TEAM WORKS TO CLEAR SUEZ CANAL

Sand Covers Scars Of Mid-East War

ISMAILIA, Egypt (AP) — Tourists don't come to Ismailia to see ancient monuments, swim in Lake Timsah or have their pictures taken on a camel.

The only residents here are those working to reopen the Suez Canal, including American navy and army men helping to sweep the mines from the waterway.

Led by military guides, the tourists cross the canal to ruge in file through the blasted strongpoints of Israel's former Bar-Lev defense line on the east bank of the canal.

Wish Of Dead Man Fulfilled

"I don't want to go back to Massachusetts to live and definitely not after I'm dead."

This is what Charles Barsamian told his friend, Kenneth Whittlesey, a friend from Balling, told 118th District Court Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Karen Whittlesey, Barsamian's daughter, supported this testimony.

And District Judge Ralph W. Cato ordered that Barsamian be buried in Howard County.

Ruth Lillian Tabor cried after Cato issued this order and restraining order to prohibit interference.

She and other friends and relatives filed a writ of habeas corpus to prevent Claire Barsamian, Lowell, Mass., from having the Air Force veteran buried in Massachusetts.

Barsamian was found dead where his car crashed Tuesday morning in Big Spring. He appeared to have suffered a heart attack moments before the one-vehicle wreck.

Among those testifying in court Friday were Frank Hardesty, the Rev. Collins Moore, Melvin Duratt and Mrs. Tabor.

THEFT VICTIMS — Sir Alfred and Lady Beit are shown on the grounds of their home—Rusborough House, Blessington, about 15 miles from Dublin—Saturday after a raid in which thieves got away with an estimated 8 million pounds sterling worth of paintings.

Won't Pay Ransom, Alfred Beit Says

BLESSINGTON, Ireland (AP) — Sir Alfred Beit said today the $20.4 million in paintings stolen from his home were protected only by an alarm system, but that many were insured and he would not meet any ransom demand.

A gang of armed raiders believed to belong to the Irish Republican Army burst into his country home Friday night and stole 19 paintings in what apparently was the biggest robbery in history.

James White, director of Dublin's National Gallery, where the masterpieces often were exhibited, gave the value of the paintings.

Beit told newsmen that security amounted to an alarm bell system surrounding the paintings. The bell rang in the local police station, which was closed at the time of the raid.

vehicles and buildings plumed into the sky. Israeli tanks led by weary, dirt-caked soldiers churned through knee-deep dust and broke through orange groves and mud brick villages. The Egyptians fought back with salvos of howling Katusha rockets and angry volleys of artillery.

The white skyline of Ismailia's high-rise buildings interspersed by slender minarets were only a mile away, and Sharon, commander of the Israeli forces that had crossed onto the west bank of the canal, was in a hurry to take the city before the expected ceasefire.

But the battle for Ismailia, was never fought. The shaky first cease-fire of midnight Oct. 22 stopped the armies right outside the city—and the Israeli general never got to see it.

To rediscover the order of battle in the desert sand along the Bar-Lev line today requires the trained eye of an archaeologist.

Sand storms have buried most of the trenches, foxholes and steel carcasses of the war. Only the different color of sand may betray a zig-zag trenchline, or a rusty pipe may indicate an Israeli tank buried in the drifting sand.

Ismailia itself seems like an archaeological excavation when viewed from a helicopter under one of the hot, hazy sandstorms that blow these days from Africa into the Sinai desert.

Except for the occasional rattle of an American helicopter, the city is quiet. Almost nobody moves in the straight streets between shell-pocked modern buildings or along the boulevards lined with trees blossoming in bright red and lilac and the stylish villas of former European Canal Zone officials.

Votes Are Not There, Insists Gerald Ford

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Vice President Gerald Ford said Saturday the House does not have enough votes to impeach President Nixon.

"There is not enough evidence that I am familiar with to impeach him. I happen to think he is innocent," Ford said in a news conference.

Ford was in Wichita Falls to address some 800 Republicans at a $50-a-plate fund-raising luncheon for U.S. Rep. Bob Price, R-Tex.

He told a news conference afterward that Nixon should turn over to the House Judiciary Committee "all relevant materials available."

Asked if he would serve on a panel to judge the relevance of the tapes, Ford said: "I don't think, as a possible beneficiary in the event things go badly, that I should judge the relevancy of the tapes."

Ford emphasized that he would not be a candidate for election should he succeed Nixon through impeachment or resignation.

The vice president said the milk fund controversy involving former Texas Gov. John Connally is "an excess of partisan politics. I have great faith in John Connally. I think there must be some partisanship in this."

The milk controversy swirls around whether a San Antonio based milk cooperative contributed to the Nixon campaign in return for an increase in milk price supports. Connally has denied accepting any money for influence.

Ford swept into Sheppard Air Force Base and rode in a rapid motorcade downtown. About 200 persons, mostly airmen and their dependents, greeted the vice president at the air base.

At the luncheon, Ford sounded an urgent appeal for Republicans to work hard in what he called a critical, crucial non-presidential election year.

CANDIDATES BUSY First Primary Is Saturday

People's middle desk drawers and top of the desk blotters are becoming increasingly bogged down with political calling cards as the election date looms less than a week away. The big day arrives next Saturday.

Traditionally in Texas, the Democratic primary in the spring has been the real election. However, this year in Howard County, some of the candidates also will face Republican opponents in the fall.

Candidates for statewide office continue their treks across the state. Big Spring has hosted both of the major GOP gubernatorial candidates and one of the major Democratic candidates in local receptions.

Candidates for state senator have beat a trail from Wichita Falls to Big Spring and back several times and will probably return again before the primary.

State representative candidates have vied for Big Spring's attention, since it is the largest city within their district. Whoever wins this race will face a Republican opponent in November.

The district clerk faces an opponent and the district judge is running unopposed. The county judge faces an opponent with the winner to face a Republican in November, as does one commissioner. The other commissioner faces only a Democratic opponent. The county clerk and justice of the peace also face Demo opponents only.

But for many, there are six more days of candidates smiling when they are really tired, hand-shaking, passing out cards, emory boards and book matches and uttering intelligent phrases as they go into the stretch.

Reviewing the ... Big Spring Week ... with Joe Pickle

Bank figures reflect great gains in our local economy. Deposits of $88,178,892 were up 26.4 per cent over the comparable call a year ago; total resources of $97,194,310 were up 26 per cent; and loans of $34,714,810 were down 4 per cent. The deposit figure was nearly $5 million more than for the previous peak at the end of last year. What makes the report all the more impressive was that a year ago the call date was March 31, before all the income taxes were paid, and this year April 24, after income taxes were paid. To appreciate this, the comment of one banker is apropos. He recalled that at the peak of tax-paying, his institution's deposits dipped about a million dollars a day for most of a week. The robust figures in the report are no great surprise in view of last year's phenomenal cotton crop. A sobering note: Unless it rains within the month, our crop prospects this year are nil.

It hardly seems possible, but the first primary comes up Saturday. If you have moved from one precinct to another, you must get your transfer by 5 p.m. Monday; if you've lost your certificate, you should get a replacement at the collector's office. But be sure and vote Saturday.

Another important deadline comes up this week. If either you or your wife has attained age 65, and you want to take advantage of the $3,000 assessed exemption on city, county and junior college taxes, you have to apply at the county assessor-collector's office by Tuesday 5 p.m. You can't get this tax break unless you apply for it.

BEST PENSION PLAN OF ALL

Federal Payroll Booms; Is Load Becoming Too Much?

Help Wanted — Male-Female — Outstanding employee pays top wages to millions of blue and white collar workers. Exceptional job security, life insurance, major medical, best pensions in the country, constant advancement, guaranteed annual raise — regardless of performance — plus additional raises for merit and seniority. Surpassed with employees. Only most qualified should apply.

This could be a recruiting ad for federal employment. But its publication would add to the criticism now aimed at the United States government is not only the nation's largest employer, but — critics say — generous to a fault, at the taxpayer's expense. The questions are:

— Can the taxpayer afford the constantly rising bill for government salaries and benefits? It's doubled in a decade, says the nonprofit Tax Institute, Inc., a research organization.

— Are government employees overpaid and overpensioned? Average federal pay is $9,900 annually for blue collar employees and $13,200 for white collar workers; in each case, above the national average. Pensions, after 40 years of service, are 80 per cent of the last three years' average pay. That's four or five times better than Social Security, but payroll deductions are nearly the same.

WHOPPING BOOST — The Nixon administration's guideline for annual wage increases has been 5.5 per cent. But all federal salaries rose 12.8 per cent in 1973, a U.S. Chamber of Commerce survey reported. Big salary increases for the armed forces and for postal workers drove up the percentage and might do so again.

A new postal workers' contract, signed last summer, increases wages 17 to 20 per cent over two years. A letter carrier who started in 1962 at $4,565 now earns $11,773 plus a $146 cost of living payment this year.

The end of the draft last year and the new dependence on a volunteer Army has had a drastic impact on an Army private's pay. He earned $78 a month a decade ago, $134 in 1971, $288 in 1972 and $326 today.

And Congress decided to pay $3,000 bonuses to recruits joining the infantry or artillery. Low-ranking officers also have done well. A second lieutenant has jumped from $399 to $791 monthly in a decade, and a major from $834 to $1,524 since 1964.

Another 12.8 per cent salary increase this year would add $6.5 billion to the payroll for the nation's five million federal employees. Two-thirds are in the Post Office and military.

Add state, county, town and city employees and there are more than 14 million Americans earning government salaries — from the President to City Hall janitors in small towns. They earn $150 billion in pay and benefits, or $700 for every man, woman and child in the nation. They fill one of every five U.S. jobs.

MUCH MORE — The $150 billion is 15 times higher than what experts in the '60s said would be needed to restore dying American cities. Salaries and benefits for federal employees alone use up 50 per cent of all U.S. income taxes collected and nearly a quarter of the government's operating budget, which is $269 billion this fiscal year. The money is almost enough to purchase an economy car for every American family each year.

One of the inflationary factors, on the federal level, is the Civil Service system of pay increases — sometimes referred to as "a raise within an escalator within an elevator."

Secretary Susan W. went to work for the federal government in 1962 at $4,565. Since then, she's earned the normal five grade promotions, each with a pay increase. She also received raises for longevity and merit — she's entitled to 10 over 18 years — and more raises to keep base pay even with that paid to secretaries in private industry. The result today: A salary of $19,246 annually, a jump of more than 400 per cent.

State, county and city employees don't do as well. Surveys show they earn generally 30 per cent less than their federal counterparts.

Pensions are another matter. Many state and local governments have adopted the federal system of paying a retired employee 70 to 80 per cent of his average wage the last years on the job. As a result, pensions are a major reason for the spiraling taxpayer burden.

Federal pension payments have risen from $1.3 billion in 1964 to $4.6 billion last year, and officials estimate they'll be $12 billion in 1994. That estimate assumes no sharp rise in inflation, no growth in federal employment, and no additional pension "sweeteners" such as the $1.8 billion in annual payments voted by Congress last year.

Similar total figures do not exist for state and city pensions, except for the statistic that state and city pension funds on reserve have grown in three years from $47 billion to $68.9 billion. Taxpayer groups have charged that in some states, 50 per cent of the budget might eventually have to be spent on pensions; partly because employee contributions decline while pensions themselves rise.

At the top of the federal pay structure is the 2,500-man executive staff. Its wages range from $60,000 for Cabinet officers and Supreme Court justices to $36,000 for heads of minor agencies. In the middle is the $42,500 paid to congressmen and senior judges, $40,000 for undersecretaries and lower-level federal judges, and $38,000 for assistant secretaries.

The next level is the most controversial. It covers 1.3 million white collar workers. The maximum for top managers, including 150 admirals and generals, is $36,000. The maximum can't be by law higher because it would invade the executive staff pay schedule, which starts at $36,000. The minimum is $5,017 for the lowest clerk in his first year.

The third bracket covers 489,000 blue collar workers. By law, they are to be paid the same wages as their privately employed counterparts in the same city. In fact, their average pay of $9,900 annually is well above the $8,440 average for all blue and white collar workers in the private sector.

Pay for most of the military and the 672,000 postal workers is handled separately.

'I MIGHT HAVE TO DO WITHOUT UTILITIES'

Unemployed Walk The Streets Of Laredo

EDITOR'S NOTE — Unemployment in Laredo, Tex., is a chronic problem and last year's closing of the Laredo Air Force Base and this year's gasoline crisis haven't helped. Here is what is happening in the border city.

By JOHN LUMPKIN
Associated Press Writer

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Eliseo Valdez is an unhappy statistic.

Until last September, he earned $3.45 an hour as a truck driver at the Laredo Air Force Base, now closed.

He now is one of the 13.9 per cent who are unemployed in Laredo.

In December the rate of unemployment in Laredo was 16.8 per cent. In January it rose to 13.9, the highest in Texas, if not the nation.

The national average for January was 5.2 per cent. The state average was 3.8 per cent.

Eliseo Valdez is proud. He refuses to accept employment at the minimum wage of $1.60 per hour with a weekly take-home pay of about $50.

Valdez, who is 50, said that he and other union members who worked for contractors at the Air Force base have agreed to hold out for something better than the minimum wage.

Until recently, Valdez drew $63 a week in unemployment compensation. However, that has now run out.

What is Eliseo Valdez, who has a wife and four children, going to do?

FOOD STAMPS

"That, I don't know. It's just a matter to see how welfare treats us. I'm going to apply for food stamps . . . I might have to do without utilities," he said. His house and car are paid for.

The state bureaucracy has a name for Eliseo Valdez' plight. They call his problem and the problems of one in five members of the Laredo work force "persistent unemployment."

It is not a new term in the sunny arid city on the Rio Grande with a population of about 70,000. A state labor analyst says, "I think forever it has always been the highest."

When the Pentagon decided to close Laredo Air Force Base last September, it didn't help.

Now, officials say it appears fewer agricultural migrants who make Laredo a home base in winter months may be going north to harvest crops because they are unsure there will be gasoline to get them there.

If they stay, they will have to compete with the rest of Laredo's largely unskilled or semi-skilled labor force for the limited number of jobs.

JOBLESS ROLLS

Besides having a winter migrant population, Laredo has a chronic unemployment problem because residents of neighboring Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, cross the International Bridge daily to work. When the Nuevo Laredo residents lose their jobs here, they are counted in Laredo unemployment figures and can collect unemployment compensation by using a Laredo post office address.

Officials are not sure how many non-residents are on the unemployment rolls.

"We used to figure approximately 50 per cent of our unemployed reside in Mexico," says Amador Gutierrez Jr., a state labor analyst in Laredo. "There is no way of telling now."

Officials also say the Laredo area's agricultural economy has atrophied in recent years because of Mexican competition, sending former farmworkers into Laredo's labor pool. Neither does Laredo have any large industrial employers. There is irony in Laredo's situation.

Retail sales in December 1973 were the highest in the city's history, says Mayor J. C. Martin Jr.

However, the money was spent as much by Mexicans as it was by Laredo residents, since Laredo's major industry is border retail sales. The Mexicans bring their money to the storekeepers and take back the goods to their home country.

For Valdez, "It was no Christmas whatsoever."

Eliseo Valdez is principled. He explained his refusal to work at the minimum wage: "Sometimes you got to suffer to more or less obtain what you are looking for."

He said the union, Laborers' International Union of North America, fought too long to increase wages at the base to fall back on the minimum wage jobs other Laredo employers offer. The trouble, he said, is that Laredo employers now can always find a $1.60-an-hour worker from Nuevo Laredo, where the standard of living is lower.

LOW WAGES

Bruno Abrego, who directs the Texas Employment Commission office here, says, "I can't blame" Valdez and his colleagues for not taking minimum wage jobs.

"One employer wanted a bilingual bookkeeper who knows typing for $1.60 an hour. If they keep looking, they are going to find one," Abrego said.

One federal job training program is having difficulties because of a stipulation that trainees be hired at $2 an hour, a figure unacceptable to some employers.

There is a bright spot in the unemployment cloud hanging over Laredo.

The city is in the process of acquiring the closed air base as a location for new business and industry.

DESPAIR

The problem is also forcing the city to deal with its economic independence on Mexico and its retail business.

"Probably the biggest thing that has happened . . . since the base closed is a change in attitude," said Bill Baker, publisher of the Laredo Times. "At first there was despair and things like: 'We should hold on to what we've got. We're lucky we made it when it was available.'"

But Baker says, "We realized if something didn't happen, Laredo was on a big skid." He believes the base situation is progressing ahead of predictions and says there eventually may be more jobs available than before the Air Force departed.

Like the Air Force base, the future of Laredo's economy is affected by decisions of persons outside Laredo. With the base, it was Washington, D. C. With the retail business, it is Mexican officials who control their end of the International Bridge.

NO ROOM

During the past year, the bridge has been "open," as Laredo leaders describe it. That means Mexicans have been able to re-enter their country with the merchandise purchased in Laredo.

"With one stroke of the pen that could end," says Mayor Martin in making a case for diversification.

There is a final irony in the Laredo unemployment statistics. Some jobs go begging. Pointing to construction projects now under way, Baker said, "It's too bad, but a large amount is being done by out-of-town companies. We don't have enough locally trained journeymen."

"There is room for more doctors, certified public accountants, stenographers and executive secretaries," Abrego said.

But there is no room for Eliseo Valdez and the 3,500 others in semi-skilled or unskilled positions.

Syrian Tanks Rake Israeli

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syrian and Israeli forces clashed for the 47th consecutive day on Mt. Hermon and the Golan Heights below, the Syrian command reported today.

Syrian tanks, missile batteries and artillery shelled Israeli positions all along the 40-mile front, Damascus radio said.

In an interview with the Beirut magazine Al Diyar, Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said fighting would continue in spite of the presence of U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in the Middle East next week.

"Kissinger's presence or absence has no connection with the Golan fighting," Khaddam said. "The visits regardless of their nature will not ease the intensity of the fighting."

Kissinger will travel to Tel Aviv and Damascus to discuss disengagement of forces on the Golan Heights.

In Cairo, a political commentator charged the Soviet Union, Iraq and Libya with taking "hostile political attitudes towards Egypt." Inan Abdel Kouddous wrote in Akhbar el Yom that the "Soviet Union wants to retain us as a sphere of influence and talk on our behalf, keeping the United States as the representative of Israel."

Kouddous said Iraq never got along with its Arab neighbors and should "wake up and ask themselves why should they be hostile to all Arab countries."

Mensa Offers Membership

Scott Sullivan, 14, 110 E. 18th St., has received notice he is qualified for membership in Mensa, an international organization of persons of high intelligence.

If he decides to join, he will be the youngest member in Big Spring. Jill Rhymes was 15 when she qualified.

Other local members include Mike Craddock, general manager of Delta Electronics, and Miss Olga Roy, a psychologist at the Big Spring State Hospital.

In order to be accepted for membership you must score within the top two per cent of the population on an intelligence test.

Scott scored 144 on the Otis Lennon test at the high school. At Goliad Junior High, Scott won the Maxi-Maverick Award, which is presented the student with the highest grade average for three semesters.

He won spelling bees first at College Heights Elementary and then at Goliad for four consecutive years. Scott belongs to the drama club, speech team and men's choir at school. A piano student for several years, Scott plans to study music or math at college.

Jacobsen Trial Is Likely To Be Delayed Two Months

DALLAS (AP) — All signs point to a two-month delay in the scheduled trial of Jake Jacobsen, the Austin lawyer and lobbyist who is accused by the government of misapplication of $825,000 from a San Angelo savings and loan firm.

The trial had been set for a May 6 start.

But attorneys for the government and defense asked a delay because a key witness, Morgan Pearce, suffered a heart attack.

A spokesman for U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Hill said Hill is awaiting a letter from Pearce's physician in San Angelo.

Pearce has been a lawyer for Jacobsen and Ray Cowan, a co-defendant.

ACCUSED

Hill and Cowan are accused of misapplying $825,000 of the First Savings and Loan Association in San Angelo.

The government continues to press another felony case against Jake Jacobsen despite his reported offer to testify against former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally in return for reduced charges.

An informed Washington source said Friday Jacobsen has received "not one word" of response from Watergate special prosecutors since he sent word that he was willing to recant his previous testimony clearing Connally of taking a $10,000 bribe.

Jacobsen had asked, in return for testimony against Connally, that all felony charges against himself be reduced to misdemeanors, thus allowing him to keep his license to practice law, the source said.

Jacobsen faces penalties of up to 40 years in jail and $80,000 in fines if convicted on all counts in a Watergate perjury case and the unrelated San Angelo savings-and-loan affair.

It was first reported eight days ago that Jacobsen had sent word to the Watergate special prosecution force that he was willing to change his testimony and swear that Connally took $10,000 of a dairy cooperative's money in return for government favors. Connally repeatedly has denied this.

Suit For $13 Billions Filed By N.B. Hunt

DALLAS (AP) — Nelson Bunker Hunt, member of the fabulously rich H. L. Hunt family, has slapped a $13 billion suit on Mobil Oil Corp., and his lawyers say other court action may follow.

Hunt, in papers filed in Alexandria, Va., just outside Washington, claims the money is due him because of what he calls breach of contract and antitrust violations.

Essentially, the suit claims that Mobil and other companies failed to live up to the agreement made when they banded together to present a united front to Mideast oil nations.

Twelve other companies are named in the petition as co-conspirators but they are not being sued.

The agreement by the oil companies, Hunt's petition says, was that if one was nationalized or lost its share of the oil, the other companies would chip in to make up the difference. Hunt says this was not done when Libya nationalized his oil holdings.

The oilman is seeking to force Mobil to deliver several

Bishop Leven Is Bound For Rome

Bishop Stephen A. Leven of the San Angelo Catholic Diocese left Friday for Europe where he will visit Rome.

Each five years United States Bishops are requested to make their "ad Limina Apostolorum" (literally: to the threshold of the Apostles).

En route, Bishop Leven will ordain the deacons of his Alma Mater, the American College at Louvain, Belgium. On his return from Rome, he hopes to make a pilgrimage to the Shrine of the Sacred Heart at Paray-le-Monial in France. This pilgrimage is in keeping with the Vigil of the Holy Year proclaimed by the Holy Father for 1975. The Year of Vigil includes preparation by Catholics throughout the world with themes of penance and reconciliation.

He also intends to visit the Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes and the Shrine of the Miraculous Medal in Paris.

Bishop Leven expects to return May 17.

million barrels of oil Hunt says is owed him under the 1971 agreement.

In addition to the oil from Mobil, Hunt is seeking 118 million barrels from Mobile and 12 other companies.

Hunt claims he lost 50 per cent interest in 11 billion barrels of oil in Libya's Sarir Field when his holdings were nationalized in a move completed in 1973.

Hirschkop said only Exxon continues to supply Hunt with oil payments under the agreement.

The other companies named in the suit are Texaco Inc.; Standard Oil of California; Shell Petroleum Ltd. and Shell Petroleum Maatschappij; Gulf Oil Corp.; Occidental Petroleum; Continental Oil Corp.; Amerada Hess Corp.; Marathon Oil Co.; Atlantic Richfield; W. R. Grace Co.; Murphy Oil Corp.; and Gelsenberg, a German oil corporation.

Lectures Set On Penal Code

EL PASO — Changes in the Texas Penal Code, which recently underwent its first total revision in 117 years, will be outlined Friday, May 10, by a district judge, a law professor, and several practicing defense lawyers at a State Bar of Texas institute.

The institute, to be held at the Holiday Inn Downtown, is cosponsored by the Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association and the State Bar of Texas under a grant by the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

The code was streamlined by the 1973 legislature, climaxing a seven-year study by a State Bar Committee.

Lecturers for the institute will be District Judge Stanley Kirk of Wichita Falls, Law Professor Walter Steele of Austin, Charles D. Butts of San Antonio, Jack Rawitscher of Houston, Douglas Tinker of Corpus Christi, George Gilkerson of Lubbock, and Vincent Perini and Kerry Fitzgerald both of Dallas.

Roy Anderson Near End Of Career With City

By MARJ CARPENTER

A city employee since 1938, Roy Anderson, assistant city manager, works his last day before retirement Tuesday.

His fellow employees gave him a dinner Friday night at the Cosden Club. Members of the city council presented him a watch in appreciation for his years of service.

His first job with the city was under City Manager E. V. Spence. Anderson served as a collector of paving accounts. "You learn a lot about people that way," he chuckled. He recalled that "Those were the WPA days." City WPA projects included the City Hall and City auditorium as well as the amphitheater in Comanche Trails Park.

During World War II, Anderson did not work as a municipal employee but served as a civilian pilot instructor in Coleman.

BACK IN '47

Then in May 1947, he returned to the city as purchasing agent. "This was interesting right after the war when there was still a shortage of a lot of items," Anderson recalled.

Among the city managers he has served under, other than Spence, are Boyd McDaniel, Herbert Whitney, Larry Crow and Harry Nagel. Twice he has served as interim city manager.

Anderson considers the early 60s as some of the most prosperous years in Big Spring. He also recalls that the late 40s and early 50s were boom years.

Easy To Lose Lbs. Fast With New Vitamin 'E' Diet

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with growing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

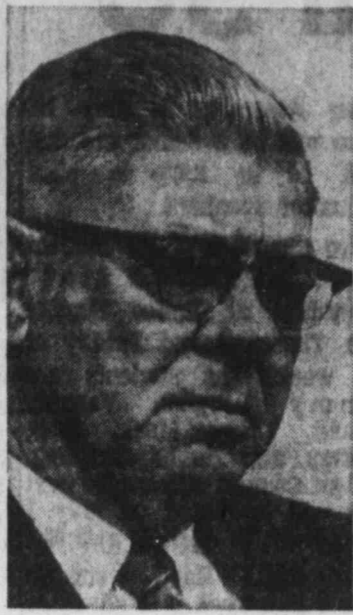

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderful benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical test, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

Mobil Oil Says Profits Down From Last Quarter

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobil Oil Co. says its profits of $259 million for this year's first quarter is seven per cent less than the previous quarter—but 66 per cent more than the firm made in the first three months of 1973.

Mobil, third largest oil company in the nation, last year reported profits of $159 million in the first quarter and $278 million in the last quarter of 1973.

First-quarter 1974 earnings were equivalent to $2.54 per share, compared with $2.73 in the last quarter of 1973 and $1.53 in the first quarter of last year, Mobile said Friday.

First-quarter revenues this year were $4.4 billion, but totaled only $2.8 billion in the first three months of 1973.

Mobile followed a trend of sharply higher profits for the quarter ended last month that were reported by the major oil companies. Earlier this week, Texaco Oil Co. announced the biggest increase in first-quarter profits among the majors, a jump of 123 per cent.

The $3 per barrel rise in the price of crude oil boosted Mobil's profits from its U.S. petroleum operations in this year's first quarter by 33 per cent, to $66 million. In the same period last year the figure was $49 million.

Government controls that

Wage-Hour Rules Are Discussed

Harry Nagel and Bob Butler attended the municipality wage and hour session at the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council office Thursday.

Among items that will affect the city are regulations which go into effect Jan. 1 in connection with the fire department. Under a special program, items of this type will be allowed under a 240 hour 28-day policy.

Another problem of the city will be employees that had second city jobs, such as lighting, clean-up and other items which must now be called time and a half.

The meeting was held for the purpose of cities and counties to discuss the new regulations. A policy of allowing police detectives an automatic ten hours overtime must be abolished and records kept of their overtime.

Chances Slim For Convicted Americans

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The defense team for the three Americans sentenced to life terms in Turkey on narcotics charges is determined to fight the legal battle to the end, the attorneys said today.

After the unfavorable appeals ruling of Friday, which upheld the lower court's verdict, only two slim chances are left for Katherine Zenz, 28, of Lancaster, Wis.; Joann McDaniel, 29, of Coos Bay, Ore., and Robert E. Hubbard, 23, of San Diego, Calif.

The three have been found guilty of conspiring to smuggle drugs into Turkey.

Their attorney, Faruk Erem, a leading Turkish criminal lawyer and chairman of the bar association, said they would first attempt a "correction of judgment," a procedure unknown in Anglo-American law.

A "correction of judgment" request is delivered to the chief prosecutor of the appeals court and asks him to suggest to the higher court a review of the case.

A criminal law expert said, "This procedure works in only one case out of a thousand."

A second avenue open to the defense is to petition for a retrial.

Legal sources predicted slim chances of success for these procedures. But the three Americans are bound to have their jail terms cut in a forthcoming amnesty.

A general amnesty bill now under debate in Parliament, and guaranteed passage by all parties in one form or other, would reduce all life terms to 24 years imprisonment.

The three Americans were arrested Dec. 10, 1972 while crossing into Turkey from Syria. Police searched the Americans' three minibuses and discovered 236 pounds of hashish hidden in the ceilings and under the seats.

Institute Set On Alcoholism

On May 10-11, the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, the University of Texas at the Permian Basin, and the Texas Commission on Alcoholism will sponsor the first regionwide institute on Alcohol and Drug Abuse Studies.

The institute is unique in that never before in the state has one seminar dealt with both problems — alcohol and drugs — in one school. The campus of UTPB will be the location for the institute beginning at 1 p.m. Friday, May 10, and lasting through 4:30 p.m. Saturday, May 11.

The goals of the institute are to provide the worker with information about the alcoholic and drug abuser and to give the worker some useable tools for the community, such as resources available to combat the two problems.

There will be faculty of twenty-one speakers and panelists with Dr. Joel Greenspoon of UTPB making the keynote address on Friday afternoon. Some of the session topics will be "Available Volunteer Organizations," "Pharmacology of Alcohol and Drugs," "Drugs and the Law," and "The Community Organizational Model."

Anyone interested or involved in work with the alcoholic or drug abuser is urged to attend the institute. Registration forms and information may be obtained from Vic Rhoads at the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission offices. Deadline for registration is May 8.

Gen. Cavazos Is May 11 Speaker

LUBBOCK — The first ROTC graduate of Texas Tech University to become a general officer, Richard E. Cavazos, will deliver the principal address at joint commissioning services for Army and Air Force ROTC graduates at Texas Tech at 2 p.m. May 11 in the University Theater.

Brig. Gen. Cavazos, U.S. Defense Attaché to Mexico, is a 1951 graduate of the university with a Bachelor of Science degree in geology. While earning his degree, he completed Army ROTC and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army in 1951.

More than 30 Army and Air Force cadets are scheduled to receive their commissions at the ceremony.

Cavazos was a brother of Texas Tech football great Bobby Cavazos. Richard Cavazos also played football for the university, lettering in 1949 and 1950.

MUTE TESTIMONY TO FACT When Crowds Come To Park Clean-up Crews Will Follow

It's a sunny Sunday afternoon in Big Spring. And Comanche Trails Park is full to the brim.

Cars drive slowly around the narrow winding roads, barely missing each other as they look to see who is out in the park as they take their Sunday afternoon drive.

The tennis courts are full. The free courts are running over with a few players waiting. The courts at the tennis center, which require a fee, are also beginning to fill.

Golfers walk or ride around the city course, taking advantage of the warm weather. A few sit looking at the swimming pool wondering when it will open for the summer season.

All available shade is taken. One large group of young people sit in a group out in the sunshine drinking beer.

A family sits at a picnic table eating fried chicken. The father idly shows his small daughter how to work a yo-yo.

A large crowd of young men in their early twenties play touch football with a vengeance.

Two young lovers sit in the middle of the park, aware only of each other. Down in the trailer park, which always seems to be nearly full, somebody cooks hamburgers for supper.

Motorcycles putt putt down the roadway and cyclists puff off in the other direction.

Children swing and slide and some simply chase each other in circles.

One exuberant health enthusiast hikes briskly up the road to the Big Spring area. Sailboats sail on Cosden Lake and some try their hand at the venture.

A family reunion in one of the larger pavilions causes a gale of laughter as somebody tells an old family joke. Two persons walking two different dogs on leashes stop to get them away from each other before the pets do battle.

A golden age citizen sits on a park bench, perfectly content to watch the clouds float by and to watch the children running nearby.

A telltale aroma wafts across the breeze from a nearby barbecue pit and those who came simply for the sunshine and outdoors stir a little and realize it's time to go home for supper.

It's a pretty Sunday afternoon. The park is full and at least one municipal facility is being utilized to capacity.

Monday morning's cleanup will offer mute testimony to this fact. But for having had such a large crowd the previous day, the clean-up is not as difficult as might be anticipated.

City park officials report that the average citizens appreciate their park facilities, use them, and most respect the appeals not to litter and despoil the area.

Briscoe Confident He Has Election In Hip Pocket

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Frances Farenthold completed their crucial campaign sweep of the Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange area Saturday with Briscoe confident he has a second term in the bag.

The governor, grinning and laughing from dawn to dusk, is exuberant and happy with his campaign reports.

Mrs. Farenthold, who led Briscoe in the two 1972 Democratic primaries in Jefferson and Orange Counties as well as Harris County, is enthusiastic, but not optimistic. She spends much of her time urging supporters to continue to work for the principles that prompted them to work for her.

A number of Farenthold workers in the Golden Triangle area said flatly they did not think she could win.

Briscoe and Mrs. Farenthold aimed their campaign guns at the labor, old age and college-age votes of the area, which often are deciding margins in close elections.

Briscoe got the honorary title of "carpenter" and an unusual written endorsement from the building trades unions that represent 7,000 members in 22 Southeast Texas counties.

The Sabine area pipefitters union local made him an honorary "pipefitter." "It is gratifying to know we have a man in the governor's office who takes an interest in the working man," said a local union official.

Mrs. Farenthold, who had considerable labor support in 1972, said she has received no labor endorsements in the Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange area—but she was proud of one from a communications workers union in El Paso and one from electrical workers in Dallas. "I never try to outguess the electorate," she said.

Chapin Loses Bid For Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Dwight L. Chapin has lost a bid for a new trial on his conviction of lying to FBI agents investigating campaign dirty tricks.

"The proof that the defendant deliberately lied was overwhelming," U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said Friday in ruling against President Nixon's one-time appointments secretary.

Chapin, facing sentencing on May 15, contended that prejudicial evidence had been introduced at his first trial, that he was not granted a change in the trial site and that the jury had failed to follow the judge's instructions.

"The motions are unsupported by any new facts and speak only in generalized conclusions," Gesell said.

Events This Week Will Help March Of Dimes

Two events to benefit the March of Dimes are scheduled within this week.

One is the Walkathon, which has been staged for several years. The other is something new, Tennathon for tennis players.

Those who can participate in either are asked to contact Ann Lane, chapter executive, by calling 7-2463.

First to kick off will be the Tennathon, sponsored by the Big Spring Tennis Association with initial matches Friday, May 3, 5 p.m. Registration blanks may be had at the Tennis Center or by calling

Mrs. W. A. Mann (3-2995), and the sign-up should be completed no later than Thursday, May 2, 5 p.m.

Registration for the Walkathon will be on Saturday, 8 a.m. May 4, at Highland Shopping Center, the point of take off. Forms may be picked up at schools, or at the Seven-Eleven, Super Save and Town & Country Stores.

There will be several prizes, including a 10-speed bicycle. Category awards will go to the oldest walker, youngest walker, the walker with most sponsors, walker who collects the most money, and the walker first to finish the course. Each walker is asked to obtain as many as possible sponsors who will agree to pay so much per mile (10 cents per mile is suggested).

Those in the Tennathon likewise are asked to obtain sponsors at 10 cents a game.

Faculty Members Gain Listings

Two Howard College faculty members have been listed in recent professional publications.

Mrs. Mary Skalicky, head of the department of Fine Arts, has been selected by the American Biographical Institute to be listed in the seventh edition of "Personalities of the South" to appear this autumn.

Dal Herring, instructor of journalism, has been named to "Outstanding Educators of America for 1974."

Nominations for the program are made by the officials of colleges and universities including presidents, deans and department heads.

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Aristotle Socrates Onassis is best known to Americans for his fabulous wealth and his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy.

Now he is drawing attention as the man behind an effort to build a giant oil refinery in New Hampshire.

The size and sources of his fortune are shrouded in the secrecy assured most of his 100 or so companies, registered in cities around the world.

Onassis, who says he is 68 although some records show him to be six years older, was born in Smyrna, Turkey, son of a Greek tobacco merchant. Fleeing Turkish nationalists, the family went to Athens in 1922.

As the story goes, he worked as a telephone operator by night, invested his earnings in hides and whale oil. He became an Argentine citizen and, at 25, a millionaire.

SIZE OF FORTUNE SHROUDED

Record On Onassis Sketchy

In 1932, Onassis bought six freighters at bargain, depression prices from a Canadian company. Three years later, he bought his first oil tanker.

After World War II, he expanded his tanker fleet, and also bought a small whaling fleet.

INDICTED IN 1953
Virtually every ship in the Onassis Group was owned by a separate company, and registered in a country that levied little or no taxes on it.

During the 1950s, Onassis' whaling fleets were accused of violating international agreements on whale conservation, and his ship-buying activities led to legal trouble in the United States.

A federal grand jury indicted him in 1953 for conspiracy to defraud the United States by obtaining control of 23 American war surplus ships in violation of a law requiring that they remain in U.S. hands.

Eventually, in a complex series of settlements, Onassis agreed to pay $7 million in penalties, transfer control of the surplus ship companies to his American son and daughter, and build four big tankers in American yards.

He wound up with 12 surplus tankers and two Liberty ships, registered under foreign flags of convenience.

SOMEONE ELSE
"I paid the United States government twice for my ships," he complained at a congressional hearing in 1958.

The congressmen pressed for information about the ownership of a foreign company called Ariona, an apparent acronym for Aristotle Onassis. He said he did not know who owned it, but finally testified:

"If it is in the name of someone else, then I own that someone else."

Many Onassis enterprises, including Olympic Refineries, Inc., which wants to build the New Hampshire refinery, appear to be owned by "that someone else."

The New Hampshire refinery plan has the support of Gov. Meldrin Thomson and others as an economic boost and a solution to the perennial problem of short, costly heating oil and gasoline supplies.

Environmentalists contend it would scar the landscape, and raise the risk of beach-fouling oil spills from tankers bringing in crude oil.

very little likelihood" of a major oil spill off the New Hampshire coast, and cites a dozen safeguards it would provide to contain any spills that might occur.

Opponents argue that even the remote chance of a spill is too great a risk.

Onassis firms have had oil spill problems before.

On Feb. 4, 1970, the tanker Olympic Arrow ran aground off Port Hawkesbury, Nova Scotia, carrying 16,000 tons of gun-thick "bunker C" fuel oil, which began gushing from the ruptured hull. Denying he was spilling oil, the captain tried to back off the rock, and called for assistance only when it became necessary to abandon ship.

Mediums Who Accept Pay Criticized By Latins

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Spiritism — a religion that believes in clairvoyance and reincarnation — is active in this South American country. But Brazilian mediums are critical of U.S. spiritualists who charge money for seances.

"Mediums should always work for free," said Reinaldo Soares Pinheiro, general secretary of the Sao Paulo Spiritists Federation. "The Gospel says that mediumistic powers are given free. But we know that some mediums in the United States charge for their services."

Brazilian spiritists say they are among the few true followers of spiritual principles codified by French thinker Alain Kardec. Mediums here make it a point to differentiate themselves from most of their counterparts in the United States. "There they call it spiritualism. In Brazil it's spiritism," Pinheiro explained.

One exception is the Christian Spirit Center in Elon College, N.C. which Brazilians say was founded by their most famous medium, Francisco Xavier. Pinheiro said the North Carolina center is "supervised by Americans who sympathize with our spiritist movement."

Brazilian spiritists say the purpose of their religion is to establish links between human beings and God. One way they try to do this is by communicating with the dead, using clairvoyance — the power of perceiving things not readily noted by the senses — and psychography — the ability to record the words of dead people.

Xavier claims to have both these powers.

The Spiritist Federation in Sao Paulo, Brazil's most populous and industrialized state, was founded in 1936. It seeks to develop mediumistic powers in young people and offers spiritual guidance to the population in general.

Since the federation does not charge for its instruction, it must raise money from donations and an annual spring fair and auction.

Part of the profits from the most recent fair will help finish construction of a new headquarters building for the federation. The rest will go to people the spiritists care for.

"Many people come to us completely desperate, hoping we can give them orientation in life," said Osvaldo Braz Leonis, an executive of the federation's social department.

"Besides offering them moral support, which is always done through the Gospel, we sometimes give these people financial aid until they are able to support themselves."

BSP Observes Founder's Day

MRS. TERESA BAUCH

By JO BRIGHT

The 43rd anniversary of Beta Sigma Phi was observed here Thursday evening when local chapters held their Founder's Day banquet at Big Spring Country Club. Mrs. Clay LaRochelle, president of the BSP City Council, was mistress of ceremonies.

Highlight of the event was the announcement by Mrs. Bill Schraeder of the annual awards to sorority members as well as the person chosen by the chapters as Howard County's Woman of the Year.

Chosen Girl of the Year by their respective chapters were Mrs. Larry Harp, Alpha Beta Omicron; Mrs. Gary Huckabay, Alpha Kappa Omicron; Mr. Bill McIntosh, Beta Omicron; and Mrs. Bill Schraeder, Mu Zeta.

Selected as Pledge of the Year were Mrs. Dan Whitaker, Alpha Beta Omicron; Mrs. Dennis Howard, Beta Omicron; Mrs. Billy King, Mu Zeta; and Mrs. Steve Broom, Alpha Kappa Omicron.

Banquet duties included Alpha Beta Omicron, decorations; Alpha Kappa Omicron, entertainment; Beta Omicron, place and menu; and Mu Zeta, publicity, programs and name tags.

Mrs. McIntosh said the Beta Sigma Phi grace, and the message from headquarters was presented by Mrs. Jack Parrott.

The introduction of the Woman of the Year was by Mrs. Huckabay, with the honor going to Mrs. Ernest (Teresa) Bauch, director of Westside Community Center.

The Bauches, who reside at 1311 W. 4th, are members of Wesley United Methodist Church. They have one daughter, Mrs. George (Peggy) Garcia of San Antonio.

Mrs. Bauch directs all activities at the center, which includes both children's and adults' programs, and coordinates the efforts of volunteer workers. Also, she is an active member of the American Business Club and president of Texas Delta Delta chapter of Phi Sigma Alpha.

For 10 years, Mrs. Bauch was den mother for Boy Scout Troop 303, and she was formerly secretary, treasurer and Sunday school teacher at Northside Methodist Church. Mrs. Bauch has seen steady growth in the Westside Community Center programs during the 11 years she has been director of the facility. During the past year, the center occupied new quarters, and over 2,000 people are now participating in its programs. Besides the daily programs, most holidays are marked with special observances.

After the dinner, a musical program was presented by the Belle Ringers of First United Methodist Church.

Among the guests introduced were members of the two exemplar chapters, Xi Pi Epsilon and Xi Mu.

Beta Sigma Phi is a social, cultural and service organization for women which has chapters in 24 countries. Big Spring has benefited greatly from the ongoing service projects sponsored by local chapters.

PLEDGE OF THE YEAR honors were announced by Beta Sigma Phi at this year's Founder's Day banquet at Big Spring Country Club. Cited for outstanding participation were, from left, Mrs.

Dan Whitaker, Alpha Beta Omicron; Mrs. Dennis Howard, Beta Omicron; Mrs. Billy King, Mu Zeta; and Mrs. Steven Broom, Alpha Kappa Omicron.

Miss Donna Howard Weds Teddy Griffin

Miss Donna Howard of Lubbock became the bride of Teddy Griffin in a formal ceremony performed at 7:30 p.m., Saturday in the Ford Memorial Chapel, First Baptist Church, Lubbock. Officiating for the rites was the Rev. Ron Lowry, minister of music at the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beaty Howard, 3208 39th, Lubbock, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Griffin Jr., 1106 Lancaster, Big Spring.

The altar setting, illuminated by candelabra, was enhanced by floral arrangements of white daisies and gladioli interspersed with greenery. A prelude of nuptial music was performed by Miss Robin Lowry, harpist; Mrs. Gerald Harris, organist; and Mrs. Stanley Gill, vocalist.

Carrying a bouquet of orchids, stephanotis and gypsophila, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white organza adorned with scalloped lace and small pearls. The bodice of rose point lace was accented with seed pearl trim. Her headpiece was a mantilla bordered with lace.

ATTENDANTS
Attendants for the bride were her sister, Miss Annette Howard of Lubbock, and Miss Becky Keith of Dallas. They were identically attired in floor-length dresses of floral chiffon styled with long sleeves and ruffles at the neckline and bottom of the sleeves. Each carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies sprinkled with gypsophila.

Lt. Richard Hoey, Lubbock, attended the bridegroom as best man, and Bill Schwarzenbach, Lubbock as groomsmen. Gary Howard, brother of the bride, was an usher.

RECEPTION
Immediately after the ceremony, the newlyweds were honored at a reception in the church parlor, where refreshments were served by Mrs. Horace Sandlin and Mrs. John Wilkerson. Among the out-of-town guests were the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett, Big Spring; and the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Howard, Wichita Falls.

MRS. TEDDY GRIFFIN

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday evening in the Hickory Inn, with guests seated at tables decorated with a daisy theme.

Griffin, who graduated from Brownfield High School in 1968, is a candidate for graduation in July at Texas Tech University. He is co-owner of Gulf Coast Fish and Shrimp, Lubbock.

The bride graduated from Monterey High School, Lubbock, 1969 and attended Texas Tech University and Meriman's Business College. She is presently employed at the Education Service Center in Lubbock.

Anniversary To Be Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Thomas, Snyder Highway, will celebrate their 34th wedding anniversary Wednesday in Fort Worth where they will be visiting her sister.

Mrs. Thomas is the former Beatrice Mann, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Mann, Collins. Mr. Thomas is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Thomas of Lueders.

Married at Rising Star in 1941, the Thomases moved to Big Spring in 1947. He is employed with Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, and they are members of Birdwell Lane Baptist Church.

Their children are Mrs. Reba Lois White, Darrell Bruce Thomas and Michael Jay Thomas. One son, Edward Wayne Thomas, is deceased. There are five grandchildren.

REVIEWER — Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper will present a free book review at 8 p.m., Tuesday in the Howard County Library under the sponsorship of Friends of the Library. The book to be reviewed is Herbert Tarr's "A Time for Loving," a story of Solomon. The program is open to the public, and refreshments will be served.

Square, Round Dance Festival Coming Up

The fifth annual Square and Round Dance Festival will be held Friday and Saturday at Big Spring High School Cafeteria.

The Big Spring Squares, the sponsoring group, is expecting the largest group of square dancers in the history of the city to attend this year's event. Last year's festival attracted over 500 dancers.

Request rounds will begin at 7 p.m., Friday and Saturday nights. Square dancing will be from 8 to 11 p.m.

Dancers will be welcomed by Mayor pro tem Eddie Aciri, and master of ceremonies for both nights will be Roger Fleckenstein of Stanton.

Calling the square dances will be Rex Coats, Andrews, Friday evening; and Harper Smith, Celina, Saturday evening. Dave Smith, Lubbock, and Mary Beth Vestal, Snyder, will serve as round dance instructors.

A workshop on new calls and round dances is slated from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday is the school cafeteria.

Saturday evening after the dance a "Poor Boy" after-party dinner will be held at the Big Spring Corral. Chili, beans and Mexican corn bread will be served. Dancing will continue at the Corral with round-robin calling. Marvin Burcham, club president, will serve as master of ceremonies.

An added attraction Saturday evening will be an outstanding exhibition group from Lubbock, known as the "Yellow Rockers".

Spectators are invited to attend the dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Huskey III are festival chairman. Assisting them will be Mr. and Mrs. Frenchie Steward, publicity; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Speegle, finance; Mr. and Mrs. Louie Trammell, hospitality; Mr. and Mrs. James Householder, door prizes and booths; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Morris, registration; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Burcham, after party; and Mr. and Mrs. Grady Jones, food.

'Gone Are The Days' Except In Memory

DALLAS (AP) — When and if the Old South does rise again, damnyankees have nothing to fear from the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

"We don't want to keep the fight going," says Bernyce Underwood, president of the Dallas chapter, one of the first established in the nation.

The magnolia-scented Old South died 109 years ago in a state of disrepair and disillusionment when Robert E. Lee surrendered.

Gone are the paddle wheel steamers and Negro slavery. King Cotton is now but a prince.

To all this there are some Southerners who would say, quoting Rhett Butler, "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn."

But things haven't changed as much as one might reason.

While romantic notions of the antebellum South still burn the breasts of many Southerners, Uncle Sam has a more concrete reminder of the War Between the States.

The Veterans Administration is presently paying pensions to 107 Confederate widows and 182 Union widows.

There are four Confederate widows in Texas who also receive state pensions.

The last Civil War veteran was Walter Williams who died in 1959 in a Houston hospital. Williams, a forager in Hood's Brigade and Quantrell's Raiders, was 117 years old.

If the United Daughters of the Confederacy seem like a relic of the past that's just the way they want it. The UDC was formed by Caroline Meriwether Goodlet at Nashville, Tenn., in 1894.

"Nashville is known for something besides hillbilly music," declared Mrs. Underwood.

"We want to keep alive the history, the traditions of the South, the ideals and philosophy," she said.

The UDC in Texas maintains a Confederate Museum at Austin. Other States where such museums exist are South Carolina, Mississippi and Virginia. Other Southern states have museums of which a part is devoted to Confederate memorabilia.

The UDC adroitly sidesteps politics and race. "We don't get mixed up in that. We don't take any stands on school busing or things like that. Of course, you can always write your congressman," Mrs. Underwood said. She smiled.

To join the UDC, a woman must be at least 16 years of age and have proof that her forebearers served the Confederate States of America in the military or as a civilian official.

The groups meet all across the nation and in Europe. "We have thousands of members," said Mrs. Underwood. "At our meetings, we hear from speakers on Southern poetry, cooking and the like. You know, Southern history."

Piano Auditions To Be Held At College

One hundred seventeen piano pupils from the classes of 11 local and area teachers have registered as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Teacher Division of the American College of Musicians.

The pupils will play in the National Piano Playing Auditions, stated April 30 through May 6 in the Music Building, Howard College. They will strive for honors which will be conferred according to the number of standard classic, romantic and modern pieces chosen from the master of piano-forte literature each student can creditably perform in the presence of an examiner of note from another state.

Teachers having students who will be judged are Mrs. Fred Haller, Mrs. S. T. Cheateam, Mrs. J. P. Pruitt, Mrs. Emilee Beckham, Mrs. William Row, Mrs. Chesley Wilson, Mrs. Dana Schafer and Mrs.

NORRIS BINGHAM

Mildred Mitchell, both of Garden City; Mrs. Robert Lee, Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser and Mrs. Chester Barnes. Teachers are to bring their student list to the Herald office prior to their performance.

The judge will be Norris Bingham, a graduate of Oklahoma State University with a major in piano and voice. His graduate study has been with Gottfried Galston, Washington University, St. Louis, Miss.; and two seasons with concert pianist-teacher, Guy Maier, Juilliard Music School, New York City.

Bingham has presented recitals in Southwestern Oklahoma and North Texas. He served as organist, along with other duties, for the 311th Photo Reconnaissance Wing Headquarters in World War II. He is piano accompanist for the Dallas Male Chorus and vocal coach and teacher of Dallas Male Chorus Scholarship students.

He is a member of the Juilliard Association of North Texas which sponsors workshops of prominent concert artist and teachers. Also, he is a member of the Ft. Worth Music Teachers Association, Ft. Worth Chapter American Guild of Organists, Dallas Male Chorus and faculty member of American College of Musicians

BETROTHED — Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Weaver, 1306 Sycamore, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Debara Faye, to Jerry Huff of Webb Air Force Base. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Huff, Alexandria, Ind. The wedding will be held May 17 in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Ten Added To Concert Directors

Ten new board members were elected by the Community Concert Association during a recent meeting at Howard College. At that time, four outstanding concerts were selected for the 1974-75 season and will be announced prior to the September membership drive. Bruce Smith, New York representative, will be in Big Spring at that time to work with the new officers.

Charles Bell will be president, and completing the slate will be Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall, Mrs. Earl Price, and Mrs. Paul Kionka, vice presidents; Mrs. Carl Bradley, treasurer; and Mrs. G. H. Robinson, secretary.

New board members are Ralph Smith, Capt. Richard Steele, Mrs. K. Molina, Charles Parham, Craig Fisher, Dr. Halvard Hansen, Mrs. Pete Rhymes, Mrs. Joe Pickle, Mrs. P. W. Malone and Mrs. Robert Knight.

Continuing on the board are Mrs. Larson Lloyd, Mrs. Paul Kionka, Mrs. Roy Cederberg, Robert Hickson, Bill Bradley, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. V. F. Michael, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall; Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Preston Harrison, Mrs. Price, M. A. Snell, Bill, Lowell Jones, Mrs. Halvard Hansen, Mrs. Willard Hendrick, Miss Helen Hart, Capt. U. P. Stouck and Mrs. Jack H. Burnett.

Bride-Elect Honored At Lubbock

Miss Nancy Smith, bride-elect of Louis Dunnam, was honoree at a lingerie shower in Lubbock Thursday evening. The affair was held at the Alpha Theta Lodge, 19 Greek Circle.

Hostesses were Miss Xae McLaughlin, Miss Dian Stallings, and Miss Sandy Hammer, all of Big Spring, who are students at Texas Tech University.

Refreshments were served from a polished walnut table laid with an ecru cutwork linen cloth centered with a brass epergne arranged with yellow chrysanthemums, bluebells and stock, flanked by brass candelabra holding blue candles. Crystal appointments were used in serving the 30 guests that included the honoree's mother, Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith, and her sister, Miss Suzanne Smith, both of Big Spring.

The couple will be married June 29 at the First Baptist Church in Big Spring.

'Quotable Women'

Here are some recent quotable quotes from women.

"Most people think that just because you want to sing and dance, you don't want those other things. I tell you, I look forward to getting married and having a family. I'm gonna get married some day," Actress Debra Allen, starring in the Broadway play, 'Raisin,' as Beneatha.

"The separation was just too long for us to come back together again. I think we're both victims of the Vietnam War — victims of circumstances. In a six-year period everyone grows, and we grew in our own separate ways. There have just been too many changes in our lives," Verna Van Loan, wife for 17 years of Air Force Col. Jack Van Loan, former prisoner of war, telling why she was seeking a divorce.

"We were completely ignored. I thought we were an asset. He was trying to hide us. Then he left that evening and came back to San Francisco and left me with my son and daughter-in-law who were supposed to be on their second honeymoon. He should have made me come back with him or stayed with me. So it was pure jealousy. It left me with anguish and in my anguish I decided to take off," Angelina Alioto, speaking of her husband, Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, and why she "vanished" for 18 days.

"What they need is some structure, someone to depend on. But they don't need the total dependence and separateness of an institution," Counselor Barbara Grusin of the Arizona Training Programs at Tucson, speaking about the needs of retarded children.

"Medically, I think it is a good thing to have a bar in the house. Many of the patients here are quite active and we are trying to relate the conditions to their outside life as closely as possible," Sister Theophane Collins, spiritual director of a new 150-bed hospital in Ireland, that country's first hospital with a bar.

Sunshine Is Blotted Out By Japan's High Rises

TOKYO (AP) — Every morning for the past three years, Mrs. Yoshi Uchida has had to turn on the lights in her home. It is daylight, and the sun might even be shining, but it doesn't make any difference. "I don't see the daylight any more," said Mrs. Uchida. A 10-story apartment house was built only three feet from her front door. The shadow never leaves the little, three-room home where Mrs. Uchida has lived for 23 of her 61 years. Mrs. Uchida is one of thousands of residents of Tokyo whose daily lives have been affected by booming construction projects. The situation has brought about an issue that is known here as the "right of sunshine."

CHANGE
The problem began when Japan's economic surge combined with a scarcity of land resulted in a change in traditional Japanese residential construction style. High rise apartment buildings began to go up. The Japanese call them "mansions," referring to any apartment house taller than six stories.

The mansion construction started in 1963, and they totaled 129 in that year. Now there are thousands and it is estimated they are being completed at the rate of two a day in this city of nearly 12 million people.

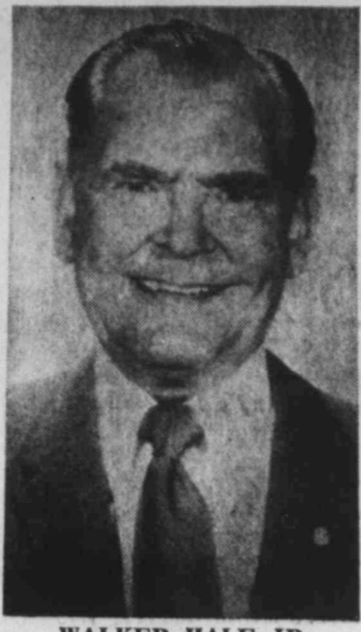

The Tokyo city government now has a sunshine counseling section to deal with problems associated with high rise construction. Looking back to the start of the boom in 1963, Shinnosuke Nakazawa, deputy chief of the department, said: "At that time, there was no sunshine right problem. The whole nation, preoccupied with economic growth, regarded such tall apartment houses as one of the products of money making endeavors. Now the picture is different."

Government statistics show it costs at least 10 million yen — or about $38,000 — to buy and live in a mansion apartment consisting of a kitchen, dining room, Western style bathroom, bedroom and living room. Part of the right of sunshine problem, Nakazawa said in an interview, is because some people who cannot afford such apartments resent those who can.

HATE DEVELOPS
"Jealousy over such expensive living has grown into a sort of hatred toward any tall buildings, whether they are public or private," he said. Complaints reaching his office from those who live in the shadow of tall buildings increased from 179 in 1969 to more than 3,000 during the past 12 months, he said.

Some lawsuits have been brought, and in 1967 the Tokyo district court ruled that compensation could be ordered for persons affected by "life in the shadow." Amounts paid in such cases have ranged from about $70 to $385,000.

There have also been incidents of picketing of mansion construction sites by irate residents of the surrounding area. There are now about 25 resident association groups in Tokyo, formed to push the right to sunshine principle. They have been supported by environmental conservation organizations.

WALKER HALE JR.

Hale Honored For Service

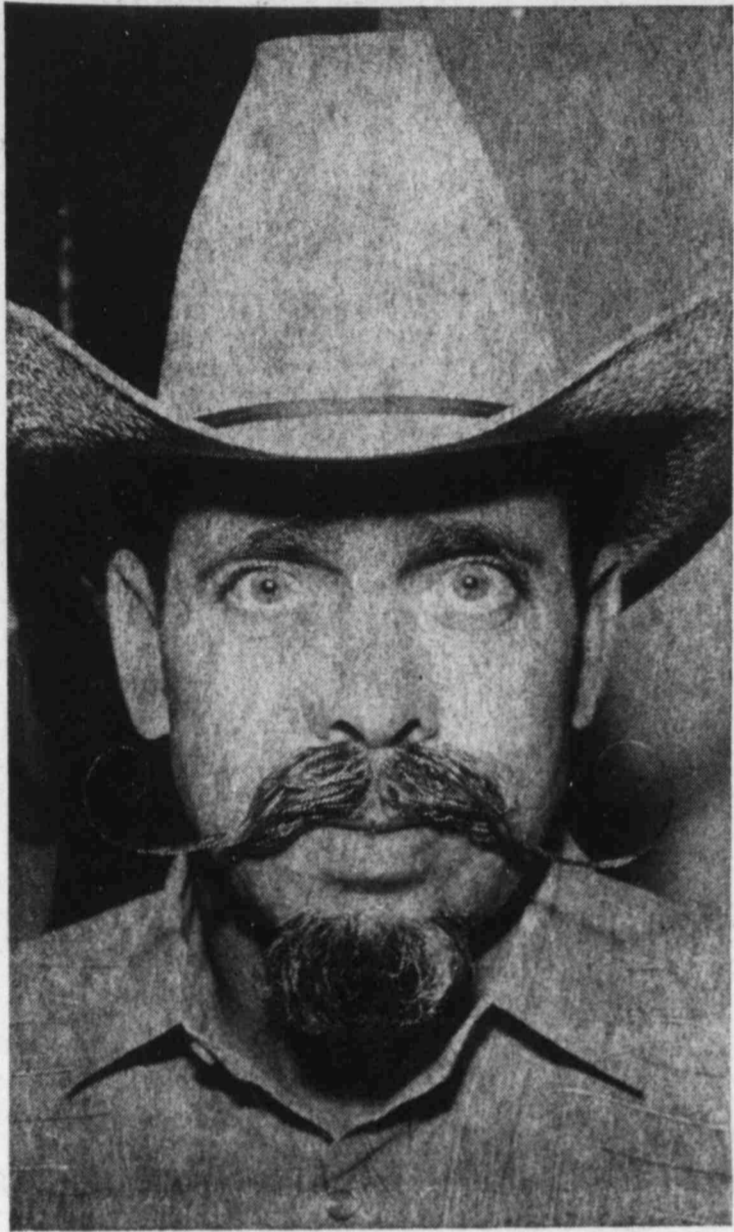

Walker (Spike) Hale Jr., gauger foreman for Shell Pipe Line Corporation, completed 23 years of service on April 23. He was honored at a dinner where he received an award in recognition and appreciation of his long period of service.

A native of Altoona, Ala., Hale grew up in Texas, graduating from Christoval High School in 1932. He started working for Shell as a laborer at McCamey, April 23, 1934. Other assignments were tank farm gauger, yardman, and relief engineer at Kermit, Wink, Monahans, and Barnsley Station near Crane, and field gauger at Denver City before he joined the U.S. Army Air Corps.

Following a military leave of absence from February 1942 to December 1945, he returned to his field gauger job at Denver City, where he later became district gauger. He was promoted to district chief gauger at Driver and then transferred to Penwell as gauger foreman where he remained for eight years until assuming his present position at Big Spring, Nov. 1, 1970.

Mr. and Mrs. Hale, who is the former Louise Redwine of Denver City, live at 2719 Central, Big Spring. They have two sons and a daughter, Walker Hale, III, of Houston, and Rocky Hale and Stormy Hale of Big Spring, who are students at Texas Tech University.

Which Way Does The ...

WIND BLOW?
WIND BLOW?
WIND BLOW?

The weather vane on the barn gleams in the sun this morning and points due south.

Earlier, before the wind steadied it in its southerly direction, the eagle twisted, turning first one way, then the other.

It reminded me of the way I sometimes feel. Caught in the persistent cry of changing values, confused by the onrush of progressive ideas, I twist and turn, trying to select the good and reject the bad.

I'm glad for the steady influence of my church. The principles it teaches never change. Honesty, integrity and a love of God are important whatever the mores of society. Knowing this keeps me happy in a world of change and upheaval.

Your church can do the same for you.
