BRITISH STIFF UPPER LIP CURLING INTO SNARL OF FRUSTRATION

Railway Engineers Walk Off Job

LONDON (AP) — Nearly 1,000 disgruntled railway engineers walked off the job early today, cutting the flow of commuters into London by more than 90 per cent.

Only 58 trains out of a scheduled 532 arrived in the British capital, and of the 261,000 commuters who normally come to work only 20,000 made it, officials said.

Huge traffic jams built up around the British capital as commuters took to their cars.

British Rail warned those who managed to get into the capital there was little point in trying to get home by train tonight. "There simply won't be any trains running," a spokesman said.

The railwaymen were angry because the railway board started sending home union men who refused to take out trains in violation of the slow-down the union is waging in support of wage demands. The railmen have already knocked out much of the nation's commuter services by strict adherence to the numerous time-consuming rules — many of them outmoded — with which tradition has saddled the railroads.

Meanwhile, leaders of the 250,000 coal miners met to consider a government appeal for an end to their ban on weekend and overtime work. They were expected to reject the appeal, and militants were urging that the miners go on a three- or four-day week, which would reduce the production of coal still more.

Leaders of the nation's 250,000 miners voted unanimously to continue the overtime ban that has cut coal supplies by a third.

Coal provides 70 per cent of Britain's electricity. Because of the miners' action the government put industry on a three-day week to conserve energy supplies.

DEADLOCKED

Talks on the miners' pay claim remained deadlocked, raising the threat of supply shortages in basic commodities like steel, which eventually could force industry onto a two-day week.

Both the coal miners and the railmen are demanding pay increases above the anti-inflation ceilings set by Prime Minister Edward Heath. Heath told the House of Commons Wednesday that he would not breach the guidelines.

"And some call this the most civilized city in the world," sneered George, the barman at Waterloo Station.

He was looking out at a mob of commuters storming the gates of the 5:42 to Guildford, already an hour late.

They stampeded across the great vaulted terminal like a nightmare backfield in motion at some super Super Bowl (See RAILWAY, P. 2-A, Col. 1)

A DEATH IN THE FAMILY — A Cambodian cries as he holds his dead daughter killed when Khmer Rouge insurgents shelled Prek Phnau, eight miles north of Phnom Penh, today. Fighting has continued in the area in recent days after the insurgents occupied positions on the east bank of the Tonle Sap River.

Energy Woes Pose Threat, Nixon Says

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon, inviting foreign ministers of eight oil-consuming countries to a Washington conference next month, said today the energy shortage "threatens to unleash political and economic forces that could cause severe and irreparable damage to the prosperity and stability of the world."

The Western White House made public the text of separate letters sent by Nixon to governments of oil-consuming countries, inviting them to the Feb. 11 Washington conference, and to major oil-producing countries to inform them of the meeting.

In the letter to heads of government of six European countries plus Japan and Canada, Nixon used much the stronger language, saying the global energy situation has produced "an historic crossroad" in which nations "face a fundamental choice that can profoundly affect the structure of international political and economic relations for the remainder of this century."

"Two roads lie before us," the letter said. "We can go our own separate ways, with the prospect of progressive division, the erosion of vital independence, and increasing political and economic conflict; or we can work in concert, developing enlightened unity and cooperation for the benefit of all mankind — producer and consumer countries alike."

In his somewhat milder letter to the governments of Abu Dhabi, Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and Venezuela, Nixon said:

"Recent developments have emphasized the critical importance of energy to the prosperity and stability of the international economy. Severe disruptions of economic activity and of the world monetary system, whether caused by insufficiency of energy supplies or abrupt price movements, could prove disastrous for consumers and producers alike.

"Oil importing nations are vitally concerned with mechanisms which will assure adequate supplies at reasonable prices. Oil producing states, in turn, are concerned with arrangements that will assure fair payment for and rational use of their nonrenewable resources."

Writing to the leaders of Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Britain, Norway, Canada and Japan Nixon said of the Washington conference he proposed for Feb. 11 "for any other convenient date that week."

"Our concept is that the foreign ministers meeting would agree on an analysis of the situation and the work to be done. It would establish a task force drawn from the consuming countries which would formulate a consumer action program. Part of this program would be concerned with new cooperative measures designed to deal with the explosive growth of global energy demand and to accelerate the coordinated development of new energy sources."

BULLETIN

A twin-engine plane belly-landed at Howard County airport about 1 p.m. today. W. R. "Bill" Page and Joe Hamlin, both of Midland, and employees of El Paso Products Co., occupants of the plane, were not injured.

Students Will Take Break Friday, But Not Teachers

It's no school for the pupils in Big Spring, Forsan and Coahoma schools Friday, but teachers have a heavy day of activities in store.

This will be an in-service session for teachers, and it will continue through Saturday. Pupils will report back Monday morning on the usual schedule. Elementary teachers will spend Friday morning in studying use of television as an instructional tool. KREA-TV and the West Texas Educational Center will be in charge. Conferences with their principals will be held during the afternoon, and on Saturday teachers will hear textbook company representatives present the case for their particular books.

High school teachers will be in departmental sessions, updating the curriculum guides. This will continue through Saturday, although those on the textbook committees will meet with book company representatives.

Another part of the in-service program will bring an area occupational-technical workshop here.

The opening session is set for Friday evening in the Big Spring High School cafeteria, and the general session Saturday will be there while the vocational department will house a series of group sessions. Joe B. Neely, Austin, formerly head of the vocational program here and in the area, and now deputy associate commissioner of occupational education and technology for Texas Education Agency, will speak on "Relation of Vocational Teaching to Career Education." Another speaker will include Darrell Tilton, Commerce, of East Texas State University, head of teacher training, who will discuss development of leadership through the VICA or VOCT club. Sam Anderson, Big Spring superintendent, will welcome the visitors.

Coahoma teachers will hear Dr. Cernon Stokes, Midland, of the West Texas Education Center, who will conduct a workshop from 8:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. There will be departmental and school workshops during the afternoon, Saturday, teachers will meet with special education personnel from Big Spring.

Forsan will have separate elementary and high school work sessions Friday morning and then again in the afternoon. Sands school at Ackerly will have a regular school day Friday.

Church-Related Colleges May Not Get State Aid If...

AUSTIN (AP) — Church-related colleges that require their faculty, staff and trustees to hold certain religious beliefs may not receive state financial aid, Atty. Gen. John Hill ruled today.

He said in an opinion to the Texas College Coordinating Board that the board would abuse its discretion if it approved so-called tuition equalization grants for such a school.

Hill said in an earlier opinion that such grants are constitutional so long as they were administered in a way that avoided the use of public funds for the benefit of religious sects, seminaries or societies.

STRONG EVIDENCE
"In our opinion, discrimination among staff members on the basis of religious affiliation or religious views, in policy or in practice, is very strong evidence that the institution is sectarian and that funds channeled through it would be used to promote or inhibit religion," Hill said in today's holding.

Dr. Bevington Reed, state commissioner of higher education, said in his opinion request that a college had refused to hire a Jewish woman as a staff member solely because of her religion. The school later was identified as Houston Baptist College.

The college's by-law require, Reed said, that its trustees, officers, faculty members and staff "must believe in the divine inspiration of the Bible, both the Old Testament and New Testament, that man was directly created by God, the virgin birth of Jesus Christ, our Lord and Savior as the Son of God, that He died for the sins of all men and thereafter arose from the grave, that by repentance and the acceptance of, and belief in Him, by the grace of God, the individual is saved from eternal damnation and receives eternal life in the presence of God."

The grant program provides funds to students at private colleges to make up some of the difference between their tuition and that charged by state-supported schools.

Houston Baptist College now has students who are receiving tuition equalization grants, a coordinating board official, Mack Adams, said.

U. S. FULL STOCKS COMPARED — Chart compares in terms of millions of barrels, the stock of oil distillates on hand in the United States on Jan. 5 last year, with that on hand on Jan. 4 this year. Figures are broken down into gasoline, jet fuel, middle distillates where home heating and diesel oils are derived and residual oil where power plants, and some heating oils come from.

TURN DOWN MORE MONEY FOR CONVENTION DELEGATES — Top state officials met today and turned down a request for more money for Constitutional Convention delegates. They agreed on $37 per day salary and $35 per day expense money. This is in addition to

WAITING AT WATERLOO — With only four trains scheduled into the 21-platform Waterloo station in London, commuters crowd about a departure indicator board Wednesday evening. Many had to spend hours at the station waiting, before they could get to their homes in the suburbs.

Railway Engineers Slowing Commuters

(Continued from Page 1) Game, then reversed their field when the train called rasped out an alternate choice. "The train now standing on platform 13 is the 1705 to Exeter... four coaches only."

SURGING CROWD
Two helmeted bobbies cut off the surging crowd by clanging the gates shut. A rejected banker-type came to a boil under his bowler and uttered a rare obscenity at a passing trainman, reflecting the growing hostility of the passengers against the month-old go-slow of the Locomotive Engineers' Union.

Wednesday only 45 of the 375 commuter trains scheduled by Southern Region, which serves the stockbroker belt, ran because of the wage dispute. "We're only working three days a week because of the power cuts and it takes me nearly that long to get up and back from Chertsey," Bowler Hat told the barman. "By the time I get home, the telly's gone off."

George indulged in London's latest conversational fad by matching him woe for woe: "Took me three hours last night and I work for the bleedin' railroad. There wasn't a coathanger in the cab or some such nonsense, so the driver wouldn't take the train out."

Behind the city's — and the nation's — was a labor dispute. The most important is the refusal of miners to work overtime until they get pay hikes. This has cut down on Britain's supply of coal on which it depends for most of its energy.

The cut in coal production is compounded by the locomotive men's go-slow, which has hit delivery of coal. All this led to the government putting the nation on a three-day work week to conserve energy.

But all over London, people were coping as much as they were complaining, daring to go to the theater in spite of the threat of bombs by Irish terrorists, shopping by gaslight in the great post-Christmas sales and running out in the street to see what they had bought.

In the winter gloom of the new gaslight era, camp suppliers were enjoying a bonanza selling butane lamps and stoves by the gross to shops and banks. Factories were resurrecting old steam generators, and a Battersea candlestick maker was turning out a million candles a day instead of his normal 250,000. His most popular item was a wax effigy of Prime Minister Edward Heath that burns for a week.

40 Persons Crash Victims
BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Forty persons were killed Wednesday night when a two-engine turboprop plane of a national military airline crashed amid flames on an Andean foothill in southern Colombia.

Police said there are no survivors. The British-made "Avro" plane of the Satena airline crashed Wednesday afternoon, after fire reportedly broke out in the passenger compartment soon after the plane took off from Bogota.

Satena said 27 passengers and a five-man crew were aboard, but police said eight children also were aboard and should be added to the list, making a total of 40 persons aboard all Colombians.

With steel production down by half because of the energy crisis, Britain's big automotive industry faced massive layoffs, but pickpockets on the crowded

RICK BLANCHARD

Shoe Firm Has New Manager

Rick Blanchard, formerly with Sanger-Harris in Dallas, has been named manager of Barnes Pelletier Shoes here.

He replaces Lou Wolfson, who has transferred to another Barnes Pelletier store in Lubbock.

Blanchard, 27, heads a staff of four, selling women's shoes at 113 E. 3rd St. With him, he brings experience from the women's shoe department in Dallas.

He is a native of Chicago and was graduated, as was his wife, from Anadarko High School, Anadarko, Okla. Blanchard is married to the former Miss Kathy Kundysek.

They have two children, Rickie, 7, and Stacie, 3. The Blanchards live at 3308 Cornell Ave.

"I'm looking forward to it," Blanchard said of his work at Barnes Pelletier.

AARP Chapter Meets Friday

The local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet for a business session at 10 a.m. Friday in the First United Methodist Church building.

Presiding will be Mrs. W. E. Moren, vice-chairman. The meeting will be followed by a covered dish luncheon.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers, rain and snow are forecast today for the eastern third of the nation. Snowflurries are forecast for the western Plains. Cold weather is forecast for all areas except the Southeast.

Robbery-Slaying Arguments Voiced

RATON, N.M. (AP) — The case against a Houston, Tex., man charged with first-degree murder in the September slaying of a Clayton service station operator went to a Colfax County District Court jury today after three days of testimony.

Enos L. Trivitt, 25, is charged with the stabbing death of James L. Graves, 64, during an attempted service station robbery Sept. 5.

Under the 1973 state law that restored capital punishment in New Mexico, a murder committed during commission of a felony is first-degree murder. Conviction carries a mandatory death penalty.

No one has been convicted of first-degree murder in New Mexico under the 1973 law. Testimony ended in the trial late Wednesday and final arguments were presented early today.

Trivitt and Mary Alice Brown, 21, also of Houston, were charged with the slaying after their arrest Sept. 5 at a roadblock in the Texas Panhandle east of Clayton, N.M.

Both waived extradition to New Mexico. Mrs. Brown is scheduled to go on trial Tuesday in district court at Taos on an identical first-degree murder charge.

Clayton police said Graves was stabbed twice in the heart, three times in the back, once in the back of the head and once in the side during the $120 robbery.

Trivitt's trial opened Monday before District Court Judge John Wright of Raton, who also is scheduled to preside at Mrs. Brown's trial in Taos.

The state rested its case against Trivitt Wednesday.

VA Maps Series Of Video Tapes For Physicians

The Veterans Administration Hospital has made available the Network for Continuing Medical Education video tapes which can be viewed independently in the hospital library. The program is accredited by American and Texas Medical Associations for continuing medical education credit and is creditable towards the Physicians Recognition Award of the AMA. The programs available for this time period are: Jan. 14-27 — Diagnosing the Inflamed Bowel, "Failure to Thrive" (Pediatrics) Primary Treatment of Soft Tissue Injuries, "The Case of the Tugling Hand," "Mononucleosis in the Clinic and the Lab," and "Management Tips for Soft Tissue Injuries in Children."

"The National Antibiotic Therapy Test," another interactive NCME workshop, is available without cost to physicians at the Big Spring VA between Feb. 18 and March 3.

Steadman Named Prexy Of Club

Ruben Steadman has been elected president of Big Spring 5 Waters Citizens Band Radio Club. Other officers are Boyce Patton, vice president; Willie Campbell, secretary; Gary Nash, treasurer; Curtis Witte, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Sarah Johnson, reporter.

The main purpose of the club is service to the community. In time of disaster, the radio operators provide communication, as well as a weather watch, when needed. During the past year, the club offered aid and served coffee to workers when high winds damaged a local trailer park. During the four-day Labor Day weekend, the club kept a coffee stop open, serving free coffee, soft drinks and donuts to travelers. In addition, club members have donated blood in emergencies and volunteered their time for numerous charitable fund drives.

William A. (Bill) Shaw, 73, died in a local hospital at 9:32 p.m., Wednesday. Services will be at 3 p.m. Friday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel, the Rev. Claude Craven of Trinity Baptist Church officiating. Assisting will be the Rev. Randy Cotton, associate minister. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mr. Shaw was born Nov. 6, 1900, in Waxahachie, Tex. He moved to Big Spring in 1927.

Nettie Coffey

LAMESA — Services for Nettie Myrtle Coffey, 76, will be 2 p.m. Friday in the First Baptist Church here with the Rev. Bill Hardage officiating. Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Branon Funeral Home. Mrs. Coffey died at 6 a.m. Wednesday in Convalescent Southwest Center in Amarillo.

She was a native of Johnstown, Ark., and had been a resident of Lamesa 12 years. She had been a Baptist 40 years. Survivors include five sons, Joe and Nathan, both of Lamesa, Marvin of Amarillo, Melvin of Clovis, N.M., and Lloyd of Pasadena, a daughter, Mrs. Lillie Mae Chitwood of Burkburnett; a sister, Mrs. Lulla James of Salinas, Calif.; 10 grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

Texans May Soon Be Buying Gas By Half Gallon

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans may soon be buying gasoline by the half gallon, the State Department of Agriculture said today. Under new state regulations issued today by the department, which has charge of checking the accuracy of gasoline pumps, certain dealers will be allowed to sell gasoline by the half gallon when and if prices go to more than 50 cents a gallon.

The department said that some gasoline pumps cannot indicate a price of more than 49.9 cents a gallon and will not be able to show the per gallon price for more than that.

The new regulation says retail dealers may display the price per half-gallon and one-half of the total sale price on their pumps.

The regulation says there must be sign in large type on the pump stating the full price per gallon.

The announcement said the half-gallon regulation affects pumps produced before 1965. Later models were equipped for possible conversion to metric measures and will be able to show prices per gallon over 50 cents.

Snow Lures Thousands

LOS ANGELES (AP) — County officials have closed snow-clogged highways to San Bernardino mountain communities to keep away thousands of sightseers and weekend skiers.

Snow plows were attempting to clear away 12 feet of snow that fell during one of the worst storms on record in Southern California.

Sheriff's deputies were still at work Wednesday night bringing out some of the 20,000 area residents marooned in their homes.

The supervisors said the closing was also prompted by the dismal prospect of a new snowstorm this weekend and a fear of an influx of hordes of visitors.

County officials estimated about 1,000 persons were rescued since the storm began last Thursday.

The storm dumped 7.69 inches of rain on downtown Los Angeles, the heaviest continuous rainfall since 1969, when 13.15 inches fell during a nine-day period beginning Jan. 8.

The National Weather Service said fair and warmer weather can be expected throughout California through Friday, but more precipitation was possible Sunday and Monday.

Deaths

from Handley. He was employed by Texas Electric Service Company for approximately 38 years, having retired in 1965. He was a member of Trinity Baptist Church, and Staked Plains Lodge No. 598.

Survivors include his wife, Vivian, of the home; a son, William A. Shaw Jr., Dallas; three grandchildren, a brother, R. G. Shaw, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Wilson

Mrs. Jessie M. Wilson, 86, died in a local hospital at 2 p.m., Wednesday. Services will be conducted through Pettijohn-Elsner Funeral Home in Oregon, Mo., but other arrangements are incomplete.

Mrs. Wilson moved to Big Spring to make her home with a daughter, Mrs. O. A. Madison. Survivors include a son, Coye Wilson, Leawood, Kan., two daughters, Mrs. L. M. Soapes, Independence, Mo., and Mrs. Madison; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Eugenia Fierro

Mrs. Eugenia Fierro, 88, died at 10 p.m., Wednesday at her home, 706 NW Fifth St. Services are pending at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mrs. Fierro was born Nov. 14, 1885, in Big Spring. She had lived here all her life. She was a member of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Survivors include three sons, Pablo Jara and Frank Jara, both of Big Spring; and Seveio Jara, Monahan; a daughter, Leonora Reyes, Dallas; a brother, Pedro Fierro, Big Spring; 17 grandchildren; and 17 great-grandchildren.

F. E. McKinney

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Frank E. McKinney Sr., former national chairman of the Democratic party, banker and sportsman, died Wednesday night at his Indianapolis home. He was 69.

Long active in the Democratic party, he became national chairman in late 1951 and served into 1952, the last year of President Harry S. Truman's administration.

HE HAS A MESSAGE — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, Calif., left, listened as Gov. Ronald Reagan delivered his State of the State message to a joint session of legislature in the Assembly chamber Wednesday in Sacramento, Calif. Highlights of his speech dealt with the energy crisis and a promise to have a balanced budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

Howard Ventures Are Taking Logs

Logs were being run today on two Howard County deep ventures.

Fowler No. 1 Flanagan, four miles southeast of Big Spring, bottomed at 9,785 feet, logged, and set 4 1/2-in. casing, which was to be perforated opposite the Fusselman. It is located in the C SW NW section 26-32-1s, T&P.

Skelly No. 1 Woner Robinson, C SE NW section 6-31-1n, T&P, was logging Thursday, possibly in the Ellenburger. The venture recovered free oil, but with water, in the reef, then reportedly found the Fusselman, its prime target, unproductive.

A. G. Kaspar of Midland has staked No. 1 H. H. Wilkinson, 2,173 from the north and 467 from the east lines of section 20-34-1n, T&P, eight miles west of Big Spring. It is due to go to 7,800 feet. This is the approximate location of a test by Duncan No. 1 Wilkinson several years ago, completed in the San Andres and near a former Spraberry producer.

Car Hit By Train But Man Unhurt

Carol Anthony Trantham, 808 N. 10th, Lamesa, was involved in an accident at 5:25 a.m. in which his car, stalled on the railroad right-of-way, was hit by a freight train.

Trantham was not injured. He had alighted from the vehicle. He failed to make a curve on west US 20 Service Road 60 feet west of Birdwell Lane and ended up stalled on the tracks, according to the investigating officer's report.

A horse was run across the 14th and 15th greens and a motorcycle across the 16th and 17th. Two green flags were stolen and the ball washer damaged, according to the police report.

Vandals Inflict Damage At Park

Close to $1,000 worth of damage was done to the city golf course Tuesday night, according to Charles Brantley.

A horse was run across the 14th and 15th greens and a motorcycle across the 16th and 17th. Two green flags were stolen and the ball washer damaged, according to the police report.

Convicted Of Murder

DONALSONVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A Superior Court jury Wednesday convicted George L. Dungee of murder in the shooting deaths of six members of a rural Georgia family.

The jury deliberated 55 minutes before returning a verdict Dungee, a 35-year-old prison escapee from Baltimore, Md.

He was the second to be convicted of murder in the case. Special prosecutor Peter Zack Geer Tuesday asked the jury to find Dungee guilty of six counts of murder although the state contends he shot only Mary Alday, 26, after she was repeatedly raped.

Geer waved Mrs. Alday's turquoise pantsuit and bra at the jury. They were found in woods near her nude body last May.

Carl Isaacs, 20, of Peakville, Md., was sentenced to death last week after being convicted in the deaths of the five male members of the Ned Alday family and Mrs. Alday. Isaacs, Dungee and Wayne Coleman, 27, escaped a minimum security prison in Maryland five days before the Alday shootings.

AN IDEA FOR THE TIMES How To Stop Drug Overdoses

SOUTHEND, England — Some new inventions are based on such simple principles that workers searching for solutions to similar problems are left in frustrated despair once they are announced.

Such is the case with a new idea born here where a local pharmacist became increasingly worried about the 3,000 or more Britons who die each year from either deliberate or accidental overdoses of prescribed drugs.

RELIEF OF PAIN
The idea involves the inclusion of a minute quantity of an emetic in the production of dangerous drugs prescribed for sleep inducement, anxiety reduction or the relief of pain. Hence, as long as the patient takes the prescribed dosage the emetic would be completely unnoticeable.

But with any overdose which approaches the lethal level, the amount of the emetic ingested would cause the potential victim to vomit before being acutely poisoned.

This is the brainchild of Angus Grant and British medical authorities say that the idea is perfectly sound. There are many emetics which, if used in minute quantities, would be completely harmless and would not interfere with the normal working of the drug.

HORMONES
As yet, Grant has not decided on which emetic would be the best. Ipecac is one possibility he is considering. In addition, he is investigating several hormones which have emetic qualities as well as the added advantage of breaking down quickly and harmlessly once ingested.

Pianist Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Pianist Lev N. Oborin, 66, a professor at the Moscow Conservatory and the first person to perform many major works by Russian composers Khachaturian and Prokofiev, has died, a Soviet newspaper reported. It was not disclosed when he died.

Some psychiatrists, however, have sounded notes of warning. They point out that while the increased use of the drugs envisaged by Grant might reduce the number of deaths from fatal overdoses, it might also have the effect of increasing the number of attempts at more bizarre forms of suicide.

Fire Insurance In Houston Up

HOUSTON (AP) — Fire insurance rates will go up 5 per cent in the Houston area, April 1, Paul Carr, information officer of the Houston Fire Department, said.

Carr said while the State Board of Insurance has not yet made an announcement of the rate hike, the fire department's own figures on fire losses make the rate increase inevitable, because of at least a $3 million increase in fire losses last year over the previous year.

drug overdoses turn out to be nonlethal anyway, the psychiatrists claim. Also, they say, there is a good chance of the would-be suicide being discovered in time and successfully treated. It is much easier to treat someone for acute barbiturate poisoning, the psychiatrists believe, than to treat a corpse lying at the bottom of a high building.

Grant's idea, however, seems to have struck gold for him. After vainly hawking a scientific paper on the subject around various congested medical and pharmaceutical journals, he finally offered it to his local newspaper.

VERY INTERESTED
The editor was very interested. So was the manager of a British drugstore chain whose pharmaceutical research department is located in the same area and whose employees read the same paper.

The company immediately had the idea patented and it will not be long before the fail-safe pill will be making Grant's fortune for him.

Jack Benny's Tax Troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Comedian Jack Benny claims his donation of show-business memorabilia to the University of California at Los Angeles entitled him to a $156,000 federal tax deduction, but the Internal Revenue Service disagrees.

Instead, the tax men assert, Benny and his wife owe $109,081 in back taxes for 1967 and 1968.

Benny's lawyer, Lawrence S. Kartiganer of Beverly Hills, Calif., said the claimed deduction for the charitable contribution is similar to the one President Nixon took for donating his vice presidential papers to the National Archives. Nixon's claim was accepted.

Kartiganer has filed an appeal of the IRS decision on Benny's behalf in U.S. Tax Court.

TIME TAKES TOLL TAKER

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Cameron County treasury lost a few quarters Tuesday.

Someone telephoned the sheriff's office before dawn to report a long line at the toll booth on the International Bridge but no one was in the booth.

Officers found the toll taker who was supposed to collect 25 cents from each southbound automobile asleep in his car. The man was arrested and charged with being drunk in an automobile.

Officers said several motorists had tossed toll fees into the booth.

ENERGY, BEEF SHORTAGES, RATIONING PROBLEMS

What Congressmen Are Hearing From Texans

People Concerned With Own Woes

By ROD DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Alan Steelman, the youngest Republican in Congress, is finding that although Washington may be concerned about the long term effect on Watergate, the folks back home are worried about the short term effect of an empty gas tank.

Dallas 5th District and a member of the newly-important House Interior Committee.

POLITICAL TRUST
A few months ago, when gasoline seemed more plentiful than political trust, there were lots of letters about Watergate and impeachment and "99 per cent said let's get rid of that guy," a Steelman aide said.

But now Steelman gets 30-35 letters a day about the fuel shortage and only a few about Watergate.

"The people who contacted me about Watergate were political activists on either side, Republicans and Democrats. I did not get a great deal of mail from average working people. Watergate is not something the average guy thinks about all the time," said Steelman.

"People working for a living are more concerned with day-to-day problems like energy, beef shortages and rationing," he said, pausing in the midst of a stream of constituents coming to talk about energy and other problems.

LIGHTS GALORE
W. H. Higginbotham, a retired civil service worker, told Steelman of seeing a dozen buildings in the Capitol with lights on past midnight in December.

"I think the government should practice what they preach. If Mr. Simon can tell you out here to turn out your lights, why can't they do the same back in Washington?"

Later in the day, Steelman received two Dallas energy consultants who wanted to do something about the energy crisis.

Robert S. Foote, president of Geodata International, Inc., briefed Steelman on new aerial techniques for finding oil fields. But, said Foote, one of his biggest problems is finding gasoline for the airplane used to search for the new fields.

UNDECIDED
Foote also said oil companies should be required to spend windfall profits from the fuel shortage on research.

Foote said the fuel crisis was "overreal" and tended to draw attention from Watergate, although he personally supported the President.

Charles Convers and A. M. Mayo of Pure Power, Inc., told Steelman they have new ways to use hydrogen and electrical energy, but can't get any government agencies to listen to them.

Only Higginbotham brought up Watergate without being asked. He said Nixon is "either the stupidest man in the presidency... or the damndest liar I've ever heard talk."

Nonetheless, he said, "Congressman, I can't make up my mind."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

"PEOPLE OUT HERE DON'T LIVE AND BREATHE POLITICS" — So says Congressman Alan Steelman, as he goes through mail stacked neatly on his desk in his Dallas office. The freshman Republican Congressman says the mail he gets daily, approximately 30-35 letters, indicates the people are more concerned with day-to-day problems such as fuel shortage and constant rising prices at the grocery store.

Oil Firms Energy Ads Challenged By Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six members of Congress today challenged oil firms and utilities to substantiate their advertising claims concerning the energy crisis.

The lawmakers said they are joining a public-interest group in petitioning the Federal Trade Commission to adopt new rules on such advertising.

Taking the action were Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H.; and Frank Moss, D-Utah; and Reps. Les Aspin, D-Wis.; Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y.; and Andrew Young, D-Ga.

PROPAGANDA BLITZ
Many big oil companies and utilities are making "an unprecedented and unsubstantiated propaganda blitz concerning their role in the current energy crisis," Aspin and Rosenthal said in a joint statement.

The commission is being asked to adopt rules forcing such firms to substantiate their "corporate image advertising claims by making available to the FTC for public inspection currently concealed facts on such issues as the true scope of the energy crisis and their part in it," they added.

Bayh, in a separate statement, also charged some major oil firms are using part of their "record profits in a massive public relations campaign to deny their true role in contributing to the energy crisis."

The petition being filed by Harvey J. Shulman of the public-interest "media access project," asks the commission to extend its ad substantiation rules to all commercial advertising.

'IT IS ABSURD'
"It is absurd," Bayh said, "to subject tens of thousands of small businessmen in this country to rules prohibiting false and deceptive ads, but not to insist that huge, multinational oil companies adhere to regulations prohibiting phony ads."

Aspin and Rosenthal said there should be substantiation of ads which seek to "win increased business by selling a good corporate image, rather than any particular product."

Advertisers who refuse or are unable to substantiate their claims of corporate performance in such areas as the ener-

But Is He Going To Be Impeached?

EDITOR'S NOTE: To discover what congressmen are hearing from their Texas constituents during the current recess, reporters spent some time with Rep. Henry Gonzalez, Democrat of San Antonio, and Rep. Alan Steelman, Republican of Dallas.

By JOHN LUMPKIN
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Businessman Charles Sugerman blamed President Nixon for a lack of leadership.

During a visit to Sugerman's electronic and optical supply company, Rep. Henry Gonzalez was told, "any government official who says we woke up one morning and said we don't have any energy left, he ought to be fired. We expect some leadership, but we don't have a leader."

WORRY WORRY
Gonzalez' podiatrist said his office calls are off 50 per cent and he is worried about the handling of the economy.

Bexar County District Attorney Ted Butler breakfasted with Gonzalez at a downtown hotel. Before he kept his appointment, he traveled for miles looking for an open gas station, prompting a statement to the congressman that "the President has really messed us up."

Travelling through his 20th District with a reporter on New Year's Eve, Gonzalez said "I haven't heard anybody I run into defend the President."

Gonzalez said he will attempt to gauge feelings during this Congressional recess, but he has no plans for a formal poll of his district.

TOOK HIS
Although the President took his lumps in some of Gonzalez' New Year's Eve encounters, Nixon is not without supporters. Gonzalez said one letter in 10 defends the President.

In the 1972 Presidential election, Nixon trailed George McGovern by 15,285 votes in Gonzalez' metropolitan San Antonio district.

Whether or not Nixon's name was invoked, nearly all of what Gonzalez heard concerned problems. There was little optimism:

New York Film Awards
NEW YORK (AP) — "Day for Night," a French romantic comedy-drama on the art of film making, has been voted the best movie of 1973 by the New York Film Critics Circle.

In the critics' annual poll Tuesday, Francois Truffaut and Valentina Cortese were named the year's top director and supporting actress for their work in "Day for Night."

Selected as best actor was Marlon Brando, for his depiction of a troubled American in the French-made, sexually explicit "Last Tango in Paris."

Joanne Woodward was cited as the outstanding actress of 1973 for her role as a restless, middle-aged wife in "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams."

Honored as best supporting actor was Robert De Niro, who played a small-time hoodlum in "Mean Streets," a film about life in Manhattan's Little Italy.

—Grocery store owners Charles DeLeon reported that the wholesale price of beef had gone up a nickel in one week's time.

—San Antonio Mayor Charles Becker suggested that food shortages and loss of income during the energy crisis may provoke store looting.

—A young man dressed in blue jeans had a mid-morning cup of coffee and asked impatiently, "Look are we going to get impeachment. I think it would be a great blow for Democracy, but is he going to be impeached?"

THAT'S IT
Dr. Louis Bogy, Gonzalez' podiatrist, a Rotarian, said, "Americans, including Rotarians, don't like to be lied to."

Gonzalez did not hear what one constituent, Geronimo "Sonny" Galindo had to say. Galindo's EXXON station was closed when he drove by.

"He wanted to talk to me. He had a problem. I guess that's it," Gonzalez said, motioning to the idle pumps and locked doors.

Houston Chronicle Loses Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused to consider the Houston Chronicle Publishing Co.'s attempt to claim an income tax deduction based on the demolition of a building purchased by the company in 1962.

The high court let stand a U.S. Circuit Court decision rejecting the company's argument that the trial judge erred in his instructions to the jury trying the case.

The publishing company bought a piece of land which included the Bergin-Cortez Building for $290,000, then commissioned an engineering report to determine whether the building could be used as a publishing facility. The board of directors decided it could not be used and the building was razed in 1966.

The Chronicle sought to claim a $132,426 deduction for the building abandonment. The Internal Revenue Service rejected the claim because officials concluded that the Chronicle had purchased the property with the intent of abandoning the building. The IRS code provides that deductions may be made for demolition of buildings only if there is no intent to demolish the structure at the time of the purchase.

The Chronicle paid the taxes and then sued for a refund. But the trial jury concluded that the Chronicle did not intend to use the building at the time it was purchased.

The sole issue presented to the Supreme Court was whether the trial judge erred by not requiring the jurors to determine the newspaper's "dominant intent."

City Boards Are Complete

Civic-minded citizens serve voluntarily on many necessary city boards. The council this week approved several new board members and reappointed numerous others.

The list includes:
City Planning and Zoning Board - J. D. Jones, George Elliot, Ben Bancroft, Omar J. Sims, Sidley Clark, Nevis Womack, Bill Sheppard, Mrs. Helen McDonald, and Hudson Linder.

The parks and recreation board includes: Jim Zapf, Harold Davis, Father Delaney, Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas, Bill Baffle, and Calvin Daniels with alternates including A. C. Mize, Alton Underwood, Jack Bowers, Jimmie Newson, Larry Willard, and Harold Rosset.

The board of adjustment and appeals includes: Friend Talbot, Bill Mims, Don Bailey, Bill Coleman, and Roy Crum.

The Big Spring traffic commission includes: Don Crackett (Chairman), Jimmy Jolley, Gerald Diggs, Joe George, George Wessley, Lt. Col. Dromsky, Larson Loyd, and Ted Ferrell with alternates, Sue Williams, and Mrs. Tom Seltzer. The student body president of Big Spring High School is also a member.

The zoning board of adjustment includes: Davie Hamer, Fred Halter, J. D. Elliott, Marion Ireland, and D. O. Gray, with alternates, Winston Winkler, and Roy Bruce.

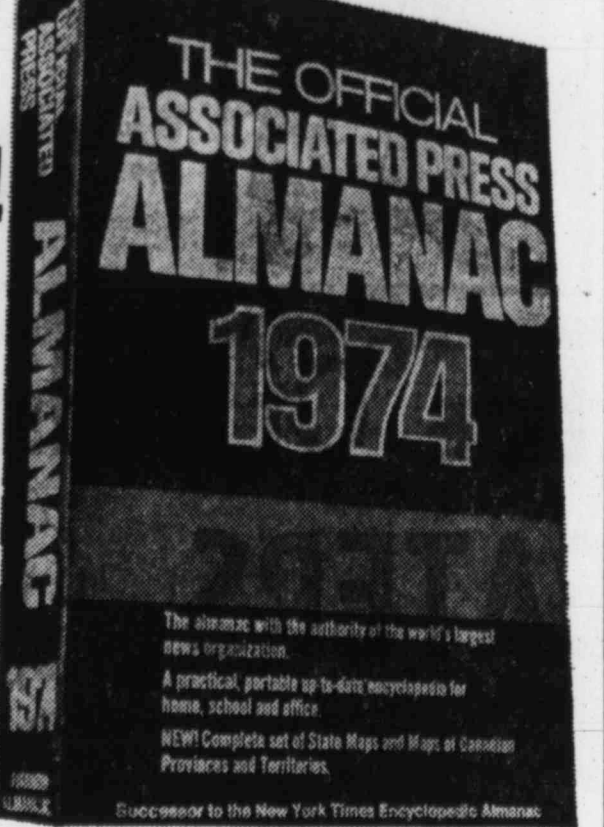

The electrical board includes: Clyde Chesser, Raymond Talley, Bill Row, Homer Ward, H. W. Robbins, Louis Jones, and Roy D. Anderson, alternate.

Use Fee Jacked

HOUSTON (AP) — The University of Houston board of regents voted Monday to increase the school's building use fee by $50 over a three-year period.

For a student now enrolled, the fee is $100 a year. It will go up to $140 next fall, $160 in 1975 and $180 in 1976. The money is used to pay off bonds sold to build new classroom space.

Hands Of Few Control Many Big Corporations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate subcommittees have charged that control of many of the nation's largest corporations is hidden from government regulators and concentrated in the hands of a very few institutional investors, especially large banks.

In a 419-page report, two government operations subcommittees said they found "a massive cover-up of the extent to which holdings of stock have become concentrated."

BANKERS

Overall, the report said, Chase Manhattan Bank was the single largest stockholder in 20 companies; First National City Bank in nine; Morgan Guaranty in four; Bankers Trust and Chemical Bank in three each; and Bank of New York, Bank of America and First National Bank of Chicago in two each.

The report was issued by the chairmen, Sens. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., and Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

"At least 28 institutions are known to manage investment portfolios in excess of $5 billion each," the report said. The list of those 28 institutions included 17 of the nation's largest banks and seven of the largest insurance companies.

The consequences of concentration of control are extensive, the subcommittees reported.

"The role of institutional investors is of course not limited to the acquisition and sale of stock and the right, in many cases, to vote it," the report said. "Some institutional investors make loans to companies in which they invest, or provide insurance coverage."

"Their representatives often sit on the companies' boards of directors. Sometimes institutional investors help facilitate or block mergers."

The subcommittee's information was gathered from responses from 324 of the nation's largest companies that had been asked to identify their top 30 stockholders. Of those 324, only 89 responded fully, the report said.

TRUE OR FALSE?

In many cases, the report said, the true identities of the institutional stockholders were hidden behind nominee or street names.

"The consequence of this continuing use of nominees in ownership reports to federal regulators is a massive cover-up of the extent to which holdings of stock have become concentrated," the report said.

It noted that a translation of nominee names is possible only through use of a little-known publication called the Nominee List, published by the American Society of Corporate Secretaries.

In addition, the study found that the large banks hold substantial hidden interests in broadcast companies and networks. It found that Chase Manhattan, Bankers Trust and Bank of New York together had voting rights of almost one fourth of the stock in the Columbia Broadcasting System and the American Broadcasting System in 1972.

The Major New York banks also had significant voting rights in Metromedia, Pacific and Southern Broadcasting, Capital Cities Broadcasting and 14 other broadcasting groups, the report said.

Jogging Over Water Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Twelve sailors who returned home aboard the aircraft carrier Hancock are claiming a world's record in a previously nonexistent athletic event—relay team jogging over water.

The sailors spent 36 days, or 4,960 miles from the Indian Ocean to San Francisco Bay, jogging around the carrier's flight deck, night and day. They estimated Tuesday that they circled the deck, or hangar deck in bad weather, nearly 10,000 times.

"We are definitely going to apply to the Guinness Book of World Records for a listing," said Lonnie Adrian, 25, of Earth, Texas.

"No matter what time of day or night it was, there was always another man on hand besides the actual jogger—so the chain was never broken."

So dedicated was Adrian to his goal, that once he tripped on the deck and broke his left foot but ran another 55 miles before going to sick bay.

For What It's Worth

Jack Cowan

Gosh, maybe I was wrong after all. Maybe that deal with South Plains really didn't mean so much to Howard College Coach Harold Wilder. I mean he didn't look very evil after his Hawks had demolished the Texans 135-95 Tuesday, ending a 10-game frustration by the SPC cagers, and he didn't even thumb his nose at Buddy Travis, his opposing coach.

Travis, however, did seem a little upset about the whole thing even though that spooky smile never left his mouth. It's not hard to tell that losing really bugs this man, especially losing in Big Spring, where he was worshipped for 11 seasons before moving to Levelland and South Plains.

While Wilder accepted the victory like a true gentleman, whatever that is, he still must have felt some easy relief as the burden slipped from his shoulders. More than likely that burden will now shift to Travis, and whether or not it continues into the next couple of seasons depends on what kind of recruiting years the two coaches have.

By now, Art Lawler's account of the Big Spring-Ablene High basketball game last Friday is near-legendary and otherwise world famous. Lawler, of course, achieved that fame by calling Steer head coach Ron Plumlee by the name Kirby Pugh, a mistake that's sort of understandable and sort of not.

Pugh last coached here four years ago, moved to San Angelo where he coached for two years, and the past two seasons he's been out of the business. The name just sounded right in Lawler's head as he wrote his story in normal hurry-it-up fashion, and it got by everyone. It's the kind of mistake every sports writer fears, but usually doesn't avoid for more than a few months at a time.

Lawler says this one is right up there with the time he wrote his pre-game story on Abilene High and Midland — a week before the game was to be played.

John Thomas Smith, Big Spring Steer wide receiver who broke all kinds of receiving records, continues to gain awards. Smith, who caught 61 passes worth 1,050 yards, has been named to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Class AAAA All-State Team second offensive unit. Earlier, he made Dist. 5-AAAA's all-star squad and was a two-way honoree on the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal's All-South Plains team.

The Star-Telegram also released a super team, incidentally, made up by players from all classifications, and included as a second team tackle is Lamesa's Trip Chastain. The Tors' standout line is also listed on The Associated Press Class AAA All-State team, released in Wednesday's Herald.

Howard College Is Now 11th In National Poll

Howard College of Big Spring, Texas, has climbed to 11th place in the National Junior College Athletic Association basketball poll. Judged off their first 19 games, 17 of which they won, the Hawks ranked just behind Arizona Western of Yuma, Ariz., and just ahead of Robert Morris College of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Leader in the poll was Vincennes, Ind., a perennial contender for national honors. Vincennes picked up eight first place votes in the balloting.

Mercer County Community College of Trenton, N.J., ranked second in the balloting while Wilbur Wright College of Chicago, Ill., was third. Wilbur Wright won its first 14 games this season.

Only Texas team to rank ahead of Howard College was San Jacinto of Pasadena, placed fourth. The most recent records showed San Jacinto undefeated in 12 starts.

Five different teams claimed first place votes and Mercer did almost as well as Vincennes, garnering seven votes for the top spot.

Hawks Regain Throne Room In Tournament

By JACK COWAN

Except for a couple of tense moments in the first half, all was well in the Howard College Gym Wednesday night as the ABC Hawks wrapped up the ABC Olympic Classic crown with a 92-73 victory over Cisco.

It was almost an anti-climactic ending to the three-day meet following Tuesday's Hawk victory over South Plains, with the Howard cagers pulling away early in the second half for their third win of the year over the Cisco Wranglers.

The game fairly well followed the dominating trend set by the Hawks throughout the tournament, as Coach Harold Wilder's troops won each of their three games by an average of 40 points. The triumph was Howard College's 20th of the year against a pair of losses, and gave Wilder his ninth consecutive 20-win season during his tenures in Big Spring and at Abilene High School.

In a preliminary game Wednesday, McMurry's Junior Varsity nudged South Plains 86-82 for third place. Cisco was second at 2-1, McMurry finished with a 1-2 mark and South Plains was 0-3 in the tourney.

THREE MAKE IT

Three Hawk sophomores, all repeaters from the 1973 Classic, headed the 10-man all-tournament team — Taylor Williams, Thomas Bledsoe and Leroy Lumzy.

Cisco placed Wesley Irvin, Robert Daniels and Mike Doubt on the honor squad, while South Plains and McMurry each landed two men on the team. Robert Herrera and Marcus Johnson of McMurry's Richard Hale and Cliff Stephens, a former Klondike cage star.

Williams, the Hawks' 6-7 soph, was the dominant player in the tournament and he slacked off only slightly in the finale. His 28 points — many of them at crucial times in the second half — sparked the HC victory. Williams had hit 32 points in each of the first two games.

Cisco led the first six minutes in the contest, but Bledsoe, who had 16 markers, hit the go-ahead points with 13:22 remaining in the first half and the hosts never lost the lead.

Howard College got on top by eight points after that, but CJC tied things up at 34-34 with just over two minutes remaining and the Hawk lead was just 40-36 at the intermission.

SLOW START

The Wranglers hurt themselves with their conservative, deliberate offense early in the second half, however, and could not catch up in the 10 minutes. During that time CJC fell behind by 19 points, 64-45, and could pull no closer than 15 points the rest of the night.

Ervin, who had sparked in his first two ABC outings, left the game with five fouls and just 10 points midway through the second half, and Doubt, who led Cisco with 18 points, picked up the offensive slack.

In the Wednesday night opener, Klondike's Stephens single-handedly dealt Buddy Travis and his South Plains Texans their third straight night of misery as he exploded for 38 points.

McMurry never trailed in the contest with the Texans, leading by 42-37 at the half.

But Val Stephens, Cliff's brother, almost sparked the SPC cagers to victory with two steals and two free throws as the Texans made up a ten-point deficit in the final three and a half minutes. Stephens' free throws cut the McMurry lead to 84-82 with 25 seconds remaining, but Jim Bailey, who rang up 10 free tosses in the win, hit his final two with eight seconds left to ice the game away.

The Tribe Juniors, now 6-9 on the year, got 18 points from Bailey and 11 from Don Cain in support of Stephens.

South Plains slumped to 4-14 with the loss. Herrera, getting most of his points from 20 feet out, notched 24 markers and Larry Phillips hit 17. Marcus Johnson had 13 and John Joseph 10 for the Texans.

WATER VALLEY — Garden City won two of three games from Water Valley in district competition here Tuesday night.

The Garden City boys finished ahead, 73-54, but the boys' A team was trounced, 67-43. In boys' B team competition, Garden City triumphed in a close one, 37-36.

David Smith had 27 points to lead Garden City in the boys' A game. Charles Sears paced the winners with 20.

Garden City's boys are now 1-11 overall and 0-2 in conference.

In the girls' game, Linda Batla banked in 22 points and Becky Hirt 21 for the Kittens while Joyce Schwartz tallied 27 for Water Valley.

In the boys' B game, Mike Black led Garden City with 15 points while Blair had 19 for Water Valley.

The two Garden City varsity teams will play Bronte at home Friday night.

Lamesa Eyes 20th Victory

Lamesa's Golden Tors continue their march toward Dist. 3-AAA basketball honors Friday against the Sweetwater Mustangs, while Colorado City's Wolves take a break from the loop action.

The Tors, 19-1 on the year, hit the road seeking their fourth district decision against the Mustangs, who were drubbed 90-46 Tuesday by Lubbock Dunbar and slipped to 6-11 on the year. In league play the Ponies are winless in three tries.

Colorado City slumped to 0-4 and last in the district with a 73-58 loss to Lubbock Estacado Tuesday, and the Wolves try to make some improvements Friday during a non-district bout with Seminole. The Wolves are 9-13 on the year.

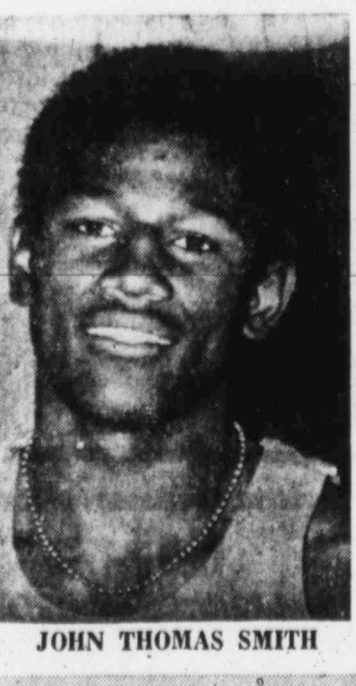

In other action Friday, Brownfield visits Estacado and Dunbar hosts San Angelo Lake View.

INTRODUCING THE STEERS

The clutch player in the Big Spring Steer basketball attack the past two seasons has been John Thomas Smith, a 6-2 senior forward.

"John is probably our best all-around player," said Steer Coach Ron Plumlee. "He's one of our team leaders, and besides being a good shooter, he's probably the best 'junk' rebounder we've got."

Smith, 18, is the son of Mrs. Gertrude Nettles of 206 N. Goliad. He'll be wearing No. 34 when the Steers host Odessa Permian in a Dist. 5-AAAA game Friday.

Edict By Pete Roselle Had Dictatorial Ring

HOUSTON (AP) — A cold shiver must have swept through most of us when we learned that Commissioner Pete Roselle had threatened to fine Coach Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings because he complained about having sparrows in the team dressing room.

There was a dictatorial ring to it. "Nyet" can be a big word behind the Iron Curtain, but it has little place in freedom-loving America, the land of apple pie and football.

It's the sport's piece de resistance. It's the battle of champions — helmeted, padded gladiators going at it with all the pomp and ceremony, the brutal viciousness and spectacular fanfare of another age.

But there is no reason to hold it sacrosanct. It's really just a football game with grown men in tight-fitting short pants and silk jerseys butting heads, huffing and puffing and trying to push an odd-shaped piece of inflated pigskin across a chalk line.

man one of his inalienable rights — that of free speech.

It would be different if Bud Grant were an agitator, a bombastic blowhard. He is just the opposite. He is a nice, soft-mannered family man who rarely raises his voice.

His players revere him, his fellow coaches hold him in the highest respect. To newsmen who must deal with him, he is strictly class.

When Grant brought his National Conference champion Vikings to Houston for Sunday's Super Bowl, he was shocked when he found his team assigned to a district high school stadium where there were no lockers or tables. Sparrows flitted around in the shower room.

Grant called the facilities "shabby" and "not fit for a junior high school team." He compared them with the more luxurious quarters of the Miami Dolphins, who were assigned the facilities of the Houston Oilers.

Grant, nor any official of the Dolphins, got to select the training site. It was done by the National Football League.

Photographs of the Vikings' quarters substantiated his protest. They presented a bleak, dismal scene.

When Grant's caustic comments reached print, word came down from Roselle's New York headquarters that Grant had violated a section of the NFL by-laws.

The section states that a player or official is forbidden to say anything detrimental about the NFL. It is a sweeping law. It imposes a gag on every player, coach and administrator in the circuit.

In Grant's case, it exposed him to league discipline for little more than the expression of an opinion. Grant had a legitimate gripe — even rival Coach Don Shula acknowledged that — but he wasn't permitted to voice it.

This seems to be suppression of the most reprehensible sort. Roselle is an excellent commissioner, one of the best. Bright, public relations minded, firm, no pawn of his directors, he has presided over the phenomenal growth of his sport. He has been largely responsible for making pro football — by most polls — the top spectator sport in America.

VIKINGS RESPECTED Figures Aren't Always Reliable

HOUSTON (AP) — When the No. 3-ranked rushing team in the National Football League meets the 23rd-rated team against the run, you've got a mismatch in the offing for Super Bowl VIII, right?

Wrong, according to no less an authority than fullback Larry Csonka, the sledgehammer in Miami's awesome ground game.

"I guarantee you Minnesota won't look like the 23rd team against the rush in the Super Bowl," said the 6-foot-2, 235-pound Csonka, who gained 1,003 yards in 1973, shredding enemy lines with his bulldozer runs.

Csonka, who has been battling the flu this week, said the Vikings have a "tough defense. You can't use full season statistics as a guide because the only stat that means anything is how they played in crucial games. And that was good."

"So often Minnesota was way ahead by the second half and just let the other team run while they played-prevent football, keeping the other team from breaking the long one."

A good example in support of Csonka's theory is that the Vikings allowed tough-running Dallas only 90 yards in the National Conference title game two weeks ago.

Csonka, who scored three touchdowns against Oakland in the American Conference championship game, said Minnesota is the hardest tackling team he has faced.

"Have you ever had Carl Eller or Alan Page tackle you?" Csonka asked about two members of Minnesota's "Purple Gang" front four.

Csonka said linebacker Roy Winston put the hardest tackle on him he can remember in a regular season game against the Vikings last year.

"It was a devastating tackle," Csonka remembered. "I was stretched out on the sidelines and Coach (Don) Shula told me 'You're not hurt. What I told him back is something you can't print. I'm not to the point where I'm so dedicated I'll play with a broken back.'"

Winston, middle linebacker Jeff Siemon and Wally Hilgenberg are sure tacklers.

Winston said, "I think the way to stop them is simply to have a total team defense that puts out and beats each man in front of him."

"You go into every football game, no matter who you're playing, to shut off the running game and make a team pass."

Siemon said, "My biggest concern is with Csonka because most of his plays will be in my area. I'm concerned with (Mercury) Morris in a collective way because I think he can do more things to hurt you than Csonka. He can break the big play where Csonka's gonna get his five, six, seven, 10 yards."

O. J. Credits Buffalo Line

LOS ANGELES (AP) — O.J. Simpson today credited his coach and offensive line for his 1973 successes which brought him the Associated Press award as the National Football League Most Valuable Player.

"I don't think I did anything different than I did before, but we had that good offensive line," said a smiling O.J. who rushed for a league record of 2,003 yards for his Buffalo club this past season.

He shattered the record held by Jim Brown for a decade.

"Lou Saban came back as coach in 1972 and he gave me the football that year. Despite all the problems we had with our offensive line, I still led the league with 1,250 yards."

"This year, with Reggie McKenzie healthy all season, Donnie Green healthy and rookies playing well, we did better."

"The Bills picked up Paul Seymour and Joe DeLamieloure in the draft first round."

Baseball Is Trying Hidden Ball Trick

CHICAGO (AP) — At a costly risk, the National League still is playing the hidden ball trick with the San Diego Padres franchise.

With spring training just around the corner, the NL's ownership rejected Wednesday's proposed purchase of the Padres by a nine-member Los Angeles group headed by horse race executive Majorie Everett.

It marked the fourth time in five months the NL bosses failed to do anything about helping financially strapped owner C. Arnholt Smith unload his five-year-old Padre franchise.

League President Chub Feeney made a hurried and almost furtive short announcement after Wednesday's 3 1/2-hour meeting drew another blank.

"The National League declined approval of the proposed sale of the San Diego franchise to a group represented by attorney Neil Papiano," Feeney announced. That meant thumbs down on the Everett faction.

Feeney wound up his brief statement with: "The league plans to explore and consider other possibilities in the near future."

It was reported the dissenting vote was 9-3, with only Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs; Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants; and Buzze Bavasi of the Padres casting for the Everett group.

The action Wednesday left the door ajar for a long-winded Washington group headed by Joe Danzansky, but more likely left the Padres in San Diego for at least one more season under a possible new local purchasing group, or even under league operation.

One league official said the next meeting would be held within two weeks and that a bid might be considered from a revised lineup of the original Los Angeles group.

The action Wednesday appeared a rebuff of Mrs. Everett, majority stockholder in the Hollywood (Calif.) Park race track, who was a government witness in a Chicago race-track stock scandal.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn appeared before the Wednesday meeting, but did not attend the session. Kuhn disclosed his office had investigated the Los Angeles group and submitted a report to NL owners at baseball's winter meetings in Houston in December.

"I wouldn't want to comment on the nature of the report," Kuhn said.

'Explanation Owed City'

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mayor Pete Wilson says National League club owners were wrong in rejecting a bid by Marjorie Everett's group to buy the San Diego Padres, and arrogant in refusing to give a reason.

After the owners voted against the sale at a meeting in Chicago Wednesday, Wilson told a hastily called news conference:

"An explanation is owed to the city of San Diego because of the public's economic interest which is distinctly jeopardized by the continued unjustified refusal of the league to permit a ready, willing and able owner to purchase and build this club into a successful franchise in San Diego.

"If the club owners have a valid reason for refusing approval, let them have the courage to say so. . . . It is totally unacceptable that they make no explanation. That is, at best, 19th-century arrogance."

The Republican mayor also said the city would renew a $12-million berach-of-contract suit and a $72-million antitrust suit against the league if efforts persist to move the Padres to Washington, D.C.

Pistons Looking Ahead After Rout Of Lakers

The Detroit Pistons were looking ahead and the Los Angeles Lakers were looking behind, both also describes their relative positions in Wednesday night's National Basketball Association game.

"We're just looking ahead to the playoffs," said Detroit Coach Ray Scott after the Pistons romped to their widest margin ever over the Lakers in beating Los Angeles 123-94.

"We set a goal to win 50 ball games an dthat's what we're trying to do."

"Maybe last night's game had something to do with it," suggested Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman, whose club had lost to the Bullets Tuesday night, ending a five-game winning streak.

Certainly Bob Lanier had something to do with it. The bulky Detroit center scored 32 points and grabbed 20 rebounds to help the Pistons to their fourth victory in five games.

"We had a game we could have won and should have won and we let it slip away," added Sharman, referring to the game with Capital. "It may have been something of a letdown."

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Boston Celtics crushed the Chicago Bulls 106-89; the Philadelphia 76ers dropped the Cleveland Cavaliers 90-86; the Phoenix Suns trimmed the Houston Rockets 105-101; and the Seattle SuperSonics downed the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 100-96.

Virgil Carter Gets His Wish

CINCINNATI (AP) — Virgil Carter got "his wish": another chance at being No. 1 quarterback.

So now, instead of dueling 24-year-old Ken Anderson of the Cincinnati Bengals, he may be trying to push aging Johnny Unitas a step closer to retirement.

"I'm delighted," said Carter after hearing Wednesday he was being traded by the Bengals to the San Diego Chargers.

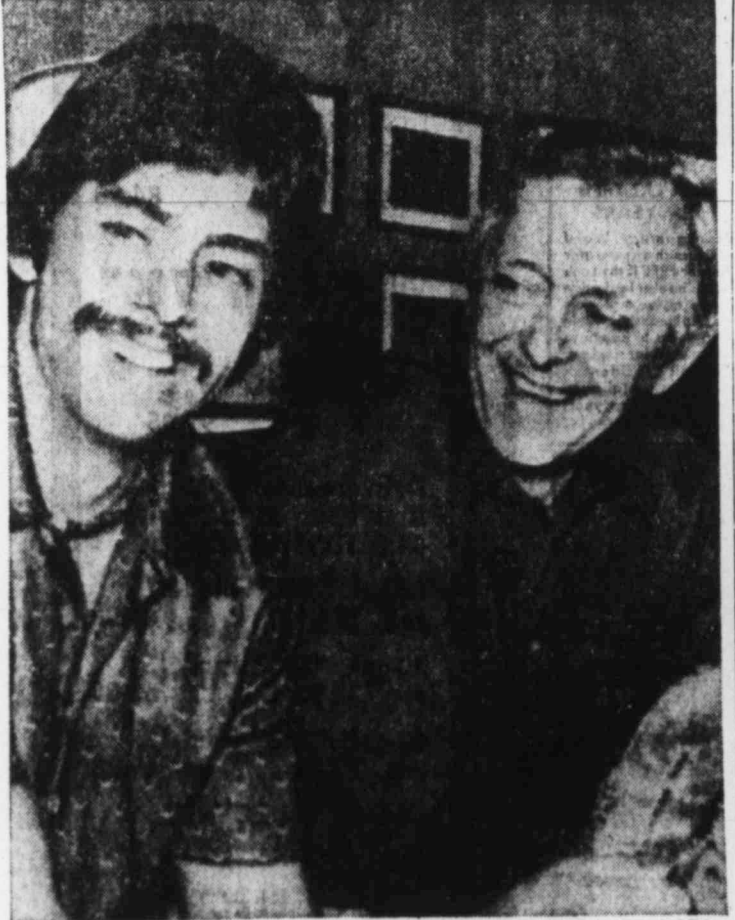

Cincinnati acquired 26-year-old quarterback Wayne Clark, who produced one of the Chargers' two victories of 1973.

But neither team was openly optimistic about the trade. Both quarterbacks had played out their option and were subjects of rumor linking them to possible moves to the newly-organized World Football League.

"It could be nothing for nothing," noted Bengals' Coach Paul Brown.

The Chargers are counting on Carter being satisfied by the move to the West Coast, where he has business interests.

The Bengals had little to lose for they stood to gain nothing if Carter jumped to the WFL.

FOLLOWING IN HIS FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS — Roy Smalley Jr., the No. 1 pick in baseball's winter free agent draft, poses for pictures with his father, Roy, a former shortstop for the Chicago Cubs, at their home in Los Angeles Wednesday. The younger Smalley, also a shortstop, was chosen by the Texas Rangers.

Smalley Signs Ranger Pact

The Texas Rangers didn't take very long to satisfy Roy Smalley, Jr., the No. 1 choice in baseball's free agent draft.

The Rangers picked the young shortstop from the University of Southern California to open the draft and then interrupted the telephonic hookup after the first round to announce his signing.

That was no small accomplishment for the Rangers. Smalley, son of a former major leaguer and nephew of Montreal Manager Gene Marchand, had been selected four times in previous drafts, once by his uncle's club, but always chose to continue his education instead of turning professional.

But Smalley stayed out of school last September to be eligible for the winter draft and the Rangers snapped him up.

"I'm very pleased and excited," said the 21-year-old infielder, adding that if he played baseball as well as his father, "I'll call it a good career."

Smalley, Sr. spent 10 years in the majors as a shortstop for the Chicago Cubs, Milwaukee Braves and Philadelphia Phillies.

"I'm flattered," said the father. "It's an ego trip for me just to be compared to my son."

Another proud father was Harding Peterson, director of scouting for the Pittsburgh Pirates, who selected his son, Eric, a left-handed pitcher at Gulf Coast Community College, in the fourth round of the Class A draft.

"You'll have to explain why he wasn't No. 1," kidded Johnny Johnson of the commissioner's staff, who ran the draft.

Two other relatives of familiar major leaguers were drafted in the first round. San Diego picked infielder Thomas Ashford of Covington, Tenn., a brother-in-law of Cincinnati infielder Phil Gagliano, and California chose Larry Howser, a shortstop from West Palm Beach, Fla., and brother of New York Yankee Coach Dick Howser.

In the secondary phase, dealing with players previously drafted but not signed, the top selection belonged to Kansas City which chose right-handed pitcher David Hasbach of Miami University of Ohio.

Later in the secondary phase, San Francisco picked right-handed pitcher Cliff Mays of Portland, Ore.

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are the players chosen by the Texas Rangers Wednesday in the regular and secondary major league baseball drafts.

REGULAR PHASE
Roy Smalley Jr., shortstop, Los Angeles; Glenn Purvis, outfield, Mesa College, Arizona and Phoenix; Johnny Salto, pitcher, Texas; and Piono University; Tom Pagnozzi, shortstop-infielder, Mesa College, Ariz.; and Temple, Ariz.

SECONDARY PHASE
Jeff Ferramosco, outfield, Fresno, Calif.; Rick Harris, pitcher, MI. Soc. JC and Glendora, Calif.; Gary Bishop, first baseman, Indian River College and Baltimore MD.

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are the players chosen by the Houston Astros Wednesday in the regular and secondary major league baseball drafts.

REGULAR PHASE
Joe Cannon, outfield, Pensacola, Fla.; Robert Starks, pitcher, Canada Junior College and San Francisco.

SECONDARY PHASE
Don White, infielder, Arizona State.

WARDS TREAD WEAR GUARANTEE
Montgomery Ward guarantees its passenger car tires to the original purchaser against premature tread wear-out with the exclusion of tires used commercially—as follows:

PREMATURE TREAD WEAR-OUT
If a Montgomery Ward passenger tire wears down to the top of the tread wear indicator (1/32" tread depth) within the period of months or number of miles stated for a given quality of tire, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge determined by the month or miles of use, whichever serves as basis for the guarantee.

Premature tread wear-out due to malfunction of the suspension system is excluded.

All prorated charges will be based on actual selling price in effect at the time of adjustment at the retail store to which returned or the catalog price in effect at the store or agency to which returned, in either case, including Federal Excise Tax.

For adjustments under this guarantee, return tire with the guarantee booklet issued on the line of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.

*Commercial use is defined as use on any vehicle for other than family or personal use.

Due to the importance of proper vehicle maintenance in delivering stated mileage, Montgomery Ward will rotate tires purchased at retail or catalog stores having installation facilities free of charge, every 5,000 miles. Wheel alignment and wheel balance may be checked at that time.

Montgomery Ward will repair nail punctures free of charge for the full term of the tread wear-out guarantee.

THE HAWKS, ONE BY ONE

One of Coach Harold Wilder's "110 percenters" on this year's Howard College Hawk team is freshman guard Johnny Harris.

"Johnny's a good passer and he plays the point position real well. He's always looking for the pass," Wilder said. "He's really a hustler. His shot from the outside has improved a great deal, too."

Harris, a 6-1 playmaker from Wichita Falls, had his best games of the year during the ABC Olympic Classic this week. He'll be wearing No. 25 when the Hawks resume action Saturday in San Angelo against the Angelo State Junior Varsity.

29 Per Cent Okay Nixon's Performance

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Gallup Poll says its last 1973 survey of opinion on President Nixon's performance in office showed 29 per cent approval.

Nixon's lowest rating of the year came in the Nov. 2-5 poll in which 27 per cent said they approved.

The Gallup popularity rating has declined 39 points since last January, when a survey taken immediately after the Vietnam peace settlement showed a record 68 per cent approval of the President's performance.

That decline is the sharpest Gallup has recorded for any president since the approval polls began during Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration.

The Watergate scandal and the economy appeared to be key factors in Nixon's loss of approval, the Gallup organization said.

Since June, about three-fourths of those interviewed said they believed the President was involved in the Watergate scandal.

But the polling organization said inflation was the chief concern of voters during most of 1973 and, even without Watergate, the President's popularity probably would have fallen.

In the final 1973 poll, taken Dec. 7-10, 29 per cent approved, 60 per cent disapproved and 11 per cent said they had no opinion.

Nixon's highest rating came in the poll Jan. 26-29. It showed 68 per cent approving, 25 per cent disapproving and seven per cent with no opinion. His lowest rating came in the Nov. 2-5 poll, when 27 per cent said they approved, 63 per cent disapproved and 10 per cent registered no opinion.

A slight majority of Republicans expressed approval of Nixon's performance in the final 1973 poll, but only 17 per cent of those who described themselves as Democrats expressed approval. Of those who called themselves independents, 25 per cent said they approved of Nixon's performance.

Emergency Call For Blood Donors

HOUSTON (AP) — Hospitals here sent out an emergency call for blood donors Tuesday after several large hospitals reported having to cancel or postpone operations because of a shortage.

Authorities said all true emergency operations were being performed.

The blood bank at Ben Taub General, which has one of the largest emergency room operations in the country, was at one point down to only five units of O-positive blood early Tuesday, officials there said.

Dr. George Alexander, president of the Harris County Medical Society, said the blood shortage problem had eased a bit by late Tuesday night. But he added that three or four big emergencies could restart the crisis.

JUST LOOK FOR IT There's Good News Today

By L. S. CLEMENS
Copley News Service

An oft-repeated charge against American newspapers is this: "You print nothing but bad news."

I would suggest a very simple test for those who believe this is so.

Grab a handful of those pens that come in various colors. Be sure black is included among them.

READ THE PAPER

Then go through your newspaper — this one would be a good starting point — and mark the stories, color-grading them as you choose as to their degrees of "badness," reserving black, of course, for the worst of them.

The results would be quite startling to most readers, particularly if an easy-to-follow rule is applied.

This would be that the black mark be reserved only for those stories in which nothing but despair can be found.

Watergate wouldn't qualify under this rule. Neither would the troubles of President Nixon which had their beginning in that burglary attempt.

STUPID

The "good news" that these events are now pushing into view is the end of the 30-year trend toward exaltation of the office of the president.

It is probable that only something as stupid as the Watergate entry or as arrogant as the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist could have halted this drift before it became truly dangerous to our republic.

The Mideast oil embargo and the energy crisis don't rate the black mark.

We've been uncomfortably aware for years, but pushing to the backs of our minds the fact that the oil reserves of this country were being depleted.

Less than a generation ago, these reserves were thought to be inexhaustible, given what was then foreseen to be their maximum rate of use.

NEXT GENERATION

Now we know that under present trends there won't be enough left for the next generation.

So that trend had to be stopped, and the Mideast embargo merely served as the catalyst to force an action that had to be taken.

In turn, this crisis qualifies for brighter colors a third "bad news" item that has occupied the headlines of this era — the environmental story.

STOPS TALKING

Yesterday's patriotic endeavor to clean up our air, our landscape, our water, our cities, becomes today's self-interest — and that's where man stops talking and goes to work.

Already the junk that has been blighting our landscape is finding its way into profitable recycling furnaces; that nuisance of our cities garbage, is providing heat and power in some instances.

With oil in short supply and uses of coal restricted, concentrated research assures a more rapid movement of new sources of power from laboratories to general use.

WELCOME RELIEF

Smaller cars promise some welcome relief to traffic congestion in our cities, longer life to our highways, perhaps a lessening of the rate we kill people, and a dramatic drop in pollution of our air.

Travel restrictions in turn ought to put a new emphasis on our local playgrounds, and the restrictions possibilities of our streams and rivers.

BAD NEWS

Plainly, the only thing totally black in much of "bad news" is the color of the ink that prints it.

Revelations tells us of the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse — Conquest, War, Famine and Death.

Today's newspapers haven't topped any of these. We're not even trying.

Try To Collect $800,000 In Back Taxes From Vesco

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is trying to collect more than $800,000 in back taxes from indicted financier Robert L. Vesco.

The claim was disclosed when Vesco and his wife appeared in court.

Revival Of Life?

NEW YORK (AP) — A revival of Life magazine next year as a monthly is being explored by Time Inc. a spokesman for the parent organization said here.

"We are feeling our way with the Life specials," he said.

He said Hedley Donovan, Time magazine editor in chief, told staffers Thursday: "We do think of a possible Life revival, maybe in 1975, probably a monthly, smaller circulation than the old Life, higher price, big page—probably bearing some resemblance to the special issue you will be looking at this evening."

The reference was to "The Year in Pictures, 1973," the second of a projected four specials published under the Life title since the weekly photo and news magazine folded a year ago.

The Time spokesman said numerous factors other than the success of the specials would figure in any decision to reactivate Life as a monthly—among them general economic conditions and the availability of paper.

pealed the IRS verdict to the U.S. Tax Court. Vesco's troubles come on top of a long string of legal problems, including federal indictments for fraud, conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

TAXABLE INCOME
IRS records filed with the court show that Vesco reported a taxable income of $111,712 for 1971 and paid $2,441 in taxes. But the IRS contends that the Vescos actually had a taxable income of more than $1.2 million and that they owe another $775,310 in taxes plus a penalty of $38,765.

The IRS attached the 5 percent penalty because the agency "determined that part of the underpayment of tax... is due to negligent and intentional disregard of rules and regulations."

The Vescos denied the charges. He said Hedley Donovan, Time magazine editor in chief, told staffers Thursday: "We do think of a possible Life revival, maybe in 1975, probably a monthly, smaller circulation than the old Life, higher price, big page—probably bearing some resemblance to the special issue you will be looking at this evening."

SPARTA, Wis. (AP) — Summer training camp for Army reservists and National Guardsmen may be even less luxurious than customary, thanks to fuel shortages.

Officials at Camp McCoy said jeeps, trucks, buses and other personnel carriers are going to get minimum use this year, forcing thousands of trainees to rely more than usual on boot leather.

Even mass-transit troop trains may be resurrected to get the trainees to the western Wisconsin camp from throughout the Midwest.

Col. Richard Crecelius, post commander, said trainees can hike instead of ride to rifle ranges, bivouac sites and duty assignments.

The camp, he said, expects to receive 45,000 trainees from Texas, Arkansas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, South Dakota, North Dakota, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri and Louisiana.

There may be trouble providing the traditional bus and truck caravans for troop shipments to the camp. Military shipments by rail to Sparta have been unknown since 1962.

Maj. William Miller said if troop trains are redeveloped, baggage will be hauled from the depot to the barracks by truck. But the trainees, he said, will walk.

Camp McCoy has 25 buses for hauling soldiers to neighboring communities for weekend recreation. Miller said use of "gas guzzling" vehicles will be held to a minimum, remarking there may be a new level of popularity expected for the base's theaters, fieldhouse, service clubs, swimming pools and fishing spots.

FAILED TO REPORT

The IRS claimed that Vesco failed to report a total of $1,301,350 in income received from ICC. IRS examiners told Vesco's representatives they were counting as income $830,729 for Vesco's personal use of an ICC-owned plane, and $170,621 in personal expenses paid by ICC, according to Tax Court records.

Vesco told the court he used the jet only for business purposes and "at no time caused private aircraft to be flown to any destination at which a business activity was not the principal purpose for such flight."

The IRS also claims taxes of $63,757 in "unidentified deposits" in the Vescos' joint account at the American National Bank Trust Co. in Morristown, N.J. Vesco's lawyers replied, "To the best of petitioner's recollection and belief, none of the deposits made to said account represented unreported taxable income...."

The Vescos listed their places of residence as Nassau, The Bahamas, and San Jose, Costa Rica.

Federal attorneys recently lost an attempt to extradite Vesco from the Bahamas to face trial in New York on the conspiracy and obstruction of justice charges, which stemmed from a $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

He also is under indictment in New York for fraud in the embezzlement of $50,000 from ICC.

The tax case covers the period when the Vescos lived in Boonton, N.J.

Opening lead: King of ♠.

The competitors in the European Junior Bridge Championship might have been young in years, but they were wise in the ways of the green baize. On today's hand, the British declarer pulled off a swindle to make a doubled five heart contract that seemed doomed.

East and West were using artificial methods. East's two spade opening showed a minimum opening bid with a secondary club suit in addition to the spade suit. When West competed to five clubs, North boldly raised his partner. West's double was more out of disappointment than any firm belief that he could defeat the contract.

West got the defense off to an excellent start by leading the king of clubs, attacking dummy's only entry. Declarer wanted to take both the heart and the diamond finesses, but it appeared that he was on the table for the first and last time. He was tempted to lead the jack of diamonds, for if that was covered, he could get back to dummy with the eight of diamonds. However, that would almost certainly expose him to a diamond ruff.

Instead, he cunningly led the seven of diamonds from dummy at trick two. Who could blame East for failing to cover? He followed with the three, and thereby presented declarer with the contract.

Declarer played his six of diamonds under the seven, and when the finesse won he was still in dummy. Next came the ten of hearts. Whether or not East covered, the defenders could get no more than one trump trick and one club.

Be honest—had you been in the East seat, would you have played the king of diamonds on the seven?

Newspaper Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The newspaper industry has asked the Cost of Living Council to exempt it completely from government wage-price controls.

In a petition filed before the council here, the American Newspaper Publisher's Association (ANPA) said total control of the newspaper business is essential "merely to correct the impact of crushing economic inequities."

The ANPA said the industry is caught in an economic bind because of the escalating price of newsprint imported from Canada, postal rate increases and exempt competitors.

"Newsprint shortages have impeded the effectiveness of newspapers in carrying out their First Amendment and public service responsibilities because these shortages have resulted in many cases in the rationing of advertising and news content," the ANPA said in its 19-page petition.

The council has already freed about 10 other industries from price controls.

Many newspapers have seen newsprint prices go up by 21 per cent in the past year, the association said. It added that these prices might rise another 27 per cent this year.

Yet, it said, Phase 4 price regulations do not allow full recovery for these prices.

Alcoholism Hearing Set

All citizens of the Permian Basin region are urged to attend a public hearing on the control of alcoholism and alcohol abuse to be held at the West Texas Education Center, Midland Air Terminal, Jan. 15 at 7 p.m.

A panel of four will speak about their experiences working with alcoholism, after which the public will have an opportunity to join in a discussion.

Members of the panel will be Bill Masterson, chairman of the PBPRC Alcoholism advisory committee and member of the Odessa Council on Alcoholism; Betty Ivey, participant in the Alan program in Pecos and member of the alcoholism advisory committee; Watson LaForce Jr., member of the Midland Council on Alcoholism and member of the alcoholism advisory committee; and Shelby Parnell, outreach coordinator at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Information gathered at the public hearing will be used for the yearly update of the regional plan on Alcoholism.

BRITISH TELLY Fella In A Frock Hanging Up His Bra

LONDON (AP) — Because of the power crisis, British TV has ended each night's broadcasting at 10:30 p.m. since mid-December. The nation is surviving, but at least one viewer here is angry.

She's Mrs. A. M. Taylor of Droop Street, who, in an epistle to the Evening Standard, denounced the early TV shutdown and the end of "all floodlit football and greyhound racing."

Those blackouts are to conserve power, she noted, "but other and more expensive evening entertainment, including the banqueting emporia, strip and other 'hite' spots are allowed to continue unabated although using large amounts of electricity."

"Yet another example of the Government's class distinction," she sniffed.

Be that as it may, a vacationer here — to wit, me — had a lot of fun watching what remained on the power-starved tube here over the Christmas holidays. Rowdy or restrained, it had style.

Even the capsule TV lists had style. I cite this one on "Jolson Sings Again," an ancient movie: "A sequel to that other film about the singer with the blacked-up face who spent a lot of time down on his knees going on about his mammy."

Alas, we missed that one, as well as a unique special, "Queen of Hearts." It starred a famous female impersonator named Danny La Rue in no less than 12 different and lavish gowns.

It may have been his last TV appearance as a mademoiselle in mufti. He recently announced he was "hanging up his bra" and going into legitimate acting. As he explained, "I don't want to be remembered only as the fella in a frock."

Still, in a week largely devoted to scientific tests of ale, we managed to see such other television sights as: —Prime Minister Edward Heath, a good amateur musician, competently and joyfully conducting a Christmas chorale and orchestra.

—Six newscasters gathered together on London's commercial TV station to sing five minutes of Christmas carols and give no news whatsoever.

—The Stanley Baxter Big Picture Show," in which Baxter pilloried, among other things, an old Scotland Yard series. The villain, it seemed killed his victim by making him watch the series. "Deliberately bored him to death," the inspector explained.

SHE JIGGLES —"Carry on Christmas," featuring England's rowdy "Carry On" comedy gang, one of which is "an amply endowed, expert comedienne, Barbara Windsor. She also, ah, jiggles a lot. Their TV effort can't be described in the public prints of the United States — cowardice is the reason — but suffice it to say it would appeal to students of single-entendre.

No, the power shortage hasn't dimmed the spark of television here. It's just made it a bit harder for scientific tests of British ale. You see, the pubs close only 30 minutes after the TV stations now do and you've got to hurry to complete your tests.

Were I that irate viewer on Droop Street, I would complain to the Evening Standard about that, and more bitterly, too.

ATTRACTS NATIONWIDE ATTENTION Houston Mass Murders

HOUSTON (AP) — Lawyers for Charles Wayne Henley are nearing the test of their defense strategy in the largest mass murder case in modern U.S. history.

Arguments on pretrial motions get under way Jan. 14. Henley, 17, is charged with six counts of murder in the case in which 27 teen-aged boys died.

Another youth, David Owen Brooks, 18, is charged on four counts. Brooks goes on trail later.

SEX RING — Both defendants have told police they helped procure teenagers for Dean Arnold Corll, 33, who police say was the mastermind in a homosexual ring which raped, tortured and murdered their victims. Brooks had known Corll three years and Henley 2 1/2 years.

The case broke Aug. 8, 1973 when Henley telephoned police in suburban Pasadena and said he had shot and killed Corll during a paint-sniffing sex party in which a 20-year-old man and a 15-year-old girl were involved.

Henley told officers Corll had threatened to kill him and the man and girl. Henley said Corll boasted of killing others and burying them in a rented boat stall.

The next day, Lt. Breck Porter of the Houston Police Department said Henley had given officers a statement in which he admitted complicity in the slaying of "25 to 30" youths. Police dug up 17 bodies in the boat stall, four near a Corll vacation home in East Texas and six on beaches on the Gulf of Mexico at High Island. Twenty of the 27 victims names had been identified.

Henley will be tried in the death of Charles Ray Cobble, 17, who disappeared with another youth just two weeks before the case came to light. Cobble's decomposed body was found buried in the boat stall. He lived across the street from Henley in the Heights area of Houston, an old, decaying neighborhood of mostly white, single-family dwellings. Seventeen of the identified dead had Heights backgrounds, as did Corll and Brooks.

Henley's mother, Mary, says her son told her in a telephone call from police headquarters shortly after he made his statement that he had told officers everything, including that he murdered nine of the youths.

PAIN — Henley's statement has never been made public. But the second of two statements made by Brooks to police was leaked to newsmen and tells a graphic tale of the slayings and the alleged role by Henley.

"Wayne took part in getting the boys at first and then later he took an active part in the killings," said Brooks, adding he was only a spectator in the deaths. "Wayne seemed to enjoy causing pain and he was especially sadistic at the Schuler address (a house Corll once rented in the Heights area). Brooks told of two killings at the Schuler address of "a boy named Billy Balsch and one named Johnny, and I think that his last name was Malone."

PLEASE DON'T — "Wayne strangled Billy and he said, 'Hey Johnny,' and when Johnny looked up Wayne shot him in the forehead with a .25 automatic. The bullet came out of his ear and he raised up about three minutes later and he said, 'Wayne, please don't.'"

"Then Wayne strangled him and Dean helped."

Henley's chief defense lawyer, Charles Melder, 44, has said he plans to plead his client innocent by reason of insanity. "It's got to be, it's the only route," he said.

Melder was hired by the Henley family. He brought in as co-counsel Will Gray, 43, a specialist in appeals of criminal cases, and Ed Pegelow, 50, who has been practicing law since 1971 after spending 25 years as an Army infantry officer.

BIG REPUTATION — Melder has been practicing law here since 1956 but he has not gained a big reputation among more well-known criminal lawyers. One says cautiously, "I can't recall him going to trial in a major criminal case here."

Melder said first on the agenda Jan. 14 will be a motion to suppress the statement Henley gave to police after his arrest.

"We'll proceed on the assumption the boy was without counsel at the time, and wasn't adequately warned of his rights," Melder said.

He believes the prosecution will produce a signed statement by Henley saying the defendant did not want a lawyer. "Sure they'll have a waiver," he said. "And they'll fight the motion."

Melder says he does not plan to ask the court for a change venue. "I want a Harris County (Houston) jury to decide this," he said.

Dist. Atty. Carol Vance, 40, a three-term prosecutor who rarely ventures into the courtroom, will present the state's case. Vance, who said he has appealed in 15 to 20 cases in his nearly eight years in office, says he is in this one "because of the magnitude of the case with so many being killed."

Vance will be assisted by Don Lambright, 30, a seven-year veteran of the district attorney's office who has been working almost fulltime on the case since last August.

Although Texas last year reinstated the death penalty in a limited number of types of murders, neither Brooks nor Henley are subject to it, Lambright says.

MP Reports Banner Year — In 1973 it was grain, and this year it may be coal, but whatever the impetus, Missouri Pacific railroad expects higher revenues.

Downing B. Jenks, chairman and chief executive officer, indicated that MoPac expects a 1973 net income of around $30 million, which is up sharply from $18.6 million in 1972.

Revenues are well ahead of the 1972 record of $642.9 million, and Jenks said November revenue was up 17 per cent.

Car loadings for MoPac grew about 11 per cent; the Texas and Pacific, owned 95 1/2 per cent by MoPac, was up 17 per cent; and Chicago & Eastern, owned 66.8 per cent by MoPac, up 9 per cent.

Jenks attributed much of the 1973 traffic increase to movement of grain. Because of the energy crisis, he anticipated a much greater movement of coal this year. He did not anticipate that the energy crisis will materially affect the railroad, and that a rate increase will offset rising costs.

YMCA Schedule Is Altered — Because there will be no school Friday, the YMCA schedule is being altered slightly for the day. Pat Owens, in charge of program activities, said that a recreation swim period for all ages had been set for 1:30-4:30 p.m. Regular instruction will be from 4:30-5:15 p.m., and other classes will be held as regularly scheduled.

Economist Dies — PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Dr. David A. McCabe, 90, labor economist and former chairman of the economics department of Princeton University, died Tuesday. He was one of the nation's pioneering economists in the field of labor organization, labor legislation and collective bargaining.

Banquet Starts At 7 Tonight — COLORADO CITY — Four top awards will be presented at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet at 7 o'clock tonight in the high school auditorium.

The outstanding farm family award will be presented by Murrell Blessingame, director. Setton Pickens, chamber manager, will present the outstanding chamber member award.

Tom Rees, last year's recipient of the Jaycee's distinguished service award will present that award and Mrs. Shirley DeLaney, B&P president, will name the Woman of the year.

Speaker for the event is Reagan V. Brown, special assistant to Gov. Dolph Briscoe. He is a popular speaker in Texas and is a recognized authority on community development and human relations.

He holds three degrees from Texas A&M and has studied at Cornell, Colorado State and Utah State. He is a member of the graduate faculty at Colorado State, teaching a summer class on Human Behavior.

He was the man of the year in Texas Agriculture in 1968, named by Progressive Farmer.

WANTS PROFITS FROM HIT RECORD TO HELP RED CROSS — TRONTO (AP) — Gordon Sinclair, the Canadian radio and television star who recorded "Americans" praising the United States, says he wants all profits from the hit record to go to the American Red Cross.

"I've said from the start, and so repeat, that I neither need nor want money from this little essay," Sinclair said in a letter to the Toronto Globe and Mail.

"It has cost me aside from time, about $57 in postage, and cost radio station CFRB about $800 I've requested that any profit go to the American Red Cross."

About 2 million copies of the record were sold in the United States in one recent week, making it No. 14 on the best-selling chart.

AFTER 24 YEARS AT COAHOMA Mattie Miller Winding Up Career As City Secretary

COAHOMA — City Hall will close for business here Friday afternoon, but the door will be wide open for friends of Mattie Miller, city secretary, to wish her well.

Mrs. Miller is retiring after nearly 24 years with the City of Coahoma — part of that time as the only employee. The official date is Feb. 1, but she has some vacation time coming. Her husband, Joe D. Miller, is stepping down from his job at Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, and they plan to enjoy their retirement together. He has a woodworking shop at their home at 509 N. Main, and she loves to garden, do needlework and many other things.

Mayor Jack Cauble urged all her many friends to call by the City Hall from 1-5 p.m. to visit with Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Miller who never asked for a job, has had several in her career.

STARTED YOUNG

"I've been working practically all my life," she said. "And now I want to relax while I can still enjoy it."

She began making a regular hand at age 12 in the grocery store of her father, A. L. Armstrong, who had come from Cleburne to Coahoma. After her graduation from high school in 1926, she clerked in the post office under J. S. Cochran, postmaster, worked at other places, including Anthony's in Big Spring, then was prevailed upon in 1949 to become school tax assessor.

Bill Hutchins, who was almost the perpetual mayor for Coahoma approached her about operating the office, and she started to work May 20, 1950. Bob Marshall, who had been city secretary, devoted his time to the outside work, and Mrs. Miller the office. Soon he retired, and she had it by herself.

THINGS CHANGED

The city hall then was an austere one-room structure converted from a drafty 1890 meat market. After World War II, the T&P railroad sold its depot to the city, and it was remodeled into offices and a fire station.

Mrs. Miller held four jobs simultaneously — city secretary, tax assessor for the school, (which she resigned this year), tax assessor-collector for the city, and for Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 (she's the only one to hold this post).

When she began with the city, its annual tax levy was about $5,000; last year the roll was $18,789. There weren't too many water meters at the outset and most of them didn't work, which led to wholesale estimating of bills. Now Coahoma has 418 water and sewer connections and there are 430 water connections at Sand Springs.

When she began with the city, it had two vehicles, a car that was a museum piece, and a fire truck not far behind. Today there are two fire trucks in the station, and several vehicles in the city's stable.

During her tenure, only one bond issue — for the installation of a sewer system — has been voted. The water improvement district, however, which solved Coahoma's water problem has floated a couple of revenue bond issues although when it was started April 1, 1955, she had to wait on her pay. The only expansion of the city has been annexation of the Bates Addition.

FIVE MAYORS

Mrs. Miller has served under five mayors. Burr Brown and W. C. Hutchins, both of whom are deceased, Ralph White, Joe Swinney and Jack Cauble.

Joe Miller began at the bulk plant with Cosden in 1938, after eight years with Vic Flewellen, in Big Spring, left to work in the shipyards at Houston until 1945 when he rejoined Cosden in the pipeline department, filling just about every duty it has. He and Mrs. Miller are members of the Coahoma Presbyterian Church, he is a Cosden 25-Year Club member and she a member of the Order of Eastern Star and Past Matron's club.

IT SNOWED — Cheryl Brown, a State Capitol secretary in Harrisburg, Pa., walks through the snow in front of the State Capitol building during her luncheon break. Harrisburg area had over 5 inches of snow.

Energy Shortage Triggers Burgeoning Bureaucracy

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

From the federal government on down, the energy shortage has fueled a burgeoning bureaucracy of commissions, agencies, advisory boards and committees headed by coordinators czars, chairmen and allocators.

An Associated Press spot check turned up no fewer than 22 state agencies or organizations specially named to deal with the energy crunch.

And that doesn't count the pending proposals, the city and county agencies or the industry efforts.

It also doesn't count Kansas City, Mo., where the school board decided not to set up any special agency, but did appoint a long-time member of the custodial staff as an "energy conservationist."

His job? Making sure the school buildings are heated and lighted most efficiently.

Across the country, the motto seemed to be: When in doubt, appoint a commission.

There were a few signs of rebellion. The assistant city manager for Peoria, Ill., said officials decided against any special agency and are handling fuel problems within already established departments.

"We've got a bureaucracy," said Fred Timmerman. "Why add to it?"

The financing varied. Some states managed with unpaid volunteers; others said they would spend millions.

The Federal Energy Office, headed by administrator William E. Simon, is operating on a sort of temporary budget that thus far has been well under $10 million. Legislation is pending in Congress, however, to set up a far-reaching federal energy administration which would have a much bigger budget.

Most of the state agencies started out small and grew with the problem.

In Idaho, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus named one of the state's public utility commissioners, Robert Lenaghan, as an energy coordinator on a part-time basis. That was back when the energy crisis first surfaced.

Now, the Office of Energy

Coordinator has a full-time staff of four, plus Lenaghan, primarily to deal with complaints about fuel shortages.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts — a Republican — couldn't get the predominantly Democratic legislature to agree with most of his energy proposals. The legislature did agree to create an emergency energy office, but didn't provide any staff or money for its operation, so Sargent vetoed the bill.

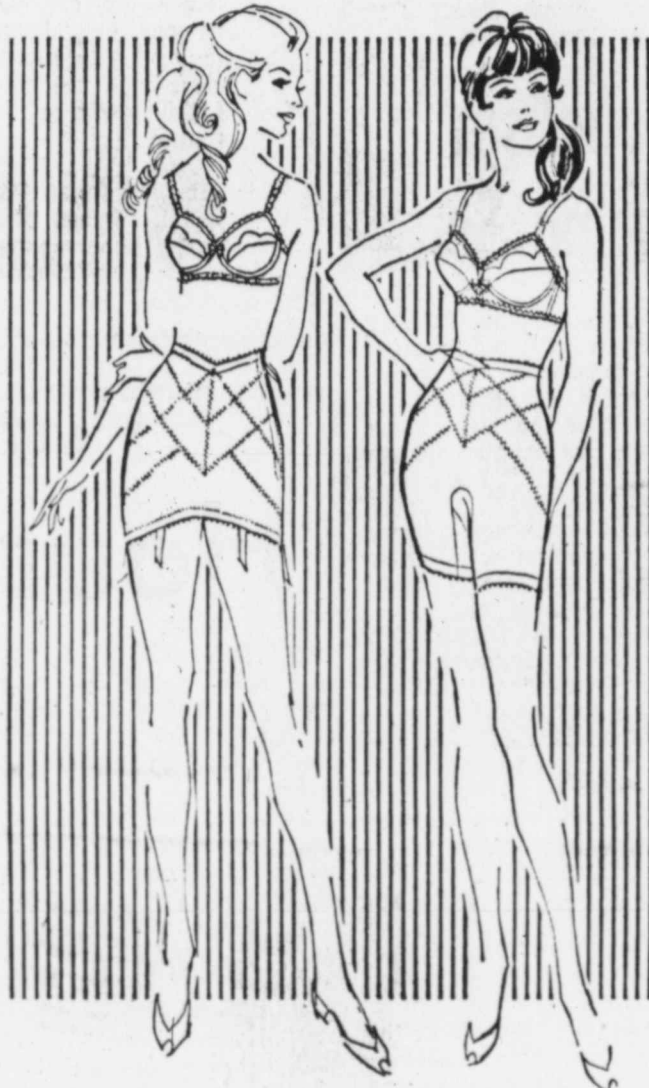

The governor says he'll push his proposals again during the coming session and meanwhile he's appointed five separate energy task forces.

At the local level, the City of Dallas set up an energy conservation committee consisting of the assistant city manager and eight department heads who serve in addition to their regular jobs at no extra pay.

And Battle Creek, Mich., set up the Commission on Energy Allocation last November after the local gas company cut off service to 52 major customers because of the fuel crunch.

Equal Hiring Study Urged

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas needs a state personnel board to encourage the hiring of women and other groups traditionally excluded from equal employment opportunities. Rep. David Finney, D-Fort Worth, said here.

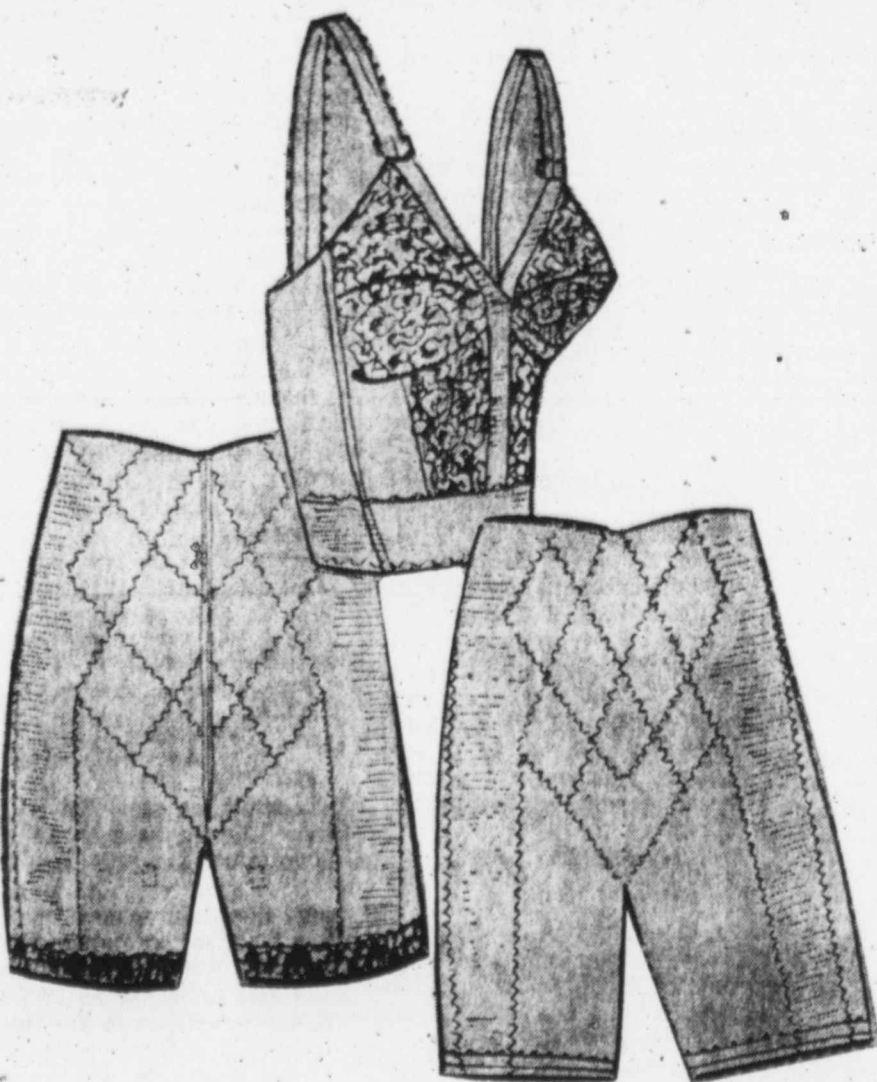

Finney said he had asked Speaker Price Daniel Jr. to grant the House State Affairs Committee authority to study the need for such a board.

Finney, chairman of the committee, said the board would be empowered to develop uniform personnel policies and rules affecting 67,000 public employees in 77 state agencies. It also would establish guidelines for a uniform grievance procedure, he said.

An example of imbalance in state hiring policies is shown in the comptroller's office, he said. Less than seven per cent of the 682 employees earning more than $7,500 a year in that office are women, he said, while women make up at least 85 per cent of the total number of employees earning less than that figure.

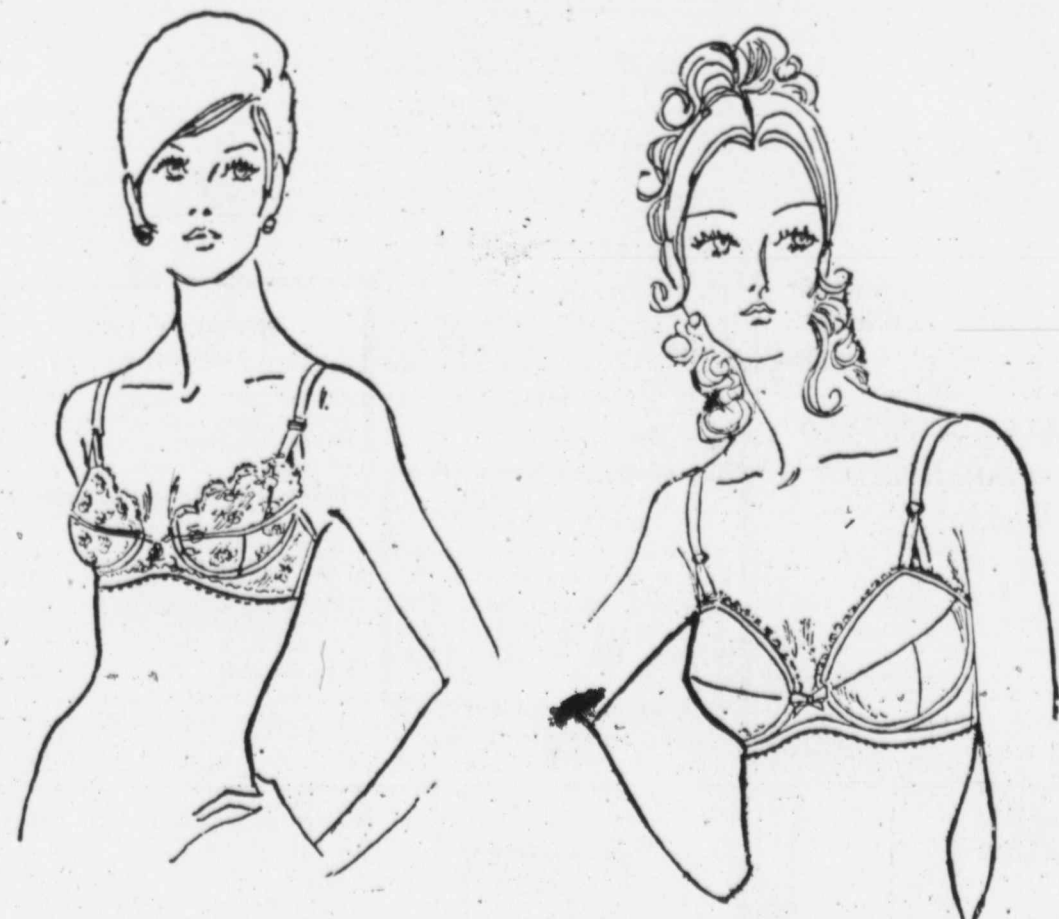

Finney noted his committee voted for a bill setting up such a board, but the bill never came up for a vote of the House.

"If the state doesn't take the initiative, the federal government is going to determine these policies for us," Finney said.

BIG SPRING HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 1974 SEC. B

Campaign Reform Is Issue Congress Will Face Twice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Campaign reform is an issue Congress will be facing twice this year: first at the Capitol, then at the polls.

Legislation to control political fund raising and limit campaign spending is on House and Senate agendas. New reform proposals are likely by spring, all in response to the Watergate scandals.

At the same time, political ethics and financing loom as significant issues in the coming congressional election campaign. Public opinion surveys show declining confidence in government. One poll, commissioned by a Senate committee, said that situation has reached crisis proportions.

This comes in a year that will see most House members, and some senators, run for reelection. So in acting on campaign finance bills, they will be dealing with measures likely to affect immediately their own political activities.

So far, the pace of reform has been slow, despite the pressures created by Watergate. The Senate passed a stringent campaign finance bill six months ago and sent it to the committee ever since. No one the Senate passed in July House action is due before mid-March.

Another measure, to switch from the traditional system of collecting political contributions to one of government-financed federal election campaigns as well as presidential campaigns.

buffered in the House.

The Nixon administration opposed that plan and a scaled-down version which would have covered presidential campaigns beginning in 1976 was scuttled by a late-session filibuster.

The Senate Rules Committee has promised to come up with a new public finance bill by Feb. 21, but prospects for enactment are uncertain.

The key bill in 1974 is likely to be the final version of the one the Senate passed in July of 1973. It would limit campaign spending to the equivalent of 10 cents for each eligible voter in primaries and 15 cents in general elections. Those ceilings would cover congressional as well as presidential cam-

White, now a Kent State professor, was president when four students were killed and 11 wounded by Ohio National Guard troops May 4, 1970, in a confrontation with student demonstrators protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

United States, Israel Close To Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger leaves tonight for another Middle East trip as the United States and Israel appear near an agreement on a military disengagement plan for the Suez Canal area.

Under current scheduling, Kissinger would return to Washington Sunday night. But he will meet twice with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and once with Golda Meir, Israel's prime minister.

NEWS CONFERENCE

Before leaving, the secretary scheduled a joint news conference with William Simon, the administration's chief energy policy maker. The two were expected to go over aspects of the Arab oil boycott and President Nixon's plans for a February meeting with foreign ministers of eight major oil-consuming nations.

According to U.S. officials, Kissinger will carry to Egypt the essence of Israel's thinking on separating the troops of the two nations in the canal area.

No details of Israel's ideas were disclosed, but Jerusalem is known to have promoted the concept of pulling back its troops perhaps 20 miles from the canal if Cairo undertakes "mutual commitments."

REDUCTION

These might involve a reduction in the number of Egyptian troops on the east bank of the waterway, a reopening of the canal to Israeli shipping and a demilitarized zone between the two forces policed by international units.

The scenario calls for Kissinger to outline all of this to Sadat at their first meeting Friday in Aswan, a southern Egyptian city near the mammoth dam built by the Russians in the 1950s.

The secretary then will fly to Israel to report on Sadat's reaction. At that point, the Jerusalem government may be in a position to draw up a formal proposal on disengagement.

Even if not, Kissinger will return to Aswan to tell Sadat of the Israeli plan as it has developed to that point.

The indications that the situation may be nearing a final stage came from various sources Wednesday.

UNDERSTANDING

The California White House first announced Kissinger's travels, saying President Nixon was sending the secretary on his third trip to the Middle East since October "in order to assist the parties in the negotiations on the question of separation and disengagement."

The secretary then met for 45 minutes Wednesday night with Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz to discuss the matter.

Dinitz told reporters afterward that "a wide area of understanding exists and was reached in our conversations."

Care To Keep It

Alistair Cooke, whose perceptive objectivity are the trademark of good reporting, has written a best seller. It's a print sequel to his widely-acclaimed television documentaries of the same title, "America."

British-born Cooke's book has sold in excess of 170,000 copies at $15 each since publication about three months ago. The 400 pages of pictures and text were published in time for Christmas gift-giving, which helped, but even so, for it to sell more copies than competing books on sex, "Upstairs at the White House," "Cosell," and sundry mass-appeal things, is a remarkable thing.

Television exposure was a big boost but Cooke has given Americans a penetrating look at themselves and the theme is optimistic. He concludes that the "original institutions of this country still have great vitality: the Republic can be kept, but only if we care to keep it."

His publishers put Cooke on tour and reported that he got an "incredible response — like a rock star... everyone was so tired of disgrace (of Watergate), and this was a kind of reassurance about the worth of the country and its historical validity."

There's also a feeling that people want to know their country and its origins better and they recognize Cooke as a witty and reliable commentator who has done his research well.

It's encouraging to learn that so many Americans will buy such a book at such a price. History-political students know the Great American Experiment in Self-Government can work, as Cooke confirms, and they also know the people have to "care to keep it" working.

Spirit That Won't Be Silent

Alexander I. Solzenitzyn, from all accounts, knocks much of the tinsel off the image some have managed to conjure of the Soviet system. Apparently, he tells it like it is, detailing the continuing repression and terror connected with the Russian labor camps.

It has been said that the vast body of Russians had simply traded for a different set of czars, but Solzenitzyn's epic work indicates that the torture — physically and of the human spirit — in the Communist labor camps makes the czars seem like benign autocrats.

Perhaps the muted theme is that all this is not simply the result of a madman, as Stalin may well have been, but product of a system that simply cannot and will not tolerate any voice in opposition. The miracle of all of this is that the author has dared to do and has succeeded in getting his work published. Yet, somehow, through the endless corridors of history, there breaks out these irrespressible spirits who will not be silent.

Two Hands Better

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

You never get too old to learn.

What I am currently learning is how to manage with one hand. It is truly amazing what you can and can't do. I would not suggest that any of you tie up one hand and try it. It's one of those arts you should save to learn only if absolutely necessary.

FOR INSTANCE this one-handed typing bit, after you spent years mastering the two-handed kind. Strictly for the birds. Hunting and pecking birds.

When one-handed and needing to open doors, rush through because they might close again and slap you back. To open jars, place between knees and turn with one hand. Maybe.

To carry your purse upstairs while hanging on to stair railing, place handle of purse between teeth. If you drop the purse sit down. Think kind thoughts. Count to ten. Or twenty.

To put on coat, put one arm in sleeve and drag rest of coat until you come to another person who will take pity and drape coat around you.

To sleep, prop arm cast with pillow. To turn over, move pillow to prop arm cast on other side. It saves turning.

To eat, forget manners and use spoon. I have one distinct advantage. I can peel an orange with one hand. My children were amazed.

YOU SEE, I was raised in the Rio Grande Valley with orange trees in the back yard. I used to climb way up in the trees, hang on with one hand and peel an orange with the other hand. Everything you learn will be useful some day.

All kidding aside, we never really appreciate the handicapped. What's the old Indian saying about needing to walk in the other guy's moccasins?

I will now have worlds of sympathy for the guy in the back brace or the arm cast. I will also try to remember to sympathize with the blind and the lame.

I HAD A GOOD friend who tried walking around with his eyes closed to see how it felt to be blind. He ran into a glass door and knocked himself out. That's a little extreme.

And there's no way to always wear the other fellow's moccasins. But maybe we should at least look at what kind of moccasins he is wearing. Or whether, he has one or two feet.

Uneasy England

William F. Buckley Jr.

When times get really difficult in England, two things typically happen. One set of people talk about how bad things really are. And another set writes about how prettily the nightingales are singing. Thus it was, for instance, in World War II, when the lights went out, but permitted us to appreciate the distinctive whiteness of the cliffs of Dover. So it is today, when England — no kidding — teeters on the brink of the greatest parliamentary crisis since the general strike of the 20's. And poetic England responds...

NATURE has provided us with a succession of great dawns, writes the novelist Margaret Drabble from London for the "New York Times." "There has been an enormous moon gazing out of a silver sky, surrounded by stars the size of those in a nativity painting... it is the brightest winter ever."

And Patrick Cosgrave, writing in the "Spectator," talks quite seriously about the possibility of a military coup in England. In England! The Mother of Parliaments! The home of the Glorious Revolution of 1688! It is, one would think inconceivable, and Mr. Cosgrave is fidgety at the mere mention of the possibility, even as would be, let us say, a reporter for "Osservatore Romano," discussing the prospect of the Pope's resignation in order to marry. But Cosgrave is finally unflinching, and leans where he can on other authority. "That brilliant historian Mr. Alistair Horne," he writes, "has drawn disturbing parallels between the Chilean experience and the likely development of our own. But we can hardly believe it could happen here. Well: could it? The answer is, yes, of course."

HERE IS what especially qualifies England these days for a collapse of the parliament.

1. The political leaders are not trusted. Mr. Heath went to power promising genuine reforms, most particularly an effective set of laws governing the trades unions, whose antinomianism had become a national scandal not unrelated to Mr. Wilson's looming impotence in the last months of his tenure. The laws were more or less passed. Then the unions, like the students in America during the wild 60's, nudged up against authority to learn whether there was anything there really to stop them. There wasn't. The unions twice brought health to his knees. The public, though restive, was not mutinous. It did not demand exemplary action aimed at bringing the unions to heel.

2. THE GULF between official rhetoric and public reality grows. For all that everyone in England takes vows to parliamentary supremacy, increasingly Parliament is circumvented. Heath does it with his European policies and his Pay Board; Wilson condones riotous Labor opposition; and the Liberal, Jeremy Thorpe, experiments with reforms which would simply destroy Parliament. What Mr. Cosgrave calls the "spider's web of consensus" is threatening to collapse. If public officials do not follow the Constitution (I transpose an American formulation), why should others do so?

3. OTHERS, in this case, is most specifically the British military. Here is an important point: the British military is at this moment totally professional. There are no conscripts there, to side with "the people" or to defy orders the parliamentary pro-venance of which is in dispute. Moreover, in times of great national stress, the military tend to be, as Cosgrave puts it, "the final repository of patriotism, though it is usually a simple, sometimes a narrow, and occasionally an embittered patriotism." And this is an army that has experienced its own Algeria — in Northern Ireland, where it got its stomach full not only of terrorist lead, but of political rhetoric. What might trigger it to act?

"Onward to the peace table, trugged the Jewish mother..."

Another Shortage

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — A problem bigger than the energy crisis? That's what a group of business executives claims lies in the future if the United States doesn't begin immediately to strengthen its capital markets.

YES, SAYS the Committee of Publicly Owned Companies, there's still another shortage, a shortage of equity capital with which to begin, improve and expand industry, and by extension to provide goods, services and jobs.

The shortage manifests itself immediately in some of the lowest prices at which stocks have sold in years, with shares of some healthy companies selling at only twice earnings instead of 10 to 15 times.

As an immediate consequence of those depressed prices, says the committee, some American companies are highly vulnerable to takeovers by foreign bargain-hunters who accumulated dollars during the past 20 years.

IN THE FINAL six months of 1973, says C.V. Wood Jr., chairman of the committee and president of McCulloch Oil Corp., foreign companies made tenders for 63 American companies, double the number of offers made in the previous six months.

Some well-known names already have succumbed, including Gimbel's, Travelodge International and Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream, all ironically to companies based in the economically depressed United Kingdom.

McCulloch cites further evidence of a capital shortage in a reduction in the number of new enterprises. During all of 1973 only 99 new stock issues were marketed compared with 568 a year earlier.

What the capital shortage does to the spirit of new enterprise and competition is part of the long-range problem, but of immediate concern to the committee of 600 companies is that it is already curtailing expansion.

"Companies have had to defer replacements and expansion because of depressed market conditions," says McCulloch, who notes that while some businesses showed record high profits their prices slipped.

WHY THERE should be a capital shortage in what has been traditionally the most capital-rich country on earth is a story in itself, with the plot centered around a securities industry suffering from functional imbalances.

The individual investor has largely deserted stocks, preferring high-interest bonds, certificates of deposits, real estate or just passbook savings. Some of this money does eventually get to the market, but indirectly and incompletely.

As even stock brokers concede, the individual investor has lost faith in the securities industry, the consequence of some scandalously inefficient operations. And the big institutional investors are concentrated in a relatively few stocks.

BLUNTLY STATED, there is an enormous concentration of power in capital markets. A small number of the nation's banks, for example, control scores of billions of dollars in pension funds. And they invest in only a small fraction of the market.

That fraction, less than 100 corporations, enjoys fat price earnings ratios, and has no problem expanding. Already big and powerful, they tend to become more so while healthy but less favored companies go begging.

As the situation was still developing, a spokesman for the committee noted this week, "Nobody in Washington seemed to share our interest. The securities industry was so concerned about its own intramural issues it simply lost sight of what the industry is about: raising capital for jobs, goods and services."

The committee was formed last March and now claims to speak for companies listed on major exchanges with assets of $52.4 billion, 2.3 million shareholders and 1.5 billion shares outstanding.

IT IS BACKING legislative proposals to reduce taxes on capital gains and so reattract small investors and wealthier people who find themselves locked into stocks with big gains. It is also supporting efforts to reduce concentration and restore the capital allocation function of the market.

Your Years Showing?

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — You may feel like a colt, but your years are showing if—

You're getting along nicely with the new bifocals you fought against wearing for so long.

The world is getting far too regimented, you conclude, whenever you have to fill out a printed form.

You can't offhand recall the birthday of anyone under 35 and, furthermore, you don't see any reason why you should.

Every day it is a raging battle for you to decide whether to have two Martinis for lunch — or none at all. But you never have just one.

Your shirtfront keeps creeping out of your pants band, and you spend most of the day trying to tuck it back in.

Your wife takes the family dog for a walk twice a day and, if the weather isn't too bad, you take your wife for a walk once every week or so.

If baseball was good enough for your father, it's good enough for you, and you can't see how or why pro football, basketball and hockey have become so popular — to say nothing of tennis.

If you get up to dance with a lady, you automatically start to slip your arm around her back, no matter what style of music the band is playing.

You'd rather walk two blocks out of the way than climb a small hill.

Office gossip isn't half as interesting as it used to be, because so much of it now is about new members on the staff you don't really know.

You are too smart anymore to advance a new idea during a staff conference, because you have learned from long experience that if you do, the boss will assign you the job of making it work out.

Anyway, who wants anything new in his life when he already has too many old troubles to cope with?

But if these signs all point to you, you may not just be getting older. You may already have become a fossil.

Just Add A Penny

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The Ripoff Oil Co. was worried. A meeting of the executive committee was called at a Duck Shoot Club in South Carolina to discuss ways and means of combating the bad publicity petroleum companies were getting over the energy crisis.

HARLAN MUDBANK, president of Ripoff, presented the problem.

"Gentlemen, I am sorry to say that the oil companies have a very bad image because of the fuel shortage that unfortunately has gripped the country in the last six months. The purpose of this meeting is to find a way to tell our story to the American people. Are there any suggestions?"

WILTON WILLEBANK, the advertising vice president, said, "Why don't we launch a national advertising campaign to show that in spite of the crisis, Ripoff is keeping its prices down!"

"Excellent," said Mudbank, "but where do we get the money to pay for the campaign?"

Willbank replied, "By raising the price of our gasoline a penny a gallon."

MARVIN SNOWBANK, vice president in charge of public affairs, said, "It seems to me the key to a good image is Congress. We must persuade our lawmakers that we are doing the best we can to provide the necessary fuel at reasonable cost to the consumer. We therefore should contribute to campaigns of everyone running for Congress.

"But," said Mudbank, "that would cost us a fortune."

SNOWBANK read from a paper. "Our Washington lobbyist believe we can do it by adding only two cents to what we are now charging for a gallon of gas."

RINEHOLT SANDBAN, the vice president for financial affairs, said, "One of the things that seems to be bugging the American people is our profit picture. I estimate we stand to make 100 per cent profit after taxes this year. We must show the country that these profits are within the cost-of-living guidelines."

"How?" Mudbank asked.

"By distributing American Flag pins for every customer's lapel."

"Those lapel flags aren't cheap," the comptroller protested.

"Well, three cents a gallon is a small price to pay for the privilege of wearing Old Glory," said Sandbank. Mudbanks continued:

"There may come a day when new sources of energy will be found. It is even possible that someone will develop an automobile that doesn't use gasoline. In 20 years this could put us in a terrible profit squeeze. We can't wait until it happens. We must prepare for it now. What do we do?"

The vice president for financial affairs said, "It's obvious. We charge an extra nickel a gallon which we'll invest in tax-free bonds until then."

Mysterious Sunburn Spot

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 28, had a bad sunburn five years ago. It left him with a round mark the size of a quarter, and just as round, on his shoulder near the middle of his back.

This mark turns very white in winter, and in summer when he gets sun on it, it turns very red and gets sore. Have you any idea what this could be?

—Mrs. O.L. I could guess, having seen cases quite similar. Let's start with what happens when you get a tan. The sun's rays incite cells in the skin to produce brown pigment (the tan) which is protective.

But with a severe burn, these tan-producing cells can be destroyed. It is quite possible your son had a blister at that spot where the skin stays white in winter.

Such a damaged area no longer has the ability to produce brown pigment, accounting for the whiteness in winter. But without this protective mechanism, the spot can burn in summer, turning red and getting pretty sore but not tanning.

The simplest solution, and perhaps the only one, is to keep that spot covered when exposed to the sun in summer. One of the sun lotions containing a "sun screen" ingredient, to filter out most of the burning rays may be adequate. Otherwise a small dressing to cover the spot could be used. Fastened with a flesh-colored adhesive patch, it wouldn't be conspicuous. I know of no way of undoing that type of skin damage.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send booklet, "How to Control Emphysema." Enclosed 20 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Also please send correct address of the American Medical Association. I wrote to them but the letter was returned marked "incomplete address."

—Mrs. M.G. Address of A.M.A. is 545 North Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610. I've sent your booklet on emphysema.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had an abortion and had intercourse within the first six weeks, although my doctor advised me not to. He told me I should start my period no later than six weeks. It has been about 10 weeks and I still have not started my period.

What are my chances of being pregnant again?

—A.R. It is always possible that you ovulated within the six weeks period, and pregnancy could have occurred. I suggest you check out this possibility.

The reason for the advice not to have intercourse within the six weeks period is to avoid possible infection.

MY ANSWER

Billy Graham

I gave my life to Christ, after one of your telecasts. What concerns me is my future. I'm just a teenager, but I find career choices so confusing. Can you help me?

I want you to do two things. The first concerns your own spiritual life — and the other, the combination of attitudes and attributes with which God has endowed you.

Make your Bible study and prayer time more regular and more intense. It is here in the statements of Scripture that the will of God starts to take shape. Some admonitions, certain stories, and a few of the statements of Christ will lead out of the context and mold themselves into directional clues for your future. The Bible deals in principles and basic concepts, and the right career for you must have these as foundation stones.

Secondly, explore in every way possible the capacities and capabilities you have, so that they may be matched with possible career choices. Psychological tests of aptitude and competency are aids that point you in the right direction. Get the counsel of someone in your church congregation who understands personnel work, and have periodic discussions about choices that are formulating.

Don't make premature decisions because of family or peer pressure. Seek out particularly career choices which can represent opportunities of Christian service. View life as an exciting investment, which you as a good steward can make for the Lord.

A Devotion For Today

I have the strength to face all conditions by the power that Christ gives me. (Philippians 4:13)
PRAYER: O God of power, grant us the confidence we need this day for the hurdles that confront us. Then help us leap over them, victorious over every obstacle through Christ our Lord. Amen.

RECOMMENDED RECIPES Of Mrs. Henderson

VENISON CHILI

1 cup beef suet
2 lbs. ground venison
1 16-oz. can red kidney beans
2 tbsps. chili mix
1 tsp. garlic powder or several cloves fresh garlic.
Brown meat in suet and salt to taste. Add 3 to 4 cups water, beans, chili mix and garlic. Cover and simmer for at least 1 hour.

FRUIT SALAD PIE

1 16-oz. can pitted dark sweet cherries
1 flat can crushed pineapple

6 bananas
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. red food coloring
2 cups sugar
6 tbsps. corn starch
1 tsp. vanilla

3/4 cup pecans, chopped
Baked pie shell
Whipped cream

Drain juice from cherries and pineapple into measuring cup. Add enough water to juices to make 2 cups. Mix juice, salt and coloring in large sauce pan. Add cherries and pineapple to mixture and bring to a boil. Combine sugar and corn starch and add slowly to mixture while stirring. Cook until mixture thickens; add vanilla, and cool. Add nuts and bananas. Pour in baked pie shell. Top with whipped cream when serving.

CHICKEN SPAGHETTI (Serves 10-12)

1 large chicken
Chicken stock
4 large onions, chopped
1 4-oz. jar pimientos, chopped
2 cups chopped celery
2 4-oz. cans sliced mushrooms
1 lb. American cheese, grated
1 pkg. spaghetti (7.8 oz.)
Salt and pepper to taste.
Sprinkle chicken lightly with salt, cover with water and boil slowly until tender (approximately 45 minutes - 1 hour). Saving broth, remove chicken, allow to cool, debone and dice. Saute chopped onions, bell peppers and celery in margarine. Cook spaghetti in chicken broth using specified amount of liquid on package (add water to broth if needed), and do not drain. To spaghetti, add sauted mixture, chicken, mushrooms and pimientos. Season with salt and pepper to taste. While still warm, add cheese to spaghetti mixture, and heat over low heat until cheese is melted. Serve while hot with Parmesan cheese. (May be reheated in 320-degree oven for approximately 30 minutes.)

CARROT CAKE

2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups cooking oil
4 eggs
3 cups grated carrots
2 cups flour
2 tbsps. soda
2 tbsps. cinnamon
2 tbsps. baking powder
1/2 cup pecans, chopped
Cream sugar and cooking oil. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each one. In separate bowl, combine flour, soda, cinnamon, baking powder and salt. Add dry ingredients to sugar mixture. Then add carrots and pecans. Bake in greased layer pans in 350-degree oven until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

ICING

1 box powdered sugar
1/2 stick margarine
8-oz. pkg. cream cheese
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Milk
Cream margarine, cream cheese and vanilla together. Begin to blend powdered sugar into mixture. Add small amount of milk, if needed, and blend until mixture is smooth.

Young Mother Finds That Cooking's Simple

By ELAYNE REXROAT

Any person who has cooked to any extent will agree that a few of the qualities that determine a good cook are a natural ability, a working knowledge (which can only come with time and experience) and a love of cooking.

For some, these attributes are hard to come by. For others, a shorter period of time and effort is required. Such is the case with Mrs. Mike (Donna) Henderson.

Mrs. Henderson, married less than two years, and the mother of a daughter, Christi, 8 months, already finds the preparation of a variety of venison dishes a relatively simple task. She fixes any one of these dishes with the ease that most would demonstrate in the preparing of ground beef.

Leaving the cookbook on the shelf, Mrs. Henderson prefers recommended recipes of friends and relatives. Stew, soup or a casserole from scratch is the kind of cooking that her natural ability allows her to handle with minimum effort.

"My spaghetti sauce gets the works," said Mrs. Henderson, explaining that spaghetti is the favorite dish of her husband, Mike. "He will try just about anything."

She commented that it would be misleading to leave the impression that he's always been a congenial eater, but with a certain amount of persuasion, matched by lots of good all-around cooking, he has become convinced that variety is the spice of good eating.

Being a full-time mother, housewife and cook is rewarding to Mrs. Henderson.

"Mike appreciates all I do," she said, "and, if for some reason something doesn't get done, he understands. Although Mike doesn't exactly enjoy cooking, he always pitches in if I need help."

For a little outside recreation, weekends away from Henderson's work in the yield department at Cosden allow the Hendersons to take in a variety of activities and travel.

Mrs. Henderson loves to accompany her husband when he hunts, and they both find pleasure in water sports and camping and share a budding desire to try a little snow skiing. Together, they enjoy time spent playing cards.

Mrs. Henderson's weekly schedule includes attending her husband's Big Spring Merchants basketball game each Thursday evening, taking along Christi.

For occupying the balance of her time, Mrs. Henderson likes to sew and obtains a sense of achievement in working with ceramics.

Simple Tips Make Entertaining Easier

By careful planning, entertaining in your own home can be fun and more relaxing for your family.

A few tips to keep your disposition sunny would first include decorative paper service which is a great time and energy-saver now used for buffets by an estimated one-fourth of suburban hostesses.

Set the time for serving dinner at your convenience. If dinner at 1 p.m. means you have to get up at 6 a.m. to do it, make it later in the day even if family tradition has always dictated a mid-day holiday meal.

Without staying up half the night, prepare raw vegetables for dips the evening before. Scrape, cut and put in air-tight plastic containers.

Set the table the night before, allowing time for last-minute emergencies such as unpolished silver or candles that need replacing. Eliminate unnecessary courses, such as appetizers or soup if you have an array of hors d'oeuvres in the living room.

Preparing your meal now is all that remains, and you are well on your way to entertaining with ease.

POLISH SAUSAGE combined with a variety of tasty vegetables makes an attractive dish to serve.

Boiled Dinner Goes Midwestern Style

Here's a robust family meal that is lovely to look at, has old-fashioned good flavor and cooks all in one pot! Fresh vegetables and natural casing Polish sausage combine for stick-to-the-ribs goodness just like down on the farm.

Polish sausage here is boiled with new potatoes, then carrots and asparagus are added at the end of the cooking time. A version of the traditional New England boiled dinner, which is made with beef brisket, potatoes and various vegetables, this sausage dish is every bit as attractive when the ingredients are arranged separately on a platter.

Midwestern Boiled Dinner

1 1/2 lbs. natural casing Polish sausage
1 lb. new potatoes, washed
Salted water
1 large bunch carrots, pared
1 lb. fresh asparagus, trimmed
Salt and pepper
In large Dutch oven, place Polish sausage and new potatoes with water to cover. Cover and bring to a boil; reduce heat to simmer. Simmer 20 minutes or until potatoes are almost done.

Add carrots and cook, covered, until almost tender, about 5 minutes. Add asparagus and cook, covered, another 5 minutes. Drain. On large platter, arrange as follows: Place Polish sausage links in circular fashion on platter and fill center with potatoes. Arrange carrots and asparagus in spoke fashion around sausage. Season 40 taste. Serves 4 to 6.

Fresh Fruits Add Color To Salads

Enjoy the refreshing flavor of fresh winter pears in easy-to-do salads. For a colorful first course, alternate fresh pear slices and orange sections on lettuce-lined salad plates. Sprinkle with chopped chives and serve with French dressing.

Try Snappy Sauce

Cream of celery soup, diluted with a little milk and heated, makes a good sauce for snap beans, green peas or broccoli.

Flavor Enhanced By Cooking With Sugar

The popularity of raw sugar is fast disappearing as consumers learn more about it. It's not the vitamin-packed, mineral-rich food that many have believed it to be.

But sugar is also used in many food preparations to enhance cooking quality. And in some recipes, sugar is the principle ingredient and is responsible for the food form, for instance, jellies, jams and preserves. Without sugar, jelly won't jell. And without sugar, there would be no candy.

Sugar provides food for yeast in bread making and causes the dough to expand in a rising action which makes bread light. It also provides some of the good taste in breads. Sugar causes breads to brown more evenly and produces the golden and better tasting loaf.

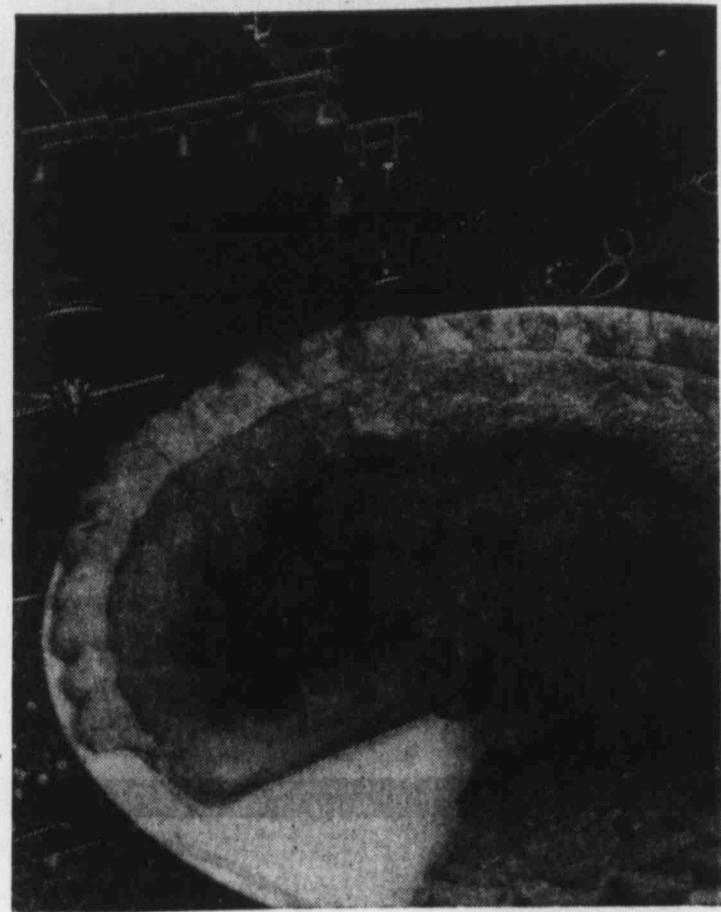

Fruits frozen in sugar or sugar syrup are much better quality than fruits frozen without sugar. Sugar interacts with shortening to make cakes light. Sugar stabilizes egg dishes such as custards to achieve smooth texture and disperses starch granules of thickening agents. Sugar caramelizes at high heat to add enhanced flavor to meats and dessert toppings such as frostings.

Sugar blends with sour flavors for special taste effects. Sugar preserves natural color in canning and freezing and improves flavor and texture. Sugar, of course, is the essence of candies and frostings.

Imperial Sugar's unusual Stagecoach Pie is reminiscent of an earlier era when housewives had to be resourceful — much as housewives are learning to be in today's climate of shortages and high prices. Then, as now, eggs were not always available. Or were very expensive. Nuts were a luxury. And prices were extravagantly high. Like today.

Stagecoach Pie is a simple, yet delicious, old fashioned dessert using a few easily available ingredients. Quick to make, it's especially good served warm with a tangy drizzle of raspberry sauce or strained, warmed apricot preserves.

STAGECOACH PIE
1/2 Cup Imperial Granu-

WHEN THERE'S no time to make pie, there's more than enough time to make this one. "Stagecoach Pie" is a marvel of simplicity and delicious good eating.

lated Sugar
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1 1/4 cups light cream or evaporated milk
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted and cooled
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Nutmeg
9 in. unbaked pie shell

Mix sugar and flour. Add cream, margarine and vanilla and stir to blend well. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake at 350 degrees 40 to 45 minutes or until pie tests done by inserting silver knife in middle. Pie is done if mixture does not cling to knife.

Panama Canal Pact Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A preliminary agreement to return the Panama Canal and Canal Zone to Panama has been reached by negotiators for the two countries, U.S. sources say.

The accord is said to cover such issues as Panamanian sovereignty over the area, defense of the canal and the construction of a new canal large enough to handle super tankers.

U.S. government sources stressed the agreement is not binding on this country but merely a preliminary step to be used as the basis of further negotiations leading to the drafting of a new Panama Canal treaty. Such a treaty would have to be approved by Congress.

NO DATE

The sources said the accord was reached by roving U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Panamanian Foreign Minister Juan Antonio Tack. Bunker held talks with Tack in Panama Nov. 28 through Dec. 3, and Jan. 6 through Jan. 8.

The preliminary accord does not set a date by which the United States would relinquish jurisdiction over the canal and sources say this one area could be the most difficult for negotiators to overcome.

One source said that while Panama would like to have the canal within 10 years, the United States would like to relinquish its control gradually, over a period of 40 to 50 years.

And, still to be gauged before the broad set of principles can be used for further negotiations towards a draft treaty is the reaction of Congress and other U.S. agencies with an interest in the canal. These include the Defense, Commerce and Interior departments.

DRAFT TREATY

A government source said an adverse reaction by a number of key congressmen could create difficulties for the tentative accord.

In any event, the source said, months of additional negotiations lie ahead before a new draft treaty could be ready for presentation to Congress.

The 53-mile-long Panama Canal has been under U.S. control since 1903 when the two countries signed a treaty giving the United States jurisdiction over the Canal Zone and canal "in perpetuity."

Negotiations to rewrite the treaty were started in 1964, shortly after anti-U.S. riots in Panama that stemmed largely from U.S. control of the canal area.

Tuesday was the 10th anniversary of those riots.

Big Increase In Defense Spending Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's proposed fiscal 1975 budget will call for an increase in defense spending exceeding $5 billion, higher than earlier estimates, says Budget Director Roy Ash.

Ash, head of the Office of Management and Budget, said in an interview that it will take $5 billion to finance higher pay and price increases for the military. On top of that, the defense budget will contain "a number of initiatives" to add to present programs, he said.

"It will be a fully adequate defense budget," Ash said. "It will do more than just make up for the high cost of material and the higher pay to those in the service."

He called the increase "the right thing to do in the world as it now is."

The defense budget for the fiscal year that ends June 30 is $79 billion. Although Ash gave no figure, sources indicated that the increase could be as much as $6 billion to $8 billion.

"As for the budget as a whole, Ash said it would carry a deficit of between $6 billion and $10 billion.

While not providing a precise figure on what the budget would be, Ash said he did not see any way of avoiding going over $300 billion. This would be an increase of at least $27 billion.

Ash said the new spending program will include funds for a start on national health insurance, although he said it will be 1977 before that proposed program would have a significant dollar impact on the budget. Nixon is expected to detail his national health insurance plan soon and send legislation to Congress early this year.

Ash said the budget will contain significant amounts for research and development in energy. The budget will reflect a 5-year, $10 billion energy research program recommended by Dixy Lee Ray, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Ash said the administration energy research proposal would not vary substantially from the AEC plan, which calls for federal spending of $1.6 billion in the first year.

The research program would put heavy emphasis on development of coal and would continue present programs to develop nuclear energy, Ash said.

Ash said the budget will contain a new revenue sharing program for transportation, under which money can be sent out to localities to spend for their transportation needs.

Ant Named For Baylor

WACO, Tex. (AP)—When Baylor University was founded by and named after Judge R. E. B. Baylor, Judge Baylor probably never suspected an insect would be named for him 128 years later.

Neivamyrmex baylori is an ant. He is 5.8 millimeters long, his head is .375 millimeters high and .925 millimeters wide. He is the only ant ever named after Baylor.

Neivamyrmex baylori hasn't always had such a fancy name. He didn't have a name at all until Dr. Julian F. Watkins II, Baylor associate professor of biology found him and named him.

Watkins said this particular ant was collected Oct. 3, 1972, in a trap on the side of Sid Richardson Science Building on campus.

Watkins examined it and discovered that it was an "undescribed species" that had never been named. Watkins described, named and illustrated it. The results of his work recently were published in the Journal of the Kansas Entomological Society.

Watkins knew that the ant never had been identified because he is an expert on ants, particularly army ants. Neivamyrmex is the genus name for army ants, and baylori is the species name.

The taxonomy of army ants is "Watkins' spare time research hobby." He has studied army ants about 14 years, and he said it takes at least five years of study and practice to be able to recognize a new species.

As the only active army ant taxonomist in the Americas today, Watkins' services in identifying ants are called upon often.

In the past year, he identified more than 4,000 army ants for the United States National Museum.

Women's Sports Special Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Shortly after joining ABC Sports as a staff producer last March, Eleanor Riger cooked up a 20-minute private film to illustrate an idea she had for a women's sports special.

She showed some of the brass at ABC and the Colgate Co. and, she says, "on the strength of that they said go ahead."

Tonight, ABC-TV is showing what that go-ahead and more than five months of work produced — a one-hour study, hosted by Dinah Shore, of the famous and not-so-famous women of the sports world.

As far as television coverage of women's sports goes, says Mrs. Riger, "this special is quite a leap forward because it's in prime time and we had a very decent budget for it."

"And if it's successful — well, I know that it is thought of as sort of a pilot for future specials like this in prime time."

Mrs. Riger, who began in TV here in 1957 as a production assistant on a WNBC-TV show called "The Open Mind," hopes tonight's effort will open more executive minds to the idea that women's sports contests aren't limited in viewer appeal and deserve more regular TV coverage.

"What we're trying to show," she said, "is that women's sports, which haven't been shown that much on television, have a certain excitement, exhilaration and beauty that differs from men's sports, that women's sports are more involved in skill and coordination and grace, and based less on strength and stamina."

The basic thrust, she said, is to show "that women should have the opportunity to compete in sports as anybody would, not necessarily compete against men, but simply do their own thing."

Billie Jean King, who has shown Bobby Riggs the racquet is mightier than the word, is on tonight's show, as are Princess Anne, Olympic gymnastic champion Olga Korbut, Olympic track star Cheryl Toussaint and golfing ace Susan Berning.

Tax Assistance As Close As Telephones Of Texans

By The Associated Press

Texas income taxpayers, whether they live on an isolated ranch or in the heart of a metropolitan complex, now find that tax assistance is as close as their telephone.

However, residents of the Texas cities where field offices are located no longer will be able to talk to their local Internal Revenue Service employees on the telephone about taxes.

Instead, they will call either Austin or Dallas, headquarters of the two IRS districts in Texas.

DOORS OPEN

At the same time, said an IRS spokesman in Dallas, "our doors are always open" where there are field offices for persons wanting help face to face.

Previously, taxpayers who did not live in a field office city either had to telephone long distance at their own expense or make a trip to get direct IRS assistance.

But the main reason for the new system is to give uniform advice from specially trained assistants.

"We have 17 different field offices in the Dallas district," said the spokesman, and when changes occur as quickly as they often do, it is hard to communicate directly and accurately throughout the area."

Dallas alone will have 200 special telephone lines operated by assistants who can easily be informed of developments.

SAME ADVICE

"The advice will be the same whether the caller is in Abilene, Longview or New York," said the spokesman.

The number for the Dallas district is 1-800-492-4830. The Austin number is 1-800-252-1000.

Persons in field offices can be reached by telephone if the caller knows the private number of the person being called. This is nothing new, said the spokesman.

He said IRS numbers never have been printed in telephone directories except those for tax assistance.

Persons needing to reach an IRS employe in a field office may call the long-distance number, state his need, and IRS will have the local revenue service agent call that person.

Elderly Can't Be Taken For Granted Any Longer

Age, the great universalizer, is bringing up a new generation of elderly — a generation that can't be taken for granted.

Better educated and more articulate than the past, the increasing segment of population over 65 years of age is discovering it has political clout, Mrs. Thomas Salter said in an address to the Downtown Lions Wednesday.

Forty years ago 5 per cent of the population fit into this age bracket; today the figure is 10 per cent. Before the end of the decade the nation will add four million more, and by the end of the century there will be 29 million of them, she said. The percentage as total will climb even more rapidly because of declining birth rate.

Only 15 per cent of the voting age falls in this bracket, but that 15 per cent vote with great regularity so that their political potential is almost twice as great, she said.

The rising segment of the elderly, having set its sights on peace of mind, is not going to be content to be those made newly poor by inflation, or to settle for "an age of emptiness," Mrs. Salter added. More likely the new generation of the elderly will not so much demand the traditional respect for the aged as it will, by action, earn it, she said.

President John Smith reminded that the Spring-Webb Club will have its charter night Jan. 26 at 7:30 p.m. with E. B. (Tex) Mayer as the speaker. The Midland Downtown Club will furnish entertainment for the occasion.

Human Behavior Research Tips

HOUSTON (AP)—A California psychiatrist says research on human behavior sometimes provokes controversy and hostility.

Dr. Robert E. Litman of the University of California School of Medicine said opposition and confrontation are more likely when the research includes experiments with humans and the results may have political and social applications.

Litman told scientists attending a symposium here on behavior and brain electrical activity that researchers must consider the potential uses and abuses of their research results, encourage public discussion and repeatedly clarify issues.

Opponents have valid points, he said, and criticisms often can be constructively incorporated into research.

For example, he said, if prisoners are to be used in experiments, the experiments might be monitored by the prisoners themselves.

Super Bowl Fans Arrive

HOUSTON (AP) — Super Bowl fans—about 50,000—start flocking here today and city officials and business are assembling buses, limousines and airplane parking spaces to accommodate them.

Managers of both major airports here are putting on extra employees to handle the expected mob. Bus companies are scouring the state for wheels. And the operator of a limousine service is charging a $250 minimum on game day and bringing in the big cars from as far away as Seattle, Wash., to fill the demand.

CHARTERED JETS
Joseph H. Coulter, manager of Houston Intercontinental, said he has reservations at his terminals for 21 chartered jetliners Friday, seven Saturday and 12 before game time Sunday.

In addition, he said, scheduled airlines are laying on expanded flights, chiefly from Minnesota and Florida, to handle the fans flocking here to see the Vikings and the Miami Dolphins play in Super Bowl VIII.

Normal passenger traffic runs about 15,000 persons a day at Intercontinental, Coulter said.

"My rough estimate is that we will have about 30,000 extra passengers through the airport in the three days leading up to the game."

BIG CRUSH
At William P. Hobby Airport, which handled commercial flights before Intercontinental airport opened but now has mostly general aviation traffic, a big crush is also expected.

W. J. Rosene, manager of Hobby, said between 20 and 25 commercial-type charter jets are expected. He expects so many smaller executive aircraft, he added, that many will have to be parked off the regular taxiways and on grass.

John C. Johnson, president of Houston's Limousine Service Inc., said he has brought in 60 of the big cars, almost tripling his fleet.

Even with the $250 a day price, Johnson said, "We've got cars and orders everywhere. I've hired three extra porters to wash cars."

Tom Tyson, city public service director, said three bus companies here have between 350 and 425 buses to haul fans from the airport to hotels and from hotels to the Rice Stadium site of the game.

Bus companies have brought in vehicles from around the state and also plan to press into service between 80 and 100 school buses, Tyson said.

NEW SPY PLANES — The first two prototype "Remotely Piloted Vehicles" turned out by Teledyne Ryan's San Diego plant occupy room with officials at recent unveiling. The crafts were built under $10-million contract for the Air Force.

Revive Customs Patrol To Battle Smugglers

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. Customs Patrol, abolished in 1947, was back in strength Wednesday trying to stop smuggling on the Texas-Mexican border.

The patrol actually began reorganizing in November and was announced this week as fully operational.

Laredo Dist. Customs Director William F. Hughes said that Jack D. Compton, who has had extensive Texas law enforcement experience, has assumed duties as assistant customs director for the patrol.

The patrol now has 32 officers stationed in Laredo. Most are new residents who came here with their families.

Hughes said that because of an increase in smuggling, the Customs Service decided to revive the patrol to supplement its inspectors at the international bridges.

Compton said a McAllen office will open Jan. 21. Long-range plans call for up to 100 patrol officers for the Laredo district which stretches from Brownsville to Del Rio.

Inspector Will Get Chief's Job

HOUSTON (AP) — Capt. Carrol M. Lynn of the Houston Police Department, due to be confirmed as the city's new police chief today, was raised to the rank of inspector by Mayor Fred Hofheinz.

Hofheinz said he took the action to protect Lynn's career in the police department. The chief's job is a political appointment and if he should lose it Lynn would be able to resume the top civil service rank he had held before being appointed chief.

An inspector is paid $900 bi-weekly while a captain makes $720 bi-weekly under the current pay schedule.

"We feel this program will be a huge success, not only against narcotics but against other illegal exports and imports," Compton said.

He pointed out that the Customs Patrol in Florida already has been responsible for seizure of 24 tons of marijuana.

In the Laredo district, operating earlier with a small, developing staff, the patrol has seized 1,400 pounds of marijuana since November.

"We have the full cooperation of all state, local, state and federal agencies," Compton said. "We recently recovered some stolen weapons which we turned over to the local police and several arrests were made."

Compton, 38, has been with the government 12 years. For the last seven years he was in the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. He is a former chief of police in Kingville, Tex., and a former deputy sheriff at Beeville.

Nixon's First Milkshake In 13 Years

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon spent a secluded night in this desert resort community after celebrating his 61st birthday with a cake, a hamburger and his first milkshake in 13 years.

Escaping the gray, wet weather at the Western White House in San Clemente, Nixon traveled Wednesday to the heavily guarded estate of publishing millionaire Walter H. Annenberg, U.S. ambassador to Great Britain.

Nixon was accompanied on the 85-mile limousine ride by his wife, Pat; daughter, Tricia Cox; and his Florida neighbor, C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

On arriving, the Nixons found warm, sunny weather and made a short shopping trip to downtown Palm Springs.

Western White House staff members held a surprise party for the President Wednesday morning. They presented him with a large cake and 61 red roses.

Then he left on the unannounced trip, which was confirmed to newsmen after they heard it through the grapevine. The outing was another in a recent series of motor trips Nixon has taken without informing newsmen.

The Nixon party accompanied by security agents and support personnel, drove past the President's birthplace in Yorba Linda and later stopped for lunch at a MacDonald's drive-in in Banning.

ENJOYED IT
White House spokesman Gerald L. Warren said Nixon ate a double hamburger and drank a chocolate milkshake. "I really enjoyed it," Warren quoted Nixon as saying. He said Nixon told his party the milkshake was his first in 13 years.

The stop at the drive-in was believed to be the first for the Nixons since he became President in 1968. The late President Lyndon B. Johnson frequently stopped at ice cream stands during his tenure in office.

Annenberg and his wife were guests of the Nixons in San Clemente Tuesday. However, they were said to be traveling in the East when the presidential party arrived at the estate Wednesday.

Program Helps Economic Climate

A new federal program to finance local businesses or industrial development may help improve the economic climate in rural areas of Texas, according to J. Lynn Futch, Temple state director of Farmers Home Administration.

Letters of pre-application are being received, Futch said, requesting financial assistance to develop businesses under provisions of the 1972 Rural Development Act. The Farmers Home Administration, a rural credit service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, oversees the program.

"Submitting a letter of pre-application is the first step in this program," Futch explained. "Any individual or group that needs financing for industry or business in Texas should summarize ideas in a proposal and submit it to the FHA county office here, or to a private lender. Priority will be given to projects that strengthen rural communities by improving economic and employment conditions as outlined in the Rural Development Act."

Most borrowers will receive loans advanced by private lenders guaranteed up to 90 percent by FHA in rural areas and cities not over 50,000 population. Loan funds may be used to purchase machinery and equipment, to buy land, buildings and permanent fixtures, and for working capital. Public bodies also are eligible for grants to finance industrial sites that will result in development of private business enterprises.

SLOW TO 55 ON JAN. 20

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has signed a Texas Highway Commission order reducing the speed limit on the state's highways from 70 miles an hour to 55, effective Jan. 20.

The commission approved the order after a brief hearing Tuesday. Briscoe signed it later in the day.

Texas would have lost $240 million in federal highway funds if it had failed to reduce its speed limit to 55. A bill signed by President Nixon Jan. 2 orders the secretary of transportation to disapprove highway projects in states that fail to cut their speed limits to 55 in order to save fuel.

Comet Disappointment To Amateur Observers

CAMBRIDGE, Mas. (AP) — A leading comet expert says the comet Kohoutek still could be the "comet of the century" to scientists.

While early predictions of a spectacular sight on the horizon will not materialize, Dr. Brian Marsden of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said Wednesday that Kohoutek's behavior is not any more unpredictable than other comets.

"Kohoutek is a better than average comet," Dr. Marsden said. "But there is just an awful lot we don't know about these things."

DELIGHTED
"We never had a case like this of a comet which came in so close to the sun being discovered so far out in space as this one, and this presented many interesting possibilities about what it could do," he said.

Comet Kohoutek was discovered March 7 of last year by Dr. Lubos Kohoutek, an astronomer in Hamburg, West Germany. Dr. Marsden said ordinarily the comet probably would not have been discovered until October, and it would not have attracted so much attention.

"But because it was discovered so early, scientists could prepare, and speaking as an astronomer, I'm delighted at the scientific observations made. No comet has been studied as extensively as this one and what is learned should be incredible," Dr. Marsden said.

As to Kohoutek's dimness, Dr. Marsden said comets are extremely unpredictable objects which can suddenly grow brighter or dimmer, burn out completely or even split into two or more other comets.

Recent studies of new comets show that they often appear brightly at a distance from the sun but when they loop around for a return orbit they grow dimmer.

"We feel that there may be a volatile substance on the outside of the comet head which is lost on the first pass, leaving just water, ice and other material which doesn't vaporize as easily," Dr. Marsden said. It is the vapor reflecting light that is seen in the sky, and Kohoutek could have lost its vaporizing substance passing the sun.

This kind of optical illusion could have made the comet seem bigger than it turned out to be. Combined with its early discovery, this led to some initial predictions which later had to be toned down, Dr. Marsden said.

BOB DYLAN — A crowd of more than 19,000 erupted into applause Wednesday night as Bob Dylan walked onto the stage at Maple Leaf Gardens to open his first concert in Canada in eight years. Toronto is Dylan's third stop on his six-week, 21-city tour. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Rene Brown Views New Energy Sources

Rene Brown, vice president of research and engineering at Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, spoke on "Harnessing New Energy" during a meeting of the 1955 Hyperion Club Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charles Beil, 502 Highland. Cohostesses were Mrs. W. A. Moore and Mrs. L. B. Edwards.

Noting the basic sources of energy such as oil, natural gas and coal, Brown told of other ways to produce energy such as using shale oil, gasifying coal and building nuclear stations. He expressed the opinion that the current program of cutting down on gas usage, lowering thermostats, etc. are helping overcome the fuel shortage.

Mrs. C. W. Mahoney, president, conducted the brief business session, and it was announced that the next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Robert Penner, 2610 Carol.

Newcomer Club Lists Winners

Mrs. Joe Rogers, one of the hostesses for the Newcomer Bridge Club meeting Tuesday, won high score. Cohostess was Mrs. Peter Gregg. Other winners were Mrs. April Leahy, second; and Mrs. Cindy Hopkins, bridge. Mrs. Tina Hopkins and Mrs. Tina Norelius were guests of the club. The next meeting will be held at 9:15 a.m., Jan. 16, in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Committee Appointed By Club

A New Year's theme was carried out in decorations by Mrs. Ocie Mason, Mrs. Wayne Parrish and Mrs. R. D. Ulrey, hostesses for Tuesday's meeting in the Downtown Tea Room of Past Matrons Club, Big Spring Chapter 67. The table was centered with an arrangement of red roses with appropriate lettering in red and gold.

The invocation was by Mrs. Mason, and Mrs. Mary Arnold Hefley presided, reading a poem about the new year. Members reported 62 phone calls and 21 visits to sick members.

Mrs. H. S. Hanson was introduced as a guest.

The current visiting committee will be composed of Mrs. Edith Murdock, Mrs. Bernice Davis and Mrs. Ulrey. Hostesses for the Feb. 12 meeting will be Mrs. Dorothy Hull, Mrs. Charles McCarley and Mrs. Charles Graham.

— KAROLYN BEIL PITCH — Carolyn Rose, billed as "a female Howard Cosell," doesn't figure to invade the sanctity of men's locker rooms. But she's got one of the sports world's biggest stars living under the same roof. Carolyn, wife of the National League's Most Valuable Player, Pete Rose, made her debut Monday as a sports broadcaster. She began her three-times daily sports show for Newport, Ky., radio station WNOP, a floating tank anchored on the Ohio River.

Theron Lee Is Speaker College Emphasizes Continuing Education

Theron Lee, director of continuing education at Howard College, described the college's role in serving the community when he spoke Tuesday evening to Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association.

In explaining the direction in which education is going, Lee said more emphasis is being placed on adult education, including vocational and trades. Like many such plants, Howard College has geared its programs to serve the community's needs, becoming a "community college." He noted that by 1981, this type of education will be the largest industry in the United States.

"At the present time, half the college students in the United States are between the ages of 23 and 55," said Lee, "and 41 per cent of those are women." He pointed out that older persons, in increasing numbers, are returning to college to continue their education, either to further their careers, learn a skill or simply to broaden their knowledge in certain fields.

In 1973, Howard College offered 56 credit-free classes, with enrollment of 749 students. Basically, the classes are in four areas, one being special interests such as hobbies, arts and crafts, conversational Spanish, etc. The vocational and trades program features instruction in refrigeration, radio and television repair, electricity, etc. In the past, there have been classes in real estate, advertising, "powder puff" mechanics, poodle grooming and other subjects requested by community residents.

"When the community shows a need or interest in a particular subject, we will endeavor to provide that instruction," said Lee.

Mrs. George Mixon, president for the meeting, and the invocation was by Mrs. Troy White. The vocational speaker was Mrs. Henry Montgomery who described her job as a real estate salesperson with Cook and Talbot.

Guests introduced were Mrs. Ted Brown and Mrs. Robert Clark.

In other business, "A Grand March" was chosen as the theme for the March 17 spring tea. The next meeting will be Feb. 5 when Bosses Night will be held at La Posada.

Friendship Club

Greeting cards for 111 members were signed by those attending the Tuesday meeting of the Friendship Breakfast Club at Holiday Inn. Mrs. M. B. McFall, president, presided and the next meeting was slated at 9 a.m., Feb. 12, at Holiday Inn.

OES Will Meet

Coahoma Chapter 499, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet at 8 p.m., Jan. 15 in the Masonic Hall at Coahoma to confer degrees.

Gardeners Gain New Members

Mrs. Walker Bailey and Mrs. Ruby Simpson were welcomed as new members when the Oasis Garden Club met Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs. Boone Horne 1804 Indian Hills.

The program was given by a guest speaker, Dr. Paul Koshi, who discussed soil analysis. Members participated by providing soil samples for testing.

Mrs. Paschal Odom, first vice president, presided. Mrs. C. V. Wash was named chairman of the project to plant a non-bearing mulberry tree at Moss Elementary School on Arbor Day.

The next meeting will be at 9 a.m., Feb. 13 in the home of Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, 1711 Harvard.

Sorority Hears About Authors

Mr. Simon Terrazas and Mrs. Larry Harp were co-leaders for a program on literature given Tuesday evening for Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in the home of Mrs. Chuck Ogle, 1400 Birdwell. The women examined the components of fiction and non-fiction literature, briefly discussing various authors and reviewing current "best seller" lists.

Mrs. Ogle, vice president, presided as plans were finalized for the Valentine Ball Feb. 16 at Dora Roberts Community Center. The dance, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., will feature music by the Versatones, and all chapter "sweethearts" will be introduced.

Mrs. Dan Whitaker, Vincent Rt., will be hostess for the next meeting, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 22.

Date Announced For Installation

Birthday Night and a program for installation of officers, Jan. 15, was planned in the Tuesday evening meeting of Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 at the IOOF Hall.

In a short business meeting, with Mrs. E. J. Adecock, noble grand, presiding, 35 visits to the sick were reported for last week. A cleaning day and covered dish dinner were scheduled for today.

'Supernatural' Study Explores Witchcraft

Witchcraft, black magic and voodooism were explored Tuesday during the 1970 Hyperion Club's continuing study of the supernatural. Mrs. Ray Owen and Mrs. Adran Welch presented the program.

"Several centuries ago, witchcraft was as inflammatory a subject as Communism or sexual perversion is today," said Mrs. Owen, "but it seems today to no longer be considered such a serious threat to religion since most people now scoff at so-called witches and their power."

"However, that wasn't the case from the Middle Ages to the 18th century. People believed in witches then and, estimates say that as many as 9 million persons died in Europe in the name of witchcraft."

"Certain modern anthropologists believe that witches were using pagan rituals which were derived from the worship of ancient fertility gods."

Mrs. Owen explained that many witches were not consciously worshipping the Satan or Devil of Christian origin but, from the Middle Ages forward, looking on witches as religious heretics.

Under the prevailing guilty-unless-proven-innocent attitude, dunking was one of the popular tests to which an accused witch was put, according to Mrs. Owen. An innocent person was supposed to sink, whereas, a witch would float. Death was likely to be the outcome either way.

Terry Hanson On Honor Roll

Terry Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hanson, Rt. 2, has been named to the dean's honor roll at Angelo State University. Receiving a degree in business administration at Howard County Junior College and a graduate of Big Spring High School, Hanson is furthering his education in business administration at Angelo State and anticipates graduating in May.

Making a rough distinction between a black magician and a witch, Mrs. Welch explained that the former depends largely on things like 'medicine' plants, roots, human nails and hair and life-like images. A witch, on the other hand, supposedly possesses more inner magical power.

Another distinction, she said, is that the majority of black magicians have been men, and the majority of witches women.

"Magic attempts to make use of mysterious forces which most people cannot control and do not believe in," said Mrs. Welch. "A black magician is one who does this for evil purposes."

In conclusion, Mrs. Welch said black magicians exist today but they are few because there are few people who can dedicate themselves to a total reversal of accepted roles of society.

Next month's study will cover extra sensory perception, with the club meeting in the home of Mrs. Robert Knight.

ROYAL VIKING LINE FILM REVIEW

You're cordially invited to attend the premier Big Spring showing of the new ROYAL VIKING LINE cruising movie. Come and see these beautiful new ships, what cruises are really like, and their exciting ports of call. A representative from Captain Travel will be there to answer your questions on what you always wanted to know about cruises, but were afraid to ask.

Only one showing will be held. It will be at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, January 11th at the Big Spring Country Club and everyone is welcome. There will not be an admission charge and refreshments will be served. Be sure to register for the door prizes.

Fuel To Fire

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My father died three months ago after a long and difficult illness. I looked after his needs daily, while my brother and his wife looked out the window. After the funeral I let my brother have it, but good, and we haven't spoken since.

My husband, however, never did bear a grudge against my brother. He still plays golf with him, and they are the best of friends. This really hurts me, Abby. Don't you think that out of loyalty to me my husband should not be talking around with my brother?

REMEMBERS DADDY
DEAR REMEMBERS: Not necessarily. I think your husband is showing more maturity than you. I agree, you have good reason to be upset with your brother, but what's to be gained by perpetuating a family feud? It's already causing trouble between you and your husband. Try to forget the past and work toward improving your relationship with your brother. It may take a while, but if you start now, the happy ending will come sooner.

DEAR ABBY: My parents and I get along great except when it comes to their ideas on how I should dress.

I am not allowed to wear midriffs, halteres, or anything that shows my lower back. Also, I can't show my stomach or belly button. (To them, if a girl shows her belly button, it's as bad as going naked.)

It's unbelievable how old-fashioned they are in some ways, considering how modern they are in other ways.

Oh, I'm a 15-year-old girl. I really love my parents and realize they care about me, but do they have to restrict my clothing like they do?

ST. CLOUD, FLA.
DEAR SAINT: You should thank your lucky stars they do. There are a lot of weirdos running around who don't need anything more than an exposed belly button to set them off.

DEAR ABBY: I suppose I am about the 100,000th girl with the same problem. I've fallen in love with a married man. He's my boss. He's 20 years older than

I am, but we really are crazy about each other. His wife knew about us from the start and sort of accepted it, but he kept putting off leaving her, so I moved out of town and tried to forget him. He called and begged me to come back, promising to divorce his wife, so I came back. Well, he stalled some more.

It's been over a year now. I'm still seeing him, and I'm back where I started from. Recently I called his wife and she was just great. She said she knew how much her husband loved me and would give him a divorce in a minute, but HE didn't want one.

I talked to him and he said his wife was mentally unbalanced and not responsible for what she said, and I shouldn't pay any attention to it.

Who can I believe? And what should I do?

IN A TRAP
DEAR IN: Get out of his life — and out of town, if necessary, and forget him. And if he calls you again, don't have any more dialog with him. He's had news.

Northridge Club Studies Ecology

Northridge 4-H Club viewed a film on ecology, "The Land Betrayed," at a Tuesday meeting in the Raymond Phillips home, Snyder Highway. Dick E'arhart, president, introduced a guest, Miss Sherry Mullin, Howard County home demonstration agent, who discussed food projects. Refreshments were served.

Calling All Home Makers

Brought to you by Ted Hatfield

DON'T BE AFRAID TO USE MORE COLOR

One of the biggest trends in the home furnishing field in the last few years is the amazing increase in the use of color — as homes are decorated more colorfully now than at any time in history.

Actually, in recent years, all the so-called old rules of color-combinations have been left behind. Do you remember when it was wrong to mix reds and pinks, or greens and blues? Now, of course, these are among the most popular combinations used.

More and more, we see more and more colors in decorating — and more color combinations. This is a major trend and is likely to continue stronger than ever.

Just as all TV and telephones used to be without color, and now they are seen in all different colors, so a variety of colors is shown in all furnishings in the home, as never before.

If you still prefer the so-called neutral colors such as greys, blacks or whites for your major colors, be sure to use a bright splash of color now and then in a room on some accessories and furniture to keep your room from being drab.

If you would like some assistance in choosing major colors or simply accent pieces, please stop in. There's no obligation, and we'll be glad to help you bring more color and life to your home. Shop us for carpet and custom draperies. If you can't come in, just call and we will bring samples to your home.
