Map Plans For Financial Relief Of Cattle Raisers

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A move is underway within the cattle industry to create a new program designed in part to improve the quality of beef and lower its cost to consumer.

Not coincidentally, the program would also include financial relief for cattle producers, beset by growing problems and under attack by budget-conscious housewives and others.

A Beef Development Task Force (BDT) is currently hammering out the details and leading the campaign to gain legislation permitting the beef cattle industry to implement a national development program.

As outlined by O.J. Barron Jr. a Spur, Tex., rancher and chairman of the task force, the program in effect would streamline delivery of beef from producer to consumer, trimming middleman costs along the way.

able to put it over.

"Our weaknesses have become so glaring that the industry is ready to listen and to support a well-constructed program ... and I think we'll have it within a year. General support for the idea is excellent."

Barron said the industry must develop unity and strength to market its product like other products in the country noting that at present livestock marketing is totally disorganized.

"We are not seeking excessive profits, but we do want a fair profit," he said.

"We are not asking for a cent from the government. The program would be industry financed with the beef board responsible for collecting and administering the fund."

Members of cattle-related organizations would be nominated from geographical areas around the nation and appointed to the board by the Secretary of Agriculture.

"We need the most united possible front in all beef products to work for common aims and goals," he said.

"Research and development is our responsibility and united we can take care of it and not expect the government to handle it."

And, he added, the consumer would be the ultimate beneficiary.

The plan calls for creation of a "beef board" to enforce collections from cattlemen to finance a sweeping promotion, education, and research project.

Barron, here for a convention of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association said the goal is to raise $30 million through a percentage assessment on cattle sold across the country.

"There would be a lot of benefits to the consumer if we could figure out how to modernize and obtain the utmost efficiency in moving beef from feed lots to the consumer," Barron said.

"There have been several efforts to set up some sort of national beef promotion program, but up until now the industry has not been

LACK OF MONEY Free Aliens Instead Of Deporting Them

HOUSTON (AP) — The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service is too broke to deport some illegal aliens to their native country and instead are turning them loose, an official said Monday.

R.W. Heston, director of the immigration district that includes East and North Texas and Oklahoma said if illegal aliens are arrested by local authorities in some areas the service doesn't have any money to go and get them.

"Our budget since July 1 is such we simply cannot go out and apprehend arrested aliens unless criminal cases are involved," he said.

"In some cases, local authorities deliver the aliens to us or the aliens agree to pay their way back to Mexico. But in some cases, we simply have to tell the local authorities to turn them loose unless the cases involved smuggling or narcotics."

Heston's comment came after seven illegal aliens were arrested in Bay City, Tex., then turned loose when immigration authorities refused to come and get them.

"Not only did Congress cut our budget," Heston said, but inflation has hit us just like the man on the street."

Immigration officers all over the country are not allowed to drive more than 30 miles from their home stations unless other criminal charges are involved, he said.

Heston said a number of aliens pay their own way back to Mexico. A bus leaves periodically from Houston to the border, he said, and the aliens are charged a $15 fare. They sometimes make up half the bus charge, he said.

"Houston authorities frequently turn over to us 30 or 35 cases," he said. "The buses can hold 44, so when seats are available we notify local authorities in other areas we can handle a certain number if the aliens can be brought to us."

Candidate to be Here

Ray Farabee, Democratic candidate for the Texas senate, will cut the ribbon at the grand opening of the Democratic headquarters at the Howard House, 3rd and Rannels, at 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

Harvey Hooser, local party chairman, said that all local Democratic candidates and several city officials will take part in the ceremony. Mike Ezell, Democratic candidate for the state legislature, is also being invited.

Several statewide candidates have been invited but none has confirmed that he will be here. Refreshments will be served.

$12,000 A YEAR JOB Temporary Sheriff To Replace Smith

MCKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — After a round of discussion marked by indecision and balking, Collin County commissioners have agreed to temporarily appoint Jerry Kunkle as acting county sheriff.

Sheriff George Smith, who held the position for more than two years, sent a brief letter of resignation to commissioners Monday but did not appear before them. Smith gave no reason for his resignation in the letter but endorsed Kunkle for the job and stated, "the public should be made aware" of the activities of former chief deputy Lawrence Selman once a permanent sheriff is named to head a 16-member department.

Kunkle, Selman and 13 others have applied for the $12,000 a year position.

Kunkle, a 36-year-old with nine years experience in Collin County, assumed the position of chief deputy in the department this spring when Selman resigned and appeared before a grand jury claiming misconduct on the part of Smith. Grand jurors, however, took no action on his allegations.

Sheriff Smith discounted Selman's reasons for resigning when the former deputy attacked him. And Smith at that time refused to discuss what he called the real reasons behind the career lawman's resignation, "unless he forces me into it."

Collin County deputies said Smith quit his job to take a $30,000-a-year job with a Harris County security agency.

Cattle graze on reclaimed land near TESCO's lignite coal operation near Fairfield, Texas. The dragline used for recovering the lignite can be seen just over the hill.

Ten months ago this peaceful Texas pasture was a coal mine.

The lignite coal found here is being used to generate electricity for Texas Electric Service Company in our Big Brown plant near Fairfield, Texas.

Our main fuels are natural gas and oil, and they will continue to be for several years. But new supplies of these fuels are increasingly difficult to obtain.

Using lignite, and by the 1980's nuclear fuel, will help us reduce our dependence on natural gas and oil.

One advantage of using lignite is that it isn't being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

After removing coal from the land you see here, it was reclaimed — the soil was replaced, tilled, fertilized and a variety of grasses planted — to make its productivity equal to or better than before. Now it is used for raising crops or cattle.

At Texas Electric, we're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

And we're doing it with full concern for the environment.

Demos Eye Stronghold Of Republican Power

CHICAGO (AP) — Democrats, both incumbents and challengers, are hoping to score big election victories in the Midwest, once the keystone of national Republican power.

Throughout the Midwest, Democratic governors, senators and congressmen appear on the road to impressive election day triumphs with few exceptions. At the same time, Republicans in Kansas and North Dakota are seriously threatened with losing U.S.

Senate seats.

Only in the Indiana Senate race and in the gubernatorial battles in Ohio and Michigan do Republicans appear to have opportunities to stave off a Democratic sweep of the 12-state Midwest region.

Senate victories are expected to come easy for such well known Democratic incumbents as George McGovern of South Dakota, Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin. The Democrats also are favored to win in Ohio, where polls show former astronaut John Glenn is running a whopping 50 per cent ahead of the GOP candidate and in Iowa where Rep. John Culver is favored to replace retiring fellow Democrat, Sen. Harold Hughes.

In Kansas, Democratic Rep. William Roy is making a strong run to oust Sen. Robert Dole, former GOP national chairman. The polls had shown Roy with a wide lead but the latest sampling taken by the Topeka Capital-Journal showed both candidates with 46 per cent.

In North Dakota, Sen. Milton Young, a Republican, is in a nip-and-tuck battle with former Gov. William Guy. Guy's camp said the former governor was running in the spring but the gap has narrowed.

Mayor Richard G. Lugar of Indianapolis is after the seat held for two terms by Democratic Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana and the latest polls show Lugar is trailing by only 5 to 10 per cent.

There are no Senate races in Nebraska, Michigan and Minnesota.

In eight states with governors' races, Democratic incumbents Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin, Richard Kneip of South Dakota, J. James Exon of Nebraska and Wendell Anderson of Minnesota are virtually conceded re-election.

Democratic Gov. Robert Docking stepped down in Kansas but Atty. Gen. Vernon Miller is a solid choice to retain the statehouse for the Democrats.

Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa is the only Republican incumbent facing election in the Midwest and he is favored to turn back the challenge of State Sen. James Schaben. The latest polls show Ray, seeking a fourth term, with 60 per cent backing.

In Michigan, Republican Gov. William Milliken faces a strong challenge from Sander Leven who lost by less than 1 per cent of the vote four years ago in an election that took three days to decide.

Gov. John Gilligan of Ohio is running narrowly ahead of former Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Republicans now control congressional delegations in 5 of the 12 Midwestern states and Democrats have the edge in four with divided delegations in Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota.

Hunters Seeking Guns and Ammo This Year

By The Associated Press

Hunters are hunting for scarce guns and ammunition before going after ducks and deer this year. Sporting goods dealers across the country report shortages of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

The shortages resulted from limited supplies of steel for gun barrels, choice woods for rifle stocks and plastic and brass for cartridge cases, dealers said.

Officials in many states reported increases in both poaching and legal hunting of game birds and animals. The price of meat is a factor, some said, but others said it's still cheaper to go the supermarket.

With hunting season about to start in many states, gun dealers from Maine to the Mexican border are looking at thinly stocked rifle cases and ammo bins. "There's a shortage of everything popular," said Dave Gils of Coast-to-Coast Stores in Fargo, N. D.

Steel shortages have affected production at the Ithaca Gun Co., said John Hrana, marketing manager for the upstate New York gun maker. "Most of the effect was in the first part of the year," Hrana said. "But our production forecast is being met almost 100 per cent now."

A shortage of top quality walnut wood for gunstocks has caused delays for some manufacturers. A few have turned to birch and other woods to fill the gap.

Most dealers reported little difficulty getting inexpensive guns, but the demand is for mid-priced and quality firearms and they are in short supply.

Despite price hikes of 30 per cent and more during the past year, some dealers blame the shortage of hunting guns on manufacturers waiting for still higher prices.

"There's a lot of talk about shortages of raw materials, but you have to wonder if they are not just holding back until the next price increase," said Judd Kirkham, sporting goods buyer for a J.C. Penny store in Kansas City.

The ammunition situation is about the same.

"The price of ammunition is out of sight," said Virginia Cartner, owner of Ozark Tackle and Supply in Eldon, Mo.

In short supply are cartridges in the calibers most often used for deer hunting.

Game management and wildlife officials in many states said they expect a moderate increase in the number of hunters in the field this year because of larger herds and flocks and the growing popularity of outdoor recreation.

Right-of-Way Is Accepted

County Commissioners Court Monday dedicated about two miles of 6-foot right-of way, given by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Tubbs.

The tracts of 14.56 acres and 3.58 acres are located in the subdivision across from Trinity Memorial Park, Commissioner Bill Crooker said.

Also in Crooker's precinct was a dirt road closed at the request of Roy Longshore.

County Judge A. G. Mitchell, who had planned to miss the meeting Monday, said he changed his out-of-town business plans and attended.

Over the years there has been a tremendous improvement in the bidding of the average bridge player, and I like to think that my works had something to do with this. In the play of the cards, however, there is still a large gap between expert and ordinary player. In my new book, "Goren on Play and Defense," I have tried to rectify this inequity. This deal is taken from a quiz on "Defending against trump contracts."

South's bid of two spades in balancing position shows a moderately good hand. It is not a forcing bid, but is designed to show a hand that is better than a mere competitive bid of one spade, which might be made on scanty values in fourth seat. North made a move toward game, and South decided, correctly, that the hand should be played in spades and nowhere else and optimistically leaped to four spades.

West leads the king of diamonds, and declarer allows him to win the trick. Now is the time for West to plan his campaign. From the fact that declarer ducked in dummy, which risks having dummy's ace ruffed away, West can assume that declarer cannot count ten tricks. The duck also tends to suggest that declarer hopes to establish dummy's fifth diamond as a parking place for one of his losers. If that is the case, West would only help declarer if he continued with another diamond. South would win the second diamond and ruff a diamond. A club finesse puts him back in dummy for a second diamond ruff, setting up the long card. Declarer would then draw two rounds of trump, leaving the high trump outstanding, enter dummy with the ace of clubs and discard a heart on the fifth diamond. He would lose a trump, a heart and a diamond.

To thwart declarer, West must attack dummy's entries in the club suit. Thus, at trick two it is correct to shift to a club. But to lead a low club is not good enough, for declarer can allow this to run to his ten, and then discard one of his heart losers on the club suit by simply finessing West for the king. West must shift to the jack of clubs, and declarer can come to no more than nine tricks.

Gilbert And Sullivan Troupe Performs Well

Gilbert and Sullivan is something of a musical oddity. Casual exposure doesn't ring the bell with many people, but as with olives, the more one samples, the more likely is delight and even addiction.

Big Spring Concert Association members received an excellent menu of Gilbert and Sullivan in the season's opener Monday evening in the Municipal Auditorium. For some, it wasn't their dish, but for the vast majority the reaction was from warm reception at the start to enthusiastic cheers at the rousing end.

This was more of a tribute to the virtuosity of the performers than to the lyrics and music of Gilbert and Sullivan, the great satirists of 1875-1900 at the Savoy Theatre in London. An understanding of the incisive lyrics would have added to the pleasure of the occasion, but whatever was lost in this respect was more than compensated in the performance of Thomas Round and Geoffrey Shovelton, tenors, Donald Adams, basso, Helen Landis, contralto, Anna Bernardin, soprano, and John Cartier, baritone.

In this age when most singers are obliged to nurse on a microphone like a lollipop, it is refreshing, even exhilarating, to encounter artists who can project their voices with force, vibrance, feeling. Voices of good singers sometimes do not blend, but this was not the case with the group Monday evening. They were in perfect and hauntingly beautiful harmony, and when quartets and the entire sextet in the finale from the Gondoliers, joined, they flooded the auditorium like a choir.

All were so adept it would be unfair to single out one artist but Adams' basso was impressive, Round and Shovelton as fine as one could want in tenors, Cartier, whose excellence as a baritone was almost dimmed by his saucy animation, Miss Landis in the richness of her contralto. Miss Bernardin's soprano, remarkably strong, exacted a tonal purity in obbligato that literally melted into the single piano notes. And that leads to Ian Kennedy, the conductor, whose work at the piano was simply great. Adding to the pleasure of the evening was the graciousness and uninhibited warmth of the entire troupe. — JP

FIVE YEARS TO LIFE SENTENCE — Inez Garcia and another inmate of the Monterey County jail leave for transport to a Southern California prison where she will begin serving a five-years-to-life sentence for the slaying of a man she said helped to rape her. Mrs. Garcia, 30, was convicted of second-degree murder in the Oct. 4 slaying of Miguel Jimenez whom she admitted killing after she said he held her down while another man raped her. The sentence was greeted with screams of anger from supporters in the courtroom.

DANGEROUS FEM? They Shout 'Free Inez'

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Feminist supporters jamming the courtroom angrily shouted "Free Inez" as Inez Garcia was sentenced to serve five years to life in prison for killing a man she said helped to rape her.

Defense lawyer Charles Garry said he will appeal the sentence handed down Monday by Monterey County Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson.

"I think this woman is dangerous, frankly," Judge Lawson said of Mrs. Garcia, 30, during the 2½-hour hearing. The remark prompted a wave of shouting from the defendants' supporters. One woman was removed from the courtroom.

Lawson said he was imposing sentence under a state penal code section permitting resentencing later if warranted by medical diagnosis. He said Mrs. Garcia would undergo an examination at the California Institution for Women at Frontera.

Mrs. Garcia was convicted on Oct. 4 of shooting to death Miguel Jimenez of Soledad with a rifle. She admitted killing him, testifying that moments before he and Luis Castillo, 17, had forced her to strip, then Jimenez held her while Castillo raped her. Castillo was not charged.

"I killed the guy and I missed Luis, but I meant to kill him too," she testified. "The only thing is that I'm sorry I missed Luis."

New Industries Come To Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Industrial Commission says 29 industries, employing 2,500 persons, located in Texas during September.

Projected annual output of the firms is more than $93 million, the commission said Friday.

Besides the 2,500 jobs directly created, another 2,000 will result indirectly from the location of the firms, the commission said.

Estimated tax yields are $14.3 million for the federal government, $1.3 million to the state and $973,998 for local governments.

Oil Allowable Show Increase

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission reported Friday that the statewide average calendar day oil allowable as of last Tuesday was 3,990,390 barrels, an increase of 6,981 from Oct. 1.

WTCC Favors Happy's Aunt Engaged To Coal Miner's Son

The federal government should see that all sources of energy in all sections of the nation are developed to their optimum potential, in the view of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

In an oral statement at a federal energy hearing in Houston, J. Fike Godfrey, executive vice president of WTCC, advocated energy sanctions against states which will not permit development of potential energy sources.

He said that all federal regulatory policies of the past and present are "ill conceived and in error and are the cause of the energy problems of this nation."

If the free enterprise system is allowed to develop them, there are enough energy sources in West Texas to sustain growth, he added. He protested price regulations for intrastate gas, saying it would be as disastrous as interstate regulation had been. He advocated deregulation of all gas prices to allow gas to reach a "competitive level." He also proposed relaxed application of clean air standards to permit use of coal and high sulphur fuel oil.

Dane Visits With Chou

TOKYO (AP) — Chairman Mao Tse-tung talked "in a friendly atmosphere" with Danish Premier Poul Hartling on Sunday, the Hsinhua news agency said. Hartling met with ailing Chinese Premier Chou En-lai at a hospital in Peking on Saturday.

LLAY, Wales (AP) — A Welsh coal-miner's young son who says he is engaged to Happy Rockefeller's aged millionaire aunt Rachel Fittler expressed fear today that the publicity about their May-and-December romance would "blow the whole thing."

"When she sees the way the story has blown up here, anything could happen," said 29-year-old Michael Wilson after the London papers gave splash play to his announcement Monday that he and Miss Fittler would be married around Christmas.

Wilson told newsmen they met last January while he was working as a butler at the Breakers Hotel in Palm Beach, Fla. He said they got engaged in May and his parents visited Miss Fittler in the United States.

"We have a genuine deep affection for each other, but the papers have made me look like a gold digger. She's a very nice private person, but how do you think she'll feel seeing me all over the front pages?"

"She could easily get the wrong impression from what she sees in the papers. How do you explain something like that? She might call it off now. I don't know."

Miss Fittler lives in Philadelphia, and sources there said she is 77. She was not immediately available for comment, but a spokesman for her niece's husband, Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, said: "I heard that such a story was coming from Wales. I don't know anything about it. I think it may be correct, but I just don't know."

CONSUMER PRICES SPIRAL Worst Inflationary Surge In 25 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising prices for food, clothing and mortgage rates pushed the cost of living up another 1.2 per cent in September, making the last 12 months the worst inflationary surge in more than 25 years, the government reported today.
 Prices in September were reported 12.1 per cent higher than a year earlier. This was the worst 12-month increase since 1947.

increase, after a rise of 1.3 per cent in August, pushed the government's consumer price index up to 151.9. That meant it cost $151.90 to buy a variety of goods and services that cost $100 in the 1967 base period.
 Although most of the news was bad, some prices declined in September, including such items as gasoline and fresh fruits and vegetables.

Over-all food prices went up an adjusted 1.9 per cent in September compared to a 1.4 per cent increase the previous month. The index for nonfood commodities increased 1 per cent following an August rise of 1.5 per cent while the cost of services rose 1.1 per cent, the same as in August.
 With the exception of fresh fruits and vegetables, all major food categories went up last month, pushing grocery prices 1.5 per cent higher over the month to a level 10.9 per cent above a year ago.

Beef and pork prices were reported up instead of declining and poultry prices, which usually are unchanged in September, also rose. Dairy products increased for the first time in four months while prices of fats and oil products continued to climb sharply.
 Higher clothing prices accounted for about a fourth of the 1.1 per cent rise in nonfood commodities. New car prices increased slightly instead of declining substantially as they usually do at the end of the model year.

A HOME BODY — Greep is a vulture who refuses to give up a good thing. Left at Nashville's Children's museum by some boys who found the chick after he fell in his nest, Greep is now free to leave, but he remains, eating chicken wings and occasionally frightening a visitor or board member. The vulture is shown here with Ann Winquist, a museum employe.

However, the purchasing power of the average worker increased slightly for the first time in three months. Real spendable earnings—that is weekly pay adjusted for inflation and taxes—rose one-tenth of a per cent in September but was still at the lowest level since December 1970.
PRICE INCREASES
 Price increases were spread across almost the entire economy last month. Food led the way, posting its biggest rise since February. The Ford administration has predicted that consumer prices will continue increasing at the rate of about one per cent a month through the end of the year, and that there would be no significant easing of inflation until some time next year.
 Consumer prices have already risen 9.7 per cent so far this year. In 1973, prices rose 8.8 per cent, the worst in any year since the end of World War II.

Missions Day Is Celebrated

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI and 200 Roman Catholic bishops celebrated Missions Day at a banquet featuring a group of Nigerian students who sang to the beat of African tribal drums.
 The event was held Sunday at the College for the Propagation of the Faith where 300 seminarians are preparing for the priesthood and missionary work in their home countries.
 The pontiff was a "poor eater because he so much enjoyed the unusual possibility he was offered of an informal running conversation with so many bishops and students," the Vatican said.

Slash Natural Gas Deliveries

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. announced Monday it was slashing deliveries of natural gas to some of its customers by one-fourth, but has received permission to build pipelines to new sources of the fuel.
 The Houston-based firm said problems with supply has forced it to curtail deliveries to companies in the eastern United States by 20 to 22 per cent and to its western customers by 25 per cent.
 The Federal Power Commission has granted Texas Eastern a certificate for construction of five lateral lines to connect new reserves to the company's offshore pipeline system at Cameron, La., the company said.
 One lateral is expected to be completed this year, the other four next year.
 The company said it also plans to apply jointly to the FPC with Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co. to build and operate two other laterals to link other new offshore Louisiana gas reserves with pipeline systems owned individually by the two companies.
 Texas Eastern released its third quarter earnings report, reporting earnings of $23 million or 95 cents a share, compared to $17.6 million or 72 cents a share for the same year's earlier period.
 The company said the increased earnings were due to improved petroleum products activities and general rate increases for its natural gas systems.
 But the company said gas supplies are still a problem, aggravated by Hurricane Carmen in September which temporarily reduced further the deliveries to some eastern system suppliers.
 "During the balance of September, in order to regain required underground storage balances, it was necessary to sharply increase curtailment levels," the company said.
