Girl Hostage Lured To Safety With Lollipop

NEW YORK (AP) — A 5-year-old girl held hostage at gunpoint in a Queens housing project apartment was lured to safety today with a lollipop. The girl's father was found dead inside, police said.

Wearing bullet-proof vests and carrying rifles, police marksmen raced into the apartment and told the gunman, identified as a former convict and mental patient, to drop his weapon. He gave up without a struggle and was taken to a police station.

TEMPTED HER
The girl's mother had pushed a dish of bacon and eggs into the apartment foyer, then a police officer tempted the girl into the hallway with a lollipop. The officer seized her and the police moved in on the gunman. Several hundred neighbors cheered as the thumb-sucking girl was carried to an ambulance at the end of a tense drama that began Monday night. She appeared to be unharmed.

The gunman had twice promised to release the girl, earlier today. Dorothy Cunningham, a woman the child calls grandmother, went to the apartment at 7 a.m. and vainly tried to negotiate with the slight, white-haired man.

MOTHER ESCAPED
The girl's father, 34-year-old Fred Kinsler, apparently had been dead since Tuesday. Police had seen his motionless form on the floor since then.

The girl's mother escaped shortly after the gunman, who had been living with them, took the three hostages in their apartment in the low-income project following an argument.

The girl's aunt, Margaret Williams, was taken to the heavily guarded apartment shortly before 5 a.m. after the gunman told police he would release his young captive in the woman's custody.

NO I WON'T
Sgt. Kenneth Kelly said that when Mrs. Williams asked the gunman to give her the girl, he replied: "No I won't. Come back tomorrow. The child is staying with me."

Through holes drilled in apartment walls, police said they could see the gunman, Floyd Steele, 56, an ex-convict with a history of mental illness, holding the girl on his lap, a gun to her head.

Shortly after Steele turned away the aunt, a police officer sneaked into the apartment through the front door but the gunman spotted him and ordered him to leave, police said. Unable to exit the way he came in, the officer was lowered out a rear window by ropes secured from the floor above, police said.

Hundreds of policemen surrounded the low income project and sharpshooters remained in position on nearby rooftops. Steele, paroled last year after serving a prison term for manslaughter in the death of a girlfriend, had been a lodger for the past six weeks with Fred and Peggy Kinsler.

SHOTS HEARD
Police said he pulled a gun on the Kinslers and the girl, Avril, after an argument. Mrs. Kinsler, 32, later escaped by knotting bedsheets into a rope, but injured her hip when she jumped 15 feet from the bottom of the rope. Three shots were heard inside the third floor apartment after the family was taken captive. One move to storm the apartment was called off after the gunman threatened to kill his captives.

At various times during the day, appeals to Steele to end the siege peacefully were made by a minister, a Housing Authority policeman, a detective with a psychology degree and Steele's parole officer.

Deliveries of cigarettes, beer, ice cream and orange juice were made to the apartment.

THUMB-SUCKER FREED — Policewoman carries five-year-old Avril Kinsler after she was freed today from an apartment in a housing project in New York's borough of Queens. The girl and her parents had been held hostage at gunpoint since Monday evening by an ex-convict with a history of mental illness. The girl's mother had escaped from the apartment earlier; her father was found dead by police after they arrested the gunman.

Solon Says There's No Doubt Kissinger Ordered Wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says he has seen proof that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, despite his sworn denial, ordered national security wiretaps.

Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said Tuesday, "Materials have been supplied to us which constitute positive proof that Kissinger did institute those taps."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided earlier Tuesday to take another look at Kissinger's testimony concerning wiretaps last September during his confirmation hearings.

DENIED HE LIED
Kissinger, at a news conference at Salzburg, Austria, threatened to resign if controversy over his role in the wiretapping is not cleared up. He asked for the committee's review and denied that he lied to the panel.

At issue is the extent of Kissinger's involvement in the wiretapping of 13 government officials and four newsmen between May 1969 and February 1971.

Last September Kissinger testified that he never recommended the wiretapping, but supplied names of persons who had access to sensitive documents leaked to the news media.

However, recent press reports have described a larger Kissinger role in the wiretapping. And today there were new reports, including one in The Washington Post quoting FBI documents which sharply contradict Kissinger's version.

SECRET MEMOS
The Boston Globe said two top secret memos from late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to former Atty. Gen John N. Mitchell on May 12, 1970, apparently contradict Kissinger.

The Globe said the memos, now in the possession of the House Judiciary Committee, name two persons whose residences were to be tapped to determine if they had leaked information to the press. The paper quoted the memos as saying that the wiretaps were "requested" by Kissinger.

Eilberg, in a telephone interview, told The Associated Press, "I can say categorically there is a direct conflict between what we have and what he said to the Foreign Relations Committee."

TELL THE TRUTH
In a television interview Tuesday, Eilberg, asked whether he was saying that Kissinger did not tell the truth, replied, "I'm saying that."

Mother Of Stab Victim Charged With Assault

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — The mother of a young victim of a mysterious stabbing has been charged with aggravated assault after sheriff's deputies sought to serve papers taking custody of her surviving children away from her temporary residence.

The charges were filed against Mrs. Joanne Niles, 44, who is separated from her husband, M. Sgt. Bernard Niles, who, Dyess Air Force officials reported, has been living since 1972 in the non-commissioned officers' barracks on the base.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Solis related that Mrs. Niles scratched, bit and hit him when he tried to serve the custody papers while on the parking lot at the air base hospital.

Other papers issued by Domestic Relations Court Judge Henry Strauss prevent the parents from interfering with officials of the Taylor County Child Welfare Unit.

Mrs. Niles spent the night in jail and was freed on $500 bond Wednesday.

Officers found one of the children, Robbie, 6, at another residence and took custody. Kelly, 13, is in the base hospital recovering from stab wounds.

The custody order is in effect for 10 days.

However, he told The AP, "There's a clear conflict as it appears to me. I wouldn't say he lied."

He said the information he has seen shows Kissinger received more than 50 logs of wiretapped conversations. "It was quite clear that he instituted those wiretaps," Eilberg said.

Eilberg declined to say what materials before the committee constituted the proof. However, the committee has results of an FBI inquiry into the wiretaps.

Justified In Killing Paramour?

AUSTIN (AP) — A common law husband is entitled to have a jury decide if he was justified in killing his wife's lover even if he did not catch them making love, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled today.

The court earlier affirmed the five-year sentence of James Dillard Shaw in the Harris County slaying of Eugene Hintz, his longtime friend.

But Shaw's lawyer asked for a rehearing, arguing that Shaw not only was entitled to a charge to the jury that included the self-defense issue, he also had the right for the jury to decide the justifiable homicide issue.

By a vote of 3 to 2, the court agreed. It reversed his conviction and sent the case back for a new trial.

Under the penal code in effect at the time of the slaying, Aug. 20, 1971, a man was justified in killing his wife's paramour if he caught them making love or if he found them in circumstances that would lead a reasonable person to conclude they had been making love.

Testimony showed these details: Shaw testified he twice telephoned his wife, Brenda O'bryon, on the night of the slaying. She told him Hintz was there, but he would not spend the night. She refused Shaw's request to talk.

Shaw said he drove to the apartment, saw a light was on and went to shoot a game of pool.

His wife testified she saw Shaw drive up. She said she told Hintz, who was wearing only his shorts, to put on his clothes. She admitted having made love with Hintz moments earlier.

Shaw said he returned to the apartment and the lights were out. He took a hunting knife from a toolbox, placed it in his back under his belt and knocked on the door, calling for her to come talk with him.

Shaw broke down the door. His wife was standing facing him. Shaw turned and saw Hintz, who was moving toward him slowly with a butcher knife. Shaw drew his knife and killed him.

Judge W.A. Morrison dissented, joined by Judge Leon Douglas. Morrison said the adultery issue was not raised by the evidence.

Thousands Of Egyptians Welcome Nixon To Cairo

CAIRO (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Egyptians gave President Nixon a wildly enthusiastic welcome on his arrival here today to start a tour of the Middle East.

He is the first American president to visit the country since Franklin D. Roosevelt came in 1943 for wartime conferences.

Nixon arrived from Austria in 90-degree heat at the Cairo airport and was greeted warmly by President Anwar Sadat, his host for the next two days.

WHO SADAT?
The two presidents then went by motorcade to the city, standing side by side in Sadat's open limousine.

The motorcade passed large crowds lining the roads chanting, "Nixon! Nixon! Sadat! Sadat!"

White House press secretary Ronald L. Zeigler told newsmen later that Egyptian security officials estimated the crowd at at least two million.

However, U.S. officials said the figure was in the hundreds of thousands in their estimation.

After a drive of nearly an hour, Nixon and Sadat arrived at the Kubbah Palace where the U.S. chief executive will stay.

DOMESTIC WOES
In a brief ceremony the two presidents exchanged remarks. Sadat called Nixon one of the great men and praised his leadership in the world.

As if to give Nixon support in the face of his domestic troubles, Sadat spoke of the necessity for the American president to continue in a leadership role.

Nixon responded by pledging U.S. support for Egypt's economic programs.

Nixon left the plane that brought him from Salzburg, Austria, with his wife, Pat, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. They were met by Sadat and his wife.

Although Nixon's arrival carries great symbolic importance, it was overshadowed by Kissinger's earlier threat to resign if the controversy isn't ended over his role in wiretapping practices.

Military and plainclothes forces were evident everywhere. Sadat and Nixon scheduled their first private talks about 2 1/2 hours after the Egyptian leader's arrival at the Egyptian residence, Tahra Palace.

The World At-A-Glance

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ethiopian guerrillas holding four Americans and two Canadians are planning to put two of the Americans and one of the Canadians on trial, sources in Addis Ababa reported today. They said the three men to be tried, all oil prospectors for the Tenneco Oil Co. of Houston, Tex., will be charged with "exploiting the natural resources" of Eritrea, Ethiopia's northernmost province. The sources said they are Powers William Cayce, 36, of Plainview, Tex.; John W. Rogers of New York, a Texaco geologist on loan to Tenneco, and Cliff James, 27, of Walkerton, Ont. There was no word of what the guerrillas planned for the other three persons.

ROME (AP) — Most Italians are more interested in the opening of the World Cup soccer tournament in Munich Thursday, in which Italy is a favorite, than in the fall of Premier Mariano Rumor's government Monday and the grave economic crisis that caused it. But stocks on the Milan exchange plunged an average of 3 per cent to a 1974 low and the lira, down more than 18 per cent in a year, weakened further. A Socialist spokesman said there was no possibility of rebuilding the center-left coalition of Christian Democrats and Socialists that has formed most governments for the past decade.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says he will issue an order designed to force President Nixon to permit John D. Ehrlichman full access to White House files for his defense in the plumbers case. U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell has said he is willing to move under federal contempt statutes. He delayed Ehrlichman's trial in the case while going ahead with the prosecution of three others still accused in the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second straight year, Congress has voted to build additional multimillion-dollar war planes the Pentagon did not request. Ironically, the plane is the F111, which was the target for nearly 10 years of some of the most severe congressional attacks ever made against a military aircraft. Opponents used to say it was too costly and technically unsound.

Constable's 'Boo-Boo'

HOUSTON (AP) — A constable said Tuesday he plans to check out prospective employees a little better after it was revealed one of his reserve deputies was convicted of assault to murder.

"We will process everything through the Federal Bureau of Investigation files," said Constable Raul Martinez. "I plan much closer screening."

Martinez said Tuesday he had learned that Philip Rawlins, 50, was convicted in 1969 of assault to murder after the shooting death of a man in 1967 in a tavern brawl.

Rawlins' appeal of the conviction was denied last month by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals and Rawlins was arrested and ordered to serve his 10-year sentence.

He had been working parttime as a reserve deputy in Martinez' office for about two months before his arrest and was authorized to carry a pistol.

"This was a boo-boo all right," Martinez said. "I will take steps to see that it doesn't happen again."

High winds stirred sand and scattered isolated showers about the area Tuesday evening.

The U.S. Experiment Farm measured .02 of an inch rain, but other parts of the city got up to .20, along with winds measured up to 44 knots (approximately 50 mph) at Webb AFB.

One of the heaviest falls in this area was reported by Mrs. John Couch at Luther where .60 of an inch was registered. East of there it dropped to a quarter of an inch and to the south a sprinkle.

Bill Cregar measured .50 of an inch at Elbow south of Big Spring, but Lomax had only a sprinkle as did Forsan.

The Colorado River Municipal

Water District reported half an inch at the Lake J. B. Thomas dam and one inch at the Big Spring-Odessa intake.

Gauges south of the Colorado River on the Big Spring Gall road showed half an inch. Snyder had an inch, Ira three-quarters, Silver had .20, and Lake E. V. Spence nothing.

Lake Colorado City came in for high wind, rain and a barrage of hail as the squall line moved through.

At Ackerly between Big Spring and Lamesa there was only a sprinkle with plenty of sand. To the southeast a shower put out .50 of an inch, but mostly the area was raked by a standstill.

Helps Dogs Dodge Death In Chamber

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban refugee who works as a dog groomer went to the pound a few weeks ago looking for a friend's lost dog and found 400 ill-kempt strays in need of homes.

Since she couldn't take them all in, Angela Rossie now spends her only day off each week prettying up the animals so they'll have a better chance of being adopted and escaping the gas chamber.

"As long as a dog is healthy and nice, it's a shame that it can't find a home because it doesn't look good," Miss Rossie, 35, said Tuesday.

"I saw one in particular, a poodle that looked terrible," she said. "I knew I could make him look beautiful."

"Grooming dogs is how I make my living. If I make my living off them, then this is the least I can do for them."

Each Monday, she and her assistant, Alicia Lopez, pick up several dogs at the Dade County Humane Society and take them to Miss Rossie's shop for a thorough grooming.

Kenneth McGovern, executive director of the society, said Miss Rossie's work has had a dramatic effect on adoptions.

"Once a dog is groomed, it seems to find a home immediately," she said.

The event is scheduled for the last three nights of the show, June 20-21-22, but not for opening night of June 19 which has a lot of other extra events. The various organizations at Webb are in the process now of selecting their teams for the competition, and these will be announced later.

Senate Okays $21.8 Billion Weapons Procurement Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $21.8-billion military weapons procurement bill with a $900 million limit on military aid to South Vietnam for the coming year. Approved Tuesday, the measure goes to a House-Senate conference committee for final adjustments. The House last month voted to authorize $22.6 billion for weapons development and purchase for the U.S. armed forces and $1.126 billion for military aid to South Vietnam.

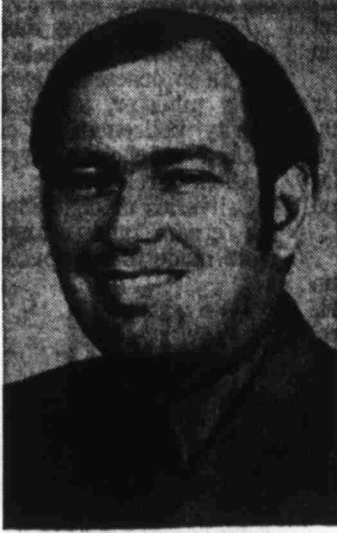

NO BLANK CHECK
The Nixon administration budget called for $23.1 billion for procurement and $1.6 billion for South Vietnam. The Senate rejected 46 to 45 an amendment to cut military assistance to South Vietnam to $750 million.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, defended the $900 million recommended by the Senate Armed Services Committee as a clear signal in itself "that the South Vietnamese government no longer has a blank check." During seven days of Senate debate, the Senate defeated amendments to reduce funding for such new weapons systems as the B1 bomber and the submarine launched cruise missile.

NUN BECOMES DOCTOR — Sister Rosemary Havey, newly graduated doctor of osteopathy, talks to a patient in the Ingham County Medical Center. She is the first nun of her Dominican Sisters order to become a physician.

'They Find Out That I'm Human'

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In some rural area of Michigan greatly in need of a physician, a Roman Catholic nun plans soon to hang out her shingle reading: "Rosemary Havey, D.O." "Any way we can use whatever talents to bring better quality life to people is very appropriate," said the 44-year-old Dominican sister, who just was graduated with a doctor of osteopathy degree from Michigan State University. "It doesn't make any difference whether it's helping a terminal patient die with dignity, bringing a new baby into the world or helping a married couple improve their relationship," she said. Dr. Havey, celebrating her 25th year of silver jubilee of taking her vows at the religious convent in Adrian, will intern in Detroit. Then she plans to practice in a rural area. She said she is the first nun in her order who plans to be a physician in private practice. She wears conventional clothes. Being a physician will not affect her status as a nun, she said. She added that she would still live on the same stipend as any sister. Any money over that will go to the religious order, she said. "Whenever I go into a hospital, it seems that within a few minutes everyone knows I'm a sister," said Dr. Havey, of Center Line, Mich. "They find out, however, that I'm human and laugh and have the same frustration as any other human being," she said. "But I like my life style."

BURNEY MYSTERY

Can't Determine Cause Of Death

DALLAS (AP) — Paul Edward Johnson was still in jail under $100,000 bond today in connection with the death of LTV Corp. executive Dan Burney, but his future status was in doubt after an announcement that the death cannot be declared a homicide.

Dallas County Medical Examiner Dr. Charles Petty said Tuesday he was unable to establish a cause of death of Burney because the body was too decomposed.

The announcement appeared to rule out the filing of murder charges in connection with Burney's death. Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said such charges could not be filed without an autopsy report verifying a homicide.

NO GUN WOUNDS
Johnson, 29, is charged with robbery in connection with the theft of Burney's car.

Burney, 47, disappeared May 21 after leaving LTV offices late at night. A widespread hunt with a $20,000 reward was launched.

Johnson was arrested after he was seen driving Burney's car. Burney's body was found Friday after a dog dragged

Alien Trial Figure Skips

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A Milwaukee man who failed to appear for the conclusion of his federal court trial Monday faces up to 50 years in prison and a $125,000 fine on a conviction of transporting illegal aliens.

A jury found Daniel Avenado Adalpe, 29, guilty on 25 counts of transporting illegal aliens after Adalpe, a resident alien, failed to appear Monday.

U.S. District Court Judge Reynaldo Garza ordered a $25,000 bond forfeited and issued a bench warrant for Adalpe's arrest after defense lawyer Abel Toscano of Harlingen said he could not find the man.

Judge Garza set the new bond on Adalpe at $100,000.

ination showed there was no fracture of any bones, no gunshot wounds, no knife cuttings or any sign of injury whatever. He said almost all the bones in Burney's body were found although a few small bones in the hands, feet and neck were missing.

COLLECTS $28,000
Wade said the cause of death is not so important as whether the death was a homicide or by natural causes.

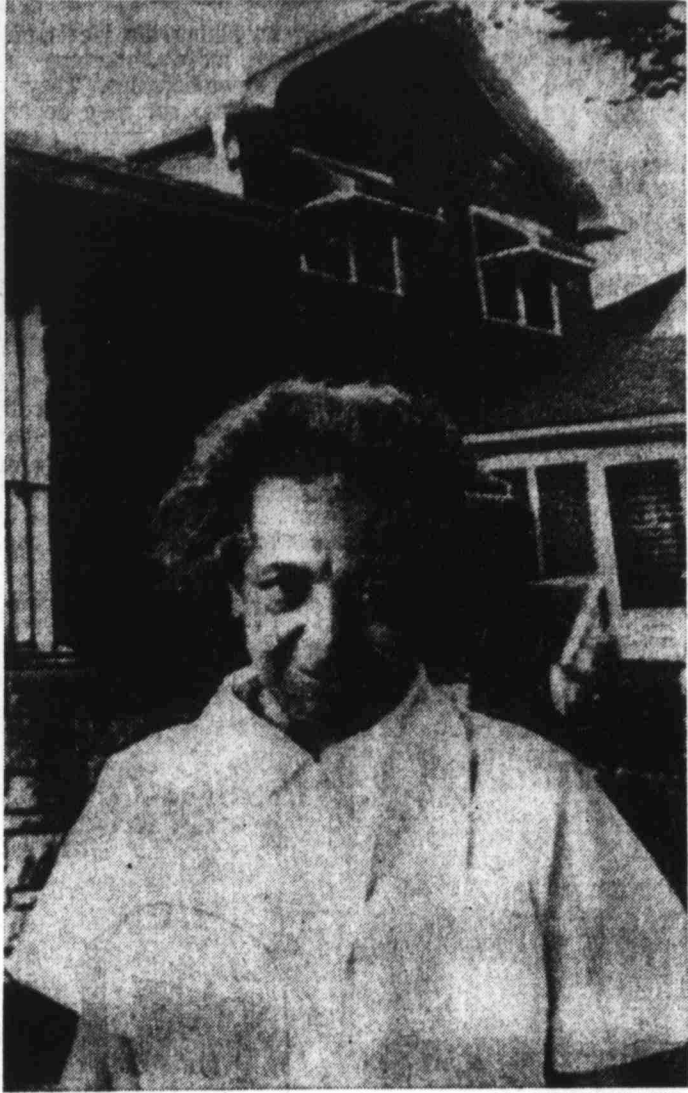

He said the investigation in the case is continuing.

In a related development, Mrs. Mary Alice Darrough collected a $20,000 reward Monday for the discovery of Burney's body.

Her son Richard led police to the executive's body after the dog was seen carrying a skull.

Mrs. Darrough said the prospect of getting the reward caused nothing but trouble for her family.

"My family has been harassed ever since Richard found the skull," Mrs. Darrough said. "Phone calls, people knocking on the door," it got so bad that a police squad car was at the house until Tuesday evening.

'My Life Savings Are In That Home'

CHICAGO (AP) — The state of Illinois has joined a suburban woman who has been fighting for two years against losing her $25,000 house because she failed to pay $59.81 in taxes and penalties.

The Evanston home of Mrs. Lillian Ware, a 59-year-old practical nurse with a history of heart trouble, was bought by two Chicago real estate brokers who specialize in the purchase of tax delinquent property.

"My life savings are in that home," Mrs. Ware said. "It is paid for completely. I have put so much into it."

OUT OF LUCK
Mrs. Ware appeared to run out of luck last week when the Illinois Supreme Court refused to review an Appellate Court decision upholding the purchase.

But Tuesday, Gov. Daniel Walker said he was joining up with Mrs. Ware. Walker contends that Allan Blair and David R. Gray bought Mrs. Ware's home on a tax delinquency technicality, but that they did it through a corporate front which does not have a real estate license. This, "we believe, is a violation of the law," Walker said.

He said the alleged violation would invalidate the purchase of the home and that he will ask the courts to so rule. He said it also established grounds for revoking the individual brokers licenses of Blair and Gray.

The tax delinquency dates to a period in 1968 when Mrs. Ware was convalescing from a heart ailment.

PAID THE BILL
A spokesman for the governor said she instructed her attorney to find out what taxes she owed and make sure they were all paid.

The attorney discovered she owed $500 and paid the bill, but failed to notice the final payment was due on an alley assessment, which was not listed in the general tax records, Walker's spokesman said.

This assessment, $41.57, was the basis for Mrs. Ware losing her home to Blair and Gray. It grew to $59.81 with penalties.

Blair contends Mrs. Ware was properly notified of the delinquency proceedings but failed to intervene. Mrs. Ware, who has been living in her home pending court appeals, says she was not notified.

In some states public agencies sell tax delinquent property at auction and return the proceeds, less taxes owed, to the original owner. In Illinois, delinquent property can be purchased for the amount of taxes due.

Missing The Mark

Some members of the professional staff have padded the boy rolls of Boy Scouts of America, Chief Executive Alden Barber has admitted in response to an investigation by the Chicago Tribune. Extent of entering fictitious names on the rolls to meet membership goals is not yet established, but it was estimated by some to represent 50 per cent of the total in the Chicago council. However, the practice seems isolated.

Most of the cheating appears to have been done under the Model Cities program in which the federal government paid for the registration of boys from ethnic groups too poor to afford the nominal membership fee. In the Chicago council, some $341,000 came from this source.

This is a sad commentary upon the general moral climate and the response to pressure to win, to succeed, to meet goals. Barber said there will be no effort to hide or mask the extent of the deception, and that those involved will be disciplined immediately. He stressed, properly, that only a few of the 431 councils in the nation are involved, and it is suspected most of these will be in the metropolitan areas where heat had been applied to build up membership from the minorities.

It is a tragedy that some staff members, instead of concentrating on taking the ideals of Scouting to boys, thought it more important instead to meet a quota of memberships. They not only missed the whole mark, but they deprived boys of a good experience and a proper example that the overwhelming majority of councils insist upon.

Hoping For Impetus

President Nixon today begins his visitation to the Mideast, after a brief rest in Austria, with the objective of achieving a peace upon the foundation of a cease-fire agreement achieved by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

We earnestly pray that this will succeed in some substantial degree. From a practical standpoint, however, it seems to us that the most that may be hoped for is that the President's appearance may be a means of giving impetus and thrust to negotiations. It strains even the bounds of miracles to look for an instant solution to a legacy of strife and hatred that has festered for several thousand years.

Vice President Gerald Ford got a little carried away in rating the Kissinger cease-fire agreement, as momentous as it is, as the greatest diplomatic achievement of the century. It will take another hundred years to assess this with any degree of accuracy, thus it is more realistic now to say that a good start has been made, and hope that the President's visit will advance it one or two quick steps forward.

In Wetter Days—

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

When weather turns off hot and dry, as our current plight, thoughts turn to one of two things — historic droughts or floods. It's more pleasant to think about the latter.

WHAT BROUGHT this to mind was a reference in the Borden Citizen, the Borden County Historical Society's news letter, in the memoirs of John Johnson. He recalled "1902 when the Colorado River had its biggest rise in history." It took two days to get across the river, he remembered.

That surely must have been in July, the month when Big Spring received 12.98 inches of rainfall and produced what also was probably our greatest flood. Among the prized early-day pictures of Big Spring are those showing the high water from that flood. These establish that the water backed up almost to what is now Second Street. In all, the flat (or draw) in which the rail yards of the Texas and Pacific railroad were located, must have been between a quarter to half a mile wide.

TO APPRECIATE this volume of water, it should be remembered that Beals Creek, which begins just west of town with the juncture of Sulphur Draw and Mustang Draw, was then relatively unimpeded in its flow by the small village. Cultivation was just starting, thus siltation from the northern slopes had hardly begun. The water was flowing out all right — there was just too much of it.

October 1907 with 11.87 inches produced high water but the only other flood to match it was one which occurred in April 1922 when 12.77 inches of rain fell, most of it during one afternoon and night. An equal amount, or more, came down on the upper reaches of Elbow Creek and Mustang Draw west of town and filled and overflowed the chain of natural lakes to the west.

THE CHANNEL of Beals Creek had begun to become clogged, though not nearly to the extent of today, and certainly not glutted with salt cedars in the flats. At any rate, water backed up to First Street. Switch engines puffed up and down the years, trying to move cars to better locations, and even tugged at cables to pull a migrant bridge (at Gregg Street) back into place when it began to float away. Finally, water rose to the fire boxes; tracks washed out, the town was isolated.

A FEW BOATS appeared mysteriously to convey people across the swollen draw that inundated the railroad yards. Stocks of cross ties and telephone poles were converted into rafts by youths who poled them up and down the "river." A few bold cowboys drove their ponies into the flood, grasped the horse's tail and swam across the tide.

THERE WERE other smaller "floods" in the 1930's, including one that covered the highway bridge at Colorado City in 1936 (when the historic North Concho flood inflicted tremendous damage on San Angelo). Another smaller one came in July 1945 when 9.25 inches fell, about half of the entire year's total. May 1957 brought 7.96 inches and October another 3.28 to fill the new Lake J. B. Thomas. Another 9.40 in October 1962 did it again. Nothing like this has occurred again, but I get the feeling that 70 years since the granddaddy in 1902 and 50 years since the second largest in 1922 is a long time — and that history will repeat itself one of these days.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

Why did God permit incest in the Bible? I mean the reference to it in Genesis chapter 19. A.G.M. Incest is defined as a sexual relationship between people — so closely related that they are forbidden by law to marry.

The Levitical regulations in early Hebrew history show God has always been against it. He knew that the absence of such laws would open the floodgates of immorality, as well as jeopardize children born to such an incestuous union.

In the Bible chapter you mention, Lot is seen again in a rather sorry role. He is a man who means well, but who is helplessly bound up with the degraded moral life of Sodom. While in contrast to the evil city, he seemed righteous (2 Peter 2), actually his record was one of selfishness, worldliness and cowardice.

His incestuous relation with his two daughters (Genesis 19) is just the logical epilogue to a drama of progressive moral deterioration. To his credit, however, one must admit that his daughters had to intoxicate him before they could use him for their purposes. (Verse 32).

Don't blame God for Lot's mistake. Actually, the whole account speaks eloquently of God's long-suffering patience, and hesitation to pronounce judgment. It also warns against the temptations which follow spiritual tension, and the enticements — both good and bad — of lonely retirement.

"BUT IF WE WENT ON STRIKE WITH EVERYONE ELSE, WE'D BE DEPRIVIN' THE COUNTRY OF A VITAL SERVICE..."

Misunderstanding Profits

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost everyone overestimates corporate profits, said Carl Madden, chief economist of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Poll results support his contention. One study showed that people believe the average manufacturer earns 28 per cent on sales, after taxes, when the actual profit last year was 4.7 per cent.

Madden blames journalists for some of the misunderstanding, but there is also reason to suspect that many corporate officers, who brag about their profits to some audiences, and scale them down to others.

Speaking to investment analysts, an executive is inclined to emphasize profitability. But for other audiences he may stress rising labor and material costs.

An extreme example of the dichotomy is that of a large corporation that recently declared a regular quarterly dividend, based on what it told shareholders was a solid profit for the year. But it reported a loss to the Internal Revenue Service.

Profits aren't simply explained. They may seem high in one quarter because they were depressed the quarter before. They may be due to extraordinary conditions that won't recur. They may indeed be huge, but only because the company is too.

But what seemed to bother Madden most as he talked prior to addressing The Conference Board, is that no matter what business does today, somehow a goodly number of people will categorize it as inimical to the public interest.

The air, he said, is "filled with conspiratorial philosophy that thinks business is a ripoff when really it is an engine of everyone's wellbeing," an engine of wages, pensions, divdends, fringe benefits, security. Why are businessmen suspect, he asked rhetorically? "People forget that business is creative. Actors, dramatists and writers are creative," he said, "but the guy who produces a $100 calculator somehow isn't."

Suggesting that journalists contribute to the misunderstanding, Madden asked, how many of them know that among the 500 largest industrial concerns, as measured by Fortune Magazine, 21 companies showed a net loss on their sales. "Compare that with the 28 per cent profit estimate in the survey."

Madden is concerned also that the public doesn't understand that inflation exaggerates profits, adds to business costs, makes it difficult to replace worn facilities and inventories, and adds to capital-raising problems.

'It Is A Minefield'

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — By agreeing to surrender the additional tape recordings subpoenaed by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, President Nixon could have kept secret the terribly damaging information that a federal grand jury wanted to brand him a Watergate conspirator.

What's more, the President was fully aware that his giving up the tapes might have kept the grand jury action secret until after House impeachment proceedings were completed.

THUS, THE FACT that Mr. Nixon instead adopted the stonewall strategy in refusing all additional tapes seems still more inexplicable and self-destructive. It suggests that either the additional tapes are too incriminating to surrender, or that the White House legal defense is based on a wooden-headed stubbornness.

On Sunday, May 5, Jaworski informed Nixon defense lawyer James St. Clair what had been widely rumored but never firmly pinned down: the grand jury early this year voted unanimously to list Mr. Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up but had been dissuaded by Jaworski from actually taking that step.

ON THAT SUNDAY, Jaworski and St. Clair were negotiating over tapes of 64 additional Watergate-related conversations with high hopes by the prosecution that the White House would cooperate.

If Jaworski did not have to press his subpoena in court, there would be no immediate need to list all unindicted co-conspirators or reveal the grand jury vote on Mr. Nixon. Such information need not be given to defense lawyers for Watergate cover-up defendants until just before their trials began many months from now. By that time, House impeachment proceedings would probably be concluded. Furthermore, there was a chance that the information might be kept sealed indefinitely.

BUT LATE ON THE afternoon of Monday, May 6, St. Clair passed the surprising news to Jaworski that Mr. Nixon was going to refuse the latest tape request after all. That forced a hearing on the subpoena behind closed doors May 10 in Judge John Sirica's court with all defense lawyers present. At that hearing, Jaworski revealed the unanimous grand jury vote against Mr. Nixon.

The wonder is that the news did not seep out to the public for another full month. A defense lawyer last week finally passed it on to the Los Angeles Times, which published it in last Thursday morning's edition. The revelation did not help the President's struggle for survival in the House. "This shouldn't affect our deliberations," one Republican on the House Judiciary Committee told us, "but I'm afraid it does."

WHILE CONGRESS slashes away at President Nixon's new Vietnam budget covering both arms and aid, Hanoi is illegally sending more combat equipment and troops south of the old demilitarized zone (DMZ) than ever before in the 20-year war. (The House cut Mr. Nixon's arms aid request from 1.4 to 1.1 billion.) The Senate may whack another $300 million.)

Intelligence available here puts infiltration of fresh, regular North Vietnamese troops into the South at 120,000 since the Jan. 28, 1973, ceasefire. This brings the North Vietnamese troop level to its strongest point. One reason for troop infiltration (flatly prohibited by the ceasefire accord): lack of Communist recruits available in the South.

HANOI'S RECENTLY expanding military operations in the South include an almost wanton use of ammunition. In the last 36 hours of fighting before the Communists captured the small South Vietnamese ranger outpost at Dak Pek May 16, nearly 10,000 shells and rockets were lobbed on the post manned by only 683 rangers.

Mid-Cycle Pains

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 25. Why would I get a pain on the left side of the lower abdomen midway in the menstrual cycle? There is no bleeding, but sometimes cramps off and on with this pain until the period begins.

I had a checkup several months ago and the doctor said something about congestion of the ovary. Can this be expected to persist? — Mrs. S. G.

One possible explanation — and not an uncommon one — of midcycle pain is "mittelschmerz," which is due to a leaking of blood when an ovum is being extruded from the ovary. That is, when the ovum is released — approximately midcycle — please send me your booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing." I enclose 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. I would also like to know how fattening gum is. I would much appreciate it if you would tell me how many calories. I chew it often and am hoping it is not too fattening. — J. B.

The sugar in a stick of gum represents a few calories, but you can also buy sugarless gum, in which case you can forget about even those few calories. The gum itself is not digested and represents no calories even if you swallow it. In other words, worrying about chewing gum is a waste of time. It's a triviality compared to the diet items that make you take on weight.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: More than 50 years ago drug stores sold charcoal mints consisting of two layers of peppermints with a layer of charcoal between which was advertised as being very good aid for digesting one's food. Is charcoal good for that purpose? — E. P.

The charcoal may possibly have absorbed some gas, but it would take an unreasonable amount of charcoal to make any difference to anyone who really had much of a "gas" problem. In which case something more than candy-coated charcoal would have been required. Neither the peppermint nor the charcoal "aids digestion."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Before I had a breast removed, I was taking hormone shots for my hot flashes. Since the operation the doctor refuses to give me any more of the shots or tablets. He says it may cause cancer to appear again. Is it possible to get relief from any other medicine? — Z. H. L.

It's not that hormones would cause cancer to reappear; rather, if any of the cancer remains, hormones could accelerate the growth. Your doctor is being sensible. Mild tranquilizers may help stars

The Light Fantastic

Robert E. Ford

It is a joy to see by the newspapers that clutch dancing is back.

In case you don't know what clutch dancing is, it is a boy grabbing a girl and a girl grabbing a boy and there they go, swinging around the dance floor in a perfect picture of grace and beauty.

IT IS A picture of grace and beauty provided the male doesn't have two left feet and if the girl doesn't decide she will do a different dance than her partner.

The term "clutch dancing" is not in Mr. Webster's dictionary book. Have heard it used only by westerners, generally in ranch country. This was to distinguish the style from square dancing where the partners inly touch hands while going through maneuvers more athletic than romantic.

The rock dancing came along and that is about as graceful as a crack-back block by a 220-pound pro footballer. Never understood why the kids liked it.

CLUTCH DANCING once was banned among certain sub-cultures of our nation and may still be.

This largely was among religious groups which felt that such close contact between males and females was sinful or at least would lead to something bad.

There was another reason, too. Usually there were hangers on at dance halls who brought along a little bootleg panther sweat and got tipsy.

This could lead to serious confrontations and there often were fist fights and sometimes knife play and shooting, and what a moment before had been a pleasant social affair turned into something ugly.

A dance sponsor who didn't hire a beefy type or two to break up fights was asking for trouble. But the security men sometimes could not act quickly enough and some youth would put a nasty hole through another male.

MANY THOUSANDS of University of Texas ex-students can recall with pleasurable nostalgia the Germans held each Saturday night.

Don't recall why they were called Germans. They simply were student dances.

A boy for $1.00 could take his best girl to the Student Union for several hours of dancing. Probably 2,000 persons would be on the floor, the men in their best suits and the coeds in fantastic evening gowns.

Strangely, there never seemed to be any trouble. Perhaps it was the care with which the students conformed to custom.

Custom permitted any man to "tag," meaning he could tap a male dancer on the shoulder and the dancer would have to surrender his partner to the newcomer.

IT CERTAINLY helped a girl get around. And the men, too. For relief of his partner, he could seek out the school beauty or the girl of their dreams and dance a few steps when elsewhere he couldn't get close enough to speak to her.

Used to take a particularly great little dancer to the Germans. Half a turn around the floor and she disappeared in the arms of some guy who tagged.

Favorites then and even today are the fox trot, waltz, tango and rhumba.

It is remarkable to recall now that for $1.10 a couple could dance to great bands led by Guy Lombardo, Glen Miller, Xavier Cugat, Paul Whiteman, Kay Kaiser, Ina Ray Hutton, Rommy and Jimmy Dorsey and Duke Ellington.

Letters To Editor

Dear Editor: Reference a frontpage article of Friday, June 7, concerning an 18-month-old girl found wandering in Big Spring. How necessary or appropriate was it to identify her as a Latin American? Ethnic or race classification (as known here) I believe was unnecessary.

I welcome this opportunity to write you. I would like to enlighten those who through no fault of their own continue to refer to Americans with Spanish surnames or physical characteristics of what may resemble people from South of the Border (extending to and beyond Central America) as Latin Americans. The term is not a bad one. It is descriptive; but when it refers to a race of people I protest.

A short time ago while on business at the welfare office I witnessed that without hesitation the recording clerk annotated "Latin American" as the race for a welfare applicant I was assisting. When I informed the clerk of the erroneous entry, she replied that that is what they always put on those applications for Spanish surname applicants. I went on further to inform her of the race distinctions as outlined in the encyclopedia Britannica. She acknowledged that, yes, I was probably correct, but that they annotated always as she had already done.

Oh Big Springers — those who refuse to acknowledge that Latin American is not a race, what else is new? I am an American, United States citizen with brown-bronze skin of Spanish, Indian and French ancestry and very proud of every drop of mixed blood in me. I continue to be classified as Caucasian (White), for how long?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Marta A. Marsh

Don't Condemn

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a son who was my whole life until this happened. He was married for 18 years and had two lovely children. Then all of a sudden he left his wife and family to go live with a man!

He called to tell me about it. My world was shattered. When he was younger, I sometimes wondered if he was homosexual. I noticed a few signs, but I never would accept it. In my hysteria, I screamed at him over the phone: "As far as I'm concerned, you just died. In fact, drop dead. I never want to see you again!" Then I hung up.

He and his wife must have some kind of understanding because she doesn't seem nearly as upset as I. I'm told he spent last Christmas Eve with his family, helped with the tree, and everything went smoothly.

Abby, dear. I am not without sin. Was I wrong to sit in judgment and condemn him? Should I accept him for what he is? We were always so close and really loved each other. Should I call and apologize? Please, Abby, tell me what to do.

BROKENHEARTED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When we do the right thing, we feel good about it. When we do the wrong thing, we feel bad. Call him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been family, but we aren't completely certain that we want to, for various reasons. However, here is one reason in particular which bothers me. I have always been a rather possessive person, and it is important to me to be the most important person in my husband's life.

I'm afraid if I had a child, the child might become more important to my husband than I am and I would then become jealous of my own child. I've seen it happen in some families.

I have caught myself feeling jealous when my husband shows affection for our dog. Now, wouldn't it be terrible to feel that way about your own child? Does this sound far out to you, or have you come across this problem before? And what should I do about it?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: If you're jealous of a dog, forget about a family. It shouldn't happen to a child.

DEAR ABBY: I finally met a man I can be serious about, and there are only two things wrong with him.

One: When we go out to dine, he cuts all his meat into little bite-sized pieces as though he were preparing it for a 4-year-old child, or a dog!

The other thing: When a lady comes into a room and he is seated, he never stands up.

How can I get him to correct these two faults without hurting his feelings? He would be perfect otherwise.

SERIOUS ABOUT HIM

DEAR SERIOUS: Tell him lovingly that if it weren't for two minor flaws in etiquette, he would be perfect! Then gently explain. Now, what man would resent a little constructive criticism in order to attain perfection? If yours does, he has more than only two faults.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PROVED MY LOVE IN COLUMBUS" If he comes near you again, call the police. Or do you want to try for two?

Bride-Elect Feted At Gift Party

Miss Sherry Bradbury, bride-elect of Charles L. Purdom, Houston, was complimented with a lingerie shower Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Jeff Brown, 615 Highland.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Ed Shive, Mrs. Jimmy Bumgarner and Mrs. R. B. Davidson.

The bride's colors of pink and rose were used in a carnation centerpiece of the refreshment table that was laid with an imported cutwork linen cloth. The punch service and other appointments were silver. Punch was served by the honoree's sister-in-law, Mrs. Gary Bradbury.

Corsages of pink roses were presented to Miss Bradbury and her mother, Mrs. Bob Bradbury.

Miss Bradbury and Purdom will be married July 13 at the First Baptist Church.

Attends Eastern Star Installation

Mrs. Maedelle Davidson was in Snyder Saturday to attend the installation of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. McNew, as worthy patron and worthy matron of Snyder Chapter 450, Order of Eastern Star. Also attending were the McNews' sons, Charles McNew of Clinton, Ark., and Don Richard McNew, Kerrville, and their families.

Mrs. Davidson also attended the wedding of her niece, Terelyn Hazelwood, to Steve Garlington in Stanton Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hazelwood, Stanton, accompanied Mrs. Davidson to Snyder.

CONTESTANT — Karen C. Anderson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Anderson, 135-A Dow, will compete in the Miss Texas Teenager pageant June 20-22 in San Antonio. For What It's Worth

Jack Cowan

Whether or not the 1974-75 Howard College basketball team resembles that of the past couple of seasons in any way will depend on how well Coach Harold Wilder recruits in the upcoming weeks. Wilder, and Leroy McClendon, his assistant, haven't been loafing, as you might be able to tell from the six players they've already signed.

But of the six, three are guards and three are forwards, the tallest of the bunch 6-4. With no one in sight yet to replace the two departed 6-7 starters, Taylor Williams and Thomas Bledsoe, there's cause for minor alarm.

"We really need at least one big man," says Wilder, who has possibly been out-recruited in the Western Conference the past few years by only one man, Amarillo's Bill McDonald. And if he doesn't get the Big Man? "You're going to see one running, shooting team. If they think we pressed last year, they haven't seen anything," Wilder grinned.

The coach says he's in contact with at least four post men — all 6-7 or over — and he says his chances at getting at least two of them are good. Three are from Mississippi, that veritable gold mine of talent, and the other is from Louisiana. Either way, it's bound for an entertaining season. . . .

Incidentally, Mike Randle's signing with Texas Lutheran closed out the search for Hawk sophomores. Williams went with Mississippi State, Bledsoe chose TCU, Leroy Lumy decided on Texas Wesleyan and Bobby Beall inked with Oklahoma Christian as all five HC starters found senior college homes. . . .

The Midland Cubs, in the midst of their longest homestand, swing into action tonight against Arkansas and the two will knock heads until Sunday. After that they're on the road again, and back home June 21 for a week.

Big attraction in the Cubs' present homestand is Bob Feller Night. Feller, the former Cleveland fireballer, will be in his old Indian uniform Saturday night signing autographs and chatting with folks, just like old times. . . .

Of all the ridiculous jabs being hurled at the new NFL and all of the players on the way to it, the dumbest yet is that they might not give "100 per cent" in their final year with the NFL. The implication is that, at some crucial time, Craig Morton might throw an interception or Larry Csonka will fumble at the goal line since they don't have The Good Of The Team at heart any more.

It's a very interesting theory, but as Perry Mason would probably point out, there's one thing missing — a motive. Nobody kills their stock broker without a reason, nor do they put their perfectly sane, rich aunt in an institution just for grins. Along those same lines, why would these players want to lose on purpose? What reason would they have for fouling up a touchdown drive?

It's a well-known fact that to survive in football at any level it takes a huge amount of competitive spirit, whatever that is, and it stands to reason that one would need a big helping of the stuff to make it into the pros. That would indicate that none of the guys are going to lose a game on purpose, simply because they want to win every game. I mean, that's what it's all about. . . .

Rick Burley Hurls Texas To Win Over Oklahoma

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Pitching usually is the big factor in a short series, and Texas and Southern Illinois proved that baseball adage Tuesday night.

Texas used a route-going performance by Rick Burley to topple Oklahoma 10-4 while Southern Illinois stayed alive in the 28th College World Series with a 5-3 victory featuring a stellar relief performance by freshman Dewey Robinson.

The double-elimination tournament's only unbeatens—Miami, 50-9, and four-time defending champion Southern California, 47-19—set action tonight.

Thursday night's pairings find Southern Illinois against Miami and Texas and Southern California in a rematch. Southern Cal won in the first round 9-2.

"I said when we came here our depth would be the key in the series," reminded Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Ritchy" Jones. "And tonight was a good example."

Jones called on Robinson, a right-hander who had worked only seven innings during the regular season, and he responded with 8 2-3 innings of three-hit relief.

"Robinson and our running won the ball game for us," said Jones, whose team pushed its record to 49-11. "We stole six bases tonight—and four figured in the scoring."

Southern Illinois broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run fifth in which it didn't hit the ball out of the infield but stole four bases, including a delayed double steal that netted a run.

Northern Colorado, 32-13, took a 1-0 lead in the first on a single and three walks that chased Salukis' starter Rod Klass.

Robinson allowed single runs in the third and fifth innings, but with the help of a double play retired 16 in a row after the final Northern Colorado hit in the fifth inning.

Texas spotted Oklahoma a 3-0 second-inning lead but bounced back with 12 hits for an easy victory.

Doug Duncan and Bobby Clark each knocked in three runs, and Burley allowed just three hits after the second.

In running his record to 13-0, Burley struck out 13, and Texas kept alive its bid for its first title since 1950. The Longhorns are making a record 17th appearance in the tournament.

Second Swimming Clinic Begins Next Week At 'Y'

The Big Spring YMCA has opened registration for the second summer session of swimming lessons, which will begin on Monday in the YMCA's Horace Garrett Memorial Natatorium and Dora Roberts Teaching Pool.

A choice of either morning or afternoon classes is available for elementary school-age youngsters, and instruction is available during the afternoons for pre-schoolers and teenagers. Adult lessons are set for Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Several certified YMCA instructors are available during each of the class periods to accommodate students of different swimming abilities. The Y's aquatic program is progressive in structure, and individuals are promoted through continuing levels as skills are accomplished.

YMCA swimming skill levels include Tadpole (pre-schoolers), Poliwog (beginners), Minnow (advanced beginners), Fish (intermediates), Flying Fish (advanced intermediates), and Shark (advanced swimmers).

Award Cards and recognition patches are given to each student upon successful completion of the required skills for each aquatic level.

The YMCA aquatic program also includes springboard diving instruction, with awards available for Diver, Advanced Diver, and Varsity Diver.

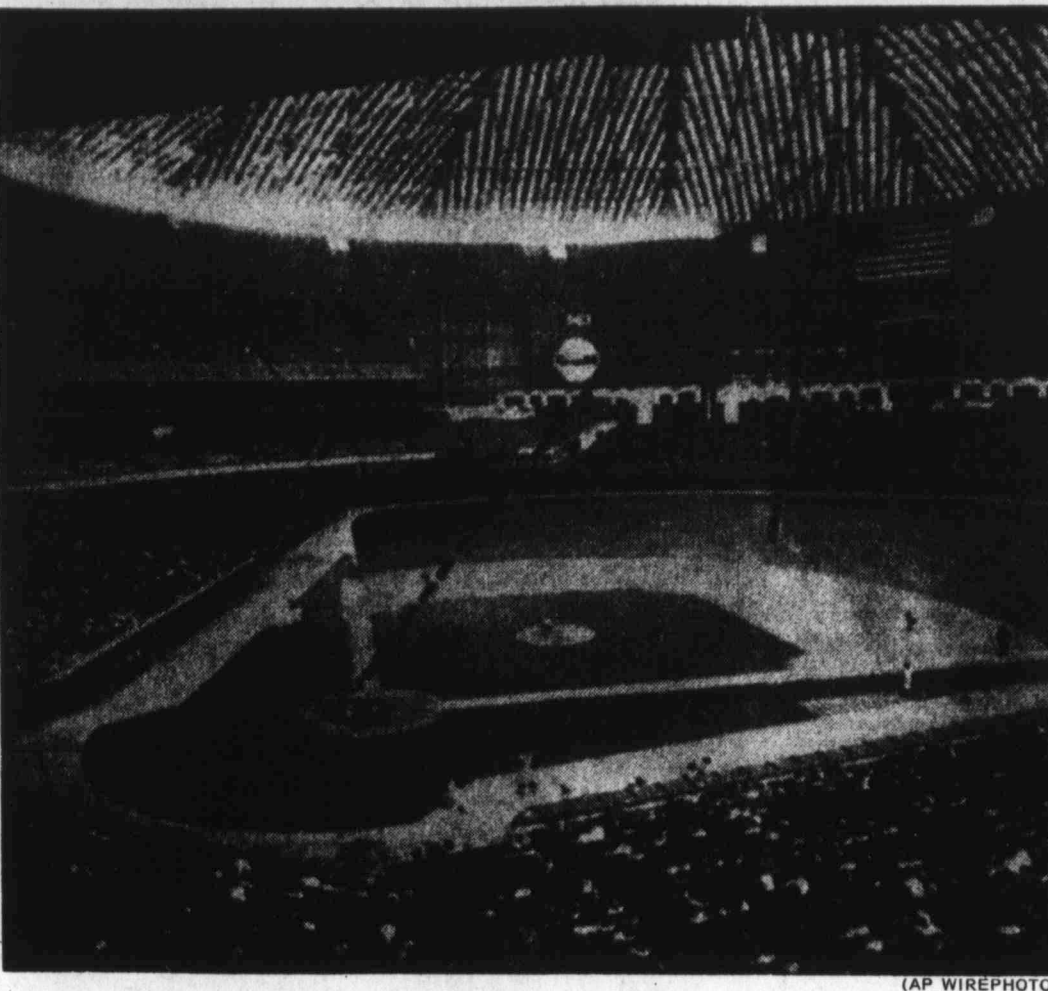

The second session of classes June 17-July 3, with progressive classes meeting Monday through Thursday. Session III will begin on July 23.

Classes are free to YMCA members, and registration may be completed by calling the Y at 267-8234. Special Summer Youth membership rates are available for June, July, and August at $9.00 each. The annual youth fee is $15.00.

In addition to swimming instruction and recreational swims, classes are also available in many other physical education and community interest activities. Additional program information, activity schedules, or descriptive brochures may be secured by contacting any YMCA staff member.

HOW A SPEAKER TONED DOWN POSSIBLE HOMER — Dashes indicate approximate path of fluke ball hit by Philadelphia Phillies infielder Mike Schmidt in first inning at the Houston Astrodom Monday. Schmidt's ball appeared headed for home run territory in center field before it bounced off a speaker hanging from the ceiling and fell back on the field. Schmidt got only a single out of it.

Electronic Gadgets Helpful To Cedeno

By The Associated Press

Houston Manager Preston Gomez says a little electronic gadgetry "snapped" Cesar Cedeno's batting slump, but from the sound of Cedeno, all he needed was a swift kick in the pride.

"We took shots of last night's game with a Sony and replayed them in slow motion," said Gomez, whose Astros rode a 10-run seventh inning to a 10-1 romp over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night. "We knew that Cedeno was not hitting, so we took pictures of him and other players. This seemed to help us tonight."

But Cedeno doesn't credit the Japanese; he credits Philadelphia pitcher Dick Ruthven.

"He didn't show any respect for me," Cedeno said of Ruthven, who intentionally walked Roger Metzger in the seventh, filling the bases for Houston's Dominican Dandy. "He got me mad. He had no respect for me as a hitter."

Cedeno showed even less respect for Ruthven's pitching, whacking a mammoth grand slam home run into the left field seats. "That was the first time that anyone has walked a man to pitch to me in the big leagues," said Cedeno.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Atlanta Braves outlasted the New York Mets 4-3 in 11 innings; the Montreal Expos bombed the Cincinnati Reds 16-6; the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the San Diego Padres 5-2; the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0, and the Chicago Cubs beat the San Francisco Giants 7-4.

Expos 16, Reds 6 — Both Willie Davis and Montreal knocked in more runs than Cincinnati. Davis capped a seven-run rally in the seventh with a three-run homer, then added a grand slam shot in an eight-run eighth.

Don't Put Me On Shelf, Nicklaus Tells Press

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — On the eve of the year's biggest golf tournament, the 74th U.S. Open, Jack Nicklaus finds a note of humor in the veiled suggestion that he may be over the hill at 34.

"Somebody saw that miserable putt I missed on the last hole at Charlotte a couple of weeks ago and asked me if perhaps I wasn't losing my concentration," the all-time record holder for major championships said Tuesday.

"Then someone else pointed out that of the last seven major tournaments in which I've played, I've won only one. He overlooked that I have won three of the last nine."

During a practice round over the Winged Foot Club, a newsman, noting Nicklaus had won only one event this year, asked if he was beginning to feel the pressure of age as in the case of Arnold Palmer, whose last major title was the 1964 Masters when he was 34.

"Really, I've missed only one major championship since I won my last one," Jack chuckled in the upstairs locker room prior to taking the course. "It's a little early to start putting me on the shelf, don't you think?" He won the PGA last year but tied for fourth in this year's Masters.

Because of locker room rumblings and the fact that this so far hasn't been a typical Nicklaus season, the Open probably has special significance to the Columbus, Ohio, wonder.

He is the 5-1 favorite among 150 who begin a four-day, 72-hole test of the 6,961-yard, par 70 Winged Foot course Thursday.

He tees off at in a threesome which also includes Hubert Green, who comes off his victory last weekend in Philadelphia, and Jim Colbert.

Bill Casper, who captured the last Open title held on this course in 1951, is rated a 15-1 outsider.

LITTLE LEAGUE Colts Enjoy Big Innings To Win

The Colts enjoyed two big innings on their way to a 7-1 American Little League victory over the Cabots here Tuesday.

The Colts broke the barrier with three runs in the 'hello' inning and added three more in the third.

Mike Christian notched the mound victory, his first of the year against no defeats. He allowed only one hit while fanning nine.

Brent Odom and Mike Workman each drove out three safeties for the rampaging Colts. Two of Odom's drives went for doubles. Christian, Bill Davey and Mark Sunday of the winners each collected two hits.

The win was the 15th in 16 starts for the Colts. The game was called in the fifth inning due to bad weather.

The Rockets remained in first place in International Little League by blanking the Comets, 5-0, Tuesday night.

The winning pitcher was Ron Rovda. He also helped at bat by doubling to drive in two runs. Eleven Comets hit the dust waving futilely at third strikes.

Joel Howard had two singles for the Rockets, accounting for three runs. Mark Yarbrough smashed a double for the winners while Mike Domino, Mike Witt and Keith Wilson each had singles for the winners.

Ricky Smith led the Comets at bat with a brace of doubles. Louis Ramos had two singles for the Comets while George Padilla, the losing flinger, came up with a single.

The Rockets are concurrently 11-2 in the standings while the Comet have won only twice in 13 starts.

the second to salt away the decision early.

Randy Cregar ran his pitching record to 4-1 by shutting the Devils down with three hits. His mates collected 11 blows.

Jim Shoultis, Ray Rhymes, Mark Knight and Cregar of the Yanks each hit doubles, as did Mike Madry of the Devils.

The Yankees' Kevin Davidson clubbed a home run. Rhymes, Cegrar and Davidson of the winners each had two hits. Madry wound up with two blows for the Devils. Brent Nichols finished up on the mound for the Yanks.

The Sports measured the Elks, 10-6, in American Minor Little League competition Tuesday.

Wesley Beauchamp was the winner, Parks the loser. Beauchamp hit a double in his own behalf.

Randy Wallace had a double and a single for the Sports.

None of the four teams made it to the finals without a tough battle Tuesday. Spring Woods beat Eagle Pass 1-0 and Monterey nipped Pasadena 4-3 in the 4A semifinals. The 3A semis saw SGP blank Pecos 1-0 and Mercedes tangled at 3 p.m. for the 3A championship.

Houston Spring Woods and Lubbock Monterey met at 5 p.m. for the Class 4A title after South Grand Prairie and Mercedes tangled at 3 p.m. for the 3A championship.

Wet Turf Costs Rangers In Game With Bengals

DETROIT (AP) — A 32-minute rain delay didn't bother David Clyde's arm, but it did have negative effects on his feed.

The 19-year-old Texas pitcher slipped on the wet turf trying to field a bunt in the fifth inning, opening the door to three Detroit runs as the Tigers defeated the Rangers 8-6 Tuesday night.

Willie Horton and Gary Sutherland each drove in two runs for Detroit, but it was a three-run homer by Mickey Stanley that proved the difference.

The Rangers refused to fold after an 8-4 deficit until Jeff Burroughs ended a possible comeback bid in the ninth with a 400-foot fly out with two men on base after two teammates had scored.

The loss was only the fourth for Texas in its last 12 games. Detroit climbed back to .500 at 28-28 and is fourth in the American League East. 31/2 games behind leader Boston, Texas remained second to Oakland in the West, two games back.

Clyde, now 3-2, lasted just 1-3 innings. He hasn't gone further than that in his last five starts.

"He's got good stuff," Texas Manager Billy Martin said. "It wasn't his arm that beat him, it was his feet."

The rain delay came in the Ranger half of the second inning.

NOW TEXAN DEPENDS ON FOOD STAMPS

'Last Kiss' Captured Money, Fame

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — For a moment—a brief, spectacular moment—J. Frank Wilson captured the American dream of money and fame. The dream faded and now the 32-year-old singer depends on food stamps to feed his family in this Texas city where he grew up.

BRIGHT LIGHTS
Ten years ago, Wilson recorded a song called "Last Kiss" and rode its success into the bright lights and instant fame of big time popular music.

"Last Kiss" earned a gold record for Wilson and the short, boyish singer played at some of the top theaters and clubs in the country. He was billed alongside enduring names in the business—Sonny and Cher, The Supremes, Jerry Lee Lewis, Dionne Warwick—and performed in every state.

It was dizzy heights for a 22-year-old from Lufkin, Tex., and almost before it really began, it was over. The bubble burst in an auto accident that killed his manager and injured Wilson and members of his band.

After that, he says now, it was all downhill. His money disappeared in a tangle of contracts and through his own extravagance. Alcoholic binges put him into institutions and lingering effects of the accident still require a program of medication.

Wilson made thousands a week as a singer, but now it's $250 a month as an orderly at a small nursing home here.

"I hate to admit it, but we're on food stamps," he says. "I can't make enough money to support my family and I take any job I can get."

Wilson has a wife—his sixth—and a 17-month-old daughter. They live in a simple frame home not far from the nursing home where he works.

"I've got 21 men patients," he says. "I bathe, shave, feed and change them every day."

IT CLICKED
Wilson grew up in Lufkin, the son of a railroad engineer. He started singing as a teen-ager and kept it up after he joined the Air Force.

He formed a group called "The Cavaliers" at Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo, Tex., and sang at night clubs and beer joints near the West Texas base.

In true Cinderella fashion, Wilson says, a record producer heard them "and thought I'd be good to sing the song called 'Last Kiss.'"

The record, about a teen-age beauty who dies in the arms of her boy friend following an auto accident, was released in June 1964. It struggled for a few weeks and then clicked.

HEADY DAYS
By October, it was at the top of both Cashbox and Billboard charts and John Frank Wilson, now out of the Air Force, was a hot property.

He signed several contracts and somehow only a fraction of the record's money ever got to him.

"It sold 15 million copies and brought in four or five million dollars," he said. "I got a total of $2,700."

But those were heady days. He made a coast-to-coast night club tour and played the Cow Palace in San Francisco with the top names in pop music.

He was making $400 and more a night, but somehow spent it all.

"I'd buy clothes, flashy rings and watches and presents and loan money to anyone who asked," Wilson recalls. "I bought houses and cars."

He earned more than $65,000 in 1964 and ended up with about $3,000.

"The rest went for expenses, car notes and lawyers," he said. "I had producers all over the place," each of whom got a share, Wilson adds.

The accident occurred on a highway near Kenton, Ohio. A station wagon carrying Wilson, his manager and four band members plowed head on into a tractor-trailer truck. The manager died and the musicians were injured. Wilson suffered head lacerations, five broken ribs and a fractured right ankle.

His producers spend little time on sentiment, Wilson said. "They let me stay in the hospital four days and then put me back on the road," he said. "I caught the last days of the tour. I was hurting severely. I couldn't even sneeze."

But he would hobble onto the stage, using crutches and a cast, and belt out eight songs a night to screaming teen-age audiences.
