

'THE DOCTORS ARE FIGHTING FOR THAT MAN'S LIFE'

Nixon In Critical Condition

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is in critical condition today after lapsing into shock for three hours and experiencing internal bleeding following surgery for phlebitis.

"The doctors are fighting for that man's life," hospital spokesman Norman Nager told newsmen Tuesday night. He said later he didn't mean the statement to carry the seriousness it denoted.

DOCTORS WORRIED
But a source close to the situation later confided, "I know the doctors are worried" about Nixon's chances of survival.

In a statement read by Nager, Dr. John C. Lungren said a team of physicians administered "countershock" measures for three hours until a stable vascular (circulation) condition was once again restored" late Tuesday.

and that Dr. Eldon B. Hickman, the cardiovascular specialist who performed the operation, would spend the night near Nixon.

DIFFICULT TIMES
Nixon's wife, Pat, was with Nixon after the surgery. A Nixon aide described her as "strained and trying to keep herself up during these difficult times."

Mrs. Nixon was later joined by Nixon's longtime personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, and the two Nixon daughters, Tricia Nixon Cox and Julie Nixon Eisenhower, who flew in from the East Coast.

Mrs. Nixon and her two daughters remained with the former president until late Tuesday night and then went to the Nixon's seaside villa at San Clemente, 50 miles south of Long Beach, so the former president could have "undisturbed rest," said a Nixon aide.

SLIGHT FEVER

A White House spokesman sent word that President Ford was praying for Nixon. Lungren said Nixon's pulse rate had increased and he had a slight fever. He said Nixon was receiving medication intravenously.

Twelve hours earlier, surgeons had attached a plastic clip — resembling a clothespin with teeth — to a vein in Nixon's groin to control a newly discovered blood clot resulting from the phlebitis in his left leg. The jaw-like clip allows blood to flow, but impedes the movement of life-threatening clots to the heart and lungs.

In Memphis, Tenn., Dr. Robert M. Miles, inventor of the surgical clip used in Nixon's operation, said that postoperative hemorrhage is infrequent and patient shock is rare in that type of surgery.

SHOCK

A five-man medical team participated in the hour-long operation which started at 3:30 a.m. Tuesday. After the operation — described as relatively simple — doctors told a news conference that the former chief executive was "doing well."

Hickman, an assistant professor of surgery at the UCLA School of Medicine, called the operation "uneventful" and said, "Mr. Nixon is doing well ... recovering in the normal manner."

But just over six hours later, Nixon slipped into vascular shock which arrested the circulation of his blood for three hours before doctors and nurses were able to "stabilize" his condition.

Lungren said the complication was probably caused by "some retroperitoneal bleeding secondary to anticoagulation therapy." Retroperitoneal bleeding means bleeding behind the membrane that surrounds the abdomen.

BLOOD LOSS

Earlier, Lungren had said there was "somewhat more risk than normal" to the surgery because Nixon had been taking anticoagulants which left him prone to uncontrolled bleeding. After the surgery, however, Lungren told reporters there had been no excessive bleeding.

Lungren said that when Nixon went into shock "replacement of blood loss (through transfusions) and relaxation of anticoagulation therapy were instituted."

The amount of blood transfused into Nixon was not disclosed, but doctors not connected with Nixon's case said that in situations such as his, massive blood transfusions are normally required.

Nixon's postoperative shock could have been caused by his emotional state — a source close to him said Nixon was depressed. One physician said, "Emotional stress can be a very tearing down thing, and can have its effect on the circulation."

OPERATION

"His vascular system was in bad shape to begin with before the operation," the doctor added, noting that surgery was delayed because of Nixon's weakened physical condition.

CLOT

Nixon re-entered Memorial Hospital Medical Center last Wednesday night after an oral anticoagulant proved ineffective in treating his phlebitis. Nixon was hospitalized for the problem for 12 days in late September and early October.

During that period a small clot broke off from a large clot in his left thigh and traveled through his heart before lodging in his right lung. The decision to allow Nixon to return home came after Lungren concluded the lung clot no longer posed a serious threat.

VICTIMS OF SHAKEUP — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam fired three corps commanders today and retired the country's chief of naval operations. They are, from left, Nguyen Van Toan, commander of the 2nd corps; Admiral Tran Van Chon; Nguyen Vinh Nghi, commander of the 4th corps, and Pham Quoc Thuan, commander of the 3rd corps. The corps commanders, all lieutenants general, were given lesser jobs as commanders of training schools.

FORMER HOSTAGE SAYS:

Con Pleading For Life When Officers Shot Him

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A man who was held hostage by an escaped convict says the convict was unarmed and asked officers not to shoot him before he was hit by at least ten bullets.

Frank E. Lowry, 64, of El Paso said Tuesday that convict Edsel Heslip, 26, was crouching on the floorboard of Lowry's pickup truck shouting "don't shoot" when officers ran up and opened fire.

The shooting occurred Sunday at a road block set up by Department of Public Safety Officers about 45 miles east of here on Interstate 10. The DPS officers were helping in the search for Heslip who had escaped from the county jail Saturday after taking a guard along as a hostage.

OPENED FIRE
The guard was released later the same day. On Sunday morning Lowry was taken hostage by Heslip and forced to take the convict in his pickup truck. The two ran into the DPS officers late Sunday evening.

Lowry was shot once in the leg when officers opened fire to kill Heslip.

Lt. Ed Pringle of the DPS in El Paso said he could not confirm or deny Lowry's version of the incident until an investigation is completed. Pringle said he had questioned the two officers involved and is awaiting the report of the medical examiner.

The DPS officers who stopped Heslip declined comment. One said he had heard no shouts of surrender from Lowry's truck.

The county's medical examiner, Frederick Bornstein, said that Heslip was shot nine times in the chest and abdomen and once in the head. But he said it was impossible to determine the distance from which the shots were fired.

Heslip was in the county jail awaiting sentence following his conviction on a murder charge.

Lowry told El Paso Times from his hospital bed that his ordeal began Sunday morning when Heslip came to his home and, at gunpoint, ordered him to drive him away in Lowry's pickup truck.

'HE WAS EDGY'

He said Heslip repeatedly threatened him and struck at one point when he felt Lowry was driving too slowly. "He was edgy," Lowry said.

Lowry said when they reached the roadblock Heslip made him turn around and go in the opposite direction. At that time a patrol car began to chase them and officers fired several shots.

Lowry said Heslip then tossed his two revolvers out the window and told Lowry to pull over and stop.

"He crouched on the floorboard under the steering wheel, by my feet, yelling 'don't shoot,'" Lowry said. Lowry added, he, too, shouted to the pursuing officers to hold their fire.

Webb Safe Ransacked

Over $1300 in weekend receipts from the Webb Lanes Bowling Alley were reported missing from the safe early Tuesday, according to officers of Special Investigation at the base.

The safe had been pried open but no details were available as to whether it appeared to be a professional safe-peeling job.

OSI investigators reported that no arrests have been made. The robbery occurred between midnight Monday and 5 a.m. Tuesday.

Deadline Is Near

Odessa is one of 11 cities in the state which has topped out 1974-75 United Way drives.

The city of Orange leads the way in collections, having achieved 111.2 per cent of its objective. Odessa's collections are at 102.1 per cent.

Big Spring is well on its way toward its objective of $121,777, with collections and pledges now approaching $89,000. That represents about 73 per cent of the money being sought.

With the target date of Nov. 1 right around the corner, campaign chairman W. S. (Dub) Pearson said it was especially important that co-workers in the drive complete their contacts and recheck the cards which have not been turned in.

Other cities in addition to Orange and Odessa which have completed successful campaigns include Mineola, Leonard, Cameron, Port Arthur, Greenville, Borger, Pampa, Amarillo and Beaumont.

Woman Shot In Affray

Lomina Buckman is in Webb Air Force Base hospital being treated for a bullet wound in the left hip and right hand after she was shot during a scuffle at the Pastime Lounge, 511 W. 3rd, late Tuesday.

Mrs. Buckman is a barmaid at the lounge and was trying to help eject a Mexican American man from the bar when the woman with the man suddenly became angry and fired the shot.

The investigating officer said that a wrestling match followed, with everybody involved trying to come up with the pistol. During the scuffle, Mrs. Buckman was shot a second time when the bullet grazed her hand, according to the report.

The male then came up with the pistol and pointed it at all the customers in the bar and told the group, "We don't want any trouble. We are leaving."

Nobody has been able to identify the couple to the local officers. Det. Avery Falkner is in charge of the investigation.

PLASTIC CLAMP PLACED ON NIXON'S VEIN — A small plastic clamp like the one shown here was attached to a vein to keep blood clots from threatening the life of former President Richard M. Nixon in an operation performed Tuesday in Long Beach, Calif. The clamp is being held against a life-size drawing of the circulatory system at the approximate place where it was placed. Numbers on chart are for identification purposes.

Medical 'Shock' Is Spelled Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Medical "shock," the condition into which former President Richard M. Nixon lapsed after his phlebitis operation, means a collapse of blood circulation.

A simple cut on the hand, or even getting a vaccination shot, can cause some people to go into mild shock. They become woozy or even faint.

Emotional states can affect blood circulation, which is one reason for showing pallor or feeling faint.

Nixon's postoperative shock may have been complicated by his reluctance to seek early treatment for his phlebitis, or vein condition, or his own emotional reaction to the Watergate scandal that led to his resignation, one physician says.

Small arteries, called arterioles, dilate, or expand, thereby losing ability to contract normally to push freshened blood to all parts of the body, including the heart and brain.

Shock can result from accidental injuries, excessive bleeding, excessive manipulation of organs during surgery, or operations on the vascular system. The venous, or vein system, is particularly sensitive to manipulation surgically. Nixon had a major vein clamped mostly shut.

Further, he apparently had a very extensive series of clots throughout much of his left leg, a pre-existing interference with venous blood return to the heart.

From seven to nine quarts of blood may be needed in the pipelines.

The World At-A-Glance

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Defense attorneys have told a U.S. District Court jury that Ohio National Guardsmen were in danger of bodily harm when they opened fire on rock-throwing student anti-war demonstrators at Kent State University on May 4, 1970. But Robert A. Murphy, the chief government attorney, told jurors in his opening statement Tuesday that the shootings were "indiscriminate and unjustified." On trial are eight former guardsmen charged with willfully assaulting and intimidating the demonstrators by firing weapons in their direction and with depriving them of their constitutional right against loss of freedom without due process of law. Four students were killed and nine were wounded in the confrontation.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray says he did not personally shoot Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., "but I believe I am partly responsible for his death." The statement came in a letter introduced into evidence at a U.S. District Court hearing at which Ray is seeking to overturn his plea of guilty to the slaying of the civil rights leader here in 1968. The letter was written by Ray to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., on March 14, 1969, four days after he entered his plea of guilty in the King slaying. Asked at the court hearing Tuesday what the wording of his letter to Eastland meant, Ray replied, "I assumed you could be involved in some kind of crime and not have knowledge of it. I had no direct knowledge." Ray's attorneys contend Ray, 46, was the "fall guy" of a conspiracy carried out by others.

DACCA, Pakistan (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in hungry Bangladesh today after promising India upward of a million tons of American food grains in the next year. More appeals for American food awaited him in Bangladesh, where the threat of famine is even more acute than in India. Kissinger told newsmen the door to negotiations between Israel and the Arabs still appears to be open despite the Arab summit conference's recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization's claim to the West Bank of the Jordan River. The secretary of state said he will probably visit the Middle East late next week to assess the prospects.

RAIN

If you didn't get rain this afternoon, the U.S. Weather Bureau doesn't think you will get it tonight. Wind decreasing to 5-10 mile-per-hour westerly breezes tonight. High today and Thursday in the 60s. Low tonight, low 50s.

ISRAELI MANEUVERS HELD — Israeli soldiers take part Tuesday in maneuvers held in occupied territory west of the Jordan River. Officials denied the timing of the exercise was related to the top-level Arab conference taking place in Rabat, Morocco.

Not From These

One of the suggested remedies for combatting inflation is belt-tightening or sacrifice. For those in need of this, it is wonderful advice.

But for those whose existence has been one of self-denial born of necessity, it has a hollow, ironical ring.

We refer primarily to those who are in the upper age brackets, most of them retired voluntarily or otherwise. With them, skimping and sacrificing has been a way of life in order to exist. The purchasing power of their limited dollars has been sliced almost in half within the space of a few years.

The tragedy of it, as Bernard Nash, executive director of the American Association of Retired Persons, points out, is that these people are the generation which endured and suffered through the Great Depression. Many of them suffered financial scars and disruptions from which they never recovered. They were dislocated, and thus became one of the first to be dislocated again in the traumas of World War II and succeeding upheavals. A godly part of this generation never had the chance to lay aside very much, and for most of them, the more substantial pension plans came too late. They have been made dependent upon Social Security, and then shackled by it in what they might earn additionally.

So whatever we do in fighting inflation, we must not make the sacrificial lambs those who have sacrificed and suffered so much already. Milton Friedman, the conservative economist from the University of Chicago puts it thus: "We should make sure that the burdens of inflation and the painful side effects of the cure do not rest on our most disadvantaged citizens."

Under A New Sheep Skin

Tensions, privations, and domestic turmoil, likeflation, are not national affairs these days, but rather international in scope.

It is a dangerous period for most nations, for they are so preoccupied by their problems that they may relax in their opposition to totalitarian panaceas. This is being reflected in the quiet, modest but almost systematic acceptance of Communist partisans into what we call the free governments of the world.

Some of this is a reaction to the overthrow or fading of old right-wing dictatorships, as in the case of Portugal. Even Greece, saved from a Communist take over a generation ago, has recognized the Communist party as a legitimate political sector. France has tottered on the brink of putting Communists into key places of the national government; Italy inclined an ear to its Communist party to help stabilize a new coalition government.

The new tactics is cloaked under the sheep skin of assimilation, only the Communist tend to move toward domination, not assimilation. They are still dedicated to the revolution of the proletariat, which, experience has taught, is not an ideal but a form of tyranny.

My Answer

Billy Graham

When we took our shy daughter to college for the first time, she had not had a real date. Shortly thereafter we learned she was dating a boy not of her racial background. What we just discovered recently, however, was that she has been living with him since last May. We told her we could not support her financially in something we thought immoral. Have we done right?

T.I.
It's in 1 Thessalonians 5 that the apostle Paul says, "Abstain from all appearance of evil." In 1 Peter 2, the writer says, "Abstain from fleshly lusts." These both should take care of the couple living together before marriage. I know it's done often today, but it is one of the prime examples of the decadence of our society, and the disintegration of moral standards.

You were right in stopping support if she continues in such flagrant error. So often indulgent parents only forestall the day of accounting when children have to face the consequence of their deeds.

If you are Christians, your love for her will remain unchanged, of course. She may not want it right now, but be ready to provide the support and encouragement that Christian parents can offer.

Evidently your daughter was not as shy as you thought. Maybe you've lost communication with her — except on inconsequential matters. Perhaps you can arrange several good visits with both of them, when issues appropriate to the present problem can be aired.

Inflation Scapegoat

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — When inflation persists for years, as it has, almost every group eventually gets blamed by another — the environmentalists, businessmen, consumers, union members, politicians.

The latest scapegoat is becoming the federal government itself, and some of the officials dealing with the lashes are government officials.

Government always has been the object of criticism, of course, because of the tremendous impact of federal fiscal and monetary policy. But the current criticism is directed at the administration of government, its laws and regulations and red tape.

Earl Butz, the Agriculture secretary, blamed the Interstate Commerce Commission this week for supporting policies that limit production.

One critic after another, including some in government, maintain that the Occupational Health and Safety Act is forcing business to spend for non-productive goals, although good worker health certainly is productive.

Three Blood Problems

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Enclosed is 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet on "Lost Secrets of Reducing." I am a happy, contented wife and mother but have been about 15 pounds overweight for years. I have tried every fad diet, Weight Watchers, etc. I lose and then in no time gain my weight back again. — P.K.

Yes, that's one of the very-much-lost secrets, and you'll find it emphasized — getting rid of excess weight is only half the battle. It's wasted effort unless you learn how to keep it off once you've shed it. You'll find that discussed at some length in the booklet.

It's my impression that Weight Watchers and TOPS are pretty successful in getting the idea across of keeping weight off.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain the difference between a proctoscopic examination and a sigmoidoscopic exam? — M.A.T.

Three tubular instruments are commonly used to examine the lower bowel. The anoscope is a short one, and covers the area just beyond the anus (outlet of the rectum). The prohave been especially critical of government policies. In Buffalo a few days ago, Thomas Murphy, who becomes General Motors chairman Dec. 1, said federal environmental goals were inflationary.

"In our national fervor to reach environmental and other goals that might be the ideal and that might be beyond the reach of our economy and our technology — at least at this time — we are contributing to inflation," he said.

He added: "We must not forget that the environment that is closest to us, and that most needs protection, is the environment of a good job, nutritious food on the table, and adequate housing and health care."

These are not the only business and government leaders that believe government policies lead to inflation, either by adding to the costs of doing business or by reducing the availability of goods.

Everyone knew the issues were there, but with inflation persisting long beyond even the most pessimistic views of three or four years ago, a sense of urgency seems now to demand they be faced.

Taking Hold

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Although the power of Donald Rumsfeld's White House chief administrative post is still ambiguous, he has made one breakthrough of symbolic importance by streamlining the President's speechwriting process under the command of Robert Hartmann, President Ford's most intimate personal aide.

EX-NEWSPAPERMAN Hartmann, a fastidious wordsmith, has trouble finishing final speech texts for the President until just before Mr. Ford is due at the podium. Rumsfeld was appalled at the risks this last-minute process posed for the president, who found himself reading one part of his Oct. 8 economic speech to Congress for the first time as he delivered it in the House.

MR. FORD HAD long been accustomed to an easy-going highly flexible speechwriting process as Republican leader of the House and later as Vice President when what he said counted for very little. Mr. Ford himself complained two weeks ago that he wished his speeches would be ready in time for careful reading before delivery.

THE PROBLEM was how to coax Hartmann into faster action without alienating the President's most powerful aide. Rumsfeld's success was clear last Monday, when Hartmann put the final, finishing touches on the President's Kansas City speech more than 24 hours before it was delivered last Tuesday evening.

WITHOUT FANFARE, the Air Force is on the brink of a major breakthrough in development of an airborne intercontinental ballistic missile ICBM which could radically transform lagging U.S.-Soviet arms limitation talks.

Two "inert" tests of a simulated Minuteman ICBM have now been completed, with a third test scheduled late this month in which an actual 86,000-pound Minuteman missile will be dropped at high altitude from its C-5 cargo ship. The first stage of the missile will be fired for 10 seconds, then dumped into the Pacific Ocean off the coast of California.

THE SIGNIFICANCE of this so-called "stand-off" missile option, marrying the C-5 and the ICBM, is that the Russians cannot possibly duplicate it; they lack the capability of building wide-bodied aircraft such as the C-5. Indeed, Moscow has been fearful of just such a development. Since the first Air Force test last month, Soviet diplomats have made strong, but unofficial, complaints.

MOST AIR FORCE officers have fought a long, rear-guard bureaucratic battle against the new weapons system, which — if fully developed — would give the U.S. a seemingly impregnable second strike nuclear capability from invulnerable cargo planes circling the Asia land mass.

Their complaint: too clumsy, too costly and not strictly an Air Force weapon at all. Instead, they have pushed the expensive new B-1 bomber and various types of bomber-carried cruise missiles. But the new chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Air Force Gen. George S. Brown, disagreed with his old Air Force buddies and ordered top speed development.

Price Fix Of Foods Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is investigating possible illegal price-fixing of foods, one of the crucial areas in the nation's surging inflation. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, elaborating on the Ford administration's recent push for stepped-up antitrust enforcement, said Tuesday, "A far greater number of possible antitrust violations involving foods are under active investigation by the Antitrust Division." Saxbe, in a speech to the legal committee of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, noted that the department has 14 civil and criminal cases pending against food producers. These cases involve, among other things, broiler chickens, dairy products and baked goods. "We are determined to relentlessly run to earth any allegation involving possible violation of antitrust laws. We are giving considerable emphasis to the food industry," Saxbe said. He said the department is stepping up price-fixing investigations to help combat inflation.

Blackbirds New Enemy Of U.S. Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has a new enemy with 14 million airborne troops — a noisy horde of blackbirds roosting in a pine grove. The birds are flocking to the pine forests of Ft. Campbell, Ky., and the Milan Army Ammunitions Plant in Tennessee as they have in previous autumns, but this year the Army is preparing a fight to the finish. A Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday the Army plans to spray the birds with a detergent that will remove the natural oil from their feathers. The oil protects the birds from inclement weather, and when the temperature drops below 45 degrees the birds will die from the cold. The Environmental Defense Fund says there are more humane ways of handling the problem, but does not dispute the need to get rid of the estimated 14 million blackbirds. Maureen Hinkle, a pesticides expert at the environmental organization, suggested that the Army set up a large funnel near the resting grounds with a light at the end of the funnel. If the light is turned on in the middle of the night, the birds will fly directly into it, killing themselves instantaneously as they strike the lens, she said. The birds, mostly starlings, became a problem several years ago when pine groves at Ft. Campbell and at the ammunitions plant matured to a point where they provided ideal roosting grounds. There are few natural predators, and nearby farms provide sufficient grain fields for the birds to raid for food. In Hopkinsville, Ky., 15 miles north of the Army post, town clerk Terry Rogers said the birds must go. "We grow quite a bit of grain and they've done hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of damage," he said, explaining that the birds' foraging trips take them over a 100-square-mile area. The Environmental Defense Fund said it would consider seeking court action to halt the Army if the Army does not first publish an assessment of the environmental impact of its attack.

Printing Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has reaffirmed its earlier order permitting Texas officials to require printers of political advertising in the current election campaign to identify themselves. The court declined Tuesday to vacate an order it issued Oct. 11 staying a decision of a three-judge federal court in Houston, Tex., that the requirement is unconstitutional. Attorneys for the Printing Industries of the Gulf Coast asked the court to "reconsider its precipitous decision." They said they submitted a response to the Texas request for a stay, but the court acted before receiving the response. They said granting the stay would be "manifestly unfair" because printers who completed their work after the law was declared unconstitutional, but before the stay was granted, would be exempt from the requirement while others would not. The requirement is contained in a new campaign reporting and disclosure law passed by the Texas Legislature. The printing industry contends it violates freedom of the press guarantees in the constitution. The law requires that all political advertising bear the name and address of the printer.

Married Names Ruling Made

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Hill said today that a woman has the right to decide at the time of her marriage whether she wants her married name or maiden name on her Texas driver's license. The same applies for any other license, permit or personnel application, Hill said in answering a request from Rep. Carlos F. Truan, D-Corpus Christi, chairman of the House Human Resources Committee. Hill refused to say whether private businesses, banks or financial institutions could require a married woman to use her husband's name. He said such firms are not covered by the Texas Equal Rights Amendment "unless there is a showing that there is sufficient state action involved in their businesses." Hill's opinion said that under both state law and the constitution a woman, at marriage, "may choose to retain her name prior to marriage or to assume her husband's surname, as long as she uses the name she chooses consistently and not fraudulently."

Bill Kills Seat Belt Interlocks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signed a bill eliminating the federal requirement for a mandatory seat belt interlock system in cars, but says he still wants motorists to buckle up. The unpopular interlock system had required motorists to buckle their seat belts before starting their cars. Although he signed the bill repealing the requirement, he said, "I give my strongest recommendation that all Americans follow the sound advice which tells us to buckle up for safety." He also urged motorists Monday to observe the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit. The repeal provision was part of a bill requiring establishment of minimum school bus safety standards within 15 months. The act also sets procedures for the remedy and recall of certain defective motor vehicles without any charge to the owner. The bill was one of 23 that the White House announced Ford had signed. Among them was a bill repealing laws permitting police to make raids without knocking under some circumstances.

Reject Setting Up Agency To Regulate Utility Rates

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Municipal League has gone on record opposing the creation of a state commission to regulate utility rates. By a voice vote Tuesday night the state's city officials approved a resolution submitted by the Midland delegation opposing "the creation of a state utility commission on either a mandatory or local option basis." Earlier in the day the delegates had rejected a substitute resolution submitted by Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz which avoided taking a stand on the controversial state commission. The resolution submitted by Midland said that Texans, "in the past enjoyed and presently continue to enjoy utility rates substantially lower than the majority of states with utility commissions." The delegates, however, recommended that the state legislature establish "uniform definitions of rate base, operating income and expenses." It also suggested that cities obtain expert assistance in analyzing rate increase requests from the Texas Utility Advisory Commission. The commission offers assistance to cities regarding utility rates. Nearly 100 cities are members of the commission. Hofheinz argued against the resolution saying a substantial number of city officials in the state support the commission concept. He added that a vote against the commission would divide the TML and hurt future lobby efforts in Austin. The delegates also approved resolutions calling for: —Support for the re-enactment by Congress of general revenue sharing. In connection with this resolution, Dallas Mayor Wes Wise, TML president, urged delegates to write representatives in their area asking support for the re-enactment. —Opposition to a bill before Congress requiring local governments to recognize labor organizations composed of their public employees. The resolution said the bill "would create another federal bureaucracy" and "is contrary to the principle of local self government." —Support for the national mass transportation act of 1974. —A request that the federal government "consider the plight of the small cities" in its housing and urban development act. The resolution said grants from the act "discriminate" against smaller cities. In other action in the last day of the conference the city officials elected Mayor Bill Neu of Denton as the 1974-75 president of the organization. Councilman Lila Cochrell of San Antonio and Mayor Hofheinz were elected first and second vice president respectively. Delegates also heard U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., say that the "nation's economy will 'remain stale the rest of the year,' but that some bright spots are beginning to appear. Tower said that government interference in business affairs has added to the inflation woes. "I don't think we should waste time trying to determine who is responsible for inflation," Tower said. "All of us are to blame—Congress, the executive branch the Democrats as well as the Republicans, business as well as labor. "We have been witnessing a political compulsion to spend the public money and guarantee private debts in socially significant areas of the economy without first pausing to tally the cost," Tower said. The senator said an abatement of price increases could be expected, but added that it was highly unlikely that they will drop below the double-digit rate of inflation within the next six months. A Big Spring delegation remained at the meeting to cast votes on the issue when it was announced that all delegates could vote. Later, at the convention, the announcement was that each municipality would have only one vote. Eddie Acri represented Big Spring, voting "no" with the unanimous backing of the Big Spring group.

Merchants Are Hopeful Yule Wares Plentiful

By TROY BRYANT If you shop early, and do not have a preference about "name brand" toys, you should not have very many problems finding Christmas gifts, trees and decorations this year. A poll of several Big Spring stores revealed that no one is anticipating a shortage in Christmas stock, although some said that if they sell what they have on hand, it will be almost impossible to get in a re-order supply. Most of the stores have already made their orders for the Christmas season, traditionally one of the busiest periods for retail merchants. One merchant, who deals in clothing, noted that he should have a good supply of almost everything, but that if he sells out, reorders will probably not arrive in time for Christmas.

Toys, traditionally the center of children's attentions during the Yule season will also be in good supply, that is, if you are not looking for those nationally advertised name brand products. One toy store has a good supply of dolls, games, action toys for boys, but there is a shortage of some "big name" toys such as the Evel Knievel Stuntcycle, Madame Alexander's dolls, Weebles West, and Fischer Price's Castle. These items are being featured in national TV advertising campaigns, most of the time before they are made available to local toy stores. Christmas trees, another Christmas fixture, are anticipated to be in good supply as in years past. The Morning Optimist Club, which has been offering trees to the public beginning about Dec. 1 each year, will again sell the trees. According to an Optimist spokesman, they ordered as many trees as last year, and have never received fewer trees than they have ordered. Most of the Christmas stock will go on display just after Thanksgiving holiday, allowing shoppers to get an early choice of merchandise. Some decorations are already making appearances in local stores, before many people are ready to begin thinking about Thanksgiving dinner, while most stores have been building toy supplies gradually for the past month or so.

Coal Talks Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coal industry negotiators report major progress in contract talks with the United Mine Workers and say a tentative settlement is possible by the end of the week. "We're hoping to make an agreement this week," said Guy Farmer, general counsel for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. "It's moving and I think we've got a shot at it." Farmer joined UMW President Arnold Miller in saying that a tentative agreement could be wrapped up quickly. However, Miller said last week that a contract would have to be agreed on by Nov. 4 to avoid a strike. The UMW's contract with the soft-coal industry expires Nov. 12, and union officials say ratification will take about 10 days. Even if the negotiators reach a tentative agreement, the question remains whether the union's 120,000 members will approve the first package submitted for ratification.

Gasol Dema Due To

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) - The oil industry forecasts demand for gasoline will rise 1.3 percent in 1975 over 1974. "Oil imports combined with higher gas prices discouraged demand in 1974 and demand for the independent Association of Petroleum Producers reported Tuesday. "However, a major supply of 1975, recreation use should be cut by commuters using mass transit. "The committee also forecasts a 55-mile per hour and new car shift back to late 1974. "On the other hand, the committee forecasts a 1975 in gas is not expected to previously because of gasoline prices economic improved fuel 1975 model cars. Residual or heavy demand should be 1 percent compared with 1974's decline and an average growth rate of 1.3 percent of the six previous years. Overall, the estimated domestic demand for petroleum products average 17.6 million a day, 714,000 barrels per cent above decline during estimated at 1974 compared with growth rate of 1.3 percent for 1968 through 1973. # Gasoline Demand Due To Rise

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — An oil industry study group forecasts demand for motor gasoline will increase 3.3 per cent in 1975 compared with a 1.3 per cent increase in 1974. "Oil import disruptions, combined with mandatory product allocation and higher gasoline prices discouraged gasoline consumption in 1974," the supply and demand committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America reported Tuesday.

"However, in the absence of major supply disruptions in 1975, recreational gasoline use should be revived and commuters will have less incentive to use car pools and mass transit."

The committee added that drivers also may be less conscientious in observing the 55-mile per hour speed limit and new car buyers may shift back to larger cars.

On the other hand, the committee continued, "growth in gasoline demand in 1975 is not expected to rise to previously higher rates because of increased gasoline prices, unfavorable economic conditions, and improved fuel economy in 1975 model cars."

Prior to 1974, the annual growth rate for gasoline demand had averaged about 5 per cent in recent years.

Other committee forecasts: Aviation fuel consumption is expected to increase 2.8 per cent next year compared with this year's 5.9 per cent decline.

Demand for such middle distillates as light heating oil and diesel fuel should increase 5.8 per cent, compared with 1974's 2.5 per cent decline and a normal 4.3 per cent average annual increase.

Residual or heavy fuel oil demand should increase 4.5 per cent compared with this year's decline of 3.4 per cent and an average annual growth rate of 8.9 per cent the six previous years.

Overall, the committee estimated total 1975 domestic demand for petroleum products to average 17.6 million barrels a day, 714,000 barrels or 4.2 per cent above 1974. The decline during 1974 was estimated at 1.9 per cent compared with an annual growth rate of 5.2 per cent for 1968 through 1973.

The committee said its forecasts were based on the assumptions weather will be normal, imports will continue to be available and the government will not impose restrictions on petroleum consumption.

Declare War On Hunger

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Baptists issued their annual "social action" statement today declaring war on world hunger and touching on a wide range of provocative issues.

The report, reflecting the social conscience of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, is traditionally the strongest statement from the group concerning governmental political and moral issues.

It was prepared by the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission for presentation to some 3,000 messengers to the 89th annual meeting of the two-million member organization.

In addition to world hunger, the report touched on the economy, family life, criminal justice, public school financing, problems of youth and alcohol-drug abuse.

The statement was subject to debate, but not editing, and traditionally is accepted without change.

World hunger was the lead item in the report, which sought to link American eating habits to hunger for millions of less fortunate people around the world.

"In a world scarred by famine, for us to be insensitive to the adjustment of our own eating habits could relegate many to death by starvation," the statement said.

The commission ticked off a list of allegedly wasteful U.S. foodstuff practices and called upon all churches "to reorder their economic priorities to provide a continuing support system for world hunger relief."

The commission was sharply critical of the "localization, humanization and de-institutionalization of programs for youth."

Moving to the problems of county and local jails, the report said: "Life for those in these jails is degrading at best. Beatings and rape are not uncommon... while we recognize the need for detention facilities, those who have not been convicted are frequently worse off than convicted criminals."

The report called for new legislation regulating county and local jails, creation of a statewide system of adult probation and radical reformation of the entire bail bond system.

Noting that the expenditures for public school finance vary as much as $200 to $2,000 per pupil between districts, the commission declared:

"The inequity of this is contrary to our Christian conscience and cannot be calmly tolerated. The legislature must be urged to find some fair and just way by which pupils in one part of the state will be able to receive schooling equally as good as those in another part of the state."

EXCHANGING WELCOMES — Jamie Weaver, 1975 National Poster Child for the March of Dimes, and Vanessa Mancill, Big Spring's teen March of Dimes representative, exchanged greetings in Dallas recently. They met at a regional meeting of the voluntary health organization for discussion of programs aimed at prevention and treatment of birth defects. Jamie, 9, was born without eyes, but leads a normal, healthy life. She lives in Spokane, Wash.

MOD Delegates Back From Regional Meet

New March of Dimes programs aimed at prevention of birth defects were highlighted to local delegates Vaughn Martin, Ann Lane, Vanessa Mancill and Helen Martin at a 2-day regional MOD meeting in Dallas last week.

"The medical advances we heard about were particularly impressive," said Mrs. Lane, executive secretary of the Cap Rock MOD chapter.

"Improved methods of treatment, diagnosis and consultation for high-risk pregnant women and newborns were explained by specialists. At one session Dr. Edwin Gresham and Dr. Loren Petersen discussed how their specialties are rapidly developing combined techniques to reduce many risks of pregnancy."

Progress on plans for a strategic network of perinatal services throughout the nation was another important aspect of the meeting, according to Mrs. Lane.

She noted that there was emphasis on new MOD programs to train nurses in recognition, evaluation and team performance for treatment of sick mothers and infants.

In Texas, national statistics show that seven per cent of the more than 200,000 babies born this year will be stricken with birth defects.

Mrs. Lane encourages local citizens to join the ranks of volunteers working against such birth defects when the call for workers in January's Mothers' March against Birth Defects goes out in November.

Strike Against Drug Smuggling

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Three men were arrested and federal police confiscated about 66 pounds of heroin and cocaine in a drug raid in the border city of Tijuana in what officials said was another "magnificent strike" against organized drug smuggling.

The arrests occurred Monday night in a suburb of Tijuana, 15 miles south of San Diego, where police also confiscated the drugs, the federal attorney general's office said in a statement Tuesday.

The three arrested men were charged with illegal possession of dangerous drugs and conspiracy to smuggle dangerous drugs, the statement added.

"The federal police, with this magnificent strike, have smashed an organized narcotics smuggling ring operating at the border," the statement noted.

The action came less than 20 days after federal police and army troops smashed what they said was a giant heroin smuggling ring operated by inmates inside Tijuana's La Mesa penitentiary.

The statement did not link Monday's raids with the penitentiary action.

At the time of the penitentiary raid, the Mexican government said that the ring may have been bigger than the one in the "French connection" case and had connections in Mexico, the United States, France, Canada and Peru.

In September, Mexican authorities arrested more than a dozen persons and seized equipment that had made 3 billion amphetamine tablets. More than 100 suspected dealers were arrested in the United States in simultaneous raids.

In the Monday action in Tijuana, police also reported confiscating seven revolvers, false documents and a vehicle apparently used for transporting the drug.

TUNNEL TORNADO Next Thing I Knew I Was Upside Down

HOUSTON (AP) — Ernie Wehba said it was like being inside a bottle "and someone shaking you up and down."

That is how he described a tornado which struck the Baytown Tunnel Monday afternoon during rush hour traffic.

The twister killed one man and injured seven others. Of those injured, only a tunnel guard was on foot.

At least a dozen cars were piled up as the twister passed over the tunnel, which crosses under the Houston Ship Channel to nearby Baytown.

Wehba, 32, of Houston, was driving home from work in Baytown when he saw a mist and haze as he emerged from the tunnel's south end.

"I don't know what it was," he said. "Then the car ahead started going down the road sideways. The next thing I knew I was upside down."

"I remember skidding along on the roof of my truck in a spray of sparks."

When his truck stopped, he said he smelled gasoline. He feared an explosion and ran for safety. There was no explosion.

The twister killed Theo Hines, 62, of Houston, an engineer at a Baytown refinery. Sheriff's Capt. T.C. Jones said Hines was killed when the car he was driving was sucked out of the tunnel's south end. Jones said the car was thrown over a 20-foot-high levee above the tunnel entranceway. He said investigators did not know whether Hines was entering or leaving the tunnel.

The twister overturned a state-owned tank truck which temporarily blocked the tunnel to traffic. The wreckage was cleared in about two hours.

H.F. Garrison, district maintenance engineer for the state highway department, said the storm did not damage the tunnel or its operational equipment.

The twister also damaged homes in the Baytown area but rose before reaching the downtown section.

League Plans Review

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of the 26 National Football League teams gathered today to review their 1975 expansion plans for Seattle and Tampa along with such current franchise difficulties as inflation.

The NFL, which has set a price $16 million each for the new teams, was seeking potential owners not overly worried about the league's tax issues, labor unrest and the dip in attendance figures.

One of the key groups bidding for the Tampa franchise is headed by Harry T. Mangini, a Fort Lauderdale real estate and real estate executive. He is known for his thoroughbred racing activities.

At least two other groups — led by Jacksonville, Fla., lawyer Hugh Culverhouse and Philadelphia builder Tom McCloskey — were thought to be in the running for the Tampa franchise despite the high cost.

But in Seattle the dissolution of one group that had been bidding for the new NFL franchise was announced Tuesday.

Wayne Field, president of the Seattle Kings football club, relinquished its chances and suggested that the league consider the Seattle Professional Football Club, headed by Herman Sarkowsky.

It was unclear what expansion decisions the NFL would make, particularly in light of a major unresolved civil suit by the Internal Revenue Service. It could directly affect future plans.

In a case involving the Atlanta Falcons, the IRS is questioning the common sports practice of making tax depreciation claims on the purchase of athletes by expansion clubs from established teams.

DOWN AND OUT — George Foreman goes down to the canvas for the ten count after taking a series of hits from Muhammad Ali in the eighth round of their title fight early Wednesday morning in Kinshasa. It was Foreman's first professional loss as Ali regained the world heavyweight crown.

Foreman Floored For Count Of 10

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — "Ali, Ali, Ali!"

The salute thundered from close to 50,000 African throats and echoed around the world today.

Muhammad Ali is back as the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world, knockout conqueror in 2:58 of the eighth round of young and strong George Foreman, who until this dark night was rated one of the most devastating punchers the game has ever seen.

Ali said he would do it — and he did.

And he is a man who must be reckoned with although he is now 32 and well past his fighting prime. Friends say he would be wise now to retire in all his glory and arrogance.

"Now they'll have to pay me $20 million," he boasted. They may, too. Waiting in the wings is the rugged Joe Frazier, former champion, who beat Ali in one slambang brawl and lost to him in another.

"Foreman fought a stupid fight," said Frazier, who sat at the ringside in the vast Stadium of the 20th of May to watch the spectacle in the early hours of the African morning.

"He should never have let Ali play him on the ropes as he did," said Frazier. "I have learned a lot. I want another shot at him. I'm ready when he is. I am sure I can win the next time."

Foreman, 25, a massive and sullen but pleasant man with fists that in five years of pro fighting have exploded 37 knockouts, insists that he also is waiting in line.

"The next time — and I hope there is a next time — I hope to fight a smarter fight," he said. "I hope to follow (manager) Dick Sadler's instructions better."

The 220-pound Foreman sought to demolish Ali the way he had crushed 37 of his pro foes, most of them almost before they had finished tying on their gloves. But Ali beat him at his own game, and was con-the open-air soccer stadium, big George, never before beaten or knocked out, and his associates sat in thickening gloom.

"You can't hadmouth a man who beats you," Foreman said solemnly, his voice hoarse and almost a whisper. "He is a true champion. He deserves everybody's respect. He is a credit to his family, his race and to boxing."

Champ Failed To Eye Punch

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — The winner fumed and complained, and looked as angry as a vindicated man can when he's proved his own rightness with a vengeful hand.

The loser talked gently, mildly, reasonably.

The roles were old and wouldn't have been reversed if the verdict had been different.

Muhammad Ali, champion again, couldn't find anything nice to say about George Foreman. And Foreman couldn't dig up anything mean to say against Ali.

No skill, scared, doesn't like to get hit, a phony champ who punches like a sissy, a bully who was built up by know-nothing writers — Ali had those words to describe Foreman. And these:

"He was scared; he was humiliated. I did it. I said I'd do it, but did you listen? I said I'd stick him and that he didn't like to get hit and that I'm the greatest heavyweight of all time, but did you listen?"

Ali didn't dance. I wanted to make him lose his power. He punched like a sissy. I stayed on the ropes. Staying on the ropes is a beautiful thing for a fighter. You think when I'm on the ropes I'm doing bad."

Ali looked incredibly peeved in victory. He had told everyone how hard he had trained, how he had hit the heavy bag again and how Foreman was a "mummy".

But no one wanted to bet on him, it seemed, and all the talk was about Foreman's awesome power.

Switzer Says OU "Best Team Ever"

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio State and Oklahoma have been offensive to their 13 football opponents this season and more of the same may be in store this weekend.

"We made all 10 of our offensive goals," Ohio State's Woody Hayes said following last week's 55-7 rout of Northwestern. "That's the only time we've ever done that. And our consistency went from 73 to 88 percent."

This week's beleaguered defense belongs to Illinois... which will absorb a 35-14 licking.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma's Barry Switzer says the Sooners are "the best college football team I've ever been around. And we'll be close to this team again offensively next year."

Iowa State gave Oklahoma its closest call in Big Eight play last season, losing by "only" 34-17. This year, 42-7 has a better ring to it.

Last week's score was 49 right, 17 wrong for a 742 percentage. One of the four Upset Specials — Georgia Tech over Tulane — came through while Princeton over Penn missed by a couple of points. The season tally shows 328 right, 125 wrong and 12 ties for 724.

NCAA Hands Out Four Violations

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Three colleges were placed on probation for violations in their basketball programs and one other school and the Ohio Valley Conference were reprimanded by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The stiffest penalty was imposed on Maryland-Eastern Shore, which is prohibited from any post-season basketball competition on NCAA-controlled television series for one year.

DePaul of Chicago and Augustana College of Sioux Falls, S.D., were also placed on probation for one year, but no sanctions were involved.

Gallaudet College of Washington, D.C., and the Ohio Valley Conference were reprimanded without sanctions.

The NCAA said on Tuesday the probation handed out to Maryland-Eastern Shore is for an indefinite period but the sanctions are for one year, effective Oct. 18.

Maryland-Eastern Shore was found to have violated NCAA rules by allowing several students to play basketball while they were ineligible. The NCAA said two eligibility rules were broken — one restricting an athlete's participation to five calendar years and another dealing with improper certification of eligibility.

School Plans Waldrep Fund

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian University officials have set up a fund to help with expenses of injured football player Kent Waldrep.

Waldrep is hospitalized in Birmingham, Ala. with a broken neck and spinal cord injury, suffered Saturday in a game with Alabama.

TCU spokesmen said the fund "which was set up at the University bank, will pay for any additional expenses involved. The university will pay Waldrep's medical expenses."

Dr. Richard Morawitz, chief resident of neurosurgery, at the University Medical Center said Tuesday that Waldrep has shown slight improvement to the sensation of touch and position, but that there is no additional motor response.

Dr. Morawitz said Waldrep's attitude has improved tremendously since being moved to a private room.

Longhorn QB, Top Player

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas Coach Darrell Royal calls his quarterbacks "general" and quarterback "general" Marty Akins had a five-star performance Saturday night against Rice's rugged defenders.

Akins, a 6-foot, 200-pound junior, was selected as the Associated Press' offensive player of the week in the Southwest Conference after he ran for 188 yards on 23 carries and scored twice.

Akins' rushing yardage is the most by a SWC back in a single game this season and apparently the most ever by a Longhorn quarterback.

Eddie Phillips had 164 yards on 23 carries in Texas' 24-11 loss to Notre Dame in the Jan. 1, 1971, Cotton Bowl.

"Not only did he rush for 188," Royal said of Akins,

"But Marty is a good punter—should we call on him to work on it. I don't know when he'd find time, but he'd find it—he'd work that out—he takes pride in what he does."

Or as Royal mentioned on another occasion, talking about Akins, "A guy can play outstanding football as a quarterback in our system and no one knows except the coaches. Anytime the ball moves, I always give credit to the quarterbacks—whether they ever have any passing statistics, rushing statistics or whatever, their job is to get them in the end zone. That's what the general's for."

And that's what General Akins does.

(AP WIREPHOTO) BACK OF THE WEEK — Quarterback Gary Scheide of BYU gets set to throw during action last week against the Utah State Aggies. The touchdown passes in his team's 37-13 victory earned him the honor of being Associated Press college football back of the week.

and kinda determines where the ball is going in our offense—so he has more to do than just run with the ball. I think he gets some pluses for that other yardage besides that he ran for."

The Longhorns piled up 497 yards rushing against what Royal described as "virtually a goal line defense"—eight men on the line of scrimmage—in the 27-6 victory over winless Rice.

Royal said halfback Raymond Clayborn "did a superb job of blocking on the corners which allowed Akins to have a lot of space to run in."

Working with just one minute and 39 seconds left in the first half, Akins guided Texas 80 yards to a field goal. That, said Royal, was "when we started really to look like a football team."

Although Akins hit two passes on that 17 yard drive, he has connected only 8 of 26 for 108 yards this season and no touchdowns. Two have been intercepted.

But Royal excused the subpar passing, saying, "We've had some bad routes run, and we've had protection fall down."

If it weren't for senior Mike Dean, who is booming punts for a 40.3-yard average this season, Akins would be a throwback to the triple-threat days of run, pass, kick, Royal said.

"I think Akins can punt the ball about as well as Mike," said Royal, "but Mike doesn't play offense or defense and he has so much more time to devote to it than Marty."

3-B Grid Leaders In Showdown Bouts

By TROY BRYANT
District 3-B's leaders remained in a three way tie for first place after Friday's action, but that will probably be remedied somewhat this Friday night as two of the top three will meet.

Bronte (7-0 and 4-0) will host Jayton (6-1 and 4-0) in a game which will narrow the field while Forsan (7-0 and 4-0) hosts Hawley (4-3 and 1-3).

Other contest match Sands (1-6 and 0-4) and Roby (1-6 and 0-4) and Roby (1-6 and 0-4).

1-3) with Sterling City (5-2 and 2-2).

Forsan will be tested in the next two weeks, however, as they travel to Jayton and host Bronte for their last two regular season games.

Last week's results saw Bronte beat Loraine 49-0, Hawley beat Sands 6-0, Jayton beat Roby 42-0 and Forsan beat Sterling City 12-7.

Bronte's Alan Barbee continued to hold a commanding lead in District 3-B scoring with 139 points scored on 18 touchdowns and 31 extra points.

Forsan place two in the top eight scorers as Ralph Miranda has scored 48 points and Wesley Thixton has scored 42.

Klondike Wins Out

KLONDIKE — Forsan lost out three times to Klondike in girls' basketball play here Tuesday night.

Klondike won the "A" 61-36, "B" 50-34 and a last second shot by substitute Robbin Robinette led the home team junior high five to a 26-26 decision.

Lesli Davis of Klondike was high point contributor with 37 and Forsan's Letha Strickland sacked 15.

In the "B" contest, Klondike's Jeannie Bradford picked up 20 points and Lisa Day of Forsan netted 12. Tany Airhart paced Klondike juniors, sacking 16.

Forsan's "A" team overall showing is 1-2 and Klondike sports a 3-0. Forsan plays Sands at home next Tuesday. Three games are on the agenda.

The Lumberjacks were preseason favorites in the Lone Star Conference, but lost two key conference games, including a 31-3 decision to East Texas State last weekend.

CAUSES LEAD POISONING Lead Shot Ban Proposed

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Early in 1972, officials with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources began to receive reports of a waterfowl kill on the Eastern Shore.

Before the end of the year, the death of 2,500 geese had been blamed on lead poisoning, and Maryland became the first state to move toward a comprehensive ban on the use of lead shotgun pellets.

For this fall's hunting season, neither Maryland nor any other state has banned the use of lead shot. The proposal has been expanded, however, and now is under active consideration by the U.S. Interior Department.

Waterfowl "dieoffs" have been documented and traced to lead shotgun pellets as early as 1894. By the 1920s, a few scientists and sportsmen were warning of the hazard posed by lead pellets deposited in heavily hunted wetland areas.

According to Vernon D. Stotts, waterfowl program director for the Department of Natural Resources, birds such as ducks, geese and swan inadvertently eat the spent pellets in their search for grit, which is used for grinding food.

When a bird grinds up the lead pellets, Stotts said, the lead salt paralyzes its gizzard, leading to starvation. He estimates that between 16,000 and 20,000 birds die this way annually in Maryland alone.

Maryland's natural resources secretary, James B. Coulter, has tried twice to impose a lead shot ban by administrative action.

Coulter's solution to the problem, as well as the federal government's, is to substitute steel pellets for lead. Most hunters, however, apparently remain unconvinced.

"There's a natural resistance on the part of the hunter to change," he said. "He's worried about having to change equipment, about the cost difference between steel and lead shot and about crippling more birds by using the lighter steel."

These problems, among others, were addressed in a draft environmental statement released by the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service last July 12.

Says Mitchell Okayed $250,000 For Caper

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Nixon campaign aide Job Stuart Magruder has told the Watergate cover-up trial that John N. Mitchell approved the political intelligence plan that resulted in the Watergate break-in.

Testifying Tuesday as the third prosecution witness, Magruder quoted Mitchell as saying, "Let's give them the $250,000 and see what they come up with."

Later, according to Magruder, Mitchell was shown the results of the first break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters and expressed dissatisfaction. A second break-in was attempted June 17, 1972, but the burglars were caught.

Mitchell, who was attorney general during the first term of former President Richard M. Nixon, is one of five men charged with conspiring to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

The other defendants are former White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former Assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson, onetime attorney for the Nixon reelection committee.

Magruder, who was deputy director of the Nixon campaign committee, told how Mitchell, who headed the committee until July 1, 1972, twice rejected G. Gordon Liddy's proposals for political intelligence plans that called for break-ins, wiretapping, kidnaping of demonstration leaders and using prostitutes to compromise Democrats.

MITCHELL DRIVEN AWAY — John N. Mitchell is driven from the basement garage of U.S. District Court in Washington Tuesday after the Watergate cover-up trial recessed for the day. Job Stuart Magruder, the third witness in the trial, told the court that Mitchell approved of the political intelligence plan that resulted in the Watergate break-in.

He described Mitchell's reaction to Liddy's initial $1 million proposal as "very negative."

Liddy came back with a $500,000 plan and, once again, Mitchell rejected it. But, according to Magruder, Mitchell approved the plan after it was scaled down to $250,000.

Democratic headquarters in the Watergate office building were entered on Memorial Day weekend 1972. Documents were photographed and bugs planted on telephones.

A few days later, Magruder said, "I received two packages from Mr. Liddy. Each package contained synopses of telephone conversations at Democratic National Committee headquarters and photographs of documents."

He took them home and read them. "They were of little value," Liddy was summoned to Mitchell's office, said Magruder, and the material was shown to the former attorney general.

Mitchell was "dissatisfied with the product Liddy was producing from wiretaps and photographs," Magruder said.

He quoted Liddy as explaining "with some embarrassment, that one of the bugs was not working and one was on the wrong phone."

He said Liddy promised "to correct the problem."

Was the problem corrected?

"We learned on the morning of June 17, that Liddy had not corrected the problem, but created a problem," replied Magruder.

That was the morning that five men were arrested inside Democratic party headquarters.

Before Magruder testified, the trial heard E. Howard Hunt Jr., one of the men convicted of conspiring to commit the Watergate burglary, assert that his demands for money in March 1973 were not meant as blackmail but as requests for what he felt was due to him.

Hunt had demanded $132,000 for legal fees and living expenses in a message sent in March 1973 to then-White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Hunt described the demand as "being as forceful as I could in an attempt to collect long overdue bills."

Ford Seeking Support In His Home District

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is inviting Congress to modify or refine his anti-recession, anti-inflation program "if better alternatives develop."

Appearing at a noisy Republican rally in a Calvin College fieldhouse in his home town of Grand Rapids, Mich., Tuesday night, Ford repeated a statement he made at a White House news conference earlier in the day.

"If, while Congress deliberates, economic circumstances change, I will be open-minded."

Veterans Day Is Observed

Big Spring Post No. 355 of the American Legion held its annual observance of Veterans' Day Sunday, at the Post home on the old San Angelo highway, with appropriate ceremonies and a barbecue dinner. Col. Robert A. Meisenheimer, Webb AFB commander, was the guest speaker.

George Zacharias was presented a life membership in the American Legion by the post adjutant, Troy Melton. Also present were representatives of the World War One Barracks of Big Spring, Gold Star Mothers and Fathers, The VA Hospital, Disabled American Veterans and other veterans' organizations.

The Ladies and Junior Auxiliaries decorated the ballroom for the event and assisted in serving the meal. A dance with music by Louis Puga and the "LPs" spiced the evening.

Computer More Responsible

Analysis of electrocardiograms by computer for the diagnosis of heart disease is proving superior to individual reading by a cardiologist.

Dr. Hubert V. Pipberger of the Washington, D.C., Veterans Administration hospital, who is internationally known in cardiovascular data processing, recently pitted his computer's readings against two of the nation's expert cardiologists.

The computer analyses were about one-fourth more informative than reading by any one cardiologist.

In complex analytical procedures, the computer makes 110 critical measurements of each heartbeat on the ECG, Dr. Pipberger explained.

The computer also has a precise memory of the profiles of many thousands of patients with known heart diseases. If a new record is a profile in the computer's memory, a diagnosis can be made.

Dr. Pipberger began automating ECG analysis in 1957 in hope of obtaining greater accuracy in this field. The finding for his computer is from a test made in more than a thousand cases by cardiologists at the Minneapolis VA hospital.

Republicans Investing Heavily In Election

By JOHN EDWARDS

While local Republican nominees are using their party like a bank, Democrats must continue to rely on their own funds and those of contributors.

After talking with an official of the Texas Secretary of State's office, Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said the Howard County Democratic Party need not report its finances, because "it's for the good of the county."

Funds donated by voters will not help pay for any candidates campaign but will go to the Democratic Headquarters at the Howard County, Mrs. Margaret Ray, secretary to the party, said.

Campaign finance statements were due in the county clerk's office Tuesday.

In about one month, Republican contributors had more than doubled the amount on the party earlier.

Before September 27 this year, the party counted $712 in donations. During the last month, $1,700 was assigned by a long list of persons. Total funds received were $2,412.

Spending increased from $784.70 previously to $1,954 for the period. Add these, and you'll get $2,739.55.

STOOL PIGEON LOSES HIS BUSINESS, WIFE, HEALTH

'There Are A Lot Of People Who Would Like To Kill Me'

DALLAS (AP) — Joe Plestina, an Indiana haberdasher turned government stool pigeon, gazed from his hotel balcony at Dallas' rainy skyline and sighed heavily. "There are a lot of people who would like to kill me. I can't worry about that."

But Joe was worried.

On his bed were an AR-15 semi-automatic rifle with a 60-round banana clip, a sawed-off .30 caliber rifle and an automatic pistol.

Joe is running. And Joe is talking. And Joe is blaming federal narcotics and customs agents for transforming him into a walking target.

Until four days ago, Joe Plestina said, he was a "snitch," one of dozens, perhaps hundreds, who ply their trade on both sides of the Mexican border. The snitches tip federal narcotics agents and customs agents to narcotics deals. Without the snitches, the government would find it nearly impossible to slow the flow of illegal drugs across the Rio Grande.

Anyone who buys narcotics across the border can be fairly sure that a snitch is aware of what's happening, ready to collect a government cash commission for a tip-off.

JEA LOUSY

"I've lost my business, my wife, my health," Plestina said in an interview. "I've got nothing left. I couldn't even have a nervous breakdown now."

He blamed his present troubles on what he said was jealousy and bickering between the two federal agencies which paid him. The agencies denied it.

"I don't know where I'm going. I'm hot right now. But if I'm going down the tubes, I'm taking some of them with me," he said.

Poe Plestina was so named 30 years ago by his parents. Last December, the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) and the U.S. Customs Department at Laredo named him J. P. McGregor as a cover identification.

"I was in the clothing business in Bloomington, Ind., and I moved to Laredo for the serenity. I opened a shop in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico (Laredo's sister city across the Rio Grande). Things were going along pretty well until the government came along," Plestina said.

Chain-smoking cigarettes, he lay stretched across his bed, a form-fitting Mexican skirt open to the waist. A knock on the door bolted him upright. There was no other sound save a driving rain and the balcony curtains flitting with the breeze.

The room service waiter brought in coffee.

"They, the different (government) agents, came at me like salesmen. They said that with my store I was in a good position to keep an eye on the drug traffic, smuggling, what have you," he continued.

Plestina said he was given no formal training but learned "from the bad guys" how to move through the underworld, negotiating deals for large supplies of stolen American military weapons, narcotics and other goods.

MONEY, MONEY

"I've put 20, 25 guys in jail," he said.

"You don't ever act scared with these people. Just tough. Don't say much. Just act bad. Let their imagination do the rest. They'll think you're worse than they are. I've had guys stick guns in my face. I'd just tell 'em what I would do to them if they didn't lay it down. I always travel heavy (armed). You have to," he said.

EXPOSURE

Plestina said he has dealt with one of South Texas' biggest narcotics and weapons dealers, a man known as Mexican Red. "The real force behind him, the gal that keeps his head on straight, is (name omitted), an elementary school teacher in San Antonio," Plestina said.

"We dealt for 600 to 800 weapons in trade for three or four kilos of cocaine. That's the way the DEA wanted me to run at him. But money is the thing. That's all a drug dealer cares about is money... money... money."

Plestina said the deal fell through and nearly resulted in his exposure. There were other cases that, according to Plestina, kept him on his toes.

But the rub, he says, finally came when DEA and customs agents began bickering over who actually controlled Plestina's activities, and therefore the publicity surrounding the arrests in which he played a part.

Poisoning Of Food Is Easy

Food poisoning can dampen a gala spirit quickly — and the only safeguard against it is caution.

Poisoning can be caused by handling food too much, improper cooking and leaving food exposed for several hours.

Foods prepared in advance and left outside can be infected with organisms which multiply quickly and do not affect food taste, smell or appearance, according to Francis Reasonover, Extension foods and nutrition specialist at Texas A&M University.

Since you can't tell if a food is safe to eat, extra precautions are necessary. Foods most vulnerable to poisoning are potato salad, egg products, fish, ground beef, poultry, pork products, sauces, dairy products and pastries, especially custard and cream pies.

Miss Reasonover says that food definitely should not be kept at room temperature more than 3 or 4 hours. It may be cooler or warmer, she advised, but room temperature is critical.

Principal cause of food poisoning, staphylococcus bacteria can be spread by unclean hands and utensils. The cook can spread the bacteria by a sneeze or cough.

Flies, which spread salmonella infection, are another major source of contamination. But when spraying for insects, be sure to cover all food and dishes, cautioned the specialist.

'We're So Afraid To Say We Need Help'

TORONTO, Ontario (AP) — Margaret Trudeau says the stress of being the wife of Canada's prime minister, anxiety over the birth of their second child and her first active political campaign all contributed to the mental troubles that sent her to the hospital last month for psychiatric care.

She was not ready to be Canada's first lady when she married Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in 1971 and the marriage was "a total catastrophe in terms of my identity," she said in a television interview Sunday.

She added: "I prepared myself for my marriage to Pierre Trudeau, but I didn't prepare myself for my marriage to the prime minister."

She was 22 then and Trudeau was 31.

Mrs. Trudeau arrived in Tokyo on Monday to attend a christening ceremony later in the week for a Canadian oil tanker.

In the television interview, she described herself as still a "flower child" and said loss of freedom is one of the worst problems of life in the executive mansion in Ottawa.

"It's like being a prisoner because I'm never alone, except inside the house," she said.

"It's certainly not the glamorous, exciting life that most people think it is. It's a lonely life. It's not a free life — but it's a good life."

She said that following the birth of their second son last Christmas, she experienced postnatal depression. She said she hadn't had time to feel the "responsibility of another life."

Mrs. Trudeau said that campaigning with her husband before the election last July left her feeling "very, very weary and very emotionally light." She said she was "reaching kind of a crisis stage" when she entered a Montreal hospital last month for treatment of severe emotional stress.

The interviewer, Carolyn Taylor, said seeking psychiatric care should not carry a social stigma.

"We're willing to run to a doctor if we've got a cold for heaven's sake, but if there's something desperately wrong with our mental health, we're so afraid to say we need some help."

The Nov. 11 meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., in the home of Mrs. Bonnie McDaniel, 2700 E. 14th.

Officers are Mrs. Perry, president; vice president, Mrs. McDaniel; recording secretary, Mrs. Ana Walls; treasurer, Mrs. Faye Price; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Campbell; and educational director, Mrs. Alice Bentley.

Baby Nursing OK, Don't Show Off

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you won't print this, but I want to get it off my chest so I'll send it anyway.

Recently I was watching Hollywood Squares, and one of the questions was: "According to Dear Abby, is it proper for a mother to nurse her baby in mixed company?" And they said that you said, "No. It's disgusting."

I couldn't believe my ears. I always thought you were broad-minded. How could you have given an answer like that, Abby?

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how lucky you are. If you could see some of the letters I get from mothers who sob, "My kids don't have any friends," you'd get down on your knees and thank the good Lord for the empty cookie jar.

Kids like to gather where they feel comfortable, which is a compliment to you, and Rob. Isn't it a good feeling to know where you son is all the time? You should be grateful, not grumbling.

DEAR ABBY: A while ago you had a "confidential to Virgo" to the effect that to correct a person who has mispronounced a word in the presence of others, I agree. What about the mispronunciation of names? I have an uncommon name, and when someone mispronounces it — and this happens frequently — I always correct that person politely but immediately, even if it must be done in the presence of others (which, unfortunately, is usually the situation).

DEAR ABBY: I am getting sick of all that sex in your column lately. Please clean it up, Abby, or you are going to lose me.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I and our 13-year-old son, Rob, live in a little dinky apartment. For some strange reason Rob's friends always congregate here. Sometimes as many as ten kids crowd into his bedroom, and even with the door closed there's so much laughing and shouting I can't hear myself think.

I try to keep the cookie jar filled, but those kids clean me out in no time. I can't afford bottled drinks, so I make lemonade by the gallon, and in winter it's hot chocolate.

Some of these kids live in palaces compared to this dump, but they never have the gang at their place. I don't think that's fair. Why don't they take turns and let the other mothers have the noise and free snack bar once-in-a-while?

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how lucky you are. If you could see some of the letters I get from mothers who sob, "My kids don't have any friends," you'd get down on your knees and thank the good Lord for the empty cookie jar.

Judge Says Grand Jury Pick System Archaic

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A federal judge has said the grand jury selection system in Texas is archaic and has great potential for abuse, but refused to grant a new trial for a man who claimed racial discrimination in grand jury selection.

U.S. District Court Judge Reynaldo Garza made the comments in an opinion in a ruling on a case in which Rodrigo Partida claimed the grand jury that indicted him on a charge of burglary at night with the intent to commit rape was unconstitutional.

Partida was convicted at Edinburg in 1972 and sentenced to eight years in prison. After failing to obtain a new trial in state courts, Partida and lawyer David Hall of the American Civil Liberties Union took the case to federal court.

In claiming racial discrimination in selection of grand jury members, Hall said 1970 census figures indicated that 79.2 per cent of Hidalgo County's population had Mexican-American surnames.

He also said a study of grand jury makeup between 1962 and 1972 in the county showed that only 39 per cent of the grand jurors selected had Mexican-American surnames.

In an opinion filed last Saturday, Judge Garza noted that the comparison would have been different if

Embargo Placed On Mail Going Into France

An embargo on all mail bound for France has been put in effect immediately by the United States Postal Service, according to a message received by Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty today.

The embargo has been placed on all mail, including surface and air mail because of strike conditions in that country.

According to postal regulations, any airmail addressed to France mailed at the local post office will be returned to sender and surface mail will be held until further notice.

Postage will be refunded on all mail returned due to suspension of service. Customers must file for the refunds, however.

According to Hardesty, the embargo is total, and no mail will be accepted at any post office in France.

$99,428 Money To Pay Nixon's Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rabbi Baruch Korff says his fund to pay former President Richard M. Nixon's legal fees is $99,428 in the red with more bills expected.

A source close to Nixon in San Clemente said that in the face of mounting hospital and legal costs, Korff's President Nixon Justice Fund will provide "essential assistance for Nixon to pay his bills."

WIFE OUT — "His entire finances could be substantially wiped out in a year," the San Clemente source said.

Korff said the fund had $9,325 on hand as of Saturday. He said it owes $77,753 in fees to the firm of Nixon's lawyer, Herbert J. Miller, plus $31,000 in legal fees. Korff-organized Nixon defense committee.

Korff said he has been told the fund will be billed for another $221,000 in legal fees for Nixon.

He refused to say whether that estimate came from Nixon's staff in San Clemente or from his lawyers in Washington. He said he had no details on what specific legal work the additional bills would be for.

Korff said the $77,753 bill plus $30,000 already paid to Miller's law firm includes legal work for suits surrounding the challenged Sept. 7 agreement on Nixon's White House tapes and papers plus a number of subpoenas served on Nixon.

HOW MUCH? — The fund paid for Nixon's suit seeking to have the tapes and papers shipped to storage near San Clemente, Korff said. He said 28 individuals and organizations

'People Hole' Term Adopted

Local city officials attended the Texas Municipal League meeting in Fort Worth reported that the Amarillo water and sewer department had come up with a special problem.

"Since we have employed a woman in the water and sewer department, she objected to us calling the man hole a man hole. We now refer to them as people holes or a person hole," Amarillo officials reported.
