DETROIT (AP) — Police say there have been 516 homicides committed in Detroit thus far in 1974, 27 above last year's record pace. There were 751 killings in 1973, an all-time record in this city of 1.5 million that has come to be known as the nation's murder capital. A Wayne State University study sponsored by the city reveals the typical killer differs little from his victim. The report, covering about 500 murders in 1972, shows: More than 75 per cent of murderers were male; two-thirds of the slayings followed a quarrel with a relative or acquaintance; 63 per cent of the murders were committed with guns, often the inexpensive "Saturday Night Specials"; most of those involved on both sides of the gun were black males, with half of them single and 40 per cent unemployed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials said the French government is putting "staggering pressure" on four NATO countries as they decide whether to buy a new French or U.S. jet fighter. The Netherlands, Belgium, Norway and Denmark are to buy about 350 planes to replace aging U.S.-built F104 Starfighters. The French entry is the Mirage F1M53, while the United States has two candidates — the YF16, built by General Dynamics Corp., and the YF17 of the Northrup Corp. At stake are contracts potentially worth billions of dollars, prestige and influence in Europe, large numbers of jobs in two ailing economies and hopes for balance-of-payment benefits.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With praise from AFL-CIO President George Meany, President Ford is marshaling his forces to combat the cost-of-living surge. Ford was to confer twice today with his economic advisers to move along plans for the White House conference on inflation set for Sept. 27-28. Ford also received some unofficial economic advice when Meany, in a Labor Day radio broadcast over CBS, urged the President to lay out for the public what the union leader said were the hard facts of inflation, recession and unemployment.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's voters face the prospect of a general election next month dominated by the country's worst economic crisis since World War II.

Key Demos Eye Tax Revision, Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders seeking to bolster the record of the 93rd Congress are eyeing national health insurance and tax revision as two top priority items in the closing weeks of the session.

But any chance of action in these controversial areas runs headlong into the desire of most members of Congress to end the 93rd session before the Nov. 5 elections.

NO CHANCE
Most of the leaders concede there is no chance of getting legislation on either subject to President Ford unless the session reconvenes after the elections.

The Senate returns Wednesday from a Labor Day recess, and the House resumes a week later. Congress has considerable other business remaining and it is doubtful that it can meet its Oct. 15 target date for adjournment even if it shelves health insurance and major tax legislation.

The House Ways and Means Committee has been struggling with the complexities of national health insurance for weeks.

Before the recess, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., threw up his hands and said it did not seem possible to reach a satisfactory compromise this year.

MEDICAL BILLS

But Senate sponsors of measures in the field say they have not given up hope. In his first speech to Congress as President, Ford asked on Aug. 12 for passage of a health insurance bill during this Congress.

Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., are still pushing their proposal to protect some families hardest hit by medical bills.

It would guard all persons against the huge costs of a catastrophic illness and would improve the present program of health benefits for low-income families.

Ways and Means has written a far-reaching tax bill, and Mills has pledged to get it through the House in September.

OIL PROFITS

However, it seems unlikely that the Senate Finance Committee could conduct hearings on this measure, draft its own version, and get it passed by the Senate and into conference with the House before December.

Some members argue that all Congress can do this year is to pass those provisions of the House bill aimed at windfall oil company profits. The legislators also might be forced to return after the elections to complete work on the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be Vice President if his extensive financial holdings lead to lengthy hearings. Congress still has to send to the President 7 of the 14 appropriations bills needed to run the government in the present fiscal year.

SUGAR PRICES SOUR

Higher Prices For Everything

By The Associated Press

Higher prices for everything from peanut butter to pork chops helped push up the family grocery bill again during August, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey.

The survey showed that the marketbasket has risen 11 per cent so far this year and prices are 14 per cent higher than they were 12 months ago.

The AP checked the prices of 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked at the beginning of each succeeding month.

EGGS UP
The latest check, at the start of the Labor Day weekend, provided little encouragement for consumers.

More than 40 per cent of the total number of items checked went up during August. Eggs were up in every city checked — although they generally were cheaper than a year ago when $1-a-dozen eggs prompted consumers to seek other sources of protein.

Sugar continued its seemingly relentless rise, increasing in 11 cities during August. Pork chops were up in eight cities, reflecting higher prices paid to farmers for their hogs. Peanut butter, which had remained fairly steady in price, went up in six cities last month. Coffee was up in eight cities.

The sugar increases have been the largest in the AP marketbasket that during August the marketbasket went up in every city surveyed except Dallas, Tex., where it dropped by a penny or a fraction of 1 per cent. The average increase was 4 1/2 per cent. During July, the AP marketbasket rose in all 13 cities.

POLICE BRUTALITY CHARGE

Two-Day Rampage By Puerto Ricans

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Despite minor disorders at a housing project, peace was restored today in this industrial city following a two-day rampage by Puerto Ricans angered over alleged police brutality.

The disturbance, which began at a Puerto Rican picnic Sunday, included massive demonstrations, window-breaking, two shootings and several fires. On Monday, police charged down Broad Street, the main thoroughfare in this city of 400,000, to clear about 1,000 protesters.

Police said today there were scattered incidents of minor vandalism at Columbus Homes, a predominantly Puerto Rican project.

The weather forecast called for rain throughout the day. Authorities hoped this would keep people off the streets.

PELT CLUB HALL

On Monday evening hundreds of demonstrators pelted City Hall with stones and shattered windows in businesses along Broad Street, prompting police to clear the area. Fire officials said a series of fires suspicious in origin broke out, and a fire bomb was thrown into a Roman Catholic convent.

Former Gov. William Guy of North Dakota is opposed by businessman Robert McCarney of Bismarck for the Democratic nomination and a chance to unseat Sen. Milton R. Young, a Republican, in November. Young is unopposed for renomination.

And in Nevada, former Gov. Paul Laxalt is locked up in a three-way race for the GOP nomination to succeed retiring Democratic Sen. Alan Bible.

The Maddox-Busbee runoff was the Democratic highlight in Georgia, but the state's Republicans also went to the polls to pick their choice for governor. The candidates were Macon's controversial mayor, Ronnie Thompson, and retired Army officer Harold Dye.

In a second feature race in North Dakota, state Sen. Lawrence Naaden challenged Rep. Mark Andrews for the GOP congressional nomination. The winner faces Democrat Byron

MEN IN SERVICE

WAYNE E. CRENWELGE

The local men included the 1,500 cadets who have entered their freshman year at the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo. They are Wayne E. Crenwolge, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Joe E. Crenwolge, 2805 Apache, Big Spring, and Michael D. Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Payne of 508 St. Francis, Stanton.

Cadet Payne and Crenwolge were accepted into the cadet wing after completing six weeks of intensive field training, physical conditioning and survival instruction at the academy. Their four years of academic study and military training will lead to a bachelor of science degree in one of 21 major fields and a commission as an Air Force second lieutenant.

Cadet Payne is a 1974 graduate of San Manuel (Ariz.) High School and Crenwolge graduated from Big Spring High School.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Senior Master Sergeant Dale J. Anderson, son of Mrs. Gaines L. Anderson of 893 E. Seventh St., Colorado City, Tex., has graduated from the U.S. Air Force Senior Noncommissioned Officer Academy at Gunter AFB, Ala.

During the nine-week course, the sergeant received advanced study in management techniques, behavioral science and contemporary issues which will aid him in fulfilling positions of greater responsibility. The academy is the highest school in the professional military education system for non-commissioned officers.

Sergeant Anderson has returned to Carswell AFB, Tex., where he is a defensive aerial gunner superintendent with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

The sergeant, a 1956 graduate of Colorado City High School, attended Black Hills Teachers College, Spearfish, S. C., Merced (Calif.) Junior College and Texas Christian University.

His wife, Elizabeth, is the daughter of Mrs. Gretchen Woolridge of El Reno, Okla. Army Pvt. Joel R. Pearson, 18, son of Mrs. Ellen J. Pearson, Big Spring, is assigned to the 2nd A-mored Division at Ft. Hood, Tex.

Pvt. Pearson is a clerk-typist with the 502nd adjutant general company of the division.

MICHAEL PAYNE

PEARL HARBOR, HAWAII — Navy Lieutenant Commander Charles D. Ewing, son of Mrs. W. Leatrice Ewing of 900 E. 13th St., Big Spring, has reported for duty with the Commander Third Fleet here.

A 1959 graduate of the University of Texas, Austin, with a Bachelor of Arts degree, he joined the Navy in November 1959.

CHINA LAKE, Calif. — Reginald Lynn Cranford, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cranford of Wichita Falls, formerly of Big Spring, is stationed at Naval Weapons Center in China Lake, Calif.

He joined the Navy in February and is serving as a dentist, holding the rank of lieutenant and division officer.

A Big Spring High School graduate in 1966, he attended HCJC two years, graduated from Texas Tech in 1970 and the Baylor College of Dentistry in Dallas in January 1974.

Married to the former Suzanne Jordan of Wichita Falls, the Cranfords have one daughter, Jennifer, who is 22 months old.

R. L. CRANFORD

Now serving at the school of Health Care Sciences, Sheppard AFB, Tex., is Air Force Sgt. Richard D. Axelrad, son of retired S.M. Sgt. and Mrs. Karl Axelrad, 3608 Parkway, Big Spring.

Sgt. Axelrad, a medical laboratory specialist, was previously assigned to Webb AFB. He is a 1972 graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Midwestern University and Howard College.

Questions, Answers About Pension Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — For millions of American workers, an era of frequently unkept pension promises and uncertainty over private industry's retirement program rights is ending at last.

The 1974 Employee Retirement Income Security Act, which President Ford signed Monday, climaxes several years of congressional efforts to guarantee that workers get what they have earned when they retire.

All sides agree this is a true compromise, not fully satisfactory to any special-interest group, but it is widely recognized as a landmark government attempt to combat various factors that have cheated workers out of what they earned, or thought they had, over many years on the job.

Here, in question and answer form based on information from the law's authors and its critics, is what the new measure means to the average American worker and family:

Q: Are companies required to provide pension plans?

A: The law does not force them to provide pension plans. It sets rules for the existing plans and any new ones.

Q: Can my employer fire me to avoid paying the pension I have earned?

A: That would be illegal if you can prove he fired you for that purpose.

Q: How old must I be to begin building my pension?

A: Generally, your company plan in use covers you if you are at least 25 years old and have worked for the firm one year. Previously, no fixed age or service rules applied.

Q: Will I be cheated of all the time I worked before I reached 25?

A: No. If you started working there at 22, or younger, and you meet the age requirement for participation by serving until you are 25, then you'll get credit for three years of back service for purposes of determining the percentage of your benefits that are vested.

Q: What does "vested" mean?

A: It means guaranteeing a share of our company's pension fund, giving you a nonforfeitable right to some benefits even if you leave that job before you retire.

Q: I'd like to get my vesting as soon as I can. How can I?

A: The law is flexible on this point because there are 300,000 to 400,000 pension plans. Your situation may not be the same as that of your neighbor. There are three minimum methods of vesting. Your employer must pick one of these options. Under one option, you would get at least 25 per cent of your benefits vested after five years on the job. This would gradually rise to 100 per cent at the end of 15 years.

The second option would give you total rights to your accumulated benefits after 10 years with the company, but nothing before then. If you quit before finishing 10 years of service, you would lose everything.

The third alternative is called the "rule of 45," because you would get 50 per cent vesting when your age and your years of service equal 45, with the final 50 per cent coming in the next five years.

Q: What does this accomplish?

A: It lets a company give faster vesting to its older workers than to its younger employees. But you would need at least five years on the job to get it. Under this option, anyone completing 10 years of service must get a vested right to at least half the benefits.

Q: When are the participation and vesting rules effective?

A: Rules for new plans take effect immediately. But they apply to existing plans after Dec. 31, 1975. This will allow time to make necessary changes to conform with the new rules.

The vesting date of some collectively bargained plans with special benefits is delayed until the end of the present contract but no later than Dec. 31, 1980.

Q: What if there's not enough money in the pension fund for vesting?

A: There are minimum funding standards aimed at helping guarantee that you plan will accumulate sufficient money to pay your pension. Generally, funding provisions apply to plans where it is specified that you'll get a designated amount of benefits.

Q: Is this the first such guarantee?

Yes. Employers were previously forced by tax laws to contribute costs and interest due on liabilities that have accumulated but for which money was not set aside. They were not forced to pay toward the actual liability. The new law gives the employer between 30 and 40 years to catch up.

Q: How can I be sure he's really doing that?

A: The law protects you. Actuarial assumptions of each plan must be certified by an actuary at least every three years. Your employer must pay an excise tax to match the amounts contributed to the fund if the fund falls short.

Q: What happens if the plan folds?

A: The new law provides termination insurance. It creates a Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. in the Labor Department, directed by the secretaries of labor, commerce, and the treasury.

Q: How much will I get from this new corporation if my pension plan folds?

A: You'd get up to 100 per cent of your average Q: Where does the money come from?

A: The new corporation can borrow $100 million from the U.S. Treasury. Your employer is liable for benefits paid under the insurance program up to 30 per cent of his net worth. Annual premiums paid by the employers would cost 50 cents or $1 per covered worker, depending on the plan.

Q: When do the benefits of the insurance protection begin?

A: For single-employer plans, benefit coverage and employer's liability begin immediately. But under multi-employer plans, in which various firms in the same industry offer a common plan, coverage generally starts Jan. 1, 1980.

You may set up your own plan by using IRA. It gives you a limited tax deduction. You can take the deduction by contributing to IRA up to 15 per cent of your earned income or $1,500, whichever is less.

Q: Where do I put this money?

A: You may invest it in such forms as special types of U.S. Treasury bonds, mutual funds, credit unions, banks, corporate securities and life insurance endowment contracts.

Q: What about self-employed person?

A: They can get a tax deduction by putting up to $7,500 a year in a personal retirement plan, effective this year, compared to the old limit of $2,500 annually.

Q: Is there anything in the new law to keep the funds' managers honest?

A: Yes. It is called fiduciary responsibility. The law fixes tough standards of conduct and accountability for persons administering and operating the pension plans. These include the first federal standards, spelling out the duty of those dealing with pension plans. Labor and tax laws are brought to bear against anyone abusing the trust.

EXCEED ESTIMATE Traffic Accidents Claim 41 Victims

By The Associated Press
Traffic accidents claimed 41 lives and Texas counted a total of 64 violent deaths during the extended Labor Day weekend.

The number of fatalities on streets and highways exceeded by seven an advance estimate by the Texas Department of Public Safety of 34 such fatalities.

These were among the latest victims in the holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

Three members of a Kansas family died Monday near Bogata in East Texas when their car struck a tree. They were Cecil Patton, 39; his son Robert, 17; and his stepson Kenneth Owens, 16, all of Shawnee, Kan. Patton's wife and another son were hospitalized.

service station. Police said a man was arrested and charged.

SLEEPING IN ROAD
A young couple was killed early Monday when a car ran over them as they lay sleeping in the middle of Texas 71, near Marble Falls, state police said. The victims were Russ C. Townsend, 16, of Windemere, Fla. and Diane G. Wurtz, 15, of Orlando, Fla.

In Nacogdoches, Joe Paul King, 25, and his wife Deborah died Monday when their car collided with a tractor-trailer truck on U.S. 59. Their 3-year-old daughter was seriously injured.

In Falls County, Dexter Dawson, 11, drowned Monday in the Old City Lake.

Donald Elmo Davis, 19, of Fort Worth died Monday in a two-car collision one mile west of Stephenville on U.S. 67.

Mishaps Kill 483 Persons

By The Associated Press
Accidents on the nation's highways killed 483 persons over the Labor Day holiday period.

Cold, rainy weather over most of the nation may have kept many Americans home and helped reduce the toll.

The National Safety Council estimated before the holiday began that 450 to 550 persons might die in highway accidents, its lowest estimate for a Labor Day in more than 10 years. The council cited the new national speed limit of 55 miles per hour as the reason for the low estimate.

Last year 559 persons were killed during the Labor Day weekend. The record toll for a Labor Day holiday period was 688 in 1968.

The 78-hour holiday period began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ended at midnight Monday local time.

A young Georgia team captained by Steve Goldberg won the Spingold Team Championship, premier event of the American Contract Bridge League's Summer Nationals held in New York during July. In the final, they defeated by 3 international matchpoints, a team led by internationalist Lew Mathe of Los Angeles.

For three quarters, the winners dominated the match, leading by 63 IMPs, with 16 boards to play. Then Mathe took control and began to manufacture gains out of nothing and when this last board had to be played, he had cut the deficit to 14 IMPs.

In one room, Pender and Lewis had played in four hearts for the Mathe team, making five-odd. In the other room, Mathe defeated five hearts one, trick, to gain 11 IMPs. However, had South taken one more bid to six clubs—as shown in the diagram, and had Mathe been allowed to play there, he would have won the match had he made the contract. Looking at all four hands, can you make six clubs after a heart lead?

Ruff the heart lead, draw the outstanding trump and return to the South hand with a heart ruff to take a spade finesse. Now run the trumps, reducing the hand to this:

♠ A Q 6

When South's jack of clubs is played, West must keep three spades, so he is forced to discard the queen of diamonds. Dummy's six of spades is sluffed, and South tucks West's in with his ace of diamonds. West must lead a spade. North's queen is finessed and the ace of spades and king of diamonds take the last two tricks—making six-odd.

Philadelphia To Host Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford plans to fly to Philadelphia Thursday for the convening of the Continental Congress as part of the nation's bicentennial celebrations.

The President plans to fly to Philadelphia for the ceremony Thursday evening and return to Washington that night, a White House official said on Monday.

A presidential spokesman said he did not think Ford would make any statement on amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters while in Philadelphia.

In 1776 the Continental Congress met in Philadelphia and declared the 13 American colonies independent.

A Pertinent Question

Whether Jake Jacobsen goes free in the alleged misspapplication of $825,000 in funds from a San Angelo savings association rests in the hands of a federal district judge in Dallas.

The skills for immunity appeared to be well greased as a result of plea bargaining between Jacobsen's lawyer and the Special Prosecutor's force in Washington. Jacobsen would testify against John Connally in a bribery case in exchange for dismissal of the San Angelo charges.

But Judge Robert M. Hill wasn't so sure Thursday at a hearing on the government's motion to dismiss the Jacobsen charges. Judge Hill questioned whether the Washington staff of the special prosecutor can make a deal with a defendant for cooperation in one case that would be binding on a judge in a completely unrelated case in another court. He said he would study the legal precedents over the weekend before handing down a ruling.

Some substantive questions tower over the cozy arrangement the Washington prosecutors made with Jacobsen. What about the matter of justice in the San Angelo case — the stockholders and patrons of the San Angelo Savings Firm, if the misspapplication of funds can be proved? What about the matter of public confidence in such institutions and the assurance that betrayal of trust will be ferreted out and punished?

The motion for dismissal of charges filed in Judge Hill's court said that unless the San Angelo counts are dismissed, the government will lose Jacobsen's testimony against Connally.

Congressional Record

If senators and representatives actually had to stand up in the chamber and read some of the long speeches and articles they now submit in writing, they would probably be less impressed with the value of all that verbiage. They could practice how to get a point across with a few well-chosen words — and help beat the paper shortage, too.

Is this to say, as it seems to, that Jacobsen will not testify as to the truth against Connally unless the burden of the San Angelo is lifted from him? Jacobsen already has entered his own plea of guilt in Washington of bribing Connally with $10,000 on Associated Milk Producers money.

The outcome of this case will have significant influence on the public's opinion about the quality of justice and whether justice really prevails in most instances. The price of prosecution must not depend upon a one-to-one swap.

The House of Representatives is in a dither over the success of practical jokers in getting "remarks" published in the Congressional Record attributed to congressmen who never made them. This would be a good time to reconsider the procedure which allows material to be inserted in the record simply by handing it to the clerk.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I think Christians are rather arrogant in saying that those who don't heed their message are eternally lost. What about those who have never even heard of Jesus? Is God fair to condemn them?

D.L. It really isn't a question of the arrogance of Christians. Rather it concerns the argument of Christ. What He said about man's eternal welfare left no room for the differences in human opinion.

First, you should know that any condemnation arises from a rejection of Christ's claims, not because circumstances prohibit hearing the Gospel. That's what John 3:18 says. And then read the next statement too — It shows such rejection to be a personal and willful act, a moral perversity that man cannot blame on God or environment.

The Bible is very clear about the subject you mention. It says that while the brute beasts of creation don't have knowledge of good and evil, man does. And that even without receiving any special revelation (like a missionary or copies of the Scripture), God manifests Himself in two ways — outwardly in nature and inwardly in conscience. That's why in Romans 1:20 Paul says, "man is simply without excuse."

Don't worry. God is everywhere pictured in the Scripture as holy, fair and just. He will condemn only with good reason. No man stands in jeopardy of punishment who has not brought it about by conscious act. But the Bible's good news is that by faith in Christ, we can have abundant life — now and forever.

Inflation Rages

NEW YORK (AP) — A consumer psychologist has a suggestion for some of those statistic-minded economists who now are pursuing their presidentially encouraged talks of reviewing the causes and solutions of inflation:

Don't assume that consumers respond like automatons. If you admit they act like human beings rather than numbers you won't have to keep repeating that lame excuse: "People didn't act as anticipated."

Prof. George Katona, who for years headed the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, challenges some of the bedrock assumptions on which economic thinking rests. To illustrate, many economists believe that in times of inflation people must be encouraged to save and admonished not to spend. But, Katona says in effect, people already are motivated to do so. They need no encouragement.

Not that they always do save when inflation rages. When the fear of short-ages or mistrust in the dollar's value are added to the equation, people might act the very opposite. They must buy while they can.

Katona, widely regarded as the founder of consumer surveys as they exist today, related some of his views and findings in a paper prepared for an American Psychological Association meeting in New Orleans last Sunday.

Consumers and others do not always react in the predicted manner because of the presence of optimistic or pessimistic attitudes which have their origins in past experience, trust in government, financial condition and the like. Too often, Katona suggests, economists accept the simple proposition that all there is to inflation is "an insufficient supply of goods in relation to the demand for them at existing prices." Such an attitude, he said, ignores a mass of relevant material on how people perceive the supply-demand ratio.

Price controls, for example, are viewed by Katona as psychological as much as legal. During World War II and in 1971-73, he said, it was shown that price controls work only if people cooperate with them.

Governments are powerless to enforce controls if very many businessmen and consumers disregard them. At the present time the psychological climate creates some serious obstacles to dealing with inflation, Katona says. He maintains "there prevails a lack of trust in government," which lowers expectations of overcoming prices.

Fighting inflation, he concludes, "calls for creating conditions in which optimistic and confident attitudes arise rather than expectations of rapidly rising prices."

The Good Age

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

The young man toyed with his drink and gave an extra tap to the cigarette he was snuffing out in the round black tray. The question was on the tip of his tongue and, knowing what it was, I suppressed a smile, returned his gaze — and didn't give him any help.

WE WEREN'T strangers. We had talked before: knew each other's name, job, marital status, the sort of small talk that comes from casual conversations in the cocktail hour.

What was bothering him was my age. He wanted to know, but had been too polite to ask. He knew I was "older" — but he hoped not much.

A DIRECT question got an honest answer and, for a moment, we both wished I had lied.

But only for a moment. Regret? How could I regret being happily, healthily, exuberantly 50 years old? Not 20 (when you begin to suspect all is not right with the world) nor 30 (when your suspicions are confirmed) nor 40 (when you wonder if this is all there is) but 50, wonderful, beautiful 50 — when it all starts to make sense. AT 50, you've seen dreams go down the drain, but salvaged something from the loss. You've let a lot of chances go by, but learned that everything that knocks isn't opportunity. You've lost some friends, but gained a few. You've felt passions and learned that pain is transitory. You know that loving isn't possessing and you don't want to own another person's soul.

WHEN YOU'RE 50, to believe as one pleases and act as one feels is an earned and natural right that does not fear criticism, publicity, bigotry, prejudice or hypocrisy. At 50, you know that everyone takes a beating of one kind or another every day — and that everyone cries for help in one way or another.

And you know that a miracle can happen any minute. Do I mind being 50? Not on your life.

NOT WHEN THERE'S still that spark of nature's fire that let's me look back over my shoulder at the years — and blow a kiss.

A Low Profile

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON—President Ford has ruled out campaigning against Democratic incumbents running for reelection to Congress at least until after Congress adjourns in mid-October.

The Only Congressional races that Mr. Ford would touch before final congressional adjournment are those he calls "open district" elections: districts in which the incumbent is not running. The President passed that word privately on Aug. 22 to several old friends in the Oval Office during a picture-taking session he had with 149 House Republicans, all of them running for reelection.

IF CONGRESS delays adjournment until late October, he indicated, he would campaign only in "open" districts, and only "late" in the campaign. The reason: Mr. Ford's pledge in his first presidential speech of Congress to seek a "lasting marriage," not just the traditional honeymoon, with the overwhelmingly Democratic Congress. What that probably assures is a very low presidential profile on the campaign stump this fall, a fact that will disappoint most Republicans and anger some. Vice President-designate Nelson Rockefeller will also be immunized as a national campaigner this fall until Congress confirms him.

THE PRESIDENTS self-imposed—but unannounced—rule to concentrate in "open" districts still leaves him running round. There are 23 Republican and 25 Democratic districts in which incumbents are not running for reelection. But his key plan sharply conflicts with Richard Nixon's slashing, vitriolic attack on Democrats in the 1970 off-year election.

FREDERICK MALEK, the bright, abrasive White House hatchet man in the first Nixon administration who recently resigned as deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, has been quietly fired from his prospective new job with billionaire shipowner

D.K. Ludwig.

A Malek intimate confirmed that Ludwig, a publicity hater who has acquired the world's largest single-owner fleet of ocean transports, was infuriated at the publicity Malek gave himself and his new job as a top Ludwig lieutenant. In short, Malek stumbled over his own tongue.

MALEK'S SELF-IMPOSED accident has not saddened a good many old Nixon administration hands who felt his scourge when he was the hatchet man of H. R. Haldeman, Richard Nixon's White House Chief of Staff. It was Malek who drove a dozen top Interior Department aides out of their offices on a few hours' notice after Nixon fired Walter Hickel as Secretary of Interior in late 1970.

A self-made South Carolina millionaire, Malek displayed surprising surviveability in avoiding entanglement throughout the entire Watergate scandals, despite having held the post of No. 2 man at Nixon's notorious Committee for the Re-election of the President (CREEP). Now he has fallen victim to Ludwig's well-known penchant for privacy and lost the job he planned to start next week.

Secret soundings have been made by agents of Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas into the political camp of Nelson Rockefeller to discover if there is any link between the powerful Rockefeller clan and pretty, 39-year-old Judy Petty. Mills' Republican opponent in his campaign for reelection, Mills was assured there was no connection.

A former high-level assistant to the late Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, Ms. Petty is the first serious Republican opponent in decades to challenge the awesome political power of Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. That power has now diminished. At 65, Mills has had several bouts with bad health and has lost some of his super-clout in Congress.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — I was sitting on the porch of our rented house on Martha's Vineyard reading "Six Crises" for the seventh time when the call from Washington came. It was my secretary Ellie who said in a breathless voice, "The White House just telephoned. President and Mrs. Ford want you to come to a state dinner Friday night."

"What is it?" my wife said when she saw my face. "What's wrong?"

"PRESIDENT FORD wants us to come to dinner Friday night."

"Hurry up and get off the phone," she said. "I have to call Oscar de la Renta and order a new evening gown."

"Wait a minute, social climber," I said. "Not so fast. We have to think this one out. I told Ellie I would call her back."

"WHAT IS there to think out?" my wife said. "We've been invited by the President of the United States for dinner. We have to go."

"It's not that simple. Don't you see what they're trying to do? It's the old 'invite the columnist to the White House trick.' They're out to get me."

"How can you say that?" she demanded.

"I've never been invited to the White House — not by John F. Kennedy, not by Lyndon Baines Johnson, not even by Richard Nixon.

The title of my last book was 'Never Danced at the White House.' I've made my living standing on the outside, hanging on the bars of the iron fence looking in. Now the Fords are trying to destroy me by asking us to break bread with them."

"YOU'RE BEING paranoid," my wife said. "Maybe they don't know many people in Washington, and they've heard what a great dancer you are."

"I wish that was all there was to it. But I believe someone in the Ford Administration has it in for me. Can't you see what this will do for me? If we go to that dinner, it will be reported in the press. Everyone will say I've gone in the bag for the president. My credibility will be destroyed. There is no way anyone can be objective after he's danced with the President's wife."

"WELL, YOU can't just refuse. You'd be insulting the office of the Presidency," my wife said as she started putting her hair in curlers.

"What option do we have?" I said. "The Fords haven't given us any choice."

On Conservatives

William F. Buckley, Jr.

In a way, Gerald Ford is already old. That is a compliment, by the way. He wears the presidency with a mild-mannered conviction that is altogether reassuring. It is not as though Douglas MacArthur had been elected president, or Charles de Gaulle, and accordingly, there are no expectations of majestic proportions, so that, as they would put it on Wall Street, any sense of psychic let-down has been disarmed.

HE IS BEING carefully observed, needless to say, for evidence of where he stands on issues that divide the country ideologically. His background is an old-fashioned conservative, but his most conspicuous overtures have been doctrinaire liberal. He seized on amnesty, women's rights, a cuddle with George McGovern's soul meeting with the Black Caucus — show that he is President of the People. Such gestures are to be expected, and tell us not very much. His selection of Nelson Rockefeller was, in my judgment, primarily a gesture intended to restore a sense of continuity, Rockefeller being one of the accepted patriarchs of the independent voter. We are left wondering where he will go from here.

AND LEFT wondering, also, just where the conservative community would like to see him go from here.

It is not widely realized how deeply Richard Nixon confounded the usual categories. There are a few indisputably "conservative" positions that evolved in the last couple of generations. We have believed in, loosely defined, a balanced budget. Nixon spent $70 billion dollars more than he took in. We have believed in letting the private sector do it if it can. Nixon hugely increased federal subsidies to schools, and paved the way for what is now absolutely certain to come, namely a federally organized national health and medical plan. We have believed in cutting the gross size of the public spending, and Nixon increased the social budget 120 per cent. In foreign affairs, there were complementary developments.

BT HERE IS one summary dating back to 1971. In three years, Mr. Nixon has transformed the political and ideological landscape. He has imposed wage and price controls. He has espoused the Keynesian doctrine of government spending and has had successive budget deficits totalling nearly $100 billion. He has proposed welfare reform to establish a minimum guaranteed income. In foreign affairs, old shibboleths have also fallen. Nationalist China is no longer in the United Nations. Disarmament negotiations with Russia are far advanced. After the Nixon Administration's record, Republican candidates can no longer inveigh against big government, budget deficits, government subsidies or federal regulation of the economy.

That was an editorial in the NEW YORK TIMES, in the fall of 1971, and in reaction to it I published a book and called it "Inveighing We Will Go."

THE POINT to bear in mind at this juncture is that viewed historically, there were two phenomena that shielded Nixon from conservative criticism over a huge period of time — 1971-1974. The first was the looming shadow of left extremism, a shadow that reified in George McGovern, nominated for the presidency in 1972. After McGovern's defeat we were catapulted almost immediately into the age of Watergate, and the conservative instinct was to defend Mr. Nixon because the people who were leading the attack against him were from the other side.

WILL THE CONSERVATIVES, Nixon having disappeared, now be able to regroup? One would think that objective historical circumstances would suggest the wisdom of a return to conservatism axioms. At home we face the worst peacetime inflation in history.

Reduce Cholesterol

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband was sent to a heart specialist recently for chest pains. The x-rays and the cardiogram did not show too much.

The doctor told him to stop smoking, lose weight and reduce his cholesterol intake by 90 per cent. I am at a loss as to how to estimate his cholesterol intake.—K.C.

My regular readers know how I feel about this whole business of cholesterol. Take care of the weight and the cholesterol will usually take care of itself.

Your doctor decided your husband's warning signals were set off by a number of factors — overweight, excessive smoking and cholesterol. So his suggestions were sound — reduce, quit smoking and reduce cholesterol.

But I doubt he meant a 90 per cent reduction of cholesterol intake, which would be unattainable. Remember the rabbit which lives on a low cholesterol diet of vegetables still has cholesterol.

I don't mean that cholesterol content in food gets off scot-free in all of this. But I'm suggesting that it is a kind of accomplice to other villains — overweight and arterial hardening, for example.

Now as to the diet. It is nearly impossible to come up with a diet that is going to assure any specific reduction in cholesterol. You just can't dole it out the way you can calories. So no wonder you are at a loss as to how to estimate the content. The doctor can give you a list of foods known to be high in cholesterol — saturated fats, for example. Visible fats should be avoided. Fats solid at room temperature are saturated fats.

The only true measure — spaced-out blood chemistry tests — to determine the cholesterol levels, this would provide a rough estimate as to the effectiveness of any diet. But the chances are that any diet that produces weight loss would provide a cholesterol loss as well. A 15 per cent reduction would be quite an achievement.

Since you have become cholesterol-conscious for your husband's sake, you should understand a bit more about it than I can write in this limited space. You can send for my booklet, "Control Cholesterol Sensibly," for which send 25 cents to me and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have an itching problem all over my body which occurs at night only. There is no rash of any kind but I itch all over. I've tried medicines, hot baths, lotions and talcum powder which stop the itching for an hour or so and then I'm right back to the same problem. Would appreciate any help.—H.G.

Have you reported this to your doctor? Of the five medications you named, I would suspect the Nicolex, which is a niacin compound and itching is one of its occasional side effects. If your physician agrees with my suspicion, he can make a change in your medication.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of this booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris."

Girl Bronc Rider Aims For Rodeo

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Dawn Reno, a 16-year-old saddle bronc rider, is winning some support for her battle to compete with males in the rodeo arena — but she says the support is slow in coming.

Miss Reno, daughter of parents who compete in rodeos, says she hopes work by the Billings chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union and the Billings Coalition for Women's rights may bring her closer to competing on equal ground with boys.

She was rejected twice in August at rodeos in Red Lodge and Winnett, small Montana towns.

The stock contractor for the Winnett rodeo in a letter he was returning Miss Reno's $3 entry fee because allowing her to participate in boy's events would force him to open up girl's events to boys.

Judy Hunts The Hurricane's Eye

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Judy Neuffer looks at herself as a woman who has been in the right place at the right time, twice.

The first was when the Navy opened flight training to women.

The second came on Sunday when she was in the pilot's seat of a Navy P3 weather reconnaissance plane which penetrated the eye of Hurricane Carmen, with its winds of 175 miles per hour.

The 25-year-old lieutenant from Wooster, Ohio, thus became the first woman pilot in naval history to fly into a hurricane's eye.

"I didn't know what to expect, but I think I can honestly say I didn't feel fear," she said. "I have lots of confidence in the aircraft and in the crew. They know their job and they know it well."

She also was helped by the commanding officer of the four-engine turboprop jet, Cmdr. Dick Sirch, an experienced hurricane hunter who supported her and briefed her on what to expect.

Sirch said she compares well with other new pilots.

"Basically, she did a super job," he said.

"When I found out I was getting a woman pilot, I expected a tomboy or a woman's libber. This is just a young lady who seriously wants to be a pilot. She knows she's being observed as a new breed, so she makes an extra effort to do as well as she can."

Lt. Neuffer has been in the Navy for four years since graduation from Ohio State University. Her first assignment was at a computer center in San Diego.

When the Navy opened its flight program to women, Lt. Neuffer, the daughter of a World War II fighter pilot, rushed to apply.

"I had spent most of my life around airports because my father has worked at or managed airports since the war. Flying's in my blood," she said.

"I was surprised when I got this assignment. But I wanted weather work, so I took the chance, and I made it."

The Navy's five other female pilots are all in the cargo transport division.

Dear Abby
Reader Wants To 'Bathe With Abby'

DEAR ABBY: What would you say if I told you that a supposedly sane 50-year-old man refuses to take a bath without your column? If for some reasons our newspaper ever quit printing it, I am sure he would rot.

As if this isn't bad enough, he is truly convinced that sometimes his wife tries to destroy the paper before he gets an opportunity to "bathe" with Abby.

Is he crazy, or just eccentric?

APPALLED DAUGHTER DEAR DAUGHTER: Neither. He's adorable. Please ask him not to splash. I hate to get my hair wet!

DEAR ABBY: I love my husband, but sometimes I would like to wring his neck.

We have two kids, five and seven, and Joe keeps nagging me for more. He says he "loves" kids. Well, I love them, too, but he is making it very hard for me to raise them right.

If I say no, he says yes. When I tell the kids to go to bed and they beg to stay up later, he says: "Aw, why do you have to be so strict? Give 'em an extra half hour." And he says this right in front of the kids! If I don't go along with him, I am made to look like the mean one.

You always say the husband and wife should be on the same team, but how do you get a husband on your team when he always wants to be the "hero"?

CAN'T WIN FOR LOSIN' DEAR ABBY: Tell the "hero" (and not in front of the kids) that children NEED to know what they may and may not do, and parents who allow themselves to be manipulated are doing their children an injustice. Mom and Dad should make those decisions together and stick with them. Always be fair and just. But firm. That's parental love in action.

DEAR ABBY: I am living at home and my boyfriend, who lives out of state, is on a very limited income, so he has been writing airmail postcards instead of letters. He writes every day.

My mother has been reading his postcards. I am sure of it because she seems to know everything he has written on them. He sometimes gets a little mushy and also writes some short poems which I consider beautiful, but very personal.

I told my mother that I would appreciate it if she would NOT read my postcards, and she said anything written on a postcard could be expected to be read by the mailman and anyone else who handled it.

London Times Appoints First Female Editor

LONDON (AP) — The Times of London has appointed the first woman news editor in the paper's 186-year history.

Rita Marshall, a Times staff reporter with 20 years of experience in journalism, will take up the post, equivalent to the city editor on most American newspapers, next month.

"I don't think men find it odd getting orders from a woman," she said. "I think I'm taken seriously."

History Group Meets Saturday

Mrs. Nancy Rankin McKinley, vice president of the Permian Historical Society has announced that the society's fall meeting will be held in Midland, at the Sheraton Inn, on Saturday.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. and papers are scheduled from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., with a special lunch served to members and guests.

Dr. Roger Olien, of UTPB, executive director of the society, described the program as "exceptionally strong." Ms. Deolece Parmelee, research director of the Texas Historical Commission, will deliver a paper entitled "Too Far West: Early Law Enforcement in the Texas Permian Region."

Local residents delivering talks include Mrs. Ada Phillips of Midland, and Mrs. Betty Orbeck and Bill Cooksey, both of Odessa. Olien said that the Permian Historical Society "welcomes the attendance of any West Texans who have a special interest in history."

These bright ideas will help you light your home more efficiently.

It makes sense to use adequate lighting for reading, working or for security, and it makes sense to do it efficiently.

Locate table lamps so they provide the most light and fewest shadows.

When buying light bulbs, choose the right bulb for the job. Remember that the lumen rating tells you the light output of bulbs. Watts tell you how much electricity is needed to produce that light. And bulb life is the estimated number of hours the bulb can be expected to burn.

Where bulbs are difficult to change, choose a "long life" bulb which may have fewer lumens for its wattage, but will last longer.

Decorative lights call for fewer lumens and lower wattage. A photoelectric cell or timer will regulate the use of security lighting.

And it's always a good idea to turn lights off when they are not needed.

For more ideas on how to use your electric service wisely, call us. We'd like to help.

VICIOUS WINDS LASH OUT Thunderstorms Rage, Record Lows Posted

By The Associated Press
Most Texans awoke to what felt like an autumn chill today in the wake of a cold front still finishing its sweep across the state behind savage thunderstorms. Temperatures dipped within a few degrees of freezing in the Panhandle-Plains sector, and it was still noticeably warm only in extreme South Texas. There also were a few showers and thunderstorms lingering along and behind the frontal system, which by early morning had pushed into the extreme northwest part of the Gulf of Mexico and still lay across Texas south of Corpus Christi and Laredo.

RAIN IN HOUSTON
Before the storms finished passing, Houston measured 2.18 inches of rain within an hour, and Del Rio received 1.57 inches in the six hours just before midnight. Vicious winds lashed out from the line of thunderstorms marking the front's path and sightings of several tornadoes were reported in Southeast Texas, including three funnel clouds in the Houston vicinity. While there was no word of damage from the twisters, fierce winds snapped power lines around Athens in East

Nab Four On Sealed Count

ODESSA — Four persons, including a woman, have been arrested here on charges returned last July in sealed indictments returned by the 161st District Court grand jury. The four, along with others not yet in custody, have been charged with receiving and concealing stolen goods. The four indicted were identified as Paul Marcus Vailes, Manuel N. Hernandez, Jack Elbert Alford and Eva M. Becknell. All are in the Ector County jail. District Attorney John Green said his department was cracking down on individuals and businesses which have been receiving and concealing stolen property.

He added such practices contribute to a growing narcotics problem in Odessa. Stolen property valued as much as $100,000 has been recovered by Ector County officials, he said.

Baby Drowns

SWEETWATER — Rites were held here Tuesday 10 a.m. in the Garden of Memories babyland section for Kelli Kristopher Eggleston, 14-month-old daughter of Mrs. Teresa Eggleston. The baby drowned Sunday afternoon when she fell into a tub of water drawn for cleaning. Survivors include her mother, her father, Billy Ray Eggleston, Big Lake, and one sister.

Orthopedic Clinic Set

The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, in cooperation with the Howard County Easter Seal Society, will conduct its next orthopedic clinic Saturday, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Parents of children may pre-register by calling the center, 267-6387, or register the day of the clinic until 12:00 noon for the diagnostic evaluation service. The clinic will be under the supervision of the center's medical advisory committee. This committee is composed of Dr. Pete Rhymes, chairman, Dr. Roscoe B. Cowper, Dr. W. A. Riley, Dr. Neil Sanders, Dr. Louise Worthy, and Dr. Robert Sheldon. The medical director of the clinic will be Dr. Pete Rhymes, orthopedic surgeon. Dr. Louis Worthy will be the pediatrician for the clinic. All new patients to the clinic must be seen between 9:00 and 1:00 a.m., otherwise the pediatrician will not be able to see them. All children and youths up to 21 years of age are eligible to attend. This will include children from the surrounding area as well as from Big Spring and Howard County. Officials hoped that children from Lamesa, Colorado City, Snyder, Lorraine, Stanton, Sterling City, Garden City and other cities will take advantage of the no-charge clinic. Parents of children who wish to have their children seen in this clinic should contact their family physician in order to have them referred.

DEATHS

Jim Harris
Jim Harris, 80, who resided near Vealmoor for almost two score years, died at his home a mile east of Vealmoor 11:20 a.m. Monday. Services will be 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Jim Mosley, pastor of First Baptist Church in O'Donnell, and the Rev. M. M. Crawford, Baptist pastor at Ira, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park. Mr. Harris was born June 28, 1894 in White County, Ark. He came here in 1935 from Salem, Ark. and worked until his retirement. He served in the Army in World War I, was a member of the VFW, and of the Vealmoor Baptist Church. Surviving are a brother, C. T. Clanton, Ash Flat, Ark.; seven sisters, Miss Mayme Clanton and Mrs. Otis McBride, both of Vealmoor; Mrs. F. G. Treat, Lubbock; Mrs. Charles Slesler, Tuscon, Ariz.; Mrs. A. C. Services will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Chapel. The Rev. Pat Githens will officiate. Burial will follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens. Born Aug. 12, 1959 in Springdale, Ark., he was a student at Snyder High School. Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Davis of Snyder; three sisters, Linette and Julia, both of the home, and Mrs. Carlton Bradshaw of Slaton; two brothers, David of the home and Coy Jr. of Lubbock; one half sister, Kathy Newby; grandmother, Mrs. E. J. King of Carson City, Nev.; step-grandfather, Elvis King; three nieces and two nephews.

Rosa Harper

Mrs. J. H. (Rosa) Harper, 1601 Main Street, died here in a local nursing home at about 5:50 a.m. Tuesday. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m. in Nalley-Pickle-Rosewood Chapel with Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment will be in Trinity Memorial Park. She was born Rosa Ethel Nelson on February 12, 1890, in Granbury, Texas, and came to Howard County with her parents in 1895. She married J. H. (Hub) Harper in 1919. He preceded her in death in 1954. She was a member of the Baptist Church. Survivors include two daughters; Mrs. Freddie (Verdel) Watt Jr., Big Spring and Mrs. Q. L. (Eldora) Hall, Odessa; one grandson whom she raised, James B. Sims of the home; five grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

WEATHER FORECAST

Rain is forecast today for the east coast and part of the Southwest. Warm, sunny weather is forecast for the West but colder air is expected for the East.

Three Face Charges In County

The fun was past at 4:30 p.m. Monday for three Lubbock youths who attended the rock concert in Austin Sunday. State Trooper Bill Priest stopped the vehicle in which the three were riding and arrested them for possession of assorted drugs. The 19-year-old driver was weaving on U.S. 87 six miles north of Big Spring, Priest said. Priest said he found a sack of drugs including hashish, amphetamine, LSD and marijuana. The driver and boys age 16 and 15 were in custody this morning, pending bond set for the 19-year-old or possible court action. A University of Texas vice president surveyed Memorial Stadium following a student-sponsored rock concert and pronounced it "an abominable mess." "It says something about our young people," said Dr. James H. Colvin, UT vice-president for business affairs, after visiting the stadium Monday. Wash basins were ripped from restroom walls and there were cigarette burns and one gash in the new AstroTurf playing surface—not to mention tons of litter. Colvin said his reply would be "absolutely not" if he ever has anything to say about allowing future rock concerts in the stadium. Some 80,000 young people gathered for the Sunday concert. Regent Frank C. Erwin Jr., whose utterances about students in the past have not always been complimentary, said he attended the concert and thought those present "behaved themselves and left promptly after it was over." Erwin said the contract for the concert held the promoters financially responsible for any damage and declared that he saw no reason why all the damage cannot be repaired by the first home football game, Sept. 21.

Two Shot In Squabble

COLORADO CITY — Billy Sullivan, 24, shot in the leg during a rent squabble Sunday night on a farm near Westbrook, is in Medical Arts Hospital in Big Spring being treated for the gunshot wound and a lacerated scalp. Mrs. Jose Reyes, 43, was wounded critically when a 12-gauge shotgun, loaded with birdshot, discharged striking her in the right breast. She was taken first to Root Memorial Hospital, then transferred to the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock, according to Deputy Sheriff L. M. Newby. The disagreement around rent occurred on the Jose Reyes farm, a mile and a half south of Westbrook around 9:30 p.m. Newby said that the shooting of Mrs. Reyes was apparently accidental as two or more men, including her husband, were struggling with the shotgun when the weapon discharged. Three persons are charged with aggravated assault including Sullivan, Carroll Glenn Sullivan, 19, a renter on the Reyes farm, and Ernest Reyes, 17, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Reyes. The latter two are free on $1,500 bond. Newby said that charges may be filed on two others, but that no additional charges had been filed this morning.
