IRONY SURVIVES PATRIARCH

'Little People' Offer To Help

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — At the door of the big white French provincial house, a cab driver materializes.

"I used to drive Patty to the roller rink," he says. "If there's some way she and I can trade places, I'm ready."

Downtown, in the hushed city room where William Randolph Hearst began his tumultuous march to empire, a 74-year-old telegraph editor creaks in from retirement. He, too, offers to replace Patricia Hearst as hostage to the bizarre Marxists holding her prisoner. Two other members of the San Francisco Examiner staff make the same offer.

On the bulletin board — on the union bulletin board — an assistant city editor tucks a note to the Hearst family. "The pain of your home is our pain." And from every department of the paper — city room, sports, photos, society, composing room, press room — they come quietly and sign their names. "People are interested in the fundamentals — love, romance, adventure, tragedy, mystery," William Randolph Hearst once wrote. "The world is not all sweetness and light, not all sunshine. There are storms and darkness. There is suffering and death."

"Whoever paints the world must paint the deep shadows as well as the bright lights."

PAINT HE DID — And paint it he did, in the most dazzling splash of dark and light journalism has known. Now, irony survives him, at his old paper and in the taut suburban home of his son, Randolph.

The Examiner covers the kidnapping of the founder's granddaughter on cautious tiptoe, with none of the gusto with which Hearst papers used to pounce on a big crime story.

Hyperbole is out and colorful writing is held to a bonafide minimum. Reporters covering the story work much "less aggressively and with greater restraint," according to one of their editors. Copy desk men sweat out each word about the kidnapping to avoid a typo that might conceivably anger the girl's unpredictable captors. The more than 10,000 words of murky rhetoric which the kidnapers demanded be printed was not set in type the usual way, but reproduced photographically to avoid the smallest mistake.

A syndicated column by William Buckley was spiked because it advocated, in a general way, that terrorists should be dealt with sternly. Normally, it would have made the paper.

And at 233 West Santa Inez Avenue in suburban Hillsborough, under the tall Monterey pines and behind the camelias, the rhododendrons and flowering plum trees, the family of Randolph Hearst waits and waits, victims, in a sense, of his father's image.

BIG DIFFERENCE

The demands of the kidnapers to feed the poor at a cost of millions, and epithets about a Hearst "propaganda dictatorship" would suggest the criminals thought they were dealing with the father, not the son. The difference is profound.

William Randolph Hearst moved through journalism with hurricane force, ran his papers with tight personal control, lived like a Hapsburg in full gallop and periodically shook his world and time.

At his peak, he owned and ran 28 papers, ordering how and where stories should be used through messages that began "Chief says." He ran them all from his castle at San Simeon, where he presided over 100 rooms in gothic splendor and entertained dinner guests at a 54-foot table under immense chandeliers hanging from a lofty carved ceiling.

San Simeon had 35 cars and an airstrip, where gourmet delights were flown in on short notice — barrels of fresh shrimp from Louisiana or 300 exotic parfaits whipped up in the night by a San Francisco confectioner roused from his bed by the Examiner.

The Hearst chain now totals eight papers under the general direction of William Randolph Hearst Jr., its editor-in-chief. Randolph Hearst's direct responsibility is largely devoted to the Examiner. All the rest to have far more autonomy than in the days of "the Chief."

Randolph, for example, requested, but didn't order, the Hearst papers to print the material whose publication was demanded by his daughter's abductors.

By choice and circumstance, the three surviving sons of William Randolph Hearst live far less grandly than he did. The family's personal wealth has shrunk as a result of several factors — his large bequests setting up two charitable foundations, high taxes, attrition and changing economics in journalism.

NOT BARONIAL

The house at 233 West Santa Inez Avenue is clearly the home of a wealthy man, but not baronial. It has 22 rooms and commands two acres, a modest-sized pool and a small aging bathroom. The family uses two cars. The whole place reportedly was put up for sale several months ago with no takers at an asking price of $400,000. San Simeon, now a state park, used to be valued at somewhere between $35 million and $50 million.

Randolph Hearst's home is said to contain only a few inherited traces of his father's indulgences — several large ornately carved stone pieces in the garden, a small gun collection in the library and a collection of rare Greek vases in the dining room. The living room is dominated by an oil of Randolph's mother as a fashionable young woman. Visitors do not remember seeing any large portraits of his father.

Here, Randolph Hearst, his wife, Catherine, and their four daughters wait anxiously for word of their fifth child. The mood of the household is said to be remarkably controlled.

LITTLE SLEEP

There is little sleep. A family spokesman said Catherine Hearst has averaged no more than four hours a night, and that in fragments. She refuses sleeping pills out of a concern to "remain alert for any big decisions that might be made."

Randolph Hearst is said to be getting even less sleep. Much of the time he is on the phone discussing possible answers to the extravagant demands of his daughter's abductors. The cost of her release, as delineated by the kidnapers, has been estimated between $133 million and $400 million.

"Randy," said an associate, "didn't need to call in the accountants or to go over the books. He quickly realized he couldn't come close to meeting the demands. The problem has been to see what he could put together that would be accepted."

READY TO LISTEN

Deadline Nearing In Kidnap Case

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Facing a Tuesday deadline set by his daughter's abductors, Randolph A. Hearst worked Saturday on a food distribution plan to serve as a sign of his willingness to sit down with the kidnapers and listen to some of their complaints.

The kidnapers of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst will not insist that her father comply fully with their demands for a massive food giveaway program, the victim told her family in a tape-recorded message received Saturday.

An executive of the Hearst-owned San Francisco Examiner termed the message "extremely hopeful" and said the 19-year-old college sophomore told her family she was in good health.

She also urged her mother, Catherine, to stop wearing a black dress. Mrs. Hearst has been pictured in televised news conferences wearing a dark dress since her daughter was kidnaped.

A spokesman at the family mansion in suburban Hillsborough, 15 miles south of San Francisco, said the full contents of the tape would be made public later.

The spokesman said the victim's father, Randolph A. Hearst, would make an announcement shortly.

IF THEY WANT PRICE CUTS LATER Buy Meat Now Even If It Hurts, Housewives Told

DALLAS (AP) — If the American housewife wants lower beef prices, she is going to have to buy more even if it hurts right now, says the vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association (ANCA).

REPORTED TO HAVE RESIGNED — Sources said Friday that Romana Acosta Barusics, above, is resigning as treasurer of the United States. Many of her responsibilities were transferred recently to the new Bureau of Government Financial Operations.

The price of beef is high partly because of instability in the whole system of growing, processing and marketing beef, says Wray Finney, the next president of ANCA.

The instability, he says, comes from price controls, energy problems, boycotts and the fact that Americans are not flocking to the meat counters the way they once did. Too, the industry itself is suffering from inflation of the products and services it needs to operate.

When the industry stabilizes again, Finney predicted, beef prices will decline.

SUDDEN RISE

Finney, a 63, husky, living portrait of a cattleman from Fort Cobb in southwestern Oklahoma, said in an interview here that meat price increases hit consumers suddenly last year and the public is not yet used to the higher costs.

"Per capita consumption of meat in the United States dropped from 117 pounds to 111 last year," Finney said, explaining that the price increases are turning Americans to other protein sources.

"But people are just going to have to realize that cheap meat has gone the way of the $1,000 car," he declared.

"The problem is that people are much more aware of price increases for meat than of increases for other commodities."

Finney said he expects the price of beef to go up gradually for the next six months until the demand and supply become stable and prices settle down.

"It is a complex situation that has resulted in a profit squeeze mostly for the feedlot operator," Finney said. He said the feedlots are the weak link in the chain between the cattleman and the consumer.

"Right now," he said, "a feedlot operator pays about 50 cents a pound to a cattleman. Then it costs him about 50 cents for every additional pound he puts into the cattle."

The packer, in turn, cannot offer higher prices to the feedlot operator because of weak demand at the supermarket level, Finney said.

FIREMEN SAVE THEIR TRUCKS

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — Members of a volunteer fire department near this small central Florida community don't have far to go when the alarm sounded. Their fire station was ablaze.

It's kind of embarrassing, one of the firemen said after units from three area fire departments were called to help fight the blaze Friday.

Officials said the station was damaged heavily but firemen were able to save the fire trucks. No injuries were reported.

The cause of the fire has not been determined, but officials said arson was suspected.

HOUSE THAT TRASH BUILT — This house in a suburban Richmond residential area was constructed entirely from recycled materials. The house contains aluminum scrap, crushed glass, recycled newspaper, fly ash, wood scraps, recycled nylon fibers, steel mill furnace slag and recycled copper and scrap cast iron. Placed on the market last December the price of the four-bedroom home has risen from $60,750 to $65,750.

HUD Offers Free Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dallas has 150 houses which will be "homesteaded" and Midland and Amarillo have five each, the Housing and Urban Development Department (HUD) has announced.

The homes will be given free as long as the recipients repair the places and live in them.

HUD said Friday it is offering about 4,000 run-down houses to 26 cities for their unrepaid, as-is value. In most cases the transfer will amount to a giveaway.

The largest number of houses, 2,000 would go to Detroit. Two hundred apiece would go to New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles, Las Vegas and Compton, Calif.

Wilmington, Del., started the homesteading program about a year ago.

Under the Wilmington plan, the houses are given to qualified people selected through a drawing.

The costs to repair the houses in the program so far have been estimated at from $5,000 to $12,000—more than they were worth on the open market in the condition when given away.

Recipients had to find their own financing for repair money.

Giving the houses away saves the government the cost of tearing the houses down and keeping the necessary records.

Over 100 Asking Funds In Drive

A door-to-door campaign to raise funds to fight heart disease will be held today from noon until 6 p.m.

Over 100 workers will go house to house in the residential area. Mrs. Roy Gederberg and Dr. David Logan head this portion of the fund drive which is seeking a goal of $2900 as one-third of the over-all campaign.

Reviewing the ... Big Spring Week ... with Joe Pickle

Reports are in on the January building permit total, and, thanks largely to the general construction permit (another for foundation work was let previously) of $4,500,000 for the new HCA hospital, ran up to $4,570,000. There have been several sizeable residences since then, and a new major clinic building will be coming up. Although it won't show on permits, Webb AFB will have about $3 million scheduled for construction starts.

Today is Heart Sunday, and volunteers will be knocking on your door asking for your financial help. Dollars you invest already are paying dividends in research, education and combatting of the nation's No. 1 killer.

Howard College trustees took another concrete step last week toward an eventual decision about an all-purpose community building to be used as a gymnasium, auditorium, physical education and allied health center. They authorized engagement of a financial advisor, who could give estimate on financial feasibility. Through grants, gifts, and other programs, it is hoped that about half the cost can be provided, leaving around $750,000 which

All Waste Can Be Reclaimed Soon

HOUSTON (AP) — A waste systems company president says 75 per cent of the natural resources now being thrown away in the nation's waste system can be reclaimed and recycled by the end of this decade.

"And by 1990 zero disposal is possible — that point where nothing is wasted," said Harry J. Phillips, president of Browning-Ferris Industries, the nation's largest waste systems firm.

DOGGONE PIGGY-BACK — Mike Reynolds, 13, and his four-year-old Dachshund, Brute, take a spin on Mike's trail bike near their home in Austin. Mike says Brute seems to enjoy the motor bike riding and maintains his "piggyback stance" with little trouble, barring rough bumps.

WITH MONTH'S KILL — Earl Brownrigg, full-time Howard County trapper, shows most of the pelts he collected during one month. He counted 59 pelts here. Most were taken from coyotes, but a few bobcats were skinned, too. In 1942, after winning prizes for best prepared pelts, Sears Roebuck & Co.

published Brownrigg's photo. "They marketed furs," the county trapper said. Howard County also contributes toward the salary of one "government trapper," but Brownrigg is the most successful local trapper.

HE'S TOUGH TO COPE WITH

Coyote Matches His Brains With Sworn Enemy, Man

By JOHN EDWARDS

For the past 40 years, Earl Brownrigg has been outwitting little gray dogs. "They're the hardest animal in the world to trap," Brownrigg, the county trapper, said. "They're just smart. That's all. He can put you out of business if you don't get him caught," Brownrigg said.

Brownrigg explained. "If you've got a good location, you get the business." "You've got to keep your scent off the trap," Brownrigg said. He wears gloves and is careful to avoid stepping in gasoline or coffee grinds, "anything foreign to their scent."

STEEL-TRAP MIND "Educate" a coyote and he'll run from the smell of his own urine. Urine is sometimes used to lure the varmint to a trap. If a coyote sees a trap once or springs a trap without getting caught, the wild dog will become even more wary. "A coyote, he don't ever forget," Brownrigg said.

"When I quit school and went to work, I was about 15 years old," Brownrigg said. He started cowboying with the 7Ms Ranch in Crockett County. They'd push herds of 500 to 2,000 head of cattle from the Pecos River to the Johnson draw country, around 150 miles. "We drove from the ranch to the railroad which was at Angelo and later at Barnhart," Brownrigg said.

Cattle consisted of mostly mixed breeds, longhorns. "Some were starting to have Herefords." "You rode horseback. You didn't ride pickups," Brownrigg said.

To keep the cattle from scattering, the cow hands stood guard at night. Brownrigg said he "had rodeoing sometime before daylight every morning." They'd get up and start saddling horses. "I heard them(horses) but I couldn't see them."

Next, he worked for the Ozona Improvement Co., a firm providing water ice and electricity in Ozona. "Lacked four days of going to World War I," he said. After a couple of years, Brownrigg started working for the W. H. Ferguson Grocery in the Texon Oil Field near Big Lake.

In this way, ineffective trappers can make Brownrigg's job even harder. He remembers once catching a coyote which had killed $5,000 worth of sheep. "I never have had one that I couldn't catch if he stayed there," Brownrigg boasted. Only if the coyote flees a ranch can he hope to escape the clean, steel jaws of Brownrigg's traps. Until about eight years ago, the county trapper worked from horseback. He used to have a "57 variety" bulldog for trailing varmints caught in traps. His traps are not tied down. This way, a captured animal does not tear up his trapping location. "A good coyote stand is just like a hamburger stand," he said, and skunks eat bird eggs. "Primarily, I just trap for cats and coyotes. I catch this other stuff, but it's just incidental." To be a successful trapper, you need experience, Brownrigg said. Some never develop the knack to trap effectively and sit around filling stations telling tales, he added. Born in Paint Rock in 1900, Brownrigg became interested in hunting and trapping as a boy on a West Texas ranch. One his biggest surprises in the business came during his boyhood. "I set a trap for a coon in a thicket and caught a black bear," Brownrigg recalled. "It tore my trap all to pieces." "I never did very well in school as I was always thinking of hunting and trapping," Brownrigg wrote in an autobiographical sketch he keeps in his scrapbook.

How did cowboying then compare with television and movie westerns? "We wasn't dressed like they was," he said. The real cowboys of the period wore "old ducking jumpers and khakis." "Some of them wore what you call 10-gallon hats," the county trapper said. "Most of them wore regular hats, Stetsons." The late J. W. Henderson, who owned the ranch, employed 10 regulars and about 25 men on roundsups. A cook with the chuck wagon prepared camp and meals. There was the horse wrangler, who, of course, "took care of the horses." If a fenced-in area or "trap" wasn't available, ropes would be strung around bushes forming a pen.

When he came to Big Spring in 1927, Brownrigg had married the former Miss Lavada Edwards. They now have two children and eight grandchildren. "I trapped a little bit at a cafe," Brownrigg said. "Then, I went to trapping." That was in 1934. The trapper destroyed varmints for sheep and cattle ranchers and a few chicken farmers. There were the Hardy Morgan, Bill Neal, and the Collins Ranches. "1940, I went to work for the county. First day of January," Brownrigg said. While the county no longer encompasses many sheep, coyotes threaten calves, too. "They follow these cows around when they get heavy," Brownrigg said. Cows usually try to protect new-born calves but are not always successful in fending off packs of coyotes. "A horned cow has a better chance than a muley if a little calf stays under her belly," Brownrigg explained. Since he has been working for Howard County, Brownrigg estimated he has killed 2,000 coyotes. Is he worried about killing off the species. "My goodness, no." Coyotes are more numerous today than before. "These other counties stopped trapping. Some of them did," Brownrigg explained. The Howard County Commissioner Court of which Brownrigg thinks highly, returned the old trapper to full-time status this year.

DUE TO ZOOMING PRICES Administration Could Be Slow To Remove Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — With food prices zooming upward again, the administration may be reluctant to lift wage and price controls from the food industry without solid anti-inflation commitments, Cost of Living Council officials say. Kenneth Fedor, the council's top food expert, said the council hopes it can lift controls from the food industry, along with most of the rest of the economy by April 30. But he indicated that in talks with food industry representatives, the council so far has been unable to reach agreement on price-restraining commitments. Fedor said he did not know if the administration would seek to extend controls over the food industry after April 30 without such commitments. "I'm not sure anybody knows at this point," he said.

Other council sources, who did not want to be named, said they believed the administration would have trouble lifting controls from food during a time of rapidly rising prices. Prices of agricultural products at the farm level were up 8.1 per cent in January, the government reported, after a 36 per cent increase in all of 1973. Although some administration officials questioned whether controls helped restrain retail food prices at all last year, Fedor thinks they have, especially for canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, and, to a lesser extent, sugar and some dairy products. "When people think controls didn't work in 1973, they are jumping to conclusions. There was a 36 per cent increase at the farm level, that's the story of 1973," Fedor said in an interview. Fedor, administrator of the council's Office of Food, said it was impossible to estimate how much food prices might have increased without controls last year and how much more they might increase if controls are lifted this year.

Museum's School Display To Come Down March 6

Residents were reminded Saturday by Daryle Hohertz, president, that the early school exhibit will be coming down March 6. Last week Mr. Howard Schwarzenbach, Mrs. Winfred Q. Campbell and J. Smith of the Goliad Junior High, brought 390 of their pupils to view the display. It has proven interesting not only to old timers who seem to delight in finding pictures of their school days, but also among today's pupils who try to spot parents and grandparents, said Hohertz.

The museum is to be open this afternoon as well as during the week days. The next major exhibit will utilize the theme of Shine Phillips' book, "Big Spring: Casual Biography of a Texas Town." Lorin McDowell III is exhibit chairman and had this committee's first session.

likely would have to be financed through bonds.

J. D. Nelson steps up to the presidency, and W. S. (Dub) Pearson is the new vice president-campaign chairman for the United Way as a result of the annual meeting last week. These have a big job in matching the 1973-74 successful campaign, which certainly won't have any less budget challenge.

In our political roundup, we slighted Glenn Stallings, who had filed for county judge on the Republican ticket, giving the county its first contested county race in the GOP primary. Mrs. Mary Virginia Kirchhoff, GOP candidate for state senate, was here, and even her two opponents on the Democratic ticket will concede that she's by far the prettiest candidate. Although this is her first race for public office, she's an old hand at party politics.

Louis Rochester, whose bid to enlarge his apartment complex here was blocked last year at a zoning hearing, announced last week in Odessa that he is launching a $100 million development near the UTPB campus.

A dozen participants in a Philippine evangelistic crusade almost didn't get to participate when thieves stole a briefcase containing all the passports. Anyhow, Rep. George Mahon, alerted by his constituents, was able to make emergency arrangements, hence permitting Dr. and Mrs. Jimmy Laws and the Rev. Collins Moore to catch the overseas flight as planned.

The latest report on Dawson County ginnings stands at 323,000 with about 3,500 more to be processed. It will be weeks before cross-county ginnings are weeded out, but the Dawson total is apt to emerge as a new all-time cotton record by any county.

The HCJC Hawks, rocking along until little more than a week ago, with an unblemished record, suddenly were backed to the wall when Amarillo hung a 98-96 defeat on them on the heels of a loss to Clarendon. Fighting for their lives, the Hawks nipped Frank Phillips of Borger 75-71, but still have some toughies left, including the Western Texas team which considers that game a holy crusade. The Steers broke the second half whammy Friday, beating Odessa 85-75.

The dog ordinance and the cable television ordinances were topics for talk at the city council session last week. Enforcement of the dog ordinance was shifted from the police (who won't carry over that development) to a new code enforcement division. Speaking or ordinances, etc., whatever became of those new taxis which were part of the deal for granting this franchise?

City and county authorities last week got together on the landfill deal and decided to purchase land sufficient for accommodating waste disposal for a score of years. It will be open to all county residents, whether city or rural. How's this for a valentine reminder that lasts. Bill Daves, a daily walker of the old school, ran across this inscription atop Scenic Mountain: "Clay and Lillie Read, Feb. 14, 1889." Daves expressed the hope that this pioneer couple had had just such a beautiful week of weather for their project as we had here last week.

One spinoff from the increased fuel prices showed up in commissioner court last week. L. A. (Red) Hiltbruner asked the court to add $100 a month to the present $300 which the county as its part for underwriting ambulance service.

Army National Guard Climbs Back To Authorized Strength

The Army National Guard climbed back to its authorized strength last month for the first time since the draft ended, said Lt. Col. Johnnie Hooper, commander of the 3rd Battalion, 133rd Field Artillery, Texas National Guard.

Battery C, headquartered in Lamesa with a detachment in Big Spring, is part of the battalion led by the Big Spring man. The local unit is at 112 per cent of authorized strength but is accepting new applications.

Guard officials credited the surge in enlistments to a major recruiting effort in all the states. A new report listed 403,600 men and women enrolled in the Army National Guard in January. This was 3,600 over the target level.

disenchantment with things military as a result of the Vietnam experience. But it appears the Guard's selling drive is succeeding, aided perhaps by the economic downturn.

Asked why young men are signing up in the Army Guard, Lt. Col. Hooper said they are attracted by extra income from paid drills and by the opportunity for training in skills that could help in getting civilian jobs.

"We're getting a very different kind of kid now," one official said. "They are coming more from the blue collar group, from lower income families.

"We used to have an awful lot of college kids who just went through the motions." In addition to accelerated recruitment of new volunteers, Hooper said there has been dramatic improvement in the re-enlistment of trained and experienced guardsmen.

They claim all this translates into a better-motivated Army Guard than in recent years.

The January report showed that the Air National Guard, which never had a recruiting problem, is holding its strength with 92,870 men and women. That is about 400 over strength.

Jerry Jenkins Will Run Again For Trustee Post

Jerry Jenkins is the first candidate to file for a position on the Big Spring Independent School board, filing for a second term.

In announcing his candidacy, he recalls that in 1971, he issued the following statement:

"I am offering my services in this area because I am interested in our communities educational processes, in the welfare of our children, and in maintaining an efficient, practical and stable school system. Big Spring is my home, and its schools are of concern to me. I would hope that my educational and business background would help me make intelligent decisions on all matters affecting our educational system."

"After serving a term on the Board, which I have done to the best of my ability, I would like to reiterate that statement."

"As most of you know, a new superintendent will be on the job at the beginning of the 1974-75 school year. I believe that my experience as a Board member will be invaluable in working with whoever is named to that position. As I am knowledgeable of our present operation, it follows that this knowledge can be used to maintain an efficient, practical, and stable school system." Jenkins added.

Jenkins, named a vice president of Cosden in 1967, came to Cosden in March 1958 as a Senior Process Engineer and held several positions with the company.

He worked for Humble Oil and Refining Co. at Baytown and Texas butadiene and Chemical Corporation in Houston prior to coming here. He served in the U.S. Army, Chemical Corps, for two years, then was discharged as a first lieutenant.

JERRY JENKINS

In Big Spring, he serves as a deacon at St. Paul Presbyterian Church, trustee of the United Fund, past director of the concert association, director of the Texas Manufacturers Association and a director of The Permian Basin Graduate Center in Midland.

He is also a registered professional engineer in Texas and a member of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the American Petroleum Institute. He graduated from Texas A&M in 1953 with a BS in chemical engineering.

He and his wife, Vernelle, reside at 503 Highland and have three daughters in school including Karen and Sharon, who are juniors, and Sherry, who is in the fifth grade at College Heights.

Apparel Show Is Set Feb. 24-25

ODESSA — The Permian Basin Apparel Club, an association of apparel manufacturers' representatives from throughout Texas, will sponsor a wholesale Mens' and Boys' Apparel Show Feb. 24-25 at the Villa del Sol in Odessa, according to association president Bob Hunter, Lubbock. More than 28 sales persons representing over 75 lines of clothes and accessories for men and boys will be on hand along with retailers from a 180-mile radius.

Short Moisture Conditions Exist In Far West Texas

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — It's been a mild dry February across Texas so far although the thermometer has dipped into cold readings at night. A cold front which raced across the state during the weekend sent temperatures to around 29 degrees in much of the Rio Grande Valley but a fast warming trend reduced crop damages, said Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The dry weather is causing concern in the western and southwestern portions of the state, where small grain pastures are providing only limited grazing for livestock.

Land preparation, especially for home gardens, is moving ahead rapidly and early planting is underway in some areas, Hutchison said. Commercial vegetable operations are progressing in the Winter Garden and Rio Grande Valley areas, where the winter harvest is underway.

LOSSES WEIGHT
Supplemental livestock feeding is still on, with some weight losses being reported. Generally, however, cattle are in fair to good condition, and a good calf crop is on the ground in places are getting low in some many areas. Stock water supplies of West Central and are a problem in this area.

David Wade Is Set To Speak At Luncheon

The top man in the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation — Dr. David Wade — will be here Thursday. Dr. Wade, commissioner of the department, will be speaker for the annual awards luncheon of the Volunteer Council at Big Spring State Hospital, and will make the first annual BSSH council award to the outstanding volunteer of the year. It will bear the name of its donor, Jack Y. Smith, founding president of the local council and a past president of the State Volunteer Council.

ROLLING PLAINS: Moisture is needed badly. Small grains remain in poor condition, with limited or no grazing available. Greenbug damage is reported in a few counties. Ranges are poor to fair, with widespread supplemental feeding. Stocker cattle are moving to market due to poor grazing conditions. Cotton harvest is complete except in a few areas.

WINDY WEATHER
FAR WEST: Short to very short moisture conditions exist in Far West Texas, and ranges and pastures are deteriorating rapidly. Ranchers are feeding heavily, although the labor supply is very short. Dryland small grains are providing only limited grazing, but irrigated grains are furnishing excellent grazing. Land preparation for summer crops is underway.

WEST CENTRAL: Dry, cold, windy weather has worsened an already short to very short moisture situation. Ranges are below average, and dry grasses are losing quality. Some stock tanks are getting low and pasture fires are a problem. There is heavy feeding of livestock. Small grain is suffering drought stress. Harvest of cotton has ended, and land is being prepared for home gardens. A rabies outbreak is in progress in Sutton County.

FEAR FREEZE
SOUTHWEST: Moisture conditions range from very short to adequate, with oat pastures providing limited grazing. Cattle are in generally good condition, with supplemental feeding continuing. Harvests of carrots, cabbage, greens, red potatoes and onions are progressing, while the spinach harvest is slowing down. Peach trees are blooming and growers fear a late freeze. Livestock feeding and ranch work constitute the major agricultural activities.

At the council luncheon in the Alford Auditorium, Jim Baum, president of the council and a regional vice president of the state council, will welcome the guests. Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the hospital, will present awards to individual volunteers who have given 100 hours or more service to the hospital.

Reservations for the luncheon should be called in by Tuesday (287-8216 — ext. 308). A native of Jacksonville, Fla., Dr. Wade has spent most of his professional career in Texas, where in 1939 he began his residency at Galveston Psychopathic Hospital which subsequently he directed. He also was superintendent at Rusk State Hospital and Austin State Hospital while he was clinical director of the Texas State Hospital System.

From 1945-67 he was in private practice at Austin, but he was retained by the state in consulting and special roles. Called back in mid-1967 as assistant commissioner for medical administration, Department of Welfare, he shaped the medical assistance program and then was named director of comprehensive health planning. Former Gov. Preston Smith named him to head the MH and MR department in September 1970.

Dr. Wade is a past president of the Texas Medical Society (its 100th and the first psychiatrist in 50 years), twice president of Texas Rehabilitation Association, and a pioneer in rehabilitation work.

In his new post he will deal with erosion and flood control, drainage, irrigation and water resources as well as pollution control in the Northeast Texas area. A graduate of Texas A&M and a veteran of World War II, he came here in 1951 with the SCS as social scientist, later transferring to Quanah and Childress. BE HONEST WITH YOUR HEALTH

Too often, people will try to convince themselves that very evident symptoms of an illness do not really exist or will disappear if they will just forget about them. This type of attitude can only lead to more serious problems in the long run. A disease in its earliest stages is usually much easier to treat and cure.

Never be afraid to find out about something that is bothering you. Most often your doctor will be able to diagnose your problem quickly. Then, not only will you be feeling better physically but you will have great mental relief as well.

Living Sound Will Appear Here Tuesday

Living Sound, one of the most sought-after groups in the field of contemporary gospel music, will appear Tuesday at City Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

For the past five years, this group of talented musicians have produced its own unique style of switched-on gospel, strumming its guitars and beating its drums through four continents and 30 nations. Everywhere the musicians go, they sing and talk about a Jesus that is personal and alive to them.

Headquartered in Tulsa, Okla., Living Sound is an independent non-profit organization focusing on missionary evangelism. What began five years ago as a weekend group has now expanded into two fulltime teams. While one team travels at home, the other team is abroad in some distant part of the world. At this moment, a Living Sound team is in Southeast Asia in the midst of a six month mission.

Overseas Living Sound is often received by government officials and welcomed as emissaries of good will. They have done much to dispel the image of the "ugly American" in many countries, and have always been invited to return.

While their music is polished and their presentation flawless, people the world over have come to know them as real people. They share from their own experience and are always available to talk personally with anyone. What keeps them going according to Terry Law, president of Living Sound, are the changes they have seen in the lives of thousands of people who have responded to the message of Christ's call on their lives, presented through Living Sound's music and message.

To date, they have released six albums and have received much recognition in the recording industry. Their most recent release, "Hymn," was originally recorded and pressed in South Africa.

Speaker and president of Living Sound is Terry Law, a Canadian born ordained minister. Law was recently elected one of the "outstanding young men of America."

Their musical director and arranger is Larry Dalton, a young man with exceptional ability. His musical arrangements, as well as being featured by Living Sound, are performed weekly on a nationwide television program.

LOSE 10-20-30 POUNDS! Easy To Lose Lbs. Fast With New Vitamin 'E' Diet

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderful benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical test, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

People Preparing Again For Mississippi Floods

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — "It's unquestioned that we're going to have some kind of flooding this year," says the Mississippi River Commission. "We are getting ready for a major one. We can't gamble that it won't happen."

Some flooding began in late January in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee. Swollen by rain, the Mississippi River and several tributaries — the Yazoo, Big Sunflower, the Red, the Ouachita and the Big Black — overflowed into nearby fields and woodlands.

The Mississippi was higher in many areas on Jan. 31 than it was on Jan. 31, 1973. That was two months before the historic floods that left a dozen dead and a billion dollars in damage from Illinois to the Gulf of Mexico. The water didn't recede until May.

The Mississippi River Commission, a federal agency run by the Army Corps of Engineers, has declared a Phase

I alert in the South. Patrols make daily inspections of every levee along the lower Mississippi.

BETTER OUTLOOK

Up north, flooding isn't as imminent. The Mississippi and the Ohio River, which joins the Mississippi at Cairo, Ill., are rising. "But we're keeping our fingers crossed there won't be a repetition of last year's floods," an Army Engineers spokesman said.

The Engineers are rushing to repair levees damaged last year in Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky. The spokesman said 180 had been rebuilt and 150 are still to be fixed this month and next.

The 1973 floods were the worst along the Mississippi system since 1927, when 300 died. Other major floods in 1884 and 1901 did little damage, primarily because few people lived along the river then outside St. Louis, Natchez and other cities. A 1937 flood left 200 dead in the Ohio River valley and did some

T-Bone Movies (Reel) Beats Selling Popcorn

WETUMKA, Okla. (AP) — You look for candy and popcorn to munch on at the movies, but how about eating a big juicy steak while taking in a double feature?

"It may sound crazy, but it is catching on," said local movie theater-restaurant owner Dale Grogan.

'CRY ROOM'

Last August, Grogan and his wife, Retha, purchased the movie house in this town of 1,800. It was an old one, complete with a glassed-in balcony that had been a "cry room" for parents with children.

But people don't take their children to the movies anymore. So when Grogan bought the theater he had about 2,000 feet of unused floor space upstairs, and a rather small clientele.

Grogan mulled over the problem with Don Hill a copartner in a local mobile home business. The solution — if dinner theaters with live stage plays would work, why wouldn't it go with the movies?

Grogan said he put up $1,000 and floated a $69,000 loan. He turned the cry room into a small restaurant where diners could watch the movie. He fixed up another 42-seat room for diners who don't like the movies, kept the floor seating for the 400 who like the movies but not the food, and opened a small private club.

He utilized part of the projection room for a small kitchen, hired Bob Cowen, a chef from Oklahoma City, and hung up a new sign.

While the dinner entree features steak, with a top New York sirloin priced at $5.95, the menu also offers seafood and such dishes as chicken Kiev with rice pilaf.

Luncheon also is served, but most of the business still arrives in the evening.

BEATS POPCORN

Helen Banta, one of six waitresses hired since Wetumka's Balcony Restaurant opened three weeks ago, says, "People from all around are starting to hear about us, and we're already the liveliest spot in town."

Last week, an entire motorcycle club from Holdenville arrived. A party of seven came from Wevoka and another group drove over from Okemah. Grogan said one group came from Weleetka and "didn't know what movie we were showing."

Teacher Exams Set April 6

National Teacher Examinations will be administered April 6, at Howard College, which has been designated as a test center.

Many college seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for certification, licensure, or those seeking positions in school systems which encourage or require the NTE will be taking the tests, according to Dr. Wayne Bonner, director of HC's counseling services.

In addition, Dr. Bonner says the designation of Howard College as a test center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests.

Last year approximately 100,000 candidates took the examinations, which are designed to assess cognitive knowledge and understanding in professional education, general education, and subject-field specialization. The examinations, which are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., are limited to assessment of those aspects of teacher education that are validly and reliably measured by well-constructed paper-and-pencil tests.

Bulletins of information describing registration procedures and containing registration forms, as well as sample test questions may be obtained from Howard College or directly from the national Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N.J., 08540.

Water's Quality Should Improve

For practical purposes, two playa lakes west of Big Spring have been dewatered, and hopefully this will help improve the quality of water in Lake E. V. Spence when spring rains come. Four Mile Lake has been virtually drained in little more than two months of pumping, and Three Mile Lake is almost to bottom. In so doing, more than 115 million gallons of water have been pumped back behind the Natural Dam 10 miles west of Big Spring and thus removed from the Beals Creek watershed which eventually feeds into Lake Spence. But so highly mineralized is this water, that it represents 19,150 tons of chlorides (salt) or 44,500 tons of total dissolved solids. This is the equivalent of a 100-car trainload a day for a week of solids which potentially could have gone downstream. Whether this is responsible for a dramatic change in the surface flow of Beals Creek at Big Spring is not clearly established, but there has been a change. At the Birdwell Lane crossing last week, the creek flow was only 800 ppm chlorides, about one fifth of what it has been. At the Eleventh Place waste treatment plant, the quality had been improved by three times. O. H. Ivie, general manager, reminded that this was only a partial change in the subsurface flow in the channel. However, if a rain came at this time, said Ivie, the condition of the creek would mean far better quality going downstream than has ever been the case.

ATT Tightens Call Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has announced that after March 1 it will not turn over to authorities the long-distance telephone records of its customers unless under a subpoena or administrative summons.

In the past, ATAT has released records of long-distance calls merely on written request from government agencies. The new policy, announced Friday, was immediately criticized by the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press as not going far enough. "The committee has been seeking a guarantee that any records whose toll call records have been demanded by any government agency or official be given a chance to challenge such demand by appropriate court action," the committee's statement said.

Investigators said Dobbs was caught between the truck and the car. His partner, Larry F. Doggs, 26, suffered back injuries and was treated and released at a Madisonville hospital.

The smashup occurred about a mile and a half south of this Central Texas town.

Both officers worked out of Centerville.

Perry Como Will Soon Be 62 But Few Would Know

HOLLYWOOD — If time knows that Perry Como exists it has ignored him or at least it has left him unscathed.

True, his hair wasn't gray in 1936 when he joined Ted Weems' band as a featured singer, and today it's a distinguished silver. But otherwise he's changed hardly at all since he first stepped into the public eye almost 40 years ago.

"I don't know what age crowds I drew when I was playing the Hilton in Las Vegas a year or so ago," Perry said, "but it was kind of disconcerting to have some old, old lady hobble up and say, 'You played at our high school prom,' when there's no way I can be that old. I didn't start with Ted Weems until 1936, an didn't go on my own until 1942 and, anyway, I've never played. I've sung."

DISCONCERTING

"It's a little disconcerting, too, when a youngster comes up to me and asks, 'Mr. Como, can I have your autograph for my grandmother?' Especially when the youngster's forty.

"But it's kind of fun to know that a couple of my records have made the Top 40 recently.

"A kid came up to me the other day and said, 'Mr. Como, we're glad you made OUR Top 40.'"

"I told him 'Me too.'"

"Their Top 40! The young people claim that as their own."

Como, as has been widely publicized, got his professional start as a barber, becoming an apprentice when he was 14 and moving into his own shop immediately after high school graduation.

While his customers enjoyed his haircuts and shaves, they also enjoyed his songs, so much so that, when he was 21, he was encouraged to audition for Freddy Carlone's band.

He did and was offered a job as the vocalist, but he almost declined the offer, because he'd just married his childhood sweetheart, Roselle Belline, and hated to begin the transient life of a band singer.

However, after much consideration and with Roselle's approval, he joined the Carlone organization. Then, three years later, he transferred to the Weems band with which he remained until it broke up in 1942.

At this juncture, Perry was ready to leave show business forever and was, in fact, negotiating a lease for a new barbershop in his home town, Canonsburg, Pa., when General Artists Corp. made him an offer he couldn't turn down.

Other booking agencies had proposed deals which he'd declined, but the GAC proposition was too attractive to forego, since it would give him a network radio show, nightclub bookings as a "single" and an RCA Victor recording contract.

So Perry accepted it and was soon starting at New York's Versailles and Copacabana nightclubs and at Manhattan's famous Paramount Theater.

"Till the End of Time" became his first hit record, selling more than one million discs, and in 1944 he made his first movie, "Something For the Boys."

In that same year, he became star-host of "The Chesterfield Supper Club" heard on NBC radio which, during its last two years with the radio network (1948-50), was also carried by NBC-TV. After that, "The Super Club" moved to CBS-TV for an additional five-year run.

In 1955, Perry returned to NBC television to star in The Perry Como Show and, later, "Perry Como's Kraft Music Hall."

Following the "Music Hall's" last season, Como has appeared on television as a guest or as star of specials.

ceased up even more since he and his wife moved to Florida from Long Island two years ago.

He has three grown children, two sons and a daughter, and eight grandchildren, some of whom live near him and are the joy of his life.

NOT SO HARD

"When your own children are grown up," Perry said, "you try to do everything right. You really work at it. But, with your grandchildren, you don't have to work so hard.

"I just let 'em go and enjoy them."

"My daughter and her family live near us, and her little boy and I have a real love affair. He's named Terence and is four and a half years old.

"He was a premie baby, so he had to be held and cuddled a lot at the beginning. He got just a lot of love, and it's made him a very loving child.

"Besides that, he's just so beautiful you could die.

"He loves to fish, and, when he sidles up and takes my hand and says, 'Grandpa, let's go fishing, we go!'"

It's obvious that no professional attainment could fill

Como with such pride as he feels because a little boy loves him.

Though Perry is a still recording and making occasional television appearances, he's abandoned the nightclub circuit for the time being at least to the sorrow of entrepreneurs in Vegas where he was a top attraction.

Two years ago, on Oct. 11, 1971, to be exact, while starting in an NBC Christmas special, Perry cracked his knee when a platform broke. He still suffers from the injury, and for this reason, among others, he's reduced his work load.

Like a good trouper, he finished the disastrous special of 1971, but he's had to submit to therapy ever since. "My knee's all right," he assured. Then he laughed. "But I think the rest of my body is cracking up."

Road Hearing Slate Listed

The complete schedule for a series of informal meetings to discuss possibility of extending Interstate 27 southward from Lubbock has been announced.

The IS 27 extension is one of 10 routes nationwide for which Congress directed feasibility and necessity studies as part of the 1973 Federal Aid Highway Act. Two other studies will include route that cross parts of the Texas Panhandle.

Phil Wilson, engineer-director of the Texas Highway Department's planning and research division in Austin, stressed importance of the meetings to which any interested person is invited.

The meetings are scheduled as follows:

- Lubbock, 7 p.m., March 12, Lubbock City Hall.
- Lamesa, 7 p.m., March 14, Forrest Park Community Center.
- Snyder, 7 p.m., March 18, Scurry County Coliseum.
- Big Spring, 7 p.m., March 20, Howard College auditorium.
- Ahileme, 7 p.m., March 22, Ahilene Civic Center.
- San Angelo, 7 p.m., March 27, City Auditorium.

Pageant Is Challenging To Girl Who Stays Busy

In between serving on PTA boards, working for the police department and T.G.&Y. store fabric section and attending Howard College, Debbie Bennett plans to compete in the Jaycees' Miss Diamondback Pageant March 28.

"I think it will be a challenge to try something different or to try to work it into my schedule," Miss Bennett said.

The 19-year-old is historian of the Boydston Elementary PTA, a member of the Boydston PTA Executive board and a member of the county District 16 board of the PTA.

Asked how she became involved in the PTA, she said: "My little brother is in school, and my mother volunteered me. It wasn't by choice."

As identification clerk, she has taken fingerprints, filed, made photos and frisked women prisoners.

She is concentrating in law enforcement studies at Howard College. Here, Miss Bennett belongs to the Lasso Club, an organization for girls and to the Baptist Student Union.

At Big Spring High School, where she was graduated in 1972, Debbie played in the Steer Band and symphonic band.

Books Ready For Spellers

"Words of Champions," practice book for the annual Howard County Spelling Bee, are now available for young participants at the Big Spring elementary schools and at Runnels and Goliad Junior High.

Private school pupils who desire to obtain the practice books may obtain them at the Herald office at 25 cents.

Words in the count spelling bee, April 4, will be taken from the practice book.

School champions will be named by March 30, which means that most classrooms will be having their eliminations probably a few days before that.

The Howard County winner will be entered in the regional Spelling Bee at Lubbock April 13, and the winner there goes directly to the national finals in Washington.

Any boy or girl who is in the eighth grade or below now, or who will not have reached age 16 by June 3, is eligible to participate.

Commission To Consider Subsidy, Landfill Sites

Advertising for landfill sites, discussing an increase in ambulance subsidy and opening bids on fire fighting equipment appears on the agenda for County Commissioners Court Monday.

L. A. Hiltbrunner of Alert Ambulance last week asked for a $100 increase in subsidy from the county. With the $600 the city now pays monthly and $300 currently from the county, this would mean a total of $12,000 yearly.

Bids on tank-gas masks and fire fighting suits will be opened at 10 a.m.

At 1:30 p.m., the court plans to enter a contract with the city concerning the future landfill site. In advertising for bids, the city and county will seek land for purchase rather than lease.

Other business due consideration includes:

- Conferring with Ron Stroman, Xerox Corp., concerning replacing a copying machine now leased with another model. Replacement is being considered for a machine in the district clerk's office.
- Buying a filing cabinet for the district clerk's office and a new typewriter for the district clerk's office.
- And entering a contract with the city for computerization of other registration records.

The meeting will be convened 9 a.m.

Champ Plans To Finish Suit

HOUSTON (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman told a divorce court Saturday he is prepared to stay in Houston for as long as it takes to complete the property settlement stemming from his divorce.

"I want to walk out of here as a man. Athletes have all been taken advantage of because they wanted to get out of court and go back into training," he said.

"I'm willing to sit here every day until everything gets right."

The boxer is seeking to divorce Adrienne, his wife of two years.

Domestic Relations Court Judge Wells Stewart granted the divorce last week and set custody and visitation rights involving their 13-month-old child.

At issue now is the splitting of community property.

The hearing recessed Saturday after testimony from Foreman's manager, Dick Sadler. It will reconvene Monday with Leroy Jackson, Foreman's business manager, on the witness stand.

Foreman was released by the court to go to Valley Forge, Pa., to pick up an award. He is to return to Houston to testify Tuesday morning.

Foreman is due to defend his title against Ken Norton March 26 in Caracas, Venezuela.

Foreman moved his training camp to Houston Friday from Hayward Calif., to continue preparations for the fight.

Judge Stewart suggested Saturday that he appoint a special master to divide the property and take the matter up again in April after the Norton fight. But Foreman rejected this proposal.

"I suggest I just fight it out and go through the agony rather than lose everything going for me. I don't want to go through the problem of someone sharing an interest in my earnings. I just prefer to stay here and take a chance of losing the Norton fight," Foreman said.

The hearing was delayed Saturday because lawyers for Foreman were unable to obtain all bank records from Foreman's several California accounts.

Judge Stewart appointed a Houston lawyer, Heaulan E. Lott, as special master in the case and Lott indicated he may have to hold hearings through Tuesday or Wednesday.

Outside the courtroom, Foreman said he will continue to train in Houston and despite his court appearances he expects to be able to keep up his schedule.

Asked about his present mental and physical condition, Foreman replied, "I feel like I could beat most anybody in the world right now. Mentally, when the bell rings, you have no choice. I'm a fighter and that comes first."

STARTS TRAINING — World Heavyweight champion George Foreman has the protective headgear strapped on as he opened workouts in Houston Friday. Foreman will defend his title on March 25 against Ken Norton in Caracas, Venezuela.

Bruins Suffer 2 Straight Defeats

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Oregon, behind the red-hot shooting of Bruce Coldren, handed top-ranked UCLA its second straight basketball defeat 56-51 Saturday in a regionally televised Pacific-8 Conference game.

The last time UCLA lost back-to-back games was in 1966 at Oregon State and Oregon, respectively. Oregon last defeated the Bruins four years ago, 78-65.

Coldren, a 6-foot-8 sophomore forward from Goleta, Calif., hit 12 of 14 field goal attempts, finishing with a career-high 24 points.

Meanwhile, the Ducks held UCLA center Bill Walton to four field goals and three foul shots for only 11 points.

UCLA jumped ahead 11-2 in the first three minutes. Then Coldren, a surprise starter, began pumping in 15-foot jump shots from the corner and put Oregon ahead for the first time 26-24 on his eighth straight basket with 7:24 left in the first half.

Oregon's offense stalled in the closing minutes of the first half, working in shots by Ron Lee and Mark Barwig for a 32-26 halftime edge.

The Ducks held onto their lead early in the second half, staying in front 42-37 on a pair of field goals by Gerald Willett. The Bruins fought back and Tommy Curtis put UCLA ahead 43-42 with 12:10 on the clock.

Lee, who finished with 12 points, hit a 15-footer as Oregon inched ahead 44-43. Coldren fired off three straight buckets and Lee added two more, giving the Ducks a 52-43 advantage.

With 6:51 remaining and a nine-point lead, Oregon went into a delayed-game offense, trying to draw Walton out from under the basket.

In a key play, Barwig was fouled with 3:50 on the clock. He missed the shot and Walton grabbed the rebound, but Barwig stole the ball.

Andre McCarter hit a 20-footer to bring the Bruins within 54-47 with 1:45 left, and Walton had a tip-in to make it 54-49 with one minute remaining.

With 42 seconds left, Barwig again was fouled and sank both free throws, giving Oregon a 56-49 lead. Afraid of a foul, the Ducks made room for a Walton lay-in for the final play with five seconds left.

Keith Wilkes was high with 18 points for the Bruins, who suffered their third loss this season.

Oregon State handed UCLA its second loss of the season 61-57 Friday night in Corvallis.

UCLA (51): Wilkes 8, 22, 18, Meyers 3, 3, 9, Walton 4, 3, 11, Curtis 7, 0, 4, Johnson 2, 1, 3, Trgovich 1, 0, 2, Lee 5, 0, 0, McCarter 1, 0, 2, Tolson 0, 0, 2.

Texas Tech Falls To Aggies, 98-95

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M outlasted league-leading Texas Tech 98-95 in a Southwest Conference double overtime basketball game Saturday night as Randy Knowles and John Thornton combined for 54 points.

Webb Williams hit two free throws with 1:17 remaining in the final overtime period to give the Aggies a 96-93 lead before Grady Newton scored for Tech with six seconds remaining.

Newton then was called for an intentional foul and Ray Roberts hit two more free throws with one second remaining to seal the victory for the Aggies.

A&M shot a blistering 51.2 clip to take a 39-36 halftime lead and was in front by as much as 13 points during the second half before a late Tech rally.

The regulation game ended at 79-79 and the first overtime was knotted at 87-87.

Knowles scored 28 points for A&M. Thornton added 26 and Cedric Joseph, Roberts and Williams hit 10 apiece.

Newton paced Tech with 29 points while Rick Bullock and William Johnson had 20 each.

Tech now is 8-2 in SWC play and 15-7 overall. The Aggies are 5-5 and 13-8, having won all nine home games this season.

Jackson Begins Talks On '74 Baseball Pay

By The Associated Press

Armed with the knowledge that owner Charley Finley's checkbook is chock full of fresh cash after the sale of his hockey team, Reggie Jackson heads this week's contingent of baseball players seeking arbitration of their 1974 contracts.

Jackson, the American League's Most Valuable Player, is one of a fistful of Oakland A's choosing arbitration rather than wrangling over terms with Finley, who sold his California Golden Seals back to the National Hockey League for some $6 million last week.

Also set to take his swings against Finley this week is Joe Rudi. Teammates Sal Bando, Gene Tenace, Ted Kubiak, Darold Knowles, Ken Holtzman and Rollie Fingers went head to head with their boss last week.

"We've been underpaid too long," said Jackson, whose case comes before the arbitrator Tuesday. "I don't know if I'll bring a lawyer or just go in myself and say, 'Here's what I did last season. Where's the dough?'" He is reportedly seeking $125,000.

The arbitration procedure is relatively simple. Both sides come in with a firm figure...sometimes only a few thousand dollars apart, sometimes much more. The arbitrator listens to the arguments and then, after a few days of deliberation, decides on one figure or the other. There is no negotiating on the two figures submitted to the arbitrator.

"I'm signed now, but I don't know for how much," said Minnesota pitcher Dick Woodson, the first player to have his contract go to arbitration.

That element gives the procedure a doomsday atmosphere for the club and player. And it could be the reason that many of the scheduled confrontations have been canceled when the two parties decided negotiation and compromise, unavailable in arbitration, would be a better route to settlement.

"We're encouraging the parties to settle on their own," said Dick Moss, general counsel of the Major League Players Association. "My guess would be that of the 45 or so cases appealed to arbitration across the country, about half of them have been settled before a hearing." The hearings are held in New York, San Francisco and Chicago.

Most teams have refused to say which of their players has chosen arbitration. The A's had the most cases.

Texas Rolls Past Owls

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dan Krueger scored eight of his 24 points in a 34-second spree in the closing minutes to lead Texas to an 85-76 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Rice Saturday night.

The triumph pulled the Longhorns to within a game of league-leading Texas Tech. The two teams will meet Tuesday in Lubbock.

With Texas leading 71-70 with 2:40 remaining, Krueger converted two free throws, then stole the ball and drove the length of the court for a lay up and was fouled on the play.

He made the free throw, sank a technical foul shot and took the inbound pass to hit a jump shot at 2:06 to give the Longhorns a 79-70 edge.

Rice, led by Danny Carroll's 22 points, was in front much of the game before Texas went ahead 63-62 with 6:24 remaining.

Larry Robinson, Texas' high scoring senior forward, was held to 17 points after getting only two in the first half. Krueger, in matching his Texas career high, hit 14 of 14 free throws.

Texas is now 7-3 and Rice is 4-6 in the league.

Finals Set In Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — Top-seeded Iile Nastase of Romania, leading money winner on the 1973 World Championship Tennis tour, and unseeded Tom Okker of The Netherlands advanced to Sunday's final in the $60,000 Toronto International Tennis Tournament with semifinal victories Saturday.

Nastase whipped Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill. 6-3, 6-4, while Okker beat John Alexander of Australia 7-6, 6-2.

The first set of the Nastase-Riessen match was even through six games. Then, the seventh game went to deuce five times before Nastase finally broke service. Nastase also won the eighth game and broke Riessen's service again in the ninth game.

"I tried to serve to his backhand," said Nastase. "In the crucial seventh game, I was a little wild and got a bit worried."

Mann Leading Naples Action

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Carol Mann shot her second straight round of 70, two under par, to take a one-stroke lead Saturday after 36 holes of the 54-hole Naples Women's Classic golf tournament.

Donna Caponi Young was in second place at 141 in the $38,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association event, scheduled to conclude today.

The field began the day with seven players tied for the lead and 26 within three strokes, but after playing in crosswinds of 20 miles an hour and intermittent rain, only two other players were within four shots of Miss Mann.

Three shots off the lead after a 70 on the 6,232-yard Lely Country Club course was Karolyn Kertzman of Santee, Calif. Another shot back was Clifford Ann Creed of Largo, Fla., who had her second straight even par round of 72.

Miss Man, of Towson, Md., finished with birdies on three of the last four holes. She made a 15-foot putt on the 15th hole, had a 20-footer on the 17th and finished with a 46-footer on the 18th.

Steers 12th In Midland Golf

MIDLAND — The Big Spring Steers suffered a second round letdown Saturday and finished 12th in the 20-team Midland Invitational High School Golf Tournament.

The Steer linksters, sixth after the first 18 holes Friday, finished with a 674. Odessa Permian won with a 639 total, Midland shot a 638 for second and Abilene Cooper was third with a 643. Snyder at 647 and Midland Lee with a 652 rounded out the top five.

Lesan Chiles of Permian was the medalist. He fired a 150, one shot better than Cooper's Tom McElroy. Big Spring's low scorer was Bennett Robb at 166, while Jimmy Stewart turned in a 167. Bob Shaffer had a 171. Warren Jones shot 177 and Joe Griffith turned in a 178.

Next action for the Steer golfers is Friday, when they enter the Andrews Invitational Golf Tournament.

Denver City Sweeps Meet

Runnels was the only local team to come away with a trophy, while Denver City swept the championship honors in the Big Spring Junior High Volleyball Tournament here Saturday.

Denver City knocked off Plains 15-8, 15-9 for the freshman crown and the Denver City eighth graders got past Lamesa 15-5, 15-6 in their finals. In third place action Lamar downed Lamesa 15-4, 15-10 for the freshman honors.

Runnels copped consolation honors in the eighth grade bracket, smacking Snyder Travis 17-15, 6-15, 16-14.

Denver City put three players, Moore, Knox and Lambert on the ninth grade all-tournament team, while Phillips, Stroup and Howell were the Plains honorees. Only one Big Spring girl, Ann Blackwell of the freshman Black team, was an all-meet selection and she was joined by Lahan Sons of Lamesa, Walker of Lamar and Broziel of Travis.

In the eighth grade, Rose Magers and Eva Rich of Runnels made the honor list, along with Cathy Rhymes of Goliad, Margaret Womack of Lamar, Sylvia Garcia of Travis, Paula Tune and Diane Woodall of Lamesa and Becky Ancira and Gloria Navarez of Denver City.

All four Big Spring teams were eliminated from the championship play in the first round. Lamar knocked off Big Spring Black 15-10, 15-9 and Big Spring Gold dropped a 15-0, 15-12 decision to Lamesa in the ninth grade action.

In the eighth grade division, Lamar trimmed Goliad 15-3, 15-13 while Runnels bowed to Travis 1-15, 15-12, 17-15.

Runnels came back to score a 15-0, 15-6 win over Lamar in the losers bracket, but Travis eliminated Goliad 15-12, 16-14. The ninth grade Black squad defeated Fort Stockton 15-12, 15-2 before losing to Travis 15-6, 10-15 and 15-8 in consolation play. The Gold team lost to Travis 15-3, 15-8.

Baylor Rallies To Sink Frogs

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Charlie McKinney sparked a second half rally to pace Baylor to a 71-63 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Texas Christian University Saturday afternoon.

TCU built a 39-32 halftime lead but the Horned Frogs hit only 24 per cent of their shots from the field after intermission. Baylor hit 53 per cent of its field goals in the second half.

McKinney led the Bears' victory with 16 points and 13 rebounds. Teammate Lee Griffin added 14 points.

TCU's Gary Landers took game scoring honors with 19 points. Lynn Royal hit 11 in a substitute role for the Horned Frogs.

Steer Skid Ends At 6; Kuykendall Leads Win

ODESSA — Jeff Kuykendall must have figured he'd save the best for last.

Kuykendall, a reserve guard who has averaged just four points a game, broke loose for 27 points Friday night at the Big Spring Steers ended a six-game losing streak with an 85-75 victory over Odessa High.

The 5-10 guard got his first starting call of the year as Steer Coach Ron Plumlee let the reserves kick things off in the next-to-last game of the season. "Kuykendall was getting rebounds and doing everything," Plumlee said. "Once he got started he was ripping it."

The victory pulled the Big Springers out of the cellar with a 1-5 mark in the second half of Dist. 5-AAAA play, and on the year the Longhorns stand 16-13. The Steers close out their season Tuesday in the BSHS gym against San Angelo.

Odessa fell to 0-6 in loop play and 3-28 on the year with the loss, the Bronchos' 10th in a row.

The Bronchos got off to a 43-41 halftime edge, using a tight man-to-man defense and pressing at half court. "We had a hard time organizing with the new guys in there, particularly on defense," Plumlee said. "It wasn't a matter of not hustling."

Kuykendall, Bobby Greene, Jim Ray, Ricky Traylor and Vicky Woodruff played most of the first half, and in the second half the regulars cast of Larry Stanley, John Thomas Smith, Randy Marshall, Tim Dunn and Albo Smith joined in.

John Smith aided the scoring cause with 20 points, and Albo Smith notched 12. Kuykendall hit 12 of 18 shots in the win. For the Bronchos, Mike Casey was tops with 23 points and Burt Holloway and Jerry Walker threw in 13 apiece.

Midland came within a game of sacking up the Dist. 5-AAAA basketball crown Friday with a com-from-berid 71-57 triumph over the Abilene High Eagles.

The Rebels can win a playoff berth by knocking off Midland High on Tuesday. Cooper, 72-64 victor over Midland Friday, will be honing for the upset, meanwhile. The Cougars could force a playoff for the district title by beating Abilene High Tuesday if Lee were to lose.

Lee is 6-0 in the second half and 28-3 on the year, while Cooper is 5-1 and 24-6. Abilene slipped out of the title run with a 4-2 mark.

In other action Friday, Big Spring climbed out of the cellar with an 85-75 decision over Odessa and Odessa Permian surprised San Angelo, 49-47.

Lee got 23 points from Melvin Jackson in his victory over Abilene, while Mike Hill chipped in 20. For the Warbirds, Monte Harris rang up 24 points. Larry Bradford paced the

The Steers, who took the lead in the third quarter and pulled away in the fourth, improved their shooting in the final 16 minutes and finished the night with a 48 per cent showing, 37 of 77. The 'Horns committed nine turnovers Odessa committed 18.

The Steer Junior Varsity was surprised by the Odessans, 50-44. Robert Aldridge and David Beasley led the losers with nine points, while Mark Moore hit eight.

The Big Springers now stand 2-11 in district play and 8-13 on the year.

Hawks Ease Past Phillips

BORGER — The Howard College Hawks, playing like a bully holding his smaller foe at arm's length, turned back Frank Phillips' scrappy Plainsmen 75-71 Friday in Western Conference action.

The victory allowed the Hawks to pull even with Amarillo in the WC race, both at 11-2, and jumped the Hawks' season standing to 31-4. Frank Phillips now stands 10-11 and 5-8.

Frank Phillips gets another shot at the Howard cagers Monday in the HC gym at 7:30 p.m., while Amarillo visits Odessa College on Monday.

Howard College coach Harold Wilder said that the Hawks didn't play as well as the might before against Amarillo, then added "But I think that's understandable. Everyone played decent — you know, well enough to win but not really spectacular."

"I thought (Leroy) Lumzy had a pretty good game and (Thomas) Bledsoe rebounded real well. They have a small team, and they took most of their shots from way out. They hit pretty well, too."

Ronnie Williams, a six-foot guard who shot best for the Plainsmen, hit the last of his 23 points on a three-point play with 1:40 remaining. The basket sliced a bulge that had reached 15 points to just three, at 74-71, and the Hawks then stalled the game away.

Notre Dame Nips South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Notre Dame, behind John Shumate's 26 points, survived a South Carolina comeback attempt that cut a 13-point lead to 4 points in the last two minutes Saturday and beat the Gamecocks 72-68.

The No. 3-ranked Irish never trailed after the game's first seven minutes. They held a five-point lead at intermission and a 54-41 margin with nine minutes to play on a Shumate tap-in.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Incredible 61-year-old Sam Snead fashioned a five-under-par 66 and moved into a four-way tie for the lead Saturday in the third round of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament.

Snead, still displaying the Panama straw hat and the swing that were his trademarks back in the 1950s, put together a three-round total of 207, six under par. He was tied with Tom Weiskopf, John Mahaffey and second-round leader Dave Stockton, who had the lead alone until he bogeyed the final hole.

Weiskopf, showing a return to the form that won him seven titles in 1973, matched the

For What It's Worth

Jack Cowan

Whenever presidents of the Western Conference schools gather, you can bet they're going to do something that will make headlines — particularly when the meeting concerns the league's athletic situation. That wasn't exactly the case when the nine men got together last weekend in Levelland, however, and the main news was actually what MIGHT have happened.

Besides passing rules concerning the conference's golf and tennis programs — which won't be decided on until the regular conference meet in May — the presidents discussed recruiting restrictions, and the result could have been a sudden death.

It's no secret that some of the less successful schools in the loop are in favor of de-emphasizing athletics, and that could mean anything from cutting down the women's table tennis schedule to making the team bus use regular gas instead of ethyl. But when recruiting cutbacks are talked, you can bet the chatter is serious because there's only one way you can regulate it — and that's by virtually killing it altogether.

Other leagues have gone to restricting the area in which a school can recruit, making them stay within their state or sometimes putting a 75-mile or 100-mile or 150-mile radius on them. That, friends, would be the death blow.

At present the Western Conference has to be one of the strongest juco leagues around. There are so many fine teams, in fact, that it's a shame three or four of them can't make to the national tournament. Had one of these recruiting restrictions been passed in a vote, you can imagine what the Western Conference would degenerate into. It would immediately become a joke, and you could certainly forget any dreams of a national contender.

To fully appreciate the power of the WC, you've got to realize just how good it is. One Southwest Conference coach who was among the 50 major college recruiters at the Howard College-Amarillo game Thursday said he could take the best of those two teams and breeze through the SWC. Possibly, he could win it with either team. Now that's strength.

One other fact that would have to be considered if a "radius" restriction were placed on the schools is that very few quality basketball players come out of West Texas — maybe a couple every year and certainly not more than five or six who can play major college ball. They are grabbed up immediately by the big schools, since a player would obviously rather play basketball at Southern Methodist or Texas Tech than Howard College or Clarendon.

Now, think what that would leave for the junior colleges. After the Biggies got through, Howard College, Western Texas and Odessa would all be battling for the same leftover Dist. 5-AAAA players, who weren't very good to start with, plus the few good players from the lower classifications.

While everyone would be weaker, the obvious edge would be to schools like Amarillo and Clarendon, which would have little recruiting competition from other member schools because of their isolation. The league would actually be brought down to the level of mediocre high school basketball.

And as far as a school like New Mexico Military Institute is concerned, you could forget the program altogether since the entire school is recruited from all over the United States, as well as the world.

There has also been talk about grade point average requirements for athletes, but that could never pass — at least not in any form a school interested in de-emphasizing athletics would want. That's for the very obvious reason that if a certain GPA were required for basketball players, they'd be discriminating against them.

That, you see, is what the whole philosophy of junior colleges is all about. The junior college is supposed to be a place for a gradual transition from high school to senior college, and to penalize a student because he happens to be an athlete would border on the ridiculous.

What did happen at the meeting of the presidents was a limit to the number of games a team can play, which won't hurt Howard College much and might even be a boost in the long run. Teams will be limited to two scrimmages, 16 conference games, eight non-conference games and two tournaments, plus playoffs.

For the Hawks, that compares to 14 non-conference games and three tournaments this season. And it's been suggested anyway that the HC cagers, who could play as many as 44 games this year, are nearly burned out by the time the playoffs come around. The new format would limit a schedule to around 30 games, plus playoffs.

The presidents also did some whittling on the tennis and golf calendars, mainly because of the energy shortage. Golf and tennis teams, if the proposals pass at the spring meet, will be decided by a tournament rather than the past round robin styles.

Also, the golfers and netters will be limited to two tournaments and three matches per semester, and the presidents suggested that the golf and tennis meets be scheduled at the same sites and dates so the squads could travel together.

Blackwell Pops Buffaloes In Season Finale, 72-67

BLACKWELL — The Blackwell Hornets rallied in the fourth quarter for a 72-67 victory over Forsan, spoiling the Buffs' season finale.

Forsan led 53-50 going into the final eight minutes, but Don Boyd led a hot streak that pushed the Hornets on top as the Buffs finished the year at 21-3 and ended Dist. 11-B play with a 9-3 standing. The Forsan cagers were 4-2 in the second half.

Boyd hit 29 points and Willis Sisson added 20 to spark the Hornets' effort, while Don Ely chipped in 12 markers.

For the Buffaloes, Ralph Miranda was tops with 22 points and Joe Moreno and Brad Stevens notched 16 apiece.

Buff's Romp In Warmup

WALL — The Dist. 7-AA champion Stanton Buffaloes warmed up their basketball machinery for bi-district warfare Friday and raced to a 73-63 decision over Dist. 9-A titlist Wall.

The Buffs, who held a 17-point bulge at one time, left starters Gordon Eiland and David Standerfer at home to recuperate from illness as the team raced to its 24th victory against six losses.

On Tuesday the Buffaloes journeyed to Monahans to test Van Horn in bi-district action. Stanton Coach Jim Jensen said the Eagles, Dist. 8-AA champs, are small but have good quickness and they're excellent shooters. Van Horn is 15-10 on the year and finished hoop play at 7-1.

Gene Louder had one of his best nights Friday, hitting 21 points, while Mark Eiland put through 16 and grabbed 17 rebounds. Elvin Brown, breaking into the starting lineup, picked up eight points and Jensen said he was sharp in his rebounding.

Vernon Brown added 13 points and Billy Howard hit 10 for the winners, while Dierschke led Wall with 17 points.

Stanton took a four-point halftime lead, boosted it by another in the third quarter and then blew it open in the fourth after Dierschke, Wall's 6-5 post man, fouled out of the game.

Channel Cat Make News; Spence Has Record Fish

Channel catfish strings increased in reports from fishermen at Lake E. V. Spence last week. There were several black bass catches, some sizeable striped bass and a blue cat — or channel cat — which weighed 13 lb., 9 oz., which, in either case, a record for the lake.

At Y. J.'s Marina, Mark J. Magdefrau, Big Spring, landed a 12 lb. 10 oz. striped bass; Larry Colley, San Angelo, boated a 5 lb. 12 oz. black bass; Ron Bankhead, Odessa, had two channel cats aggregating 14 pounds.

Hank Baker, Robert Lee, brought six channel cat to Hillside Grocery, the largest 4 1/2 lb., plus a 4 1/2-lb. striper. Counts' Grocery and Bait reported that Roger Holley and Earl Wynne, Fort Stockton had two channel cats to 3 lb. and a 2-lb. black bass; Ronnie Bankhead, George Beeson, Carolyn Soodgrass, G. M. Bankhead and Kent and Shorby Bankhead, all of Robert Lee, came in with 33 channel cat weighing a total of 80 pounds; Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Williams, Robert and Macky Williams, along with Jerry and Nona Williams of Water Valley, reported a balanced catch. Mr. and Mrs. Robert DeWoody, Robert Lee, brought in nine channel cat to 3 1/2 lb. and to blacks to 3 lb. at Dink's Bait Store; Harvey Chapman, Robert Lee, had a 10 1/2-lb. striped bass, plus four channel cat to 3 1/2 lb.

Angotti Named By St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jean Guy Talbot was replaced by Lou Angotti, who played 11 years in the National Hockey League, as coach of the slumping St. Louis Blues Saturday.

Angotti took only eight hours of coaching experience into Saturday night's game as the Blues faced the Minnesota North Stars.

Angotti was named at noon Saturday after Talbot resigned from his coaching duties, but not from the Blues organization, Friday night.

"I was sorry to hear that Guy wanted to step down," said Blues president Sidney Salomon III, "because he is a close personal friend and I thought a lot of him as a coach."

"But he told me the job was costing him and his family too high a price and I had to respect his wishes. I want to emphasize that Guy was under no pressure to give up the job."

Hunting Reports 'Good' In Spite Of Dry Weather

By J. D. PEER Parks & Wildlife Dept.

The dry weather didn't seem to hurt the 1973-74 hunting season except for the quail hunter. With the winding up of quail season on Feb. 15, most of the hunting reports are up from last year.

"The dust and dry cover slowed the bird hunter down some this year, Ted Wheeler Lubbock District supervisor, said, "and if we don't get some moisture soon the birds will face a dry nesting season. This is not the most ideal situation."

Some of the hunting areas in the northern Texas panhandle are in better shape for the remainder of the winter and the spring nesting season. There has been snow and rain off and on all winter and food plants should be in good shape for the game.

The mid-winter waterfowl survey was just completed and a total of 911,490 birds were estimated wintering in the panhandle and south plains. This number would have been higher with more water available. The hunter harvest of waterfowl was higher due to the concentration of the birds on the few reservoirs and play lakes with water.

The prairie chicken season estimates include a good increase for both the south plains and panhandle, 451 birds were taken in the permian basin last October and each hunter harvested an average of 1.09 birds. Each hunter spent 3.88 hours hunting.

Deer hunters took a total of 651 mule and whitetail, in the panhandle this last season and that shows an increase over the 586 taken in 1972. Comments

The bad news concerning attempts to introduce Walleyes to Lake J. B. Thomas is that few fishermen have landed these sleek beauties.

The good news is that they apparently are doing well in their transplanted habitat. It may just require a special skill to catch them.

Another bit of news is that the Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission biologists may artificially spawn the walleyes, although there are some indications that a natural spawn has been effected.

That the walleyes are in the lake and growing was established last week when Ray Bamberg, biologist, ran sample nettings. He came up several handsome specimens, the largest an eight pounder, and with a good balance of male and female.

The larger fish are three to four years old, and one of the lesser sizes would reflect a growth period that strongly hints a natural spawn, based on the time of transplants of the fingerlings in the lake.

In a month or two TP&WLC biologists may strip the large walleyes and attempt artificial spawning such as proven highly successful for striped bass at Lake E. V. Spence. This might drastically step up the availability of stocking walleyes.

The 1974 Sports Afield Fishing Manual carries an account by Dave Harbour on "How to Catch Walleye." The author says that the walleye want as much cover as they can get, and in areas such as this, the big rock rip-rap along the face of dams may provide that environment, although areas of protruding rock or boulders may also be favorite places.

In many lakes, such as Lake Thomas, fishing is not permitted from the dam, so a boat must be used. Trolling must be done very slowly because the walleyes seem lazier than most fish — until hooked — and rarely will chase a fast-moving lure.

Best time to fish for the walleye, according to the writer, is in the shadow hours — the first cool hour of daylight and around dusk. Walleye often hit with real gusto during these brief periods, although rolling waters or sudden wave-lashed water can trigger feeding that's hard to believe. For the most part, walleye have an intense dislike for bright light.

Trolling should be in deep water near the cover where the big schools usually hang out. The walleyes tend to cling to the bottom, and should the lure, whether jigs and spinners or wobbling plugs. One method is to add a weight a few feet ahead of the lure, so that while it rides the bottom, the lure stay clear just slightly above.

Lures should be checked frequently to make certain they are clean. Spinners should be trolled at even speeds, but jugs with a series of jerks. Generally, lures should be allowed to sink to or near the bottom before the retrieve is started, then pulled fast enough to feel the blade turning or the jigs gently bouncing.

If fishing is done in mid-day, however, bait fishing is possibly most effective — fish minnows, waterdogs, worms — or some or all in combination. The main thing with bait, noted Harbour, is to keep it moving. He adds that fishing from a drifting boat near the deep rocky cover may be the best place.

Trolling should be in deep water near the cover where the big schools usually hang out. The walleyes tend to cling to the bottom, and should the lure, whether jigs and spinners or wobbling plugs. One method is to add a weight a few feet ahead of the lure, so that while it rides the bottom, the lure stay clear just slightly above.

Lures should be checked frequently to make certain they are clean. Spinners should be trolled at even speeds, but jugs with a series of jerks. Generally, lures should be allowed to sink to or near the bottom before the retrieve is started, then pulled fast enough to feel the blade turning or the jigs gently bouncing.

If fishing is done in mid-day, however, bait fishing is possibly most effective — fish minnows, waterdogs, worms — or some or all in combination. The main thing with bait, noted Harbour, is to keep it moving. He adds that fishing from a drifting boat near the deep rocky cover may be the best place.

Chance To Be Heard

For a long time after the interstate highway system came into being, it was hoped, if not assumed, that someday it would be expanded to include a north-south route. It was assumed, albeit naively, that this would follow the traditional north-south artery known as US 87.

Then, with a sudden bit of maneuvering, this illusion was shattered with suggestion of another southeasterly routing. Then began the long effort to establish that this was not a settled issue, and that 87 was indeed the more logical practical way.

But in the meantime, federal highway funding began to dry up; unlimited expansion of the interstate system was out of the picture. The big question became not where but whether.

The highway bill last year did revive the issue. At first included authorization for an extension of Interstate 27, the new route from Amarillo to Lubbock, but this became a budget casualty. Then, with considerable effort from this area, the bill finally did include a need or feasibility study for a possible southerly extension.

Now, a series of informal meetings to discuss the possibility of extending IS 27 southward from Lubbock has been scheduled by the Texas Highway Department. These will be in Lubbock, Lamesa, Big Spring, Snyder, Abilene and San Angelo. The one here is set for March 20, 7 p.m. in Howard College auditorium.

For more than a decade, we've been saying that this is a needed highway, and now we have an opportunity to declare it in an official forum.

This is not just a meeting for the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce, or any group; it is a meeting for everyone interested in the progress and future of this area. One way to express a conviction about the need for the interstate extension is to take time to attend the meeting. You may want to enter something in the record to support your views; you may want to vote simply by your presence. It is critically important either way, for obviously there can be no routing for the road later if the road does not come into being.

Beautification Time

The almost ideal weather for most of last week ought to awaken the Spring instincts in most souls. Which is simply to say that now is the time to get in your best licks if you want to improve the appearance of your yard this year.

There is still time to transplant trees and shrubs, but the prime time is moving on fast. It's also time to prepare your beds; to be ready for certain bedding plants; and to lay your basic plans for the new season just around the corner. The battle for beautification will be determined largely within the next month.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

In a recent column, you recommended tithing—that is, giving God 10 per cent of your income. It's my impression that this is an Old Testament rule, no longer applicable. I think it's optional.

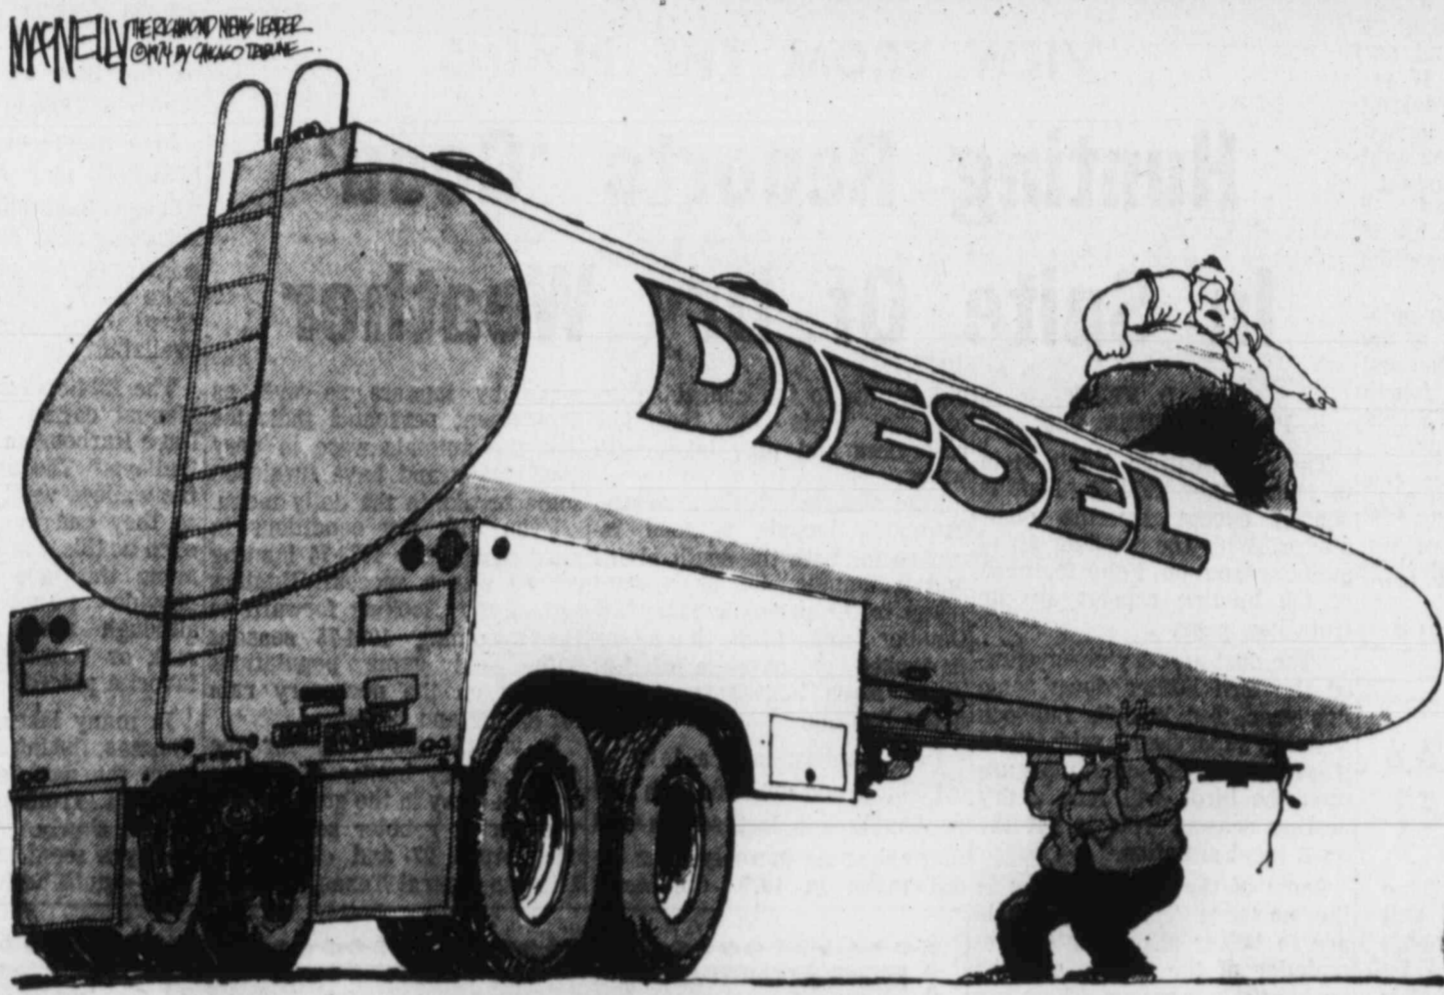

H. T. Of course, how you handle your money is an optional matter. God doesn't force you to distribute it one way or another. There are certain Biblical principles, however, that go to make up a philosophy of Christian stewardship.

For one thing, it views God as owning everything. We are custodians, so to speak, of his property. (Psalms 50:10) Whatever we give, it is by definition his anyway.

Secondly, whatever one gives ought to be prompted by love—and by a personal commitment to Christ. That's what Paul was explaining in 2 Corinthians 8.

Thirdly, while Christian stewardship is not based on reward, yet it certainly recognizes that there's no better investment in terms of return. Jesus talked in Mark 4 about yields which were 30, 60 and 100 fold.

The answer to your question, however, about the perpetuating of an Old Testament regulation is simply that if this practice was appropriate under law, it is even more so in this age of freedom and grace. Just check how the Lord amplified the Old Testament regulation is simply that if this practice was appropriate under law, it is even more so in

"WELL, DON'T JUST STAND THERE... ROLL IT OVER TO MY RIG!"

More Small Models Are Forecast

NEW YORK (AP) — American carmakers, sunk in a sales slump that helped cripple most of their last quarter's profits, are promising buyers more small cars in years to come.

Ford Motor Co. said this past week it would step up its swing to small car production with the introduction of two small luxury sedans this fall.

President Lee A. Iacocca gave no details on the cars, but said their introduction was part of the "greatest peacetime industrial conversion in history." He said Ford planned to boost its small car production capacity by 47 per cent in the next six months.

HINTS OF MORE

Chrysler officials dropped hints about new small cars for 1976 and 1977. For this year, said President John Riccardo, the company will boost the share of production capacity going to small models to 60 per cent from last year's 45.

American Motors has already announced plans for a new small car in the next model year. AMC, whose production already is heavier on small cars than is the case with the Big Three, was the only American carmaker to show a profit gain in the last quarter.

Ford, the last of the auto-makers to make its financial report, said this past week that profits totaled $57 million, down 76 per cent from the year before. It was the biggest decline in the Big Three. General Motors had said earlier its fourth-quarter profits were down 22 per cent and Chrysler was down 12.

AMC HAS PROFIT

American, though the smallest of the Detroit camp, was up 22 per cent.

General Motors announced plans to stop big car production at nine U.S. assembly plants in the next three weeks, laying off 50,000 workers for periods ranging from one to two weeks. The 50,000 are among the 75,000 workers GM had already warned would be idled during the first quarter.

Ford said it would lay off 16,000 workers over the next three weeks and 1,800 would be laid off indefinitely because of lagging new car sales.

The layoffs involve six assembly plants and six manufac-

The Week's Business

- Ford to convert 47 per cent of capacity to smaller cars
- Chrysler hints that it has two new models in the mill
- Even American Motors, already in field, plans another
- With exception of AMC, profit picture shows a loss
- Industrial output off again, sharpest in two years

turing plants, with 900 workers getting indefinite furloughs in Los Angeles, 600 in Atlanta and 300 scattered through Ford's factory system.

The company said it would recall 5,400 temporarily laid off employees in Mahwah, N.J., and 2,000 in Los Angeles.

OUTPUT DECLINES

The government reported at week's end that industrial output fell eight-tenths of one per cent in January, the second decline in as many months and the sharpest fall in two years.

The energy shortage has gotten partial blame for the slide, especially through its effects on large car sales. The Federal Reserve Board said auto assemblies had been cut back 15 per cent in January to 6.9 million units and the February rate would be about the same.

The Questionnaire

Around The Rim

Walt Finley

This job has many blessings. One of them is I get letters — not many — but letters. I'm grateful.

THERE'S NOTHING so indecent as going into the office at 7 a.m. and having to try to think. (For that matter, it's bad enough later on, but at least you've had time to pull yourself together.)

So I was surprised when Harold Canning, business manager, handed to me a letter from two fifth graders at Coahoma Elementary School. They wrote:

"DEAR MR. FINLEY"

"We are 2 boys in 5th grade working in career education.

"Our names are Neal Barbee and Brent Zitterkopf.

"We are at Coahoma Elementary School. We are 11 years old — 5th grade.

"We need to know some information about your job. We need to know if English is important to your job.

"Is good English necessary in your work? Why?

"In what part of your work good English most necessary?

"If your line of work is important for other people to use good English?"

"Inside is a self-addressed envelope if you write and give us the information or call — 393-5234 or 283-1053.

"THANK YOU, Brent and Neal"

Yes Brent and Neal, English often tides me over.

To summarize my writing skill, and state it indirectly: I find my strongest point to be My spelling incorrectly. Also, for example:

THE WATERGATE affair and the "Get Nixon" campaign remind us again how easy it is to tell the truth and still mislead by clever wordage.

If I were to say "There is a nation of people who are so primitive they love to eat the embryo of some birds, and slices from the belly of certain animals.

"They grind us up grass seed, make it into a paste, burn it over a fire, then smear it with a greasy mess they extract from mammary fluid of animals." I would be telling the truth.

I WOULD be describing Americans who eat bacon and eggs and buttered toast for breakfast.

Yes, English is important to a reporter. So is accuracy (Mr. Finley) and the ability to try to describe a West Texas sunset. Good Luck.

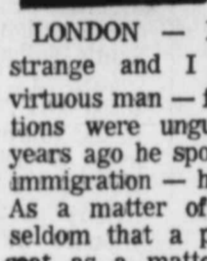

A QUESTION and answer rerun in a newspaper went:

"How many people were in George Washington's Army when he crossed the Delaware?"

"The answer was 'About 5,000.' No wonder George stood up in the boat.

What Of Future?

William F. Buckley Jr.

LONDON — Enoch Powell, that strange and I suspect thoroughly virtuous man — for all that his inflections were unguarded when a few years ago he spoke against unlimited immigration — has resigned his seat. As a matter of principle. It is so seldom that a politician resigns his seat as a matter of principle that the deed is both arresting and suspicious. When a Frenchman does it he is never to be trusted, whence the French origin of the phrase 'reculer pour mieux sauter': freely translated as "one step backwards, two steps forward." And of course it is not ruled out that Enoch Powell will come back, as a leader of the Conservative Party. But it is very very doubtful. The odds against him are overwhelming.

FOR ONE THING, it is not widely understood exactly why he resigned, and that reason, when fully understood, is not the making of an irresistible political aphorism. His own statement made the point that Mr. Heath is going to the country under false pretenses. He is going to ask the country to stand by him in resisting the demands of the coal miners. But, said Powell in effect, after Heath wins (if he wins) the first thing he will do is give in to the coal miners.

MR. POWELL'S reasoning is however more intricate than one supposes merely from floating one's eyes past the paragraphs of his public announcement. He believes that wage and price controls are a fundamental fraud. That under the circumstances, the Conservative government will need to give in; and, having done so, prices will rise more or less uniformly, and a government selected on an anti-inflationary platform will produce — more inflation.

Most people in Britain, to judge from public comments, do not believe he had to resign. But Powell is a very formal man, and he draws attention to the special place of Party in British parliamentary life. If he had run as a Conservative, he maintains, implicitly he would have underwritten the hypocrisy of the present leadership. It is different from simply coasting along with the leadership of one's Party when it makes decisions after coming to power. It is — he will tell you — rather as if in the middle of the Suez invasion, Anthony Eden had called an election. Those Conservatives thoroughly out of sympathy with Suez could not honorably have stood by.

SO WHAT FOR the future? What, for that matter, for the future of Britain? Mr. Bernard Levin, a fountain of trenchancy and anti-humbly, wrote devastatingly in the "London Times" a column exposing the fearful hypocrisies of the opposition. He gives four positions, taken from the Labor Party manifesto, and in response to hypothetical questions concerning them, gives the answers that honest Labor politicians would need to give and, alas, predictably will not give, the average politician being both less candid than, and less burdened by principle than, Enoch Powell.

Walking's Back

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The energy crisis is not all bad. One of the organizations that has benefited from it is the American Pedestrian Assn. which is involved with protecting the rights of pedestrians.

ARCH THREETOES, the president of APA, said 1974 could be their greatest year.

"The Pedestrian is coming back," he said happily. "Our membership is up 30 per cent, and if we have rationing it could triple by summer. Every time someone runs out of gas you've created another Pedestrian."

"It must be a great feeling to have made such great strides," I said.

"I WOULDN'T be human if I didn't gloat. For years people thought of a Pedestrian as someone who couldn't afford a car. The entire economy was based on reducing the Pedestrian population of the country. Those who couldn't be shamed into buying an automobile were run over to teach them a lesson.

"We suffered for a long time, but now we're having our day."

"It must do your heart good to see those long lines in front of gas stations," I said.

"I FEEL WARM all over," Threetoos admitted. "But at the same time Pedestrians do not hold grudges. We're going to take back anyone who sincerely says he wants to walk again."

"Having so many Pedestrians back must cause tremendous problems for you."

"OUR BIGGEST problem is teaching people how to walk again. Most adult Americans have forgotten how, and children have never known. We have schools now where people can learn the rudiments of walking. It's actually quite simple and most of them get the hang of it in a week. We've signed up entire families. Would you like to see one of our classes?"

THREETOOS took me down to the first floor into a gymnasium. The instructor was standing in front of a class of about 30 people. Some men were carrying briefcases; several women were carrying shopping bags; a few children had schoolbooks.

A Devotion For Today

Yes, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. (Psalm 23:4)

PRAYER: Lord, so often I am inclined to be fearful because life has so many uncertainties, I thank You for the promise of Your presence in any situation I may face. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Self-Destructive

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — As the old saying goes, with allies like France, who needs enemies? Reluctantly attending the 13-nation energy conference French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert did what his government expected of him. That was to run the conference down to the lowest common denominator of a talk session.

HIS EUROPEAN Partners, fed up with French go-it-alone policies, will determine whether the disruption goes beyond this ephemeral conference. In the long run isolation is likely to be self-defeating for France, but it can also be a disaster for a Europe that seemed on the verge of unification.

Jobert was born in 1921 in Meknes, Morocco, which was then a French colony. At 26, a student in the Ecole Libre Science Politique, he must have a memory of the terrible winter of 1947. Hunger, disease, economic breakdown, that was the order of the day with the Communists threatening to take over the ruin.

THE MARSHALL plan came into being with an awareness of Western Europe's desperate plight. Whether the total provided under that plan was $50 billion or closer to $100 billion — Figures vary depending on what elements are included in the computation — Europe turned the corner.

France and Germany became two of the world's most prosperous nations, their currency putting the dollar to shame.

Gratitude? Heaven forbid! A whole generation has grown up since 1947 and 1948 with only a textbook knowledge of how close total breakdown came. All Washington asked at this point was a minimum of harmony for a closer look at the threat of the oil shortage and the tripling and quadrupling of prices.

THE TRAGEDY of France is that for all her great achievements, and they are very great indeed, go-it-alone has so often been self-defeating.

"We are a nation of individualists."

What visitor to France has not heard that?

THE RECORD of the years is grim.

Take these dates that are like a series of epitaphs for the grandeur that was: 1870 — The defeat of France by a Germany with the small states united in a powerful militarist nation bent on conquest.

1914 — The beginning of trench warfare and the slaughter of the best and the bravest; 1917 when the Yanks did come and contributed greatly to a "victory" that had cost the West so much in blood and treasure that recovery was frustrated in the great Depression.

1940 — The Maginot Line and the belief that France could wall off the enemy with a fixed fortified position facing the East;

1941 — The Nazi occupation and the toll it took.

FRANCE IS now making individual go-it-alone oil deals trying to get the jump on the rest of Europe. The largest of these is the widely heralded $5-billion deal with Iran. Others with oil-producing Arab states call for what is in effect the barter of military equipment such as the Mirage plane for oil.

French hostility toward the United States is understandable. It comes out of the bubbling and arrogance of American diplomacy from time to time during the past 25 years.

It comes out of the passionate conviction that given the grandeur of the past France, a nation of 51 million people, must be a superpower, must have its own nuclear striking force, however tiny.

BOTH THE PRESIDENT and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger have warned that failure to cooperate in even a limited way will promote the quickening trend toward isolationism. But France has so often in the past ignored what was happening outside the border of La Belle France, although this clearly will be self-defeating and economically disastrous.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is meant by "free acid"? What Causes it? Is there any cure? How does one contract it or why? — Mrs. J.P.

This refers to acid content of the stomach, which occurs in two forms. Free acid is that which is present in the form of hydrochloric acid. Some more is combined with protein. The two forms together are "total acid," but the free acid represents the greater share.

If I knew what prompted your question, I might be able to give you a more specific answer. Where you told you had too much free acid, or too little?

In any event, acid occurs normally in the stomach. It is necessary for digestion. Some patients, who have too little, require daily doses (in very small, dilute form, of course) to digest their food.

You don't contract or "catch" free acid. It's supposed to be there.

Little or no acid is found in conditions affecting the lining of the stomach, such as gastritis. With other conditions the free acid may be higher than normal. It quite often is higher than normal in patients with duodenal or stomach ulcers — although this is not uniform. Some such patients are found with normal or even low acid.

If it is too high, some of it can be neutralized with antacids, or the production of acid can be limited by medication. But since the level isn't necessarily high, it follows that antacids may be useful for some ulcer patients, but contraindicated for other meaning that some should not take antacids.

There are other conditions that increase acid production. Simply, and in normal individuals: alcohol, caffeine and ordinary hunger will increase the acid.

Medically, various diseases tend to increase acid production, among them endocrine (glandular) problems, cirrhosis of the liver, lung disease and rheumatoid arthritis.

But without knowing whether you have too much or too little free acid, I can't really offer you much advice. Just having some free acid isn't something to worry about. It's normal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a Teflon frying pan and now the bottom on the inside is peeling off. Is this dangerous if it gets into the food? I seldom fry anything because of my diet but use it when I have scrambled eggs. — R.M.H.

Teflon is a form of plastic and you wouldn't want it in food any more than you would want anything else with hard and perhaps sharp edges.

There's a spray preparation containing lecithin (but not fat) which prevents things from sticking to pans. I'd suggest you scrape off any of the loose Teflon and use the spray for your eggs, or get a new pan.

Are you having a gall bladder problem? To find out how the gall bladder works and what types of trouble to look for, send for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "You And Your Gall Bladder." Write him in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

'Sest Der Farben'

The Permian Basin Medical Auxiliary entertained over 100 guests on Valentine's Day with a spring fashion show presented by Zacks and narrated by Mrs. Bob Lewis.

The "Sest Der Farben" (International Festival of Color) theme was carried out in the ballroom at Big Spring Country Club where tables were decorated with centerpieces representing many countries of the world.

At the foyer entrance, where guests were greeted by auxiliary members, Mrs. John Hogan and Mrs. J.E. Matthews, was a large curved coffee table draped in lime and dominated by a massive arrangement of mixed spring flowers and gold caduceus. Medical auxiliary wives who presided at the coffee service were Mrs. M. A. Porter, president, Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall and Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas.

Background music was by Gene Curry, Keith Teel, Buster Green and Jerry Gower.

Models for Zack's were Mrs. Clayton C. Cole, Mrs. Tom Viehe, Mrs. Cannon Randall, Mrs. Stan Malone, Mrs. David Finch, Mrs. George Stilwell and Mrs. Donald Day.

Hostesses were all members of the auxiliary, and out-of-town guests were Mrs. Lester Morton, Midland, and Mrs. Boone Powell and Mrs. Don Right, both of Abilene.

The door prize from Zack's was won by Mrs. J. E. Mathews, the large centerpiece went to Cowper Hospital, and a donation was made to the Band Boosters.

The auxiliary objective is to assist the Texas Medical Association in its program for the advancement of medicine and public health, as well as serve the community.

The Health Careers program at Big Spring High School is supported by the auxiliary as it encourages young people to enter nursing or other careers in the medical field. Auxiliary members work on an individual basis, for various medical causes and area-wide.

In her commentary, Mrs. Lewis began by saying, "Setting the trends — consistently — takes work, along with things like taste, talent and that very special touch of class, which are always evident in forward looking designs."

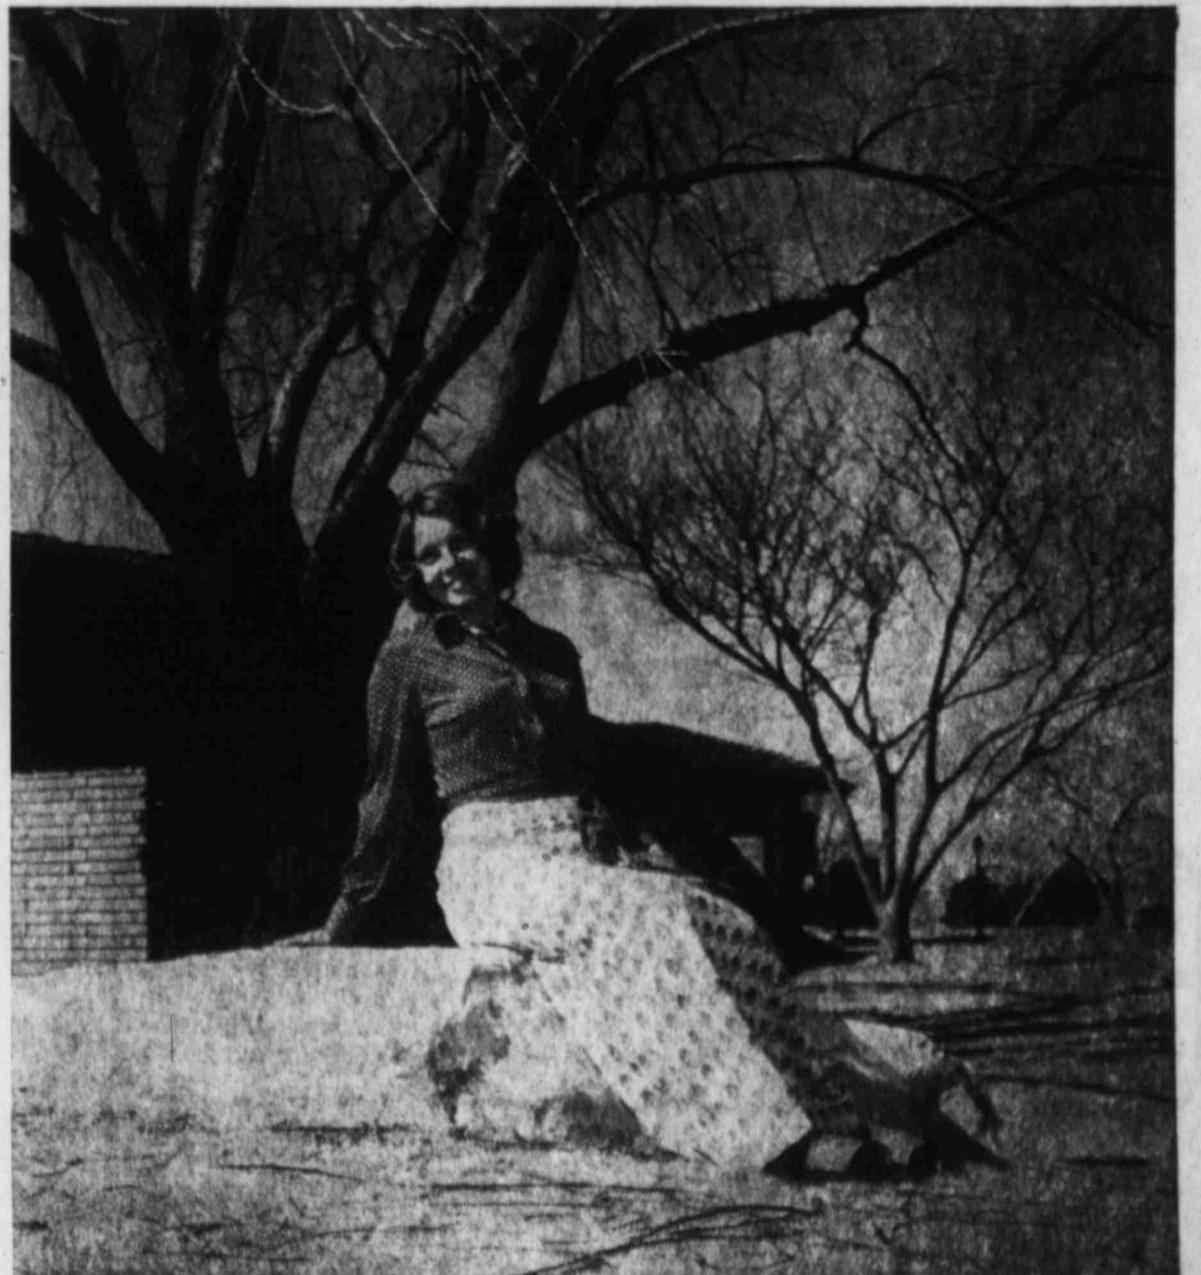

The pretty models showed spring and summer fashions which ranged from sleek, sophisticated swimwear to floating, light-as-a-feather formals. The contemporary clothes looked cool, comfortable — and close to perfect.

Nuptial Service Held In Baptist Church

MRS. MICHAEL LEE MOATES

Miss Sheree Jan Buntyn and Michael Lee Moates were married in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Orville Coleman of Houston, Friday evening in College Baptist Church. Traditional wedding selections were performed by Mrs. Arvis Grogan of Muleshoe, organist. Vocalists were Miss Diana Williams, Miss Arlene Henderson and James L. Kinman.

The altar was enhanced by baskets of red roses, lilac daisy mums, pink gladioli and white mums.

Before the altar were twin spiral candelabra with greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Buntyn, Teos, N.M., formerly of Big Spring, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Moates, Luther.

The bride was attired in a formal empire gown of silk organza with attached chapel-length train. Reembroidered Alencon lace with Brussels embroidery create the trim, with pearly, pleated yoke and ruffled cuffs on the bishop sleeves. The full-length silk illusion veiling was styled with matching lace and seed pearl trim forming the headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of white Sweetheart roses, babies'-breath and a white orchid.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Vicki Jean Howard of Fort Worth, and bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Grogan, Muleshoe; Miss Gay Harris and Miss Sue Fortenberry. The attendants were identically attired in floor-length gowns of light blue crepe accented with candlelight lace.

Their headpieces were rings of Sweetheart roses, daisy mums and babies'-breath, and they carried matching nosegays tied with fuchsia ribbons.

The flower girl, Vikki Dobbs, was attired identically to the other attendants.

Bill Sanders served as best man, and groomsmen were Kelly Carlile, Brent Clifton and Terry Pate. Miklyn Dobbs was ring bearer, and ushers were Gary Bradley, Ricky Lloyd and Rick Grogan, the latter of Muleshoe.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table, covered with tulle bordered with Chantilly lace, held a large candelabrum arranged with the bride's bouquet and flanked by silver and crystal appointments. The tiered cake with centered fountain highlighted her table. A chocolate ring cake, decorated with green grapes, was served at the bridegroom's table, which was covered with a white linen cloth and accented with brass and gold appointments.

Members of the houseparty were Miss Nancy Wise, Miss Carol Perry, Miss Susan Trim, Mrs. Sheree Phillips, Miss Cindy Pearce, Miss Karen Blount, Miss Jeanie Mabry, Mrs. Becky Sanders, Mrs. Betty Cunha, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hendrick, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Bertis Harris, Mrs. Sol Bledsoe and Mr. and Mrs. Luke Fortenberry.

Mr and Mrs. Moates are graduates of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. She attended Stephen F. Austin State University. Upon returning from a wedding trip to San Antonio, they will be at home at Luther where he will be engaged in farming.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents, was held Thursday evening at Coker's restaurant.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Buntyn and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Howard, all of Fort Worth; Mrs. Velma Sporer, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Cole, Kingston, Okla.; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thomas, Odessa.

TO MARRY — Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mims, Rt. 1, Stanton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Judy Ann, to Carl Travis Dean, son of Mrs. Pauline Henson, Big Spring. The couple, both of whom are graduates of Angelo State University, will be married March 23 in the Stanton Church of Christ.

Bird Watchers Are Invited To Program

Mike Paul, local artist and wildlife photographer, will show slides at an open meeting for "beginning birders" Thursday in the Chamber of Commerce conference room. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

According to Mrs. Ed Corson, a good deal of interest has been shown in the possibility of forming a bird watching society in Big Spring. Several local residents, including Paul, Mrs. Corson and Mrs. Floyd Mays, are members of the Midland Naturalists and the Audubon Society and are taking the lead in organizing local bird watchers. All interested persons are invited to attend the program. Those who have field guides are asked to bring them.

Crushed Ice Used For Crisp Lettuce

Double your cool, and salads keep their cool. Set a salad bowl full of torn western iceberg lettuce in a larger bowl of crushed ice when serving. Treated in this "chilly" way, buffet crispness even on standing.

Carbohydrates Are 'Cheap Form Of Fuel'

By SHERRY MULLIN
County HD Agent

If meals are adequate in protein and fat, do we also need carbohydrate? Yes. Carbohydrate, that is, starches and sugars, is necessary for the proper utilization of fat and protein. Most people require a least 100 grams (400 calories) of carbohydrates daily and should preferably eat enough carbohydrate to provide 50 per cent or more of the food energy.

What happens if you do not eat enough or too much carbohydrate? If you eat more carbohydrate than your body needs, the excess is stored as fat. When the intake of carbohydrate is too low, fat and protein may be used for energy. When protein is used it is not available for the special functions which only the amino acids from protein can perform. Accordingly, nutritionists have spoken of carbohydrates as being "protein spacers."

"Bread, the staff of life" might be paraphrased as "carbohydrate, the fuel of life." Carbohydrate foods are the major sources of calories for all peoples the world over. They make up from 50 to 60 per cent of the American diet and a higher percentage for peoples in many other countries. They are the cheapest and most easily digested form of fuel for human and animal energy.

Foods that are particularly rich in starches are breads, baked goods, cereals, pasta and certain vegetables such as potatoes, corn and peas. Table sugar and syrup are pure carbohydrates.

Foods rich in sugars include fruits, milk ice cream, candy, sweet baked goods, syrups, jams and jellies. In addition to the carbohydrate, many of these foods are important sources of vitamins and minerals.

Important vitamins and minerals are found in breads and cereals, milk and fruits. It is wise to include all of these as they are very important. "Empty" calories that should be eliminated from reducing diets, or should be eaten in moderation in any diet plan, are commercially prepared baked goods, candies, jellies, jams, soft drinks and many snack foods.

Symptoms of consuming too few carbohydrates are frequent headaches, dizzy feeling or light-headedness, fatigue and a poor mental attitude. The advice "choose your calories by the nutritional company they keep" is sound because carbohydrates are important to a person's health.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Herve Barron Perry, 2408 Robb Drive, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Carol Ann, to Lt. David Carlisle Murchison of McGuire AFB, N.J. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Doyle A. Murchison Jr., Charleston, S.C., and the late Mr. Murchison. The wedding is scheduled June 15 in the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ.

Wedding Ceremony Performed Thursday

MRS. JAMES ARCHER II

Chapel Rites Held Friday

The Webb Air Force Base Chapel was the setting Friday evening for the wedding of Miss Denise Marie Kunschik to James P. Archer II. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Kunschik, RD 2, Stoneboro, Pa., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Archer Sr., Rt. 1, Sand Springs.

The rites were performed by Chaplain Neil Daley, with Mrs. Mary Bohannon serving as organist. The setting was enhanced with candelabra and bouquets of blue and white carnations.

Carrying a bouquet of blue and white carnations, the bride was formally attired in a gown of white nylon tulle over satin styled with mock tulle collar trimmed in lace. The lace trim outlined the empire waist and extended down the front of the gown. The long sleeves of nylon tulle were cuffed with matching lace. Her petal headpiece held an elbow-length veil of illusion.

The bridegroom's sister, Miss Karyn Marie Archer, attended the bride as maid of honor, arrived in a pale blue empire gown with white lace accenting the waistline and sheer sleeves. Her headpiece was a blue Dior bow, and she carried a nosegay of blue and white carnations.

Kirk McKnight of Sand Springs was best man, and the ushers were Wayne Ball, Sand Springs, and Larry Stevens, Big Spring.

After the ceremony, the couple was honored at a reception in the home of the bridegroom's parents, where refreshments were served by Mrs. Fred Franklin, Miss Grace Lowe, Mrs. Ferrol Ball and Mrs. Jerald Wilson. The table, covered with a beige crocheted cloth, was centered with an arrangement of blue and white carnations.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Manuel Correia, grandmother of the bridegroom; and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Huff, all of Louisville, Tenn.; and Mr. and Mrs. Ido Casoni, Santa Barbara, Calif.

The bride graduated from Lake View High School in Stoneboro, and the bridegroom will graduate from Big Spring High School this spring. She is employed at Furr's Cafeteria.

Miss Peggy Susan Stanaland became the bride of Howard Earl Barry Jr. Thursday evening during a ceremony held in the Anderson Street Church of Christ. The nuptial rites were performed by Elbert Garretson, minister of Birdwell Lane Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Stanaland, 1614 E. 17th, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Howard Earl Barry Sr., San Antonio, and the late Mr. Barry.

A prelude of music was performed by an a cappella choir directed by Dana Conley, and Miss Diana Williams was vocal soloist. The wedding party stood before an altar flanked by twin arrangements of white gladioli and long-stemmed red roses.

The bride was attired in a full-length, empire gown fashioned with full skirt, square neckline and bishop sleeves, the fullness coming from an inset square at the top. Thin lace formed a lattice design on the bodice and cuffs. Her headpiece, a Juliet cap adorned with small daisies, held a waist-length veil of illusion. She carried a white basket filled with white daisies, red Sweetheart roses and babies'-breath.

RECEPTION

The home of the bride's parents was the scene of a reception honoring the newlyweds. The bride's nieces, Laurie Stanaland and Miss Leslie Stanaland, assisted in serving refreshments from a table covered with red satin with lace overlay accented by a red lace skirt. The tiered cake was topped with fresh daisies and red Sweetheart roses.

After a wedding trip to Lima, Peru; Quito, Ecuador; and Rio de Janeiro, Mr. and Mrs. Barry will reside in San Antonio.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of Big Spring High School, graduated from Braniff International Hostess College in May, 1972. She is now flying for Braniff International Airlines, based in San Antonio.

Barry graduated in 1960 from Harmon High School in Stephenville, Newfoundland. He is now serving as a patrolman with the San Antonio Police Department.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding, other than the bridegroom's mother, were his sister, Mrs. Bud Johnson, San Antonio; the bride's brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stanaland, Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lynn Stanaland, Dallas; the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Alta Jenkins, Abilene; and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Sam L. Stanaland of Abilene.

Ceremony Performed In Church At Austin

Mrs. William Womack Heath of Austin and Gen. D. Harold Byrd of Dallas were married Thursday afternoon in University Methodist Church, Austin, with Dr. William Holmes, pastor, officiating. The altar setting included branched candelabra with ferns, flanked by pedestals of arrangements of roses in different shades of pink.

FUTURE BRIDE — Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith, 808 Edwards Blvd., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nancy Carolyn, to Louis Ray Dunnam, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Dunnam, 1108 Ridgeroad. The couple will be married June 29 in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Kenneth Patrick officiating.

Mrs. Dewey Ray of Big Spring and Mrs. Dean Hester of El Paso, daughters of the bride, were her attendants. Mrs. Ray wore a rose pink, floor-length gown of silk chiffon with jacket of the same material. Mrs. Hester's long-sleeved gown was of yellow chiffon. Their hair was adorned with tiny roses matching the color of their gowns.

Wearing an orchid corsage, the bride was attired in a long, flowing gown in azalea pink chiffon styled with fitted waistline and ruffles accenting the high neckline and long sleeves.

Gen. Byrd's sons, Caruth Byrd and D. Harold Byrd Jr., served as his attendants.

TO MEXICO

The couple planned a wedding trip to Puerto Vallarta, Ixtapan and other areas in Mexico. After returning about March 1, they will divide their time between homes at 1808 Vance Circle Austin, and 6909 Vassar Drive, Dallas.

Gen. Byrd, chairman emeritus of the United States Civil Air Patrol, formed the Texas Civil Air Patrol five days after Pearl Harbor and served as its wing commander through World War II. He is an honorary alumnus of the University of Texas and honorary president of the Longhorn Band. A geologist and business man, he formed two oil companies, which he later sold, and is now diversified into real estate, farming and other investment interests. He started Temco Co. and later, he and Jimmy Ling formed Ling-Temco-Vaugh Co.

Mrs. Byrd is the widow of the late William Womack Heath, an attorney, banker and former United States Ambassador to Sweden.

The reception, held at the Austin Club, was hosted by Mrs. Byrd's two sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Ray, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hester, El Paso; and Dr. and Mrs. Phil Overton of Austin. Mrs. Overton is a granddaughter of Mrs. Byrd.

Members of the house party were Miss Mavis Ray, Miss Melodie Ray and Miss Julie Ray, granddaughters of Mrs. Byrd. They wore similar, but not identical, floor-length dresses in red, pink and white with complementary flowers and ribbons in their hair. Others in the house party were Miss Lisa Davis and Miss Lynn Davis, nieces of Mrs. Byrd.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Troy Post, Mrs. R. T. Gidley and Mrs. R. B. McDonald, sisters of the bridegroom; Mrs. Dean Rynders, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burck, Mrs. R. J. Byrd, Miss Martha Sue Byrd and Harold D. Byrd III, all of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. William Dillard, William Dillard Jr. and Miss Denise Dillard, all of Little Rock; Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ray, all of Waco; Dr. and Mrs. Jessie B. Heath, Madisonville; H. H. Coffield and Mrs. Anna Mae Perry, both of Rockdale; Mrs. Russell Davis and Mrs. Walter Brennan, both of San Antonio; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Corbuser, Oklahoma City, Okla.

AUSTIN CLUB

The entrance to the Austin Club and the entertaining rooms featured pots of pink azaleas, orchids and red and pink roses.

The punch table, as well as the bride's table, were covered with white organdy embroidered cloths. The former held a large silver candelabrum with pink tapers flanked by silver punch bowls and silver bowls filled with pink flowers.

The bride's table was accented with hearts and nosegays of flowers in varying shades of pink, each with velvet ribbon streamers extending to circle a silver epergne filled with cerise-colored azaleas. The bridegroom's table was covered with a pale green cloth and centered with a silver wine cooler arranged with red and pink roses, similar and fern.

The Valentine wedding theme was continued with red velvet and doily hearts and a wicker basket of mixed flowers on the register table.

The word has gone out that many women are too busy for complicated beauty treatments. As a consequence, products that perform two, three, four and more services are at hand, and the number grows. Here's a small list to get you over the holiday hump:

with protein conditioners as well as control.

—Three-fors. Compacts with three cream fragrances — tuberose, mimosa, jasmine — like a rare flower garden of sweet earth blooms . . . In one jar, a cream to cleanse, moisturize and sleep over.

—Four To Go. Pre-measured, after-shampoo treatment that promises to condition, cleanse, lessen tangles and provide body; after combing through, hair is ready to set.

—You Count Em. Coloring pencils in 26 shades that make up lids, brows, cheeks and lips, and so eliminate the jungle of paraphernalia.

Dear Abby—

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is my second marriage. His, also. Three years ago Carl won me over by pretending to love my two children. He took them on picnics, to the beach, etc. As soon as the honeymoon was over, he ignored them completely! He finally admitted he actually hates children! The boy, now 10, is under a doctor's care because of the tension at home. The girl, 15, ran away twice because she couldn't stand this "institution."

When Carl comes home from work he goes right to his bedroom and nobody sees him until dinnertime. At dinner, the extent of his conversation is: "Sit up straight, both you kids, and keep your elbows off the table!"

After dinner he retires to his bedroom to watch TV. We can be watching the same channel in another room, but Carl prefers to watch it alone.

We never visit anybody, and no one visits us.

He hasn't kissed me hello or goodbye in two years. There is no sex, either. I am clean and neat and pleasant. I am 38. He's 42. He's a good provider, but what good is that when everything else is lacking? Don't suggest counseling. My son's doctor suggested that, and Carl said, "No one has to tell me how to live my life."

DEAR ABBY: My husband sometimes likes a little change, so he goes out with another woman. Then he comes home and tells me the truth. He says that as long as he TELLS me about it I can't call that CHEATING on me.

In a way, I guess he's right. But I still don't think I should have to put up with it. Do I?

DEAR DELIA: Not unless you want to. TELLING you that he has been unfaithful to you doesn't excuse his unfaithfulness. He's just one cut above most cheaters. They lie. He tells the truth, but he's still a cheater.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 68700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

MRS. TERRY L. CUNNINGHAM

Church Rites Unite Couple In Marriage

Miss Susan Gail Armstrong of Big Spring and Terry L. Cunningham of Dallas exchanged wedding vows in a Saturday afternoon ceremony performed by the Rev. Billy Hendricks in College Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of R. C. Armstrong, 2706 Lynn, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Cunningham of Fort Stockton.

Upon returning from a wedding trip, the couple will reside at 9295 Forest Lane, No. 1043, Dallas, where Cunningham is a date programmer and systems analyst with Texas Instruments. A graduate of Fort Stockton High School, he received his BBA and MBA degrees from Texas Tech University, majoring in Information Systems and Quantitative Sciences.

Mrs. Cunningham is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Texas Tech University where she received a BBA, majoring in Business Education. She was previously employed in Austin with the Governor's Office of Educational Research and Planning.

For the wedding, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie; the molded bodice with natural waistline. The jewel neckline featured a small slit, and the long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. The soft pleating of the skirt fell into a chapel-length train. Trimming on the sleeves, bodice and train were of re-embroidered lace and her elbow-length illusion veil was attached to a headpiece of re-embroidered lace accented with a rose centered with pearls.

Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses, stephanotis, white carnations and babies'-breath tied with lace and French picot ribbon.

Miss Janet Armstrong served as her sister's maid of honor. She was attired in a yellow empire gown of flocked voile over tulle. The squared neckline was trimmed with a ruffle, and a deep ruffle formed a flounce at the bottom of the skirt. The short puffed sleeves and high-rise waistline were trimmed with green grosgrain ribbon, and she wore green ribbons in her hair.

The bridegroom's father served as best man, and ushers were Barry Armstrong of Austin, brother of the bride; Jerry Shugart, Dallas; and Rick Baird, Austin.

RECEPTION

Guests were served refreshments at a reception in the activities building at the church. Assisting at the tables were Mrs. Bob Carlile, Mrs. R. L. Collins, Mrs. Bill Blalock, Mrs. Noel Hull and Mrs. Paschall Odom. Miss Jill Odom presided at the registry.

White organza, draped and centered with white doves, covered the bride's table, pointed with copper. A branched wooden candelabrum held yellow tapers.

Out-of-town guests were the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Jimmy Cunningham and Guy Neyl, Fort Stockton; Mrs. S. E. Johnson, El Paso; Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Rose and Kayla all of Kermit; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Rose and Jimmy Rose, all of Lubbock; Miss Sally Crosson, Dallas; Miss Janie Shugart, Fort Worth; Mrs. Joe Herring, Brownfield; and Mrs. Kenny Peters, Lubbock.
