

Con-Con Delegates Hear From Shivers

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Gov. Allan Shivers told legislative delegates of the Constitutional Convention today that he thought the Texas governor should appoint the state's attorney general.

POWER
"I'm one of the few who think that," he told the Executive Committee. "The present governor is the chief law enforcement officer of the state but he has no power along that line except in power of appointment to boards and agencies." Shivers, who was governor from 1949 to 1957 and lieutenant governor and state senator before that, said he also believed Texas governor should have the power to remove anyone they appoint, for a specific cause and after a hearing.

"But I do not think our governor is as weak an executive as some say," Shivers told the crowded hearing room. He said he does not favor giving the governor power to reduce legislative appropriations or for him to appoint board chairmen immediately after being elected.

NO NEED
"I might say in a jocular vein," Shivers said, "that when I was in the Senate and lieutenant governor, I didn't see any need for the executive department. Of course, when I got to be governor I saw no need for the legislature."

In the Finance Committee, Russell Perry, chairman of the Dallas, chairman of the Texas Good Roads Association, pushed hard for retention of the present state gasoline tax in the constitution. Currently the tax is split three-fourths for highways and one-fourth for schools.

"In recommending the retention of a constitution provision for road support, we honestly believe there is no other way to keep the economy of this state rolling," Perry said.

Perry warned that the energy crisis will reduce income from the state gasoline tax. "The estimated 20 per cent shortage of gasoline will reduce income by the same percentage," he said.

He said that while the future will bring greater proportion of small automobiles, there will be more of them. And trucks will be loaded heavier, causing more wear and tear on highways.

Former Gov. Preston Smith, now of Lubbock, will appear before the Executive Committee on Friday. Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, committee chairman has invited all governors and lieutenant governors, present and past, to appear and say what changes they think are needed in the executive department of state government. "With the debate over the powers of the governor and what they should be, the testimony of the two former governors who have been there should be of great interest," Meier said.

LINING UP Military Base Closings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials say the Pentagon is looking to cut costs by about $500 million a year with a new round of military base closings and reductions.

The individual armed services have started submitting base lists for consideration by Defense officials, the Associated Press has learned. Final decisions have not yet been made.

RE-ELECTION BATTLES

Because of the nation's economic troubles officials anticipate more resistance than usual in the next round.

Congressmen always object to shutting down bases in their home districts and Pentagon officials expect them to oppose such moves even more strongly now because of concern that their affected constituents may have difficulty getting other jobs in a faltering economy.

What's more, every member of the House and one-third of the Senate, except for the few who are retiring, will be aware of coming battles for re-election this fall and thus may fight even harder against base closings.

There may be an additional hurdle for the Pentagon this time inside the Nixon administration.

HARD TO SELL

Some senior administration officials are said to feel that the defense job level should be maintained to help prop up the economy. These officials may be hard to sell on further base shutdowns.

On the other hand, the Pentagon is heading for a record defense budget next year, some $6 billion to $7 billion bigger than this year's $7.9 billion spending level.

The armed services still occupy 451 major bases in the United States and another 323 overseas, plus many hundreds of smaller installations.

Whack In Tax Breaks For Oil Firms Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to reduce the tax breaks available to U.S. oil companies operating overseas and to ease the demands of present clean air laws.

OIL DEPLETION

The President sent Congress a new energy message urging passage of the emergency legislation previously proposed and adding some new proposals.

Nixon's new measure would, if adopted:

—Eliminate the 22 per cent depletion allowance granted U.S. companies producing oil abroad.

—Reduce the amount of foreign income tax which U.S. oil companies can credit directly against their taxes in the United States.

—Extend for two more years the emission standards now applying to 1975 automobiles.

—Remove the present requirement for a 90 per cent reduction in nitrogen oxide emissions in 1976 cars. —Extend the legal deadline for meeting clean air standards in metropolitan areas which otherwise would end "unreasonable transportation controls."

CLEAN AIR

—Permit temporary relaxation of clean air deadlines and requirements for power plants and other sources which cannot get an adequate supply of clean energy.

—Speed the licensing and construction of atomic power plants by encouraging standardized plant designs, establishing an inventory of approved locations for future power plants and separating the questions of site approval from reactor licensing.

Meanwhile, at the Capitol, the Senate's investigating subcommittee chaired by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., continued into a third day its hearings on the energy crisis. Executives of seven leading oil firms were witnesses.

START SLAPPING

Jackson became angry at one point when Exxon vice president Roy A. Baze was unable to provide some figures on his firm's fourth quarter earnings. "These are just childish responses, Mr. Baze," Jackson said, adding "I guess we're going to have to start slapping subpoenas on some of you."

Jackson reported earlier that the administration is considering rolling back prices on domestic oil production.

Jackson, one of the most influential Congress members in the energy field, emerged from a meeting of Nixon and bipartisan Senate-House leaders to report a price rollback as a possibility.

The Nixon message was expected to include a proposal to tax excess profits by the oil companies, a matter of growing congressional interest.

William E. Simon, the administration's energy policy chief, was reported by Jackson to have authority to order the price rollback on new domestic oil production which the senator termed essential.

Jackson conceded legislation would be needed to cut the prices on output from stripper wells producing no more than 10 barrels a day.

Israeli Tanks Rolling Back From West Bank

By The Associated Press

Israeli troops and tanks began pulling back from the west bank of the Suez Canal today, two days ahead of schedule, military sources said.

The Israelis, withdrawing to lines about 12 miles east of the canal, also began digging up thousands of land mines and communications lines from the sands of occupied Egypt proper.

The desert road from Cairo to the city of Suez at the southern terminus of the canal was opened to the Egyptians, the sources said. The road has been closed since last October's Arab-Israeli war when Israeli forces occupied almost 1,000 square miles west of the canal.

Cairo newspapers published reports from Israel saying helicopters and convoys of trucks were moving the Israeli equipment off the west bank.

The withdrawal was scheduled to begin Friday at the latest in accordance with the Egyptian-Israeli disengagement agreement negotiated last week by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Egyptian and Israeli generals were to meet again today at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road to complete the arrangements for the disengagement. The two chiefs of staff, Lt. Gen. Mohammed Gamazy and Lt. Gen. David Elazar, are to sign agreements covering these arrangements at a meeting Thursday.

The withdrawal of forces is to be completed by March 5, with the Israelis occupying new positions some 20 miles east of the canal, a United Nations force between the two armies and the Egyptian forces on the east bank of the canal reduced.

Majority Stock In Intech Is Acquired By TelePro

ELT, Inc. (AMEX), announced today that its subsidiary TelePro Industries Incorporated ("TelePro"), has acquired from The LTV Corporation of Dallas, an 80 per cent interest in International Technovation, Inc. ("Intech").

Intech, with plants in Nesquehoning, Penn., Malvern, Ark., and Big Spring, is a large domestic manufacturer of polystyrene extruded products for the food packaging industry with sales in excess of $7,000,000 in 1973.

TelePro has agreed to acquire the minority 20 per cent interest in Intech owned by Cosden Oil & Chemical Company of Big Spring, a subsidiary of American Petrofina, Inc.

TelePro Industries Incorporated, which is traded over-the-counter, manufactures disposable plastic utensils under the name Clear Shield and plastic products for the broadcast and recording industries under the name Fidelipac and is a distributor of long-life lighting products.

As a result of the acquisition, TelePro will become a major supplier of plastic utensils and trays in the institutional, industrial and consumer fields, said Dennis Boardman, president of TelePro Industries.

Intech announced plans for its facility here in May 1970 and opened for production in December that year. Cosden acquired its 20 per cent interest in the facility April 17, 1972. President of Intech is Granville Hahn, Dallas, formerly of Big Spring.

Heavy Snow In West Texas Cuts Travel

By The Associated Press

Heavy snow across West and Southwest Texas today sharply reduced highway visibility in mountainous areas but weathermen said the flakes would change to rain.

Temperatures were just above freezing in most of the snowfall areas, turning the snow to slush after it settled on the ground and roadways.

Travel warnings were posted along Interstate 10 east of El Paso because of the poor visibility and slick pavement.

Snowflakes sifted down around Midland and Odessa, and they were mixed with occasional rain through the region embracing Guadalupe Pass east of El Paso, Barnhart, Pecos, Sweetwater, Seminole and Guthrie.

Rainfall in other areas popped out along and behind a cold front still easing southward through the coastal plains in early morning. Some of the heavier storms, unloading rain at rates up to two inches per hour, were concentrated along and south of a line linking Mexico, Belton and Marble Falls in the state's midsection.

Light Snowfall Blankets Area

A light snowfall was whitewashing Big Spring for the second time this year, two days after a record temperature.

Monday, station thermometers touched 83 degrees, compared to a previous all time high on the date of 82 in 1950.

Temperature stood at 33 degrees at 8 a.m. today.

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of Americans are finding beef prices on the rise after a brief spell of stability. An Associated Press survey shows beef prices at the retail level rose 10 and 20 cents a pound on most items in the past two weeks. The boosts reflect higher wholesale costs — up about 25 or 30 per cent since the beginning of December. People in the industry say the higher wholesale costs are the result of production cutbacks stemming from last year's freeze. Government officials said Tuesday retail food costs during 1973 rose 20.1 per cent. The December boost was three-tenths of one per cent.

Pearson Will Be Speaker

The annual National Prayer Breakfast will be observed at Webb AFB Jan. 31 in conjunction with the breakfast in Washington, D.C., according to Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Kenneth Summy.

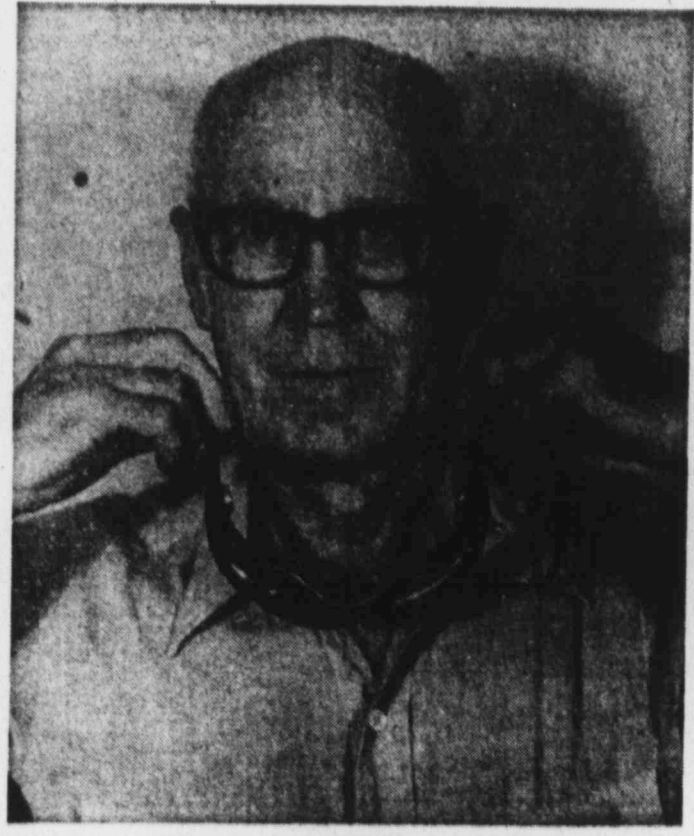

Chaplain Summy said attendance at the breakfast is voluntary, and open to all Webb personnel. Also attending the 7:30 a.m. breakfast at the NCO Club will be many Big Spring city officials.

W. B. (Dub) Pearson, publisher of the Big Spring Herald, is slated to give the address. While the general theme of the occasion is "Freedom Under God", Chaplain Summy added that Mr. Pearson's emphasis will be Freedom of the Press.

On that same day in the Nation's capital, a breakfast will be held in the Washington Hilton Hotel. The Secretary of Defense requested command officers throughout the Armed Forces to provide their people opportunity for local observances.

Chaplain Summy said Col. Robert Liotta, wing commander, urged local participation, and concluded, "It is one way of marking and commemorating the moral values inherent in our Nation's foundation."

Chaplain (Major) Neil Daley, project officer for the breakfast, said reservations, which are necessary, can be made by calling extension 2509 or 2211 at Webb by Jan. 29.

ROBERT B. CROSSLEY With snore suppressor

Visitor Claims He Has Perfected Snore Cure

By MARJ CARPENTER The cure to snoring is to deliberately form a mental block. This claim is made by Robert B. Crossley of Corpus Christi, Tex., who was in Big Spring this week showing off his invention, a snore suppressor.

"People joke about snoring. But to millions of Americans, it is no laughing matter," Crossley stated.

"Since I have advertised this device in a tiny ad in three national magazines, I've had some pitiful letters. One man wrote from a federal penitentiary. 'I hope your device works. The fellows in my cell block say that I keep them all awake and I actually fear for my life if something doesn't stop my snoring.'"

A bride of six weeks wrote and said, "I hope this saves my marriage. My husband just can't believe a girl snores... loud."

The snore suppressor patented by Crossley, looks similar to a dog collar. It holds two small batteries, an electronics device and two electrodes. It holds a tiny microphone that picks up the snore, it then issues a tiny electric shock that makes your shoulder muscles jerk.

After several nights and several tiny electric shocks, no stronger than one receives walking across a carpet, the mind forms a mental block and the snoring stops.

For some persons it takes longer and for a few it takes several months, Crossley reports.

Crossley, a retired civilian engineer with the Air Force, obtained the idea after reading about a case where a young girl was cured from a case of Hiccups (which lasted 1 1/2 years) by electric shock treatment. It was then that Crossley went to work and invented his snore suppressor.

Crossley and his wife traveled to Arizona during the recent Christmas holidays in their mobile home, went up to Colorado and then stopped in Big Spring on the way back to Corpus.

"I used to come to, or through, Big Spring often during the Depression years," Crossley stated. "At that time, Texas heavy load regulations would only allow two cars to be transported at once and I used to drive a truck with two cars from Oklahoma City."

Anyone interested in the snoring device can obtain additional information by writing Crossley at Box 8143 in Corpus Christi.

He offers his item on a money-back guarantee and said he receives back only about one in 25.

Crossley recalls, "I used to be quite a snorer. I know I sounded terrible because my son, now in the Navy, tape-recorded me when he was 12 years old. I just couldn't believe those noises were coming out of me."

And he added, "I know one thing. Silence is indeed golden to persons who live with people with a severe snoring problem."

Dallas Firm Gains Pact

COLORADO CITY — Dahlstrom Corp., Dallas, won the contract for construction of a combination guard rail-fence barrier at four IS-20 railroad crossings.

The Dallas firm submitted the low bid of $383,112. Approximately 4,000 lineal feet of fence will be installed at each location said Bill Cooper, assistant resident engineer for the Texas Highway Department at Colorado City.

One section of the steel post guard rail with mounted three foot fence will be built east of Coahoma at a Texas & Pacific Railway crossing.

Another length will be constructed in Mithcell at a T & P intersection near Loraine.

A Santa Fe crossing and another T&P crossing both east of Sweetwater, also will be protected with the barrier.

Henley Slated To Testify Thursday On Six Killings

HOUSTON (AP)—District Court Judge William Hatten said today he may order a change of venue in the mass murders case in which 27 young boys were slain.

Hatten said he can move the trial on his own initiative although defense lawyers have said they do not want a change in the trial's location. Dist. Atty. Carol Vance has said he will support any effort to move the trial.

The judge said he must weigh whatever problems have been caused by extensive news reporting of the case against Elmer Wayne Henley's right to be tried in his own community with witnesses nearby.

Henley, 17, is accused of six of the 27 killings.

Hatten discussed the possible change of venue after a two-hour conference with lawyers.

He then recessed the pretrial hearings until Thursday.

Purpose of the hearings is to decide the admissibility of written and oral statements Henley gave police after his arrest.

Henley's lawyer, Will Gray, said he will seek a six-month delay in the trial to permit news of the event to subside.

The other defendant in the case, David Owen Brooks, is scheduled for trial March 4 and his lawyers have said they will seek a change of venue.

Timothy Kerley, 20, testified Tuesday that he was also marked for death and that only Henley's gunplay saved him.

"I had enough sense to be aware that I was to be killed," Kerley testified. That was before Henley shot and killed

Businessmen Buy 'Chicken Ranch'

HOUSTON (AP) — The new owners of the "Chicken Ranch" say the former La Grange brothel maybe should be proclaimed a Texas historical monument.

Two Houston businessmen purchased the establishment last week from Edna Milton. The price was not disclosed but one of them said it was a "bargain."

The new owners, who do not want their names used, said they are not making a moral judgement about whether the Chicken Ranch should have existed.

"But it was there, at least since 1915, some say since the Republic," they said. "It's part of Texas history worth preserving."

The Chicken Ranch, said by many to be one of the state's oldest business institutions, was closed by the state last year at the request of Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

For their money the new owners received a 12-bedroom house and 12 acres of land.

They said they had no trouble obtaining financial backing in the purchase.

"We've been approached by several banks; they all want to carry the loan," they said. They also said several Houston businessmen want to move the Chicken Ranch to Houston and reopen it as a restaurant. La Grange is 60 miles west of here.

Costa Kaldis, a young Houston real estate man, said he handled the transaction. Kaldis, fresh out of college, said it was his first sale.

He said the former owner was a "real businesswoman."

Many Good Seats Still Available For CC Show

Ticket sales are slow for the Leroy Van Dyke and Susan Haney show the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring in City Auditorium Feb. 1 at 7:30 p.m.

"We have many $4 (middle) and $3 (under and inn balcony) seats left. Van Dyke and Miss Haney will perform for an hour and a half and only 15 minutes will be devoted to Chamber of Commerce business (installing the new president and giving awards). We want our young people as well as the adult public to attend. This is the first time we've done something like this, and we hope to make it an annual event," Ron Mercer, the Chamber's manager, said today.

Leroy Van Dyke is a country western singer who has worked across the country. His successes have included "The Auctioneer" and "Walk On By."

Miss Haney has appeared with Hee-Haw Archie Campbell and performed at over 50 major fairs last year. These Country Western singers will comprise the first Chamber-sponsored entertainment program in recent years.

"In the years past, we've always had an annual banquet where you pay $7.50 a ticket, hear a long boring speech, and it has no class whatsoever, considering the money and effort involved. We decided to have nothing in 1973. We tried breakfast club meetings to get our membership together, but our guests eventually outnumbered members in attendance."

"So the 1973 Chamber of Commerce President, George McAlister, decided we should do something in 1974. But he too was against a boring type program. He thought an entertainment program open to the public would be a better idea, and Van Dyke is a personal friend of McAlister's, Mercer added.

Mercer also said ticket buyers must come by the Chamber of Commerce office on West 3rd St. to pick up their tickets.

Takes Time To Change

The nation's automakers face a dilemma from which there is no immediate escape. They have more than enough capacity to produce large cars, while a suddenly energy-conscious public is demanding smaller, more economical cars which cannot now be produced in quantities to meet that demand.

Worst of all, some believe that the automakers cannot complete the transition to small car manufacturing in great volume in less than two to six years. The tool and die industry in the United States simply could not turn out the new tools and dies needed for expansion of small car production in less than two to four years. Building new plants and bringing them into production could require an additional two years. As a result, imports of compact cars are expected to rise substantially in the interim.

This is bad news for Detroit. But it is also very bad news for the economy. An estimated 500,000 workers are dependent on the auto industry, the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association estimates. Already approximately 38,000 workers have been laid off as manufacturers cut back on the production of big cars. Many thousands more probably will be laid off as the energy crisis deepens. This will have a profound effect on the economy of the United States.

Those outside the industry have been warning for more than 10 years that the compact, economical car is the wave of the future. Auto industry leaders did not believe or did not heed those warnings. Now they, their workers and the American economy will suffer dearly, that is, unless a premise many still hold that the American driver, after a temporary concern with energy costs and shortages — will return to his romance with the bigger cars. That could happen, but likely not.

Watching Out For Cyclists

It's against state law in Texas to ride a bicycle faster than 8 miles per hour.

The state also says it's illegal to do "stunt riding" or race or weave in and out of traffic. It is unlawful not to have both hands on the handlebars, carry a passenger or carry a package without a carrier on the bicycle. A bell and reflectors are also required.

Most of these are for the cyclist's safety. But the catch is there are not the same detailed requirements for safety rules automobile drivers must observe toward bicycles.

State law merely says that the bicyclist has the same "privileges" as any other vehicle operator. Perhaps the cyclist might be more adequately protected if regarded to have the same rights as a pedestrian.

Something practical needs to give bicyclists more protection. Much of the discussion centers around bikeways, special paths for bicycles.

But it seems plain bikeways lend themselves chiefly to parks and similar areas. They do not seem to be practical on well-traveled streets.

An ordinance that spells out the obligations of motorists to cyclists might be helpful.

Craziest Claims

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

Perhaps nowhere do the foibles of human nature crop up more than in the insurance claims. Consequently, the collection of Aetna Life and Casualty's odd-ball incidents leading to claims yields one of the year's bright spots.

"LAST JUNE a Massachusetts supermarket was in the midst of a shopping crunch," begins the report, "Checkout lines were so long they blocked the store aisles."

Thus it was that a middle-aged woman sought to cut through one of the lines but met an adamant character who loudly announced he wasn't moving. The ensuing argument rose in heat and tone. The woman delivered her ultimatum: "Stop yelling at me or I'll pour a bottle of bleach over your head!"

HE ROARED his defiance, and she made good, carefully pulling a bottle from her cart, removing the cap and dousing him with the contents. He recovered quickly, grabbed a bottle of bleach and doused her. Delighted shoppers joined in the fun, pouring bleach and other things over each other. No telling what might have happened had not the woman's little daughter cried out: "Mama! Did you bring your gun?" That cleared the aisles — and the store.

THEN THERE'S the case of the go-go dancer who sued a pharmaceutical house because she said the adhesive used to secure her pasties irritated her skin. She lost, and the defense attorneys composed a poem to wit:

"The dancer who lost was sad and disgusted, but unlike her lawyer, she isn't flat busted."

A CLAIMS man received a telephone call from a woman who wanted to know about submitting a life insurance claim. "When did your husband die?" he asked. The caller explained "he isn't dead yet, but he isn't expected to live through the night, so I thought I might save some time."

Another woman went to visit the grave of her departed husband, but alas, a 1,100-lb. tombstone toppled over and pinned her to the grave. She took it as an omen her husband wanted her to join him, but she decided to file a claim instead.

THERE WERE plenty of animal crackers, too. In Vermont a porcupine lunched on a man's car, a goat feasted on another auto's upholstery and a dog dined on several volumes at the library. In Indiana, a deer leaped through a business' front window, kicked the receptionist and bolted over another employe. A New Jersey man was feeding the alligators at a zoo when his glasses slipped off and were swallowed by a gator. Instead of reaching, he elected to file a claim. In another instance, a Florida sports figure volunteered to wrestle a bear but claimed injury (at least to his dignity) when the bear cuffed him flat and sat on his head. An employe of an Oklahoma riding stable was run over by a tractor load of hay when a horse nudged the unattended rig's gear lever into forward.

THE ELEMENT of surprise was not lacking. A New Jersey landlord locked a tenant, who was arrears in his rent, out of a chicken coop. The tenant was foxy — he picked the lock. This time the landlord smuggled in the meanest bull on the place and locked him in the chicken coop. A cloud of chicken feathers obscured a clear view of exactly what ensued when next the lock was picked.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

My children came home from church last Sunday saying, "Mother, we're never going to church again. We learned that Jesus has been responsible for more deaths than any man in the world." Now, I can't imagine who told them that — what do you make of it? M.J.G.

It seems to me like a distortion caused by lifting a statement out of its context. First of all, the whole thrust of the Bible is that Jesus Christ came to give life, not death. He said this Himself in John 10:10. He also advised in Matthew 5, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you . . . and pray for them who despitefully use you . . . that you may be the children of your Father in heaven."

What your children may refer to is some statement regarding the religious wars of history. These are tragic chapters of human experience, in which many were killed for reasons of faith, sometimes perverted faith. But to charge Christ with these excesses is like charging the automobile manufacturer with what a drunken driver does with his vehicle.

Perhaps the superb demonstration of Christ's love, prior to Calvary's cross, was the statement in Luke 23, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." This is not the sentiment of one who deals in death. Furthermore, it occurs to me that the best way to begin answering your children's theological questions is to go to church with them — not to send them.

'Ain't No Hand Atall'

Hal Boyle

By BOB HARING
Substituting for Hal Boyle

A man reaches a peak when his first son gets old enough to shovel the snow.

Next he'll be big enough to be trusted with the power mower and Dear Old Dad can add a summer of no grass-cutting to the winter of no snow-shoveling and the fall of no leaf-raking.

This is the summit sighted when mother first announces that the first-born cleared the light snow from the sidewalk by himself for the first time.

But that joy is more a plateau than a peak.

For a boy willingly undertakes these tasks for a very limited number of years.

Soon his excitement at being allowed to shovel the snow by himself, his thrill at being trusted with the growing mower will fade. The joy of manly chores dims with the arrival of interest in sports or girls — or both — or the higher motive of performing for pay the tasks his parents once granted gradually as a reward for ascending boyhood.

In fairness, be it noted that such plateaus are not exclusively male domain. Girls may not pursue snow-shoveling or grass-cutting — although if that's their pleasure let 'em — but they follow similar trails through baby-sitting and dishwashing. The pig-tailed cutie who begged for the honor of dishwashing at 8 walls with homework, colds, urgent telephone calls and approaching paralysis when offered that chance at 15.

If a man is lucky, his supply of sons may provide years of relief from sidewalk and lawn.

As one boy's interest slides off the plateau on the far side of snow-shoveling as recreation, the next becomes old enough to demand his chance.

It is a wise father who encourages the toddler to trail his big brother into the cold arming with a toy shovel and a willing spirit of imitation.

If there is a rule to such things, it is that the second son will start earlier than the first. And the third earlier still.

But the flame which burns earlier dies sooner and the boy who starts his snow removal career at 6 will weary of that job that many years earlier.

Possibly interest may be spurred in its declining moments by rotating the task.

When two boys are equally capable of performing a chore, the one who's being honored gets designated — that sort of honor system psychologically gets more snow removed faster than a process which selects for the task the boy who's been least good most recently.

Among boys, tasks must be rotated though, and not shared.

The snow it takes one boy one hour to shovel takes two boys two hours.

Or, as the wise old men of the Ozark hills declared long ago:

One boy's a hand, two boys is half a hand and three boys ain't no hand atall.

Privy Information

Robert E. Ford

The first time we saw Leon Hale we looked at him askance. That means watch out for what he's going to do next.

For he looked like the sort of man who would make sport of such American institutions as apple pie and Harold Stassen.

NOW HE'S DONE IT! He has authored a book about those little houses which were a part of the American scene until indoor plumbing became semiuiversal.

The book is "Texas Out Back" published by Madrona Press of Austin, Tex., at $4.75.

Hale's text covers only 22 pages. Madrona Press really published the book as a set of sketches of outhouses done by the late Harry Anthony DeYoung of San Antonio.

Why did such a talented artist sketch 21 privies?

"... he had a tremendous sense of humor," explains his daughter, Anita DeYoung Ischar of San Antonio.

HALE at one point calls the little buildings a "significant cultural symbol."

But he can't keep a straight face.

He relates that when he told a friend what he was writing, the friend exclaimed, "Well, I can see why they picked YOU!"

Adds Hale, "... a privy is just funny and there is nothing you can do about it. I've made tests, I've had friends in the car, going down the highway, and I've pointed and said, 'Hey, lookit that ol' privy out there, listin' to port.' They've never failed to say, 'Yeah!' And then laugh . . ."

WITH ALL the sophistication and cultural advances in America it would seem that no new outdoor facilities would be built.

Yet Hale says he knows of three new structures. One is an elaborate high-rise job, half as tall as a windmill and doubling as a deer stand.

Then there is his story of how a house out back saved Glen Flora one night.

Seems it was the only facility Ed Scheller would permit at his tavern.

He said it wasn't sanitary to have a bathroom under the same roof where beer is served.

A customer headed for the place out back at 10:30 one night and saw a blaze in Northington's Store. He rushed indoors and raised the alarm and the fire was put out.

If it hadn't been for the facility out back, Glen Flora would have burned to the ground, as Hale says, "as sure as Chicago did."

IN EARLIER, less-liberated days, the moral code of the Bible Belt prevented anyone from admitting in mixed company that such a house existed.

Cannot recall ever hearing a woman mention it. If you were to ask, "Where's grandpa?" and insist on an answer, the nearest you could get to a reply from grandpa was, "Well if you have to know, he's out back."

Don't know what kids do on Halloween now for fun. At one time the big joke was to roam the town overturning outhouses.

HALE came along and stopped that, at least in Seymour. A bunch overturned the one behind the grain elevator, but someone had installed indoor plumbing in it.

So when the privy went over, it broke the water pipe and all the jokers got soaked in weather too cold for such a dousing. Never heard of any such Halloween pranks there after that.

BUT THE YOUNG bucks of other towns did not give up so easily.

Only last year, a newspaper published a complaint from an owner of a facility.

He was a little irate. His place had been picked up and moved some other place or turned over for 11 straight Halloween nights.

The complainer said it cost him $975 over the years to have it brought back or set upright.

DEYOUNG was not just a privy theorist. He built one with his own hands on Lake Michigan before he came to San Antonio in 1928 to improve the health of himself and his family.

Yes, There's Pseudo-gout

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the last year and a half my knees became very sore and swollen, and I finally went to an orthopedics specialist. After several tests (blood, heart, etc., and X-ray) he said the pain came from too much calcium between the bones. He called it pseudo-gout.

He said the next time an attack comes he'd like at once to take fluid from my knee to see where the inflammation was coming from. It's still kind of sore but it comes and goes in a minute.

—Mrs. G. M. Pseudo-gout (pronounced sudo-gout) causes attacks of joint pain which very much resemble gout, and with pseudo-gout, the knee is most often the joint that is involved. (With gout, the big toe is most often involved, although any joint may be.)

As with regular gout, an attack can make the joint swollen and hot and very painful, after which the attack subsides — only to recur. From the standpoint of the patient's misery, he might as well have one as the other.

However, the cause is substantially different. In gout, crystals composed in part of uric acid form and cause the pain. With pseudo-gout, the culprits are calcium crystals.

By removing fluid from the knee the next time an attack occurs, your doctor wants to make the diagnosis certain by identifying the typical calcium crystal in the fluid. That also is part of the treatment — removing fluid from the affected joint or joints, and injecting hydrocortisone.

Obviously with pseudo-gout, the medication used for gout, to reduce your uric acid level, will not help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is electrolysis for hair removal safe? I heard it could leave marks. What is the length of time to have an area cleared? I heard that dermatologists do not do this, and recommend a beauty salon. Why is that? —Mrs. J. W.

Yes, electrolysis is safe, and is in general use for that purpose — removing hair. Since a needle has to be inserted at each hair root, there can be small scars, but they are very small.

Only a small area is done at a time, as it is pains-taking work with each unwanted hair treated individually, so the length of time to have an area cleared would depend on how much area you mean.

It would be a waste of a dermatologist's other skills to ask him to do this sort of work — and much more expensive. It should be done by a registered electrologist, whether in a "beauty salon" or not — but length of time to have an area trologists have their own of-fices.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching, and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald requesting a copy of his booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

New Cynicism

Rowland Evans

NEWARK, Ohio — No sooner had the latest Watergate bombshell exploded in Washington than weathervane voters here reached this paradoxical conclusion: of course the White House deliberately erased the 18-minute tape segment, but Richard M. Nixon still should complete his term as President.

THIS ATTITUDE permeated our interviews, conducted with the help of Oliver Quayle's polling organization, in precinct "D" of Ward 3, a barometer of state and national election results. An overwhelming majority of these voters regard Mr. Nixon as a liar, a tax chiseler and a poor President. Yet, they oppose even the start of impeachment proceedings, much less removal from office.

Underlying this seeming contradiction is pervasive, deepening skepticism that any successor to Mr. Nixon would improve things much. Consequently, nothing short of proven criminal conduct is likely to inflame public opinion in favor of the President's removal.

THE BAROMETER precinct, selected for us by election analyst Richard Scammon, consists largely of blue-collar workers who supported Mr. Nixon in 1972. But among the 70 residents interviewed the day after technical experts reported the apparently deliberate erasure of the 18-minute segment of conversation between Mr. Nixon and H. R. Haldeman, four out of five feel that the White House deliberately destroyed evidence.

THIS COMPORTS generally with answers to a questionnaire prepared for us by Quayle researcher Jonathan Lovell. The President gets a job approval from these 70 voters of only 27 per cent. The vast majority believe Mr. Nixon did not pay his fair share of taxes, has lied about Watergate and has suffered seriously in capacity to govern because of Watergate.

Most shocking, only 7 of the 70 voters believe Mr. Nixon first learned of the Watergate burglary when he said he did. But 34 believe he knew about it before it was planned — a charge nobody has ever made.

THESE HARSH views are held by a 39-year-old government worker who voted for Mr. Nixon but now says: "I think he's dishonest." Another 1972 Nixon voter, a young steel worker, feels Mr. Nixon has done poorly: "He should have been able to clear himself when it first came to light."

Nevertheless, these two voters vigorously oppose retirement or impeachment, reflecting a consensus here. Those interviewed oppose retirement by a ratio of 2 to 1; by 35 to 27 with 8 undecided, they oppose even the start of impeachment proceedings.

Letters To Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

It has come to my attention that Rep. Wilbur Mills and Sen. Mike Mansfield are co-sponsors of HR 15230 and S-3657, "Tax Policy Review of 1972," which in Sec. 312 would terminate tax exempt status of contributions to churches, colleges, hospitals, children's and orphans' homes, also Sec. 306 which would terminate the tax-free status of parsonage allowance to ministers.

These bills will strike at the foundation upon which America was founded, (weakening) freedom of religion and constitute another breach upon our ability to give of our means, and would aid forces that continually seek to undermine the structure of America.

No religious organization should be tax-free in competition to ordinary business. When religious bodies invest in worldly enterprises, they should not have a decided advantage that tax-exempt status confers. Certain areas should be taxed, and I am sure this is going into the bill.

It is the writers plea that concerned people will set down and write Rep. Mills and Sen. Mansfield protesting Sections 306 and 312; also to write Sen. Tower and Bentsen, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20513, and Reps. Mahon and Burleson, House Office Building 20013, to actively oppose these sections.

WILLIAM K. BOLING

DEAR SIR:

I am disturbed by some of the things I've seen lately. I feel that I am doing my part to save energy in these difficult times of energy crisis. But I often wonder why should we be cold in our house with the thermostat down to 68 degrees when others are wasting all the heating fuel we're saving. Why should my children and I walk or ride bicycles as much as possible when some woman leaves her car running while she's in the grocery shopping? Why should we try to save electricity when others leave nearly every light in their house on all the time. I see so many ways people are wasting our precious energy. We must do something so we all don't have to suffer.

Who's Next?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A Mr. A. W. Lyons of Prospect, Ky., wrote to say that man is the only animal that practices group sex. He is mistaken. Probably the best known example is the California sea hare.

Sea hares have a complete set of both male and female sex organs and can assume either role. In laboratory studies, sea hares have been observed copulating in groups; as many as eight have copulated in a complete circle for as long as three days!

So, please pass this on to Mr. Lyons and your readers. We know of at least one other animal besides man that practices group sex. And wouldn't you know it would have to happen in California!

RICHARD JOSSLIN, Ph.D., San Pedro, Cal.

DEAR DR. J.: The orgy you cite is no secret. It's recorded in the Natural History of Marine Animals. And by the way, Jane Goodall, who lived for ten years among wild chimpanzees while she studied them, reported that a female chimp named "Flo" had a battalion of suitors standing in line for her favors, and she accommodated them all — one after the other.

DEAR ABBY: "Alone and Crying's" story was my story. I too loved my first husband with all my heart until one day he told me he no longer wanted the responsibility of marriage. As it turned out, he wanted the responsibility of another woman.

I also cried and begged and kissed him while he stood there "cold and unfeeling like a statue with his hands in his pockets."

Your advice "quit begging and prepare to make a new life for yourself because good luck often comes disguised as disaster," was the most precious statement you ever wrote.

A year after my divorce I met the most wonderful man in the world. He is 100 times the man my first husband was. My salvation was getting involved with a good church — Nazarene — and through its activities came my good luck.

Please print this to let "Alone and Crying" know that it's not the end of the world for her. If I could make it, so can she.

LUCKY IN VANCOUVER DEAR LUCKY: Here's your letter. I hope it's an inspiration to others who've been dealt a low blow.

Club At Coahoma 'Tours' Texas

"A Tour Through Texas" starting at Galveston and proceeding to Houston, Dallas, Amarillo and El Paso, was the context of the program presented by Mrs. Lowell Brown Monday for Coahoma Home Demonstration Club. The meeting was held in the Brown home.

As Mrs. Brown guided the group geographically, she gave highlights of each of the major cities.

Mrs. Ray Swann, president, announced there will be a county-wide meeting at First Baptist Church Feb. 14 with the program being "Women of the Bible".

Mrs. M. O. Brown of Eastland was a guest. Miss Sherry Mullin, County HD agent, is in charge of the program Feb. 6.

Miss Sherry Mullin, county HD agent, narrated slides pertaining to 4-H projects, and a film from the 1969 National 4-H Congress, Chicago.

A number of girls registered for food and nutrition projects to be completed for the County Food Show in March.

Guild Hears History Of Episcopal Church

Early history of St. Mary the Virgin Episcopal Church in Big Spring was discussed by Mrs. Tom Helton at a meeting of St. Mary's Guild, Monday afternoon, in the church parish hall. Mrs. Helton's talk was based largely upon facts gathered by her mother and an uncle. The present church building is the fourth such structure that has served the congregation; the first having been destroyed by a cyclone around 1889. The church was established in 1886. Many of the first members were people connected with the railroad; some coming from England and Canada.

Mrs. Florence Lenox presided.

Refreshments were served, following the meeting, by Miss Ione McAlister and Mrs. Lenox. The next meeting will be Feb. 18, with Mrs. Pete Rhymes, co-chairman, in charge of the program.

Overview: Woman's Expanding Options

"The change has been very slow but is improving more rapidly as people become educated."

The view was expressed by a member of the American Association of University Women, which is continuing its study of "Woman: Searching for Self". The purpose of the study is to encourage women to seek out and understand their expanding options and to determine their priorities in relation to others, to changing values and to a variety of life styles.

The Day Study Group, in a Monday meeting summarized the seven related programs which are "Woman's Place in American History", "Women in Literature", "Woman's Place in Religion", "Woman's Role in Politics", "Woman's Life Style", "Woman's Meaningful Relationships" and "Women in a Nation of Strangers". The different sections start with the pattern of life that women lived in early days and traces each phase to the way women live today.

Books which have been read and discussed by the group, in relation to the study, are "Daughters and the Promised Land", "Wives of the Presidents", "Pride and Prejudice", "A Doll's House", "St. Joan", "On Becoming a Person", "The Social Animal", "Born to Win" and "A Nation of Strangers".

Participating in Monday's review were Mrs. Paul Kionka and Mrs. Preston Harrison, co-study leaders; and Mrs. Alvin Shroyer, Mrs. Pete Rhymes, Mrs. B. M. Keese, Mrs. Neil Willoughby, Mrs. William Zint, Mrs. John Grathwol, Mrs. C. R. Wiley, Mrs. Dennis Vandever, Mrs. James Morrison and Mrs. John Disoway, program leaders.

Both study groups will meet Feb. 4 to explore the topic, "Women in Politics". The Day Study Group will meet at 9:30 a.m., and the Night Study Group will meet at 7:30 p.m. in First Federal Community Room.

Nurses' Seminar Will Convene In San Angelo

Included in the associations are nursing schools at Odessa Junior College, El Paso Community College, University of Texas at El Paso and Angelo State University, but all professional nurses (RN's and LVN's) in the area are invited to attend.

Speakers include Johnny B. French, M.D., San Angelo physician specializing in disease of the chest; Joan Goodpature, R.N., A.R.I.T. of Dallas; and Elma Herrage, R.N., Austin, director of nursing for tuberculosis services of the Texas Department of Health.

Abilene Couple Announces Birth

Capt. and Mrs. Jerry L. Nichols announce the birth of a daughter, Katherine Lynn, Jan. 13 at the Dyess Air Force Base Hospital, Abilene. The infant weighed 8 pounds. The mother is the former Martha Boadle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boadle of Bridge City, formerly of Big Spring.

Links U. S. History To Stock Exchange

"The stock exchange grew out of a need for a convenient place to buy and sell securities," said Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas, speaker Friday for the Woman's Forum.

"Originally, brokers met under a buttonwood tree on Wall Street, and the New York Stock Exchange was formerly organized in 1782," continued Mrs. Thomas. Other exchanges were organized later and are now in 24 American cities. The

New York Stock Exchange has been at the same location in New York City since 1863.

"The stock exchange is the heart of free enterprise and the capitalistic system, so the history of the exchange is closely tied to American history. Alexander Hamilton, the first secretary of the treasury for the United States, saved the fledgling nation from financial ruin. In 1789, $80 million in bonds were floated in the first bond issue and, due to his efforts, the Bank of North America in Philadelphia was incorporated in 1791. The Bank of New York was founded in 1791."

In conclusion, Mrs. Thomas discussed negotiable bonds, common stocks, commodity stocks and gold securities. She recommended several financial publications to aid in the study of stocks. Included were Forbes Magazine and the Wall Street Journal.

In other business, Mrs. W. N. Norred read a letter of appreciation from the state hospital, and Mrs. Clyde Johnson reported on the craft classes sponsored by the forum at the Westside Community Center. Items needed for the classes are used light bulbs, hosiery, bleach bottles, yarn, thread and the 20 oz. size Crisco Oil bottles. Persons who can provide any of these items are asked to take them to the center. The next meeting will be at 2 p.m., Feb 15 in the home of Mrs. T. M. McCann.

Credit Club Sponsoring Student Essay Contest

During National Credit Week, the last week in April, Big Spring Credit Women's Club, Int. will conduct a contest for essays written on credit students in this area.

"Originally, brokers met under a buttonwood tree on Wall Street, and the New York Stock Exchange was formerly organized in 1782," continued Mrs. Thomas. Other exchanges were organized later and are now in 24 American cities. The Plans for the contest were initiated at last week's meeting in the Settles Hotel. Members agreed to submit dues of $10 to the Retail Merchants Association.

Mrs. Noel Hull spoke on "Credit, 1973", pointing out that in years past, credit was a privilege, but now it seems to be "more a right."

According to Mrs. Hull, people now are more adequately prepared to handle financial difficulties such as physical injuries, sickness, etc., with the current trend in hospitalization and other insurances. In discussing good and bad credit risks, she said people should not be discriminated against because of sex or age. She theorized that older people don't appear to take advantage of credit privileges as often as other people do.

Mrs. Sandra Dyer was a guest.

Retail Gas Pumps' Inspections Grow

AUSTIN — Public concern over rising gasoline costs has spurred a more intensive inspection of retail gas pumps by the Texas Department of Agriculture, Commissioner John C. White noted this week.

"Apparently because of price increases, we have been getting more than the usual complaints about gasoline pumps," White said. "As a result, we have stepped up our inspection program. Only about one service station pump in 20 has been found inaccurate during the past fiscal year." Fifteen years ago, the state-wide average was one malfunctioning pump for every six inspected. Incorrect pumps are immediately locked down by the inspectors until they can be repaired. If deliberate fraud is evident, charges are brought against the service station operator.

Dean's Testimony Withstanding Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III's testimony before the Senate Watergate committee and federal grand juries apparently is withstanding the test of the White House tapes.

It was learned Tuesday night that the prosecutors have no plans to charge Dean with lying when he testified about White House discussions of the Watergate break-in.

It also is known that Dean is continuing to cooperate closely with the prosecutors. He was seen entering their offices with in the last couple of days.

fairly to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who subsequently turned over the Watergate portions to the prosecutors.

The White House had notified Sirica that two of the conversations sought never were recorded and that a third contained an 18½-minute gap that had obliterated all references to the Watergate break-in.

Last week, Sirica referred those three cases to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski with a recommendation he present evidence to a grand jury. Jaworski's staff began presenting the case to a grand jury on Monday.

According to a memorandum filed in court last August in support of the subpoena issued by the prosecutors, the crucial meetings involving Dean occurred on Sept. 15, 1972, and March 13 and 21, 1973.

Dean said that at the Sept. 15 meeting the President congratulated him on the "good job" he had done and said he was pleased the case had "stopped with Liddy."

'Oklahoma Crude' Offers 'Relaxing' Role To Star

By DAVID CARREN

"Oklahoma Crude," starting at the Ritz today is the creation of veteran screen hack and director Stanley Kramer. It details the story of a lovable bum (George C. Scott), a lovable turn-of-the-century Women's Libber (Fay Dunaway), her lovable father (John Mills) and their unlovable enemy (Jack Palance). The lovable spend most of the film fighting unlovable for control of an Oklahoma Wild Cat oil well about the time of World War I. That's the story. Period.

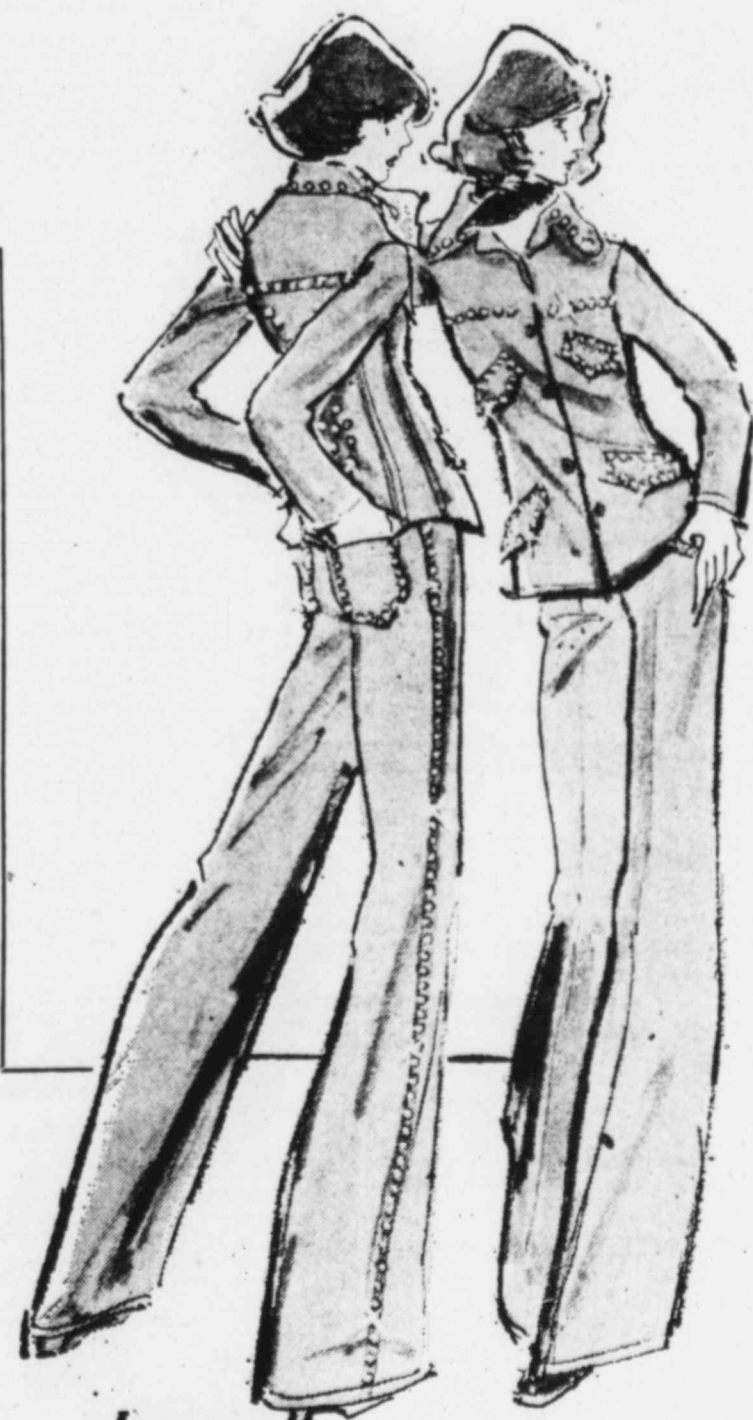

But though Kramer's film has been out impact of an enclitad, it still manages to entertain in several spots and over-all it's put together fairly well.

Kramer's recreation of oil rush Oklahoma comes across as does many of the scenes detailing the burgeoning love-hate relationship between Scott's bum and Dunaway's Libber. A few of the scenes — as when Dunaway assaults Scott while he sits in an outhouse or when Scott urinates on baddy Palance — are even fairly unique. Then there's that really good action fight when Scott and company retake Oil Well Hill in a melee that includes a naked man getting shot-gunned in the rear, explosions and wild shooting reminiscent of a forties' war movie.

Still, for all the blood and fun, one wonders what power houses like Dunaway and Academy Award winners like Mills and Scott are doing in this melodrama. None of their roles could hardly be called "meaty".

Perhaps they felt like audiences may when they see the film — that "Crude" is relaxation before taking on bigger things. But "Crude" is not all that aptly named. For a melodrama, it moves and is true to itself. Occasionally, as when Dunaway mourns the loss of a loved one, it succeeds at touching higher emotions than our funny bone or love of violence.

Wooden Auto Places 2nd

Emery W. Thompson, a retired Air Force senior master sergeant, was notified Tuesday that his wooden car placed second in the outdoor project category of a nation-wide contest sponsored by Mechanics Illustrated.

Readers will remember the wood worker from a Big Spring Herald story telling about his plywood car. Thompson said he built the car around the 1967 chassis of a Volkswagen using plans from the magazine.

There were three categories in the January contest.

Thompson, who retired at Webb Air Force Base in Oct. 1970, is now employed as a cabinet worker.

IT'S STUPID Keep State Funds In Shoe Boxes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Most state agencies keep their money in safes or banks. But the Texas Cosmetology Commission uses shoe boxes and grocery cartons.

Rep. Joe Salem, D-Corpus Christi, was tipped on the practice and stormed into the commission's modern, shag-carpeted office building to see for himself.

Sure enough, there were more than half a dozen boxes full of checks, some of them blank.

Larry Perkins, director of licensing, said there were between $30,000 and $80,000 in checks. They stay in the boxes day and night with only a locked door for security, he said.

State auditor George McNeil said a commission employee reported Monday that $1,000 was missing. One member of McNeil's staff was going over the agency's books when Salem made his surprise visit Tuesday.

Salem, a jewelry store and shopping center owner, was as astonished at the boxes full of checks as the gaping office girls were at his sudden appearance.

"It's the stupidest type of operation I've ever seen in my life," he said.

The checks are license fees mailed in by manicurists, beauty shop and school operators, wig fitters and beauticians.

Most of the checks in the boxes are being processed for return because they were in the wrong amounts or the individuals lacked necessary health certificates, Perkins said.

"What if you have a fire?" Salem asked.

"They'll all go up in smoke," Perkins replied.

He and commission member Frank Joseph showed Salem a fireproof filing cabinet in a supply room in which they said another $200,000 in checks were locked while clerks tried to catch up with a four-month backlog of license applications.

McNeil said other licensing agencies put the checks they receive in the bank. If refunds are necessary, they can be made with state treasury warrants, he said.

State law, in fact, requires the agency to deposit its fees in the treasury at least once a month.

McNeil promised Salem a full audit would be made. He said that his office gave the commission detailed instructions two years ago on safeguarding its money.

"They have been told better, they know better and they apparently are unwilling to do better," McNeil said.

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Declarer used what little of value he found in dummy to best advantage, and brought home a heart game that would have failed with less careful play.

North made a well-reasoned bid when he gave a false preference to South's first suit. Despite the fact that he held three diamonds to an honor, North realized that the most likely game was at a heart contract, which would require only 10 tricks, rather than diamonds at a level higher.

The defenders started with three rounds of spades, declarer ruffing the third. There was a temptation to use the only entry to dummy to take a heart finesse, and that would have been a perfectly satisfactory line had the trumps split 3-3. However, that was against the odds, and declarer had to guard against a 4-2 trump split. If he gave up a trump trick on the third round and was forced again with a spade, one of the defenders would be left with a long trump.

To counter this, declarer made the fine play of the queen of hearts from his hand. It would not have helped East to win the trick and play another spade, for declarer would ruff that in dummy. Nor would any other return do the defense any good.

Accordingly, East came up with an excellent defensive gambit—he allowed declarer to win the trick. Had South continued with another heart from his hand, East's tactic would have been rewarded with a one-trick set.

However, declarer was up to the challenge. He crossed to dummy with the queen of diamonds and led a heart, finessing the jack. The ace of hearts was cashed, and declarer's foresight was rewarded when the king did not drop. All that declarer had to do was abandon trumps and play his side-suit winners. East could ruff whenever he wished, but declarer still had a trump to control the spade suit. His only losers were two spades and a trump.

Toastmasters Name Sabine

The Webb Toastmasters Club of Big Spring met at the Downtown Tea Room the past weekend for a banquet. New officers for the year were installed by the Area Governor Clarence Stovall of Midland.

The new slate includes Joe M. S. Sabine, president; Patrick A. Kelley, educational vice president; Richard W. Pferrer, administrative vice president; Thomas F. Justice, club secretary and treasurer; Jack D. Keathley became the sergeant at arms.

Guest speaker for the ceremony was Terry Smith of the Tall Town Club in Midland. Toastmaster of the Year Award was presented to Thomas F. Justice by the District Governor Ray Laird of Odessa.

Several guests were present including the Toastmasters' wives.

The club is open to all people of the Big Spring area, civilian and military. They meet each Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. in the Webb NCO Club. "The Toastmasters Club is an organization whose thousands of members are interested in developing communication and leadership skills that will benefit them in business, community and social life." Officers maintain they are also interested in helping one another through analytical listening and objective evaluation. Information on the club may be obtained by calling Dick Pferrer, publicity chairman, during the evening hours at 267-8448 or by attending one of the club meetings.
