ARMED TROOPS SEIZE RADIO-TV STATIONS

Rebel Tanks Reported In Lisbon

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Armed troops seized radio and television stations in Lisbon early today and claimed to have won power from the regime of Premier Marcello Caetano.

NOT TRUE?

But an official at the Foreign Ministry said, "It is not true that the government has surrendered. There is an attempt to take over the government and the situation is confused." A 12-minute round of machine-gun fire was heard in the neighborhood of the Plaza de Comercio, Lisbon's main square, around noon. Diplomatic dispatches reaching London said tanks of Portugal's 7th Cavalry Regiment were deployed there, and that some civilians were wounded.

The regiment was one which evidently had not joined the rebels. There was no indication available immediately as to who fired first or how an apparent confrontation began.

According to diplomatic dispatches reaching London, the rebels, styling themselves "The National Junta of Salvation," pledged to work for the restoration of civil and democratic rights in Portugal, work for peace in Portugal's African territories and run the country transitionally pending national elections for a constitution-writing assembly.

CLEAN UP

They said the junta had seven members, but did not immediately identify them.

The rebels spoke of the failure of the Portuguese system after 13 years to formulate an overseas policy that would produce peace between Portuguese "of all races and creeds."

Their proclamation also spoke of the need "to clean up" Portugal's institutions, to eliminate what it called "the illegal acts which the abuse of power has legalized."

The proclamation also was said to have declared that the movement of the armed forces would restore to the nation the "salvation" for Portugal and would restore to the nation the civil liberties it had lost.

ELECTIONS

The junta said it would exercise power of government only temporarily — until there could be nationwide elections for an assembly that would be charged with writing a new constitution.

Reports reaching Madrid said the rebel movement had taken control of the government without resistance anywhere in Portugal.

The reports said rebel tanks besieged the army ministry in downtown Lisbon and that four ministers—those of the interior, army, navy and air force—who had taken refuge in the building managed to slip away through a hole they made in the wall.

The reports said government troops refused to obey their commander when he ordered them to open tank fire on rebellious troops in the center of Lisbon.

FAST ACTION

Reports said the revolt had the support of 29 regiments and that most of the leaders were young majors and captains.

Moving swiftly in the pre-dawn darkness and benefiting by surprise the rebels took over the studios of Emissora Nacional, the national radio station, the studio of the Portuguese radio and television.

'Zebra' Will Strike Again, Officer Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Zebra killer will strike again, the chief police inspector believes. And he says nearly a week of stopping and searching young blacks on the streets has produced no clues in the case in which 12 white persons have been gunned down at random.

"I think it will continue," Chief Inspector Charles A. Barca told U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso Zirpoli Wednesday when asked whether he thought the killing was over.

Zirpoli is conducting a hearing on lawsuits seeking a halt of the searches of black men resembling the description of the killer.

Barca said that since the searches had been unproductive and ineffective, police are cutting them back drastically.

"There is nothing more urgent in the annals of the police department" than to find the killer or killers who have terrorized this city since last November, said Barca.

The killer has been described by two of the six persons who survived apparent unprovoked attacks. Police code-named the case Zebra after the radio channel being used on the case.

Barca said bus stops were the most likely spots for future Zebra killings, since 14 of the 18 shootings have taken place at city bus stops. Barca told the judge an injunction against searches "would make it difficult to locate the Zebra killer."

At the same time, Barca promised that police "from now on will be more selective in making stops" and would only make them "when the individual is acting or appears to be acting out of the ordinary."

Attendance Award Axed

WAVERLY, N.Y. (AP) — The Waverly Board of Education has decided to do away with perfect attendance awards, branding them counterproductive.

The board said some pupils were too determined to win the awards. They came to class sick and infected their fellow pupils.

IMPEACHMENT Extend Deadline For Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee today extended the deadline for President Nixon to respond to a subpoena for tapes of 42 presidential conversations and received a recommendation that a number of impeachment charges against Nixon be dropped.

Both developments had been expected. The committee voted 34 to 4 to extend until next Tuesday the deadline for Nixon to respond to the subpoena, which originally called for compliance by today.

The committee's staff, meanwhile, recommended that a number of impeachment charges should be dropped and said the committee should concentrate on Watergate, Nixon's taxes and contribution to his re-election campaign.

The report, if accepted, would be the basis for the presentation of evidence to the committee, which is scheduled to begin May 7.

Committee Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., had assured the White House on Tuesday that its request for an additional five days to respond to the subpoena would be granted.

Rodino said the committee was acting "with tremendous restraint" because it wanted to give every assurance to the American people that the investigation was being conducted fairly and completely.

He said the extension expressed the desire of the committee and the American people that Nixon respond fully to the committee request so the investigation could be brought to a conclusion.

'Dual Box' System Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to permit Texas to continue its "dual box" system for municipal bond elections until it can consider the issue.

The court blocked the effect of a lower federal court decision that struck down the system Texas uses for voting on bond issues insofar as it dealt with the dual boxes.

The action will give Texas time to appeal the lower court decision while preserving the validity of its bond elections. The stay will remain in effect until the high court reaches a decision on the appeal.

The Texas system employs one ballot box for voter-property owners and another for voters who do not own taxable property. It was developed in an attempt to meet state constitutional requirements for a vote of property owners while at the same time attempting to conform to U.S. Supreme Court decisions requiring a broader vote on bond elections.

Insists Stans, Mitchell Lied To Grand Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — Chief prosecutor John Wing told a jury today that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans lied to cover up an illegal attempt to influence a government investigation.

"I submit to you that the evidence in this case has shown that Mitchell and Stans lied to the grand jury and that they lied to you," Wing said in the windup of a 6½-hour, two-day summation at their criminal conspiracy trial.

"I ask you to consider if there was nothing wrong, if there was no illegal attempt to cover up a contribution, why did they lie?" he asked.

The jury of nine men and three women was expected to get the case in the afternoon after instructions on relevant law by U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi.

Mitchell and Stans are accused of perjury and of conspiring to obstruct justice for allegedly attempting to impede a Securities and Exchange Commission fraud investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco in return for his secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

The defendants quit the cabinet to run Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Vesco, a 38-year-old multimillionaire, was indicted with them but fled the country rather than face trial.

Wing's summation was interrupted frequently by objections from defense lawyers and motions for a mistrial, which Gagliardi denied.

Wing went through each of the six perjury counts against each defendant and told the jury what evidence was presented to prove they were lying.

Slight Chance

Considerable cloudiness with only a 20 per cent chance of showers this afternoon, increasing to a 30 per cent chance tonight and back to 20 per cent on Friday. High today and Friday in the mid 80s with the low in the mid 60s.

WILL BE HEARD FROM AGAIN

'Tania' Calls Her Parents 'Pigs,' Ex-Fiance 'Clown'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — And now this from Patricia Hearst: my parents are "pigs," my fiance a "clown." And "I am a soldier of the people's army" who voluntarily robbed a bank.

'SEXIST PIG'

Speaking in a calm, subdued voice in a taped message received Wednesday, Miss Hearst said "Greetings... This is Tania." She then proceeded to heap scorn and ridicule on her family, said she never cared if she saw her "sexist pig" fiance again, and added:

"To those people who still believe that I'm brainwashed or dead, I see no reason to further defend my position. I am a soldier of the people's army."

"The only way we can free ourselves of this fascist dictatorship is by fighting — not with words but with guns."

In the tape, the 20-year-old college coed called her parents "the pig Hearsts," and at one point addressed her father as "Adolf," an apparent reference to Nazi leader Adolf Hitler. She termed Steven Weed, to whom she became engaged last December and planned to marry in June, "my ex-fiance."

NOT SURPRISED

Her father, San Francisco Examiner editor and president Randolph A. Hearst, confirmed the voice was his daughter's, and added:

"The only good thing is that she is alive. Regarding her personal attacks on me, if she has been brainwashed, and I firmly believe she has, then it's not surprising she would say something like this.

"No matter what she says, we still love her. The girl we've known all her life would not say something like that of her own free will."

Miss Hearst, whom the Symbionese Liberation Army claims to have kidnaped on Feb. 4, said in the tape she was a voluntary participant in an April 15 bank robbery in which four alleged members of the SLA have been named in warrants. She is wanted as a material witness. Of that robbery, which she called "a revolutionary act," she said:

"I was positioned so that I could hold customers and bank personnel who were on the floor. My gun was loaded and at no time did any of my comrades intentionally point their guns at me."

WANTS ME DEAD

Pictures taken of the $10,600 robbery at the Hibernia Bank in San Francisco showed two of the armed participants with guns pointed in the direction of Miss Hearst, who was standing in the middle of the bank, a rifle around her shoulder, her hand in her pocket. In the tape, Miss Hearst dismissed suggestions that she come forward for a personal interview as proof she is not being coerced.

"To the clovers who want a personal interview with me — Vincent Hallinan (an attorney), Steven Weed and the pig Hearsts" she said, "It's absurd to think that I could surface to say what I'm saying now and be allowed to freely return to my comrades. The enemy still wants me dead."

The tape, which also included the voices of two men, was Miss Hearst's first communication since she renounced her family on April 3 and said she was joining the SLA as an armed comrade. She also said she had taken the name "Tania," in memory of a slain girl friend of Latin American guerrilla Che Guevara.

The World At - A - Glance

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel says it will continue to raid southern Lebanon in retaliation for guerrilla attacks from there despite the United Nations Security Council's seventh condemnation of such action. The council on Wednesday night adopted a resolution condemning Israel for its April 12 raid on six Lebanese villages in retaliation for the guerrilla massacre of 18 Israelis in the village of Qiryat Shmona. Lebanon said the Israelis killed three civilians and kidnaped 13 others. The vote was 13-0, with China and Iraq not participating.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British army claimed it captured two top officers of the Irish Republican Army late Wednesday night. The army said Con McHugh, 37, and Dominic O'Neil, 36, were in a car that was stopped at a checkpoint in West Belfast. Army sources said McHugh was a top operations officer on the staff of the IRA's Belfast brigade, and O'Neil was also a member of the brigade staff. McHugh was captured once before, in October, 1972.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Smiling and carrying their Bibles, 107 youthful evangelists have trooped off to jail, refusing to accept freedom if it means giving up their preaching even for a few days. County Judge Raymond L. Simpson offered the defendants, all charged with loitering, release on their own recognizance Wednesday if they would promise to quit bothering people in area shopping centers. They refused on the grounds such conditions would violate their constitutional rights, and they were jailed in lieu of $25 bond each. Another 30 persons paid the bond and were freed.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa's white minority has given Prime Minister John Vorster and his Nationalist Party five more years in power. Incomplete returns from Wednesday's general election gave the Nationalists 87 of the 171 seats in Parliament, the United Party 38 and the Progressive Party 6. One computer analysis forecast that the final division would be Nationalists 121, United party 42 and Progressives 6. In the last Parliament, which had 166 seats, the Nationalists had 118, the United Party 47, and there was one Progressive.

WEB OF STEEL — Maintenance electricians, seemingly tangled in a star-like web, work from a built-in ladder on what's billed as the largest ferris wheel in North America, the Giant Wheel at Cedar Point Amusement Land in Sandusky, Ohio. Gene Puskar, a biology and journalism student at Bowling Green State University, caught the shot as the workmen readied the 15-story-high structure for the park's May 18 opening. They have to assure that the about 12,000 red, white and blue lights will shine.

HELD IN TRIPLE SLAYINGS — Two men held in connection with a robbery of a record store in which three persons were slain Monday night are shown in separate photos. They are William Andrews, dark shirt, Dallas, Tex., and Dale S. Pierce, light shirt, Brooklyn, N.Y. Both are Hill Air Force Base airmen.

At Least Three Witnesses To Robbery And Slayings

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Two young boys rummaging through trash containers at Hill Air Force Base in search of pop bottles found a wallet belonging to one of five murder and torture victims in a robbery at a stereo shop, police said Wednesday.

The discovery of the wallet was one of the reasons for the arrests of two servicemen in the case, Ogden Police Chief Leroy Jacobsen said.

GIRL RAPED

Three persons were killed during the Monday night holdup and two others were badly hurt. Police said all were tortured, and a teen-aged girl was raped.

Airmen Dale S. Pierce, 21, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and William A. Andrews, 19, of Dallas, Tex., were arrested at their Hill AFB quarters Tuesday night and charged with three counts of murder.

Their arraignment was to be resumed to day before City Court Judge E. F. Ziegler. The proceedings were interrupted Wednesday to allow the airmen time to consult their lawyer.

Weber County Atty. Robert Newey said a third airman went voluntarily to police to talk about the case. Newey said no decision had been made whether to charge the third airman or hold him as a material witness.

Fair Format Takes Shape

Basic format for the 1974 Howard County Fair has been approved by the directors. Dates are Sept. 16-21.

One change in operational procedures will be the requirement of individual tickets (50 cents adults, 25 cents children) replacing the previous family ticket.

Arnold Marshall, president elect and general superintendent, said that most of the division heads have been named and that the current year's fair is shaping well.

If arrangements can be worked out, the tractor pull event will be repeated this year. Other special events may include the motorcycle rodeo, swine show and sale, pet night and horse show. The 20th Century Shows of Dallas will put on the carnival.

Catalogue for the fair will go to press soon, Bruce Griffith, division chairman, reported. Directors authorized the leasing of a 120x60-ft. tent for exhibits and empowered the executive committee to work out details for booths and decorations.

Tech Exes Will Convene Friday

Tech Tech Exes will get together at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Patio Room of Holiday Inn to recognize the chapter here.

Dale Evans, assistant football coach, will be the speaker, and area officials, as well as ex-student association representatives, will be here for the event. The meeting is part of the traditional April gathering of Texas Tech exes around the world. Frank Wenz, chairman, urged Tech exes who have not been contacted to come to the meeting. More than 100 tickets ($1) have been sold thus far.

equipment stolen from the H-FI Shop was found.

Jacobsen said the three murder victims and the two survivors were forced to drink a liquid drain cleaner. He noted that a recent television program depicted a crime in which such an agent was used to silence witnesses to a robbery.

BULLET IN BRAIN

Courtney Naisbitt, 16, of Ogden, a shop employe whose mother was slain, remained unconscious and in critical condition with a bullet lodged in his brain.

Orren W. Walker, 43, of Ogden, whose son was killed in the robbery, was in fair condition at another hospital. He has superficial gunshot wounds, burns from the drain cleaner and an eardrum punctured when one of the assailants kicked a pen into his ear.

The dead were Sherry Michelle Ansley, 18, of suburban Washington Terrace; Carolyn Naisbitt, 52, of Ogden; Carolyn Walker, 20, son of Orren Walker.

The two parents had gone separately to the store to determine why their children had not returned from work.

Miss Ansley, whose body was found nearby, had been raped, an autopsy showed.

Pierre and Andrews were on their first Air Force assignment and were attached to the 1550th Organizational Maintenance Squadron as flightline helicopter mechanics.

Officers said Andrews owned a van which they seized as evidence Wednesday. They said Pierre had rented the garage in which $24,000 worth of stereo

Kissathon 'Far Out'

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Louise Heath and Vincent Torro had been kissing for 96 hours and 32 minutes, except for a five-minute break every hour, when their last competitors unclenched and dropped out.

"Far out," said Torro, 34, as the kissathon ended Wednesday and he and his partner were declared the winners. "Oh, I love him so much," said Miss Heath, 26.

Fort Lauderdale radio station WSHE sponsored the contest and offered the winners a trip to Toronto, Ont., to hear the rock music group, "The Kiss."

Torro and Miss Heath are Fort Lauderdale residents who recently moved down from Woodbridge, N.J. They outlasted 40 couples who entered the contest Saturday.

'OH, MY GOD, IT'S BELLHOUSE'

Funeral Home Kept Him Around

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — He looked so good standing up there in the storeroom, neatly turned out in a black suit and hat. Looked so good, in fact, that the funeral home decided to keep him around for 3½ years.

Martha Evans had heard about the body at the J. W. Woodward Funeral Home, but she didn't really believe the stories. So, when she was at the funeral parlor, she asked if she could see the body.

Upstairs she went. "Oh my God," she screamed. "It's Bellhouse."

Bellhouse was the family nickname for Hames Willie Evans, Mrs. Evans brother-in-law. He left home 27 years ago to become a migrant farm worker and has been missing ever since.

"I told them 'I just don't believe you got one up there that long,'" Mrs. Evans said Wednesday. "I just screamed out his name."

The perfectly preserved body, a white sheet keeping the dust from the suit, white shirt, black tie and hat, was standing upright.

PICKING PEACHES

"They asked me if I was sure it was him. I told them I'm as sure of him as if he was standing right here," he said.

When she asked to see the body, she had no idea that it might be her brother-in-law.

"After a few years, we'd just given up," she said.

Officials said Evans, who was using the name William Bryant, was picking peaches in rural Spartanburg County 3½ years ago when he died at age 70. His wife, Lula Mae of New Jersey, and the rest of the family had searched for him from Florida northward.

OUT OF THIS WAY

Despite radio and newspaper announcements, no one claimed the body. After several months, Coroner George Adams told the funeral home that the state would pay $50 for burial expenses. But the funeral home decided to keep the body.

"He looked just like he did several months before when we embalmed him, so I decided to try and see how long we could preserve him in case his relatives were finally found," said funeral home manager Earl Alexander. "It was out of the way and no one was stumbling over it."

The executive director of the South Carolina Funeral Directors Association, W. O. Folk, said the funeral home broke no law in keeping the body unburied so long.

Mrs. Evans identified the body last February but details were not announced until this week. The funeral is scheduled for July 27 to allow his relatives from California, Texas and New Jersey to attend.

Local Group At Meeting

Representatives of the Howard County Council on Aging and the Howard County Senior Citizens' Center traveled to Midland Wednesday for a mini-conference on aging.

"We're trying to coordinate and unify local programs to help the aged. This conference helped," said advisor Sherry Mullins.

About 25 Council members from this area attended the conference in Midland's First Christian Church at the Senior Citizens' Center there. Representatives of the governor's conference on aging and the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission were also present.

Bessie Love, council chairman, John Clancy, vice chairman, Mrs. Doug Williams, publicity chairman, Ms. Mullins and Nancy Easley, RSVP coordinator, represented Howard County.

This Saturday, World War I veterans will also travel to Lubbock for a district meeting. At least 20 local representatives are going, said veteran Marion Ireland.

No Decision On College Structure Is Due Soon

Any decision about financing a proposed allied health physical education-athletics building at Howard College will await additional planning and underwriting, trustees decided at their special meeting Wednesday.

Carter Johnson, representing Rauscher-Pierce of San Antonio, the college fiscal agent for the conjectured project, did not want to make a recommendation pending the resolution of several imponderables. These he listed as possibility of state or federal aid, also the possibility of private financial support. The college has in an application for $100,000 of Texas Education Agency aid, and also is seeking federal building funds.

Also, said Johnson, there is a substantial increase in tax values of the county with revival of oil production and activity. This might have some effect on projections for increasing percentage of assessment on current values, he said.

Dr. P. W. Malone said he thought more detailed plans were needed, and Harold Davis concurred, saying that "we need to sit down as a group and decide what we want, what we need and how to go about financing it."

The structure, mentioned previously only in general terms, would be designed to serve as allied health classrooms and labs, athletic offices and classrooms, gymnasium, auditorium, etc., with seating capacities flexible from 2,500 to 4,000.

The Coordinating Board for Texas Colleges and Universities has approved the building, Dr. Thomas A. Salter, college president, said.

Taking the option for more horsepower, trustees accepted the bid of Taylor Power Lawn Mower, Abilene Tractor, had proposed $1,437 and Broughton Implement $1,449 for 12-hp models. The model Taylor proposed was a 14-hp unit.

A meeting for personnel discussion, with no action contemplated, was set for Monday 5 p.m. at the college, said Dr. Charles Warren, president of the board.

Kay Proctor Leading Event

With a couple of rodeos to go, Kay Proctor, Howard College co-ed, is sitting at the top of national rankings in Intercollegiate Rodeo Association barrel racing.

She has 388 points, with the second and third place contestants showing 367 and 333 points. Last week at Lubbock, she appeared to be on her way to another first place but knocked over a barrel, which could cost her in the next weekly standings. Good showings, however, in the Hardin-Simmons University rodeo this weekend, or the last Southwest region contest at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, N.M., the following weekend, could give her an excellent chance at the national title.

In regional standings she leads, with Carolyn Road of HC in second and Tona Pettigrew tied for third-fourth, giving the team the regional leadership.

Rawleigh McCullough, whose bull stopped bucking with seconds to go, didn't place at Lubbock and slipped into second place in regional standings. Engate Hawk took third in bareback bronc riding and Randy Davis third in bull-riding at Lubbock.

Heroin Sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — Arthur Dwayne Wells, 23, of Houston was sentenced to seven years in prison Wednesday for conspiracy to distribute heroin.

Wells was arrested March 14 after selling five ounces of heroin to an undercover narcotics agent.

Add Aircraft Buffer Zone To White House Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Federal Aviation Administration says a new security buffer zone has been designated around the White House to guard against intrusion by unauthorized aircraft.

FAA Administrator Alexander Butterfield disclosed the buffer zone in a report made public by Rep. C. W. Young, R-Fla.

Butterfield's report focused on the landing of a stolen military helicopter Feb. 17 on the White House lawn.

The FAA chief said a new protective area has been designated around the White House "in which intruder aircraft will be reported to the White House security personnel.

"This, in effect, establishes a buffer area to allow protective action to be taken if necessary," Butterfield told Young.

The Florida congressman's office said the FAA would not tell how big the new buffer zone is because the information is classified. The Butterfield report gave no further details, such as how intruding aircraft would be spotted.

Butterfield said the stolen helicopter was not initially spotted by radar at nearby

Pirate Ship Suit Shapes

DALLAS (AP) — Trial of a civil suit involving broadcast equipment used aboard a pirate radio ship operating off the English coast was to open today in district court.

Attorneys for Continental Electronics Manufacturing Co. of Dallas claim the ship's owners failed to pay off $348,000 in debts chalked up by World Wide Investors through purchase of broadcast equipment for the ship. The vessel was used to broadcast commercial programming into England and Western Europe from the English Channel.

The attorneys claim CEMCO was paid $64,000 over a period of time in 1966 but never received the rest of the money for the equipment. The company retrieved the equipment when the ship docked in Florida in 1970.

Visitation Day Slated May 3

COAHOMA — Kindergarten visitation day has been set for May 3 at the Coahoma schools.

This will involve all children born between Sept. 2, 1968 and Sept. 1, 1969. All these children and parents are asked to meet at 9:15 a.m. at the Primary building.

Pre-school visitation day has been fixed for Friday, May 10, from 9:15 a.m. to 12:40 p.m. Pre-school children (who will be entering school in the autumn) should bring a birth certificate and immunization record.

$80 Million Trade Center Contract

MOSCOW (AP) — Occidental Petroleum Corp. has signed an $80 million design contract with the Soviet Union for an international trade center in Moscow.

Occidental's president, Armand Hammer, announced the signing. He said the Russians agreed to buy about $80 million worth of equipment and services for the $110 million center from the United States.

Hammer has recently negotiated agreements with the Russians for developing gas fields in eastern Siberia and four ammonia and urea fertilizer plants elsewhere in the Soviet Union.

Vessels Collide, Traffic Snarled

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Ship traffic in and out of the ports of Galveston, Houston and Texas City was seriously restricted today because of a collision and sinking.

Three vessels collided in Galveston Bay and one of them, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers dredge A. McKenzie, sank Wednesday in the main channel leading into the three ports.

The U.S. Coast Guard opened a temporary detour through an anchorage area Wednesday night.

But Coast Guard Lt. Steve Ponjes of Galveston said only ships drawing 30 feet of water or less could use the temporary detour.

"I know of at least two ships in port which can't get out," Ponjes said. "I am sure there are more. A good number of tankers which use the channel draw 39 feet or better."

"I would say it is a really serious tie-up," Ponjes said it will be several days before operations can start on lifting the sunken dredge.

The collision involved the dredge, a University of Texas research vessel, the Ida Green, and a Norwegian tanker, the Bow Elm.

Only a few minor injuries to the crew were reported. The Ida Green took the 50-member crew off the dredge before it sank.

Texas Dairymen Dispute Need For Cattle Slaughter

By The Associated Press
 Texas dairy farmers say milk industry conditions are not bad enough to draw them into a nationwide cattle-slaughtering protest organized by the National Farmers Organization (NFO) in several northern states.

The NFO does not have wide spread membership in Texas, but a representative of its 35 dairymen members in North-east Texas, Ronnie Petty of Cumby, says he knows of no protest movement among them.

NOT THAT BAD
 "We don't see any need to do it here. Things are not that bad now, and I don't know how bad they'd have to get before we would think about it," Petty said.

Other individual milk produc-ers, and spokesmen for two major dairy cooperatives said they do not believe the slaugh-ter protest is the answer to the cost-price squeeze that has pinched the industry in recent months.

HEARD TALK

A Texas Panhandle dairy-man, Louis Hingers of Canyon, said he favors an economic for-mula for setting milk prices. He said a fair formula would be "a moving factor, dependent on cost input and labor input and reflecting the overall econ-omy. That would be fair to the consuming public and to the producer."

Joe Gore of Comanche agreed that economic remedies are more effective. He said, "I don't believe in indiscriminate slaughtering of dairy cattle to create a shortage of milk. I don't think that (slaughtering) is the philosophy of people in this area or in Texas."

Ray Conway, manager for the Mid-America dairy cooperative in Sulphur Springs said he has heard no talk of a slaugh-tering protest among 200 cooperative members in the North-east Texas area. He said, "I think our organization would say that's not the way to solve something like that. We've never had any of our people who wanted to go that far."

ARISTOTLE ONASSIS CORPORATION Looking For Place To Build $600 Million Oil Refinery

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The energy crisis dramatized what New Englanders already knew: they are major consumers of oil, but they are also at the end of the pipeline, totally dependent on outside suppliers for refined petroleum products.

So when Aristotle Onassis flew to New Hampshire last December, saying he was "not a Greek bearing gifts," he clearly expected a warm welcome for his proposal to build a giant oil refinery.

BITTER SUSPICION
He encountered a mixture of enthusiasm and bitter suspicion. Despite technological improvements, refineries produce noise and odors. Environmentalists have fought suggestions that one be built along the tourist-rich New England coast.

Gov. Meldrim Thomson of New Hampshire has balked at suggestions from fellow New England governors and others that the six states join in a regional effort to solve the area's oil supply problems.

Since his inauguration two years ago, Thomson has been actively searching for someone to build an oil refinery in the state. He says it would be a boon to the economy and a solution to the energy shortage.

Industry engineers say any refinery in New England must be built near the coast to minimize the cost of piping crude oil from offshore tankers. New Hampshire is landlocked except for an 18-mile strip of rocks and beach that touch the Atlantic in the southeast corner of the state.

Five major oil companies have looked at the area and gone away, but Onassis decided it was worth trying. He had the unqualified backing of Thomson and of William Loeb, publisher of the Manchester Union Leader, the state's largest and quite powerful newspaper.

New Hampshire has relatively little land-use legislation to protect the environment and ecology of the seashore. And there is no personal income or sales tax in the state.

NECESSARY EVILS
Official studies indicate that the wording of the state's real estate tax law would exempt most of a refinery complex from property taxes, and tax revenue most likely would be derived from the state's 7 percent tax on corporate profits—if the refinery makes a profit.

Industry spokesmen say refineries generally are the least profitable link in the oil producing and marketing chain. Onhe called them "necessary evils that the companies are forced to build only because they can't sell crude oil at gas stations."

Onassis became a millionaire at 25 by shipping oil, not refining and marketing it. One of millions since by putting together one of the largest independent tanker fleets in the world.

Twenty years ago, Onassis signed a deal with the king of Saudi Arabia that would have guaranteed him the right to transport at least 10 per cent and as much as 80 per cent of that oil-rich Arab nation's crude production. Several major oil and shipping companies, with the aid of the United States and Britain, combined forces to make him break the contract that would have given him a stranglehold on the market.

MAKING MONEY
Onassis continued to make money on his fleet by putting some tankers under long-term charter to the major oil companies and retaining others for the "spot market," hiring out ships to haul a single cargo on a single trip.

Industry representatives say the spot market can be extraordinarily profitable but also risky. "You can lose your shirt if you build a supertanker, and then can't keep it full," said a spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute.

In 1968, Onassis tried again to guarantee constant cargoes for his tankers by promising to build a refinery and power complex for his native Greece. In exchange for building the $400 million plant, he would have had exclusive control over the refinery's oil shipments.

But the deal fell through two years ago when Onassis couldn't deliver a total financing package or assure the refinery a source of low-priced Arabian crude oil.

CRUDE CHEAP
Olympic's proposal for New Hampshire would be even more expensive—an estimated $500 million for a 400,000 barrel-per-day complex—but with it Onassis would get a deepwater port on the Atlantic capable of servicing the highly efficient supertankers.

There has been talk, sometimes encouraged and sometimes denied by Olympic, that Onassis is willing to offer Saudi Arabia or some other oil-producing nation a substantial interest in the refinery in exchange for a guaranteed supply of crude and an assurance of business for his ships.

With the exception of a few American-flag carriers that Onassis built to settle a court case 20 years ago, virtually his entire fleet of about 70 ships sails under so-called "runaway" flags or flags of convenience. That means they are registered in countries that don't tax or regulate them.

"If I had the fleet and the contracts in the Middle East," one industry insider said, "I'd buy the crude cheap at one end and resell it to myself when it gets to the States so I could write off the refinery operation and take the profits on my runaway ships."

HOUSTON (AP) — A Republican state legislative candidate was shot to death Monday night in what police said may have been a planned murder.

Jack D. Waite, 41, a commercial television film producer and land developer, was shot several times in the back as he ran from his home. His body was found about 200 feet from his house and in front of an oil tool plant.

Waite was an unopposed Republican candidate for state legislative district 82 in northwest Houston. He had made an unsuccessful City Council race last fall against incumbent Larry McKaskle.

Homicide detective Chuck Lofland said someone apparently broke into Waite's home through a back window and surprised Waite when he arrived. The police report said Waite apparently fled and ran toward the tool plant that was open but that there was indication he had earlier been bound or handcuffed in that there were marks on his wrists.

The only clue police reported were four .380-caliber shells found in the street between the house and the plant.

Lofland said the one-story frame home where Waite, a bachelor, resided was filled with guns, cameras, and sound recording equipment but that investigators had been unable to determine whether anything had been stolen. Waite's pockets were empty and he wore no jewelry.

Jobless Benefits
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is being urged to act quickly on legislation that would provide another $1 billion in unemployment benefits for people out of work in areas suffering high joblessness.

Ways and Means should move swiftly on approving this measure "to help relieve the impact of unemployment, which has reached critical proportions," Rep. Marvin L. Esch, R-Mich. said today.

Esch is a member of the House Labor Committee and the sponsor of the benefits bill, which has Nixon administration backing.

In testimony prepared for the opening round of House hearings on the legislation, Esch said: "It would be far better to move forward with (this bill) than to attempt to include provisions for the jobless in the energy bill, which could be a long time reaching the President's desk."

Two parked cars managed to hit each other on the east parking lot at the high school Wednesday morning.

Police said a parked car belonging to Benny Marquez, 2106 Morrison, was struck by a rolling parked car belonging to Paul Van Shetty, 709 Washington.

Texas' Transportation Woes Bother Briscoe

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe's executive assistant told a special transportation council Wednesday that nothing ranks higher in the governor's mind than solving Texas' transportation problems.

The Interagency Transportation Council agreed to schedule a series of meetings, starting in June, for Texas mayors and others to discuss improving the state's transportation system.

"Nothing is more on the governor's mind than solving the transportation problems of the state," said Charles Purnell.

He said the "Arab sheiks made the energy crisis apparent to all of us—the crisis was there, but it was not apparent to us until they turned off the tap last October."

"It is my belief," added Purnell, "that we will never have a surplus of gasoline in this country—at least for many, many years."

"This doesn't mean that Texans will get out of their autos altogether, but there must be viable alternatives to the private automobile. The Texan is not getting out of his auto, he's just not getting in it, traffic has declined," Purnell said.

Mass transportation, "which seemed until a few years ago a New York or Philadelphia matter is really now a Texas matter," he said. "It is no longer a question of whether funds are necessary to support mass transportation, but how much."

Executive director James Rose of the governor's division of planning coordination said the series of meetings should enable the executive branch to develop a proposed state transportation policy for consideration by the 1975 legislature.

ODESSA — Odessa College will host a workshop Monday for some 100 West Texas college financial aid directors and their staffs.

Dallas Man Is Under Bond
James Haynes of Dallas was placed under a $1,500 bond here today charged with car theft after he was brought back to Big Spring from Baton Rouge.

Detectives Alvis Jeffcoat and Avery Falkner brought him back in connection with the theft of a car at the Holiday Inn. Judge John Coffee set the bond.

IN SEARCH OF REFINERY SITE — Aristotle Onassis is welcomed to New Hampshire by Gov. Meldrim Thomson, left, on a visit last December to promote plans to build an oil refinery in the state. Thomson had been actively seeking a refinery in the state, but voters in Durham, Onassis' choice location, turned it down.

Extortion Try On Manager Of Santa Fe Railway Flops

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Federal agents arrested an Amarillo man Wednesday in an extortion attempt on the local manager of the Santa Fe Railway, the FBI reported.

The arrested man was identified by the FBI as Robert Wallace Knight, 45.

J. Gordon Shanklin, FBI agent-in-charge of the Dallas office, said Knight was arrested on a complaint charging an attempt to obstruct, delay, and affect commerce by extortion.

Shanklin said Knight was arrested while making a phone call from a pay phone to the home of F. N. Stuppi, manager of the Santa Fe Railway office in Amarillo.

Stuppi received a note put of his doorstep April 15 demanding $150,000, Shanklin said. The note said that if the money was not delivered, trains from Los Angeles to Chicago would be wrecked.

Stuppi reported the extortion note to the FBI.

Shanklin said Stuppi received another phone call last Friday at his office and another Wednesday morning at his home giving him instructions on how and when to make the payoff.

"We were able to catch the man while he was giving instructions," Shanklin said.

Knight was to be arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Robert Sanders.

Stuppi declined to comment on the investigation and the arrest. He said only that Shanklin had conducted the investigation personally.

Choosy Thieves Split The Scene
"A jug or wine, a loaf of bread and thou . . ."

Order Reinstatement Of Lie Test Fireman

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court, divided 5-4, Wednesday ordered the reinstatement of an Abilene fireman who was fired for refusing to take a lie detector test about a stolen pickup truck he had purchased.

Fire Chief D. C. Musick had no authority to order such a test about matters unrelated to Senior Fireman Tommy J. Talent's duties as a firefighter, the high court's majority opinion said.

Case records reflect that Talent asked police to inspect the truck after learning that a number of stolen vehicles were being sold in the Abilene area. Officers determined the truck was stolen and charged him with receiving and possessing stolen property.

"The record does not disclose that Talent was ever indicted or convicted of the crime," the court noted.

The Firemen's and Policemen's Civil Service Commission in Abilene dismissed Talent Sept. 26, 1972 after he refused to obey Musick's order to take a lie detector test.

Legal research disclosed no authority for a fire chief to compel his subordinates to take such examinations "of their character after employment."

the court said. "A fire chief is not a law enforcement official and has no authority to order a lie detector test to enforce the criminal law," the court said.

This does not mean, the court said, that lie detector tests cannot be used "when there is cause to believe a public employee has performed his official duties illegally."

In his dissenting opinion, Associate Justice Tom Reavley said the people have a right to expect their firemen to be of good moral character.

"If he is a dishonest person, the city of Abilene does not want him staying at their fire station or coming into their homes and stores. This is their right, and in my opinion fireman Talent's rights must accede thereto," Reavley said.

VA Physicians Help Survey

The eight physicians and other selected health professionals from the Veterans Administration Hospital are participating in the largest group medical learning experience and self evaluation ever held in this country.

They are joining more than 20,000 other physicians throughout the country in almost 400 hospitals who are taking part in a unique television video-tape program, "The National Antibiotic Therapy Test."

The 80-minute program was given on videotape by the Network for Continuing Medical Education, an independent television service linking medical schools and hospitals throughout the nation. NCME is supported by Roche Laboratories. The VA Hospital in Big Spring has been using this continuing medical education service for several years.

Dr. Harold C. Neu, head of the Division of Infectious Diseases, Department of Medicine at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, who helped prepare the test, said that "this is actually a learning and self-assessment experience."

Nursery Complex To Provide Jobs

FORT TOWSON, Okla. (AP) — Weyerhaeuser Co. has started construction on a huge forest regeneration center near here.

The nursery, expected to produce up to 10 million Loblolly pine seedlings by late this year, will employ about 15 full-time and 50 part-time employees, officials said.

J. C. Brown Jr., vice president of the lumber firm's Oklahoma-Arkansas region, said the complex "will better enable Weyerhaeuser to meet its annual reforestation requirements in this region."

He said it is designed eventually to become a duplicate of the company's Magnolia, Ark., facility.

Brown said the last of 59 million tree seedlings were being planted this week in Arkansas and Oklahoma, including 23 million in Pushmataha and McCurtain Counties.

TRUCKERS RADIO 'What You See Is What You Get...'

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the men in the big rigs it's a chance to chat, to find out what the roads are like ahead and to warn friends of Smokey Bear.

For some Ohio prostitutes looking for customers among the truckers, it was a means of advertising.

HEADACHE And for police and the Federal Communications Commission, it's a headache.

All this involves short-wave radios carried by truckers, often unlicensed, used by many of them to help avoid state weighing stations and to learn the whereabouts of Smokey Bear — their name for police.

The states want the FCC to crack down on the truckers, creating a dilemma for the federal agency, which can monitor the conversations.

The problem is that it is illegal to divulge information learned in an intercepted radio message, so the FCC isn't sure it can tell state troopers what the truckers are doing.

And the question also has come up whether the state police themselves can monitor the truckers. The answer may be in a recent decision by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Arizona. It ruled that as a result of the 1963 Crime Control and Safe Streets Act, the Communications Act's prohibition against divulging intercepted conversations does not apply to law enforcement officers.

VICE VOICE Citizens band radio, usually called "CB," is reserved for necessary conversation to give all users a chance. The chat allowed "ham" amateur operators on other bands is forbidden by the FCC.

James C. McKinney, who heads the FCC's field monitoring, said while there is misuse of the radios by some truckers, there are many truckers who use their radios commendably to help others. They pass the word about shut-down and unsafe roads, report accidents and help motorists.

One misuse noted was by prostitutes in Ohio who pulled alongside truckers and broadcast on their frequency: "What you see is what you get..."

TOO FAR TO THE LEFT — Los Angeles Dodgers' third baseman Ron Coy goes up to try for ball hit off the bat of Philadelphia Phillies' Mike Schmidt during seventh inning of game at Dodger Stadium Wednesday night. Ball went past Coy and Schmidt was on with a single. Dodgers' shortstop Bill Russell, background, got the ball. Dodgers won, 5-3.

Martin Has Rangers Out Front in Race

By The Associated Press
The old gag used to go something like this: Washington... first in war, first in peace and last in the American League. Would you believe first in the American League? Oh, it's not really the Washington Senators; it's the Texas Rangers. And it's not really the entire American League, just the AL West. And the lead is only a tiny one-half game over the world champion Oakland A's.
But there is the transplanted franchise in first place today, p.c.m.h., thanks to Wednesday night's 3-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox... the first time the club has been in undisputed possession of first place in either Washington or Texas uniforms since 1948, according to games was the talk of New York but it was Roy White's double following a walk to Jim Mason in the seventh inning that produced the winning run. Thurman Munson hit a two-run homer for the winners.
White Sox 7, Brewers 2
Eddie Leiba, hitless in 12 previous at-bats, singled in what turned out to be the winning run with his first hit of the season.
Orioles 4, Angels 3
Don Baylor doubled home the eventual winning run in the eighth inning and reliever Bob Reynolds choked off a California uprising in the ninth to save the triumph for Dave McNally.
Tigers 8, Twins 4
Jerry Moses and Aurelio Rodriguez delivered two-run triples for Detroit. Doubles by Gary Sutherland and Jim Northrup produced the first run in the opening inning and Willie Horton singled in another. Horton and Rodriguez singled in the sixth before Moses tripled and Rodriguez slammed his triple in the seventh.

LOUISIANA DRAW MEET IS SCHEDULED SUNDAY

The third in a series of nine Big Spring Golf Association membership tournaments will be held at the Municipal course Sunday, starting at 1 p.m.
This will be a Louisiana Draw type of meet. Entry fee will be $3 and the entries will be shooting for merchandise awards.
In order to qualify for the Grand Tournament at the end of the season, entries must play in at least five BSGA-sponsored meets.
A shotgun start will be used to get the field away, according to pro Charley Brantley.
Plans are being shaped up for the annual BS Bmy Partnership Tournament, scheduled May 45. Entry will be $30 per team. There will be two divisions of competition, one for scratch players and the other for handicap entries.

Helms, Roberts Dazzle Cards Behind Astros

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "You can't be an eighth place batter and go up there looking for a certain pitch," the Houston Astros' Tommy Helms asserted.
To prove his point, Helms took his cuts Wednesday night and wound up a hitting hero in the Astros' 9-4 romp past the St. Louis Cardinals.
He collected three singles and a double while driving in four runs and afterward seemed amused by his lofty .360 batting average.
"If you're too choosy you'll be dead," noted the scrappy second baseman, who keyed an 11-hit Houston attack from the bottom of the order.
"I've been considered a bad ball hitter anyway," he added. "You've got to have a certain amount of luck. Me, I'd rather be lucky than good."
In a more serious vein, Helms conceded an adjustment last year in his batting style has made him a lustier hitter.
"I started pulling the ball more," he said. "In the eighth spot I think you have a lot of disadvantages because you get walked in a lot of situations."
"It's hard to keep from being anxious," observed Helms, who rocketed his average from a .316 level at which it stood before the game.
The batting spree by Helms was accompanied by his two runs and another salvo in the attack, a home run hit by left-hander Dave Roberts, 3-2, who pitched 7 2/3 innings.
After the Astros jumped on Cardinals starter Lynn McGlothen, 2-1, for two runs in the second, the tall Roberts belted a McGlothen curve over the right field wall.

Rebels Decision Devils, 5 To 4

Ray Montgomery hit a home run in a losing cause as the Rebels edged the Devils, 5-4, in National Little League play here Wednesday evening.
The Devils' outfield the Rebs, 11-8, but were victimized by four blunders afield. Karl Berry was the winning pitcher, Mike Madry the loser.
Montgomery's home run arrived in the third with a mate aboard.
Weldon Nichols of the Rebels smashed three singles while his team-mate, Mike Ballentine, accounted for a double and a single.
The win was the first for the Rebels in two league starts. They return to play Monday night against the Lions. The Mike Domino and a single for Others collecting Rockets were Keith Wilson, hot doubles, Ron Ho Yarbrough.

Steer track coach Glenn Petty tells me I didn't miss much by not catching the regional meet in Lubbock last weekend. He says it's the worst organized meet he's seen since the last regional meet in Lubbock a year ago.

Petty said one meet official made two mistakes at once when he disqualified an El Paso team for dropping the baton on the mile relay, refusing to let them finish the race. Also in the mile relay, Burgess runner broke through two runners (one was a Steer) and though the red flag went up, the meet director said it wasn't sufficient contact to warrant a disqualification. Burgess went on to win the race with the Steers third in 3:27.

The Steer boss also complained about the stadium itself ("The stands were real low all around the track. No one could see"), and that results were always announced much too late, if at all.

"Really, Donald (Walters) didn't know if he'd won the 440 until 30 minutes after the race was over. It was pretty bad," Petty said. He also heard several complaints about the starter, who scratched a relay team and Permian hurdler Steve King with two false starts and had plenty during the day.

Incidentally, Petty and Walters leave for Austin Friday for the state meet, where Walters will be the only Steer athlete left in the spring competition. Walters, a sophomore, will have to hustle to score in the 440, but Petty thinks he has a chance.

The speedy kid has improved semi-unbelievably since the season started, and he's sort of gone beyond expectations. He ran a 52.6 during qualifying action at Fort Stockton's Comanche Relays Feb. 22, and last week's 49.5 meant a three-second comedown. Petty traces the turnaround back to March 23 and the Canyon Reef Relays where Walters amazed himself by winning for the first time.

The story on Ricky McCormick is a little more disappointing. McCormick didn't lose a race until he'd already sacked up the Dist. 5-AAAA mile crown, but then he got sick — a slight case of pneumonia — and ran one of his worst times at regional, a 4:30.0, good only for fourth place. Petty only found out this week that McCormick had lost eight pounds during the illness, not something that a 118-pounder can really afford to shed. McCormick, a junior, has already begun thinking about next fall's cross country action, however and hasn't found much time for brooding.

Big Spring's football Steers are getting ready to start spring training Monday, and it could be for the last time. Superintendents are expected to vote on the matter of Class AAAA spring training this year, and though most coaches swear by the off season work, the drills will probably go down the drain.

Chris Smith Is Star In Victory

Chris Smith led the Rockets to a 13-8 victory in International Little League play here Wednesday evening, pitching a one-hitter and driving out a home run and a single himself. Victims were the Comets.

Mike Domino had a double and a single for the winners. Others collecting hits for the Rockets were Gregg Smith and Keith Wilson, both of whom had doubles. Ron Hovda and Mark Yarbrough.

Smith had control problems in the fifth and the Comets mounted a mild threat. Bobby Boggs unloaded a double in that round for the Comets but the fire went out shortly thereafter.

The Rockets banged a total of eight hits and Smith crossed the plate four times for the winners.

HARD DRIVING CELTIC — John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics drives in hard during first half in Wednesday's game with the New York Knickerbockers in Boston Garden during their NBA playoff game in Boston. Bill Bradley of Knicks is behind Havlicek. The Celtics won 105 to 94 and advanced to the National Basketball Association's championship playoff round against the Milwaukee Bucks.

Celtics Gain Finals In NBA Playoffs

BOSTON (AP) — The road back has been a long haul since Bill Russell retired as player-coach and a dynasty crumbled in 1969, but the Boston Celtics are ready once again to challenge for the National Basketball Association championship.

The Celtics advanced to the NBA playoff final for the first time since they won the title five years ago by defeating the New York Knicks 105-94 Wednesday night, taking the best-of-7 Eastern Conference series 4-1.

Now they move into a showdown with the mighty Milwaukee Bucks, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The first two games in the best-of-7 series will be played in Milwaukee Sunday afternoon and Tuesday night. Games No. 3 and 4 are scheduled for Boston May 3 and 5.

"It means a lot to beat the Bucks, but it is just another step along the way," Boston captain John Havlicek said. "Against the Bucks we're going to have to be on the run constantly. They like to set up their plays. As for Jabbar, maybe we'll have to let him get his points and try to shut off the others from scoring."

Havlicek, who played on six NBA championships in Boston during the heyday 1960s, was at his best against the Knicks. The Celtics thus avenged their elimination in the same playoff series last year when their team leader was injured. Hondo scored 33 points in the wind-up, averaging about 30 in the five games.

Tommy Heinsohn, who helped build the Boston dynasty as a player, is leading the Celtics as coach into the NBA finals for the first time.

The Knicks threatened to extend the series with Boston, taking a 52-45 halftime lead. However, the Celtics shook off foul trouble with a third-period spur, capped by two three-point plays by Dave Cowens for an 80-79 advantage.

Then Havlicek and Cowens took complete charge in the fourth period and the Celtics exploded for an easy triumph.

The Stars went all out at bat to Maul Cabot, 14-9, in American Little League play here Wednesday night. Two big innings, the first and fourth, did it for the Stars. The Stars started off with five tallies in the first and added seven in the fourth.

Oscar Garcia won his first mound decision for the Stars. Morgan Wise of the Cabots and Darrell Martin of the Stars clouted doubles while the winners' Tracy Spence drove out a triple, one of two hits he had. Martin connected safely three times for the Stars. Cabot 006 012-9 3 3 Stars 520 70X-14 8 1 Winner — Oscar Garcia (1-0); loser — Richard Moncus (0-1).

Local Track Team In Regional Meet

ABILENE — Big Spring High's girls track team, in its first year of competition, will shoot for Region I-AA honors this weekend at Abilene Christian College's Elmer Gray Stadium.

The fem runners of Coach Sharon Green will have three relay teams in action, plus six individual spots in the competition. The girls will be hoping for places in the state meet, as the top two finishers in each event advance to the state carnival in Austin May 9-10.

The locals have high hopes for their 880-yard relay entry, which has a season best of 1:48.9, and also the 440-yard relay unit which has run 51.3. Dale Johnson, Deborah Hurrington, Carolyn Earl and Annie Mitchell make up the 440-yard unit, while Warren, Earl, Helen McAlister and Michelle Couvillion run on the 880-yard quartet.

Making up the mile relay squad, which has run 4:37.5, will be McAlister, Linda Lester, Ruth Knight and Cathy Brashers.

Mitchell will also be competing in the 100-yard dash, with a best of 11.9 to fall back on, and the 60-yard dash, with a top effort of 7.6.

Couvillion and Warren will be entered in the 220-yard dash. Warren, running the 220 for the first time in the district meet last week, won with a 25.7 and Couvillion, a freshman, legged a 25.8.

Ann Nichols will wear Sands' colors in the shot put at Levelland. She tossed the shot 30-4 1/4 to finish just behind winner, Elaine Freeman of Loop. Elaine's best effort was 31-0.

The Big Springers will also have two field event hopefuls, Knight in the discus and McAlister in the triple jump. Knight has thrown 89 feet, while McAlister's top effort has been 32-0 1/4.

Two Mustangs In Regional

ACKERLY — Coach Robert Barr of Sands High School is taking two girls to the Region I-B Track and Field Meet in Levelland Saturday.

First and second place finishers there qualify for the State Meet.

Erinda Calvio will represent Sands in both the 100 and 880 yard runs. Erinda finished second to Cardona of Dawson in the district 100, at which time she was timed in 12.5.

She also ran a 2:48.0 in district to place second in the 880. Later in a regional qualifiers' meet in Eldorado, Erinda was timed in 2:41.0.

Ann Nichols will wear Sands' colors in the shot put at Levelland. She tossed the shot 30-4 1/4 to finish just behind winner, Elaine Freeman of Loop. Elaine's best effort was 31-0.

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Dr. C. Darwin Jurs rolled into town the other day for a three-week stop in his transient medical practice.

DODGE RAMCHARGER FOR 1974 Drive case is standard

Dodge Truck Philosophy Renewed In Ramcharger

The Dodge Truck philosophy of introducing a quality, well thought out product when it is ready, has again been renewed with the introduction of the 1974 Ramcharger.

The 106-inch wheelbase, full-time, four-wheel drive sports utility vehicle is equally at home on surface roads or in rugged off road conditions.

"Although other four-wheel drive sports utility vehicles are on the market, we have taken advantage of our late entry to improve upon the state of the art in many ways," said Dewey Ray, owner of the Dewey Ray Inc., 1607 E. 3rd, here.

"We surveyed owners of existing four-wheel drive units, discovered what they liked and what they did not like, and tailored the Ramcharger to fit their needs," he said.

"This philosophy worked to the advantage of Dodge in the compact van and wagon market, and we feel the same will apply to Ramcharger," Ray continued.

"In 1971 we introduced our Sportsman Wagon, after other compact vehicle... we're now number one in that segment. We did not rush into the market, but the added time spent on these vehicles was worthwhile in added product value, innovative design, and engineering, as evidenced by the public's buying preference of Dodge vans and wagons," said Ray.

"Our record of product innovation and refinements over the last four model years in unparallel in the industry and we intend to continue this practice," he said.

"Beginning with the new vans and wagons, Dodge Truck has followed in rapid succession with a new maxi-van and maxi-wagon; a front section compact; a completely redesigned pickup; a dual rear wheel front section compact for mini-motorhomes; the industry's first Club Cab pickup; a new long conventional heavy-duty truck; a new motorhome chassis; and

REAL EXAM

The doctor visits 15 towns and cities in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin each year to give medical examinations to about 1,000 railroad employees involved in the last traveling medical car in the United States.

"It's a real exam, not just looking to see if a man is warm," Jurs said. He conducts general physicals and heart examinations and tests workers' eyesight, color-sense and hearing. Mrs. Jurs serves as medical assistance and record-keeper.

Jurs, 72, practiced medicine in Milwaukee from 1933 to 1968, specializing in endocrinology and nuclear medicine.

"The job just got out of proportion and I was losing the paperwork war," he said. After a short-lived retirement he decided to go railroading in 1970.

It was not a new experience. As a teen-ager he worked with machinists and boiler-makers on the Milwaukee Road, a Wisconsin railroad.

Jurs, his wife and their cat spend nine months a year on the rails. The other three are spent at their Florida home while the traveling doctor's office is being cleaned up and readied for the next outing.

Blinded Vet Wins Award

A blinded World War II veteran who is chief of the Veterans Administration Blind Rehabilitation Program in Washington, D.C., has been selected as one of the 10 winners of the Outstanding Handicapped Federal Employee of the Year Award for 1973.

Russell C. Williams lost his sight as the result of injuries received in combat while he was with the 83rd Infantry Division in France in 1944.

Under his leadership, VA rehabilitation for blinded veterans has made great strides, increasing in size, scope, and effectiveness.

Named VA's first chief of Blind Rehabilitation in 1948, he established the first of the agency's three Blind Rehabilitation Centers soon afterward, at Hines, Ill. He transferred to the VA Central Office in Washington in 1959.

Williams' work through the years has resulted in today's wide-spread use of the "long cane" by the blind, enabling them to hold jobs, travel, and function independently.

More recently, he coordinated establishment by VA and the Blinded Veterans Association of a joint program to aid blinded veterans and to acquaint veterans with them.

Williams also is an advisor for VA-funded research and development of special reading devices, aids such as the new braille cane, etc. He is the third VA employee selected as a winner and among the six finalists from VA ranks in six years of the award program.

Bids will be received to 1 p.m. May 9 for the construction of a new post office building in Garden City, Robert L. McCoy, manager of the San Antonio postal district, has announced.

501 New Lawyers

AUSTIN (AP) — A total of 501 new Texas lawyers will be licensed Monday by the State Supreme Court.

Three separate ceremonies will be held because of the size of the group. Chief Justice Joe R. Greenhill will administer the oath to the three groups and Lloyd Lochridge, Austin, president-elect of the State Bar of Texas, will welcome them into the legal profession.

Responses will be given by the three who made the highest grade in the January bar examination—John M. Erskine Jr., University of Houston Bates School of Law, 90.75 grade points; Charles M. Ginnings, University of Texas Law School, 89; and Herbert H. Ritchie, UT Law School, 88.75.

Interest Mounting Here In Annual Paint Show

About 20 halter classes and 15 performance classes will be judged in the 13th Annual Big Spring Paint Horse Show beginning noon Saturday in the Rodeo Bowl.

At least 126 entries must compete before the event qualifies as a class A show, but the show's directors, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams, are fairly certain enough entrants will compete.

A feature of Big Spring since 22 horses were entered in the first show, the event features roping and cutting classes ($20 entry fee) and a "color" class (specialty) besides the halter and performance classes ($10 fee).

Entrants are expected from all adjoining states. "We've had a lot of interest, perhaps more than in past shows. About 20-25 people have called in to sign up from as far as Oklahoma and El Paso, and many more will sign up on show day. They can sign up as late as their class starts," Williams said Tuesday.

There will be adult and youth divisions with $5 fee for color and youth classes. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded in each class besides awards to grand and reserve. All around awards will also go to the high point horses in adult and youth classes.

In calf roping and cutting, cash awards will be presented to class winners. The show is open free to the public and concession stands will be there.

"This is the oldest annual paint show west of Fort Worth, and we're proud of it. We have a good judge, Charles Williams, of Arlington and a fine Ring Steward, Charles Phillips of Big Spring. Should be one of the outstanding shows in the Southwest. We have had some of the largest in this area," Williams added.

There will be another show, the 11th Annual Post Paint Horse Show on the Rodeo Grounds, in Post starting at noon, Sunday. Write: Floy Richardson, Rt. 1, in Post for information.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the conviction and 101-year prison sentence assessed Harry Ray Powers in the Nov. 30, 1970 shooting of Gordon Bengston.

SLASHED THROAT

The court said the trial judge in Eastland, where the case was taken on a change of venue from Brownwood, should have granted a defense motion to delete from Powers' statement all references to a burglary committed after the killing.

"For the admission of the extraneous offense, upon which the state clearly need not have relied for conviction, the judgment is reversed and the cause is remanded (for a new trial)," the court said.

Case records show Powers, a 23-year-old sailor on leave, met Bengston at a private club in Brownwood and later drank with him at a bar on Lake Brownwood. Returning to Brownwood, they pulled off on Baptist Encampment Road and stopped to urinate. Powers car, a station wagon borrowed from his sister, would not start. Powers said Bengston repeatedly complained about being stranded. Powers stabbed and slashed Bengston's throat.

STOLE WIGS

Medical testimony was that death came from the knife wounds in Bengston's throat. Powers said in his statement he caught a ride to Brownwood and broke into a women's clothing store where he took some wigs, pantyhose, a dress, perfume and some coins.

The next morning he caught a cab and returned to Baptist Encampment road to get his sister's car. Police already were there and arrested him initially for drunkenness and later charged him with murder after he gave his statement.

"At the time he was booked at the jail, it was discovered he was wearing pantyhose under his clothes," the high court noted.

Archer Parr Trial Booked

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The perjury trial of Duval County Judge Archer Parr is scheduled to begin in federal court here Monday.

A jury was selected Tuesday afternoon, U.S. Dist. Judge D.W. Suttle will preside.

Parr is the nephew of South Texas political figure George Parr, 73, who has been convicted in Corpus Christi of tax evasion. He is awaiting sentencing. The county judge is charged with six counts of perjury before a federal grand jury probing George Parr's business dealings.

Archer Parr is accused of lying to the grand jurors about $121,000 in payments from the Duval County Conservation and Reclamation District for legal services.

Both Archer Parr and Benavides Mayor Octavio Saenz were indicted on perjury charges. Charges against Saenz were dismissed and he was reindicted. Jury selection for the Saenz trial is scheduled for July 15.

Good Buys At Markets

By JO BRIGHT
There are many good buys in grocery stores this month and among the plentiful market basket items are apples, avocados, oranges, grapefruit, celery, onions, tomatoes and carrots.

Served separately, or in varied combinations, they provide the makings of refreshing and tasteful salads. Bananas and pears can add variety, with color coming from strawberries which are just beginning to show up on produce counters.

This is a period of egg abundance, so mark them down as a good buy, and chicken (always a favorite with the entire family) remains one of the best bargains around.

Lettuce and cabbage are in good supply at most points, with good specials being found some days on cabbage. Cucumbers and peppers are available but not too attractively priced as yet.

Many Texas markets provide specials on beef and pork regularly, turkey is reasonably priced, and spring lamb is available at some markets.

Take advantage of the fruits that are available and try one or more of the following recipes.

Doctrine Of Impartiality

Members of the press who object to the idea of being used as an investigatory arm of law enforcement agencies sometimes need to be reminded that the best role a newsman can take is one of impartiality.

Advocacy journalism aside, most responsible media organizations demand that their employees not participate in a news story. This principle was rightly pointed out recently with the suspension of an Associated Press photographer.

During an evidentiary hearing at the trial of two American Indian Movement leaders in St. Paul, Minn., the photographer testified that he had given information on one occasion to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents at a road-block outside Wounded Knee during the Indian occupation there. He said he gave FBI agents details concerning the number of people in the village and statements made at a press conference by Indian leaders.

The photographer was suspended from duty by

Wes Gallagher, president and general manager of the AP. Gallagher said that the "photographer Jim Mone acted improperly as an impartial newsman. It is against Associated Press policy for any AP man to be involved in any way in any news story."

That appears to be a goal all media representatives should strive to attain. And while the press is attempting to retain this impartial position, law enforcement agencies such as the FBI should honor that position and do their own investigatory work, which, except in the rarest of cases, will produce just as much fruit as the short-cut method of using news sources.

Barges To Central Texas?

Well, what's this? The U.S. Department of Commerce has approved a $66,363 grant for a study to help determine the economic feasibility of developing the Brazos for barge traffic. The project will consider the river from Waco to Freepport.

The Brazos River Authority will provide $22,121 to meet part of the $88,484 cost of the study, which, if it can be done for that, will set something of an all-time record for economy in studies. (Of course, the big expense will come when engineering an environmental studies will be initiated if the initial study indicated feasibility.)

For two generations at least, efforts have been pushed to make the Trinity River navigable from Fort Worth-Dallas to the Gulf. Wouldn't it be something if the Brazos water highway came first. So far as we are concerned, there isn't a lot of difference from here to either point, except that any plan for Waco could be extended considerably upstream without too formidable problems.

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

They have a.m. and p.m. for a reason. I think. It's supposed to tell us what part of the day it is. I don't know why they didn't just number the hours 24 and then we'd have known that 13-24 o'clock was after lunch.

Lots of people confuse the 12 o'clock noon and the 12 o'clock midnight.

FOR INSTANCE, recently on the police blotter, it listed an armed robbery at 12:10 p.m. That would be in the lunch hour. So we wrote it as a high-noon robbery and had a headline to that effect.

At the last minute, somebody insisted that it happened at night, so we quickly changed it to a midnight robbery and a midnight headline was quickly swung into place.

But we get some funnier than that. One church announced a special Lenten luncheon at 12:15 a.m. and that is quite late for a luncheon — a little after midnight.

The confusion arises in that people think of p.m. as afternoon and evening so they like to tack p.m. on the midnight hour.

So we get mistakes, such as, they pulled the truck out of the ditch at 12:20 p.m. but it was too dark to see very well. If it was that dark at 12:20 p.m. (which I insist is noon), there would have had to be a sudden eclipse.

Through the years, I've seen so many a.m., p.m. mistakes that I have to stop and think about it myself, each time.

I FINALLY devised a system. As far as the 12 o'clock hour is concerned, I try to remember that a.m., in my mind stands for almost morning so that means in the dark after midnight. P.m. in my mind stands for plenty more which means plenty more hours in the day and thus applies to the noon.

Through the years I've often been told by many editors, don't say 7 a.m. in the morning, because you're really saying 7 in the morning in the morning. Simply say 7 a.m. or 7 o'clock in the morning.

It all becomes so confusing that I almost get ready to leave out all times, but if you do that, somebody always get upset. We all live watching and gearing our lifestyle to the clock.

So "tick-tock", a.m. is from midnight on and p.m. is from noon on and please excuse the upsets. What really gets hilarious, is an activity or diary type report that will have the wrong one right in the middle of it so that it will jump from 10:10 a.m. to 10:15 p.m. to 10:17 a.m.

BUT AS FAR as editors are concerned, a.m. stands for awfully mad and p.m. stands for plenty mad when we mix them up.

Mixing them up really makes a pretty mess. Makes a pretty mess is a.m. and p.m. spelled backwards. That shows you that thinking about it will soon drive you right off your rocker. You may soon be guilty of going around and babbling — a.m., — p.m. — a.m. — p.m.

To Plow New Ground?

William F. Buckley Jr.

It has not been widely noticed that the House Judiciary Committee faces not only the question whether to impeach Mr. Nixon, but what to impeach him for. The general assumption is that he will stand trial or not depending on whether the circumstantial evidence is overwhelming that Mr. Nixon knew about the break-in, or participated in its cover-up. It is not widely enough recognized that a huge intellectual lobby has built up asking that Nixon be impeached on multifarious charges. The Judiciary Committee cannot help but feel that any failure to acknowledge these charges against Mr. Nixon is in effect to take, negatively, a historic position concerning the powers of the Executive.

CONSIDER THE question of the secret bombing of Cambodia. The American Civil Liberties Union is only one of many who hold that this is an impeachable offense. The Rodino Committee has undoubtedly discovered itself that there are a dozen precedents in American history for doing this kind of thing. But having been asked formally by the House of Representatives to establish whether Mr. Nixon has committed any impeachable offenses, inevitably the Committee will feel that not to impeach Nixon on this count is to say to future Presidents, in effect, that they may safely rely on the Cambodian precedent to bomb at will, and disguise from the people and the Congress the fact of their having done so.

INEVITABLY THERE will be Congressmen on that committee who will reason that they are best off voting impeachment, and passing the burden along to other bodies to validate or invalidate the impeachment. First, of course, the House of Representatives-at-large. Then the Senate of the United States. If the trial (should it come to that) of President Nixon is going to result, in effect, in a deliberate review of the powers of the President, we may as well consult not only the entire House of Representatives, which by failing to impeach on a particular point takes upon itself the responsibility of establishing policy for future Presidents; but also the Senate of the United States, which is in any case linked more closely by the Constitution to the making of foreign policy.

MY GUESS is that if the Committee is ambiguous on the whole Watergate business, it will be tempted not to impeach at all. But that if it is driven to impeaching for any reason at all, it will be tempted, while at it, to impeach on practically every allegation. Well, no; utter triviality would be out. If the Committee moves at all it will probably move comprehensively, inaugurating a great and historic debate on — the American Presidency.

NOW IF THIS happens, as Mr. C. Dickerman Williams of New York has pointed out, it cannot be expected that the Senate will do its business in less than one year. The trial of Andrew Johnson took almost three months. It was infinitely less complicated than any trial that would undertake to look into not only Mr. Nixon's connections with the plumbbers, and later with the Justice Department, but also into his conduct of the Cambodian war, perhaps his handling of his taxes, his authorization of individually specified security procedures . . . We are talking about a year; and whereas all the talk has been about how difficult it would be to run the government without a functioning President during the period of an impeachment trial, suddenly we are forced to ask ourselves: What are we going to do with a Senate that devotes itself for a period of a year almost exclusively to matters touching on impeachment?

It is not unlikely that Watergate will be the highway for the constitutional reform of the Executive.

"Great news! Aside from a slight touch of Inflationary Recessionitis, you're as sound as a dollar."

Con Ed Suspends Dividend

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The suspension of its quarterly dividend payment by Consolidated Edison is more than just another demoralizing blow to the stock market. The big utility is also a symbol of an embattled industry.

Environmentalists have forced delays in plant construction. The increase in energy prices caused operating costs to skyrocket. The depressed condition of financial markets prevented it from raising cash.

Moreover, its customers, who are equally pressed, have tended to become slow payers. All these facets of the utility's problems also can be found in other areas of American enterprise — the environmental haggling, inflated costs, inability to raise money, slow-pay customers, the high cost of borrowing. They are the business challenges of the day, and while businessmen are always facing and attempting to overcome challenges, many of them would agree that the set they now face makes them wonder if their abilities are sufficient.

Unlike the Penn Central and Lockheed and some airlines, which sought aid from the federal government, Consolidated Edison seeks to resolve some of its problems by transferring ownership of one or more plants to the state power authority.

Dividend consistency of that kind is what attracts investors, as opposed to speculators. Con Ed might have been an unexciting stock but it was safe and you could depend on it for steady income — until 1974.

Polyester Plan

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — A group of men was having lunch at a well-known restaurant in Washington the other day. Although they were in various professions, the men all had one thing in common. They were away from home a great deal and their wives had said they were getting fed up with it.

AMAZINGLY ENOUGH it turned out that their wives, who did not even know each other, used the identical phrases when complaining about their lot.

These included: "All I'm doing is running a hotel." "The only time I see you is when you come home to get clean laundry." "You weren't even here for your own daughter's birthday party."

IT WAS AT this juncture that Polyester, who works for a computer firm, sprung his plan.

"Our wives' main complaint," he said, "is that they have no one to talk to, which translates no one to bitch to. The reason why we're missed is that they want someone to listen to their stories and give them moral support."

We all agreed Polyester's description of our wives was accurate. "Suppose," he said excitedly, "we had a computer that could match up complaining wives with other husbands who were on the road?"

WE ALL looked goggle-eyed. "Are you suggesting wife-swapping?" Acrlan asked.

"In a sense," said Polyester, "but no hanky-panky in the bedroom. You swap wives just so that they have someone to talk to. Let me give you an illustration. I'm on my way to Boston, and I feed the computer at National Airport the arrival of my flight and how long I'll be there. I also tell the computer how many children I have, my position in the firm and salary."

"THE OBJECT of the computer would be to match me as closely as possible to my own situation at home. The computer gives me an address and phone number. At this very moment there is a man in Boston coming to Washington, D.C., and he goes to his computer and asks for an address here. He gets mine. Right?

"Okay. I get to Boston and I check into my hotel. Now remember, the success of this scheme is no hanky-panky."

"LET'S SAY my surrogate wife is Mrs. Dacron. I call her and ask when dinner is being served. I show up at the house at 6 p.m. and before I even get to hang my coat in the closet, Mrs. Dacron fills me in on the day. She tells me how lousy the kids have been behaving, what went wrong with the garbage disposal unit, how much she paid for eggs and how she can't manage a family on my salary. I get an earful."

"At this very moment the man from Boston is at my house listening to my wife doing two hours on what it's like to run a house when the man doesn't even know where the fuse box is."

"MRS. DACRON is thrilled to have someone there to let out her frustrations on, and my wife finally has someone besides the kids to talk to. She washes dishes while I watch television."

The trouble with Polyester's plan, we agreed later, is that not one of us could find a single thing wrong with it.

Saving Copper

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an attempt to save copper, Congress must first vote to change a present law requiring the cent to be made of an alloy containing at least 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent zinc. Only then would the Treasury buy the cheaper, more durable aluminum and go into production — July 1 at the earliest.

Miracle Flight

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Ten Abilene armmen say they were 20,000 feet closer to God than most folks. But for more reasons than that alone.

The Dyess Air Force Base crew was en route to Hickam Field, Hawaii, on a routine navigation training flight March 23 when their strange experience began.

The armmen were flying a C130 Hercules, a big cargo plane powered by four prop-driven engines.

THE FLIGHT 20,000 feet over the Pacific was routine until the crew was about 1,000 miles from Hickam.

At that time, the gear box pressure on No. 2 engine went to zero and Capt. Steve Harrington, the pilot, shut down the engine.

This is no big problem on the C130. That is, unless other problems come along with it.

"WE WERE FLYING at about 20,000 feet when we hit some clouds. It was just like we had flown into a snowbank," recalled T. Sgt. Fred Beach, the flight engineer.

Ice in the cloudbank began forming on the wings and nose of the big plane. Ice formed in the air intake on No. 3 engine. Copilot 2nd Lt. Mike Fukey watched the big four-bladed prop strain under its burden of ice then spin slowly to a halt. Fukey jammed the feathering button that rotated the prop blades into the wind and prevented the engine from "wind-milling."

MINUTES LATER, No. 4 engine died. "We feathered it and then I noticed that No. 1 started to go," Harrington said.

With No. 1 engine coughing and sputtering, "we nosed down to get some airspeed and try to get some steering control," he said.

The big cargo plane dived for the ocean, its engines dead, wind whistling over its ice-coated silver wings.

Harrington tried for an air start, a process whereby wind resistance turns the prop sufficiently to fire the engine into life again, similar to push-starting a car.

"NOTHING HAPPENED," Harrington said. "Then I remembered the fire handle was still out." Harrington plunged the handle to the fireball, preparatory to the restart process, and the engine sprang to life. With power supplied by that engine, No. 1 and No. 4 engines were restarted.

Harrington said there was no ready explanation for what made No. 3 engine start again, thereby permitting starting of the two other engines. He said he may have had a "divinely inspired aircraft. We tried it in the simulator and it just won't work."

Use, Or Lose Strength

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How could I gain back strength in muscles that have "gone to pot" due to arthritis? I am losing the ability to walk with crutches without extreme pain in the muscles in the thighs. I want to do this at home if possible.

Is there any hospital in my area that does treatment for this sort of problem? — Mrs. F. N.

This problem of muscular weakness from arthritis is a serious one, and I warn of it in my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis." (Booklet is available by mail; send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me, in care of the Big Spring Herald.)

It is not the arthritis as such which causes the weakness. It is the temptation, because of painful joints, to avoid exercise. The patient just doesn't want to move and you can't blame him. Just the same, it is important that the patient must move. Movement prevents "freezing" of a joint. It also prevents weakness of the muscles from disuse. These two facts are very important to anyone with arthritis.

When, as in Mrs. F. N.'s situation, muscles have lost their tone, there is no quick way of bringing them back. But if it cannot be done quickly, it still should be done slowly.

Simple home treatment would consist of massage of the muscles, which would stimulate circulation and prepare the muscles for use. Heat, in whatever form, whether a heating pad, hot bath or other method, would be helpful.

So is using the muscles as much as possible under the circumstances. It would not, in a case like that, be much, but every little bit would help. Just walking a few steps at a time would be worthwhile. Any other simple method of using the weakened muscles also would help, and day by day more activity would gradually become possible.

Isometric exercises may help — that is, pulling or pushing against some resistance (the wall, a weight, whatever). You might check your rehabilitation center.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a person is short of breath does it mean they have a heart condition and should they see a doctor or get pills for it? — Mrs. J.

It can be an indication of heart disease; but shortness of breath also can indicate some ailment involving the lungs or respiratory system. So the answer is yes, see a doctor; then wait and see whether the doctor finds something that pills will help, or whether some other treatment is indicated.

MY ANSWER

Billy Graham

Please inform me of the relationship between Christ and Mary Magdalene. J.P.

There were a group of women, who together with the twelve disciples, formed the little loyal core around Jesus in His human life and ministry. They helped in whatever ways they could while He lived, and administered the last rites to His body in death.

I'm aware that in the production "Jesus Christ Superstar," Mary Magdalene is cast as a sort of romantic interest of the Lord. That is absolutely not true, and does violence to the Gospel picture of the Lord. She entered the inner circle of Christ's friends during the Galilean ministry, and became prominent during the final days. Mary Magdalene was the last at the cross, and the first to bear witness of the resurrection. Above all, she was not the sinful woman mentioned in Luke 7.

She came into the fellowship of the believers, marked out from the rest by an exceptional experience of the Lord's healing power. To the end, she displayed unwearied devotion and undaunted courage.

The relationship between Mary Magdalene and Christ was what ours can be, loyal servant — loving Lord.

A Devotion For Today

Be doer of the word, and not hearers only. (James 1:22)

PRAYER: O God, we know You are not just "up there" — unaware and uncaring of what's going on! Use us as You continue to move in love and compassion in this world. Amen.

Community Concert Saturday

The Community Concert Association will present its final program for the season Saturday with the appearance here of Longstreth and Escosa, duo-harpists, in the Municipal Auditorium.

Admission to the 8:15 p.m. program will be by season membership only and Howard College activity cards for students.

Joe Longstreth and John Escosa have been hailed in recent years by virtue of their almost incredible record of well over 400 concerts they have played. The variety of their programming and their virtuosity have earned them countless fans throughout North America. Critics have said they not only have brought new stature to a somewhat neglected musical instrument; they have also extended the harp repertoire by commissioning new works to supplement their own impressive lists of arrangements in many styles.

Longstreth and Escosa have been lauded during their appearances at New York's Town Hall and Carnegie Hall, as well as in other major cities. Their records will be sold in the lobby during intermission.

DEAR ABBY: I wish to speak for the ugly men in this world, including myself. Ugliness is a terrible curse. It makes us ugly people feel inferior to the point where we seriously consider suicide.

Our social lives are deficient, for few people seem willing to associate with physically ugly people. Without sex appeal we miss a very important part of life that the average person takes for granted.

My ugliness is not a bodily one. I am not grossly fat or painfully thin, neither am I deformed in any way. It's facial ugliness that has caused strangers to come up to me and say: "Gee, you're ugly." That is the God's truth. Can you imagine anyone being so cruel?

Abby, you could perform a great humanitarian service if you would devote a little space to a possible solution to this problem. Or perhaps a reader who has overcome his ugliness can tell me how he did it.

DOUBLE UGLY

DEAR DOUBLE: Did it ever occur to you that "ugliness" — like beauty, could lie in the eye of the beholder? Some of the world's most attractive appealing people do not conform to the generally accepted concept of beauty, but that doesn't make them ugly.

The qualities that make one loved and wanted have nothing to do with the way his face is formed. Honesty, kindness, generosity, patience, compassion — all the virtues — can be developed. A beautiful character counts for more with people who count than physical beauty.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who watches television while making love to his wife? My husband never makes love to me in the bedroom anymore, always on the sofa in the living room so he can watch TV, too. And it's usually on the spur of the moment, which is not to my liking.

He was a lot more considerate and loving when we were dating. He's so afraid

New officers elected were Mrs. O. L. Benson, McCamey, district president; Mrs. Ruby Morris, Midland, first vice president; Mrs. Lillian Deaver, Odessa, second vice president; Mrs. Ruby Niblett, Odessa, secretary; and Mrs. Faye Jones, Sweetwater, chaplain. Mrs. Benson will be delegate to the national convention at Atlanta, Ga., in August.

The Stokes-Parker District will host the July 9-11 convention of the Texas Association of Women's and Girls' Clubs in Abilene. State president is Mrs. M. A. Tyrone of Marlin, and Mrs. Person is first vice president.

Big Springers attending the convention, other than those already mentioned, were Miss Shirley Thomas, program chairman; Mrs. Mary L. Ivery, executive board secretary; Miss Rosetta Brown, art chairman; Mrs. Clemmie Johnson, Mrs. Rosie L. Stewart, Mrs. Louisiana Jones, Mrs. Addie Perkins, Mrs. Viola Merritt, Mrs. Bessie Lankford, Mrs. Faye Warner, Glenn L. Person, Bertram Warner, W. I. Graham, Charlie Merritt, Beverly Anderson, Debra Barksdale and Kenny Franks. Among the guests was Mrs. Person's aunt, Mrs. Mahalia Blair Robinson, who came from her home in Baltimore, Md., to attend the event; and Mrs. V. Justice, state president of California.

KEYNOTER
The keynote speaker was Mrs. Dillard. In keeping with the convention theme, she pointed out many fields of endeavor in which black women have excelled since 1776, when slavery began.

"When we remember the struggle of our forebears, we should also remember the contributions blacks have made to society," she said, citing such persons as the late Ralph Bunche, former undersecretary of the United Nations and the first black to be awarded the Nobel peace prize. She urged the women to unite and work for the women's association, which was organized in 1905.

Mrs. Person, addressing the general assembly, quoted Abraham Lincoln: "I will study hard, work hard and prepare myself, for someday my chance will come, and I'll be ready." Then, she stated that no one should want to get something for nothing; to be big without taking time to work and acquire it honestly or to have a desire to always procure a top job or position without studying, going to school and preparing one's self for it.

"The world, or no one, owes you nothing," she said. "We make our own way by our attitude and perseverance. Work on yourself. Cultivate being loving, diligent, faithful, kind, decent acting and self-respecting. It's nice to be congenial, but be manly, womanly and queenly if you want to be respected."

HERITAGE

Mrs. Person advised the women to be mindful of their heritage, read about black history and invest in businesses to obtain economic freedom. "Teach children to be respectful of grownups and people in general," she continued. "Remove chips from shoulders and be an appreciative person, always aware of the other fellow's needs. Be willing to share. Tranquility is the greatest triumph. If you can win that, it will give you a new perspective on any problem and put a new sense of value into your thinking."

In conclusion, Mrs. Person expressed appreciation for the members' support during her years as district president.

The 25th annual convention will be held at Odessa in 1975.

Gay Hill 4-H's Slate Events

Ronnie Wegner presided at the Monday meeting of Gay Hill 4-H Club at the school. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Teresa Jackson, and Brent Rhoton led the 4-H motto. The group discussed method demonstrations and made plans for the district show in Lubbock in May. Refreshments were served by Teresa Jackson.

Film Traces History Of Texas Constitution

The Texas Constitution, which is being re-written at the present time, was the subject of a film shown at the 1905 Hyperion Club at the April 18 meeting in the Texas Electric Reddy Room. Mrs. J. C. Pickle and Mrs. Clement R. Jones were hostesses.

The film began with a brief history of the first constitution to the present one. The current constitution was adopted in 1876 and has been amended 212 times in nearly 100 years.

In 1919, a revised constitution was voted on by the people of Texas, but was defeated.

In Jan. 8, 1974, a new committee, numbering 37, met to start re-writing the constitution. The first thing they did was to travel over the state to talk to the people in order to find out what they want in the new constitution. Also, they have read letters and listened to telephone calls from every area of the state. When completed, the proposed constitution will be put before the people for a vote to determine whether or not there will be a new Texas Constitution.

Mrs. Granville Dawson presented the second part of the program, entitled "Reverence for Nature."

"If God thought it wise to enrich and sweeten our lives by surrounding us with the beauty and fragrance of flowers, we can be sure that he meant for us to appreciate their message and profit from them," she said.

The speaker based her talk on what she had learned from her father, a great lover of nature. She said her father's belief had been expressed in Psalms 19: "The Heavens declared the glory of God; or the firmament sheweth his handiwork."

Mrs. Dawson quoted her father as saying, "Start while young looking for the beauties of nature, and even unsightly things in many cases can become more appealing by applying your talents and having the desire to improve them."

She compared flowers that grow under unfavorable conditions to people who thrive in adverse situations.

"Nature herself assures us that nothing is ever lost with God," she said. "In the forest many things are transformed but never lost. The leaves fall, ferns wither and drop to the forest floor, birds and animals die and go into the earth as humus, and all become the life-stuff of future generations of vegetable and animal life. Water evaporates and disappears into the atmosphere, but it isn't lost — it becomes water vapor and will descend as rain to refresh the earth."

The speaker noted that when President Lincoln, in 1864, signed into law a bill to save Yosemite Valley and its giant sequoias from commercial exploitation, he set an example that was followed throughout the world.

Mrs. Miller Harris presided at the meeting, and Mrs. Clyde Angel urged members to view the current exhibit at Heritage Museum. Mrs. Lance Williamson reported that the club won six awards at the Western District convention recently in Monahans.

The next meeting will be at noon, May 16, at Big Spring Country Club with the social committee as hostesses.

Dear Abby

he's going to miss something good on television it has practically ruined our sex life.

Will you please tell me how I can get him back in the bedroom?

DISSATISFIED
DEAR DIS: Move the TV into your bedroom!

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office building. There's a woman down the hall who smokes about a pack of cigarettes a day, and she bums every one of them! She knows there are several smokers in this office, so she runs in just about every 30 minutes and asks if "anybody" has a cigarette.

I asked her why she didn't buy some, and she said: "I'm not supposed to be smoking at all, and if I buy them I'll only smoke them." (I wonder what she thinks she is doing with the cigarettes she bums off us?) Is there some real sharp answer he can give her when she comes in here to bum a cigarette?

SUCKER
DEAR SUCKER: Don't look for a "sharp" answer. Tell her if she's going to smoke she'll have to buy her own. That's sharp enough.

Judge Asks CAB To Help Settle Love Field Fuss

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge is trying to solve the airports controversy here by asking the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) to voluntarily sit down with all parties involved and discuss the fiery issue.

FEEL FREE — In a letter made public, U. S. District Court Judge William M. Taylor Jr. said he was asking the CAB to participate because "neither the cities of (Dallas and Fort Worth) nor the interstate carriers who are subject to the jurisdiction of the CAB feel free to take any step toward bringing CAB into court as a party." Taylor has ruled that Southwest Airlines may continue operating at Dallas Love Field although all other airlines, signatories to a 1968 agreement, were forced to move to the new Dallas-Fort Worth Airport. Southwest, formed after 1968, was not a party to the agreement and has claimed a move to the DFW Airport would bankrupt the small, commuter airline.

Dallas and Fort Worth have appealed the ruling to the 5th

U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

'BLATANT DEFIANCE' — In the interim, the Dallas City Council passed an ordinance banning all commercial air activities at Love Field, an action Taylor called a "blatant defiance" of his court order. Taylor then restrained the city from enforcing its ordinance.

The CAB is empowered to certify interstate airlines but intrastate carriers such as Southwest are regulated by the Texas Aeronautics Commission. In his letter to Robert D. Timm, chairman of the CAB, Taylor noted heated rivalry between Dallas and Fort Worth was buried when the two cities joined in construction of the new airport.

"At this time, however, old wounds have been reopened," he said.

Taylor said the case is not merely a local one but has at heart the interests of the air traveling public, nationally and internationally.

Exxon Leads Production

HOUSTON — Exxon was the leading producer of both crude oil and natural gas in Texas during 1973, according to an annual report published by Petroleum Information Corporation.

Exxon produced 171.4 million barrels of crude oil and 1.6 trillion cubic feet of gas in Texas last year.

Exxon's production was almost 14 per cent of the State's total oil output and 23 per cent of the total gas flow.

According to PI, Texas crude oil production in 1973 totaled 1.26 billion barrels. Texas gas production in 1973 totaled 7.3 trillion cubic feet.

Houston Lawyer Bilked Client

HOUSTON (AP) — A lawyer, Robert Amira, pleaded no contest Wednesday and was convicted of swindling a client out of $160 in a bail bond case.

Amira was given a 90-day probation sentence. He also made restitution of the money and agreed that Jim Sims, an assistant district attorney, would recommend to the State Bar of Texas that Amira's license to practice law be suspended for 90 days if the bar asks for a recommendation.

The prosecution charged that Amira was paid $160 to make bond for a man jailed on an assault charge, but did not return the money after he learned the client had already been released.

Farah Plans To Reopen Two Plants

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Plans were underway today to reopen one of two Farah Manufacturing Co. plants at San Antonio, closed last year by a boycott by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America union.

The company president, Willie Farah, said Wednesday the Alamo City plant should start partial production in mid-May.

The company reached a labor contract agreement with the ACWA on March 7. At that time Farah said he would reopen the San Antonio plants as soon as the company's sales began to pick up again after the boycott.

Wednesday's announcement was taken as an indication that the company is recovering some of the market it lost during the two-year boycott.

Farah said that former employees in San Antonio are being notified of the reopening by mail. He added he was pleased with "the helpful spirit of Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America national leadership and local level representatives."

"Response by retailers to our new lines has been tremendous," Farah said. "It is allowing us to make this move (reopen the plant) sooner than many people thought."

May 1 Special Day In U. S.

By OMAR BURLESON, M.C.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — By presidential proclamation, May 1 is designated as Loyalty Day. It is identified as a special occasion when citizens everywhere join in public, expressing their pride and unity towards preserving the institutions we possess. Several years ago the Veterans of Foreign Wars launched the recognition of this Special Day to counteract foreign and domestic threats of disloyalty.

Like prayer, loyalty should be an everyday awareness but it is good that this one day in the year we have an special awareness of allegiance, faithfulness, pride, and determination toward activating one's duty with meaningful pledges of loyalty to Country.

Several years ago the United States Congress designated May 1 for this special day. When this action was taken, it was made clear that loyalty to our Nation does live every day throughout the year. It has been so since 1775 when our forefathers first shed blood in the American Revolution to give us our cherished freedom.

Then came our Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, the American Creed, and the Pledge of Allegiance to our Flag — all of which constantly reminds us that we are always obligated to defend our heritage.

For any special program planned for next Wednesday, May 1, special kit materials can be provided by the Loyalty Day Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, whose address is National Headquarters, Broadway at 34th Street, Kansas City, Missouri 64111. This is available to anyone requesting it.

Boost Prime Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 10 major commercial banks, including the world's largest, have raised their prime lending rate to a record 10 1/2 per cent.

Analysts attributed the latest increase in the prime to high rates for short-term loans on which banks rely for their funds.

The prime is the rate banks charge their most credit-worthy corporate customers. It is not tied directly to other bank loan rates but a higher prime can also lead to increases in those rates.

Leading the list of banks raising the prime to 10 1/2 per cent Wednesday was the San Francisco-based Bank of America, the world's largest.

Others taking the step included New York's Chemical Bank, the nation's sixth largest commercial bank; Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh, 13th in size; National Bank of Detroit, 17th; and First National Bank of Boston, 18th.

Oil Firm Betting $200 Million

Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series on Texas and coal.

By PAUL REGER
Associated Press Writer

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP)—Exxon Corp., the world's largest oil company, is betting $200 million that turning coal into gas and oil is going to be an important part of the nation's future energy picture.

The corporation is, in effect, spending that kind of money to develop a machine that can economically take in coal at one end and put out pipeline-quality gas or crude oil at the other end.

Dr. R. E. Pennington, the manager of the synthetic fuel research laboratory at Exxon's refinery here, said the company has already developed the process on an experimental basis.

COAL TO GAS

The company starts construction here this year on a scaled-up version of the same process. The second plant, costing $40 million, will handle about 300 tons of coal a day and should be in operation by 1976.

Engineers will operate this experimental plant for several years, using it as a tool to complete development of a process to convert coal to gas. Only after these additional experiments, says Pennington, will Exxon be ready to proceed to a full commercial process. This will probably be sometime in the 1980s.

Such a commercial plant may well cost $500 million and Pennington notes that the long research process is essential because the stakes are so large.

SECRET

"We'd have to put down a half billion dollars for a commercial plant and you don't do that lightly," he said.

Much of the Exxon process is an industrial secret, but Pennington said that, in general, it works this way:

Coal and steam are placed in a ceramic lined pressure vessel and heated to 1,500 to 2,500 degrees at 200 to 1,000 pounds of pressure. This forces out a gas mixture of methane (as in natural gas), hydrogen, hydrogen sulfide and some other chemicals.

The mixture is fed into a cleanup processor that removes the undesirable gases. Harmless gases separated out are vented. Others, such as hydrogen sulfide, are further refined. From hydrogen sulfide, for example, the process can produce a commercial quality sulphur.

End product of the process is methane and hydrogen. These can be further processed to produce a high quality gas fuel, such as natural gas, or they can be used for liquefaction.

NOT NEW IDEA

The liquefaction process produces a synthetic crude oil that can, in turn, be refined into gasoline.

Gas and oil from coal is not a new idea. Germany, for example, fought some of World War II on gasoline produced from coal, said Pennington, "but it was a very crude technology and the price of gasoline was extremely dear."

Even under the Exxon process, he said, "gas from coal is certainly not going to be cheap."

It will be competitive, however, said the scientist, with other fuels available in the 1980s.

The very nature of coal — its expense to handle and transport — limits where a coal gasification or liquefaction plant can be located, said Pennington.

It's much cheaper to transport the finished product than it is to transport coal to an existing plant perhaps hundreds of miles away.

As a result, Pennington said, the commercial plants probably will be established near the mouth of the coal mines, and the gas or synthetic crude produced will be shipped to market.

DIRTY STUFF

Pennington said processes protecting the environment are built into the coal conversion plant design.

"Coal is a pretty dirty stuff that's awkward to handle," he said. "What we're coming out with is a very pure product at the other end."

Systems have been developed to control or re-use waste gas and heat coming from the system. Water is cleaned and recycled for steam and other uses.

About the only major disposal problem will be the inorganic ash left as a residue from the coal. This could be used as a building material or as a fill material.

Exxon officials will not eliminate Texas as a possible site, one day, for a coal gasification plant. But logic is against it.

Most of Texas coal is in the form of lignite, a fuel with a low BTU (British thermal unit) content. And most of the Texas lignite that can be easily recovered is already controlled by other industries.

GOES UP

The most likely site for coal gasification, many believe, will be the major coal areas in the Midwest and in Wyoming. Exxon has extensive holdings in both areas.

Pennington said the efficiency of the process goes up with the grade of coal.

Coal with 800,000 BTU content per ton, he said, could produce 500,000 to 600,000 BTUs in gas. In effect, one ton of such coal would produce about three barrels of synthetic oil.

Coal of this grade is not deposited in commercial quantities in Texas.

As a result, some experts think, some states which have no oil, but plenty of coal, may one day become major centers for gas, gasoline refining and petrochemicals, perhaps even eventually overshadowing the current Texas position.

Lip Service Guide Issued

LONDON (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corp. issued Wednesday a guide on how to pronounce names like Featherstonehaugh and Towcester.

It's Fanshaw, of course, and Toaster.

The guide was produced by the BBC's pronunciation unit, set up in the 1920s to rule on how words should be said over the air. Those were the days when the late Sir John Reith, the BBC's first director-general, insisted that his radio announcers wear dinner jackets behind their microphones.

The pronunciation experts said they followed "local educated usage" in deciding how a town or village should be pronounced. Local clergymen, mayors and police officers were consulted.

Thus Meopham comes out Meppam, Davenport is Daintree and Tovebridge is Tunbridge.

Two "notorious traps" are the names Maimwaring and Marstonbanks — pronounced Mannering and Marchbanks.

"It is imperative to consult the individual concerned if there are doubts about the pronunciation of a name," noted BBC.

Its new guide was issued in response to complaints by listeners and viewers that the state-chartered network was becoming slipshod in its standards of speech.

In addition, the guide said, Britain's entry into the European Common Market made it "even more important for the BBC to be accurate in the pronunciation of European languages and names, both as a matter of courtesy to Europeans and as a means of accustoming listeners to the correct pronunciation."

Worms, the place in Germany, is to be pronounced Worms, Calais, just across the English channel, is Kal-ay and not Kaliss. Cadiz in Spain is Cay-diz — not Cay-dith.

But Parea and Firenze are out. "Long-established Anglicizations such as Paris or Florence will continue to be used," said the BBC.

CHEMICAL MAGICIAN — Exxon's Dr. R. E. Pennington sketches a diagram on his office wall of the process he is helping to develop to turn coal into synthetic oil and gas. Exxon is spending $200 million to develop an economic system and is building a $40 million pilot plant at Baytown.

Drug Abuse Said Rampant, School Officials Rapped

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A report. Jeff Duffield, information officer for San Antonio schools, said, "We will and do take issue with the comment that we are more concerned with image than with students. The students always come first."

The grand jury, which worked five weeks on the drug problem, said, "All too many school officials admittedly handle their drug violations themselves, without calling in law enforcement people. This is done even though a law has been violated."

The grand jury report continued, "The result has been a complete failure" in disciplinary policies in regard to drugs.

A spokesman for the San Antonio Independent School District, the largest of the county's 15 school districts, disputed the report. He said the district tries to work with parents in the first occurrence of drug abuse in part because "the police frequently tell us you didn't have enough to pinch the kid... It's hard to make a case."

Duffield said in the report "all 15 districts are indicted but we don't know where" the practices mentioned in the report occurred.

Revival Nears For MB Church

A special week of services in which members of the Midway Baptist Church want others to "meet Jesus," will begin Sunday, the Rev. Rufus Wilson, pastor, announced.

Evangelist for the series of morning and evening services will be Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Big Spring. Dan McClinton, minister of music for Temple Baptist in Big Spring, will direct the music. Services will be 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. except for the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday times.

Dr. Patrick has pastored the church here for the past three years, coming from four-year ministry at Gatesville First Baptist and at Eden and at Cameron, Granger, Chandler and Seagoville during his student days. He did his undergraduate work at Baylor University, seminary at Southwestern Baptist Theological and doctoral work through Luther Rice Seminary in Jacksonville, Fla. He has been active in associational work and community ministerial work wherever he has pastored, also has served as Bible instructor in several places. He has participated in more than 80 evangelistic series.

McClinton attended Southwest Missouri State University, graduated from Southwest Texas State University and did graduate studies there. He has served churches at Willard, Mo., and San Antonio before coming here, had vocal and instrumental experience with the U.S. Army Band and Chorus, at one time he studied under Dawin Emanuel, Metropolitan opera baritone.

Quits Port Job

HOUSTON (AP) — James Forteno, 47, a real estate appraiser and candidate for the Democratic nomination for Precinct 2 county commissioner resigned his post on the Houston Port Commission Wednesday.

Forteno had served on the commission since 1970. He is seeking the position now held by County Commissioner Jamie Bray. Bray voted against Forteno's re-appointment to the port commission in 1972.

Alchemists strove for centuries to find a way of changing metal into gold, without success. South, declarer at four spades on this hand, found a way to convert his partner's dress into the game-going trick.
South's hand counted up to only 21 points, but with a seven-card suit and merely four losers, it was just worth a demand bid of two spades. When North responded negatively, South felt that his chances of making game were too good to risk having the hand passed out at three spades, so he jumped to game at his next turn.
West's lead of the king of hearts seemed normal enough. —there was no way he could know that he had found the one attack to give declarer his contract. At first sight it seemed that declarer would have to end up with the nine tricks with which he had started out, for dummy did not seem to offer any hope of a trick. A careful survey of dummy's major suit holdings, however, revealed a surefire method of establishing a trick.

Declarer carefully ruffed the opening lead with a high trump and entered dummy with a low trump to the seven. The jack of hearts was led, and declarer discarded a diamond from his hand, allowing North to win the trick with the queen of hearts. West shifted to a diamond, but declarer was ahead of the game. He won the ace of diamonds, re-entered dummy with a trump and led the ten of hearts, discarding his remaining diamond as West won the ace. Dummy's nine of hearts was now established and declarer still had a trump in dummy as an entry. West shifted the attack to clubs, but it was futile. Declarer took his ace, crossed to the ten of hearts, and discarded a club loser on the nine of hearts. The defenders had to get a club trick, but their only other tricks were two hearts.

Gulf Oil Discovery

HOUSTON (AP) — Gulf Oil Company announced Wednesday its first oil discovery on acreage leased in December of last year from the federal government in the northeast Gulf of Mexico.

The company said multiple oil-bearing sands were found with the first wildcat to be drilled about 110 miles southeast of New Orleans in 335 feet of water near existing oil and gas operations.

The wildcat is owned 50 per cent by Gulf, 25 per cent by Texaco and 25 per cent by Tenneco Oil Co. The well is projected to be drilled to 10,000 feet using Santa Fe Drilling Company's semisubmersible rig, Mariner II.

Gulf said it is planning a second wildcat on the tract following completion of the present well. The group has under construction a 24-well drilling platform from which development drilling will be completed.
