Carrasco Set To Swap Hostages For Officials

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Rebel convict leader Fred Gomez Carrasco has agreed to exchange 10 of his 13 hostages for five prison officials, the daughter of one of the civilian hostages said today.

Kathy Pollard, 24, told newsmen Carrasco agreed to such a trade during a telephone conversation with her Monday night.

Miss Pollard, whose mother, Novella Pollard, is one of the 10 civilian hostages held by Carrasco and two other armed convicts, said Carrasco also has backed off from demands for more weapons.

NEW OFFER
A prison spokesman said Carrasco's offer, when made directly to them, will be considered. A similar deal offered earlier by Carrasco was turned down by the board of the Texas Department of Corrections because, they said, it was conditioned on the women hostages remaining with Carrasco. Because the new offer is for an outright, unconditional trade, the offer will be reconsidered, the spokesman said.

Carrasco, 34, also holds three other inmates hostage.

Miss Pollard said Carrasco told her he would exchange the 10 civilian hostages for prison warden H. H. Husbands, prison system director W. J. Estelle, an assistant director, prison security chief Andrew Murdock Jr. and any captain in the prison system.

NO COMPLAINTS
The attractive young woman was flanked by her three brothers

as she related that Carrasco told her he would treat his new hostages the same way he has treated those now his captives.

None of the present hostages has complained of ill treatment.

One of Carrasco's lawyers, Ruben Montemayor, was in on the telephone talks.

Alme House, 61, was taken by stretcher from the library about 5:30 p.m. when Carrasco called the warden's office to say she was sick. She had been taking medication for high blood pressure since the ordeal began Wednesday.

She was taken to a Huntsville hospital, and Taylor said her vital signs were stable.

HEART ATTACK
"Doctors have not been able to ascertain if she had a heart attack although she has symptoms of a heart attack," he said.

Twelve hours before Mrs. Houston fell ill, inmate-hostage Henry Escamilla, 40, made a dramatic bid for freedom by diving through the plate glass door of the education building where the hostages were held.

He was still suffering from shock after being severely cut around the head and shoulder, prison hospital attendants said. Escamilla is serving a five-year term for shoplifting conviction from San Antonio.

That left 13 hostages with the three armed convicts: eight school teachers, a priest, a guard and three inmates not trying to escape. Six of the teachers are women.

With Carrasco are Ignacio Cuevas, 42, serving 45 years from Pecos on a murder conviction, and Rudy Dominguez, 27, serving 15 years from San Antonio for attempted murder.

TALKING 'TOYS'
Prison officials delivered three new walkie-talkies to Carrasco Monday. The three two-way radios sent up, earlier he described as "toys." Carrasco also has three bullet-proof helmets fashioned by the prison for him and his two confederates.

Estelle flatly refused Monday to give weapons and ammunition to Carrasco.

"The inmates involved in this act already have been told—we told many days ago—that we would not furnish any body armor nor would they be furnished any additional firepower over what they have now," he said.

Estelle also restated prison policy concerning hostages Monday: "The policy is well spelled out in writing to every employee. We do not change our duties or our responsibilities by the fact that a hostage has been taken."

Estelle noted there had been no further talk of a hostage exchange for prison officials.

He said he is in daily contact with Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

He was expected to be able to go home in 10 days.

Milk Money Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two partners in a computer mail firm were charged today by Watergate prosecutors with misdemeanor counts of aiding and abetting the donation of $82,900 in the campaigns of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.; Sen. James C. Abourezk, D-S.D., and others. The partners, John Valentine and Norman Sherman, were named in a criminal information filed in U.S. District Court in St. Paul, Minn., and announced at the office of the Watergate special prosecution force in Washington.

The Valentine-Sherman partnership furnished computerized mailing lists paid for out of corporate funds by the nation's largest dairy cooperative, Associated Milk Producers Inc., and used in a number of Democratic campaigns during the 1972 elections, the information charged.

Two Cops No-Billed

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas County grand jury has no-billed two Dallas police officers in the July 20 death of a young North Carolina man who was subdued with a chokehold.

The action by the grand jury Monday in effect cleared officers B.P. Bedwell and Kim E. Hammond of responsibility in the death of Gary Wayne Benfield, 21, of Newton, N.C.

The officers said they found Benfield in an intoxicated condition near a restaurant and carried him to their squad car without handcuffs because he was unconscious.

Once in the car, however, the officers said the man regained consciousness in the back seat, lunged at Bedwell and tried to grab his service revolver. Hammond said he handed a flashlight to Bedwell who used it to put a chokehold on Benfield.

Irrigation Banned In West Texas Areas

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Rights Commission ordered irrigation stopped today in two more West Texas areas because of the drought.

The Clear Fork of the Brazos River, which flows through Scurry, Fisher, Jones, Shackelford, Haskell, Throckmorton, Stephens and Young counties, and Brady Creek, a tributary of the San Saba River that flows through Concho, McCulloch, and San Saba counties, have ceased running, the commission said.

The only water left in the streambeds is standing water, and use of it for irrigation threatens the superior rights of the domestic and livestock water users and of wildlife, the commission said.

The commission also ordered the city of Brady to release 10 acre-feet of water a day for four days from its reservoir on Brady Creek to replace the depleted domestic and livestock supply downstream. An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

Last week, the commission ordered irrigation stopped on the Colorado River between the Concho and the San Saba rivers.

Purse Snatcher Was Firm But Polite

It was a polite purse snatcher who accosted Mrs. Jesse Johnston, 1711 Benton, about 6:45 Monday in the parking lot at Furr's Super Market.

The subject came up to her car, opened the door and said, "Excuse me, lady, I'll take this." With that, he grabbed her purse and ran. The discarded purse was later found under a car parked in the 1200 block of Rannels and reported to police.

Scant Hope Of Producing New Charter

AUSTIN (AP) — Constitutional Convention delegates scheduled a last minute vote this afternoon on a new compromise constitution that will attempt to settle the controversial right-to-work issue.

The convention recessed until 1 p.m. while the Submission and Transition Committee spent much of the last day of the convention, working on the compromise.

As prepared for the convention the new version of a Texas constitution would contain a provision that the present state law prohibiting labor-management contracts where employees must join unions or pay union dues could be repealed only by two-thirds vote of the legislature. Much of the recent argument has been over attempts to write the anti-union provision into the state's new constitution.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman said today President Nixon will claim that portions of 20 Watergate tapes being surrendered today to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica should not be passed on to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon spent much of the morning personally listening to tapes in the Lincoln sitting room at the White House.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — A new three-power accord was concluded today, giving Turkey a right to retain military forces on Cyprus, delegates reported.

The agreement, outlined by Turkish, British and Greek delegates, called upon Turkey to cut but not totally withdraw its invasion force from Cyprus sometime in the future.

IMPEACHMENT ARTICLE VOTE PREDICTED

'Prime Example Of Stonewalling'

WASHINGTON (AP) — With approval of two broad impeachment articles behind it, the House Judiciary Committee opened debate today on whether President Nixon should be charged as well for his refusal to turn over subpoenaed tape recordings and other materials to its inquiry.

The first impeachment article to be proposed by a Republican was offered by Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, the minority's second-ranking member.

The article said Nixon "has failed without lawful cause or excuse" to produce the materials from 147 conversations which the committee sought in eight subpoenas issued during April, May and June.

SPEED UP

"The prime example of stonewalling is right there," McClory told the committee on its sixth day of nationally broadcast debate.

In a bid to speed up proceedings, the panel agreed to a two-hour limit for general debate on the proposal.

26 TO 16

Other proposed articles on Nixon's personal finances and on the secret bombing of Cambodia were to be introduced later. Committee members were not sure if they could finish their deliberations by tonight.

The committee climaxed a 12-hour session Monday night by approving, 28 to 10, an article charging Nixon with violating his oath of office and his constitutional duties.

McClory predicted in advance of debate that his proposed third article would be approved 22 to 16.

"Congress itself is pitted against the executive," he said in defense of his proposal. He said executive privilege "has no place in an impeachment inquiry."

McClory's swing to the pro-impeachment side Monday in the abuse of power debate pre-emptive vote of the public deduced the most one-sided sub-librations.

Seven Republicans joined the 21 committee Democrats in support of the article, which many of them judged to be stronger than the obstruction of justice article approved Saturday, 27-11.

JUSTICE

"Just as a consistent abuse of power holds more danger for the republic than a single criminal act, so is this a far more serious charge than in the article already adopted," said Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., a leading supporter of Article II.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., called the committee's action "a victory for justice" and said history may compare it to the challenge of the English barons that led to the signing of the Magna Carta in 1215, a milestone in the growth of political liberty in England.

President Nixon's supporters on the panel viewed the proceedings darkly. "I'm deeply concerned for the future of the presidency," said Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., said the committee was taking a step toward parliamentary government by basing impeachment on so vague a charge as abuse of presidential power.

DUTY

But the Democrats and Republicans supporting the article said the offenses charged against Nixon were so serious they threatened the freedom of the American people.

CRITTENDEN IS WINNER

Cox Undecided Whether To Challenge Decision

By JOHN EDWARDS

EASTLAND — The three justices with the 11th Court of Civil Appeals here jointly declared the Cox-Crittenden election contest moot and dismissed the case over whether the two candidates for district clerk tied for the Democratic nomination.

Mrs. Peggy Crittenden, who won by one vote according to the canvass and later recount, emerges as the Democratic nominee, pending possible further court action.

M. Fern Cox, the incumbent district clerk, said he would let his attorneys decide whether to pursue the case further.

Richard Milstead of Jones and Milstead today said he and his partner, Guil Jones, wanted to read the seven-page judgment before deciding on any possible further action. Milstead mentioned that filing a motion for rehearing in the appellate court was a possibility.

"We cannot order another primary, nor can we order the candidates to cast lots," the appellate judgment stated.

"I am very happy about it and very grateful," Mrs. Crittenden said of the dismissal. With no Republican nominee for the position, Mrs. Crittenden appears assured of election in November.

Mrs. Crittenden won the first Democratic Primary by 2,420 to 2,419, according to the canvass. In response to a request from Cox, the Democratic Executive Committee here ordered a recount.

On Monday, May 13, the recount group found both candidates were due six additional votes, leaving the results unchanged.

Mrs. Margaret Ray, chief deputy county clerk, testified she later found an absentee ballot marked for Cox among the applications for absentee ballots. One day before the Democratic runoff, Judge Weldon Kirk Sweetwater, ruled that the ballot be counted. Kirk presided for Caton, who disqualified himself.

William Kerr Sr., attorney for Mrs. Crittenden, appealed the district court judgment.

The Monday court decision came as a surprise, because the state appellate court usually enters judgments on Fridays.

DISCLOSES HOSTAGE EXCHANGE PLAN — Kathy Ann Pollard, with her brothers, left to right Charles, Robert and Glen, tells newsmen of a telephone conversation with Fred Carrasco, who is holding Kathy's mother, Mrs. Novella Pollard, and 12 others hostage in the Huntsville State Prison Library. She claimed Carrasco is now willing to exchange some of the hostages for high prison officials, and has changed his demands for body armor and guns.

AWAY THE BLUES — Mrs. Josephine Bozyk, Ft. Myers, Fla., toots a tune in harmonica class. The class is a week treat held at the Senior Citizens Service Center in Ft. Myers.

Enjoy Yourself, It's Later Than You Think'

FT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Fun is the important thing. For many of the band members, it's about their whole social life. Josephine Bozyk, youngest of the group at age 65, gives credit to the band for dispelling her depression when her husband died. "When I lost my husband, I almost went to pieces," she said. "But I joined the band — I'm a soloist. I love every minute of it."

The band often gives concerts at nursing homes and once performed for a junior high school. "I'll tell you, about 15 of those kids came out in the hall after the concert to tell us how much they liked it," Rathell said. "They especially liked a rock 'n' roll song called 'Baby, Do You Miss Me' I wrote for my grandchildren."

Members of the Senior Citizens Fun and Fellowship Harmonica Band, ranging in age from 65 to 85, play old fashions and even some rock 'n' roll.

They have an appropriate song: "Enjoy Yourself, It's Later Than You Think."

The band's director, Vernon Rathell, 78, says he had never played the harmonica. "That just proves if you can play a song, you can play it on harmonica," Rathell says. "If them if they only blow into it in three, it's worth it. The music may not be good, but the standards but having fun is the important thing."

Laws Against Prostitution Blatantly Discriminatory?

CHICAGO (AP) — Laws against prostitution are blatantly discriminatory against women, invade individual privacy and should be dropped from state books, a committee of the American Bar Association recommends. The recommendation is in a report that calls for the adoption of a resolution which urges states to "repeal all laws which classify as criminal prostitution or solicitation by or on behalf of a prostitute."

The resolution is to be considered by the ABA's House of Delegates at its annual meeting in August. Approval of the resolution by the full House and the ABA's Board of Governors will provide guidance to state bars and other lobbying groups before state legislatures.

'COMMERCIAL SEX' The committee says there is no reason for a state to outlaw "commercial sex."

"Whether a person chooses to engage in sexual intercourse for pure recreation, or in exchange for something of value, is a matter of individual choice, not for governmental interference," the report states. Decriminalization could lead to a reduction of crime associated with prostitution, it says.

Carole Bellows, a Chicago lawyer and vice chairman of the committee that approved the resolution, said the rise of the liberated woman, expanding notions about the right of privacy and a growing concern about so-called victimless crimes contributed to the committee's unanimous approval of the report at a meeting of its 20 members in May.

A primary reason for the committee's action was the discriminatory nature of statutes outlawing prostitution. SELLS HER BODY "In accordance with society's double standard of sexual morality, the woman who sells her body is punished criminally and stigmatized socially while her male customer, either by the explicit design of the statute or through a pattern of discriminatory enforcement, is left unscathed," the report states.

It says that in most states the law ignores the fact that male homosexuals can be prostitutes and "more importantly, that male customers, without whom a prostitute would be impossible, are accomplices in this so-called criminal act."

It also calls for the decriminalization of solicitation of prostitution, saying such a law discriminates against poor and minority women who must operate in the streets in contrast to call girls who operate out of plush hotel suites.

DID NOT VOTE The report was approved by the ABA's Section of Individual Rights and Responsibilities, headed by Albert E. Jenner Jr., Chicago lawyer now serving as counsel to the House Judiciary Committee considering articles of impeachment.

Lewis Dickson requiring access to the criminal records. An opinion, written by City Attorney Jonathan Day, initially said police were not to allow newsmen to read offense reports or criminal records.

A later ruling by State Attorney John Hill said suppression of criminal offense reports was not legal. He said, however, that police departments should use their own discretion in allowing reporters to see criminal histories of individuals.

Day contends that records made available to the news media should be open to the public. However, he said sometimes the general public or an individual agency might not be as discreet as the media claims it would be.

Jack Weeks, who said he had been the Chronicle's police reporter for some 20 years, testified any reporter has been allowed to see any criminal record or offense report for as long as he could remember.

Weeks testified Monday at the first day of the trial of a suit filed by the Chronicle against the city as a challenge to a legal opinion effective last January.

Red Is Out-Lime Is In

Like many familiar things that have disappeared from the American scene, the big, red fire engine will soon be a thing of the past.

"Red is gone," said Fire Chief A. D. Meador. "The new fire color is lime green. All the cities are changing over because that's the easiest color to see. Despite what most people would think, red is a very hard color to see, especially at night."

Local residents will get their first look at a "big lime green fire engine" when the department's new truck arrives here in February.

"It will be a big one," said Chief Meador. "We ordered the snorkle or cherry picker type with a 75-foot reach for the bucket."

Despite dry conditions in the county, Chief Meador said the department has had few fire calls the past week. During that time, four men attended a week-long seminar on fire-fighting methods at Texas A&M University. They were Fire Marshal Howard Dodd, Capt. A. L. Harrison, Capt. Edison Taylor and Larry Williams, an equipment operator. The local fire department, now working at capacity with 45 men, will incorporate the latest techniques wherever feasible.

One of the clues that suggest a dummy reversal is the possession of high trumps in dummy. Sometimes, even if high trump can be efficient. Note declarer's technique on this hand.

An overcall of one no trump equivalent to a one no trump opening bid, and while it tends to deny interest in the major suits, South reasoned that it would do no harm to cue-bid opponent's suit just in case a 4-4 fit could be uncovered in hearts or spades. When his partner denied holding a major suit, South bid his clubs. Since a stopper in diamonds was most at best, North raised and South was under no pressure in continuing to name.

West led the king of diamonds, and when dummy came down declarer thought the play would be a cinch. Since at least one spade could be ruffed in dummy, it appeared that the maximum number of losers would be two spade tricks. However, declarer received a rude jolt when, after ruffing the opening lead, he played the king of clubs and West showed out. Now, he could not draw all the trumps, for that would strip dummy of trumps and he would not be able to ruff spades. Nor could he give up a spade and play a cross-ruff, trumping spades in dummy and diamonds in his hand, for East then would end up with long trumps and declarer would be unable to score his four heart tricks.

Declarer found a neat way out of his impasse. He crossed to the king of hearts and ruffed a diamond with his low trump. After cashing the queen and jack of clubs, dummy was entered with the ace of spades and the ace of clubs drew East's last trump. On this trick, declarer discarded a spade from his hand.

It was now a simple matter for declarer to cash the ace of hearts and take two more heart tricks with the queen and jack. That left him with just two spade losers, which he happily conceded to the defenders. What South did was to increase his trump tricks to six by using two of his trumps as ruffers and then scoring four high trumps. Added to four heart tricks and the ace of spades, this brought his total to eleven.

BLOW AWAY THE BLUES — Mrs. Josephine Bozyk, Ft. Myers, Fla., toots a tune in harmonica class. The class is a once a week treat held at the Senior Citizens Service Center in Ft. Myers.

'Enjoy Yourself, It's Later Than You Think'

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — John Keating won't let anything keep him from blowing a tune with 50 other oldsters in weekly harmonica concerts, wheelchair or no.

"It's wonderful," says the 82-year-old Keating, who was confined to a wheelchair three years ago by a stroke. "There's just no way I'll miss it."

The members of the Senior Citizens Fun and Fellowship Harmonica Band, ranging in age from 65 to 85, play old favorites and even some rock 'n' roll.

They have an appropriate theme song: "Enjoy Yourself, It's Later Than You Think."

The band's director, Vernon Rathell, 78, says he had never before played the harmonica.

"That just proves if you can hum a song, you can play it on the harmonica," Rathell says. "I tell them if they only blow one note in three, it's worth it."

"The music may not be good by some standards but having fun is the important thing. For many of the band members, it's about their whole social life."

Josephine Bozyk, youngest of the group at age 65, gives credit to the band for dispelling her depression when her husband died.

"When I lost my husband, I almost went to pieces," she said. "But I joined the band—I'm a soloist. I love every minute of it."

The band often gives concerts at nursing homes and once performed for a junior high school.

"I'll tell you, about 15 of those kids came out in the hall after the concert to tell us how much they liked it," Rathell said. "They especially liked a rock 'n' roll song called 'Baby, Do You Miss Me' I wrote for my grandchildren."

Laws Against Prostitution Blatantly Discriminatory?

CHICAGO (AP) — Laws against prostitution are blatantly discriminatory against women, invade individual privacy and should be dropped from state books, a committee of the American Bar Association recommends.

The recommendation is in a report that calls for the adoption of a resolution which urges states to "repeal all laws which classify as criminal prostitution or solicitation by or on behalf of a prostitute."

The resolution is to be considered by the ABA's House of Delegates at its annual meeting in August. Approval of the resolution by the full House and the ABA's Board of Governors will provide guidance to state bars and other lobbying groups before state legislatures.

'COMMERCIAL SEX'

The committee says there is no reason for a state to outlaw "commercial sex."

"Whether a person chooses to engage in sexual intercourse for pure recreation, or in exchange for something of value, is a matter of individual choice, not for governmental interference," the report states.

Decriminalization could lead to a reduction of crime associated with prostitution, it says.

Carole Bellows, a Chicago lawyer and vice chairman of the committee that approved the resolution, said the rise of the liberated woman, expanding notions about the right of privacy and a growing concern about so-called victimless crimes contributed to the committee's unanimous approval of the report at a meeting of its 20 members in May.

A primary reason for the committee's action was the discriminatory nature of statutes outlawing prostitution.

SELLS HER BODY

"In accordance with society's double standard of sexual morality, the woman who sells her body is punished criminally and stigmatized socially while her male customer, either by the explicit design of the statute or through a pattern of discriminatory enforcement, is left unscathed," the report states.

It says that in most states the law ignores the fact that male homosexuals can be prostitutes and "more importantly, that male customers, without whom prostitution would be impossible, are accomplices in this so-called criminal act."

It also calls for the decriminalization of solicitation to prostitution, saying such a law discriminates against poor and minority women who must operate in the streets in contrast to call girls who operate out of plush hotel suites.

DID NOT VOTE

The report was approved by the ABA's Section of Individual Rights and Responsibilities, headed by Albert E. Jenner Jr., Chicago lawyer now serving as counsel to the House Judiciary Committee considering articles of impeachment.

Chronicle Seeks Access To Criminal Records

HOUSTON (AP) — A veteran Houston Chronicle reporter says reporting of crime news has been seriously restricted by a Houston Police Department ban on newsmen's access to criminal records.

Jack Weeks, who said he had been the Chronicle's police reporter for some 20 years, testified any reporter has been allowed to see any criminal record or offense report for as long as he could remember.

Weeks testified Monday at the first day of the trial of a suit filed by the Chronicle against the city as a challenge to a legal opinion effective last January.

The Chronicle seeks an order from State District Court Judge

Lewis Dickson requiring access to the criminal records.

An opinion, written by City Atty. Jonathan Day, initially said police were not to allow newsmen to read offense reports or criminal records.

A later ruling by State Atty. Gen. John Hill said suppression of criminal offense reports was not legal. He said, however, that police departments should use their own discretion in allowing reporters to see criminal histories of individuals.

Day contends that records made available to the news media should be open to the public. However, he said sometimes the general public or an individual agency might not be as discreet as the media claims it would be.

Red Is Out-Lime Is In

Like many familiar things that have disappeared from the American scene, the big, red fire engine will soon be a thing of the past.

"Red is gone," said Fire Chief A. D. Meador. "The new fire color is lime green. All the cities are changing over because that's the easiest color to see. Despite what most people would think, red is a very hard color to see, especially at night."

Local residents will get their first look at a "big lime green fire engine" when the department's new truck arrives here in February.

"It will be a big one," said Chief Meador. "We ordered the snorkle or cherry picker type with a 75-foot reach for the bucket."

Despite dry conditions in the county, Chief Meador said the department has had few fire calls the past week. During that time, four men attended a week-long seminar on fire-fighting methods at Texas A&M University. They were Fire Marshal Howard Dodd, Capt. A. L. Harrison, Capt. Edison Taylor and Larry Williams, an equipment operator. The local fire department, now working at capacity with 45 men, will incorporate the latest techniques wherever feasible.

The Die Is Cast

While there remains the matter of the final shaping, the possible variation of margins on additional articles, the die is cast insofar as a recommendation of impeachment from the House Judiciary Committee is concerned.

With the voting of a single article, the matter was settled for practical purposes, although the final draft with supporting bills of particulars is still to come. Thus, the membership of the House is confronted with a matter many, if not most, would just as soon have been left stewing in committee or delayed until after election. Ideally, elections would have no bearing on a way which a member will vote, but from a practical point there will be a gnawing consciousness of what effect and what degree one's vote may have.

It is important that the House get on with the business as expeditiously as possible. From the amount and character of debate in the committee, it is possible to conjecture on what this could multiply into on the floor of the House, so at the very best the proceedings can get to be time-consuming.

Although there is no way of knowing what the House vote will be, the Senate leadership is wise in sitting down at this stage to begin planning for the actual trial in event the House should vote the impeachment charge. Perhaps the Senate, knowing of this possibility, also can make every effort to clear the deck of pending matters and minimize the loss of time.

Of course, there is the haunting suspicion that time lost from other legislative matters may not be all bad, assuming that in many cases the best legislation is no legislation.

This is not in the least to belittle the gravity of the historic proceedings. It has been more than a century since our republic has been confronted with this exercise, and one may hope that it will be that long again. But the issues is at hand now, and it must be resolved, we hope, with soul searching of what is right within the framework of our basic tenets.

Oops, Sorry About That

Senate investigators, according to an Associated Press story, have characterized the massive 1972 wheat sale to the Soviet Union as a $300 million error in judgment by top officials of the Agriculture Department.

Sen. Henry Jackson, chairman of the subcommittee, and Sen. Charles H. Percy, ranking minority member, said they hoped the deal would provide a lesson to U.S. trade negotiators. Well, we should hope so. Sorry about that.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

What do you think of a preacher saying he thinks it's OK for a young boy and girl to live together — not married I mean? I think it's terrible and against the Bible.

T.I. If my answers were to be based on popular opinion, or current social trends, this column might endorse the practice you mention. That's because it seems, increasingly, our society favors the weakening of moral standards and approves perverted and licentious conduct.

You are correct! The Bible would be against such behavior — assuming it involves sexual relationship. It calls it fornication, and under that term, includes every form of unchastity. From the beginning of the race, that has represented one of Satan's greatest temptations. In its unbridled practice, nations become disintegrated and people become depraved.

I won't judge this preacher, although he appears very un-Biblical. And, of course, I don't know all the facts. I do know, however, that if this young couple is serious about long and happy married life together, they stand to risk it all by premarital indiscretions.

God gives us the ability to be "overcomers" (see 1 Corinthians 10:13). And that includes the conquering of unlawful but otherwise natural inclinations. If this couple knows God through a personal faith in Christ, their commitment will enable them to practice continence and live apart until an official ceremony brings them together.

Quiet Strength

Robert Novak

TEL AVIV — Only hours after Gen. Itzhak Rabin became Israel's first native-born prime minister on June 3, his political enemies plotted a confrontation to test his strength and leadership.

THEY SENT A 70-man contingent to found a new settlement near the west bank (Palestinian) city of Nablus. What made the test particularly hairy for Rabin was that Gen. Erik Sharon, the famed hero of the Yom Kippur war and a major figure in the oppositionist right-wing Likud party, placed himself at the head of the settlers.

Rabin met the challenge head-on. Lacking time for a formal cabinet meeting to discuss the emotionally charged question of new settlements on the Israeli-occupied west bank, he ordered the army immediately to disperse the settlers. In the process, Gen. Sharon was mildly manhandled. But despite Sharon's appeal throughout this country, Rabin's swift reaction launched his premiership on a bold and decisive note.

RABIN NEEDED SUCH A LAUNCHING. He is probably the only prime minister in a modern parliamentary government anywhere to take office without any political experience, without ever having conducted a debate in the legislature and without even the rudiments of what Israelis call a "primary group" of his own — that is, an inner core of longtime advisers and confidants.

Worse yet, Rabin, who served as ambassador to Washington after commanding Israeli troops in the 1967 war, inherits leadership of a party in an advanced state of disorganization, and a government hat under Golda Meir was run by a titchen cabinet.

RABIN ONLY JOINED THE Labor party four years ago and only entered the Knesset (parliament) after last December's election. Add to this inexperience Israel's grave problems — an inflation rate that may hit 50 per cent by December and the far harsher political need to settle Israeli-Arab disputes — and the formidable dimension of Rabin's task can be seen.

Yet, in the two months since he took over the government with his coalition majority of a single vote in the 120-member Knesset, Rabin's plodding qualities of directness and honesty and his total lack of theatrics and political guile have served him not at all badly.

Sharon's Likud party headed by Menachem Begin, is undergoing even worse strains of disorganization than the Labor party as it, too, seeks to transfer party power to the new generation.

RABIN HAS EASILY SURMOUNTED efforts to bring down his government. The Knesset's large vote for the new economic policy marked Rabin's most important parliamentary test.

But his biggest problems remain scarcely touched. He is moving with extreme caution on the Palestinian issue—perhaps partly because he came to the premiership with a dour reputation, partly because he is a slow mover. Nor has he begun to reorganize his office; he still uses the loose and informal apparatus inherited from Golda Meir.

INEXPRESSIBLY SHY AND RESERVED, Rabin is beginning to feel his way in the strange new world of high politics. His quiet strength may be just the tonic for a land in dangerous transition.

About-Face Is Taken

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The new course for economic policy has been stated by President Nixon with the same force and conviction with which he announced his earlier programs.

This one will be based on patience and steadiness. Free markets will be emphasized. The spectacular will be scorned as bad economics, even if it is good publicity.

If this is so, it will represent an about-face from earlier attitudes of the administration and, in effect, is the sharpest and most direct criticism yet made of Nixonomics.

One of the most spectacular economic decisions of recent decades was the decision, an impulsive one in the eyes of even some of its advisers, to impose a price freeze in August 1971.

Following this were four phases of controls and decontrols, not in a steady sequence but marked by some impatience and unsteadiness, such as an abrupt return to a price freeze from June 13 to August 12, 1973.

Involvement of this sort, of course, is hardly synonymous with a laissez-faire, or hands off policy. The free markets that now are to guide the return to stability were suspended because they failed to do the job.

The current policy of budget and monetary restraint is, therefore, hardly a continuation of earlier approaches to the inflation battle, although there might be a few threads that weave their way continuously.

The President seemed ever to concede an earlier lack of patience when he wrote The Economic Report of the President in February.

"There are at least four lessons we can learn from our past experience in combating inflation," he said, listing the first as "The importance of patience."

The other lessons named were "The importance of the rest of the world, the importance of production, the importance of free markets." In regard to the latter, he wrote:

"In the past several years, under the pressure of emergency conditions, we have made great, but temporary, departures from reliance on free prices and free markets. In special circumstances and for short periods these departures have been helpful."

But, he added, "taken together, these experiences have confirmed the view that the free market is, in general, our most efficient system of economic organization."

And so, after some partially successful and some dismally unproductive flirtations with a controlled economy, the administration now seems ready to return to laissez-faire.

The problem for the administration now may be its ability to convince the public.

Grievance Panels Listen

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A specialist sent me a bill which seems to me to be grossly excessive. Kindly advise me where I could have it checked as to its appropriateness. — W.T.

Human greed being what it is, I can't deny that some medical bills are excessive.

But I am convinced that the majority of physicians want to give honest value for fees they receive, and want to build up a firm and honest relationship with patients.

I think most physicians — and include me, please — believe that every case of overcharging hurts the whole profession.

For that reason, most county medical societies have a grievance committee (the exact name may vary). The committee exists to listen to patients' complaints, and not limited just to fees.

Where it is a question of fee, the committee listens to both sides. It is sometimes true that special procedures, tests or study of the literature may mount up to more work than the patient realizes. But the patient is entitled to know that.

It is important to you the patient as well as to us — the physicians — to reach a fair understanding. Sometimes adjustments in the fee are made after such hearings; sometimes not. But that is the place to go for adjustment if it is warranted, and if not, an explanation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Enclosed are 20 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet, "How to Control Emphysema." My husband has emphysema and I need to learn everything I can about it. — C.V.

I can't say that a booklet can tell you "everything" about emphysema, but I do think it will give you a basic understanding so you can do the best job possible for your husband, in conjunction with whatever his doctor can do for him. In spite of the known prevalence of emphysema, and its dangerous nature, too few people really understand it — and too few start doing something about it early enough.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How does a thyroid gland affect a person's weight? I am very much underweight and cannot gain, no matter what I eat. I would like to know if an overactive or underactive thyroid could be causing my trouble.

I am a man, 68, and have a slight case of diabetes and am on a diet of 2,000 calories a day, but I have lost 15 pounds in the past few months. — H.K.

The thyroid isn't normally a major factor in weight gain or loss, and we usually have to look elsewhere for the cause. In your case it may be that your diet is not sufficient alone to handle your diabetic condition.

If an overactive thyroid was responsible, you would have other symptoms such as nervousness, tremor, ease of perspiration and a fast heart rate. An underactive thyroid causes sluggishness, fatigue, dry skin and a slow pulse.

When is the last time you had a check-up to see how well the diet is keeping your diabetes under control? It could be that you need something else to help you.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this painful disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way to Stop It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

'... There's No Excuse'

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

A couple of weeks ago an old friend in Houston, who is going into a small scale publishing venture, called to see if I'd be interested in a job. Of course, he can get all the help he needs right there, but he "just thought it would be nice if you'd come home."

"You're not a prairie dog, honey, you're a swamp rat like me."

Well, I don't know about that. But the suggestion that I return to Houston reminded me of what another friend, Gordon Baxter, had a few words to say about that city: "I can't stand it. There is nothing in my makeup as a latter day hunter-killer ape that can cope with Houston."

"Houston is pouring outwards over the nothingness of Texas in a widening ring of blight, junk yards, red eye beer joints and tin tombstone rows of ghastly trailer houses. And all the freeways funnel you inwards to the last great scramble where they meet, writhing, coiling one upon another, serpents of cement agony. And over all of this, ceaselessly howl the cars, hurtling on, endlessly night and day, usually to the sounds of 'Houston, radio, radio, radio', peeling away at nerve layers."

"The last human lies far below in the mud and weeds at the foot of the columns of cement, nursing his wine bottle, awaiting the final blow of the mugger who hunts him."

"IN THE GRAND CENTER of this pall there stand the monuments to insurance money, squared columns of stone money, jerking up higher each day. The hidden doors snap open mini-skirted, laughing girls with blank faces."

"A brewery has become a place of forced fun. You can exit from the freeway there (and pretend you went to Japan) and be stripped of your wallet. Or you can be vacuumed up under the vast white dome with all the other morons. Millions are kept pacified within its sunless, airless womb by watching which way a little ball bounces, the results of which are exploded from a giant scoreboard which periodically comes to life with jiggly cartoons for grown-ups already dead."

"I've been in wars and bars and runaway scrapes all over the known world, but the hell with Houston. There is no excuse for that much vulgarity."

Suggested Strategy

William F. Buckley Jr.

It is a matter of days and hours, and still there is no apparent Republican strategy. Strategy in the best sense: strategy directed at the following objectives listed in the order of their importance: 1) Spare the American people a reversal of the 1972 Presidential election by an overwhelming election of Democrats to Congress; 2) Assist Republican candidates running for election and political considerations, by the necessity of having to vote for or against impeachment; 3) Give Richard Nixon, while he still has the opportunity to effect arrangements, the opportunity to give precedent not to such grubby matters as whether he feathered his own nest but whether he took Executive power beyond the lengths contemplated by the founders of the Constitution.

YOU SEE, IN THE NEXT FEW days, Congress will be agreed on a chronology. As things now stand, up front are the personal derelictions of Richard Nixon. Behind that are his alleged abuse of Executive power. Now it would not be a great matter to reverse the order of these two major divisions so that what the Senate would be given to discuss would be in the first instance the Constitutional points rather than the chicken-thief points.

It having been established to the satisfaction of all realists that the House of Representatives will indeed vote for impeachment, attention is directed toward the dissenters: in particular the Republican dissenters. The share the spotlight with the Republicans who will vote impeachment and return to their constituents to try to survive the Coventry into which they will be put by the Nixon loyalists.

NOW A POSSIBLE strategy looms. If, on the eve of the vote President Nixon were to take once more to the airwaves and say something that would reduce as follows:

"Tonight I am addressing myself to the Republican members of the House of Representatives. Gentlemen, the House is resolved that questions have been raised concerning my conduct of the Presidency, and will accordingly vote impeachment."

"I am confident that as regards my own ethical conduct I shall in due course satisfy the Senate that I behaved properly."

"BUT I CONSIDER that the events of the past month have crystallized grave questions unanswered by the Constitution. As you know, I took a position different from that of the Supreme Court on Executive privilege. As you know, I acted on my own initiative to defend the national security when I thought it was threatened during the years 1969, '70 and '71."

"It is the feeling of the majority of this body that I exceeded the authority granted to me by the Constitution. Naturally I do not feel that I did. But quite obviously it is now an open question whether I did or whether I did not. And this is not a question that can be settled by the Supreme Court. The only effective instrument for settling it is the impeachment process."

"The vote will then be cast by the Senate of the United States, which will, in a sense, be acting as a Constitutional convention, called to refine points left unclear by the Consultation itself.

"I SEE NOTHING at this point to be gained by bringing these questions to the Supreme Court under factional auspices. Though my personal fate is involved in the Senate's decision, I share with you a curiosity as to what the determination will be: because after that determination is made, the republic will need to continue with a refined idea of the authority of the Chief Executive."

"I shall vigorously defend my own position in the Senate, but this is not the time to put forward those arguments."

"BUT MEANWHILE, I urge you to join me in the effort to elevate the spirit of this proceeding to genuine Constitutional inquiry — by voting unanimously for impeachment on the first count. I do not believe that any such vote commits any Representative to more than agreeing that the majority of 'his colleagues are resolved to take the matter to the Senate and that under the circumstances in order to make the Senate's mandate clearer, the House will vote — with my blessing — unanimously."

IF THE SENATE, taking up the first series of charges, proceeds to vote against Nixon, he stops being President as of that moment. And the other articles of the impeachment go untransacted, which is not to the disadvantage of Nixon, the Republican party or history. But meanwhile, the November election will be freed of the incubus of how-did-you-vote-on-impeachment, and one would hope that Americans of both parties, if they truly honor the democratic ideal, would welcome this turn in American political preoccupation.

Letter To Editor

When tragedy comes to a family we are all suddenly aware of how good and wonderful people really are.

On July 1, twin baby boys were born to Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lee Scott. Christopher Keith and Jonathan Kirk were beautiful babies and both were apparently healthy and doing fine. Jonathan came home the second week following birth, and has been doing fine ever since. Christopher remained at the hospital because he was the smallest and needed to gain some weight.

On July 15, a heart condition was noted, caused by a birth defect. Christopher ultimately was transferred to the Children's Medical Center in Dallas. He passed away on July 23.

During this heart-breaking period many kind and wonderful Big Spring people came to us with food, gifts, deeds and expressions of concern and sympathy. Some friends (we are still not sure who) have set up a "Christopher Scott Memorial Fund" at the Security State Bank to help with medical and funeral expenses.

These people know who they are, and we love you all. God must certainly be smiling today, because of all of these beautiful people... and so are we.

A Devotion For Today..

"Whosoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Philippians 4:8)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, thank You for the lovely memories You have given me; for the good reports I hear of Your servants in other places; for the encouraging opportunities I have today to spread Your love. Touch my life so that Your fragrance will spill from it to others. For Jesus's sake. Amen.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: That wife who griped because her husband came back home in an amorous mood after driving the kids to school ought to have her head examined. (She said that was no time for love-making.)

What better time? No kids to worry about, make all the noise you want, and have a ball!

The other morning, my husband kissed me goodbye at the door before going to work. I responded with an affectionate bear hug. Two minutes later, as I was pouring myself another cup of coffee, here comes old Romeo back again, grinning.

He was a little late for the office that morning, but so what? I'm thrilled that he can still get that excited about me after 29 years. He's 69, and I'm 53.

LUCKY ME
DEAR ABBY: A wife complains that her husband comes home after he takes the kids to school, expecting her to make the bedroom scene with him. And the dummy is annoyed yet, because she has housework to do!

Your advice: "The housework will keep. Shoot the ducks while they're flying," was right on target. The season never closes on ducks here. And no non-resident permits allowed.

J.E.J., MANHATTAN BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we invited some friends to dinner. I'll call them "Mr. and Mrs. X." Our TV was on when they arrived because we had been watching it before they drove up.

Mr. X told us on a previous occasion that he didn't care to have the TV on while he was trying to converse, but we forgot to turn it off. We had one cocktail, and the TV was still on, but we were also visiting.

Mr. X then said he had come to see US, and he thought it was rude to keep the TV on. A few minutes later he got up and went outside. Mrs. X said he probably wanted to walk around the yard. Then she went out to check on him and she returned saying their car was gone and so was he!

Mr. X didn't return, so we ate without him. Later when we took Mrs. X home, she thanked us for the lovely evening. My husband says if Mr. X calls to apologize, he won't even speak to him. Abby, this really puzzled me.

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: Why? Mr. X told you quite candidly that he was irritated by your TV, but you ignored him. Finally he reached the end of his patience and took his leave, which was rude and childish. But you were rude and insensitive.

Better x the "X's" off your list, because they probably have x'd you off theirs. CONFIDENTIAL. TO K.O.: If you're serious about organizing a girls' boxing team in high school this fall, you'd better plan on providing them with some sort of artificial padding to protect their natural padding. Girls need to be protected in certain anatomical areas the same as men, albeit different areas.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks:

I've just had one of the nicest Italian gentlemen cooks (and, aren't they always good?) come into my home to show me how he could cook special spaghetti sauce (that usually takes hours), in less than 45 minutes!

Here's how: He put the tomatoes, chopped onions, seasons, etc. (everything you want in the sauce except the meat), in my blender!

He let it run for one minute on high speed. This thoroughly mixed and homogenized all of those ingredients into one little, thin stream. And don't get discouraged here, gals. It looks white and foamy but settles back to normal within 10 minutes of cooking.

One thing he did, which surprised me no end, was to add some bacon grease. (I learned that a little bacon grease really does something to this.)

If you are using meatballs, which he did, make them very, very small instead of the usual two-bite size. All he did was throw them on a foil-lined cookie sheet under the broiler, turning it on high heat.

You know what this did? The broiler immediately seared the meat, keeping the juices in.

And every time he stirred those teeny-weensy balls in the broiler, they got more beautiful.

The reason for this is that the juice from the hamburger meat gets down on the foil-lined pan, and every time you stir them with a spoon, they get covered with more grease which seals in more of the flavor. He broiled the meatballs until they were golden brown on all sides. (One could do this on the top rack in their oven.)

After the spaghetti sauce had been cooking slowly for about 40 minutes, he dumped the piping hot, lusciously broiled, brown meat balls into the sauce along with part of the meat drippings, as he said that this would give the sauce that "long-hours-of-cooking taste."

After letting this simmer for about 5 minutes, he turned off the fire under the sauce, put a lid on the pot, and let the whole kaboodle stand about 10 minutes before serving.

Just as he kept saying, "There is no use cooking something 6 or 8 hours is there? Taste this, Heloise..." He was so right. His sauce was out of this world. And it was thick, too.

So, instead of wasting six or eight hours cooking spaghetti sauce, why don't you little darlings who have a blender try putting everything (except the meat) in it, and make the sauce in 45 minutes, as he did?

I also learned that if you have no blender, you can use a food mill. And grate a potato (leaving the skin on) and a carrot into the sauce if you want it extremely thick. Besides, it stretches the sauce and adds vitamins.

And if you add thin slices of green pepper to the sauce, it makes another out of this world sauce.

Our thanks to Angelo for this wonderful lesson.

Heloise
P.S. Be sure to clip this column out and put in your cook book. I don't keep copies of back columns and who knows when you'll need it?

Watch for tomorrow's paper because recently I went to New York and got the recipe for spaghetti sauce from the chef at a famous hotel.

Lions' New Coach Is Disciplinarian

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Rick Forzano plans to stick to the coaching techniques of Don McCafferty, but the new Detroit Lions head coach isn't likely to inherit McCafferty's nickname, "Easy Rider." McCafferty, who died Sunday of a heart attack at his home, believed in discipline but was noted for his easy-going manner. Forzano, a former head coach at the U.S. Naval Academy, said Monday he believes discipline is most important for a football team. "Permissiveness kind of drives me up a wall," the Akron, Ohio, native said. "When you respect people you don't mind being disciplined." Forzano, 45, who was Detroit's offensive backfield coach, was named Monday as McCafferty's interim successor to handle the National Football League club. The selection was made by team president-owner William Clay Ford and General Manager Russ Thomas. Thomas said McCafferty's death "is still difficult to believe" but that "we must go on with business." Asked if Forzano would be permanent head coach this season, Thomas said, "We haven't addressed ourselves to that at all." Forzano said he did not sign a new contract.

IN NFL STRIKE Players Hoping For Compromise

The National Football League players' strike entered a critical stage today with the resumption of talks and rank-and-file criticism of the players' association's negotiating tactics. Efforts to settle the 30-day-old strike were scheduled to resume this afternoon in Washington, D.C., under supervision of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service's chief, W. J. Usery. Usery met Monday with representatives of the NFL Players Association and planned to talk with the NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the owners, today before resuming negotiations. Usery said he hoped now that "we can get both sides down to hard, good-faith bargaining. That is what we desire and are working for and we hope an agreement can be consummated." Meanwhile in Chicago, offensive tackle Bob Asher said "it's getting obvious we've lost the strike. The owners aren't budging." "I feel Ed Garvey (the players' association's executive director) is blowing it. He came into this thing with such hard-nosed tactics, using freedom as the theme, that the good points of our stand have been disguised." Asher said "... by ignoring the public with the 'No Freedom. No Football' approach probably 80 per cent of the public is against us." Some hope for compromise, however, was seen Monday in a statement issued under NFLPA President Bill Curry's name. "We sincerely believe that, at this time, an agreement can be reached," the statement said. In the training camps, the flock of defections from the strike continued, most notably in Latrobe, Pa., where seven veterans, led by quarterback Joe Gilliam, joined the Pittsburgh Steelers' camp. Another notable defection

Permian Gets Nod In 5-4A

HOUSTON (AP) — Defending state Class 4A football champion John Tyler, even without all-star running back Earl Campbell has been picked to repeat its championship drive in a pool of writers attending the Texas High School Coaches Association coaching school. Tyler, which rallied in the second half to nip Austin Reagan 21-14 last December in the title game, was picked today to defeat Brazoswood in the 1974 finals. Brazoswood, upended in its district showdown last season against Brazosport, is the favorite this year in Dist. 25-4A. Tyler is favored to defend its Dist. 14-4A crown.

Red Sox Sweep Series With Hapless Yankees

By The Associated Press

They used to ban books in Boston. Now they ban Yankee victories.

The New York Yankees' futility streak in Fenway Park was made one loss more futile Monday night when the Red Sox clipped them 2-1 in 11 innings. That makes 11 straight losses in Boston, and 20 in their last 21 games there. They last won there last year.

If the Yankees are starting to believe in hexes, they got more evidence Monday night. The Red Sox managed only three hits and won the game in the 11th without a hit.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2; the Detroit Tigers clubbed the Cleveland Indians 8-2; the Texas Rangers punished the Kansas City Royals 10-1, and the Oakland A's outscored the Chicago White Sox 11-9.

Lefty Sam McDowell held the Red Sox hitless through five innings and scoreless through 7 1/2 innings, until Dwight Evans slugged a tying homer high into the left-field screen. The score stayed 1-1 until the 11th, when a walk, wild throw by New York reliever Sparky Lyle on a sacrifice bunt and another walk loaded the bases and a sacrifice fly by Terry Hughes brought in the winning run.

Tigers 8, Indians 2

Four Detroit batters sent first-inning homers into the stands, causing any late arrivals to miss a major league record.

Never before had a team hit four homers in the first inning, although four teams have hit five home runs in a single inning.

Al Kaline, Bill Freehan and Mickey Stanley belted consecutive homers off Fritz Peterson, and two batters later, Ed Brinkman connected off Steve Kline. The barrage was more than enough for Mickey Lolich, who scattered six hits.

Rangers 10, Royals 1

Ferguson Jenkins pitched the top of the fifth inning as his 8-1 lead was in jeopardy. And it was.

Orioles 6, Brewers 2

Paul Blair and Don Baylor drilled run-scoring hits to spark a four-run Baltimore rally that gave Ross Grimsley his seventh victory in his last eight decisions.

A's 11, White Sox 9

Oakland overcame four of its own errors in one inning and two Chicago leads to beat the White Sox.

Down 4-1 after three innings and 5-4 after six, the A's bounced back with four runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth.

HI-JUNIOR TOURNAMENT CONTESTS ARE DELAYED

First round games in the District 6 Hi-Junior Teen-Age Baseball Tournament were postponed Monday in Midland due to rain.

Big Spring's Kiwanians, who were to have played Odessa at 6 p.m., Monday, will see action against that same team this evening. Two defeats are required to eliminate a club.

Favorites in the meet are the Midland Mavericks, who have won 15 straight contests. Midland opposes Abernathy tonight in the first round.

Bill Battle manages the Big Spring entry in the tournament.

Losers in today's games clash at 6 p.m., Wednesday while the winners tangle at 8 o'clock.

Director of the district meet is Louis Salinas. Site of the tournament is Simon Field in Hogan Park.

Brock zeroes in on Wills' Mark

By The Associated Press

The energy crisis hasn't bothered Lou Brock. He never runs out of gas, it seems.

Brock continued his explosive base-stealing pace Monday while helping the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Chicago Cubs 11-2.

"Winning games is important, not setting records," Brock noted after stealing his 65th base of the season and 700th of his career. "But when the competition is tight and the challenge is there, then you find yourself doing things you didn't think were possible."

Brock, zeroing in on Maury Wills' fabulous single-season record of 104, also moved up on the all-time list into some exclusive company. Only four other players in baseball history have stolen 700 or more bases—Ty Cobb (892); Editt Collins (743); Max Carey (738) and Honus Wagner (701).

In the other National League games, the New York Mets nipped the Montreal Expos 4-3; the Los Angeles Dodgers hammered the Atlanta Braves 10-2; the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Pittsburgh Pirates 13-1; the San Diego Padres stopped the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Houston Astros 7-2.

Brock also singled twice and scored twice while both Ken Reitz and Joe Torre homered for the Cards.

Mets 4, Expos 3

John Milner belted a two-run homer in the eighth inning, powering New York over Montreal for the Mets' fourth straight win.

Steve Rogers, 10-13, took a three-hitter and a 3-2 lead into the eighth, but Jerry Grote singled and Milner hit his 15th home of the baseball season, a blast over the right-center field fence. Jack Aker, 2-2, the Mets' third pitcher, got the victory.

Dodgers 10, Braves 2

Jim Wynn knocked in four runs, including two on his 224th home run of the baseball season, helping Los Angeles snap a three-game losing streak with an easy triumph over Atlanta.

Phillies 13, Pirates 1

Mike Schmidt hit a pair of two-run homers and Steve Carlton pitched a two-hitter for his 13th victory of the season as Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh.

Schmidt hit his 21st homer in the first and No. 22 in the sixth.

Padres 3, Reds 2

John Grubb and Nate Colbert cranked solo home runs to help Bill Greif and San Diego beat Cincinnati.

Grubb tagged Clay Kirby, 7-6, for his sixth home run with two down in the first and Colbert hit his 10th of the year and first since July 16 with one down in the fourth.

Giants 7, Astros 2

Ed Halicki scattered 10 hits to notch his first major league victory and Bobby Bonds sparked two three-run rallies with a single and triple to lead San Francisco over Houston.

Osteen Takes Lumps, Astros Lose, 7 To 2

HOUSTON (AP) — San Francisco Giants pitcher Ed Halicki says he's still learning. The Houston Astros probably feel he knows enough already.

Halicki scattered 10 hits Monday night and notched his first major league victory as the Giants whipped the Astros, 7-2.

Halicki, 1-3, also pitching his first complete game, didn't walk a batter and struck out seven as he outdueted veteran Claude Osteen, 9-9.

"I'm still learning," said Halicki. "I've got a long way to go. My curve isn't as sharp as I'd like it to be. My changeup needs polishing, too."

Osteen was the victim of San Francisco three-run rallies in the second and fifth innings. Bobby Bonds sparked both rallies.

Singles by Gary Matthews, Chris Speier and Bruce Miller netted the Giants their first run in the second inning.

After a forceout grounder scored the second run, Bonds capped the inning with a single off left field hit. Bob Watson's fine throw kept Bonds from going to second.

Halicki led off the Giants fifth with a single and scored on Bonds' triple. Bonds scored on the same play with the relay throw from the outfield was wild. Matthews later singled in the third run of the inning.

Halicki singled in the giants' seventh run off Astros reliever Fred Scherman after two walks in the eighth.

Cesar Cedeno singled in a run for Houston off Halicki in the first inning and Roger Metzger singled in another in the fifth.

Halicki liked to talk about his control.

"Last year I walked two or three a game," he said. "That's one every three or more innings and that's not bad control. This year I'm walking even less."

"I used to be wild. But I've learned a lot of things. I've found you don't have to throw the ball past every batter to get them out."

Playoff Game Slated Here

The American League park on the Howard College campus here will be the scene tonight of a Little League playoff game between the Midland Northstars and San Angelo's North squad.

Midland is representing District 4 in the bi-district round. San Angelo turned back Pecos, 8-1, to earn the right to tangle with Midland.

Winner of tonight's contest meets Houston in the first round of the state tournament, starting Aug. 4 in Waco.

Midland survived the district tournament here last week, beating out such rugged teams as the Big Spring Americans and Lamesa.

The game tonight is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Engert Hits .305 In TL

R. J. Engert of the Amarillo Giants, a native of Big Spring, is hitting Texas League pitching at a .305 clip, according to the latest averages.

Engert, a star outfielder for both the Big Spring Steers and the Texas A&M Aggies, got off to a slow start this year but is now "a tough out."

R. J. has been to bat 266 times and has 81 hits. He has scored 46 runs, had one home run to his credit and 26 runs batted in.

Top hitter in the Texas League is Badaz of El Paso, who boasts a .357 average.

Delay Helps Ranger Ace In Game With Royals

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — which the Rangers have gotten double-figure hitting.

Mike Hargrove and Lenny Randle climaxed big innings with two-run singles in the first and third innings, respectively. Randle also had a sacrifice fly to get credit for three RBIs.

Jeff Burroughs made the score 8-1 with a solo homer in the fourth, his 17th of the season. Jim Sundberg finished the blitz with a two-run homer in the eighth inning.

Jenkins allowed a run-scoring single by John Mayberry in the first inning, but the Royals failed to tally after that as the Texas hurler ran his record to 14-9.

After play was resumed, he held the Royals to one hit over the last five innings, and he finished with a six-hitter and 10 strikeouts. But Jenkins' moment of glory was the fifth inning, after which the game became official.

He mowed down all three Royals on strikeouts, using just 12 pitches as the small percentage of the 12,500 fans remaining after the rain cheered lustily.

"I just wanted to come back and throw as hard as possible to make the game official," Jenkins said. "I've lost twice because of rain—both times in 1971."

The victory gave Texas a 7-2 record for its home stand, and the Rangers open a two-game stint against American League West Division-leading Oakland tonight. Texas plays the A's five times in the next nine days.

"We've gotta beat them to get close," said Jenkins. "It has to help us that we had a good home stand that gave us confidence."

Texas collected 12 hits off three Kansas City pitchers. It was the fifth straight game in ARRIVING - "Mama" Cass Elliott, who died in her London West End apartment Monday, is shown arriving July 10 at London's Heathrow Airport from Los Angeles to begin a two-week performance at the London Palladium, followed by a tour of Britain. She was accompanied by Mervyn Laird, left, and choreographer Walter Painter, right. The 33-year-old singer stood 5-feet-5-inches and weighed 238 pounds. She was found dead in bed by her secretary.

Did 'Mama' Cass Choke On Sandwich?

LONDON (AP) - Britain's top pathologist said after an autopsy today that further tests would be needed to determine how "Mama" Cass Elliott, the sweet-voiced 238-pound pop singer, died.

Prof. Keith Simpson gave no details of his examination, but said the singer did not appear to have died from natural causes. He did not elaborate. Police said an inquest will be held at Westminster coroner's court Wednesday.

VERY BIG LADY Simpson's statement came only hours after the singer's doctor, Anthony Greenburg, told newsmen: "I think the post-mortem will probably show that she died as a result of choking on a sandwich while lying in bed and inhaling her own vomit."

"She was a very big lady and I could not rule out the possibility of a heart attack," Dot MacLeod, the singer's secretary, said she found the 33-year-old star's body Monday afternoon slightly propped up in her double bed in the six-room apartment she was occupying during engagements in Britain. The television set was on, and a ham sandwich and a soft drink were beside her pillow, Miss MacLeod said.

"She had been dead for a considerable time before her body was found," Dr. Greenburg said. FEELING GOOD The singer, who rose to fame in the 1960s as the leading prima of The Mamas and the Papas, completed a two-week engagement at the Palladium Saturday night. She was preparing to start a tour of Britain.

"This last week was the happiest I have ever seen her," said her manager, Allan Carr. "She told me after she had received a standing ovation at the Palladium: 'I feel that I have given the best of myself 23 times, but I have never felt better about anything I have ever done professionally.'" Dr. Greenburg said she had been dieting and had "been doing quite well." She told an interviewer from the Times of London a few days ago she had lost 80 pounds in the past year. Miss Elliott's 7-year-old daughter by singer James R. Hendricks, Vanessa, was reported with her grandmother in Baltimore, Md.

"THE MUSIC MAN" Born Ellen Naomi Cohen in Baltimore, she grew up in Virginia and Maryland and took the name Cassandra Elliot before going to New York to try for a stage career. After a few small parts and a role in a touring company of "The Music Man," she turned to singing, first with Denny Doherty and Tim Rose in a group called The Big Three, then with Doherty and two others as The Mugwumps.

The Mugwumps also failed with the public and split up. Then Miss Elliot and Doherty teamed with John and Michelle Phillips as The Mamas and the Papas. Success came quickly in the form of million-selling gold records and sellout concerts across the country.

The Mamas and the Papas split up amicably in 1968, and Miss Elliot struck out on her own with recordings and television and night club appearances. Her hit records as a single included "Dream a Little Dream of Me" and "Make Your Own Kind of Music."

She and Hendricks were married in 1963 and divorced in 1969. In 1971, she married a Bavarian boxer, Donald von Wiedeman.

Painters Walk Off Their Jobs

HOUSTON (AP) - Representatives of some 1,700 striking painters negotiated with contractors today after the painters from 22 Southeast Texas counties walked off their jobs.

The workers, all members of the Painters and Decorators Local Union 130, walked off some 250 construction sites during the weekend.

Most of the workers and construction sites, primarily industrial commercial, are in Houston, said Lee Brimberry, union business representative.

Brimberry said the union membership rejected Sunday an 80-cents an hour raise for each of three years from the Painters and Decorators Contractors of America.

Brimberry said the union wants an increase of $1 an hour for each of the three years.

The current basic wage ranges from $6.63 to $7.26.

Two Officers Turn In Resignations

Two city policemen Monday submitted their resignations in connection with an incident Friday. Earlier, Police Chief Vance Chism had given notice of termination, but Monday Kenneth Shores and Frank Cleveland asked for the privilege of resigning. Accordingly their resignations were received.

Shores said that he asked to be able to resign because he felt this was the best course for all concerned. He said this also reflected the views of Cleveland.

IN WAKE OF WASHINGTON INDICTMENT Many Texans Go To Defense Of Connally

By The Associated Press

John B. Connally has taken and survived a Dallas sniper's bullets. Will he overcome the accusing shots fired at him by a Washington, D.C. grand jury in indictments charging him with bribery, perjury and obstructing justice.

Connally, 57, who might have been nominated for the Presidency in 1976, asserts he will be vindicated. Many others rallied to his defense on Monday when the indictments were released.

Connally first denied through a spokesman the Watergate related allegations of taking a milk cooperative payoff. Later he told a reporter Monday night in a Houston telephone interview he was "heartsick" over the indictment.

"We're going to keep fighting it," Connally said. "We're going to use every source and we're going to win it. We are not giving up."

Merrill Connally, 53, one of Connally's five brothers, was at his Floresville, Tex., ranch when he heard the news.

"I think it is abominable the way the news media has given voice to this allegation," said Merrill Connally.

"John Connally has always been super careful and super cautious about his personal and governmental career, both at the state level and the national level."

Connally first denied through a spokesman the Watergate related allegations of taking a milk cooperative payoff. Later he told a reporter Monday night in a Houston telephone interview he was "heartsick" over the indictment.

"They have traded with him in order to lie on my brother."

Jacobsen, indicted along with Connally, reportedly has offered to testify against the former Texas governor and U.S. Treasury Secretary. Jacobsen also faces difficulties for his alleged role in a savings and loan scandal being investigated by the federal government.

Merrill Connally worried about the indictment's being "a semblance of blight" even though he assured his interviewer John Connally would be exonerated.

Jeffers said Connally's indictment was "an outrage... not based on credible evidence."

"This is simply the most extreme instance imaginable of the hatred and hysteria that now grips the legal processes in the District of Columbia. It is an extremely dangerous thing to the American people," said professor, worked for Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern in 1972 when John Connally was helping the "Democrats for Nixon" movement.

AN OUTRAGE
John Connally maintains a ranch in his native county near Merrill's ranch but mainly resides in Houston where he practices law with immediate past State Bar of Texas president Leroy Jeffers.

Jeffers said Connally's indictment was "an outrage... not based on credible evidence."

"This is simply the most extreme instance imaginable of the hatred and hysteria that now grips the legal processes in the District of Columbia. It is an extremely dangerous thing to the American people," said Jeffers. John Connally has said repeatedly he has not been a candidate for public office since he left Washington.

Any private hopes he maintained toward the Presidency are lost, said a prominent Texas Republican, Nancy Palm of Houston.

Mrs. Palm, chairman of her county's GOP, said, "I think his political future is blown totally. Even if he is exonerated, unfortunately an indictment in the public eye is tantamount to conviction."

Jeffers has not been hesitant to discuss his feelings toward Connally's future.

Prior to the indictments but well after milk fund developments brought Connally into the picture, Jeffers told the State Bar of Texas' convention in San Antonio about the "slings and arrows" directed at his partner.

But, Jeffers said at the time, Connally's "figure will stand tall and untarnished in the Texas sunlight of truth long after the tongues of slander are in silence."

Damaging Storms Push Deeper Into Texas

By The Associated Press

Bristling and sometimes damaging thunderstorms pushed deeper into Texas today, denting critical drought conditions and cooling some heat-weary sections.

Brilliant electrical displays and considerable hail accompanied the storms as they spread into North Central Texas during the night.

A tornado spun into the west edge of Vernon in Northwest Texas late Monday, knocking windows out at a convalescent home, damaging roofs and snapping utility lines. There was no word of injuries.

By early today most of the widespread showers and thunderstorms were occurring in areas along a mild cold front—then along a line linking the Longview, Del Rio and El Paso areas—and behind it as far as Wichita Falls and Midland.

Similar conditions were expected as the cooler air pushed slowly toward the south, with the unsettled weather lingering as much as 150 miles in its wake.

The showers developed first in the Texas Panhandle, where 1.44 inches of rain kept the top temperature Monday at Dalhart down to 73 degrees.

Pupils Won't Be Dozing

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Leo Mark Anthony has no trouble getting his students to listen. But then his topic is how to find gold.

"There is tremendous interest in prospecting now," he says. "I sure don't have any trouble with students going to sleep in class."

Why? Gold was selling at $149.30 an ounce in New York on Friday and Anthony says it's likely to climb to about $200 an ounce within a year. For years the price had been held by law at $35 an ounce.

He says prospectors "invest vast amounts of hard work and energy. Most get nothing, or maybe a few flakes of gold. But occasionally there is an important find. Hope, that is the big thing."

A few weeks ago his teaching won him the National Association of Geology Teachers outstanding earth-science teaching award for his 22 years in classrooms from Ketchikan to Barrow.

DSP Man Moved To San Angelo

LAMESA — Sgt. Oscar Armstrong of the Lamesa office of the Texas Department of Public Safety has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant and named to head the San Angelo DPS office. He has been stationed here since 1970.

As head of the Lamesa office, he has been charged with the responsibility of overseeing DPS operations in Dawson, Howard, Gaines and Borden counties. His new duties will call for him to supervise DPS operations in 15 counties.

Before moving to Lamesa, Armstrong was stationed in Abilene and Anson.

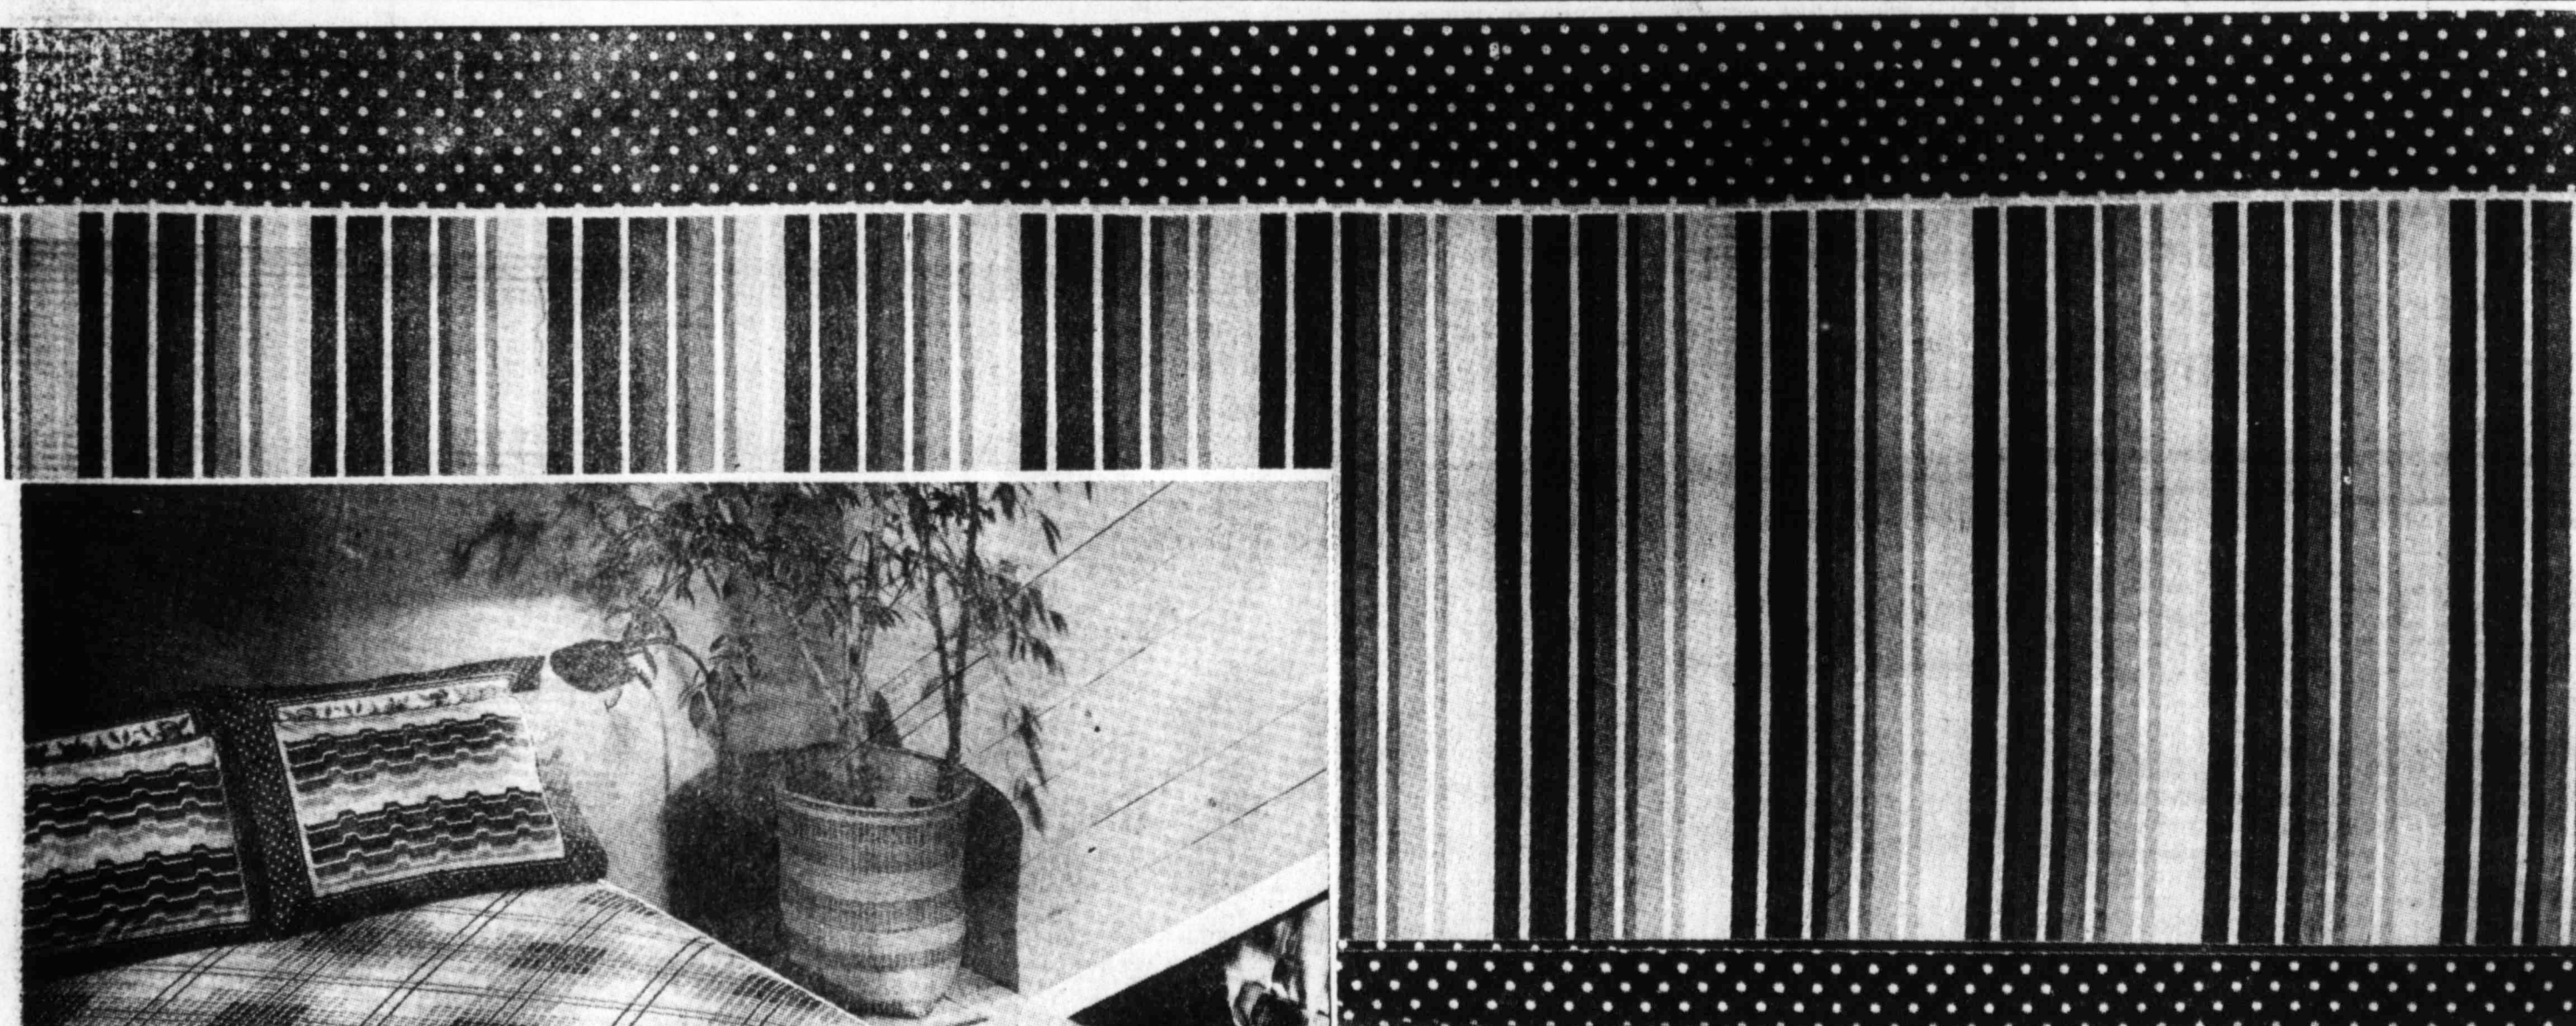

THE LAST SUPPER? — Looks can be deceiving. Driver of the hearse who stopped in front of Herman's Steak House here wasn't on a mission to pick up a luckless customer but was eating there himself — no matter what motorists might have been thinking. (Photo by Danny Valdes)
