Landslides Kill 200 In Columbia

TO SERVE 3,000 Doctor Travels A Lonely Trail

PINEDALE, Wyo. (AP) — Traveling by foot, horse, snowmobile or helicopter, Dr. Thomas Johnston brings medical help to the ill and injured in the towering mountains of the Continental Divide.

The nearest hospital is 77 miles away in Jackson and the closest in travel time is Rock Springs, 100 miles away. Johnston's practice includes 3,000 patients in 17,000 square miles of western Wyoming.

For 16 years, Johnston, 43, has traveled the desolate and isolated areas of Wyoming from rugged forest country to the open ranges.

"I didn't pick the big business opportunity, nor did I come here out of a sense of idealism," Johnston said. "It all goes back to the things you dream of, the kind of things you like to do like fishing, hunting and skiing."

"I prefer the rural atmosphere," he said. "Mainly, it's a good place to raise kids, though you suffer economically."

One doctor covering so many miles, many with poor or snow-filled roads, relies on the good judgment of his patients.

"I give a patient credit for having smarts," Johnston said. "If I saw every person that might need medical care, I'd go out of my mind."

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The earth began to rumble like when thousands of horses gallop on the range. I felt myself sink up to my waist. Something hit me on the head, and I lost consciousness.

That was all Mauricio Forian, a Colombian peasant, remembered of a massive Andean landslide Friday that authorities said killed more than 200 persons.

Gen. Jose Jaime Rodriguez, Colombia's Civil Defense director, said Saturday that 50 bodies had been recovered and 100 persons hospitalized. "We'll never know exactly the number of victims of this national tragedy," Rodriguez said, but "if the information we possess is correct, we would calculate the number of dead would rise to more than 200."

Rescue workers were digging for bodies under the threat of more slides, beneath shifting masses of rocks and mud. Rodriguez said the avalanche, about 95 miles east of Bogota on the road to Villavieja, buried more than 20 vehicles, including six loaded buses.

Communications with Villavieja, capital of the state of Meta, remained cut off Saturday.

Witnesses said the cascading earth and rocks, which covered more than 800 yards of the twisting highway, pushed around tractors and other heavy equipment like toys. It pitched many into a ravine known as Quebradablanca, or White Gully, and posed a threat of floods by damming a river at the bottom of the ditch.

Forian, who lives near the slide area, told newsmen that after he blacked out, "Someone lifted me up by my arms. I thought I was dreaming, but I awoke in the hospital."

Another survivor, Antonio Segura, related his horror at seeing victims covered by tons of debris.

"A mass of earth, mud and rocks began to chase us down the slope of the mountain," he said. "We watched horrified as children and adults were buried among heart-rending cries for help. I saw a man about 30 holding a child by the hand."

"They ran beside me helplessly. I jumped to one side when a giant rock rolled toward us. The man, with his eyes filled with terror, jumped with the child into the chasm. The earth grabbed them, buried them, and I never saw them again."

Outward Bound Program Is OKed For Howard College

Cong. Omar Burleson announced Saturday that Howard College's application for Outward Bound program funds for the period July 1, 1974, to June 30, 1975, has been approved in the amount of $62,975.

Approval of the funds means that disadvantaged junior and senior high school students will be screened, selected, counseled, taught, tutored and guided into an appropriate college with adequate information in regard to financial aids. Participants will receive a monthly stipend, medical treatments and transportation to and from campus.

Dr. Larry C. Key, dean of Occupational Education at the local college, in making the announcement said that applications for positions as project director and assistant project director will be accepted as of today, with prospects of employment immediate.

Those applying must have bachelor degrees, with experience as a teacher, counselor or administrator and should have some background in federally disadvantaged programs.

The program, Dr. Key stated, is completely funded by the government and will function at no expense to the local college. The initial grant means that the program will be funded for 12 months with the exception of a six-weeks summer program this year.

The Department of Housing, Education and Welfare will look at the project. If it proves successful, it will be funded for three years the year around at a cost of about $100,000 annually.

Students from a five-county area will be eligible to apply here, Dr. Key stated. In addition to those residing in Howard County, students in Midland, Martin, Mitchell and Scurry counties can apply.

Once accepted, the students would be transported to the college each Saturday for academic classes over a period of 32 weeks. Parttime teachers would be hired to supervise the class-room work. Dr. Key said the idea behind the program was to keep disadvantaged youths interested in education.

Pension Plans Hike Esteem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Historians will record the 93rd Congress for its Watergate probe and impeachment inquiry, but millions of ordinary Americans may remember it as well for protecting their pensions.

Pension reform legislation is coming — after years of risk and worry by workers who saw and heard about cases of heart-break, hardship and financial horror because promised retirement benefits somehow got lost along the way.

"In all too many cases," a labor specialist once said, "the pension promise shrinks to this:

"If you remain in good health and stay with the same company until you are 65 years old, and if the company is still in business, and if your department has not been abolished, and if you haven't been laid off for too long a period, and if there is enough money in the fund, and if that money has been prudently managed, you will get a pension."

But now, through a bill known simply as H.R. 2, after one of the most difficult legislative operations ever undertaken, the fruit of many years of congressional labor is virtually ready.

As Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chief author of the bill's tax features, told the House earlier this year as it worked on H.R. 2:

"It represents landmark legislation whose beneficial effects in protecting the pension rights of individuals and encouraging more adequate provision for the retirement of all gainfully employed people will be felt for decades to come."

The Senate passed its version by 93-0. The House passed Ullman's by 375-4. The goals of these separate measures were the same, but a summary of differences between them filled four books. At last, following a lengthy set of meetings, Senate-House conferees are within one wrap-up session of delivering a massive compromise for the expected swift final okay by Congress and anticipated signature of the President.

The new legislation would not force companies to provide pension plans. But it would set rules for existing programs and any started during the coming years. Wealthier professional people also would gain more generous tax breaks.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY IS SLATED ATOP SCENIC

Webb AFB with the cooperation of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, will furnish a grand finale to the City's Fourth of July celebration Tuesday with a fireworks display atop Scenic Mountain in Big Spring State Park.

The display will follow the "Let Freedom Ring" pageant, which will be held in Comanche Trail Park in the amphitheatre at 8 p.m. The fireworks display, scheduled to begin between 9:15 and 9:30 p.m. will last for approximately 45 minutes and can be seen from almost any point in the city.

STRIPPER MAY SHUCK THE POLICE CHIEF

KILLEEN, Tex. (AP) — Nancy Lee Wilson, a 22-year-old stripper arrested twice in two days earlier this month, was $405 poorer Saturday after posting that much bond.

Which would not particularly worry Nancy Lee if — just if — she collects on a $50,000 suit against Killeen Police Chief Arthur Butler.

She posted bond on allegations she violated the city's anti-nudity ordinance.

She is suing Butler, claiming that after one of her arrests she was taken to the police station where she was forced to pose in the nude for police photographers who, she says, kept the pictures.

HOT ENOUGH TO FRY AN EGG? — Julie, wife of Lt. Dale Burbank of Webb AFB, had always heard about how hot Texas summers are before she arrived here. The past week, when the temperatures approached 100 degrees again, Julie decided to see if she could fry an egg in a skillet atop her car. The experiment may not have worked but Julie makes a pretty picture, anyway.

Reviewing the ... Big Spring Week ... with Joe Pickle

Temperatures eased, but in spite of a shower which touched only part of the city with a quarter of an inch of rain, the moisture situation continued critical. There was no immediate prospect of relief, although the 30-day forecast did put the area in an "above normal" pattern of precipitation. Although some cotton died daily, the bulk hung on in miraculously fair condition. Figures won't be available for two or three days, but the CIRMWD will have a banner month, approaching 2½ billion gallons.

Schools are sweating their new budgets. The Big Spring fiscal chart shapes up at $6,896,051, a 5.6 per cent principally due to built-in (state) salary increases. Prospects of $6 million more oil values will offset loss of $3,319,000 in over-65 exemptions, and thus perhaps escaping a tax increase. Colorado City with a $3,200,000 budget, up $1,744,697 (most of this is new construction) may have to raise rates 24 cents. Westbrook has called a $400,000 bond election for July 20 to finance a new auditorium, remodeling, offices, etc. without a tax hike.

Dry Weather Is Farm Disaster

It's always sad to see a coach's victory string snapped. But to see his string snapped before a season begins is tragic.

This is largely what has happened this year to Dawson County cotton farmers.

For two years, Dawson County was the top cotton producing county in the nation, last year with a whopping 310,000 bales.

But this year it failed to rain enough at the right time and only 15 per cent of the allotted cotton acreage is planted in cotton.

The original estimate by County Agent Leroy Colgan of 25 per cent turned out to be high because some of it dried up or blew away.

Martin and Howard County did not have an overabundance of rain, but they had more than Dawson County.

Many Dawson County farmers have filled in the federal disaster form at the ASCS office, which had to be complete before Monday.

Many farmers plan to plant peas or grain, "if it ever rains" to keep their land from blowing away.

Dawson is definitely not in contention for the No. 1 cotton producing slot this year. "We're barely in the ball park," one cotton farmer stated mournfully.

DST 8 Months Year? Agency Seeks It

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying that daylight saving time probably reduced use of electricity by up to one per cent last winter, the Transportation Department suggests that the nation go on daylight time eight months of the year.

In a report to Congress on Friday, the department recommended that standard time be observed only during the four-month period between the last Sunday in October and the last Sunday in February.

The nation was placed on year-round daylight time last December as an energy-saving move, and proponents estimated that U.S. energy usage would be trimmed by one to three per cent.

The report said daylight time created no significant effects on traffic safety, crime, agriculture, labor or recreation. But some radio stations encountered frequency-interference problems during their morning rush-hour broadcasts, it said.

Isabel Peron Spells Juan

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Vice President Isabel Peron was sworn in today as acting president to fill in for her 78-year-old husband, Juan D. Peron, while he recovers from a serious ailment.

She joins the ranks of such women government leaders as Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike of Sri Lanka, and Golda Meir, former premier of Israel.

WHEN YOU LEAVE, THEY GET BUSY July Is Fun Month, But Burglars Get Kicks, Too

July is the top vacation month for most Big Spring citizens. This is because little league and Bible schools are over and with school starting in mid-August it is last chance for many families.

With this in mind, the Big Spring police department this month gave some tips to citizens about reducing the chance of becoming a target for burglars, during vacation or any other time.

Police officials point out that there are over two million house burglaries a year.

Some people make it easy — leaving unlocked doors and windows. Obvious signs of absence give the burglar confidence, according to local law officials.

Lack of interest and concern of neighbors also helps burglars. Inability to describe personal property by the victim is also a boon to the thief.

General tips include getting new locks or having tumblers reset when you move into a previously occupied dwelling. You have no way of knowing who might have keys to your door.

Don't hide the key outside under a mat or in a mailbox. If you can find it, so can the thief. Leave it with a trusted neighbor. Have good locks on all doors and auxiliary dead-bolt locks on exterior doors.

Don't let strangers in your home without proper identification. Don't leave your house keys with your car keys with attendants at parking lots.

Your house keys can be duplicated and your address obtained from your license tags.

Don't give information to strangers on the phone. On wrong number calls, do not tell the caller your number. Report to the police strangers loitering in your neighborhood or people asking questions about your neighbors.

Keep garage doors closed when you are gone. If they are open and empty, they indicate you are away.

Don't leave lawnmowers, bicycles and other articles easily accessible outside. Have effective window locks. A safe and unobtrusive lock can be made by drilling through the top of the bottom window sash and the bottom of the top sash and inserting a small nail.

Vary your routine so a burglar won't know when your house is empty. Keep the mailbox empty. Arrange with a neighbor to take your mail out when you are gone.

When on vacation, stop all deliveries and notify the police and a neighbor of your planned absence.

The police add, never discuss your absence in public and don't give information about your vacation to the newspaper. You can give details when you return.

They suggest having the yard mowed while gone. In case of a break-in the neighbor should know how to reach you. If your home has been entered, don't touch anything. Go to another phone and call the police.

Many Elderly Are Barely Able To Make Ends Meet

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — After the first snow in her first winter in the small public housing apartment, Augusta Looney remembered, sighing and thinking, "Lord, thank you for taking the house."

The house was a modest two-story dwelling she and her husband, Candies, scrimped and saved to buy during their working years — he as a baler in a rug factory, she as a hotel maid. It was the symbol of their success and the financial underpinning of their future retirement.

The home had to be sold, however, to pay the medical bills for her husband's last illness. He died of a stroke in 1969.

EXTRA EXPENSES — "Why did I think the Lord that day? Well, it was because someone else had to worry about the shoveling," the 65-year-old widow said.

Five Are Hurt In 2-Car Wreck

Five persons received minor injuries in a two-car wreck at East Fifth and Austin Streets 1:50 p.m. Friday, police reported.

James Bolivar Lewis, 26, 1502 Kentucky Way, the driver of one car, did not seek immediate treatment. Reno Jack Samples, 50, the other driver, Martha Mae Samples, 41, Sammy Johnson, 43, and Annie Johnson, 67, all of Wichita Falls, were taken to Malone and Hogan Clinic for treatment.

Lewis was driving north on Austin Street, police said, and the Wichita Falls residents had stopped in the westbound lane of East Fifth Street.

Martin And Mitchell Wildcats Are Completed

Amoco No. 1 Ruby Allred, northeast Martin County, has been completed as a 1 1/2-mile southeast stepout from the depleted Hill Ranch field. It also is 1 1/2-mile southeast of a Mississippiian opener in the same area.

The well made 84 barrels 30-3-gravity oil and five barrels water with 655-1 gas-oil ratio. Perforation from 8,228-413 were acidized with 7,500 gallons and fraced with 90,000 gallons. Total depth was 9,015 where 5 1/2 was set before plugging back to 8,931. Location is 1,320 from the south and west lines section 58-A, Bauer & Cockrell.

SCURRY STRIKE

Scurry County picked up a new Strawn producer northeast of Snyder and a new location in that general area. Hilliard Oil and Gas No. 1 Western Reserve-Rhoades, 12 miles northeast of Snyder and 660 from the south and 2,310 from the east line section 228-2, H&TC, flowed 56 barrels of 39-gravity oil, plus 46 barrels of water with a gas-oil ratio of 443-1 on a quarter-inch choke. The perforations 6,994-96 were treated with 250 gallons of acid. Total depth was 7,450. The venture is three-fourths of a mile northwest of the depleted Strawn opener in the Tonto (multipay) field.

BORDEN PAIR PLUG

Two miles to the southwest, Woods McShane and Thams No. 1 F. A. Wilson was staked 1,980 from the north and west lines of section 263-2, H&TC, as a Strawn prospector. It is 2 1/2 miles southeast of the Fuller (South Multipay) field.

To Mrs. Looney, snow meant $2 or $3 to hire someone to shovel her walk so she could reach the street. Before she moved, that cost came from her $168-a-month Social Security check.

Even such a minor expense could upset her budget, Mrs. Looney explained. Brushing back a wisp of iron grey hair, she talked of the realities of budgeting in old age. A snowfall could mean no beef that week. Two snowfalls close together could mean dropping the odd chicken legs from her diet until the shoveling expense could be absorbed.

For many thousands of elderly, a home of their own often becomes a financial millstone. Rising property taxes, a leaking roof, a broken furnace drive many elderly on fixed incomes over the line into insolvency. Statistics aren't kept, but government experts and lobbyists for the aged say that thousands of retired persons find themselves forced each year to sell their homes.

"It was hard to lose the house," Mrs. Looney said. "It was our dream. But there are worse things. Lots worse things."

Like the snow, no matter how well it's shoveled, there are always a few icy patches between home and supermarket. For the brittle bones of the aged, these are land mines. A slip and fall can mean long months of hospitalization while broken bones knit, or permanent disability in a nursing home.

"Who would get my food if I fell?" Mrs. Looney asks. She did fall once on an icepatch, and broke an arm. But it was some years ago. She was younger, and after a short hospitalization, she was back on her feet. The fear remains, however, that it might happen again.

DEATHS

Louella Thornton
Mrs. Louella M. Thornton, 50, died 1:30 a.m. Friday in a hospital here after a long illness.

Services will be 3:30 p.m. Monday in the River-Welch Chapel with Jerry Yarbrough, minister of the 14th and Main Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in the Mount Olive Cemetery.

Mrs. Thornton was born Sept. 25, 1923 in Fisher County, and she was married June 15, 1951 to C. A. (Cat) Thornton. He died April, 1972. Mrs. Thornton was a member of the Church of Christ.

Surviving are two brothers, Glendon S. Kerr, Big Spring, J. W. Kerr, Gardendale; a sister, Mrs. Elton (Ora Lee) Campbell, Gardendale; several nephews and nieces.

Mrs. McArthur

Mrs. Miriam McArthur, 82, died at 12:30 a.m., Saturday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Graveside rites will be said at 2 p.m. Monday in the Altus, Okla., Cemetery.

She was born June 30, 1891, in Calvert, Tex. She had resided in Big Spring since 1960. Prior to that, she had lived in Vermont. She was a member of the Baptist Church in Calvert, Tex.

Her husband, Henry Grady McArthur, preceded her in death June 19, 1951.

MILLIONS

There are 15.2 million men over 65 and women over 42 on Social Security. Many share Mrs. Looney's fears and threadbare existence. A White House Conference on the Aging estimated that an additional $65 billion annually is needed to increase retirement payments sufficiently so that all the elderly can live above the "poverty line" — now considered by government experts about $3,000 annual income.

Currently, the Social Security Administration in Washington pays out $33 billion each year in benefits and welfare supplements to the retired elderly. Many thousands of those men and women have no other source of income, although Social Security, when enacted in 1937, was supposed to be only a "cushion" in old age, supplementing savings and other income.

Bob Currie Is In Hospital

Robert W. Currie, retired president and chairman of the board of the State National Bank, was reported Saturday to be resting well at Scott and White Hospital in Temple.

He was flown there Thursday for diagnosis after he had become seriously ill here.

THE WEEK

As for schools, S. M. (Sam) Anderson closed out a long and distinguished career Friday afternoon when he retired. Friday, for practical purposes, also was the last day for Dr. Thomas T. Salter at Howard College, who is going to Weatherford. He has been pushing to have the proposed college budget ready.

Our area has consistently been having traffic casualties each week, and the victim this time was M. C. Brewer, El Paso, who was pinned beneath his burning car when it flipped two miles west of Colorado City on Monday. David Roto, 18, injured in a collision June 15 which took the life of Benjamin Munos, died.

Kay Proctor, Howard College co-ed, held second place in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo finals for barrel racing at last reports. Should she get a good time on her third round, she could win it. Nevertheless, she stands an excellent chance to take the season's title.

Officers here turned in a good piece of work in picking up a suspect in the burglary of a Abilene physician's home. Result was recovery of some $7,400 in coins and currency.

Those who love good music will have an opportunity to satisfy their appetite Monday evening when Robert Hale and Dean Wilder, two operatic stars who have appeared here twice previously, present a program of sacred classics and hymns at First Baptist. There is no admission charge, and everyone is welcome.

Coming up also this week will be the traditional July 4th observance, "Let Freedom Ring," which will be held in the Comanche Trail Park amphitheatre for the first time. After dark, Webb AFB will have its usual colorful fireworks display.

Howard County Commissioners Court, still wrestling with airport matters, favored a $5 per month plane rental hike plus two cents more per gallon of gas. They authorized a new fire truck for the airport.

From the notebook: Mrs. W. H. Wharton, 708 W. 8th, Newport, Tenn 37821, writes that she still keeps her membership in local Legion post auxiliary No. 355, but recently was named president of the VFW Auxiliary at Newport. Our own Myra Robinson has been named to the state manpower council, an appointment that was firm a month ago but announced Friday.

The city parks and recreation department (note the mailer in your water bill) is offering a real bargain — season swim tickets, adult $5.50, children $5.

Burglar Retreats Without Bicycle

A burglar started a girl at the residence of Mrs. Patsy Wade, 3217 Auburn Ave, and ran off without his bicycle about midnight Friday, police said.

Kim Wade heard a noise in her mother's bedroom, police said.

"When she went to investigate, she found a Negro male wearing a white sleeveless sweatshirt and blue jeans," the police report said.

Kim ran. The burglar escaped out the window and ran. And police found a 10-speed bicycle nearby, apparently where the prowler parked it.

Tries Suicide, Man In Hospital

A 72-year-old man who police said shot himself in the chest was in serious condition at the Veterans Administration Hospital late Saturday afternoon.

Police were dispatched to a Donley Street apartment about 4 a.m. Saturday after a telephone operator said the man told her he shot himself.

"We found his apartment in the rear and had to kick the front door in," Patrolman D. L. Stewart said.

The victim was shot with a .22 automatic pistol, Stewart reported. "The wound was self-inflicted."

Four Enter Pleas Of Guilty Here

Four defendants pleaded guilty in 118th District Court late Friday afternoon.

CONSTRUCTIONISM Supreme Court Veers Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, ending its 1973-74 term facing an historic ruling on the powers of the presidency, appears to have turned in the direction of strict constructionism, a goal sought by President Nixon.

The term just ended, with the sole exception of the upcoming Watergate related case, marked the first in which Nixon's four appointees served a full term together.

The four banded together 100 times out of 142 cases on which decisions were handed down. Whenever the four justices agreed, they were always able to muster a majority.

CONTINUES
The court continued to curtail or refused to extend broadened protections for criminal defendants which it laid down in the 1950s and early 1960s.

In this area at least, President Nixon appears to have turned the court in the direction he indicated he wanted when he promised to appoint "strict constructionist" justices.

In other fields, notably in matters affecting First Amendment guarantees of freedom of speech and of the press, the Nixon court has been more liberal than some critical observers had expected.

In women's rights, it has come up with mixed results, requiring employers to root out a past wage discrimination against women workers but refusing to require the coverage of normal pregnancy in state disability programs.

The court avoided or delayed ruling in its two biggest cases affecting racial minorities.

It turned aside as moot a challenge to law school admissions policies which gave preference to minorities, citing the fact that the student challeng-

Housing Survey Is Scheduled

For the next two weeks, the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce will be taking a survey of local housing needs. Any person, desiring housing of any kind, single family dwelling, or apartment, even if they would like better housing than they now have, should go by the Chamber of Commerce office and make their wishes known. The office is open from 9:00 to 5:00 Monday thru Friday. Telephone calls will not be accepted as a survey form must be filled out and signed.

The Chamber of Commerce is doing this in an attempt to provide need for more home construction in Big Spring. A home builder has indicated interest in the city but must determine actual need before they can afford to start construction.

Plans of the various proposed units are at the Chamber of Commerce office for inspection also.

Mrs. Robinson Is On State Panel

Mrs. Myra Robinson, chairman of the Robinson Drilling Company, headquartered here, has been named on the planning and coordinating committee of the State Manpower Services Council by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Her appointment was announced Friday by James Rose, chairman of the governors planning coordinating committee.

She will be a business and industry representative on the planning and coordinating panel. Mrs. Robinson has been active in civic as well as business activities here.

Car Insurance Rates To Rise

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Automobile insurance rates, headed downward the past four years, will begin to rise soon because of inflation and a new upswing in accident rates, according to industry spokesmen.

"The trend at this point is that rates will go up because of inflation. There is no way to circumvent this," said a spokesman for the Insurance Services Office in New York, which provides 1,300 companies with statistics on rates and claims.

Spokesman for five of the nation's largest insurers said rising medical bills and auto repair costs are forcing companies to pay more for each accident claim. And they said motorists now are having more accidents since the gasoline shortage of last winter eased.

"During the early months of 1974, the frequency of accidents dropped substantially," a spokesman for the Travelers Insurance Cos. said. "But other costs, hospital and repair work were going up. It was a stand-off."

"Now the gasoline is more available and the accident frequency is not so low, and the other costs are still rising."

Dates Fixed For U.S. 87 Meeting

Dates for the annual meeting of the U.S. Highway Improvement Association have been set for Sept. 6-7 in Raton, N.M.

Lloyd Wilkins, Raton, president of the association, said that one of the prime topics will be support of US 87 as a route for the projected IS 27.

Headquarters will be at the Sands Motel in Raton.

Fina, Cosden Host Visitors

Americaff Petrofina and Cosden Oil & Chemical Company were hosts to Andre Magnee and Robert D'Hondt of Belgium Thursday evening and Friday, on their visit to West Texas. The two men are traveling for a month in the U.S.A. under the auspices of the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, U.S. Department of State. Lawrence Moody is escorting them as interpreter.

Magnee is a Member of Parliament (Chamber of Deputies) from Liege. He is also a member of the city council of d'Oupeye, Belgium, and was formerly regional secretary of the Christian Metalworkers Union. D'Hondt is currently general secretary, Confederation of Christian Trade Unions (CSC), Belgium's largest trade union central. The visitors' program was arranged by the Trade Union Exchange Programs Division, Bureau of International Labor Affairs, U.S. Department of Labor.

Magnee and D'Hondt began their American travels in Washington, D.C., branching out from there to selective cities to visit metalworking plants, youth organizations, trade unions, and community and educational groups. On their brief visit to Big Spring they were conducted on a tour of the Cosden refining-petrochemical complex. The party also was flown to Loving County, Texas, to see an oil well being drilled.

After Ordeal, Man Eyes Overtime Pay

LAKEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — 17 hours in a sweltering restaurant-bar. Their captives were unharmed. "We sure have a lot of overtime coming," Barney Fraser, 55, said after his release. Fraser, the cook, suffers from a heart condition, and sheriff's officers feared for his well-being during the marathon standoff.

ROPE BURNS

Fraser and Tony Silva, 61, said they were treated well by the men, who police said intended to rob the establishment. But both hostages had rope burns from their hands being tied tightly behind their backs for several hours.

The end of the siege, during which floodlights illuminated the front of the Flite Room lounge while communications were carried out by telephone and broadcast newscasts, came without a shot after one of the gunmen scrambled on his hands and knees out the front door. Fear gas then was tossed into the lounge and, as officers stormed inside, the other gunman surrendered. The hostages were on the floor behind the bar.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess said officers prepared to storm the restaurant after "we had information from inside that one of the suspects wanted to surrender and get out."

Ray Johns, 50, of Pomona, and Bill Mitchell, 47, of Fullerton were booked in Lakewood, about 20 miles from downtown Los Angeles, for investigation of kidnaping and robbery.

Redd Foxx Will Return To Work

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Redd Foxx, who walked out of the television series "Sanford and Son" earlier this year, will return to work July 8, Tandem Productions has announced.

Tandem did not release details of the agreement ending its dispute with Foxx, who had left the show in a dispute over money and working conditions. Court records showed Foxx was earning $25,000 a week when he left the show.

Foxx, 51, will begin work on the fourth segment of the show for the fall season, Tandem said Friday. The first three segments and six shows from last season were filmed without Foxx, starring Whitman Mayo as Grady and Diamond Wilson as Foxx's son, Lamont.

Tandem had filed a $10 million breach of contract suit against Foxx and had obtained an injunction prohibiting him from performing anywhere for 22 weeks. The injunction was later lifted.

Rio's Famed Sugar Loaf Is Subjected To Shave

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Rio's famous Sugar Loaf mountain is getting a shave.

The barbers, dozens of men with scythes and herbicides, are stripping away grass that has spread over much of the hillsides overlooking Guanabara Bay and the Atlantic Ocean.

Years ago, the mountain's slopes were covered with lush forest. Tourists who embarked on Sugar Loaf's cable car hardly noticed the small area of Guinea grass that strived for life at the foot of the mountain. The weed dried with the summer heat and easily caught fire. The fire killed other plants, but the grass remained rooted in the earth and showed up after rain.

The once insignificant grass spread over the mountain's surface, threatening the trees with extinction.

Alarmed by the situation, Rio's Institute for the Maintenance of Nature elaborated a reforestation plan, and Rio's Botanical Garden agreed to provide cuttings and seeds to be planted in the area. The cable car company put the plan into practice.

Operations started a year ago. The first measure was to separate the grass from the remaining trees to avoid new fires. Five-yard-wide clearings were opened throughout the area, isolating the trees and dividing the grass in 100-square-yard sections.

Workers are now spraying a strong herbicide on the grass,

4-A Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sunday, June 30, 1974

being careful to avoid hitting other plants which may be near. "The process has showed excellent results so far," said Antero Leite de Castro, director of the cable car company. "It has already been successfully applied to 50 per cent of the 3,300 square feet area hit by the grass. Approximately six more months will be necessary to wipe the weed out from the remaining half."

Trees of several species are being prepared to reforest the hillsides. More than 20,000 urucu-rana, Brazilian spider-flower, peroba, and brazilwood are among those scheduled to be planted during the three-year reforestation program.

The dead grass, which is being cut down and left in place, is expected to become a good natural fertilizer for the trees.

Gain Immunity In Airline Quiz

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Court records disclosed Thursday that three more individuals have been granted immunity in a federal grand jury probe of air service in three Texas markets, bringing the total to 28.

The grand jurors have been inquiring into antitrust aspects of the airline operations.

The latest to be placed under a shield of immunity are Pat Powers, director of passenger and cargo services for Braniff Airways at Houston Intercontinental Airport; John A. Wienhart, Braniff staff vice president of sales planning; and Sam E. Ashmore, Texas International Airline vice president of property and fuel management.

For 21 months the grand jurors have been trying to determine if Braniff and Texas International tried to prevent Southwest Airlines from entering business.

Southwest competes against Braniff and Texas International for markets in Dallas-Houston, Houston-San Antonio and San Antonio-Dallas.

and a play he is readying for the Broadway stage, "The Life and Times of Sir Shine," depicting the life of black comedian Bird Williams.

As a black writer, Baldwin maintains that he is not the trumpeter of his race. "Yes, I am of course a black writer, but first I am a writer, I can't write for all black people. If you try to write for a particular audience, you cripple yourself. You can't give them what they want, all that they want, because you don't know what they want. My writing comes out of the life I've lived."

Will the day dawn when color no longer makes a difference among men? "Yes," Baldwin insists, "and that will be when people no longer need color as a crutch, when a man is no longer at the mercy of another's imagination, when we understand that each man is a reality in himself. A human reality."

"That is the only concern."

'System Of Government Economy Cannot Last'

NEW YORK (AP) — Writer James Baldwin insists the American system of government and economy cannot last. "The system which permits subservience of man to man is doomed," elaborates the 50-year-old black author of essays, short stories, plays and such celebrated books as "Go Tell It On the Mountain," "Notes of a Native Son," and his latest novel, "If Beale Street Could Talk."

"Black people are much more independent than they were of white people's imaginations," he said in an interview.

"The white man tries to impose on the black man images he would like to see him have, and he wants the black man to live by his images."

SOMETHING HAPPENED. "During the civil rights adventure of the '60s, something happened which nobody noticed. White Americans were stripped naked and forced to look at themselves. They found they could not be respected.

"Democracy has never been tried here," he continued. "By my definition, democracy means no one is penalized for color or class, or forced down to the lowest common denominator."

Baldwin advocates "the highest form of socialism" to replace what he calls the "dying" American system of democratic government and capitalist economy. "I don't mean a socialism like Hitler's or Stalin's, but the purest kind, where the world's wealth and resources will belong to the world."

The writer says he has devoted his professional life to bettering the lot of black people the world over. He sees in their freedom the freedom of all men. "I like to think my writing has advanced the black cause," he says. "The black movement contains the only hope of the white man's liberation. The white man is living in a racial nightmare that he invented. And now he's trapped in it. That he is trapped was proved in the '60s."

"We are going to get out of this nightmare, and when we get out, the white man will also get out."

Baldwin's prowess as a prognosticator was noted recently when he received the Centennial Medal of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, an annual award honoring "The Artist as Prophet." This artist demonstrated his prophetic powers in 1963 with the publication of "The Fire Next Time," a collection of essays which forewarned of the intense summer race riots of the late 1960s.

WRITER BERATED Some literary critics have berated Baldwin for hammering at the theme of racial injustice that pervades his work. They complain that his preoccupation with the topic has made his work dated. To this criticism Baldwin retorts, "That's their problem. You can't push the fact of man's injustice to man too far. Their real complaint is that they just don't want to hear it at all."

The author vows to continue with the racial theme. It will form the core of his next novel, "Just Above My Head," about a gospel singer and his brother,

Easy to Lose Lbs. Fast With New Vitamin 'E' Diet

LOSE 10-20-30 POUNDS!

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderful benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical tests, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

FAMILY NOT SURPRISED BY WATERGATE

U. S. Reneges On A Guarantee

Editors' note: There was a time when people, especially conservative Texas ranchers, trusted their government. Continuing an almost futile fight to regain the family's estate from the government, Joe Hawes now says, "We are some of the few people in the United States that weren't surprised by Watergate." Here is the story.

BY JOHN DUMPKIN Associated Press Writer PORT O'CONNOR, Tex. (AP) — To Pat Hawes, "the world looked pretty bright until that car drove up" in 1940 to his father's house on Matagorda Island across the backwater from this postage-stamp fishing port.

Out of the black car stepped a man wearing a Stetson hat. He introduced himself as a U.S. marshal.

Pat Hawes recalls the man said he "had come there to serve condemnation papers on all the owners. He said, 'As of now, this part of the island belongs to the U.S. government. . . You have 10 days to get all the livestock and household goods out of here.'"

RECALLS WARNING Pat remembers a warning that any livestock not off the island by the deadline would be shot. Working night and day, the Hawes clan moved itself to the mainland.

The United States was gearing for war. The sandy land on the slender island off the Texas coast would become an air base. The base, reachable only by boat and plane, is still there.

The Hawes family members say the government guaranteed them return of their 8,000 acres when the Defense Department no longer needed it. Yet they may never settle again on the estate which Pat's great-grandfather began collecting in 1840.

The Haweses feel the government has broken a promise. That promise for return of the land was made law by Congress in 1944, giving them preference in retaking property condemned for the war.

STANDS IN LINE However, 1949 legislation revised the order of preference of those who can claim the land when it is declared military surplus.

As a result, the Hawes family now stands in line behind the Air Force, the whooping crane, the Interior Department, the State of Texas, local government and private speculators in rights to reclaim the property. Even Col. Winfred Newsome, commander of the Air Force installation which sits on the property, says, "Personally, of the Haweses, as far as I'm concerned that was dirty pool."

Today there are a host of related issues. There are unsubstantiated charges of sneaky dealings and a "land grab" campaign by the Interior Department.

OIL HOPES Also surfacing is the State of Texas' interest in eventual public access, a disputed suggestion of political influence by an aging oil patriarch whose family owns some of the island not used by the Air Force, conservationists' fears for the dwindling numbers of the majestic whooping crane and hopes that the island can produce critical oil and gas.

Matagorda Island is about 31 miles long, averaging 1 1/2 miles wide.

At its northeast end are headquarters of the Matagorda Island Air Force Range. The middle portion serves as practice bombing ranges.

At the southwest end is the ranch of Dallas oilman Toddie Lee Wynne Sr., 77, and his family, which the government did not buy when it bought the Hawes' and other property. There are no condominiums. No quick-serve hamburger stands. No surfers or their bikini-covered companions. No motels.

NO BRIDGE There is no bridge to Matagorda Island. Pat and Joe Hawes, cousins who are among dozens of Hawes heirs, live in Port O'Connor.

They have their cattle on portions of the Air Force property but they fear that the Air

(AP WIREPHOTO) HE'S FIGHTING Pat Hawes

Force surrenders its land, the Interior Department will take over and increase its already sizeable coastal wildlife refuge area and shove the cattle off.

Both Pat and Joe Hawes are ex-servicemen. A cousin died in combat. "I feel bitter about this part of it," says Pat, sipping coffee in Joe Hawes' unappointed, weather-beaten home. "We all went to fight for this country and then came back and saw this done to our folks."

DIED IN 1950's Joe's father and Pat's father died in the 1950's.

"They always had the hope they were going to get that land back. . . It had a drastic effect on their lives," says Joe. The government took the surface for $7 an acre but had no use for mineral rights. An act of Congress allowed the Hawes retention of the minerals.

Some claim the Hawes heirs received due compensation and shouldn't complain now. Joe says the family had no choice, took less than the land was worth and lost money in uprooting their cattle.

Joe's wife brings cherry pie and iced tea. A breeze shuffles the yellowing documents Joe has scattered on the wooden table.

Joe believes "this action on this is the result of deals, connivances on the side."

Joe says the government dealt differently with the wealthy Wynnes, suggesting political influence. He recalls President Franklin D. Roosevelt docking his yacht and visiting the Wynne ranch in the 1930's.

JOE IS UPSET Joe is upset that the government offered the Hawes five-year grazing leases while he says the Wynne interests were getting 10-year leases.

Any hard evidence of influence? "You mean, do I have any evidence that FDR visiting him (Wynne) had anything to do with them taking over everything we had up to the barb wire fence and not taking his? No."

Joe leans back, folds his muscular arms and purses his lips, convinced his point is made. Toddie Lee Wynne Jr., the elder Wynne's son, says, "We dealt with the Air Force at arm's length" on the leases. The younger Wynne says there was no political influence involved in the government's disinclination to condemn the Wynne ranch either.

$1 A YEAR The Wynnes allowed the government to lease the Wynne property for $1 a year during the war, says the younger Wynne. "We finally got back on in 1947," says Pat, meaning the cattle operation only.

Joe, whose bull-like frame evinces a kind of sentimentality, reminisces:

"Man, when we were just kids, we looked forward to these things, camping out, drinking that hot coffee that just stung your sunburned lips before dawn, branding, vaccinating the cattle. It took weeks to bring them together in big herds, cut them out."

"In those days, there was nothing but hard work, but to a kid? Aw, man! That was the life. They'd pay us two bits a day. You talk about in high cotton, we were."

BETTER TIME That was a better time, the 1930's.

The Hawes family could not understand in the 1950's why the land couldn't be declared surplus and returned to them under the 1944 act. They got a lawyer.

"He informed us of this amendment. . . We like to come unglued," says Pat, regarding the 1949 act which moved the Hawes family from the front of the line for the property to the very rear.

M. L. "Bud" Null of Victoria, the attorney, was asked later if he believes the Hawes family has been treated wrongly.

"I can't think of words strongly enough to express it," Null says.

Oilmen express interest in oil potential, but until 1977 the Air Force will be paying $6 an acre annually, to prohibit drilling. Joe says mainland drilling rights are leased to $25 an acre.

FOOT IN DOOR The saga enters the 1972's and the 319 acres.

Col. Newsome says he is puzzled by the Interior Department's attempts to obtain 319 acres of military land on the northeast end of the island.

The department's stated reason is primarily the protection of the whooping crane. J.K. Windsor of Fort Worth, government property specialist, says he recommended that the 319 acres be declared surplus to military needs in 1971 after he made a survey.

He says his recommendation is pending in Washington, although the Air Force declared in 1973 it is utilizing all its property, including the controversial 319 acres.

Says Col. Newsome, "What I think personally is that it was a foot in the door. . . No one talked to that whooping crane about going up there and living on those (319) acres."

Nathaniel Reed, assistant secretary of the Interior Department for fish and wildlife, says, "we would have to be interested if the Air Force leaves."

WHOOPING CRANE Reed concedes the 319 acres is somewhat remote from the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge on the mainland where most of the world's 48 whooping cranes winter.

Why doesn't the Interior Department try to use some of the Wynne land, Joe Hawes wonders, noting that's closest to the refuge and also the most appealing to the cranes.

Toddie Lee Wynne Jr. says, "We were protecting the whooping crane before the government was protecting the whooping crane." He says the family leases to the Audubon Society 2,400 acres closest to the refuge across the bay for $1 a year.

Null, the Haweses' attorney, says the Air Force refused twice to surrender the 319 acres. Then, says Null, "Suddenly out of the blue, the Department of Defense received a memo from Richard M. Nixon, which said, 'You will declare 318.65 acres of Matagorda Island excess.'"

GETTING IT Null says, "We think (Interior Secretary Rogers) C.B. Morton was instrumental on that. That's not conspiracy. That's simply getting what you want."

The Air Force acquiesced and sent to Congress a land disposal report which normally is routinely passed. Not this time, says Null, who credits Rep. John Young, D-Tex., from nearby Corpus Christi with stalling the measure.

The Interior Department was not through, says Null. Null says a young assistant to Reed visited the Air Force range late last year.

The assistant filed a report of which portions appeared in the press.

"The whole purpose of that was to discredit the Air Force and then bulldoze this thing through," says Joe Hawes.

The report is not flattering to the Air Force. It talks about deluxe quarters for military personnel to use when they visit the island to hunt, alludes to feelings in some quarters that the base is really a "country club" for officers, and concludes that "this activity is not well regulated."

LAND GRAB

Says Col. Newsome of the report, "Once again it looked like the land grab was on to get this for Interior."

Despite Rep. Young's actions, the 319 acres issue is not dead. The acreage's disposal still is pending before the President's property review board.

Col. Newsome allowed a reporter to tour "the country club," which is a small, comfortable lodge.

During a reporter's tour, there were no guests at the lodge and no game in the freezer lockers. However, it was not hunting season, either.

Hunting is prohibited on the Air Force range closest to the whoopers' haunts. Likewise, the 48 cranes caused curtailment of oil and gas drilling and dredging of the maybe a people ferry and maybe a bus on the island. It would be the only vehicle there."

COULD FILE SUIT Armstrong, says of the Haweses, "I don't think they've got a chance. They're just whistling in the dark if they think they are going to get their land back."

He says the Haweses' "best shot is to get there and develop the minerals which he feels can be done in an environmental context."

WONT RETURN Null suggests the Hawes family could file suit asking for equity since the heirs relied "to their detriment" on the wartime government promise about returning the land.

The whooping cranes won't return to the area until this fall. This winter's population of the world's last flock of the birds was the lowest in five years.

The whooping crane, says refuge manager Frank Johnson, is "sort of a symbol of everybody's efforts to save endangered species."

Aransas refuge contains 54,000 acres, which the Hawes family and some other local residents say is enough for 43 cranes. Johnson says about 8,000 acres of the refuge are crane habitat.

However, as a part of larger issues which Joe and his clan face, the cranes may win eventually.

Texas Crops Hurt By Dry Weather

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Stock water is becoming short in many western Texas counties and dryland crops are in poor shape. Dr. P. Pfannstiel, associate director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says.

Many dryland crops in the Trans-Pecos area have been wiped out by dry conditions, he said. In the South Plains dryland crops are suffering and some farmers are still waiting on planting moisture.

PECAN CROP

Peanuts and soybeans are being planted in North Central and Southeast Texas, Pfannstiel said.

The wheat harvest is rapidly moving to completion in the northern half of the state, he said.

More peaches are moving to market throughout Texas, he said, and harvesting is becoming active in East and West Central Texas, and some Gaines County peaches are ready to harvest.

The state's pecan crop looks fair to good, Pfannstiel said. Damage from caecobearers, walnut caterpillars and webworms has been heavy where control programs were not carried out.

COTTON WOES

There are good hay yields in eastern and southeastern areas but yields in central and western sections have been reduced by dry weather, he said. Shortages of baling wire and twine continue to cause problems for producers and custom operators.

District agricultural agents gave these reports:

South Plains: Irrigated cotton is making fair progress but most of the dryland acreage has not been planted due to lack of planting moisture. Irrigation of sorghum is underway. Potatoes and onions are making good progress. Many ranges and pastures are below average.

WHEAT HARVEST

Rolling Plains: Wheat harvesting is complete. Some cotton is being replanted. Most crops are making good growth but rain is needed. Hay making is active. Some livestock are being fed.

Far West: Dry weather has virtually wiped out dryland crops. Irrigated cotton, alfalfa and vegetables are making good growth. Onion harvesting is active. Livestock feeding continues to increase.

West Central: Most of the cotton crop is planted and is making good progress but more rain is needed, about 90 per cent of the sorghum acreage has been planted. Early fields are showing signs of moisture stress. The peanut crop is off to a good start. The peach crop looks good. Pecan prospects are also mostly good.

Central: All crops are suffering and hay yields are low because of lack of moisture. Boll weevils are heavy in some cotton fields. Sorghum is maturing rapidly. Peanut planting is about 70 per cent complete with some stands suffering from lack of moisture. Pecan crop prospects are varied due to heavy insect damage. Livestock conditions are deteriorating.

RAIN NEEDED

Southwest: Rain is needed. Harvesting of melons and cantaloupes is about complete. A good hay crop is being harvested. Baling wire is short. Walnut caterpillars and webworms have damaged the pecan crop. Livestock look good.

FRANK SUTTON DIES

Actor Frank Sutton, best known for his television role as Sgt. Carter in the "Gomer Pyle" series, died Friday of an apparent heart attack. He was 51.

Girl Is Saved By Rare Drug

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 5-year-old girl suffering from a disease that prevents her body from producing its own defense against infections has been saved from death by a drug never before used in humans.

When Heather entered a hospital here two months ago, she weighed only 26 pounds and was near death. Doctors said Friday she will be going home soon thanks to use of an experimental hormone developed by a research team at the University of California Medical Center.

Heather's thymus gland malfunctioned and was unable to produce the hormone thymosin, which plays a vital role in the body's resistance to infection. UC doctors produced thymosin from the thymus glands of calves and injected the substitute hormone into Heather as a last ditch effort to save her life. It worked.

Doctors said the results "show great potential" for other persons suffering from thymopathy. They said that theoretically the hormone also could be helpful in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, transplant rejection and even cancer.

Anyone Over 18 Can Buy Weapons Like SLA Had

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Where did they come from, the 19 rifles, handguns and shotguns found in the rubble of a house where six Symbionese Liberation Army members made their last stand? A police expert chuckled. "Do you have a driver's license and are you over 18?" he asked. "Well, just walk into a well-stocked gun store and you can buy what they had for $1,000. "Let's put it this way. They probably bought and altered these weapons with surprising ease."

Although serial numbers had been filed off on some of the weapons, police say they've traced two of the pistols, one of the rifles and one shotgun to Siegle's Gun Shop in Oakland. They were bought legally by five SLA members using their own names and paying cash.

NOT TRACED

The remaining weapons found after the May 17 shootout have not been traced. They include four M1 rifles converted to automatic weapons. The Army surplus M1s are sold legally in a number of gun stores, for about $100 a rifle.

Dave Siegle, co-owner of the store where the SLA purchased weapons, remembers Camilla Hall, 26, one of the victims of the gunfight with police. She bought a 9mm Mauser automatic pistol for $180 last Nov. 7. "She had a bubbly personality, very masculine, but pleasant. I was totally shocked after discovering she was an SLA member," Siegle said. "Usually the professional criminal is not going to walk in. They usually steal their guns or buy them on the street. "Now I think twice and am suspicious."

There is a five-day wait between purchase and delivery of handguns in California. During that time, the purchaser is checked by police and the state Criminal Identification Bureau. None of the five SLA buyers had a police record. The sales were okayed.

Angelo Atwood, 25, who died May 17, and William Harris, 28, also bought 9mm Mausers. The weapons are designed for combat but also are popular for target shooting.

One of the sawed-off shotguns found here was bought in August 1973 in Siegle's by Joseph M. Remiro, accused along with Russell Little in the assassination last November of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster, for which the SLA claimed credit.

RECALLS REMIRO

Siegle remembered Remiro, 27, winning a 30-30 Winchester rifle as a prize in a drawing at the shop. He said Remiro frequented the gun shop regularly before being arrested with Little, 24, last January. "He talked just like anyone else who comes in to discuss guns and target practice and things like that," Siegle recalled.

SLA members apparently found it easy to buy and alter guns. They also practiced shooting them regularly at a public rifle range southeast of San Francisco, paying $1.75 each day for the privilege.

All the SLA members except their leader, Donald DeFreeze, who died May 17, reportedly practiced at the Chabot Gun Club eight miles from Castro Valley, near Oakland. The COMING OR GOING? — It's hard to tell whether Genghis Khan is coming or going, but he's squirming with pride over the five new Tibetan Temple guard pups at the home of Maj. and Mrs. R. T. Missman. Their daughter, Lisa, is displaying the five new Lhasa Apso puppies.

Webb Couple Owns Family Of Rare Chinese Dogs

By MARJ CARPENTER

Tibetan Temple dogs are no longer allowed to be shipped out of Tibet, since the Chinese officials consider them "special" and keep them all in the country.

Through the years, they have served as the official guards of the temple. Those who know these dogs say, "Although they are small, they don't know it. They think they are the size of a great dane in a fuzzy suit." The dogs in this country are very expensive, partly because the original source of obtaining these dogs has been completely cut off.

In the home of Major and Mrs. R. T. Missman on Webb Air Force Base, there is a wealth of Lhasa Apso dogs — the official name of the breed.

The Missmans have a mother dog named Mayling and five new puppies. They also have a male puppy that is around one year old, named Genghis Khan.

Marlene Missman and their third daughter, Lisa, who is the last one at home, have a time keeping up with the lively, fuzzy, personable crew of pups.

A characteristic of Lhasa Apso dogs is that they will be a variety of colors within one litter, bringing out all of the colors of the various ancestors.

One of the litter is ermine-colored and the Missmans have named her Penny. A white one with a touch of brown is unromantically named "pig" because that's what he is.

They call one the color of a Siamese cat, "Simon" and the other two are tagged Cindy and Gartunkle. "We figure we'll let new owners name them anything they want to, because we don't want to get so attached that we can't give them up," Mrs. Missman said.

The statues on the steps of many municipal libraries, are in reality Tibetan Temple dogs. Many people may think they're lions.

The first one of these dogs to be brought west was one given as a gift to Sir Alexander

Y Plans Program For Youngsters

The YMCA will conduct a summer physical education program for pre-school age boys and girls beginning Monday, in the YMCA All-Purpose Room.

This special clinic is designed for ages 3-6 and will meet weekday mornings from 9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon, July 1-August 2.

Activities for the clinic will include swimming instruction, stunts and tumbling, playground games, nature hikes, music, arts and crafts, and locomotive skill development. The course is entitled "THE A-B-C PROGRAM," because emphasis will be placed upon aquatics, basic movement education, and crafts.

Fees for the five-week program are $25 for YMCA family members and $30 for non-members. Registration may be accomplished by calling the Y at 267-8234 or bringing a child to the YMCA facility at 8:30 a.m. Monday.

Mrs. Barbara Burg, a graduate of the University of Iowa, will direct the program.

Hamilton by the Dahl Llama of Tibet. There are no longer any of these dogs coming west, but there are no longer any Dahl Llamas in Tibet either.

The fuzzy dogs have hair that hides their faces and it's difficult to tell whether the dog is coming toward you or backing up. Lisa maintains that it takes a lot of time to comb and groom the animals, but she'd almost be inclined to keep them all — the three new males and the two females.

The Missmans met in Abilene, which was her home and where he was once stationed. They have lived many places prior to coming to Big Spring, including Guam. They have three daughters, Christi, 21, Suzi, 19 and Lisa, 13.

"For a while we raised Great Danes and then my cousin gave us a Lhasa Apso puppy. We fell in love with them," Mrs. Missman related.

They may be the fierce and special dogs that guard the Tibetan temples, but they are also loveable and cuddly as they romp around the Missman home.

But if they have any special powers, the Missman residence is the best guarded home in Big Spring at this time — with seven Tibetan Temple dogs on hand to greet every visitor.

Buzhardt Able To Leave Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. Fred Buzhardt, White House counsel and Watergate lawyer, has been released from a hospital 15 days after suffering a heart attack.

Buzhardt, 50, reportedly worked late on a White House legal position in connection with the Daniel Ellsberg break-in case and was admitted to Fairfax Hospital in suburban Virginia on the morning of June 13 with chest pains.

A hospital spokesman said Friday that Buzhardt was sent home on Thursday.

VFW Elects New Officers

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Fellow ex-servicemen have elected Clyde Hall of Lubbock state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He and other officers were named here last week at a convention. About 4,000 delegates registered.

Fort Worth already had been picked as next year's convention city and Amarillo was chosen Sunday as site for the 1976 meeting.

Officers elected to serve with Hall are David L. Stein of San Antonio, senior vice commander; Herman Constable of Houston, junior vice commander; Billie L. Dorris of Austin, quartermaster adjutant; Ben Porath of Mesquite, chaplain; Al Shaffner of Cuero, surgeon, and Julius R. Nuenhoffer of Kerrville, judge advocate.

VFW auxiliary members chose Mrs. Cecil H. Rhoades of Amarillo as their state president. They also elected Mrs. Arlene Smith of Fort Worth, senior vice president; Mrs. Andrew Suchina of Houston, junior vice president; Adele Binford of Dallas, treasurer; Lela Rowland of Dallas, secretary, and Mrs. Marvin Boehm of Alice, chaplain.

Ro'off Seeking Suits' Dismissal

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A class action suit seeking the dismissal of an August, 1973 state four judgment against three children's homes operated by Evangelist Lester Roloff has been filed here.

The suit filed Friday in 28th District Court asks the 1973 decision be voided and a new trial ordered.

Five youths and a parent of each youth are named as plaintiffs in the suit. The petition refers to the plaintiffs as indispensable parties in the August judgment.

Last year State District Court Judge Walter Dunham ordered Roloff to close the homes because they did not meet state child care requirements.

WFL Head Would Hurt

HOUSTON (AP) — There'll be no gloating by World Football League Commissioner Gary Davidson over the possible strike Monday by the National Football League Players Association.

Davidson, here Friday inspecting the Houston Texans, one of 12 teams in the infant WFL, said a strike by the NFL veterans would hurt all pro football.

"The WFL might get some short-term benefits from the strike in the long run. I think a strike by the NFL players would hurt the WFL too, the boyish-looking Davidson said.

"We might get more television exposure and a little jump in other areas but such a strike would create a poor image for professional football," said Davidson, whose WFL brainstrom opens its first season next month.

Davidson, who also formed the fledgling World Hockey Association and American Basketball Association, said the WFL would work to prevent some of the problems that had led to the current dispute between the NFL owners and players.

"We're going to lean over backward to see that the dichotomy that exists between owners and players in the NFL does not develop in our league," Davidson said.

Davidson said the WFL becomes more established its rules would become more rigid. But for now, he said "the players I've talked to are grateful for a chance to play."

Davidson declined to name the three troubled franchises but added that the Texans, owned by Steve Arnold, was not among the three.

US Nips Reds In Junior Meet

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — America's tenacious teen-agers, showing surprising strength in the field events and the distance runs, blitzed Russia with climactic mile relay victories Saturday night to capture their head-on junior track and field meet.

Little 16-year-old Kathy Weston anchored the American women to a 10-year mile relay victory after she had cracked the meet 800 meter record.

Stung by a shocking baton drop in a sprint relay loss Friday night the American men's mile relay team anchored by Curtis Byrd poured it on with a 52 yard victory as a crowd estimated at 4,000 roared at Memorial stadium.

Mets' Matlack Fires 1 Hitter

NEW YORK (AP) — Left-hander Jon Matlack fired a one-hitter Saturday, earning his first victory since May 18 and pitching the New York Mets to a 4-0 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The only hit off Matlack was a third-inning single by opposing pitcher John Curtis, who looped a soft, opposite-field liner to left.

Matlack, 6-5, had lost four games and had three no-decisions since his last victory. He struck out seven Cardinals and walked three.

Cleon Jones and Wayne Garrett accounted for all of the Mets' runs, Jones driving in three and Garrett scoring three.

In the first inning, Wayne Garrett opened with an infield single against Curtis, and two outs later Jones tagged his sixth homer into the St. Louis bullpen for a 2-0 lead.

IN WESTERN OPEN Weiskopf Leads By 5

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf had to birdie the last two holes to match par and — almost incredibly — increased his lead to five shots Saturday as the fantastically high scoring continued in the third round of the $200,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

Weiskopf holed putts of 15 and 10 feet on the last two holes — well after the national television cameras had cut away — for a 71 that matched the best score of the day on the 7,002 yards or worry, water and woe, trees, traps and troubles that make up the new Butler

National Golf Club course. His three-round total was 212, one under par on the baby monster that is being played by the touring pros for the first time.

It was the only sub-par score after 54 holes and, with one round to go in the chase for a $40,000 first prize, the possibility still existed that the winning score would be over par for the third consecutive week.

The U.S. Open and American Golf Classic, the two events immediately preceding this event, were won at plus par figures. Weiskopf's five-stroke advantage was within one stroke of the biggest 54-hole lead on the tour this year. J.C. Snead ambled into second with another 71 — it included four putts in the 12-15 foot range and two from 35-40 feet — and a 217 total.

Red-haired Tom Watson managed a 75 despite putting two balls in the water for a horrendous eight on the 14th hole. At 218 he was tied with veteran Frank Beard, who posted a 73 in the gusty winds of the third round.

Here are the top 100 Western Open Golf Tournament on the 7,002-yard, par-71 Butler National Golf Club course:

Grand Slammer Lifts Bosox Past Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Juan Beniquez blasted two home runs, one of them a grand slam, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 12-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

The Red Sox chased Indian starter Fritz Peterson, 5-4, in the second inning with a six-run barrage.

Mario Guerrero drove in the first two runs when he singled with the bases loaded, scoring Dwight Evans and Bob Montgomery. After Tommy Harper walked, loading the bases again, Beniquez hit his first career grand slam and his fourth homer of the season to make it 6-0. In the fourth inning, Beniquez made it 7-0 with his second homer of the game.

Veteran Danny Cater and rookie Terry Hughes also hit two-run homers for the Red Sox, who ripped three Cleveland pitchers for 18 hits.

Luis Tiant, 11-6, pitched six innings to earn the victory with Bob Veale and Diego Segui finishing up.

Dave Duncan and Oscar Gamble accounted for Cleveland's runs with bases-empty homers.

Sox Edge Twins 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Carlos May slammed a home run in the sixth inning and then slid home with Chicago's winning run on Bill Sharp's squeeze bunt two innings later as the White Sox edged Minnesota 4-3 Saturday.

The Twins were leading 3-2 when Jorge Orta opened the eighth with a single. Tony Muser sacrificed him to second and then May walked.

Ken Henderson singled in the tying run and sent May to third. After Bill Hands relieved for Minnesota, Sharp bunted for a base hit as May scored.

AT WIMBLEDON Seeds Idle, Four Yanks Eliminated

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Tom Okker, the scrambling Dutchman, and Spain's agile Manuel Orantes shot their way into the men's fourth round Saturday in a day of Wimbledon tennis that saw deep inroads into America's secondary ranks.

The U.S. junior varsity of Roscoe Tanner, Jeff Borowick and Dick Stockton won second-round matches, but four Americans were sent to the sidelines, including Marty Riessen, the United States' No. 7 player, and young Alex Mayer of Wayne, N.J., a surprise semifinalist here last year.

In the women's division, Julie Heldman of Houston, the fifth-ranked U.S. player, lost a center-court match to a steady, bespectacled Japanese girl, Ka-kuzo Sawamatsu, and before the day was over, four others had followed her to the sidelines.

It wasn't an entirely bad day for the U.S. women. Six won their way into the third round where they joined the seeded favorites—Billie Jean King, No. 1; Chris Evert, No. 2; Evonne Goolagong, No. 3; and Rosemary Casals, No. 4, all tide.

The top six men also were idle from favored John Newcombe down to No. 6 Jan Kodec of Czechoslovakia, providing a somewhat dull program for the more than 25,000 spectators.

Okker, seeded No. 7, and Orantes, No. 12, moved a round ahead of the rest of the field, reaching the final 16. The women only came up to the round of 32, leaving the rain-hampered event still well behind schedule.

VFD Takes Lions With Big Inning

The VFD team of the Coahoma Freshmen league struck for a 13 run second inning Friday night as they overcame the Harding team 22-7.

Randy Clanton slammed five base hits for the VFD team in that game as Gary Paige pitched for the winners.

James Taylor was the losing pitcher for the Harding team as Greg Harrington hit a double and James Dever hit a triple for the losers.

David Barbee hit a double for the winners. The win upped the VFD team to a 6-4 record, still trailing the Lions who are 7-2 and the Bankers who are 7-1. Harding is 2-8 for the season.

LET'S GO FISHING

Virgil Ward

By VIRGIL WARD ALL ABOUT REELS; THE REEL TRUTH

One of the things that gives new fishermen more problems and concern than any other piece of equipment is the decision on what reel to buy. For some, it's a "reel" problem.

However, it shouldn't be that much trouble if you take a few minutes to stop and consider to what use you wish to put your reel. Do you want a reel for bait casting, spinning, spin casting or fly casting.

Once you decide in which of these categories your interest lies, you've got half the battle won. But remember, no one reel is going to do a top-notch job in all of these specialties. True, sometimes a reel can be used for more than one purpose but usually it is a poor substitute for the one intended.

Bait casting, which involves use of an artificial lure, uses a revolving-spool reel. It was originally developed in the 19th century for casting live bait and hence the name, bait-casting reel. It takes some practice to use because it tends to overrun and produce backlashes in the line. There are two versions of this reel, the free spool and the level-wind. For the beginner I would recommend the level-wind which, as the name implies, winds the line evenly on the reel and plays it out the same way. Level-winding reels are also available with an anti-backlash mechanism that further reduces the annoying backlashes that test an angler's patience.

The introduction of the spinning reel into this country in the 30's has substantially increased interest in fishing because it has done much to simplify casting a line and reel. It is distinguished by a fixed spool. The weight of the lure uncoils the monofilament line from the open face fixed spool. Because the spool has no initial resistance to overcome when the cast is made, the chief cause of the backlash is eliminated. These reels come with an adjustable drag and if you are planning to use yours for larger game fish, I'd suggest getting this feature as it keeps the fish from stripping off the line too fast.

The spin-casting reel also works on the fixed spool principle although the reel has a closed face. The line plays out through a cone-shaped hood covering the face of the reel. This is a spinning version of the bait-casting reel mentioned above. Most spin-cast reels are equipped with an adjustable drag. Johnson recently introduced a Guide reel with an exclusive double drag. It's almost impossible for a fish, regardless of size, to break a line. When the fish's pull approaches the test strength of the line, the reel automatically shifts into a factory pre-set drag. The second drag can then be adjusted to suit the angler's preference while playing the fish.

In fly fishing, the reel is probably less important than in any of the other categories. Its main function is to store the line. A lightweight single action reel with either a three or three-and-a-half inch diameter spool is a good choice. It should have a click mechanism to prevent overruns. If you plan to fish for salmon or similar species that are prone to run, a larger capacity reel with an adjustable drag is needed.

Record Set In AAU

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Defending champion Patty Johnson cruised to a meet record of 13.3 seconds in the 100 meter hurdles Friday night, the best clocking in the nation this year, to qualify for the National Amateur Athletic Union's women's track and field championships.

The former Olympian from the La Jolla Track Club, who holds the American mark of 13.0, won both qualifying heats as she lowered the meet mark she held with three others.

Mamie Rallins of the Tennessee State Track Club was the next fastest qualifier at 13.4, tying the former mark which she shared.

The qualifying made up the field for Saturday night's finals with the top two finishers in each event invited to represent the United States in the U.S.-USSR track meet next week at Durham, N.C.

Martha Watson of Lakewood International, the defending champion, set the pace in long jump qualifying with a leap of 21-feet, 2 1/2 inches, one-half inch off her own meet record. She holds the American mark at 21.7.

Streakers, Angels Killowats Win

The major division Streakers outsped the Cadets in Miss Softball action in a Saturday morning game 18-13 to top a full list of Friday and Saturday games played in the girl's league.

Friday night, the Blue Angels defeated the Gibson Gals and the TESCO Killowats downed the Letter Carriers 21-12, in other major division action.

In the minor division, the Tommy Gage Pina Flashers fell to the Dairy Queens by the score of 34-25, the Perco Panthers defeated the First National Bank Kittens 9-8, the Security State Bank Starlets defeated Al's Barbecue Texas Belles 15-14, and the Ed's 66 Phillies defeated the Montgomery Ward Merchants 8-4.

Also qualifying in the long jump was three-time Olympian Willye White of Chicago, who jumped 19-8 1/2.

Sports International of Washington, D.C., set a meet record of 1:40.0 in the 800-meter medley relay, lowering its own record of 1:40.6 set two years ago.

LAKE SPENCE FISHING REPORT 12 Pound Striper Landed

Fishing reports from Lake E.V. Spence last week reflected a good balance between black bass, white bass, channel cat and striped bass. If any stood out, it probably was between an increase in black bass and channel cat catches.

John Page, Robert Lee, landed a 12-pound striped bass, and Charles Harris of Labrador, Finland, and D. C. Chestnut, Winters, each landed a 10-pounder. Another handsome fish was a 7 1/2-lb. blue cat reported by Joe, Robert, Bill and John Nipp, Odessa. There were a few reports on crappie and yellow cat.

From the various points, the reports showed: Wildcat Fish-A-Rama—Jack and Nina Brewer, Odessa, 20 black bass to 5 lb., and two stripers to 5 lb.; Russell Bauman, Odessa, nine black bass to 4 lb.; Jack and Donnie Rhoades, Odessa, 19 black bass to 3 1/2-lb.

Hillside Grocery — Nomer Denmad, Midland, 75 channel cat to 7 lb., and two striped bass, 8 and 3-lb.; H. C. McKinley and Tommy Giddens, Snyder, 2-lb. and 5-lb. striped bass and five channel cat to 5 lb.; Bobby Simmons and Billy Boyd, Odessa, 40 channel cat to 4 lb. and six black bass to 4 lb.

Counts Grocery and Bait — Joe, Robert, Bill and John Nipp, 7 1/2-lb. blue cat, three channel cat to 1 lb.; John Ramey and John Leach, Big Spring, 10 black to 4 lb., six white bass to 1 1/2-lb., 2-lb. crappie; M. S. Calloway, Snyder, seven channel cat to 1 lb., eight black bass from 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 lb.

Black bass fishing has been good at Spence also. Blacks are deep and the better catches have been at the hands of fishermen using plastic worms.

Trotliners Take Cats, Stripers

LAKE SPENCE — Trotliners at Lake Spence near Robert Lee have been taking some large yellow catfish and some heavy stripers lately. The line users are going to deep water regions of the Coke County lake and the majority are baiting with large minnows.

Stripers have also been caught by lure casters. The largest last week was a 12-pounder taken by a bass fisherman who was casting a top water bait at the time the big striper hit.

Black bass fishing has been good at Spence also. Blacks are deep and the better catches have been at the hands of fishermen using plastic worms.

Y. J.S. Marina — Kenneth Kiker, Robert Lee, 10 channel cat to 9 lb. and 1 yellow cat to 6 lb.; Doug Ramsey, Midland, 3 lb., 14 oz. black bass; D. C. Chestnut, Winters, 10 1/2-lb. striped bass; A. W. Stephens, McCamey, 10 blacks to 3 lb.; Keuin Eubanks, Odessa, 4 1/2-lb. striper; Gary Parks, Tahoka, 21 white bass to 2 lb. and a 3 1/2-lb. striper.

Do It Or Forget It

When is county home rule not really home rule? The constitutional convention writes it, that's when.

Three months ago, delegates thought they had put to rest the volatile question of home rule. County officials had lobbied long and hard to ensure that the new constitution would not speak to the issue at all.

So the delegates caved in, voting for a separate submission of the question. Home rule would not be a part of the main body of the charter, but an issue to be decided by voters independently. Everyone appeared satisfied that the matter was resolved.

Now the problem is this: The proposed constitution says certain county officials will be elected. Under true home rule — such as that which Texas cities have — the locally written charter designates those officers to be elected.

But the new county home rule provision would violate that concept by designating elective offices. That destroys the flexibility in restructuring county government that makes home rule desirable.

The style and drafting committee suggests one of three changes be made: (1) Delete the separate submission altogether since the local government article already gives counties ordinance powers; (2) under the provision as it is, but designate it "limited" home rule so voters won't be misled, or (3) make the provision true home rule by exempting constitutional requirements for certain elective offices if local voters opt for county home rule.

Under the provisions of the constitution, home rule would not be mandatory. Voters would have to approve both the idea of writing a home rule charter and then the charter itself. No one could force anything on the citizens that they did not want.

One of the great strengths of city government in Texas has been the ability to change to meet new demands placed on it by changing times. County government has not had that flexibility. Its structure has been rigidly fixed in the constitution. And unfortunately the form of county government has been geared to a rural, agrarian state of nearly a century ago.

With a workable home rule provision in the constitution, those counties whose citizens wanted to modernize the governmental structure could; in counties in which citizens like the status quo, no change would be required.

Delegates in Austin should provide voters with either a true home rule alternative or drop the separate submission altogether. The present form promises voters something that it can't deliver.

Stanton Is Moving

Things are happening in Stanton, mainly because community leaders and the rank and file decided to do something. Recognition came recently when Stanton won first place in its population category for beautification and community action.

Men's and women's groups both pitched in. They inventoried needed improvements. They sliced the pie into acceptable pieces, and various organizations saw to it that their pieces were handled. As a result, Stanton not only has deserved state recognition and a brighter appearance, but it has a new sense of movement. Many a town and city can examine its record with profit.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

In my Sorority House, I am the only one in eight who is a Christian. I really love the Lord and am excited about finding His will for my life. What makes me sick, however, is the pagan teaching I'm up against in this college. Do you think I should leave?

D.H.
It could have been God's plan to remove us from this earth as soon as we secured the new life of faith. However, it's obvious He planned otherwise. And God knows all about the possibility that we might be surrounded by hostility, and find out witness for Christ repulsed.

Remember, you are coming now from the exhilarating experience of the new birth. In these four months, God has filled your heart with His love, and you are shockingly surprised at those who are disinterested. A particular problem has, of course, been those who militantly oppose Bible truth. Arguing with pagan professors, however, will serve no good end.

Just follow the Biblical advice for dealing with these people and you won't get upset about their attitudes. First, learn the Scriptures so thoroughly that you are stabilized by inner peace (Ps. 119:165). Secondly practice a love for all that swallows up prejudices and oppositions. Thirdly, pray for these individuals by name.

Just remember the example of Stephen. He so conducted himself in Christian character that his accusers in the hostile council said his face was like that of an angel.

A Point Of Law

William F. Buckley Jr.

With all the diversions of the President's trip to the Mideast, and now his trip to the Soviet Union, we are tempted to lose sight of the arguments now being considered by the courts; on which, conceivably, the future of Mr. Nixon will hang. Or, to put the question less particularly, on which the future of the American president will hang, inasmuch as it is Mr. Nixon's position that he is fighting nowadays not so much for himself, as for independence of the presidential office.

CONCERNING THIS, there is a great deal of hocus pocus. On the whole, the United States has profited from an Executive insulated from the whim of the legislature. But it has not been all good. At worst, it has made American presidents ineffective, and American congresses irresponsible. When a President of one party confronts a Congress of another party, it is all too easy to blame each other for acts of national delinquency.

On the whole, it would probably have been better if Congress had overcome President Hoover in 1931, dissipating the Congressional servitude to Franklin Roosevelt that would accumulate two years later. And, on the whole, it would have been better if President Eisenhower, during his six years as a minority president, had accentuated the paradox and persuaded the voters in 1958 of the dangers in polarized distribution of power between the Executive and the Legislature. There are larks in American political theory who love it the way it is. In fact it has disadvantages, and the argument now going on proceeds without any theoretical reference to these disadvantages.

CONSIDER. The House of Representatives, seeking to gather material against Richard Nixon, subpoenas certain of his tapes. Richard Nixon refuses to make them available. He replies most courteously to Mr. Rodino, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, giving him any number of historical examples of Congress refusing to give confidential material to the White House, of the White House refusing to give confidential material of the courts, of the Courts refusing to give confidential material to Congress — ad infinitum.

Then President Nixon loses a moral thunderbolt, which must have rocked the Democratic liberals on the Judiciary Committee, and their mentors in the Ivy League. Rodino had put it this way in his letter to Nixon: that Nixon's failure to supply the desired tapes would "free (Committee members) to consider whether your refusals warrant the drawing of adverse inferences concerning the substance of the materials, and whether your refusals in and of themselves might constitute a ground of impeachment."

YEARS AGO, the argument used to be on the question whether someone who pleaded the 5th Amendment as to ground for refusing to testify to a Congressional committee could do so without in any way prejudicing the moral or legal case against himself. A few distinguished scholars took the position that taking the 5th entitled the jury (or the Congressional committee) to draw unfriendly conclusions towards the taker of the 5th. By and large, Prosecutor Nixon was on this side of the argument at that time. Those who now charge him with inconsistency may do so too hastily.

EPA Triggers Talk Of Big Recall

NEW YORK (AP) — Four major automakers were left this past week facing the possible recall of up to 1.4 million of their 1973 models.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency told General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and Volkswagen that tests indicated the cars might be violating air pollution standards. The agency said, however, that no final recall would be ordered until the manufacturers had had a chance to reply.

The agency said its action was based on tests involving some 2,400 cars representing about 70 per cent of all 1973 cars sold in the United States.

Federal law authorizes the EPA to test cars in actual use to be sure they meet emission standards and the agency's certification tests require that new cars continue meeting standards for 50,000 miles.

BIG TRADE DEFICIT
The Commerce Department this past week said the nation suffered its second biggest monthly trade deficit in May, when imports exceeded exports by $776.9 million.

The deficit was the biggest since October 1971, when a U.S.

The Week's Business

- Claim 1.4 of '73 models do not meet pollution standards
- May produces second largest monthly deficit in trade
- Farm produce demand down, oil prices could wreck picture
- Big Steel producers raise prices from 5 to 15 per cent
- Car makers hasten to adjust prices, some every few weeks dock strike contributed to a gap of $815 million.

The value of farm exports fell 17 per cent in May to about $1 billion, the department said, and some experts noted that if foreign demand for such things as soybeans, animal feeds and wheat stayed down or declined further, the American consumer might see some lower prices at home.

But the government also noted that higher prices for foreign oil could put the nation into a trade deficit for the year. The department said the United States imported 193 million barrels of foreign oil in May for about $2.2 billion. A year earlier, it imported 196 barrels, at about a fourth of that price.

STEEL PRICES UP
The two biggest American steel producers boosted prices on a variety of products this past week, moving at least in part to re-establish their usual positions as price-setters for the industry.

Bethlehem Steel led off with hikes of 5 to 15 per cent on many of its products. Top-ranked U.S. Steel followed with increases which averaged 5 per cent but in some cases matched the biggest jumps at Bethlehem.

Steel prices are traditionally widely watched because their levels tend to be reflected later in so many products.

Reflux In Urinary Tract

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our daughter, 4, has a urinary tract condition called reflux. It was diagnosed when she was 2. The urologist said the condition might reverse itself, so he put her on a long-term drug program. She has remained free of infection.

Recent X-rays reveal no change and the urologist says now there is only a remote possibility of a reversal and wants to go ahead with surgery. We are reluctant to agree and would like to wait perhaps a year longer in hopes that reversal will still come about.

The antibiotic drugs have kept her free of infection and we don't see why she can't continue on them for a while longer.

The doctor says infection can occur at any time in spite of the medication and wants to operate before there is any major damage to the kidneys.

Do all "reflux" patients require surgery "sooner or later," as our urologist says? Can you explain the details of the surgery? — Mr. and Mrs. L. C.

A reflux in this case means that urine flows through the ureters (ducts leading to the bladder) but instead of staying in the bladder, some flows back into the ureters.

This creates a situation which is ideal for germs to propagate; hence the antibacterial drugs as a precaution against infection. So far it has been successful, but I'm sure I don't have to tell you that if urinary infections get started they can be very stubborn and the risk to the kidneys is great.

The ureters pass through the bladder wall to empty into the bladder, and normally the segment embedded in the wall provides a sphincter or "valve" action to prevent the reflux or "flowback."

Depending on the exact anatomical abnormality, some cases can be handled conservatively, as your daughter's has been, with antibiotics and urging frequent emptying of the bladder. Others demand surgery.

The majority of patients ultimately require surgery. A type of plastic surgery is involved, repositioning the lower portion of the ureters into the bladder wall.

Without knowing a good deal more than I do about the exact anatomical defect in your daughter's case, I am in no position to offer an opinion on whether to ask for another year of waiting and depending on the antibiotics.

But I do say that you should give due weight to your urologist's advice. After all he has studied the situation for two years now, he does not see prospects of the reflux correcting itself, and he is concerned lest waiting too might let an infection start and move into the kidneys.

You would be entirely warranted in asking your doctor about getting the opinion of another urologist, and it is my suspicion that you should do so before deciding on further waiting in the face of your urologist's recommendation.

Note to J.S.R.: No, positively washing your hair every day is not going to "make you go bald."

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — it could be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

There are many more of these mysteriously disappearing services. But why look back?

Right, Tommy. Maybe we should just look askance.

Question Of Amnesty

Art Buchwald

PARIS — While some things have changed in Paris in the last few years, the Frenchman's love affair with his car remains as strong as ever. It is a known fact that if you knock down a Frenchman's wife he will apologize to you, but if you scratch the fender of his automobile he will kill you.

THE STREETS of Paris have remained the same size, but the number of vehicles in the city has increased 800 per cent. This presents a slight parking problem. But the French driver has solved it with typical Gallic ingenuity. He drives to his destination, gets out of his car and leaves it right in the middle of the street. If there are too many cars already parked in the middle of the street, he'll park it on the sidewalk; and if there is no room on the sidewalk, he'll just drive it into a sidewalk cafe and leave it on your table.

THE DEATH of President Pompidou had a tremendous emotional effect on all of France. But French automobile owners were probably more affected by it than anyone else. It seems in France, when a new president is elected, amnesty is granted to everyone who committed a minor crime. Since most crimes in this country have to do with cars, France mourned the passing of its president by violating every traffic law in the book.

Instead of tearing their clothes in sorrow as they do in some countries, the French people tore up their traffic tickets.

IN PARIS there are meter maids called "les aubergines" (eggplants) because the color of their uniforms resembles that of an eggplant.

When an "eggplant" warned a driver that he had failed to put money in a parking meter, the Frenchman, with tears in his eyes, would say, "Our president is gone, and you know where you can go."

All during the period of mourning, the French went through red lights, broke the speed limits and drove in the wrong direction up one-way streets. Whenever they were stopped by a policeman, the drivers would laugh hysterically and say, "Don't give me one ticket; give me 10. I want to make the amnesty worthwhile."

Letters To Editor

Dear Sir:
I left the VA Hospital 11 p.m. after visiting my husband, a patient, and was driving 25 miles an hour in 30 mph zone because of safety to me and on-coming rodeo traffic.

Something moved from the intersection in my lane. I assumed the figure was crossing to go to a parked car which had headlights on and door open. I eased my speed to allow the figure to cross, also to avoid being struck from behind. Suddenly the person stepped backwards into my lane in front of my car, turned toward my car with hands up. I realized he was a police officer and immediately stopped.

He had dark hair, dark clothes, had no flashlight or blinking lights on his car, and I could not, even at 5 mph, avoid contact with his body at the point of his hand gun. He came up over the fender hit the windshield, then fell parallel to the car on the pavement. Another officer asked him if he was all right, and, with his hand at the back of his head he said in a weak voice, "I'm all right."

The investigation took 40 minutes at the scene. No report was made there, and I was asked to come to the station where I was asked no questions, only for my driver's license. The accident occurred at 11:18 p.m. and at approximately 1:30 a.m. I was handed two tickets to sign — one for going 31 mph in a 30 mph zone; another for not obeying the directing traffic officer. I refused at first because I had been driving 25 mph and was not aware of committing a traffic violation.

I returned home to El Paso, had to cancel a trip to Germany, although I was told I could take care of the tickets later. Newspaper and radio reports, however, gave the impression of wrong-doing on my part, and I am having to prepare legal aid to seek dismissal of false charges. After a week, the accident report was still not signed. Although the case was set for July 10, the city attorney said he wouldn't be ready before a couple of months; the officer seemed to be in a better condition to testify. The bad publicity has made the incident even worse, although I have an A-1 driving record.

I appeal to anyone who saw the accident and can make a statement on my behalf to forward information to my husband, F. W. Savage, VA Hospital, Big Spring. I am most anxious to clear this matter.

"Let Freedom Ring"

By JO BRIGHT

John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, was only 10 years old when the Revolutionary War began. When he became president he showed his pride in having witnessed the birth of a new nation by calling on all Americans to commemorate and celebrate the 4th of July. He did so in these words:

"The day will be the most memorable in the history of America. I am apt to believe it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as a great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as a day of deliverance by the solemn act of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, bells, illuminations from one end of this continent to the other, from this day forward, for evermore."

President Adams had, indeed, gauged the spirit of American patriotism, and July 4th became the most important political holiday in the United States. The eternal symbol of patriotism has been the Liberty Bell which has become part of American history. Since its arrival in America in September, 1752, it has pealed forth great news, from Cornwallis' surrender in 1781 to D-Day in 1944.

For the ninth consecutive year, Big Spring will ring its bells Thursday during the annual observance, "Let Freedom Ring." Under the direction of Mrs. Mamie Dee Dodds, the program will begin at 8 p.m. in the Comanche Trail Park amphitheatre with Don Norman as master of ceremonies. Following an invocation by the Rev. Fred Witta, Mark Prather and Cary Newell will give the call to the colors. Webb Color Guard will present the colors to the music of "Yankee Doodle" played by Lynn Peach, Sherry Proctor and David Norvelle.

"The Battle Hymn of the Republic" will be performed by First United Methodist Church Handbell Choir and bell ringers from Baptist Temple and First United Methodist Church, Midland. Elizabeth Lipscombe will read a patriotic poem, and colonial dances will be performed by Michael Smolka, Janet Smolka, Becky Ragan and Charisa Hamner.

The high point of the event will come when American Legion members escort buckskin-clad Richard Doane as he delivers the Declaration of Independence, to be read by Al Scott. This will be followed by "Let Freedom Ring," a song composed by Mrs. Dodds, which will be sung by Arnold Marshall to accompaniment by Janette McRee. Mrs. A. W. Moody will portray Betsy Ross.

Climaxing the celebration will be the ringing of bells by the Key Club and the playing of the National Anthem.

Honored guests for the occasion will be Gold Star parents and Webb Air Force Base officials.

"YANKEE DOODLE," a lilting song which reflects the happy sound of freedom, will be heard again in Comanche Trail Park next Thursday as this trio brings back the Spirit of '76. From left, the musicians are Lynn Peach, David Norvelle and Sherry Proctor.

COLONIAL SOLDIERS at this year's July 4th celebration will be represented by local members of the American Legion. Here, Don Brooks, left, and George Zachariah, right, stand guard with Miss Elizabeth Lipscombe, costumed for her part in the annual patriotic program.

IN BUCKSKIN and coonskin cap, Deputy Sheriff Richard Doane will deliver the Declaration of Independence during the "Let Freedom Ring" celebration. Here, at rehearsal, he views the article with Mrs.

Mamie Lee Dodds who originated the program here nine years ago.

GOLD STAR parents will be honored guests this year, as in the past, at the city's patriotic program at the amphitheatre in Comanche Trail Park. Here, four of the mothers

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Harmonson of Lubbock, formerly of Big Spring. A graduate of Monterey High School, Lubbock, she is now a sophomore student at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, where she is on the dean's honor list and a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha social sorority.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Durcan, 6 Indian Ridge, Big Spring. He was graduated from Big Spring High School and is a senior student at Texas Christian University where he is a member of Delta Tau Delta social fraternity and the varsity football team.

After a wedding trip to Acapulco, Guerrero, Mexico, the couple will reside at 4320 Bellaire Drive South, Apt. 213, Fort Worth.

The church altar was flanked by tiered Flemish arrangements of greenery. Arched candelabra, adorned with smilax, were placed on either side of the communion table. Nuptial music was performed by Mrs. Don Newson, accompanied by Donald F. Smith, organist.

MRS. DAVE DUNCAN II

The princess-style bodice with long, slender sleeves ending with a lace and satin ruffle at the wrist, extended to an A-line skirt with deep flare ruffle of satin and lace forming the hemline. The satin and lace ruffles of the neckline, cuffs and hem were heavily encrusted with seed pearls. Her headpiece was a Juliet cap of matching lace and pearls holding a chapel-length train of illusion appliqued with lace medallions and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and gypsophila with white picot ribbon accents.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Julia Faulkner, and the other attendants were Mrs. Kirk Pack, Miss Debbie Gauntt, Fort Worth; Miss Renee Rigby, Mrs. John Petree and Miss Sue ment table during a reception in the church were Mrs. Dick Park, Mrs. Elbert Thames, Mrs. R. T. Bowman, Mrs. Fred Kasch and Mrs. Walter Slate.

The table was covered with a floor-length cloth of white peau de soie with overskirt of silk illusion trimmed with lace and seed pearls. The centerpiece was an antique brass epergne holding a mass arrangement of mixed white flowers. Guests registered at a similarly-designed table.

A LOVELIER YOU To Trim And Firm Your Back, Neck

Her upper back is a dead giveaway of a woman's age. Unless the area is trim and firm, she harks back to the Methuselah family.

To achieve a neat, taut effect, do try today's routine. Its parts have an interaction that improves the throat and the shoulderline as well as the back.

1. Stand tall with head erect. Clasp hands atop head and swing elbows well out to sides. Press down with hands so that arm muscles tense; push up with neck so as to fight pressure with neck and upper back muscles. Continue the "bout" for 10 slow counts; relax and repeat twice. Throughout breathe deeply, don't hold your breath.

2. Stand with feet astride and arms relaxed at sides. Swing arms upward and outward on the diagonal to form a wide V. At start of swing, slowly drop head to chest. As you come back to starting position, raise head as arms fall. Repeat 15 times, working for precise, brisk motions.

3. Standing erect with shoulder down and head high, grasp base of throat with hands - thumbs to front on collarbones. Now, very slowly, move elbow this way: straight up, close to head - straight down to shoulder level - out to sides and back - forward to touch - straight up. Repeat 10 to 20 times.

For faithful performance there's a divided-improved carriage of your head arms.

Kissin' Kin?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a nephew (my sister's son) who is 48, and has been divorced three times. He's always been quite a ladies' man. Very handsome, but something of a fortune-hunter, I've heard. I've seen him perhaps half a dozen times in his adult life. (He lives in New York and I live in Canada.)

I lost my husband last year, and suddenly this nephew started writing me the loveliest letters. I answered each one, thinking how sweet of him to be so attentive to his old aunt.

Then came a letter saying: "May I come and visit you? I have something important to talk to you about." I thought maybe he'd found a ladyfriend and wanted to bring her out to meet me, so I wrote back: "Don't keep me in suspense, but please give me a hint."

In his next letter came the shock of my life. He wrote, "Now I can finally confess how I feel about you. I've always thought of you as a woman, not as an aunt, but I never dared to let you know." He closed with: "I want you. I need you. I love you."

Abby, I am 71 years old, and couldn't possibly think of this nephew as anything but my sister's little boy. How can I put an end to this without insulting him outright?

AUNTIE
DEAR AUNTIE: Tell him that you're flattered by his "confession," but you don't feel the same way about him. And if he still wants to visit you, put him up at a hotel. You don't need a handsome, fortune-hunting ladies' man as a house guest. He probably walks in his sleep...DEAR ABBY:

DEAR ABBY: For years I have wanted to trace my family as far back as possible, but I don't know where to begin. My forebearers came from Ireland. Do you know of any agency in the United States or in Ireland with whom I could

'Quotable Women'

Here are some quotable quotes from women.

"I'm wearing a black dress in honor of the second anniversary of Watergate. I should be wearing mourning crepe." Martha Mitchell, making her debut on a New York television show, where she discussed her estrangement from former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

"After reaching this conclusion, I do not wish to return to the Soviet Union... as a person or as an artist." Dancer Galina Panova, who says her country did not want her art or her talent. She and her Jewish husband Valery are now in Israel.

"I've traveled to 30 countries. I've never had a bit of fear." Mrs. Pat Nixon, touring under heavy security precautions with Queen Alyia.

"I owe my thanks to the Bureau of Land Management for costing me as much as they are. We'll be open for business, but it's really going to take quite a while to get things cleaned up. It looks like a cyclone hit the place." Beverly Harrell, operator of a licensed brothel, the Cottontail Ranch, after she was evicted from federal land and moved about 2,000 feet up the road.

"Girls are equal. We don't look like boys, but we can do the same duties." Julie Renken, 15, senior patrol leader of a Michigan Girl Scout troop, when her unit was chosen as the first female scout troop to patrol historic Fort Mackinac for a week.

"I haven't really had any problems in terms of being stereotyped on the basis of my sex. Some of the women students may say that they've had a problem, but they may have looked harder than I." Elizabeth McLeod, 20-year-old student body president at California Institute of Technology, where male students outnumber female students 7 to 1.

"I don't think any woman would want the awesome, tremendous responsibilities of the presidency for the man she loves. Nothing has happened lately to make me think that's the dandy thing to do, but, of course, I want him to do what he wants, to do what he feels he should do." Nancy Reagan, wife of California's governor, answering questions about presidential aspirations of Ronald Reagan.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sunday, June 30, 1974 5-C

Nuptials Performed In Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ray Dunnam are on a trip to Corpus Christi and San Antonio following their wedding Saturday evening in First Baptist Church.

The bride is the former Nancy Carolyn Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith, 808 Edwards Blvd. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Dunnam, 1108 Ridgeroad.

A prelude of nuptial music was performed by Van Johnson, organist, and the vocalists Miss Ginger Rogers of Coleman and Dr. Kenneth Patrick, church pastor.

Dr. Patrick performed the ceremony before a background of candleabra and ferns flanked by a arrangement of white summer flowers. Two white cupids holding ferns were placed in the foreground.

The bride wore a candlelight satin gown designed with square neckline outlined with a satin stand-up collar in Queen Anne fashion embroidered with sequins and pearls. The pointed bodice fastened down the front with small satin buttons, and the sleeves tapered to petal points. The full skirt swept into a formal-length train. Her headpiece was a satin bonnet adorned with pearls, rosebuds, and the train-length illusion veil was edged with satin and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, white roses, stephanotis and gypsophila.

Miss Suzanne Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of white-flocked pink organza over pink taffeta with fitted bodice, full skirt flounce. The other attendants were Miss Paula Meek, Miss Martha Perry, Miss Kay McLaughlin, Mrs. Jimmy Tom and Mrs. John Gary. Their gowns were identical to the maid of honor's except they were white-flocked blue organza over blue taffeta. They carried nosegays of white mums, pink daisies and gypsophila.

Rodney Dunnam of Friona, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and groomsmen were Stephen Ray Smith, brother of the bride; Tommy Ambrose, Odessa; Steve Coleman, Clay Thompson and Leon Langley. Serving as ushers were Ray Kennedy, Bryan; Bobby Carlile, John Gray, Phillip Ambrose, Odessa; Gary Posey, Ackery; and Pink Dickens. Louis Dunnam, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. The flower girl, Amy Michele Smith, niece of the bride, was dressed similarly to the other feminine attendants.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charlie Lewis, Miss Sue Smith, Miss Pat Pearson, Miss Pam Little and Mrs. Marvita Standefer.

Moreland, Winters, grandparents of the bridegroom; Dr. Dorothy Purgason, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moreland, El Paso; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson, Mrs. F. C. Mills and Mrs. Clifton Poe, all of Winters; Mr. and Mrs. T.

Figure Size For Cooling Equipment

Use cooling equipment in the correct size for the space to be cooled. An oversized or undersized system wastes energy. Required cooling capacity depends on exposure to the afternoon sun and amounts of insulation and window space, notes Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

MRS. LOUIS RAY DUNNAM (Broadshaw Studio)

P. Ambrose, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sims, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Robinson, Colorado City; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dunnam and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dunnam, all of Graham; Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Dunnam, Rankin; and Mr. and Mrs. Denise Dunnam, Sonora.

man Council and on the dean's list. She was an accounting major.

Kelly

Mrs. ROBERT WAYNE PHERIGO

Nuptials Held On Saturday

Miss Judy Lynne Jirasek became the bride of Robert Wayne Pherigo in a Saturday afternoon ceremony at First United Methodist Church, Bishop. The Rev. John Fluth officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Truman Pherigo, Coahoma, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Jirasek, Bishop.

The altar was decorated with an arrangement of white and yellow gladioli and daisies with potted palms on either side and a tall candelabra forming the background. Music was performed by Miss Patty Berkman, organist.

The bride was attired in a Maracaine gown with cowl neckline and long tapered sleeves cuffed at the wrists. The bodice was accented with covered buttons, and a sash trimmed the waistline. The formal skirt gathered at the sides to give a soft fullness, and a flowing panel back fell to a slight train effect. The cathedral-length veil of illusion was held by a dome cap of Maracaine accented by buttons.

The bridal bouquet was of yellow and white daisies.

Miss Debby Jirasek, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and Miss Ellen Kelly and Miss Jane Morgan served as bridesmaids. They were attired in formal-length dresses of organza print in white, yellow and green styled with flared skirt, V-neckline bodice and large flared collar. Green taffeta ribbon accented the waistline. They carried nosegays of yellow daisies and greenery.

Eddie Read, Kingsville, served as best man and the groomsmen were Jim Jirasek, brother of the bride, and Mac Rowlette.

The couple will reside in Bishop following a wedding trip to San Antonio and Dallas.

The bride is graduate of Bishop High School and San Antonio College for Medical and Dental Assistants. The bridegroom is a graduate of Coahoma High School and Angelo State University. He is presently on the coaching staff at Bishop High School.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bridesmaids bouquets were served as floral accents for the table.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dick, Coahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Pherigo, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pherigo, Sand Springs; and Mrs. Ollie Beard, Coahoma, grandmother of the bride.

Mrs. Stephen Ray Smith, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the guest register. Guests, other than the bridal attendants, were Miss Ginger Rogers of Coleman and Dr. Dorothy Purgason of Los Angeles, Calif.

The luncheon table was covered with a pink cloth and centered with an arrangement of white gladioli white daisies, gypsophila and palms in a silver bowl.

Great Recipe For Mincemeat Pie

Mincemeat Pie is great with a custard-like layer. Into bottom of a 9-inch pastry shell spread 1 cup prepared mincemeat. Beat together 4 eggs, 1-3 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 teaspoon rum extract. Blend in 2 1/2 cups scalded milk. Pour over mincemeat. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, about 35 minutes or until custard is set.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks:

Looks like with the price of food reaching up to the moon that we are going to have to get back to pasta more.

Well, one of my dearest readers has sent me a hint that I have tested many times and I find it not only perfect but the easiest way yet. And don't you take any bets, 'cause you're gonna lose.

I have never had a failure, and it's really a fuel-saver, and a time saver since there is absolutely no pot-watching. And I have overcooked, underbroiled, and burned many a pot of pasta!

Here's the way: Fill a 4-quart pot three-fourths full of water and bring to a full rolling boil. (Rolling boil means the bubbles come to the top and burst quickly.) Then add salt.

After the water is again bubbling fast and furiously, put in your spaghetti slowly, and give it a good stir. Then immediately put the lid on the pot and twist it (that makes a vacuum) and turn off the heat.

Let this sit for exactly 20 minutes. Don't remove the lid during this time. That's the secret. Then drain quickly because it's done, folks.

Another thing I have found since using this method: If you make up your elbow macaroni in the morning (I usually do this for casseroles), and don't finish your recipe till that afternoon, then, after draining the hot water off, immediately plunge the macaroni or whatever into cold water. This prevents overcooking, which is what causes sogginess.

Here's something else I learned from restaurants and I use it all the time:

They cook batches of spaghetti, macaroni, etc., ahead of time to use in salads next day and keep it in their refrigerators — under water in stainless steel or glass jars for as long as two or three days.

And we often wonder how we can go into a restaurant and get good spaghetti in seven minutes? They just drop it in boiling water for a minute and drain through a large strainer.

And, folks, try something I discovered which costs you practically nil and makes any pasta look scrumptilious:

Add some yellow food coloring to the water in which you boil spaghetti, macaroni and, especially, egg noodles. You'll get the shock of your life at the difference. Looks like you've used a pound of butter. Makes it into a rich new dish entirely. Not just plain old food.

Watch for tomorrow's paper because when I was in New York City recently at a homemaker's convention I stayed at one of the most famous hotels there!

And you know where your old pal Heloise ended up?

In the kitchen asking for their spaghetti sauce recipe.

And would you believe I got it?

Be sure to clip this out and put in your cook book. I do not keep back columns, folks, so you have to save this one. . . . love, Heloise

P.S. Tomorrow I am going to give you a quick method from an Italian from Italy for making spaghetti sauce the quick way.

P.P.S. Use same amount of water as called for on your pasta package when using tomorrow's recipe. That's important.

This column is written for you . . . this housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of The Big Spring Herald. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

ENGAGED — The announcement is being made of the engagement and future marriage of Miss Debby Dunlap to Walter Campbell. The ceremony has been scheduled Nov. 1. ### 'Benji' Refreshing 'G' Dog Movie

If you're wanting to view a refreshing movie, reminiscent of the days of the original Disney children's movies, drop out to the Cinema and view "Benji."
It's not an animated film, but a real photographic sequence about "a dog's life." It also has a story entwined among the story about the dog concerning the kidnapping of two children. The movie even shows flashbacks of a dog's memory to depict how a dog thinks. If you haven't got a child or a grandchild to use as an excuse to go to this movie, you can always view the film simply as a dog lover or a person glad to see a really and truly interesting "Rated G" movie.

Benji
A family film by Joe Camp
It's a fresh, exciting, unordinary kind of picture that tells its story completely from a dog's point-of-view. A real dog, not an animated one. BENJI can't talk and nobody talks for him, but his story will completely involve you as this ordinary dog struggles to communicate a piece of important knowledge to some people he loves. It's happy. It's sad. It's suspense. It's fun. It's a very special motion picture that you will respond to like few you've ever seen.

Missing Man May Be Texan

LONDON (AP) — The discovery of a crashed World War II U.S. Air Force Thunderbolt fighter in a field in Kent County has set off a search for the American pilot who bailed out from the stricken aircraft. Voluntary workers from the Aeronautical Museum at Brenzett, near Folkestone, southeast of London, found the plane about four miles from the former U.S. base at Manston. The remains of the plane were found 25 feet under the earth. Leonard Green, one of the recovery group, said "This is a good recovery. The engine is in near-perfect condition and the tail assembly is complete. It is a great find for the museum." Green said he found the name of the pilot on a plate in the aircraft — Capt. R. R. Bonebrake. He said eyewitnesses recall the crash on Sept. 3, 1944, and they say the pilot was hit by the rudder as he bailed out. His parachute opened late but he only suffered a broken ankle.

SAFETY CAR MAKES DEBUT — The Bricklin SV1, the first safety car ready for mass production, is unveiled recently at a New York City restaurant. The car features such safety features as hydraulic doors that open upward, a double-stress skin described as structurally stronger than steel or fiberglass and bumpers which recede into the car upon collision. The two-seat fastback, which will sell for $6,495, is named after Malcolm Bricklin, a principal backer of the car. (AP WIREPHOTO)

$2 Million Suit Filed By Relatives

HONOLULU (AP) — Relatives of a Texas woman killed by a taxi here earlier this month have filed a $2 million lawsuit in federal court. Jacqueline K. Goad, 46, of Bellaire, Tex., and her husband David, 46, were struck by the cab June 13 as they stood on a Waikiki sidewalk. She was killed instantly and he was injured seriously. The suit, filed here by Goad and his daughter, names Charley's Taxi & Tour Co. and the driver of the cab, William D. Miller, as the defendants. Police said at the time of the accident that the cab was traveling at high speed, apparently went out of control and crashed over the curb.

Demand For Engineers To Endure Through 70s

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — There was a question of timing two years ago when Richard Burke began studying for an advanced degree in engineering. Defense contracts were shrinking and space research was evaporating into a memory. Thousands of engineers were losing their jobs.

For Burke and 42,000 other engineers who finished school in the United States this spring, things could hardly have looked worse.

Now they could not be better. All of a sudden, there is a shortage of engineers. Industry recruiters are convinced it will get worse next year and stay that way until at least 1978.

FEWER OF THEM
 Herbert Hollomon, director of the Center for Policy Research at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said, "The demand has not increased very much, although it has increased . . . the significant thing is not the rise in demand. It's the decrease in supply."

Burke, a cheerful 24-year-old from Rexford, N.Y., went to MIT to learn how to design ships. He had 20 job interviews and eight offers.

"It got to the point where we had to refuse interviews, because we didn't have time to do school work," Burke said.

"There's no problem getting a job. It's just a matter of how many offers you get."

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics says there are 73,700 engineering job openings in 1974, of which 27,000 are being filled from unemployed engineers or from promotions and transfers within a company. The remaining 46,700 openings are for the 42,000 graduates this spring.

Thousands of companies that design everything from radios to oil rigs, computers to water coolers, need engineers. For them, the problem boils down to a supply that doesn't meet their demand.

Jean Kessler of the College Placement Council said company recruiters are even more worried about the supply next year, when the graduating class across the nation will be only 39,900 engineers.

"Yes, we're worried," said Mark Abbett, chief recruiter for the development division of Digital Equipment Corp.

Digital is a fast-growing computer company. Abbett says it will need about 700 new engineers next year.

"DAYS ARE GONE"
 "The days are gone of being able to recruit once a year in the spring," Abbett said. "You've got to slug it out."

At least part of the shortage began with tremors that rippled through engineering when the government began reducing defense and aerospace spending in 1970.

Thousands of engineers who limited their talents to knowing all there was to know about certain bomber parts or satellite antennae saw their jobs disappear with government money.

Big electronics firms drastically reduced hiring. Raytheon Co., for example, hired 405 new engineers in 1969. The next year it hired 120.

"Enrollment dropped in the 1970s as a result of the wide publicity given to the displacement of aerospace engineers. For some reason, it affected the entire engineering field," said Mrs. Kessler of the College Placement Council.

Since learning to be an engineer is a four-year process, it is possible to tell how many new people will enter the field next spring and for the three years after that.

Next year's graduating class of 39,900 will drop even further in 1976 and 1977, hitting a low point of 34,500 in 1978. After that the number of graduates will begin to rise.

A survey by the Engineers Joint Council in New York shows that U.S. engineering schools expect an 11 per cent increase in enrollment this fall over last fall's first-year class of 51,925 students. A big percentage of first-year students never get their degrees.

Until the class of 1979 is graduated, the demand for engineers will remain at 73,000 to 74,000 annually, the Bureau of Labor Statistics says, while the supply of graduates declines.
