'Not Easy To Choke Someone To Death Like They Show On TV'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Defendant Elmer Wayne Henley told police it "was not easy to choke someone to death like they show on TV," a detective recounted today in the second day of testimony in the Houston mass murders trial.

A FRIEND INDEED

Detective Sgt. David Mullican told of the statement Henley gave him the day after his arrest last August in Houston.

"When he killed Marty Ray Jones, Wayne told me it was not easy to choke someone to death like they show on TV.

"He told me, 'When we killed Marty Jones, I had to get Dean to come in and help me,'" the detective said.

Mullican's testimony came over repeated objections by defense lawyer Will Gray in an hour and 15 minutes. Gray objected and was overruled 44 times by District Court Judge Preston Dial.

RAPED THEM

It was the second day of testimony for Mullican, the Pasadena policeman who served as chief investigating officer in the slayings.

Monday, while the jury listened, Dist. Atty. Carol Van'e read from a written statement Henley gave to Mullican last Aug. 9.

In the statement, Henley told of procuring teen-age boys for Dean A. Corll, 33, who imprisoned and raped them.

PAID $200

Henley recounted how he was paid $200 each for the youths—many of them his friends and neighbors—and how he helped kill at least six of them and buried their bodies.

Henley, a slight, junior high school dropout, was arrested last August 8 after he phoned police and told them he shot and killed Corll following an all-night sex and drug party at Corll's home in suburban Pasadena.

Another youth, David Owen Brooks, 19, has been charged in four of the 27 deaths. Brooks' trial date has not been set.

In testimony Monday afternoon and over 30 objections by defense lawyer Will Gray and denied by District Court Judge Preston Dial, Mullican and Pasadena policeman J.B. Jamison told of Henley telling them about the slayings and leading them to 27 bodies.

Six of the bodies, discovered in a boat shed in Houston, a wooded area in San Augustine County in East Texas, and on the beach at High Island, are still unidentified.

SOLD BOYS

In the statement, Henley told how he was introduced to Corll by Brooks when he was 14.

"Dean told me that he belonged to an organization out of Dallas that bought and sold boys, ran whores and dope and stuff like that. Dean told me that he would pay me $200 at least for every boy that I could bring him and maybe more if they were real good looking."

Ehrlichman Unable To Recall CIA 'Carte Blanche' Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman testified today that he was unable to recall a 1971 telephone conversation in which he allegedly asked a top CIA official to provide "carte blanche" assistance to E. Howard Hunt Jr.

DETAILS

At the same time, the former White House domestic counselor recounted in detail a phone conversation he had with the same CIA official in 1969.

Taking the stand in his own defense for the second day of cross-examination, Ehrlichman again denied knowing in advance that his subordinates planned to break into the office of Beverly Hills, Calif., psychiatrist Lewis Fiedling Jr.

Gen. Robert Cushman, former deputy director of the CIA, testified last week that Ehrlichman called him July 5, 1971, and asked for "carte blanche" assistance for Hunt, one of the planners of the Sept. 3, 1971, break-in at Fiedling's office.

Ehrlichman said he had no memory of that July call, but did remember talking to Cushman Aug. 27, 1971, when Cushman asked if there was any objection to ceasing CIA assistance to Hunt.

THAT'S CORRECT

Ehrlichman also said he remembered a 1969 incident in which President Nixon wanted the CIA to take some action in the domestic area. Ehrlichman said he was advised by Cushman that whatever Nixon wanted was beyond the CIA's mandate.

"Are you telling the jury you remember a telephone call you made back in 1969, but not one with Gen. Cushman in 1971?"

Merrill asked.

"That's correct," Ehrlichman said, adding that the July 5, 1971, call was out of his memory even seven weeks later in 1971.

At another point, Ehrlichman testified that on March 20, 1973, Hunt was threatening to blackmail White House officials by making public all he knew about the plumbers, a special White House unit set up to plug leaks to the press.

It was for that reason, Ehrlichman testified, that he called in a co-director of the plumbers, David R. Young, on March 21, 1973, to find out what Hunt knew about the break-in and other sensitive projects the plumbers had undertaken in 1971.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said early today he will appear at the trial Wednesday morning to testify.

Speaking to newsmen before leaving London for Madrid to confer with Spanish government leaders, Kissinger said he would head a court order for his appearance, but added: "It would not be appropriate for me to make any comment."

Washington (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee plans to release late today its transcripts of eight presidential conversations with an analysis of how its versions differ from those released by the White House.

Dragnet Out For Seven

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Seven convicts who escaped from a state prison work crew were being hunted today by a massive police dragnet. Six others who fled with them were back behind bars.

The 13 inmates escaped from the state prison farm about noon Monday when they commandeered a prison bus and bolted from the area amid a hail of gunshots fired by guards. Minutes later the escapees abandoned the bus in west Nashville and scampere away on foot.

But within three hours, two had turned themselves in and three others had been recaptured. Early today, a fourth fugitive was captured along the banks of the Cumberland River in west Nashville.

U.S. Naval Academy Probe

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The U.S. Naval Academy announced today that it has dismissed seven midshipmen for cheating on a navigations examination last May.

Vice Adm. William P. Mack, academy superintendent, said an additional 13 midshipmen were placed on honor probation following a lengthy examination into the cheating incident.

Mack said the investigation showed that an instructor allowed several midshipmen to examine a copy of the test at a review session.

He said the instructor has been reassigned to duties not involving teaching and was given a letter of admonition.

"It has been determined that the examination was compromised without any malicious intent or desirable personal gain by the instructor," Mack said.

Names of the students and the instructor involved were not immediately available.

The cheating incident was disclosed May 23 when the academy ordered about 900 midshipmen to take a second final exam in a celestial navigations course.

'IN EVERY TEXAS LAW SCHOOL' 'Hospital Water Contract Has Made Our City Famous'

By MARJ CARPENTER

An emergency resolution authorizing the mayor to enter into raw water contract with Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. and permission to advertise for bids for water line to the Big Spring State Hospital highlighted the regular meeting of the city council here this morning.

The resolution concerning Cosden was passed as an emergency resolution because Cosden had agreed to up its water rates dating back effective June 1. The contract changes the cost of raw water from the city's cost plus one cent per thousand gallons to the city's cost plus three cents a thousand gallons which will provide approximately $1,800 additional per month to city revenue.

In agreeing to advertise for bids for water line to the Big Spring State Hospital, City Manager Harry Nagel reminded the city that they are obligated by contract to provide 300,000 gallons of water per day to the Big Spring State Hospital and that they must lay this line to make this provision.

COOPERATIVE

He pointed out that the state hospital had been very cooperative in agreeing to place the new water meter at the property line at a cost to the city of around $9,000 when they could have demanded under the contract that it be on the back of the property.

The city manager reminded the council of the history of the contract which has been court tested and which goes on as long as the facility is used as a state hospital. "This contract has made Big Spring famous," Nagel reminded the group and "is used in almost every Texas law school as an example of a type of contract not to go into."

The council also gave final approval to a resolution authorizing the mayor to enter into a contract with the Hospital Corporation of America for construction of a sewer line.

Jack Watkins, former councilman who owns property in the area discussed, appealed to the council for the third time to go down San Jacinto Street rather than San Antonio Street.

He again questioned the decision of the engineer, Roy Crim in saying that "The San Antonio Street route is the best and cheapest route for the hospital corporation and Big Spring."

Watkins even mentioned that engineers are paid in percentage to the size of the total project. Crim, speaking quietly, but quite obviously angry, again stated, "I have recommended what I considered best for the city and also represent the hospital corporation and the architects." Mayor Wade Choate thanked Watkins for coming and the council again voted unanimously to back the engineer's decision.

Only Choate, Mrs. Polly Mays and Charles Tompkins were present today with Eddie Acri and Haruki Hall out of town but they have voted unanimously on the first reading at an earlier meeting with all present.

The council also approved final reading of a lease agreement with Jerry Worthy, and gave second reading to a resolution authorizing street improvements on 11th Pl. from FM 700 to Abrams.

AUDIT APPROVED

They formally approved the audit report, gave approval for communications grant for records in the police department and formally named James Campbell director of parks and recreation and Eugene Lehman of San Antonio as director of public works.

The council approved vouchers totaling $231,381.58 and also approved the traffic commission minutes. Traffic commission is making plans for traffic signs and signals being made more uniform in the city. They discussed a T-Man program in which they will seek cooperation of citizens reporting persons violating the law. They also approved yield signs on the NE and SW corners of 14th and Young. A request for a no left turn sign at the east exit of Wagon Wheel 1 was tabled until the next meeting.

In the city manager's report, Nagel told the group that the Big Spring Cable's franchise allows them to charge $6 per month and they are going to up their charge from $5.95 to $6.

He also said the new police cars will arrive soon but will not be utilized until the new radios arrive and are installed to save the city the expense of installing radios twice.

The council awarded a bid for refuse containers to Duncan Equipment Co. of Arlington on a low bid of $5,558 which is $1,058 over the budget.

The council was also told that Pioneer Natural Gas will bill according to a recent request from the council, separating the base rate and the gas adjustment clause.

The council was reminded of the Regional Planning Council Membership meeting here next Wednesday and also told of a budget workshop set up for July 24 and 25 at 9 a.m.

New Wage Hikes To Cost County About $36,000

By JOHN EDWARDS

Howard County's tentative budget for 1975 shows $1,560,642 allocated for spending and allows for a decrease in balances from $253,817 to $108,606 by Dec. 31, 1975. These figures exclude revenue sharing funds.

Included in this budget is an across-the-board salary increase of 5 1/2 per cent. This wage hike, if approved, would cost the county about $37,000 during 1975, Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, said.

"NOT ENOUGH"

Kenneth Howell, business manager of the International Union of Operating Engineers Local 826, asked for a minimum of 12 per cent, instead. His union represents some employees of the county's road department.

Estimates of how much wages had been increased under the present commissioners court over three and one-half years were around 40 per cent.

County Judge A. G. Mitchell said employees had not received wage increases in years when he took this, his first term of office. "That was pathetic," Howell agreed.

GIVE MORE

Howell claimed that Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. Inc. had increased its employees wages more during the same three and one-half years.

"Inflation went up 8.8 per cent in 1973," Howell said.

"I'm talking about keeping your employees whole," Howell explained.

"You can just drain the old chicken dry," Mitchell replied, saying 5 1/2 per cent was as high as the county could go without increasing taxes.

Howell lost a bid to gain higher pay for an equipment operator who claimed to have worked in a supervisory capacity when no one present would make a motive to that effect.

MEASLES FEARED

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, was told the court decided not to allocate funds for an additional deputy county clerk in 1975.

"Everybody in the courthouse would want an extra deputy," Commissioner Jack Buchanan said earlier. "It's sort of like the measles."

QUAL PAY SOUGHT

No decision was made concerning the sheriff's request to raise two female deputy sheriffs to the salary level of male deputy sheriffs, the jailer excluded.

Pay for male deputies runs about $8,200 yearly, not counting compensation for law enforcement training. With the 5 1/2 per cent increase alone, Mrs. Bernice Nail would be making $8,634 in 1975. Mrs. Rachel Shaffer would be drawing $5,254. Both get $180 bonuses yearly because they have intermediate law enforcement certification.

Mrs. Nail has worked for the sheriff 12 years; Mrs. Shaffer, nine.

Mrs. Nail told the court she worked as dispatcher, teletype operator, file clerk, receptionist and a forger and missing person investigator. She searches and helps with the arrest of female prisoners.

"Basically, we both do about the same thing," Mrs. Shaffer said.

"Now they don't get out on the streets and patrol," Sheriff A. N. Standard said.

The number of female prisoners in one month ranges from one to five to "perhaps 10," Standard said.

"I think they ought to draw the same pay if they're doing the same work," Mitchell said.

Standard brought the question of pay equalization before the court.

Members of the court were concerned increasing wages for these two women would bring a flood of requests from other courthouse women in other offices.

"We've got to define the difference between that office and other offices in the courthouse," Terrazas said.

Standard also wanted the uniform allowance increased from $1,000 to $1,500 for his office.

OTHER WAGES

Other salaries drawing the court's attention included the two deputy district clerks, justices of the peace and the welfare department supervisor.

M. Fern Cox, district clerk, wanted salaries for his deputies increased from a total of $9,960 budgeted in 1974 to $12,120 in 1975.

Mitchell proposed increasing wages for Peace Justice Gus Ochotorena more than just 5 1/2 per cent.

Peace Justices Walter Grice and Ochotorena would be making $6,203 yearly with the 5 1/2 per cent increase. A car allowance jump from $600 year; to $900 each is being considered. Similar car allowance increases are listed tentatively for members of the court.

The court plans to increase car allowances to $100 monthly for Miss Sherry Mullin, county home demonstration agent, and to $125 for Ronnie Wood, assistant county extension agent.

Mrs. Ruby Phillips county welfare superintendent, was thought deserving $75 per month for in-town travel, compared to $50 paid now.

The court has decided to pay 12 cents per mile up from 10 cents, to all employees using private vehicles for county business.

As discussion over wages approached conclusion Monday, Mrs. Black told the court briefly about a job and grade classification system successfully adopted by Ector County.

No monies are to be appropriated for the county library's work-study program in 1975.

ASSORTED ACTION

Appointing Mrs. Bonnie Ayers Cross, wife of the jailer, as jail cook at $241 monthly. Mrs. Cross is a former cafe manager. She replaces Mrs. Georgia Leach, who was hurt on the job a number of months ago and has since been taken off sick pay.

Authorizing purchase of two fire fighting uniforms for two deputy sheriffs who can attend a short course at Texas A&M University. Cost will be $219 altogether.

Postponing signing the Howard County Airport lease renewal until next week, because Commissioner Bill Crooker was sick Monday and absent.

Deciding to keep longtime employe J. D. Nixon on the county road department payroll until the hospitalized man starts receiving Social Security payments and money from the county retirement program.

"He has no income and I don't know what the man's going to do," Mitchell commented. Terrazas proposed paying the ill employe vacation time and see what develops.

Tentatively planning to continue with a $1.04 tax rate. Tabling the only bid for moving a counter in the tax collector's office. Kasch Bros. Inc. wanted $2,328 for the job.

And talking with a representative of Co-Op Gins about roads work planned in connection with the new plant location north of Big Spring. The court plans to widen one road for two miles and pave another one-quarter mile of road. The purpose of improvements is to keep cotton trailers off the main highway, county officials said.

Groups Band Together To Seek New Industry

The City of Big Spring, the Chamber of Commerce and the newly formed Economic Advisory Council made a formal agreement today through the signing of a contract between the three groups to band together to seek industrial development for Big Spring.

Under terms of the contract, the chamber will become responsible for administration of the industrial development program.

Ralph McLaughlin, chamber president, issued an official news release which stated that the chamber is most pleased to enter into a contract with the city for the purpose of hiring a professional industrial development executive.

The board met Monday in anticipation of the city action today and elevated Ron Mercer to the newly created job to seek industry and to, in addition, hire an executive assistant for the chamber to maintain and continue an aggressive program of community concern.

The idea is to free Mercer from other chamber duties to spend full time actively seeking industry. He is a certified industrial developer with work experience and education giving him 14 years of industrial development experience and is also familiar with Big Spring.

During the first three months of the contract, the city will pay one-fourth of one per cent, then starting with the new fiscal year in October, it will pay one per cent of the general fund budget monthly to support the program. This is estimated to yield $23,000.

The pact, which can be renewed, is for a period of 15 months. It was enacted under the authority of Article 1013-1, Vernon's Texas Civil Statutes which permits an amount of money not exceeding one per cent of the general fund to be used for the purpose of advertising the city and promoting its growth and development.

City funds levied for this purpose will be used solely for the purpose of economic development for the Big Spring area and funds go into an account separate from the chamber. Files developed under the program will be kept by the chamber but are the property of the city. The chamber is also charged to make regular and special reports to the city.

Under the chart of organization, the paid executive of the chamber continues to be responsible for its operation and also becomes the secretary of the industrial foundation.

Other members of the industrial prospecting panel will include the chamber president, the vice president of industrial development who will serve as the foundation's team captain. The foundation will also have a vice president and treasurer.

First priority of responsibility of the chief paid executive shall be the industrial growth and development of the Big Spring area, to which he shall devote a substantial percentage of his time.

Showers Dot Panhandle

By The Associated Press

Texas drifted along in the summer weather doldrums today.

It was hot and muggy everywhere in the state. A few thundershowers dotted the Panhandle and far west sections, where skies were mostly overcast. It was clear elsewhere except for occasional clouds in South Central Texas.

Early morning temperatures staved as high as 80 degrees at Palacios and 81 at Galveston on the coast. Readings at other points were generally in the 70s except for a 65 at Dalhart, 67 at Amarillo and 68 at El Paso.

Monday afternoon's top marks went as high as 101 at Wichita Falls in the normally torrid Red River Valley. Marfa in the West Texas mountains was the coolest spot with a maximum of 81.

Little change was forecast. More showers and thundershowers were expected to dot West and Southeast Texas, with a few also cropping up in coastal areas. It was in the southeast part of the state near Fannett that a tornado funnel spun away without harm only Monday.

Parent And Child Relations Topic For Drug Seminar

When Tommy was 15 his mother found marijuana in his dresser drawer. Tommy's parents didn't know much about drugs or how to handle the situation. But Tommy knew "a lot" about drugs; he assured his parents that no harm could come of his doing "what all the other kids were doing."

The grass in the dresser incident was soon forgotten, but two years later Tommy (not his real name) was in jail for stealing to support a heroin habit. Tommy was a "mainliner" at 17 and dead at 19.

"Drug problems are parent-child relationship problems," said Dr. R. R. Holton, executive director of Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education (TANE). "Equipped with the right kind of knowledge about drugs and about how to deal with their children, Tommy's parents might have saved his life," Dr. Holton said. "That is one of the reasons TANE, Baylor University, and the Waco Jaycees are sponsoring a Parent-Child Relationship Drug Education Seminar at Baylor University, Waco, on August 1, 2, 3."

This will be the sixteenth annual such seminar co-sponsored by TANE and Baylor.

Enrollment information can be received from Baylor University, Waco, Texas or TANE, 6778 Greenville Avenue, Dallas, Texas 75231.

Israeli Navy Shells Ports

The Israeli navy shelled three ports in southern Lebanon, sinking more than a score of fishing boats in retaliation for the Palestinian guerrilla raid by sea two weeks ago in Nahariya.

CIVILIAN WOUNDED

The Israeli military command said it had "numerous indications" that the terrorists were preparing more seaborne attacks. The command said its raid on the ports was intended to "disrupt the preparations and warn against the use of these harbors" by the guerrillas.

Israel said the Monday night attack was "limited in scope," and every attempt was made to avoid injuries to civilians. The Lebanese government reported one casualty, a civilian wounded by an explosion in Sidon.

The Lebanese defense ministry reported 21 fishing boats sunk: 10 at Tyre, 10 at Sarafand and one at Sidon. An Israeli spokesman claimed about 30 were sunk, or about 10 in each port. Sidon, the northernmost target, is 30 miles south of Beirut. Tyre is 20 miles farther south, and Sarafand is midway between.

WARNING

The Palestine guerrilla headquarters in Beirut said Israeli frogmen blew up wooden jetties at Tyre, but the Israeli announcements made no mention of this.

The Israelis said the attack was made by a flotilla of gunboats but did not say how many. The Lebanese defense ministry said Israeli helicopters also dropped leaflets warning the population against cooperating with the Palestinian guerrillas.

"We are warning you," the leaflets said. "You have the choice between peace or trouble... We know that they are planning additional operations from your harbors. It is up to you."

Lebanon said its coastal artillery returned the Israeli fire and drove the gunboats back. The Palestinians said guerrillas cooperated with the Lebanese army in driving off the raiders.

In the Nahariya raid on June 24, three Arab terrorists who came down the Mediterranean coast by boat killed four Israelis in the coastal resort before they were killed. Usually the Israelis retaliate within a day or two with heavy strikes at guerrilla bases in Lebanon, but this time the strike was delayed for two weeks.

SEVERAL RAIDS

The Israeli navy has made several raids against the Lebanese coast in the past 18 months, reporting each time that Palestinian guerrilla installations were its targets.

In February 1973, Israeli gunboats, helicopters and commandos made a raid on the coast near Tripoli, 112 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border. Two months later, Israeli commandos slipped into the heart of Beirut at midnight, killed three top guerrilla leaders and blew up a terrorist headquarters and munitions plants.

After guerrillas killed 23 Israelis and wounded 73 in the village of Maalot during May, Israeli gunboats shelled the Rashidiye Palestinian refugee camp nine miles north of the border.

Customs Court Rules Nixon Overstepped His Authority

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Customs Court has ruled that President Nixon overstepped his authority in ordering a 10 per cent surcharge on dutiable imports in 1971. It said the government must refund $500 million to importers.

A Justice Department official says the decision probably will be appealed. The special three-judge Customs Court panel ruled unanimously on Monday that in imposing the surcharge Nixon "used a power beyond the scope of any authority delegated to him by the Congress."

The surcharge, designed to reverse an unfavorable balance of payments with foreign nations, was part of Nixon's Phase I economic controls and remained in effect four months. "Neither need nor national emergency will justify the exercise of a power by the Executive not inherent in his office nor delegated by the Congress," wrote Chief Judge Nils A. Boe in the main opinion.

The government has 60 days in which to file an appeal with the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals in Washington. No refunds would change hands until such an appeal is ruled on.

The surcharge was in effect from Aug. 16 to Dec. 20, 1971. It was lifted after a number of foreign countries agreed to currency adjustments that would help the United States with its balance of payments problem.

It was the Yoshida case which was decided on Monday. Although importers successfully protested to the government that they should be allowed to pass on the cost of the extra duty to consumers, the importers do not appear to be under any requirement to similarly pass along to consumers the refunds they may get, a Treasury Department spokesman said.

Chamber Directors Okay Contract For Recruiter

Chamber of Commerce directors Monday gave approval to a contract with the City of Big Spring for engaging an industrial recruiter, setting the stage for action Tuesday when the city council was scheduled to approve the matter on second reading.

Directors then excused the media representatives, and went into a closed session to discuss prospects for the posts. During the regular meeting, Tom Locke, vice president, said that preparations are under way for the regular Summer Starlight Specials Aug. 4-11. Surveys are still under way concerning a family counselling service, he added.

Pending copies of a transcript of CAB hearings here in June, there have been no briefs filed by either Big Spring-Howard County and Texas International Airlines concerning TXIA's bid to suspend service here. Clyde McMahon, vice president, reported. Don Reynolds, vice president for organizational affairs, said that effective July 15 the Chamber office will remain open during the noon hour.

Saudi-Arabian Studying Sand-Blowing Problems

How can sand be stopped from blowing? That's what Atalla Abo-Hassan is trying to find out as he visits the Big Spring Agriculture Experiment Station this week.

Abo-Hassan, a native of Saudi Arabia and a graduate student at Michigan State University, is studying the results of research conducted here in the matter of sand blowing in the USA experiment stations in Michigan and Texas.

The central part of Saudi Arabia, has a special problem with blowing sand, because sometimes the sand covers up crops, trees, and sometimes entire villages and oases.

The oases are usually below sea level where water from the mountains collects. "I learned a lot in sand fixation here at Big Spring, and I plan to use these principles and try them in Saudi Arabia when I get back home," Abo-Hassan said.

Abo-Hassan was born and raised on the West Coast town of Rabigh, on the Red Sea. Rabigh is a farming and fishing community of about 15,000 population. Crops grown there include vegetables such as beans and carrots and date palm trees.

Rabigh is about 155 kilometers north of the major port of Jidda. He said that this area is not like the hot central part of Saudi Arabia in that the temperature is around 50 degrees and the rainfall is much greater than the three or four inches per year experienced in the central desert, where the temperature sometimes soars to 115 degrees.

According to Abo-Hassan, Saudi Arabia is about one-third the size of the United States, and most of the oil is found along the Eastern Coast on the Persian Gulf.

Sandy land south of Odessa is the site of most of the sand research here while Fryrear and Abo-Hassan toured the Kermit area Tuesday morning. Abo-Hassan will leave Big Spring tonight when he flies to College Station to learn about special strains of grasses and plants developed for sandy soil.

Nixon Tackles No. 1 Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and his top economic advisers are looking toward voluntary restraints as a means of curbing inflation without tax increases or new wage-price controls.

Aides say the President is determined to seek voluntary restraints by the federal government and the public sector to battle inflation, which he considers the nation's No. 1 problem.

Nixon planned to devote much of today to a thorough review of the entire economic situation with his economic advisers, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

Summoned to a morning session at the White House with the President were Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, chief economic counselor Kenneth B. Conroy, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, Herbert Stein, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns and director of the Office of Management and Budget Roy L. Ash.

JAWBONING

White House spokesman Gerald L. Warren disclosed Monday that Rush already has embarked on a campaign of jawboning sessions with representatives of industry, labor and consumer groups to appeal for voluntary restraint.

Warren said Nixon is pursuing "with great determination" a program of restraint in federal spending and reducing the budget wherever possible.

He said the President believes it is necessary "to educate the American people" to the need for restraint in all segments of the economy to hold down inflation.

Returning to his White House desk for the first time since his Middle East and Soviet summits, Nixon got right down to domestic matters Monday. He told Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Casper Weinberger he wants to hold down federal spending and described inflation as the nation's No. 1 problem.

TAX HIKE OUT

Government figures for May, the latest available, place the inflation rate at 10.2 per cent annually. The administration has indicated it hopes to reduce this rate to 7 per cent by the end of the year.

Warren said neither a tax increase nor a return to mandatory wage-price controls is under consideration by the administration.

White House spokesmen said they do not contemplate any announcement from the White House resulting from Nixon's economic conferences today.

The President also scheduled a separate session with Simon, who leaves for the Middle East Thursday to discuss energy and economic matters there and also at meetings with finance ministers in Bonn, London and Paris afterwards.

Also on Nixon's agenda for the remainder of the week was a Cabinet meeting Wednesday and a Thursday briefing on his Soviet summit for Republican and Democratic congressional leaders.

On Friday, Ziegler said, the President will head for his California White House at San Clemente, where he will stay for about two weeks.

FALLS SHARPLY — The Dow Jones industrial average dropped sharply Monday, closing at 770.57. It last closed that low in November of 1970. Brokers said the principal depressant was the continued rise of interest rates.

Rusty Stephens Is In Hospital

Rusty was training the horse at the time and the animal spooked. The youth sustained a broken leg. His parents have been informed. Rusty will be hospitalized several weeks. His condition is regarded as "satisfactory."

Ed Foreman Lands Fed Job

DALLAS (AP) — Ed Foreman, regional administrator of the Department of Transportation and a former Republican congressman from West Texas and New Mexico, has been named chairman of the Southwest Federal Regional Council.

The council is a sub-cabinet level organization of regional federal agency heads. Foreman succeeds Arthur Busch, regional head of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Foreman, 40, was U.S. House member from Odessa, Tex., in 1963-64, and represented the Las Cruces, N.M., area in the House in 1969-70. He was appointed to his current Transportation post in 1971.

'Sacred Cow' Draws Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Monday that fixable budget cuts can be made only in defense spending and military foreign aid.

But, he said in a prepared Senate speech, the Nixon administration treats that area as a "sacred cow."

That is the reason, why Budget Director Roy Ash "is unwilling to make an all-out fight on inflation and cut the budget in the only place where big cuts can be made," Proxmire said.

He said the military and foreign military aid budgets "are the most inflationary of all spending because they produce goods or services which satisfy shortages or human needs."

Of the $305 billion budget for the new fiscal year, Proxmire said only $84.4 billion is listed as "controllable" and $58.5 billion of that is for the military.

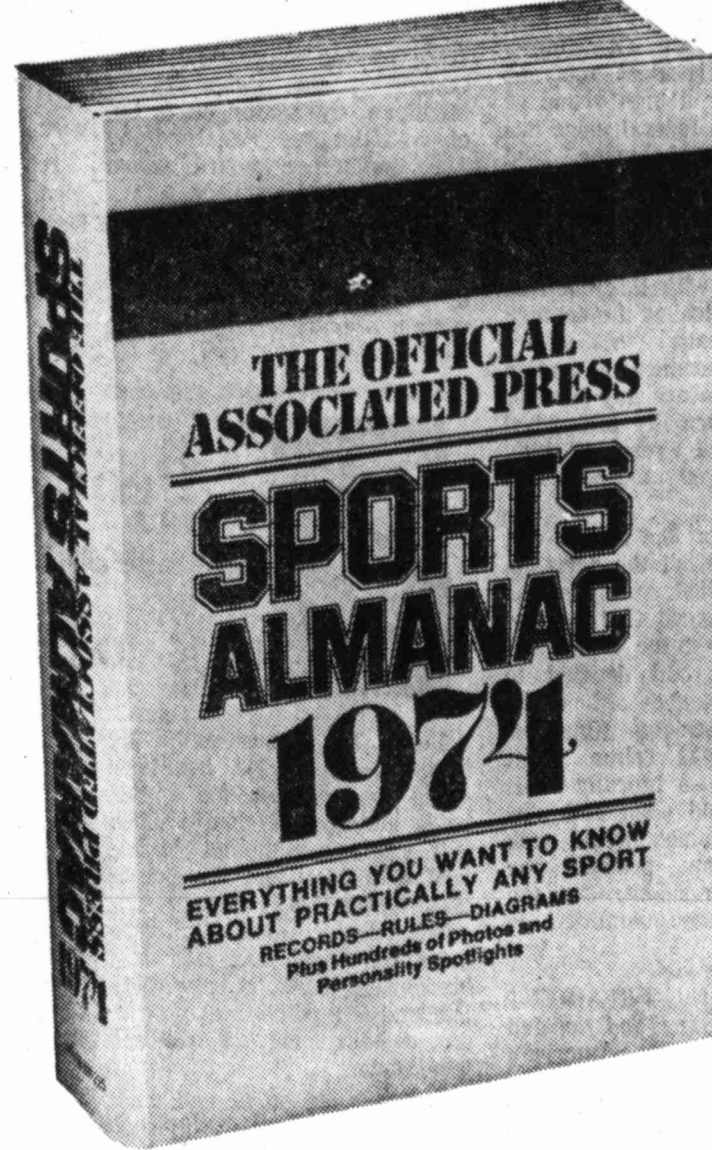

"The failure to cut the budget means that rampaging inflation will continue and that the heavy burdens already placed on the old, the poor, working men and women, and those on fixed incomes will increase," he said.

No Party Line

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Austria has its first non-Socialist president since World War II. Rudolf Kirchschlaeger, 59, was sworn in Monday as the Austrian head of state. Although he was the Socialist party candidate, he is not a member of the party and said in his inaugural he would follow no party line in the presidency.

Old Theory Takes Beating

It's time the Federal Reserve Board had a soul-searching concerning its hoary theory that tight money puts the brake on inflation.

In the past, the FED has favored a program of pinching the money supply through the simple expedient of higher interest rates. The theory was that this would cause borrowers to back off, thus slowing economic activity. This would, by means of reducing the bidding for goods, stabilize prices. Like a master musician administering just the right nuance, the FED was to relax its pinch, freeing money to bid for the increased supply of goods.

A neat piece of financial orchestration — if it works.

But there are signs that this no longer works. Like a lot of honored axioms, the policy has come in for a beating. Today, instead of backing off, borrowers seem to take the view that they had better borrow now, because tomorrow the rates will be higher. They may be right; already the prime rate has hit an unbelievable 12 per cent.

This has, according to theory, driven out part of the market, but only that part which most needs encouragement. The big corporations and commercial enterprises have been able to go ahead by immediately passing on the increase in the form of price increases. Not so the humble would-be homeowner, who finding it not prohibitive especially on top of staggering building costs.

In Texas, where the maximum interest is 10 per cent for individuals, the FED policy has made it more and more difficult for the individual to get loans. Except for a sense of public service in taking care of individual customers, they could do a lot better just loaning to commercial banks and similar clients.

Obviously, the old FED theory needs a prompt reappraisal. It may be that easier money might stimulate the flow of goods faster and thus provide a measure of relief tight money is failing to give.

If Not—Who Will?

An agreement has been reached by the House Commerce Committee which would allow the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency to initiate civil suits when a state fails to take action against a drinking water safety violator.

The compromise came out of an earlier version which would have allowed the EPA administrator to intervene directly in drinking water cases.

It must have been a strange argument indeed to produce this compromise. What is ominous is the suggestion that federal intervention is necessary because state and local agencies may not act to correct the purity of drinking water supplies.

This is a classical answer to states righters who complain repeatedly of the growing power of the federal government and the intervention of the federal government in local affairs. If state and local governments will not protect their citizens, then what will they do?

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

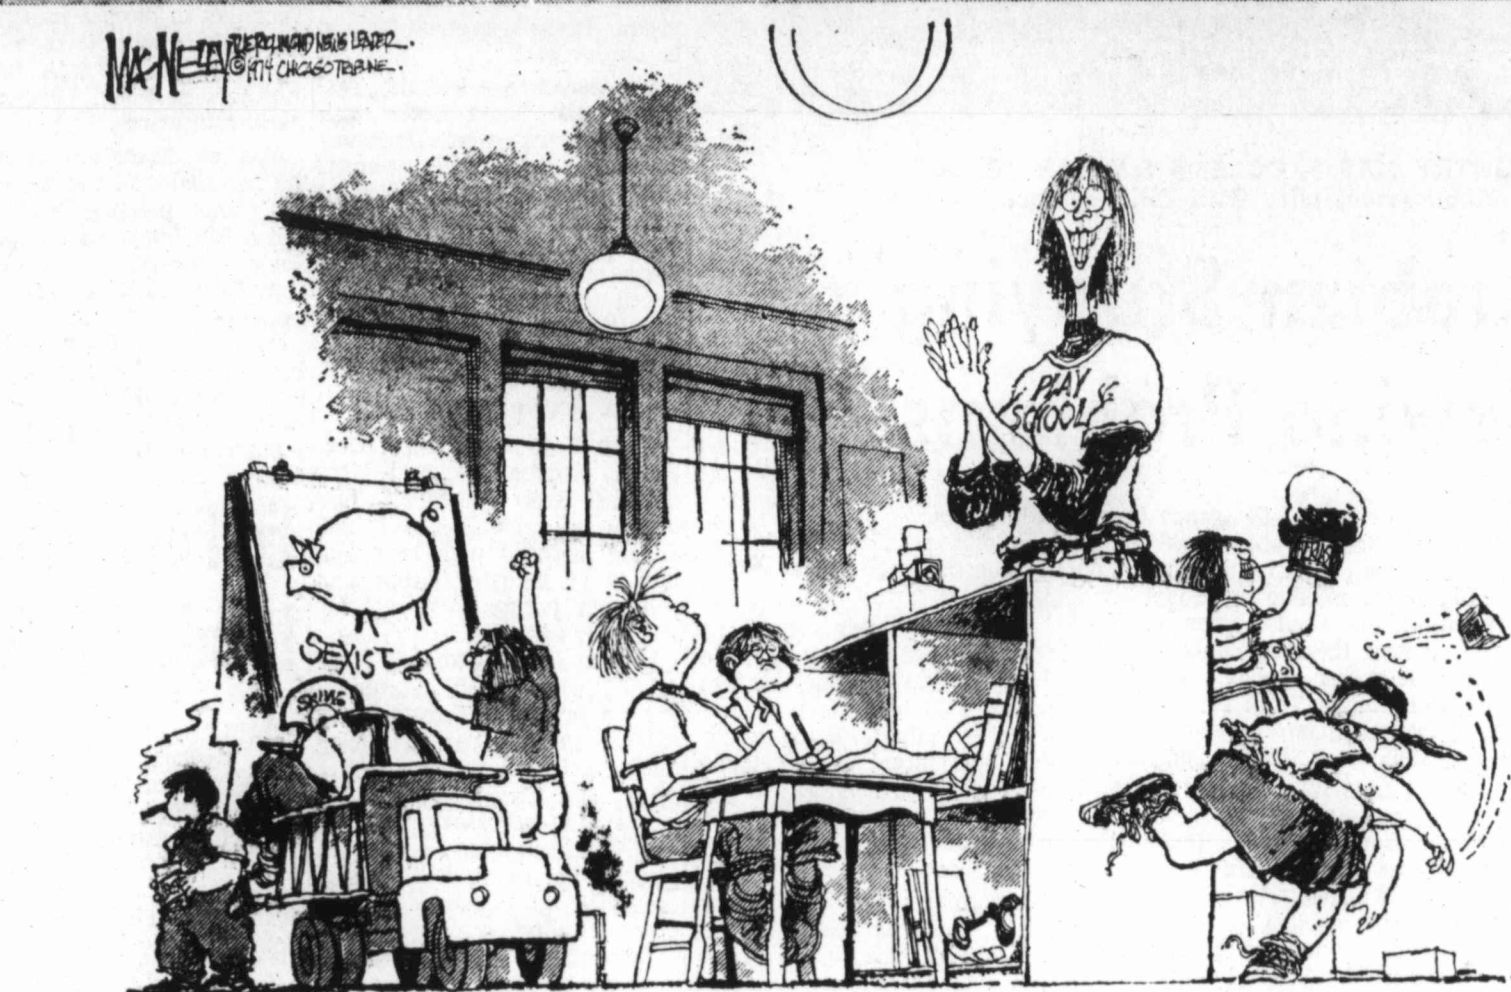

My two sons have me confused. One is a Baptist and the other Pentecostal. The first says I'm not a Christian unless I go to the front of the church and make a confession. The other says I need to get the Holy Spirit and speak in tongues. I want to think I'm going to heaven — but this talk bothers me.

J.B. I'm glad you're bothered enough to check out your confusion. Some find the religious scene so complicated that they are stunned into immobility. This is a tragedy.

Actually, the definition of a Christian is easy. But more is needed than the dictionary explanation of "an adherent of Christianity." It really means a person who having repented of sins, makes a personal commitment of life to Christ — as the Son of God and Savior of the world.

I'd be interested in the views of your sons on the thief who was crucified with Christ (Luke 23) because if any ritual, if any special evidence of God's Spirit was necessary, he would never have made paradise. Apparently, without the benefit of anything but his personal faith he was assured salvation.

I must say though, I don't like the shaky and indefinite expression of yours, "I want to think I'm going

Widespread Lack Of Faith

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The surveys of consumer sentiment suggest that you are mired in pessimism about the economy and entangled in a dilemma over how to handle your personal finances.

You might say it doesn't take a survey to convey this truth to you — that you could pick up the same results in a few minutes at a supermarket checkout counter. Quite likely you are correct.

But it is the professional surveys, by the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, by Sindinger & Co. of Swarthmore, Pa., and by The Conference Board which have the wide audience.

The surveys show, among other things, that you the consumer are struggling to make your mind about whether to remain entrenched, saving what money you can, or to spend now to avoid still higher prices later.

During past periods of consumer pessimism, the Survey Research Center explains, opinions about spending also were unfavorable. People became aware that the rainy day might be just around the corner, and they saved for it.

This behavioral pattern helped explain in part the curious proliferation of bank outlets on almost every corner in some areas of cities while others of almost every other sort were complaining about poor business.

Anyone knows who has seen his favorite restaurant dispossessed by another pennant-waving, gift-giving savings bank, that tendency still persists. But it is being offset to some degree by the buy-in-advance psychology.

In May, for example, the Survey Research Center found that 40 per cent of respondents said it was a good time to buy large household goods, while only 22 per cent said it was a poor time to buy.

The percentages do not total 100 per cent because some respondents answered "don't know" and some gave answers that fit neither yes or no categories.

Behind the buy-now thrust is the growing cynicism of many Americans who feel that little economic good can come to them by practicing the old-fashioned virtue of thrift so long as prices continue to rise. And they believe they will rise.

New Soviet Problem

Robert Novak

MOSCOW — A somber new fact of Soviet life, which President Nixon and his aides subtly blended into their private conversations with Soviet leaders, is beginning to worry the Kremlin more than ever before: the continuing economic drain of weapons spending.

ALTHOUGH PRESIDENT Nixon failed to make the breakthrough he wanted on control of runaway nuclear arms costs, he and his aides quietly hammered away at this theme: if the arms race isn't stopped, the Kremlin must increase even further the fat slice of the budget pie going to defense (now between 25 and 30 per cent of the gross national product).

That would destroy for a long time to come the Soviet rationale for détente: more consumer goods, decent housing in smaller cities and the countryside, and a workable civilian technology.

PRESSURE FROM the Soviet brass for continued high arms spending, particularly from Gen. Vladimir Kulikov, armed forces chief, was intense during the summit. Kulikov and other senior military leaders were far more restrained in dealing with the Americans than party leader Leonid Brezhnev.

St. Claire's Doctrine

William F. Buckley Jr.

By almost everybody's accounting, Mr. James St. Clair is doing a masterful job in handling the affairs of Mr. Nixon, and when they get around to talk of impeaching me, I shall call Mr. St. Clair forthwith. He is the advocate par excellence, he has succeeded in dividing the Judiciary Committee of the House, in getting courts and judges and defense attorneys working at feverish levels and for cross-purposes, while dispatching his client to glamorous foreign capitals to receive the tribute of the multitudes who gaze incredulously at the commotion back in Washington wondering how Americans can be so provincial as toicker among themselves about humdrum things when the real world of oil prices, belly dancers, and missile warheads should be engrossing us.

QUITE A PERFORMANCE, as I say. But there is something that is slowly coming out of it which for convenience one might call the St. Clair Doctrine. It does not of course originate with him, but it is the thrust of his arguments. Most succinctly stated, it is this: that a President of the United States cannot be removed from office unless he commits a crime. The same kind of crime which, if you or I committed it, would land us in jail. All the engines of historical and analytical argumentation concern toward that conclusion: unless the President has committed a high crime and misdemeanor, he must be left alone.

That doctrine is spreading very fast. The other day vice-president Ford was asked, no doubt for the one hundredth time, why it was that only two years ago when in hot pursuit of Associate Justice Douglas of the Supreme Court whom Ford sought to impeach, he had said that an impeachable offense was whatever the House considered to be an impeachable offense. "I'm glad you asked me that question," he said smiling. "You see, the Constitution specifies that a President may be impeached only for a high crime or misdemeanor, but a federal judge has office during 'good behavior,' and obviously somebody has to decide what good behavior consists in: to wit: the Congress."

THE TROUBLE with this doctrine is of course that it leaves the country without the means to assure responsible self-government in certain contingencies. There are any number of activities, not formally proscribed by the law, which a President could legally undertake at indescribable cost to the republic.

Let us take one, at the absurd end of the scale, to test out the doctrine. Suppose the President woke up one morning and announced that he was feeling so good about the world and human nature, he had decided to commute the sentences of every single American serving time for committing a federal crime. What would then happen — literally — is that the doors would open and tens of thousands of criminals would walk out into the streets, praising the greening of the President. But the President would have committed no crime — none at all.

SUPPOSED THE PRESIDENT woke the next morning and decided that the whole of the American military establishment should move to southern Florida, to guard against — oh — the possibility of renewed Cuban hostilities. The President, as the Commander-in-Chief, has that authority — to move every battleship, division, bazooka, PX, into southern Florida.

People Do Get The Gout

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

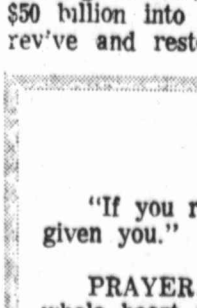

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband, in his 30s, has been going to a doctor for a bad back, and recently had a blood test. The report showed his uric acid was 14, while the doctor claims even 8 is high.

The doctor also says the condition, which has settled in his lower back, is gout. My husband is now on a very strict diet to help bring the uric acid level down.

Can gout be cured and what dangers are involved with such a high level? I have been told by hearsay it can be dangerous to the heart, liver and kidneys. Is this true? — Mrs. D. O.

For whatever reason, a great many folks assume that gout is something somebody else will get — so forget it. But people do get gout, and when they do they suddenly want to know about it. That's why I have a booklet, "Gout, The Modern Way to Stop It." I suggest that you send 25 cents and a long stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy.

Briefly, some folks just don't eliminate as much uric acid as they should. Sooner or later this results in the formation of tophi, or crystals, in various joints, and they can be mighty painful. The stereotyped notion of gout is that of a retired, testy British general with his foot propped up and bandaged. The only correct aspect of that picture is that big toe is the joint most frequently attacked by gout. But gout can cause trouble in any joint in the body, including the back, although that is not so common.

Postman Finds New Compost

BRADFORD England (AP) — A Bradford postman decided to save time on his morning rounds by burying part of the mail in his back garden, a magistrate's court was told. The prosecutor said the letters seemed to have formed a "new type of compost."

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of his booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Texas Cavalcade

Around The Rim

JULY IS not the ideal time for traveling, what with hot, sticky weather and resort areas crowded with family vacationers. Yet there is no reason to give up short holidays that are refreshing. Get an early start while the air is fresh, and return in the cool of the evening. Harken to the Texas Highway Department which urges "Take less of a trip and more of a vacation."

There are things going on in Texas you may not want to miss. Here's what's happening:

IF YOU LIKE the atmosphere of San Antonio, you can enjoy the Fiesta Noche del Rio every Tuesday, Friday and Saturday through Aug. 31, or, if you'd rather be entertained in cool comfort, the Shakespeare Festival at the G.C. of the Southwest Theatre, Odessa, will continue through Aug. 25. At Canyon, "Texas," a musical drama by Paul Green, will continue nightly except Sundays in Palo Duro Canyon. For the rest of the month, Arlington's Six Flags Over Texas will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

THERE WILL be Historical Homes Tours at Galveston July 12, 19 and 26, as well as municipal band concerts

July 16, 23 and 30. In that general area, at Port Aransas, the 38th annual Deep Sea Round-up ends July 11 and, at Corpus Christi, the Texas Jazz Festival plus an Antique Gun Show is slated July 13-14. Bayou Bend Museum at Houston will hold open house July 14.

LOOKS LIKE a big blow-out at Lampasas July 11-14, cause that's when they've scheduled a "Spring Ho" festival including arts and crafts fair, flea market, street dance, antique car show, parade, historical tour, fiddler's contest and even a Charleston dance contest.

I DON'T know what a "Great Country Roundhouse Jamboree" is — but it sounds intriguing — and it's on tap at San Antonio July 11, 18 and 25. If it's a dud, you might mosey on over to "A Night in Old Fredericksburg" July 20. There's a Continental Antique Show in Amarillo July 12-14, and a Texas Model A Tour at Abilene July 18-20.

FOR THE next week or so, the rest of the coming events calendar is filled with rodeos and, if you're a member of the horsey set, you know where they are.

Missing Luggage

Art Buchwald

PARIS — One of the biggest problems of air travel is getting your luggage back at the end of the trip. For some reason more luggage is being lost now than ever before, and it's quite a headache for the airlines — not to mention the people who are flying.

WHAT MAKES THE whole thing mysterious is that if you're traveling with your wife the airlines somehow manages to only lose HER bags, the ones she absolutely needs if she is going to survive the trip.

There isn't a husband who has ever flown by air who hasn't faced this situation.

YOU GET OFF the plane dog tired and wait at the baggage gate. The carousel keeps turning and turning with everyone's luggage. You have all your bags in a matter of minutes.

Your wife gets all her bags except for one — the large garment bag with all her dresses, costume jewelry and underthings. You wait an hour staring at the carousel, she finally speaks to you, "They lost my bag!"

"What are you going to do about it?" she says, her lips pursed as if she's going to let out a scream.

"I AM GOING to do something about it," you say, knowing in your heart there isn't a damn thing you can do. You go up to a man in uniform. "See here, sir," you say in your sternest voice. "You people have lost my wife's bag."

The man looks surprised. "I'm sorry, I'm the pilot of the plane."

THERE IS ANOTHER official

looking man with a badge on his chest. "Sir," you say, "your people have committed one of the gravest crimes known to tourism. You have lost the luggage of an honest woman. Unless you produce my wife's bag in the next 30 minutes I shall have to report you to the president of your company."

"I'm a customs inspector," the man replies.

Your wife who is over in the corner twisting her handkerchief asks, "What did they say?"

"I'm narrowing it down," you say.

YOU ARE DIRECTED to a counter where one lone clerk is trying to cope with a large crowd of angry husbands. It is obviously the lost-luggage counter because all the women are huddled nearby wailing and tearing their clothes.

The clerk, hired for his masochistic tendencies, is smiling as he fills out long sheets of paper taking descriptions of the lost bags.

You get to the counter and ask the stupidest question any air traveler can pose: "Where is my wife's bag?"

The masochist smiles "New Delhi, Bali, Rio De Janeiro. It could be anywhere."

"What are we supposed to do now?" "WHY DON'T you go to your hotel and get a good night's sleep? If we find your luggage, we'll have it delivered."

"Supposed it's never found?"

"Then you can come back here and I'll fill out another form."

Canadian Voters Sweep Trudeau Back Into Power

TORONTO (AP) — Canadian voters swept Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's ruling Liberal Party back into power in a smashing victory that gave him a solid majority in the House of Commons and the prospect of five more years in the office he has held since April 1968.

In a low-key victory statement, Trudeau said Canada had elected a strong government in an uncertain world. "Canada has come out of this election strong and confident in its future," he declared. "I'm very anxious to get on with the job."

While the Liberals swept the East, the Conservatives maintained their strength in the West, and Trudeau said he regretted this geographical division. He renewed his pledge that federal policies will be applied fairly in the West.

BIG UPSET
The Liberals have controlled the government since 1963, and this was the third Conservative defeat since Stanfield became party leader. There was widespread speculation that the party would replace him, but he refused to discuss his future. "We fought a good, hard campaign," said the 60-year-old opposition leader in conceding defeat. "We put the issues clearly before the people as we saw them. . . . My party will be strong in the House of Commons and will continue to serve the interests of Canada."

LOST GROUND
The other three parties lost ground badly. Robert Stanfield's Progressive Conservatives won 95 seats, a loss of 17. The New Democrats dropped from 31 to 16, and party leader David Lewis lost his own seat in Parliament. The Social Credit party dropped from 15 seats to 12, and one independent was elected.

Agnew Asked Embassies To Cancel Appointments

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department spokesman Spiro T. Agnew while traveling in the Middle East this spring asked U.S. embassies to cancel appointments and make other arrangements because of his wife's illness.

Agnew's wife Judy underwent a hysterectomy May 2 and was hospitalized with complications later that month while Agnew was touring the Middle East. Agnew resigned as vice president last Oct. 10 and pleaded no contest to income tax evasion. He subsequently was disbarred as a lawyer in Maryland.

$6,892,999 School Budget Tentatively Okayed Here

The Big Spring school board approved re-roofing Airport and Washington Elementary Schools and patching up Cedar Crest roof after hearing the lone bid at their meeting Monday night.

The board also spent some time eyeing financial figures and authorized Don Crockett, assistant superintendent of business to again approach other governmental agencies concerning the possibility of re-evaluating all property, which is now on a 1968 evaluation.

The tentative 1974-75 budget was approved with a public hearing scheduled to be held Aug. 12 at 5:15 p.m. at the next regular meeting of the school board.

GM Layoff For Week

ARDINGTON, Tex. (AP) — About 3,700 workers at the General Motors assembly plant here received notice Monday of a one-week layoff because of a shortage of automobile frames.

The spokesman blamed the shortage on a strike at Hayes-Dana Co. of Canada, the supplier.

He said the layoff would be for a single week, adding, "In that time, if the Hayes-Dana strike is not settled, we can fill the gap with other suppliers."

COLSON PRISON BOUND Expresses Gratitude For American People

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House special counsel Charles W. Colson expressed "a deep sense of gratitude" for the American people as he headed off to prison, totting two Bibles.

Colson said his testimony would involve President Nixon but offered no details other than to say he would talk about their relationship, "which was and is very close."

It's All Over, Perry Loses To Oakland

"It's all over."

The speaker was Gaylor Perry and those three little words told the whole story of Monday night's heartbreaking 4-3 10-inning loss to the Oakland A's after the Cleveland Indians' right-hander came within two outs of tying the American League record of 16 consecutive pitching victories.

Elsewhere, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the California Angels 6-5, the Kansas City Royals blanked the Boston Red Sox 5-0, the Minnesota Twins downed the Detroit Tigers 6-2, the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Chicago White Sox 6-5 in 12 innings and the New York Yankees trounced the Texas Rangers 12-5.

"It's all over."

There wasn't much else a dejected Perry could say. He blew a 3-2 lead with one out in the ninth inning when Joe Rudi tripled and Gene Tenace, who had tagged him for a two-run homer in the second inning, delivered the tying run with a sacrifice fly.

Perry allowed six hits, struck out 13 and walked only two, but one was to pinch hitter Pat Bourque, leading off the 10th. Pinch runner John "Blue Moon" Odom got around to third on a sacrifice and an infield out and designated hitter Claudell Washington, a 19-year-old rookie starting his first major league game, drilled a slider through the left side of the Cleveland infield for a single and the winning run.

It was Perry's second loss and his first since opening day.

Perry was trying to match the 16-win record set by Walter Johnson and Smoky Joe Wood in 1912 and equaled by Lefty Grove in 1931 and Schoolboy Rowe in 1934.

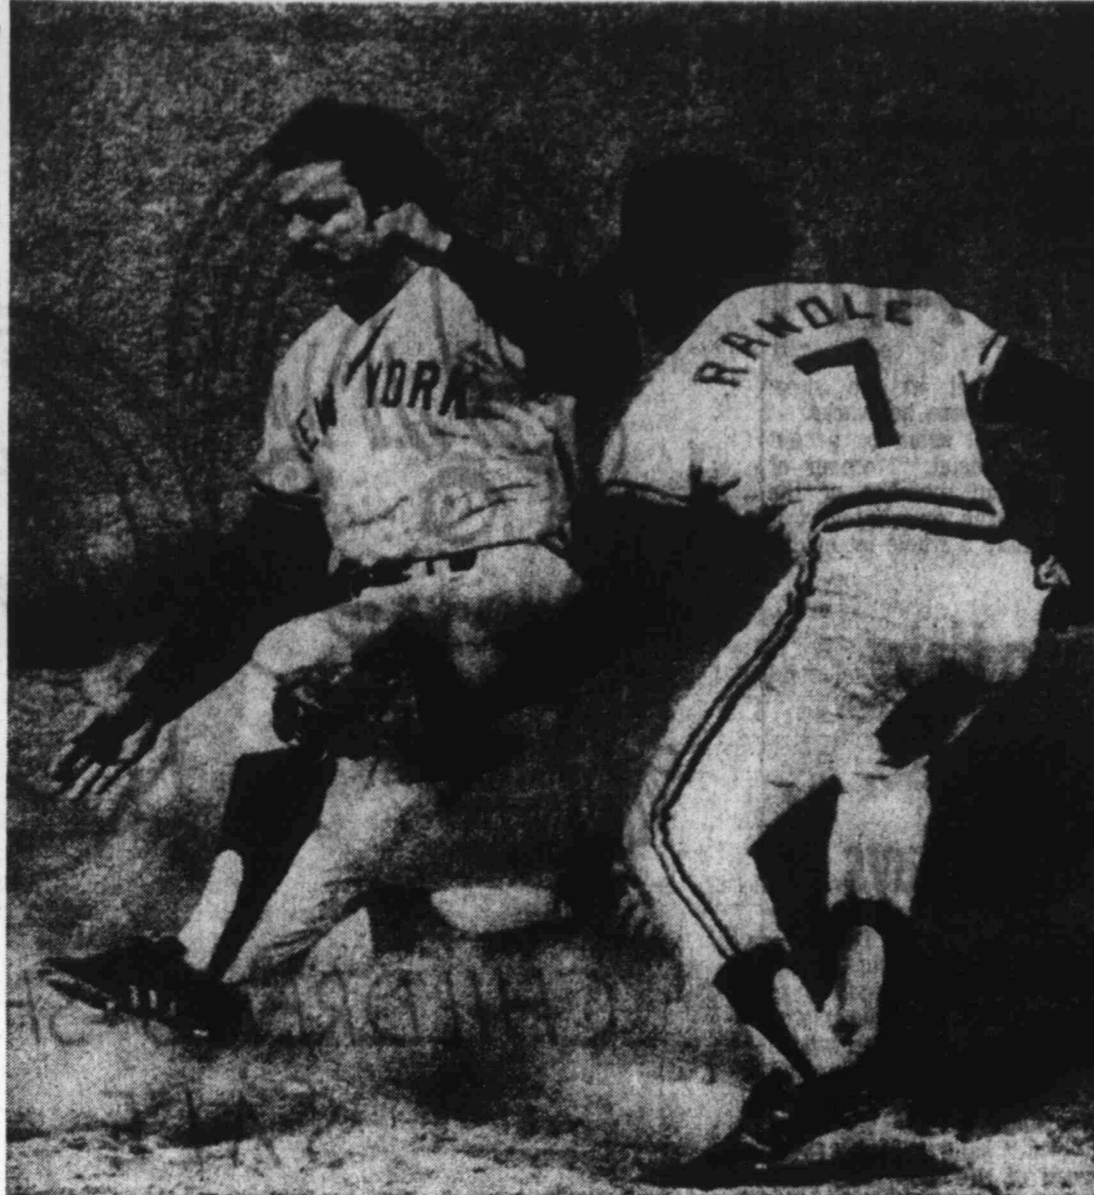

Orioles 6, Angels 5
Baltimore erupted for five first-inning runs and used Wayne Garland's 4-1-3 innings of hitless relief to send the skidding Angels to their ninth consecutive defeat and eighth under Manager Dick Williams.

Royals 5, Red Sox 0
Steve Busby shut out slumping Boston on three hits and Tony Solta slammed a three-run double.

Twins 6, Tigers 2
Eric Soderholm's two-run homer highlighted Minnesota's four-run second inning against Woodie Fryman. That was enough for Bert Blyleven, who checked the Tigers on seven hits.

Brewers 6, White Sox 5
Mike Hegan's two-run pinch homer in the 12th inning off reliever Stan Bahnsen lifted the Brewers to victory.

Yankees 12, Rangers 5
Chris Chambliss ripped a three-run double, Bobby Murcer drove in three more with a homer and an infield out and Dick Woodson pitched 5 2/3 shutout innings of relief for New York.

DOUBLE DIDN'T STRETCH — New York Yankees' designated hitter Ron Blomberg is tagged out at third in the sixth inning of the game last night by Texas Rangers third baseman Lenny Randle. Blomberg hit a double down the right field line and tried to stretch it into a triple.

IN WFL OPENER WEDNESDAY

Texans Play With Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — The World Football League makes its debut in one of the pioneer cities of the venerable National Football League Wednesday night when the Chicago Fire encounters the Houston Texans in a matchup of unknown quantities.

The Fire, unveiling quarterback Virgil Carter, a onetime Chicago Bear, as a chief attraction, faces a Houston club with 31 players of varying NFL experience before an expected 35,000 at Soldier Field.

Soldier Field also is the home of the Bears, who customarily pack a capacity 55,000 into the huge lakefront stadium, good season or bad. The Bears began operations here in the early 1920s and have reigned as the city's lone pro team since the cross-town Chicago Cardinals moved to St. Louis in 1960.

Carter, the first name NFL player to jump to the WFL, performed for the Bears in the late 1960s and was handled his walking papers after his famed chicken-bleep blasting of club management. Carter hit an NFL peak for the Cincinnati Bengals in 1971, leading the league in completion percentage after the season, before pacing the Bengals to the playoffs.

Beyond the sharp passing Carter, the Fire has limited talents including such former NFL performers as wide receiver Jim Seymour, offensive tackle Steve Wright, running back Mark Kellar, the 1973 NCAA rushing champion from Northern Illinois University, and punter Chuck Ramsey of Wake Forest, top college booter in 1973 with a 44.8 yard average.

The top Fire rushing threat, however, is pro-versus Cyril Pinder, who touched NFL bases with the Philadelphia Eagles, Bears and Dallas Cowboys.

Houston brings a club which may start fast in the Infant WFL, with Coach Jim Garrett, a former New York Giants and Eagles fullback, assembling a fairly well seasoned squad.

The Texans include such NFL groomed performers as Jim Nance, Jim Kanicki, Al Dotson, Warren Wells, Garland Boyette, Don Brumm, Joe Robb, Don Trull and Mike Talianero.

Garrett is most concerned about his offensive line.

"It's not that we're not capable there—I just wish we were deeper," said Garrett.

Although Fire Coach Jim Spavital has concentrated on offense during the one month alloted him to assemble a pro club, his team failed to score in two game-type scrimmages with the WFL's Detroit Wheels.

Spavital, coming to the Fire after four seasons directing Winniepee in the Canadian Football League, suffered a sharp blow when Glenn Robinson, a touted defensive end from Oklahoma State, was lost because of knee surgery.

Spavital, who ran a rugged training camp, said of Houston's personnel, "I've heard of most of them. And that's about all any WFL coach can know about his opponent at this point."

Fire owner Tom Orger, wealthy Chicago builder, admitted "For a while I was worried Houston wouldn't even have a team. Now, they could be one of the toughest teams in the league in the early part of the season."

AS ROOKIE-LABOR EXPERT SEES IT

Players Union Is In Bind

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — If there is one thing which Doug Allen understands more than football, it is strikes.

If you're confused by the issues involved in the National Football League players strike, you're not alone. Allen doesn't completely understand them, either.

Allen was a star linebacker last season on Penn State's unbeaten, untied football team. He was a second-round draft choice of the NFL's Buffalo Bills.

Since Allen was graduated in December, he has worked for the AFL-CIO in Harrisburg, Pa., using his degree in labor relations.

Despite his labor education and his AFL-CIO experience, Allen admits he's confused by the NFL-Players confrontation.

"As I see it," Allen says, "the Players Association is caught in a bind. It's trying to act like a tough, unified, militant union like the Steelworkers, the Auto Workers or the CIO in the 1930s.

"They're trying to come up with an individual solution to a fantasy world problem. Most pro sports are more or less a diversion to most of the guys. They know that the average career is something like four or five years."

Another problem, he says, is communications: "It's tough to communicate when you have a bargaining unit which is spread out all over the country, and only has a few thousand people involved. And that number changes from year to year."

And what's more, the Players Association has never acted like a real union. It can't until it eliminates the individual contract. Until that happens it won't be like the steelworkers, who say they're going to shut down the plant."

Allen says the rookies are in a tough position, caught between the Players Association, which has to keep the rookies out to make the strike effective and the rookies' desire to make the team.

... And there's something else to consider," he adds. "A lot of rookies who got bonuses for signing are under obligation to report... on time.

"If they don't, the club is not legally obliged to pay the bonuses. Quite a few of the rookies who got bonuses have already spent all or part of it, which means if they don't report to camp, they'd be forced to pay back money they've already spent. It puts us between the rock and the hard place, especially the ones who are married and have a family."

AN EMPTY FEELING — New York Jets equipment manager Bill Hampton lays out the uniforms of Jets' star quarterback Joe Namath Monday in the empty locker room of the training camp at Hofstra University in Hempstead, N.Y. The gesture was probably futile, as Namath is expected to support the strike called by the National Football League Players Association. The Jets' rookies are slated to report Tuesday, and management is counting on them to be in uniform to start the training camp.

Kiwaniis Unbeaten, Angels Win East

The Hi-Junior Kiwanis won their fourteenth straight game without a defeat, the Sophomore Angels won the Eastern Division and the Rebels scored a victory in Monday night action in Teen Baseball.

Dick Battle pitched his seventh win in seven decisions as he shut out the Optimist team 8-0 allowing only two hits. He struck out 10 batters.

Noel Hull was the losing pitcher.

Pat Carroll slugged a double for the Kiwanis and Mike Warren and Battle each hit two base hits for the Kiwanis.

The win upheld the Kiwanis' record to a 14-0 mark while the Optimists were dropped to a 1-13 mark.

The Saunders Angels committed no errors enroute to a 16-6 win over the Red Sox in Sophomore action as Javier Hernandez tipped his record to a 1-1 mark and the Angels an 11-1 mark.

Hernandez struck out nine batters and hit two doubles in the winning effort. Ysa Rubio also hit a double for the Angels and Paul Spence and James Dunbar hit doubles for the Red Sox.

The ABC Rebels scored a 9-4 decision over the Giants in Sophomore action, all they really needed for the win.

Randy Crockett was the winning pitcher, scattering six hits.

Mike Egan, Randy Crockett and Danny Richards each hit two or more hits for the Rebels while Roy Don Beauchamp hit twice for the Giants.

Oilers Waive 22 Players

Twenty-two players were missing from Monday's 90-minute workout, including line-backer Rickey Brown, a 12th round draft choice from the University of Florida.

Although Oiler officials did not announce it officially, it was presumed all have been waived.

A few veterans continued to picket Monday outside the practice fields during the Monday workouts.

Rookie quarterback Vidal Carlin said he sympathizes with the National Football League Players Association strike and may honor its request to boycott this year's exhibition season.

"Personally, I think there will be an exhibition season," he said. "I think it will be resolved quicker than both sides anticipate."

Griffith Gets Tenth Win

Astros Belt Cards 4-1

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher Tom Griffin has his 10th victory but he says it didn't come as easy as it might appear.

The Astros sparked by Doug Raider's two-run home run and some fine defensive play, defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-1, Monday night.

Griffin, who has lost only three times this year, scattered nine hits for the victory. The Cardinals' ace righthander, Lynn McGlothen, trying to join Los Angeles' Tommy Johns as a 13 game winner, was dealt his fourth defeat.

"I didn't have my good stuff and I had to battle," Griffin said.

Rader's ninth home run, a two-run blast off McGlothen, put the Astros ahead 2-1 in the fifth. Houston added two more in the eighth on Roger Metzger's triple, singles by Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson, a fly ball and Milt May's infield hit.

The Cards scored their lone run in the first inning on a walk and singles by Ted Simmons and Joe Torre.

Houston outfielder Greg Gross turned in a fine defensive play in the fifth inning. He nailed Lou Brock at the plate to complete a double play.

Simmons hit a fly ball to Gross in medium right field and Brock tagged at third base and attempted to score after the catch. The Astro rookie caught the ball and fired in almost one motion and catcher Milt May made an excellent play at the plate.

"That was a super throw," said Griffin. "After Brock was tagged out, I threw hard and really felt built up after that."

Metzger also made a great play behind the shortstop fielder Reggie Smith's grounder on the second base side and threw him out in the seventh.

"That kept them from scoring, just like Gross' play," said Houston Manager Preston Gomez.

Rader said the ball he hit off McGlothen for the home run was a fast ball.

"It was a fastball, a bad one," said Rader. He threw me two strikes on breaking balls and probably tried to waste the ball inside and it didn't get in. He just made a mistake."

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Montreal Expos 5-4 in 10 innings, the Atlanta Braves blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-0, the New York Mets edged the San Diego

Tiger-Cubs Belt Abilene 10-3

The Big Spring Tiger-Cubs extended their winning streak to four straight wins with a 10-3 win over the Abilene Eagles here in Steer Park Sunday as Ishmael Hernandez was the winning pitcher.

Ernest Garcia and Ismael Paradez each hit back to back triples in the sixth inning to add the final two runs for the Tiger-Cubs.

Hernandez, the winning pitcher, struck out eight Abilene batters and only gave up five hits in the contest.

The Tiger-Cubs will try to extend their win streak to five games in a row Sunday when they will take on the Big Spring Cardinals at Steer Park.

The Tiger-Cubs are now 4-4 for the season.

CREDITS DALE CARNEGIE COURSE

Youngest Dragon Of Them All

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Dimmie Johnson is the youngest Grand Dragon ever elected by the Ku Klux Klan and the 19-year-old Houston man says he owes it all to a Dale Carnegie Course he took.

Johnson, a Houston machinist, said the Carnegie course "has really helped me in the Klan work. I've shown a great improvement."

FIERY KNIGHTS

He was elected Grand Dragon of the Texas Fiery Knights of the Ku Klux Klan at a meeting Sunday in Dallas. Johnson beat out two other men for the job, which makes him the number two man in the Fiery Knights.

Johnson said he has been in the KKK about a year and is anxious to use his new position to improve the image of the organization.

"Our major problem in public relations is the image of the Klan," he said in a telephone interview. "We're trying to stay away from this violent sort of thing. Every now and then we get somebody in who wants this violence thing, but I don't know anybody in it now who believes that way although we're not going to be pushed around by other people."

WHITE RACIST

Johnson said he's the only member of his family in the Klan and his parents "are not used to the idea."

He joined, he said, "because I'm a white racist and I believe in the separation of the races and I believe the Klan is the best way of achieving that goal."

The Klan election won't be his last effort in politics, Johnson hopes.

"I'm planning on running for political office one day, probably as a state legislator," he said. "I don't know if the Klan will help or not."

SHOULDN'T MIX

The new Klan officer said the thing that worries him most is the "mongrelization of the races." His reading of the works of Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin, he said, illustrates to him that races shouldn't mix in society. The Fiery Knights of Texas was organized last year and is not affiliated with the larger United Ku Klux Klan. The founder and Imperial Wizard of the Fiery Knights, Scott Neison of Houston, estimates the membership at about 200.

Johnson, who is a bachelor, said his active membership in the Klan hasn't affected his personal life, although he notes, "I don't find many girls who think as I do on this. A girl won't expand on racist ideas as readily as a man will."

He said some Klan members have had troubles with their employers, but there's been no noticeable effect at the sheet metal firm where he works. "People just seem to accept it," said Johnson. "Member of the Klan, or member of the Baptist Church or whatever, it doesn't make a whole lot of difference."

Lamesan Wins Tractor Pull

The first West Texas Tractor Pull of the season was held in Snyder July 4.

Dale Truitt of Lamesa won first place in the 12,000 pound turbo class with his John Deere 4320. Derwood Blagrove of Ackerly won second with his International Harvester 1466 and Charley Anderson of Dawson County placed third with his Massey Ferguson 1130.

In the 15,000 lb. turbo class, Blagrove won first with his IH 1466 with a Snyder man placing second and Rex Sumrow of Lamesa third with a John Deere 4630.

Blagrove's entry also won first in the 18,000 lb. turbo class. His International 1206 was also the winning entry in the 9,000 lb. open event while an Oklahoma man was second and Rex Thomas of Lamesa placed third with a John Deere 4020.

The next tractor pull is in San Angelo July 13-14 at the fairgrounds. There will be one in Lamesa July 20 at the rodeo grounds.

mer crops, meaning that some favorites such as sweet corn and cucumber will be in shorter supply over the next three months.

The Agriculture Department says those producers expect to have 360,150 acres for harvest during July, August and September. That is down 2 per cent from 368,000 acres harvested last summer.

A report issued Monday showed the broccoli harvest in California, for example, will be down 47 per cent from last year. In June, an earlier report said, the farm price of broccoli—from producing during the spring—soared to a record high of $19.90 per 100 pounds. A year earlier the vegetable averaged $15.50 per 100 pounds.

The summer crop of sweet corn is expected to be harvested from 106,900 last year. Excessive rainfall has been a problem in some areas, the report said.

Other crop acreages expected to be down from last summer include carrots, celery, cucumbers, escarole, spinach and tomatoes. But increases are indicated for snap beans, cabbage, cauliflower, eggplant, lettuce and green peppers, officials said.

And for melon eaters, more bad news: The total summer acreages for cantelopes, watermelons and honeydew melons will be 198,000 acres, down 15 per cent from last year.

Long Hair Red Curse, Pastor Says

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Long hair on Christian youths represents a Communist curse on this country, says the pastor of a Baptist church whose members cut boys' hair and lengthen girls' dresses.

"We stand up for what the Lord said," said the Rev. Gene Hobgood of Highway 70 Baptist Church, an independent congregation.

In accordance with their beliefs, members of the church have been cutting boys' hair and lengthening girls' dresses for about a year, he said.

The Rev. Mr. Hobgood said, however, that after parents complained over an unauthorized haircut given their 8-year-old son on June 30, the policy has been modified to require written parental permission up to age 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Shand Tillman said they are considering legal action over a haircut given to their son Tim last week without their permission.

Mrs. Tillman, a beautician married to a barber, said Tim rode a church bus to services because of promises of hot dogs and soft drinks. His parents did not accompany him.

"Tim was pointed out during the services as having long hair," she said. "I don't think it was too long. It hardly touched his collar."

"They said he was going to hell unless his hair was cut so he went forward during the invitation," she said.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps mine is a unique problem, yet I think not. My wife complains constantly that I never do anything around the house. She says: "The people next door work together, painting, gardening, etc., and their place looks great. You never do a thing around here, and our place looks like a dump. All you want to do is play golf, or bring home extra work from the office." And she is right.

The reason I never do anything around the house is this: I once brought some paint home to paint a room, and she criticized the color. I started to work in the yard and she said: "Quit that — you are making a mess." Frankly, no matter what I do, she finds fault with it. The golf course is pleasant and quiet. And when I'm doing work I bring home from the office, at least she doesn't yell at me.

I have complimented her on her cooking, the way she looks, her housekeeping, and everything I can think of, but she never even says: "Thanks."

I doubt if this could be of any help to me if it were printed. However, there must be other readers who could improve their family relations immensely by just learning to express a little warm, sincere appreciation.

Thanks.
A GOLF WIDOW'S GOLFER

DEAR GOLFER: I score your advice a birdie after a good recovery from a common marital trap!

DEAR ABBY: Am I being unreasonable? My husband's part collie dog is 19 years old. He is deaf, and nearly blind, can hardly use his back legs, and has lost control of his bowels. I have to clean up after him all the time. He whines, cries and barks during the night and I have to get up and let him out.

My husband is a sound sleeper and nothing disturbs him. I have begged him to take this dog to the vet to be put to sleep, but he says: "No! I suppose when I get sick you will want to put ME to sleep, too."

Abby, this is my second marriage and I want it to last, but I have had it with this dog of his. I know if the dog could talk, he would beg to be put out of his misery. Please advise me.

DOG TIRED
DEAR TIED: I'm with you. It's cruel to let the animal suffer. If your husband insists that you are wrong, get the vet's opinion. I'll bet he votes with us.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently married. My husband and I invited 200 people to our wedding reception; 140 said they were coming, so we put all the money we had into this wedding reception. Only 55 showed up. After the reception my husband and I went to a local bar for a drink. About 30 of the people who accepted but didn't show up were at this bar. They gave us some money (with no cards) as a "wedding gift." We took it because we were so broke.

I think we should write thank-you notes to the people who handed us money, go to the bar, and hand them the thank-you notes just like they handed us the money. My husband thinks if we do this, we will be as ignorant as they are. I think we are being nicer to them than they deserve by thanking them at all.

What do you think?
HURT

DEAR HURT: Since you weren't sufficiently "hurt" to refuse their gifts, you should acknowledge them properly — in writing, and through the mail.

SAYS UNIVERSITY SURVEY

Women's Image Still Same In Magazines

CHICAGO (AP) — A Loyola University psychologist says he has found that the women's rights movement has had virtually no effect on the way women are portrayed in magazines and children's books.

Dr. John D. Edwards said Monday he had three students survey magazines in the university archives to find out how many women authors appeared and what they wrote about and to find out how women were portrayed in magazine fiction and children's books.

He said the purpose was to determine the effect of the women's liberation movement.

The conclusion: "The role of women in certain publications is very narrow and has not changed over time," Edwards said.

But he added that the media reflect what is happening in society and usually lag behind, so that as the position of women changes their image will change. Edwards' students, Gale

K. Stolz, Gary Hicks and Sharon Gaik, each did one of three segments of the study.

One surveyed nearly 4,300 articles in three magazines—Reader's Digest, the Atlantic Monthly and the Partisan Review—from 1940 through 1970, checking the number of male and female authors and their subjects.

Contrary to expectations, there was no increase in the percentage of women authors through the period, Edwards said. And the percentage never exceeded one-fifth of the total—“an indication of the extent to which male domination of magazines still exists,” he said.

Another portion involved the image of women in magazine fiction in 1957, before the movement started, and in 1972.

The magazines studied were Ladies Home Journal, McCall's, Good Housekeeping, The New Yorker, the Atlantic, Saturday Evening Post and Harper's.

Edwards said it had been expected that there would be a difference in occupational images of the women characters, but in fact there was a slight rise in the percentage of housewives portrayed.

Women's magazines showed a slight rise in working, nonmarried women, while general interest magazines showed a slight decrease.

The smallest category in the fiction studied was always the married, working woman.

The third portion of the study involved a survey of 30 books for children for 1960-64 and 1968-73, randomly selected from the non-fiction list by a public librarian.

While the percentage of women as "occupational models" in these books increased between the two periods, Edwards said the study found no difference in the average prestige level of jobs held by men and women at either time period.

Change filters regularly. It takes very little energy on your part.

Replacing disposable filters or cleaning permanent type filters as required, is one of the easiest ways to help your cooling system do its job more efficiently and economically.

Clogged filters restrict the air flow your air conditioning unit needs, making the unit work harder and longer — which uses more electricity.

Here are some additional ways to help your air conditioning keep its cool: Don't put lamps or other heat-producing appliances in the immediate vicinity of the thermostat.

Keep the outdoor unit free of shrubbery or other obstructions that might prevent proper air circulation.

Insulation can pay for itself by lowering your cooling (and heating) costs. You can save as much as 20% or more on energy consumption if your home is insulated to meet FHA standards.

For efficiency and economy, set the thermostat at 78-80 degrees. For each degree above 75 degrees, the energy used for cooling is reduced by 5%.

For more ideas on using energy wisely around your home, come by Texas Electric or request our free efficiency tips booklet on the comment portion of your electric service bill.

Montgomery Ward is a household word to many Big Spring housewives. The store at Highland Shopping Center is one that is visited regularly by shoppers interested in shopping in Big Spring, buying quality merchandise and at economy prices.

Not only the wives — but also the heads of the household have discovered that prices are low and service excellent at the Montgomery Ward garage and service department adjacent to the main store.

Ron McNeil, who came here in 1972 and who has 13 years experience with the company, is manager of this well known firm, established by A. M. Ward back in 1872.

Among other key employees are Timmy McCormick, 38 years with the company; Jack Woods, with ten; and Ken Kethron with 11.

Smallwood's Stocks One Of Most Popular Items

One of Big Springs newest business establishments, Smallwood's Western Wear, located at 112 E. Third Street, would be considered a unique store if it were located in other parts of the world.

Locally, the service its employees offers its customers make it unique. The store itself stocks a popular item as the name implies — western clothes.

If you like horses, rodeos and the entire western scene, you'll make Smallwood's a regular stop on your shopping tours.

Smallwood's stocks the finest in boots, from Acme Texas to Nocona, recognized the world over for their superior quality.

Men and women, boys and girls, can be fitted perfectly at Smallwood's.

The firm also sells attractive pants and blouses, western hats, and belts, along with bandanas, jumpers and many other items which identify the wearer with the western scene.

Joneil Smallwood, a Big Spring resident since 1968, serves as both owner and manager of the establishment. He opened the business April 1, 1972, and it has thrived ever since. Smallwood's family includes his wife, Elsie, and three children. They are Dana, age 14 years; Tim, who is 12; and Samuel, just 17 months of age.

Wanda McMurray is an employee of the firm. The establishment is opened six days a week, closing only on Sunday. Smallwood's especially likes to cater to those who need to complete their wardrobes for an area rodeo but raiment of that kind is becoming more and more popular throughout the year and a lot of young people would like nothing better than to receive those kind of togs at Christmastime.

BOOTS BUILT WITH THE CUSTOMER IN MIND — Wanda McMurray of Smallwood's Western Wear shows some one of the many fine lines of boots stocked by the firm to Nikita McMurray. A shopping trip downtown isn't complete without dropping in at Smallwood's, located at 112 E. Third St.

50 Escape Rig Flames

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Exxon SA says the 50 to 60 crewmen forced by fire to flee one of its offshore oil-gas platforms in the Gulf of Mexico returned to extinguish the blaze within an hour and a half.

A spokesman for the oil company said there were no injuries in the incident Sunday night. The crewmen first crossed in standby work boats, the spokesman said, but quickly returned when it was determined none of the gas or oil wells was burning.

He said the fire started when a work boom accidentally hit the platform, and sparks ignited two diesel fuel tanks and a piece of processing equipment called a separator, which splits the water from gas and oil.

RULES IMPOSED BY DEAD BOSS

Will Inherit $400,000 If Shuns Men, Makeup

LEYLAND, England (AP) — Amelia White, a Lancashire woman who stands to inherit more than $400,000 if she avoids men and makeup for five years, says she's having no trouble obeying the strict rules imposed by her dead boss.

"It hasn't made any difference to my way of life," she said. Miss White, 47, learned of her good fortune in March when the will of wealthy dentist Philip Grundy was published. Grundy left $436,400 to Miss White, who had worked for him as a nurse-receptionist for more than 30 years.

But certain inflexible conditions were specified by the enmentation Award for service as chairman of the City Traffic Commission. Weeks is also a past president of the Credit Executives; has been vice president of the Band Boosters and the Choir Boosters and tri-captain of the Quarterback Club.

Weeks and his wife, Johnny, have three children, Mrs. Beth Cook, San Antonio; John Weeks, a student at ACC in Abilene, and Don Weeks, a student at Howard County College who also works at Gibbs and Weeks.

ust, a bachelor who died last December at the age of 69. His will insisted that Amelia must "never use any lipstick or makeup of any kind whatsoever — apart from clear nail polish — and wear no jewelry such as rings, earrings or necklaces, and never go out with any man on her own, or with a party of men, during the next five years."

Miss White has said repeatedly that her lawyers advised her not to grant interviews about the will, but she broke her silence briefly Monday in this town near the northern industrial center of Preston.

She maintained that her inheritance came as a complete surprise when the will was read nearly four months ago, but she added: "I'm sure I will have no problems keeping to the conditions of the will."

"I don't wear makeup or jewelry during working hours, as it was one of Mr. Grundy's rules that the staff had to be as hygienic as possible. Actually, I don't wear makeup at all.

"At the moment I have no idea what I will do with the money," she said, "but having to wait five years means that it

202 SCURRY

Weeks, Six Employees Do Best To Serve Public

More than 71 years experience in addition to dependable, courteous service, are some of the reasons to remember Gibbs and Weeks Men's Store at Third and Main in Big Spring as a place to shop.

The Men's Store offers not only the finest lines of all kinds of mens wear, but complete alteration and tailoring of clothing is available at Gibbs and Weeks.

If you need to rent a tuxedo or formal dress for some special occasion, go to anyone of the experienced personnel at Gibbs and Weeks and they'll take your measurements, then get early delivery on the merchandise.

The Men's Store was established April 1, 1958 by Gilbert Gibbs and George Weeks, both who were experienced in the clothing business for years beforehand.

When Gibbs retired in 1973 to an advisory position with the firm, Weeks took over the management of the store. Weeks is affiliated with the American Business Club, the Masons and the Shriners.

He and his six employees do their best to serve each customer. Weeks believes that honesty, service, and courtesy go along with hard work in making the Gibbs and Weeks firm what it is today.

Other employees of the firm include Bob V. Rogers, who has been employed there the past five years; Fillmore Guinn, with four years seniority; Johnnie Weeks, an employe since 1958; and Pat Coats, who has worked for Gibbs and Weeks three years SERVICE TO A TEE — Once Gibbs & Weeks, located in the heart of the business district in downtown Big Spring, sells you a suit of clothes, slacks or an overcoat, the service doesn't stop there. The Employees press the item with the equipment shown here. George Weeks (left) is owner of the popular store. His son, Don, a salesman for the establishment, is with him.

Weeks and his wife, Johnny, have three children, Mrs. Beth Cook, San Antonio; John Weeks, a student at ACC in Abilene, and Don Weeks, a student at Howard County College who also works at Gibbs and Weeks.

Phone Books Arrive Today

A painting featuring elements representative of the history of Texas will highlight the cover of the new Big Spring telephone directory which will be delivered beginning today.

The painting, "Our Texas," by Edward Herbes, represents Texans of all faiths, races and cultural backgrounds and their historical achievements, said Harry Sawyer, manager for Southwestern Bell.

Sawyer pointed out that due to the nationwide paper shortage, the number of directories delivered to residences in Big Spring will be reduced.

The basic concept of the unique "Our Texas" painting is a scroll representing the documents of Texas Liberty, entwined by a red, white and blue ribbon to symbolize the historic patriotism of Texans.

Other significant articles in the painting include a military bugle depicting the impact of military forces on the state, a Colt revolver for the Texas lawman's edge over the bandit, a quill for the communications media and a school bell for the educational system.

Southwestern Bell commissioned Herbes, a retired Air Force colonel, to do the painting especially for the directory cover.

Zale's Earnings To Show Gain

MIAMI — Donald Zale, president of Zale Corporation, Dallas, reported here today that the company's sales and earnings for the first quarter ended June 30, 1974 promise to be above last year's record levels.

Zale made the forecast at the company's 50th annual meeting. For the three month period ended June 30, 1973, the specialty retailer reported earnings of $5,034,275 or 39 cents a share, on sales of $129,953,218.

Zale said the company is aiming for $630 million in sales in 1974, up 12 per cent for the year.

Johnson Named To Honor Roll

Ben F. Johnson III, of Big Spring, has been named to the president's honor roll at East Texas State University for the spring semester. To be eligible for the honor roll, a student must have been registered for not less than 15 semester hours of academic work and must have maintained a 4.00 grade point average (on the four-point system).

City Slickers No Match For Boozers In Country

AUSTIN (AP) — Country people who drink tend to consume more alcohol than urban imbibers, a Texas A&M professor reports, and alcohol abuse often is more extreme.

In many rural towns, serious drinking begins at 8 a.m. and continues—for some—until 8 or 9 p.m., said Dr. William Smith, "WATER HOLE"

Smith told the 17th annual Institute of Alcoholics Studies that one reason for the heavier per capita drinking in rural areas is the lack of leisure time activities. This, he said, leaves the town "water hole" as the most likely gathering place for socializing and passing time.

Smith began his study in March 1973 under a grant from the Texas Commission on Alcoholism and interviewed 160 rural alcohol abusers in a seven-county area around College Station. All of his subjects were male, half white and half black.

Unlike the weekend, social alcoholic of the cities, the rural drinker often sets out on binges that last as long as a week, Smith said.

PUT OFF CHORES
The fact that the city drinker usually has to show up for a job will put a limit on his binge drinking, he explained, while rural drinkers often just put off their chores for a few days.

Smith said alienation by friends in sparsely populated areas and "stified achievement motivation" are among the causes for excessive drinking by rural men.

He said the study, to be published in December, raised questions about variations between community and national definitions of alcohol abuse. What is considered abuse in one community may not be in another, Smith said.

The study and others like it, Smith said, could lead to treatment programs for rural problem drinkers who cannot or will not be helped by urban methods.

Dr. Gross Named To Publication

Dr. Bobby Jack Gross of Pecos, son of Mrs. Vera K. Gross and the late Eugene R. Gross of Big Spring, has been named to the publication Who's Who in Texas.

Dr. Gross is a veterinarian. Born in Longview Feb. 26, 1934, he starred in several sports at the local high school and earned a scholarship in track and field at Texas A & M University, where he distinguished himself as a shot putter.

In addition to his wife, Jean Ann, his family consists of two children, Brian James and Linda Suzanne.

He is a member of the Baptist Church, the Texas Veterinary Association, the American Veterinary Medical Association, the Permian Basin Veterinary Medical Association, the Ex-Letterman Athletic Association of Texas A & M University and the Aggie Club of Reeves County.

The family makes its home at 1525 South Park, Pecos.

Manpower Study Panel To Meet

The Manpower Study panel of the Chamber of Commerce will meet Friday 10 a.m. with a representative of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, Ron Mercer, Chamber manager said Tuesday.

The PRRPC is due to have information about possible funding of a project to enhance manpower development and training.

American Quasar Granted Credit

FORT WORTH (AP) — American Quasar Petroleum Co. of Fort Worth and Midland said today it has completed establishing a $31.5 million line of credit with a consortium of banks.

Bird Mistrial Rule Delayed

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — District Court Judge Darrell Hester withheld Monday an immediate ruling on a defense motion for a mistrial in the Jerry Joe Bird murder trial.

Bird, 36, a Corpus Christi machinist, was convicted last week in the robbery-slaying of Victor H. Trammell, 63, a Harlingen area gun collector.

Hester said he would rule later so as not to delay the jury in considering punishment for Bird. The conviction was capital murder and jurors must decide whether Bird is to be assessed the death penalty or a life prison term.

The mistrial request was made after court reporter Eric Schwab testified he accidentally sent to the jury room some items that had not been admitted as evidence.

Identification Officer Glen Reed of the Harlingen Police Department testified that fingerprints show that Bird is the same person as a Jerry Joe Hoefler who was convicted in 1956 at Corpus Christi on charges of murder and burglary.

COMMUNIST 'LIBEL PER SE'

Supreme Court Makes It Easier To Sue Newspapers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has made it easier to sue newspapers than it has been for the last three years, but tougher than it was before that.

This is the view taking shape as libel lawyers study a complex decision handed down by the court June 25 in the case of a Chicago lawyer.

The lawyer, Elmer Gertz, sued because of an item in the John Birch Society publication American Opinion which described him as a "Communist-front" among other things.

$50,000

A jury awarded Gertz $50,000 in damages, basing its verdict in part on an Illinois law which makes it "libel per se" to call a person a Communist.

Many states have such laws, providing that certain statements about a person are so atrocious that if a publication makes them falsely, the person is entitled to damages without proving that the publication was negligent or that he was harmed.

U.S. District Judge Bernard Decker took a second look at the jury's decision in the light of previous rulings of the Supreme Court.

The court ruled in 1964 that public officials who sue for libel must prove that the item of which they complain was published in the knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was true.

'PUBLIC FIGURES'

In 1967, the court said this same rule should apply to "public figures." These are people who, although not public officials, are involved in public controversy. An example would be Angela Davis.

Gertz was neither of these, but Decker and the U.S. Circuit Court in Chicago decided the standard should apply to him anyway because the subject of the article—a supposed conspiracy to discredit police forces—was a matter of public interest. On this basis, they erased the jury's verdict.

The circuit court cited a 1971 decision of the Supreme Court which extended the tougher standard for libel suits to cover publications about issues of significant public interest, without regard to the prominence of the person allegedly defamed.

'NO FAULT'

Gertz appealed.

The Supreme Court, in a 5-4 decision, reversed the circuit court and erased its own conclusions in the 1971 case. It held that private individuals must prove not only negligence, but they must prove that in order to collect damages for harm suffered by the libel. They must also show that they actually were harmed, although not necessarily financially. The harm could be loss of reputation.

The decision wiped out the traditional "no fault" or "per se" kind of libel.

The effect on Gertz was that he no longer had to meet the same stiff requirements as a public official or public figure to sue American Opinion. But he did not get the $50,000, because at least part of it had been awarded without any finding of fault. Thus, the case was sent back to the district court for another trial.

The effect on other private individuals who might wish to sue newspapers also is a mixed bag.

It does not open up any new subjects for which a person can sue. Instead, it makes the burden of proof on in harder than it was before 1971, although easier than it has been since then.

The first word that the court had erased the protections to newspapers provided in its 1971 ruling dismayed many newspaper lawyers. But one, after studying the opinion, said, "If the court sticks to requiring a showing of fault, I think we'll have no trouble living with this."

'RECKLESS DISREGARD'

The "reckless disregard" test still will govern in the case of private individuals suing for punitive damages—or money awards designed to punish the publisher of the libel rather than to redress the harm done the libeled.

To sum it up, the newspaper which innocently publishes a falsehood about a private person—even though taking precautions to be accurate, no longer need fear being forced to pay up simply because of the fact of publication. But, on the other hand, the private individual who wants to sue for his actual damages need no longer prove that the newspaper either knew the statement was false or recklessly disregarded whether it was.

Newspaperman Vanderbilt Dies

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., author and former newspaperman, is dead at 76.

Great-great-grandson of the New York Central Railroad's first president, Vanderbilt died Sunday at his Miami Beach home after a five-year illness. Cause of death was not announced.

Vanderbilt was publisher during the 1920s of the Illustrated Daily News of Los Angeles, Illustrated Daily Herald in San Francisco and the Illustrated Daily Tab in Miami.

HEAD START, RECRUITING TOOL

Police Cars For Personal Use

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A number of cities have been allowing policemen to take patrol cars home after work in recent years and the chief of one large department using the plan says its extremely efficient.

Under Lexington's Home Fleet Plan, officers are required to have maintenance work done on the cruisers on off-duty hours and often do police work on their own time, too.

It all works out to 13.8 calls a day, with an average of 30

"And if he sees some situation — such as an accident or law violation — that has not yet been reported, he is required to take action on his own. In short, he's required to do anything off-duty that he would do if he were on duty."

In the first 10 months the plan was in use here, off-duty officers responded to 1,963 calls, offered services to 2,683 people, arrested or cited 1,058 people and assisted on-duty officers 241 times.

But Shaffer said the cost is offset by such savings as auto maintenance, where "we may well save $20,000 to $30,000 a year" and on longer use before a trade-in is necessary.

"The individual officer takes better care of a cruiser if he is the only one driving it and administratively, we are able to tell who is mistreating a vehicle," he said.

HOME FLEET
The plan also calls for each automobile to be used almost twice as long before trade-in compared with the old plan where it was in service 24 hours a day, he added.

The home fleet plan also is "one hell of a recruiting tool" for the department, Shaffer said, since it gives police officers a company car for personal use and reassures them of its mechanical fitness.

IF NEEDED
If the cruiser is in personal use, the radio must be on, the officer must be armed and must have his credentials with him.

"If there is an emergency call on the radio and he is in the vicinity, he must let the dispatcher know his location so he can be sent to the scene if he's needed," said Police Chief James Shaffer.

Second Farah Plant Reopens

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The first pair of pants produced in the reopening of a second Farah Manufacturing Co. plant here should come off the production line today, a spokesman says.

Farah's U.S. 90 West plant reopened Monday with a work force of about 100 persons. Plant manager Angelo Battaglia said the number of employees should reach 300 by the end of the week.

Farah, based in El Paso, closed its two plants here late last year near the end of a 22-month strike which concluded with Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America winning recognition as bargaining agent for employees.

The San Antonio plant located on Frio City Road reopened in May.

Plans call for an eventual combined work force of 2,500 at the two plants here.

Creating Woes For Linguists

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Isabel Peron's presidency is creating problems for linguists.

In Spanish nouns are either masculine, usually ending in "o," or feminine, usually ending in "a." The confusion comes because the word "presidente" ends in "e."

The government's official usage is la presidente, but some scholars maintain she should be called la presidenta. They point out she is the first woman president of Argentina and feel this is the time to set a precedent—or a precedent.
