$100 Million Oil Swindle

NEW YORK (AP) - Martin Eregman, producer of the police movie "Serpico," was explaining why he was among the widely known personalities who invested in a reported $100 million oil drilling swindle that could be the biggest of its kind. "We believed the people, we saw the facilities and, when you look at the list, we were in good company," he said.

TAX-SHELTER "The people," according to the Wall Street Journal, were Home-Stake Production Co., a Tuisa, Okla., tax-shelter oilinsolvent last September by the Securities and Exchange Commission and is under SEC in-

"The facilities," according to the Journal, consisted of five oil wells drilled on a vegetable farm near Santa Marta, Calif., in the late 1960s. The newspaper said one well was legitimate and 3,500-feet deep but at least three of the others were 500-foot dry holes.

Facilities included irrigation pipes painted with the consent of the farmer to resemble oil

Wednesday.

FAMOUS FOLKS "The list" of investors included some of the best company in the worlds of entertainment, law, finance and other fields.

According to the Journal, singer Andy Williams invested $538,000. At least a dozen present and former General Electric officials put in $3.7 million. Fashion designer Oleg Cassini supplied $57,000 and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.,

Other investors were Jack

Benny, Diahann Carroll, Barbra Streisand, Bobbie Gentry, Mia Farrow, Jonathan Winters, Tony Curtis, Faye Dunaway, Buddy Hackett, Bob Dylan,

Alan Alda and Candice Bergen. Other investors listed included Paul Miller, chairman of the Gannett Co. and board chairman of the Associated Press; James R. Shepley, president of Time Inc.; former Florida Gov. Claude R. Kirk; Washington lawyers Earl W. Kintner and Henry J. Fox; Thomas S. Gates, former defense secretary and director and ex-chairman of Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.; federal judge Murray I. Gurfein; Walter B. Wriston, board chairman of First National City Bank; Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., and Chester W. Nimitz, chairman of Perkin-

Elmer Corp. and former Navy

rear admiral.

'PONZI SCHEME' The Journal said of $130 million invested, all but $30 million went astray.

Some alleged investors reached said they had agreed with business advisers that Home-Stake appeared to be a vestment. Spokesmen for firms whose officers were allegedly involved said company policies were not involved in any way.

The Journal described Home-Stake as a "Ponzi Scheme," named after Charles Ponzi of Boston, who took more than $10 mailion from investors in 1919-

Such a scheme usually involves a promise of high returns on an investment. The profits paid to early investors are actually supplied from funds put in by new investors.

Depending upon the scheme, however, some investors may profit. The Journal said Robert S. Trippet, the lawyer who founded Home-Stake in 1955 and ran it until last summer, has consented to a court injunction against securities law violations without admitting or denying any charges by the SEC.

An SEC spokesman in Washington declined comment. The Journal said at least one federal grand jury is due to convene soon in Los Angeles or New York to look into the case.

CHICAGO (AP) - A Chicago Methodist congregation which wants a woman pastor has rejected its bishop's appointment of a man. A member of the Parish of the Holy Covenant explained Wednesday that the congregation "felt we had to take a stand because women are not getting support" from the Methodist Church. But United Methodist Bishop Paul A. Washburn says the congregation can't refuse the appointment because "the act is not provided for in the law of the Methodist Church '

VENICE, Calif. (AP) - The lifeguard strolled out of his station 200 yards from the cresting waves, glanced around at about 200 naked men and women and sighed, "Yep, it's going to be a fun summer." It has been that way all year for Randy Steigely, a guard for six years on the heavily used beach in this Los Angeles district. The guys and gals have been taking off their clothes and authorities have been looking the other way. Steigely, 23, said Wednesday that more than 10,000 bathers and sightseers flocked last Sunday to his stretch of Venice sands and that about 4,000 shed their clothes.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Among the likely witnesses in the trial of John D. Ehrlichman and three others accused in the plumbers case are a former president of Cuba, a former Treasury secretary and two policemen from California. They were among 57 listed as likely to appear in the trial that began with jury selection Wednesday and continues today.

Probe Death Of Ex-Spy

LONDON (AP) - An inquest opened today to probe the death of former British spy Sir Peregrine Henniker-Heaton, whose skeleton was found locked in a room of his home three years after he disappeared.

The coroner referred to the "intolerable strain" undergone by the family, and adjourned the inquest for one week pending further inquiries. Henniker-Heaton served with British intelligence during World War II. He went for a walk Oct. 5, 1971 and never returned.

The disappearance of the 68-year-o'd former secret agent triggered inquiries by Scotland Yard's special branch because of his links with security affairs.

The skeleton, dressed in a heavy tweed sint, was found in a second floor room which Henniker-Heaton used as a smoking den. There was an ashtray full of cigarette butts beside the skeleton.

The find was made by Yvo, Henniker-Heaton's 20-year-old son. He was looking for a cabinet to store phonograph records when he came cross the key to the locked room.

NUCLEAR BAN

The President hoped his visit would produce a partial ban on underground nuclear weapons tests and a slowdown on nuclear arms development by the two superpowers.

The President, with Mrs. Nixon on his right, smiled and waved as he walked down the ramp of the blue and white presidential jet under bright, sunny skies. A crowd of about 400 persons was at the airport to greet Nixon.

WISH YOU HEALTH

Nixon first reviewed an honor guard, which hailed him with the cheer, "We wish you health." He then heard a military band play the Soviet and American national anthems. Then he and his wife shook hands with some persons in the crowd, who were waving small American and Soviet flags.

Brezhnev and Nixon smiled frequently and chatted with each other as they walked through the crowd, and Nixon waved several times to the well-wishers, who included a contingent from the American Embassy.

Nixon then watched a brief military parade, headed into the airport lounge and prepared to motor into the city.

Health Insurance Program Needed, Sen. Kennedy Says

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., says a government-administered health insurance program is needed because private insurance companies have aggravated the nation's health care

"The people's need for health is at war with the insurance industry's need for profit," Kennedy said Wednesday in criticizing an administration-backed health insurance bill.

Caspar Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, contended that the bill cosponsored by Kennedy and Rep. Wilbury Mills, D-Ark., would create a new bureaucracy of 25,000 to 45,000 persons to handle federalized health insurance.

He said the costs of such a bureaucracy "would approach the total administrative costs of the private health insurance industry." The Nixon administration's proposal would have private firms handle the national health insurance plan, under federal and state direction.

Both, Kennedy said, his bill and the administration's would each cost about $40 billion. He said that while the Kennedy-Mills measure would boost payroll taxes by about 4 per cent, bill this year, Kennedy said. the administration's proposal for mandatory insurance premiums amounts to "nothing but a disguised and hidden tax."

"far-reaching bill can be sent any national health insurance to the President for his signature in the next year or two" if Congress is unlikely to pass the administration remains committed to the concept.

First National Hookers' Affair Held In Church

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -The first national convention ever staged by members of the world's oldest profession was a one-night stand in a church.

More than 300 persons paid up to $5 apiece Wednesday night to crowd into the sanctuary of Glide Memorial Methodist Church for the first national hookers' convention. They applauded a three-hour program that ranged from bawdy songs to belly dancing to serious appeals for legalized prostitution.

The audience was made up mainly of young men and women sympathetic to the hookers' plight and included far more

Jean Powell, head of a Coyote-offshoot called Prostitutes of New York, said inflation and high unemployment was "making prostitution an economic necessity for many of the 20,000 known hookers in New York

Opens Nixon's Impeachment Defense Before Committee

WASHINGTON (AF) - Attorney James St. Clair opened President Nixon's impeachment defense before the House Judiciary Committee today. LEGAL FEES

Entering the closed hearing, he told reporters he regarded as the most serious charge the March 21, 1973, payment of $75,000 to convicted Watergate burglar . Howard Hunt Jr. The money, St. Clair insisted, was for Hunt's legal fees and not part of the Watergate cover-up, as has been alleged by a federal grand jury.

St. Clair's request that he be allowed to call six witnesses to buttress his case was rejected by the committee Wednesday.

The committee agreed to call two of them but said it wants the other four interviewed first by the committee staff to see if their testimony 's needed.

Heatly's Quiz Heating Up

AUSTIN (AP) - The Constitutional Convention's adminstration committee this afternoon examines Rep. W. S. Heatly's use of chartered aircraft at state expense for his trips home to Paducah.

Heatly's flights have cost the state $2,404, and an Abilene pilot, Sam Jennings, says he has another $1,600 in bills for four or five flights that have not been mailed yet.

Convention Secretary Charles Schnabel said he approved reimbursement to Heatly after satisfying himself the general appropriation bill permitted it.

He said he also considered Heatly's poor health and the lack of direct airline service to Paoucah.

"We are going to review the applicable law and just see where we are," said Sen. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, whose senatorial district includes Heatly's home county. Hightower is administration committee chairman.

GM Must Pay $1 Million To Woman

Houston woman who lost the use of both of her arms and legs in a 1969 automobile accident won a $1 million lawsuit today against General Motors Corp.

Elnora Spriggs Williams claimed that the steering coupling on her 1963 Chevrolet was not designed properly, resulting in her losing control of her car which crashed into a guardrail on Interstate 10.

She said she was approaching "teeny-weeny curve" when she shifted her position slightly behind the wheel and the wheel spun "around like a top."

She was thrown into the back seat by the impact and was rendered a quadriplegic. Lavert Larue, an auto mechanic, testified that the lock ring, a safety factor to keep the coupling together, was missing and apparently had been missing for some time. He said the thrust clamp also was loose, and a slight upward pull on the steering wheel would separate the upper shaft from the lower shaft, and a person could not

Larue said in his opinion the clamps on the 1963 chevrolets were too small and the lock rings were inadequate and unsafe because they could be removed too easily. Also, he said, the "steel sleeve" of the shaft had been shortened from 2-% inches in the 1958-60 models to or 1-1/8 inches, which was too

General Motors contended that mechanical failures such as had occurred resulted from ordinary wear and usage. The car was six years old and had approximately 60,000 miles.

General Motors also contended that Larue was not qualified to testify as an expert witness, but the Houston Court of Civil Appeals noted hat he had other words, the Congress has signs of various Chevrolet

Measure the distance around your house. (In feet.) And measure is the average height (For a pitched roof, figure "average height" to eaves: plus two feet for gable ends.)

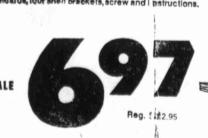

Then multiply distance by height, to get the approximate number of square feet to be painted. Divide the number by the coverage you can expect from each gallon of paint you're using, and you'll know about how many gallons

Of course, coverage varies depending on the surface you're painting. But generally, you can expect a Sherwin-Williams Latex House Paint to cover about 400 square feet per gallon. So, in the example, you'd need about

The Thing's Too Big To Haul Down The Mountain'

Tom Crotser believes he's found Noah's Ark but "the thing's just too big to haul down the mountain."

Crotser and four companions leave for Mt. Ararat in Eastern Turkey July 5 where he says satellite photographs show the ark is embedded in a black ice glacier at the 12,500-foot level. Two of his team members already are in Turkey seeking permission to scale Mt. Ararat-their fifth journey up the slope-to verify their discovery. THE GREAT FIND

"Confirmation would be one of the greatest discoveries of the ages," Crotser, a non-denominational minister, said Wednesday.

According to Crotser, earth photos show an object "foreign" to the mountain, frozen in ice and in the shape of a Crotser said the ark is located on the northeast quadrant of Mt. Ararat, "pretty far up. We've brought down gopher wood from our previous trips, carbon-dated from 4,000 to 5,000 years old. We've found other material that old, also."

Crotser says material acquired earlier has been studied and authenticated by the University of Chicago as of substantial age.

we've pinpointed the site." Crotser and team members Melvin Barcelo, Larry Lucas, Bobby Woehl, Bob Smith and Leon Halcomb plan to spend 45 days on the mountain surveying the site.

He said there is a hang-up with the Turkish government. however, because the mountain is near the Soviet border. "The Russians have military installations in the area and the Turks are afraid of what the Russians will do. I don't think we'll be prevented from making another trip up the mountain, though," he said. The Bible says Noah's ark came to rest on Mt. Ararat following God's great flood which consumed the world's inhabitants save for Noah and his Ararat say it is the Cradle of civilization. It is part of their folwlore that man began again in that region, all descendants of Noah and his family. In 1948, The Associated Press carried a story quoting a villager who had come down from the mountain saying he had seen the ark frozen in a black ice glacier,"

Another item on his agenda is to find the Ark of the Covenant located, he feels, in the Dead Sea area.

If Noah's ark is indeed found, what will he do with it?

Crotser says: "Well, it will belong to the Turkish government. It won't be in a museum, though. Man, there's 70,000 tons of gopher wood up there. The thing's just too big to haul down the mountain.

When we reach the stage where computers play bridge, every play will be made in exactly the same tempo. Unfortunately—or fortunately, if you prefer-where mere humans are involved, some plays take us by surprise, and even a slight hesitation often tips off our holding.

South became interested in slam the moment he received a jump raise from his partner. Since it would be foolish to inquire about aces with a weak doubleton, South showed his ambitions with a cue-bid of spades. With all his points in prime controls and a fine hand distributionally, North needed no more encouragement and immediately launched into Blackwood, settling in the small slam when he learned his side was off

West led a spade, and when dummy came down declarer was not completely happy with what he saw. He was solid in trumps and the black suits, but he was left with a guess in diamonds-he would have preferred North to have the ace of diamonds rather than the king-jack.

Since everything depended on how declarer played the diamonds, it seemed that declarer should draw trumps and then lead toward dummy, hoping he would guess right. However, declarer was aware of the advantage of surprise, and decided to make full use of it. He won the opening lead with the ace of spades and immediately shot back the nine of diamonds.

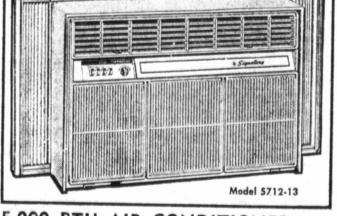

There might be some moral justice if we could report that West followed smoothly with the ten of diamonds and declarer went wrong, but that was not the case. The diamond play caught West unawares, and he hesitated for a moment before playing the ten. Since he was unlikely to have a problem if he held the queen, South decided that West must hold the ace. Accordingly, he went up with the king of diamonds and brought home a slam that depended more on reading the opponents than on reading the cards.

Most women have hostessed at least one bridal shower, and for each one they try to make the refreshments and decorations especially lovely. First, because there is always a wait for the honor guest, there should be fresh coffee waiting for guests. The rest of the refreshments come later, after the bride-to-be has joined the party.

Whether it's a luncheon or evening party, the dessert ought to be particularly bridelike. A beautiful Orange Blossom Cake, for instance, in the shape of wedding bells, is so attractive it can serve as your

The Home Reception

Refreshments for a wedding buffet that vie with the charm of the bride herself can be prepared with a bit of ingenuity and advice.

Maurice C. Brockway, banquet manager of New York's Ambassador Hotel on Park Avenue, suggests that food for a spring wedding reception at home be superlative but easy to

If punch is served, the bowl and glasses should be placed at one end of the table and the wedding cake at the other end, with a white floral centerpiece.

Mr. Brockway's inviting but economical buffet menu suggestion includes small finger-size sandwiches, such as deviled ham, sliced chicken, sliced ham, egg salad, lettuce and tomatoes, cucumbers and mayonnaise; also chicken or lobster salad or both.

For dessert, he suggests individual ice cream molds and small cakes iced in white or pastel shades of light blue or light pink.

After the serving of this 'breakfast - luncheon," bride and groom together cut the wedding cake. At this time, the best man proposes the toast, and each guest should have a glass of champagne or a cup of punch ready.

SOME THOUGHTS

ABOUT MAKING A GOOD ENTRANCE

The entrance, or foyer, of your home, whether it's arge or small, wide or narrow, is where you welcome your guests — and for that matter, yourself. It's the one room everybody has to pass hrough.

The impression it makes can be lasting. Is it hospitable? Is it useful? Is it pret-

So many foyers show only the console and mirror arrangement that you would think there is no other way to decorate this very important part of your home.

A good looking nest of tables is one practical and helpful way to substitute for the usual console table or, you might want to try an elegant slim table that gives you more room and more beauty in your en-trance way. Those are just two of the many possible ideas.

If a foyer is large enough, it may be used as part of your living area with a small pair of chairs and when you entertain a large group, it will provide much needed additional seating.

Once the furniture has been chosen, you can concentrate your energies on finding accent pieces. We are here to help you in the selection of your foyer furnishings - and help you be sure you have a good entrance at your house.

Something Ease Tension

While President Nixon is exploring the possibilities for continuing if not enlarging the spirit of detente with Russia, there is an increasing awareness of the precarious situation that still exists in the Middle East.

It is not that recent developments knock lusture off the recent diplomatic triumphs of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, or the multi-state tour of President Nixon to add momentum to the effort; it is rather that these outbreaks of raids and retaliation are threatening once more to ignite the larger tinderbox.

Consequently, there is considerable merit in the proposal advanced in several quarters that there needs to be some sort of buffer set up between Israel and Lebanon, from whence most of the guerrilla raids have most recently come, and which have touched off preemptive as well as retaliatory raids by Israel.

The disengagement agreements between Syria and Israel carefully spells out terms under which this will be achieved, and so far it is working out fairly well.

Thus, something similar - either a buffer zone or a patrolled border by some international force (as costly and difficult as that might be) - may well be the answer to reducing the violent friction along that line.

It is indefensible for the Palestenians to allow ugerrilla forces to slip across the border and raid Israel villages. It is disconcerting for Israel to over-react with a resort to the old Hamurabic codes of an eye-for-an-eye, nay two eyes for an eye, to enforce the integrity of its borders.

To some degree, in both cases, the government of the combatant nations are trying to demonstrate to their peoples that they are not too soft. Thus, anything that will lessen the demand for such a belicose demonstration can help ease the tensions and the danger of explosion.

Sauce For Goose And Ganders

Sen. Hubert Humphrey is one of the political figures to turn in jewelry to the federal government. Recently, the former vice president turned over to the State Department an eight-carat diamond given to him by President Joseph Mobutu of the Congo.

The diamond and 10 leopard skins were given to his wife in 1968 and Sen. Humphrey said that he was not aware that the gifts fell under the provisions of the Foreign Gifts and Decorations Act. The skins were sold with the proceeds going to charity. All gifts over $50 are the property of the U.S. government, according to the act.

The Humphrey jewelry report accompanies others of government wives receiving gifts from foreign dignitaries. Among those have been the wives of President Nixon, former Secretary of State William Rogers, Sen. J. William Fulbright and former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, plus former Presidents, Johnson, Kennedy, etc.

Nevertheless things don't look so bad for some officials' wives and dependents. Just recently a law went into effect giving congressmen new leverage in foreign spending. It seems that although members of Congress have come under repeated criticism for their foreign junketing - those periodic trips abroad to "investigate" certain exotic havens - at government expense, they have fixed it so they don't even have to account for what they spend a scout or other young person is seriously hurt while on a hiking outing, when they plunge over a cliff or are struck by lightning or any of those things, I always feet grateful that it never happened to me.

So now while some of the American public may be worrying what foreign officials may be draping around the necks of the wives and daughters of American officialdom, a greater concern should be turned to what our junketing congressmen are purchasing while on their various excursions abroad.

OVER A 15 year period, I took lots of scout troops and lots of teenage Presbyterian groups on outings... back in the years when my own kids were stumbling through those many

And there was a time or two when I had plenty to worry about. The fact that none was more seriously hurt than cutting his hand while opening a can was more a matter of luck than good planning, I am afraid.

I remember peacefully falling asleep near the Balmorhea outdoor swimming pool one Sunday afternoon. I woke up and all 40-some young people were gone. Now that will give you an eerie feeling. I went to the parking lot and only my car remained. I stood there thinking and remembered that on the way down, Phantom Lake was mentioned and that somebody in the crowd was supposed to know the way into the

I got into the car, praying all the way as I drove to the ranch that has that dreaded lake. Sure enough there were the cars, but no kids. Through the years two persons were drowned in the underground lake, which is bottomless, and the bodies were never found.

With sinking heart, I started wading into the narrow canal that leads into the cave. An iron gate bearing the sign "Keep Out. Orders of the Reeves County Sheriff Department" has had the padlocked knocked off so many times that they have given up keeping I did. Many times.

When I read a news item in which one on it. I got down into the neck scout or other young person is of the cave and I hollered, "You all come out of there and drown on your own time." Silence and my echo answered. Then I yelled, "Everybody not out soon is getting ready to lose their keys, their billfolds and everything else left outside.

I heard one of my own daughters say, "I think Mama's mad." The e c h o e s came back Mama's mad Mama's mad." "You're durn right I am, I hollered. Get out of that lake..that lake..that lake. I mean it..mean it.. mean it."

HERE THEY came. Tickled to death with themselves. Monsters all. The sweetest and best of them are monsters at times. One time I took a group to the rock pile in the Davis Mountains. A memorable Day!!

I put the group on the buddy system and warned them of the dangers of climbing the rocks. I forgot to warn them about a bull in a pasture nearby and we had a little excitement on that score. Then as supper time arrived, all but two boys were there to eat.

John Garlington, the preacher's son, and Jerry McGowan, the banker's son, were not there. They had climbed "that mountain" one girl informed me and pointed over to the South. I glared at the mountain for the next hour. We called unison, "Hello." When it began to get dark, we shone the car headlights on the mountain. Nobody felt like eating. Finally the two came in sight, calling, "We're coming."

I was grateful...thankful...angry. "I'll kill them," I thought. But I didn't. We had a very grateful prayer and ate a very hearty supper. And I sat there thinking I'll never take a group anywhere again. But I have been interested by the leers is and do it," most people would have Colson's conversion to Christianity. They are variously expressed. Those among us who consider themsleves most wordly - Mr. Pete Hamill, for thing as a huge joke, as if W. C. Fields had come out for the Temperance Union. They are waiting for the second act, when the resolution comes, and W. C. Fields is toasting his rediscovery of booze, and Colson is back practicing calisthenics on his grandmother's grave.

IT SAYS A great deal about the meaning of Christianity in our culture. Traditionally, it has been those who have sinned the most who are the special objects of providential grace. The prodigal son is welcomed most by heaven precisely because he has most to atone for.

Ah, but does that mean that we shouldn't be most surprised by the most drastic alteration in known attitudes? If Al Capone became a Franciscan monk, there is no doubting that that operation would have exhausted huge storage banks of heavenly grace. Or if Anthony Lewis uttered a compassionate word about Richard Nixon, one would certainly take notice, though indeed there are those who would suspect guile: reculer pour mieux sauter, as the Frogs say, who know how to step back a little in order to leap forward a lot.

BUT IT DOES not matter who it is, it is possible to suspect guile, as in the case of Charles Colson. If one of the President's conversations had in it: "Let's figure out what our duty that greet the news of Charles suspected that those words were uttered for the sake of the record, maybe after calling in the Secret Service to dust off the hidden instance; or the writers for the microphones. It has all become so "Village Voice" - treat the whole twisted that we tend to be particularly skeptical when we detect someone doing something because it is right, even though it is something that is tactically damaging.

CONCERNING CHUCK Colson, it seems to me less implausible than it apparently does to others that he should have found Christ. His weakness, as generally identified, has been his heliocentric concern for one person - Richard Nixon. When he told the court that it did not occur to him to challenge Mr. Nixon when told to go out and do something, are we asked to disbelieve that? Not the critics of Colson, or those of Nixon: indeed that is what they most desire to believe. That everything Colson did that was disreputable, he did at the bidding of someone he treated as a Commander in-Chief, in charge of the national security.

WHETHER HE'D have served Richard Nixon if Nixon had been not the President of the United States. but chairman of the board of Murder, Inc., we have no way of knowing: no way of knowing whether Colson carried about with him springs of resistance he could not overstrain.

But now he says that he has discovered Christ. To say that you have discovered Christ, in our secular society, is to say something that causes most people to wince with embarrassment.

Court May Congeal

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON - The shrouged fact that the Supreme Court concealed its division in the historic 1954 school integration case to produce a public facade of unanimity suggests the President's cold war against the high court over the White House tapes may backfire.

THE UNANIMOUS 1954 decision in Brown vs. Board of Education reflects a modern tendency by the Supreme Court toward overwhelming, often unanimous, decisions on paramount constitutional questions when opinion within the court may really be divided. That tendency might produce a one-sided decision ordering Mr. Nixon to turn over his tapes to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, confounding the President's strategy.

Although the record of Supreme Court deliberations is top secret, the fact is that the 1954 court, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, split 6 to 3 in its pre-ruling deliberations over school desegregation. But when the Justices actually voted, the three in the minority joined the majority to make the decision unanimous.

LEGAL SCHOLARS believe that the White House refusal to say it would obey an adverse finding is designed to warn the high court that a presidential refusal to obey could lead to the worst constitutional crisis since the Civil War. Leaving aside the merits of the case, that argument could conceivably impress some Justices, leading to a closely-divided split decision. Even if that decision went against Mr. Nixon, it would leave the issue confused and subject to interpretation.

IN FACT, as the record in the 1954 case indicates, the court tends to congeal into a strong or unanimous

ALTHOUGH RABBI Baruch Korff is threatening legal action for our report that the June 9 testimonial luncheon for President Nixon was run by the White House, the truth is that presidential aides on the public payroll intervened to prevent a fiasco.

When we reported that the widely publicized pro-Nixon rally was stagemanaged by the White House, Korff telephoned us in fury to call the column an "outright lie" and an affront to his "integrity." He would check with his lawyers to see what "action under the law" he could take.

The rabbi did dream up the luncheon sponsored by his National Citizens Committee for Fairness to the Presidency. But the White House was stunned to learn that he had announced a long list of celebrities (including two most unlikely ones, Chief Justice Warren Burger and Democratic Sen. Harold Hughes of Iowa) would attend though he had talked to none of them.

KORFF THEN just let the White House make his press release come true. Although even they could not produce Burger and Hughes, presidential aides did come up with four cabinet-rank officials - and Mr. Nixon himself. The White House also ordered the U.S. Marine Corps Band to play for the "private" party, at taxpayer expense. Bruce Herschensohn, the aide who travels the country, at taxpayer expense, to drum up impeachment opposition, was in

"Management wasn't convinced that audiences would sit still for a bunch of film clips," Haley recalled. "Also the technical departments said it would be impossible to combine 35 mm film, CinemaScope, black and white and color into a 70 mm movie." Haley pursued his research quietly, seeing the 200 MGM musicals during lunch hour, evenings and weekends. He worked with an assistant film editor to assemble an hour and a half of film, then imposed on his friend Gene Kelly to read a narration.

THE GO-AHEAD for "That's Entertainment" was given last July and in November Haley left his studio post to devote full time to it. Technical problems were a constant headache, but there were some happy discoveries.

Arranging stars to introduce each segment was another problem.

From 10 hours of entertainment, Haley assembled a first cut of three hours, then faced the agony of trimming it to two. "It's all dessert," he explained. "It had to be done." But if "That's Entertainment" does sell in Peoria, he'll be ready with a sequel, or two, or three.

"Pinafore" is one of the best known and most beloved stage pieces resulting from the collaborative talents of William S. Gilbert, librettist, and Arthur S. Sullivan, composer. Designed chiefly to amuse, it has been doing just that for almost 100 years with such engaging ballads as "We Sail the Ocean Blue," "Poor Little Buttercup," "When I Was a Lad," and " Am the Captain of the Pinafore."

STAR-CROSSED "Pinafore's" frothy - and sometimes improbable plot tells the story of star-crossed lovers: Ralph Rackstraw, the lowly seaman who has fallen in love with Josephine, the captain's daughter, and of Mrs. Cripps (Buttercup), the peddlerwoman who has lost her heart to the "well-bred" captain. The role of Josephine is double cast with Jana Bullard as "the lass that loved a sailor" on July 2 and 5 and Paula Haines singing the romantic Later, Black was told there was an underworld offer of $500 to put George in the hospital so he couldn't testify against Guarino and Matthews. The offer climbed to $1,000.

Black said Stanley advised him to start carrying a gun. He bought a .38-caliber pistol and a shoulder holster.

BODY GUARD On Jan. 15 he went to his apartment. He couldn't believe he destruction.

Everything he owned, furnishings, clothing, rare books, ersonal effects were sawed in half, slashed, ripped, stained, torn or smashed.

Biack said he called the drug agents. They advised him to move into a hotel and stay away from his business. The government told him it would pick up the tab.

The government provided an armed bodyguard-for a while. Later, the bodyguard was pulled off. The government told him there wasn't enough manpower to warrant special care for Black.

Black was out $900 on the hotel bill.

His business was suffering because he couldn't be on the spot to manage it. His insurance was cancelled.

All he had wanted to do was be of some assistance to his country.

He got a lawyer. Black said he was $24,000 in debt because of his volunteer service. He also is threatened with bankruptcy. The government offered him $6,500 in return for his promise to make no further claims against the government. Black refuseá.

MISTAKE Why did Black get involved?

"I didn't see there was any option. Hundreds of businessmen probably get similar propositions every year. If theytook the responsibility we could shut this thing (drug traffic) down," he said.

But what went wrong in Black's case?

"They weren't used to cooperating with a citizen who came in off the street. They're not set up for it. Nobody has the authority or wants the responsibility. They seek the cooperation of citizens but they're not set up to handle it," says Black.

Vince Promuto, the public affairs spokesman for the drug agency, says: "George should be groud of what he did. We are proud of what he did. We do make mistakes, like anybody else. Because of the bigness. It was not intentional. It was a mistake." Black's case is still up in the air.

Grarino? Matthews? Guarino got two years in prison. Matthews got four months.

Dear Abby DEAR ABBY: I've been dating a fellow (I'll call him David) for about three months. He's been giving me a big rush. David is one of the nicest fellows I've ever met. He is a successful professional man, goodlooking, just the right age for me, treats me like a queen, and everyone who has met him thinks he'd be

The problem: David doesn't kiss very well. To be perfectly honest, it's more serious than that. When he kisses me, nothing (but absolutely nothing!) happens. Abby, I'm 25 and experienced (but I'm no tramp), and I am not all that difficult to turn on.

Dull Kisses

Descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. William McNew held their 43th family reunion Sunday in the Howard County Fair Barn with over 250 persons attending. A number of the families were represented by from four to six generations.

Registration began at 9:30 a.m., and work continued on the family genealogy which now dates back to 1774. It is being compiled by Mrs. Bonnie Bennett and Mrs. Dwight McCann.

Mrs. Roy McNew, 81, was the oldest member present, and the youngest was her great-grandson, Calvin DeWayne Rodgers, 2 months. Both are of Big Spring. The person traveling the greatest distance was Mrs. Hazel Reeves, Paul, Numerous local persons attended, and other family members came from Idaho, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arizona, Oregon, Tennessee and other areas of Texas. Guests were Elsie Warnack and Mrs. Wanda Jidd, both of Tennessee; Mrs. Evelyne Delatour and Raymond Delatour, both of Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Matthies of Knott.

Arrangements for the reunion were made by Mrs. Gary Owens, Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Mc-Cann, Big Spring. Next year's officers will be Mrs. Roger Coffman, president; Mrs. Jerald Burgess, vice president; and Mrs. Mc-Cann, secretary.
