DEFREEZE AMONG THOSE WHO DIED

Patty Hearst Not One Of Shootout Victims

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was not among the five victims of a shootout between Symbionese Liberation Army members and police, the coroner said Saturday. But Donald D. DeFreeze, self-styled field marshal of the terrorist group, was identified as one of the dead.

A spokesman for the Hearsts said at their home in Hillsborough, Calif., that the family was "certainly relieved" to hear the news but was still "extremely apprehensive about the whereabouts" of their eldest daughter, who was kidnapped by the SLA Feb. 4.

Los Angeles Coroner Thomas Noguchi said four of the five victims had been identified as suspected members of the SLA. He said the fifth victim, a woman, had not been identified but definitely was not Miss Hearst.

"Extensive comparative studies have excluded Miss Patricia Hearst as the one white female victim who remains unidentified," he said.

He said that, in addition to DeFreeze, other victims were Nancy Ling Perry, Patricia "Mizmoon" Soltysik and William Wolfe.

DeFreeze, a 30-year-old black also known as "General Field Marshal Cinque," was the recognized leader-spokesman of the terrorist group. He has been described by law enforcement officials as a lonely out-cast who was obsessed with guns and had been in and out of prison since his first arrest at the age of 14.

Mrs. Perry, 26, white, was a former Barry Goldwater-for-President campaign worker turned English literature major at Berkeley, topless blackjack dealer and, finally, revolutionary. She was considered the theoretician of the SLA and was believed to have written many of its manifestos.

Miss Soltysik, 29, was believed to be a coleader of the group. Wolfe, 23, the son of a Pennsylvania anesthesiologist, became a political activist while studying at Berkeley. They were both white.

Authorities have said that the SLA was a multiracial group of about 25 hard-core militant men and women. The death of DeFreeze, Mrs. Perry and the others cuts deeply into their membership and top ranks.

Ironically, their deaths were not triggered by overt rebellion against the government which they said they wanted to overthrow by armed revolution but by a simple case of common thievery — the shoplifting of a pair of 49-cent socks.

The petty theft at a sporting goods store in nearby Inglewood Thursday touched off one of California's largest-ever manhunts, ending 24 hours later with 500 heavily armed policemen and FBI agents laying siege to a yellow stucco house in south Los Angeles.

Asked whether the Friday night shootout that led to the deaths of the five would put the SLA out of operation, a police spokesman replied, "I hope."

The spokesman declined to speculate whether Miss Hearst, who had renounced her family and pledged allegiance to the SLA, could be with other suspected SLA members still at large.

William Taylor Harris, 29; his wife, Emily, 27; and an unidentified woman had been sought after the shootout at the sporting goods store Thursday. The coroner said that when he called the Hearst family to tell them the news that their daughter was not one of the victims, Hearst replied with a burst of emotion: "Thank God."

Noguchi told newsmen during a 40-minute news conference that DeFreeze died of gunshot wounds and there was some possibility that he may have committed suicide. "There is that possibility, but we're not quite certain yet," he said.

He said that DeFreeze suffered a gunshot wound in his right temple as well as several other gunshot wounds.

Noguchi said the other victims all died of burns and smoke inhalation.

Asst. Police Chief Darrell Gates said that an article with Miss Hearst's name on it was found in the house but added: "We don't think she had been in the house. Our judgment is that she was not there, but again, there's some speculation."

Noguchi said examinations had also ruled out the possibility that the unidentified woman was another suspected SLA member, Camilla Hall.

Mrs. Perry had multiple gunshot wounds, including one in the chest and one that hit her spine, Noguchi said.

CLUES SOUGHT AT SHOOTOUT SCENE — A can of debris from a burned remnants of a house in south-central Los Angeles is dumped on the street to be sifted for possible clues in the investigation Saturday of Friday's gun battle in which five persons believed to be members of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army were killed. Only a wall which fronted the house remained standing.

DEAD — Patricia Soltysik, above, was identified as among the five victims of the shootout at a reputed Symbionese Liberation Army hideout Friday. Los Angeles Coroner Thomas Noguchi identified four of the five victims in a report Saturday. Others identified were Donald D. DeFreeze, self-styled field Marshal Cinque of the SLA, Nancy Ling Perry, and William Wolfe. A fifth victim has not been identified yet.

Fernandez: Clubs Like Lions Need Motivation

The motivation of service gives Lions the ability to cope with the ups and downs of club life, Paul Fernandez told a large luncheon crowd of District 2A-1 Lions and wives here Saturday noon.

The Honolulu, Hawaii, businessman, who is a director of Lions International, spoke to the annual convention luncheon at the Big Spring High school cafeteria. This event, sponsored by the Downtown Midland Club which, with seven other clubs in Midland, is seeking the 1975 convention, also the annual necrology ceremony by the Rev. J.E. Barrington; Midland, which memorialized 41 Lions who had died during the past year.

Clubs have to have motivation to keep going and to succeed, said Fernandez, but every person and every organization can be motivated if its dominant motivation can be pinpointed and appealed to.

"Please be grateful," he added, "for our traditions and heritage of beneficial service, and pray God for continuation of this humanitarian adventure."

He was presented with a certificate from Gov. Dolph Briscoe, naming him an honorary citizen of Texas, and he and Mrs. Fernandez were given a lamp stand made from the core of a deep West Texas oil well. The Midland Downtown stage band furnished music for the event.

The days activities began with a Key Member breakfast at the headquarters hotel where some 50 individuals (who had introduced two or more men to Lionism) were recognized. Four of the group held the senior master key for 25 members, three had 50 members and one, Duke Jimerson, Midland, had a record of 163 members to his credit.

Wade Daugherty, Big Lake, with a 75, won the golf tournament the opening day, said Jimmy Ray Smith, chairman. Prizes went to Dr. Tommy L. Russell, Winters, and Orville Fletcher, San Angelo.

Jim Lemons, backed by the Big Spring Downtown Lions, was introduced as the nominee for district governor, succeeding Tom Nipp, Midland.

Friday evening the queen's contest, held by many visiting Lions to be the best in many years, was Lorelei Beck, a statuesque brunette sponsored by the Midland Downtown Club, won the honors. She was crowned by Linda Young, also of Midland, who served for the 1973-74 year. First runnerup was Nancy Dianne Morgan, San Angelo Downtown, and second runnerup Laurie Proctor, Big Spring Downtown. Entertainment was furnished by a Big Spring High School Stage band and other band members.

Visiting women were entertained Saturday afternoon with a book review at First Federal Community Room with Mrs. Clyde Angel presenting the review.

Business sessions consumed Saturday morning and afternoon preceding elections at 4:15 p.m.

Syria Tentatively OKs Troop Separation Plan

TEL AVIV (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger won Syria's tentative approval Saturday of an American proposal to separate the Israeli and Syrian armies on the Golan Heights front, U.S. officials said.

They said the turnabout from an impending impasse developed at a 3½-hour meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad in Damascus. The secretary then flew to Israel to complete the details with Premier Golda Meir.

Kissinger had already drafted a statement to explain why he was leaving the Middle East without a Golan settlement, but undisclosed concessions from the Syrians convinced him he could end the fighting and separate the opposing armies by working with Israeli and Syrian negotiators for three or four more days.

U.S. officials described Kissinger as very optimistic. Newsmen were told unless there was an unexpected snag, the agreement would be signed in Geneva by Israeli and Syrian representatives.

The fighting is expected to continue until that point, but it will end when there is a settlement. U.S. officials said Kissinger is very close to getting a pact.

These officials confirmed, meanwhile, that President Nixon sent Kissinger a message last Wednesday instructing him to remain in the region until he could arrange a disengagement.

Nevertheless, with the two sides only inching toward each other and the mission 21 days old, Kissinger planned to fly to Cairo after reporting to Mrs. Meir late Saturday night.

He had intended to reach Washington by Sunday night.

Before leaving Damascus airport, Kissinger said that "significant progress has been made and the prospects for an agreement have been advanced."

Reviewing the ... Big Spring Week ... with Joe Pickle

Among the beneficiaries of the demand for oil are various local governmental agencies. For instance, County Judge A. G. Mitchell estimates that the county's tax roll (on a 25 per cent basis of assessment) will be around $100 million, up sharply from $85 million this year. About $11 million of this is due to greater production values, most of the rest industrial gain.

A side note to this was the booming of Forsan Independent School District values by about one-third to approximately $42 million. As a result, Forsan trustees cut the tax rate 30 cents, welcome and rare news for the taxpayers, but something that gave Forsan schoolmen the popularity of leprosy among school circles.

The four winners of the ninth-annual Zale's Youth Achievement award were Kayla Gaskins, Sands (Ackerly); Brenda Cowley, Forsan; Dennis Mays, Coahoma; and Tom Sorley, Big Spring. Each of these had an impressive list of accomplishment, and it had to be plenty impressive to nose out other finalists. Zale's sponsors this event in only one other city—Dallas. Skinny-Dipper Is Planning To Move OCOHOPEE, Fla. (AP) — The hermit of the Everglades says he no longer feels free to skinny dip in his canal so he's put his home up for sale and plans to move deeper into the swamp.

"It's getting too public here," says Leon Wilden. "The people are beginning to drive me crazy."

Wilden, a native Floridian with an engineering degree, moved into the swamp 22 years ago, built a clapboard shack and filled in much of his 12-acre grove of cypress trees to form a garden of rare plants and flowers.

Wilden, who is in his 60s, says he thought he had found a quiet, peaceful existence where he could surround himself with nature.

Troubles Mount Up For One Motorist

NEW YORK (AP) — Failure to stop for a traffic light snowballed for 47-year-old James Willis, police said Saturday.

Detective James Ferguson said he stopped Willis' car in the Bronx for the traffic violation early Saturday.

When he spotted a policy slip, an illegal letter ticket, in the car, he took Willis to the station house, Ferguson said.

But Willis offered Ferguson $50 to let him go, the detective said.

So the motorist was charged with bribery, policy slip possession, possession of a forged driver's license and running a light, police said.

NEW QUEEN AND COURT — Lorelei Beck, striking brunette nominated by the Midland Downtown Lions Club became the 1974-75 Queen of Lions District 2A-1 here Friday evening. END OF THE LINE — Operators of two vehicles driving across Birdwell Park early Saturday had their odyssey interrupted when one of the vehicles couldn't negotiate one of the ravines bisecting the park.

Within the hour, the pickup truck was freed. The incident occurred after light rains had peppered the area.

Committee Pondering Over Nixon Involvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The evidence presented to the House Judiciary Committee in its impeachment proceedings so far raises the question: "Is a president responsible for the conduct of his subordinates?" The answer, at least in the minds of the 38 members of the committee, could be an important factor in deciding whether they recommend the impeachment of President Nixon. For four days now they have been given a detailed presentation of evidence centering more on former White House aides than on Nixon. The activities of more than a dozen of the people around Nixon have been traced through the Watergate break-in, the cover-up, the collecting of money and its payment to Watergate defendants, the Senate Watergate Committee and grand jury investigations, and the trials resulting from it all.

FAMILY BREADWINNER Scholarship May Be Turned Down

THOMPSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Angus Gaither, 18, is torn between family responsibility and a thirst for learning. The valedictorian of Thompsonville High School in Thompsonville, Illinois, says he has until Monday to inform Harvard University officials if he can accept a scholarship providing $5,250 a year. He also has been nominated for the service academies at West Point and Annapolis. "It's Harvard I want because of academic opportunities there in the field of law and politics," says Gaither. "The university gave me a 30-day extension for accepting the scholarship and the deadline is Monday. "Here I am faced with probably the biggest decision of my life and having a hard time finding the time just to think about it." Gaither's father is dead. His brother, J.C., 32, suffered a stroke two years ago and is partially paralyzed. A month ago his mother, Clea, 60, had a stroke and is bedfast.

Northern Ireland Wants Troops To Return Home

DUBLIN (AP) — The government asked the United Nations Saturday to release more than 323 Irish soldiers from the Middle East peacekeeping force to man border posts following the worst bombings in almost five years of Irish sectarian feuding. As Ireland counted the cost of the bombings, informed sources said the government was expected to press for tougher laws against Irish Republican Army guerrillas. The IRA, fighting to drive the British from the North and unite the province with the Republic, was not blamed for Friday's bombings, and also denied any involvement in them. But many Irishmen believed it was the IRA's presence in the Republic that triggered the explosions. For citizens in the Republic, Friday's blasts were a sudden and terrible illustration of what Belfast has suffered for half a decade. Big bombs in three cars exploded in the center of Dublin within minutes of each other at 5:30 p.m. when the area was packed with shoppers.

THE WEEK

The recount of that neck-and-neck Democratic primary race for district clerk came down to the wire again, and when it was all over, each had gained six votes and Peggy Cradden had edged Fern Cox by a single vote. Next step appears to be a legal (or court) contest which means that specific votes will have to be challenged.

Big Spring had the honor during the weekend to entertain several hundred visiting Lions from the 25-county area of District 2A-1. Hospitality even included a brief shower. A Big Springer, Jim Lemons, was elected district governor.

Lou Capone, speaking at a sales seminar sponsored by the Big Spring Herald, last week urged merchants to go after what he called "those discretionary dollars" and halt the dollar leakage which goes to neighboring cities.

This week, if all goes well, Dal Herring will see a book, "Oil Patch Tales" roll off the press this week. Now that word has gotten out, Herring has been deluged with orders for the colorful collection of stories and incidents. Siboney, parent company of Gamco, had a banner year in 1974, according to the annual report. The big gainers were the oil-or-enterprises; at the other end was Gamco, hard-hit by impoundment of federal education funds. However money is beginning to flow and 1974 looks to be much better.

The City of Big Spring is seeking to negotiate a new basic water contract with Cosden Oil and Chemical. The price for raw water, taken off the CR-147D line, has been the Big Spring rate plus one cent. The city proposes to put a 25-cent floor under that.

Despite the hot blistering winds, some few wildflowers are still coming on, among them beargrass yucca with its creamy white spikes. Also the cholla (walking cane) cactus and prickly pear are putting on quite a show with shades of yellow, bronze and fuschia.

High winds haven't helped the cotton situation. When they weren't sand blasting tender sprouts, winds were sapping moisture, and where the soil hadn't been broken, crust was so heavy young cotton couldn't get through.

From the notebook: We somehow missed the name of Clayton Bates who had been among the old timers who died recently. Born here, this stalwart soul lived in Howard County except for a brief period homesteading in Arkansas.

Although continues to get wide reaction from a Feb. 25 letter he wrote blistering Sen. Henry Jackson for statements about oil production; the latest compliment came from S. J. Marsden, professor of Petroleum Engineering at Stanford University.

Scientist Says Overuse Of Atomic Fuel Is Bad

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A University of Georgia scientist who helped develop the first atomic bomb says too much emphasis is being put on nuclear power as the best energy source for the future. Dr. George E. Boyd, who recently left the Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee, stressed the need for environmental impact studies on all alternative energy sources.

SERIOUS PROBLEMS

Boyd said the heavy use of atomic fuel could have serious environmental consequences. "Many people don't realize that the accidental 'melt-down' or malfunction of a large breeder reactor would mean writing off 1,000 square miles of territory surrounding such a power plant," he said. "Lethal doses of radioactive plutonium would make the area unusable for 250,000 years or more. You might as well build a fence around the land and forget it," he said.

Satellite Saved By Motor Firing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An extra space firing of a weather satellite's motors has apparently saved the mission from failure, space agency officials say. The Synchronous Meteorological Satellite missed its planned orbit early Friday by a lack of thrust from the Delta rocket that hurled it into space, but officials said that the extra motor firing late Friday appeared to have placed the satellite in a nearly stationary orbit some 22,000 miles over Brazil.

The exact determination of the orbit will not be known until sometime today, the officials said. They indicated the satellite will perform a small figure 8 in space and will be about 15 degrees away from its planned position. They said this is not expected to affect its performance, although there might be a slight problem in receiving the photographs that will be sent to earth every 30 minutes.

Ford Reasons Impeachment Chances Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says he thinks there is an even chance the House Judiciary Committee will vote to impeach President Nixon. But Ford says he does not think an impeachment resolution would pass the House.

"I suspect the odds are 50-50 on the committee," Ford said in an interview with The Associated Press. "I don't think the odds are 50-50 in the House."

"I think, at the moment, the President could probably win in the House, a 4 to 3 ratio, something like that."

If the impeachment move is defeated, Ford said, it then would take successes in foreign and domestic policy for the President to recover the public support he has lost during the past year.

Partitioning Is Likely Soon In South Africa

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — In less than five years a chunk of the Republic of South Africa is due to be partitioned as an independent nation.

It's called the Tanskei and it already possesses a measure of autonomy as a tribal homeland or "bantustan."

Creation of these bantustans is the cornerstone of "separate development" of the races, the official term these days for apartheid.

Blacks are promised full citizenship rights — and no racial barriers — in their homelands, which will total 13 per cent of the country's land surface.

Blacks would, and for basic economic reasons must, continue to "sojourn" in white areas, but they would be expected to return eventually to their tribal homeland.

The Transkei stood alone for years as the prototype while the overall plan marked time, largely for want of sufficient money and a logical and fair method of redrawing boundaries between black and white areas.

Vote Offer Claims Are Investigated

District attorneys and their aides explored Saturday reports of money offered in return for support of an unnamed candidate or candidates for speaker of the Texas House.

The speaker, one of the two most powerful persons, along with the lieutenant governor, in state government, is elected by fellow House members.

The Houston Chronicle said Allen told friends that he received an offer of $2,000 to vote for a speaker candidate from an aide to that candidate.

The Austin district attorney declined, "I'm not saying it has gone so far as being an investigation."

Board Of Education To Get New Text Materials Nov. 9

AUSTIN — New text materials for Texas public schools, including books and complete learning systems keyed to the needs of young Spanish-speaking children, will be submitted to the State Board of Education for adoption Nov. 9.

The 1975-76 textbook proclamation, calling for $16.7 million in new contracts, was approved Saturday, May 11, by the State Board of Education. Lynn Hise, assistant superintendent, is working out details of a bilingual program here.

Spanish language materials needed to implement the new Bilingual Education Law which goes into effect next September will cost approximately $2 million, according to Texas Education Agency estimates.

These books and learning systems, designed for children attending kindergarten and the first two grades, will include tapes and manipulative materials for classroom use. A multiple list of textbooks for bilingual instruction in grades one and two includes Spanish language development systems, basal reading systems in Spanish, supplementary reading systems in Spanish, English as a second language systems, mathematics, social studies, and science systems in Spanish.

The Board also approved a $12.4 million allocation to service current contracts which include Braille and large type books, textbooks, now under adoption, and other costs.

Members of the 1974 State Textbook Committee, appointed Saturday (May 11) by the Board, will review all materials submitted by publishers this summer. Each committee member will also enlist the aid of teaching specialists in the different field to read and evaluate each text or system of materials. Detailed reports from these Texas teachers will then form the basis for committee decisions on the books and other materials to be adopted.

Interested citizens, too, will be able to review each text well before the adoption deadline. Publishers with finished books being offered for use beginning September 1, 1975, must have a supply available at their Texas depository by June 7, 1974, for purchase by the public. As other books being offered are completed they, too, must be supplied from the publishers' Texas depositories.

Publishers are also required to send one copy of each finished book to the 20 regional education service centers located in all sections of the

Model Engine Is Winner In Meet

Joe Puckett, son of Mrs. Dorothy Robertson of Seminole, won first place division championship last weekend in Austin's Texas Industrial Arts Interscholastic competition.

Puckett's model radial engine was judged first-place winner in Lubbock's West Texas Fair two weeks ago in district competition. This made him eligible for the state contest. Mrs. Viola O'Daniel of 1794 Harvard is Puckett's grandmother. Puckett is a graduating senior in Seminole High School.

Sex Request Nets Prison

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Willie James Levine was under an 18-year prison sentence today, convicted of killing his wife because she made excessive sexual demands on him.

The Port Arthur man was found guilty of murder Thursday and was assessed the prison term.

A statement of police was introduced during his trial in Austin by August 9. Publishers which Levine was quoted as saying his wife, Ruby, kept all objections in writing by waking him up with demands for sexual intercourse.

Most Requests For Pet Caskets Can Be Filled

MONROE, Conn. (AP) — "Our caskets are pine boxes with satin-lined foam rubber mattresses, with lace satin blankets and lace-covered satin pillows. They serve as both casket and vault, are airtight and watertight and have bronze handles."

And some are only 10 inches long.

For over a year the Hughes and Chapman Monument Co. has been selling these luxury caskets for pets. The one described above held a parakeet.

"If your grandfather died, why would you purchase a casket? Because you love him," said Isabelle Jennings, company vice president. "Our caskets are for pets that are loved."

Since her company branched out from monuments for people, she has sold 170 animal caskets for creatures ranging from caterpillars to dogs.

"We're able to fill most requests, but once someone asked for a casket the size of a horse, we couldn't fill that one."

Consolidation Plan May Shutter USDA Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversial plan by the Agriculture Department to consolidate field offices of four major agencies into "service centers" to give farmers one-step service is proceeding on target, officials say.

The plan was announced Nov. 21 and drew immediate protests from many members of Congress and local officials that would result in USDA offices being closed in many counties. Although department officials concede some counties will not have full service centers representing all agencies, they say the plan will not mean widespread abandonment of existing offices.

Joseph R. Wright Jr., assistant secretary of agriculture for administration, said rumors that the consolidation plan had been abandoned were not true. But there have been problems in getting full-scale consolidation plans approved at the state level, he told a reporter.

As a result, Wright said, state administrative committees have been asked to submit consolidation plans for counties that already have been agreed upon, meaning that "the more difficult cases" will be worked out later.

Consolidation of county field offices in the USDA network has been going on for many years. But the service center concept announced last fall served notice that consolidation would be undertaken on a broad scale, with no county immune to the possibility of having some of its facilities combined with those in others.

Wright said no new service center has yet begun operation as result of the new plan, but he estimated that about 100 would be functioning by June 30 and that by the end of this year about 500 would be in operation.

Chrysler Raising Auto Prices Average Of $46

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says increased steel costs forced it to raise prices for the second time in a month and the fifth time since September.

The firm promised Friday's announcement of an average $46 hike in sticker price will be the last increase for the model year. But it conceded there will be more hikes when 1975 models are introduced in September to cover the cost of government-mandated equipment.

The firm's 1974 vehicles now have gone up an average $46 since September.

The latest increase includes an average $37 on the base price of cars and trucks, effective June 1, and a $9 increase in shipping charges, starting Monday.

The nation's third largest automaker said the latest increase would offset recent boosts in steel costs averaging $35 a vehicle.

'Did Nixon Know?' Some In Peoria Think He Did

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — It was early morning and raining and the man standing under the roof of the stockyards was Bill Friedman, weathered and old. He was talking about Richard Nixon.

"People figure he knew all about it all the time, and that'd be my opinion; and they figure, 'Why, some of those boys were guilty, and why didn't he get it out and over with a long time ago?'" Friedman leaned on his hog-sorting pole.

"Impeached? I'm not sure about that, but a hell of a lot of them think he should resign, and that's my feeling myself. Now, some people think he didn't have anything to do with it. And some want to shoot him. But, in general, a lot of them want him to resign."

CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT — Veteran film and television actor Gary Merrill, 58, of Falmouth, Me., said Friday he will be a candidate for the presidency in 1976. Merrill made the disclosure during the Maine state democratic convention. "I would like to be the Democrats' answer to Ronald Reagan, and I'm a better actor," he said.

Commission Won't Ban Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has voted 3 to 2 that it cannot ban high-tar cigarettes under the 1960 Hazardous Substances Act.

The ban had been sought in a petition filed Feb. 1 by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, and the American Public Health Association.

The possibility of the ban had been raised last August by Richard O. Simpson, commission chairman. Simpson had said it was an open question whether the commission could act against cigarettes under the hazardous substances act, despite the specific exclusion of tobacco products by the Consumer Product Safety Act, which set up the commission a year ago.

Action on Smoking and Health, a Washington-based anti-smoking group, termed the commission decision "incorrect and premature."

"Taking such precipitous action on a vital matter affecting the public health without benefit of a public hearing was contrary to established administrative procedure and a very bad omen for consumers relying on the commission," said John Banzhaf, director of the group.

He said his group probably will ask the commission to reconsider its decision and hold a public hearing.

Simpson's statement last year had brought down a stream of criticism from tobacco state legislators including Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who sought an opinion on a possible ban from the General Accounting Office.

It responded that "an outright ban on high-tar cigarettes involves a major policy decision which the Congress has not delegated to any regulatory agency."

The petition had requested that all cigarettes containing 22 milligrams or more of tar be banned as hazardous substances. This would have included 27 brands accounting for 15 per cent of the cigarettes sold annually.

Baptists Want Provision Against State Gambling

DALLAS (AP) — Baptist convention would get its members out to defeat the new document.

The document, now being prepared by legislators for submission to a vote, will be defeated if it does not include a strong anti-parimutuel gambling section, he added.

He said the May 4 referendum results, in which parimutuel wagering was narrowly defeated, "must be made clear in the Constitution."

"In light of the recent vote, in light of growing citizen concern about crime and corruption and in light of the strong feelings that exist against this in Texas, I cannot imagine the people of this state accepting a new constitution which does not forbid parimutuel gambling," he said.

Landes added that Baptists want no more referendums on gambling in the future.

A constitutional provision against gambling would stop the legislature from passing laws permitting gambling and prohibit voters from balloting on the issue.

"The people have once again spoken decisively their opposition to parimutuel gambling, as they have seven other times in the past 24 years," Landes said of the May 4 referendum.

Mitchell JP Is Stepping Down

COLORADO CITY — Leonard Henderson, Justice of Peace for Precinct 1 who won the Democratic primary election for another term in office earlier this month, has resigned, effective June 1.

Henderson, who is 73 years of age, said he was going to devote a little time to fishing and his leisure.

Henderson polled 344 votes, compared to 270 for his challenger, O. O. (Odie) Wise.

No successor was immediately named.

India Atomic Blast First For Country

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India set off its first nuclear explosion in an underground test early today, the official Indian radio said. The blast brought the world's largest democracy into the so-called nuclear club up to now reserved for major military powers.

Both Indian national news agencies said the explosion was conducted in the Rajasthan area west of New Delhi, site of the Great Indian Desert.

The Indian Atomic Energy Commission said the bomb was designed for such peaceful purposes as mining and earth-moving, and that India has no intention of producing nuclear weapons. But the test indicated India may be able to build such weapons in the future if it chooses to do so.

In Switzerland, Pakistan's chief delegate to the Geneva disarmament conference said the Indian nuclear test will have far-reaching consequences for the entire situation on the subcontinent, where India and Pakistan have fought three wars in the last quarter century.

Ambassador Niaz A. Naik said the test meant a qualitative change in the political and military situation and contested the Indian claim that it was exclusively designed to serve peaceful purposes.

"We have always maintained there is no difference between tests for peaceful purposes and those for military purposes," Naik said. "The technology is the same. We have kept warning the international community against the dangers of this backward entry into the nuclear club."

There was no immediate reaction from Washington, D.C.

In Russia, India's ally, the official Soviet news agency Tass said the test was a peaceful explosion. It said the test stemmed from India's "striving to keep at the level of world technology in the peaceful uses of nuclear explosions."

But in Tokyo, Japan's two major antinuclear organizations charged the test was "a step leading to further nuclear arms race and another environmental degradation."

The Socialist-backed Japan Congress Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs and the Communist-supported Japan Council Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs made almost identical statements on India's first nuclear explosion.

"The Indian experiment undoubtedly will stimulate other nations to race for further nuclear weapons developments," the Congress said. "Especially it will give an ideal excuse to China and France."

The only nations now known to have nuclear weapons are the United States, Russia, China, Britain and France.

The Indian announcement said the test was conducted at a depth of about 328 feet. The size of the bomb was not given.

Experts had long suspected that India was on the verge of a nuclear bomb capacity. The consultative committee of the Indian Parliament charged with atomic energy matters was advised last year that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government was conducting experiments in the field.

But today's announcement was the first public indication that India had the ability to build and explode a bomb.

Mrs. Gandhi's government has strongly criticized atmospheric nuclear tests, particularly those conducted by China since it joined the nuclear powers in 1964. But India, like France, has refused to sign the nuclear non-proliferation treaty of July 1, 1968.

That pact was pushed by the United States in an effort to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

IN WASHINGTON

Now, three months later and nearly three weeks after the transcripts, Mrs. Brown has gone to Washington. "She's staying at the Watergate Hotel," her husband said. He added that he doesn't involve himself very much in his wife's impeachment efforts. The signature count was unavailable.

Mayor Dick Carver, however, has sensed no impeachment groundswell. Settling back in the black leather chair behind his desk at the Carver Lumber Co., he reported: "Among the people I talk to, I find the desire to see the provisions of the Constitution utilized."

Carver said there was nothing to show that any overwhelming number of Peorians necessarily want to see Nixon resign or the House of Representatives actually vote for impeachment. They simply want, he said, to see proceedings stay within the due process of law.

"But the transcripts are disturbing as the daylight to me," Carver said. One of the nation's younger mayors at 36, he has a neatly trimmed blond thatch, wears light blue slacks and button-down shirts. He fixed his blue-gray eyes on a corner of the ceiling.

He is a Republican.

"I find a desire among the people I talk to to support the President — but a sense of regret that Watergate was not handled in a more forthright manner. Support has wavered substantially. Mine has."

He's proud of being mayor of Peoria.

There are many things here to be proud of.

Peoria is an urban skyline on the heights above the Illinois River in the heart of central Illinois farming country. Peoria is the home of the Caterpillar Tractor Co., which employs nearly 30,000 area residents in its plants and offices. Peoria is the home of Hiram Walker & Sons, makers of whisky and employers of 1,600. And Peoria is the home of a Pabst brewery, which employs 1,000.

NOT AFRAID

Peorians like to say they haven't felt any recession since 1958. And they like to say they're not afraid of a depression. Government make-work projects would increase the market for Caterpillars. And everybody would drink more.

Not that Peoria doesn't have its troubles. A former mayor is under an indictment charging bribery and official misconduct in liquor licensing. And its newspaper, the Journal Star, recently reported that Peoria is the home, as well, of 15 massage parlors. Police Supt. Allen Andrews said: "We suspect some of the massage parlors have become the modern versions of the old-fashioned house of prostitution."

Cousin Of Rocket Fuel Is Used To Battle Disease

DALLAS (AP) — A Canadian cancer fighter is using a chemical cousin of rocket fuel to battle with "remarkable" success advanced Hodgkin's Disease, a mysterious affliction of children.

Hodgkin's disease, of unknown cause, is a usually fatal cancer of the lymph system which kills approximately 3,300 American adults and children annually.

It strikes some 15,000 new victims each year, has its highest incidence among those in their 20s and is about twice as common in males as females for reasons still unknown.

In the past 10 years or so, steady progress has been made in prolonging the lives of victims by employing super-voltage X rays and/or combinations of drugs previously found effective against childhood leukemia.

But, until now, most of the reported experience with such treatments has concerned Hodgkin's Disease in adults. For one thing, the disease is deemed trickier to assess and treat in children than in grown-ups.

On Friday, however, Dr. Richard D.T. Jenkin (cq) of Princess Margaret Hospital in Toronto described perhaps the most extensive experience reported to date in applying such methods to childhood patients.

Reporting to the First National Conference on Childhood Cancer, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, he gave this account:

A review of 109 children with early to advanced Hodgkin's treated at his hospital during the 15-year period 1958-1973 has revealed "a marked progressive increase" in the so-called five-year survival rate for all stages of the disease.

A five-year survival is regarded by cancer specialists as offering a good chance for ultimate cure.

Jenkin said these prolonged survival rates increased from 38 per cent for the 1958-1964 to 95 per cent for the 1969-1973 span.

He also said rates of relapses—always a problem with this disease—also dropped off sharply, with 57 per cent of the most recently treated group going five years without any relapses compared to only 19 per cent in the 1958-1964 cohorts.

Jenkin attributed the gains to use of progressively more extended radiation treatment for patients in the earlier stages of the disease and radiation plus a combination of several drugs for children in advanced and highly recurrent stages.

The drug treatment was based largely on combinations originally employed by researchers of the U.S. National Cancer Institute (NCI) in treating adult Hodgkin's patients.

And one of the drugs is procarbazine hydrochloride—a synthetic chemical derived in part from hydrazine, one of the rocket fuels used in America's space program.

Ford Defends 'Zig-Zagging'

HONOLULU (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says he doesn't think he is "zig-zagging" by defending President Nixon's innocence in the Watergate case while criticizing some of the ways in which the White House has handled the affair. "I think that's an expression of my own views on several separate aspects of Watergate," Ford told a news conference here Friday.

It was a busy day for Ford who also gave three speeches, attended two receptions and laid a wreath at the Arizona Memorial commemorating the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. He wound up the day with a speech to a GOP fund raising dinner where he said Republicans must prevent the Democrats from making the November congressional election "a national referendum on Watergate."

Ford later flew to the neighboring island of Hawaii for two days of relaxation at the Mauna Kea beach hotel. At his news conference, Ford expressed hope a confrontation could be avoided between the White House and the House Judiciary Committee over the panel's new subpoena for presidential tapes and diaries. He agreed with the White House that the committee has enough evidence, but added if it decides afterwards that additional material "is relevant to the further study of the charges, I would hope that the White House would be cooperative."

Ford also said he agrees with the White House that the impeachment hearings should be open to the public, saying "the public's interest is far, far greater" than the danger of prejudicing a Senate trial if the House votes to impeach Nixon.

Texas Tourist Train May Get Depots At Each End

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Recommendations are expected from the staff of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission to construct passenger depots at each end of an East Texas 26-mile tourist train. The staff also is expected to suggest a maintenance center at Rusk. Public hearings were held Friday with delegations from Rusk, Palestine and Jacksonville discussing a staff plan to move the proposed maintenance yard from Maydell to Rusk.

But he said if the railroad was to succeed equal facilities were needed at Rusk and Palestine, or each end of the run. He said Palestine has been a "railroad town" for 100 years, and "gentlemen, you need a railroad atmosphere to support your railroad park."

The county judge from Rusk, Orvan Jones, told the staff, however, that Rusk had worked so long "We should be there fustest with the mostest." Rep. Emmett Whitehead, D-Rusk, a former mayor, said although Rusk only has a population of about 5,000 it had raised approximately $300,000 to support the railroad. A park the city is developing in connection with the tourist train, he said, eventually would cost $500,000.

UNIFIED CITY Rusk mayor Morris Hassell said the project has "unified our city more than anything else." Paul Schlimper of the parks and wildlife department said the staff expects the trains to draw 100,000 tourists annually within 3-5 years. Abilene already has given the department a steam engine, and the staff plans to obtain another in Arizona and is "scouting" in Wisconsin. "Within 10-15 years we won't be able to get one," said Schlimper. One reason for moving the maintenance center from Maydell, said another staff member, Senn Simmons, was that the terrain was not level. "We were quite concerned with runaway cars," he said, mentioning that a runaway could go a couple of miles before it would have to head uphill. The staff chose Rusk for the center, he said, for economy; an interchange with the Cotton Belt railroad; and to reduce the land that would be needed in Palestine. Schlimper estimated the total project will cost $4,849,000.

Fame Of Sex-Change Surgeon Spreading

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP) — It's like a fashionable gynecologist's waiting room anywhere in the world. Young women, some accompanied by their husbands, anxiously await their turn while nurses scurry about. Every few days, though, a different kind of patient rings at Dr. George Burou's door: a man, invariably alone, comes by appointment to be transformed into a woman. Dr. Burou, 63-year-old French surgeon and gynecologist, is regarded as a pioneer of the sex change operation. Since he first developed his method in 1956, he has performed nearly 1,000 such operations. Many of his patients have been Americans. "I know of no other doctor in the world who has done more than about 60 such interventions," he said in a rare interview. Although his renown has spread through what he calls "a kind of transsexual mafia," Dr. Burou shuns publicity. He waited more than 16 years before presenting the first scientific paper on his technique to a medical congress.

'KIND OF MAFIA' The sun-tanned, athletic-looking physician says he entered the sex-change field almost by accident. "A patient, a French electrical engineer, pestered me for months to do it because he could no longer endure life as a man. I finally consented and tried it as an experiment. Surprisingly, it worked, and the patient has lived very satisfactorily as a woman ever since."

That was in 1956. In February 1973, Dr. Burou publicly revealed his method at a Stanford University symposium on transsexualism. Dr. Burou's surgical technique has been adopted and modified by surgeons in the United States and elsewhere. The surgery involves removal of the testicles and tissue from the penis and dissection or creation of a space for a vagina between the prostate gland and the rectum. The space is lined with skin from either the penis or a thigh, or from both. There have been 500 to 600 such operations in the United States in the last five to six years, according to a physician familiar with the subject. Two surgeons in New York City have done 100-150 each and the operation is performed at Johns Hopkins University, the University of Minnesota and Stanford University.

PLASTIC SURGERY Dr. Burou calls his operation "basically plastic surgery," because his newly transformed women can never hope to have babies. "But they become women in every other respect. I literally turn their genitals insideout, as you reverse a glove. The sensitivity remains unchanged. The breasts develop naturally, with the help of hormone treatment." Dr. Burou said his patients come from all parts of the world and from all walks of life. Almost half of them are Americans. Others come from western Europe and Japan. Their average age is 30 but his oldest patient was a 70-year-old German. He said he successfully operated on a 50-year-old French Roman Catholic priest, an Italian university professor, several fellow doctors, some writers and artists and "quite a large number of prostitutes and transvestite performers."

Dr. Burou almost never follows up a former patient's career and doesn't know what happened to the priest. "I think most of them want to forget they ever had to undergo such an operation," he said. CRAVE CHANGE "They are nearly always people who spent all their lives yearning to be women, from the time their parents failed to understand why the little boy wanted to play with dolls." Dr. Burou stressed that the impulse to change sex is almost invariably mental, not physical. "It is never a problem of hormones or chromosomes," he said. "True hermaphrodites exist, but I have never seen one. The men who come to me need help because they are convinced their bodies are accidents of nature and nothing can change their minds about it. They believe their whole lives are being ruined by being forced into the wrong body, like a left-handed person being forced to use only his right hand."

The complex surgery used to take three hours. Dr. Burou has cut it to 90 minutes, followed by three to four weeks of convalescence. The total cost is $5,000, often reduced for patients of limited means.

FEMALE TEEN CARRIES OUT THREAT TO KILL HERSELF

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — "If you don't tear up that report, I'm going to kill myself," Nadine Guillory, 18, told an officer outside the police station.

Mrs. Guillory was here Friday to be booked for shoplifting.

The arresting officer, Bobby Gillard, saw she had a gun on the seat of her car, which she had driven herself to the station — a normal procedure in shoplifting cases.

Police Sgt. Russell Hoffpauer said Gillard told her he would let her go and destroy the arrest record. But when he turned to motion another officer to stay away, she put the gun to her head and pulled the trigger, Hoffpauer said.

Mrs. Guillory died an hour later at a hospital.

Charles Guillory told police his wife apparently took the .22 caliber pistol from their home that afternoon after the two had argued.

Gillard had arrested Mrs. Guillory at a grocery store where the manager told him she had tried to walk out without paying for a five-pound bag of rice.

Lack Of Leadership Is Criticized By Wallace

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Mack Wallace said Saturday that the nation has more of a leadership crisis than it has an energy crisis or an economic crisis. "This country has the resources to be energy self-sufficient," the Railroad Commission member told the Patrick Henry Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution. "We have the capability within the free enterprise system to control inflation and assure maximum employment. Our people are basically decent and moral. What we have lacked is enough leadership to bring it all together."

Wallace, seeking re-election to his first full elected six-year term, said the nation should have learned during the Suez crisis of 1956-57 "that it was facing disaster if it depended too heavily on Middle East oil." Other leadership failures were the delays in the Alaskan pipeline and refusal of states on the Eastern Coast to explore the continental shelf for additional oil supplies. "On the other hand," he said, "Texas should remember that oil from this state provided 80 per cent of the fuel for the victory of our country and its allies in World War II. In France, it was German tanks which ran out of gas, not General Patton."

Judaism Finding It Hard To Equalize Fem Status

NEW YORK (AP) — A panel of speakers agreed Saturday that organized Judaism is having a hard time accepting women into full participation along with men. The view was aired by two women and two men at the annual meeting of the American Jewish Committee.

Dr. Nancy Wyner, assistant principal of Larchmont, N.Y., schools said that only token steps have been taken—by some synagogues and seminaries—to equalize the status of women in Jewish life. "The progress that has been made has been almost covert," she said. She said that the Jewish community has made no provisions for including the independent woman in its religious-communal activities.

Half Inch Rain Falls In Areas

Early Saturday morning thunderstorms boomed and blustered but yielded little in the way of moisture. Lomax and Elbow communities in Southwest Howard Cou got .50 of an inch, Forsan probably half that. In Big Spring the rain fall was less than that, possibly .10 of an inch, and at the northeast edge TESCO measured .08 of an inch. The Elbow-Lomax showers will freshen the grass and will help young cotton, about to break through, to complete its stand. However, that recently planted almost certainly will have to be scratched if not replanted.

Workmen Worth Of Meat

With the end of another year, multiplied thousands of young people from colleges and high schools are entering the labor market. In most fields of endeavor, they will find employment opportunities substantially tighter. In some instances job openings will be nonexistent; in others there will be stiffer competition between individuals for these places.

Employers, frustrated by nearly a generation of new workers who could be picky and pushy, may welcome the prospect of being more selective, but this won't entirely solve their problem — the ills of our productive society are much deeper than a shortage of workers.

What we are — and have been — shortest of is a sense of pride in workmanship.

Something dreadful has happened to us; we have come to accept sloppy performance in many fields and by many people with unrighteous fatalism. We excuse it with "it's that way everywhere." We come to accept the builder who did only as much as he couldn't cover with paint or moulding; the mechanic who couldn't diagnose much less fix; the clerk who said "ask him" or "I guess we're out." Or the supply clerk who somehow had a sixth sense for sending out the wrong item, then sending another wrong one to replace it when called to account; the worker who wastefully poured the wrong or flaw-laden castings; the writer careless with words and facts; the clerk who let letters stack up to return six months later stamped as undeliverable; the transporter who kicked shipments off at the wrong point or damaged goods with wanton carelessness; the salesman who took orders he knew he couldn't fill and then juggled lie upon lie to perpetuate the stall; those in the professions who developed the "run 'em through" syndrome; the vast masses who functioned on the C-C formula — Check and Clock.

Tough, But Necessary

Members of the State Insurance Board and small business entrepreneurs have reached an unexpected conclusion: It is almost impossible for small-businessmen to find insurance companies that will bond them to guarantee payment of sales taxes to the state.

Because the state was losing millions of dollars in unpaid sales taxes, a law was passed last year requiring a cash bond or a surety bond to guarantee payment to the state. This posed no problem for established business with a record of punctual payments to the state. But it created a problem for those just opening a business or those operating small businesses. Usually undercapitalized, they could not afford to put up a cash

So, if there is any one virtue which will earn young people a place in our system, and put us in debt to them, it is to develop a sense of pride in whatever they find to do. Whether it's cutting a board, stamping a part, filling an order, laying a wall, keeping records, the objective ought to be an act of sufficient quality that each would be proud to put his name on it.

The Bible calls for "a workman who need not be ashamed," and a "workman worthy of his meet." That would cure many of our ills.

They turned to insurance companies, only to be turned away.

The insurance companies have declined to write the bonds for two reasons: (1) Premiums set by the insurance board are inadequate, and (2) the risk is great that many small businesses will fail, leaving the insurance company to pay the sales tax bill.

The board has the question under consideration, a study may reveal that insurance companies are entitled to a higher premium for the risk involved. But no thought at all should be given to relaxing or ignoring the law. The people of Texas are entitled to every cent collected by businesses in the form of state sales taxes.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

My husband and I were both married at the time we met. So we both divorced our mates and got married. Now my husband says that we live in adultery. Is this true? J.S.G.

Congratulations to your husband for having some sort of moral standards. Unfortunately, however, he got them too late. He should have brought it up the first time either of you proposed marriage.

This is a letter where there must be a lot between the lines. I find it hard to believe that two adults, presumably mature and in their right mind, could have such a flight of fancy that they could calmly arrange to drop their mates and start a new relationship.

You haven't told me the reasons for your divorces. If it was adultery, then there's your answer. If it was some other trumped up reason, then it is all the more adultery now.

The Bible teaches that marriage ought to be a lifelong commitment. The only exception Jesus seemed to make was in Matthew 19. Frankly, your letter reminds me that if our society is to survive, we need to stop the frivolous and all too easy procedures by which the marriage contract can be dissolved.

I believe you have made a terrible mistake. But I also believe Christ can forgive you, if you have genuine repentance and faith.

Jamaica Takes Cue On Bauxite

NEW YORK (AP) — The island of Jamaica this past week announced economic proposals with unsettling implications for many nations still trying to cope with rising world oil prices.

Much of the increase in petroleum prices is a result of direct action by the smaller and less-developed Middle East nations which produce oil.

Jamaica is the world's biggest producer of bauxite, the main source of aluminum.

Prime Minister Michael Manley said that since talks with bauxite companies hadn't produced an acceptable price agreement, he wanted to raise income by imposing a new levy on the ore and requiring the companies to produce certain amounts of bauxite each year.

One of the companies, Alcan Aluminum of Canada, said that Jamaica also indicated it might want a share in the companies themselves.

Manley's proposal still needed legislative approval and there were signs that the government might still negotiate even if the proposal was passed. But whatever the outcome the exchange bore fairly directly on worries expressed by the United States and many other developed consumer na-

The Week's Business

- World's largest producer of aluminum ore learns from Mid-East
- Prime minister proposes additional levy for Jamaicans
- Big companies protest, predicting it means higher prices
- Meanwhile, at the banks, prime interest hits peak 11½ pct.
- One bright spot is upturn in auto production after skidding

Manley said that his government was proposing merely to "exercise its sovereign right as an independent nation and impose just and equitable taxation for this sector of the economy just as for any other."

Negotiators for the aluminum companies quickly argued that the levy would mean higher aluminum prices and might make Jamaican bauxite uncompetitive in world markets.

Manley said his proposal could bring Jamaica $180 million in revenues by mid-1975.

The stock market, meanwhile, reflected the news. The day after Manley's announcement, aluminum company stock led a broad retreat in stock prices on Wall Street, although trading was relatively slow. The New York Stock Exchange index, based on some 1,500 common stocks, dropped .35 to 47.38, declining to its lowest level in 3½ years. The Dow Jones Industrial index dropped 10.72 points to 835.34.

The next day the nation's major banks hiked their prime lending rate from 11¼ to a record 11½ per cent at week's end, helping push stock market prices down again.

The Dow Jones industrial average finished Friday at 818.44, down 16.50 points for the day and 32 for the week.

Increased auto production boosted the nation's industrial output 0.4 per cent after a four-month decline, the government reported.

Auto production, pulling up from a slump, increased 14 per cent last month, according to the Federal Reserve Board.

Impeachment Talk

William F. Buckley Jr.

Herewith some questions, assumptions, and suppositions concerning the events of the past few days.

1. Mr. Nixon was in very bad shape during the weekend. For awhile it appeared as though what one might call the Eagleton Effect was about to overtake him. One does not, as a Republican President, easily withstand, in a single week, calls for resignation from citadels of journalistic Republicanism in the Midwest, in the far west and in Florida; and suffer the rebuke of the leader of the Republican forces in the House of Representatives and in the Senate. The intense speculation on Friday that Mr. Nixon was about to resign prompted him to take measures very nearly desperate in character: he dispatched his own daughter to look the press in the face and say to them that they could take it from her, that her father did not intend to resign.

IT IS LEFT to speculate what Mr. Nixon did privately. It is plausible to assume that he passed along the word to his remaining supporters in the conservative ranks of the House of Representatives that inasmuch as he would not resign, calls upon him to do so would be unavailing; and that he was prepared, now, to fight his battle not so much against impeachment by the House, but against conviction by the Senate. What he said in effect, one surmises, is that he would not hold up to scorn and obloquy those Republican representatives in the house (how many? 50%? 60%?) who will vote for impeachment. This is a very important political development, promoting Republicans under pressure to go home during the election season and say to their constituents: I voted for impeachment, now let's see what the Senate says. If they voted for impeachment and were then persecuted by Nixonian rhetoric as traitors, they would probably lose their seats. If they failed to vote impeachment, they would probably also lose. Now, one supposes, they have a fighting chance.

2. The prediction now is that impeachment will be voted, so that attention fastens on the next stage in the dramatic development. Here there are problems. On the assumption that several articles of impeachment will be voted, and that the rules that governed the disposition of the case against Andrew Johnson obtained, the Senate would be up against it. Because there isn't enough time, between the vote for impeachment and the lapse of the Senate's legal life on January 20, 1975, to follow the old procedure. This called for the House "managers" (the prosecutors) to state their case on all issues, then for the President's defenders to state their case, after which a vote is taken by issue.

This is not chronologically feasible. There isn't the time. The Senate will have to change the rules to permit the transaction of an entire article of impeachment, one at a time.

3. What does this suggest? There is less and less talk these days of bringing up against Mr. Nixon some of the grand constitutional issues that were the favorites of the American Civil Liberties Union as recently as a few months ago. Questions like did he have the right to bomb Cambodia, or to impound Congressionally voted funds.

Inspidus Not 'Sugar Diabetes'

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A year and a half ago it was discovered that our son, then 8, had diabetes insipidus. We understand it is rare; we had never heard of it, and we have found very little literature on it.

No physical cause was found but the neurologist indicated a minute growth or a convulsion when he was smaller may have caused it. But none of the tests could pinpoint anything.

He's on daily injections of pitressin. Excessive thirst and urination, erratic behavior and lack of growth were the symptoms. Puberty is coming along, so what can we expect then and later? — S.S.M.

Diabetes comes from a word meaning "to sip," and both diabetes insipidus and diabetes mellitus (or "sugar diabetes") are marked by great thirst and frequent urination, but that is the only thing they have in common.

Diabetes insipidus is caused by a deficiency in the amount of hormone (from the pituitary gland) that controls water balance in the body. Hence the excessive urination, the thirst and dry mouth. The hormone is vasopressin, which regulates absorption of water by the kidneys.

It is not surprising that the exact cause has not been pinpointed. That is usually the way it is with this strange and uncommon disease, but any disorder or injury involving the pituitary could be involved.

Treatment with pitressin (to substitute for vasopressin) is effective, and in general, with this treatment, patients are able to lead normal lives.

I would not be concerned over impending puberty, because growth hormone and other hormones produced by the pituitary should not be affected in diabetes insipidus. Just continue his medication and treat him like any normal boy other than that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After a recent Pap test I was told that because of a dryness in the uterus I should take estrogen. I am 60 and otherwise in good health. The thought of taking that drug has me so upset that I am unable to be the same person I once was. How do you feel about taking this drug? — L.L.

What is it about estrogen that upsets you so much? It is used with excellent effect with countless women. Rather than calling it a drug, I'd refer to it as female hormone, and the purpose in taking it is to replace some of the hormone that, since menopause, your own glands (the ovaries) are not producing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I had colon X-rays I was told the colon was normal but a shadow showed in the X-ray indicating calcification of the uterus. Would this cause constipation? Also abdominal discomfort at times? — W.W.

Calcification (calcium deposits) can occur in fibroid tumors in the uterus. In itself stipation or abdominal distress. But if the tumor happened to this would not cause constipation, then it could cause both — the constipation being due to pressure on the bowel from the tumor. One approach would be to have your gynecologist investigate.

'Dear Dick' Letter

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — A man in Leonia, N.J., writes, "If Richard Nixon did resign, whom would he resign to?"

It's a good question, and my legal counsel informs me that the President would send his letter of resignation to the secretary of state, who happens at this point in time to be Henry Kissinger.

MR. KISSINGER could acknowledge the resignation with a formal receipt, but I hope he would enclose a letter of a more personal nature.

It could go something like this:

Dear Dick,
All of us at good old USA, Inc. were saddened to hear that you were resigning. There is no doubt that you are going to leave a big hole in the government which even someone like Gerry Ford can't fill. But we understand your reasons for wanting to go. As you put it so succinctly in your letter, you would like to find something more challenging than just being President of the United States. Although we hate to lose you, we can't stand in your way of climbing up the ladder to success.
We're going to miss your beaming smile, your warm sympathy for your fellow workers and your earthy language. I don't know anyone who called a spade a spade the way you did.

WE'RE ALSO GOING to miss the prayer breakfasts, the great state dinners, the trips to China and Moscow and San Clemente, not to mention those fun sessions in the Oval Office when you let down your hair and regaled us with stories about The Washington Post, The New York Times, the television networks and Chuck Colson.

I want you to know, Dick, that thanks to you the good old USA has never been in better shape. Our stock is at an all-time high, and although we've had to pass up a dividend this year, no one blames you. You didn't know about the oil crisis and you certainly couldn't guess the rate of inflation, and surely it isn't your fault that the dollar is in trouble abroad. I don't think anyone could have foreseen the events, and I believe it was very unfair that a few disgruntled stockholders called for your resignation.

We also admired you for the way you handled your personal tax problems and real estate deals. The feeling here at USA is that you did the right thing in taking the deductions, and they still haven't been able to prove that any of your real estate investments weren't on the up and up. I know they keep harping about the milk thing and the payments Howard Hughes made to your friends, but this is just jealousy on the part of people who wanted your job. You were smart to ignore them.

A Devotion For Today..

"Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation. (2 Corinthians 6:2)
PRAYER: Father, open our eyes that we may see that time is eternity. Help us to make this important decision on a personal basis. In Christ's name. Amen.

time out for GOD

IT ENDURES!

Man can build skyscrapers and miles of highways—even go to the moon. But he can't create a tree.

A tree withstands the summer heat and the cold of winter. How many windstorms have buffeted it? How many times has it lost its leaves in autumn, only to be reborn the following spring?

A tree like this has much in common with the Church. It too has endured countless storms and has stood the test of time. And like a giant tree, the roots of the Church go deep. Stability—you can depend on it.

Speaker's Race Proves Costly To Head, Too

AUSTIN (AP) — Former House Speaker Rayford Price once remarked on a television show that a winning speaker's race costs about $30,000.

That self-destructive moment of candor might be what caused his defeat for re-election to the House—and the speaker's race—in 1972.

Now, the man who made the most of that issue and defeated Price wants to be speaker, and his expenditures indicate that the race can be costly indeed.

Rep. Fred Head, then of Troup, now of Athens, has reported spending $26,493 in the first four months of 1974 in his quest for the speakership. A winning majority of the 150 House members who elect the speaker would be 76 votes. Head's expenditures thus break down to $348 for each of those 76 votes so far this year.

The other active candidates in one of the wildest speaker's races in 20 years are spending money, too.

OTHER SPENDING

Rep. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, has spent $8,446 this year, and Rep. Bill Clayton, D-Springlake, has reported expenditures of $2,650. Rep. Dave Finney, D-Fort Worth, says he has spent $3,863, counting $967 in unpaid credit card bills.

By comparison, Speaker Price Daniel Jr.—who was virtually unopposed once Head beat Price in June 1972—reported spending about $20,000 in his race.

Where does the money go? Oddly, in a political contest for 76 votes, some of it goes for public relations men. As if the speaker were elected by Texans at large, the candidates have flooded the Capitol press room with news releases the past two weeks.

In one of the paradoxes of the campaign, Head is paying $2,000 a month to Danny Parrish of Fort Worth, who was a hired hand in Price's unsuccessful re-election race against Head in 1972. Parrish does public relations work and polling. Head also is using the PR services of Jim McWilliams, a former member of his legislative staff, to whom he paid $1,688 in April. Parker pays $1,000 a month to former Rep. Arthur Vance for communications consulting, and has hired Kregae Polan away from Daniel's staff. Polan's salary hasn't showed up in the reports yet.

OTHER THINGS

Speaker candidates spend money on lots of other things—airplane travel, parties, telephone calls, printing, meals.

Local watering holes are big beneficiaries of any speaker's race. Clayton, for instance, reported spending $27 at The Gallery—an Austin nightclub that features topless dancers. He explained the item with a code number that means expenses for "holding political and other meetings designed to promote his candidacy." Clayton also spent $192 at the Quorum Club, a favorite bar with politicians and $10.65 at the Red Baron, another topless club.

Parker also said he used the Quorum Club for a political meeting, costing $194.20 and bought $245.70 worth of liquor from Reuben's Bottle Shop for another political meeting.

Head and Finney both had $500 items for parties at the Scholzgarten, a popular tavern operated by Rep. Larry Bales, D-Austin.

JOHNNY WARREN

Warren New CSI Prexy

ODESSA — Johnny R. Warren, vice president and general manager of Compressor Systems, Inc., was elected president and chief executive officer at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors, according to an announcement by board chairman John Treanor.

CSI, opened in April of 1971 with a staff of four, now employs 40 people in all departments and recently underwent its third major physical plant expansion.

Products and services include gas producer and transmission compression package design, fabrication and installation, contract compression and maintenance and shop and field repairs.

With operations centered in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico, CSI also serves other areas. Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma fields are served from Amarillo offices. Rental units have been installed in Illinois, Kentucky and Colorado.

Warren, a graduate of the University of Texas, holds degrees in both engineering and business.

Interest In Americans Is Waning In Western Europe

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The Big Schmitzel, the GIs call Frankfurt. It is: fat banks sitting on reinforced concrete haunches, trees greening with spring and immediately greying with dust from roadway digging; bars like the Florida Boy one door down from Dr. Muller's orange-fronted sex department store hookers camping on the corners.

Big Burgher Mercedes Benzes jammed up against other wide-hipped cars belonging to some Max or Moritz hypertensuring up to 140 over 100 in the traffic sclerosis; carbon dioxide tussling with bratwurst fumes for air space, jets running track across the sky to Rhein-Main Flughafen.

Washington office at higher pay and benefits. There were 34 applicants for the Rome job and two for the post in Washington.

David Rosenthal, a director of Merrill Lynch in Paris, told a friend at lunch: "If most of the American offices here had to go into their French executive or middle management asking for a man to move to the States, they'd find people hiding under their desks. Ten, 15 years ago, they would have lined up outside the door. You can't blow a European's mind anymore by showing him a wall oven."

In Paris, where U.S. westerns and gangster movies are dissected by eager critics, attendance at American films dropped 25 per cent in 1973, despite "The Godfather," a world box office money spinner. Foreign movie attendance declined in general, but the American drop was startling because attendance at French films improved.

A French film distributor said: "It may be that a lot of people no longer need the kind of escape that American films gave them."

During the first half of 1964 there were 300 French applications for student visas to the United States. By 1973, they had increased to only 394.

In Britain, the brain drain — emigration of professional people to the United States for better salaries and working conditions — leveled off about three years ago and, according to one U.S. Immigration official, "is just about a thing of the past."

So is the notion of the freespending American tourist. With special Japanese restaurants and personnel, two new hotels in Paris are more oriented to the tourist from Tokyo than from Los Angeles, while French tourist officials expect a drop in U.S. tourists this summer, the number of Japanese is projected to rise by 40 per cent.

Combs Is Given 15-Year Term

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Stephen Max Combs, 29, drew a 15-year prison term late Friday after a jury found him guilty of the July 16, 1970, stabbing murder of Vickie Bernathy, 20, a North Texas State University coed.

Investigators found the young woman's body in a closet at the Combs home after the defendant's father summoned them to the Midland residence.

It was the second trial for Combs, who initially was convicted in June 1972 and assessed 25 years in prison. However an appeals court granted a new trial nearly a year later.

Jurors deliberated over the six hours before finding Combs guilty, then retired another two hours in assessing the 15-year term.

Combs pleaded insanity. He was indeed insane and unable to stand trial in 1970, but declared sane again in May 1972.

Combs remained free on $10,000 appeal bond late Friday.

Millions Spent On Court Improvements Wasted?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional auditors say $180 million spent by the Justice Department to improve the overcrowded courts was poured out in a blind and haphazard way and may accomplish little.

Those are the conclusions of a new General Accounting Office study of the court programs conducted by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, an agency of the Justice Department.

The GAO, a congressional watchdog agency, based its findings on a study of LEAA records, interviews, and field evaluations of the federally funded court programs in California, Colorado, Illinois, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania.

The projects in those states account for almost one-third of LEAA funds spent on the courts in the five years of the agency's existence.

"Nationwide studies of the courts emphasize one overriding problem — an increasing backlog of untried criminal cases and inordinate delays in bringing those accused to trial," the GAO report said.

Through a block grants to states, LEAA has attempted to attack the problem, but it "has not made sure that its grants for state court improvement programs are directed to causes of the most serious problems in state and local courts," the report continued.

The GAO blamed state crime-fighting agencies for failing to collect data identifying the causes of court backlogs.

Officials in all the states except Colorado cited case backlogs as their most serious court problem, but allocated only 17 per cent of their federal funds to a direct attack on the problem.

The report noted that LEAA intended to hire court specialists at each of its 10 regional offices to evaluate the effectiveness of court programs.

But half the jobs were vacant at one time or another during 1973.

The GAO recommended that the LEAA exert tighter control over the court improvement projects it funds and that it increase efforts to gather data about the court system.

Indy 500 Pole Belongs To Foyt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A. J. Foyt, as cool-headed a rider as ever came down a Texas train, will start his 17th Indianapolis 500-mile race for the front row pole position.

The 39-year-old driving master from Houston had to wait a week before he could be absolutely sure. But he had a grandstand seat Saturday as one big gun after another tried to dislodge him from the No. 1 position he corralled in first-round trials seven days ago.

He had blitzed the ancient Indianapolis Motor Speed way with a four-lap average of 191.632 miles per hour far better than any of the 14 other drivers who made the lineup with him that day.

But 10 others remained among those still eligible to challenge in the final round.

All tried and failed as a 33-car lineup was finally completed.

It remained for another Texan, likeable, unlucky Johnny Rutherford, to post the second fastest speed of time trials in Saturday's rain-interrupted session.

Rutherford, 37, of Fort Worth, rode his Team McLaren car 10 miles at a speed of 190.446 mph. Unfortunately, he'll have to start 25th in the 33-car lineup.

He wasn't among those eligible to shoot for the pole on the final day. He had blown an engine in practice last Saturday morning and failed to make it to the qualifying line before the 11 a.m. deadline.

Rutherford made his run after the track had been shut down for 3 hours and 37 minutes because of rain.

CANNONADE FINISHES POOR THIRD Little Current Wins Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Miguel Rivera gunned Little Current through a hole along the rail approaching the eighth pole and he charged to a runaway victory in the $209,000 Preakness Stakes Saturday at Pimlico.

Outsider Neopolitan Way was second and Kentucky Derby winner Cannonade was third ahead of Jolly Jolu, who was another longshot.

For a time in the upper stretch it appeared Cannonade might keep alive his chances for the Triple Crown, but those chances evaporated in the final eighth of a mile as Little Current simply ran away.

Ruck's bid's hopes for the Preakness vanished when he stumbled coming out of the gate and threw rider Don Mac-

Beth, MacBeth apparently was unhurt.

Little Current, who had finished fifth in the Kentucky Derby by after making a big stretch run, beat Neopolitan Way to the finish by a widening seven lengths. Neopolitan Way finished a length in front of Cannonade, who was three quarters of a length better than Jolly Jolu.

The time of 1:54 3/5 for the 1 3/16 miles tied the clocking of Nashua in 1955 and made the 90th Preakness the third fastest.

Cannonero II won in 1:54 flat in 1971 and Secretariat was timed in 1:54 2/5 last year.

Little Current, owned by John Galbreath, returned $28.20, $15.40 and $7.80 to his backers in a crowd of 54,911 on a sunny day. Neopolitan Way, owned by Elizabeth F. Thomas, paid $22 and $10, and John M. Olin's Cannonade paid $4 to show.

Little Current's win was worth $156,500. Both the gross and the winner's share were Preakness records.

In spoiling Cannonade's shot at the Triple Crown, Little Current, who had been ridden by Bobby Ussery in the Derby, won his second race in the eight starts as a 3-year-old and third in 12 outings in his career.

Completing the order of finish after Jolly Jolu were Kin Run, J.R. S. Fet, Derby runner-up Hudson County, Rube The Great, Silver Florin, Destroyer,

All Game, and Buck's Bid. Each starter carried 126 pounds.

Turning for home, Cannonade was in the middle of the track and got his head in front briefly. But then at the eighth pole, Little Current shot through on the rail and left the crowd gasping as he simply ran away from his rivals.

Rivera said after the race, "I had a great horse and I never was worried about the inside. It is the shortest way home."

BIG SPRING HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MAY 19, 1974 SEC. B

Courtney Retains Colonial Edge; Nicklaus In Position

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Longshot Chuck Courtney scrambled to a par 70 and stretched his lead to two shots, but the awesome figure of Jack Nicklaus wheeled into position for a shot at the title in the third round of the $250,000 Colonial National Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

Courtney, a nonwinner, for five years, put together a three-round total of 206, four under par on the windswept 7,142 yard Colonial Country Club course.

Ron Curl, a 5-foot-5 Wintu Indian, had a 71 for a 208 total, two under par and two behind Courtney.

And Nicklaus, who said earlier in the week he would not be playing here if he was not required to, closed to within three shots with 69-209.

"I like the position at being two or three shots off," Nicklaus said. "I'm in position to get off to a good start tomorrow and shoot right by everybody."

Those three—Courtney, Curl and Nicklaus—were the only ones in the select field of designated players able to break par for three rounds of play in a swirling wind that Saturday gusted to 30 miles an hour.

Tom Weiskopf, the defending champion who had a 72 under the blazing Texas sun, and Hale Irwin, with a 73, were tied at par 210.

Masters champion Gary Player of South Africa had a 70 and was tied at 212 with Lee Trevino. Trevino had to birdie the final hole for a 71. U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller withdrew after shooting an opening 78. Arnold Palmer failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

A QUICK STEAL — Col. Robert Liotta, Webb AFB Wing Commander, has the ball taken away by Luis Guzman of the South America-Central America-European team during soccer competition at the Webb AFB Olympics Saturday. Liotta was playing with the Southeast Asian team, which lost to the eventual champions in this first round tilt. See related photo, results on Page 2B.

90 Receive Webb Honors

More than 300 athletes from 14 countries participated Saturday in Webb AFB's Olympics '74, and 90 gold, silver and bronze medals were taken.

MVC Edge To Wichita

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Steve Monette, firing a 2-under-par 138, gave surprising Wichita State a seven-stroke lead after 36 holes of the Missouri Valley Conference golf championships here Saturday.

Host North Texas, the title favorite, is the only team with a chance to catch the Shockers in the final 18 holes today.

Wichita State set a record pace with a 561 total, one stroke above par for four players in two rounds. North Texas is at 565 with defending champion New Mexico State third at 583.

Morette is the only golfer under par after wiring together rounds of 65 and 71 over the per 70 North Texas Golf Course.

Four players are bunched at 1-over 141—Doug Higgins Jr. and Mike Craven of North Texas, Ron Streck of Tulsa and Bob Hall of New Mexico State. Three others are grouped at 142 with two-time champion John Granter of North Texas tied for 12th at 144.

Houston League May Fight Ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — The director of a Houston Little League group says the board of directors will decide today whether to fight a ruling which revoked the group's charter because it allowed girls to play on teams.

Steve Glaser, director of the River Oaks Little League, said he received a letter from the National Little League board stating the Houston group's charter had been withdrawn by the national offices. Little League Baseball Inc. is already in litigation in New Jersey over the rights of girls to play on Little League teams.

Glaser said the letter cited violation of a specific section of the charter that outlaws teams having girl players.

Glaser said the board of directors, composed of parents and team managers, voted this spring to allow girls to play.

He said it created no problems. "To my knowledge, no boys left because of it," he said.

Soutar Captures WIBC All Events

HOUSTON (AP) — Judy Cook Soutar of Grandview, Mo., won the all events crown of the 55th Women's International Bowling Congress Saturday as new champions were declared in four events.

More than 29,000 women competed in the 45-day event which had a prize fund of $417,779, the second largest in the tournament's history.

Kalick International Construction of St. Louis, Mo., won the team championship worth $1,900,

Colonial Has Bomb Threat

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A bomb threat forced evacuation of the Colonial Country Club Saturday shortly after the end of the third round of the Colonial National Open Golf Tournament.

Fire Department personnel and security officers combed the multilevel facility within minutes but found no trace at once of any explosive device.

Club manager Vergal Bourland said the telephone threat came through the switchboard around 4:30 p.m. just minutes after the final threesome had left the 18th green.

Bourland quoted the operator as saying she was told in a "very firm foreign voice" that "there is a bomb on lower floor that is set to go off in 30 minutes."

The 30-minute point passed without incident.

"I'll bet you 10,000 to 1 it is a hoax but what can you do?" said Pete Davis, a tournament official. "You can't take a chance with this many people."

The clubhouse was jammed at the time and the bar facilities were overflowing. But most of the revelers took the evacuation in stride, joking and nursing their drinks while the search was conducted. The club was reopened shortly after 5 p.m.

NEWCOMBE STUNNED

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Unseeded Marty Riessen pulled off the biggest upset of the $15,000 Alan King tennis tournament Saturday with a windblown 7-6, 6-3 win over topseded John Newcombe.

It was the second upset in as many days for Riessen, who knocked off third-seeded Arthur Ashe Friday.

The victory over Newcombe means Riessen will face Rod Laver in today's finals with $30,000 first-prize money and $21,000 automobile at stake.

Minnesota Rips California, 10-4

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins lashed 10 singles off California's Bill Singer in less than five innings en route to a 10-4 victory over the Angels in a nationally televised baseball game Saturday.

Minnesota bunched four singles and capitalized on an error by California shortstop Dave Chalk to score three runs in the third inning.

Singles by Tony Oliva, Steve Braun and Bobby Darwin with one out in the fifth inning chased Singer, 5-3, and helped the Twins to a 6-2 lead,

Longhorns Stampede SWC Track Field; Records Fall

HOUSTON (AP) — Miller Paul Craig, three miler Tim Patton and long jumper John Berry set Southwest Conference records Saturday and led the heavily favored Texas Longhorns to their third straight SWC track championship and their 34th title in the meet's 59-year history.

Craig, the defending mile champion, lowered the SWC record to 4:03.2, breaking the 4:04.0 standard set by Texas' Richard Romo in 1966.

Berry, who finished sixth in the 1972 meet, set the long jump standard of 26-0 on his final leap of the day.

Patton lowered the three mile record to 13:56.3 in a race where the first five finishers broke the record of 14:07.4 set by U's Ricky Yarbrough in 1973.

The Longhorns, who ran up 164 points in winning last year's meet, did even better this year with 182 points, well ahead of runner-up Texas A&M's 73.

Rice's Ken Stadel and Southern Methodist's Joe Pouncy also were individual stars in the meet, each winning his specialty for the fourth straight year.

Stadel won the discus with a toss of 192-6 and Pouncy hit the tape a winner in the 220-yard dash at 20.8, only one-tenth second off the SWC record held by three sprinters. Stadel holds the SWC discus record of 202-11 set in 1973.

The Aggies' Doug Brodhead finished as the individual scoring leader with 20 points. His point total was bolstered when he upset defending 440-yard dash champion Don Sturgal of Texas with a 47.2 clocking.

Texas Christian's Bill Collins, the 100-yard dash champion, was runner-up to Brodhead with 18 points.

SMU finished third with 54 points, followed by Baylor with 50, Rice 46, TCU 42, Arkansas 24, Houston 18 and Texas Tech 6.

The title gave the Longhorns six of eight SWC sports championships this year.

Berry, who finished sixth in the SWC meet a year ago, broke the old mark of 25-8 set last year by Baylor's Danny Brabham on his final leap. Baylor's Ricky Thompson, who had the SWC's best jump of 25-7 going into the meet, finished second in 24-8.

Stadel, hampered by a back ailment this year, scored his winner on his second toss of the morning finals, but it was far short of Stadel's SWC record 202-11 SWC record set last year.

"I had only one good throw and I wish I could have been more consistent," said Stadel, who has a personal best of 209-2. "I'll have to do better in the NCAA." The NCAA qualifying standard is 175-0.

Playing the outfield will be Andy Gamboa, Tom Arista and Terry Smith. Tony Fierro and Oscar Cervantes are the relief hurlers, while Pano Rodriguez, Freddie Bustamante, Phillip Bustamante and Jesus Rios will also be ready for action.

Minso Rubio, Raul Rubio and Chico Rubio coach the Cards. The Cardinals and Redlegs will collide again next week in a 2 p.m. tilt at Steer Park.

AEROS LOOK FOR CLINCHER Cougs May Be Out Of Luck

HOUSTON (AP) — Midnight may catch the Cinderella Chicago Cougars when they try to hold back the charging Houston Aeros today in the fourth game of their World Hockey Association World Cup playoffs. The Cougars, poor sisters of the WHA playoffs who narrowly received a berth as a fourth place team, twice have held back the clock with playoff victories over favored New England and Toronto.

Despite the Cougars' reputation for surviving great odds, they may have run out of time against the Aeros.

Houston leads the best of seven series 3-0 and needs only a victory in unfriendly (to the Cougars) Sam Houston Coliseum to sweep the series and claim the WHA championship.

After Friday night's convincing 7-4 victory, the Aeros still were wary of the Cougars, not ready to claim victory.

Hill Star Inks With Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M has completed its 1974 basketball recruiting with the signing of Steve Jones from Houston Wheatley and Hill Junior College.

Jones, 6-7½, will be a sophomore this fall. He led Hill to the national junior college tournament by averaging 16 points per game.

Matlack, Mets Blank Montreal

NEW YORK (AP) — Jon Matlack fired a four-hitter and Rusty Staub and Wayne Garrett drove in two runs apiece in the first inning, leading the surging New York Mets to a 6-0 rout of the Montreal Expos Saturday.

The Mets, who have won three in a row and seven of nine after a slow start, jumped on Montreal ace Steve Rogers, 6-2, for all their runs in the first three innings.

"I won't be drinking any champagne until we get that final victory," said winger Andre Hinse, who scored two goals in the Friday victory. "You can never knock that team down. We know that they can still come back."

Aeros Coach Bill Dineen hopes the celebration will come Sunday—somewhat of an milestone for the Aeros. It will be their 100th game this season.

"I don't think we're over confident just because we have such a commanding lead," Dineen said. "I think we just want to get it over with as soon as possible. Sunday would be a good time to celebrate."

Chicago player-coach Pat Stapleton says it's the little things that are hurting the Cougars against the Aeros.

"Every little mistake they capitalize on it," Stapleton said. "It's that experience of theirs. I guess. We've been in a hole all three games. We just can't seem to get the jump."

Dineen said Houston's supremacy so far in the Chicago series could partially be explained by the unusually tough round with Minnesota in the semi-final series.

"That was a real physical, hard-hitting series," Dineen said. "We were as together as we could get in that series. It sort of knits us together. Maybe that is showing up in this series."

Houston could set a playoff record for consecutive victories with seven if they win Sunday. Winnipeg won six straight last season.

And after a long, grueling season, the Aeros figure its time to get the record and end the Cougars' fairy tale.

LITTLE LEAGUE Hilliard Posts No-Hitter In IL

Friday was good day for the pitchers in Big Spring Little League baseball, and the pitcher that had the best time of all was Wayne Hilliard who pitched the T-Birds to a 4-0 no-hit victory over the Comets in the International League.

Mike Douglas gave up two hits as the Rangers smacked the Devils 8-1 in the national League and James Magers pitched a home run and a triple, while Fred Escobedo stroked a home run and a double and James Hays had a pair of hits, including a triple.

The Red Sox were led at the plate by Greg Jones, while Mike Herrera was tagged with the loss.

Jim Cordes, Bruce Carroll and Brent Pearce all had two hits and Richard Moncus smacked a triple in sparking the Jets to their fifth victory against four losses. The Jets staked Salmon to a five-run first inning edge and the pitcher handled the Cabots the rest of the way, dropping them to 0-8 on the year.

Jody Dowdy was the losing pitcher and Brent Pearce slugged a double in the Cabots' losing effort.

Flyers, Kate Smith Face Bruins Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The beleaguered Boston Bruins will battle not only the ferocious young Philadelphia Flyers today in the sixth game of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup championship, but also the vibrant voice of Kate Smith singing, "God Bless America."

This time it won't be a recording of the Flyers' good luck song. Miss Smith, in person, is scheduled to lead a sell-out crowd of 17,007 in her rendition of Irving Berlin's classic.

The Flyers began preempting the National Anthem occasionally with "God Bless America" several years ago and discovered the team usually won when Kate sang. So they reserved the record for important games.

They have won 36, lost 3 and tied 1 after a Kate Smith send-off. It was played here Tuesday night when the Flyers won and took a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven game National Hockey League series.

The proud Bruins, however, went home to Boston Thursday night and whipped the Flyers 5-1 in one of the roughest games of NHL playoff history. They now trail 3-2 and must win this nationally televised sixth game Tuesday night for the deciding game.

Flyers' Coach Fred Shero scoffs at the Kate Smith superstition. "We're going to need more than Kate Smith to beat Boston. We're going to have to play hockey."

Shero is more concerned with the officiating. "The refs had a few mistakes the other night (Thursday)," said Shero. "They called penalties all night that there were no reason to call. You can't play hockey if you're skating short-handed all night. The crowd called the penalties."

Boston Coach Bep Guidolin had a comment on both Kate Smith and the referees.

"We'll ask Kate for her autograph and then skate for her by winning," said Guidolin.

On the refs: "He (referee Dave Newell) did a heckuva job on the penalties. He kept the game under control. He didn't want any bench clearing and neither did we."

There were 138 minutes called on 43 penalties Thursday, including a dozen majors for fighting, misconduct and a game misconduct. It took 3½ hours to play the game.

Fem Track Title To Prairie View

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Andrea Bruce, a Jamaican Olympian in 1972, had three first and one second place, including a national college record in the high jump to lead Prairie View A&M University to the team championship at the Women's National Collegiate Track and Field Meet here Saturday.

Miss Bruce won the high jump, 100 meter hurdles and the long jump, and finished second behind Prairie View teammate Mary Ayers in the 400 meter hurdles.

The Jamaican had to share individual honors in the meet, ran the 100 meter hurdles in 13.9 seconds, three seconds better than the existing standard, but wind gusts up to 20 miles per hour kept up the record from being broken.

White Team Nabs Spring Win, 14-7

The 'players of the future' look like they might not be willing to wait that long. The sophomores of 1974 came up with the big plays Friday night and paced the White team to a 14-7 victory over the Gold in the Big Spring Steer Spring Football Game, a finale to three weeks of off-season work.

Jesse Doss ran for one White touchdown after Allen Partee recovered a Gold fumble and carries. Doss ran for 54 yards on eight attempts and Russ added 36 yards.

The Gold team had the edge in total offense, thanks mainly to Danny Ferrell, who raced for 98 yards on the first play from scrimmage and finished the night with 136 yards on 16 carries. Mark Moore went to the air 26 times, hitting on 10 for 128 yards with two interceptions.

His main receiver was Lawrence Byrd, who caught five for 61 yards, while Casey Lovelace pulled in four for 53 yards.

Both teams moved the ball well early in the contest, which was played as a regular game except there were no punts or kickoffs. Each team penetrated the other's 15-yard line on the first two possessions, but it wasn't until midway in the second quarter that either could scratch.

The Gold team made the first mistake as Moore was knocked loose from the ball at his own 32 yard line, and Partee was on top of it for the Whites. Doss broke through the middle on a third down play from 24 yards out for a 6-0 White lead. James Coffey missed the conversion kick.

Moore guided the Golds into White territory following the score, but Tommy Churchwell, another soph-to-be, picked off a pass to end the threat.

The Golds went ahead early in the second half, moving from their own 22-yard line on the night's best drive. Moore shot over from six yards out to tie the score after a pass interference penalty had kept the drive alive at the 20. Big plays in the march were a 15-yard burst by fullback Ricky Darrow and a 12-yard pass from Moore to Byrd.

Ferrell kicked the PAT for a 7-6 Gold edge, but the lead was short-lived.

The Whites moved from their own 30-yard line for the go-ahead score, a one-yard sneak by Russ. Hurrington had ripped off gains of 13 and 27 yards to get the Whites inside the Gold 25, but an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty forced the White team into a first and 25 situation from the Gold 44.

That's when Russ sailed a 41-yard bomb to Harris, delivering the Whites to the three-yard line. Russ' conversion run gave the Whites a 14-7 advantage.

The Whites almost turned it into a fourth quarter as the team moved from its own 36 to the Gold 10, with an 18-yard pass from Russ to Sophomore Johnny Birdwell the big play.

That drive died, however, and the Golds began their final march of the night. Moore's passing and Ferrell's running helped the Golds swing into position, and things got tight when Moore hit Lovelace for a first down at the five-yard line.

But a personal foul moved the ball back to the 27, and on first down Mullins intercepted at the six yard line to give the Whites the game.

Mike Harris set up another TD with a pass reception as the shiniest players in the youth movement.

"I thought it was amazing the number of freshmen we had making key plays," Steer coach Bob Burris said after the clash.

"This is what we've got to have to help us depth-wise. Burris said the coaching staff was happy with the teams play. "We had the squads divided real evenly. We were happy with the hitting and the way it turned into a real contest. It wasn't just scrimmage," the coach said.

The outcome was undecided until the final minute Friday. With the Gold team inside the White 10-yard line, it took a personal foul penalty and a key interception by Ronnie Mullins to ice the game away.

The White team was led by John Russ, a gutty little quarterback who hurts the Golds with the option play and hit his pass when he had to. "John's a real competitor," Burris said of the 5-5 transfer. "He's small, but he's strong. The kids have a lot of confidence in him, and we do to."

Russ hit on three of eight passes for 69 yards, while Andre Hurrington sparked the ground attack with 81 yards on 12

Identifiable Gold players are John Miller (73), Oscar Cadena (66) and Buford Howell (78), while White players in the picture include Ricky Watkins (50) and Ronnie Mullins (20). Russ and his White teammates scored a 14-7 victory over the Golds in the Big Spring Steer Spring Game Friday in Memorial Stadium.

For What It's Worth

Jack Cowan

What we have here, it seems, is a failure to communicate. There's an aura of confusion hovering around the Big Spring Figure Seven Tennis Center and a proposed gift of $40,000, and it might cost the city some new courts if the thing isn't straightened out.

The Dora Roberts Foundation, which provided most of the money for the six original courts a year ago, has indicated it would put up the cash for some new courts. The city, however, wasn't immediately receptive to the idea for a couple of reasons.

First, there's the matter of maintaining four or five more courts, and second, locating the new facilities could be a problem. Depending on whom you talk to, the degree of the problems differ, and to some they don't even exist.

City Manager Harry Nagel says he realizes the money is available. Now it's a question of whether or not the council will vote to accept the gift. "It's in the mill, but no definite decisions have been made," Nagel said Saturday. "We've had some discussion about the location, and maintenance could be a problem. It'll probably come up at the next meeting."

Nagel said that the cost involved would primarily be refinishing the courts after a few years of play, and since the revenue taken in from the center itself couldn't handle the cost, the city would have to. He didn't know if the city could handle that kind of outlay of cash.

Members of the council are currently thinking that if the courts are built, the best place would be north of the present on Whiskey Drive. And that brings about another point of controversy.

Judge Ralph Caton, a member of the Dora Roberts Foundation board, contends that the new courts should be built south of the present courts where the driving range is now located. The opposite direction, he says, would put the courts at a lower level and would present a danger of them going under water.

To put them at the driving range might interfere with another city project, however, the hike-and-bike trail.

Judge Caton says the board will meet Wednesday and decide whether or not to offer the money to the city, but added "The money's there if they want it. All somebody has to do is pick up the telephone and call."

In a neutral corner, sort of, is Figure Seven pro Novice Kniffen, who is operating the center for the city but would also like to see tennis grow in Big Spring. "Well, we need the courts," Kniffen says. "We're beyond capacity now with over 120 memberships. From 4 to 9 we're turning people away."

Kniffen said the courts "would eventually need to be resurfaced, but if we take good care of them that could be 10 or 15 years from now." He estimated resurfacing would cost approximately $1,000 per court. Concerning the location, he said he didn't know if there would be any danger of them going under water or not if they were placed at the lower level.

With tennis becoming more and more popular all the time, the city might be wise to take the gift while it's available. It's obvious that since things are already crowded, new courts will be needed to meet the demand before long, and the cost of maintaining the courts is nothing compared to what it would take to build them. I'd imagine most cities would jump at the chance.

Chargers' Deacon Jones Denies Drug Allegations

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Veteran San Diego, the 13-year National Football League veteran said on a radio talk show. "But I will play another year of football, because I want to prove to the people that Deacon is a football player and not a drug addict." He said he thought he would be traded.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle fined Jones, seven other Chargers, General Manager Harland Svare and owner Eugene Klein a total of $40,000 last month for alleged violations of the league's drug policy.

"The only thing I'm guilty of is being on a 2-11 team," Jones said, referring to the Chargers' 2-11 record. "I will not pay the $3,000 fine because I'm not guilty. Anything that I have taken in the ranks of professional football was prescribed to me by the team physician." Jones has filed a suit against the Chargers alleging breach of contract.

Wichita Falls Pops Permian

ODESSA — Wichita Falls, winning its 22nd game in a row, pushed across a run in the eighth inning for a 3-2 victory over Odessa Permian and a two-game sweep of its best-of-three series with the Dist. 5 AAAA champion Panthers.

The Coyotes, 22-2 on the year, now head into the Class AAAA quarterfinals while the Mojoes finish the year at 19-6.

Wichita Falls scored its winning run as Ricky Nix slapped his fourth hit of the day, a bases loaded single with two out in the eighth. Permian had taken a 2-0 lead in the first frame on a two-run single by Rusty Breazeale, the Panthers' all-district catcher, but the visitors picked up single runs in the third and fifth frames.

Sam Welborn was the winning pitcher, raising his record to 9-1, while Ray Nunez took the loss for Permian. It was Nunez' first defeat since starting district play and gave him a 7-2 season mark.

San Jacinto JC Mentor Resigns

PASADEN, Tex. (AP) — Basketball Coach Dean Evans of San Jacinto Junior College announced Saturday he is resigning as coach but will remain as athletic director.

Evans is giving up coaching to obtain his doctor's degree at the University of Houston. Evans was Region 14 National Junior College Athletic Association Coach of the Year. In his five years at San Jacinto his teams have won 65 and lost 31. They won one regional championship, four Texas Junior College Athletic Conference titles and three South Zone titles.

Golds Hit Quick In 20-8 Victory

The Gold team scored a 20-8 victory Friday in the Big Spring Steer Junior Varsity Spring Game.

Steve Hughes spotted the Gold team a pair of first half scores, and the bulge mounted to 20-0 before the Whites could scratch on a 15-yard pass play from Phil Barber to Steve Evans. Barber ran for the two extra points.

Hughes ran five yards for the first Gold tally, and the try for two bonus points failed as the Golds led 6-0 early in the second quarter. Later in the period Hughes picked off a pass and raced 60 yards for another touchdown and a 12-0 Gold lead. The final Gold tally came on a one-yard sneak by quarterback Mike Valenzuela in the fourth period. Valenzuela then passed to David Ramsey to make it 20-0.

Tommy Moss and Rod Carter led the Gold squad while David Verner and Sonny Monroe coached the Whites. The coaches praised the play of Gold defenders Timmy Cain, a nose guard, and tackle Jimmy McChristian, along with Perry Rogers, a linebacker-fullback for the Whites.

"The hitting was real good," Steer Coach Bob Burris said. "You might say they lacked some of the finesse, but as far as lining up and getting after it, they did a real good job." The JV group was made up of 35 players who will be sophomores and 18 juniors-to-be.

DURING ENERGY CRUNCH, REDISCOVER PANFISHING

With the energy crunch putting the damper on longdistance trips to favorite lakes and streams, it's time to rediscover the fun of panfishing. The nice part about it is that you don't have to venture too far from home to find panfish and secondly, you're virtually assured of action and fish.

Panfishing is a collective term for a group of fish that are too small to be considered gamefish. Yet once you hook them on light tackle, especially ultralight spinning equipment, you'll find they are mighty game for their size.

The most common panfish are the crappie, yellow perch, bluegill, bullhead and rock bass. You'll find them in farm ponds, city parks, creeks, rivers and lakes. Surprisingly enough, panfish provide the largest percentage of fishing in this country.

You can take panfish with anything from a cane pole and live bait to a fly rod and wet or dry flies. In fact, panfish can be caught on worms, minnows, grasshoppers, crickets, hellgrammites, spiders and other insect baits. However, more panfish are taken on ordinary worms than any other bait.

For the fisherman who has graduated from the cane pole stage, there are three types of panfish tackle — the fly rod, spinning rod and spin bait-casting.

If you want real action with panfish, I suggest a fly rod and bulky flies that can be fished on the surface. A sevenfoot rod weighing in the neighborhood of four ounces that bends evenly from butt to tip is ideal.

If you are fishing shallow waters, try a No. 10 yellow, red and white popper with a hackle or feather tail. Work this near the shore and around the weed and lily pads, twitching it occasionally. It's particularly effective with bluegills, which are the most universal of panfish.

When I'm fishing deeper waters my favorite lure is the Crappie Buster jig which is equally effective on bluegill, red ears, white bass, perch and other species. A slow erratic retrieve will make it dive and fall in a manner that fish find hard to resist.

Although I prefer the fly rod for panfishing, the ultralight spinning rod is growing in popularity among many anglers because this light tackle imparts gamefish action to the lowly panfish. You can use it after a little practice, with spoons, flies, poppers or even live bait.

Of course, you can take panfish on the conventional bait casting or spinning rod but what you lose is the action that you otherwise get with the lighter tackle. Panfish and light tackle are where the action is.

Dear Virgil, I have just bought my first spinning rod and reel. However, I'm confused about the size of monofilament line to use. I've had several suggestions but each friend seems to have a different recommendation. Can you help me?

Andy Guthrie
Cleveland, Ohio

Dear Andy: Generally an eight-pound test line is ideal for bass, pickerel and similar fish. It's ample for handling a goodsize bass. However, if you are fishing where there are a lot of weeds or brush, you may want to move up to a 10- or 12-pound test line. You'll sacrifice some casting distance but the additional strength will help you keep your fish out of the weeds and brush. If you're fishing a relatively clear piece of water you can go to a lighter line. However, if you're just starting out with a spinning rod, the eight-pound test line is a safe bet.

ROZELLE OKAYS RETURN

Lance Gets NFL Pardon

NEW YORK (AP) — After spending 10 months in the shadows of professional football, Lance Rentzel was reinstated Friday by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"I just can't tell you how happy I feel," Rentzel said in Los Angeles after learning that Rozelle had okayed his return. "A lot has changed in my life the past 10 months."

Rozelle suspended the Los Angeles wide receiver on July 24, 1973, after Rentzel was arrested, indicted and pleaded guilty to the possession of marijuana.

He was sentenced to 90 days in jail, fined $2,000 and placed on three years probation. At that time, Rentzel was already playing under an NFL probation following his arrest and conviction on an indecent exposure charge on Nov. 30, 1970. He had received a five-year probation sentence for the same offense.

Rozelle lauded Rentzel's personal conduct during the period of the suspension and said the player had been active in worthwhile volunteer community work during his time out of the game.

"I am looking forward to returning to the Rams, I had offers from the World Football League but my loyalty remains with Los Angeles. The Rams are my team and Chuck Knox is my coach. He's the greatest coach I ever played for and I played for him less than two weeks" before the suspension.

During his layoff from football, Rentzel spent much of his time writing. "My biggest interest now is writing, but I still like football," he said.

Rentzel, who has already written his autobiography, now is writing a novel. "I'm just about finished with it. It is not on football, but is based on characters I've known in football."

Matson Making Comeback, Captures ITA Shot Put

IRVING, Tex. (AP) — They don't snicker at Randy Matson any more.

For someone 6-foot-7 and weighing 265 pounds that wouldn't be a good idea at best, but there was open derision of the former world record holder shot putter months ago when he was struggling to hit 65 feet.

Matson said the catcalls and criticism "gave me the incentive to be competitive again."

The former Texas A&M star, who once held the world outdoor record at 71 feet 5 1/2 inches, uncorked his career in best of 70-feet, 5 inches Friday night in the International Track Association Professional meet at Texas Stadium before 10,173.

His series was the second best of his career. It went 69-10 1/4, 70-1/4, 70-5/4, 70 1/4, 68-5, 69-3/4.

Matson predicted even bigger and better things for the May 29 ITA windup in Madison Square Garden.

"I can throw it perhaps two feet farther than I did tonight," Matson said. "I went back to the technique I had in 1965. This was my second best personal series."

Ben Jipcho, the tireless Kenyan, won both the mile and two-mile. He edged Dave Wottle who upped his earnings to over a time of 4:00.6 minutes in the mile and nicked George Young in the two mile. Both had times of 8:45.9.

Bob Seagrang came within inches of establishing a world indoor record of 18-3 in the pole vault. He cleared the bar at 17-8 but missed three times at the higher distance. On his second try, he just brushed the bar with his shirt.

Wyomia Tyus and J.J. Jackson, who tied the world records in the 60-yard dashes last week, won their respective men and women's events. Tyus charged across the tape in 6.6 seconds while Jackson flashed over in 5.9 seconds.

With his double victory Jipcho, won both the mile and two-mile. He edged Dave Wottle who upped his earnings to over a time of 4:00.6 minutes in the mile and nicked George

Sam Houston District Champ

SEGUIN, Tex. (AP) — Sam Houston State's Bearkats are today the NAIA Dist. 4 baseball champions for the third consecutive time.

The Huntsville nine grabbed the title Friday with a 2-1 win over Texas Lutheran in the second game of their best-of-three series.

The Bearkats now go to Phoenix, Ariz. May 23-25 for the Ara 2 tournament, taking with them a 35-9 season record.

VIEW FROM PLAINS Drown-Proofing Good To Know

By J. D. PEER
Texas Parks & Wildlife Dept.

There are many things that people enjoying the outdoors need to know. Take for instance, how to start a fire, whether it is a log or their white gas stove; to know the rules and regulations governing boating; hunters and fishermen must know and abide by the rules governing seasons and bag limits.

However, there is one thing that all of these participants must know and be able to perform and that is how to keep from drowning.

Last year, Texas reported 628 drownings. These people were boating, fishing, hunting, swimming or were near water while playing or working. Swimmers accounted 210 of the 628 drownings.

There are many ways to drown-proof yourself or your family. Number one and the most important; don't panic — stay calm. Most humans will have some natural buoyancy and upon entering the water, will come back to the surface. The best buoyancy of course, is a US Coastguard approved personal flotation device. If you don't have a life vest, taking a deep breath before hitting the water will pop you back to the surface.

When your boat capsizes, don't attempt to swim to shore, stay with the craft, help will soon be there and all modern boats have built-in buoyancy devices. Be especially careful while fueling your boat as a fire on board leaves you no recourse but to either put the fire out or abandon the craft.

Many fishermen wear either hip or chest waders and some will be surprised when they slip or fall into the water how much air is caught in the boots, assisting them to float to safety.

It would seem that the safest advice would be . . . don't put yourself in a situation where you are required to test your training for your life. All of the fishing, skiing, or recreation in Texas of the world is not worth one human life.

For more information on drown-proofing, contact your YMCA, American Red Cross, or local college or university swimming instructor. A lesson in the technique or just basic swimming lessons can be worth its weight in buoyancy.

Small-town America Takes X-Rated Films In Stride

HARLAN, Iowa (AP) — "I'm setting my standards at the box office," says Al Woodraska, owner of the Harlan Theater, the only movie house in town. "That's what pays the bills."

To help pay the bills, Woodraska is showing X-rated movies once a month "Midnight Ploowboy" did good business in April. "Teen-age Bride" is the next X-rated attraction.

Harlan is a farm town and county seat, a community of white houses and front porches pocketed in the gentle hills of western Iowa. The telephone book lists 20 taverns, 28 churches and 43 farm equipment and feed dealers. Last year, X-rated movies drew pickets from the local Baptist church and city council condemnation in this town of 4,049. This year there hasn't been a ripple.

SETS RECORD

"Last Tango in Paris," critically acclaimed and X-rated, set a box office record — $379.90 in four days — at the Harlan Theater in March.

Harlan and its theater are far from unique. With increasing frequency, X-rated films are flashing flesh across the screens of drive-ins and movie houses in small-town America.

"Hot Month in August" hit the Carthage, Miss., drive-in in April. "The Cheerleaders" ran there for two days in Baker, Ore. And the citizens of Hooksett, N.H. had a chance to see "Cheesy" office," says Al Woodraska, owner of the Harlan Theater, the only movie house in town. "That's what pays the bills."

"People say they don't want X-rated movies, but they sure support them," said Woodraska. "It's the only thing they'll come and pay for. It's just that simple."

It is not just that simple to everyone in Harlan. There are people who don't like X-rated movies, period, and some who object to having them shown in their town. Most, however, are willing to live with it.

"As of today, the community standard is, 'We'll tolerate it,'" said the Shelby County Attorney, John Sawin. "If you don't have any complaints, you assume the community is satisfied. I haven't had a single complaint."

"Well, we've probably got some people that don't agree with them," said Glen Hansen, barber and bartender. "But to tell the truth, it's never been brought up much lately. They don't even talk about it."

KEPT ALIVE

In days gone by, the local movie house was the entertainment center of small town America. Color TV and network movies have changed that. TV sets glow in the night and blank marquees stare down

DALEY RETURNS HOME — Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley waves to well-wishers as he returns home from the hospital after suffering a stroke. One of Daley's police guards holds an umbrella over the mayor as he walks into his house Saturday in Chicago. Daley had the stroke on May 6. The mayor will undergo surgery, that if successful, will allow him to resume a normal work load.

HOROSCOPE

CARROL RIGTER

SUNDAY, MAY 19, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: After a slow start when you are undecided just what to do with this interesting day, your mind and spirit are renewed and you are able to engage in your favorite hobbies and amusements. Later you can make plans for the future.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Making new arrangements with the advice of a bigwig makes this a productive and successful day. Make new acquaintances of great merit.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) State your aims to those you trust and gain from their suggestions. Have a charming time at social events but don't be extravagant.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what your ambitions are for the future and discuss them with key persons. Obtain the information you need but avoid a busybody.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to meet with friends and plan the future wisely. Strive for more accord. Express personal goals. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can now obtain the facts and figures that is impossible to do during week days. Be sensible where personal duties are concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Listen to what allies have to say and then get out of that rut you have been in. Make plans how to advance in the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) Ideal day for using your intuitive faculties and making plans that are workable. A good opportunity to be of your best with loved ones.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) Find out what associates expect of you. Use wisdom in handling one who opposes you. Don't start any arguments with anyone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to get your daily work done more efficiently. Study new systems. Make new plans that go far into the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Dealing with an emotional associate means you have to be objective as well as pay compliments for best results. Be logical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take steps to improve your surroundings. Listen to the words of a family member. See to it that everything is operating smoothly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Obtain the data you need that brings you security. Carry through with the plans on Main Street. X-rated movies are keeping some alive.

"It's just one of those things," said Glen. "It's changing. Always has, always will. Sometimes you wonder about it. Then you figure, the good old days — people wouldn't want them back either."

The red, white and blue lights of the Harlan Theater glimmer at twilight in the southwest corner of the square. Woodraska has a small office upstairs behind the projection booth. Stashed in a corner are the gold shoes, bow tie and straw hat he wears on Saturday. As "Uncle Al," he gives away jump ropes and yo-yos at the matinee.

Woodraska, who took over the theater last June, several months after the protest, reached for the books. He is 39 and the father of three children. The blond hair is deserting the front of his scalp. He wears tattered leather boots and a striped sport shirt.

"We did all right from June to September. We were making ends meet. But since then . . ."

"Look at this. 'Bang the Drum Alowly,' a good picture for everyone. Zero one night, no one came. And here, 'Day of the Jackal,' one of the big pictures of the year. Sunday was $44.50, Monday was zero and Tuesday we did $24.50."

"I waited and business still didn't pick up. So then I wrote a letter to the ministers telling them I was going to bring in the X-rated pictures. It just seemed that this was what the people wanted."

On the first Sunday-Monday-Tuesday of March, the feature at the Harlan Theater was "The New Land," a story of immigrant staking out a new life in 19th century America. Eighty-one people came and Woodraska had $88.50 left after paying film rental.

On the same three days in April, the feature was "Midnight Ploowboy," the X-rated tale of a farm boy in the big city. It drew 160 people and there was $151 in the till after film rental.

NAMED MAYOR

Lowell Holmes, an insurance agent, was elected mayor in January. Like many in Harlan, the only concern he voices is that people under 18 might get in to see the X-rated movies.

"That's the one big objection," he said. "I don't know how you can tell me if I'm 16 or 26. And how difficult it is to get a fake ID."

X-rated movies have not really become acceptable in Harlan, said the mayor, not socially and morally acceptable.

"Allowed would be a better word," he said.

Mayor Holmes was walking across the square, headed for the courthouse. Doc Early came out of the Harlan Bakery. Charles "Doc" Early is moderator at the First Baptist Church, a member of the city council and one of Harlan's six practicing veterinarians.

The laws and the courts are part of the problem, Doc said. "If they legalize it or fail to legalize it, it becomes possible to show it against public sentiment. There's no way to enforce it."

Something has changed in Harlan, said Doc Early, but not all that much.

"People haven't changed since Christ's time or before," he said. "It's, well, I suppose it's the eroding away of our resistance to this sort of thing. Then again, people in my generation have a lot of hangups as far as sex is concerned, and is that good?"

The building that houses the Harlan Theater was built in 1882. Half hidden behind the marquee is an engraved stone block: "Long's Opera House." Blanche Tank, who lives in an apartment above the theater, can remember when touring stage companies stopped to entertain the populace. She is 83.

"Well, I've seen it coming for several years now," said Mrs. Tank. "People are just kind of passive about it. They don't . . . I don't know whether they are too busy with too many things or what. A lot of people don't

Hostages Are Liberated

CHESTER, Ill. (AP) — Four guards held hostage for more than six hours by inmates at Menard State Penitentiary have been released unharmed.

The disturbance began at 11:15 a.m. Friday when inmates overcame four guards, took over the east celloblock and locked doors that led to the outside. A spokesman said there was no violence, although state police riot squads were ready to intervene.

Examinations at a hospital showed the guards to be unharmed.

Officials of the State Department of Corrections in Chicago said about 60 inmates in the celloblock, which holds 228 of the prison's 1,400 inmates, were involved in the incident.

One guard was released in midafternoon, and the rest were released at about 5:30 p.m. when Warden Thomas Israel agreed to discuss inmate grievances as a precondition to the release. But he immediately rejected one of the demands for congregation rights for prisoners in the prison yard.

Other demands included removal of an official from the prison's disciplinary committee; an end to what the prisoners called job segregation in cell assignments; quicker action on prisoner grievances and an end to what they said were inequitable rulings by the disciplinary committee.

Superior Court Convicts Four

WASHINGTON (AP) — A District of Columbia Superior Court jury has convicted four Black Muslims in the mass murders of seven members of the orthodox Hanafi Moslem sect.

The panel, after 13 hours of deliberations over three days, returned guilty verdicts Friday against John W. Clark, 31, Theodore Moody, 20, William Christian, 29 and John W. Griffin, 28, all of Philadelphia.

They had been charged with murder, assault, robbery and conspiracy in the deaths Jan. 18, 1973 of two adults and five children, one just nine days old. Prosecutors said religious differences sparked the slayings.

The victims were shot or drowned at the Hanafi headquarters, a home in Northwest Washington donated by Muhammad Bukhari, a member of the sect.

Two other men are awaiting trial in the case and a seventh was dismissed of charges for lack of evidence.

High Speed Chase Ends In Shooting

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — A Texas highway patrolman shot and killed a Wichita Falls man Friday following a high speed chase near Lubbock, state police said.

The dead man, identified as Richard C. Bartlett, 35, was sought on a warrant issued in Wichita Falls and was fleeing from service of the warrant when he was killed, officers said.

The Department of Public Safety said Bartlett was shot with a shotgun by Patrolman Richard Loter, 28, as Bartlett took aim with his own shotgun.

Statute Used To Close Down Movie

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — An adult movie house was closed today by what District Court Judge Temple Driver said was first use in Texas of a public nuisance statute against obscene movies.

Driver ruled Wednesday two movies seized at the Eros Theatre were obscene and then Friday ordered the theater closed under the public nuisance statute.

Driver said closing of theaters under the statute was the "first time it has been tried in Texas."

British Jury Acquits Girl

LONDON (AP) — Allison Thompson, a teenager from Santa Barbara, Calif., burst into tears in London's Old Bailey courthouse Friday as a British jury acquitted her of all charges in an arms smuggling and kidnap plot.

Miss Thompson, 18, was arrested Nov. 27 at Heathrow airport after arriving on a flight from Los Angeles. Customs officials said they found five pistols and ammunition in a false bottom of a trunk she had with her.

Choc Jones, all of Big Spring; and Mrs. Hazel Nipp of Midland, wife of the district governor.

Lady Lions

By JO BRIGHT

As the convention program promised, the ladies of the three Big Spring Lions Clubs Auxiliaries went "all out" to see that auxiliary members from other cities enjoyed their stay in Big Spring for this weekend's district convention.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Jimmy (Linda) Holmes and Mrs. John (Dorothy) Smith, cochairmen of the hospitality committee, extra events were planned to keep the women entertained.

The focal point was the Hospitality Room established off the lobby of the Settles Hotel which was headquarters for the convention. The comfortable room was staffed all day Saturday, providing coffee, sweets and a place to give tired feet a rest.

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Clyde Angel, whose husband is a member of the Downtown Lions Club, presented a book review in the First Federal Community Room.

Of course, the women attended the Lions luncheons and banquets, as well as the queen's contest Friday at Big Spring High School. If time allowed, there were to be tours of Heritage Museum and the "big spring." With a number of good stores in the hotel vicinity, there was also the opportunity to shop.

All in all, the ladies had a good time — and Big Spring enjoyed having them as guests.

GETTING HER "hello" sticker from Mrs. Doris Huibregste of the Downtown Lions Auxiliary is Martha Pritchard, representing the Winters Lions Club. Assisting with the registration is Mrs. Louise Conley, also of the Downtown Lions Auxiliary.

Wedding Ceremony Is Performed Friday

Miss Jennifer Bean became the bride of Raymond L. Tollett Jr. in an afternoon ceremony performed Friday in the sanctuary of the First Christian Church. The officiating minister was Rev. Harland Birdwell, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, and a prelude of nuptial music was performed by Mrs. Gail Bonner, organist.

The wedding party stood before an altar enhanced with old-fashioned wicker baskets holding arrangements of spring flowers, and the setting was illuminated with candelabra holding white tapers.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bean, 611 Tulane, is a graduate of Big Spring High School and the University of Texas at Austin. She did graduate work at North Texas State University.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Raymond L. Tollett Sr., 606 Hillside, and the late Mr. Tollett. A graduate of New Mexico Military Institute and the University of Texas at Austin, he is presently enrolled in St. Mary's Law School at St. Mary's University in San Antonio.

Carrying a French bouquet tied with picot streamers, the bride was attired in a white, formal, A-Line gown fashioned with fitted bodice. Nottingham lace formed the high Victorian neckline, and the slim sleeves ended with a lace flounce cuff. A matching lace flounce covered the hemline, ending in a sweep train. Her chapel-length veil of silk net was crowned with lily of the valley.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. E. J. Baker Jr. of Enid, Okla., attended her sister as matron of honor, wearing a daffodil linen halter dress with Rolter smocked bodice. The A-line gown had a ruffled hemline and a matching stole. Her bouquet was a nosegay of spring flowers tied with picot ribbons.

Jason Blake Tollett, Austin, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and Maj. E. J. Baker Jr., Enid, Okla., brother-in-law of the bride, was an usher. The ring bearer was Scott Jeffery Baker of Enid, nephew of the bride.

After the ceremony, the couple was honored at a champagne reception at Big Spring Country Club. The reception table, featuring a tiered wedding cake, was laid with a white linen cloth and appointed with crystal

Mrs. Schultz Visits Parents

Mrs. Mike Schultz, the former Chris Porter, and her son, Bobby, of Sheboygen, Wisc., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard (Bud) Porter, 2505 Carleton. Bobby was 16 months old Friday. Mrs. Schultz and her son will remain here until the first part of June when they will return home. Schultz is employed by the Sheboygen Power and Light Company.

It's Psychology

The quickest way to get a child interested in doing something with you is to start doing something you really want to do by yourself, says Dr. Jeannie Kitching, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Woman's Forum Has Installation

Mrs. Paul Kionka began a second term as president of the Woman's Forum when new officers were installed at a luncheon Friday in the Spanish Inn.

Serving with her will be Mrs. C. R. Wiley, vice president; Mrs. Jack Y. Smith, recording secretary; Mrs. E. B. Compton, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Helen Stewart, treasurer. The service was conducted by a club member, Mrs. W. N. Norred.

Appointive officers were named, and it was announced that the club will resume regular meetings in September.

Workshop, Luncheon Held By HD Club

An all-day workshop was held Thursday by the Elbow Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Dale Soles, where a luncheon was served. Guests were Miss Sherry Mullin, county extension agent, and Mrs. Frances Weems of Lake, Miss.

In presenting the program, Miss Mullin showed slides and discussed current and fall fashions. She showed how scarves can be used effectively and said beads and costume jewelry are currently in vogue. Advising the women not to be afraid of wearing bright colors, she said the "knit look" is still good.

Mrs. R. B. Covington presided, and the attendance prize went to Mrs. Jack McKinnon. During the day, members worked on crocheting, knitting and other hand work.

Mrs. Clark Stout will be hostess for the June 6 meeting, when Mrs. Covington and Mrs. Soles will demonstrate broomstick crochet.

MRS. GARY MICHAEL BROWN

Couple United In Marriage

Wedding vows were repeated by Miss Cynthia Marie Avery and Gary Michael Brown Saturday evening in Stanton Church of Christ.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lealon Brown of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Avery, Stanton.

A. E. Johnson of Northside Church of Christ, San Angelo, performed the ceremony at an altar where spiral candelabra formed a background for an arch decorated with foliage. Urns of galidoli completed the setting.

Miss Amy New was vocalist.

The bride wore a fitted Victorian gown of white peau de soie with long Victorian sleeves and butterfly train. Her elbow-length veil of tulle was attached to a tiara of rosettes and seed pearls, and her bouquet of white glamelias was mixed with pastel buds and English ivy.

Miss Rae Avery was maid of honor, and Mrs. Douglas Garder was matron of honor for their sister. The other attendant was Miss Susan Vest. They wore floor-length dresses of flocked dotted Swiss and carried glamelia nosegays.

James L. Gorsuch, Albuquerque, N.M., was best man. Labert Lejazar, Fort Worth, and Robert Hindman, Dallas, were groomsmen. Ushers were Mark Brown, Fort Worth, and Kendal Blocker, Stanton. Kyle Blocker was the ring bearer.

The couple will reside in Houston where the bride, who attended Texas Technological University, will complete an internship at Herman Hospital. The bridegroom, a Tech graduate is a geophysicist with Amoco Production Company of Houston.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the Cap Rock Auditorium in Stanton. The refreshment table was centered with a gold candelabra based in an arrangement of flowers in the bride's chosen colors. Mrs. Glenn Brown, Mrs. Charles Blocker and Mrs. Loyd Mims served, and other house party members were Mrs. Billy Mims, Mrs. Owen Kelly, Mrs. Eugene Aichison and Miss Diane Brown.

All four concerts cost $12 ($3.50 for singles), and admission to the fair grounds is $1 with half-price for kids.

Along with 28 food concessions of all kinds and various types of hand-crafted merchandise, the arts and crafts fair will feature Big Spring's Denver

Petit, a violin maker. Write Box 12008, Capitol Station, Austin, 78711, for information.

Summer school application time is here and TCU is conducting at least three intensive music and ballet courses this June. Write TCU, Box 30776, Fort Worth, 76129.

An arts seminar will be held in Houston May 28-30 at the Houston Oaks Hotel to discuss executive abilities in managing community art programs. Write Paul Sutton, Public Relations Department, Northwood Institute, Midland, Mich., 48640 for information.

In drama news, Colorado's City Opera House will offer a 1940's comedy, "Dear Ruth," Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a cast of about 10. The show should provide good entertainment.

Dallas Church Site Of Wedding Service

The Skillman Avenue Church of Christ, Dallas, was the scene of the Friday evening wedding of Miss Sharon Elaine Hulme to Michael Lloyd Stephens.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stephens, 420 Westover, Big Spring, are parents of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Herold Hulme, Dallas, are parents of the bride.

Roy Shake, Abilene, conducted the ceremony. The bridal couple stood at an archway covered with greenery, flanked by spiral candle trees.

Music was by an cappella choir, with soloists being Miss Mary Margaret Meggs and Barry Owens.

The formal-length bridal gown was fashioned of white chateau dot over bridal satin with sheer yoke encrusted by a ruffle edged in Venise lace daisies. The long, full sleeves were gathered at the wrist to form sheer ruffles. From an empire waist trimmed in Venise lace, the skirt flowed into a chapel train, featuring a daisy-trimmed ruffle. Her mantilla was of white illusion edged in satin ribbon and lace. The bridal bouquet was of daisies with babies'-breath.

Miss Debbie Hulme, Dallas, was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Steve Bowers, Fayetteville, N.C., was the matron of honor. They wore dresses styled like that of the bride but in tangerine chalet dot with scooped neckline trimmed with Venise daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Kim Hulme, sister of the bride; Miss Karen Hulme, a cousin; and Mrs. Clifford McFarland of Big Spring, sister of the bridegroom. Their dresses were identical to the honor attendants' except in yellow.

All of the women attendants carried white wicker baskets filled with yellow and white daisies, miniature carnations and babies'-breath.

Mr. Stephens served his son as best man. Grooms-men were Clifford McFarland, Big Spring; Keith Watson, Dallas; Ben Turnbaugh, Sulphur Spring; and Glenn Matlock, San Antonio.

Rebecca Reese, flower girl, wore a yellow dress. Kendall Reese was ring bearer.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple will reside in San Antonio.

The bride is a graduate of Bryan Adams High School, Dallas, and Abilene Christian College. The bridegroom is a Big Spring High School graduate as well as Howard County Junior College and Texas Technological University, Lubbock.

A reception in the fellowship hall honored the couple.

A white candelabrum arranged with yellow and white daisies, tangerine carnations and babies'-breath centered the bride's table. Appointments were crystal and silver.

Serving at the table were Miss Becca Hinton, Miss Vickie Bern, Miss Cynthia Couch, Mrs. Billie Jo Tobias, Miss Kathy Parker, Miss Sandra Busby and Miss Debby Niell.

Out-of-town relatives attending were Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Graves, Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Baker, Floydada; Mrs. Uda Bailey, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Neal Stephens, Hurst; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Glass, Mineola; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Graves, Lone Oak; Steve Bowers, Fayetteville, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. G. E. McDonald, Fort Worth; Mrs. Mary Ruth Turney, Lewisville; and Mrs. Ray Shake, Abilene.

Free Workshops In Homemaking Slated

Four workshops have been planned by homemaking teachers at Big Spring High School for a summer program in order to meet some needs of the community.

The workshops will provide a challenge as well as the fun of learning new ideas or skills, or improving a familiar one. There will be no charge for these workshops except that the individuals are expected to furnish the materials which they will use in the course.

The principles and application of interior decorating will be taught during the week of May 28-June 3, from 1 to 4 p.m. and June 10-14 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon in Room 114 in the high school.

The course will include design principles, furniture arrangement, use of color, window treatments, accessorizing and many others. Emphasis will be placed on how to make the most of what you already have, then learn how to add to it in a pre-planned way.

Teachers for the classes are Mrs. Sue Willbanks and Mrs. Billye Grisham. For more information call the high school at 267-7461, ext. 48, or call Mrs. Willbanks at home, 263-7750, or Mrs. Grisham, at 263-8191.

Piano Students Give Recital

Piano students of Mrs. Margaret Hyden were presented in recital Saturday in the Hyden home, 1725 Yale. Those performing were Sheri Graham, Teri Graham, Judy Tanner, Natalie Fulgham, Angie Fulgham, Kristi Franklin, Angela Kohl, Jerry Bennett, Janet Bodin, Kristi Haynes, Kerri Haynes, Lana Crittenden and Helen Ewing.

Zany Holdout

The zaniest baseball holdout probably was George "Rube" Ellis, crack St. Louis outfielder, back in 1908. Ellis refused to sign his contract until he got what he was holding out for — $2.50 — to buy a new feider's glove!

at home, 263-7750, or Mrs. Grisham, at 263-8191.

Drapery construction will be taught in two sessions. The first session will be July 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 10 at the hours 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. The second session will be July 11, 12, 15, 16, 17, 18 at the hours of 1 to 4 p.m. in Room 113 of high school.

This course will include measuring windows, deciding the amount of material to buy, making of drapes, lining, pleating, and correct hanging of drapes for the home. It would be desirable if registration for the course could be at least a week in advance so that one of the teachers might come to the home and assist in deciding the amount of fabric needed. It will be possible to construct one widow drape during this period. Contact anyone in the homemaking office at the high school, 267-7461, Ext. 48, or Mrs. Fern Alexander at her home, 267-7750. Instructors for this course will be Miss Caren Chaney and Mrs. Alexander.

'Quotable Women'

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Whenever some North Americans speak about Spanish music they get only the idea of castanets and maracas, neither of which are Argentinian. And neither is the tango to which Valentino took long steps. The Argentine tango is always a cry: You left me. She is gone, I am alone. It is raining and I don't know why I'm here. It is complicated music, not easy to play." Argentine folk and pop singer Ginamaria Hidalgo, in a New York interview.

"To say our policy is antilabor is the most preposterous statement that anybody could have made

... We are for labor, but even more for the country. The country's interests come first, and they are above the interests of any one section." Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, defending her handling of India's railways strike.

"He has not always pursued that ambition. It came along as his career developed. Lots of people have been saying for years and years that he should be president. For me, he is the best political man France has." Anne-Aymone Giscard d'Estaing, whose husband Valery is running for president of France, speaking about his career.

"We're going ahead as strong as ever. We'll make do — it won't fall through the crack." Anne Armstrong, presidential counselor, speaking about criticism of the Nixon administration's failure to hire more women.

"That's not streaking; that's indecent exposure." Jean Lawler, manager of a Portsmouth, R.I., motel, complaining about police officers she said ran naked through the motel's night club.

Bones Indicate Cooking Method

Meat bones indicate preferred cooking method. A T-bone, rib bone, pin bone, flat bone or wedge bone indicates relatively tender beef — good for broiling or roasting, notes Sally Springer, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

BPO Does 61 Hosts Banquet

BPO Does 61 held its annual mother-daughter banquet Thursday evening at Coker's Restaurant with 23 attending. Mrs. Marvin Hayworth, president, extended the welcome, and the invocation was by Mrs. Kathleen Williams, chaplain. Each Doe introduced her daughter or guests.

During the evening, prizes were awarded.

The tables, arranged in a U shape, featured gold cloths with purple crepe paper streamers, to carry out the Does' colors. Centering the head table was a gold container holding purple and gold flowers, and decorative cards were placed at intervals along the tables.

'Brownie' Day Slated At Camp

Almost a thousand (947) Girl Scouts of the West Texas Girl Scout Council sold 42 boxes or more during the 1974 Girl Scout Cookie Sale. Fourty-eight of these Scouts were Brownies, who sold a total of 80 boxes. The four dozen Brownies are eligible to attend the Brownie Day Special, an overnight outing with their dads as guests, at Camp Boothe Oaks, June 8-9.

Five of these Brownies are from Big Spring and are looking forward to their first overnight at Camp Boothe Oaks. They are: Service Unit 33 — Lorie Roman and Susan Bell, both of Troop 180; Service Unit 34 — Bronwyn Allen and Mary McCutcheon from Troop 41; Service Unit 36 — Loretta Goetz, Troop 290; and Service Unit 27 in Coahoma — Nancy Burgess and Danette Haley both of Troop 407.

Service Unit 40 in Stanton boasts three Brownies who are eligible for the Brownie Day Special, Mary Beth Tollison, GIGI Linder and Pam Mims, all of Troop 67.

Bacon And Hams Best Kept Cold

Bacon and whole hams maintain quality when refrigerated, left in original wrappings, and used within a week, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Wyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

How To Judge

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower for only ten months, and all I want is to be left alone. I am constantly pestered by widows, divorcees and wives whose husbands don't pay any attention to them. Also, people with the "have-I-got-a-girl-for-you" routine. You wouldn't believe the propositions I get.

When I try to bow out politely, they say: "What's the matter, are you some kind of queer?"

Last week a young neighbor from across the street came over with a pie and a story about how lonely she was with her kids in school all day and her husband on the road. Then came the proposition. I finally had to ask her to leave.

This morning while taking a shower I heard someone breaking through my front door. She said she just happened to see me through my bathroom window, and I looked like maybe I wasn't feeling well so she came over to see if there was anything she could do for me. I had a terrible time getting rid of her. After that, I pulled down my shades and bolted my door. I'm a prisoner in my own house!

I even put a sign on my front door "Were you invited?" But everyone thinks I mean somebody else.

I am not particularly good-looking. I try not to hurt anyone's feelings, but I don't want anyone pestering me. What should I do?

NO NAME OR ADDRESS

DEAR NO: You've put out a sign, bolted your door, and given no one the slightest encouragement. All that's left is a watchdog and a barbed wire fence.

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and going through my menopause. I have hounded my gynecologist for help, but I can't get any satisfaction from him, so I'm asking you. How can I be absolutely sure I won't get pregnant? (I have three grandchildren!)

My husband is 50, and we're not sex maniacs or anything like that, but we do get together once in a while, and I am living in fear that I'll find myself pregnant with a change-of-life baby. I have told my doctor that, and he said: "Don't worry — women your age seldom get pregnant." Abby, I don't want to take any chances, but my doctor says I don't need to take any precautions.

Is he right? Am I foolish to be concerned? Can you recommend something to ease my mind?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: You need more than advice. You need another doctor. Even though the chances of your becoming pregnant are small, it's possible! I don't blame you for wanting to be absolutely sure. If you don't know another gynecologist, your Planned Parenthood Clinic can give you competent medical advice and recommend the most ideal method of contraception for a woman your age. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: In my work I deal with the public. My supervisor told me that the use of the words "ma'am" and "sir" is not proper—that a "thank you," or a simple "yes" or "no" is sufficient. He insists that when one uses "Ma'am" and "sir" he implies that the person he is speaking to.

Is my supervisor correct? I don't share his views.

A LOVELIER YOU Summer Fashions Demand Good Skin

By MARY SUE MILLER

If casual fashions were cut low in the back last year, they are cut down to their shoulders before wearing a backless job like a swimsuit or a patio pajama.

Ways to improve the vista as need be are detailed below:

a) To free the back of blackheads, brush scrub with medicated soap during daily bath or shower. Twice weekly apply a grainy cleanser — grains in cream or foam form, or dry grains for pre-lathered skin. Carefully work in cleanser with a stiff sponge. Thoroughly rinse and blot dry. Then pat with antiseptic lotion and let air dry.

b) Eruptions — pimples — respond to medicated lotion, used night and morning. Affected areas should be treated gently with sterile gauze pads for lotion applications, and with a fresh cloth for washing. Medical advice is indicated.

c) Treat the simple problem of dry, rough skin with an oil soak. Using warm skin oil, thickly coat the back and shoulders; let set for 15 minutes. Then bathe or shower and gently scrub with a long-handled sponge or bath brush. In any case, a mild, dry skin soap is wanted. Follow cleansing with a stiff towel. Finish by massaging with rich body lotion. Repeat at least three times weekly.

OILY SKIN

An oily skin can be improved. Just send for my leaflet, "Relief For Oily Skin." Advice covers corrective treatments and makeup; such special problems as pimples, blackheads and enlarged pores. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover handling.

blooming in many southern counties, and some corn is in the roasting ear stage. Cotton insects such as boll weevils, bollworms and fleahoppers are increasing in many fields.

Cotton planting is underway in the South Plains, and the majority of the acreage should be planted in about a week. Some farmers in the Rolling Plains and some parts of West Central Texas are waiting on fields to dry.

CUT ALFALFA
Pranut planting continues in Southeast Texas and is becoming active in central areas. Recent rains have provided good planting moisture in the peanut growing areas.

The first cutting of alfalfa is being harvested in the South Plains and the crop generally is good.

Most pecan trees are continuing to set a heavy crop. The peach crop looks good in areas that escaped heavy freeze damage in late spring.

Harvesting of some melons and cantaloupes has started in deep South Texas, with squash, cucumbers and beans being harvested along the Coastal Bend.

Harvesting of small grains continues in some southern sections, with turnout generally light. The crop is maturing rapidly in the Plains where harvest operations are expected to start in a few weeks.

GREEN UP
According to Hutchison, livestock conditions are improving over the state as ranges are starting to green up from recent rains.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions:

SOUTH PLAINS: Cotton planting is gaining momentum and most of the crop should be seeded in about a week. Planting of sorghum is also in full swing. The first cutting of alfalfa is about complete; yields have been good.

ROLLING PLAINS: The small grain crop that remains is maturing fast and harvesting should start in several weeks. Some pecan trees are being banded due to the pecan nut casebearer.

FAR WEST: Young cotton and sorghum crops are up to good stands and generally making good progress.

Locke Attends Security Forum

MAXWELL AFB, ALA. — Tom R. Locke Jr., Big Spring division manager, Texas Electric Service Company, was among nearly 100 prominent American civilian leaders who participated in the week-long National Security Forum conducted here at Air University's

Air War College, May 13-17. Initiated shortly after World War II, the National Security Forum was designed to broaden the professional background of Air War College students by an exchange of ideas with a broad and representative base of key civilians on the fundamental problems of national security. Locke, and other distinguished guests representing labor, finance, industry, education, news media, law, medicine, religion, government and other important fields, participated directly with senior Air Force officers attending the Air War College in seminar and guest lecture activities. During the forum, which concludes the school year at the Air Force's senior professional school, discussions centered on the military force structure of the future and its implications for the security of the United States.

Efficiency Pays

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers should check a number of appliances before making a purchase, says Arthur D. Little, the international research and management consulting firm. The best air conditioners can cool a house as well as less efficient models while using less than half the amount of electricity.

BLOND IN BANGLES AND BONNET — Mrs. Dee Presley, step mother of the 1950s rock idol, has launched her own musical career. After only three months of writing, two of her songs have been recorded and others are in the works. Unlike Elvis, she doesn't sing. "It would be terrible if I did," she laughs.

Adventists Hear Musical Stars

Professional recording artists John and Clara Van Denburgh will present a Christian musical at 8 o'clock tonight at the Odessa Seventh-day Adventist Church, 3rd at Dtsy, according to pastor, Harry E. Curl, coordinator of vocal arrangements.

The Van Denburghs have sung with such artists as Dale Evans, wife of Roy Rogers, and Stuart Hamblin, author of such songs as "This Old House" and "It Is No Secret." The couple has appeared on television programs and numerous radio broadcasts. For 2½ years they conducted their own weekly F.M. radio program. For the past sixteen years they have provided a monthly Christian witness to audiences often numbering over a thousand in the Municipal Auditorium in Riverside, Calif.

John is a dentist and his wife a dental assistant with their home and practice in Durango, Colo., but they schedule one or two national tours each year in addition to their monthly trips to the West Coast for singing engagements. The duo team titles their concerts the "Van Denburgh Christian Musicales."

Goldie Hawn Gets Heavy Movie Role

A very funny human and appealing fictional story of a young couple who tangle with the law in an effort to avert the legal loss of their infant son, the Zanuck-Brown production, "The Sugarland Express," starring Goldie Hawn, comes Friday to the R-70 theatre. It co-stars Ben Johnson, Michael Sacks and William Atherton. Steven Spielberg directed the Hal Barwood and Matthew Robbins script based on a story they wrote with Spielberg.

In the new film about the cross-country pursuit of a real-life headline-making event that happened in Texas in 1969, Miss Hawn is appearing in her fifth motion picture.

The highly dramatic role is light-years away from her previous portrayals in "G", "There's A Girl In My Soup," "Butterflies Are Free" and "Cactus Flower," her first feature film for which she won an Academy Award.

Miss Hawn, now a superstar, will be seen next in "The Girl From Petrovka."

Veteran character actor Johnson is also an Academy Award winner. He received his Oscar as best supporting actor for his role in "The Last Picture Show."

In "The Sugarland Express," he is a philosophical Texas Highway Patrol Captain concerned that no one get hurt in the massive gathering of motor vehicles and men attempting to nab the fugitives. Recently Johnson has been seen in "The Getaway," "The Train Robbers" and "Dillinger."

New York theatre award-winning actor Atherton plays the key role of the husband, who is persuaded by his wife to break jail and hijack a police car to save their child. He has been seen in "The New Centurions" and "Class of '44."

Sacks emerged as a star in his screen debut in "Slaughterhouse-Five." He portrays the kidnapped highway patrol officer in "The Sugarland Express."

"The Sugarland Express" is the first feature film for 25-year-old director Spielberg. Two of his recent television directorial efforts, "Duel," and "Something Evil," were among the top-rated TV movies a year ago. "Duel," released as a feature film in Europe, won much critical acclaim.

Emmy Winners Named Early

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television's Emmy awards are progressing like a sporting event. Now that the preliminaries are out of the way, the main event is under way. It's the first time in the 26-year history of the Emmys that the category winners were announced early in competition for the "best of the year" awards, which will be telecast May 28 on NBC.

Winners were announced at a news conference Wednesday at the Century Plaza Hotel.

KOJAK, WALTONS
Telly Savalas, a mixture of charm and menace in "Kojak," and Michael Learned, who mothers "The Waltons," won Emmys as best stars in a television drama series.

Mary Tyler Moore, in pursuit of career and not marriage on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," and Alan Alda, the anti-establishment surgeon of "M-A-S-H," were named best comedy stars of the season.

Cicely Tyson, who aged from 19 to 110 in "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman," and Hal Holbrook, the skipper who lost his ship to the North Koreans in "Pueblo," were named best performers in special programs.

KNIGHT, SISTERS
William Holden, in his TV debut as the tough, aging cop of "The Blue Knight," and Mildred Natwick, the slightly daft amateur sleuth of "The Snoop Sisters," won Emmys as stars of limited series.

For the final awards, the performers, directors and writers named as category winners will be matched against each other for the best of year awards for specials and series May 28.

Alan Alda and Telly Savalas will compete for Actor of the Year, Series, and William Holden and Hal Holbrook will compete for Actor of the Year, Specials. For this, limited series are paired with specials.

CBS HOGS EMMY'S
CBS won 23 Emmys in the prime-time categories, far outdistancing NBC with seven and ABC with three. None of the winners was present.

Rob Reiner was named best comedy supporting actor for "All in the Family," Michael Moriarty in drama for "The Glass Menagerie," and Harvey Korman for variety on "The Carol Burnett Show."

Cloris Leachman won as best comedy supporting actress for "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," Joanna Miles in drama for "The Glass Menagerie" and Brenda Vaccaro in variety for "The Shape of Things."

Daytime Emmys will be given on an afternoon NBC telecast May 28.

4.5 Million Damage Suit

HOUSTON (AP) — The family of a Corpus Christi lawyer killed in an April 30 plane crash has filed a $4.5 million damage suit against a shuttle air service.

The suit, filed here by attorneys for the family of Charles Anthony Bonniwell III, 37, alleged that Metroflight Inc. was responsible for the death because of a defective plane.

The suit also contended the crash occurred because of a pilot error and "failure of the defendant to properly maintain the aircraft for passenger service."

"The crash occurred on take-off from Galveston's Scholes Field on a flight to the Houston Intercontinental Airport. Five others were killed and six were injured."

Equipment Bids To Be Weighed

Consideration of a recommendation to advertise for bids for reading laboratory equipment to be used in Webb AFB-Howard College PREP Program will be among the items considered by the board of trustees at their regular meeting at 12:25 p.m. Tuesday in the board room of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building. They will also consider bids from vendors to operate the college food service program, consider adopting a resolution authorizing the college to enter into an agreement for Tools for Schools and eye a request of a faculty member for one-year development leave. They also will review a recommendation awarding tenured status to three faculty members.

Corn Crop May Not Meet Expectations

FARMER CITY, ILL. (AP) — That could reduce the estimated corn crop by nearly one billion bushels. Here in the corn belt, spring planting is in full swing. But farmers are grumbling that they can't get enough nitrogen fertilizer to sow the bumper corn crop predicted by the U.S. government.

"There's nothing they can do about it," says Lew West, one of the 200 farmers who purchase fertilizer from his Farmer City Grain, Fertilizer and Chemical Co. Because of the energy crisis, the natural gas in nitrogen fertilizer has been in short supply. West had to cut back his customers to "20 percent of what we sold them last year."

Without nitrogen fertilizer, the corn planted per acre must be reduced, sacrificing the high yield needed for a bumper crop. Or farmers can switch to soybeans, which don't need nitrogen, the scarcest of the major fertilizer ingredients.

SWITCHING

Many farmers in Indiana, Iowa and Illinois — the corn belt states — say they are making the switch to soybeans, either because they can't get the fertilizer or it's too expensive.

"We're selling for $185 a ton and we hear of prices on up as high as $400 a ton," West said. "Last year we sold for $75 to $85 a ton."

Exports cut heavily into 1973's record 5.6 billion bushel harvest. As a result, stocks of corn, the staple livestock fattener, are 15 per cent below last year's level and the price has risen from $1.65 to $2.60 a bushel for mid-May delivery. That has driven up beef prices, too, and many livestock producers have reduced their herds until corn prices drop.

Prices should drop, according to the experts, if October's corn harvest is 6.7 billion bushels, as the U.S. Agriculture Department predicts.

Edwin Harre of the Agriculture Department's National Fertilizer Institute in Muscle Shoals, Ala., says the 6.7 billion bushels is probable because "we don't look for the nitrogen fertilizer shortfall to be more than 4 or 5 per cent at the most."

To this Edwin Wheeler of the Fertilizer Institute in Washington, an industry association, replies: "Farmers can expect no more than 85 per cent of the nitrogen they need."

He'll plant soybeans in those 300 acres.

The 39-year-old farmer, tilling land that has been in the family more than 150 years, thinks that early planting in the Midwest this year — in expectation of a dry spell — might have put "too much pressure on the fertilizer market."

Last year, planting was delayed a month, until late May, because of heavy rains.

In the Wabash River Country near Carmi, a black market developed in nitrogen fertilizer. Bill Lamont, a fertilizer dealer, said that when his regular nitrogen supplier failed him, about the only thing left to do was to buy some of this black market material.

Lamont sold to 15 old customers at $370 a ton. "The rest said that if they have to pay that kind of price they'll just go to planting beans instead of corn."

"There's no point in going on without nitrogen," Stone says.

Okie Governor Will Host 'Old-Fashioned Picnic'

HONEY GROVE, Tex. (AP) — Oklahoma Gov. David Hall will be host at an "old-fashioned, fried-chicken-kind-of-picnic" in Honey Grove July 6.

"It's going to be a family picnic," the Sooner governor, who was born in nearby Farmersville, said. "We're inviting all of my relatives to the event and there are plenty of them who live up and down the Red River in both Texas and Oklahoma."

DAD INVITIN'

Hall said his father, William A. "Red" Hall, was going to be in charge of "doing the invitin'."

Richard Wilkinson, one of the governor's aides, will handle the rest of the arrangements, working closely with the David Graham Hall Foundation in Honey Grove, which is helping out with the local arrangements.

The governor decided on the old-fashioned family picnic to make up for not getting to Honey Grove earlier this year for a memorial program honoring the late Robert E. West. Heavy fog kept him from setting his plane down in Bonham, Durant or Denison and he went on to Dallas.

'NEEDS FEW TIPS'

"I've asked that all of the fine people around Honey Grove come to our picnic, too," he said. "While we'll do the personal inviting of relatives, we sure want the people of Honey Grove on hand to join in the fun."

Richard F. Voyer, director of the Hall Foundation, which is identical in name only to the Oklahoma governor with no kinship involved, said committees of local citizens will be set up to help out with the arrangements.

"I've guaranteed the good people of Honey Grove that I'll be there this time. I'm not taking any chances on flying. I'll just drive in with my family," the governor said.

The Oklahoma governor said he planned to personally invite Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe to Honey Grove.

"I need to talk to Gov. Briscoe and find out how he won his primary race so easily," said Gov. Hall. "I've got a pretty tough race coming up in August and maybe he can give me a few tips."

CUSTOM MADE-TO-MEASURE DRAPERIES

That's right, order your custom made to measure draperies now and you'll save like never before. All labor of making your exquisite draperies is FREE! Same huge selection of fabrics, same superior custom-quality workmanship, same guaranteed fit and satisfaction . . . only the price has been lowered to protect your pocketbook. Come in shop now and save. This OFFER available MAY 20th thru JUNE 1st ONLY.

How to measure

For accurate results always use a metal tape to take measurements.

First, decide just where the rod is to be placed. Remember, you should extend the rod past the window frame for more light, best ventilation and more pleasing appearance.

After you have decided on location of the rod, measure from one end of the rod across to the other. This is your bracket-to-bracket measurement. Now add 3 more inches for the right side return, another 3 inches for the left side return, and 6 inches more for the center overlap. This figure will be your finished measurement. Be sure your finished measurement includes all these measurements: the bracket-to-bracket measurement plus the two side returns and the center overlap.

Rods should be at least 4 inches above the window so that hooks and pleating can not be seen from the outside. A will keep the bottom hem out of sight. Apron length draperies: Measure from top of rod to desired length, add 1 inch for finished length.

Floor length draperies: Measure from top of rod to floor or carpet. This is finished length, no allowance necessary. Ceiling to floor draperies: Measure from ceiling to floor and deduct 1 inch for finished length. Repeat measurements at two or three places across the span. Remember to measure from the ceiling and not from the rod.
