

FORD TELLS CONGRESSMEN

'No Deal Behind Nixon's Pardon'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford personally told investigating congressmen today that there was no deal behind his controversial pardon of Richard M. Nixon. But he acknowledged discussing with a Nixon aide on Aug. 1 the possibility that the then-president might be pardoned should he resign.

Nixon resigned eight days later.

In a lengthy opening statement he read at a House Judiciary subcommittee hearing broadcast nationally by television and radio Ford said:

"I assure you that there never was at any time any agreement whatsoever concerning a pardon to Mr. Nixon if he were to resign and I were to become President."

Ford detailed repeated contacts he had as vice president with Nixon's staff chief, Alexander M. Haig Jr., and defense attorney James D. St. Clair on Aug. 1 and 2.

OPTIONS RENEWED
In one 45-minute session with Haig on Aug. 1, Ford said, Nixon's staff chief reviewed a variety of options that included "the question of whether the President could pardon himself ... pardoning various Watergate defendants, then himself, followed by resignation ... a pardon to the President should he resign."

Ford said: "Gen. Haig wanted my views on the various courses of action as well as my attitude on the options of resignation. However, he indicated he was not advocating any of the options."

Ford went voluntarily before the subcommittee on criminal justice and the chairman, Rep. William Hungate, D-Mo., said the presidential testimony "demonstrates his commitment to be open and candid with the American people."

Hungate said it was the first documented appearance by a sitting president before a committee of the Congress, although tradition holds there was an unconfirmed appearance by Abraham Lincoln before a House committee during the Civil War.

George Washington appeared before the first Congress in 1789, visiting the Senate chamber to discuss arrangements for Indian treaties.

The President said he met shortly after 8 a.m. on Aug. 2 with St. Clair, who told him of impending new revelations the lawyer regarded as "so damaging that impeachment in the House was a certainty and conviction in the Senate a high probability."

On the afternoon of that day, Ford said he telephoned Haig and "told him I wanted him to understand that I had no intention of recommending what President Nixon should do about resigning or not resigning, and that nothing we had talked about the previous afternoon should be given any consideration in whatever decision the President might take."

STAYED SILENT
Ford said he had decided that, as vice president, he "should endeavor not to do or say anything which might affect his President's tenure in office."

At another point in his statement, Ford said: "At no time after I became President on Aug. 9, 1974, was the subject of a pardon for Richard M. Nixon raised by the former president or by anyone representing him. Also, no one on my staff brought up the subject until the day before my first press conference on Aug. 28, 1974. At that time, I was advised that questions on that subject might be raised by media reporters at the press conference."

Reporters asked the new President about a possible pardon, as anticipated, and Ford responded in a way that suggested it would be premature for him to consider pardoning his predecessor until or unless some legal steps had been taken against Nixon.

IT ISN'T GOING TO GET ANY BETTER — Arriving and departing airliners stand at gates in Chicago's O'Hare International Airport while others await gate openings. O'Hare, the world's busiest airport, handles

'FIDELITY LEADS TO MISTAKES'

Henry 'Has Desperate Need To Be Admired'

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger "has a desperate need to be admired" and the American secretary of state sometimes gets tripped up by his "reverence for his own intelligence," says a former French foreign minister.

"He thinks that he can submit history to his reasonings, to his constructions," wrote Michel Jobert of the American diplomatic superstar in

"Memoires of the Future." "There is no doubt that this fidelity to himself, this constant reverence for his own intelligence leads him to some mistakes," Jobert wrote.

He added: "There is something of an illusionist in him. He feeds himself with his illusions, and he has many illusions. ... He has a desperate need to be admired. You can see it in his face."

Jobert became foreign minister in April 1973 — when Kissinger issued his call for "a new Atlantic Charter" that later was sidetracked by Middle East warfare and the energy crisis. Jobert interpreted the idea for a refurbished trans-Atlantic relationship as an attempt by Kissinger to dominate Europe.

Jobert wrote that during his year as foreign minister, he found that Kissinger always opened conversations by reciting a list of complaints.

He said Kissinger "spoke a lot, easily taking a silence for an acquiescence or professing sadness that an objection could imperil a grand historic design."

But Jobert said he found that his respect for Kissinger increased as the chill between France and the United States settled in. He described Kissinger as "a man who was doing his duty to the best of his ability."

Jobert retired upon the death of President Georges Pompidou last April. Since then, French-American relations have become warmer.

Marshall New Prexy

Arnold Marshall was elevated to the presidency of the Howard County Fair Association at its annual post-Fair meeting Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

He succeeds James C. (Buddy) Barr, Vincent, who has guided the Fair during the past year and who was its general superintendent in its first season in 1973 after a 20-year lapse.

Named president-elect, a position which carries with it the general superintendency, was Neil Fryar. He has been serving as vice president. Other officers selected were Ron McNeil, vice president; Joe Pickle, secretary; M. A. Snell, treasurer.

Elected to three-year terms on the board were Johnnie Walker, Tom Locke, Ruth Mitchell, Geraldine Posey, Jerry Roman, Billee Smith, and Lloyd Underwood.

A tentative report from Snell indicated that the fair likely will gross about $12,000 and may net out at about 40 per cent of that. Both Barr and Marshall commented on this in view of a week-long rainy spell which cut attendance. Even so, estimates put attendance from 16,000 to 20,000.

Marshall is to name a committee to consider policies on use of the Dora Roberts Fair Barn building, and a meeting of the executive committee has been set for next Tuesday 3 p.m. in the Herald's conference room.

Lakes About To Level Off
Area lakes continued to gain slightly today as last waters from Monday rains trickled in.

Lake J.B. Thomas had just about leveled off at elevation 2223.87, an increase of .05 for the day. It picked up about 3,300 acre feet of water.

Lake E. V. Spence, at elevation 1,862.46, reflected a .36 of a foot gain for the day, leaving it with 145,160 acre feet, a net gain of almost 13,000 acre feet. The Colorado River at Silver Bridge above the lake had eased down to three feet, and other tributaries up stream were about subsided. The river at the diversion works at Colorado City, however, continued to spill over the channel dam.

Texas Electric Service reported Lake Colorado City at elevation 2,062.20, an increase of .15 of a foot for the day. With 20,550 acre feet, it has picked up 3,050 acre feet this week as the lake level rose 2.65 feet.

COVERUP TRIAL Defense Enters Tape Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors at the Watergate coverup trial prepared today to play one of the subpoenaed White House tapes but defense lawyers quickly challenged whether the recording could be used as evidence.

With former White House counsel John W. Dean III on the stand as the first prosecution witness, the government planned to play the tape of a Sept. 15, 1972, conversation Dean had with then-President Richard M. Nixon and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's chief-of-staff and one of the five coverup defendants.

Before the jury entered the courtroom, John J. Wilson, Haldeman's lawyer, was on his feet challenging the use of the White House tapes as evidence.

"I want to examine Mr. Dean on his memory of these tapes before they go into evidence," Wilson said.

Wilson urged U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to set a far stricter standard for admissibility of the tapes than had been suggested by the prosecutors.

In a memorandum submitted Wednesday to Sirica the prosecutors argued that the tapes would be admissible so long as one of the participants, Dean in this case, "recalls all the participants in the conversations, identifies all the voices on the tapes as those of the participants, and who recalls the substance of the conversations as well as many details of the conversation."

The prosecutors argued there was no need for Dean "to remember each and every detail of the conversation."

Wilson, however, argued for far more questioning of Dean's memory of details.

The defense attorney also threatened to object line by line during the playing of the tapes on the grounds of relevancy.

Sirica said he would permit no such tactic.

State Oil Allowable Pegged At Maximum

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission set the state's November oil production allowable today at 100 per cent of potential, the 32nd consecutive month that it has been pegged at the maximum.

Commission Chairman Jim Langdon noted the total nominations for purchases of Texas crude oil by major buyers for November was 4,075,201 barrels a day, down 17,582 barrels a day from the October figure.

"Some happier signs" are surfacing, Langdon said. "The total acreage now leased in the United States is about as high as it has been since 1959 — 425 million acres. That is 20 per cent of the United States area."

"Some believe hydrocarbons underlie much of this untested area," he said.

Another good sign he said, was the 40 per cent increase in drilling applications. Unfortunately, there is an actual increase in drilling of only 15 per cent, he said, because of a shortage of pipes and drilling rigs. "There is little doubt this drilling effort will continue," Langdon said.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon filed a suit in federal court today to retain custody of millions of documents from his administration.

Nixon asked the court to order presidential counsel Philip W. Buchen and two other government officials not to produce or disclose any presidential materials to anyone other than himself.

IT WASN'T RUBBER

Copperhead Gives Cop A Bad Time

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Policeman J.A. Corriher picked up what he thought was a rubber snake put in his patrol car as a practical joke—and found it was a live nine-inch copperhead.

He said it struck at him several times but missed after he touched it Wednesday. He threw it from the car and killed it.

He said he knows of no reason why someone put the snake in the car other than that he is a police officer.

Another policeman, R.J. Whiteside, who drives the car on alternate shifts with Corriher, believes the snake was in the vehicle when he used it Tuesday.

He says that Tuesday evening his

6-year-old son Robert Jr. "stepped up inside the door on the driver's side to say goodby, and jumped back saying something had stung him."

"I looked around, thinking it had been a bee or a hornet, but I found nothing."

Whiteside said the boy's foot swelled and discolored. But it was not until Wednesday, when Corriher called and told about the snake, that Whiteside had any inkling of what had happened to his son.

"We took him to a doctor, but the bite was not serious," Whiteside said.

A representative of the Charlotte Nature Museum identified the snake as a copperhead, a venomous snake whose bite is rarely fatal.

Zack Fisher Airs Views On Agriculture Matters

The closing of overseas textile mills and credit crunch has "softened the market" for cotton, Zack Fisher, Republican nominee for Texas agriculture commissioner, said.

"Everyone assumed there'd be tremendous demand for cotton, because of the petrochemical shortage, Fisher said. "Now, foreign buyers are threatening to renege on cotton contracts with U.S. farmers."

Fisher stopped long enough at Howard County Airport Wednesday afternoon for a press conference and continued his flight from Odessa to Abilene.

LOAN LEVELS LOW
Are cotton loan levels high enough? "No, not at today's prices," Fisher said.

"It's going to have to be increased if we continue to get bankers to go along with us in farming," Fisher said. Fisher suspected that price setting explained the price spread between prices paid cattle producers and retail beef prices at stores.

And the nominee, who visited President Ford and others at the Capitol recently, said Ford will insist the U.S. Justice Department investigate.

WHY DIFFERENCE?
A too productive cattle industry and shortage of grain explains why grain costs are high while cattle sell low, Fisher, a farmer-rancher-insurance man from Memphis, said.

Ford negotiated stopping the grain sale to Soviet Russia, because, in the light of the previous controversial grain sale, "he had to take some action" or let Congress, Fisher said.

Congress probably would have taken more drastic action — establishing export quotas, Fisher conjectured.

While the threatening to slaughter and waste cattle dramatized cattlemen's plight, Fisher said actually wasting livestock would be "one of the worst things we could do as livestock producers."

WANTS EXPORTS
As commissioner, Fisher said he would try to establish overseas offices with the help of producers' organizations.

These offices would seek new export markets for meat, Fisher said.

Should agricultural land be taxed on the basis of productivity or market value?

"I do favor taxation on the productive value of the property," Fisher said.

He proposed such a tax break for men getting 51 per cent of their income from agriculture.

NO REMEDY
How would he make it equitable when a farmer or rancher sells land at market value for development?

"I don't have any remedy for it," Fisher said. "No sir, I'd like to see the guy that does."

Why would he make a better commissioner than incumbent Democrat John White?

White entered office 24 years ago, saying his opponent had been commissioner too long (18 years) Fisher said.

White has not been participating in meetings of agriculture commissioners, nationally, and has never been elected to office in a national organization for state agriculture commissioners, Fisher claimed.

The Democrat is "politically out of step" with Texas, Fisher said, adding that White was a George McGovern campaign manager in 1972. White has a "close allegiance with organized labor," he claimed.

"He has completely failed to work with people in the major metropolitan areas," Fisher said. Fisher believed the commissioner should be more concerned about consumers.

Happy Rockefeller Has Breast Cancer Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today that his wife, Happy, was undergoing surgery for breast cancer.

He described the surgery as a radical mastectomy in the left breast. He said the surgery started at 8:30 a.m. in Sloan Kettering Memorial Hospital.

"I'm confident that it's going to come out. All I can say is 'thank God' that she got in and that this country has such wonderful doctors," Rockefeller told a news conference in his Manhattan office.

The surgery came about a week after Betty Ford, wife of the President, left the hospital after undergoing a mastectomy herself.

Asked how it would affect his pending nomination for the vice presidency, Rockefeller responded: "I think at this time perhaps all of us should be thinking about Happy."

Rockefeller opened the news conference by telling reporters, "You won't believe what I'm going to tell you."

He said that Happy had discovered a lump in her breast last Friday. He said there were three small nodules.

He said that his wife was probably a little more conscious of the danger of breast cancer since the recent operation on President Ford's wife.

"As just one more family, we're just very grateful that it led to a checkup," he said.

Mills Denies Romantic Involvement With Fem

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has denied any romantic involvement with a former stripper who was with him during an encounter earlier this month with park police in Washington, D.C.

Mills also said he may have had "a little too much" to drink before the incident. The Arkansas Democrat who is opposed in his bid for a 19th term in Congress by Republican Judy Petty of Little Rock arrived here Wednesday after nine days of seclusion.

Mills said he believed the incident would be a factor in that race, but added that he thought he would win. "I don't think there's any question about that," Mills said in an interview with John Meyer of CBS News.

Police said Mills was intoxicated when they stopped his speeding, unlighted car at 2 a.m. on Oct. 7. Mills was not driving and his wife was not with him.

One of the four other persons in the car was Annabel Battistella, 38, identified as a former dancer who reportedly had worked as a stripper in a Washington nightclub and was billed as "the Argentine firecracker." She got out of the Mills car and plunged into the Tidal Basin, a backwater of the Potomac River at Washington. Police pulled her from the water.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, told newsmen on his arrival at the airport here: "I said I was embarrassed. I'm still embarrassed."

Meyer, who interviewed Mills aboard a plane on the trip to Arkansas, asked: "Was there anything between you and the young lady?"

"No," Mills replied, "I ought to be flattered at my age of 65 for anybody to ask me such a question, but, uh, I know the impression is trying to be created that there was, but she said herself that Mrs. Mills was with us whenever we went out except one or two occasions when she was at home with her foot broken, but we were not by ourselves on any of those occasions."

Mills was asked by CBS if it was true that some of the people in his car on Oct. 7 were intoxicated.

"I don't know frankly," the congressman replied. "I didn't think anybody was. I didn't think I was. I felt like I was high."

He laughed, then added, "And, we'd been celebrating this lady's departure back to Argentina. And, maybe we did have a little too much. I'm not going to say we did or didn't, but I didn't feel it. I didn't feel that we did."

Mills said he wasn't sure how long he had known Mrs. Battistella. He said he might have known her "a year at least."

Asked if he expected any adverse reaction to the incident, Mills said, "Oh, it will to some people who want to be prone to criticize or find fault or make something big."

Mills is scheduled to address the Little Rock Jaycees tonight.

Mrs. Petty has said that she will not make a campaign issue of the Tidal Basin incident.

Hostages Are Released By Fems In Irish Jail

ARMAGH, Northern Ireland (AP) — Women inmates of Armagh jail who seized the warden and three women guards freed them unharmed early today after holding them for 14 hours.

Release of the four hostages came after the jail's Roman Catholic and Protestant chaplains had assured the inmates that male prisoners who rioted in other prisons were safe. The prison officers were captured Wednesday as violence swept four Northern Ireland jails and guerrilla bomb explosions and gunfire erupted in Belfast streets.

The outbursts seemed directed at the British policy of internment suspected terrorists in the sectarian conflict between extremist Protestants and Roman Catholics. Since the fighting flared up in 1969, 1,067 persons have been killed.

At Armagh, guerrilla gunmen opened fire on British troops waiting outside the prison. No casualties were reported.

Mounted Patrol Is Earning Keep

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — It was almost like something out of the Old West.

Police officers Reyes Dominguez and George Youakim were on routine patrol in El Paso's Memorial Park when they spotted several persons in the backyard of a house.

Suspecting they were wetbacks, the policemen sped—on horseback—to make an arrest and, with the help of neighborhood residents, corralled the five surprised, burglary-tool equipped persons after a short chase.

The arrest sounds routine, but the fact that Dominguez and Youakim are members of the El Paso Mounted Patrol and made the capture on horseback makes the case sparkle with thoughts of horseback peace officers of another century.

The city's mounted patrol has existed for more than two months and already the officers, all volunteers, have shown enthusiasm for the change.

While much of the patrol's function is public relations, interesting and unusual arrests have been made utilizing the horses' agility.

Dominguez and Youakim were patrolling on a street when they were notified of a fight in a nearby store. The officers found a Drug Enforcement Agency agent attempting to arrest a man.

The mounted patrolmen quickly sealed off doors by positioning their steeds across the openings and helped the agent make the arrest.

Officer Richard Edens chased a wetback into a downtown alley and pinned the suspect to the wall.

"His eyes were bugged out that big," said Edens, using his hands to show the appearance, "with the horse this far from him," and Edens gestured again to show a distance of inches.

The patrolmen ride both quarterhorses and thoroughbreds.

The maneuverability of a horse in the confined spaces of the city make the animals especially suited to pursuit of suspects on foot.

And, despite the noise and commotion of the downtown area, officers say the horses are well behaved and usually not bothered by the activity.

The officers said the horses have been well received by persons encountered on patrol.

The reaction by citizens is similar to that of the elderly couple who asked two of the officers to pose with their horses for photographs.

The horses presented obstacles for some of the officers. Only two of the group had ever done serious riding before.

Horsemanship, however, was not among requirements for men who volunteered. The only requirements were two years on the force and an interview before a screening board. Of about 30 who applied, eight were accepted.

Allen Kasten, a former motorcycle patrolman, and Richard Ratliff had ridden horses seriously before. Others had ridden some on weekends, and Youakim had never ridden before.

Cars Are Thirsty, Costly

LONDON (AP) — Oil may be short and the stock markets gloomy, but high priced and thirsty autos abound at the London motor show. For the truly rich the only problem is which to choose.

The 11-day show opened Wednesday with the big money brigade apparently undismayed by the backdrop of world crisis and shrinking markets.

At the top of the exclusive market in terms of performance, are two Italian companies — Ferrari and Lamborghini, both claiming to make the world's fastest production cars.

Ferrari features the 375 GT4 Berlinetta Boxer which boasts acceleration 0-154 miles per hour in around 24 seconds.

This flyer has a 12-cylinder, 4.4 litre, mid-mounted engine; air conditioning; electric windows and leather seats; a claimed top speed of 184 miles per hour, and a price of $59,312.

The latest Lamborghini has a V-12 engine and a reputed top speed of 190 m.p.h. Price: $40,728.

At a cool $72,000, the Rolls Royce Phantom VI special landaulette is probably the most luxurious and certainly the most costly. At a push of a button, the power-operated roof folds back and the rear seat rises to give crowds a better view of the occupants.

Cadillac conjures up American-style luxury with two models at the London show, the Fleetwood Eldorado two-door coupe with front-wheel drive, and the four-door Brougham d'Elegance. Both have electric six-way seat adjustment, air conditioning, electric windows and door locks, and a fuel monitor that warns of "uneconomical" driving.

For the nostalgic there is a brand new oldest. It comes from Panther, a small British firm that specializes in "modern vintage" cars. In 1930 style the De Ville combines performance and luxury for $36,000.

Marketing Approaches Help Rio Vista Bank

RIO VISTA, Tex. (AP) — A rural West Texas town of about 400 inhabitants seems a strange place to find a thriving bank.

But the First State Bank of Rio Vista, better known to its customers as the Cow Pasture Bank, boasts 12,000 customers and deposits of $21.4 million, up nearly $3 million from a year ago.

While many small town bankers brood over sagging deposits, Lowell Smith Jr. says continuity of management is the real secret of his bank's success.

Smith is president of the bank, which was founded by his father more than 50 years ago. His father, who "is crowding 80," still is chairman of the bank's board.

Some novel marketing approaches also help explain the bank's success.

First, it's probably the only bank with fly-in service.

A customer can land on the airstrip in the pasture behind the bank and walk up to the window to make a deposit or withdrawal.

"Quite a few people fly in each week to make deposits," Smith said in an interview. "I guess it's a convenience other banks don't offer."

The strip behind the bank is on the Smith family ranch on the outskirts of town.

The bank itself operates from an unpretentious, Western-style building. The interior is decorated with painted scenes and pictures depicting Western life.

And then there are the bank checks with a cartoon drawing of a cowboy trying to rope a steer and "making his usual mistakes."

"We try to play upon humor and give people a lift in our advertising," said Smith. "People appreciate a little humor in anything. We just try to give a boost to the lighter side of life."

"Some people put money in our bank just so they can use the checks all over the country and the world," he said.

The bank has a three-county service area "which is pretty much open country." A substantial amount of business comes from farmers and ranchers, but many of the bank's customers live in the Dallas-Fort Worth area which is less than an hour's drive away. Many of these customers once lived in Rio Vista but have moved to the big cities.

Three generations of the Smith family work in the bank. Smith's nephew is a vice president. The bank employs about 55 workers. Smith said being small is an advantage for the bank. "We try to maintain personal contact with our customers. We've been here

Neighbor, its no myth; before 1870, the West actually began at Fort Worth, Texas.

There were a few early wagons. But, railroads, I suppose, more than anything else pushed this frontier farther and farther west until it disappeared into the California coast.

Most of these early western settlers were farmers and ranchers. They became a part of the land and depended upon it for almost all their needs — but most of all they depended upon one another.

The interdependence of these early settlers eventually became welded into a uniquely western mold — a code of life. I can't define this code of life. I can only describe it because it lives in the people and in their institutions. Such as hospitality with pleasure to give and joy to receive — help and assistance without desire or expectation of reward — a contract by word that's signed with a handshake — a belief in and a genuine love for neighbors — truth — a good word for fellowman (or no word at all) — charity for those in need — and respect for justice, home, church and the human community they created. This code of life still lives today. It lives in people and it lives in institutions. It lives at:

Needed, But Prospects Dim

PROponents of congressional reform won a victory of sorts when the House Rules Committee voted to allow floor debate on the issue.

But the committee action, dumping two competing reorganization plans before the representatives to permit a choice and providing unlimited opportunity for amendment, does not enhance the prospects for approval.

FEW LAWMAKERS will dispute the necessity of modernizing methods of conducting House business. The creaking legislative machinery, with its emphasis on seniority and with its power concentrated in committee chairmen, has long been under attack as anachronistic.

The beauty of reform, however, is in the eye of the beholder.

Sweeping changes proposed by a bipartisan special committee after a year of deliberation would streamline procedures and allow fresh viewpoints in the initiation and shaping of legislation.

Fresh viewpoints, unfortunately, are not all that appealing to House veterans who believe that change is a prelude to chaos.

CONTROVERSIAL aspects of the bi-partisan plan include limitation of House members to service on only one of 15 major committees.

The jurisdiction of the Ways and Means Committee would be confined to tax matters and it would be relieved of consideration of such issues as health, foreign trade and other programs except as they relate to tax impact.

THE EDUCATION and Labor committee would be split. The Post Office and Civil Service Committee would be abolished with its functions transferred to other committees. A new Energy Committee would be created to centralize jurisdiction over energy problems, now scattered among more than a dozen committees.

Democrats hold the key to House procedural change. AS THE MAJORITY party, they sit in all chairmanships. They control the leadership positions. Powerful Democrats have the most to lose in the proposed reforms. Frustrated young Democrats, on the other hand, see much to gain.

But the American people would be principal beneficiaries of a breath of air in the dusty halls of Congress.

The outlook for significant improvement, however, must be regarded as dim. Power is yielded slowly, grudgingly.

An Effective Job

Leon Jaworski has submitted his resignation as special prosecutor in the Watergate cover-up investigation.

When he was tapped out by President Nixon, who had just fired Archibald Cox, to be the special prosecutor, Jaworski took the assignment as a patriotic duty. The President promised him freedom of movement, and regardless of whether he meant it quite in the manner Mr. Jaworski interpreted the Challenge, the fact is that the distinguished Houston attorney committed himself completely to the philosophy of discovery of wrongdoing, and then to prosecute.

He was not only capable, as his entire career has proven him to be, but he was strong enough not to be deterred or intimidated. Without showmanship, he plowed straight into his job. The record of pleas and convictions, plus bringing the top echelon to the bar, speaks for itself. A lesser individual might have despaired or capitulated.

British Election

William F. Buckley, Jr.

A few thoughts on the British election, not all of them morose.

1) IT IS SOMETIMES very necessary to take the long view of things. I remember as a schoolboy being terribly startled when Winston Churchill spoke his famous phrase, "if the British Empire lasts one thousand years, men will still say 'this was their finest hour'." What struck me, at age 15, was that anyone should even entertain a doubt that the British Empire would last a thousand years. Surely things like the British Empire were invented by God to last forever.

Five years after Churchill spoke those words he was speaking them not bombastically, howling back at the Nazi gale, but defensively, to his own people. He said he had not been appointed His Majesty's First Minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire. A few years after that, the British Empire was reduced to an administrative abstraction. Hitler had very little to do with it.

2) A BRITISH PHILOSOPHER and political theorist, infuriatingly unread except by a small audience overtaken by his brilliance, long ago evolved the thesis that somewhere along the line, back a few hundred years ago, western civilization abandoned its experiment with freedom: that we became, in his phrase, "individualist manques." Michael Oakeshott, best known for his withering scorn of irrationalist politics, concluded that the burden of freedom was too great, and that therefore however fitfully man looks for freedom, in fact he will permit himself to be crushed by the state.

Americans who have never questioned their conviction that freedom is here to stay should remember that it was for Abraham Lincoln a very open question. The Civil War, he said at Gettysburg, would test whether government of the people for the people and by the people would soon perish from this earth. More recent American examples center around Woodrow Wilson's quixotic crusade to bring democracy to the peoples of the world. Since then democracy drastically reduced, and increasingly, historians agree that Wilson's campaign accelerated the attrition.

3) IN ENGLAND now the people have spoken very firmly. They have given the socialist government total power. A majority of the House of Commons is, in English terms, total power. Harold Wilson's problems, meanwhile, are our own, by contrast, nugatory. He has an inflation rate up near 20 per cent. The imbalance of trade has to be stopped, or else credit will be gone, absolutely. He has relied in the few months between the election in which he came in without a working majority, and this last election, on the rhetorical device — the "social contract" with the labor unions.

TRANSLATED, the social contract meant that the unions would behave for long enough to get Wilson re-elected with an absolute majority. The social contract is without strategic social substance. Because even if England's labor unions didn't increase ever again their demands, their work habits, the bureaucratization of the productive machinery of England, the soaring demand for free social services, the impediments to economic ingenuity and the accumulation of wealth, condemn the economy to stagnation. What England has, which is of great potential value, is oil, billions of barrels of it, in the North Sea. The banks are unwilling to accelerate the extraction of this oil, risking hundreds of millions of dollars, unless a reliable arrangement can be made to secure a profit for the investors. The oil may prove for Wilson's socialism what the fruit tree was to Tantalus: always there, always just out of reach.

4) WHICH BRINGS one to the thought that there is something to be said for another western democracy than our own heading for the final collision of forces. It is, of course, the collision between the human appetite, and human self-respect. The former desires: everything, promising no correlative exertion. The latter insists that some things one never gives away: human freedom, which includes the freedom to accumulate property. Democratic socialism's great historical vanity is that you can have it and eat it too. England will find out ahead of the United States, and what happens there will sober us here. It is a pity to have to learn from the ordeal of another people. But remember, it was a free election. The CIA had nothing to do with it.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

What is the matter with modern concrete? This concrete runway at the Des Moines airport cracked and crumbled and became undermined by water beneath till patching with asphalt no longer helped.

Airport officials say this is largely because Boeing 727 aircraft put a far bigger load per wheel on the concrete paving than it was designed for. Cedar Rapids airport officials say the same thing happened there. And elsewhere.

Concrete paving of the nation's Interstate highways has no such excuse for breaking up, but it breaks up anyway, sometimes almost immediately, elsewhere a bit later. The excuse is that the road must carry more traffic than planned, and more of it heavy trucks. What did the designers expect?

Nothing lasts. In Rome, the high brick and concrete dome of the Pantheon built by the Emperor Hadrian about 120 A.D. still stands, 141 feet in diameter, unsupported except by the walls at the edges of the massive dome. We cannot believe engineers were better in those days. — Des Moines Register

Steel Supply

CLEVELAND, (AP) — "Although steel mill shipments were up from our original expectations for the first half of 1974, demand is still outstripping supply by a significant margin, probably at least 10 to 15 per cent. And based on actual domestic mill shipment figures recorded for the first six months of '74 of about 58 million tons, we are now forecasting shipments of between 52 and 53 million tons for the balance of the year," reported Robert G. Welch, president of the Steel Service Center Institute in an update of the association's latest business conditions survey.

That means said Welch, by year end domestic steel mills will have shipped a total of 110 to 111 million tons, approximately the same figure as in 1973. Approximately 5 million tons can be expected to be exported and imports most likely will be down from 15.1 million in 1973 to 12 million this year.

To the victor... belong the spoils.

Key Phraseology

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The American consumer, desperately seeking guidance through the tangled mess of his personal finances, has been told by the President to balance his budget, save, waste not, economize and "do it yourself."

The advice recalls the slogans and aphorisms that gently introduce every grade-schooler to the realities of the marketplace. They are the key words and phrases of home economics courses. They are women's page standbys. They are familiar words also because they are practiced regularly by millions of homemakers, often out of necessity rather than from choice. They are the common sense foundation of any household's financing.

Nevertheless, while such advice might be the basis for good household economics, it hardly serves as the basis for a newly announced, voluntary national program to meet the inflation-recession crisis, an economic emergency that has been compared in some respects to the 1930s.

First, it is old stuff. It is the very advice that millions of American householders have practiced almost instinctively for months and years. Many a householder must wonder if President Ford is the last to become aware of such habits.

Second, it appears to demonstrate the inability of the administration, or in fact any institution or segment of American society, to come up with believable, substantial advice for householders.

The net impact, therefore, could very well be measured as a further drop in consumer expectations, especially since so many consumers had expected that a change of administrations would be accompanied by a change in strategies.

Dumb Questions

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

One night not too long ago, I went to the scene of a house on fire, and was asking questions of the neighbors concerning the blaze. Two fire trucks, two police cars, flashing lights, and people standing around were all part of the scene.

Fire hoses lay across the street and flames were shooting from the roof of the residence. About that time, a woman came running up in her robe and said to the woman who lived next door, "Is there a fire?"

I HAD TO LAUGH to myself as I walked away and since then I've been paying more attention to really dumb questions.

A florist told me about a woman that came into his shop. She looked at the flowers in the refrigerated unit and asked if that was all he had. The florist answered, "We'll have more by tomorrow, but we used so many flowers yesterday for Mrs. John Doe's funeral that it has left us rather short." "On," said the woman, "Did Mrs. Doe die?"

A car veered off the road, and struck a utility pole, severing it in half and laying the pole out on the highway. The car had its front end mashed in nearly in the shape of the pole.

Said a man who got out to look the situation over, "Did he hit the pole?"

I was at a football game. The Steers had made a 51-yard drive down the field and the quarterback went over from the one-foot line. The crowd rose and cheered, cheerleaders jumped up and down, the band played the fight song and somebody rang the bell. Said a young woman in the stands, "Did we score?"

One dumb question that I particularly remember personally happened to me in Pecos back in 1960. I was in a hurry to get across the street from the courthouse to the paper. It was raining and the courthouse steps were wet. I ran out of the building, slipped and slid down ten steps on to my back on the concrete, knocking the wind out of me. I was looking up into the rain. An old rancher sauntered over and looked down at me and said, "Did you fall?"

IN ANDREWS' time, a large cattle truck turned over on the rutted route. A number of cows were killed and dozens of the animals got out and were running all up and down the highway. Lawmen were attempting to round up the herd. A passing motorist stopped and asked, "Did the cows get out?"

Out near Hobbs, a plane fell to the earth scattering debris for what seemed like five miles and killing two men. Lawmen had circled off the area, ambulances were on the scene and a passer-by climbed through the fence and looked the scene over and said, "Did a plane crash?"

I've always wanted to answer all those wonderful questions. To the woman who asked, "Is there a fire?" I wish I'd answered, "No, it's just fire practice." To the woman who asked if Mrs. Doe died? I wish I'd answered, "No, they were just holding a seminar on flower arrangements." To the one who asked, "Did he hit the pole?" the answer is, of course, "no, it's termite."

To the girl who asked, "Did we score?" I should have said, "No, it's the third quarter stretch." To the one who asked if I fell, the answer should have been, "I always take a nap on this sidewalk." To the one who asked "Did the cows get out?" I wish I'd said, "No, what are you doing in this pasture?" and to the idiot who asked, "Did a plane crash?" I wish I'd said, "No, a boat just sank."

Superman Is Sensitive

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — for several years now, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has been portrayed in magazines and books as Superman. Whenever there was trouble in the world, Henry would dash into a phone booth near the White House, change into his blue bodystocking costume and fly off to settle the matter.

IT CAME AS A SHOCK the other day to hear Henry admit he was no longer Superman.

I was passing the phone booth and I saw Henry inside. "Good," I said to myself. "Henry's going to settle the oil crisis." I waited to see him fly out of the booth on his mission, but he just remained there.

"HENRY," I finally said anxiously, "why haven't you changed into your costume?"

"I'm not going to be Superman any more," Henry said. "I'm sick and tired of working miracles."

"But, Henry, if you won't be Superman, what will we all do?"

"That's not my problem. Being Superman means you have to travel a lot. I want to spend more time with Nancy."

"I CAN APPRECIATE that," I told him, "but you have an image to uphold. The media made you what you are today. You just can't go into a phone booth and say you're not coming out."

"Why should I come out?" Henry replied. "The House is picking on me; the Senate is picking on me; the press is picking on me. You know Superman have feelings, too."

"You can't pay attention to criticism, Henry. If everyone loved you, you wouldn't be doing your job."

"Everyone USED to love me," he said. "Yes, but that's because they didn't like Nixon. You always looked so much better compared to him."

"I think Superman should be loved by EVERYBODY," Henry said. "I don't mind criticism, if it's fair. What I don't like is unfair criticism."

"NOBODY LIKES to be told they're not perfect, Henry. The thing to do is to rise above it and prove they're wrong. Now get into that silly costume and fly off to the Middle East and straighten out our problems."

Henry started taking off his pants. "OKAY," HE SAID, "I'll do it one more time. But if I hear any squawks from anybody about what I did, it's the last time I go into his phone booth."

I held his pants while he took off his shirt.

"I don't know if I ever told you this, Henry," I said, "but you have lovely legs."

And so last Tuesday as people looked up into the sky they saw a weird object. One person said "It's a bird;" another person said "It's a plane;" and then everyone cried out at once "NO, IT'S KISSINGER!" And we all slept better that night.

Skidding Tested

BOSTON (AP) — Partly spurred by the Highway Safety Act of 1973, more than 30 states today have testing programs to evaluate the skid resistance of their highways, Arthur D. Little Inc., reports. Such tests have proved useful in identifying pavements that need corrective treatment, planning maintenance schedules and determining materials, construction and surface dressings for the best and most lasting skid resistance.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I have a family of three. Oh, we have troubles because my daughter is a diabetic, but the real problem is my mother. I have to take her to see the doctor often. It's like running a second house. My sisters won't share this problem at all, and I'm becoming anxious and sick at heart. What can I do?

D.S.S. The best answer is to quote the words of St. Paul to young Timothy, recorded in 1 Timothy 5:8: "If anyone does not provide for his immediate family, he has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever."

Now I grant you if your sisters are in the vicinity, they should help, and I would frankly ask them to do so. Perhaps you've just assumed they knew of the transportation needs for these doctor's appointments, and they really don't. Normally, people don't volunteer; you have to tactfully involve them.

Another possibility is that your mother would rather go with you. Maybe she feels more at ease and more secure when you're the driver. If that's the case, accept it, and pray for the patience and strength you'll need. No doubt your mother exercised a good deal of both in your upbringing.

Remember that Christ said of Himself (Luke 22:27) "I am among you as one who serves."

A Devotion For Today . . .

"He who finds his life will lose it, and he who loses his life for my sake will find it." (Matthew 10:39) PRAYER: Father, make us sensitive to the needs of others around us. Give us the incentive to befriend people and draw them to Your kingdom. Amen.

Steer Desire, Trip Mojo

More or Lesh

By CLARK LESHER

Bob Burris, Steer grid director voiced comment to Monday's national televised program on schoolboy football. He feels there's no place in football for the kind of action shown by Chris Vagotis, Miami (Fla.) Killian senior high coach.

Vagotis was shown slapping his players on TV. The Florida coach said, "When I slap a kid, it's with an open hand, not with a fist. It's for motivation." Burris chimed, "I don't think you can treat players like animals. It is certainly unnecessary."

Burris feels the 86 of 100 injuries reported on the TV survey are really not that high. "A player with body injuries will not be permitted to play, but a pain ailment can be learned to live with. This involves bumps, bruises, cuts and charley horses."

Burris came to defense of the jet pilot type helmet Big Spring uses. "It's the best available head-gear on the market. No serious neck or head injuries have been reported."

Burris noted that there is certain head risk in playing football, but no one can compete properly with his head down.

The national program damaged the schoolboy grid image Burris added who has outstanding credentials from Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas prep schools.

Texas passed a requirement next year whereby all sanctioned schoolboy grid teams must have a trainer or student trainer in attendance. They must be certified by the state.

Another Big Spring High product from the late 60's is playing pro-football besides Charley Johnson. He's Charlie West of the Detroit Lions. His college football days were spent at Texas University-El Paso.

Charlie played for the Minnesota Vikings before being traded this campaign to Detroit. His card data shows defensive back on the special team. Charlie's mother, Ida Ross, lives here.

Three new names will be added to Texas Tech's Athletic Hall of Fame Saturday at the Arizona game, Lubbock. They are Jerrel M. Price, former Red Raider All-American tackle; Dr. J. William Davis, long-time Athletic Council chairman; and Yancy Price, former Red Raider football player from 1930-33.

Baylor, who has an open date this week, hosts next time around Texas A&M Oct. 26. The Bears will bring an undefeated SWC record into the game for the first time since 1966. They downed Arkansas 7-0 at Fayetteville in their opener.

The Arkansas-Texas clash Saturday will be carried nationally by ABC-TV. Keith Jackson is to handle the play-by-play. Scheduled for 3 p.m. in Austin, the kickoff time may be moved up to noon depending on the status of the World Series.

For the first time since 1955, this rivalry has a do-or-die atmosphere. Each team comes into the contest with a loss in SWC competition. Both the Hogs and the 'Horns are baring teeth in a fight for conference chasurival.

Bulldogs Need Win To Keep AA Pace

By TROY BRYANT

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs will have to bounce back from their disappointing tie last week with Anson, and will have to defeat a tough Winters team in Winters Friday night.

The Bulldogs must win to keep pace with Hamlin and Ballinger, who are just ahead of Coahoma in the district standings with unbeaten records.

Winters, a surprise this year, was one of only two teams that went through non-conference play without suffering a loss, defeating highly regarded Clyde enroute to a 4-0 non-conference slate.

When the district play rolled around, however, Winters lost to the district's leaders, Hamlin and Ballinger. They are coming off a 26-12 loss to Hamlin.

The Bulldogs dropped out of the AP Top Ten for the first time after the tie, and Coach Norman Roberts said, "We're back where we started now; we have to win every game from now on."

Roberts has had to do some shuffling in the lineup due to a couple of injuries. Randy Gee will start in the place of Gary Roberts, who tore ligaments and cartilage in his knee in last week's game and underwent surgery in Midland. He is expected to be out for six weeks. Senior guard Steve Wolf broke a wrist in practice and will be sidelined this week. He will be replaced by Mike Marinez, also a senior.

End Mike Collier is still out with a broken rib. Coach Roberts noted that they would be operating more out of the I formation this week with two backs in the backfield instead of the usual wishbone offense and three backs.

Game time is at 7:30 p.m.

Forsan Meets Loraine

Most area grid teams will be entering their third district phase Friday.

Lamesa, 3-3 overall and 0-2 in district action will try to break into the winning column at the expense of Dunbar. The Golden Tornadoes will enjoy the comforts of home, but lost last Friday to Lakeview 16-6 in San Angelo.

Forsan, 5-0 overall and 2-0 in 3B, tackles Loraine, there. The Buffs shutout Roby in homecoming festivities last Friday 31-0.

Sands of Ackery, 1-4, and 0-2 in 3B, meets potent Jayton, there. Jayton is 4-1 for the campaign and shares the 3B lead with Forsan and Bronte. All three outfits have compiled a 2-0 record. Sands fell to Bronte 49-2 at home last Friday.

Garden City, fresh off a last Friday victory over Wellman, 36-20, travels to Dawson for a 1-B eight-man contest. The Bearkats are 2-3 for the season and 1-0 in district competition.

Klonkide, 3-3 overall, hopes to improve its 3B 0-1 rating, entertaining Wellman. Loop on its home field downed Kondike 14-6 Friday.

Borden County will be looking for a well deserved win against Loop, there. The Gail based 1-B eight-man team lost out to Dawson 49-0 at home last Friday.

Stanton, 4-2, takes the week off. The Buffs suffered a 40-20 setback to McCamey in Stanton last Friday. On Oct. 25, Stanton swings into 5-A play against Seagraves, there.

Panthers stand 5-0 overall and 2-0 in 5-4A. Big Spring shows 2-3 for the season and in the district, 0-2.

Permian maintains a winning tradition built over several years and its gridiron halo remains high.

Permian shows off superb credentials. Last year, the Panthers gained third playoff round before losing to Houston Arlington. The Panthers walked off with the 1972 championship.

Burris says it is encouraging from his Steer staff that "we can beat Permian." The desire and unity lacked in early season games is with the Steers now.

Permian can be thrown on. Abilene had the opportunity but couldn't cash in on the breaks and lost the game, 24-0, last Friday.

Permian likes to throw the ball more now than recorded in the past. The Panthers have 17 letterman back from a 10-2 record.

The Panthers feature a talent running back in Travis Howard, 6-0, 195-pounds and Daryl Hunt, 6-5, 210-pounds, probably considered the best all-around player. Both are seniors.

Hunt made all-district mention both on offense and defense last year. Tom Crane, another senior at 175 pounds holds down a dual lineman role with Hunt.

Permian, when it hits the aerial paths, likes to throw to either Howard or Hunt. Eight are sprinkled in the offense and six carry the defensive weight.

Permian's quarterback responsibility falls on the shoulders of junior 160-pounder Kris Howard. He's an all-around athlete and exceeds in three points, carrying the ball, blocking and throwing.

Steer seniors James Coffey, 6-3, 210-pounds, will move into a starting nose guard position and replace another senior, Ricky Darrow. Darrow tore ligaments and cartilage in his knee in last Friday's game with Midland. He was operated on Monday in a Midland hospital to correct the injury.

Big Spring plans to leave the high school east parking lot around 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Dodgers Trail A's By Two Games, 5-2

OAKLAND (AP) — The embattled Oakland A's have the Los Angeles Dodgers staggering on the ropes and plan to finish off the National League champs tonight with Vida Blue's left-handed punch.

"I'd be disappointed if we don't end it tonight," said third baseman Sal Bando after the A's took a commanding 3-1 lead in the 1974 World Series with a 5-2 victory Wednesday night.

"We think very positively," said Don Sutton on the mound, the Dodgers aren't dead yet — but it may be just a matter of time. Even if they don't win tonight, history is on the A's side.

Rarely has a team come back from a 3-1 deficit to win a World Series.

It's only happened three times — 1925, 1958 and 1968. "We'd like to win tonight, but if we don't, we'll go down to Los Angeles and finish it," said Bando.

The A's hold the upper hand in this wacky series despite internal unrest, a condition that has been common with this oddball team for some time now.

The latest episode involves Gene Tenace, a sensitive player who was lifted from the lineup by Oakland owner Charles O. Finley prior to Wednesday night's game. Tenace's reaction ranged from humiliation to rage. He branded the A's eccentric owner inhumane.

Tenace, who had played games of this World Series, found out about the lineup change after a team meeting during which Finley gave a pep talk.

"I had to be told by coach Bobby Winkles," said Tenace, still simmering in the clubhouse a few minutes after Wednesday night's significant victory. "Neither Finley nor (Manager Alvin) Dark would tell me. I felt humiliated."

While Tenace burned, Finley kept the rest of the A's smoldering with his pregame meeting.

Two 30-Year Men Among Tenure Awards At Webb

Longevity emblems and certificates have gone to 12 Webb civilian employees.

Receiving 30-year awards from Col. Robert A. Owens, commander of the 78th Flying Training Wing were, James H. Holloway, Quality Control inspection foreman, and John O. Puckett, manager of the Commissary.

Those receiving 20-year awards were Majorie E. Alexander, personnel division; Gayle S. Johnson, Transportation division; Keith D. McGuire Jr., civil engineering; Fidel G. Saldivar, USAF hospital; and Robert M. Salmon, field maintenance.

Ten-year awards were presented by division chiefs of each work area to the following: Mary E. Owens, chief of maintenance division; Donald W. Frazier, transportation division; Arthur F. Hernandez, services division; Mona M. Drake, personnel division; and Betty J. Daratt, 2050 Communications Squadron.

JAMES PUCKETT Puckett, who is considering retiring in a year or so, started his Civil Service career in 1942 with the Army at Ft. Hood, Tex. He worked in the quartermaster unit for $1,200 a year.

After a year in that job Puckett enlisted in the Navy and served until January '46 aboard a fleet tanker, USS Cabaha, refueling ships in the 3rd and 7th fleets in the Pacific. He was all around the Mariana and Philippine Islands in the South Pacific.

At the end of the war his ship was the first one to take a load of gasoline and fuel oil into Shanghai and Hong Kong.

Returning to Civil Service after his discharge, Puckett has worked in security at Ft. Hood, the VA Hospitals in Temple and Big Spring in supply, and came to Webb (with an 18-mo. break as a Big Spring grocery employee), in 1964 as a supply man. In 1962 when he transferred to the commissary. He and his wife, Ollie, live on a small acreage north of town. Their sons, John and Kenneth, finished college, married Big Spring girls and now live in Garland.

JAMES HOLLOWAY Holloway began working as a mechanic learner in 1941 at Duncan Field, San Antonio, which is now Kelly AFB. He transferred to Sheppard when it opened in 1942 then to Frederick, Okla., with the Army Air Corps until enlisting in the Navy in 1943.

During World War II he served aboard a destroyer tender in the Pacific, tending off Kamikaze aircraft.

After his discharge he returned to Kelly and worked in the propeller shop, then in shops at Sheppard and Amarillo and came to Webb as foreman of the propeller shop in 1952. But he saw the handwriting on the wall and switched to the inspection field.

Holloway's wife, Mary, has an art shop in Big Spring and she has won recognition for her own work in local area art shows. They live at 3211 Cornell with their children, John and Amy, who are students at Howard College.

Annexation Due Final Reading

Annexation of some 47 acres into the city will have a final reading at the council meeting Tuesday. It is an extension of the Highland South area, by the original developer, Ike Robb.

Highland Drive will be extended slightly toward the mountain and will circle around and connect with Scott. Hunters Glenn and Macusan will also extend northward.

The entire extension wraps around the present residential area and comes back out at Goliad, the street leading into the area.

Two new streets will be in keeping with the Scotch names in the area and will include Stonehaven Drive and Balmoral. The latter is a castle in Scotland.

There will be three-quarters of a mile or 4500 feet of new streets, paid for by the developer, who also extends water and sewer lines. Roy Crim is doing the engineering work for the project.

There will be 46 lots in the residential area with each one with a minimum of 100 foot frontage and some more than 130. There have already been several persons who have requested one of the new lots and they are expected to go pretty fast once the project is under way.

Following the final reading, the streets will be staked out immediately, according to Crim.

Bonfire Kicks Off LHS Reunion

LAMESA — A traditional bonfire will kick off the homecoming festivities here tonight as the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes prepare for the grid battle with Lubbock Dunbar.

The giant bonfire will be ignited at the rodeo grounds at 7:40 p.m. The Homecoming Queen will be announced at a 2:30 p.m. pep rally Friday in the high school gym, and she will be recognized at the half-time activities Friday evening.

Candidates include seniors, Idelia Mendez, Cathy Bizzell and Teresa Owens.

Class representatives taking part in the ritual will be Greta Wilson, a junior; Judith Parsons, a sophomore and Gina Estrada, a freshman. A homecoming dance will follow the game.

Webb Enlisted Permanent Party Invited To Party

A free barbecue and mini-rodeo is planned for Webb enlisted men and women and their families on Saturday.

Ricky Hamby Now Licensed

Ricky White Hamby, among those who passed the State Bar examinations in July and who has been duly licensed to practice law in Texas, tentatively has plans to open a practice in San Antonio.

He is the son of J.H. Hamby, Big Spring, and a brother to Lanny Hamby, Big Spring attorney. Ricky Hamby attended junior high here, graduated from Plainview High School, earned his academic degree at Texas Tech and his doctor of jurisprudence degree at St. Mary's University in San Antonio.

Nov. 2, at the Howard County Rodeo Grounds. This event is being sponsored by the newly-formed Century Club of Big Spring.

In announcing the fete, Century Club President W.S. (Dub) Pearson said that this is just one way that Big Spring can show its appreciation to the "permanent party" airmen at Webb whose fine work often goes unsung.

Beginning at 4:30 p.m., several local rodeo performers will demonstrate their skill in the rodeo arena before an expected crowd of 1,500 Webb airmen and dependents. This mini-rodeo more of an exhibition than a contest is intended to familiarize Webb people with a part of West Texas culture, according to Jimmy Taylor, who is in charge of arrangements. Men from the base will be challenged by their civilian hosts to calf tying, says Taylor, and wives will be invited to participate in "ribbon roping," which involves a cowboy doing the calf roping and the wife removing a ribbon from the calf's tail and racing to the finish line.

At 6 p.m., festivities will move to the fair barn for barbecued beef, cooked in the open. A Western band will provide music.

The Century Club was formed last month by leaders of the Big Spring community to promote neighborliness through continued base-community relations. Membership is limited to 100 people, each pledged to contribute $100 annually to the club. The group works through the regular Base Community Council.

Natural Gas Shortage Sizeable, Say Oilmen

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas oilmen say the nation's natural gas shortage this winter may approximate 800 billion cubic feet.

A resolution adopted Wednesday by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association said the deficit is getting worse each year and dictates a need for the deregulation of wellhead prices of natural gas entering interstate commerce.

"The wellhead price of natural gas is a key factor in the decision to drill for new reserves," the resolution said.

"It is the American consumer who is the ultimate loser when federal price controls cause shortages of natural gas."

The association also called for retention of oil's 22 percent depletion tax allowance and the elimination of price controls on crude oil and petroleum products.

The Texans charged that some members of Congress and of the Ford administration are attempting to divide the industry by offering political alternatives to the tax allowance.

The House Ways and Means Committee has proposed that the allowance that was cut from 27 1/2 percent to 22 percent in 1969 be phased out over a three-year period.

"Phasing out of the percentage depletion provision in federal income tax laws will stifle the activities of all producers," the resolution said.

It added that the industry's position has been weakened by reports of offers of such political alternatives as tying abolition of removal of price controls and attempting to permit the allowance for some segments of the industry while denying it to others.

All members of the Texas petroleum industry were urged to remain united on a policy of maintaining the current percentage depletion rate.

Natural gas, crude oil, and petroleum products currently are the only commodities subject to federal price controls.

The resolution said the $5.25 per barrel freeze on oil from old wells, or about two-thirds of the state's crude production, is forcing Texas to subsidize the energy needs of much of the nation.

The oilmen also called for enactment of a Texas unitization statute and rejection of any proposal to enact a state petroleum products manufacturing tax.

Operating all interests in an oil or gas field as a single unit currently is permissible in Texas but is not compulsory even if a substantial majority of the interests desire to do so.

The oilmen contend a products manufacturing tax would stifle further industrialization in Texas and would cause some refining operations to be abandoned and shift new and expanded refinery projects to other states and the Caribbean Islands.

Ford Veto Overridden

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill authorizing the government to put $7.1 billion into the financially troubled railroad retirement system has been enacted into law by Congress over President Ford's veto.

The Senate voted 72-1 Wednesday to approve the bill, marking the first time Congress rejected a veto from Ford. The House voted 360-12 Tuesday to override. Both votes were far more than the necessary two-thirds.

The new law will restructure the railroad retirement system and pump $285 million in federal money into it annually for the next 25 years.

Ford criticized the bill as too expensive and said Congress should come up with a plan that puts less of a burden on taxpayers.

However, Congress decided that a vote to sustain the veto would be politically dangerous since the alternative to a federal subsidy would be a substantial reduction in pensions now being received.

Woman Treated In Beating Case

Mrs. Beverly Read, 30, came into the police station at 2:15 a.m. today and reported that she had been beaten.

She was bruised and officers took her to Cowper Clinic for treatment. The department has a suspect in the case, and aggravated assault charges are expected to be filed. She was reported to have been beaten about the head and face.

JOHN GLENN

RALPH PERK

Ex-Astronaut Is Ohio Favorite

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16 (AP) - A dozen years after he became the first American to orbit the earth, John H. Glenn Jr. appears headed for a landslide victory in his third attempt to win a Senate seat from Ohio.

His triumph in space was followed by a decade of disappointment in politics. In 1964, Glenn dropped out of a Senate race after he fell in his bathtub and was injured. In 1970, he lost in a Democratic primary upset to Howard H. Metzbaum.

Last May, Glenn finally defeated Metzbaum, and now, polls show him far ahead of his Republican rival, Mayor Ralph Perk of Cleveland. Victory could propel him onto the national political scene as a potential 1976 vice presidential candidate.

Until recently, Perk has been concentrating on his duties as mayor. But he announced he would go on half-salary this month to concentrate on the campaign after becoming angered at reports he had decided against a stretch drive to overtake Glenn.

Though state Republican Chairman Kent McGough contends Perk "could surprise people," most Ohio observers think the only question is the Nov. 5 election is the size of Glenn's majority. When the campaigns, Glenn still demonstrates the celebrity status he attained in 1962 when he rode a Mercury spacecraft three times around the world and returned to a hero's welcome. Children and matrons seek his autograph. Grown men beam when he shakes their hand.

If that's not enough, notes state Democratic Chairman William Lavelle, "Glenn has the advantage of no record, no history in which he alienated anyone. He has no enemies and a weak opponent in a Democratic year."

But there is strain with Gov. John J. Gilligan, a fellow Democrat. Glenn has never forgiven Gilligan for appointing Metzbaum last December to the vacancy created when Republican Sen. William B. Saxbe resigned to become attorney general.

Glenn already is indicating he wants a say in state party affairs, bolstered by the expectation he will win the Senate race by a far bigger margin than Gilligan is likely to gain in his race against former Gov. James J. Rhodes.

Hostage Of Carrasco Can't Hate The Man

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Rebel convict Fred Gomez Carrasco went to his grave without the hatred of Mrs.

"I cannot hate Fred Gomez Carrasco," says Mrs. Fleming of Huntsville "I despise what he stood for and what he did."

Mrs. Fleming said if the hostages had realized the prison library where they were held by Carrasco and two others was "bugged," they would have chatted more about the inmates' plans.

Mrs. Fleming spoke Tuesday to a Baptist women's group here.

Mrs. Fleming, who taught a Sunday School class 12 hours after she survived the shootout climax of the holdout, said she was originally picked to be with Carrasco and the other two rebel inmates within a protective shield during an escape attempt. She was replaced by Judy Standley, who was killed with Elizabeth Beseda, Carrasco and convict Rodolfo Dominguez.

Mrs. Standley and Mrs. Beseda "had been friends since girlhood and when she realized the TDC (Texas Department of Corrections) was going to do something, she said she wanted to go," said Mrs. Fleming.

"I kept asking her, 'Are you sure?' and she was," Mrs. Fleming said of Mrs. Standley.

Mrs. Fleming said Carrasco, a San Antonio narcotics smuggler "was kind and thoughtful to us" during the 11-day holdout that ended in August. "When I see his picture now, I feel sorrow that one of God's creatures had to come to this end..."

Planning Vets' Day Observance

Plans are under way this week for Veteran's Day observance to take place on Monday, October 28, at the Big Spring VA Hospital according to Mrs. Dene Sheppard, director of volunteer services.

This will include an open house at the hospital, plus tours throughout the facility. Refreshments will also be served.

The hospital staff also hopes to have an exhibit of the Congressional Medal of Honor winners completed by that time. The exhibit includes a sample Medal of Honor and photos and citations of veterans who have won the distinguished award. The original display was presented at Veterans Day here last year.

President's 2nd Veto Kills Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today vetoed an attempt by Congress at a legislative compromise on cutting off weapons aid to Turkey and the House failed to override the veto.

The vote was 161 to 82, two votes short of the required two-thirds majority. The vetoed bill would have allowed the President to continue sending military aid to Turkey until Dec. 10, but would have provided the aid would end immediately if U.S. weapons were forwarded by Turkey to its forces on Cyprus.

The sustained veto means short pay for thousands of government employees. The Turkey aid provisions are part of a bill to provide stop-gap spending authority for several major departments whose regular appropriations have not been enacted.

Their fiscal authority, including authority to pay employees, stopped Sept. 30. The action also scrambled congressional plans to leave for a campaign today.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., told newsmen, "We'll play it by ear," trying again to work out a compromise.

Ford had vetoed earlier a bill providing for a cutoff of military aid to Turkey unless progress were made in resolving the Cyprus dispute, leading to withdrawal of Turkish troops there. The second bill sent to him was an effort at compromise.

The House waited until the end of Ford's historic appearance before a House Judiciary subcommittee to answer questions on his pardon for former President Richard M. Nixon and then began the override vote almost immediately with no debate.

Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., one of the leading supporters of the restrictions on arms aid to Turkey, blamed Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for putting pressure on Ford to veto the compromise attempt.

He said the veto was an effort to save what Brademas called Kissinger's faltering prestige.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite some misgivings, the administration's top housing official is urging President Ford to sign a bill earmarking $7.75 billion in federal money to help home buyers.

However, James T. Lynn, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, warned in a session with reporters Wednesday that it will be some time before the housing industry can revive.

The industry currently is starting new homes at a rate equivalent to 1.13 million units for the whole year. Even with new federal money, which would come on top of $19 billion in federal funds already pumped into the housing market, Lynn said he expects it to be 1975 before construction activity picks up.

And even with helpful developments in the economy, new starts next year probably will be below the 2 million units Lynn's agency has estimated are needed annually to provide the nation with decent housing.

The housing aid legislation, which represents the first response by Congress to Ford's economic proposals last week, would authorize the government to use its borrowing muscle to provide below-market loans for home buyers.

The version sitting on Ford's desk contains a formula that pegs the interest rate for home buyers to the rates the Treasury pays for its money.

Lynn said he would have preferred complete flexibility in setting interest rates, but despite the formula in the bill, "on balance its advantages outweigh its disadvantages."

Ford had said in his economic address that he is prepared to pump $13 billion into the housing market quickly to provide enough loans to cover 100,000 new houses at a cost to the government of $150 million at current interest rates.

Lynn said he will wait to see what developments occur in the housing and money markets before deciding whether to recommend spending any more of the authorized money.

Meanwhile, the federal Home Loan Bank Board announced that the average purchase price of a new home jumped by $2,900 to $43,100 in September. And the effective interest rate on home loans rose to an average of 9.2 per cent compared to 9.09 per cent a month later.

That means the average home purchased last month required an $11,600 down payment and monthly payments of $258 over 26 years.

A year ago, the average new house cost $9,000 down and $210 a month for 27 years.

San Antonio Launches City-Wide Drug Raids

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Officers extended a citywide dragnet this morning which became the largest drug raid in this city's history.

About 2 a.m., approximately 250 officers armed with 312 sealed indictments began sweeping the city. The indictments were returned Wednesday by the Bexar County grand jury.

By 9 a.m., 186 persons had been arrested. The raids followed undercover work by three San Antonio officers disguised as narcotics junkies who made purchases for several months.

The officers, detective John Hester, 30, patrolman John Ornelas 25, and George Lockamy, 27, appeared in their street clothes and beards at a news briefing. Police would not allow the men to be photographed, citing security reasons.

Hester said there is no shortage of drugs on the streets of San Antonio and a surprising number of young persons are trafficking narcotics in all areas of the city.

"All you have to do is fit the role of a user and they'll hit you," said Hester, who submerged into the narcotics environment for 77 days from May 15 to July 30. Police Lt. John Smith said the officers were able to buy so much marijuana in their dealings "they went over budget."

Hester said the youngest dope dealer who approached him is 13 years old. The three officers brought 346 cases against 312 persons, police said.

The previous record number of arrests in a San Antonio drug raid occurred when officers swept the city Sept. 8, 1972 with 148 indictments against 138 defendants.

DECORATED TRUNK — "You sure went to a lot of trouble decorating that old trunk" is what a neighbor said to Mrs. Garland Sanders, 1701 Johnson. But Mrs. Sanders did not decorate the trunk. These bright gold-colored toadstools or mushrooms grew on the decaying trunk after the last rain. A few small ones appeared last spring after a rain, but they dried up and fell off.

Demos Plan On Office

A meeting of Howard County Democrats in the district courtroom Tuesday night attracted more than 40 persons and $309.50 in donations. Harvey Hooser, county chairman, said.

Hooser said more contributions have been promised. Democratic Headquarters will be established no later than today at the Howard House, Third and Runnels Streets, as a result of a decision at the meeting. Cecil Riordan will secure the office headquarters.

Jim Baum was named publicity chairman. Wayne Basden, Jo Ann O'Daniel and Hamlin Elrod will work on the telephone committee.

A number of local officeholders and office seekers, including Mike Ezzell, Democratic nominee for the state legislature, attended the meeting.

A meeting of the executive committee is planned before the Nov. 5 election, Hooser said, but the date has not been set.

Black Returned To Local Jail

James Ray Black, 20, San Angelo, whose probation for burglary was revoked here for killing cattle in Tom Green County, was returned to Howard County Jail Wednesday.

Authorities in San Angelo dismissed criminal action against Black for the cattle slaughter.

Black now faces six years with the Texas Department of Corrections.

Absentee Votes Cast Tuesday

Wednesday, the first day of absentee voting in the county clerk's office, eight cast ballots in the office.

Late this morning, no one else had voted absentee in the general election slated Nov. 5, Mrs. Margaret Ray, chief deputy county clerk, said.

Ballots have been mailed to 63.

It is too early to gauge interest in the election from absentee voting, Mrs. Ray said.

Said Approved

(AP) — An Alaskan Air Command spokesman says military fishing camps in Alaska that Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., wants investigated "are completely authorized by Air Force directives."

Smaller Companies In Highest Bids

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — As expected, smaller oil companies were the high bidders for eight tracts of oil-rich seabottom leased Wednesday by the federal government to oil men offering the highest royalty.

It was the first time in the 20-year history of federal offshore leasing that future royalty payments, instead of instant cash bonuses, were the basis for winning the leases.

The experiment in high royalty bidding was ordered by Interior Secretary Rogers C. P. Morton to see if more independents would be attracted to offshore drilling.

"It was about like we expected," said R. W. Bybee of Houston, operations manager of Exxon's exploration department and a critic of royalty bidding.

"I don't think it will go on long. The Office of the Budget up there in Washington likes that cash."

Some $1.4 billion in cash bonuses were offered in the same sale for 149 other tracts. Companies winning leases for those tracts pay a one-sixth royalty from production revenue in addition to the bonus.

Congressional critics have claimed that the bonus bidding system favors the big oil companies, since they can raise the most cash. They have also contended that long-range royalty profits can be greater than bonus money.

Some 297 tracts off the oil-rich Louisiana coast were offered for sale but only 157 drew bids.

The highest royalty bid came from a combine of Basin Exploration and Texas International, which offered to pay 78.14759 per cent of future profits on oil or natural gas produced on the tract.

Twelve others bid on that tract, which lies 80 miles offshore, south of Morgan City, La. Exxon Co. U.S.A. was lowest at 20 per cent.

The top bonus bid was a whopping $117.6 million by a combine of Mobile Oil Co., Gulf Oil Co. and Chevron Oil Co.

Their bid was highest for a 3,007-acre tract in a proven oil area slightly more than three miles south of the Mississippi River's South Pass.

The Interior Department must still formally accept the bids. In past sales, the department has rejected bids significantly below its estimate of tract value.

In the royalty bidding, American Petrofina Co. of

County Has Completion

Relief Items Dispatched

Corn, rice, powdered milk and other relief items have been sent by truck to Tela, an isolated city on the Honduron Caribbean coast, according to the American Red Cross.

Hondurans are trying to recover from the worst Central American hurricane in modern history. N.E. Roll, manager of the Red Cross chapter in Big Spring, said donations may be sent to the Red Cross at Box 1970.

Special Sauce

The dressing for this salad is patterned after a popular New Orleans recipe.

CREOLE SHRIMP SALAD
 1 1/2 lbs. medium-sized shrimp (cooked, shelled and deveined)
 1-3 cup salad oil
 2 tps. garlic-flavored wine vinegar

 1 cup finely diced celery
 1-3 cup finely diced (4 small) scallions with green tops included
 1/4 cup minced parsley
 Lettuce and tomatoes
 Cucumbers or radishes

Slice shrimp in half lengthwise. With a fork beat together thoroughly the oil, vinegar, salt, paprika, and mustard; mix in celery, scallions and parsley. Arrange lettuce, tomato and cucumber or radishes on a serving plate with shrimp in center; pour sauce over shrimp. Makes 6 servings.

mixer. Add eggs and beat 2 more minutes at high speed then add dates, and maple extract. Stir in more flour to make a soft dough then turn out onto a lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and satiny, about 5 to 10 minutes. Cover dough with bowl and let rest 30 minutes. Grease two 9-inch square baking pans, and divide dough in half. Roll each half to 7x11-inch rectangle. Sprinkle each with half of the walnuts. Roll from narrow side, pressing dough into roll at each turn. Cut each roll into 9 sections and place in greased pans then brush with melted butter. Let rise in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees) until doubled, about 40 to 60 minutes. During last 10 minutes or rising time, preheat oven to 375 degrees. Bake 30 to 40 minutes. Remove immediately from pans and brush with butter. Cool slightly and frost with Maple Sugar Icing. Makes 18 rolls.

1 cup confectioners sugar
 1 cup maple syrup
 1 tsp. lemon juice
 Stir together ingredients until smooth.

Freezing Meat Being Studied

Does processing or freezing affect the protein values of meat? Because meat is such an important part of the diet and is counted on for its contribution of protein, as well as B vitamins and minerals, food researchers continue to study meat to determine nutrient retention.

Beef Perks Up Aging Patients

With beef added to the diet the "irritability factor" was reduced by 86.3 per cent. This was the finding in a nursing home in Seattle, Wash., as reported at a meeting of the Washington Health Facilities Association.

Protein values of meat appear to remain unchanged, practically speaking, during ordinary methods of cooking, canning or dehydration or freezing. Excessive heat over prolonged periods may affect the biological value of protein, but such methods are not usually used.

Crispy Crumbs

Crisp homemade dry bread crumbs in butter, slightly-browning—the crumbs, and sprinkle over cooked snap beans. The crumbs are delicious, too, served over asparagus and cauliflower. Don't crush the bread too fine when you make the crumbs.

HAMMING IT UP — deliciously with Japanese Mandarin Hash cups made with standard hash ingredients but with the cooked ham.

Ham Hash Good To Vary Menu

Ham was once described as "what results when an enthusiastic cook puts all she has into her cooking." But in spite of its reputation, this much-maligned dish has a fierce and loyal band of followers — especially among men. And no wonder. It's a hearty, husband-pleaser and a down-to-earth recipe that's flavorful and filling.

Ham is usually made with leftovers — one reason why budget stretchers like to make it — but it doesn't have to be. Cooked corned beef or roast beef are the standard hash ingredients, but we suggest you try to prepare it with cooked ham. To really serve hash up a new way, top the meat mixture with langy canned Mandarin oranges and the resulting Japanese Mandarin Baked Hash Cups will be tasty indeed.

By shaping up the hash cups in muffin tins, you'll be serving this dish in a very appetizing form — in fact, instead of using it as the meat entree, you could serve each person one small hash cup as an appetizer, or make a batch of them for a help-yourself buffet supper. The unique fruit-and-meat recipe gets its flavor kick from the sweetly succulent little seedless and rindless sections of Japanese Mandarin Oranges that garnish it so prettily — and tastefully.

Next time you're planning the weekly menu and you want to "ham it up" deliciously, consider preparing Japanese Mandarin Baked Hash Cups. If that fabulous recipe doesn't change your attitude toward hash, nothing will. Giving good old hash the gourmet touch will definitely enhance its reputation — and yours!

BAKED MANDARIN HASH CUPS
 1 11-oz. can Japanese Mandarin orange segments
 1/2 cup Mandarin syrup
 1/2 cup milk
 2 eggs, slightly beaten
 1/4 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. pepper
 1 tsp. prepared mustard
 2 cups soft bread crumbs
 1 qt. ground cooked ham

Perky Turkey

Combine 2 parts each of diced, cooked turkey and chopped celery with 1 part mayonnaise. Season to taste with lemon juice, salt and pepper. You can add about 1 part of either chopped peanuts or toasted slivered almonds. Or whip 1 part of jellied cranberry sauce until "saucy" and fold into mayonnaise until blended.

(about 1 lb.)
 1 tbsp. minced or ground onion
 Brown sugar
 Drain juice from Mandarin Oranges. Combine with milk, eggs, salt, pepper, mustard and bread crumbs; blend together. Add ground ham, onion and Mandarin segments (save a few for garnish). Blend mixture. Press into 12 muffin pans or cups, well greased. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Bake in 375 degree oven about one hour or until golden. Serve two per person, garnish with Mandarin orange segments. Makes six servings.

CALORIE COUNTING? Today's leaner chops have less calories and are different if you layer them with a celery-apple stuffing made entirely of fruits and vegetables with no fat added.

New Type Pork Chops Have Fewer Calories

Is it possible to prepare pork chops for your diet conscious family? The answer is yes. Pork is low in calories if you buy today's leaner chops. And they're different if you layer them with a celery-apple stuffing. Calorie counters will be glad to know that the stuffing recipe is made entirely of fruits and vegetables with no extra fat added.

Nutritionists tell us that today's pork has less fat and fewer calories than ever before. Better breeding, careful selection by the processor and expert grading has made this possible. One average serving (3 1/2 ounces) has just 240 calories as compared with 377 calories for the pork of yesteryear. This allows pork to fit into weight reduction diets, though its superior nutritional benefits make it an asset to any diet. Pork is the richest food source of thiamine (vitamin B1) and contains high quality complete proteins. Besides being lean, it is tender and easily digested. This makes it pleasing to people of all ages. If the chops are cut thin enough, two will yield one average serving of meat. To prepare this low-calorie dish, brown and braise the pork chops first to develop full flavor and eating quality. Then remove the chops from the heat and layer celery, apple rings, sliced mushrooms and spices between the chops. Cook according to the directions in the accompanying recipe.

Complete this meal by balancing it with fresh cucumbers and green pepper rings marinated in oil and vinegar, bread sticks and for dessert, low-calorie gelatin cubes.

LOW-CALORIE STUFFED PORK CHOPS
 12 lean pork chops, cut 1/2-inch thick
 Salt

Pepper
 Paprika
 1/2 cup water
 4 medium apples, pared and sliced across diameter into rings
 2 cups thinly sliced celery
 2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
 Ground sage
 2 tps. chopped green onions

Heat and season a large heavy skillet by rubbing with the edges of several pork chops. Brown 6 chops at a time, sprinkling each with salt, pepper and paprika. Place all chops back in skillet. Add water. Cover with tight-fitting lid. Braise over low heat for 30 minutes. Remove from heat and place apple rings, mushrooms and celery in layers on 6 pork chops. Sprinkle with ground sage and green onions. Top each with remaining pork chop. Cover and continue cooking over low heat for 20 minutes or until celery is tender. Makes six servings.

Editor Tells History Of Big Spring

The history of Big Spring was related by Joe Pickle, Big Spring Herald editor, for the Marcy School Parent-Teacher Association at its Tuesday meeting.

Pickle related events of Capt. Marcy's travels through the area of the 'big spring' and brought the story through the early development of the railroads and the oil industry to the present.

Two Boy Scout troops, 238 and 146, presented the colors and led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mrs. Jimmy Don Townsend, city council president, told of the importance of P.T.A. work.

The school Halloween carnival has been set for Nov. 2 from 6:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. Food will be available, and booths will be open for games. The P.T.A. project is to air condition the school and proceeds from the carnival will go into that fund.

A Halloween program was given by the sixth grade music class of Mrs. Lynda Mason.

Room counts were won by the third grade class of Mrs. Richard Smith and the sixth grade class of Mrs. Ken Harrington.

Dear Abby

Claimed To Be Gay, Now He Must Pay

DEAR ABBY: I am a male, 29 years old. I served in the Air Force for three years. I worked with security police. I didn't like it, so I told my commander I wanted to change jobs, but he kept putting things off, so I went to the chaplain and told him I was gay and wanted out.

I was sent to a psychiatrist. He believed me and got me a lawyer and I got out with an honorable discharge.

I've been out for nearly four years. The Army recruiting office called me and asked me if I wanted to join the Army and get into nurse's training. (He said he knew by my record that I had worked in a hospital, which is true.) Naturally, I didn't give him any details about how I got discharged.

I am bored and would like to get back into the Army, but I don't want to be embarrassed. What are my chances for getting in?

bacon and eggs, biscuits and four cups of coffee. I provide all the food, and have never placed any restrictions on what she may have.

After breakfast, Fanny takes a bath and changes into her uniform. By then it's 9:00.

She works until 12 noon, and then prepares herself an ample lunch which she eats while reading a foreign newspaper. This takes her one full hour.

At 1:00 Fanny resumes her work. Promptly at 3:00 she quits, takes another bath and changes into her street clothes. She leaves at 4:00.

Fanny is a good worker. She's honest, clean and dependable. But since she is being paid to work by the hour, I think a lunch break is all she's entitled to, and that she should bathe and breakfast on her own time. She lives less than a 30-minute drive from here.

If you agree with me, please tell me how to tell her.

FANNY'S MISSUS

DEAR MISSUS: Tell her in English, unless you can talk better in her language.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 12 years and have three children, 5, 9 and 10.

Pat makes a very good living selling. He's been with the same company ever since we've been married and has turned down many promotions because he didn't want to travel out of this state.

Now he has been offered what his boss calls "the opportunity of a lifetime" — but it would mean being away from home for two weeks out of every month. He turned it down.

His boss is cool to him, and thinks he's crazy. His parents are barely speaking to us because they think he made a big mistake, but he and I still think he made the right choice.

Abby, we like money as much as the next person, but we feel that during these years, when our children are growing up, they need a fulltime father, and to us that is more important than anything else.

Are we out of our minds?

JANE AND PAT

DEAR JANE: Not in my book. I think you're beautiful.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212.

"Struggling Artists" Plan November Sale

The annual Struggling Artists Sale sponsored by Big Spring Art Association will be held Nov. 23 in Highland Center Mall, with each member being responsible for setting up and handling her own display. Mrs. Dalton Conway will be general chairman.

Plans for the sale were announced at Tuesday's meeting in the studio of Mrs. J. H. Holloway, hostess, with Mrs. Matt Wagner as cohostess. Mrs. Jerry Harry presided, appointing a committee to make arrangements for the closed membership show in January. The committee is composed of Mrs. Frank Hartley, Mrs. Holloway, Mrs. Bismark Schafer and Mrs. Robert Barnes.

Mrs. Barnes conducted a sketching exercise, with each member producing a version of a landscape as described by Mrs. Barnes. They will bring the finished paintings for critique at the next meeting.

Mrs. Corma Stovall has been named to represent Big Spring on the board of directors of the Big Country Art Association.

The Nov. 19 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. W.D. Duggan, 2305 Cindy, with Mrs. Stovall as cohostess.

Airport Plans

NO NAME OR LOCATION PLEASE

DEAR NO: Forget the Army. A caper like yours cost the Air Force time and money. And who knows, you might have another dodge up your sleeve.

DEAR ABBY: I recently hired a woman to work from 8 to 4 five days a week. I pay her a top salary by the hour to do the laundry and general housework.

Fanny (not her real name) arrives at 8:00 and immediately starts to prepare herself a four-course breakfast, which usually consists of fresh fruit, hot cereal, pancakes or French toast.

The state meeting in Corpus Christi Nov. 13-15 was also noted.

Fall Carnival

The fall carnival at Airport Elementary School will be held at the school Oct. 19 according to an announcement made at the last P.T.A. meeting.

Members were reminded of the District 17 fall workshop in Odessa, Oct. 23, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at Second Baptist Church, 1711 E. 17th. A nursery will be provided.

Twenty-nine members of Big Spring Rebekah Lodge 284 were guests at a Tuesday meeting of John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge 153 in the IOOF Hall, 3203 W. Hwy. 80.

Mrs. Grady Sudberry, noble grand, introduced Mrs. Mildred Collins, district deputy president, who conducted lodge instruction. Sixty-one visits to the sick were reported.

It was announced by Mrs. Hazel Lamar, recording secretary, that Big Spring Mullin Lodge 372, assisted by local Rebekahs, will host a Leadership Development Training Seminar Nov. 9-10. Mrs. Elmo Martin and Mrs. W.R. Ray will be delegates from John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge 153.

Resolutions of sympathy, read by Mrs. Homer Petty and Mrs. Russell Loftis, were in memory of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, sister of Cecil Thixton; and J.C. Pye Jr., son of Mrs. J.C. Pye Sr., a lodge member.

The refreshment committee, composed of Mrs. LaVerne Rogers, Mrs. L. S. Bonner, Mrs. Lavelle Hill and Miss Juanita Hamby, served a salad buffet.

No Running

Dust a cake lightly with sifted powdered sugar before putting on the icing, and it will help to keep the icing from running down the sides of the cake.

Lodge Seminar Scheduled Here

The next meeting will be Monday at 7 p.m., and all members are to wear formal attire.

BPO Does Will Serve At Hospital

The BPO Does will serve coffee and donuts at the Veterans Administration Hospital Monday according to plans announced by Mrs. Marvyn Hayworth at Tuesday's meeting in the Elks Hall. Those serving will be Mrs. Hayworth, Mrs. L.D. Jenkins and Mrs. Bernice Coats.

The Does will also assist with the Christmas party at Big Spring State Hospital, working in conjunction with the Rebekahs and Jaycees. In addition, members will provide a food basket for a local family at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

During the social hour, coffee and cake were served in honor of members having birthdays this month.

At the Nov. 5 meeting, initiation ceremonies will be held for Mrs. Gwen Talley.

Party Planned For November

Plans for a party in November for members and guests of the Downtown Lions Auxiliary were made Wednesday when the group met in the home of Mrs. B. M. Keese for lunch.

Mrs. Jerry Yarbrough was a guest.

The dinner and game party has been set for 6:30 p.m. Nov. 19, in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Salt Does It

You can stop those frightening frying-pan "explosions" by sprinkling a little salt in the pan before frying. This will keep the fat from splattering and at the same time your stove will be a lot easier to clean.

Keep Diet

If it's lunch or dinner at a restaurant and you're dieting — safe choices for appetizers include tomato, clam or sauerkraut juice, fruit cup or one-half grapefruit or a shrimp cocktail with lemon juice, clear consommé or bouillon. Main dishes might be any roasted or broiled meat or chicken, fish or main dish salad. For dessert choose fresh fruit, small serving of ice cream or gelatin.

Moving right along... softly.

Boosts Recommended In Auto Insurance

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Giant increases in auto insurance rates were recommended today by State Insurance Board staff experts.

If approved by the three-man board, the average motorist's bill for a typical policy would rise by anywhere from $21 in Rockwall County near Dallas to $48 in Montgomery County, near Houston.

Statewide average percentage rate changes recommended by the board's staff include:

- Full coverage comprehensive, up 22.3 per cent.
- $100 deductible collision, up 25 per cent.
- Bodily injury liability, up eight-tenths of 1 per cent.
- Property damage liability, up 2 1/4 per cent.

The recommendations for collision and comprehensive coverage are close to those proposed by the industry's spokesman, David Irons of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office.

But the figures are far apart for liability insurance. While Texans have had fewer accidents, each accident costs more because inflation has pushed up the price of medical care and auto repairs, Irons said.

Irons recommended these increases:

- Full comprehensive, 22.6 per cent.
- $100 deductible collision, 29.2 per cent.
- Bodily injury liability, 5.1 per cent.
- Property damage liability, 15.9 per cent.

The most recent rate change was a 4.3 statewide average decrease in all coverages combined that took effect in August 1973.

"It is all too apparent that continued cost increases in auto repairs and medical and hospital bills have caused the present automobile insurance rates in Texas to become inadequate," Irons said.

Rates vary according to a driver's home county, age, automobile use and record, so his increase in premiums might vary sharply from any statewide average.

Irons told a news conference Wednesday the proposed new rates are based solely on accident costs, and "there isn't a penny in here" to cover the insurance industry's stock market losses.

Ninety-two companies—about a fourth of the total—now charge less than the uniform rates set by the board.

Anthrax Kills Ten Cattle

GROVETON, Tex. (AP) — Ten cattle deaths from anthrax on a ranch in Trinity County near here were confirmed today by a veterinarian of the Texas Animal Health Commission.

Dr. Daniel Salas said he knew of no other deaths. The ranch on which the deaths occurred has been quarantined. No other areas have been placed under a blockade stopping movement of cattle.

Harte-Hanks Reports Earnings Increase Texan Is Trapped

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Harte-Hanks Newspapers, Inc., has reported per share earnings of 33 cents for the quarter ending Sept. 30, a 27 per cent increase over the period last year.

Robert G. Marbut, president and chief executive officer of the communications group based here, said Wednesday, "Net income increased to $1,442,000 from $1,170,000 an increase of 23 per cent over the previous year. Revenues for the 1974 quarter were $19,883,000, compared with $20,935,000 in the same quarter of 1973. After eliminating from 1973 revenues from the San Antonio newspapers sold late in 1973, revenues from continuing operations increased 17 per cent."

Net income for the first nine months of 1974 reached $4,404,000, up 20 per cent over the first nine months of 1973. Year to date earnings per share are $1.01, an increase of 19 per cent over the comparable 1973 period.

"Total advertising linage from the third quarter of 1974 decreased 0.4 per cent from the same quarter of 1973," Marbut said. "Total linage for the first nine months of 1974 was 1.6 per cent ahead of the same period last year. We are pleased that retail linage has continued to grow in a period of soft classified linage and unprecedented but necessary advertising rate increases. In fact, growth in total revenues has been very strong."

Marbut said the recent quarter marks the 11th such consecutive period that earnings per share have increased over the same period of the previous year.

The regular quarterly dividend of five cents per share was paid Sept. 20 to shareholders of record Sept. 1.

Patti Hulme Is Hurt In Mishap

Bonn Has A Beef

BOON, West Germany (AP) — West Germany has accused a U.S. business group of trying to meddle in German affairs by opposing a plan giving workers a say in running businesses in Germany, including some American-owned giants.

A spokesman for Chancellor Helmut Schmidt told newsmen Wednesday that the American Chamber of Commerce in West Germany was "very close to interfering in our affairs" by distributing a study that criticized the so-called "codetermination" bill presently before parliament.

The bill would give workers an equal vote with shareholders on boards running the 650 largest firms in the country, including 50 subsidiaries of U.S. businesses such as Ford, General Motors and IBM. Employee representatives now comprise one-third of the board in every business employing more than 2,000 workers.

The Chamber has been hostile to the proposed legislation for months. The current row began when the Chamber distributed an independent study claiming the bill violates investment protection clauses in a 1954 U.S.-German trade agreement by limiting the rights of American shareholders over their own businesses.

A copy of the study was sent to Schmidt's office. One sent to the U.S. State Department included a request that Washington intervene in behalf of the American businessmen in opposition to the bill.

A Chamber spokesman said the organization also urged U.S. parent companies of German subsidiaries to ask their congressmen to pressure the Ford Administration to do something to defeat the bill.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said Washington has not responded to the Chamber's request for support and that the Bonn government had made no formal protest of the Chamber's activities. Ford administration officials said in Washington they do not expect an early reply and classified the situation as "a delicate issue."

Given Flag

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Polish Communist party leader Edward Gierce toured the Johnson Space Center Saturday and was given a flag of his nation which had been taken on an Apollo lunar mission.

Fem Is Ready To Start Anew

MIAMI (AP) — Barbara Hutchison, who was held captive for 12 days by terrorists in the Dominican republic, says she has no qualms about returning to her diplomatic duties.

"Oh, I have no anxiety about going back," said Miss Hutchison, 47, who is on a 10-day Florida vacation. "I get the choices of going back there or somewhere else. But I love the country and there are many things I still plan to do there."

She said her only concern was that the U.S. embassy would assign her a bodyguard. "I sure wouldn't want that," she said.

Mitchell Must Pay

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell today was granted temporary alimony of $1,000 a week, one-third the sum she had demanded from her husband, former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

In making the award, State Supreme Court Justice Manuel Gomez noted that Mitchell grosses $3,281 per week and that his fixed weekly expenses amount to $2,744.40, leaving — prior to taxes — the sum of $536.60.

Mitchell's financial obligations do not include carrying charges for the Fifth Avenue cooperative apartment where Mrs. Mitchell now lives. She is to pay those charges out of her alimony.

The alimony decision is a preliminary to Mrs. Mitchell's suit for separation. She has charged abandonment.

IS 27 Study Includes All

The Texas Highway Department has forwarded its feasibility study to Washington on "extension of IS 27 south from Lubbock. There is something for everyone, because 23 possible routes are included," Roger Welsch, district engineer reported here Wednesday. He made the report in speaking to the Downtown Lions Club.

"Every town that appeared at the hearings and suggested a routing is in the report," he said. "Congress didn't have any guidelines just asked for a feasibility report."

The western-most route is from Lubbock to Big Spring, San Angelo, south (San Antonio-Houston) the easternmost is Lubbock to Roscoe to Eastland to Waco to Houston.

What happens now is anyone's guess, but the new district engineer said it likely would be up to Congress to pass upon feasibility and establish more definitive guidelines. The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads might, at that point, kick the ball back to THD with specific guidelines for more precise routing recommendation.

These guidelines might be based upon economics — the cost factor, present or potential traffic, connection of military establishments, cost-benefit ratio, or a combination of these and others, he conjectured.

Hearings on feasibility (which got into a contest for suggested routes) were held in half a dozen cities in this area in the spring.

WILL DEFEND TITLE — World chess champ Bobby Fischer, above, will defend his title next year, according to his biographer, Brad Darrach. Darrach says the threat of Anatoly Karpov, a 23-year-old chess phenomenon, is too important for Fischer to ignore.

Burning Of Industrial Wastes Slow To Start

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Workers struggled with a plugged feeder line on board the incinerator ship Vulcanus today in hopes of soon starting the burning of tons of poisonous industrial wastes.

Burning of the material, from a Shell Chemical Co. plant, was to have begun Tuesday.

"They say it will be a couple of days before they can begin incineration," said Clint Pray, who has kept a sharp eye on the vessel, anchored some 130 miles south of coastal Cameron, La.

Pray, an executive assistant on environmental matters to Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards, strongly protested the issuance of a permit to Shell for the burning.

Pray, who plans to run tests on the smoke, said the Vulcanus has agreed to notify him when it is ready to burn. Pray and others had circled the ship in an airplane for four hours Tuesday before the burn was postponed.

"We will go back out there," he said. "This is the first time an incinerator ship has operated off an American coast — and what happens here now could very easily set a precedent for all future incinerator ships in the United States."

Pat McCaffrey of Tallahassee, Fla., a special coordinator with Florida's Pollution Control Department, joined others on an Environmental Protection Agency ship Wednesday to monitor the burning.

EPA scientists will check fallout from the incineration to see whether it affects marine life. The burn is expected to take nine days.

The Vulcanus is a Dutch ship, owned by a Rotterdam firm. It's load of 4,628 tons of corrosive chlorinated hydrocarbons has been eating through storage tanks at Shell Park, Tex.

Shell spokesmen say 99.996 of the chemical is consumed when it is burned at temperatures of 2,192 degrees or more in the ship's special combustion chamber.

Opinions Abound In Rather Book

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Palace Guard," a tart, lively book about the Nixon White House, isn't exactly the kind of scholarly work a history professor might write. Personal opinions abound, fine-print footnotes don't. The tone is in the classic feisty manner of the Texas Observer. But the Texan who co-authored it insists it wasn't written in that spirit. "I like to think it's written in its own spirit," laughed Dan Rather, the hard-nosed CBS correspondent the network transferred from the White House beat to "CBS Reports" after Nixon resigned as president in August.

DAN RATHER to-face dispute with strong-willed John Connally, later became a big booster of Connally for the vice presidency in 1972.

as we could make it without cutting the truth, that is, watering it down... what we attempted to say was, 'Here it is as best I could make it out.' Rather's collaborator was Gary Paul Gates, a CBS news writer. Since CBS bars leaves of absence, Rather said, Gates quit CBS to work full time on the project for six months, then was rehired by the network. Some of the book's observations are funny, such as its portrait of economic adviser Arthur Burns: "His ample thatch of pewter-grey hair was precisely parted down the middle, as though to indulge the slightest deviation might make him look raffish." But some asides are acid, to wit, the end of a report on how strong-willed H.R. Haldeman, bested in a face-to-face dispute with strong-willed John Connally, later became a big booster of Connally for the vice presidency in 1972. "In the classic bully pattern, Haldeman was the first to knuckle under when faced with a true show of strength." Might not such remarks, many of them aimed at Haldeman, cause some readers to say, ah-hah, Rather really was out to get those folks? "Well, they'll just have to jump-up-and-down," he replied. "For example, what is painted in the book is not only the Haldeman I know but the Haldeman I think an awful lot of White House people knew. "I wouldn't question for a moment that if Haldeman read the book he might very well say to himself, or someone else, 'There's nobody in that book that I recognize.'"

Environment Unharmed By Off-Shore Wells

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Scientists say a two-year study shows that estuarine and offshore oil drilling apparently does not harm the environment. The $1.5 million study was conducted by the Gulf Universities Research (GURC), an alliance of 22 Gulf Coast universities and research institutions. The organization, headquartered here, was formed in 1965 to coordinate scientific research. The program was financed by 83 sponsors and contributors including major oil companies and firms involved in offshore drilling. The study was conducted in the so-called "oil patch" of the central Louisiana coast where offshore drilling began in 1937. It covered the Timbalier Bay estuarine system and extended offshore about 20 miles to the 100-foot depth. A consensus report, still in draft form, quoted 23 principal scientists as saying 79 per cent of their investigations demonstrated "either no harmful impact or a beneficial impact" on the environment. The remaining 21 per cent of the research, they said, "did not demonstrate harmful impact" but requires further study because of insufficient or inconsistent data. The scientists undertook separate studies into 24 biological, chemical and physical aspects of offshore drilling, then compared and correlated their results. The investigations requiring further study involve toxic metals, barium, fishes, invertebrates and beach-sand dwellers. "Probably the main contribution of the study is that in this particular environment, offshore drilling has done no harm even though it has been going on for more than 25 years," said James M. Sharp, president of GURC. However, he added that the Timbalier Bay study should not be interpreted to mean that offshore drilling is environmentally harmless in all locations. During the study, begun in 1972, the scientists used nine research vessels to make approximately one million biological, physical, chemical and geological measurements. The scientists said concentrations of hydrocarbons were extremely low, in the parts-per-billion range, in the water column, but considerably higher — in the parts per million range — in surface water and bottom sediments. However, they said, hydrocarbons were not high enough to affect dissolved oxygen in the water, and the ecosystem appears to be degrading the hydrocarbons as fast as they are introduced, eliminating any chronic buildup. The scientists said the offshore drilling area was rich organically and contained many species of marine organisms — a sign of a healthy ecology.

Rheumatoid Arthritis May Be Caused By Organism

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Evidence that a peculiar infectious agent is a cause of rheumatoid arthritis was reported Wednesday by doctors at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. If this is truly so, then drugs attacking the organism might relieve the pain and crippling of the arthritis. The infectious agent causes uveitis, an inflammation of deep tissue layers of the eye, "and we believe it also causes rheumatoid arthritis and some other diseases," said Dr. Emil Wirotsko, an ophthalmologist. When eye fluid, or aqueous, from patients with uveitis was injected into guinea pigs and mice, most of them died within a year. Further, a small but significant number had developed chronic arthritis, enlargement of the spleen and hepatitis. The same things happened to animals injected with fluid from the joints of people suffering acute bouts of rheumatoid arthritis. Dr. Wirotsko told a New York Academy of Sciences meeting. So it seems the same organism is involved in the joint and eye problems, he said.

Doctors have often observed the eye disease co-existing with joint or back problems, he continued. Some uveitis patients come down with back problems, and some with joint problems develop uveitis. Dr. Wirotsko is director of the microbiology laboratory at the Edward S. Harkness Eye Institute of the Medical Center here, and worked with Dr. Lewis Johnson, a pathologist at the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Two anti-TB drugs, Ethambutol and Rifampin, seem to be producing good results in treating uveitis, for which there had been no treatment before, Dr. Wirotsko said. He has heard indirectly, he said, that some patients treated for TB with Ethambutol had noticed an improvement in their arthritis. One peculiarity of the organism is that tissue samples taken from most uveitis patients fail to produce microorganisms when cultured. But microscopic examination shows a variety of microbe-like forms, ranging on clusters of cigar-like ovals to "spider-like" tangled filaments, the ophthalmologist said.

Texans Believe Energy Crisis War Concocted

HOUSTON (AP) — The acting dean of the University of Houston College of Social Sciences says a survey shows most Texans believe the energy crisis was concocted by the industry.

"They believe that the industry wanted to make greater profits and get conservationists off their backs," Dr. David Gottlieb said Wednesday in announcing results of the survey, funded by a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The survey was conducted in the Houston area during the Arab embargo and in the Amarillo area after the embargo.

"They believed that once prices were higher and the conservationists were brushed aside, there would be no trouble obtaining fuel," Gottlieb said.

Results of the survey were presented to the oil information committee of the TexasMid-Continent Oil & Gas Association. The survey was based on interviews with heads of 450 heads of households in each of the areas.

Gottlieb said most of those interviewed acknowledged they were "energy consuming hogs" but refused to blame themselves.

"They say they've been encouraged too long to have two big automobiles, two television sets, and two of just about everything," Gottlieb said. "And they don't blame conservationists in that they say no profit motives are involved in their efforts."

Dr. W. Philip Gramm, Texas A&M economics professor, told the committee current energy problems are a result of political and not economic constraints.

"The source of our problems are political constraints imposed by the Arab oil embargo and subsequent cartel pricing collusion and the disruption of the incentive system in the United States oil and gas industry by government regulations and controls," Gramm said.

Gramm said Congress had been more concerned with spreading the cost of the embargo and rising prices than with tackling the problem of increasing domestic production.

Base Sets Cost Pace

Webb is leading the way in Air Training Command (ATC) by having the lowest cost per flying hour while keeping aircraft maintenance quality high.

One ATC base, Laughlin AFB at Del Rio, was so impressed with Webb's record that it sent a team to check out methods.

The logistics resource advisor, Joyce Beasley, gives a great deal of credit for keeping costs down to the cost center monitors under the chief of maintenance.

Of course they can't do it alone," she said, "it takes everyone on the maintenance team doing his part — the mechanics, material control people, bench stock monitors and all the others associated with the maintenance complex."

The monitors commended for their continuing efforts to conserve Operation and Maintenance funds are: TSgt. Bobby Wooten, administration in chief of maintenance office; M.Sgt. Don K. Lipps, first sergeant of Organizational Maintenance Squadron; 2nd Lt. Joe McKethan, chief of T-37 aircraft branch.

Also: 2nd Lt. Robert Woodson, chief of T-38 aircraft branch; Bud Summers, chief of transient alert; M.Sgt. Jesus Cannedo, first sergeant of Field Maintenance Squadron; Gilbert Webb, chief of fabrication branch; T.Sgt. John Young of propulsion branch; Howard Voss, chief of aerospace branch.

T.Sgt. James Nix, NCOIC of aerospace ground equipment branch; Winfred Campbell, radio and radar maintenance; T.Sgt. James Richards, NCOIC of precision measurement equipment laboratory; W.H.

Suppression Of Probe Tried, Paper Reveals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some staff members of the joint committee on Congressional Operations are attempting to delay and suppress an investigation of alleged hiring discriminations on Capitol Hill, according to sources of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"There is an attempt to cover up the whole damn thing," an investigator on the committee told the Star-Telegram.

One source said much of the opposition appears to come from Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex. whose former chief aide now heads the job placement office in Congress. Brooks could not be reached for comment.

An investigation of the job house was begun by the committee chairman, Sen. Le Metcalf, D-Mont., after it was reported two months ago that congressmen and one senator had filed discriminatory job orders with the office.

Job orders allegedly contained such specifications as "white only," "no blacks," "no Catholics," and "no southern accents." In addition it was alleged the placement office wrote a small 'b' in the corner of employment applications submitted by blacks.

Committee sources say staff members investigating the alleged discriminations have written a memorandum on its legal aspects after the Justice Department and the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission said they do not have jurisdiction over Congress under the civil rights acts.

The memo recommends, among other things, that a separate agency be set up to handle Congressional hiring, according to the sources.

However the sources say there has been substantial disagreement within the committee on the contents of the memorandum.

"The powers that be don't want any attention drawn to this before the election," one source explained.

Committee chairman Metcalf acknowledged that, though he requested a completed report before the election recesses, it had been delayed.

"I wouldn't like to have this a part of a campaign one way or the other," Metcalf said. "It will not be a part of anything a senator or a representative can use in campaigning."

Most of the dissension, say the sources, comes from placement office director Eugene Peters, who is on vacation to work in Brooks' Texas campaign. Peters could not be reached for comment.
