

Nixon Papers Reveal Saga Of Squeaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your door squeaks, you oil it. Unless you're the President, in which case your lawyer gets written reports.

This and other insights to the private side of presidential life are contained in a 994-page congressional staff report on President Nixon's income taxes.

The saga of the squeak and the accompanying problem of the pantry were discussed in a letter to Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach, from a contracting firm that did a lot of work at the President's San Clemente, Calif., estate.

The letter, reproduced in the congressional document, said in part:

"During the dinner party for the Hopes, Fords and Arnold Palmer, the swinging door squeaked between the dining room and the pantry. Also, the light in the pantry was so bright it destroyed the candlelight atmosphere. The door was oiled and doesn't squeak any more but the light is still a problem. It could be fixed by putting it on a separate switch."

The contracting firm was paid $1,706 during 1971 for a variety of items, but the report doesn't say whether a separate switch for the pantry light was among them.

At about the same time, the firm, The Sturtevant Corp., also was involved in the installation of an exhaust fan in the chimney of a fireplace at San Clemente.

That episode began with a note from Kalmbach observing: "Mr. Rebozo says the President feels the fireplace in the library doesn't draw too well — there is smoke in the room."

The Sturtevant firm diagnosed the trouble as coming when wind conditions caused a downdraft. The fan was installed, but the General Services Administration wouldn't pay the bill until the Secret Service was prevailed upon to insist on the fan for security reasons.

Although he gets a lot of logistical help, the President also pays bills for some of the same things more ordinary Americans pay for, too — albeit sometimes on a far grander scale. Take these examples:

—Christmas cards: $3,500 in 1972, up $250 from the year previous.

—A daughter's party: For food, beverages, decorations and rentals at Tricia Nixon's masquerade ball May 10, 1969, the tab came to $5,391.

—Swimming pool maintenance: $40 a month at San Clemente.

—Rugs: $22.50 to a rug and upholstery firm for cleaning Mrs. Nixon's bathroom rug at San Clemente.

The President's problem was that he tried to take all or part of each of these expenses as a business deduction on his income tax.

The tax men now say no.

TI's Records Subpoenaed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating alleged antitrust activities by Braniff and Texas International airlines has subpoenaed some of TI's records concerning a competitor, Southwest Airlines.

The grand jury asked for TI records concerning TI actions when Southwest remained at Dallas Love Field rather than transfer to the new Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

TEN COMPETING Trustee Vote Set Saturday

Polls open at 8 a.m., and close at 7 p.m. in Saturday's board of trustees election for the Big Spring Independent School District.

Ten candidates are in competition for three positions. Two of those who have offered for office are incumbents. They are Jerry Jenkins and Tom Fetters.

Others in the race are Charles E. Beil, Al Valdes, Noah Leyda, Venora A. Williams, R. E. McKiski, Don F. Reynolds, Sherry Wegner and Don DeLewu.

In addition, two positions on the Howard College of Big Spring school board will be filled. Incumbents Jimmy Taylor and K. H. McGibbon face Eli Guinn Jr., and C. William Clark as opponents.

Seeking re-election to the Howard County School Board are two incumbents, R. L. Heith and Hayes Strippling Jr. None has filed for the at-large position.

Election officials are anticipating a much larger voter turnout than for the city election earlier this week, when no opposition surfaced for the three incumbents. Over a hundred voters have already cast absentee votes.

Big Spring voters can cast ballots either in the high school vocational education building or the Northside Fire Station.

Playing A Cop Is Somewhat Illegal

It's against the law to play policeman and one citizen was arrested here Thursday night for impersonating a law officer.

Buck O'Neal, 1403 Grafa, is in jail under a $5,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena for impersonating a law officer and wanted in Ector County on the same charge.

O'Neal was impersonating the liquor control officer and was instructing a local bar as to new regulations, according to Dan Hutchinson, liquor control officer here. "We have no idea why," Hutchinson added.

Mitchell-Stans Defense Opens

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal Judge Lee Gagliardi today dismissed one of the 16 counts against former Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, but denied defense motions to dismiss the rest of the case.

Gagliardi reserved decision on dismissing one other count.

The count he dismissed was one of three charging obstruction of justice. The count on which he reserved decision on was also alleged obstruction of justice.

Thousands Homeless, Searching For New Life

By The Associated Press

"I looked at it and wanted to cry," said Kentucky Gov. Wendell Ford after he walked through the pile of tornado-left rubble that had been Brandenburg.

Gov. George C. Wallace, brushing away tears, rolled his wheelchair through a temporary shelter for Alabama homeless. "It's one of the most tragic times in our history," he said.

$500 MILLION DAMAGE — The fury of a hundred tornadoes had rammed wide paths of destruction through towns and rural areas, wiping out the work of generations. Some towns were almost leveled.

In 11 southern and mid-western states and Canada, the Wednesday night series of twisters — the worst in 49 years — left at least 310 persons dead.

The injured totaled 4,000 and at least that many lost their homes. The devastation was awesome — damage seemed certain to climb past $500 million.

The force of the tornadoes was so intense that officials were certain they had not yet found all the dead. Five states — Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana and Alabama — were declared federal disaster areas by President Nixon and others were expected to join them.

The designation enables individuals and municipalities to get low-cost federal loans to rebuild.

Thousands of victims lost virtually all they owned. And for most who lived in the storm's path, life would not be the same again.

START FROM SCRATCH — The reality of having to start from scratch had yet to sink in for many of those affected.

In Xenia, Ohio, where half the town of 25,000 was reduced to a scrap, women sat on the streets and wept Thursday. Their men wandered through the rubble of what once were their homes.

They picked up little pieces of nothing, blank stares on their faces.

"The destruction, the devastation is unbelievable," said Vice President Gerald R. Ford after flying over the area. "You can see where the houses were reduced to matches."

Twenty-eight persons were dead in Xenia. In Brandenburg, Ky., the death toll stood at 29, and was expected to go higher.

Brandenburg, an Ohio River town of 1,600, shared the bombed-out appearance of other towns hit by the vicious winds.

Craters littered with fragmented wood where houses once stood, cars twisted like the refuse of a monstrous demolition derby, a colonnaded town building reduced to a caricature of a ruined Greek temple.

PREVENT LOOTING

Early today, National Guardsmen patrolled the quiet town to prevent the looting of what little was left. Guardsmen also were on duty in other sections of the state and in areas of West Virginia, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana and Alabama.

Kentucky reported 71 dead from the storms, Alabama 72, Indiana 52, Tennessee 4, Ohio 35, Georgia 16, Ontario Canada 8, North Carolina 5, Michigan 3, Illinois 2, Virginia 1, West Virginia 1.

In the aftermath of the disaster, the story was people — and their shattered lives.

In Hillsdale, Mich., 11-year-old Brenda Holbrook was found crying. Her brother James, 2, was found sitting in a puddle of water. Brenda said her parents, Ballard and Carolyn, heard the storm and laid on top of their children in a hallway. Ballard and Carolyn Holbrook were dead.

In Monticello, Ind., a town of 4,800 where eight died and 100 businesses were wiped out, Gov. Otis R. Bowen stood in the remains of a house and told the woman who lived there,

"There will be some help as far as easy loans for your recuperation." The woman, sobbing loudly, said, "But my home is gone." So were more than 150 others in the town where damage was estimated at $100 million.

SICKENING THING — In Xenia, temporary shelters were set up for the hundreds of homeless and a spirit of cooperation existed as people worked to pick up the rubble.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Council on Environmental Quality has recommended steering offshore oil development away from the southeastern coast and the Gulf of Alaska in favor of areas off New England and Maryland-Delaware-New Jersey. WASHINGTON (AP) — A settlement between the Teamsters and the trucking industry appears to have defused a potential threat by other unions to reopen contracts because of the energy crisis. Teamsters and industry officials have quietly worked out a formula for compensating over-the-road drivers for lost income resulting from lower speed limits without reopening the contract.

FBI Insists It's Still Kidnap Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fears that Patricia Hearst is dead and that her latest communique may be a trick have been expressed by an attorney as the FBI vowed to keep pressure on its two-month hunt for the terrorists' kidnap hideout.

"I do have serious concern that the girl is dead and that Wednesday's tape communication may have been a cover-up," said attorney Vincent Hallinan in an interview Thursday.

$4 MILLION — Hallinan is one of three trustees of a $4 million fund set up by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation to provide more free food for poor people if Miss Hearst is released unharmed. Food worth $2 million already has been given away.

The latest communique from Miss Hearst and the Symbionese Liberation Army, in which she said she has become an SLA member, did not contain any time reference to indicate when it was made, said Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge of the case.

"I believe this was the first one without a date on it," he said Thursday.

"CORPORATE LIAR" — Hallinan voiced concern about the last message, saying, "The tape of her voice could have been made at any time."

FBI Director Clarence Kelley said in a brief statement from his Washington office Thursday that the investigation of Miss Hearst's kidnaping Feb. 4 from her Berkeley apartment is continuing.

In the tape-recorded communique delivered to San Francisco radio station KSNW Wednesday, Miss Hearst said her father, San Francisco Examiner editor and president Randolph A. Hearst, was a "corporate liar," and announced she had decided to join the SLA.

The SLA is described as a small multiracial group of about 25 members, including men and women and blacks and whites.

Unemployment Dips Slightly In March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dipped slightly from 5.2 per cent to 5.1 per cent of the work force in March, the government said today. It was the first decline in five months and raised hopes that the rise in joblessness that began with the Arab oil embargo may have topped out.

The Labor Department considered the drop of one-tenth of one per cent statistically insignificant but government analysts said the figures did suggest stability in the job picture.

The nation's unemployment rate jumped from a 3½-year low of 4.6 per cent in October to 5.2 per cent in January as the impact of the fuel shortage spread through the economy. It held steady in February at 5.2 per cent.

OUT OF WORK — The Nixon administration had forecast a sharp rise in unemployment in the first half of the year but with joblessness averaging about 5.5 per cent over the full year. Some private economists had predicted the rate would top six per cent.

According to today's report from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, total employment remained essentially unchanged for the second consecutive month at 85.9 million in March while the number of people not at work edged down from 4.7 million in February to a seasonally adjusted 4.6 million.

Since October about 530,000 adult women 5 per cent; teenagers 15 per cent; white workers 4.6 per cent, and blacks 9.4 per cent.

Nonagricultural payroll employment dropped slightly in March, resulting from a loss of 150,000 jobs in the goods-producing industries, the government said. In manufacturing, the transportation equipment industry also experienced heavy job losses for the third straight month, dropping by 50,000 in March.

Jobs in other goods-producing industries — construction and mining — declined by 40,000 over the month but in the service-producing industries employment remained unchanged last month following an unusually sharp gain of 240,000 in February.

$148 AVERAGE — For Vietnam veterans aged 20 to 34 years old, the jobless rate increased slightly to 5.1 per cent. But the rate for the younger veterans, those from age 20 to 24, who are most recently discharged, stood at 9 per cent.

Cost Of Living Increases Affect Post Office, Too

By DAVID CARREN
The Post Office has severe financial troubles it wants to ease through not unreasonable increases, said Post Master Frank Hardesty Wednesday.

"For each one cent increase in gasoline prices, $1 million is added to the post office's yearly deficit. We had a two-months delay on our recent postal increases (such as eight to 10 cents for a 1st Class letter) and our deficit zoomed from $31 million to $431 million," Hardesty said.

Hardesty also has great pride in the 64 employees he commands in the local Post Office and can't really relate with the complaints on incompetency and ill feeling he receives over local service.

NEED INCREASES
"Hardly a day goes by when mail is reported late, especially on Social Security checks. Many times it's not our fault. We get the letter late or we're not notified of change of address. On an average day, we handle 79,000 pieces of mail. If we just made one error in 100, we'd have 790 complaints a day. But we have far less than that, and overall, our mistakes compare well with private industry."

"But if you have a complaint, call us up. We have some of the best employees anywhere, and we do our best," he added. Still, Hardesty said the Post Office, at least nationally, can't afford to function without rate increases — price hikes not intended to hurt any business (especially periodicals) as many critics say. Here, the Post Office is running two to five per cent over budget and nationally (with 900,000 employees) the money situation is far worse.

"We're just as good as the schedules we work with. Rising costs and shorter work hours have hurt us. We have 29 fully motorized routes across our area and it's expensive the way gas is. To get the best service, people should get their mail into us before 5:30 and the last dispatch. When the railroad was running, we dispatched mail until midnight, but there's no more passenger trains now," Hardesty added.

"About 85 per cent of our expenditures go for salary. We negotiated an $1100 pay increase over a two-year period for letter carriers and clerks. We're trying to cut down on our number of employees and going more to machinery to move the mail. But each type of mail should pay for itself. That would help," Hardesty said.

MAKE MONEY
The Post-Master said first (letters, post cards) and third class mail ("junk" commercial pieces) pay for themselves. "We make money on the junk mail, and we want all we can get. The mailers have to prepare their mail in proper sequence and it's easy to handle. We're trying to get each type of mail pay for itself. Second class (magazines and newspapers) never pays for itself," Hardesty said.

Since 95 per cent of America's mail is business-oriented, Hardesty feels business should pay its share of the mailing costs instead of the public paying it for them in First Class postage.

"Reader's Digest used to pay 2.2 cents in postage per copy. Now it's about six cents. Sure that's about 175 per cent increase. But what's six cents out of a 50 cent magazine," he said. Hardesty disagrees postal increases have ruined many magazines and will ruin more in the future, saying the increases are just and necessary.

"The post office has been a villain in this, but there were 138 new magazines last year and 40 new publications so far this year. The magazine business is increasing all the time. Our volume in all types of mail is increasing, including magazines. If magazines go out of business, it's because of poor sales. TV ruined "Life" and "Look," Hardesty added.

Overall, Hardesty looks on the American mail system, this planet's biggest, as the world's best and — if it gets the money from the right places — it has a bright future.

THE JURY IS OUT — Former White House aide Dwight L. Chapin places his hand on his wife Susan's shoulder as they walk between newsmen at U.S. District Court in Washington today. The federal district court jury charged with deciding whether Chapin lied under oath about the activities of Donald H. Segretti resumed its deliberations at the court.

Verdict In Chapin Trial Mullied By Federal Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal district court jury charged with deciding whether Dwight L. Chapin lied under oath resumed its deliberations today.

The jurors returned to the jury room at 8:30 a.m. EDT, immediately after breakfast.

After deliberating for nearly four hours Thursday the jurors reported to the court that they were not close to a verdict.

Chapin, 33, former appointments secretary to President Nixon, is accused of three counts of giving false testimony under oath to a federal grand jury investigating "dirty tricks" in the 1972 presidential campaign.

$100,000 FINE
The penalty on each count is a maximum of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

After deliberating nearly four hours late Thursday, the jury was called back to the courtroom by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, who asked: "Is the jury close to a verdict?"

"No sir, sir," replied the foreman, Charles L. Wesley.

The judge, in evident allusion to emotions generated by the Watergate scandals, told the jurors to decide the case "solely on the basis of the evidence without bias or sympathy."

"Use your common sense," he said. "You are deciding nothing but this case, without anger on the one hand, without any sympathy on the other."

Chapin's attorney, Jacob A. Stein, implored the jury not to be influenced by the campaign tactics of Donald H. Segretti, a former college chum Chapin recruited in late 1971 to infiltrate Democratic campaign ranks and try to disrupt them.

Segretti served 4½ months after leading guilty to distributing phony campaign literature. He was the principal witness against Chapin.

World Leaders Arrive For Pompidou Services

PARIS (AP) — World leaders began converging on the French capital today for memorial services for President Georges Pompidou as the jockeying to succeed him came into the open.

President Nixon was due late in the day to attend the requiem mass in Notre Dame Cathedral Saturday morning. The White House said Nixon would return home Saturday evening and had no plans for "substantive meetings" with other leaders attending the memorial.

also a prospective challenger to Chaban-Delmas and Faure for the anti-Left vote.

SPECULATION
The first round of the presidential election must be held April 28 or May 5, with a runoff two weeks later if no candidate gets a majority. The betting so far is that Chaban-Delmas and Mitterrand will meet in the runoff.

Chaban-Delmas, the 59-year-old mayor of Bordeaux, was Pompidou's first premier and has wide support among Gaullist party officials. Pompidou fired him in 1972 because of scandals in government circles. Faure, 63, is president of the National Assembly with possibly more support than Chaban-Delmas outside the Gaullist ranks and considerable less inside.

Giscard d'Estaing heads the small Independent Republican party, longtime allies of the Gaullists. There was speculation he and Faure would get together, with Giscard supporting Faure's presidential candidacy in exchange for the premiership if Faure were elected.

24-Hour Lobby New Wrinkle

The 24-hour lobby is a new wrinkle for the TESCO building. This main entrance is off the Runnels Street front and commands an unrestricted view of the customer service area, administrative center and Reddy Room. It has a desk space for writing notes and a slot for these or night deposits. Night deposits also may be made at the drive-in window. One door off the lobby leads directly to the Reddy Room, which may be used independently of the remainder of the building.

Shared Sex

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your outdated advice to the woman whose husband wanted her to have sex with other men really irked me. I'd have advised her to ask her husband why he wanted to share her. If it was because he didn't love her and wanted to get rid of her, then I fully agree, she shouldn't put up with it. But, did you ever stop to think that maybe the husband enjoyed her so much in bed that he wanted to show others what a great wife he has? Or it's possible that his sexual enjoyment may really be heightened if she has sex with other men? Please don't call this perverted, or say that this man needs a psychiatrist. He doesn't need one. Read the sex manuals. This is an accepted sex practice and is widely accepted nowadays.

SEE THE LIGHT DEAR SEE: I'm sorry I cannot agree with you. No man in our culture who truly loves his wife wants her to have sex with other men. If his own sexual enjoyment is heightened by such a need, it suggests either that he may have unconscious homosexual feelings or that he consciously or unconsciously has a need to degrade his wife.

DEAR ABBY: What happens to a man when he becomes 59 years of age and wants to be young again? My husband dislikes being addressed as "Grandpa," is now sporting sideburns and a mustache (which he dyes), asked for a bicycle for Christmas, and is shamelessly carrying on a flirtation with a 33-year-old woman.

Our 24-year-old daughter, who is a nurse, refers to his behavior as "the male menopause syndrome," and I call it "the fountain of youth disease."

What do you call it? CONFUSED DEAR CONFUSED: I call it "geriatricophobia" — fear of growing old. (Don't try to find it in the dictionary — I just made it up.) It's harmless, unless the flirtation has gone beyond the conversation stage.

It is all very well to establish cards in a long suit. However, to make use of those long cards you have to make sure that you have an entry to reach them.

After a slow start, the auction took off when North elected to leap directly to the diamond slam. His bid was well reasoned. South had shown a fair suit of at least six cards as well as the values for a two-over-one response, and North had first-round control of all the side suits as well as three trumps to an honor.

Had West tried to cash the ace of clubs, declarer would have had plain sailing. Unfortunately for South, West had been listening to the bidding, and attacked with ace and another diamond, cutting dummy's ruffing power. However, it seemed that declarer would have little trouble establishing a long card in one of dummy's suits to take care of a club loser. A high heart and a club ruff would look after declarer's remaining clubs.

After winning the second diamond, declarer cashed the king of hearts and crossed to dummy's queen. When West discarded on this trick, declarer realized that he would not be able to set up the fifth heart. He now turned his attention to spades, but it was too late. He could set up the fifth spade with two ruffs, using a club ruff as an entry, but there was no way to get back to dummy to use the long spade. Declarer was forced to concede a club for down one.

Declarer tackled his suits in the wrong order. Since he could set up hearts with one ruff if the suit broke 4-2, declarer should first have tested spades. After winning the second trump, declarer should have cashed the ace and king of spades. When both defenders followed, he could ruff a spade and re-enter dummy via a club ruff to ruff another spade, setting up the fifth spade. After cashing the king of hearts, he would then cross to a heart honor and discard one club on a high heart and the other on the established spade.

What if one of the defenders shows out on the second round of spades? Declarer still has time to shift his attention to hearts, and can set up a long heart provided the suit breaks no worse than 4-2.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠
In the perfect world, good technique would always be rewarded. In everyday life correct play can, occasionally, lead to defeat. On this hand from the Dutch team-of-four championship, declarer made the correct decision, lost the hand and, with it, the title.

With 18 points and a good five-card major suit, North's hand was too strong for an opening bid of one no trump. His choice of one in a suit followed by a jump rebid in no trump is the standard method of describing such a holding. South wanted to play in spades and nothing else, and his jump to game closed out the auction.

West led the ten of diamonds, covered by dummy's jack and won by East's queen. The ace of diamonds was cashed, and East continued with the eight of diamonds. West ruffed South's nine with the seven of trumps, and instead of overruffing with dummy's ace, declarer made the thoughtful play of discarding a club from dummy. By doing so, he gave himself the best chance of picking up the missing queen of trumps, while at the same time making a later finesse in either clubs or hearts unnecessary, for dummy could now ruff the third club.

Unfortunately, the hearts were 7-0 and East's choice of the eight of diamonds was a signal for West to return the higher ranking side suit, hearts. West dutifully led the ten of hearts, and East ruffed to beat the contract one.

When the hand was replayed at the other table, West led a heart. Declarer played low from dummy and East ruffed. He cashed the ace of diamonds and gave his partner a diamond ruff, but that was the third and last trick for the defense, and declarer scored his game.

Be Prepared To Work Hard If You Seek Pretty Yard

To have a good lawn and home landscape requires, first of all, a desire for beautiful surroundings. Without this desire there is little likelihood of success, because getting and keeping high-quality turf means a willingness to care for it, feed it regularly and mow and water properly, notes the fertilizer Institute.

An attractive landscape also means selection of best-suited ornamentals and shrubbery, and proper shrub placement and care.

Well-landscaped grounds with healthy green turf means added home value, as well as satisfaction. On the other hand, just one or two unattended, run-down lawns in the neighborhood detracts from the value of all the homes nearby.

Developments in lawn and ornamental varieties have increasingly boasted vigor and disease resistance while "specialty" fertilizer products have been formulated to fit the requirements of virtually any plant, soil type and climate.

Fertilizers have been capsulized for precise feedings of house plants, coated for time soil release, and placed in solution for rapid liquid or foliar feeding. In short, there are many different, specially formulated fertilizers on today's lawn and garden market that will result in a more beautiful landscape for any home.

The product of any reputable fertilizer manufacturer will be accompanied by directions on how to use the material for best results. Directions are usually given as to amount to apply and how often.

For lawns, the instructions nearly always are in terms of pounds of the fertilizer material to use per 1,000 square feet of lawn area. Or, if the fertilizer is applied as a liquid, directions will tell the amount to use per gallon of water.

Today, many lawn and garden fertilizers are marketed in combination with an herbicide, insecticide or fungicide. For these products, instructions for use are based in correct amounts of material needed for full plant protection, as well as that needed to maintain healthy growth. Such combination products are a convenience to the home owner and present a safe and effective way of application with minimum chance of home owner error.

You can rely on reputable lawn and garden centers for latest information and recommendations on plant and lawn care.

In many instances, your local county extension office, a branch of the state agricultural university and U.S. Department of Agriculture, have agents with special training in horticulture. These authorities are fully qualified and ready to advise home owners on lawn and plant care, soil testing, home landscaping and other gardening questions.

Rose Favorite U.S. Flower

No question about it, the rose is by far and away America's favorite flower, and there are varieties to please anyone's taste. They come in all sizes, shapes and colors, and grow abundantly almost anywhere when they are properly planted and cared for.

This is a good season to put the roses in, and the American Association of Nurserymen has identified seven simple steps to follow in the planting process. The nursery experts suggest that the plants be kept in a cool place out of the sun until they are put in the ground, and that they be soaked in water shortly before planting.

The first step — Clif off dead or broken roots or shoots.

Step two — Dig a hole 15 to 18 inches deep, depending on the size of the bush.

Step three — Begin to fill the center of the hole with fine soil until there is a mound on which to rest the center of the root system beneath the base of the plant.

Step four — Very carefully place the center of the roots on the top of that mound and spread the roots out over the soil. Work with the soil to form a firm packing around the roots, making sure to eliminate any air pockets.

Step five — Backfill the hole, packing it firmly against the roots. In cold climates the bud union (where the top and roots meet) should be about two inches below the ground level. In warmer areas, the bud union should be at or slightly above the ground level.

Step six — When the hole is about half full, add a little water, then complete filling the hole with soil, continuing to pack it down firmly.

Step seven — Water the bush generously.

Roses require nitrogen, phosphorus and potash as primary elements for their healthy growth, and these can be obtained from commercial fertilizers or from natural materials. Feeding should begin in early spring and be done as often as necessary. Sow the fertilizer two to three inches into the soil surrounding the plant perimeter, and water immediately afterwards.

Roses require a good soaking at least once a week, and rainfall is often not sufficient. At least an inch of water — enough to soak to the roots — should be given to the plant each week. A mulch is not a necessity for roses, but it can help protect roots from high temperatures in the summer and keep weeds at a minimum.

Further advice is readily available from AAN member garden centers or mail-order nurserymen.

Sailors Saw Rose In Sea

A weary crew of early sailors sighted and picked up a rose bush floating in the sea. Columbus noted the incident in his log, October 11, 1492, one day prior to his landing in the Bahamas.

The rose was not always universally revered. Because of its lavish use in the excesses of pagan Rome, the rose was condemned by the church. By the Middle Ages, however, the flower became accepted as a part of Christian culture. Eventually white roses came to symbolize the purity of the virgin Mary, and red roses the blood of Jesus.

The first rose society was founded in Arras, France in 1778. So far as is known, none of the members grew roses. They met one day a year, composed a poem honoring the rose, drank some wine, read the poem to the other members and then went home promising to meet again the following year. The society was known as Les Rosati. It broke up fifteen years later. Nearly one hundred years went by and it was revived about 1890 and endured until 1914.

White Grubs Are Major Problem

White grubs, the number one pest of home lawns in many parts of Texas, is becoming a problem to sorghum and wheat producers.

One factor contributing to the problem is that the white grub has become resistant to the insecticide chloradane. For most home owners, however, increased dosage will do the trick, especially if attention is paid to life cycles of the grubs.

By mid May grubs may be near the surface to feed on roots, so an application not long before this followed by watering, may put the poison into the root zone where feeding grubs will be most easily affected.

MOST FRAGRANT — Probably the most fragrant garden rose in existence today is the Perfume Delight pictured above. It was an All-American Rose Selections award winner last year. A hybrid tea, Perfume Delight is a pink rose all the way from the outer petals to the heart of the bloom and comes from a medium height plant, well clothed with large, leathery dark green foliage.

Home Gardeners Should Worry About Erosion

Should home gardeners worry about erosion? This question was put to Gerald Miller, district conservation with the Soil Conservation Service headquarters in Big Spring.

"Absolutely," he replied. "Erosion is bad even in small amounts. It means that some of your limited topsoil is lost. But erosion does more than steal your topsoil. As soil leaves your home garden or town lot, it moves into ditches and streams, where it becomes mud and a pollutant."

"Undoubtedly mulching is the best conservation practice for the home gardener," Miller says. "Mulching has many benefits, and often eliminates the need for ditches, terraces, or walls that home gardeners often use."

According to Miller, a mulch on the surface will: —Break the force of beating raindrops, and protect soil from erosion.

—Retard growth of undesirable weeds and grass.

—Help soak up and hold moisture from irrigation or limited rain during dry periods, and prevents the formation of a crust.

—Reduce soil temperature during hot weather.

—Add organic matter to the soil, which helps keep earthworms and other soil organisms happy.

—By protection, prevention of erosion, and adding organic matter it actually improved the workability, or tilth, of the garden's soil.

"A mulch can be almost any organic material," Miller said. "Compost, straw, cotton hulls, or lawn clippings, are all OK. Those who want more information on mulching can get a leaflet called Mulches for Your Garden, by calling 267-5331."

Roses require nitrogen, phosphorus and potash as primary elements for their healthy growth, and these can be obtained from commercial fertilizers or from natural materials. Feeding should begin in early spring and be done as often as necessary. Sow the fertilizer two to three inches into the soil surrounding the plant perimeter, and water immediately afterwards. Roses require a good soaking at least once a week, and rainfall is often not sufficient. At least an inch of water — enough to soak to the roots — should be given to the plant each week. A mulch is not a necessity for roses, but it can help protect roots from high temperatures in the summer and keep weeds at a minimum. Further advice is readily available from AAN member garden centers or mail-order nurserymen.

Problem For Youth, Too

For some time there have been indications that as hard drug use wanes among young people, more and more are becoming dependent on alcohol. Adults tend to be less concerned about this than about drug abuse but that is folly.

It is folly because alcoholism is and long has been a far greater problem in this country than drug addiction. Alcohol is a drug — a drug used to serious excess by an estimated nine million Americans. The apparent trend toward increased use of alcohol by young people, and at an increasingly early age, has in it the makings of a national tragedy.

Though statistical data are spotty as yet, those alert to developments seem persuaded that such a trend does exist. Consider the view of Arthur Jaffe, who directs New York City's massive program called School Prevention of Addiction through Rehabilitation and Knowledge. Its focus has been on heroin and other hard drugs, but now, Jaffe says, "there is a steady rise in the use of alcohol" and he thinks society is "developing many young alcoholics."

One factor encouraging this is a feeling, common among parents and educators, that drinking by young people is less worrisome than drug abuse. A public willing to contribute heavily to antidrug programs does not respond to pleas for support of antialcohol education among the young. The fact that many adults themselves drink alcoholic beverages freely plays a part in this attitude.

It is an attitude that must be changed. Now, before alcoholism among young people gains further headway, is the time to mount a vigorous program of education about alcohol. Thus far the finding the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, set up two or three years ago by the federal government, is seriously inadequate for this purpose.

We Couldn't Carry It

Some Americans keep wondering why they have lost ground as the most favored people in the world, but the fact is that workers, consumers, industry and government have all combined to let the standards slip a bit.

People buy imported cars, oil, TV sets and the like — examining each just long enough to make sure it doesn't bear the "Made in the USA" label which they feel betokens higher prices.

In the midst of this comes the regular report from Lloyds Register of Shipping about the tonnage of ship launchings. The leaders are Japan, Sweden, West Germany and — get this — Spain. Great Britain has dropped to seventh place.

Not only isn't this country bothering to produce competitive items for world trade, it wouldn't have anything to carry them in if it did produce them.

Oil Firms' Share

Around The Rim

John Edwards

All but two of the top ten Howard County property taxpayers are petroleum firms.

COSDEN OIL & Chemical Co. leads the list published in the report of 1973 county government finances.

Others follow in order: Skelly Oil, Continental Oil, Texaco, Texas Electric Service, Chevron Oil, Atlantic Richfield, Sun Oil, Southwestern Bell Telephone and Mobil Oil.

At the end of her 67 page annual financial report, Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, states: "Howard County was organized by acts of the Texas Legislature in 1876, but County Commissioners Court did not meet until July 1, 1882.

ONE CENTRALIZED department maintains 186 miles of paved roads and 286 miles of unpaved roads lining the 912 square miles of Howard County.

The county jail has room for 46 prisoners. With 11 employees, the sheriff's office handled 1,029 law violations in 1973.

Altogether, the county employs 105 full time, including 14 elected officials.

According to the 1970 census, 37,796 persons lived in the county.

There are 11,251 registered voters here. In the last general election, 93.4 per cent of the voters registered then cast ballots. Half of the registered voted in the last primary election.

Nothing Really New

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Vice President Gerald R. Ford's thunderously applauded Chicago speech denouncing the moribund Committee to Reelect the President (CREEP) may have sounded new, but it merely repeated a favorite Republican ploy to cloud over true responsibility for Watergate.

FORD NOT only absolved the Republican party of complicity in Watergate, but, by implication, also immunized the White House and President Nixon. Moreover, Ford's reasoning was fuzzy enough to bear a delphic quality. Republicans were divided over whether he did or did not intend to criticize the President who elevated him to national office. Thus, Ford at least temporarily solved the problem of separating himself from the President without alienating him.

But to do that Ford had to misrepresent the vital role of the White House in the 1972 campaign and buttress the President's absurd claim on noninvolvement in his reelection.

FORD'S SPEECH to last weekend's Midwestern Republican conference was the outgrowth of his political dilemma, a subject of endless private conversation between him and his political advisers. As he has traveled the country defending the President, his soaring popularity of last November has dropped (a net loss of 8 percentage points in a trial heat against Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, according to the Harris poll.) How to halt that decline without alienating the Nixon hard core?

The answer, arrived at by Ford himself several days before the Chicago meeting, was scarcely an innovation: blame it on CREEP. That's precisely what Republicans of all stripes, enthusiastically led by national chairman George Bush, have been doing for months.

FORD'S REITERATION of that theme had this predictable result: a roaring response from a thousand Midwestern Republicans (partly, no doubt, because of its Agnewesque rhetoric attacking "an arrogant, elite guard of political adolescents like CREEP). This heaps the blame for Watergate on a defunct organization, supposedly manned by youthful non-politicians, some of whom may be headed for federal prison.

THUS, FORD joined the horde of Republican politicians who choose to ignore the fact that CREEP was no distant relative but an offspring of the White House itself. Anybody close to the 1972 reelection campaign knows that it was totally and tightly controlled by the White House with Charles Colson, one of several senior Nixon aids indicted in the Watergate conspiracy, emerging as the dominant figure. At 9:15 each morning, Colson presided over the daily meeting of the "attack group" — a campaign strategy board consisting of both White House and CREEP officials — held in Colson's office next door to the President's own retreat. The only challenge to Colson's authority came from White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

FORD'S ATTACK also implicitly buttresses Mr. Nixon's repeated claim, most recently stated in his March 18 Houston appearance, of having had no true part in running his 1972 campaign.

In fact, on Jan. 4, 1971, Mr. Nixon disclaimed responsibility for poor White House staff decisions in the blighted 1970 congressional campaign and, by contrast, bragged things would be different in 1972: "When I am the candidate, I run the campaign."

Where Is Everyone Going?

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Where in the world is everyone going all the time, and why? Never before have people had more reason to ask why they are running about, what with the gasoline shortage and rising fares.

In 1929, Americans spent less than $8 billion on transportation. Now they spend around $100 billion in a year's time. Whereas coming and going accounted for less than 10 per cent of personal expenditures in 1929, it now approaches 14 per cent.

The situation is coming into more critical focus every day. Gasoline is in short supply. Urban mass transportation systems are urgently required. Some railroads are on welfare; some airlines seek that role.

Never has there been a bigger demand for transportation. But probably never either have the economics of transportation been so confused. Demand usually means profits for the sellers, but it isn't always so in transportation.

This week the trustees of the Penn Central Transportation Co. announced they will seek $400 million in federal grants and indicated they might consider selling the line's assets if the money wasn't forthcoming.

On the same day, the nation's two international airlines, Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for annual subsidies that could exceed $300 million.

While their reason, the spiraling cost of fuel, was unique, their request wasn't. Back in 1968, the federal government tried to bail out Northeast Airlines, which since has become part of Delta Air Lines.

Regional and local service airlines also receive subsidies so that they will offer service to communities with insufficient traffic to provide a free market incentive.

Where is everyone going? A West Coast executive "commutes" each week to New York or Washington.

Most Workers Drive To Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of the nations 47.2 million Americans age 16 or older who work in metropolitan areas, most get to their jobs by car — 36.2 million. But, according to Census Bureau figures, of the remaining workers, 3.8 million travel by streetcar or bus, 1.7 million by subway or railroad, 3 million walk, 1 million work at home and 1.5 million use taxis, bicycles and motorcycles.

MY ANSWER

Billy Graham

Do you find it's getting harder to reach young people today for Christ? It's certainly an uphill struggle in my teenage Bible class.

The answer depends I guess, on whoever responds to that question. In some quarters, particularly a setting where liberal theology is predominant, interest wanes and nothing seems to challenge the young adult.

In other places, the report is the opposite. The president of Youth for Christ International recently told 600 leaders of that organization in a Texas convention that "Teenagers are more open to the Gospel of Jesus Christ today than at almost any time in history." He said kids today "want to hear about spiritual things" and said they "eagerly listen with open minds and hearts for answers that work."

I think there are several factors that make for success in a youth Bible class. One is a Scripture version that is in contemporary speech form. Another is the discussion approach to Bible study where personal questions and applications can be shared. Another is to provide occasion when young people can mix socially, and get to know fellow class members as real people. There is also a large place for scheduling Christian service opportunities.

At the same YFCI convention, my associate, Cliff Barrows shared an encouraging word. Speaking of Christ, he said, "We have the answer for those young people who have a sense of hopelessness about the future."

A Devotion For Today..

If God is for us, who can be against us? (Romans 8:31)
PRAYER: Dear Lord, give us the wisdom to use Your gift of freedom wisely, strengthened by the knowledge You have foreordained our return to You. In the name of Jesus. Amen.

Black Extras Rake In Loot

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — According to legend, the movie extra has always been on the low rung of the Hollywood ladder, bawled at by directors and paid wages scarcely above subsistence.

"But I like the work," says Marcello Clay, 28, a handsome, cheerful 6-footer who earns his principal living as an extra. "By working an average of six months a year, I can make between $14,000 and $16,000."

CLAY IS black, and represents the new breed of minority extras who can earn good livings despite the general decline of Hollywood production.

Until recent years, crowd scenes were almost all lilywhite. Then producers realized they were not presenting an accurate depiction of the American scene, nor were they being fair to minority performers. Casting departments were asked to specify a percentage of minority extras whenever possible.

"Now when a studio places a call and doesn't ask for a number of minority extras, we call back and suggest that they do so," says Douglas Dakin, head of Central Casting, which sets as a "hiring hall" for extras. "Usually they do."

H. O'Neill Shanks, executive secretary of the Screen Extras Guild, remarked that the guild has campaigned since 1947 for more minority representation in extra calls. Results have been showing in the past two or three years, he said.

THE GUILD numbers 3,000 members, but only 1,395 are listed with Central Casting as available for work from day to day. The number of minority extras: black, 123; Mexican, 49; oriental, 38; American Indian, 13; Polynesian, 9.

Basic pay for extras is $45 a day. Dress extras — those who supply their own tuxedos and gowns — get an extra $10 wardrobe allowance. Swimmers, skaters, horse riders and drivers, athletes, singers, cyclists and others with "special abilities" earn $55. Extras prize the "silent bit," meaning an important piece of pantomime in close range of the camera. That brings $92 a day.

Extras get into the business by being interviewed and registered at one of the four recognized extra-player casting agencies. They must first have a job offer, then they can join the guild within 30 days. There is little demand for new extras, except in the younger categories, where there is a turnover.

"I CAN earn from $200 to $500 a day under certain circumstances," said Clay, talking between scenes on Universal's New York Street for a segment of "Kojack."

About Thyroid Nodes

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How does diet cause or correct thyroid troubles? My doctor has found nodules on both sides. I will have surgery to remove them, but I would appreciate hearing from you. I don't even know what questions to ask. — N.C.O.

There are different kinds of thyroid problems, of which yours is one. Diet neither causes nor corrects such nodules — but we do not know exactly what does cause them.

In another type of thyroid trouble — a diffuse enlargement, or "colloid goiter" — diet is a factor to the extent that lack of iodine can cause that trouble. But that is quite different from nodular enlargement like yours.

A single nodule in the thyroid raises suspicions of cancer. It may not be, of course, but then again it may, so careful examination is mandatory.

But when two or more nodules are present, they usually are not cancerous. It is, of course, how to make such tests as are needed to be certain, and I assume that undoubtedly you have had such tests.

Such nodules is the usual procedure, and I would go along with your doctor's advice without too much delay.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know if it is all right to give an eight-month-old baby a half-bottle of Koolaid? I give it to her when she wakes up in the morning and another one later in the afternoon. I do not have time to fix her breakfast before taking her to the nursery. It seems to satisfy her. — C.R.

Satisfaction and nourishment are not the same. There's nothing wrong with giving an infant the drink you mention, but not as a substitute for the milk it needs, especially during the first year of life when the greatest single spurt of growth is expected to occur.

How much trouble is really involved in warming up a bottle of milk or opening up a can of fruit? It seems to me you could adjust your schedule to prepare a more wholesome breakfast for her.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mother passed away from an ovarian cancer and somewhere I read that it is hereditary. When I asked my gynecologist, he sort of glossed over it and said come back in three months, since I am 42 and should be checked more often. I guess the Pap test was negative.

I would really like to know the facts so that I can either stop worrying or be a little more faithful about tests. — F.M.

While there can be some hereditary predisposition to cancer, saying that ovarian cancer "is hereditary" is going much too far.

Maybe you have an obsession about cancer. Why not accept the good word that there is no sign of cancer now? No one knows what will happen in the future.

ACCOUNTING AREA — If additional information is needed by customer service at Texas Electric Service Company, this department can provide instant and complete details. Microfilm panels can be called up with the punch of a button, projected on terminals (like your television screen), and if needed, given a permanent printout. Information on the panels is updated daily.

New Public Meeting Spot Is Available At TESCO

After mid-April, Big Spring area residents will have access to a new public meeting space. Technically it is a large conference room for TESCO, but popularly it is known as the Reddy (Kilowatt, that is) Room, available for non-profit group meetings. Information or reservations may be made through the switchboard. This room operates independently of the remainder of the building. It accommodates up to 60 seats and has outlets for operating sound or projectors from various locations. It also has a kitchen nook with refrigerator, range, sink, work-

Insulation Helps Conserve Energy

Efficient use of energy is stressed in the new TESCO building. First of all, the building is just about as perfectly insulated as is possible for a public and office building to be. Then it is divided into six separate zones so that each may experience delivery of exactly the right amount of warm or cool air. Once the thermostat is set, the zoning system takes over automatically, winter or summer.

board and cabinet. The adjacent coffee bar is available if more space or appliances are needed. The kitchen area in the Reddy Room is designed primarily for demonstration purposes, but the coffee bar adds flexibility to this.

The control of lighting fixtures permits the spotlighting of any area such as the speaker's podium, or the dimming of

Next Generation Kept In Mind

The new TESCO building here was designed with the idea of not only serving Big Spring today, but for a generation to come. Hence, most areas can double or even triple the volume of business without crowding or confusion.

Some 13,000 customers are served by the Big Spring district operations which extends from St. Lawrence to Ackery and includes virtually all of Howard and Glasscock as well as a small portion of Martin Counties.

Additionally, the center serves another 7,000 customers in the Lamesa district, which includes Dawson, Borden and the south half of Lynn Counties.

one area for picture projection while lighting the other sufficiently for note-taking. Sound jacks permit the use of next microphones.

Use of the room by the public is used primarily on a Monday through Friday basis.

CONGRATULATIONS

TO ALL THE EMPLOYEES

OF TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE COMPANY

FOR THEIR NEW
BEAUTIFUL BUILDING
FOR BETTER SERVING
OUR TOWN

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK MEMBER F.D.I.C. BIG SPRING, TEXAS

You're invited to the

OPEN HOUSE

at our new facilities
5th and Runnels Streets

SATURDAY — APRIL 6 — 9:30 A.M.-5 P.M.

We are looking forward to your visit with us during our Open House. We want you to see our new business office and the facilities that have been installed to serve you. Be sure and bring the family.

There will be refreshments for all.

The new building has been designed for your convenience and for efficiency in our operations. Features of special interest include a demonstration kitchen; a meeting room, called the "Reddy Room," which will be available for group meetings; and a drive-up window which permits making payments for electric service without leaving your car.

We're looking forward to seeing you.

Public Can View New Building Here Saturday

Texas Electric Service Company's thousands of customers — and that includes just about everyone in this area — will have an opportunity 9:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday to view the handsome new local and division headquarters at Fifth and Runnels.

Designed for business and for an expanding work-load, the new facility nevertheless is strikingly attractive as well as functional.

LOCAL ITEMS

Customer convenience is the watchword, from location to flow of traffic, yet the building also provides spacious work areas, public service and even a subtle showcase of electrical illumination, heating-cooling, and appliance.

In several instances use has been made of locally manufactured items. Besides providing for more-than-ample customer parking, the new home has drive-in window facilities with an eight-car stack-up ability. It has a 24-hour lobby, which, like the drive-in window, also has a night depository slot. The building contains 8,700 square feet, and virtually every foot of it useable since all mechanical units are on the roof. Walls are of an exposed concrete-aggregate panelling (made here by McMahon Concrete) backed by 4-in. insulation batting and two layers of gypsum board. The 2-in. ceiling title are backed by 6-in.

insulation. Windows are bronze thermopane glass which not only control heat and glare, but are almost sound proof. STRIKING FEATURES Part of the interior walls are vinyl wall coverings of various colors, adorned with striking paintings, color panels. New furnishings and furniture are appointed with unusual statuary and other items. Other walls are walnut stained birch panelling. The Reddy Room, available Monday through Friday after April 15 for non-profit group meetings, may be operated as a section separate from the remainder of the building so that night sessions are convenient. In addition, the regular conference room is available for smaller committee sessions. Illumination is both fluorescent and incandescent, and in most instances is controlled by selective switching and dimmers. Except for unusual and creative fixtures, the panels and spots are recessed in the ceiling. Cabinets have fluorescent work strips for the work areas, down lights too. The kitchen in the Reddy Room and in the coffee bar (which may be used as backup for meetings) have the latest in appliances.

CONVENIENT SITE

The site was selected because of its proximity to other utility offices and its accessibility. The drive-in entrance is from Fifth Street, making an L around to the north side window and exit on Runnels. The east portion of the lot contains 22 off-street customer parking spaces. The building itself fits into the Southwestern theme as to color and lines. The pre-cast exterior panels are set in precast facia with white plaster and (bronze colored) anodized aluminum mouldings. Trees in the front and landscaped planters on the south complement with a casual, homey atmosphere.

CONVENIENT DISPLAYS — In the customer service center of Texas Electric Service Company's new home here is a convenient center for displays. These may be company-centered, educational (such as the mockup of the new nuclear plant) or of general nature such as community, agricultural and other informational exhibits.

UTILITY FACILITY WITH UTILITY — Texas Electric Service Company's new home at Fifth and Runnels will be presented in open house Saturday. It is designed for real utility today, for convenience of customers, and with an eye for easily meeting needs of tomorrow. To top that, it has a striking, simple beauty.

Judge Pays 'Hot' Checks

DALLAS (AP) — George Washington Jr., sworn in Wednesday as a Dallas municipal judge, was under two felony indictments charging him with passing $1,700 in worthless checks until Monday when he paid off the checks, county records show.

The charges were dropped after Washington presented the district attorney's office with letters from the Hotel Adolphus and Clark & Courts Inc. saying Washington had paid off the two checks and the firms did not want to continue legal action.

At the same time, records show, Washington paid off three other checks amounting to $377.75 which complainants had filed with the district attorney's office.

Mayor Pro Tem George Allen, head of a committee which appointed Washington, said "If I'd been aware (of the indictments) I'd never have made the appointment."

Drive-In Window Quick Success

Drive-in service in the new TESCO building has been an instant success.

Fully 80 per cent of the customer contacts are through this window within only two weeks since the building was occupied. This percentage may increase since many in-office customers said they came in rather than use the drive-in window because they wanted to see the building. Officials feel this flow of traffic means that the offices will be more than adequate for a long time to accommodate those with special problems, disconnects or connects, account questions, planning, etc.

Congratulations ...

Texas Electric Service Company on your farsightedness in providing yourself a new home with modern facilities. Farsighted enterprises such as this, planning not only for the present but for the future needs of an expanding community, stimulates the growth and prosperity of Big Spring and surrounding area.

Texas Electric Service Company has behind it a distinctive record of superior community service of which they are justly proud, and we, as a community are extremely appreciative.

SPACIOUS, COMFORTABLE — Comfort and convenience are watchwords for Texas Electric Service Company's new service department. At left is the customer counter (for those who do not wish to use the drive-in window), and at right is one of the desks where customers may be seated while a staff member takes care of their desires. Other desks also are available for traffic warrants, and in the back corner of the room the switchboard operator has a view of the area to disperse personnel as needed.

Architects Of Building Kept Customer In Mind

Texas Electric Service Company started with the customer in its new home at Fifth and Rannels.

To begin with, the lobby opening off Rannels Street, is open 24 hours a day and contains a night depository. The entrance leads off it to the customer service area on the north side of the building, to the Reddy Room (community service) room on the south. The reception area for the administrative core appears directly east through glass panels.

The customer service area contains displays of appliances (TEXCO does not sell them), as well as company exhibits such as a scale model of the new atomic power plant or displays of public nature.

KEY AREA

The key space, however, is the customer service module from which both the drive-in and counter customers may be served. If the volume of business piles up at any moment, a customer service desk is available and reinforcements can be marshalled instantly for the service module. The telephone switchboard operator has full view of the area, as well as the hallway leading to other offices and can help direct traffic. The board also is interconnected with Lamesa for divisional matters, also with the engineering center of IS 20. The south wood-paneled wall of this area is in reality a vast storage cabinet.

Adjacent to this is the accounting backup, with its accompanying storage. Here personnel work from microcopy panels (Micro-Fish) on which almost any information ever needed about a customer is instantly retrievable on cathode ray terminals (like your television screen). Six hundred complete customer analyses are on a single 4x10-in. panel, so that records of some 20,000 customers are contained in panel slots on less than three pages of a file pad.

TINY PANELS

Information on these panels is updated daily as meter readings, payments, change in status of account, ect. occur. Account cards are marked and sent daily to the computer center in Fort Worth and returned the following day for checking and filing. A printout copy of any account can be made quickly.

Next to this space is the office of the coordinator of general customer service. Also in this section is a day room for metermen, who have their own lockers, showers and storage space. Across a hallway is the large room for bulk storage, which has a steel balcony for dead storage of old records. It also contains the panel controlling the circuits for this all-electric building. Another room in this unit is for mailing, reproduction of documents, etc. Next, and with a door opening into the administrative unit is the room for the staff working with new and commercial customers. This makes use of modules for each staff member, providing a tremendous amount of drawer and storage space, plus a desk and alternate work table, etc. The modules are high enough that in effect give each member private office space.

HANDY SERVICE AREA — Texas Electric Service Company's handy service area is designed to service both drive-in window customers, or those who want counter service in the building's interior. The customer aide can pivot from one center to the other, and, if needs, call up reinforcements to provide prompt service.

Heating, Cooling Units Are On Top

There isn't a mechanical room as such in the new TESCO building.

The heating and cooling units are mounted atop the building (although accessible from a door in the panel-storage room). The effect not only is to provide much more, useable work space in the building, but to make the operation virtually noiseless.

Texas Auctioneers Work Will Wind Up Saturday

Texas Auctioneers Week, so proclaimed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, winds up Saturday. Big Spring residents play prominent roles in the association. Keith Carey of Box 26, Gail Road, is president of the organization while Al Stephens, 2311 Lynn Drive, is secretary-treasurer.

Vice president of the organization is Mike Morrow, San Antonio.

Dub Bryant, Big Spring, is a past president of the association.

Selling by auction is one of the oldest methods of bartering known to man, dating back to before 1,000 B.C.

More than 60 per cent of the meat animals in this country are marketed via the auction method, as are many other food products.

Members of the association conduct their business according to the code of ethics set out by the National Auctioneers Association.

Holcomb's Bid For FCC Post Ires Rev. McIntire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former director of the Greater Dallas Council of Churches testified Thursday his religious background would have no bearing on his being a member of the Federal Communications Commission should he be confirmed.

The Senate Commerce Committee heard Luther Holcomb, 54, as it considers his nomination for a 14-month term on the FCC.

Seven religious conservatives, including the Rev. Carl McIntire, made an issue of the fact Holcomb is a Southern Baptist minister.

McIntire claimed no clergyman should be on the commission. He also opposed Holcomb on grounds that liberal clergyman affiliated with the National Council of Churches caused him to lose the license for his radio station at Media, Pa.

The FCC took away the license of WXUR because the station did not observe the fairness doctrine under which each side in a controversy is entitled to be heard.

McIntire said putting Holcomb on the commission would only add to his opponents.

Holcomb denied he is an active minister and said he would ask that his name be removed.

880,000 Voters Due To Register
HOUSTON (AP) — County officials said they expect 880,000 registered voters in Harris County for the May 4 Democratic and Republican primaries.

Registration for the primaries closed at midnight Wednesday, and final figures on the number of qualified voters won't be available until early next week, they said.

First Baptist Slate Evangelistic Rally
Evangel Temple Schedules Missionary Meets

By MARJ CARPENTER

It's the week before Easter and a very special season for local churches. The Easter Sunrise Service will be held at 7:30 a.m. Easter in the Amphitheater. They will have a practice Sunday from 2-4 p.m. in the First Baptist Church for the choir and dramatic part of the presentation.

EVANGELIST James Robison of Fort Worth, Texas, will be preacher for a one-night evangelistic rally at the First Baptist Church on April 10, 7:30 p.m.

The meeting is open to the public and is being sponsored by various area churches according to the rally chairman, Dr. Harold Smith.

Sharing the program spotlight with Robison will be other members of his evangelistic team including gospel singer John McKay and organist Richey Craig.

Guest soloist will be Mrs. Jeanne Copeland Rogers, 24, of Hurst, a regular performer on the evangelist's weekly television program.

At 30, Robison has preached his simple gospel message to some six million, conducting more than 350 crusades in some 30 states. At these evangelistic meetings, usually held in large auditoriums or football stadiums, he often preaches to crowds of 8,000 to 10,000 nightly. He conducted such a meeting here a few years ago.

More than 200,000 people have made personal commitments of their lives to Christ in response to his ministry. Of these, some 100,000 were making their first decisions for Christ.

His background includes a childhood of abject poverty in Houston and Austin, Texas, and a youth in which he was shuttled back and forth between his natural mother and foster parents in Pasadena.

He attended East Texas Baptist College, Marshall. McKay, 40, is a graduate of North Texas University, Denton. Mrs. Rogers is a former junior high school music teacher in Hurst.

ON APRIL 7, 1974, Channel 11 will be televising the World Conference Broadcast of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. The time for the broadcast will be 9 a.m.

World conference broadcast from historic Temple Square in Salt Lake City features the world's greatest music and messages for every family member.

The 375-voice Salt Lake Mormon Tabernacle Choir, world famed for broadcasts, concert tours, and recordings, provides the music.

President of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Spencer W. Kimball, will be presiding over the conference. Leaders of the Church will offer counsel on how to surmount trials and how to achieve peace of mind.

World conference broadcasts are presented in the public interest by KSL Radio and Television to more than 350 stations in Australia, Canada, Mexico, Central and South America, Europe and the United States.

The God-is-Dead movement has died — it is being replaced by the belief in many gods, who represent the many-sidedness of our lives today.

This idea is developed by David L. Miller, associate professor of religion at Syracuse University in his new book, "The New Polytheism: Rebirth of the Gods and Goddesses," published by Harper & Row.

Mr. Miller calls polytheism the "people's religion," as distinct from the religion of the theologians. By becoming aware of it, we can identify the many sides of our nature with the old gods and goddesses and gain a better understanding of ourselves and others, he says.

JIMMY BEGGS

THE JIMMY BEGGS Missionary Family of Kenya, Africa, will present a convention on Missions with three services: Saturday, 7 p.m.; Sunday morning at 9:45 a.m.; and Sunday evening at 7 p.m.; at Evangel Temple Assembly of God, 2205 Goliad, Big Spring, April 6-7.

The three-service Missionary Convention, focusing attention on one family's presentation of Missions, will feature slides, curios, motion picture film, language presentation, songs, preaching and the wearing of the native dress of Africa, Kenya.

"This will be the fullest presentation of missions our church has ever had," commented Pastor Calvin, Evangel Temple Pastor. "Nothing will be left out of the missionary burden and calling in this presentation," he said.

The Beggs family have just concluded another term of service in Africa for their ministry in Kenya included the evangelization of the area, teaching in Bible schools and training of native pastors.

"We are inviting everyone to attend this full and unusual missionary convention," said Pastor Calvin. "It will put the 'Go Ye' in your feet and the

'You Go' in your heart," he concluded.

AT TRINITY — Dr. Raymond Barber, pastor of a Fort Worth growing missionary church, will be at Trinity Baptist Church here April 7-12 at 7 p.m. nightly. Jim Pointer, education director, will lead the singing. The Rev. Claude N. Craven, local pastor, invites the public to visit the services at Trinity at 810 11th.

Trinity Lutheran Slates Communion And Tenebra

The Palm Sunday morning service at 11:00 a.m. will include the Celebration of the Holy Communion and the reception of new members with Pastor Lester M. Utz, in charge. "The Palms will be sung as a special vocal solo by Fred Davis of Big Spring Radio Station KBYG. This communion service is open to any Christian wishing to participate.

A Presbyterian Church Revival?

It's happening April 21-26 7:30 nightly at the First Presbyterian Church of Coahoma. The evangelist is Rev. Jack K. Bennett of First Presbyterian in Galveston.

Rev. Bennett, prior to entering the ministry, was active in civic and church life in Palestine, Texas. A co-partner there in the Anderson County Abstract Company, he was District Director for the Boy Scouts of America; Board Member of the Palestine Y.M.C.A.; Chairman of the Anderson County United Fund; and official toastmaster for the Anderson County Chamber of Commerce. An officer in the First Presbyterian Church in Palestine, he was also a Sunday School teacher and lay preacher, District Chairman of Men's Work, and member of the Texas Men's Choir.

While serving his first pastorate in Homer, La., he also served as Stated Supply of the Athens and Haynesville, La., churches and was instrumental in the establishment of the Evergreen Presbyterian Vocational School near Minden, La., and the Presbyterian Village of Homer, La.

Rev. Bennett completed both his B. D. and Th.M. work at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Austin, Texas, where he was the recipient of both the Sam B. Hicks and Janie Maxwell Morris Fellowships and was president of the student body. Louis Loveless will lead the music, or joyful noisemaking. The emphasis of these meetings will be on the Resurrection Life and are expected to bring awakening, encouragement, and inspiration to the church and community of Coahoma. There will also be a dessert at 6:30 Sunday night, April 21, to start things off. The Presbyterian Church invites everyone to experience with them the joy and fellowship of this revival.

Angry Cattlemen Rap Regulations

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Animal Health Commission has reinterpreted two of its regulations in its brucellosis program to shorten cattle quarantines and to allow movement of quarantined cattle in certain cases.

The commission took the action Thursday after dozens of angry cattlemen came to Austin complaining that the regulations, which became effective Jan. 15, had halted the movement of cattle as effectively as barbed wire fences.

The same standard will be applied to cases where a diseased animal is discovered at an auction barn as applies when one is discovered at a slaughter house, the commission said.

The herd from which the animal came will be quarantined for only 30 days if a test of the herd at the end of that period is negative.

Under the old interpretation, the commission required two negative tests and 120-day quarantine if the diseased animal was discovered at an auction barn.

SLAUGHTER HOUSE

The same standard will be applied to cases where a diseased animal is discovered at an auction barn as applies when one is discovered at a slaughter house, the commission said.

The second reinterpretation authorizes the commission's executive director, Dr. H. O. Sibley, to permit movement, in hardship cases, of quarantined cattle to new premises so long as it does not change the brucellosis status clean or contaminated of the country receiving them or the health of neighboring herds.

HARDSHIP CASE

Also Thursday, Sibley got oral authorization from the attorney general's office to approve shipments of quarantined cattle to Mexico in hardship cases. Another meeting of the commission must precede that approval.

Texas became the last state, in 1973, to authorize a program to control brucellosis Bang's Disease, which kills nearly half of the unborn calves in afflicted cows.

Brucellosis also makes nearly half of those cows barren.

It is not harmful to humans to eat meat from such a cow, but in causes undulant fever, if, for example, the cow's blood enters a cut on a slaughter house worker.

Diabetes Speech Slated Monday

Dr. H. S. Seltzer, researcher and chief of endocrinology at the VA Hospital in Dallas, will give a public talk, "Diabetes: Is A Cure Possible in Five Years?"

The talk will not be Friday as reported originally. Dr. Seltzer, one of the leading researchers in pancreas cell transplants which pose a cure for diabetes, is also a professor of medicine at UT. Southwestern.

He will speak in Midland Memorial Hospital's cafeteria. Attendance is free and encouraged of anyone interested. More seminars are planned April 22, May 6, May 20 and June 3. Call or write Mrs. Linnie Davidson, 900 W. Storey, AC 915 684-8306, for info.

They Don't Trust Solons To Set Their Own Wages

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Constitutional Convention delegates said Thursday they don't trust Texas legislators to set their own salaries without voter approval.

Twice during the long debate on what provisions concerning legislative pay and expenses should be in the new constitution, the 180 legislator-delegates refused to leave the matter solely to the legislature.

By an 85-66 vote the convention refused to remove all mention of legislative salaries from the proposed new constitution, which would have left the legislature free to set salaries by general law. Now, the $4,800 salary paid legislators is written into the Constitution and cannot be changed without voters' consent.

PWP Conference Attracts Locals

A number of members of the Big Spring chapter of Parents Without Partners will be journeying to New Orleans this week-end to attend a Zone Conference, with the New Orleans chapter acting as host.

Several discussions will be led by professional psychologists, social workers and clergymen on a number of personal self-help subjects.

Parents Without Partners is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization devoted to the welfare, education and interest of single parents and their children.

COST OF LIVING

"I think it would be received better this time," he said.

He said the $8,750 figure was selected by taking the present $4,800 salary and apply a 4.9 per cent "cost of living" increase for each year since the $4,800 figure was adopted in 1961.

Light Freeze In Panhandle

Cool, dry air kept on pouring into Texas today, and it was overcast weather in many areas. Skies were clear throughout the state.

Official observers attributed the situation to a ridge of high pressure stretching all the way from the Central Rockies into the Gulf of Mexico.

Another light freeze nipped parts of the Texas Panhandle, where Dalhart recorded an early morning temperature of 27 degrees. Readings ranged from the middle 30s to upper 40s elsewhere except for a 54 at Brownsville and 59 at Jalveston.

Fair and a little warmer weather was promised all sections, with another cool night.

Decrease Texas Gasoline Supplies By 10 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office has decreased Texas gasoline supplies by 10 per cent for April from March in a general realignment the office says will achieve a more equal distribution.

Some 11.1 million barrels of gasoline from inventories will be tapped for the April allocations, increasing the nation's average daily supply by about 4 per cent, FEO said Thursday.

The agency said the allocations are designed to ensure that every state gets at least 90 per cent as much gasoline as it got in April 1972, adjusted for growth in vehicle registrations since then.

In order to achieve this distribution, the supply to 12

SANCAP. BECAUSE YOU HAVE ENOUGH SOIL PROBLEMS ALREADY.

If the soil in West Texas was the same as the soil everywhere else maybe the herbicides they use would be good enough for you.

But you've got different soil. Sandy soil. And different problems. You need an herbicide specifically made for sand, loamy sands and fine sandy loam soils. You need Sancap?

If you used it when we introduced it last season, you know what it can do. STOP CARELESSWEED AND RUSSIAN THISTLE COLD. Without hurting your cotton. With just ordinary rainfall or irrigation. And all you have to do is broadcast Sancap over your field at planting or within two days after. No incorporation, either. Sancap. The only herbicide made for sandy soil. We made it especially for your soil and problems. And not anybody else's. Agricultural Division, CIBA-GEIGY Corporation, P. O. Box 11422, Greensboro, NC 27409. CIBA-GEIGY
