FORD WEIGHING EFFECT

Would Milk Price Boost Hurt GOP?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration reportedly is weighing the potential political effect of a proposed hefty increase in the farm price of milk if it is announced before the Nov. 5 elections.

Approved and passed along fully, consumers are likely to pay about two cents per quart more for milk. And that could mean trouble for Republican candidates among city voters.

According to qualified sources, no decision has been made to delay the milk price announcement. But the sources, within the Agriculture Department and within the dairy industry, say the political question has been discussed.

PRESSURE GROWING Meantime, there is growing bipartisan pressure for a milk price boost quickly to head off what some see as disaster for dairy farmers if relief is not offered.

Declining milk prices and rising costs have caused a profit crunch since last spring.

Showers Leave Area Soaked

A 24-hour rain, one of the heaviest in a one-day period in more than a year, was capped by additional rainfall Monday.

Spring, according to the Experiment Station was 2.84 with 15 coming on Monday.

total to 4.25. Bill Cregar said Elbow got another half inch Monday bringing its total to 3 inches in two days.

The Bill Wilson Ranch on the north county line reported one half inch Monday for a 3-inch total.

Stanford Prof. Is Winner Of Nobel

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — An American chemist and two British radio astronomers today were awarded 1974 Nobel prizes for chemistry and physics.

Paul J. Flory, 64, professor of chemistry at Stanford University, took the prize in chemistry for his work in macromolecules, the substance of most common plastics and of a number of important biological compounds.

Sunday night's rain was sufficiently hard at times to put out a substantial amount of stock water, which was needed even more than moisture for the grass.

Ranchers now hoped for 30 days of warm weather to help grass mature. Farmers were assured of good moisture reserves and easy conditions for putting up land. Those who had small grain crops planted for cover or grazing were assured virtually of a crop.

PAUL J. FLORY

Ryle was cited for his work in developing advanced techniques for using telescopes in observing detail in celestial bodies and Hewish for his part in the discovery of mysterious energy sources called pulsars.

Flory receives a cash award of $124,000, and the two British astronomers share an award of the same amount.

Liability Is County's

County Commissioners Court, not the city, is responsible for an alleged breach of contract for a landfill lease, an answer to a suit in 118th District Court claims.

"During the nearly 40 years Flory has been active as a research scientist, the chemistry of macromolecules has developed from what was, theoretically speaking, a primitive discipline to the highly advanced science of today.

May Frost

Low predicted for tonight in the upper 30s with some chance of frost. Sunny and mild on Wednesday with high expected in the mid 70s. Winds from the north at 5-15 miles per hour. High today is 64 and low this morning, 43.

PRICES DIVED

But milk prices plummeted soon after. The August M-W average was $6.39 per 100 pounds. It was used to compute Class 1 minimums for October, an average of about $8.37 per 100 pounds.

'FIRECRACKER' DEFENDS MILLS

Press Out To Destroy Great Man, Says Fem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breaking a week-long silence, the woman involved in a bizarre incident with Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has backed up his version and complained that the press "is trying to destroy a great man."

"What Mr. Mills said was exactly what happened, the 38-year-old Argentinian and former dancer said in a telephone interview Monday night. She reportedly worked as a stripper in a Washington nightclub and was billed as "the Argentine firecracker."

Speaking in a soft, slightly accented voice and sounding at times close to tears, Annabel Battistella said that accounts of the episode may also ruin "me and my chances of going back to school."

But she expressed confidence that the political career of Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, would not be ruined by the episode which took place in the predawn hours of Oct. 7.

"I am sure when he goes to Arkansas, he will be able to talk to his people like he used to," she said.

Mrs. Battistella refused to elaborate on Mills' statement about the events of Oct. 7 beyond saying it was accurate. But she differed with U.S. Park Police accounts in at least one aspect.

Police said she jumped into the Tidal Basin, a backwater of the Potomac River, after police stopped Mills speeding, unlighted car and he emerged smelling of alcohol and with a bleeding face.

A policeman pulled Mrs. Battistella from the water.

"I didn't jump into the Tidal Basin, I fell," she said. "I got hysterical because the officer was drowning me. I didn't need his help. I am an expert swimmer."

Mills' account stated that he had arranged a Bon voyage party for Gloria Sanchez, a cousin and houseguest of Mrs. Battistella, who was returning to her native Argentina.

He said his wife, Polly, had a broken foot and insisted that he take the party out while she stayed home.

"Mrs. Mills went out with us all the time," Mrs. Battistella said. "We were always with other people — never alone."

Mills said in his statement that "after a few refreshments, Mrs. Battistella became ill and I enlisted the help of others in our group to assist me in seeing her safely home."

On the way home, with the car being driven by another man, "Mrs. Battistella attempted to leave the car and I attempted to prevent it," Mills said. "In the ensuing struggle her elbow hit my glasses and broke them, resulting in a number of small cuts around my nose."

WITH HOLDING BACK INFO

Ehrlichman Camp Charges Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman's lawyer accused former President Richard M. Nixon today of deliberately withholding information about Watergate "to save his own neck."

William S. Frates said in his opening statement to the jury trying Ehrlichman and four others for conspiracy in the Watergate cover-up that "President Nixon, who knew the full story, withheld information from John Ehrlichman and prevented Ehrlichman from making a full disclosure of the facts that Ehrlichman recommended at that time over and over again. Frates thus laid out Ehrlichman's defense. That "Richard Nixon deceived, misled, lied and used John Ehrlichman."

'COVER UP'

He said that at the same time that Nixon was calling Ehrlichman one of the finest public servants he had ever known "he was deliberately withholding information covering up to save his own neck."

As Frates spoke, Ehrlichman, who had been Nixon's number two aide until he resigned four months into Nixon's second presidential term, sat at the counsel table staring fixedly at the jury.

His lawyer said it was not easy for Ehrlichman to make such charges against the man he served so long. Frates asked the jury of nine women and three men to treat each defendant separately in making their decision at the end of a trial he expected to last three or four months.

He referred to the White House tapes that Nixon fought so hard to retain in the White House. The tapes, obtained after an extended court fight and a Supreme Court decision, will be played for the jury in the course of the trial.

"The tapes might have done some people harm," Frates said, "but they are the greatest thing that ever happened to John Ehrlichman."

Frates made the first opening statement for the defense. Lawyers for two other defendants, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson were to follow. The other defendants, H. R. Haldeman and John N. Mitchell, reserved their opening statements until the prosecution cases end.

The first witness was to be John Dean III, the first White House insider to accuse Nixon and his closest associates.

HANDGUNS BLAMED

Death Toll Hits 27 In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Twenty-seven persons died in a bloody outburst of violence over the weekend in the Chicago area, and police say the availability of handguns was the major cause of the deaths.

Police said 93 shootings were reported from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday in Chicago alone.

In the city, 17 persons died of gunshot wounds. Three additional fatal shootings in suburban Cook County brought to 20 the number of gun-related deaths in the county.

Seven others died by assorted methods of violence — one was strangled, four were stabbed and two persons were run down by a car. Police charged the driver with murder.

Eleven nonfatal stabbings and 14 rapes also were reported over the weekend, officials said.

"Society is decaying somewhere along the line. Most of the shooters and the victims are young people. It's a tragedy," Cmdr. William McCarthy of the Homicide Division said Monday.

"Our job is becoming an unending battle against guns. We've got to hit the nail on the head. We have to get state or federal legislation to control the availability of guns."

Officials say poor enforcement nullifies Chicago's gun-control law, and surrounding suburbs do not even have such laws.

Popcorn Lovers Owe Debt Of Thanks To Columbus

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbus Day should have a special meaning for popcorn lovers.

According to researchers for the World Book Encyclopedia and the Popcorn Institute, Columbus was the first white man to see natives of the West Indies with corsage-like decorations that were made out of exploded popcorn — today's popcorn.

BUT IT ATTRACTS CROWD OF CURIOUS

Film On Sexual Techniques Is Shocking To Elderly Doctor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I've never seen anything like this before," muttered an elderly, white-haired doctor as he watched films of nude people having intercourse.

"They never taught me anything about sex in medical school," said another doctor as he lectured to a packed room of family physicians on problems of sexual development.

It was all part of continuing education for specialists in family practice, who opened their annual convention here Monday.

The American Academy of Family Physicians meeting included hundreds of other topics and scientific exhibits to provide up-to-date information for the doctors, who handle a broad range of ailments.

But the biggest crowd of doctors was around the EDCOA Productions booth, where films for sexual therapy and education of doctors in sexual techniques were being screened.

Richard Price, EDCOA president and producer of the films, took great pains to establish that the films were strictly limited to use by professionals and patients.

He said doctors, hospitals and medical schools are buying the films and videotapes to demonstrate therapies such as sensate focus, in which a couple is instructed in sensual exercises to improve their sexual communication.

"The response has been excellent," Price said. "The doctors are by and large very much in favor. Oh, once in a while there are some who have negative feelings, but it's rare for anyone to leave the demonstration area before the end of a film."

EDCOA, which has distributed seven, human sexuality films and has 40 more in various stages of readiness, is a subsidiary of Ormont Drug and Chemical Co., Inc. Price said all the films are produced in association with medical consultants and a professional advisory council.

In the first of a three-day seminar on human sexuality, Dr. Beverly Mead of Creighton

University School of Medicine said society has a "50,000-year-old hangup on sexual problems."

Although the seminar was to cover such difficulties as frigidity, impotence and homosexuality, Mead said he had one chief aim: "To help doctors get over whatever sexual hangups they have so they can get to be more at ease, and give them courage to discuss sex with their patients as part of the medical history, not just tacked on at the end as an afterthought."

Mead said it has been only in the past 10 years that doctors have begun to get sex education courses in medical school.

He emphasized the need for honesty in answering children's questions about sex, and dealing with them straightforwardly when they show sexual curiosity or activity at an early age.

Furthermore, Mead said doctors should try to encourage attitudes toward sex as part of sharing and loving rather than achievement, conquest or selfishness.

Ranch Home Is Scene Of Ratliff-Huitt Rites

The Garden City ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Arlis Ratliff was the scene of the wedding of their daughter, Miss Laura Maud Ratliff, to Roger Dale Huitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Arnold, Old San Angelo Highway.

The couple stood before an improvised altar of massive votive candles that encircled the fireplace mantle. Arrangements of Scotch leather fern and salal foliage flanked the altar.

The Rev. J. B. Sharp, First United Methodist Church pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Dick Mitchell was pianist and accompanied Mrs. Steve Livingston, Garden City, and Miss Linda Batla, St. Lawrence, who were vocalists.

Miss Ratliff wore an heirloom gown of ivory rosepoint lace and marquisette. The moulded bodice of lace featured a decolette neckline etched in the lace pattern, and long tapered sleeves. The dropped waistline accented the bouffant skirt which fell in layers of marquisette that swept to a mini-train. The silhouette was complemented by a mini-length mantilla veil. Matching rosepoint lace edged the scallops that encircled twin panels of illusion on which was sprinkled lace flowers.

The bride carried a nosegay arrangement of pink sweetheart and white butterfly roses accented with stephanotis and gypsophila,

The full chiffon sleeves were shirred to wide cuffs.

Ken Collier, Big Spring, was best man. The couple will honeymoon in Hawaii on Waikiki, Oahu.

When the Huitts return they will make a home at 801 Marcy, Coronado Apt. 8.

The bride is employed by the State National Bank and the bridegroom is a lab technician for Cosden Oil and Chemical Co.

Dear Abby

Her Football Fellow Is Way Out Of Bounds

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating this real neat guy who keeps telling me that I don't have to worry about his getting me pregnant because he was injured while playing football. Should I believe him?

NANCY

DEAR NANCY: No. It sounds to me like he's trying to complete a pass. Kick him in the end zone.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the man who was married for 25 years and wanted his wife to give him one weekend off from his marriage every month. How I wish I were married to him. That's exactly what I want.

I suggested it to my husband once, and he hit the ceiling. Everyone but a wife gets a vacation. I mean a chance to really get away from the same old routine. Why does marriage have to be a prison?

I wish I were younger. I'm 56 — too old to start over, or to go it alone. Besides, I have no special training, so I guess I'll just have to go on as I have even though my husband and I have little in common except our children.

So in order to be supported, and keep the high regard of our children (now married), I'll continue to allow my husband the intimacies I no longer enjoy. Talk about prostitution!

I honestly think that with all the changes taking place today women will eventually get a break, and have the sexual freedom men have. It's too late for me, but not for my daughters.

Relatives Visit In Abilene

WESTBROOK (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Stokes and Mrs. J. D. Iglehart are in Abilene with the Hamrick children who were seriously injured in an automobile accident Monday. The children are grandchildren of the Stokeses, and Mrs. Iglehart is their aunt.

The Altis Clemmers visited her father, T. L. Ramsey at Mountain View Lodge in Eastland and the E. G. Johnsons in Pitnam over the weekend.

The Fred Crawfords spent the weekend in Fort Worth with his parents.

Sunday guests of the Keith Williamsons were Mrs. V. Phillips of Rosenberg, and Mrs. J. E. Terry and Mrs. James Cartwright of Elgin. The visitors also spent some time with the Dick Gregorys and the T. A. Reeses.

You can't help me, Abby. Nobody can. But it would be interesting to know if I'm all alone in my outlook. Or are there other women who feel this way?

BORN TOO SOON
DEAR BORN: I'm sure you're not alone. I hear from thousands of women your age who feel trapped in dull, tired marriages, but they ask how to improve those marriages. You didn't ask, so I'll not offer any advice. I can tell you, though, that the answer is not in the "sexual freedom" you wish you had.

DEAR ABBY: My formerly favorite nephew who lives in another state was married last June. I sent him a generous check for a wedding gift. I heard nothing from him, but noticed that when the bank sent my cancelled checks, the above-mentioned check was among them.

Isn't it customary for people to write thank-you notes for checks?

I recall how I laughed when I read in your column that a bride and groom had received a check for a wedding gift, and on the back they endorsed it and scribbled, "Thanks."

Not a very proper thank-you, but IT WAS MORE THAN I got.

4 ways to make electricity work more efficiently in the laundry.

Here are several good ways to make the most of the electricity you use in the laundry. These tips may make laundry day a little easier, too.

- Sort clothes according to type of fabric, color, texture, degree of soil and garment construction. And try to accumulate a full load before you do a washing to save water.
- Choose the washing cycle that is correct for the clothes you are washing. A "hot" setting may not be necessary. Except for white or colorfast items, most loads will come clean in either a cold or warm wash.

- If your washer has a water-level selector, choose the correct setting for the load. You'll use less hot water.
- Clean the lint filter on your clothes dryer after each load to help it operate more efficiently and reduce drying time.

Metric System To Get Boost In TV Campaign

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. is a long way from adopting the metric system of measurement, but a major soft drink company is planning a radio-TV campaign it hopes will make consumers say, "Take me to your liter."

The firm, the Seven-Up Co. of St. Louis, Mo., says it plans to begin its broadcast and print advertising campaigns for liter and half-liter bottles of its product in 1975.

The company apparently is the first soft drink producer in the U.S. to take the metric step, according to officials at the National Soft Drink Association and the Glass Container Manufacturers' Institute, two major trade groups.

And the step will be limited at first. The radio-TV ads extolling Seven-Up as the "leader in the liter" won't be the only kind set loose, says Lee Larkin, the company's director of public relations.

He says they'll just be one part of an overall campaign urging consumers to simply buy the drink, be it bottled by the liter or in traditional ounces, and that the liter phase-in will be gradual. Larkin says bottled Seven-

Up primarily is sold in units of 16 and 32 ounces. A half-liter will work out to 16.91 ounces and the liter to 33.82 ounces, he says, but he doubts there'll be a slight price rise to reflect the extra sip provided liter-lovers.

There are several reasons for giving the new measurement a tryout, says Larkin. "One is that we want to be the first to do it. The next is that it's a logical system of measurement."

And third, it's going to come sooner or later. "Later is more probable," says William Sudd, president of the glass container association. "It's going to happen... but there's been no industry-wide move that I know of for the soft drink industry to go metric at this time."

No legislation is pending in Congress to make metric mandatory. If that ever happened, a call for a shot of booze—usually 1½ ounces—might someday come out in a "Gunsmoke" episode as

"Say, Miss Kitty, give me 45 milliliters of red-eye."

Sad to say, the Seven-Up television ads for liters probably won't be much of a home study aid for grade school kids to whom hundreds of teachers across the U.S. now are trying to explain the metric system.

Larkin, who said he's seen one of the proposed TV ads, says "it doesn't go into depth," that is, explain the difference between the liter and the ounce. "It's not an instructional type of thing."

Enrollment Drop Here Is Studied

Big Spring school board members authorized appointing a study committee to review the staff facilities utilization of the local schools when they met in their regular session here Monday.

The study will be to ascertain whether pupils are distributed fairly and whether some staff or pupils need to be changed to other districts to have a better balance. The continued drop in enrollment through the past five years has brought about the study.

Big Spring joins the nation in the fact that even if a population does not show much change, the number of elementary children has shown a drastic drop. Members of the committee will include lay personnel, administrators and others and the recommendations of the group will go directly to the board.

The board was told that Ben Bancroft was representing the school on the "Flato" Realty Suit in which all local tax groups were sued seeking ad valorem tax relief on the Permian Building.

TO CALL MEET
Board also discussed calling a committee meeting of representatives of all taxing agencies to review the contract with Southwestern Appraisal Company, Inc. Roy Watkins, board president, named Jerry Jenkins, board member; Don Crockett, school business manager and Dan Wilkins, board member, to serve on this group.

A delegation from College Heights PTA, headed by Mrs. Jimmy Don Townsend, president, requested school board assistance in an air conditioning project.

The PTA has taken on the project of air conditioning six rooms by spring. It will furnish half of the needed $1,861.80, the school the other half. Dr. Emmett McKenzie, superintendent, asked about the policy. Crockett reviewed the policy which allows the board to determine each application on its own merit with the school administration to keep the type of units consistent throughout the system. This is the fourth air conditioning request made of the board.

The board awarded low bid of $1,198.40 to Harris Lumber for 35 folding doors for elementary schools. The typing desk bid went to Foremost Equipment Company on $29.20 per unit. Royal Seating bid lower with $26.50 but it was reported that its desks did not have the required storage area.

DIRECTOR HIRED
Steven Waggoner has been hired as Runnels Junior High band director. Dr. McKenzie commended the Goliad Junior High director and the high school assistant for filling in the gap. Other teachers hired included Mrs. Mary Adams and Mrs. Myrna Adams, head start. The two are not related. Mrs. Barbara Maier was hired for high school English.

Resignations accepted included Mrs. Carole Jean Grant, high school English, resigning for personal reasons and Mrs. Amelia Smith, Airport Elementary, resigning due to her husband's transfer.

A Title I budget amendment was also approved. Routine reports were presented. All board members were present including Delnor Poss, Thomas Fetters, Jim Bill Little, Al Valdes.

Watkins, Wilkins and Jenkins.

Rodeo Announcer Eyes 1949 As Vintage Year

DALLAS (AP)—The world's greatest rodeo announcer sports a new Cadillac every year, wears a horseshoe-shaped diamond ring, dines with millionaires and says, "The good times don't ever involve money."

Tom Hadley, 47, the premier rodeo announcer whose voice of the west dominated the first run of the State Fair of Texas Rodeo here looks back on the "good times" like 1949 when he was flat broke.

Without any money, Hadley launched what was to become the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association.

"My team of ropers butchered a goat, and stole 100 pounds of potatoes," he says. "We ate on it three weeks. Six of us."

Then we drove over to Tempe, Ariz., in one car. Slept in bed rolls on the ground. Four of us won money in the first go-round of that rodeo.

"We went out and bought some ready-roll cigarettes. Then we bought the biggest steak we could find in the best hotel in Phoenix. We washed it down with beer and felt good. Those were the good times."

Hadley has won and lost fortunes. Back in the 50s, he and his wife, Virginia Regner, one of the country's best trick riders scraped up $13,000 after one year of grueling saving. They invested the money in cattle and it blew away in an Oklahoma dust cloud that left only a pile of debts.

"I'd told her then, 'We're gonna live it up.'"

The next day he went down to the Woodward, Okla. Cadillac dealer and arranged to buy a new Cadillac in six months with nothing down. In three months, he paid it off.

Last year, Hadley traveled some 80,000 miles in 300 days away from home to reap a five-figure salary that would make an investment broker blush with envy.

"Why go through life and save and save and hate your job," he says.

He keeps up a running commentary on the action in the rodeo arena. Before each rodeo he looks up the names of the contestants, talks with them and makes ample notes.

LONDON (AP)—Mary Wilson says she and the prime minister will not move into 10 Downing Street, but will continue to live in their townhouse near Parliament where she can have "a front door of my own."

Prime Minister Harold Wilson has used the Downing Street residence only as an office and for official functions since his wife refused to stay there after his victory in the previous elections, Feb. 28. His latest victory on Thursday did not change her mind.

Mrs. Wilson, the daughter of a Methodist minister who writes poetry in her spare time, kept house at Downing Street during her husband's first two Labor administrations from 1964-70, but said she found it a "daunting" experience.

Securing Confidentially

In a move to correct some of the abuses uncovered in the course of Watergate, President Ford has ordered that the sanctity of tax returns be more closely guarded. Henceforth, tax returns can be disclosed to a member of the White House staff only by written order of the President; the order must specify what aides are to see the return, and no further disclosure can be made without written directions from the President.

One of the more odious abuses of power uncovered about the Nixon presidency was the effort alleged to have been made to use the Internal Revenue Service as a means to punish political enemies, or to obtain information damaging to them. The Ford action is obviously designed to prevent this from happening during his presidency; the President is to be congratulated for taking this step.

But perhaps more should be done, and by the Congress. To the credit of career IRS officers, Mr. Nixon's men were blocked in at least some instances where they attempted to use the IRS as a political weapon. But the possibilities for abuse should be removed, nonetheless. In addition to Ford's executive order, legislation may be indicated to tighten the lid on income tax information even more firmly — and in a way that would survive beyond the Ford presidency. One reason for the successful record of returns in the United States as compared to many other countries has been the confidentiality of tax returns. They must be kept that way.

Alas, For The Elite!

It was French author Anatole France who observed that the law in all its majestic equality applied to rich and poor man alike. Both are forbidden to sleep under bridges, steal bread and beg in the streets.

It's comforting to know that the same equality holds true when it comes to inflation.

The ordinary person may have forgotten what a good steak tastes like. But consider the Gourmet who paid $69 for a tiny tin of truffles in 1969 and must now shell out $165.

Some other examples, as garnered by the National

Enquirer:
At Bloomingdale's in New York; pate de foie gras sells for $57 a pound now compared to $47 a year ago. A pound of Russian caviar goes for $95, a nine-ounce tin of Parisian mushrooms is up to $9.50 and a prepared filet of Beef Wellington now sells for $65.

Not only that but Scotch salmon is $16.50 a pound, a tiny jar of chives from France goes for $35 and Belgian chocolates are now $7.50 a pound. And you complain about 89-cent hamburger!

The Grand Tour

Around The Rim

Barbara Lord

Guten tag to my Big Spring friends. After five weeks in Germany, I start considering myself a native. Then I remember that "guten tag" and "auf wiedersehen" are all I can say, and reality returns. Regardless, let me tell you a few of my impressions — as a tourist.

First, though I know you have justified gripes about prices in the U. S., if you visited Europe you'd count your blessings! Inflation is rampant. Gasoline is 36 cents a liter — that's about $1.35 a gallon. Food is much higher than in U. S., and clothes are completely out of range. My checkbook suffered much greater damage than it would have for comparable items in Big Spring.

GERMANS ARE FABULOUS. Their low, gruff and guttural sounding language is offset by the joviality of the people themselves. They are always smiling and ready to lend a helping hand.

The country is cordial to foreign travelers. All of Europe used international road signs, consisting of pictures rather than words, and can be understood by people of all languages. Also, Germans in all major cities have made an effort to learn some English. Americans can always find someone who understands them. So, if you have the money and the inclination, come to Germany. Travel will be easy.

The countryside is beautiful; dotted with red-roofed villages that are as colorful as postcards depict. Rolling hills are covered with vineyards that produce famous Rhine and Moselle wines. It's almost impossible to get water with a meal. Wine is served in what we consider water glasses. People are brought up on it, and it is consumed with the nonchalance that we drink iced tea or Coke. I took a cruise down a 40-mile section of the Rhine River, and most of the vineyards on the slopes are overlooked by beautiful story-book castles.

As I traveled further south to Bavaria, the countryside gradually changed until I reached the majestic Alps. Their grandeur can't be described with justice, but as one who always revered the Rockies, I must say the Alps have now captured my heart. In Bavaria, beer holds the place of honor that wine holds further north. Both places, while joyous to my palate, were woeful to my waistline.

Since the war, Germany has progressed to become a modern, industrialized country, but scars of war are still evident. In all major cities, most bombed out buildings and sections of town have been restored, but there is always at least one building left that remains a "ruin."

IN MUNICH this is particularly evident. I went to the city's memorial to its unknown soldiers. It is a beautiful monument, but the backdrop for it is a building that once served as some type of military academy. It was bombed during the war. Most of the structure is still intact, but no effort has been made to restore it. Weeds have overpowered the ornate sculptures and statues which once made the building a proud structure. I suspect many of these ruins are left to remind people what the ravages of war do to a country. The buildings seem to be a banner saying, "Let's not ever allow this to happen to our country again."

Briefly, other points of interest I considered one of the great artists of all time. Before going to Amsterdam, I thought Dutch Masters were merely the name of some cigars. Now I know it's a term used to describe the many artists who called Holland home. Other paintings I saw included corks by Vincent Van Gogh, Vermeer, Frans Hals and Jan Steen. Speaking of works of art, in Amsterdam where I spent three glorious days, I visited a museum that had one wing with several hundred Rembrandt paintings. By no means am I an art expert, but it wasn't hard to tell why he is one of the great artists of all time. Before going to Amsterdam, I thought Dutch Masters were merely the name of some cigars. Now I know it's a term used to describe the many artists who called Holland home. Other paintings I saw included works by Vincent Van Gogh, Vermeer, Frans Hals and Jan Steen.

I COULD WRITE reams about other sites I saw and things I learned in Europe. Germany's "no-speed-limit" autobahns are worth a column by themselves. I traveled at 80 or 85 mph and got passed like I was standing still. . . 120 mph is not uncommon.

I'm not sure how much space is allotted "foreign correspondents," so I'll only mention that I also saw parts of beautiful Luxembourg, France and Austria. In a few days I'll be joining my husband, Ken, in Thailand and will soon send you my impressions of that part of the world. Till then, auf wiedersehen!

My Answer

Billy Graham

I took great offense at the conduct of my husband and a woman in our church. After being informed of the situation, and of my concern, the pastor deliberately, and against my wishes, set the two of them to work together privately in the church office. I feel crushed. What must I do? L.L.

I cannot imagine the minister of your church fostering an arrangement that would be a threat to a member's marriage, or that would set up a potential scandal. And right in the church office no less.

Now, I think that there are some missing elements to your story. Why don't you counsel further with your pastor, and more particularly with your husband. If the minister does seem uncooperative to you, certainly there is a church board where grievances can be heard.

If in truth your marriage is slipping, read Ephesians 5, with its suggestions for the best wife-husband relationship. I would take the coming weeks and go the second mile in attractive grooming, attractive clothes and the development of an attractive personality. Recover the art of winsomeness. Above all, pray that God will turn the tide of alienation. Ask God to help you become so irresistible that the woman in church or anywhere else will have no appeal whatsoever.

Rocky's Money

William F. Buckley, Jr.

I don't think Rockefeller is in trouble, but the attacks on him are interesting and, up to a point, even a little bracing.

THE PRINCIPAL line of attack is on the matter of his munificence. It might be said about the telephone company, that both have done a superb job in persuading the public that it is better off letting them alone. In the first place, to remove the Rockefeller fortune would be like removing the warp from the American financial structure, leaving only woof. Coping with the telephone industry would be a lot easier; but you will have noticed that nobody, with the possible exception of Jane Fonda, proposes to nationalize it. This miracle has occurred by the triumph of management.

THE ROCKEFELLERS, by the same token, very early in their training associated themselves in the public mind with — philanthropy. Their use of the Rockefeller name in connection with that philanthropy was only a little less lavish than the use of the funds themselves. True, they didn't name it the "Rockefeller Esso, E-s-s-o, Foundation", to stimulate the sales of Standard Oil. But it is hard to find a record of anonymous institutional Rockefeller benefactions.

Thus the public became used to the idea that the Rockefeller's pour a great deal of their money into philanthropy; and, accordingly, there hasn't been very much resentment of Rockefeller money.

THAT IS ONE reason why, when now it transpires that there is a considerable degree of anonymous Rockefeller philanthropy, after all, there isn't very much public shock. This has caused great indignation, though mostly in people like Anthony Lewis, who reach for indignation like plants for chlorophyll. The New York Times columnist rages at the lack of public concern over the huge, half million dollar, gift by Rockefeller to William Roman, and demands to know why the same people who foraged the Nixon record for evidences of any unregistered movement of cash, haven't come down on Rockefeller demanding an explanation.

I should think that the principal reason is that no explanation is really necessary. Now it is true that there is a hypothetical conflict of interest. That is to say, William Roman was nominated by Rockefeller to a position on the New York Port Authority) whence Roman might have voted in such a way as to frustrate God, Rockefeller. The assumption of the critics of the gift is that that gift makes the giftee eternally dependent. In fact, gifts neither make people eternally dependent nor, for that matter, eternally grateful.

ALMOST EVERY POLITICIAN got his start as the result of the benefaction of a senior politician. This took the form sometimes of cash, other times of preferential treatment. True, there has been loyalty, and sometimes it has been expressed against the public interest, as when the Kennedy brothers nominated a tame Boston judge for an advancement to which he clearly wasn't entitled. But more often than not, there is a residual independence, and I choose to think in the absence of evidence to the contrary that under certain circumstances Mr. Roman would vote against Rockefeller in the Port Authority.

WHAT ROCKEFELLER does accomplish with his money is a huge extension of his personality. He is a most domineering man, and at times a highly petulant man. When he lost the nomination of Goldwater in 1964, he closed down New York for Republican presidential activity. When he lost the nomination to Nixon in 1968, he refused to let the Conservative Party put Nixon's name on their line. By refusing, he literally risked the election.

Franklin Too Optimistic

John Cuniff

By RHONDA SEEGAL

(Substituting for John Cuniff)

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Benjamin Franklin, a farsighted statesman who was bullish on America, would be shocked to learn his 200-year-old trust fund for Philadelphia is worth $16 million less than the $17 million he had envisioned.

When he died in 1790, Franklin left 1,000 pounds to Boston, his birthplace, and to Philadelphia, his adopted home. He specified the trust — worth about $4,400 then — was to be used for loans of "up to $300 at 5 per cent interest" to young, married craftsmen who apprenticed in the cities.

After 100 years, Franklin willed, the money was to be divided and used, in part, for public works, while the remainder was to be put back in trust for another 100 years.

By 1990, Franklin calculated that, barring any major catastrophe, the trusts would grow to more than four million pounds — or some $17 million dollars. But the balance here in 1973 was $615,000. The Boston fund contained $742,000 at last count.

In his will, Franklin acknowledged there might be unforeseen problems. "If no unfortunate accidents has prevented the operation," he said when making his estimate.

"He didn't foresee that young people going into business didn't always make a success," says Ruth Armour, assistant secretary of the Board of City Trusts, which administers the Philadelphia fund.

"For a long time the money sat idle because there was no one to make loans to," he said. "Franklin required two people to sign, and just as today, nobody wants to cosign a loan."

Over the years, Philadelphia officials won court approval to revise the terms of the trust, but they tried to follow Franklin's intentions.

The Board of City Trusts continued to make loans, but Franklin requested. But, by 1963, it had boosted the age limit from 25 to 39, changed the interest rate to reflect current inflation, and broadened the eligibility requirements.

The loans no longer are made only for businesses, but for real estate mortgages. Mrs. Armour says, "We have opened it up to any married worker, not just those apprenticed in Philadelphia."

The loan ceiling has increased from $300 to $10,000.

At the end of the first 100 years, Philadelphia took its share, $133,000, and set it aside for "public works." Eventually the money went toward the new Franklin Institute. The total price tag was $1,522,804.

Boston used its share, $329,000, to purchase land for its own Franklin Institute, which opened in 1908 as a technical school.

The trusts will terminate in 1990, and Franklin took care to have the wealth distributed.

"It is to be divided 1,061,000 pounds to the city and 3 million to the state," he wrote.

"No way we'll have that kind of money," says Mrs. Armour.

Problem Of Car Sickness

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in high school but to graduate I must take a driver's education course. The problem is that, ever since I can remember, my brother and I have gotten carsick.

Of course it's very impractical to avoid cars, so I take a pill for motion sickness.

These pills work fine. I would like to know if they are safe to take when you are driving. Is there a chance it will clear up? — H.P.

Two suggestions. First, these motion-sickness pills are safe, but watch the dosage. Stick to the amount suggested on the package. Too much of that medication can make you drowsy, and that's no way to be when you are driving.

Incidentally, does this carsickness develop when you are driving, or only when you are a passenger?

Second suggestion: an eye specialist pointed out to me (and I printed this some time ago) that quite a considerable number sickness victims turn out to have astigmatism. Sometimes it isn't enough to prevent them from reading and other activities but is enough so the eyes have trouble adjusting to the rapidly-changing views which pass as you are in a moving car.

So with that possibility in mind, it might be well worth your while to have your eyes examined by an ophthalmologist — remembering to tell him about your carsickness.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Until my husband came down with it I thought shingles was a rare illness. In the three weeks he has had it, I have heard of numerous cases. We were told that it is a virus and related to smallpox but the doctor says it is not contagious. Some friends say it is caused by an emotional upset. If it is related to smallpox, why is it not contagious? — E.K.

It is NOT related to smallpox; nor is it caused by an emotional upset. It is a virus either identical or almost identical to chickenpox virus. If you'd rather have some facts instead of hearsay, send 15 cents and a long-stamped and self-addressed envelope to me, in care of the Big Spring Herald, and ask for my booklet, "The Facts About Shingles."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a doctor to take a smear from the tip of your finger and determine whether you have hypoglycemia? I know it can be found from a sugar tolerance test. — C.B.

No, unless it happened to be taken at a moment when your blood sugar level was at extremely low ebb, since such a test would give the approximate level of blood sugar at the time. Happening to make the test at just such a moment would be a long coincidence.

Even so I would say that a sugar tolerance test would be necessary, because the rate of fall, as well as the lowest level reached, is important for accurate diagnosis.

Timid Program

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Chaotic policymaking at the top of the Ford administration, coupled with Republican fright over the Democratic surge in the congressional election campaign, reduced Mr. Ford's new economic program to little more than a loud whisper.

SYMBOLIC was what happened to the President's speech, outlining a generally tepid economic cure aimed far more at recession than inflation, just before the President delivered it to an unenthusiastic Congress.

Mr. Ford's top inside adviser and speechwriter, Robert Hartmann, was given the speech Monday afternoon with orders to put it in final form. From that moment until shortly before the President took it to Capitol Hill Tuesday afternoon, not even Secretary of the Treasury William Simon was able to penetrate Hartmann's inner sanctum to make significant last-minute changes.

ONE RESULT: Mr. Ford's words indicated compliance with the Clean Air Act in converting oil-fired electric utility plants to coal. In fact, however, his top policymakers agreed late Monday that the Clean Air Act would have to be severely modified in the interest of speeding this conversion. That means reducing requirements for scrubbers and stack-gas cleaners in the new coal plants and assures a political showdown with environmentalists.

BOTH ROY ASH'S Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and Simon's Treasury men were unable to get their hands on the speech to tone down the President's phrase — "cleaner coal processes" — to fit only minimum health requirements.

Thus, a nationwide ban on Sunday gasoline sales, a prime energy-saver during the Arab oil boycott crisis last winter, was seemingly nailed into the speech until 10 p.m. Sunday night — only to be exhumed and discard sometime Monday. The reason: such a constraint on the tradition of Sunday joyriding would be politically dangerous to Republicans campaigning for office.

DESPITE THE PRESIDENT'S personal — and understandable — desire to show foreign oil producers that the U.S. has both the muscle and the will for self-sacrifice, he finally opted for volunteerism, the last refuge of uncertain politicians.

Leaders of his own party did not give the President much room for maneuver. Terrified at the prospect of a 10-cent gasoline excise tax, Sen. William Brock of Tennessee and Rep. Bob Michel of Illinois, chairman of the Senate and House Republican Campaign Committees, privately told the President last Thursday he "must kill" all talk of it within the administration. He bowed to the pressure.

By contrast, powerful politicians here, including Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia, the increasingly influential Senate Democratic whip, pointed to France where President Giscard d'Estaing demanded — and got — emergency wartime powers to deal with France's similar economic-energy crisis. "Ford needed some of that leadership," Byrd told us. The proposed $5 billion budget cuts were not specified because the presidents advisors can't agree. Which is the worst threat — inflation or recession.

There was other topsy-turvy policymaking in his appeal for "volunteerism" to reduce oil imports. He set a target of one million barrels a day. Yet his instinct to seek mandatory import ceilings was overridden when the Council of Economic Advisers and Arthur Burns's Federal Reserve computed that a real one-million-barrel-a-day cut would cost 450,000 jobs next year (mainly in tourism) and reduce the gross national product by one and a half per cent.

That indicated the President's greater fear is recession, not inflation, and it raises a question whether he really expects to get his one-million-barrel reduction.

Let's Give Him A Day Of Rest

GUILDFORD, England (AP) — The latest issue of the Guildford Diocesan Directory and Yearbook indicates the clergyman's day off, printed immediately after his telephone number. An editorial says this is to discourage less important calls on that day.

Waitress Should Earn Tips, Woman Here Says

By TROY BRYANT
 Ruby Anderson has been serving hungry people for 17 years. She's been serving poor people, rich people, plain people, famous people, friendly people, rude people, tourists and local people. But even after all those years, she still considers herself a typical waitress. She began working at Coker's Restaurant when it was built in 1957, and has been just as much a fixture at the building as the kitchen. When Highway 80 went through town, Coker's was a favorite place for tourists to eat. Mrs. Anderson served people from all over the nation during those years and a local radio station even did a regular show at the Restaurant, interviewing tourists who stopped. "In my job, I've met just about everybody in Big Spring, and I have served Chill Wills, Bing Crosby's wife and several other famous people that I can't remember right now," she said. Dave Duncan, a local oil man, was a regular oil customer at Coker's as a boy and a group of businessmen always ate lunch there. "One day," Mrs. Anderson remembers, "Mr. Duncan astonished his friends by announcing for all to hear that he had given me an oil well." But, he added, "I'm giving it to her one quarter at a time, holding up his tip." Tips are an important part of any waitress livelihood and Mrs. Anderson added that she has to get tips to make enough money for her day's work. She doesn't believe in tipping unless she earned it by serving the customer. Mrs. Anderson came to Big Spring in 1953 with her husband, who was in the Air Force. She is a native of Little Rock, Arkansas, and during her 17 years at Coker's she is in her "third set of bosses". Bob Spears and Richard Townsend are her present employers. Meeting people is one of her favorite things about the waitress business, and she is sure to meet many more.

Cal Jaycees Helping Circulate Buttons

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — With a hand-operated buttonmaking machine, the Jaycees chapter in this Los Angeles suburb is punching out WIN buttons to help stir a nationwide feeling of "super patriotism" for President Ford's anti-inflation program. "Even though some of us do not agree with the President's policies, we still feel that we should support him," Jaycees spokesman Budd Hoas said in an interview Monday. The button-making program started the day after Ford announced his economic program, Hoas said. Chapter members stamped out 50 WIN buttons that were mailed special delivery to Ford. Since then, Ford and his staff have been wearing the chapter's buttons and the effort "just kind of snowballed," Hoas said. The Simi Valley chapter already has distributed about 5,000 buttons and is trying to fill orders for nearly 15,000 more. They plan to take their project nationwide with the 350,000 members of other Jaycee organizations participating. "We've been working 'til four in the morning to meet the increasing demand for the buttons," Hoas said. In a corner of a Simi Valley public relations firm, many of the chapter's 68 members take turns at a machine which can stamp out up to 400 of the red, 2 1/4-inch diameter buttons hourly. WIN is an acronym for Whip Inflation Now.

Hoas, 32, public relations director for the California state Jaycees organization, said the buttons cost about 21 cents apiece to produce and the chapter is charging $1 each, except for orders of more than 1,000 which drops the price to 25 cents each. Hoas says the buttons "could be a fund raiser as well, because the money goes back into community projects." "The country needs to be united and maybe this is something we can really get behind," Hoas said. "It's a super patriotism type of thing."

A's Hope To Explode Bats, Not Tempers

OAKLAND (AP) — The tempestuous Oakland A's hope to explode tonight with their bats instead of their tempers in the third game of the 1974 World Series with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I'm expecting you to break out any day now, but I've been expecting that for six weeks... So I don't really know," said Oakland Manager Alvin Dark, whose team has had more police recently for hitting people than hitting baseballs.

A change in the batting order might be just the thing that the A's need to add some punch to their recent Punch and Judy hitting. Dark, whose team won the World Series opener with an undistinguished 3-2 victory Saturday in Los Angeles and then lost the second game by the same score, is thinking about an adjustment in his hitting alignment.

Noting that the A's face a left-hander in Al Downing, Dark revealed: "I might bat Bill North first instead of second. He has more power as a right-handed hitter. I might also move some of the others around in the lineup, too. We've just got to get some more runs."

The A's may not be hitting well lately, but they've certainly had the pitching. And the best on their staff goes tonight, 25-game winner Catfish Hunter.

The tobacco-chewing Hunter, well rested since he only pitched to one batter on Saturday after working in last week's American League play-offs, has been embroiled in a salary dispute with Oakland owner Charles O. Finley.

Hunter, mad at Finley because he claims the owner reneged on half of his yearly $100,000 salary, might make the Dodgers pay for it tonight.

The A's fight as well as anybody else, too. The Dodgers, or any other team in baseball, are sedate compared to this flamboyant, aggressive team of oddballs.

The combative A's started the Series out with a bang when pitchers Rollie Fingers and Blue Moon Odom exchanged blows in the clubhouse last week. And during Monday's off-day workout at the Oakland Coliseum, a sports writer was the target of wrath.

Reggie Jackson, Oakland's star outfielder, verbally challenged Murray Olderman, editor of Newspaper Enterprises Association in San Francisco, because of an article he wrote for a national magazine. Jackson roared out of the batting cage when he saw Olderman and abused him verbally before a crowd of gaping onlookers.

Jackson was unhappy about the general tone of the article, which dealt with his alleged battle with other players for sole leadership of the team.

Meanwhile, back at the World Series, Downing concentrated on keeping the A's in their protracted hitting slump. Despite his modest 5-6 season record, Los Angeles Manager Walt Alton feels that Downing can continue to maintain the Dodgers' masterful pitching of late.

The A's have managed only 12 hits so far off Dodger pitching, and the formidable Los Angeles arms were equally as effective in the National League playoffs against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Good Weather Slated Today

OAKLAND (AP) — Good weather was predicted for tonight's third World Series game and for the rest of the three-game set in the Oakland Coliseum.

Temperatures were expected to range from the high 60s to mid-70s and hazy sunshine was predicted by the U.S. Weather Service. No rain was forecast through the end of the week.

Games three, four and five are set for Oakland tonight, Wednesday and Thursday, with the Series moving back to Dodger Stadium for the last two games, if necessary, Saturday and Sunday.

Game time in Oakland is 8:30 p.m. EDT all three nights.

SMU's Smith Can Play Says Judge

DALLAS (AP) — A state district judge here Monday ordered Southern Methodist University not to suspend football team center and captain Mike Smith for alleged violations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) rules.

The decision will allow Smith to play for at least another week.

SMU attorney John McElhane said the school would appeal the case to the Dallas Court of Civil Appeals since SMU must abide by the NCAA ruling if it is to remain in good standing.

Judge Dee Brown Walker resolved the question of court jurisdiction by saying, "I told that I have jurisdiction because property rights have been invaded."

Judge Walker said that Smith's scholarship from SMU was a contract and that his potential as a professional football player represented property rights.

Bass Club Slates Tournaments

The Big Spring Bass Club will discuss its October Tournament to be headquartered at Welch's Marina on Lake Leon this weekend at their regular meeting tonight in the First Federal Building.

The October tourney will be held Saturday and Sunday with divisions for couples and individuals.

Also planned is the Club Championship tournament slated for Oct. 26 and 27 at Lake Stamford. Defending Champion Ed Henry will be on hand to defend his title.

All members are urged to attend tonight's meeting for swap night where members can swap extra equipment with each other. The door prize this month will be an Eagle Claw worm rod and spinner box.

Jerry Avery will present the program on fall running bait fishing.

Aaron May Get GM Spot For Brewers

OAKLAND (AP) — The Atlanta Braves have given Hank Aaron a permission to talk with Milwaukee Brewers, possibly opening the door for baseball's most successful home run slugger to become the first black general manager in the major leagues.

The announcement Monday by Dan Donohue, president of the Braves, was made just one day before Aaron was to hold a news conference here reportedly to disclose his future plans.

The news conference apparently was arranged by Magnavox, an electrical firm with which Aaron has a $1 million contract.

If Aaron, who will be 41 next February, does sign with the Brewers and finish his major league career where it began — in Milwaukee — he probably would spend next season as a designated hitter before taking a general manager's position.

All along, Aaron had made it known he planned to retire after this season... until Sunday, Sept. 29, when he announced that his future still remained in doubt.

Ohio State Widens Lead In Grid Poll

TUCSON, Arizona (AP) — Saying simply that "it will be a real challenge to stay there," head Coach Jim Young and his University of Arizona Wildcats have made their debut in The Associated Press college football Top Ten.

The Wildcats' No. 9 ranking marked the first time in its history Arizona has ever broken into the Top Ten, while Ohio State held down the No. 1 ranking for the fourth week in a row.

Undefeated Ohio State whalloped Wisconsin 52-7 Saturday, its fifth victory of the season, and received 51 first-place votes to open a commanding lead over runner-up Oklahoma. The Buckeyes received 1,160 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Oklahoma had only five first-place votes and 1,020 points in the balloting.

Last week, Ohio State led over Oklahoma by a mere 20 points and a margin of 33-24 in first-place votes. Both teams finished 2-3 respectively behind national champion Notre Dame last season.

Michigan climbed from fourth place to third with one first-place ballot following a 21-7 triumph over Michigan State. The Wolverines supplanted Alabama, which dropped from third to fourth with one No. 1 vote and 814 points in the wake of a last-minute 8-7 decision over winless Florida State.

Auburn went from 10th to fifth with an impressive 31-13 trouncing of Kentucky. The Tigers received the other first-place vote and 636 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Southern California, Notre Dame, Texas A&M, Arizona and North Carolina State.

In a season of upsets, Young and his Wildcats are undefeated in five games and were 41-8 victors Saturday over Utah.

Last season Young took over essentially the same team that was 4-7 the year before, and came up with a winner — 8-3 for the season — and a tie for the Western Athletic Conference championship.

"We're happy to be in the Top Ten for the recognition our players receive," said Young, who brought a quiet, mild-mannered approach to the gridiron at the Tucson school. "It will be a real challenge to stay there."

Young was referring to Saturday's upcoming game with the 16th-ranked Texas Tech, which lost its first game of the season last Saturday, 28-7 to Texas A&M.

The second ten are Penn State, Nebraska, Kansas, Florida, Arizona State, Texas, Texas Tech, Maryland, Miami of Ohio and Tulane.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An electronic box which tells whether shots are in or out of bounds has passed a big test in the opening of this $100,000 Women's Pro Tennis Tour stop.

"It's really a good idea," said Rosemary Casals of San Francisco Monday night, reflecting the opinion of most of the players, after the device upheld her appeal on a crucial out of bounds call which helped her defeat Karen Krantzcke 6-4, 7-5.

Chris Evert defeated Francoise Durr of France 6-2, 6-2, and Lesley Hunt of Australia 6-1, 6-0 in other matches.

"I think electronic refereeing is where we're heading," Ms. Casals said.

Box Monitors Tennis Lines

"Players have always disputed linemen and felt they weren't very professional, but you can't argue with a machine. You can, but you'll probably lose."

The box is hooked to a plastic grid underneath the court surface. The grid is sensitive to tennis balls but not to the feet of the players.

Tournament officials said they would continue to use the monitoring machine tonight as the top players on the tour battle for $32,000 first prize money.

It was the first time the device had been used to monitor all lines of the court in a tournament. Earlier it was used experimentally to monitor serving lines in a championship match in Dallas.

By CLARK LESH

Bob Burris always busy either as steer head football coach or athletic director has declared it "Hate Permian Week."

"I voiced to Burris I'm confident that Big Spring will win more games before the season is over. The Steers are 2-3 overall and 0-25-4A. He agreed.

Burris commented, "We got to have as much enthusiasm against Permian there Friday night as we had with Midland."

"The team has to start taking advantage of breaks and improve the passing game. Offensively we can't give Permian an easy pass. The Panthers will be there to take it."

Permian of the present is somewhat different from the past as the Panthers throw the ball more. Permian's defense is quite similar to Midland's.

Permian has an outstanding running back in Travis Howard, 6-0, 195-pound senior and Daryl Hunt, probably the best all-around district player.

Hunt, 6-5, 210-pound senior made all-district last season both ways. He's a tight-end when Permian has the ball and middle-linebacker on defense. Permian's defense revolves around him.

Big Spring's Ricky Darrow and Coahoma's Gary Roberts were both operated on Monday in a Midland hospital from football injuries Friday.

Darrow, 185-pound senior nose guard, tore ligaments and cartilage in his left knee as he was hit from the side.

Roberts, 155-pound senior halfback, son of Bulldog head coach, Norman Roberts, received a right knee mishap while carrying the ball on an end sweep.

Both shared the same hospital room.

Don Green, district assistant business manager informs that Permian tickets go on sale Wednesday. Two locations will be available, district and high school offices.

Permian sent over 600 reserved and 500 student tickets. Green added, "Permian said if we needed more to let us know." The Odessa Stadium seats 18,000.

Weekly update on Charley Johnson, Denver Bronco quarterback. Perry Johnson, Charley's dad said his son had been told he would not play in the mile-high altitude game against New Orleans in Denver Sunday. The Broncos won, 33-17.

Johnson emphasized that Charley has had nagging type of injuries that have finally begun to show their mark.

Charlie's knee has not responded as it should from surgery in January plus... 1. concussion in a pre-season game... 2. Pittsburgh shoulder mishap... 3. jammed right thumb in shoulder pad and sprained right wrist against Kansas City.

Johnson concluded, "All of those things certainly will effect motivation."

SWC OFFENSIVE TOPS

Baylor's Jeffrey, Jackson Honored

By The Associated Press

It's not easy to call signals in the huddle when you stutter, cotton is stuffed in your nose, the breathing comes hard and thousand of Arkansas fans are shouting for your hide.

Nor is it easy to be yanked cold off the bench with just 10 minutes playing experience and take a team to two touchdowns against one of the fiercest defenses in the country.

Neal Jeffrey, a poised senior, experienced the former, Mark Jackson, a raw redshirt sophomore accomplished the latter. They both play quarterback for the Baylor Bears and are The Associated Press' Southwest Conference Co-Offensive Players of the Week.

Jeffrey had the lights turned on him Saturday in the first quarter of the Baylor-Arkansas game when injured by an overzealous Arkansas Razorback. The analysis along the sidelines was a broken nose. X-Rays later proved negative.

"The left defensive end took a shot at me... hand or an elbow... but it went through the face mask... it was a heckuva lick," Jeffrey remembers.

Jackson took the Bears on two touchdown drives for a 14-0 Bear halftime lead.

"We had to score three times on the second touchdown," Jackson says. "Steve Beard's 25-yard run was called back for holding. Then Philip Kent scored on a reverse. Then came another flag... rather late... holding... It looked like a debatable call to me... home cookin' or whatever you want to call it. Then I passed 20 yards to Kent for the touchdown."

Arkansas rallied to a 17-14 lead and Baylor Coach Grant Teaff called on Jeffrey, who had cleared away the cobwebs.

"It was kind of tough," said Jeffrey, who has a speech impediment but doesn't mind talking about it. The impediment does not bother him when he calls the snap count.

"I was having trouble breathing with all that cotton in my nose and you can imagine what that sounds like if you sutter at the same time," Jeffrey said. "In a way I was surprised Coach Teaff sent me in. I assumed Coach Teaff needed my experience."

Jackson said "I didn't mind Neal being in there. He has more experience than I do. I really wasn't scared though — just a little worried."

Jeffrey took the Bears to the winning touchdown with 68 seconds left.

"It was a great thrill, but I'll tell you one thing Mark Jackson will be All-conference before he graduates," Jeffrey said. "He's super."

Lions Nip 49ers 17-13

By The Associated Press

DETROIT (AP) — No longer will the cynics chide: "Detroit's got the best 0-4 team in football."

Now it's got the best 1-4 team in football.

The one victory may not enhance the looks of the record much, but "it beats getting hit in the eye with a sharp stick," Coach Rick Forzano said after Monday's 17-13 key victory over San Francisco.

San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan rushed off without saying much but quarterback Dennis Morrison, making his first NFL start, didn't mind talking about the loss, the 49ers' third straight in a 2-3 record.

"I was nervous in the afternoon, but when we opened with the passing attack it calmed me, the left-hander said. But in the third quarter I got more excited than I should have."

Detroit picked off three Morrison aerials. One, by linebacker Charlie Weaver in the first period, ended a scoring threat. Then there was Johnson's interception in the second quarter, and linebacker Jim Laslavic grabbed another in the final four minutes to thwart a drive at the Lion 10.

Morrison finished with 17 completions in 40 attempts for 171 yards, including an 11-yard pass to Jackson with 33 seconds left for the only San Francisco touchdown.

Detroit's Bill Munson hit on 15 of 32 passes for 130 yards, including a 13-yard scoring shot to Larry Walton 15 seconds into the final quarter to clinch the victory.

Owls Aim For SMU In SWC Play

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice football coach Al Conover has declared the exhibition season over and the real Southwest Conference race, begins this week but it won't be any easier.

"We're 0-0 right now," Conover said. "The exhibition season is over and now we've got to get ready for the race. We've got one heck of a challenge ahead of us this week."

The Owls, who lost a 10-3 decision to Notre Dame in the final minutes, open SWC play Saturday against Southern Methodist, 4-1, in Dallas.

"SMU is a better team offensively than Notre Dame was," Conover told the Rice Quarterback Club Monday. "Our kids are resigned to the fact that every week they're just going to have to turn on the switch and throw a fit."

Throw a fit. That's one of Conover's favorite expressions and the Owls threw a fit against Notre Dame, which was a 32-point favorite.

"I really thought we had a chance to beat Notre Dame," Conover said. "Those kids thought we did too and I believe we can win this week too."

"When you have six fumbles in a game and don't get any of them, it seems like you haven't got your share yet. So maybe that is yet to come."

Conover hopes the Owls will be in a fitful mood Saturday. Rice is 0-3-1 this season with losses to Houston, Cincinnati and Notre Dame and a 10-10 tie with Louisiana State. Five of Rice's first even opponents this year were nationally ranked last season.

A big question for the Owls this week is the status of middle guard Cornelius Walker, who suffered rib injuries against Notre Dame. Walker is a doubtful starter but Conover said "Cornelius told me he would play. He said if he couldn't get down in a stance, he'd play standing up."

SPORT BRIEFS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals running back Ken Willard was to undergo knee surgery today and is expected to be sidelined for the balance of the National Football League season.

Willard received the injury two weeks ago in a game against the San Francisco 49ers and was not in uniform for the Cardinals' 31-28 victory Sunday over the Dallas Cowboys.

COURT ACTION TIME — "The Sands girls basketball season opens tonight in New Home. 'A' and 'B' games are scheduled. First game tip-off is set for 6. Members include, front row Pam Sikes, mgr., Cindy Shaw, Lynn Hopper, Kaye Hunt, Patty Peug, Capt., and Martin, Patsy McDonald, Connie Hughes, Elaine Martin, Ann Nichols, Dale Davidson, Jan Reed and Rene Roman. Not pictured is Erlinda Calvio. Sands compiled a 24-9 overall record last year and finished second in the district, 11-3.

Buick Skyhawk Is Here!!

Skyhawk is the smallest Buick in sixty years. And the sportiest ever, obviously. Its short, 97-inch wheelbase makes for a nimble, tight-turning automobile. Then there's Skyhawk's design. Rakish and gutsy. The stance of a European road machine.

Dist. Road Engineer To Speak Here

Big Spring and Howard County residents will have an opportunity Wednesday to hear Roger Welsch in his first appearance here as district engineer for the Texas highway department.

Welsch will address the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday in a delayed Highway Week speech.

Recently he succeeded the veteran J.C. "Jack" Roberts, who closed out a 44-year veteran with the highway department, 23 of those as district engineer.

Although Roberts' retirement is not official until Oct. 31, Welsch took over his new duties Oct. 1.

Individuals outside the Lions club are invited, but they are asked to call the Settles Hotel to make reservations.

Welsch is a graduate of New Braunfels High School and Texas A&M University. He joined the highway department as rodman in San Antonio in 1953 and served in various engineering capacities in the San Antonio and Corpus Christi districts. While he was attending A&M, he worked part-time in the Bryan District. Prior to coming to Abilene, he was district construction engineer at Corpus Christi.

Sawhill Hopeful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fuel for heating and driving should be in ample supply this winter unless the Arabs impose another oil embargo, says Federal Energy Administrator John Sawhill.

He does not expect an embargo, Sawhill said in an interview published today in U.S. News & World Report, but "if I am mistaken ... we could have a difficult time this winter."

In that case, he added, "The government would have to reimpose the tough allocation controls of last winter, there would be mandatory conservation measures, and motorists could again find themselves in lines at gasoline stations."

However, Sawhill said, even if there is an Arab oil boycott, gasoline rationing probably could be avoided.

Sawhill said the one fuel that will continue to be in short supply is natural gas. Interruptions of service, primarily to industrial users, will be up some 80 per cent over last year, he said.

But Sawhill said he expects virtually no curtailment in natural gas service to homes.

Bible Conference Is Next Week

MASSEUSE — Marilyn Kelling gives a massage at a YWCA with her guide dog nearby. Miss Kelling, 34, has had to turn away her male clients because of a Milwaukee ordinance aimed at massage parlor prostitution rings. "I don't like the inference that what I do is on a level with those massage parlors," she said.

Coveted Prize To Rich

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fifteen years of sticking to a dream paid off for Charlie Rich as he won the Country Music Association's most prestigious award, Entertainer of the Year.

Singer-writer-band leader Frank "Pee Wee" King and recording executive Owen Bradley tied in balloting for the Country Music Hall of Fame. It was the first time that two personalities, instead of one, had been chosen.

Ronnie Milsap, a newcomer to country music recognition, was named male vocalist of the year. Milsap has been blind since birth.

Australian Olivia Newton-John, fresh from a string of hits, was named female vocalist of the year. Rich's honor came after a barrage of hit records and successful road shows during the last two years. His "Very Special Love Song" was named album of the year. In 1973, he took the association's top male vocalist award.

King's "Tennessee Waltz" is counted among the greatest country and western songs ever written. Bradley's pioneer studio began what has since become Nashville's Music Row.

Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty won vocal duo honors for the third consecutive year. Miss Lynn was the first female entertainer of the year in 1972.

Johnny Cash, entertainer of the year in 1969, hosted the eighth annual awards show, televised nationally from the Grand Ole Opry House.

Cal Smith and writer Don Wayne worked together on the hit single "Country Bumpkin," for which Smith won top single and Wayne won top song.

Danny Davis and The Nashville Brass were named best instrumental group for the sixth consecutive year.

The late Don Rich was named top instrumentalist. A guitarist for Buck Owens Buckaroos, Rich was killed last spring in a California motorcycle accident.

The four Statler Brothers were selected vocal group of the year.

Army Spying Will Be Curbed, Chief Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a long controversy, Secretary of the Army Howard Callaway has ordered a curb on spying by Army intelligence on U.S. civilians overseas.

The new Callaway order would forbid any spying of the kind allegedly conducted against a group of Americans who supported the 1972 Democratic presidential candidacy of Sen. George McGovern while they were living in Berlin.

But the order stops short of an outright ban on Army surveillance of U.S. civilians.

Under its terms, Army intelligence still may carry out investigations of U.S. civilians working for the Defense Department abroad.

Surveillance of civilians not affiliated with the Defense Department also is permitted, but only if there is "substantial evidence" of illegal activities threatening Army troops, property or functions.

Even in such cases, Callaway directed that the Army should investigate only when civilian government agencies such as the FBI are unable to do so.

The Army said Callaway was giving his close personal attention to insure strict compliance with the new order, which was effective Oct. 1.

To this end, the Army said, Callaway sent Undersecretary of the Army Herman Staudt to West Germany to impress on Gen. Michael Davison, commander of U.S. Army Forces in Europe, that Callaway wants the restrictions to be "totally and immediately implemented."

Callaway also will have an opportunity to discuss his policy with Davison directly this week when the Army secretary plans visits with U.S. troops in the field in West Germany.

The new restrictions were disclosed when the Army was asked about the filing of an affidavit in U.S. District Court here last week in connection with a suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The controversy gained momentum about 14 months ago when it was reported that Sen. Lowell E. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., had turned over to Senate committees documentary evidence that Army intelligence had spied on American civilian backers of McGovern in Germany, and on other U.S. civilians.

An investigator on Weicker's staff was said to have collected evidence of wiretapping, photographic surveillance, opening of mail and other actions by Army intelligence agents.

Counseling Service Is Discussed By Chamber

A report on the continued efforts to set up a family counseling service, the success of the newly formed Century Club and a report on industrial prospects were among the items discussed at a chamber of commerce meeting at the Palmer House Monday noon.

There was less than a quorum of board members present, but discussions and reports were reviewed, with Tom Locke, vice president, presiding in the absence of Ralph McLaughlin, president.

The family counseling service may soon be set up with the assistance of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center and through other groups, including assistance from the counseling service in Midland, according to Locke.

Locke pointed out that there are presently family counseling services available at Howard College and the Big Spring State Hospital, but there was a definite need for a service that would reach more of the public here.

The board gave up sponsoring a Know Your Candidate program, deciding not to get involved in politics other than to urge everyone to vote. It also abandoned a possible school crosswalk project, but urged PTAs to set up standard crosswalk designations.

The public has expressed an increasing alarm at the mid-block stop signs and crosswalk designations at the sides of the street, claiming that they are "difficult to see. This report was given by chamber members, but it was decided that the solution is out of the jurisdiction of the board.

W. S. (Dub) Pearson outlined the organization of the Century Club and plans for use of funds of the group. They will include an enlisted men's barbecue, Christmas bingo and other programs.

In other reports, the group heard of the success of the recent Agriculture Appreciation barbecue. Method of treasurer's reports was discussed as length.

Hon. Mercer told the group of recent industrial contacts, which cannot be released in detail at this time. He also reported that the chamber had been loaned a dictaphone and reported on the election of new directors.

Mike McKinney gave a brief Jaycee report. Board members present included Dan Wilkins, Clyde Hollinsworth, Ralph Brooks, Col. Bob Owens, Bill Jackson, Auriel Lafond, Ted Hatfield, Pearson, Mercer, Locke, McKinney and Terry Hanson, chamber assistant.

Two CRMWD Lakes Gain About 10,000 Ac. Ft.

Two reservoirs of the Colorado River Municipal Water District picked up nearly 10,000 acre-feet as of Tuesday morning, and there was still some flow into the lakes.

Lake E. V. Spence, above Robert Lee, reached elevation 1861.62, a gain of 1.29 feet or about 8,000 acre-feet. It now has a content of 140,100 acre-feet. With the Colorado River still flowing 6 feet deep at the Silver bridge and five feet at the Pan-American bridge up stream, and Beal's Creek around eight feet at the Colorado City-Sterling City bridge, there was a possibility that the lake might attain its previous peak of 1862.02.

Lake J. B. Thomas reached elevation 2223.45, an increase of .60 of a foot or 1,550 acre-feet. The Colorado River at the upper end was running 6 1/2 feet deep, and Hulm Creek, on the northwest side, was flowing about four feet. Bull Creek, which normally is a major feeder, did not run. The lake now contains 35,040 acre-feet.

Lake Colorado City, one of two Texas Electric Service reservoirs, reached elevation 2061.00, an increase of 1.3 feet. At 19,129 acre-feet, it had picked up 1,500 acre-feet. ### Massage Canceled

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Marilyn Kelling, blind since birth, used to make her living giving back massages to men and women at the downtown Milwaukee YWCA.

But a local ordinance aimed at keeping massage parlor prostitution rings out of Milwaukee is forcing her to turn her male clients away.

She said she had been giving massages to members of both sexes for several months, at $2 for 15 minutes, since coming to the YWCA from a health club, until city officials ordered her to stop.

"I guess they found out about it because I was going to give a man a massage on a local television show. I didn't know anything about it (the ordinance)," said Miss Kelling, 34.

She said the station was advised by city officials to cancel the massage, and then YWCA supervisors told her to stop taking appointments from men.

"It really burns me up," she said. "I don't like the inference that what I do is on a level with those massage parlors. What do they think is going to happen in a YWCA?"

"It's going to hurt a little bit financially, especially since every little bit helps these days. I just hope I can get enough new women coming in to make up the difference for the men who won't be coming in any more."

Chicken Decoys Aid In Theft

O. R. Bolinger, owner, waited on a customer who purchased a $5 money order, then ordered two chickens. While Bolinger was getting the chickens, the culprit grabbed a money bag under the counter and left, according to the investigating officer's report.

A description of the man was given to the police. The money order was from State National Bank.
