selling price was around $3. But around 1960 the price of finding a barrel of oil equalled the selling price, and "that's about when the real drilling stopped."

TO TAKE TIME

Today, the price on West Texas crude is $9.05 cents a barrel, and once more it's good business to find it. "But all these years a lot of drilling rigs have been lying around rusting, and now when they might be put back to work, you can't find people to operate them. It's going to take them to find and train the manpower."

Turning to the processing and manufacturing branch of petroleum, he noted complex interrelated problems. While certain basic products can be made from a barrel of crude oil, these fractions can be increased or decreased within certain practical limits, thus the refiner gears his operations with an eye on profitable operation.

The government recently actually cut the price allowed for gasoline by a cent a gallon and raised controls on fuel oil two cents a gallon, "so what are you going to make?"

One effect of this manipulation could be to lessen the fraction which goes to making of petrochemicals. But even if not, the price control fluctuations result in a tangled web.

HIGHER OVERSEAS

Styrene monomer has a ceiling of eight cents, but overseas it has a ready market of 30 cents a pound; polystyrene (the plastic form) has a ceiling of 20 cents, but the overseas market begs to buy it at 80 cents.

What happens to price controls and export laws has a bearing on the outcome, but in the meantime, Warren was convinced that "big responsible companies are acting responsibly — they're not buying at our ceilings and rushing to sell overseas. They want to do business when this is over."

On a freer market, prices undoubtedly will rise, but he did not anticipate they would "skyrocket" because of fundamental laws of economics. A case in point is the prediction that Detroit will make 500,000 less cars this year than last, and "they'll be the bigger cars, which use 200 pounds of plastics per car. Multiply that and you kill a market for 100,000,000 pounds of plastics. That's one way to balance supply with demand, but who wants to solve it with a recession?"

Chocolate Cake Case

HOUSTON (AP) — An examining trial has been set for January 9 for two University of Houston coeds charged with a felony after a chocolate cake served at the school was found to contain a laxative chemical.

Gwen Hartin, 27, and Patti Tyler, 21, both of Houston, are charged with administering an injurious substance.

A complaint was filed Dec. 19 by the university's security division after at least 12 persons became ill from eating the cake at a Dec. 14 party at the school's sociology department, said Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles Cottingham.

Cottingham said investigators later identified a chemical called phenolphthalein, used in making laxatives, as being in the cake.

Peter Williamson, attorney for one of the coeds, said the incident "seems to stem from the political problems in the department out there."

The sociology department has experienced strife over the firing of Dr. David Weiner, 37, a Marxist who says he is a professor and claims the school fired him because of his political leanings.

The school gave him a terminal one-year contract this year, saying he had not published enough research in professional journals to meet standards.

Missing House Found In Dump

SPRINGVILLE, Calif. (AP) — James Hughes reported the vacation house he was building was missing. Authorities found the remains of it in the town dump.

"We found what's left of it, which isn't much," sheriff's deputy Frank Wittich said Tuesday. "Just a few old pipes and ends of boards. All the fixtures are gone and what with the fuel shortage, most of the good timber went pretty fast."

Hughes, who lives in Lancaster, near Los Angeles, drove to this community of 1,000 persons in the Sierra Nevada foothills to work on the home. He found it missing, along with numerous pipes and beams he had stockpiled nearby.

"There was nothing left but a couple of pegs on the ground," Wittich said. He said the three rooms and carpet which Hughes had built so far were worth about $5,000.

Wittich said neighbors reportedly having seen workmen methodically dismantle the house two weeks earlier.

"Apparently they got the whole thing to the dump in five trips," Wittich said. "We haven't found out how it happened yet, but it looks like some kind of mistake — someone contracted out to have a house demolished and they got the wrong one. And now no one wants to admit it."

Funds To Wage 'War' On Drugs

AUSTIN (AP) — The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) has awarded $271,350 to Texas to reduce the illegal diversion of legitimate drugs into the black market. Administrator Donald E. Santarelli has announced.

Texas will use the money to continue the Drug Diversion Investigation Unit for a second year.

The grant will finance a coordinated effort by state and local agencies to collect information and develop evidence for prosecution or administrative action in cases involving the diversion of legitimate drugs.

LEAA is a federal agency in the Justice Department created in 1968.

SOUTHWEST BOOKS The Life Of Texas Jack

THE LIFE OF TEXAS JACK, Eight Years' a Criminal, 41 Years Trusting in God. An autobiography edited by Glenn Shirley. Nortex Press, Quannah, Tex. 66 pages. $4.95.

Nathaniel "Texas Jack" Reed was one of the few badmen who lived long enough to record his experiences.

He turned from bank and train robbing to preaching, which makes him suspect as a man who hit the sawdust trail as just another way to make money.

Had not a writer and a historian of impeccable credentials such as Glenn Shirley verified the facts, Texas Jack's story would be dismissed as tall yarn.

And Texas Jack never did make much money preaching. He died in extreme poverty in 1950 in Tulsa, Okla.

As he preached, he sold a criminal career and his turning to God.

Copies of this rare bit of Americana are almost impossible to find. This new book is a reproduction of the original with an extensive introduction by Shirley who tells which parts are true and which are literary license.

Shirley is a collector of western lore and author of 12 books and 900 other pieces of fact and fiction. One of his more recent books and a western classic is "Shotgun for Hire."—The AP (REF).

THE BOW AND THE LYRE. By Octavio Paz, translated by Ruth L.C. Simms. University of Texas Press, Austin. 281 pages. $8.50.

Octavio Paz of Mexico is one of the important poets writing in Spanish. Just translated into English, the book was written in 1914 and then revised.

These are his reflections on the poetic phenomenon and on the place of poetry in history and in our personal lives.

The book is divided into three parts, asking these questions: Is there a poetic utterance—the poem—irreducible to any other form of expression? What do poems say? How is the poetic utterance communicated?

Says Paz, "... the poem is a means of access to pure time, an immersion in the original waters of existence. Poetry is nothing but time, rhythm perpetually creative."—The AP (REF).

AN AMISH BOY REMEMBERS from Behind Those Fences. By Dr. Jesse W. Hofer. Naylor, San Antonio, Tex. 225 pages. $8.95.

The Amish are one branch of several fundamentalist denominations about whom little bad can be said. Yet their way of life, particularly its emphasis on simple virtues and its clanishness has brought criticism upon the sect's members.

Jesse W. Hofer was an Amish child and that would seem to mean a life of farming under archaic conditions.

But he broke away to earn two doctorates and now practices medicine in Houston.

This story of a childhood among the Amish is fascinating, at times warm and sometimes appearing cruel. Dr. Hofer ends the story at the time he left the community.—The AP (REF).

DAVID LIPSCOMB, A Journalist in Texas, 1872. Edited by John Louis Robinson. Nortex Press, Quannah, Tex. 60 pages. $4.95.

David Lipscomb was a founder of The Gospel Advocate, a Nashville, Tenn., church paper which had great influence. He also was a Church of Christ minister.

He came to Texas a hundred years ago to observe, determine certain church matters and do some preaching.

This book is composed of dispatches sent back to the paper and is confined to his observation of the state. It tells little of his church work.

Lipscomb's journey took him from the Houston-Galveston area to other parts of South Texas then to Waco, Fort Worth, Northeast Texas and on into Arkansas.

He hated night travel, found little soil he liked until he got to North Texas, and fought insects.

It presents an interesting report on the state of the state a century ago.

John L. Robinson, the editor, is on the faculty of Abilene Christian College.—The AP (REF).

ENERGY UNDER THE OCEANS. A Technology Assessment of Outer Continental Shelf Oil and Gas Operations. By a group of writers. University of Oklahoma Press, Norman. 378 pages. $20.

Oil and gas experts are pointing to the outer continental shelf as the area which could produce new oil supplies fastest.

There are many problems, however, including that of environment. This book makes a technical appraisal of the total situation.

It was produced under the science and Public Policy Program of the University of Oklahoma Foundation grant.—The AP (REF).

Military Fuel Net Yet Used

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's civilian airlines have not yet used any of the 1.5 million barrels of military jet fuel allotted them by the government, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

However, the Pentagon added, the Federal Energy Office plans to continue to divert military fuel to ensure that the civilian airlines do not run short.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said Wednesday the energy office plans to hold 540,000 barrels of military fuel for possible civilian use through Jan. 31. He said that figure could increase.

The energy office had no immediate comment.

The office set aside the fuel after U.S.-based international carriers reported they were running low on supplies at certain points. The office allotted 900,000 barrels of jet fuel immediately and said another 600,000 barrels would be allotted as necessary.

End Of The Trail For 'Old Pinto'

PICO RIVERA, Calif. (AP) — An Anaheim man, with the help of about 50 other persons, has beaten his horseless carriage to death on Ford Motor Co. property.

"I had to do it," puffed Roger T. Sweitzer, after he and members of the Outraged Consumers Action Committee pounded Sweitzer's 1972 Pinto automobile into little more than a pile of scrap. They used hammers, axes, crowbars and clubs.

The committee is a loosely organized group of Southern California car owners formed by the owner of a Lincoln Continental who burned his car in protest here two years ago.

Sweitzer said a wide variety of mechanical problems began popping up in the car almost from the first day he brought it home.

"It's been dying by inches ever since I got it," Sweitzer said. "I would rather put it out of its misery and kill it before it kills me or someone else."

The beating took place on the grounds of Ford's assembly plant here.

"I have been trying to get the company to either fix that car or give me another one since the day after I got it, but the only satisfaction I ever got — until today — was when a Ford representative asked me, 'What do you want for $3,000?'" Sweitzer said.

In a letter to the customer service division of Ford Marketing Corp. in Dearborn, Mich., he wrote, "I am now at the end of the road, or I should say my Pinto is since it will not perform in any manner remotely related to that of an automobile. In fact, it's so bad my insurance company has canceled the coverage on it."

About 40 minutes after the dismantling began, sheriff's deputies ordered the Pinto-pounders to disperse.

Sweitzer, who charged each person $1 a swing, plans to use the money he collected to help pay for his new mode of transportation, a bicycle.

Chamberlain Playing 'F. Scott Fitzgerald'

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard Chamberlain is back on the home screen playing an American for the first time since the "Dr. Kildare" series went off the air.

Chamberlain will be seen in "F. Scott Fitzgerald and The Last of the Belles," playing the role of the writer. Blythe Danner costars as Zelda in the two-hour show on ABC next Monday.

LAST OF BELLES

The program traces the return of the Fitzgeralds from France, where he spent the summer "in drinking and general unpleasantness," to their home outside Wilmington, Del.

Woven into their tragic lives is one of Fitzgerald's short stories, "The Last of the Belles." It is a fictional version of how Fitzgerald and Zelda Sayre met.

"I didn't know a lot about Fitzgerald, except what everyone knew," Chamberlain said. "I hadn't read much of his works, except 'The Great Gatsby' and 'Tender Is the Night.' It came up so fast I didn't have much time to get through as much of his writing as I would have liked. I read his biography and some correspondence."

The actor said, "He was a fascinating man. So lucid, so hard to pin down because of all the illusions he seemed to live. I don't think he could ever cope with not being young any more. He and Zelda engaged in frantic acting to create an illusion of youth."

After the cancellation of "Dr. Kildare" in 1966, Chamberlain set out to change his image from a clean-cut American youth to classical actor.

NEW IMAGE

"I wanted to change my image, not only in the public's mind, but in my own," he said. "I lived with 'Kildare' for five years and it becomes a part of you. I had a battle to break away from that and recreate myself in the audience's mind."

Chamberlain, 36, has succeeded admirably, with such productions as "Hamlet," "Richard II" and "Cyano de Bergerac" and such films as "Petulia," "The Music Lovers," "Lady Caroline Lamb" and the upcoming "Three Musketeers."

A reprise of his stage production of "Hamlet" for the Hallmark Hall of Fame in 1970 was his big re-entry into the American scene after four years spent mainly in England. Last year he was seen as the Duke of Windsor on ABC's "Portrait" series.

This year he hopes to make three films, two of them temporary, and has plans for two television projects. He is trying to put together a TV production of "Cyrano," which he recently performed on the stage in Los Angeles.

$75,000 Used Car

PARADISE, Calif. (AP) — For anyone with $75,000 and a yen for a 1928 Isotta Fraschini landaulette, Wayne Schlotthauer is the man to see.

The Isotta Fraschini is one of 44 luxury used cars on the lot at Schlotthauer's Unique Cars in this Northern California community. Schlotthauer says the average price is $9,000.

Schlotthauer operates his used car lot as an auto museum, but it's a museum with a difference; you can buy the exhibits.

For the big car enthusiast, Schlotthauer has a 1937 Maybach SW 38 Pullman cabriolet with a massive six-cylinder engine and an eight-speed transmission.

"The instruction book says not to put it in eighth until you're going at least 90," Schlotthauer said. "It says not to go over 120 with the tires that were on it at the time, but with better tires you could drive it 160. It's really something to drive. It weighs 9,000 pounds."

The price is really something, too: $20,000.

Moonwalker Believes Psych Healing Works

NEW YORK (AP) — Astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell, who conducted ESP tests as he journeyed to and from the moon, has documented a number of cases in which human ailments have benefited from psychic healing.

His studies of the psychic phenomenon and "human consciousness," says the sixth man to walk on the moon, are on a higher level than the telepathy tests he ran during the Apollo 14 flight.

Mitchell observes in a new book, "We Are All Healers" by Sally Hammond, that for three months he witnessed a h American, who was trained in a Tibetan technique of healing, perform what amounts to miracles. He reports seeing cases of hepatitis remitted in four days as opposed to six months, gallstones removed without surgery and arthritic conditions in which the calcified deposits started to disappear in a few days.

DIRTY PROPAGANDA
Energy Crisis Alert
Voiced By Castro

MIAMI Fla. (AP) — Cuban Armed Forces Minister Raul Castro warned his countrymen Wednesday that the energy crisis may have serious consequences for the island nation. "We must be prepared to face difficulties in acquiring and financing some merchandise" coming from the affected countries, Castro said in a speech on the 15th anniversary of the Cuban revolution. The speech was monitored in Miami.

'THE ARABS'
 But, he said, Cuba will not be affected as seriously as capitalist countries because "our economic-social system creates better conditions." Castro did not specify what products might be affected by what he termed "the Arabs' use of oil as a political weapon." Most of the Cuban oil comes from the Soviet Union, but the country is steadily expanding its foreign trade markets in the non-Communist world.

The Cuban prime minister's younger brother ridiculed Cuba's enemies, which he said now find themselves in serious economic difficulties as a result of the energy crisis.

15 YEARS AGO
 "Those who have tried to destroy us ... those who have made dirty propaganda over our difficulties and shortages ... today find themselves, paradoxically, in a crisis which forces them to live without electric signs, unable to use their automobiles on weekends or heat their homes."

The Castro talk preceded a parade commemorating the day 15 years ago when the Fidel Castro rebels took over the country from dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Rep. Teague Dies
 SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP) — Rep. Charles M. Teague, 64, a Republican who served 20 years in Congress representing the 13th District in Southern California, died Tuesday of a heart attack. He was the ranking Republican on the House Agriculture Committee and also served on the Veterans Affairs Committee.

Schley Riley, former district governor, said one reason is to push for the election of Jim Lemons, past president of the club and a district deputy, as governor. The party will be at Sweetwater high school cafeteria from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Other Big Spring and area clubs are due to be represented.

NEITHER UNCLE SAM, OIL INDUSTRY KNOWS

How Much Petroleum Available In U.S. Reserves?

WASHINGTON (AP) — They'll give you numbers — 36.3 billion barrels, 11.0 years of production — but neither the government nor the industry really knows how much oil is available in U.S. reserves.

An industry insider said in an interview that the often-quoted estimates actually depend on oil company profit goals. That is information the companies apparently do not even tell each other and the government has no independent reserve estimates of its own.

IN FACT
In fact, almost all government information about energy supplies comes directly or indirectly from the companies.

Since the Arab oil cutoffs emphasized the U.S. energy crisis, the energy industries have renewed their lobbying for tax incentives, price increases and delays or waivers of environmental, health and safety regulations. They say these moves are needed to enlarge reserves and speed up production.

Debate over such policies must revolve around the statistics describing and predicting reserves and production, which are available only from the companies themselves.

William E. Simon, director of the Federal Energy Office, has pledged to make government energy information more complete and reliable. And a key industry official who declined to be identified said the petroleum industry plans to develop a new approach to reserve estimates.

OIL DATA
Meanwhile, the federal government must take its basic information where it finds it while it hastily imposes emergency controls on the oil industry.

The mineral industries, including oil, must report data every ten years to the Census Bureau.

Beyond that, there is no law requiring regular and complete oil company reports directly to the federal government.

Petroleum reserves, still in the ground, can only be estimated.

These reserve estimates tell the nation, in effect, how much petroleum it has in its savings account, how long that account can support our present production rate and how fast we must add to reserves to maintain a safe balance.

GAPS

The only real sources of reserve estimates are two industry groups, the American Petroleum Institute and the American Gas Association, which survey most but not all oil and gas companies.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines, the primary government compiler of energy data, gets part of its petroleum information from these two industry groups. The bureau fills in the gaps with data relayed by the oil and gas producing states.

The two industry groups report impressive statistics. The latest estimates, now one year old, said the nation had proved resources totaling 36.3 billion barrels of crude oil, 6.8 billion barrels of natural gas liquids and 266.1 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

The reserves have dwindled steadily over recent years and the latest estimates represent only enough oil to last 11 more years and enough natural gas for 12 years at current production rates.

But what are proved reserves. The industry groups define them as the estimated quantities of petroleum that can be produced "under existing economic and operating conditions."

THEY ARE AWARE
In other words, they list only those petroleum reserves that companies are willing to produce at prevailing prices.

Their willingness, in turn, depends on the size of the profit they demand.
A key industry official described how reserve estimates are prepared: "The companies do not report their reserves directly. We divide the country into districts with API (American Petroleum Institute) committees of geologists and reservoir engineers."

"The committees estimate total reserves in a field or reservoir. They never report company reserves."

Asked how these committees take account of existing economic conditions, this source said the price of crude oil.

Burn Victims In Bad Shape

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Three oil field workers burned in a well fire near Midland on New Year's Day remained in critical condition late Wednesday in Brooke General Hospital.

Brought here late Tuesday, the men were burned in an early morning blaze on a rig owned by FWA Drilling Corp. The well site is about 17 miles south of Midland.

They were identified as Billy C. Redling, 23, of Odessa, burned over 45 per cent of his body; Roger E. Montgomery, 21, of Midland, burned over 32 per cent of his body; and Ray D. Gaspard, 20, of Odessa, burned over 15 per cent of his body.

'It's Been Like A Home To Us'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Frank Wolf and Judy Schweitzer were married in a local bar New Year's Day because, as the bride put it, "it's been like a home to us."

After the ceremony, conducted by a minister of the Universal Life Church, a crowd of 100 persons toasted the newlyweds. The new Mrs. Wolf, 29, wore a floor-length emerald green dress. The groom, 59, wore black tails.

A rock band beat out a wedding march.

Opening lead: King of ♥
Which came first, the chicken or the egg? There is no real answer to questions like that. But there is a logical reason for deciding which suit to tackle first in today's hand.

West's overall relieved North of the responsibility to reply to his partner's opening bid. South showed his good hand and strong suit with a jump rebid of three spades, and North felt that his ace, queen and spade honor, the singleton, merited a raise to four spades.

West attacked with the king of hearts, followed by the queen. Declarer ruffed and drew trumps in four rounds, discarding two hearts and a club from dummy. He could count six tricks in trumps, and four in diamonds if the finesse for the king was successful. He looked no further.

The queen of diamonds was led and run to East's king. A heart came back, ruffed by declarer with his last trump. Declarer took his three diamond tricks and then tried to set up his tenth trick in the club suit. West won the ace and took the last two tricks with high hearts for down one.

Declarer was in too much of a hurry to go after the diamonds. Once his last trump was exhausted, his efforts should have been concentrated in keeping West off lead, for East could have no more than three hearts.

West had to have either the king of diamonds or the ace of clubs, or both, for his overall. Since the king of diamonds could never be an entry, declarer should have eliminated the dangerous entry first.

Thus, after drawing trumps declarer should lead the king of clubs. West wins and returns a heart, forcing declarer's last trump. Now, South can take the diamond finesse without worrying whether it wins or loses. If West has the king, the finesse will succeed and declarer will make the rest of the tricks. If East has the king, the finesse will lose but it does declarer no harm—East can have no more hearts, and so he must return either a diamond or a club, and declarer controls both those suits.

WHITE HOUSE BRIEFING — Secretary of Transportation Claude Brinegar briefs newsmen-Wednesday in the White House on a bill, signed earlier by President Nixon in San Clemente, setting up machinery for reorganizing seven bankrupt Northeastern railroads with federal loan guarantees of $1.5 billion and subsidies of more than $500 million.

$1 FOR GALLON Gas Stations Violate Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline stations are violating price regulations at a higher rate than any other industry under government price guidelines, an Internal Revenue Service survey shows.
About 20 per cent of service stations checked were selling gasoline above the legal ceiling price, the agency said.

The rate of the price violations is far greater than in other industries under price control and is leading the IRS to step up its enforcement efforts nationally, a spokesman said.

AGENTS BUSY
A spokesman said the IRS plans to have 300 agents assigned solely to checking price violations by gasoline stations.

Most of the violations probably do not involve flagrant price gouging in which motorists are charged $1 or more for a gallon of gas, the spokesman said. But the number of such serious violations is increasing.

Also on the rise, judging by IRS statistics, are the number of price refunds ordered by the agency against service stations charging more than the legal selling price.
The spokesman said it appears an increasing number of gasoline stations are using various gimmicks to get around the government's price regulations.

FUEL PRICES
Meanwhile, the Federal Energy Office is expected to announce further increases in the price of gasoline — in addition to the one cent per gallon retail price hike announced Monday — as well as raises for home heating and diesel fuels.

Energy officials say the fuel prices could rise by as much as 10 cents per gallon in the coming months.
Three major oil companies — Amoco, Sun Oil and Standard Oil of Ohio — increased prices Wednesday. The wholesale gasoline increases of 5.8 cents a gallon for Amoco, two cents for Sun Oil and a cent for Standard followed similar increases announced Monday by Standard Oil of California, Union Oil Co. and Shell Oil Co.

A spokesman for the energy office said the companies would have to submit detailed reports justifying their price increases, which he said would be legal if they are based on the higher costs of foreign oil.

PARTIAL PICTURE
For the week that ended Dec. 21, the IRS found that 693 of 3,590 service stations checked were charging more than the legal price. During Christmas week, there were 194 violations of 696 stations checked.
During the four-day New Year's weekend, the IRS found 409 service stations of 2,946 stations checked were violating legal selling prices. And this is only a partial picture, as the check for last weekend covered only part of the country.

The number of complaints flowing into IRS offices from motorists alleging price gouging also is increasing. Last weekend, IRS offices remaining open for the holidays received more than 3,500 calls. During Christmas week, the IRS received nearly 1,200 complaints.
As a result of the investigations, most of the violations have resulted in price rollbacks and refunds to customers, either in the form of a compromise payment to the government or a requirement that the station discount the price of its gasoline.

GIMMICKS
According to the spokesman, the gimmicks used include service charges imposed on the motorists for each gallon of gas, requiring customers to get

Female Parachutists Make WAC History

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Two WACs have made history for the U.S. armed forces by stepping out of a plane's door at 1,250 feet above the ground.

"I loved it, I really did," said Pvt. Joyce Kutsch, 19, of Sarver, Pa.

She and fellow WAC recruit Rita Johnson, 18, of Eldon, Mo., became the first female parachutists for the U.S. military.

"You feel like you're not in yourself," echoed an exuberant Pvt. Johnson. "You're so free, with the wind buffeting you and the chute opening. ... It's something I've never experienced before, and I'll probably never experience anything like the first jump again."

The two WACs, along with more than 200 male trainees, made their first two jumps in gusty winds and an air temperature of 25 degrees. The trainees were carried aloft in a jumbo C141 Starlifter.

Miss Johnson said she didn't notice the cold until she hit the ground. She said her hands were cold. The chutists did not wear gloves so they could better control their parachutes.

Her only complaint was that the jumps did not last long enough.

"I wish we could have done another one today, but the wind got up," she said.

The two WACs are to jump three more times this week before they are graduated Thursday from the training program. They then will be sent to Ft. Lee, Va., for training as a parachute riggers.

The training here will enable the girls to fulfill the military requirement that parachute riggers periodically jump with the parachutes they prepare.

The men being trained at the Ft. Benning school are to be assigned to combat units, while the two women will remain on the ground as riggers.

The WACs began their training Nov. 15 and their course has been kept as close as possible to the men's program, according to Lt. Col. Greg Walls, deputy director of the Airborne Department here.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

'CHUTTING UP' — The first two women to undergo airborne training took their first aircraft jumps in December at Ft. Benning's Fryar Field. Prior to boarding the aircraft, the two don their chutes. In foreground is WAC Private Rita Johnson of Eldon, Mo., and helping out is co-jumper Joyce Kutsch of Sarver, Pa.

In the 33 years since the inception of the airborne training program, more than 466,000 men have completed training as parachutists at Ft. Benning which is the instructional center for paratroopers in all branches of the armed forces.

During that time, a spokesman said, the only non-jumping parachute packers were 100 civilian women who performed that task during World War II.

Rebekahs Host Party Monday

Table games, followed by the traditional blackeyed peas with cornbread, was the schedule of events at the IOOF Hall Monday evening where the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 248 hosted members and families and guests.

During the activities, lodge members set their next meeting date for Jan. 8 at 7:30 p.m. Installation of newly-elected officers was also slated for 7:30 p.m., Jan. 15. Both meetings will be held in the IOOF Hall.

Brought to you by Ted Hatfield GET MORE USE FROM DINING ROOM

When you stop to think about it, you'll realize that many people have what amounts to a "wasted" room or area in their homes — and that's the dining room. We say "wasted" because many families use this area just once a day, for the evening meal, or at most twice or three times a day.

But with proper furnishings and planning, the dining room (whether it's a separate room, or an area off the living room) can be utilized more beautifully and more fully.

Perhaps you never thought about it, but you might want to make your dining area become a charming second sitting room. One way to do this would be by maybe placing your dining table away from the center of the room and adding a sofa or bench, etc., and other appropriate items. Out of habit, many people furnish a dining room simply for eating but it can be more than that.

You might think about using your dining room for games, or for work, or for some other use — and furnish it accordingly. We can help you with ideas and the furniture for this and all other rooms in your home. Shop in.

COLLEGE STATION — Has the cost of living created a family financial crisis?

If so, resolve to start the new year off right — with a plan to beat inflation, suggests Mrs. Doris Myers.

"Taking a realistic look at the family's financial situation is the first step," the home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, A & M University System, said.

"Review the past year's receipts and cancelled checks. This puts the family in a better position to make adjustments — and makes a good start for the 1973 income-tax report."

"Next, record spending for a few weeks to see how out-of-pocket expenses mount. Often this shows families several places to cut expenses.

"Also take a look at how much money is spent on interest charges," Mr. Myers continued.

"The total interest paid in one year often surprises a family. Once this amount is realized the family may decide to reduce or eliminate credit purchases."

"Do-it-yourself projects offer another way to cut expenses, according to the specialist. "So does setting up family recreation around free or low-cost sources."

"However, planning alone won't get a family out of a financial pinch. It takes determination and family cooperation to make a plan work," she emphasized.

Since the war, however, women have been prohibited from packing chutes because they did not meet the regulations requiring riggers to parachute.

Desire Not Sin

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if you have ever come across a problem like this, but here goes: Is it a sin for a Catholic to have a strong desire for a priest? I must know if I have to confess my feelings to a priest in the confessional before I am able to take communion again.

ATTRACTED
DEAR ATTRACTED: It is not a sin for any person to have a strong desire for a person of the opposite sex. God made us, man and woman, as we are. To be attracted to another person who cannot, because of marriage or ordination vows, respond is not a sin. But to act upon it, with deliberate intention of making another violate his (or her) vow of celibacy or marriage IS a sin.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful husband. No woman could ask for more in a man. But he has one habit which I am convinced is a handicap in his line of work. (He's a real estate salesman for a highly reputable company.)

With every pause in the conversation with clients, he gives out with a very forced laugh, though nothing has been said to justify this "laughter."

I have pointed out to him as gently as possible that his phony laugh makes him appear insincere, and I've even told him that I have observed the facial expression on the people he's with, and they register surprise, wariness and even contempt, but it doesn't seem to faze him.

Abby, I don't want the man I love to come over like an insincere phony, because he's not, but if I didn't know him personally, I wouldn't buy a thing from him.

Nervous habit or not, perhaps if you print this, it might help.

CONCERNED IN CALIF.
DEAR CONCERNED: Your mentioning the possibility that your husband's forced laugh could be a "nervous habit" shows you to be on target. Habits are acquired, and can be broken — with proper motivation. When your husband feels it's a handicap, he'll do something about it. Don't nag him. You've made your point, and it's a good one.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old woman (closer to 30 than I care to think about) with a problem I've had for years. I have an overbite which has always made me self-conscious.

After talking to my dentist I now must make a choice. Either I must have my two front teeth removed and a bridge installed, or I'll have to wear braces for two years to correct this overbite. What should I do?

ON THE FENCE
DEAR ON: I'd go with the braces. Pulling teeth is an irreversible decision. If you choose the braces, and decide on the bridge later you can always do it, but once you have an extraction, that's final!

Difficult But Necessary

The government of Golda Meir has survived the Israeli elections, but its position has been materially weakened. It will be obliged to form a workable coalition, which will be far from easy.

Whatever this portends at home, it foreshadows even greater difficulty in efforts to negotiate an acceptable peace with the Arabs. This is because parliamentary losses have resulted in great measure due to dissatisfaction of militants who think the government have been unprepared in the recent Arab strike, or that Israel should have kept on going to the point of destroying of trapped Arab forces. Finally, these same elements are against the return of any territory seized in the 1966 and 1973 campaigns.

And yet, making concessions is exactly what Israel must do if any workable and enduring peace can be effected in the Mid-East. Among diplomatic circles it generally is agreed that the Israeli must return all or most of the territory they seized from Syria, Egypt and Jordan in return for assurance of military security. This may be a blow to Israel pride among the fiercely nationalistic, but it is not an unreasonable concession unless one is to concede that the day of acquisition by conquest is still with us. Until now, Israel has been able to justify holding on to these occupied lands on the ground—buffer is essential to security. But if security can be guaranteed, then the rationale for the buffer is diminished.

The extremists in Israel may be no less fevered than those in Ulster, but there are certain realities to be faced. For one thing, the losses in and costs incurred by the recent war have had a devastating effect on Israel. She must have economic help. Where is that coming from? Realistically, from the United States, whose House has voted a $2.2 billion loan (and which the Senate likely will also approve). But the United States, feeling the effects of a cutoff (and vastly higher price) of Arab oil, will not be disposed to turn this loose without strings, knowing full well the Arabs have been adamant in saying "no settlement, no oil."

The results of the election will make it harder for Mrs. Meir to persuade her government to accept major concessions, but they will have to be made as an alternate to internal chaos. As this happens the United States will pay a stiff price for bailing Israel out, but it will be a considerably lesser price than continuing the present stalemate and risk of unimaginable confrontation.

Matter Of Percentages

The Federal Energy Office has announced that retailers are being allowed to increase the cost of gasoline by a cent and a half a gallon. This isn't so formidable as the prediction that by the end of March prices will have advanced by 10 cents a gallon. That would be about 20 per cent, which is on top of a 25 per cent rise since summer at most pumps.

That, more than the 55 mph limit on speed, will put a damper on driving. For the average family this could add about $2.50 a week to driving costs, which is 2½ per cent of a $100 a week wage earner. Of course, the more you earn, the less the percentage compared to income. This isn't altogether equitable but is the way it is and likely to be for quite some time.

The influencing factor, we are told, is the vastly higher prices for Arab oil, somehow the percentage which Arab oil bears to the domestic total and the percentage of increase in fuel costs don't give. What would make it more palatable would be for domestic producers get a better price for their crude oil.

"I'm Glad Because--"

Around The Rim
Marj Carpenter

Like everyone else, I've been reviewing my year. I was thinking it was a pretty good one until I ended it with such a splat!

But my old grandmother used to say "When you're blue, count your blessings."

- Things I'm glad for in 1973:
1. I'm glad I broke my back instead of my head.
 2. I'M GLAD I got stuck in the fence at the Borden County site of a Webb AFB plane because I'm going to have to forget climbing fences for a few months.
 3. I'm glad I covered the schools' HEW hearings because I never heard anything quite as unreasonable.
 4. I'm glad that after losing a recent bet to Walt Finley on the Lamesa-Mount Pleasant game, I recuperated on the Cuervo victory.
 5. I'm glad I found the Sale Ranch outside Stanton when "The Rock" died. It was harder to find the ranch than to write the bull story.
 6. I'm glad that I wasn't in the back brace the night of the big storm here, when I was running up and down the road at the Chaparral Park surveying the damage. I'm also glad for the late pancakes Danny Valdes bought John Edwards and me after it was all over. I was one hungry, tired reporter.
 7. I'm glad I was at the police station when a prisoner tried to escape and glad Claude finally got some help.
 8. I'M GLAD HOWARD County and Big Spring joined the Regional Planning Council and that Judge A. G. Mitchell tells them: "No, Odessa and Midland aren't supposed to get everything." Our publisher, Dub Pearson, agrees.

9. I'm glad Mayor Wade Choate and the city council and City Manager Harry Nagel got a very outdated charter updated, even if nobody seemed to give a hoot.

10. I'm glad I got to hear one woman prisoner the night of the dope pushers' raid straighten out everyone when she said, "Oh no, not her-o-ine or me—I sells other things, Y'see."

11. I'm glad Jackie Cowan is not the weather man because which ever football game he picked for me to cover, that's where the inclement weather was. I learned that Lamesa had the rainiest-rain. Stanton has the blouiest dust, Coahoma has the coldest wind and Forsan has the stickiest mud.

Area news I loved included St. Lawrence's church anniversary, Stanton's reunion, the Lenora bond, the successful Colorado City school bond issue and their "dirty linen story." Art Roberts' yellow daffodils that came up instead of red tulips in Lamesa and the wild ride on the 'bank robbery' that fortunately did not materialize in Coahoma. No matter what I'd bring back, Tommy Hart and Joe Pickle managed to put it together where it would make sense.

12. And, if I just had to end this year in a heap, I'm glad it was in Big Spring, where people are kind, helpful and wonderful.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

It looks like my husband and I are about to break a New Years resolution. We decided to give 10 per cent of income to the church for God's work, but Christmas bills loom as a big deterrent to that. Our enthusiasm for tithing disappears when we get the check book out.

T.T. What a good time to discuss this matter—right at the beginning of a new year. I believe the discipline of good stewardship is one of the little known secrets of victorious Christian living.

For one thing, you need to read again the advice of Doctor Luke in chapter 12 of his gospel. In statement 34, he said, "For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." So many people assume the reverse to be true. They think when they get sufficiently charged up with charitable emotions, then they'll give to the work of Christ. This verse says that emotion and interest will follow the deliberate investment of monies, not precede it.

Furthermore, if giving to the work of the Lord is based on some arithmetic or logical basis of salary distribution, it will never survive if it ever starts. Tithing has to begin with love—and continue by faith.

Go ahead, try tithing and try God! Malachi 3:10 says you can't lose.

Once Lived, Never Forgotten

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Memory is man's greatest blessing.

It gives him the day-to-day and year-to-year continuity that enable him to have an identity and a personality. It is his memories as much as anything that make him who he is. Without them man would be a sub-human animal—or an ambulant amnesic vegetable.

Of course, memory can be a mixed blessing. It can bring pain as well as provide comfort. But on the whole it is more healing than hurtful.

The more active your life and mind have been, the greater your store of memories should be. You've got a lot to recall if you can look back and remember when—

If the butcher liked you, he'd save a supply of liver and give it to you free to feed to your cat, as few human beings thought the stuff fit for consumption.

Girls thought it a mark of beauty to let their fingernails grow as long as possible and paint them pearly. No man in his right mind would think of going hatless to church on Sunday.

A precocious youngster was a grammar school pupil who wanted his nature study teacher to give precise information on how mermaids reproduce—and whether they had live babies or just laid eggs.

Almost every kid in America had heard a live horse whinny and a live cow moo.

Only bums, Viennese-trained psychoanalysts and symphony orchestra conductors wore beards.

A man knew he was in a deluxe establishment if the barber charged him 15 cents for a shave.

To avoid boredom a kid could always go out to the local city dump in the afternoon and shoot rats with a .22-caliber rifle.

You could hear a lot of juicy gossip listening in on a party telephone line, but half the fun was gone because you didn't know who the other families on the line were.

One of the big worries of a hypochondriac was that he might not live long enough to find out how the continued story he was reading in the Saturday Evening Post finally turned out.

Pink was the dominant color of world maps in the geography books because that was the color that depicted the British Empire.

Every little girl sighed to have curls because Mary Pickford, known as "America's Sweetheart," wore them.

A father suspected there was something wrong with his son if the boy preferred tennis to baseball.

A kid could leave his bicycle overnight on his front lawn all summer, and no one would think of stealing it.

Most Americans over 30 had never tasted a pizza pie—or even knew what it was.

Those were the days—remember?

Crystal Balling

William F. Buckley Jr.

This morning the polls show that, with three entries to consider, the American people would at this moment choose Gerald Ford over Edward Kennedy and Henry Jackson. Concerning this and its implications, a few observations:

1. THERE IS always a little glamor in the unknown. Of the three gentlemen, only Gerald Ford can be thought of as unknown. Sen. Kennedy has worked against him not only Chappaquiddick, but that anti-dynastism which is emerging in the colleges and universities, as the scholars rewrite history to the disadvantage of his older brother. Scoop Jackson has worked against him—a damp-fused political personality, the resolute ill-will of the Democratic left, and— it might at this point be added — the fear of those who believe that the United States' attachment to Israel has got to be re-thought in the light of the Mideast crisis.

2. SIGNIFICANTLY, the choice of the moment is not only a Republican, but a Republican selected as vice president by Richard Nixon whose name is anathema to the majority of the voters. This suggests that the mandate of 1972, such as it was, is not eroded along with the confidence in the man elected. That Republicanism — or more precisely stated, anti-McGovernism — is still preferred in America. Many things have gone wrong in the past 12 months, but none of them is associated with that which might not have been had George McGovern entered the White House.

BUT THIS may be a temporary situation. The principal uncertainty of the day is economic. The record of the Nixon Administration here is not seriously touched by charges of graft and corruption. Whatever Mr. Nixon did or didn't do to favor or to hurt milk farmers and ITT is not seriously thought of as having affected the economy or brought it to its low estate. And it is not now clear whom the people would blame if deficit spending were publicly identified as the energumen in the current situation. Would they blame President Nixon or Congress?

THIS MUCH is certainly clear, and that is that the Nixon Administration has no real line in economic policy. Beyond a few sentimental preceptions in favor of husbandry and the free marketplace, Nixon has experimented with everything. Several years ago he said he too was a Keynesian. I doubt that he knows what he means by that, or, for that matter, that John Maynard Keynes would know. All that is really left to the meaning of that word is: a conviction that a central authority has got to supervise the balancancy, or the imbalancing, of the nation's books. Nixon has sought to do that — unsuccessfully.

Economic conservatives are entitled to conclude that the Administration has been altogether too good-natured in the matter of deficit financing, which is now called "full employment economy," a euphemism insufficiently skewed in recent critical literature.

3. THUS FORD'S advantages in virtue of being relatively unknown, and in virtue of his identification with a conservative Administration, may have short-lived. Sen. Kennedy does not have the background to emerge as a convincing economic doctor. But Jackson, whose image is of the industrious New Dealer, does. So that, under the circumstances — and discounting for the moment the competition — the chances of Sen. Jackson would appear to be greater than ever. That is why, for instance, the trendy "New York Magazine" can run a cover story entitled "The Inevitability of Scoop Jackson."

Tedious, But It Works

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have seen many ads in magazines on new ways to "add hair to your scalp," but never see anything on hair transplants. Why? Is it really possible that hair can grow when transplanted? —R.L.

You won't find hair transplants advertised because it is a medical procedure, and advertising is contrary to medical ethics.

All the same, it is a practical way of restoring hair to bald spots in certain cases. By that, I mean primarily cases of what is called "male pattern baldness," in which hair is lost primarily at the crown and front of the scalp but hair continues growing normally on the rest of the scalp.

The point is that you must have enough healthy hair so that some can be transplanted and not be missed.

Small "plugs" are removed from the bald area and are replaced by plugs of the same size taken from areas where hair continues to grow. These are small — about 15 hairs to a plug, and about 20 plugs is about average for one treatment. Or we'd better call it an operation, because that's what it is.

The transplanted hair goes into a resting phase and the hair falls out in about three weeks, but new growth becomes visible after that time.

It's a tedious process since not much can be transplanted at a time, and it can be costly depending on the number of tiny transplants that are required.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 74 and believe I am having trouble with my prostate gland, because I have some difficulty in urinating. Can you give me some suggestions what I can do to better it? —B.

Reading up on prostate trouble can be helpful but it doesn't take the place of having accurate diagnosis so you know that is the trouble and know how much treatment is indicated.

So my suggestion is that you first go to your doctor; second, that you send 25 cents and an envelope for my booklet, "The Pesky Prostate." The booklet can be helpful to prostate sufferers but it is not intended to be a substitute for adequate medical diagnosis and care.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In your response to the letter about the child who wrote or printed his letter via "mirror writing" it was interesting to me that you dismissed it so lightly. I wondered why you made no mention of the possibility that the child might have the problem of dyslexia and a learning disability. —J.D.

Three or four others wrote as you have written. It is true that "mirror writing" can go along with dyslexia, but that is only one symptom of dyslexia, and in the case I was writing about, there was no other indication of dyslexia.

Simple mirror writing in a young child usually can be readily overcome with patience and care. If, however, the child exhibits a general inability to learn and at the same time insists on "mirror writing" that is another matter and deserves (as you obviously realize) skilled treatment.

Dear Mr. President

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Every national trade organization is now hard at work trying to convince the Energy Council and the President that it is essential they be given sufficient fuel to continue the manufacturing of their wares. One of the methods of pleading their case is to take out a full-page advertisement in a newspaper pleading for a break.

HERE ARE the types of messages we can expect to read:

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Dear Sir:

We, the Electric Pencil Sharpener Companies of America, urge you not to cut down on the use of electric pencil sharpeners during the present energy crisis. The electric pencil sharpener is absolutely essential to a healthy economy in this country, not to mention a strong defense abroad.

One of the reasons we are ahead of the Soviets is that our school-children do not have to sharpen their pencils by hand.

THE SECOND letter is from the Electric Knife Assn. of America.

MR. PRESIDENT:

There are now 56,000,539 electric knives in the United States, or one for every family of four. These people would starve to death if the Energy Council goes ahead with its plans to ban the sale of electric knives during the crisis. Only a few Americans know how to carve a chicken, turkey or ham with a regular knife.

THE FINAL SAMPLE letter might be from the Heated Swimming Pool Assn.

PRESIDENT NIXON, ARE YOU LISTENING?

We, the 543,890,000 heated swimming pool contractors of America, urge you to give us special attention during the fuel shortage, not because it is in our interest — but because it is to the nation's advantage. We can prove that by allowing people to heat their pools you will be saving energy rather than wasting it. For every person in a heated swimming pool (the average time spent in one is an hour per day) this means one less person using an hour of electricity to watch television. Or to put it another way, the family who swims together in a heated pool means one less car on the highway burning gas.

AS THE OWNER of a heated swimming pool in San Clemente, you owe it to the country to keep its water warm.

MRS. MARK NARDONE

She Is Precise And Organized

By ELAYNE REXROAT
Of all the people in the world, the percentage of those who might be referred to as "well-organized" is surely small; and, the odds of two such people getting together must be even rarer. However, such is the case with Mrs. Margaret (Marge) Nardone and her husband, Dr. Mark Nardone.

"We are real list-makers, and Mark is very precise in everything he does," Mrs. Nardone commented not mentioning the fact that she also is a precise person. "I'm a strict one for a recipe" said Mrs. Nardone. "I'm just not a pinch and throw — or whatever you call it — cook. I always plan my meals a week in advance."

When preparing her menus, she also prepares her shopping list. "Not only does a list serve as a guide for the items you need, but also saves money" she explained.

The doctor is a summer-time barbecue cook and whips up an occasional breakfast with all the trimmings. There is, however, a much more important thing to be said about him: "Mark never complains about what I cook" said Mrs. Nardone. "He is always very nice about my cooking. Quiet sometimes, but nice. I guess he's afraid I'll quit."

In view of this last fact, Mrs. Nardone finds it smooth sailing to just clip something that looks 'good and simple' and give it a whirl.

le Southern cooking" with their favorite specialty being Mexican food. They enjoy and eat a variety of casseroles.

Dr. and Mrs. Nardone were married four years ago and she's been cooking for about four years. "I'm just now getting used to it" she replied. "As a matter of fact, I didn't do much of anything domestically before I got married. I've been cleaning house for just about four years, too."

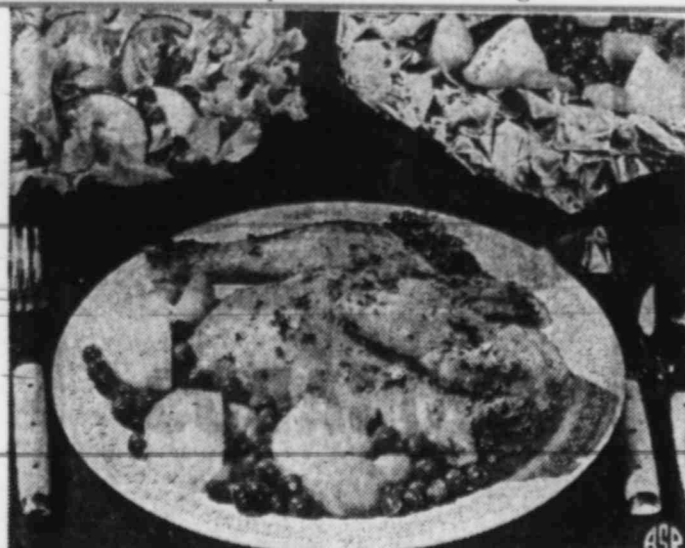

She has sampled a variety of the arts and crafts but enjoys doing crewel most of all.

With her husband, she loves to hike, and occasionally joins in a round of golf.

The couple's greatest love is taking trips. Weekend trips, holiday trips, vacation trips, you name it, whether they're short or long in time and distance, they enjoy it.

In July, the Nardone family which includes Kristy Lynn, 2, came from Galveston where he had completed two years of pediatric residency at the Medical Branch of the University of Texas, following a year of radiology residency at Indiana University. Dr. Nardone, a 1967 graduate of Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia, Penn., is a pediatrician associated with Malone and Hogan Clinic.

Since their move here, Mrs. Nardone has joined the 1970 Hyperion Club and completed a sociology course at Howard County Junior College.

 1 tsp. garlic salt
 1 tsp. chili powder
 ½-½ lb. grated cheddar cheese
 1 can Rotel tomatoes (optional-amount used, depends upon how hot you desire dish to be)
 Boil chicken in water about 1 hour (or until tender) Remove bones and cut meat into bite-size pieces. Combine chicken, onion, cheese, garlic salt, chili powder and tomatoes.  To make filling, beat cream cheese until fluffy; gradually blend in ½ cup sugar, the lemon juice, ½ tsp. vanilla and salt. Add eggs, one at a time (beating well after each). Pour filling into crumb crust. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) 25-30 minutes (or until set).

Dippy Dessert Doesn't Last Long At Parties

During this season when formal and informal entertaining are so popular for both the grown-ups and kids, Peanut Butter Chocolate Fondue will be a hit.

The combination of peanut butter and chocolate could hardly miss, since both are great favorites. And it's easy! Simply add crunchy peanut butter to the melted chocolate-milk-sugar mixture and the fondue is ready to serve with your favorite bite-size pieces of fruit or cake. For those who like to prepare foods ahead, the fondue can be made in advance and stored in the refrigerator until party time.

Besides being so easy to prepare and scrumptious, the dessert is also very nutritious. And good nutrition is especially important for youngsters going through early growing stages. The fondue dessert provides protein, energy, minerals and vitamins.

PEANUT BUTTER CHOCOLATE FONDUE
 1 cup crunchy or smooth peanut butter
 ½ cup sugar
 6 oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
 1 cup milk
 Combine chocolate, sugar and milk in saucepan. Heat, stirring constantly until chocolate is melted. Add crunchy peanut butter; mix well. Pour into fondue pot; place over heating unit. If fondue becomes too thick, add milk.

Dipping suggestions: pound cake squares; bananas, apples, pears and pineapple chunks; marshmallows and seedless grapes.

ON FOOT, ON BIKES AND IN CAR POOLS

Faithful Flocking To Church Despite Gasless Sundays

By The Associated Press
They come by foot, on bicycles and in car pools. They are the nation's faithful, and church leaders say they are flocking to worship services despite Gasless Sundays. At the onset of the energy crisis, some religious leaders feared parishioners would not use up costly fuel to go to church.

ATTENDANCE UP
But an Associated Press sampling of churches in 17 states showed attendance had not been adversely affected in most areas surveyed. Eight areas reported increased attendance, eight were not affected and only one had a drop.

"Since we had Gasless Sunday, our attendance has been better," said Rev. Carl Wiediger, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church in New Britain, Conn. "For the want of somewhere else to go, people are coming to church."

The Rev. Dr. Robert W. Scott of Westminster Presbyterian Church in Elizabeth, N.J., said Gasless Sundays have "kept more people at home this year because they didn't drive to vacations or second homes" during holidays.

TURNED OFF
The Rev. E. D. Robertson of St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Jackson County, Mo., said figures show a steady rise in attendance since Dec. 2 over the same period last year.

The Rev. Raymond Balcomb, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Portland, Ore., says he's seen no marked change in attendance but is watching closely.

A decrease in attendance was reported in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C. Our Lady of Lourdes in Bethesda said normal attendance of 4,000 has dropped off at least 500 on the average.

But churches and synagogues have not completely escaped the energy crisis — mainly because the houses of worship are often heavy users of heating oil and electricity.

Many religious leaders contacted said thermostats had been lowered, some meetings switched from evening to daytime, lighting displays turned off and church-related travel by car or bus curtailed. Methods of getting to church also are changing.

WALKING URGED
The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints urged the world's Mormons to walk to church, while other churches have urged increased use of mass transit and even bicycles.

The energy crisis is increasingly a topic of sermons, church periodicals and bumper-sticker campaigns. Some see it as an opportunity to stress moral power. "These are times when we must stress spiritual values and reshape our standard of living to show it is not made up of just material affluence," said the Rev. Robert J. Marshall of New York City, president of the Lutheran Church in America. The National Council of Churches scheduled an Energy Crisis Conference in the nation's capital on Jan. 25-27 and issued a statement saying: "Our long-range concern must be for universal distributive justice, whereby the world's resources and energy are available as fairly as possible to all humanity."

Congressmen Use Muscle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress exerted new muscle in foreign affairs policy in its 1973 session.

It passed over President Nixon's veto a resolution limiting the power of the president to make war without congressional consent.

It forced an end to U.S. bombing in Cambodia and five times cut off funds for any further U.S. combat operations in Indochina without specific approval by Congress.

It remodeled the foreign aid program to emphasize humanitarian programs.

It cut funds generally for military foreign assistance. The exception was special military aid to Israel to replace losses of aircraft and other equipment in the October Arab-Israeli war. Congress approved the administration's request for $2.2 billion.

Carried over to another year was a move supported by a Senate majority to force a substantial reduction in U.S. troop deployment overseas.

Starting with a proposal by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., to cut the 500,000 U.S. ground forces overseas in half within three years, the Senate voted 48 to 36 in September to require a 110,000 reduction by Dec. 31, 1975.

Opposed by the Nixon administration, the 110,000 cut was added to the defense procurement bill on an amendment by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn. It failed to attain majority support in the House and was deleted in a House-Senate conference.

State and Defense department officials argued that a sizable overseas troop cut would impact heaviest on Europe, where the United States has 300,000 military personnel, and jeopardize the outcome of negotiations between NATO and Warsaw Pact nations for mutual force reductions.

Mansfield said at session-end that another effort to legislate overseas troop reductions is "very likely" next year.

'Hostess With The Mostess' Oklahoma-Bound

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "hostess with the mostess" is Oklahoma-bound. The Washington-Star News says Perle Mesta has had trouble recovering from a hip operation and wants to take advantage of the warm, dry climate of Oklahoma City. Her brother lives in Oklahoma.

COMPUTER COP-OUTS SPELLED OUT
Electronic Brains Still Get Scrambled

Copley News Service up at times like a $50-a-week stock clerk. Their designers claim computers are helping to ease big city traffic problems, fight crime, speed the litigation flow through courts, even provide backup support to doctors, among other things.

BOO-BOOS
 Yet while scientists say computers are getting so smart they are beginning to make their own judgments — without human programmers — they also are driving some people up the wall with their boo-boos.

In Sacramento, Calif., for example, George Gustafson, executive secretary of the state Teacher Preparation and Licensing Commission, long since has fired his computer and shifted back to human beings. With this giant step backward, Gustafson confounded those who claim the computer cuts the need for manpower and hence slices down payrolls. He was able to reduce his staff from 240 to 106 persons after dumping the computer. And the change back to people cut credential processing time from an average of 95 days to an average of 10, Gustafson said.

"The computer was a good worker," he recalls, "but it just couldn't compete with people." A Louisiana attorney found his name misspelled on notices and bulletins he was receiving from the state Department of Employment Security. He protested and received this reply:

"We are cognizant of the correct spelling of your name, but because of the way our computer is set up there is nothing we can do about it at the present time. Thank you for your cooperation in this matter."

Mrs. Eleanor Tannenbaum of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, for a long time couldn't pay her bills to Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) because she didn't get them. She didn't get them because a computer kept mailing them without a street address.

DOUBLE BILLING
 Complaints about false or double billing mount as the computer industry grows. An increasing number of computer operations either aren't sending out bills at all or are sending them months late. Some computers keep bugging people for months or even years after they have paid their bills.

All this has played havoc with the credit ratings of many Americans, through no fault of their own.

Of course the computer bobbles make some people happy. A customer at Gimbel's in New York found the department store was taking nine months to bill him. He made good use of the estimated $300 that went unbillied during the fall and winter. When he finally was billed the computer had forgotten to nail him for service charges.

FOUL-UPS
 Bruce Gimbel, president of Gimbel Bros., got at the root of most computer's foul-ups with this observation: there was poor supervision at the human controller level or these foul-ups couldn't occur.

While scientists and computer builders were predicting their machines would become so intelligent they would begin to out-think man in another generation, Congress was being asked to do something about those credit-billing computers that don't take the facts for an answer.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who introduced a bill aimed at easing the pain of this headache that hits thousands of Americans every 30 days, says the trouble is that corporations tend to rely completely on computers to send out monthly credit statements. They refuse to admit their machines make mistakes.

CREDIT RATING
 Once an error is made, the senator points out, it is virtually impossible to get it corrected, for the computer reacts with an escalating series of new statements — coaxing, warning and finally threatening the customer about his credit rating.

Proxmire's bill, among other things, would require a company to acknowledge within 10 days the receipt of a complaint that its computer has goofed. Within 60 days the firm would have to correct the error or explain to the consumer why there was no mistake.

"If the company failed to do both of these, it would forfeit the right to collect the amount the consumer claimed to be in error," the senator explains.

After 36 Years In Trade, Doyle Vaughns Close Shop

Doyle and Mildred Vaughn have called it quits after 36 years in business here.

Their baker, E. C. Burnett, retired after 26 years and, unable to get a replacement, they decided to close Vaughn's Sweet Shop at 604 Gregg on Christmas Eve.

"We had it all figured out," Vaughn said, "all but crying, or feeling like crying every time one of our friends came in that last day."

First order of business for the two will be to "catch up on our rest." They plan to spend a lot more time on their farm on the Andrews highway, where he still has a few head of race horses and mares.

MOVED IN 1930
Vaughn came here from Hamlin in 1930, at the depth of the Depression, to join his mother, and soon he had a job with C. S. (Clint) Diltz, who operated a bakery under his own name. From the first he did about everything from greasing pans to delivering, and after five years he had mastered much of the baking trade. Diltz closed in 1935, and in 1937 Vaughn opened a business of his own at 103 Main.

"At first I just made doughnuts and fried pies," he recalled, but before long he added bread-making equipment and then pastries. The business flourished so that prior to the outbreak of World War II he ran trucks to Midland, Odessa, Lamesa, Colorado City, Sweetwater and other points. Gasoline and tire rationing put an end to that, however.

Later he moved his business to 508 Gregg "actually it's 504, but we got started calling it 508 and never changed," and majored on retail trade in a brisk business in custom baking for special occasions.

"We baked birthday and wedding cakes for two generations, and when we quit, we were doing more business than we could handle," he said, "But we're just not young enough to do it by ourselves."

When the Vaughns started in business, "it was nearly all nickel items - doughnuts, a roll, and even a pound loaf of bread sold for a dime."

INFLATION SET IN
Costs were comparable: Flour here,

$1.50 to $2 for 100 pounds, but now it's $14 to $16; shortening was five to eight cents; sugar was six cents; milk 40 and 50 cents a gallon; eggs were $7.50 for a case (30 dozen). All that's changed, and particularly within the past year. Put that with difficulty in finding qualified help, and they concluded this was a good time to stop.

Vaughn, who became interested in horses when the Sheriff's Posse was formed after World War II, got to breeding racing stock and at one time had a string of horses running on tracks in a dozen states or more.

"It was one of those things you get into and just can't or don't want to let go," but now he's got his herd down to a few head and "without ever having produced a Secretariat."

Vaughn and Mildred Tines were married here in 1934 and they have two children. Mrs. Beverley Kan, San Antonio, and Delbert Vaughn, an area distributor for Morton's Foods in Oklahoma City, "They will continue to make their home here."

Suez Gulf Oil Flames

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The fire in three offshore oil wells in the Gulf of Suez is under control, the Israeli Finance Ministry said today, but it has summoned foreign fire fighters to help put out the blazes.

The wells caught fire Tuesday night, stopping all offshore production at the Abu Rudeis field which Israel seized from Egypt in the 1967 war. Officials said there was no suspicion of sabotage or Arab commando action.

The ministry did not disclose what fire fighters were being called in from abroad for security reasons.

Official sources said the fire was cutting daily production at the field about a fourth. The field produces more than five million tons of crude oil a year, more than half of Israel's domestic needs.

The spokesman said the fire was started by a technical accident. He said an investigation into the precise cause was under way.

Conspirators Waiting For Appeals Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — E. Howard Hunt, his thin face showing the effects of 10 months in prison for the Watergate break-in, is home with his children once again. "I'm free for the time being," he said.

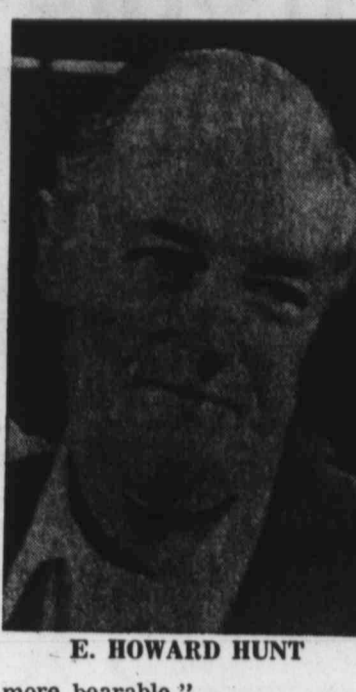

Hunt was released Wednesday, but how long he remains free will be decided by the U.S. Court of Appeals, which has been asked to rule whether Hunt should have been allowed to withdraw his guilty plea in district court.

ENCOURAGING

The higher court ordered Hunt and fellow conspirator Bernard L. Barker freed last Friday pending the outcome of their appeals. Barker's release from prison in Florida was expected today or Friday.

"I find it very encouraging that the court has seen sufficient merit in my appeal to order my release," Hunt told newsmen after going through the formalities of pledging he will abide by conditions set by the court.

He also thanked "the many thousands of concerned Americans who have sent me telegrams and letters over these long months." He said "this has made my incarceration far more bearable." Hunt was reunited with his four children who live in nearby Potomac, Md.

IN PRISON

His release and the expected release of Barker would leave four of the original Watergate defendants still in prison — three of whom could be released soon either by parole board action or appeals court order.

Eugenio R. Martinez, Virgilio R. Gonzalez and Frank A. Sturgis, who pleaded guilty with Hunt and Barker last January, already have served more than their minimum one-year sentence. Their parole board hearing at the federal prison at Eglin AFB in Florida is scheduled Monday.

James W. McCord Jr., and G. Gordon Liddy also have appealed their jury convictions. McCord was freed on bond shortly after his arrest in the Democratic Party headquarters June 17, 1972.

Liddy currently is serving a contempt term for refusing to testify before the grand jury under immunity. He still has most of his minimum 6 years, 8 months conspiracy-burglary-wiretap sentence to serve.

Hunt has served 10 months, 5 days of his 2½-year sentence. Barker has a minimum 6 months to go on his 18 months term. McCord's sentence is 1½ years.

McCord, Barker, Sturgis, Gonzalez and Martinez were arrested by plainclothes police inside the Watergate office building. Liddy and Hunt surrendered later.

Crews Stem Flow Of Oil

GLENROCK, Wyo. (AP) — Work crews finally have stemmed the flow of oil and gas that has been gushing for 53 days from a well about 40 miles north of here.

Richard Zirbel, a spokesman for the joint operators of the well, said work continued late into Wednesday night, pumping mud into the hole. He said a new well head assembly had been installed and the well had been "shut in."

Operations came to a virtual halt New Year's Day when temperatures dropped to 30 below zero and all water lines froze.

The gusher broke loose Nov. 30 and caught fire Dec. 5. The blaze was put out with a 500-pound explosive charge 18 days later, but it flared up again Christmas Eve. The fire was extinguished a second time Dec. 26 with another explosion.

Severe weather since then had hampered efforts to stop the gusher.

The well is a joint effort of Chaparral Resources, Inc., of Denver and American Quasar Petroleum Co. of Fort Worth, Tex.

Jury Presses Dope Probe

HOUSTON (AP) — A state grand jury probing alleged corruption in the Houston Police Department narcotics division heard testimony Wednesday from a former policeman.

Carlos Avila, who was suspended from the force last year when he and another officer, Anthony Zavala, were indicted on charges of selling marijuana, spoke to the grand jury.

Avila refused to discuss his testimony after leaving the grand jury room. He and Zavala are scheduled to go on trial Monday.

A federal grand jury is also hearing testimony on charges of corruption, involving thefts of money from suspended narcotics dealers, illegal wire tapping and the planting of evidence.

Other narcotics officers, R. D. Jackson, J. M. Vaughn, Don Davis and P. C. Demov, also testified before the grand jury Wednesday.

James A. Moore, an attorney hired by the Houston Police Officers Association to help prosecute Avila and Zavala — only to have his services turned down by Dist. Atty. Carol Vance — turned up Wednesday as an attorney for the four subpoenaed officers.

Moore called the grand jury investigation a "witch hunt" and said the four officers would have voluntarily talked with either the grand jury or district attorney's office if asked.

Moore said the district attorney's office had not been advised of any such testimony in the grand jury investigation or end it.

Search Started For Rural Hero

The search is under way for Texas' rural hero of 1973.

The "rural heroism" award, sponsored by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, is presented annually to some deserving person who has performed an act of exceptional bravery during a time of crisis, according to Ben Bullard, council vice president and assistant safety director for the Texas Farm Bureau.

All entries must be submitted by March 1, 1974, to the Rural Heroism Award Committee, Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, P. O. Box 489, Waco, Texas, 76703, according to Bullard.

The heroic act or deed must have occurred in Texas, during 1973 and must be related to farming or ranching operations. Nominations should include a written account of the incident and the names of all persons involved. Newspaper clippings and pictures should also accompany the nomination, if available.

Home Fire Kills Four

WINNSBORO, Tex. (AP) — Four persons died in a home fire Wednesday, one day after another death in the same house.

Investigators said a wood stove set the ceiling ablaze in the frame house.

The victims were Jessie Lee Scott, 54, and three grand children, Walter Lee Scott, 5; Melissa Lee Scott, 3; and Archie Wayne Scott, 1.

Only Tuesday, Cora Kathleen Scott, 13 months old, was found dead in the home. A justice of the peace ruled death due to a viral disease.

Two persons, Thelma and Glenda Scott, escaped from the blazing house.

Maker Of Cord Automobile Dies

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Errett Lobban Cord, 79, maker of the classic Cord automobile and an aviation pioneer, died Wednesday. At one time he owned or had controlling interests in American Airlines, the New York Shipbuilding Corp. and many other companies.

Agents To Conduct Audit Of Nixon's Tax Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says whether the donations were what a man with a salary of $17,000 might have paid.

The key question concerns the three years were about Nixon has not filed a state income tax return since 1969. His tax lawyers contend he is not a resident of California for tax purposes.

The IRS sources said the audit would include the President's tax returns for 1970, when he paid $793 in taxes and 1971, when he paid $878, but could extend to other years as well.

TRY AGAIN
The audit of the President's 1970 and 1971 returns will be the second by the IRS, a spokesman said. He declined to comment on whether any new information had become available to cause the new probe. He said nothing was found he amiss in the earlier audit.

He did say there is nothing to prevent the IRS from checking into presidential deductions if two tax questions and pay any additional taxes it feels are due. There has been considerable controversy over deductions from the President's tax returns for 1970, 1971 and 1972 for $306,000.

In addition to the small amount of tax paid in 1970 and 1971, the President also paid $4,298 in 1972. Altogether, the taxes totaling less than $6,000 House said in December that

Estimates of the potential additional tax range as high as $306,000. In addition to the small amount of tax paid in 1970 and 1971, the President also paid $4,298 in 1972. Altogether, the taxes totaling less than $6,000 House said in December that

NET WORTH

The President's own net worth in recent years has grown to about $1 million. His annual presidential salary is $200,000.

The IRS said in a statement Wednesday that the President's representatives were cooperating fully in the new audit and that they had authorized the public announcement that a new audit was underway.

The IRS also said it was cooperating with the taxation committee in its study and would exchange information with the committee on the respective probes of the Nixon returns.

In Sacramento, Calif., Nixon's California tax lawyer said the President will make a full disclosure of his state income tax status.

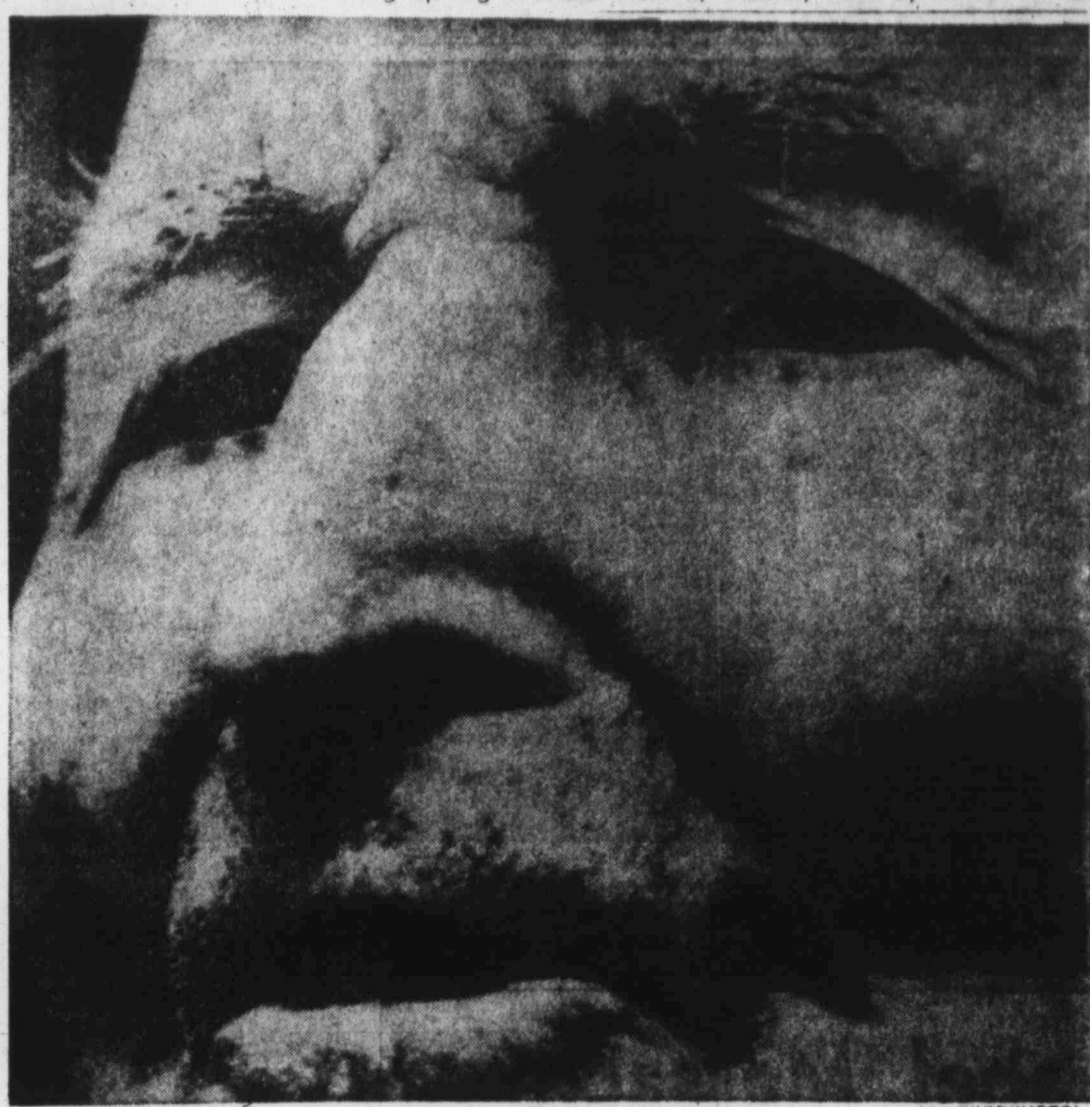

The report presumably will contain Nixon's legal arguments for not paying any California income tax since he has been President. The White House said in December that

Forest Lands Nationalized

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — The Honduras government has nationalized the country's extensive forest lands and says it is embarking on an agrarian reform program.

President Osvaldo Lopez Arellano said in a New Year's address that owners of forest lands will receive a share of the profits from the sale of their timber but the government will control all lumbering and development of the forests.

He said all uncultivated farm land and all farms considered by the government to be badly run would be expropriated and divided up among 100,000 poor peasant families. He said the land owners would be paid with government bonds redeemable in 20 to 30 years.

THE LAST RIDER — Orlando 'Dad' Walking, Modesto, Calif., celebrated his 106th birthday Sunday, the sole survivor of the great ride into Oklahoma's Cherokee Strip land rush in 1893. "My working days are about over," Walking admits, but he continues to support himself creating leather goods and artifacts.

Mass Murder Trial Poses Press Woes

HOUSTON (AP) — A committee established to help coordinate the first scheduled Houston mass murder trial has recommended that 64 spaces in the 164-seat courtroom be reserved for the news media.

The committee also suggested that 50 spaces be reserved for the general public, 15 spaces for members of the bench and the bar, 10 for the defendant's immediate family and the remaining 25 as the court may direct.

The trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, is scheduled to start Jan. 14 in District Judge William M. Hatten's court. Motions are slated for the first two weeks and jury selection to begin Jan. 28.

Henley is charged in six murder indictments returned after the discovery of the bodies of 27 teen-age boys and youths buried around Southeast Texas. He is to be tried on a charge of slaying Charles C. Cobble, 17.

Henley and David Owen Brooks, 18, have told police in statements that Dean Arnold Corll, 33, killed the youths in a series of homosexual murders and tortures. Corll was shot to death by Henley during a party at Corll's house in what was later ruled to be self-defense.

Brooks, also indicted in the slayings, is scheduled to go on trial March 4. The five-member committee appointed by Hatten, is headed by former District Court Judge E.B. Duggan. It also includes two lawyers and two representatives of the news media.

Two Ranchers Die In Plane Smash

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Jim Lewis, Kerrville businessman, and Richard Shaheen, Mountain Home rancher, died in the crash of their twin-engine private plane Wednesday.

The craft smashed down shortly after takeoff and disintegrated on the north city limits of Kerrville.

Lewis was piloting the AeroStar. The two were en route to Midland.

Officers said witnesses heard two explosions following the crash.

Lewis was the husband of Barbara Lewis, Kerrville School Board president and head of the Texas Republican Women's Association.

Petrofina Signs Tanker Charter

DALLAS (AP) — American Petrofina announced Wednesday the signing of a 25-year charter on the supertanker Brooklyn, called the largest ship ever built in the United States and the largest to fly the U.S. flag.

The signing followed sea trials Dec. 31. The Brooklyn, a 225,000 deadweight ton turbotanker, was launched June 30.

The tanker is 1,094 feet long and has a draft of 70 feet. It can haul approximately 1.5 million barrels of crude oil and has a range of 15,000 miles.

American Petrofina is engaged in exploration, production and retailing. Under the Fina brand, it distributes products in 28 states through more than 3,000 service stations.

Broke Truck Driver 'Sorry' He Won $100,000 Lottery

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Carl B. Dapp, a truck driver, won $100,000 in the New York state lottery six years ago.

Now Dapp says, he's broke, unemployed and sorry he won the money.

"I got so down from the grief that I just wanted to kick the bucket," he said in an interview. "I didn't know whether I was coming or going. I was in a fog for at least a year."

Dapp, 62, a widower for 13 years, said state and federal taxes on his windfall amounted to about $60,000.

LAI D OFF

He said he bought an expensive car, a $3,800 trailer home, a television set, and a $1,500 auto for his son Richard, but said he didn't go on any spending sprees.

More of the money, Dapp said, was invested in a business venture with a partner, but the business went sour and was dissolved, and Dapp said he wound up with a lot of debts.

He said he sold his expensive auto to pay off some of the debts, then went back to driving a truck.

Two months ago he was laid off, now he's drawing unemployment checks.

Dapp supports a son, John, 16, crippled since birth with cerebral palsy. Richard, 25, a student at the State University at Buffalo, also lives with his father and brother at their trailer home in suburban Alden.

NOT EDUCATED

"I'm not an educated man," Dapp said, "I come from a big

More income doesn't mean more income tax.

The income from municipal bonds is exempt from all present federal income taxes. So if you're in the 50% tax bracket a 6% return from a municipal bond is equivalent to a 12% return from taxable income. And high-quality municipals offer security of principal second only to United States Government Bonds as well as marketability. Label Massacre Political Crime

ROME (AP) — Kuwait has rejected an Italian request for extradition of the five Arab terrorists who fire-bombed a plane and shot up the Rome airport Dec. 17. Foreign Ministry sources said Wednesday.

Kuwait called the massacre of 31 persons a political crime, the sources said. The decision drew an immediate and strongly worded reply from the Italian government, they added.

The terrorists attacked the airport with machine guns and bombs, blowing up a Pan American World Airways jet. They then hijacked a Lufthansa plane with hostages to Athens, Damascus and Kuwait, where they surrendered to local police. Italy sought extradition of the five Arabs to stand trial on charges here of massacre, murder, hijacking and a number of other crimes. But Kuwait and Italy have no official extradition treaty.

Palestinian sources have said Kuwait intends to turn over the five to Yasir Arafat's Palestinian Liberation Organization for trial by a special Palestinian tribunal.
