Plane Carrying 78 Passengers Crashes

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — An Eastern Air Lines jet carrying 78 passengers and a crew of four crashed today in a wooded hillside today as it was approaching fog-shrouded Douglas Municipal Airport here. There were no immediate reports on the number of casualties, but a spokesman at Memorial Hospital reported about 12 persons were brought there for treatment. William Rawlings, the airline's sales manager for the Charlotte district, said Eastern ground personnel were in contact with the jet moments before it crashed.

NO IDEA "Our Eastern people had no idea anything was wrong. Everything appeared normal. There was fog this morning but the exact cause we do not know," Rawlings said. The DC9-30, a stretched version of the DC9, was Eastern's Flight 212. It had left Charleston, S.C., on schedule at 7 a.m. It crashed at 7:33 a.m. about two miles from the Charlotte airport. An Eastern spokesman said 71 of the passengers were bound for Charlotte. Seven others were scheduled to go on aboard the plane to Chicago, he said.

EXPLODED Mayor John Belk of Charlotte and other witnesses who reached the scene before police blocked all traffic in a two-mile radius said the jet apparently exploded after hitting the ground. Mrs. Thomas Cox, whose home is less than a mile from the crash site, said she heard the jet as it passed her house. She said there were "three" big booms when it went right over our house. I never heard it (a plane) sound like that before." "They brought one (person) down and put him on my porch. He was pretty badly burned. He lay there for a long time," Mrs. Cox said. The plane crashed about two miles south of Charlotte's city limits, one mile off Interstate 77.

BADLY BURNED In Miami, Eastern officials identified the jet's pilot as Capt. J. E. Reeves, 48, who joined the company in 1956. The first officer was listed as James M. Daniels Jr., 36, and the flight attendants were E. A. Kerth and J. C. Watson. All were based in Atlanta.

Ervin Melton, a rescue member of the Woodlawn Fire Department, said he found four men and one of the flight attendants when he arrived at the crash. "The four men were conscious but were badly burned. The stewardess said she was okay, to take care of them," Melton said.

Will Weigh Watergate Pardons Case-By-Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will weigh Watergate pardon requests on a case-by-case basis, Republican congressional leaders said today. Their statement, after a meeting with Ford, altered drastically the position announced by a White House spokesman less than 24 hours earlier.

PROTEST Amid a wave of congressional protests over possible pardons, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., met with the President for an hour and 45 minutes. After that session they issued a presidential statement, then discussed Ford's position on possible pardons for Watergate case defendants — and said no study of blanket pardons is being conducted.

That ran counter to the position disclosed Tuesday by Acting White House press secretary John W. Hushen, who had said: "The question of pardons is under study." Hushen had said the study involved all individuals accused or convicted of Watergate-related crimes.

While Hushen would not elaborate Tuesday, his announcement indicated that the White House was taking the initiative in considering pardons for Watergate defendants, and that a study involving all such cases was under way.

UNDERSTUDY The Ford statement, read by Scott, emphasized that a study is conducted on any request made for the pardoning of any individual. Ford also said in that statement that no inference should be drawn about the outcome of a study in any specific case, and that his pardoning of Richard M. Nixon is not related to any other case "which is or may be under study."

Hushen insisted today that he had not misstated the President's position in his Tuesday announcement.

"Did you misspeak yourself yesterday?" a reporter asked. "No," Hushen replied. "Did you misinterpret what I said?" He would not discuss the matter further. "You've got the President's statement," he said. "That's all I'm going to say right now."

CLEMENCY Scott said Ford had asked him to read today's pardon statement to reporters.

In it, the President said: "The announcement yesterday by Mr. Hushen concerning a study of the entire matter of presidential clemency and pardons was prompted by inquiries to the White House press office concerning Mrs. John Dean's reported statement in reference to pardoning of her husband and similar public statements on behalf of others.

"Such a study is, of course, made for any request concerning pardon of an individual. However, no inference should be drawn as to the outcome of such study in any case. Nor is my pardon of the former president, under the unique circumstances stated by me in granting it, related to any case which is or may be under study."

Agents Nab 100 In Drug Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal narcotics agents arrested nearly 100 persons early today in nationally coordinated raids against an illegal network of amphetamine sales in 10 cities.

In a simultaneous attack Mexican authorities closed four laboratories where the pills were produced and, illegally shipped to the United States.

A U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman said the operation — described as the largest of its kind — "is a very great success."

In all, 125 indictments were returned in the 10 cities and most of the suspects were described as middle class men in their mid-20s.

FAST CHASE By 10:30 a.m. EDT today, 98 persons had been arrested in the United States and 25 in Mexico, officials said.

Drug enforcement investigators expected to make more arrests during the day and the agency's spokesman said the operation would continue at a slower pace over the next two or three days. He said most arrests were made without incident, but in Arizona two suspects escaped in a high-speed chase with highway patrolmen.

In Seattle, officials said they are seeking a father and son team, Allan N. and James A. Ingman whom they described as running one of the biggest amphetamine-pushing operations in the country.

Hushen said Tuesday at a White House news briefing the President was making a study of possible pardons for all Watergate figures, those already convicted and those facing trial.

The announcement drew a tidal wave of criticism. Later, in discussing the possible pardons, White House Counsel Philip W. Buchen declined to set a timetable for a final decision by the President.

But Buchen indicated Ford's study might not be completed by the scheduled Sept. 30 start of the trial of six former aides and associates of former President Richard M. Nixon on charges stemming from the Watergate cover-up. Scott was asked by reporters if there was indeed a presidential study of Watergate defendant pardons. "I think there are none," Scott replied.

Scott said if and when the President receives any request for action by Watergate figures he would react by considering them and considering the request "most carefully."

Rhodes said that the President wanted to make clear that any request for a pardon "would not be thrown in the wastebasket."

Both Scott and Rhodes said they supported the President's decision to pardon Nixon.

Rhodes said that continuing the "Watergate matter is not in the best interest of the country." He said he has doubts that President Nixon could get a fair trial any place in the United States because of the publicity.

EASTERN CREW — J. E. Reeves, top, and J. M. Daniels Jr., were the two pilots of the Eastern Air Lines jetliner that crashed today in Charlotte, N.C. Reeves was the captain of the aircraft and Daniels was first officer.

Will Sue To Get 10 On Ballot

AUSTIN (AP) — The Socialist Workers Party said today it will sue Secretary of State Mark White to get 10 candidates on the November election ballot even though White maintains he has given the party "every benefit of the doubt."

White told a news conference today he was advising the party that it had not obtained enough signatures on petitions to get its candidates listed on the ballot.

Sherry Smith, the party's candidate for governor, filed with White June 27 petitions she said contained 55,561 signatures of eligible voters who had not participated in another party's activities.

But White said his office determined through use of a sampling system borrowed from the University of Texas statistics department that only 26.6 per cent of the signatures were acceptable.

This computation was made from a sampling of 556 names, White said, and if a name, for example, was illegible, counters went on to the next name.

"We gave them the benefit of the doubt in every instance — every benefit of the doubt," White said.

$850,000 For Nixon Labeled 'Snow Job'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.Mex., told a Ford administration spokesman today he apparently was "given quite a snow job" by Richard M. Nixon's aides who helped prepare an $850,000 budget for Nixon's return to private

RECORDS SHOW Montoya, chairman of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee looking into the budget request, made the remark during questioning of General Services Administrator Arthur F. Sampson, who defended the proposal before the panel.

Government records show the request proposes to combine the benefits of two separate laws in order to provide Nixon more than twice the funds former President Lyndon B. Johnson received for his period of transition to private life.

Sampson told the Senate panel he did not know the full extent of services a "supplies" that Nixon will need. He said the requested funds would make the former president's "records and advice" available to the American people and the world.

NOT WINTER Sampson then outlined what he described as a very sophisticated security system the GSA plans to build and maintain for Nixon's records under an agreement he and the former president signed last week.

The agreement makes the government responsible for the security of Nixon's presidential materials and provides for the eventual destruction of the celebrated White House tapes. The vaults and security guards would cost an estimated $110,000.

Montoya said, "It appears that when you went to San Clemente (to discuss the transition with Nixon's aides), although it was not the middle of winter, you were given quite a snow job."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indirect signals from Havana that Fidel Castro may be interested in talking with the United States have inspired the Ford administration to begin an extensive review of U.S. policy toward the Caribbean island. The Cuban premier is thought to be more receptive to a dialogue with Washington in order not to remain totally dependent on the Soviet Union, which supplies his regime with some $1 million a day in aid. The feelers are being conveyed through American visitors to Cuba and by a less hostile posture by Cuba toward this country.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American consumers could have leaner beef at lower cost under a regrading plan announced by the Agriculture Department. The department unveiled proposed new rules that would reduce the fat content required for the higher grades of beef. The effect would be to increase by up to 20 per cent the amount of beef that would qualify as "choice," the grade most commonly sold at supermarkets.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration proposes to combine the benefits of two separate laws in order to provide Richard M. Nixon with more than twice the funds that former President Lyndon B. Johnson received during his period of transition to private life. General Services Administrator Arthur F. Sampson was to go before a Senate appropriations panel today to defend the $850,000 Nixon budget, which compares with the $370,000 given Johnson.

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — More than 100 persons have been killed in street battles in the past 24 hours in Lourenco Marques, the capital of Mozambique, the official radio station in the Portuguese colony reported today. The fighting followed the collapse of a rebellion by white settlers opposed to Saturday's agreement handing over power in the southeast African territory to Frelimo, the Mozambique guerrilla movement. A Portuguese government communiqué in Lisbon reported "racial violence" and indicated crowds of black and white demonstrators had clashed.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The leaders of the Greek and Turkish Cypriots meet today to discuss a Red Cross proposal for the release of more than 4,000 prisoners of war. It will be the third meeting between President Glafcos Clerides, the head of the Greek Cypriot government, and Vice President Rauf Denktaş of the Turkish Cypriots, since the cease-fire between the Greek Cypriots and the Turkish invasion forces was signed Aug. 16.

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos today released former Sen. Jose W. Diokno and four other political opponents arrested when Marcos declared martial law two years ago. The other four were Eleuterio Adevos, a cabinet member in the government preceding Marcos; Angel Baking, a former foreign office employe convicted of belonging to the outlawed Communist party; Benjamin Guingona, a member of the last constitutional convention, and businessman Antolin Oreta Jr.

FORD EYES UNEMPLOYMENT

Public Service Jobs To Cost Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford announced today he has ordered the spending of $415 million to finance 85,000 public sector jobs in state and local governments.

Ford said he will ask Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan to immediately disburse $65 million to those communities in which unemployment is highest.

By the end of the month, Ford said another $350 million will be made available under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

TWIN PROBLEMS

Ford made the announcement to labor leaders and Senate and House members attending the second round of pre-economic summitry aimed at solving America's twin problems of inflation and recession. The session was part of a continuing series of meetings leading to the White House economic summit conference Sept. 27-28.

The President said the effect of today's actions will be to double the number of federally funded public service jobs — to 170,000 by this coming winter.

He said that in addition $1.3 billion will be available to state and local governments for manpower programs.

Ford noted the unemployment rate in August was 5.4 per cent and said that "we certainly cannot be complacent about any American lacking work" and "the present situation calls for full use of available tools and dollars."

NO CONTROL

His remarks were released in advance of delivery. Ford emphasized there will be no controls imposed on wages and prices.

"To leaders of our labor unions, and to the captains of industry, I make a sincere appeal for restraint," said Ford. "And it must be self-imposed restraint."

"Settlements at the bargaining table are the responsibility of the participants as long as they respect the public interest."

"Cold and impersonal numbers and percentages cannot describe the impact on people's lives," Ford continued.

"While everyone is hit by inflation, some are struck harder than others. I am thinking of families on low and moderate incomes, on older Americans who are struggling on modest pensions, and on young people whose experience with the employment scene may not generate real confidence in our economic system."

The President said that care must be exercised to "prevent our recently overheated economy from cooling off too fast. We must avoid a damaging recession."

Ford said he is watching the unemployment rate very closely.

Fred Haller Retires From Post With Bank

Fred Haller, head of the loan department of the State National Bank for 20 years before stepping down due to illness, retired effective Sept. 1.

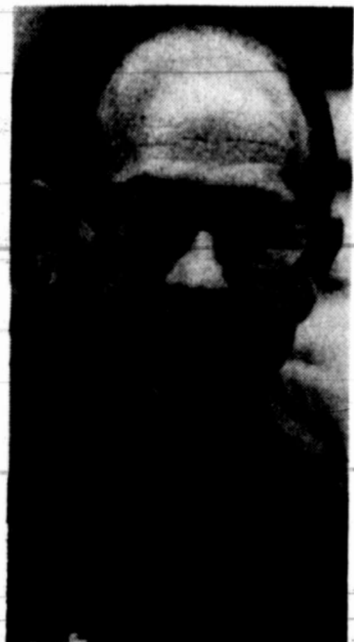

He had been employed by the bank for over 39 years after starting out as a bookkeeper in 1935 and working his way to the head of the loan department.

He manned a less strenuous job in the loan department since a series of heart attacks in 1970.

Haller plans to keep on the go, however, looking after his rent property, working in his woodworking shop and gardening. He also plans a vacation to the Hawaiian Islands with his wife in October.

In his workshop he enjoys making furniture and cabinets for his own use.

"I enjoy watching things grow," Haller said about his 25 by 50 foot garden. He has grown cantaloupes, tomatoes, okra and beans in his back yard.

He and his wife, Jane, raised two adopted children, Randy, 19, Big Spring and Debbie, 20, who is a student at Richland College in Dallas.

Titles Defined After Change

Bob Butler, assistant city manager of the city, is also acting director of public works at this time.

In the recent changeover, some citizens have become confused about which department head they should question.

Under public works, James Campbell acts as head of parks and recreations and Bill Brown is director of utilities. Jimmy Forsythe is the assistant, over streets and sanitation.

Mrs. Zeima E. Dorland of Ponderosa Apts. 111 reported a jewelry box, several items of jewelry, check books and a pistol missing from her apartment.

Threat To Blow Up Porno Movie Houses

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Bexar County District Attorney has turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation a letter from an anonymous writer threatening to blow up bookstores or movie houses dealing with pornographic materials.

Typewritten letters were received Tuesday by Dist. Atty. Ted Butler the San Antonio News and KSAT-TV from a person or group using the name Students to Overthrow Pornography.

Butler said there was no way to determine if the letters "were sent by a crank." He turned over his copy to the FBI and sent copies to the Sheriff's office and the Police Department.

The letter listed movie houses showing PG, R, and X rated movies, bookstores selling pornographic literature, and television stations showing "questionable" movies as targets of the group's sabotage campaigns.

"Violence is the only language being understood today," the letters said.

The group described itself as "concerned citizens" said it had waited for government, church and civic groups to improve the community.

The letters said the group would begin sabotage by bombing and other methods.

Baptist Edger Stolen From Store Unit Okays Big Budget

DALLAS (AP) — A $20 million budget, the largest ever approved, was passed Tuesday by the Executive Board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The board also voted to seek strengthening of Baptist institutions — it operates 26 ranging from child care facilities to universities.

The board's recommendations will go before the annual convention Oct. 29-31 in Amarillo.

The board's report calls for turning the Human Welfare Commission and the Christian Education Commission into coordinating boards.

Board members also heard reports on Dallas Baptist College and from five other institutions.

Dr. James Harris of Fort Worth, head of a special group appointed to study the problems of financially troubled Dallas Baptist College, said enrollment at the college is up over last year.

He said, the operational problems continue however.

Board members also approved a change in the name of Howard Payne College at Brownwood to Howard Payne University.

agreed Tuesday that the testimony could be used as evidence following a request by Asst. Dist. Atty. Ralph Whalan.

Whalan's motion came as a prelude to the trial of Samuel C. Corey, 41, of San Antonio, which opens Sept. 17.

He said he wanted to introduce such evidence in order to show that the slaying of Patricia Ann Albanowski Giesick, 25, formerly of Trenton, N.J., was a matter of systematic intent.

The attractive strawberry blonde died here last Jan. 16 after being run over by a car.

Her husband, Claudius J. Giesick Jr., 26, also of San Antonio, told police Patricia was struck down by a hit and run driver as they were crossing a street.

The case was first listed as hit and run but patrolmen who handled the call made a special request to homicide for further investigation. Second degree murder charges resulted.

Police said Corey, a rotund one-time ministerial student, performed the marriage ceremony for Patricia and Giesick and a few days later she was killed in a plot to collect $250,000 in life insurance. Corey also was in New Orleans at the time.

Both Giesick and Corey, who operates a massage parlor, were charged with second degree murder in Mrs. Giesick's death.

Some Dairymen Forced To Go Out Of Business

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) — Noting that some dairymen have been forced to quit business and others may follow suit, livestock industry leaders have called a mass meeting Friday in this Northeast Texas city.

One of the sponsors is the Texas Farm Bureau and its secretary, Vera Johnson, said, "This is not just scare talk—it's a real emergency. I don't know what we're going to do."

Arrangements for the town meeting on the country courthouse square were made after five dairymen here in Hopkins County—which boasts it is the home of the nation's biggest dairy herd—went out of business in the past month.

AFTER LIVELY DISCUSSION Surveyor's Name Is Ordered On Ballot

After a lively discussion, County Judge A. G. Mitchell told County Clerk Pauline Petty to have the appointed county surveyor listed on ballots as the Democratic nominee for that position.

Ralph Baker, the former county surveyor and the only candidate for nomination, died three days before the May Democratic Primary, Mrs. Petty told County Commissioners Court.

On the authority of a discussion with an official of the Texas Secretary of State's office, Mrs. Petty said the Howard County Democratic Executive Committee was empowered to name the Democratic nominee.

Mitchell argued that C. R. Crim, the man the court appointed to replace Baker, would remain county surveyor at least until after the next primary and subsequent general election.

County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eysen Jr. said: "He (Crim) was appointed to serve out whatever term Baker has."

Discussion failed to clear up the legal question.

With one exception, election judges were named for the general election. Commissioner Jake Buchanan said he would have to seek a replacement for J. W. Speegle, formerly election judge for box 22. County commissioners select election judges for boxes within their road and bridge precinct.

Named Monday were these:

Amey Yanez, box 1; Raford Dunagan, 2; O. O. Craig, 3; Billy T. Smith, 4; Mrs. R. E. Haney, 5 and 7; O. R. Crow, 6; L. R. Mundt, 8; Mrs. David Grant, 9; Mrs. Van H. Gaston, 10; J. Alden Ryan, 11; Edgar Phillips, 12; and Larry Shaw, 13 and 14.

Also, Mrs. E. A. Fiveash, 15; John Bennett, 16; Mrs. Dorothy Bennett, 17; Mrs. Noel Hull, 18; William Hull, 19; Cecil Hamilton, 20; Mrs. Horace Wallin, 21; and Bob Dean, absentee.

In other business, the court:

Voted to purchase two typewriters for a total of $1,133 and two adding machines for a total of $527 from Marlin's Business Machines. The court named IBM for another typewriter.

Authorized Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, to entertain bids for office supplies for 1975.

Attended a meeting with officials of the Lubbock area library system advisory council.

Discussed asking the city to share expenses of law enforcement telephone network. Southwestern Bell Telephone charges $118 monthly for three phone lines connecting police, the sheriff's office and a radio tower. Bell Telephone also bills the county $77 monthly through the regional planning commission in connection with the radio-telephone network, Mrs. Black said.

Considered air conditioner maintenance costs.

Authorized reemployment of Deputy Sheriff Buster McCartney effected Sept. 7. McCartney resigned Aug. 31 to accept a position with Odessa Police.

And considered purchase of high frequency radios which would provide the local Alcoholic Beverage Commission agent, game warden and Texas Ranger with mobile communication.

No Time To Fuel Fire

According to one popular yardstick, the decline of the Gross National Product (GNP) in the second quarter signals something of a recession, especially since it follows on the heels of a first-quarter dip.

This would be a poor time, however, to resort to the previous technique of deficit spending as an economic stimulant. It is clear that inflation is still our foremost economic problem, hence we cannot afford to fuel its fires with more government spending.

It has been a foregone conclusion that reducing or eliminating deficits in the federal budget, and the companion policy of the Federal Reserve Board limiting the growth of the money supply, would reduce industrial and business expansion with a consequent bad effect on employment. However, that is a penalty the economy must pay if we are going to make headway against inflation, which is going to be with us as long as there are too many dollars chasing too few goods.

Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns in his admission to Congress the other day, said that it ought to be considering even tighter reins on the federal budget.

In his view the "balanced" budgets now being considered are not really what they seem. There are so many "off-budget" spending and loan programs not included, he says, that the $3.5 billion deficit in the last fiscal year actually amounted to a $12 billion deficit in practical terms.

Economist Walter W. Heller is taking issue with Mr. Burns on the significance of federal spending as an inflationary force. He sees nothing wrong with the government going back into the red for the sake of a "modest stimulus to the economy." We hope Congress will remember that the inflation we are saddled with today got its first big push when Mr. Heller was the chief economic advisor to the Johnson Administration. At that time the government tried to finance a war on poverty and a war in Vietnam by bathing itself in red ink.

The experience of the last decade, however, should tell us that a resort to more deficit spending at this point would only foster the illusion that our inflation problem is less serious than it really is.

Round And Round

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

The rotary engine, about the only thing new in the automotive field since the V-8 engine with a chance for immediate success, may be given its real test within the next two years.

UNTIL NOW, the engine concept put into a working model by Felix Wankel in Germany in 1954, has been confined in this country principally to the Mazda, made by Toyo Kogyo of Japan. Toyo has turned about three-quarters of a million units, one-third of which are on American highways.

At the Detroit automotive show in January General Motors is due to take wraps off its initial version when it shows its Chevrolet Monza, a sporty sub-compact. Buick and Oldsmobile are due to come out with their rotary versions, perhaps in 1976.

GM IS BETTING that it succeeds, having laid by some estimated, from $250 to $300 million on the line for research and tooling up. Ford has backed off, professing no faith in the rotary engine, but some observers see this as Henry Ford's pique at being able to get only a 15 per cent rather than a 30 per cent deal he sought from Toyo.

THE ROTARY ENGINE works on a unique principle. It has a triangular rotor which turns inside a cylinder wall. At a certain point, the fuel mixture is ignited, pushing the rotor another notch when it expels spent gas, then moves to compress new fuel, and then fire again. Because it spins round and round the drive shaft, there are almost no vibrations, whereas the conventional engine depends on the explosion of the fuel mixture to hammer the pistons down, thus turning the corkscrew crankshaft.

ANOTHER ADVANTAGE of the rotary engine is that it is about half the size of the piston engine for comparable horsepower, and it has far less parts, hence less wear.

However, it has been tarred with a reputation for guzzling gasoline, a charge hotly denied by its makers. EPA scored it for high hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions but later retracted some of its blame. However, the damage to the rotary's reputation had been done. Newer models have increased fuel efficiency to where devotees of the rotary claim it gets mileage comparable with conventional combustion engines. Converters appeared to be reducing emissions sharply.

THE ENGINE'S pick up or acceleration power has been criticized in some quarters, but a four-rotor version appears to have all the zip of any other engine and has turned up speeds of 150 mph with no trouble.

The idea that it is only for compact and sub-compact is challenged by the $10,000 model NSU-R080 model in Europe. Practically every country making cars in Europe is coming out with some versions of the rotary engine.

IT GENERALLY IS AGREED that the gas turbine engine won't be adaptable — for a long time at least — for passenger automobiles so if we are to have a really new wrinkle, the rotary engine may offer the best hope. The GM entry in the field should provide a real test for its potential.

Cast A Long Shadow

Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, who died recently, would have earned a niche in aviation history solely on the basis of his innovations in the design and engineering of aircraft. He cast a longer shadow, however, because he was among the first to see the implications of military science in the rapid development of aviation technology.

This Russian-born engineer was twice honored by the U.S. government for his correct anticipation of the decisive role that control of the air would play in World War II, an idea that many military strategists were slow to accept. He left a lesson to succeeding generations — that it's perilous for a nation to ignore the technological progress which can make weapons and strategy obsolete, especially when a potential enemy is concentrating on turning that progress to his advantage.

On Brennan Stays

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — The exuberant confidence that Secretary of Labor Peter Brennan carried into the CBS studios here last Sunday when he appeared on "Face the Nation" pointed up President Ford's discouraging reluctance to put his own clear imprint on the government.

WHAT MADE BRENNAN seem more chipper than at any time since he emerged from the obscurity of middle-echelon organized labor to enter President Nixon's cabinet 18 months ago was private assurances last week from Mr. Ford. Contrary to speculation, the President assured Brennan, he would continue at the Labor Department indefinitely. Since Brennan enjoys the high perquisites and low responsibilities of his cabinet post, that was good news indeed.

But it is bad news for some of the President's advisers. Keeping Peter Brennan, they feel, suggests that the President is displaying dangerous lassitude in not shaping the administration he inherited to his own image. "I think the time has come for Jerry to make his own footprints in the sand," one longtime Ford associate told us.

APPROACHABLE THOUGH Mr. Ford is, no aide seems to have put this squarely to him. Consequently, high administration officials were counting on help from Donald Rumsfeld, ambassador to NATO who was home from Brussels this week for consultations. Serving on Mr. Ford's transition team last month, Rumsfeld strongly recommended totally new faces for the new President.

Accordingly, there was hope Rumsfeld would bluntly advise the President this week as follows: by promising long tenure to the Brennans, you are destroying your own options and losing the chance to make this a Ford administration.

BEYOND SYMBOLISM, Brennan at the Labor Department interferes with Mr. Ford's quest for warmer relations with AFL-CIO president George Meany. With Meany increasingly disenchanted by high-level Democratic politics, big labor might again be neutral in the 1976 presidential race. But Meany has never forgiven Brennan for switching his position on minimum wage liberalization last year and regards keeping him on at the Labor Department as a continued provocation.

Why, then, is Brennan kept on? One line of speculation is that vice president-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, an old friend, has come to Brennan's aid. Not so, says a Rockefeller intimate. "Nelson's not about to try throwing his weight around now," he told us. An aide added: "The President's not going to fire Brennan just to please George Meany."

WHATEVER THE CAUSE, Mr. Ford is clearly not following the advice of his transition staff. One piece of reading matter considered by transition aides was an excerpt from "A White House Diary," the memoir of Lady Bird Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson's entry for July 16, 1968, in the fading months of her husband's presidency, muses: "As I look back on four and a half years, I think it would have been better if Lyndon had appointed more of his own men to strategic positions — cabinet positions — not too long after he assumed office. There is a certain quality of direct relationship between you and the people you personally have chosen and put into jobs that results in teamwork that does not always come from someone who inherited the job from another President."

What Others Say

Old-timers were in convention at the water hole once surrounded by bleached bison bones. Joe Pickle came in from the convention being held in the beautiful Big Spring city.

"You're an old-timer here. You should attend our convention," said Joe. He's editor of the Big Spring Daily Herald, where I was wire editor for a while back in 1966.

"I am an old-timer of Big Spring, and at the same time a stranger in that place I first saw in 1911. I was remembering the shimmering heat of the unpaved streets when my mother and I, both with raging fevers, stepped down from a Texas & Pacific train. We had typhoid and didn't know it."

Being a stranger in an old home town gave me a strange feeling. When I first went there, Big Spring was a cowtown. Ranch hands from C. C. Slaughter's Lazy S spread north of town used to come whirling in a long motorcade of Pierce-Arrows for ranch supplies. Now the latte south of the Cole & Strayhorn Addition, where I used to shoot rattlesnakes with my .22 rifle, was crowned with tall communications towers. Big Spring has grown up from some 3,000 souls more than 10-fold. Tiny silver jets in which pilots from around the Free World train fly a continuous pattern around the city.

Although I might have won a ribbon for having come the greatest distance, I could not attend the old-timers convention. Wesley Huddleston, my nephew, lay gravely ill following critical surgery in Hill-Bennett Hospital. I am his nearest kin. I remembered a terrible night I spent in that same hospital on a high-hill where Wesley's father, Tom, awaited surgery to amputate a gangrenous leg.

The Chamber of Commerce was buying newspaper space to advertise the availability of Big Spring airline service. The city had reached far to reservoirs up and down the Colorado River to quench its growing thirst. It once could be supplied from that buffalo watering hole now a small pool in the city park.

Where bumper crops last year has been harvested, drouth this year has blasted the Staked Plains. The cotton crop is ruined except under irrigation, and stockmen are buying feed or selling off foundation herds.

"How do all these people manage to make a living here?" I wondered. Yet I knew that those people, the old-timers, know from long and bitter experience how to tighten their belts and exert greater community efforts in hard times than folks who are blessed with more favorable conditions. — Ernest Jones, Palestine Herald-Press.

Every serious home craftsman must have a collection of busted hammers, wrenches that don't wrench that were picked up in a moment of weakness at a "bargain counter."

Now the Treasury Department has made the discovery there are large imports of Japanese tools that may be selling too cheap, or cheap enough to violate a 1921 law against "dumping" of imports "below fair value" on the American market.

If Treasury makes its "dumping" charge stick, it will mean that Americans will pay higher prices for junk tools. The difference between the cheap American tools and the imported stuff won't be discernible unless the price tag is checked. THE OREGONIAN

Father Of Superstars

John Cuniff

By BOB THOMAS (Substituting for John Cuniff)
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I Remember It Well" is the title of the new autobiography of Vincent Minnelli, who has sometimes been remembered less for his superbly styled movies than for being husband and father of two superstars.

Minnelli was married to Judy Garland from 1945 to 1951. They collaborated on four films and one daughter, Liza, born by Caesarian section on March 12, 1946.

He has also directed such films as "Meet Me in St. Louis," "Madame Bovary," "An American in Paris" (Oscar for best picture, 1951), "Father of the Bride," "The Bad and the Beautiful," "Lust for Life," "Gigi" (best picture, best direction, 1957), "Some Came Running," etc.

With collaborator Hector Arce, Minnelli deals in frank and instructive detail with the hazards of directing for a major studio — he made all but two of his 35 films for MGM. Also the problems of dealing with the industry's censors. The Production Code Administrator objected to the making of "Gigi" because "all of the characters were unmarried and opposed marriage as an institution."

"I've always been more a part of the audience than her father, a super fan who happens to love her very much," he remarks. Father and daughter had hoped to make a film together, but so far it hasn't materialized.

Oxygen For Senility?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A national magazine published an article about the use of a sort of pressurized oxygen treatment for senility. My mother is 82, has lost all of her memory and has little control of bladder and bowels.

Other members of the family are applying intense pressure on me, as her guardian, to get this treatment for her. I am against it, because I believe in "senility with dignity" as well as "death with dignity." Could you please discuss this treatment? — P.H.A.

Let me discuss this from two standpoints. First is the practical one. That sort of treatment requires a hyperbaric oxygen chamber, an airtight chamber in which both the pressure and the composition of the atmosphere in it can be kept under precise control. There aren't many of them around, and they require skilled personnel to operate, and they are expensive. Likewise, this is largely an experimental technique rather than (for most things) a proven method of treatment. Such treatment would require taking your mother to a center with such equipment. It would be an expensive gesture for what would be at best only a temporary improvement.

If I express doubt of the practicality of such a step, as I do in your case, it does not mean that I disapprove of the research being done with these hyperbaric chambers. But I see no just purpose in seeking a temporary improvement, or perhaps I should say a conjecturable improvement.

Senility — the deterioration with age — is not an all-or-nothing condition. It begins with a slowing down of the mental processes. It progresses to destruction of them, with the two phases gradually overlapping. It is one thing to be able to invigorate these mental processes; it is another to assume that the brain can be rejuvenated after it has been damaged by the ravages of time and age.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me if it will hurt a man with angina (one coronary artery is blocked) to smoke some cigarettes. I take medicine every day and as long as I take the medicine, the cigarettes do not seem to bother me. — J.M.

The cigarettes don't bother you if you take your medicine — but they do bother you if you don't take it — is that right?

All I can say is that, even though the medication lets you get away with smoking for the time being, you have evidence that the cigarettes are harmful to you. My advice is to quit.

I suppose our children must be the most confused in town. Their father says, "Don't let others walk all over you — stand up for your rights." And their mother says, "Look, as a Christian, suffer the injury. Get away from the attacker, sure, but don't retaliate." Now, would Jesus have retaliated? G.P.L.

The Scripture makes the answer quite plain. First of all, it says of Jesus in 1 Peter 2: "When they hurled their insults at him, he did not retaliate; when he suffered, he made no threats." That's how Jesus handled His opposition. The next statement explains why — "He entrusted Himself to Him who judges justly." He let God the Father handle His case.

As for you, since you claim to be a Christian, just read Matthew 5:39

Mrs. Brooks estimates that 30 billion are being held out of circulation. The mint has made 63 billion pennies in the last 5 1/2 years and is turning out 35 million to 36 million each working day trying to keep up with the demand.

Mrs. Brooks briefly contemplated making pennies of aluminum, thereby causing the slot-machine industry to have a collective heart attack.

But the main reason that idea was dumped in the old garbage can was the objection of the baby doctors. They noticed that a good many children do their own hoarding by swallowing coins. An aluminum penny would not show up on X-ray films.

IF YOU COULD collect a few thousand of the first U.S. pennies, you would really make money by melting them down although this would give the coin collectors the shakes.

These pennies were almost as large as dollars and were not minted smaller until 1856. There also was a two-cent piece of bronze and a three-cent piece of nickel. A half cent coin was issued.

Coins, like bills, are simply tokens. The only time in the United States that the metal in money was worth more than the face value was in the North in the Civil War.

Coins other than pennies largely are made now of a copper alloy although some still in circulation are silver or a sandwich of copper covered with silver.

THE QUARTERS being minted now, for instance, have a metallic value of 1.7 cents — only twice as valuable as a penny. But the silver quarters minted until 1965 are worth $1.04.

A silver dime once had 41.6 cents of metal but after 1965 they became copper, worth seven tenths of a cent.

My Answer

where Christ suggests offering the "other cheek." I like the comment of Trench who says, "This MAY be done outwardly; but only inwardly can it be always right." To insist on a strict literal meaning, however, of those words would destroy the very framework of society. After all, the gentle Lord Himself expostulated with those who struck Him wrongfully. (John 18:23.)

What the Bible does say is that you should make any feeling of retaliation subservient first to the law of love. When you realize that you are not alone, that God will settle the record later, you can more easily absorb opposition.

Help your children see for themselves in the Bible how Christ acted. I think they'll make up their own minds.

Ford's Delay Of Federal Pay Hike Draws Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's deferral of a 5.5 per cent pay boost for federal employees has drawn a fusillade of protest from labor, and shapes up as a major test of his persuasive powers with Congress.

Ford has postponed the scheduled Oct. 1 raise until Jan. 1, thereby saving the federal payroll $700 million in the name of fighting inflation. Federal employees unions want Congress to restore the original date.

Beyond that, such groups as the National Federation of Federal Employees, the American Federation of Government Employees and the National Treasury Employees Union are lobbying for a larger boost. Most are united behind an AFL-CIO proposal of 8.4 per cent.

Their reasoning centers on an inflation rate hovering around 12 per cent, plus government surveys showing increases in private industry wages of 6.3 to 7.1 per cent—surveys which are six months out of date.

Under the Federal Pay Comparability Act, Ford's delay of the pay hike—affecting 1.4 million civilians and 2.2 million military employees—can be overturned by a simple majority in either the House or Senate.

As president, Richard M. Nixon succeeded in postponing similar boosts for two successive years, but his third try in 1973 was overturned by the Senate.

"As far as federal employees are concerned, President Ford is a second-hand Nixon," says Nathan Wolkomir, president of the 120,000-member National Federation of Federal Employees. "Ford had the opportunity to prove to the career service that he really cared ... but he blew it. He showed us he really doesn't understand."

WHEELS TURNING

Vincent Nonnery, president of the 50,000-member Treasury Employees Union, vowed "a rather massive protest" to Congress. The law allows 30 days for Congress to act, and Sept. 30 is the deadline.

Already the wheels are turning. Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, has introduced a resolution to overturn the delay, joined by Sens. Frank Moss, D-Utah, J. Glenn Beall, Robert Dole, R-Kan., and Mike Gravel, D-Alaska.

Chairman Gale McGee of the Senate Civil Service Committee is sympathetic, and has set hearings on the proposal. The Wyoming Democrat believes both that the increase should be higher and that it should come Oct. 1.

Even Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a frequent critic of inflationary federal spending, has endorsed an October implementation. So has Senate Majority Whip Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.

While the federal bureaucrat can point to a number of statistics to show that his standard of living is slipping, there is still evidence aplenty that this lot isn't all that bad compared to other American workers.

A comprehensive survey by the Commerce Department showed that in 1973 the average salary for the federal civilian worker, including blue-collar jobs, was $13,000. In private industry it was $8,900.

FRINGE BENEFITS

A Civil Service Commission survey of 12 leading private employers showed that none provided better fringe benefits than the federal service. Most notable in that area is the government's pension plan. It provides the retired worker up to 80 per cent of his salary, and declarer captured East's jack with the queen. Declarer crossed to dummy's ace of clubs and led a spade to the queen and West's king. You have reached the crucial point of the hand. What card do you play now?

This is where Hamman and the Italian defender parted ways. The Italian West returned the king of hearts, won by the ace. Declarer tried to run the club suit, but when West turned up with a stopper, he was forced to rely on a finesse for the jack of spades. When this succeeded, he made four odd.

Hamman realized that his club stopper might provide declarer with unexpected trouble. So, before declarer could find out about the bad break, Hamman made the excellent return of the eight of spades!

From declarer's point of view, a spade finesse at this time was an unnecessary risk. It seemed that he had nine running tricks simply by winning the ace of spades and cashing out, while if he finessed the ten of spades and it lost, the defenders would be poised to cash three diamond tricks to defeat the contract. Thus, he went up with dummy's ace, came to his hand with the ace of hearts and tried to run the clubs. Seven tricks were all that he could make.

Telephone Rate Increase Asked

HOUSTON (AP) — The City Council was told Tuesday that Southwestern Bell Telephone should be granted a 15.7 rate increase.

Tom Tyson, the city's public service director, made the recommendation to council. He said the increase would provide the phone company with a $28 million increase in gross revenue.

Roy H. Moore, the company's division manager, said the phone system requires additional gross revenue of $32.9 million—and a 19 per cent hike.

The council took the matter under advisement.

Mrs. Dean, wife of the former president's chief accuser, asked President Ford in a statement Monday night to demonstrate the same compassion for other Watergate families that he showed to Nixon's.

Second Husband Leaves Her Out

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nearly two years. This is the second marriage for both of us. I was a widow with very little money, and he was a widower with quite a lot. We both have married children.

He just told me that he is leaving everything he has to his children. I get nothing. His children practically ignore him. They are just waiting for him to die. On those few occasions when he sees them, they show him no respect or consideration at all. My children treat him much nicer than his own do.

I am not a rich woman, but I made out my will to leave three-fourths of everything I have to my children and one-fourth to him. Should I change my will and leave my children everything?

He is 70, overweight and has high blood pressure. If he dies first and leaves me nothing, I will have to eat up my capital, and I am afraid I won't have enough to bury him. What should I do?

that my drawers had been rummaged through and that a whole month's supply of birth control pills was missing! Later, I found two empty spaghetti cans and the carton from a half gallon of ice cream in the trash.

My question: Should I tell Mary's mother? That little sneak needs to be punished. My husband says to skip it.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Tell her mother. But no she'll punish her daughter. (The last thing Mary needs is more punishment; she's already brutally punishing herself!) The girl obviously has some serious emotional problems which desperately require professional treatment. It would be kind of you to urge that mother to get her daughter into therapy. My question: If she were YOUR daughter, wouldn't you want to know?

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything really improper about a single female walking into a top-notch restaurant to lunch or dine alone, aside from the fact that it takes a certain amount of nerve to do so?

I am a lover of good food, and I don't always have an escort to take me where I'd like to dine. However, I wouldn't want to look like I'm trying to pick up someone because I came in alone.

What say you?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Quit wondering and treat yourself to a lunch or dinner wherever you can afford to go. As long as you mind your own business, you need not worry about giving anyone the wrong impression.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Country Club Plans "After Game" Party

An "After the Game" party will be held at Big Spring Country Club Friday night following the local high school football game.

The party for club members and their guests, will begin about 10:30 p.m. and will continue until 1 a.m. Burritos and Mexican hors d'oeuvres will be served, and there will be juke box dancing.

The charge will be $1.75 per person, and reservations should be made by calling the club prior to noon Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Carleton are chairpersons for the party, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Snell and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McMahon Jr.

Two Firms File Suit

Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. and a construction company Tuesday afternoon filed a suit in 118th District Court against P. R. Insulation Ltd. Inc., Houston, and a company which provided a performance bond.

The petition cites additional construction costs of $54,360 "after allowing for any balance owing under the subcontract between Fish and P.R."

On Oct. 22, 1971, Cosden contracted Fish Engineering & Construction Inc., Houston, for an addition to the refinery. Fish subcontracted with P. R. for some materials and labor. Fidelity and Deposit Co. of Maryland, with offices in Houston, issued a performance bond for the subcontract.

The plaintiffs claim that, because of failure of P. R. to complete insulation and fireproofing, Star Insulation Co. Inc., Odessa, was subcontracted.

The manager also told the council that work was also

Star-News Proposed Sale Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed sale of 37 per cent of the stock of the Washington Star-News parent company to Texas banker Joe L. Allbritton has been postponed, a Star-News spokesman said.

Allbritton's offer to pay $25 million for the interest in Washington Star Communications, Inc., was to have been voted on Tuesday by the company's stockholders after the board of directors unanimously approved the offer June 17.

A spokesman for the Star-News said the shareholders will consider the matter at a meeting scheduled for Sept. 24.

The postponement was settled on after Allbritton raised some questions about the impact of the contract that the newspaper signed last month with the printers union, the spokesman said.

An effort will be made to answer those ques-

DALLAS (AP) — The Justice Department was expected to announce today whether Jake Jacobsen will be prosecuted on charges of misapplying $825,000 from a San Angelo Savings and Loan Association, according to U.S. Atty. Frank McCown.

McCown said no decision had been made when he talked with Washington officials Tuesday.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Hill denied last Friday a motion to dismiss the San Angelo charges against the Austin lobbyist.

Jacobsen had agreed to testify against former Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally in a milk fund bribery case in exchange for dismissal of the San Angelo charges.
