

Kniewel Poised To Leap Over Snake River Chasm

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — All the hullabaloo, hokum and hype will be left behind for a few moments Sunday when Evel Kniewel straps himself in a toy-like missile for his ride across the Snake River Canyon.

The time for the army of promoters and pitchmen to ballyhoo the incredible danger of the canyon jump is largely passed; they have sold just about all the tickets they are going to sell.

Even Kniewel, never one to minimize his own heroics, rates the probability as "100 percent—and that's it."

Still, there is that chance... "Sure, he should make it. If we can put a man on the moon, we ought to be able to shoot one across a canyon," John Lewis, a 30-year-old schoolteacher from Kansas City said Saturday. "But then again, when I look at that canyon, I think of that trap and that canyon, I kind of wonder."

It is the spectacle of the 600-foot deep Snake River Canyon and the pipestem-thin launch ramp above it that makes the jump such a public relations man's dream.

Even if every one of the thousands of spectators knew for a fact that Kniewel could not lose, it still would be a good show.

"Look at that," says promoter Robert Arum, pointing at the 13-foot

Sky-Cycle missile that is dwarfed first by the 108-foot launch rail and then by the crevice beyond. "If it's a fraud, then it's a fraud. Let it speak for itself."

Arum's Top Rank Inc., which is usually in the fight biz, and other backers, already have paid $6 million to Kniewel, the 34-year-old son of a Montana auto dealer. If they have calculated the appeal of the stunt correctly, they may realize as much as $27 million, with 60 percent going to the star.

It seems simple enough. Build up enough steam in the missile's engine to produce 400 miles per hour—the velocity needed to carry it well beyond the 1,600 foot width of the canyon—then bring it down by parachute.

The chief engineer, missile developer Robert Truax, says the chances are about the same as for a test pilot trying out a new plane for the first time.

TO HARNESS INFLATION Ford Timetable Is 22 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has decided against any quick public move to pressure the Federal Reserve Board to relax its tight money policy, sources reported Saturday.

Instead, the sources said Ford was sticking with his plan to move deliberately in molding a package of anti-inflation proposals.

That package plan probably won't be completed for at least a month, and perhaps not until late in the year, one White House adviser indicated.

The disclosures came after Ford revealed in a Philadelphia speech Friday night he is charting a 22-month battle plan for what he called his "all-out war against inflation."

"We are going after, one and all, Democrats, Republicans and Independents, the public enemy of inflation in 1974 and we will lick him before July 4, 1976," Ford told a dinner meeting commemorating the 200th anniversary of the First Continental Congress.

One aide suggested Saturday that Ford had picked the date partly for rhetorical and symbolic purposes—it's the 200th anniversary of America's birth.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Saturday, "We can't afford to wait that long."

WELL-OILED MACHINE Thugs Taking Used Grease

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — You might call it a well-oiled crime machine, striking at random, then slipping away in the wee dark hours of the morning.

The target: grease.

Not new grease, but used grease, the cooking kind, a waste product normally stored outside restaurants in metal barrels in compliance with fire and sanitation codes.

Thieves use trucks specially equipped with hydraulic hoists, bolt cutters and portable pumps. They normally strike, it appears, one jump ahead of legitimate grease collectors.

Authorities are not unconcerned, they say, but how do you identify pilfered second hand shortening? And then, too, who cares?

Well, Anthony Wommack of Fort Worth is one who does, and he's angry enough to post a $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of the nocturnal bandits.

NEW RIPOFF Bottle Heist

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Those dirty, beat-up soda pop boxes into which you casually drop your empty bottles have become worth protecting behind steel bars.

Reason: The deposit on the boxes has climbed from a mere 30 cents to $1.30 here.

Since the recent rapid price rise, police have received numerous theft complaints. One hard-hit bottling firm is contemplating hiring a security guard to protect the boxes.

"We've lost several hundred of the cases," A. G. Prochnow, general manager of the Texas Beverage Packing Co., reports.

"People are beginning to steal them wherever they can because it's a quick easy way to make a buck," he said.

San Antonio theft detective James Marconi said it is difficult to trace the stolen cases.

Big Spring Week

with Joe Pickle

The week brought a record, not particularly the kind which yields dividends. Tuesday had a 50-degree reading, half a dozen degrees below the previous Sept. 2 low temperature. It snapped a late-summer heat wave, but despite the sharpness of the front, it brought no moisture. We've only got about a month left in which to hope for any appreciable moisture, our best hope for minimizing a blowing Spring next year.

It hardly seems possible, but the Howard County Fair is only a week away from launching its 1974 show. Bucky Barr, president, Arnold Marshall, president elect and superintendent, and Johnnie Walker, and others have put in a whole of a lot of effort toward a show that promises to be bigger than last year. Dates: Sept. 16-21.

The United Way launched its 1974 appeal Friday with a double target of $121,777 — and completion by Nov. 1 at the latest. If everyone would give a fair share and give promptly, we could button it up before the end of September. It's your United Way — how would it fare if everyone supported it proportional to you?

Child Is Killed

Terry Tyrone Peterson, 4, Northcrest Apartment 52, was dead on arrival at Cowper Hospital after a pedestrian accident at 6:30 p.m. Friday, police said.

Chonito Rodriguez, 24, 1608 Lark St., was driving his car in the 700 block of Lamesa Drive when the child tried to cross the street, police said. Mari-Ann Rodriguez was a passenger in the car.

Services were pending at River-Welch Funeral Home.

Terry was born Sept. 1, 1970, in Big Spring.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Charles Peterson; two sisters, Sharnell Ann Peterson and Wanda Mae Peterson; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Threats; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Sally Mae Lang, all of Big Spring; and numerous aunts and uncles.

Fund Drive Successful

A gift of $365 Saturday from one of the Big Spring High School Bible Fund's most faithful supporters, who prefers to remain anonymous, insured success of the campaign on its final official day.

The Herald will continue to accept gifts from those who desire to support the fund and, in turn, will turn them over to the sponsoring Howard County Ministerial Association but, for all intents and purposes, the drive has ended.

A total of $570 in checks and cash cascaded into The Herald on the final day, bringing the aggregate to $5,994.50. Late gifts likely will send it over the $6,000 mark.

Ill-Tempered Carmen Swings At Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hurricane Carmen battered Louisiana's low-lying coast Saturday night, pushing up high tides with winds that gusted to 180 miles per hour near the center.

A weather bureau bulletin said Carmen's eye was 100 miles southwest of New Orleans, which meant hurricane winds were screaming over the deserted marshes near the sea.

At 7 p.m. CDT Air Force reconnaissance and radar located the center at latitude 28.6 north and longitude 90.7 west.

Described as extremely dangerous, Carmen headed inland for an area around Houma, La., but was reported to be diminishing threat to Mississippi, Alabama and Florida. However, a hurricane warning remained in effect from Morgan City, La., to Mobile, Ala.

She was veering slightly west of due north with highest sustained winds at 150 m.p.h. Forward speed was about 10 m.p.h. Her winds built up high tides of 12 to 14 feet in an area where five feet above sea level is a hill.

Tens of thousands evacuated the coastal area during a day of highway traffic which often was bumper to bumper, at a frustrating crawl.

Gov. Edwin Edwards said President Ford telephoned him from Washington to offer full federal support in rebuilding any areas damaged by the powerful hurricane.

"He is well aware of the impending disaster and has alerted all the federal agencies in the state," said Edwards.

He added that the President asked him to call the White House in case of a severe emergency. However, the storm's westward veer would ease what had been a major danger.

Had Carmen not veered west she could have struck across Lake Chartrain, the 26-mile-wide lake at New Orleans' back door, triggering what Army engineers said could have been catastrophic flooding in low lying sections of the city and some suburbs.

BUMPER TO BUMPER REFUGEES — Northbound cars and trucks are bumper to bumper on four-lane U.S. 49 south of Hattiesburg, Miss., Saturday afternoon as residents of the Mississippi Gulf coastal area seek to escape the fury of oncoming Hurricane Carmen. It took photographer who had been to refugee center at Camp Shelby an hour and a half to drive the 15 miles from the camp back to Hattiesburg.

Miss Texas New Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss Texas, Shirley Cothran, a flutist with an old-fashioned hardboiled Miss America 1974 here Saturday night.

She is the second Miss America produced in four years by the town of Denton, Tex. The other, Phyllis George, was on stage as a co-host when Miss America was crowned by her predecessor, Rebecca Ann King of Colorado.

Miss Cothran, 21, a hazel-eyed brunette with a bouffant pageboy, wept as she received her crown and sash.

First runner-up was Miss California, Luciane Buchanan. Miss Illinois, Jean Ahern, was second runner-up, followed by Miss Kentucky, Darlene Compton, and Miss Louisiana, Libby Lovejoy.

O'BRIEN: 'CARRASCO HAD PLASTIC PERSONALITY'

Machismo Led To Demise

By JOSEPH O'BRIEN
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Carrasco did not live as most men live. He was an actor playing "starring roles." His name was in the lights on the theater marquee of his mind. He was a plastic personality. It was his machismo that led him finally to his death.

I will never, the rest of my life, forget that final night when it all came to a climax in the prison yard. Throughout those 11 days of terror in the library, we hostages kept praying for the agony to end, for it to be over.

We readily embraced our mortal danger when it came and at the end, both women, Mrs. Standley and Mrs. Beseda, died without a whimper. I do not lie when I say they had more guts than Carrasco, then Dominguez, than Cuevas.

What was it like there in the prison library under the dark and menacing gun muzzles of three desperate convicts?

Nightmarish? That would be too mild.

One long siege of terror, of mental and spiritual torture? Close, but still not close enough.

When, at what time, were the hostages nearest to death in the library before the climactic shootout took place?

RAN TOGETHER Again, that is a difficult question to answer, because all the days seem to run together, to mix and mingle in my memory. But it would be fair to say we all faced at least one crisis a day, one in which in the space of a heartbeat we could have all been dead.

Our mortal danger came, almost always, at the conclusion of negotiations on the telephone between Carrasco and Jim Estelle.

Carrasco, in his usual bombastic style, would make his then current demand and give the prison authorities 15 to 30 minutes to comply.

Those 15 to 30 minutes were the perilous times. Those were times we all looked death in the face.

What would happen is this: After Carrasco hung up the phone, he would turn to his accomplices, Cuevas and Dominguez, and order them to line us all up.

FATHER JOSEPH O'BRIEN

Then, Cuevas, Carrasco and Dominguez, their hands on their weapons, would prowl up and down the line asking: "Will it be you, chico, or you or you?"

FEARED DOMINGUEZ. Strangely, I did not fear Carrasco as much as I feared Dominguez. This was a wild man. He carried his .357 magnum pistol in his hand. He carried it cocked. He caressed it lovingly. It was as though it gave him comfort. It was his macabre security blanket.

Carrasco was not what I would call an intelligent man, but he had much animal cunning. He was cagey; he planned, held things back. He had the sense of survival of a lobo-wolf.

Cuevas and Dominguez were a different breed. First of all, they had very low intelligence.

They were dominated by Carrasco and they looked upon him as "El Senor"—the boss.

Dominguez, plainly and simply, was vicious, a man who believed in nothing. And Cuevas? Now there you have a real nut. Would you believe he could wave his pistol under my nose and then later tell me of his desire, when he got his freedom, to become a minister and save souls.

My God, can you imagine that?

Cuevas figured he couldn't lose. He could have his murder plus his immortality.

And, of course, I knew

Carrasco was capable of any act of violence.

I have never told this to another human being before, but I will now, since there seems to be a move on foot to make the man into some sort of folk hero. Carrasco was not a hero. He was a desperate, conscienceless killer.

This is what he told me one time in the prison chapel: "Padre, I have killed many men. I killed six men in one night in Nuevo Laredo. Killing is nothing to me."

I believed him.

Fred Gomez Carrasco had a monumental ego.

He was rooster-proud of his "machismo" and vain about his appearance.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Federal Housing Administration has told officials of Space Center Memorial Hospital to close the institution.

Administrator David DeBaker said he was informed Friday of the FHA action which ordered the closing because the 130-bed facility near the Johnson Space Center could not pay its bills.

Staff physicians, employees, volunteers and most of the 41 patients were notified that the hospital must shut down within a week. The emergency room was closed immediately, DeBaker said.

DeBaker read a statement from Stewart Morris, chairman of the board of Space Center Memorial Hospital Foundation and Houston businessman who conceived the hospital.

"Because there has not been adequate support of the institution by the physicians in the Clear Lake area, the board of trustees finds itself unable to continue operation of the hospital," the statement said.

The hospital had been in financial trouble even before it opened after months of delays in May 1973.

In addition to a $1 million Hill-Burton grant received to build the hospital, the institution's board of directors arranged for long term financing through the Federal National Mortgage Association.

The federal government reportedly had nearly $10 million invested in the pit.

The hospital failed to meet its payments for several months. FHA officials said, and the FHA's foreclosure on the mortgage had been rumored for the past four months.

William Rowe, director of the FHA's housing management division here, said the FHA had no choice but to close the hospital.

PEOPLE ARE LOCKING DOORS

Crime In Rural Areas Showing Major Growth

By The Associated Press

Murder in Kansas. Kidnapping in South Georgia. Drug addiction in Ohio. Burglary in the hills of southern West Virginia. Big city crime has moved to the country. Federal Bureau of Investigation statistics for the first six months of 1974 show urban crime down slightly. But rural crime is up by 18 per cent.

Weldon Kennedy, a member of the FBI's uniform crime reporting division, acknowledges that statistics — if not kept in perspective — can be misleading, and that some of the increase is undoubtedly a reflection of steadily improving crime reporting methods in rural areas. But he also says emphatically: "There's definitely more crime out there. We just don't know how much."

"MOST SERIOUS"
Georgia Bureau of Investigation Inspector Ronnie Angel says rural crimes are certainly increasing. "The most serious crimes as well."

He cites examples of recent crimes in rural Georgia. Four men have been sentenced to life imprisonment on charges including kidnapping that stemmed from a commando-type gang attack on the community of Glenwood last summer. The town's night policeman was handcuffed to a railroad car while bandits broke into several stores.

In another investigation — this one 40 days of work by the FBI — six men were indicted on 18 charges mostly involving auto theft. Last year, rural Georgia was victimized by bank robberies in Molena, Morven, Uvalda, Glenwood and Dexter.

"I think the fact that the law enforcement in rural areas is hampered by a lack of personnel is one of the reasons for the increase," said Inspector Angel. "They aren't incompetent but they are inadequate. There are just not enough people in the rural areas to attract proper law enforcement."

"I think the days of spawning crime in a geographic location is a thing of the past. I think the mobility of the criminal is such that local criminals are not confined to local areas. They just roam around."

Sheriff Ted Barr of Cabell County, W. Va., attributes rising rural crime rates to "the population shift, the interstate highways and the sorry lack of law enforcement in rural areas."

IN SAFETY
In effect, Barr says city police departments — where practically all crime control efforts have been aimed in recent years — have literally chased criminals out into the country where they can operate in relative safety.

Bob Huffman is half of the police force in Hamlin, W. Va., a community of fewer than 1,000 in the southern hills.

"There has been a considerable increase of crime during the past year, mostly breakings and enterings.

The pharmacy was broken into recently and there has been some stealing at the Ford and Chevrolet garages," Huffman said.

In Kansas, authorities are investigating the slaying of Richard J. Anton, 48, and his wife Clara, 47, who were found dead June 20 in the ruins of a burned-out home they were rebuilding near Ensign, a town of 233 in southwest Kansas.

Both had been shot, and arson was suspected.

Robert Clester, Kansas Bureau of Investigation Supervisor for the western part of the state, and Gary County Attorney Jay Don Reynolds say they have few leads in the case.

The FBI's Kennedy says somebody needs to start making a study of rural crime.

The Ohio Farm Bureau, with 60,000 members from the state's rural hinterland, is looking into the subject.

"About the only thing we know so far is that nobody knows much about it," said

G. Howard Phillips, professor of rural sociology at Ohio State University. He's the man the Farm Bureau asked to direct its study.

HAS ACCESS

"The University has access to various sources of information. I contacted the Current Research Information System — they didn't turn up a single study. Two other educational research services also failed to turn up anything. We really don't know how much of a problem there is out there," Phillips said.

He and the Farm Bureau staff are getting plenty of feedback, however, from farmers and small town residents.

"In many areas, people who just a few years ago wouldn't have dreamed of such things are now locking their doors," Phillips said.

"And insurance rates are going up too."

"And then there's drugs. The parents are alarmed. Right now, we don't know how much of this is fact and how much is alarm."

Surveys among the Ohio Farm Bureau members reveal most of them feel shifting populations and negative changes in society are responsible for the crime increase. Some farmers have formed vigilante groups to combat the problem, others demand more and better law enforcement.

"Most of the responses blamed the crime increase on undisciplined youth, city migrants, people under 30 and drug users," Phillips said. "They generally felt the highway patrol to be effective and sheriffs to be poor law enforcement agencies."

"Police in rural areas, in my opinion, are people oriented, and the better you know people the less likely you are to lock them up or go to the courts."

Howard Docker, assistant director of the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, says the increase in rural crime reflects a general increase in all crime. He says the big reason for it is removal of capital punishment.

"After 30 years in law enforcement, I believe removal of capital punishment enters into it to a greater degree than anything else. I know a lot of homicides are the result of passion, but now there is less fear of killing and of a robbery or some other crime turning into a murder for which you could be hanged.

Lad Finds $13,000

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Jeanine Connor said her 10-year-old was always finding things but that she was stunned when he poured $13,000 out of a paper bag and onto the floor of the family home. "It was unbelievable. I didn't move for more than a minute," Mrs. Connor said Wednesday as the Illinois State Police cited her son for his honesty and gave him a bicycle.

Jimmy M. Connor, a fifth-grader, had returned home Aug. 27 from registering at Maryville West Grade School when he was told by his mother to pick up some trash lying in a ditch on the side of their house.

Among Busiest

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Nearly 800 flights each day either arrive or depart from Virginia's two big airports, Washington National in Arlington and Dulles International in Fairfax. Twelve scheduled airlines, not counting several commuter carriers, serve National and 16 serve Dulles, according to the Virginia Division of Industrial Development.

Y Discussions Briefings Set On Abuses Scheduled

The Big Spring YMCA is coordinating a series of programs dealing with substance abuses which will begin Monday, Sept. 16, 7:30 p.m. at the YMCA.

The series of four programs is designed to assist individuals who have a problem with drugs, smoking, alcoholism or diets to become more able to work toward a solution to the problem as well as to provide information for those who desire to help others.

Included will be guidelines to help give up smoking, control overeating, excessive use of coffee and tea, and proper dieting.

The first presentation on Monday, Sept. 16 will concern drugs. Instructor will be Jack Goble. Mrs. Jo Ford will make a presentation on smoking Tuesday, Sept. 17.

Alcoholism will be the topic on Thursday, Sept. 19 and Monday Sept. 23 led by Floyd Kenison. The final program will concern Diets on Tuesday, Sept. 23 led by Floyd Kenison. led by Mrs. Sibyl Spielman.

The public is invited to each presentation and there is no charge. The YMCA is located at 8th and Owens.

FOR BEST RESULTS USE HERALD CLASSIFIED ADS

Adults who would like to help make hospitalization more pleasant for about 300 Veterans undergoing treatment at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, are urged to attend the Adult Orientation at the Hospital on Thursday, in Room 219.

Registration is set for 9 a.m. with the program scheduled from 9 a.m. until noon.

Adult volunteers are needed for a variety of fields, according to Director of Voluntary Services Dene Sheppard.

Services which have volunteer assignments include nursing service, escort, library, occupational therapy, preparation and delivery, laboratory, admissions, medical records, recreation, letter writers, and visitation.

Mrs. Sheppard noted that the assignments are flexible, and may be made for a minimum of two hours per week up to six hours per day.

Those assisting with the orientation are H. C. Ernsting, M.D., Chief of Staff; Verona Reigel, R.N. Chief of Nursing Service; Sandy Huff, safety Engineer; Jack Reese, Chief of Personnel; Roger Seamen, Cook Foreman; A. C. Hicks, chaplain; and Harold Pergem.

MACHINE TOOL BONANZA — Dr. Larry Key, vocational-technical division dean, and John Freeman, instructor, examine one of the metal lathes, part of a machine tool bonanza Howard College has received. A dozen of these will beef up the college's offering in this and allied areas. These items are defense surplus.

Tools Are Remote Bhutan Battle Obtained For Isolation Lost?

By HC

Howard College has received machine tools valued at upwards of $100,000 to be used in expanded machine shop technique offerings.

Dr. Larry Key, vocational-technical dean, said that the materials came through the Defense Supply Industrial Plant Center at Memphis, Tenn. The college acquired them at about three percent of their value. Some 20 other pieces were requisitioned but have not yet been supplied. If they don't come, Dr. Key will reapply, this time putting emphasis upon wood working equipment.

The items received are heavy-duty commercial machine tools, the kind students will be using when they complete the college program. For instance, one of the lathes has a 20-center to center spread.

The new equipment, which has been installed in the north end of the Practical Arts building, has necessitated a complete rewiring to bring in 440-volt power.

Some of the items with approximate values are:

Boring machine capable of boring automotive cylinder walls, $5,000; three lathes, at $12,000 and a $15,000 metal machine, and a 1,200 wood lathe; a wood shaper, 1,200; cut-off machine capable of sawing all materials (even an auto block), $6,500; three drilling machines at $1,800, $1,000, and $10,000 — the latter with a turret head that permits it to do six operations; a $3,000 grinder with magnet vise, and a $6,500 unit for precision grinding; a spot welder, $3,200; trimming machine, adaptable for metal moulding, $4,200; a heariness tester $5,000.

Today the fortress overlooks one of two airfields in Bhutan, recently extended to 1,400 meters to make it possible for tourist groups to land here.

The roofs of almost every house in the Paro Valley, once covered with wooden shingles and weighted down with rock against sheer winds, are now covered with green or wine-red tin roofing.

Bhutan's oldest Dzong — fortress, seat of government and Buddhist monastery all at once — at the entrance to the Thimphu Valley faces long lines of army barracks — ugly, long, whitewashed huts.

The government has made a major effort to give modern Bhutan a facelift in reverse to restore some of its traditional features.

But the temptations of practicality and lower costs seem too high. Tin roofs, power lines and noisy car horns echoing in the Himalayan valleys apparently are here to stay.

Bhutanese call their country Druk Yul, land of the mystic dragons of their Tantric Buddhist religion. They themselves are the Drukpas, the Dragon People. A businessman in downtown Thimphu calls his shop the "Druk Store."

Some of the younger Drukpas sit in the Thimpu Swiss Coffee House dressed in jeans higher priced in Bhutan than in New York City, wearing colored T-shirts imprinted "Love" or with sergeant's stripes.

Only within the massive walls of the Tashichho Dzong, seat of Bhutan's government and the chief lama, is the traditional Kho dress a must. It consists of a minikimono that ends above the knee and is made of handwoven cloth embroidered with good luck signs. Violation of the dress rule costs a $65 fine.

Bhutan's new king, Jigme Singhi Wangchuck, was formally enthroned June 3. He is 18 years old — one of the world's youngest ruling monarchs.

His people bow respectfully when he walks in a robe of royal yellow to a soccer field, where he dresses in shorts and T-shirt to play as his team's goalkeeper. The 5-foot-9 king has the walk and figure of a middleweight boxer and the many scars on his legs betray his hobbies — horseback riding, rough Bhutanese soccer and archery. Despite his age and only three years of secondary schooling in England, the king shows an astute grasp of the socioeconomic, cultural and political problems of his country.

He believes that contact with his people, whom he describes as "loyal and apolitical," is most important.

Bhutan's current budget totals $20 million — and 75 percent of this originates from outside sources, mostly India.

"Since India offered her assistance in 1948, she has given generously and liberally, but today the aid is not adequate in all fields," says Foreign Minister Dawa Tsering.

Aid from the United Nations Development Program, Japan, Singapore, Australia, and private Swiss sources supplements India assistance.

Bill To Salvage Rail Pensions Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional controversy surrounds a multimillion dollar measure of legislation intended to switch the nation's railroad pension system off the bankruptcy track.

If cleared by the House Rules Committee, the bill to revamp the financially troubled system and to tap federal revenue at an annual $285-million level through the year 2000 could reach the House next week.

The House Commerce Committee claims the long-range impact of the bill, which it has approved, will be deflationary. But the panel's senior Republican, Rep. Samuel L. Devine of Ohio, was joined by three GOP colleagues in attacking the panel's proposal for financing it. Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., in the majority report urging passage of the bill, said the measure "provides for a complete restructuring of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937, and will place it on a sound financial basis."

Devine argued, however, that of various alternatives for financing a phase-out of the so-called dual benefits under which certain people qualify for both railroad retirement and Social Security, the committee "finally decided upon the worst answer of all — funding the phase-out from general revenues" of the government.

"This bill should not be sent to the President in its current form, especially when he has asked the Congress to do all it can to limit excessive federal expenditures," wrote Devine, who was joined in the dissent by Reps. James T. Broyhill, R-N.C.; Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, and John Ware, R-Pa.

The measure, affecting some 600,000 rail workers and over a million retired beneficiaries, results from lengthy efforts by congressmen and the railroads and rail unions to save the system from what the committee predicted would be bankruptcy by 1981.

Character Important In Business World

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Ask J. Edgar Rhoads what it takes to make a good business these days and he'll tell you that a company, like a man, has got to have character.

At 90, Rhoads is in a unique position to comment on what it is that makes a business solid. He has spent more than 70 years working at J. E. Rhoads and Sons, a leather and industrial belting firm listed by the Business Founding Date Directory as the oldest company in the country.

"I've never felt a desire for a get-rich-quick business," says Rhoads, a thin, soft-spoken man who still works each day.

"So many of them go bad, or if they don't, they hurt other people. I think character is as important in business as in churches."

FOUNDED IN 1702

Edgar Rhoads and his cousin, 65-year-old Richard H. Rhoads, are the seventh generation of family members to manage the firm, founded in 1702.

Like their ancestors, who fled England for the religious freedom offered in the colony founded by William Penn, the Rhoads are Quakers.

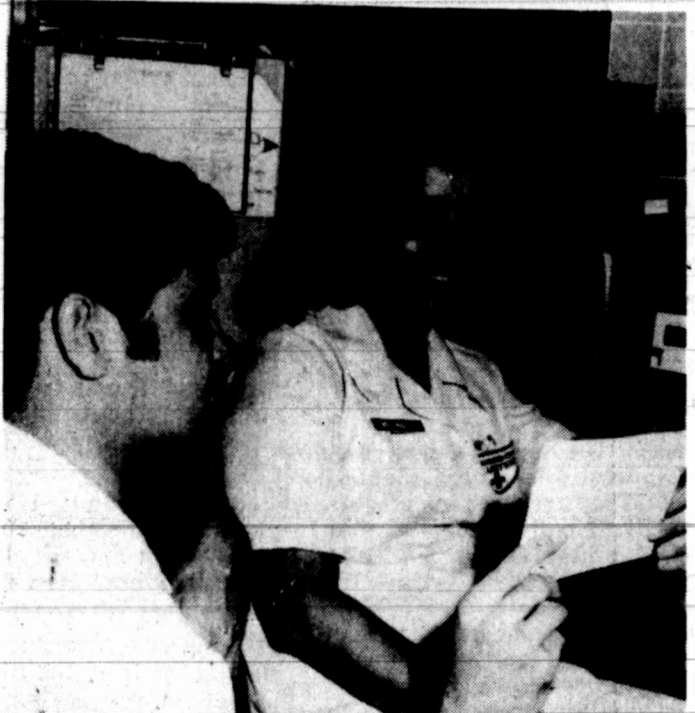

Rhoads leather was used in production of boots, harnesses and other necessities of colonial life. Around the Civil War era, industrial belting production began. In this century the family produced some of the largest industrial belts in the country, some as large as 6 feet wide and 500 feet long.

Not until the 1960s, when the emergence of synthetic materials pushed aside the importance of leather in the industrial belting field, did the Rhoads family finally abandon their tanning operations.

But the Rhoads' traditional ties to leather started to break down in the 1950s, when a nylon-reinforced German belt and other synthetic products began making strong inroads on the market. Between 1951 and 1958 their sales, which had peaked at service to 3,000 companies, dropped by half.

Within 10 years, the company closed down its tanning vats and abandoned its family ownership and partnership form of management.

The business was incorporated in 1965, but Richard, who is chairman of the board, and Edgar, chairman emeritus, still own almost all of the stock.

VOLUNTEER OF MONTH — In recognition of the 56 hours logged in hospital work, Mrs. Martha Marsh (above) was selected Webb's Red Cross Volunteer of the Month. Part of this time was volunteered in the Physical Therapy department of Webb AFB Hospital. Mrs. Marsh, 56, lives with her husband, Victor, 58, and Valde, 5. She is also active in a local sorority, the Big Spring PTA city council, Webb Women of The Chapel, and the auxiliary of the American GI Forum. Shown with Sgt. John Grizzle, Mrs. Marsh was named Red Cross Volunteer of the Month for August.

Union Dues Checkoff Will Be Discussed

A discussion of a dues check-off for a new city union will be on the agenda at the city council meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday at City Hall.

Kenneth Howell, union representative, will request the city to allow the union to deduct the union dues from city employees who join the union. He also has requested to discuss the payment of overtime.

assessment roll will be heard. Bids will be awarded on a monolithic manhole form, Phase II paving program, the 11th Place sewer extension and magnetic water meters.

The code enforcement policy will be put up for approval as will the planning and zoning board minutes, the tourism and convention board minutes and the vouchers.

Other items on the agenda Tuesday include the first reading of an ordinance closing the street and alleys as requested by CRMWD, a discussion of wrecker service fees, discussion of a cleanup campaign and discussion of workmen's compensation.

Other items include the emergency reading of an ordinance concerning paving repair costs, the first reading of a resolution authorizing Mayor Wade Choate to deliver and execute a lease agreement with the National Little League and the second and final reading of an ordinance controlling amplified equipment in the parks.

SANDS HIGH Eddie Herm Elected Booster Club Prexy

By PATTY PEUGH
The Sands Booster Club met and elected officers for the coming year. Eddie Herm was elected to head the group as president. Also elected were Lon McDonald, vice-president; and Lil Anderson, secretary. The Booster Club is one of Sands greatest organizations. It not only supports all athletic and interscholastic events, but any project the students at Sands carry on. All the students would like to say "thanks" to all the members of the Booster Club.

The "Fillies" met to discuss promoting spirit for the new football season. Mrs. Phil Mowery and Jack Cobb were selected to be sponsors of the Pep Squad. The rules and regulations of the organization were also discussed. Presiding at the meeting was Elaine Martin. Other officers include: Patsy McDonald, secretary-treasurer, and Pam Sikes, drummer. Elaine Martin said, and I quote, "Not only is our squad known for good looks, but also for out loud mouths. This year we'll back our team with all we've got." The Greenhand members of Sands FFA are a very enthusiastic bunch. The FFA started their year by electing Sweetheart nominees. From the Freshman class, they are Jodie Kemper, Donna Witt, and Diana Adams. Class officers were also elected. They are: Jackie McDonald, president; Susan Martin, secretary; Donna Witt, treasurer; Suzie Brasher, reporter; and Stan Blagraves, sentinel.

There are three new prisoners in the Junior Class. We would like to welcome them. They are Lexie Lehrman, Eden Casas and Cuco Cerdá. Not only is it required that all Sophomores pay their $2.00 dues, but also to attend all class parties. Rene Roman and Cathy Mahaney were not able to attend, therefore, we have two new Freshmen. HA! HA! The actors at Sands are now organized. All the Drama Club members would like to say how much they appreciate Mrs. Cunningham for sponsoring the little extras that make it all worth while. Some of the projects they have in mind for this year are a one-act play, school programs, and a supper theater. The 1973-75 officers are David Zant, president; Elaine Martin, vice president; Patty Peugh, treasurer; Cindy Shaw, secretary; and Lynn Hopper, reporter.

According to Ms. Sue Willbanks, Chapter sponsor, the Big Spring chapter of FFA is going to be working on increasing their membership. "We hope that everyone wanting to be a member of FFA and has had at least one year of Homemaking will come by the Homemaking office or talk to their Homemaking teacher about joining." Dues are $1.50 per year by the club group.

This week the Big Spring Chapter of FFA has really got some fun things to participate in. Such as: the annual Ice Cream Supper,

The Week

Howard College appeared to be off to a good start with a first-week enrollment projected at 1,205 (with another 75 in sight), which will be increased by some later enrollments this week, and even the next. It appears to be about 100 ahead of last year at the same time. Dr. Charles Hays, new president is on the ground, and with a prime aim of making the college so active it will be a county nucleus.

For the first time in our history, Big Spring will have a Texas ranger stationed here. Until now, we only had visits, or a temporary residence in time of trouble. He is George Frazier, a native of Gorman who grew up in Odessa and who has been a state patrolman for the past seven years.

Building permits amounted to $188,625, about $63,000 less than the same month a year ago. However, for the year we are at $7,320,135, compared with $2,529,847 in 1973. There will be a few other substantial projects coming up in the fall.

Col. Harry Spannaus is the new deputy commander-logistics at Webb Air Force Base. He's had an action-filled career with three overseas assignments, plus the key schools. A couple of years ago when he was made a full colonel at 42, he was one of the youngest in the Air Force.

The Bible Class appeal closes out formally today but you can still forward gifts to the Herald if you overlooked taking part. Thanks to the generosity and concern of some 250-300 individuals and institutions, the effort to raise $5,770 appears close to success.

The Spade Ranch did something different Saturday at its Queens of Spade Simmental sale. The first lot on the block was a package of 5 (three of them bred heifers), which offered a foundation for someone wanting to get into this breed.

From the notebook: Neil Brown had a reunion with former roommates at Baylor last week, and she doesn't mind saying that was 47 years ago when they started out. Mrs. Ernest Goodrich (Kathryn Barber) and Mrs. Charles Baxter (Carmen Smith) were next-door roommates, as were Mrs. Tracy Smith (Helen Reagan), then of Big Spring and now of Oklahoma City, and Mrs. S. L. Calhoun (Hilda Marsh) Jackson, Miss. The only one missing was Neil's roommate, Lucy Trauernicht Brady, who was unable to come from Fairfax, Calif. The Steer band is making it impossible to live up to our dieting resolutions — it showered the staff with donuts Friday.

City Regimes Get Top Marks

In a recent survey of a cross section of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, members were asked to "rate your City, State and Federal Governments by checking the statement in each category which most describes your feelings."

For federal government, 94 per cent checked "too much activity"; for state government 50 per cent checked "about right activity"; 40 per cent checked "too much activity"; for city government, 67 per cent checked "about right activity", while 17 per cent checked "too little activity" and 16 per cent checked "too much activity."

This opinion survey was mailed to 882 WTCC members throughout West Texas, and 322 responded to the written survey.

Chamber Board Meets Monday

Regular meeting of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will be held Monday at noon in the Ramada Inn.

Topics slated for discussion at the meeting include reports from the Bicentennial, Know Your Candidate, Family Counseling, School Cross Walk Flags, High School Homecoming, ag Barbecue, Brochure, Camper Rally and Fair Booth Committees.

Other items for discussion include the I-27 project, the computer and the appointment of a nominating committee.

TRUCK-CAR WRECK 'LUCKY' — The driver of the car smashed here and State Trooper Bill Jennings agreed the travelers were "lucky" not to be hurt more in a car-truck accident 4:30 p.m. Saturday. A woman identified as Rose Williamson, 19, Midland, was the only one injured seriously enough to be taken by Alert Ambulance to Cowper Hospital. She was released later Saturday. Chester Jewell Richey, Odessa, was following the car when the collision happened six miles east of Stanton on IS-20, Jennings said. Seab Whitley, Midland, was the driver of the car, and Floyd Jackson, Midland, was riding alone in the back seat.

Airman Shot, Needham Two In Jeep Hospitalized Mishap Here

Airman Darral W. Legarand was reported in satisfactory and stable condition at Webb Air Force Hospital after being shot in the side with a .22 revolver early Saturday morning.

Eddie Belasquez told police he, Belasquez was in the residence kitchen at 102 Carey St. when he heard a shot about 4 a.m. Saturday.

Belasquez reported seeing the injured man when Belasquez walked into the front room. Police said Belasquez had a pistol in his pocket when they arrived.

Lenora Daniels, who lives at the address, said she was not present at the time of the shooting.

No arrest had been made Saturday.

THEFTS

Two television sets and a record turntable with AM-FM radio were reported stolen in the burglary of the John Lipscombe residence at 1600 Bluebird St., police learned.

Rin Griffin Big Spring Truck Terminal official reported a truck driver with a firm in Durango, Colo., drove off with 121 gallons of diesel without paying the bill, $57.96.

A billfold containing $10 and credit cards was stolen from a pickup while the owner, Bernard Glanister, 2410 Wasson Drive, was fishing at Moss Creek Lake, police said.

Air Force Lt. Dennis Vandervan told police his motorcycle was damaged and the speedometer and tachometer stolen. He also found two bottles of liquor opened inside his residence at 2500 Morrison Drive.

DEATHS

J. Pearson

SAN ANGELO — Jack Pearson, 54, died at 10:15 p.m., Friday in a San Angelo hospital.

Services will be at 2 p.m., Monday in Johnson's Funeral Home Chapel. Graveside services will be said at 5 p.m., Monday in Trinity Memorial Park in Big Spring.

Mr. Pearson was born March 2, 1920, in Lawn, Tex. He had lived in San Angelo three years.

C. Dunn, Sulphur Springs, Tex.; and a grandson, Rickey Jack Martin, Big Spring.

Mr. Pearson was a member of the Elks Club, a veteran of World War II and was a POW in Germany. He was also a member of the American Legion.

He was manager of a motor freight line and resided in Big Spring until three years ago.

Petra Gomez

Mrs. Petra Gomez, 60, died at 2 p.m., Friday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m., Monday at the Baptist LaFe Church, with the Rev. Basilio Esquivel officiating. Burial will be in Mount Olive

Showers Helpful

August showers slaked an almost insatiable thirst by Colorado River Municipal Water District customers in August.

The 1,964,941,172 gallons pumped during the month was down 318 million from August of 1973, or 13.92 percent. All of this and more was due to lesser municipal demand, which fell off by 418 million gallons, down 22.77 per cent for the month. This August was about 550 million less than in the record month of July for municipalities.

So far this year, the cities have used 10,236,961,500 gallons, which is up 1.5 billion over a year ago or 17.28 percent.

Oilfield and industrial customers picked up in August, requiring 586,486,172 gallons, or 89 million more than for August 1973. For the year, these customers have taken 4,952,150,918 gallons, an increase of 28.21 percent.

Through August, deliveries have reached 15,189,112,518 gallons, up 20.64 percent or 2.5 billion gallons.

By cities, deliveries in August were:

- Odessa 448,184,000 down 27.62 percent from August 1973; Big Spring 302,972,000, down 9.47; Snyder 76,366,000, down 30.82; Stanton 10,074,000, down 9.47; Snyder 76,366,000, down 19.88; Midland 370,514,000, down 18.91; San Angelo 170,345,000, down 32.31.

Claim Is Put On Man Here

Antonio Lopez, 23, 606 N. San Antonio St., was arrested on a Colorado warrant for sale of heroin in a parking lot in the 700 block of Lamesa Drive after midnight Friday, police reported.

Peace Justice Walter Grice set a $25,000 bond in connection with the warrant from Denver, and the defendant remained in city jail.

Alan Bligh New Manager Of CC

LAMESA — Alan Bligh, 30-year-old assistant manager at San Angelo, has been chosen to replace Art Roberts as manager of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce effective Sept. 20.

Bligh, a native of Chula Vista, Calif., and a graduate of San Diego State College, was chosen by a special selection committee Tuesday morning and employed by the chamber board at a meeting that afternoon.

Bligh and his wife, Belenda, along with their two children, are expected to move to Lamesa as soon as housing can be found.

Roberts, named executive vice president of the Edinburg Chamber of Commerce in the Rio Grande Valley, will leave Lamesa Sept. 15.

The selection committee included Dallas Woods, Ray Renner, Walter Buckel, J. D. Harris, Bob Capps, Jim Norris, Dorothy Haney, Leroy Olsak, J. D. Williams and Johnny Montgomery.

In college, Bligh majored in Russian and minored in management. He was assigned to Goodfellow Air Force Base while in the service which is how he ended up in West Texas.

Meal Planned

Tickets are now on sale at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce office for the annual Agriculture Appreciation Day Barbecue, slated in conjunction with the Howard County Fair on Sept. 18.

Presidency Changes At OWC Luncheon

Mrs. John Nicholson ascended to the presidency of the Officers Wives Club, Thursday upon the resignation of Mrs. Alex Bridewell whose husband has been transferred to another base. Mrs. Bridewell was presented a silver tray by the membership.

Completing the executive slate this fall are Mrs. Tracey Rhodes, second vice president; Mrs. Gene Schmidt, third vice president; Mrs. Roger Ward, recording secretary; Mrs. Jim Reese, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Daniel Zoerb, president; Mrs. David MacGhee, assistant treasurer; and Mrs. John Wilson, parliamentarian.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. Anne Lowry, ways and means; Mrs. Mary Gibbar, spotter and roster; Mrs. Kathy Copelin, publicity; Mrs. Candi Garrison, reservations; Mrs. Susy Ede, Thrift Shop; Mrs. Debra Gausmann, special activities; Mrs. Sharon Simica, sports and games; Mrs. Pat Joseph, hospital; Mrs. Karen Simmons, program; Mrs. Pat Breese, luncheon; Mrs. Judy Smith, commissary; and Mrs. Martha Jane Poindexter, nursery. Editor of the Co-Pilot, the OWC publication, is Mrs. Lavinia Vander Ven.

Hostesses for the luncheon, from the Hospital Group, were Mrs. Donald Coleman, Mrs. Benjamin Virgilio, Mrs. Jack Ohl, Mrs. Edward Morton, Mrs. William Blake and Mrs. Jim Baggett.

Mrs. Michael Scasny and Mrs. Linda Blake were introduced as new permanent party members, and guests welcomed were Mrs. Janet Hansen, Mrs. Robert Knight and Mrs. Norma Chumley.

Introduced at the head table, along with the officers and guest speakers, were Mrs. Robert Owens, wife of the wing commander; Mrs. Robert Meisenheimer wife of the base commander; Mrs. Horace Miller, wife of the deputy commander of logistics; and Ms. Jo Bright, Big Spring Herald.

Decorations carried out the theme of a program on cosmetics given by Mrs. Don Minyard and Mrs. Robert Kawuak. The head table featured a cluster of flower pots holding checked gingham flowers centered with small round mirrors. At one end was a light make-up mirror and, at the other, a wig on a white stand. Similar arrangements were placed on other tables.

Highlighting the announcements of upcoming events was the Swartz fashion show Oct. 19, and a Christmas Bazaar Nov. 16. The November luncheon will be an arts and crafts show, with information on categories and entries being available by calling 267-5962.

Poppy Sale On Tap For November

Mrs. Bobby McCormick was received into membership by the American Legion Auxiliary at the Thursday meeting in the Legion Hall.

During the business session, announcement was made that an increase in dues will be effective beginning Oct. 1. The group specified a donation to the Tommy Davis Jr. Fund, and noted that poppies have been ordered for the November poppy sale.

New committee chairmen elected were Mrs. Raymond Gonzales, legislative; Mrs. Melvin Whitehead, Gold Star Mothers; Mrs. Ollie Bransom, constitution and by-laws.

Volunteers are needed on Mondays at the Veterans Administration Hospital. The auxiliary will serve refreshments at the hospital's bingo games at 7 p.m., Sept. 24. The Sept. 26 social will be a salad supper at 7 p.m. in the Legion Hall.

Mrs. Joyce Shiele was a guest.

A LOVELIER YOU Make Your Own Diet Dressings

By MARY SUE MILLER
A reducer writes: Trying to lose weight, I eat a great many salads and vegetables. I've been using dieter's dressings from my market. But I would like to know some recipes for homemade, low-cal dressings.

The Answer: Three recipes follow. They are sufficiently different in taste to make excellent change-offs.

Low-Cal India Dressing: 1 cup cottage cheese, 1 10 3/4 oz. can condensed tomato soup, 1 tsp India relish, 1 tsp lemon juice, grated lemon rind as desired. Blend ingredients and chill. Stir well and serve over vegetable salads, hot vegetables, and fish. Yield—2 cups. Calories, 14 per tsp.

Cheese and Chili: 1 10 1/2 oz. can condensed beef broth, 1 tsp chili sauce, 2 tsp vinegar, 1 tsp grated onion, 1 oz. crumbled bleu cheese. Combine ingredients. Shake well. Serve on green salad and cold leftover meat. Yield generous cup. Calories, 10 per tsp.

French Dressing: Combine and stir well 2 tsp. canned tomato soup, 1 tsp. tarragon vinegar, pinch of celery seeds salt and pepper to taste, dash of onion juice and Worcestershire sauce. This is a delicious green salad toss. Calories, 10 per tsp.

You may add your own bits of spice and herbs to each of the recipes. But, as they are given, the taste is so good that non-dieters will be wanting some too.

Rites Conducted In Baptist Church

Miss Lucretia Ann Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney T. Clark, 801 Marcy Drive, became the bride of Larry Lee Franklin, Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Franklin, Star Rt., Stanton.

After a reception in the fellowship hall of the church, the newlyweds left on a wedding trip to Lubbock and Ruidoso, N.M.

Franklin, a graduate of Big Spring High School and West Texas State University, holds a BS degree in agricultural business and economics. His bride, a Big Spring High School graduate, received a BA degree in psychology from Texas Tech University, and she also attended Howard College and Baylor University.

UNITED STATES

The nuptial ceremony was performed by Dr. Kenneth G. Patrick before an altar centered with arched candelabra, flanked by spiral candelabra, and a sunburst arrangement of yellow gladioli and blue carnations. Mrs. W. W. Grimes, organist, accompanied the vocalist, Joe Whitten.

Carrying a cascade of white camellias centered with blue roses, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white cotton lace over taffeta; the empire waistline trimmed in white satin and fashioned with scooped neckline and short puffed sleeves. She wore a garden hat covered with lace to match her dress.

Miss Danna Baker of Lubbock attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of blue and white checked cotton trimmed in white and sashed with darker velvet. She carried a fan topped with yellow and blue carnations.

Jerry Hancock of Midland served as best man. The ushers were Kim Cluck, Gruver; Ronnie Burks and Lint Merritt, both of Dimmitt; and the bride's brother, Sidney T. Clark Jr., Denton. Serving refreshments at the reception were Miss Paula Patrick, Miss Melinda Patrick, Mrs. Joe Smoot and Mrs. A. J. Dean. Ms. Mary Franklin was at the guest register. The table was covered with a white organza cloth and centered with a brass candelabrum.

GUESTS

Wedding guests attending from out of town were Mrs.

Sidney T. Clark Jr., Denton; Mrs. W. G. Clark, Vernon, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Stevenson, Quanah; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heath, Abernathy, grandparents of the bridegroom; Mrs. James Haley, Canyon, sister of the bridegroom; and Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Williams, Lubbock.

Credit Club Will Install New Slate

Big Spring Credit Women elected new officers and continued the study, "Wheels of Progress," at the noon meeting Thursday at the Settles Hotel.

Officers who will be installed in October are Mrs. Bill Draper, president; Mrs. Ralph Brooks, vice president; Mrs. George Weeks, secretary; and Mrs. Raymond Hamby, treasurer. Directors are Mrs. Noel Hull, Mrs. Carl Eason and Mrs. J. B. Apple.

Mrs. Loyd Wooten led the study on how to become a certified consumer credit executive. Steps in achieving the rank are: being a credit counselor, an associate credit executive and finally the CCCE degree. To achieve the high rating, a person must have at least five years credit experience. At the Sept. 19 meeting at the Settles, the last lesson in the book will be studied. Examination is set for the first meeting in October.

Mrs. Draper won the attendance prize.

Couples Take Holiday Trips

FORSAN (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gilmore have returned from Cypress, Calif., where they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Griffith. They saw the Los Angeles Angels play the Chicago Cubs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Craig accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Roberts of Big Spring to Sonora for the Labor Day weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Micky Allen of Grand Prairie visited her parents, the J.B. Andersons, the past weekend. The Allens also visited Mrs. and Mrs. Jimmy Anderson in Big Spring.

Best Grapes

Chose well colored, plump grapes firmly attached to the stem, says the Consumer and Marketing Service. White or green grapes are sweetest when the color has a yellowish cast or straw color.

Red varieties are better when red predominates on all or most of the grapes. Stems should be predominantly green and pliable.

Unwed Mothers Still Have Home

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — In an era when legal abortions and birth control pills are making homes for unwed mothers as outdated as necking in the back seat, there is just such a home here that is doing a booming business.

St. Therese Hospital's program began a year ago, the idea of Sister Maryann Regensburger, a nun concerned with the Supreme's Court's 1973 ruling permitting abortion. Many other homes for unwed mothers were closing because of the decision.

"The program seems to be accomplishing our two main goals — saving the babies from abortion and sending the mothers back to society with different outlooks toward the future," she says.

The program is named St. Therese Alternative Finds Friendly Employment Residence. Fifty-four women — the maximum possible — now are participating and about 15 per cent of the 67 children born have been put up for adoption through unrelated agencies.

Only women over 18 are accepted. Charity is rarely needed.

"We've had married women, divorced women, professional and unskilled participants," Sister

Maryann says. "We had two who were on abortion tables in other hospitals when they decided to come here. They've come from all over the country."

Participants are placed in jobs at the hospital — usually nonphysical positions such as medical librarian, receptionist or microfilm technician — and paid what regular employees receive.

Paycheck deductions are made for medical care and rooming costs. The women live on the hospital grounds in a building which housed its now defunct nursing school. One of the 10

Parnells' Son Hospitalized

WESTBROOK (SC) — Mrs. Robert Goodman of Stephenville, mother of Mrs. Charles Parnell, is here with the Parnells whose one-month-old son, Heath, is ill at Medical Center Memorial Hospital.

Leroy Miller Jr. has enrolled in Sul Ross University at Alpine for his sophomore year.

Debbie Webb, daughter of the Jerry Webbs, and Sandy Anderson, daughter of the David Andersons, will attend Angelo State University.

Herman Moody, Hico, visited recently with the Jimmy Moodys and his mother, Mrs. A. C. Moody.

R WHO IS LOOKING OVER OUR SHOULDER?

An integral part of your pharmacy service is involved with checking, double-checking and then checking once more to be absolutely positive. Sure, it takes much extra time to do this on every prescription but when it comes to dispensing a medicine there is no way we can take a chance that something may be wrong.

Other checks and balances are involved in the procedure as well. Storage requirements for certain types of medicines must be reviewed periodically, dating and expiration dates must be watched. And, of course there are government regulations that must be complied with and these are often checked by inspectors.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

FOR YOUR PLEASURE Night Out: Football, Band, Barbecue

The Steer band has a special half-time show to kick-off the 1974 football season here Friday evening, but you'll have to come to learn about it. And, while your planning to come, why not take in the traditional pre-game barbecue of the Evening Lions Club at High School cafeteria — right on the way. Serving starts at 5 p.m.

Carrie Lyn Wheeler has enrolled for study at East Texas State University as the Lara Hoggard Scholarship winner. She captured this $1,500 scholarship which honors the founder of the International Youth and Music Festival, also former conductor of the Midland-Odessa symphony and chorale. Carrie has won numerous scholarships, including one with the Meistersingers — on their European tour in 1973. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wheeler.

Thomas J. Griffard, assistant professor of art at the University of Texas Permian Basin, will be exhibiting a sculpture in the Eight State Art Exhibition in Oklahoma City, Okla. Sept. 20-Oct. 31.

There were two visitors at Heritage Museum last week with a very special interest — Champe Phillips, daughter of Shine Phillips, daughter of the "Shine on Big Spring" current exhibit is named (because of his book on Big Spring) and Capt. Barclay Wood, USN, son of Mrs. Ellen Ezzell and nephew of Shine Phillips. They were delighted. Incidentally, Gerri Atwell, curator, is urging teachers in this area to call her for reservations, to bring classes through the museum, but soon for within two or three weeks the current display may come down.

"The Games People Play" will be spotlighted at the third annual Texas Folklife Festival in San Antonio Sept. 12-15 (Thursday-Sunday). There will be everything from Indian stickball to Belgian bowling, Scottish sheaf tossing, English dart games and American seed spitting, corn shucking and horseshoe pitching. There'll be native foods to match. Visitors can park at any downtown lot (watch for signs) and catch the free tram to the Festival (HemisFair) site.

The Midland Genealogical Society will be in the Genealogical section of the Midland Public Library from 7-9 p.m. each night, Monday through Thursday, to assist those persons interested in family research. The fall workshop is Saturday at Memorial Christian Church, 1001 Andrews Highway, Midland, 9 a.m.-3 p.m.

The Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang will again sponsor the Ice Capades at the Ector County coliseum, Oct. 8-10, and information may be had by writing Box 2007, Odessa, 79760.

Cucumbers

To make a delicate green cucumber garnish for a chilled salmon platter, mix 1/4 cup each of sugar and wafer with 1 cup of white vinegar and 1 teaspoon of salt. Bring to a boil and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool. Pare 2 firm, medium-large cucumbers and cut lengthwise into thin match-like strips, discarding seedy center. Add cold marinade, cover, and chill 30 minutes or longer to permit the sugar to glaze the cucumber strips slightly. To serve, drain well and press out liquid. With fork make swirled, serving-sized mounds around the salmon. Yield? About 2 cups of sweet-sour cucumber relish.

Three women in government and education will address the 48th annual state meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association (THDA) in Amarillo Sept. 17-19.

Delegates from Big Spring will be Mrs. J. R. Petty, Center Point Club; Mrs. Alton Underwood, City Club; and Mrs. C. A. Smauley, Fairview Club.

Ar keynote speaker Judge Mary Lou Robinson of Amarillo will discuss the role of women in a changing world Sept. 18 during a morning assembly.

Mrs. Wilmer Smith of Wilson will speak the same morning. Currently serving as the second woman member of the Texas A&M University System board of directors, Mrs. Smith is also a former president of the Texas Home Demonstration Association.

Mrs. Florence W. Low, assistant director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, will address the group during the Sept. 19 evening assembly.

Her topic is "Looking Forward with THDA."

Other activities during the three-day meeting will be workshops on delegates, publicity, citizenship, family life, 4-H, health, cultural arts and recreation, safety and THDA itself.

Officers for 1975 will be elected and installed Sept. 19.

BSP To Bid For Convention

Plans were made for an area convention bid by the Beta Sigma Phi City Council at the Thursday social meeting held in the First Federal Community Room.

The council will bid for the 1975 area meeting at the conference scheduled in Midland Oct. 11-13. Forty members were present for the salad buffet that preceded games of "crazy bridge". Winners were Mrs. Susan King, Mrs. Gary Huckaby, and Mrs. Ann Payne.

Earn Degrees At San Angelo

FORSAN(sc) — Bernie Scudday of Richardson spent the Labor Day weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Scudday. Another recent guest was Mrs. Keno Ogden of Eldorado, and the Scuddays visited recently in Eastland with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mathews and family.

Mrs. S. C. Cowley, Mrs. Bob Cowley and children and Mrs. G. L. Monroy have returned from visiting Mrs. Dee Cloud at Lake Colorado City.

Mrs. Vera Harris was in Robert Lee to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Craig. They attended graduation ceremonies at Angelo State University to see Myra Nelle Craig receive a master's degree. Brenda Kay White and Arita M. Calley, both of Forsan, received bachelor's degrees.

Governors' Wives Arriving In Austin

LAKEWAY, Tex. — Gone are the days when all the women retired to a schedule of genteel diversion while the men talked of serious matters. In 1974 the wives of some of the governors of America's Southern states are much involved in matters of concern to their states, about as involved as their husbands are. They will be very interested spectators at official sessions of the Southern Governors' Conference beginning today at Lakeway, near Austin.

But that does not mean the end of a "ladies program" because there are many wives of conference participants and some governors' wives who enjoy a respite from more serious concerns. For them, the Lakeway conference has an enticing agenda.

Mrs. Dolph Briscoe, as wife of the host governor, will lead a group of governors wives (with each invited to bring a guest woman of her choice) into Austin Monday, morning for a tour of the Lyndon B. Johnson Presidential Library. They will be greeted by Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson and conducted through the impressive and historic structure.

Following the Library tour, they will adjourn to the nearby Joe Thompson Conference Center for luncheon before a trip to the Texas Governor's Mansion and a reception hosted by Mrs. Briscoe. The women will return to Lakeway in time for afternoon recreational activities and the Monday night Fiestas of Texas social function.

STATE DINNER — Lakeway World of Tennis private club's recreation room will be the site of their main activity the next day, entitled "Tuesday Talks."

Tuesday Talks, under the direction of Mrs. Jane Blumberg of Seguin, a member of Gov. Briscoe's host committee, will feature a mid-morning appearance by noted food authority Helen Corbitt of Neiman Marcus store in Dallas. After a luncheon break, Tuesday Talks will reconvene at 2 p.m. in the Americana Ballroom of the Lakeway Inn to hear an address by Astronaut Ronald Evans, who also will show a presentation related to NASA space exploration. In this instance the men just may be joining the ladies in anticipation of a most interesting event.

Souffled Potatoes

Here's an excellent way to serve leftover mashed potatoes — as a souffle.

To 2 cups of seasoned mashed potatoes, add 1 tablespoon each of minced parsley and green onion and about 1-3 cup grated cheese. Beat in 4 well-beaten egg yolks, and then fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Four into 1½ quart casserole and bake at 350 F. for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve piping hot as a delicious accompaniment to seafood and broiled fish platters.

The special women's events are in addition to the several events they will attend with their governor-husbands. These will include the official welcoming upon arrival, vespers services Sunday evening at Saint Luke's on the Lake Episcopal Church overlooking Lake Travis, the traditional governors-and-wives only reception and dinner Sunday night, the Fiestas of Texas spectacle Monday night, and the state dinner Tuesday night.

The conference concludes Wednesday following the final plenary session, but the women will have been given a chuckwagon load of recollections and memories of Texas and the Hill Country.

ATTENDING
Expected to attend are Mrs. Cornelia Wallace of Alabama, Mrs. Betty Bumpers of Arkansas, Mrs. Jeanne Tribbitt of Delaware, Mrs. Rosalynn Carter of Georgia, Mrs. Donna Lou Aske of Florida, Mrs. Jean Ford of Kentucky, Mrs. Elaine Edwards of Louisiana, Mrs. Carolyn Bond of Missouri, Mrs. Carroll Waller of

First Lady To Attend Gala

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford is setting out on her first trip as First Lady, a mission to help raise funds for St. Vincent's Hospital in Birmingham, Ala.

She is one of 10 prominent women being honored at a gala dinner on Saturday night as part of the week-end festivities.

The President's wife leaves aboard a military Convair plane on Friday afternoon, taking along a group of 16 reporters and cameramen, all of whom are paying their own way to cover the event.

Mrs. Ford had been invited to attend the affair when Ford was vice president and agreed to keep the date as First Lady.

Stained Glass

The world's oldest stained glass window is in a church in Augsburg, Bavaria. The glass dates to 1050.

'Quotable Women'

By The Associated Press London. Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week: "I'll show them how to run an orderly house. I think it takes a madam of an honest bordello to show them how to run an honest system." Beverly Harrell, madam of the Cottontail Ranch in Lida Junction, Nev., who is in a run-off for Nevada State Assembly to represent her district. "It's the greatest thing that's happened to this country. I think all the politicians will be true blue again. They're not going to be dishonest." Martha Mitchell, speaking of President Nixon's resignation, during a party for her son, Jay Jennings, before his marriage in Tylertown, Miss. "I don't think men find it odd getting orders from a woman. I think I'm taken seriously." Rita Marshall, named the first woman news editor in the 186-year history of The Times of London. "I don't consider myself a woman's libber, but I do believe in equal opportunity. I know many people are watching me to see how I do. I won't get up on a soap box and speak out, but I hope my performance as a pilot can speak out for me." Lt. Judy Neuffer, who piloted a Navy P3 weather reconnaissance plane into the eye of a Caribbean hurricane, the first woman Navy pilot to do so. "To be against volunteerism is ridiculous. Volunteerism is almost a proving ground for a person's worth. Women volunteers are not necessarily middle-aged housewives trying to kill time. Some are men and many are professional women supplying needs that would otherwise be unavailable." Sally Carmichael of Jackson, Miss., Goodwill Industries Volunteer of the Year.

Vote Favors Women Ministers, Amnesty

HOUSTON (AP) — Strong resolutions on the opening of all church ministries to women were adopted at the closing session of the leadership Conference of Women Religious (LCWR).

There were only a few no votes on the LCWR resolution supporting the principle that "all ministries in the church be open to women and men as the Spirit calls them." Implicit in the resolution was the ordination of women as Catholic priests, although it was not spelled out. The resolution concluded, "The LCWR affirms the principle that women have active participation in all decision-making bodies of the church. It is an injustice to restrict any church ministry or the right to participate in making decisions on the basis of sex." Other resolutions dealt with world hunger and amnesty. Delegates approved one calling on all women religious to fast during World Hunger Week, Sept. 22-29.

The amnesty resolution stated, "The LCWR join all others desirous of reconciliation and seek the granting of universal, unconditional amnesty to all those who in obeying the laws of their conscience refused military participation in the Vietnam war."

Hot Rolls

To reheat leftover rolls and biscuits, place a pan of water in the bottom of the oven and heat. When the steam begins to rise from the water, place the rolls in the oven. Let them steam from 10 to 50 minutes. When reheated this way, they taste almost as fresh as they did when first baked.

MADAM CANDIDATE — Beverly Harrell, owner and operator of a legal brothel in southern Nevada, was the top vote-getter in Tuesday's primary election in Nevada for a state assembly seat. She faces a Nov. 5 runoff election with Don Moody, a garage owner from Hawthorne, Nev.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: I'm from the class of '70 and here's some tricks I learned in college that may sound odd but they work beautifully. And not as a "Letter of Laughter" either. I'm serious!

When you get an apartment, try to get a home-ec major or domestic type to live with you. It helps to have one person who knows what she's doing.

so they send some to their neighbors (match, male). Only last week end, one of the gentlemen bought a whole goat and shared it with them and their friends at a barbecue. It's nice to put meals together. Variety... "X?Z!$$!" Love your letters, folks, and bless each of you who are writing.

Heloise

from the case and removed the back of the clock. I then took a picture and cut it the size of the plastic face. I put the picture between this plastic and the back of the clock, screwing the frame back together.

I now have a picture frame that can be folded and taken wherever I go without the worry of it being broken.

A 16-year-old Recycler

Plan a menu for the weekdays and make your grocery list. Divide this part of the groceries equally. This will eliminate the inevitable "bad apple" who doesn't want to split the food because she didn't come home for dinner. Add any extra soda or snacks onto the bill of whoever picked them.

Decide who cooks and cleans up, and which nights. Dishwashers will claim the cook dirtied every dish in the place, so the cook cleans her own mess. If you're no cook, maybe the expert will let you do her laundry and take your night.

If you are a cook, many times you can find an apartment of guys who will buy the food if you will cook it. You can get lots of expensive meals this way.

Dear Heloise: Some time ago my travel alarm clock broke and it couldn't be fixed. I didn't want to throw it away because I thought I could make something useful out of it. And sure enough I did.

This alarm was one that could be folded and closed. I simply unscrewed the clock

Too Far Afield

U. S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler seems to have gone far afield in his order that the Texas Youth Council abolish the Gatesville and Mountain View reform school for boys.

As if it were not enough for him to abolish an institution set up by the people of Texas through their legislature, he went on in his order to tell them how it should be done, namely, establish group homes, foster homes, day care centers and other community-based center.

He based his ruling on the conclusion that the Texas Youth Council had violated constitutional rights of boys, and that a long list of brutalities in handling boys was on record.

This is not to dispute that there may be faults in the operation of the two reform schools in question. It is to question the right of a federal judge to wipe out in one fell swoop, the stroke of his pen, institutions created by the Texas legislature, and through it by the people of Texas for the control of incorrigible juveniles.

There are degrees of problems in the misdeeds and crimes of juvenile boys and girls. There are firstfenders of a misdemeanor nature. There are youths who are as dangerous and hardened criminals as any adults, despite their age.

Texas County authorities historically have done their utmost to handle delinquent boys on the local scene where there was any chance of salvaging them. It was only when boys went beyond the point of return that they were committed to Gatesville. These are not the kind who ordinarily can be handled in a foster home.

The public's right to be safe in lives and property needs to be weighed against the constitutional rights of the juveniles which is the basis of Judge Justice's order, which gets into the area of legislation, not adjudication. The order should be appealed.

Abolishing Give-Aways

Governors attending the Southern Governors' Conference this weekend in Austin will find one thing pronouncedly different.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, current chairman of the conference, decided to shatter tradition and halt the practice of showering expensive gifts on Southern governors. These have ranged from deep freezers to golf carts, silver and turquoise necklaces, free hotel suites, meals, cowboy hats, brief cases, etc.

The Texas decision to drop gifts is expected to be a permanent one, and well it should be. Funds for this largess come from corporate donations, which already is the course for most of the quarter of a million dollars the parley is expected to cost. In other areas, states make a modest appropriation, which generally is matched by private sources. There is no justification for a big give-away in connection with the parley.

Ollie! Ollie!

Around The Rim

Football is very well suited to television. There are so many times out, they can get all the commercials in.

without great rage. If I could just remember who I've told my grand old stories to.

I guess it's all right to end a poem with a preposition.

MY PRICELESS COUSIN, Price Everett, Bridgeport, was busy raising tomatoes when the question arose, but he has the answer:

"When I was a kid in Blue Okla., we played kick-the-can. If the guardian of the can wandered farther than your hiding place, in search of other hiders, you rushed in and kicked the can shouting: 'Ollie, ollie oxen free!'"

Upon reflection, I am sure this is a corruption of "All ye, All ye outs in free."

"BIG EYE" OPERATOR, "Red" Thomas, mechanical whiz who celebrates his birthday Sept. 20, tells about a prize fighter who was taking a terrific beating from his opponent. "Stop his punches!" his manager shouted. "Stop his punches!"

The fighter looked at the trainer through badly swollen eyelids and through badly swollen lips, said, "You don't see none of them gettin' by me, do you?"

My bright cousin, Dr. George Ladd, an Okie in Muskogee, reveals: "My wife isn't exactly an expert cook but she's a pretty fair panhandler."

I dedicate the following poem to M-e-r-r-y Jo who celebrates her birthday today by taking a vacation next week:

TO WHOM?

Forgetfulness, Which comes with age, I'd learn to bear

My drinking cousin, Bobby Harris, tells about the hillbilly who sent his half-grown boy to the lumber yard after 57 two by fours.

The lumber dealer sent the boy to find out how long his dad wanted them. The boy rushed home and returned to say: "Pa said to tell you he is aimin' to build a house, and he's want them for a long, long time."

MISCHIEVOUS MARY ANN Marquez, Herald word chaser, says:

"Some girls obtain security by marrying the boss, others by divorcing him."

I walked out of a bank the other day, and a fellow asked: "Lend me $5 until payday."

"When is payday?" I asked. "You should know," he replied. "You're the one who's working."

My Answer

Billy Graham

My seventeen year old nephew claims to see things in the past as well as the future. He tells us about the six of babies to be born, forecasts dangerous things to come, and even sees his own funeral this year. What can it all mean? Are they warnings, or is he possessed by a demon? D.B.

You have not indicated whether these things your nephew sees come in the form of a nighttime dream or daytime visions and hallucinations. Furthermore, you didn't tell me the measure of success his predictions enjoy.

In any case, both dreams and visions have their basis in a distorted image making process.

Now the Bible, contrary to popular opinion, attaches little religious significance to dreams and visions. Occasionally, of course, God did communicate through dreams, but it was the unusual method. (See Deuteronomy 13:1-5.)

Now in the New Testament there's even less reference to dreams — and all of them are in Matthew. Jesus nowhere refers to dreams.

We can certainly say that there is no authority for the one having dreams or visions to impose such revelations on others. It is a personal matter. The Bible contains all the information we need, and Hebrews, chapter one says that whereas "In the past God spoke to the prophets . . . in various ways, in these last days, has spoken to us by His Son."

While I suppose the source of dreams and visions could be Satan, don't try to make a judgment on that now. Treat your nephew with love, hear him out but help him to relate his "foretelling" to the facts of the Scripture.

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford's first summit meeting of leading economists on inflation held in Washington during the past week appeared to agree the government should ease its tight-money policy.

Private economists of widely different views felt that a continued policy of monetary restrictions, with its accompanying high interest rates, would only tend to aggravate unemployment and push the country further into a recession.

Ironically, the consensus developed only a day after the Federal Reserve Board, the nation's central banker, announced a reduction in the bank reserves required for large certificates of deposits — a move many on Wall Street saw as an indication that the Fed may be letting up its credit reins.

Meanwhile, the stock market, testing 51-month lows, bobbed up and down in violent swings as brokers said investors sought to fathom the government's emerging anti-inflation policy and whether it would work.

Opening the first in a series of 12 planned summit meetings, President Ford called for a "battle plan against a common enemy, inflation," and asked the experts for "the unvarnished truth" about the state of the economy and what should be done.

Ford said he hoped the outcome of the meetings would be an economic bipartisan support from members of both major parties in this election year.

The economists in general appeared united in their analysis of the present economy. Inflation will remain high for six months to a year, and then begin to taper slightly. Unemployment will reach a possible high of 6.5 per cent within a year. (On Friday the government reported a one tenth of a per cent rise in the workless rate to 5.4 per cent in August.)

Economic forecasts, as summarized by former White House adviser Arthur Okun, were for "flat to slightly falling" economic output over the next three quarters.

To offset this expected flatness or downturn, many economists at Thursday's meeting agreed with former Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz who said, "We are approaching, if not at the point where there should be some easing in monetary policy."

Baby Holds Breath

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 27 months, holds her breath. She convulses and passes out. These are much like fever convulsions, which she also has at times, except that with a fever the "jerking" lasts longer.

She sleeps for an hour or so after these breath-holdings. This happens every day, sometimes several times. This has happened since before I brought her home from the hospital nursery.

Her doctor seems to think I am worried needlessly, perhaps overreacting, because our son has had grand mal seizures for the last four years. (His seizures, thankfully, seem to be well controlled.)

Our doctor also says medication wouldn't help. He seems so uninterested that I haven't even mentioned it to him for over a year.

I don't believe she does this for attention, as she gets none during or after this happens. Other tricks I have heard of — blowing in her face or using cold water — do not help either. I've tried it a couple of times, but she seemed to be "too far gone."

hurt or damage her? — Mrs. D.D.

Breath-holding is a fairly common trick with some youngsters, which may be why your doctor has not seemed more concerned. Again, you haven't mentioned it for a year, so he may think it has all passed by.

After all, about 4.5 per cent of children adopt this breath-holding trick between the ages of six months and 3 or 4 years. But usually it is a manifestation of anger following a fall, spanking, reprimand or childish frustration.

There are some other aspects to look for, though. An iron deficiency anemia is seven times as common in breath-holders as in other children, so a blood test for a possible anemia wouldn't be amiss.

The fact that your son has had grand mal epileptic seizures could be significant. Not all epileptic seizures are alike, and breath-holding can be confused with such convulsive seizures. The chief difference that can be observed are that some surprise event precedes the breath-holder cries hard, and duskiness of the skin occurs early. In epilepsy the child is not crying and the duskiness occurs only late in the convulsion.

An electro-encephalogram (EEG, or "brain wave test") will be normal if it is purely a matter of holding the breath; usually will show well-recognized abnormalities with convulsive seizures.

Breath-holding usually disappears as a child gets older, perhaps in a few months in your daughter's case — if that is it. There is no treatment for it, and it does not harm the child, however much it alarms a mother. All a mother can do is ignore it.

In your case I would want a blood count (to rule out anemia) and an EEG which, if abnormal, would suggest use of anti-convulsant drugs.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — With President Ford soaring in the mid-'70s in the popularity polls, the Democrats look doomed to be a quarrelsome minority into and indefinite future. Their recent fight at the conference in Kansas City is taken as one more proof of decline and fall.

IT MAY ALL BE true. Between the left of center liberal-intellectuals and the right-leaning followers of George Wallace, the bicentennial year of 1876 may see the party fallen to pieces like the one horse shay of another era.

But as Mark Twain remarked when he had the satisfaction of reading his own obituary, the pronouncement of doom may be slightly premature. Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss believes the wounds of 1972 can be healed and unity established around a presidential candidate approximately in the political spectrum.

STRAUSS HAS ALL along been conservative in his estimate of Democratic gains in November. Before Richard Nixon's resignation, with the prospect of a long searing conflict over impeachment, he put the possible score in House seats at 35 at the most. This contrasted with bold predictions of a sweep of at least 50.

His estimate today after Ford as the new boom is a conservative 20. The power of the incumbent is so great that issues and leaders on the national scene to one side the Republicans should hold a large proportion of their present 187 seats. The Democrats have 248 which without any change is a hefty majority for organizing if not for ideological purposes.

THE ONE-TIME hero of the liberal intellectuals, Eugene McCarthy, sent up a fanciful balloon the other day. He announced in Chicago that he was prepared to run for President on a third-party ticket. But the projected new movement was so ill-defined and so unrelated to the nitty gritty of money and organization in getting on the ballot that it looked like merely another headline-hunting expedition.

SEN. GEORGE McGOVERN of South Dakota, who took the party in '72 down to shattering defeat, is running for re-election to the Senate. With Medal of Honor winner Leo Thorsness, who spent six years in a Hanoi prison, the Republican candidate, the race could be close in conservative South Dakota.

Generous amounts of money on Thorsness' behalf are said to be coming into the state. And McGovern is working hard with his first-hand knowledge of farm and price issues to look like the native son in radical politics when he was the darling of the radical chic.

AS FOR THE RIGHT, Strauss believes that Gov. Wallace of Alabama on a third-party ticket could be as much of a threat to the Republicans as to the Democrats. A Ford-Rockefeller ticket will look to populists in the South like Eastern seaboard tight money. They could vote the oldtime Democratic religion and deny the GOP the South that Nixon sought to solidify.

This is still the Ford happy honeymoon. The President has not yet got down to wrestling with the threats of inflation and unemployment he has defined so eloquently. Based on the great groundswell of relief that came with the Nixon resignation, he can inspire confidence and hope so long wanting on the national level. A lot can happen in two years in a world in which the balance both politically and economically is so precarious.

Frosting Tip

For satin-smooth boiled frosting, stir syrup ingredients in saucepan off heat until sugar is dissolved. Then boil, without stirring, to 244 degrees, or firm-ball stage. Stirring during cooking may cause graininess.

TO MARRY—Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Reed, Sterling City Rt., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kathy Sue, to Sgt. Steven McCall, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. McCall, Kingsport, Tenn. No wedding date has been set.

Nuptial Shower Held Thursday

Mrs. Robert Adkins, the former Scarlet Stephens of Roscoe, was honored at a bridal shower in the fellowship hall of East Fourth Baptist Church Thursday evening. The honoree, attired in a white pantsuit with blue turtle neck shell, received guests with her husband's mother, Mrs. R.G. Adkins, and her aunt, Mrs. Rena Mae Webb of Roscoe.

Guests were registered at a table covered with a white cloth and holding blue roses and snapdragons in a bud vase. The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth over blue linen and centered with an arrangement of blue and white daisies with blue stock around a large blue candle. Another arrangement of blue poppies and hibiscus in a gold pedestal churbin vase was placed on the piano.

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Bob Jones, Mrs. Eldon Cook, Mrs. Dick Davis, Mrs. C.W. Jones, Mrs. J. J. Willingham, Mrs. David Rhoton, Mrs. Russell Kennedy, Mrs. H.M.

Macomber, Miss Jeanette Mansfield, Mrs. Royce Griffith, Mrs. Denver Yates, Mrs. Reuben Hill, Mrs. W. L. Clayton, Mrs. Jerry Oliphant, and Mrs. R. E. Wilson.

Adkins and Miss Stephens were married Aug. 23 in Sweetwater and are residing here at 605 E. 13th. Adkins is employed with Texas and Pacific Railway Co.

Salami

For a hot luncheon idea, try Broiled Salami Special. Cut 4 large English muffins in half and toast cut surface in your broiler. Top toasted slice with a slice of mild cheese and a slice of salami. Make 4 cuts 1/4 inch into rim of salami to prevent curling.

In center of each slice place 2 teaspoons of a mixture of 1/4 cup salad dressing, 2 tablespoons drained pickle relish and 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion. Broil 2 inches from heat until lightly browned, about 3 minutes.

Change 'Burgers

Upside-down hamburgers are fun for a change. Into a mixing bowl measure 2 tablespoons tomato sauce from a 8-ounce can (set remaining tomato sauce aside to use later), combine with 1 pound lean ground beef, 1 egg and 2 tablespoon prepared mustard. Form mixture into 8 thin patties; arrange in rectangular baking dish. Top with 8 slices cheese (any kind). Flatten 8 refrigerator biscuits to 1/4-inch thickness; arrange over cheese. Bake at 450 F. for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, heat reserved tomato sauce; pour over patties.

Applesauce

The first-of-the-season Jonathans make tart and tangy applesauce. Have plenty of this homemade menu-saver on hand. It tops waffles or cake, may be used as a baste for puddings or parfaits, and, just by itself, is an excellent dessert or meat accompaniment.

CONSUMER ALERT

COLLEGE STATION — More "veal, baby beef and heavy calf" is being offered in the markets because of the high cost of animal feed — and this trend is likely to continue, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reported this week.

In addition, most meat prices are trending upwards, according to the consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Chuck roasts are frequently featured at thrifty prices and it's a good time to buy extra roasts for the freezer," she added.

Pork prices are seasonally high, Mrs. Clyatt noted.

"Pork values, generally, are found on hams, picnics, Boston butt roasts, shoulder steaks and liver."

The specialist cited vegetables as other economical "buys" of the week.

Most economical are squash, cabbage, carrots, dry yellow onions and cooking greens.

"Potato prices are down with good selections from the new crop."

"Fruits in good supply include prunes, seedless grapes, nectarines, plums, cantaloupes and watermelons."

These are okra days.

In choosing okra, pick pods that snap easily or puncture on slight pressure. Store okra in the refrigerator, but don't plan on keeping it more than a week.

Rules For Raising A Juvenile Delinquent

DEAR ABBY: I've been carrying one of your columns around for six or seven years, and it's practically falling apart, but it still makes a lot of sense. Will you please run it again? A whole new generation of teen-agers is coming up and I'm sure it will help other fathers as much as it has helped me.

TOUGH BUT LOVING DEAR T BUT L: WITH PLEASURE. AND HERE IT IS: TEN RULES FOR RAISING A JUVENILE DELINQUENT

1. Begin at infancy to give the child everything he wants in this way he will grow up to believe the world owes him a living.
2. When he picks up bad words laugh at him. This will make him think he is cute.
3. Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is twenty-one, then let him decide for himself.
4. Pick up everything he leaves lying around: books, shoes, clothes. Do everything for him so that he will be experienced in throwing all responsibility on others.
5. Quarrel with your spouse frequently in his presence. In this way he will not be shocked when the home is broken.
6. Give a child all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?
7. Satisfy his every craving for food, drink, and comfort. Denial may lead to frustrations.
8. Take his part against neighbors, teachers, and policemen. They are all prejudiced against your child.
9. When he gets into trouble, apologize for yourself by saying: "I never could do anything with him."
10. Prepare for plenty of headaches. You are sure to have them.

DEAR ABBY: I am 74, retired, in fairly good health and I keep active and useful. I lost my wife 14 months ago, after 52 years of a nearly perfect marriage. Naturally, I'm lonesome.

I don't impose on my children for company. They're married and have their own families and friends, so I make myself scarce.

I became interested in a nice little 70-year-old widow who lives near me. She lost her mate four years ago. We seem to hit it off real well. I asked my children what they thought about my marrying her, and they all voted it down saying: "What for, Pa? You'd be foolish to marry again at your age. If you're lonesome, ask her to live with you. You don't have to MARRY her." (How do you like that from children who were raised to be respectable?)

That's not my style, Abby. I wouldn't insult the little lady by suggesting such a thing. Besides, I'd be ashamed before my grandchildren.

Do you think I'd be foolish to marry again at my age? And what are my children thinking of?

OLD TIMER: I think you'd be foolish NOT to marry again if that's what you want. And as for what your children are thinking of — I don't know, but I'll wager it has something to do with money. Hang in there, Tiger.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ARGUING ENDLESSLY": You can end the endless argument about religion with a brilliant quote by Bradford Leavitt: "If your religion makes you kinder than I, your religion is better than mine."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. James D. Belew, 3309 Cornell, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jamie Diane, to Frank Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Davis, Gail Rd., Box 5. The couple plans to be married Oct. 11 at College Baptist Church.

Alpha Beta Sets Rush Activities

Rush events were planned by Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, during a meeting Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Gafford, 107 Canyon.

The Ritual of Jewels will be performed at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 17 in the home of Mrs. Floyd Smith, 3220 Cornell, and a coffee is slated Sept. 21 with Mrs. Karen Frette as chairman.

Mrs. Chuck Ogle, president, presided as Mrs. Gafford was named BSP city council alternate. Also announced was the Valentine Ball committee composed of Mrs. Larry Harp, chairman; Mrs. Bobby Nicholson and Mrs. Brent Brooks.

"Stairway to Happiness" is the theme of new year-books—which were distributed.

The program, given by Mrs. Dan Whitaker, was entitled "Manners Make a Difference."

Birthday Cake
For that birthday party: frost a chocolate layer cake in white, then outline the birthday-child's initials over the top with small pieces of semi-sweet chocolate.

Analysts Are Intent On Tidying Up Books

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Jack be nimble, Jack be quick. Snap the blade and give it a flick. Grab the purse. It's easily done. Just for kick, just for fun, plunge the knife and cut and run. Verse from a not too funny comic book. Right? Wrong. This verse, contained in a school library book, (page 26, The Inner City Mother Goose), is the kind of school material that has prompted formation of a small but vocal textbook review company headed by a Longview man and his wife. Educational Research Analysts is, according to founders Mr. and Mrs. Mel Gabler, a non-profit, tax-exempt company aimed at cleaning up America's schoolroom texts. "We'd like to see a return to traditional American values and concepts of morality," says Gabler. Gabler said he and his wife reviewed about 100 of the 500 texts being offered this year by textbook publishers. "We got to those we could. We review them differently than teachers would. They look for student interest, readability, format and what have you. We read the books closely and take the time to find really objectionable material. We've had inquiries from across the nation and abroad from teachers and schools wanting us to provide our analysis of texts," he said.

Gabler said only about half of the states have state textbook adoption agencies. Texas is one of them. The other states leave textbook adoption up to the local school districts.

Gabler has taken issue with textbooks which place no value on English grammar through a standard of speech.

"Some of these texts tell the student there is no such thing as correct grammar. But if a child is permitted to speak in dialects and colloquialisms at school what's going to happen to him when he gets out in the world and tries to converse with someone who doesn't understand anything but proper, correct grammar?" asked Gabler.

City Is Without Kids Facility

A ruling by a Texas judge that will close down Gatesville, the reform school for boys, leaves most Texas towns without any facility for correction of juveniles charged with crimes.

Big Spring is one of the majority of Texas communities that has no facilities for juvenile prisoners. Both Midland and Odessa have in recent years opened juvenile detention centers to house the juveniles while they are being rehabilitated.

Locally, a juvenile who is a habitual criminal or whose crime is of a major nature, or who has broken probation has heretofore been sent to Gatesville if the violating juvenile is a boy. Lt. Jim McCain of the city juvenile division said there

60 Cases Weaver Has Handled

The city's juvenile division, during the month of August, handled 60 cases, made 41 arrests and recovered some $898.64 in property, according to the report of Lt. Jim McCain for the Criminal Justice Council.

Of the arrests, six were turned over to the county parole officer, one to the state parole officer and two were tried in Municipal Court and found guilty. Others remain under the city juvenile division.

The cases included one rape, two assaults, six burglaries, nine thefts, one vandalism, six criminal mischief, two violations of liquor laws, three drug violators, three trespassing, nine bicycle thefts, and eight listed simply as "other."

The list included mostly boys, with 37 of the arrests listed as juvenile males.

Monopoly

Aubrey Weaver's first bale has turned out to be first bales.

More than a week ago Weaver brought in the initial bale, which turned out to be a 515 pounder. Then he brought in four others by the time Planters Gin was rigged up and ready to go.

Friday, Lester Adams, manager, said the cotton had been processed, and that the first bale appeared to be middling light spot with about 29-32nd staple. The gin turned out the first bale free.

The bales averaged about 500 pounds and came from a 60-acre patch which was hand-pulled in order that remaining bolls might make more.

Film Shot In Mexico

With his new adventure drama, "Bring Me The Head of Alfredo Garcia," director-writer Sam Peckinpah was working with some of his favorite actors in one of his favorite countries. The actors are Warren Oates and Kris Kristoferson, who also is famed as a folk singer and composer. The country was Mexico where Peckinpah made several of his most successful pictures, including "The Wild Bunch." His newest film opens Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre through release by United Artists. This time, in collaboration with producer Martin Baum, San Peckinpah operated out of Mexico City, where he signed on his leading lady, Isela Vega, Mexico's foremost actress — and a star of 25 films made in her native land. Peckinpah, Baum and co-author Dawson were in complete agreement to film their production in the heartland of Mexico — i.e. Mexico City and its colorful surroundings — rather than in the more familiar locations usually selected by American companies. So rather than Durango or Acapulco, the company and cameras roamed through such unfamiliar and fascinating places as Oxtotipoc, Parres, La Cima, Huitzilac, Chalco and Plaza Garibaldi.

Poker Face Finds Movie Part Easy

By WAKA TSUNODA
NEW YORK (AP) — Amarillo Slim, who says he has "acted all my life but not in front of the camera," has finally corrected the oversight and made his film debut. The well-known professional gambler who has won the World Series of poker twice makes a brief appearance as himself in "California Split," a film about compulsive gamblers starring George Segal and Elliott Gould.
 "I was hired as a technical advisor, they told me, but when I got up there a location site in Reno, Nev., all of a sudden they wanted me to play cards. That's how it came 'bout," drawled Texas Thomas Austin Preston Jr., who is known as "Amarillo Slim" because of his home town and his 6-foot-4, 171-pound build. Did his acting experience at the poker table come in handy in film acting? "Yeah," he nodded in his characteristically hang-loose manner. "I was relaxed. Unconcerned. I didn't give a damn about those cameras. I did what I've been doing all my life." Slim added, however, he has no desire to go into the movies, and "sure hope to keep playin' poker for the rest of my life."

 "California Split" is being promoted as a film that glamorizes gambling. Does he recommend gambling as everyone's pastime? "NO!" The cornflower blue eyes in the long, narrow face opened wide. "I'm not for legalized gambling even. I feel it would cause too much of a hardship on people who cannot afford it. If people can afford it, it suits me. I enjoy scratching them up a bit. But suppose a guy who works all week for a salary stops in for a drink on the way home, and loses two or three hundred dollars on slot machines. Now if it pertains to him and him only, it tickles me to death. But when he gets home, if he's got a wife and some little kids, and the wife's not gonna get a new Easter dress, that doesn't suit me." Slim believes that poker, a game born in America, is getting popular as a spectator sport.
 "Poker as a spectator sport would be very, very dull. And yet, now that poker has advanced to a new game called 'Hold 'em,' all of a sudden it's entertaining. Because of these open cards the game calls for, you can relate to it even though you are not in it. You can guess who's bluffing and who's on to something."
 "Hold 'em" is a variation of seven-card stud in which each player is dealt two cards face down. Five cards are then dealt face up in the center of the table as a community pile. The winner must make the best high hand he can out of his two hole cards and three from the community pile.

 It is the game the world's top players play at the World Series, an annual tournament that started informally among them and became a public event in 1969. Slim won it in 1968 and 1972.
 "It's the most popular high-stakes poker game. If any card player ever plays 'Hold 'em' for three days he'll forget all other forms of poker," he said.
 Slim, 45, has been a professional gambler all his life. "I like competitiveness," he said. "That's a tonic in my life. Forget the money. That's just the means of keeping score."
 His gambling is not limited to poker. In 1972, he successfully bet $30,000 that he could run the rapids of Idaho's treacherous Salmon River. "That was the only time I ever risked my life on a wager," he said.
 Slim says he has lost some gambles but the balance sheet is "far in excess on my side." Its tangible evidence is his ranch home in Amarillo, Tex., where he keeps more than 2,000 head of cattle, 27 pairs of custom-made boots, 30 custom-tailored Western suits, and a wife and three kids.
 The key to his success: "I don't want to sound as if I were braggin', but I'd say it was the keen mind and sharp wit."

Top Dollar Being Paid

DENVER, Colo. — Cowboys won better than $100,000 at the six largest Labor Day weekend rodeos, and the biggest single winner was Barry Burk of Duncan, Okla., the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.
 Burk, six-times runnerup for the world championship in calf roping, won more than $900 by taking first in the event at Huron, S. Dak., finished second at Douglas, Wyo., for $654, and placed at Pueblo, Colo., in steer wrestling, for more than $500. His roping winnings put him third in the event with $19,547.
 The three rodeos were held in conjunction with state fairs.
 All-around leader Tom Ferguson, Miami, Okla., took first in steer wrestling at Ellensburg, Wash., for $968. His total is nearly $54,000, and he leads in both calf roping and steer wrestling.
 Event leaders are:
 All-around cowboy — Tom Ferguson $52,928, and Bob Berger, Norman, Okla., $27,253; saddle broc riding — John McBeth, Burden, Kans., $24,870, and J. C. NO SLUMS, NO UNEMPLOYMENT

Gatlinburg Is Rare American Community

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Imagine a town with no poverty, no unemployment, no slums and virtually no crime. That's Gatlinburg — gateway to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. The Smoky is the nation's most popular park, attracting eight million visitors a year. Gatlinburg, on the park's northern border, is overnight host to many of them.

To accommodate this huge influx of visitors, 170 motels and four hotels have been built on either side of the Little Pigeon River which ascades out of the Smokies through the town. They can take care of about 25,000 persons a night.

Some say all this construction has spoiled the beauty of what only 40 years ago was a sleepy little mountain village. Others say the growth was natural as more and more persons flocked to see the Smokies.

PLANT ORDERED

As time passed, Gatlinburg outgrew its ability to dispose of the refuse and sewage produced by so many visitors. After some raw sewage seeped into the Little Pigeon, the Tennessee

Health Department stepped in last fall and ordered the city to halt all new construction until it builds a new waste water treatment plant.

"This moratorium on building is good for Gatlinburg," says City Manager Joe Ward Booth.

"It will give us time to take a good look at ourselves and decide where we want to go."

Before the moratorium was imposed, the city commission waived a long-standing rule that no building higher than 60 feet could be erected. It gave Sheraton Corp. permission to build a high rise hotel.

Sheraton is erecting a 16-story, $5-million hotel on a hill six blocks from Parkway, the town's main street. Its 315 rooms are scheduled to be available for the 1975 summer tourist season.

Booth said he doesn't expect the city fathers ever to relax the 60-foot building limit again.

"We want to keep Gatlinburg looking as much as possible like it has for the past 25 years or so," the city manager said.

"We are a family resort and much of the tourism and convention business we attract is repeat business. We want to keep it that way."

In all its history Gatlinburg, a town of 2,300 residents, has recorded only one rape case, two killings and two robberies.

Grant Given To PBRPC

AUSTIN — Governor Dolph Briscoe has approved two criminal justice grants totaling $39,817 to the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, Midland, for improving law enforcement and justice.

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission will contract with the City of Midland Training Academy to provide regional police training through a continuation grant of $33,984. A total of 32 weeks of courses will offer basic and in-service training to approximately 320 officers.

The Permian Basin RPC receives $5,833 for second-year funding of a drug-abuse project which also provides health and alcohol-abuse program planning for the 17-county area.

The money comes from the Criminal Justice Division of the Governor's Office. CJD administers the state's block grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under the Crime Control Act of 1973.

The local grants were among 42 totaling $2,860,898 which the governor approved.

Dr. Levon Ray Leads Talks

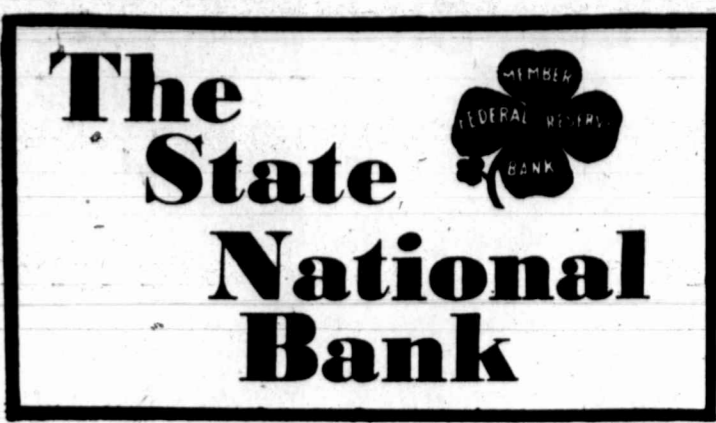

LUBBOCK — The 65th annual field day Tuesday at the Texas Agricultural Experiment station will include information on narrow row cotton production, according to Dr. Darrell Rosenow, field day chairman.

Dr. Levon Ray, cotton geneticist, will be on hand to discuss recent developments in narrow-row cotton breeding.

Field day guests also will review studies that compare double-row cotton planting to the conventional 40-inch row. This research includes newly released and experimental short-season varieties. Increased yields and extra early maturing qualities are among the advantages of some of these new varieties.

In addition to a comprehensive review of research developments, guests will be about to survey a large display of the latest farm equipment sponsored by area implement dealers.
