TOO MANY PEOPLE, NOT ENOUGH FOOD

America Is On The Spot

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The question has come to this: our food or theirs? This week the representatives of 130 nations meet in Rome to debate how to increase a critically short food supply, how to apportion what food exists.

The scant supplies and the rising demand have left many of the world's poor on the brink of starvation and boosted the price of food for rich and poor alike.

The policy that the United States carries to the World Food Conference, starting Tuesday (Nov. 5) and lasting until Nov. 16, may not please the rest of the world. But it holds more promise for the American housewife than it did a few months ago.

And three days later ordered that any big export deals in the future receive federal approval first. The Soviet order later was reduced to 2.2 million tons until the 1975 harvest.

The explanation the President reportedly gave to grain dealers was "political problems" with the Congress and the people: problems that result from the 17 per cent rise in retail food prices in the past year.

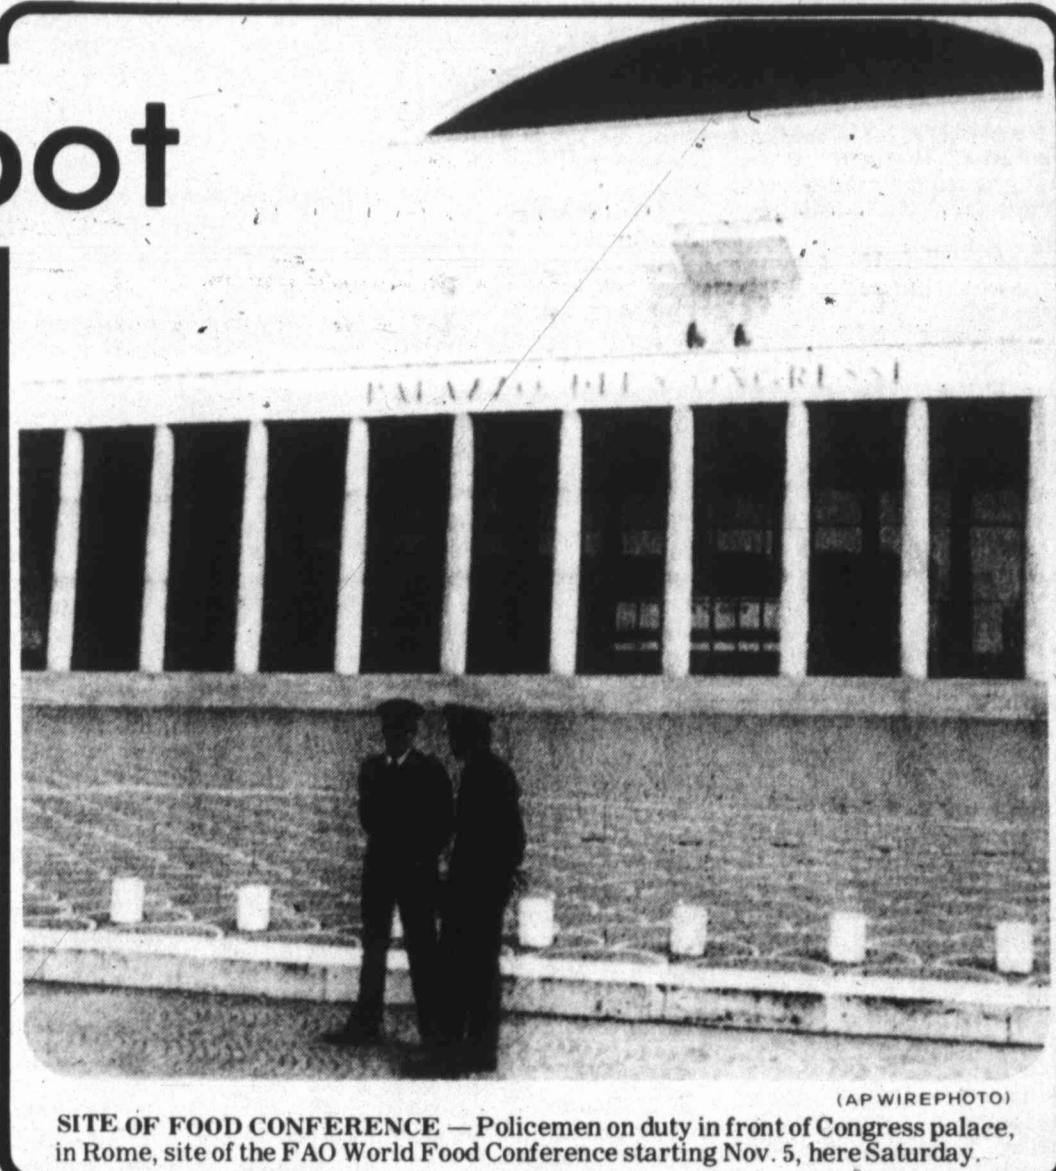

If so, then the voice of the American consumer finally is being heard more than three feet away from the supermarket counter.

If so, does it foretell changes in U.S. agricultural policy and priorities? And if that answer is yes, then what about Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, who proclaims the free market policy as his own and who claims credit for getting the federal government out of the grain storage business? The tug of war goes on — between domestic needs and foreign needs, between the affluent of other nations bidding for America's food stocks and the hungry of other nations with no money to bid; between American farmers who want to keep prices up and American housewives demanding lower prices. Only a few years ago, the U.S. government stockpiled millions of tons of grain under the subsidy system. Those stockpiles were a buffer against high super-market prices and abnormal foreign demand. When famine hit India, Africa, Latin America or Asia, the federal grain surplus provided relief, often free. When the affluent nations purchased grain abroad, the order usually was filled from the U.S. surplus, and the American housewife didn't notice. There was more than enough to keep her prices from rising.

Today, the situation is different. Butz, who will head the U.S. delegation to Rome, is clear on his position: FARMERS SQUEEZED "We had a very rapid rise in food prices a year and a half ago. It was spectacular. Of course it hit everybody. And politicians jumped on it. But for many months prior to that time, food prices had been coasting on a plateau. Farmers were being squeezed and agriculture was not in a good state of repair. When I became secretary three years ago corn was piling up in Iowa and Illinois — on the streets, on farms, 75 to 80 cents a bushel for the stuff. They were in distress."

ALTERED
Because of world demand for American food, President Ford has abruptly altered at least the mechanics of the "free market" concept of the Nixon administration.

On Oct. 4, the White House stopped the shipment of 3.2 million tons of corn and wheat to the Soviet Union.

Pre-Dawn Fire Fatal To 72

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A four-hour pre-dawn fire killed at least 72 persons and injured about 50 others Sunday in a seven-story building housing a small hotel, apartments and shops, police said.

Most of the dead were overcome by the smoke while others were killed in jumps or other attempts to escape, police said.

The cause of the fire was not immediately known.

'WORTH LIVING FOR' Death Takes Holiday At Election Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Death apparently takes a holiday every four years.

Two sociologists in the State University of New York at Stony Brook have found what they say is "a significant dip in U.S. mortality before U.S. presidential elections."

"Apparently, if there's something worth living for, the dying find it within themselves to hang on," comments the magazine Human Behavior.

The sociologists, David P. Phillips and Kenneth A. Feldman, compared U.S. death rates in September and October of presidential election years with the death rates in those months in the years before and after the presidential election.

Phillips and Feldman studied elections from 1904 to 1968, according to a report in the magazine. The researchers also found a drop in deaths in New York City before Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement.

This drop was detected, the researchers said, even though mortality statistics are not classified by religion and even though Jews account for only 28 per cent of the New York City population.

In a group of 400 people, Phillips and Feldman found 16 deaths in the month preceding the month in which their birthday occurs. Statistical estimates predicted there would be 28 deaths.

But during the month of birth and in the three following months, the researchers found 140 deaths, 23 more than the statistical averages predicted.

Not so today. Wheat is selling at over $5 dollars a bushel, and corn about $3.75. Two years ago, wheat was $1.50 a bushel and corn $1.30.

"This is the first time in 25 years that the government has not been in the commodity business," Butz says. "We now own no cotton, no corn, no wheat, no grain sorghum, no soybeans ... Some people are very upset by this, the people who depended on the United States government to carry their inventories for them, at taxpayers' expense."

But not everyone agrees. Even the Agriculture Department has a new internal study that considers whether some federally-held surplus grains stocks might have advantages. There also is the possibility that with the only stocks in the hands of private traders and foreign governments, as Butz wants, the market may be prone to speculation and profiteering.

"No question about it," says Lester Brown of the Overseas Development Corp., one of the nation's leading agronomists. "And I think that is why Earl would like to see the government not be in the business. Because he comes from an

Another War Foreseen By Guerrilla Group

By The Associated Press

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's efforts to lower the world price of oil appeared to gather support from Iran on Saturday. But the Palestinian guerrillas described his blueprint for Middle East peace as "sheer nonsense" and predicted another war.

Kissinger made the apparent breakthrough on oil prices during more than four hours of talks in Tehran with the Shah of Iran. The American secretary has just completed visits to the Soviet Union and South Asia, and Egypt announced he will fly to Cairo on Tuesday.

The shah said he will propose to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Vienna next month that the posted price of oil go down from its current level of $11.65 a barrel to $10, about 14 per cent. The posted price is set by the producing countries as the base of taxes and royalties from oil companies. Despite his plan, which the Iranian ruler announced in a news conference, the shah said the cost to consumers probably will go up. This is because of inflation in the cost of goods the oil states import and because of high profits by the oil companies.

As outlined by the shah, the proposal would in effect set up the $10 rate to serve as a base price, linked to inflationary costs of a cross-section of consumer goods the producer countries import. He admitted this would result quickly in higher prices for oil.

Kissinger had said he left his talks with the shah "with some encouragement that an evolution in a constructive direction was possible. Now what form this will take will have to await Iran's proposals at the OPEC meetings and other discussions that might take place."

In a joint communique, the Iranians reaffirmed their support for Kissinger's efforts for a peaceful solution to the Arab-Israeli dispute.

Ford Hammering Away At Economic Theme

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — President Ford wrapped up his campaign for an economy-minded Congress Saturday by urging voters to join him in chopping off the tentacles of "an octopus-like government in Washington."

The last leg of 16,685 miles of campaigning in a score of states carried Ford from Oregon to Utah to Colorado and Kansas in support of Republican congressional candidates.

Ford's special targets were Republican efforts to retain three endangered Senate seats, but he spread endorsements to state and other candidates as well.

In Salt Lake City, Ford was applauded by a crowd of 10,000 at the University of Utah. He treated an audience filling about two-thirds of the campus basketball arena to a partisan lecture on what he said was an "overgrown, all-powerful bureaucracy," and urged a return of power to the local level.

"Big spending got our economy into the trouble it is experiencing today," Ford said in Salt Lake City. "And now we are threatened with a Congress whose prescription for the problem is more spending."

"It just doesn't make sense. And, as Ford has in other recent speeches, he asked for Democrats and Republicans alike "to vote as inflation fighters rather than as political partisans" to give the economy the medicine he prescribes: "A good, strong dose of fiscal discipline."

Ford spoke of "an octopus-like government in Washington" as he declared "we have to chop off those tentacles. And as each of those tentacles withers, we have to return the power and the revenues they have grasped back to the states and localities where they belong."

It was a day blending four campaign speeches with three GOP receptions and a meeting with Colorado cattlemen.

It's about all over but the shouting, with who gets to shout decided at the polls Tuesday. Absentee totals promise to be around 300 by the time all are returned, and if the same ratio of absentees to total votes is maintained as in the previous year, the total vote may be upwards of 5,500. Maybe it will go higher than that, but even so, that would be only about one out of three eligible voters — and that would be a disgrace to qualified electors.

A good bit of news came from the United Way, which is now around $110,000 toward a $121,777 objective. While that last chunk is the hardest, it is still "in the cards" if they are worked and reported promptly. If you are one of those missed, don't wait to be asked — mail in a fair share or call the UW office.

Die-Hard Smokers Snarl At Edict

NEW YORK (AP) — "Let 'em wear masks!" That was the die-hard reaction of one hoarse-voiced veteran smoker to nonsmokers and this city's new law banning smoking in certain public places.

"It's a lot of nonsense," continued Margaret Stern, a retiree who has savored tobacco for 50 of her 70 years. "I don't want people telling me what to do." But Health Commissioner Lowell E. Bellin was trying to do exactly that Friday as he posted shiny new "No Smoking" signs in several East Side supermarkets.

He explained that the puffing public would get a two-to-four week honeymoon before his department starts cracking down with summonses for violation of the law.

"Let them wear masks" is let the public be damned," Dr. Bellin insisted, predicting that most New Yorkers would cooperate with the new ban on smoking in supermarkets, elevators, college classrooms and certain recreational facilities.

He told reporters that if shoppers found smokers in supermarkets they should call his office and an inspector would talk with the manager.

"In a sense the managers are deputized by the department to enforce the law," Bellin said.

Bellin also assured apartment building owners that if tenants insist on smoking in elevators, his department will dispatch an inspector.

Better public health will be the big benefit of the new law, he said, reminding his listeners that two out of three persons don't smoke.

HALLOWEEN CANDY HAD BEEN DOCTORED

Poisoned Boy Died In Dad's Arms

PASADENA, Tex. (AP) — Police continued to question residents of a middle-class suburban neighborhood Saturday where five poisonous candies turned up in Halloween treats, killing one 8-year-old boy.

"We've still got to pinpoint the exact location where the children were trick-or-treating," said Capt. R.E. Rhodes of the police department of this suburban Houston city.

Police said cyanide crystals in a plastic Pixie Stix container of powdered candy killed Timothy O'Bryan of nearby Deer Park, Tex.

Pasadena detective David Mulligan said the other poisoned candy was given to children who were not in a group of five children trick-or-treating with O'Bryan.

Lt. E.L. Goad said a parent also turned in police two pieces of candy with sewing needles imbedded in them.

Goad called on all parents to get rid of candy collected by children Halloween.

"It's just not worth the risk," he said. "If parents want children to eat candy, let them go to the store and buy candy."

Rhodes said the dead youth's father, Ronald O'Bryan, was helping officers trying to pinpoint the exact houses visited in the Bowling Green subdivision here.

"He's still in a state of shock," Rhodes said. "We hope that today or tomorrow, things will start coming back to him."

The father, fighting tears, told reporters how his son began vomiting immediately after eating the candy, then became limp in his arms.

"I never even really thought it might have been poisoned candy until the police told me about the cyanide. . . ." O'Bryan, an optician, said.

O'Bryan said he accompanied five children on their Halloween night rounds of what a Pasadena police officer termed "a real nice neighborhood with a lot of new homes."

Police said there are 48 homes in the subdivision and they were questioning homeowners in each one.

"There are still a couple of people we haven't talked with yet," Rhodes said. "We've got to get this thing cleared up before things happen to somebody else."

Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk said the cyanide in the candy "will kill you within an hour. It's a very deadly drug. That's why they use it in the gas chamber."

Jachimczyk said the poison may have been sodium cyanide.

Peter Christian, a Houston police chemist, said sodium cyanide is a common chemical used in many processes and can be found in most university chemical laboratories and in most chemical plants.

He said it is not a controlled substance and is not illegal for a person to possess.

Most of the residents of the area were incredulous about the event.

Mrs. Linda Smedley, 23, said the dead child called at her house for treats.

"My kids will never go trick-or-treating again," she said. "I can't believe it would happen in a nice neighborhood like this one."

The problem may be something a teacher can't solve.

Children have so many things to learn in life, they need all the help they can get. Teachers do a tremendous job. But all the teaching in the world can't solve a vision problem. And one out of every four schoolchildren has one.

A child has no way of knowing he isn't seeing as well as he should. And school eye charts aren't enough. That's why periodic eye examinations by a qualified practitioner are so important.

If your child does need eyewear, TSO will fill the doctor's prescription to the exact specifications at a most reasonable fee.

We know you don't want your child to miss the wonders of life. Neither do we. At TSO, we care how you look at life.

MUST RETYPE COPY
Automation Ruling
Hits Detroit News

DETROIT (AP) — News service copy other than sports news and financial market tables must be retyped by composing room employees even though it is available in electronic form, an arbitrator has ruled.

The case involves the Detroit News, the afternoon newspaper here, and its printers' union. Electronic editing and typesetting are key aspects of efforts to automate the processes of newspapers throughout the country.

VIDEO SCREEN

The new piece of equipment involved is a CRT, or cathode ray tube. It is a television-like device, with a video screen and keyboard much like that of a typewriter. It can be used to write or edit copy and process it for typesetting.

The arbitrator, Louis A. Crane, said Thursday that electronic copy editing equipment is not exclusively an editorial tool at a newspaper and that its operation is partly a function of the composing room.

However, the ruling distinguishes between copy produced by the newspaper itself on CRTs and copy it receives from news services and syndicates. Copy produced at the newspaper can be handled by editors using CRTs, the arbitrator ruled.

CONTRACT

The News' current contract gives the newspaper the right to use typesetting tape, provided by its news services, to produce stock market tables, sports news and some financial news.

Under the decision, these categories of news copy could continue to be handled without resetting by members of the International Typographical Union.

However, all other news copy provided by news services or syndicates must be reset by printers, according to Crane's decision.

Crane said the CRT is a "substitute for the keyboarding operation previously performed in the composing room."

"The CRT has a composing room function," Crane said in settling a grievance filed Oct. 2, 1972.

UP TO MANAGEMENT

Crane ruled that the News could use its Hendrix CRT-3400 computer system to handle local copy and copy produced by its bureaus.

Once members of the ITU put copy from services and syndicates into the News' computer system, the arbitrator ruled, it can be edited and processed on CRTs by editors without further handling by the printers' union.

National copy manually keyboarded into the system, by whatever means management desires, can be called up onto a CRT in the editorial department for editing and set into type automatically, Crane said.

The News switched to a CRT-3400 computer system to handle news and feature copy in October 1972 and has one of the largest CRT installations in the country.

In addition to copy handled by its own reporters, the wires of The Associated Press, United Press International and other news services are hooked directly to the News' computer.

SOME TOLD TO INVEST IN BEANS

People Reverting To War Economy Across Europe

LONDON (AP) — In these days of soaring inflation, British millionaire Jim Slater advised investing in cans of baked beans.

You can't eat stock certificates or fine art, but even if the bottom falls out of the baked bean market, Slater claims you won't starve.

One British newspaper, the Sunday Telegraph, took Slater seriously, bough 100 pounds ($240) worth of canned food and plans to see if that investment does better than the London stock market.

Across Europe in Aquino, a small Italian town south of Rome, grocer Antonio del Duca complains: "People here now raise pigs and hens in their back yard. They buy grapes and make their own wine, knead their spaghetti at home and even manage to prepare a homemade kind of soap."

"Believe me, we are back to a war economy like in 1943."

It has come to that.

HIGH IN ITALY
Western European inflation today ranges from 7 per cent annually in West Germany to 18.7 per cent in Italy — compared with an 11 per cent rate in the United States.

An Associated Press survey in Britain, France, West Germany and Italy indicates many European are cutting back, often with ingenuity.

In Britain, for example, where the inflation rate was 10 per cent last year and 17.1 per cent this year, housewives write to newspapers to share money-saving ideas. Among them:

— "To make perfume last, shake a little on a small piece of cotton wool and drop this inside your bra. The scent lingers longer." Anne Nunn, Ipswich.

— "Always have a meal or snack before shopping for groceries." Mary Rogers, Taplow.

— "Shop one day later each week. Every seven weeks you'll have one week's housekeeping money left over." Joan Read, Rochester.

— "If only a drop of lemon juice is required, pierce the lemon with a knitting needle and squeeze. The lemon will keep indefinitely as the holes closes again." Jane Smith, Nottingham.

Other housewives suggest that hair shampoo is cheaper than bubble bath and does the same job, that dad's old pajamas make good ironing board covers and that telephone directories can become children's scrapbooks.

John MacDonald, 69, a retired butcher, says the day he withdrew $25 from his savings account "really brought home to use what inflation means. We swore we'd never touch our savings." MacDonald and his wife Madge "have always been careful people, but the little pot where we keep money for emergencies is having to come out too often nowadays."

Elsewhere in Europe, problems are much the same as ordinary people and even the better-off struggle with inflation.

In Aquino, Italy, grocer del Dune describes the falling sales this way:

"Cross out marmalade, coffee, cocoa, funafish, tinned meat and condensed milk. Do away with pastry, chocolate and think of the drop in cheese sales. Then you will understand the situation."

FEWER PAPERS
Italians buy fewer newspapers and rely more on television news. Expensive clothes are giving way to blue jeans and t-shirts. Hotel managers, bowing to new facts of life, allow patrons to dine tieless and in shirtsleeves outside, even at the fancier establishments.

"My husband and I wanted another child, but we are reluctant now," Giuseppina Caliendo of Rome said. The average Italian salary is 180,000 lire or $280 a month.

In France, a 14 per cent inflation rate has been softened by the fact that wage increases have generally kept up with price rises. Once again on the French Riviera, hotels and restaurants were full this summer despite substantial price rises.

But most Frenchmen — earning the average French wage of 2,100 francs monthly — voice the familiar complaints.

Marcel Warnaud of Neuilly-sur-Seine outside Paris says he is cutting down on weekend outings with his wife and two children. Yves Pousset, an industrial designer, banded together with friends to get a 20 per cent discount on bulk orders for books.

Manuel Ramon-Martinez, a Paris concierge, says he is sacrificing his passion for soccer. "I don't go out any more," he admitted. "Now I get my football from the television."

In West Germany where the 7 per cent inflation rate is the lowest in the European Common Market, the problems are much the same.

After taxes, the average West German's income is 1,149 marks, or about $441 per month.

Still, with all the complaints, Europeans manage to put money aside for what they consider to be important.

In Britain, seats for closed circuit television coverage of the George Foreman-Muhammad Ali heavyweight championship fight sold for between $25 and $50, or up to about half the average weekly paycheck. All 12,000 seats in London theaters were sold out.

Residential Construction Is Down Sharply In State

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Residential construction in Texas plummeted 42 per cent from August to September, the Bureau of Business Research reports.

The index of building authorizations stood at 142.5 in August and fell to 82.8 — its lowest September level in eight years.

Net withdrawals from federally insured savings and loan associations totaled $1.2 billion nationally in August, the fifth straight month that withdrawals have exceeded deposits.

And preliminary estimates show another $1 billion was withdrawn in September. But the same estimates show a net deposit of $800 million in October.

Savings and loan associations are primary sources for construction loans.

The cost of a typical new home increased 38 per cent from 1969 to 1974, rising from $27,900 to $38,600, the bureau said.

Increased oil and gas exploration accounted for exceptions to the decrease in residential construction in Midland and Odessa, and increased refinery capacity accounted for exceptions in Galveston, Texas City, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange.

The number of new duplexes authorized in Midland increased 3,300 per cent in the first nine months of this year, compared with the same period a year ago.

The boom in new housing starts in 1971-73 severely depleted building materials. Because of the depression in the housing industry, materials are back up to normal levels but are in less demand. This means, the bureau said, those who supply materials most essential in the early phases of construction — gypsum, cement, lumber and plywood — are hardest hit by the depression.

Nonresidential construction is up 15 per cent for the first nine months of this year.

Y Indian Guides is a father and son program of the YMCA which encourages boys and dads to spend time together using an Indian theme. Boys are 6, 7, and 8 years of age.

Debbie Lowry Assumes Role

New Increase Is Proposed

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's largest cane sugar refiner, Amstar, has announced a 23-cent increase to $2.85 in the wholesale price for a five-pound bag of sugar.

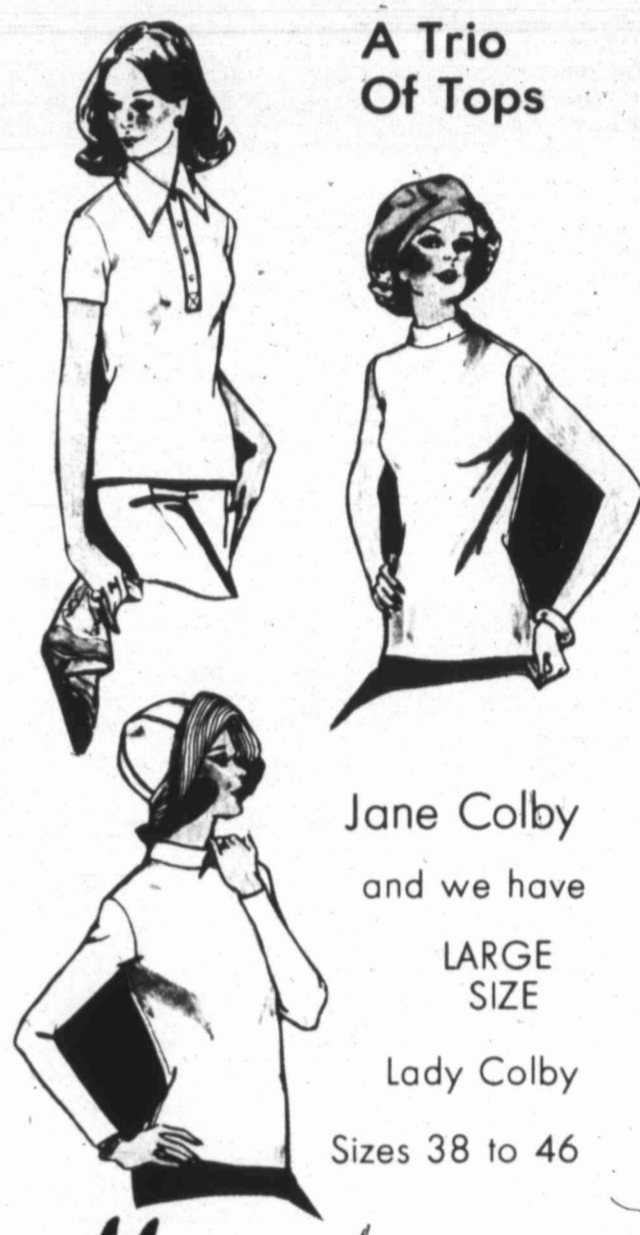

Amstar blamed the rising cost of raw sugar for the price increases.

PITTSBURGH, Calif. (AP) — Ricky's goldfish died. He watched it floating, softly twined in tendrils of green.

"Is it asleep?" he asked his mother.

"No," she answered, pausing to reach for elusive, gentle words. "The goldfish is dead."

The goldfish, a pet dog, a family friend Rachael who died of cancer, a playmate Eric who died in an auto accident. All of them, he knows, are dead and gone.

"What will you do with me when I die?" Ricky inquired solemnly.

"We'll put you in the ground in a box with a little bed and pillows. You'll go to heaven, a light, bright place, God's place, and find laughter and other children playing," she gaped, hurrying for the answer.

"Don't bury me! Don't put me in the ground," Ricky commanded. "I don't want the bugs to get me. Can I take my cars and drums and crayons and camera with me? Will you be with me? Will you carry me in your pocket forever and ever?"

"Yes, yes, Ricky," his mother said, exhausted, helpless.

KNOWS HE'S DYING

Ricky Pineda is 5 and he knows he is dying of leukemia and is now hospitalized with spinal meningitis. He has suffered his fourth turbulent relapse, millions of distorted white blood cells multiplying chaotically throughout his body. Doctors expect another remission. But they give him no more than six months to live.

"It's so hard to tell your child about death, but children have a premonition," says his mother, Gloria, 25, an attractive, expressive clerk-typist.

"But, my fear is probably greater than his," she says. "Ricky knows he will die. He understands there will be a time, probably very soon, when Ricky won't be around anymore. He accepts it in a candid, sometimes brutally open way, but he still is frightened."

"I accept it, but I still hope for a miracle," she adds. "Ricky's deepest fear is whether his mother will be with him in death."

Graham: Nixon Nearly Died

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he has been in touch with Richard M. Nixon's family and there is "no doubt about it, he nearly died."

Graham said he would have flown to California to be with the family of the former president, but he was starting a new religious crusade here.

with him in death. "I tell him I'll come, too, that we all will eventually be with him," Gloria says. "I don't know how much he grasps."

Ricky, who lives the storms of disease, lives closer to pain and accepts dying and deformity far better than many adults who would "freak out," his mother believes.

"We can talk and cry together. We grow together. It ages us."

Since the diagnosis when he was 2, the trauma of his disease has permeated his young family — mother, father and younger brother — strained his parents' marriage and forced them to deal with death.

Well-meaning relatives tug at them, some bearing holy oil and water and incense, some suggesting faith healing and psychic surgery, some arguing that Ricky should be allowed to die peacefully and let God's will be done.

The American Cancer Society estimates there will be 21,000 new cases of leukemia and 15,000 deaths in 1974. About 2,150 of the new cases will be among children under 15 and about 1,650 will die of the nearly always fatal disease.

Three clinical social workers at Stanford University Medical Center have studied the problems of families of leukemic children. They followed more than 40 cases from diagnosis to several months after the funeral.

"From the moment of diagnosis until death of the child — usually two or three years later — the family is literally in a state of siege," says David M. Kaplan, Ph.D., director of clinical social work at Stanford.

"From the beginning and throughout the illness, even when the child appears well, the family has to accept the eventual death, face medical expenses, continue to care for other children, give up future plans — all without knowing when there will be an end to the siege. They literally go into a state of limbo."

He concludes that only about one family in 10 is able to cope with a child's terminal illness and that the rates of divorce, marital distress and problems with other children are extremely high among the group.

Death is a daily companion to Ricky's devoutly religious mother and his father, Richard, 28, a part-time law student and youth coordinator at a Spanish cultural center in this small industrial community on an arm of San Francisco Bay. They have a 2-year-old son, Michael.

"At first I was afraid I'd cry every time Ricky asked me about dying," his mother recalled as Ricky lay on the floor, curled up, worn out and listening. "But I never really had to tell him it would happen. He already knew."

"He wants to know what death will be like. We have assured him that he'll not end up as the goldfish did, or a pet dog."

Gloria mulls her son's questions and her answers. "You want to go near the truth," she says, "but not so near that it scares him. We often talk about death, but we try not to let it dominate our lives. It's very hard."

Ricky suffers from acute lymphoblastic leukemia. He has undergone chemotherapy, radiation, surgery and painful bone marrow tests and spinal taps.

One drug makes his hair fall out, another distends his body. Mothers pull their children away from him; taunting children tell him he will die.

DEATH'S RITUALS

Thoughtful, precocious, Ricky carries on long conversations, often about his death and its rituals and precisely what heaven might be like — part Disneyland, part Sesame Street, part haunted house and darkness.

"Ricky has wound my wife around his finger," says Ricky's father. "When he has a tantrum, I hit him. There's no use in his being spoiled."

"I want my dying son to lead as normal a life as possible, with normal little pleasures and sadnesses."

When he was stronger, Ricky used to play with other children. Often, now, he is withdrawn, sometimes hostile, sometimes accusing his mother: "You don't love me; everybody hates me."

In September 1972, Ricky's parents became worried because their sturdy, active child was always catching colds and flu and running fevers. He bruised easily; his bones ached. He was tired and wanted to sleep all the time. He never awoke refreshed.

Doctors diagnosed it as leukemia.

GUILT FEELINGS

The father, a Vietnam veteran, explains: "I had these guilt feelings. It's hard to say to your wife, 'Take some time from a son who is very ill and give me some time.' You feel kind of guilty."

Several months ago, new furniture was delivered to the Pineda home — crates of soft, new things. Furniture that looked and smelled and felt new; furniture that meant new beginnings; furniture that would endure when Ricky was gone.

In the bright afternoon, sitting among the boxes and crates, Ricky cried and retired into a crate.

Ford's Job Rating Up

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — President Ford's job rating has risen to 55 per cent approval, according to the latest Gallup Poll.

The first Gallup survey after Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon, taken Sept. 27-30, pegged Ford's approval rating at 50 per cent. That was the low point since Ford took office.

But in a survey conducted Oct. 18-21, after Ford's appearance before a congressional subcommittee to explain the pardon, the figure was back up to 55 per cent, with 28 per cent disapproving and 17 per cent giving undecided.

The Gallup organization said the increase came mainly from Republicans, who gave the President 75 per cent approval, compared with 65 per cent in September.

The Nixon pardon was most often cited by those disapproving of Ford's performance, a Gallup spokesman said.

Another survey also showed that public reaction against the Nixon pardon is mellowing.

Pollster Albert Sindingler found 52.8 per cent disapproving with the pardon in the week after Ford bestowed it on Sept. 8. But in the period between Oct. 19-28, Sindingler found 32.5 per cent disagreeing. The number from 41.8 per cent to 51.4 per cent, he said.

Sydney's Opera House A Hit With Aussies

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The orchestra pit is too small. The air conditioning is erratic. And the whole enterprise is substantially in the red.

But Sydneysiders, as the people who live here are called, remain ecstatic about the Sydney Opera House, one year old and among the most talked-about arts centers in the world.

The bright white building with its sail-like roofs rising above Sydney Harbor — which means there's no space for a parking lot around it — has hosted grand opera, a hairdressing competition, rock concerts and symphony orchestras in the past year.

Guided tours of the building are booked up months in advance, and Sydney cultural circles are convinced that the house has attracted to musical and theatrical events people who never would have attended them before.

More than 2½ million people to date have attended performances, concerts, tours and other events in the opera house. And officials like to point out that during a 17-performance opera festival in January all seats were on a nonsubscription basis and all were sold out.

Practical problems persist, however, with the $120-million building, which opened Sept. 28, 1973, with the Australian Opera's performance of Prokofiev's "War and Peace." Some, like the air conditioning gremlins, will be cleared up soon but others are more serious.

"One of the worst problems is the orchestra pit in the opera theater," Opera

House General Manager Frank Barnes said in an interview. "It now accommodates about 60 players, but you need 80 to 90 for a big-scale opera like 'Aida.'"

The proscenium opening in the 1,530-seat Opera Theater is only 40 feet, which also causes problems for operas with big casts.

"Aida" will be presented in January, and because of the pit difficulty the opera will have to be in the 2,700-seat Main Hall. That makes the Main Hall unavailable for its usual concert events.

Barnes said the opera house is looking for ways to expand the opera theater pit, but cables holding up the ceiling block expansion in some directions. Some of the musicians may wind up eventually with places under a stage overhang.

Barnes also said the building's dramatic design leaves "a lot of little corners and things" that are too small for studios or offices and must be wasted.

"But the building itself is such an attraction you accept these things," he said. "We hope now we've got over the impact of the building itself and can turn now to concentrating on the impact of the performances that go on here."

Probated Term Handed Out

Esquirol Flores, 19, 304 NE 8th St., was given a three-year probated sentence in 118th District Court for carrying a switchblade knife.

Flores pleaded guilty to the offense.

THEFTS

A window was knocked out and speakers and a tape deck stolen from a car belonging to Jennifer Mosby, 801 Anna St., police said. The auto burglary happened early Saturday morning while the vehicle was parked on the south side of Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

A black and white television, $1 in change from a soft drink machine and an "undisclosed amount of change" from a leukemia donation display was taken during the burglary of Jiffy Car Wash, 807 W. 4th St., after 7 p.m. Friday, police were told. Also, W. J. Ringener Jr. said $30 in damage was done to the back door.

Pool balls and a rack were missing after the I.O.O.F. Hall at Ninth and San Antonio Streets was burglarized Friday night, police reported.

Robert K. Smith, 1209 S. Monticello St., reported five aluminum screens missing from his residence Friday night.

An am-fm radio, eight-track tape player and speakers were reported stolen from the home of Christine Renteria, 17, 208 Lockhart St., police learned Friday afternoon.

VANDALISM

Rosa Ontiveros, 509½ NW 7th St., was listed as the owner of a vehicle with cut seat covers early Saturday morning. The vehicle was parked on North San Antonio Street, police said.

Front and rear windshields were broken, a window broken, the front seat cut, the back seat torn out, a side-view mirror broken, a heater hose cut and wire damaged in a car belonging to George Martinez, 1007 N. Runnels St., police said. The car had been parked in the alley behind 506 N. San Antonio St.

The manager of Thrifty Lodge, 1004 W. 4th St., woke up Saturday morning and discovered a kitchen window broken by a shotgun blast, police said.

A rock hit the door of his jeep while Gary Norsen, 226-B Langley, was driving in the 1000 block of Main St. Friday night, police were told.

WHY?

WHY?

WHY?

WHY — I did not campaign during the Primary of 1974.

1. I was running 326 head of cattle. While working these cattle the foreman was entangled in a rope and lost his life, therefore leaving me the duty of taking care of the cattle on my time off.
2. I was taking care of Commissioners' Court and Probate Court at this time.
3. I had a brother who was very ill and passed away during this time.

WHY — I would like to serve a second term as your County Judge.

1. I like the County Judge position and with four years experience, I feel I could be an even better judge the next four years.
2. Also, I would like for the 10,973 citizens who did not vote in the primary election to go vote and write in the write-in column A. G. Mitchell for County Judge.

WHY — Are you going to the polls November 5, 1974 and write in A. G. Mitchell for County Judge?

Because the records show that he has for the last thirty years had Big Spring and Howard County at heart and will continue to run your County Government on a sound economical basis.

'MY UNCLE WAS HUNG BY HITLER'

Man Who Knew Violence Likes The Quiet Life

By MARJ CARPENTER

"My uncle was hung by Hitler."

From the days when he was a teen-ager in Hitler's Berlin to the days when he was mugged at the edge of East Harlem, George von Hassell, now of Big Spring, has never had a dull life. However, he refers to his present life as assistant at St. Paul's Lutheran Church and community case worker at the state hospital as "very peaceful and I like it."

Von Hassell recalls, "My uncle, who was on the German General Staff, was in on the plot to kill Hitler in 1943 when a bomb was placed in a briefcase near Hitler. Either the briefcase was moved, or Hitler moved at the conference table, because the bomb went off and injured the dictator, but failed to kill him. Hitler then had the entire group involved in the plot hung, and also killed many members of their families."

"My aunt was sent to Buchenwald Concentration Camp along with two of her daughters. One of the girls died there. Their four grandchildren were taken from them and put up for adoption. We have never contacted those cousins again."

BORN IN U.S.

Von Hassell was born in New York City where his parents had come from Berlin in 1927 to join his grandparents. When the Kaiser was run out of Berlin in 1917, many Germans, including von Hassell's grandparents, also left. "Hitler hated aristocracy. Our family was considered such at that time. My great-grandfather was founder of the German Navy. He was the Grand Admiral von Tirpitz," von Hassell recalled.

BACK TO BERLIN

"My parents came to join my grandparents, who were in banking in New York. However, when the Depression years came, they left the grandparents here and went back to Berlin for business reasons. I was one year old," von Hassell added. Von Hassell related, "The main thing I remember about the war years in the 40s is being hungry. I still fear hunger. We ate lots of cabbage soup and I still like it. In fact, I like any food, leftovers or whatever. But whenever I hear there will be a food shortage, I get this feeling of panic and want to stock up."

The church worker, like his parents returning to Germany, was also making a return when he came to Big Spring. He has been here before, stationed here in the Air Force in the early 50s at Webb. In fact, when he was in Big Spring before, he and his wife, Rose, were attending a sneak preview one night at the Ritz Theatre here.

TEARS STREAMED

The preview turned out to be the Hitler films shown in "The Third Reich" and in the films was the hanging of the group that plotted against Hitler. The victims were strung up on meat hooks and hung with piano wire, revived and hung again. Von Hassell, then a young airman, sat in the dark theatre with tears streaming down his face as he recognized his uncle in the group.

Their oldest son, George III, 21, now a student at Howard College, was born here. Von Hassell had returned to this country with his parents as soon as they could get out of Germany after the war and lived in New York City where his father worked for the telephone company. His mother still lives on Long Island.

Von Hassell graduated from Memphis High School in Long Island and went to work for the East New York Savings Bank. He met his wife there. He said he worked in the A through K portion of bookkeeping and she worked in L through Z. They married and he went into the Air Force, coming to Big Spring. He also was stationed briefly in Alaska.

Getting out of the service, the von Hassells returned to New York City and he again worked in a bank. Then von Hassell decided "There has to be more to life than counting money." So he went to Luther College in Teaneck, New Jersey, and earned an Associate Arts degree in Christian Education. He went to work for the Lutheran Church with his first assignment at All Saints Lutheran, an all-black congregation in the Bronx. He then became the first married male parish worker for the Board of Lutheran Missions.

LODY RVERYTHING

While he and his family were away one Thanksgiving, they were robbed of everything they owned — furniture, food, clothing — even the rugs on the floor and pictures on the wall. "We then were housed in a mission house in the Upper West Side. I became involved with a young Puerto Rican youth in a hospital. He had serious hepatitis from excessive use of drugs. He died. Before he died, he told me "I wish I'd met you ten years ago. Maybe I'd have had a chance."

Von Hassell sent a petition to the mission board and ended up in charge of Iglesia Luterana Zion and then directed the Centra de Axion Cristiana drug rehabilitation center and detox center.

The center was right next to Harlem on the upper side of Manhattan. Their patients were mainly Puerto Ricans and blacks. "We had so many that we could not even take marijuana cases. There was so much need for those mainlining with heroin cocaine and other hard drugs. One seven year old died right across the street on the school grounds from an overdose. Our patients ranged from 12-50 in age," the church worker recalled.

Once von Hassell was threatened because patients believed he had reported a big haul to the narcotics officers. Twice he was robbed. Once he was mugged and kicked and hurt "in broad daylight and nobody would help me."

SHOT IN FOOT

His children include George, Richard, now 13 and attending Runnels Junior High, and Elizabeth, now 11.

"While near Harlem, we had to keep a big German shepherd dog which my wife would take with her on a leash to go to the store. The children could not take a ball or bicycle to the park. Somebody would steal it from them before they got there. Finally, after I was shot in the foot, we could take no more, and moved to California."

They moved in 1973 to Lamont near Bakersfield. He was lay associate of the Shepherd of the Valley Lutheran Church. That year in Lamont, the big hassle between the lettuce workers, teamsters and farmers erupted.

There were constant demonstrations, fires and fights between the growers, workers and the unions. "The children liked it better than New York, but again there was violence. When we decided to go back to the only peaceful town I had known — Big Spring, Texas — the children cried because it was bigger than Lamont and they were afraid it might be like New York. Of course it's not and they love it here."

"Big Spring's a good town where people care about each other. It's peaceful."

The von Hassells still have Fritz, the dog. He's been through a lot. And if you knock on the door of their home when they are not there, he'll jump on the front door, look you in the eyeball and tell you about it in no uncertain terms. They haven't convinced Fritz yet that it's peaceful here.

State Official To Speak Here

The Howard County Association for Retarded Citizens will meet at 7:30 p.m., Monday in the Moss Elementary School cafeteria.

Dr. Robert A. Montgomery, assistant commissioner of education for Special Education and Special Schools in the state of Texas, will be the speaker.

The public is being encouraged to be in attendance. The program, of course, will be free to the public.

Man Kills Wife And Himself

DALLAS (AP) — A Houston man shot and killed his estranged wife before dazed onlookers and then took his own life at a northeast Dallas apartment complex Friday.

Relatives and witnesses told Dallas homicide detectives that the man, Ray Mojica, 33, had sworn several times to kill himself if a reconciliation attempt failed.

Ranne Mojica, 21, was found sprawled across the driver's seat of a car with head and chest wounds. Her husband's body was found in the living room of a nearby upstairs apartment—a bullet wound through the temple.

Ben Rollins, who lived in the apartment, said Mojica had come in waving a gun and said, "I've just shot my wife. I want you to go down and look at her." Rollins said he got halfway to the car when he heard a shot from his apartment.

Mojica had been staying with him for a few days following the latest separation from his wife, Rollins said.

Patrolman J.L. Beavers said Mojica grabbed a 9 mm automatic from his wife's purse and shot her once in the head when the car stopped.

Absentee Votes

Now Total 446

If all ballots mailed out are returned in time, there will be 446 absentee ballots, Mrs. Margaret Ray, chief deputy county clerk, said.

The compares to 427 tallied in 1970, the last non-presidential general election year. Altogether, 7,294 voted in that general election here.

Your American Obligation

Tuesday the polls will be open so that voters can choose whom they will have to represent and serve them for the next four years in a variety of offices from justice of peace to governor.

Each individual should let nothing keep him or her from casting a ballot.

The events of the past two years have been such as to disenchant many with the political process, and particularly with some in places of public responsibility. There is simply no excuse for wrong-doers for those betraying public trust, but the fact that this sometimes does occur is no reason for citizens to disassociate themselves with the political process.

In fact, it is not public officials who are on trial, but rather private citizens who pick our officials, and more exactly private citizens who for one reason or another never bother to go the polls.

The overwhelming percentage of our public officials are good people, and many of them are capable and sometimes exceptionally talented people. The least they deserve is the knowledge that they are put in or kept in office by a substantial majority of the people, not by some minor fraction.

So you owe them that much Tuesday. This is the day of the election — the primaries only settled this matter of nominees; this fixes the choice.

You owe yourself the necessity of a clear conscience of having taken time to exercise the most precious of our rights. If you will take time to vote, we have utmost respect for you; if not, we have no patience with you.

Agricultural Chemicals

Earl Butz, who catches it from all sides as secretary of Agriculture, said in a recent talk that environmental considerations — "some of which are justified and some of which have gone too far" — are hobbling agriculture in its efforts to meet food needs here and around the globe.

We do not propose that agri-chemicals be given a free license because they may be beneficial to production. We do think the secretary is correct in his contention that it is unwise as well as unfair to ban insecticides and fertilizers unless there is a clear and present danger to the environment, and that there be persuasive scientific evidence that these things are contributing to the danger or harm.

Agriculture is going to need all the help it can get to rise to the challenge of preventing a food crisis and restoring supplies to the point where consumer costs will be more reasonable. We simply can't afford to permit it to be frustrated by conjecture. Let agriculture chemicals be presumed innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Counselor Needed

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — When Gerry Ford first became president, he told Congress that he didn't want a honeymoon — he wanted a marriage. Everyone stood up and applauded.

BUT AFTER being wed to Congress for a couple of months, Mr. Ford wants to call it quits. What this country needs more than anything else right now is a good family counselor to see if this marriage can be saved.

"Won't you come in and be seated?"

"I'm not going to sit anywhere near the Democrats," Mr. Ford said angrily.

"Johnson was right," the Democrats reply. "He did play football without a helmet."

"NOW, NOW," the family counselor says. "We're not going to get anywhere with that attitude. Let's deal with your side first, Mr. Ford. What seems to be the trouble?"

"All they do in this family is spend money. I'm the head of the household, and I'm trying to keep expenses down and they keep adding to inflation with a lot of stupid things we don't need."

"He vetoes everything we want to do," the Democrats chime in. "He still thinks he's in Grand Rapids."

"I can't live with them," Mr. Ford cries. "They handcuff me at every turn and they don't let me do anything with my neighbors."

THE FAMILY counselor says to

Mr. Ford. "But you've only been married less than three months. Didn't you know all these things when you first suggested tying the knot?"

"I thought they loved me," Mr. Ford mumbles, dabbing away a tear. "They kept saying I was such a nice guy and they flirted with me and made me feel like they wanted me. How did I know they'd be different once the vows were exchanged?"

The counselor turns to the Democrats. "Let's hear your side of it."

THE DEMOCRATS purse their lips. "We wanted a good marriage. And we thought there would be one. But after he carried us across the threshold, we discovered the house was falling down. All he wanted to do was give it a light coat of paint." He promised us once we were married he'd stop getting in bed with big business. But every time he goes on a trip, he makes love to them.

"I'm only doing what's best for the family," Mr. Ford replies.

"Besides, he promised to give up the Dick Nixon crowd he used to hang around with, and he hasn't," the Democrats complain.

THE FAMILY counselor says, "It seems to me, Mr. Ford, that you're making a serious mistake talking publicly about how unhappy you are. Whether you like it or not, you're going to have to live with the Democrats for another two years. Besides why don't you come back after election day."

"Very well, if you insist on playing! But remember, it's MY ball!"

My Answer

Billy Graham

For many years this question has bothered me. Where is heaven? In my native Finnish, there's only one word for both heaven and sky.

While once people thought of heaven as "up," today the emphasis is less geographical and more qualitative. Perhaps as in the phrase "the kingdom of heaven." Sometimes the word "heaven" is almost used as a synonym for God, like "a sign from heaven." (Mark 8:11)

The Scripture tell us that "heaven" is the "better country," which the righteous can anticipate. It is also the abode of the Father. Heaven is the realm of joy and peace. (Luke 15:7, 19:38) The description of heaven in the Revelation of St. John is very figurative, but it's the best he could do with the limitations of human language. Heaven will be the ultimate triumph of the Kingdom of God in a redeemed mankind. So I guess it's impossible to pinpoint its location in the universe. Perhaps it's beyond it, but wherever it is, Christ is there. God's people are there, and it's a place of bliss. Whether you think of it as "up" there or "out" there, revel in its beautiful truth — that one day believers on Christ will be there to enjoy its righteousness and its peace, and be happily employed somehow in God's vast universe.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir: Nobody likes to pay income taxes, and Nelson Rockefeller is no exception. Nelson only paid $680 in Federal Income Tax in 1972, and none at all in 1970. That he has ever paid any taxes at all is a miracle since all of his income is funneled into the tax-free Rockefeller Foundation. On paper, Nelson has very little income.

But a man who despises taxes shouldn't be doing everything in his power to raise them, should he? That's exactly what Rocky did in New York, from $92 to $460 per capita. Enough to drive decent citizens from that once-great city in droves, but not enough to cover his vastly expanded welfare programs. The debt of the State of New York grew by 500 per cent while Nelson "Roosevelt" was governor. And it wasn't just the welfare drones who made-out under Rocky; abortion clinics, illegitimate children, rent strikers, and gay libbers all benefitted at the expense of the taxpayer.

What would life be like under Nelson Rockefeller? Ask a decent taxpayer from New York. James F. Leahy 5116 Pochontas Bellaire, Texas 77401

Different Forces At Work

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit trends from two of the nation's biggest industries this past week reflected different forces at work in the American economy.

Ford Motor Co. rounded out gloomy reports from Detroit's Big Three automakers with an announcement of a 50 per cent profit decline in the third quarter to $47.4 million, even though dollar sales were up 21 per cent.

U.S. Steel Corp., the biggest American steel producer, said its profits were up 145 per cent at $213.6 million on an 83 per cent gain in sales. Second-ranked Bethlehem Steel Corp. posted profits of $107.7 million, up 92 per cent from last year's third quarter.

Detroit's problems are largely the result of a sales slump that set in when last year's energy and fuel crunch began cutting into big car sales. Inflation, rising fuel and loan costs and general tightening of family budgets have all figured in continued slow sales.

- Gloomy reports from auto makers
- General Motors has whopping slump
- Steel companies report good sales
- U.S. Steel Planning Investment

Even with all that, Ford said it could have matched last year's third quarter if it hadn't been for labor troubles and parts shortages here and abroad.

Ford's third quarter was better than some had expected and generally better than for its two prime competitors. General Motors Corp. earlier had announced a 94 per cent drop in profits and Chrysler Corp. posted an $8 million loss for the period.

Steel companies, on the other hand, have been able to sell products as fast as they've been able to turn them out, even though prices have gone up some 25 per cent since the end of price controls earlier this year.

Steelmen have argued their industry needs some big profits to finance expansion and remain competitive. The third-quarter figures indicated progress toward the industry's goals.

The gains at U.S. Steel and Bethlehem were akin to those at other major producers. Armco Steel earlier had reported a 159 per cent gain and Jones & Laughlin was up no less than 332 per cent.

Moreover, U.S. Steel said it got an 8.5 per cent return on sales in the third quarter, up from 4.8 per cent a year earlier. At Bethlehem, the return was 7.3 per cent, up from 5.5 per cent.

U.S. Steel had previously estimated it would spend some $670 million on new facilities this year. Chairman Edgar B. Speer said this week that $900 million had been authorized. Bethlehem said it had more than doubled its third-quarter capital expenditures.

Other Types Of TB

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any test whereby a person may be checked for presence of tuberculosis in parts of the body other than the lungs? I am under the impression that tests used for the lungs will not designate its presence elsewhere.

My husband had a tumor removed from his wrist and a biopsy indicated that it was caused by the tuberculosis germ.

It had been treated at first as bursitis, arthritis, strain, sprain, etc., until the fingers began to be drawn out of position and the tumor became evident.

He made a remarkable recovery and has been taking Isoniazid pills three times a day for nearly two years. Now the doctor says he may stop the medication.

How can he be checked in the future to know if tuberculosis is present in his body? Our doctor is rather vague on that. Is there any test time a person should take Isoniazid? — E.L.S.

You are correct in that chest X-rays or other tests of the lungs will not show whether the germ is present elsewhere. But Isoniazid is extremely effective in suppressing the germ when properly used — as it evidently has been in your husband's case, so I would not be inclined to worry much about it.

The only sure test aside from the lungs is the one you mentioned: biopsy. Taking a bit of tissue from the suspected spot and examining it in the laboratory to identify the germ. Should trouble develop anywhere, then another biopsy would ascertain whether it was a tuberculosis lesion or some other condition.

The lungs, of course, remain the spot most frequently attacked by the tubercle bacillus; it can settle anywhere else, but infrequently. Not so many years ago, before we had the right drugs, those cases could be bitterly difficult to combat. So thank your stars that your husband, encountered this now, not a couple of decades ago.

Isoniazid is used on a moderately long-term basis, from one to two years, and it has the property of being carried all through the body's tissues, so I think you should place considerable confidence in your husband's safety after that treatment.

By the way, you may possibly have had in mind the "skin test" for TB. It can show only that there has been an invasion of the body by the TB germ. From now on, your husband's tests will show positive, but you already know that there had been such an invasion. However, the test does not show whether the germ is active.

Note to Mrs. F.S.: Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) may be a forerunner of diabetes, but that is a far cry from saying that it will lead to diabetes.

Elephants, Elections

Around The Rim

Walt Finley

I've tried to tell each of the Presidents for several decades the only successful way to raise taxes is to raise the other guy's. And they won't listen.

It probably was only coincidental that President Ford's lengthy speech Oct. 8 was followed by a headache remedy commercial.

Safe Driver, a publication, says elephants are not among the most intelligent animal species, and there's no evidence to back up the claim that an elephant never forgets.

"They don't seem to benefit very much by experience, either," the pamphlet adds. "Of course they don't really have to. They seldom get into trouble because they're rough and tough — even savage at times."

"They get their own way because other animals fear the elephant. Well, another legend down the drain. Don't forget to vote Tuesday.

That travelin' man, Kenneth Hart, tells a beautiful story to define the world "schlemiel."

There was this fellow in a small European village. Every morning at breakfast he spilled coffee all over the table. After he buttered his bread, he'd knock it off on the dirt floor, and it always landed with the buttered side down.

"What a schlemiel I am," he would say.

This went on for four years — spilled coffee, buttered bread upside down on the dirt floor.

But one morning he buttered a slice of bread, accidentally knocked it off the table and it landed buttered side up. He decided to try it again — and it landed buttered side up. One more time — buttered side up.

"Delighted, he took the three slices of buttered bread to the friendly neighborhood rabbi, and said, 'See, I am not a schlemiel! The bread fell buttered side up!'"

The rabbi took the three slices and examined them carefully, shook his head sadly and said:

"You're still a schlemiel. You just buttered the wrong sides."

My wonderful aunt, Mildred Ladd, is in with a few more of her very own definitions:

The Junkets

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Now Mr. Jack Anderson, in his Populist war against junkets, reveals that a dozen Congressmen took a trip to Venezuela at the invitation of the Venezuelan government, all expenses paid. And that a number of Senators accepted the hospitality of Mao Tse-tung while flying about China. Meanwhile, Congress has passed a bill.

BUT PAUSE over the two examples given: I tend to find it, along with Mr. Anderson, a little queasyish for a United States legislator to fly to a foreign country at the expense of the host country. I find it less lascivious than Mr. Anderson that, while there, the Congressmen should be put up in "luxury hotels" (he makes them sound like Wilbur Mills Internationals). I don't know where they would be expected to stay, but I suspect it would not have served anybody's purpose to invite Congressmen to your capital city, there to behold its wonders, and put them up in a flea-ridden barrio, whence they could only write postcards to Graham Greene.

CHINA, OF course, is a special case. From recent experience, I learned that the custom now is for the Chinese to insist on taking over your expenses — from the moment you present yourself in Hong Kong. Presenting yourself in Hong Kong comes to about $1,000, round trip from New York. The Red Chinese have not yet got on to the tourist gouging techniques of the Soviet Union, probably because they simply don't yet have sufficient facilities to gouge tourists with. If the day comes when U.S. visitors go to China by the 747 load, prices will rise sharply, and the objection Mr. Anderson holds to free luxury housing in Venezuela, may very well become relevant.

But the question now comes: Who should pay the way of these Congressmen? There are several answers: the first and most obvious is: nobody — they shouldn't go to places like Venezuela and China. Now that may be true in many cases. Sen. William Fulbright, for instance, became a great expert on Vietnam without ever traveling there once. Contrast the trip to Hanoi by Ramsey Clark, where by merely visiting there a couple of days, he discovered that the North Vietnamese were hard at work trying to create a virtuous society.

BUT JOCULARITY aside, it tends to be a good idea to travel, and although traditionally the committees of Congress have loads of travel funds for inquisitive Congressmen, there has been criticism of Congressional junketing, much of it no doubt justified.

But what about Congressmen who do vote on issues of international policy, who do not belong to the one or two elect committees with travel funds, who seek to avoid the charge of junketing by getting funds from other committees; and who now need to avoid such criticism as Jack Anderson's?

HERE IS where the incredible new bill comes in. It stipulates (when last I saw the terms of it) that no Congressman or Senator shall in the future be permitted to charge more than $1,000 for a single public appearance; nor be allowed to earn more than $15,000 through public appearances or writing in the course of a single year.

Let us take it for granted that every law is intended to cure a particular abuse. Years ago, we learned that Alben Barkley, as Vice President of the United States and then as senior senator of an important committee, was kept by the labor unions by the simple device of paying him huge speaking fees to address groups he would probably have addressed free of charge anyway. No doubt, in less flagrant form, the practice continues. But this preposterous bill, aimed at curbing it, is likely to accomplish one of two things. If it succeeds, it will deprive Congressmen and Senators of the income in some cases desperately needed to eke out a living while (in some cases) serving as many as 17 million constituents. If (more likely) it fails, it will be evaded in some slick way, by devices I am too delicate to describe.

BUT FOR certain what you will have is a heightened reliance on other people's benefactions: If a legislator has a genuine interest in Venezuela, or China, and if he cannot get there from Congressional funds, and cannot himself earn the income to finance a trip, he is necessarily driven either to abandoning his curiosity, or to making an arrangement with a foreign government, and exciting the suspicion (in some cases well-earned) of Jack Anderson. To make themselves purer and purer, the Congress is making it more and more difficult for first-class men, unless they happen to be very rich, to seek public office.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Workers at a Chrysler Corp. parts depot in N. Y., have punctured a favorite daydream — the one where there is a three-day "holiday" weekend every week. After an experiment at working a four-day week, with 10-hour work days, the employees voted to go back to their old five-day routine.

Long weekends wear thin, it appears, especially when the kids are in school Monday through Friday. What cinched the vote, we'll bet, is that Chrysler workers discovered what happens to 'idle hands around the house on weekdays. They push vacuum cleaners and do dishes: that's what. A man might as well be down at the plant. — WACO NEWS TRIBUNE

ROYAL CARPET ROLLED OUT — U.S. Cong. and Mrs. Omar Burleson got the royal treatment when they accepted an invitation to appear before local supporters at a luncheon hosted by the American Business Club at the Settles Hotel Friday.

Inflation Favorite Topic, Says Demo

Ray Farabee, Democratic candidate for the Texas Senate, was in Big Spring Friday. The 41-year-old businessman and attorney from Wichita Falls attended the Omar Burleson Appreciation Day luncheon. He had praise for the years of dedicated service that Cong. Burleson has given to the citizens of his district.

Seeking office for the first time, the nominee concluded his comments by saying "It is high time that candidates for public office say 'no' to dirty tricks and negative campaigns. The citizens of this district expect and deserve responsible behavior from candidates seeking to represent them in public office."

While in Big Spring, the life-long Democrat was asked about charges being made against him by his Republican opponent, Mary Kirchhoff of Plainview. Farabee pointed out that he did not wish to make his opponents desperation tactics an issue in the campaign.

Convicted Of Killing Surgeon

HOUSTON (AP) — Marcia McKittrick has been convicted of murder in connection with the September 1972 slaying of Houston plastic surgeon Dr. John Hill.

The surprise move came Thursday after attorneys agreed to admit evidence without hearing witnesses testify. State Dist. Judge Frank Price earlier Thursday had ruled that a signed statement by Miss McKittrick could be used as evidence.

Prosecutor Bob Bennett said he felt confident the evidence spoke for itself and knew the stipulated trial would save time and taxpayers' expense. Judge Price ordered a presentencing investigation to assist him in setting the term of years. Formal sentencing was set for Nov. 27.

Heist Of Logs Is Thwarted

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Rain spoiled an attempt by thieves to steal $10,000 worth of walnut logs from woods owned by Mrs. Carter Tharp, police said. The would-be thieves drove a two-ton truck into the woods through a soybean field Friday near suburban Carmel and cut down six trees with a chain saw, police said. They loaded the 19-foot-long trunks into the truck, but it began to rain and the loaded truck bogged down in the mud.

The truck — and the loot — was abandoned. Police said the license plate and vehicle identification number tag were removed from the truck, but they expect to trace the owner through engine numbers and other identifying data.

THEFTS

Joyce Corey, 600 E. 15th, reported theft of .22 caliber revolver and western style holster. Registered Collie puppy stolen from garage at 1310 Donley. Value of puppy: $50, damage to door, $10. Harry Rothel reported two hub caps stolen at high school parking lot.

This I Believe And Will Work To Achieve . . .

Forced busing destroys neighborhood schools and hurts education . . . The State surplus should be refunded to taxpayers in cash in an amount equal to this year's ad valorem school tax increase . . . Local industrial development bonds should be backed by credit resources of the State to help small towns and cities get new industry . . . The right to work is a sacred guarantee and should be protected by our Constitution . . . No special interest group, including organized labor, should receive special favors in Austin in return for bloc voting support . . . We should import water and prorate the cost of canals or pipelines fairly, according to volume of new water used . . . Deceit and dishonesty in government must stop.

Cut Spending, Reduce Controls, Solon Says

Several hundred Big Springers jammed into the Settles Hotel Ballroom for a luncheon Friday to pay tribute to Congressman Omar Burleson on the day set aside by the American Business Club, Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and City of Big Spring as "Omar Burleson Day."

There are others who believe that the economy should not be meddled with," Burleson said. "I feel that one of the greatest threats to the nation and to the economy is the discouragement of capital investments," he added. He answered some questions fielded from the audience, noting that although Nelson Rockefeller was not his first choice for vice president, he would vote for his confirmation.

At the luncheon, it was pointed out that Burleson was instrumental in bringing in more than $1 million in federal funds to Howard County and Big Spring in the past year and that his voting record for small businessmen was better than 70 per cent for the past year.

Wayne Rock, on behalf of the ABC, presented Congressman and Mrs. Burleson and Roy Reeder, charter member of the ABC, made Congressman Burleson an honorary member of the club. Mayor Wade Choate read the proclamation setting aside "Omar Burleson Day" and presented the congressman with a framed copy of the proclamation. Clyde McMahon Sr., introduced the congressman to the large crowd. Rita Brown, Brownwood, was elected president of the Texas Shorthorn Lassie Association recently in Brownwood. Mrs. Lester Adams, Big Spring, is vice president; Mrs. Rufus Hinton, Venus, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Hallam, Brownwood, publicity director. Other members of the board are: Kathleen Tillman, Weatherford; Mrs. Patsy Smith, Seagoville; and Mrs. H. O. Johnson, Chilton. Debbie Wright, Brownwood, was chosen the new Texas Lassie Queen. She was crowned at the beginning of the Texas "Heads Up" Sale, October 26th. Leon Miller, Lindale, crowned the new queen and presented her with a bouquet of flowers from the Texas Lassies. Mrs. Leon Miller gave the new queen a gift of appreciation from Five M Farms.

The Week

For a year that was terribly dry, this suddenly has turned out to be one exceptionally wet. More rain came on Monday, Tuesday and then again Thursday to boost the year's total to 19.68, which is slightly above average for the entire year (and the 30-day forecast says it will continue to be wetter). As pointed out previously, about three-fourths of this has come within the past 45 days. Many fields are still holding water in the low places. The lakes gained some more — Lake Thomas about a foot and Lake Spence more than two feet. Lake Colorado City has pushed to within two feet of spillway. Even Moss Creek Lake, the CRMWD's intermediate storage, threatened to spill.

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District gave the green light to a new headquarters building by accepting J. W. Little Construction Co.'s low bid of $279,000 for the general contract. The total cost, exclusive of land, will approach $400,000. Location is at the northwest corner of the Goliad-FM 700 intersection. Work will start next week.

Texas International has pulled another sneaky on us, quietly cancelling the 6:10 p.m. west departure from Dallas to Big Spring. Since the only westbound flight is 12:40 p.m. from Dallas, it means those planning on a day's business in Dallas now will have to make it a day and a half.

Our town had its share of violence for the week. Officers found the body of a young man, later identified as Ronald R. Brooks in a victim of a shooting. They later picked up Joe Ed Paul and filed charges of murder against him. Earlier in the week, Mrs. Lomina Buckman suffered a gunshot wound when a bumpy customer grew militant.

Four city employees filed a class action suit against the municipality, alleging they had not been paid overtime due them since May 1. The city contends the overtime is not due the workers. The nature of the suit means that all employees will be affected whichever way it goes.

Few things have caused more people to call us to suggest a story and picture than a troupe with a covered wagon and mules. Many of our patrons described them as gypsies; members of the party said they were missionaries, and they didn't want their pictures taken — so there!

If you are a businessman and need to know about the OSHA safety regulations (and you had better know), you don't need to go somewhere else to find out. A 21-hour course will begin Tuesday at Howard College at a nominal fee.

From the Notebook: A week ago, we erroneously said that all Howard County grid teams had lost in that round of play, but we got suckered on a trap play because Forsan won; Dr. Howard F. (Little Swatzky) Schwarzenbach, a star quarterback in his time, is in Portales, N.M. this weekend for the 40th anniversary reunion of the first Eastern New Mexico University football team coached then by D. H. (Tiny) Reed, who had coached and taught here in the early 30's (the next year other Big Springers — Fred Martin and Livan Harris went there).

RIBBON RUNNING CHAMP — Mrs. Terry Porter, wife of a man with Webb Air Force Base, runs back for the prize-winning ribbon-roping time of 8 seconds in the mini-rodeo here Saturday. "She got to the calf before the roper did," Jimmy Taylor announced. Gary Faraday won in the men's calf-tying contest. Professional cowboys demonstrated skills before the competition in which local and Air Force wives and Air Force men competed. The Chamber of Commerce and Century Club sponsored the mini-rodeo. Enlisted men and dependents later were guests at a barbecue in the Howard County Fair Barn.

FOR NO SOUND REASON Millions Are Excluded From Getting Coverage

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal study has found that millions of people apparently are excluded for no sound reason from obtaining the insurance they need to drive a car, buy a house or protect themselves from catastrophic losses.

The study said millions of other so-called high-risk individuals can get insurance only by paying inflated premiums, even though they are "clean" risks by industry standards. For "clean" drivers the surcharge amounts to a national average of 86 per cent a year on insurance premiums, the study estimated.

government regulated classifications. But the study avoided suggesting any federal role in the process, leaving regulation to the state agencies which have traditionally watched over the industry. The report said that the latest count, in 1967, showed 20 per cent of the nation's drivers were not covered by insurance and a total of 4 million drivers are in various state assigned risk plans. The assigned risk plans are supposedly reserved for those drivers who don't qualify as acceptable risks for conventional commercial insurance. Such drivers pay $68 more than the national average of $79 a year for the basic auto insurance which the conventionally insured drivers buy. Yet 3.3 million of the assigned risk drivers haven't had an accident within three years and are thus "clean" within the definition applied by commercial insurers, the report said. And 2.7 million neither had been involved in an accident nor committed any chargeable driving violation within three years.

Would You Believe? Drought Aid Sought

It may be hard to believe, considering the rain that has fallen upon this area during the past six weeks, but Gov. Dolph Briscoe has asked disaster designation for Howard and two other counties, along with one for excessive flooding and rainfall. In addition to Howard, drought designations were also asked for Scurry and Bailey counties. The designation of Hudspeth was requested to help property owners damaged by excessive rains and flooding. Dry weather through the first eight months this year spoiled Howard County's cotton crop.

Offer Of $7 Million Is Made To Beatles

LONDON (AP) — John Lennon says the Beatles have been offered $7 million to get together again, but he won't say who made the offer. "For a full Beatles reunion, I have been offered $7 million. And I could get about $2 million just by myself," Lennon was quoted as telling a London newsman in a New York interview. The Beatles, the hottest music group of the 1960s, broke up five years ago.

Friday Night Football Mania Draws Criticism

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Excessive interest in Friday night football at the expense of individualized physical education programs for high school pupils is harmful to their overall development, a physical education school administrator says. Steve Gergeni, president of the Texas Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation spoke before a gathering of 200 coaches and physical education instructors during the 42nd Annual Trans Pecos Convention of the Texas State Teachers Association. Gergeni is director of health and physical education for Amarillo schools. "If school systems would spend the same amount of money on the three-fourths of the school population who do not take part in sports as they do on high school football, baseball and basketball teams, they wouldn't have to spend so much money on maintaining correctional institutions for wayward kids," Gergeni said. Gergeni, however, specified he was not opposed to organized athletic high school competitions. But he noted that some emphasis should be placed on individualized physical education programs for every child in school, "not just the physically gifted."

Israelis Plunged Into Mental Bog

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
People close to the Middle East crisis and concerned with Israel's future reflect deep depression these days and even sober-minded observers speak of a possible new round of war in the spring. A listener senses acute disappointment with the United States, though Israelis do not say so publicly. The sources see the Western world getting weaker and the Communist world, which supports Israel's Arab enemies, getting stronger. The Arabs have more and more clout in the United Nations, half of whose members no longer have diplomatic relations with Israel. Oil is certainly part of that picture. Oil, too, is part of the picture of a declining Europe, to be vociferous in defense of Israeli positions.

UW Collections Are Within Goal's Site

Collections reported just before United Way offices closed for the weekend showed the Howard County U.W. committee was within 6.3 per cent of its $121,777 goal. The campaign was extended for two weeks Thursday by campaign chairman W. S. (Dub) Pearson, who predicted success would be achieved in the campaign after all cards had been reworked and all money reported by committee workers. Four of the divisions — Special Gifts, Metropolitan, Area and Women — are already over the top in the drive and several others are on the verge of passing objectives. A total of $114,107.76 had been raised or pledged toward the goal. Originally, the campaign was to have ended Nov. 1 but Pearson said some of the workers had been out of town and been unable to devote as much time as they wanted to the campaign. By divisions, the money raised or the pledges made so far include: Out of Town, $4,737.50; Big Gifts, $40,331.10; Special Gifts, $3,228; Employee, $27,274.84; CFC, $24,499.85; Schools, City, $5,919.53; Metropolitan, $1,546; County, State, $1,541.94; Area, $1,050; and Women, $3,979.

The car was stalled on Farm Road 700 near the new hospital building. The suspect was in city jail Saturday afternoon, pending bond setting.

Big Spring did it. THE STEERS finally broke their five game drought. Not too many followers would have given them much of a chance. A state rating system listed Big Spring as a 20 plus underdog against Cooper.

I imagine several viewers who had presently given up on the Steers will rejoice in the bandwagon once again. I still think the Steers can end the season on a break-even note.

Only two things need to be done. First, the Steers beat Odessa there, Friday, then come right back and beat San Angelo, here, Nov. 15. I think with Big Spring's positive thinking the Steers can perform this mission.

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce has announced that an agreement has been reached whereby Cisco Junior College will meet New Mexico Military Institute in Memorial Stadium Sept. 20, 1975 and Sept. 18, 1976.

Bob Burris, Big Spring High athletic director and football coach was instrumental in drawing up this jucopact.

Each college will bring their bands along with the Rangerettes from Cisco and the military guard from NMMI.

Junior high footballers and their parents from Runnels and Goliad are invited to attend Tuesday's Big Spring Quarterback Club meeting. The informal session is set for 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Bob Zellars, coach of the combined unit will explain to the QB reason for the Goliad and Runnels consolidation. Then Burris will explain what it took to trap Cooper.

A film of the Runnels-Goliad Andrews game will be shown by Zellars. Runnels and Goliad close out the season Thursday against Coahoma, there. Game time is 6 p.m. in Bulldog stadium.

Zellars has high praise on Eddie Puga, a 5-8, 130-pound Runnels-Goliad back. "I rate him with the best I ever coached." Puga has stepped off 1,368 through nine games.

Even with the tight schedule I have, I plan to set aside time space to attend Zellars' season finale.

National Football League teams made 142 trades involving 172 players and 139 draft choices during 1974. This compares to a record 164 trades involving 221 players and 181 draft choices a year ago.

The new position of the goal posts 10 yards behind the goal line has resulted in 16 missed extra points, compared to 18 by AFC teams in the entire 1973 season.

Jim Hart, St. Louis signal-caller, whose 15 completions in 19 attempts for 200 yards and two TD's vs Washington last week lifted him to No. 1 among NFC passers. Jim's career completion total of 1,013 is within 17 of Big Spring's Charlie Johnson's club record, 1,030.

Beard Propels Bears By Frogs

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Neal Jeffrey's bull's eye passing and the cannon ball runs of Steve Beard propelled Baylor to a wet and windy 21-7 Southwest Conference verdict over Texas Christian Saturday.

Jeffrey winged a 20-yard scoring shot to split end Alcy Jackson and Beard scouted 12 yards for a touchdown as the Bears mounted a 14-0 halftime lead and rolled to their fourth victory of the season.

Beard rumbled three yards for a touchdown to wrap up matters in the third quarter.

Owls Knock Tech Out Of Title Race

HOUSTON (AP) — Quarterback Tommy Kramer passed for one touchdown and ran for another and Gary Ferguson provided big gainers as the Rice Owls knocked 13th-ranked Texas Tech out of South West Conference title contention with a 21-7 upset football victory Saturday.

Texas Tech dropped to 5-2-1 for the season and 2-2 in SWC play, while the victory was the first of the year for Rice, now 1-5-1 and 1-2.

Kramer passed for 12 yards to Ed Lofton for Rice's first touchdown in the second quarter and Ferguson, a workhorse running back, blasted 14 yards for a second score just four minutes later. Kramer scored the clinching touchdown in the third quarter with a one-yard run. "The Red Raiders' only score came on an eight-yard run by John Garner after a 50-yard drive on their first possession of the third quarter.

Rice's two touchdowns in the second period were set up by a fired-up Rice defense. Texas Tech only crossed midfield once in the first half.

Rice's Gary Cox intercepted a Don Roberts pass at the Tech 24 and returned it to the 13. One play later, Kramer hit Lofton with a screen pass and Lofton followed a good block by tackle Danny Johnson for a touchdown that gave the Owls a 7-0 lead.

Less than four minutes later Rice scored again after freshman Rodney Allison, the third quarterback used by Tech, fumbled and Brent Barnes recovered for Rice at the Tech 25.

The Owls moved to the 14 where Ferguson took a pitchout from Kramer and zipped around right end for the score.

The Rice defense held the Raiders to only 126 yards rushing and 69 passing and the alert Owl secondary intercepted Raider quarterbacks three times.

Duniven who missed last week's game because of injuries, started for the Raiders at quarterback, but neither he nor Roberts or Allison who came in later could move Tech in the first half.

Rice kept good field position most of the first half and only a good defensive effort by Tech kept the lead from being larger.

A couple of old quarterbacks get a chance to show what they've got in starting roles with new teams Sunday—and one or two others may have to sit out the action because they haven't quite gotten it.

John Hadl, acquired by Green Bay from Los Angeles Oct. 22, could get the starting nod over Jack Concannon when the Packers host the Washington Redskins.

And Craig Morton, who spent several years riding the Dallas bench behind Roger Staubach before the Cowboys dealt him to New York at about the same time as Hadl switched teams, will be calling the signals for the Giants when they begin play against the Chiefs in Kansas City.

Mike Phipps wasn't very effective last week calling Cleveland's signals. So Brian Sipe took over, scored two touchdowns and rallied the Browns to a 23-21 squeaker over Denver. And on Sunday, it'll be Sipe on the field and Phipps on the bench when Cleveland visits San Diego.

In Sunday's other games, the St. Louis Cardinals try to remain the lone unbeaten National Football League team when they invade Dallas, Buffalo is at New England in an American Conference East showdown, Oakland hopes to widen its AFC West edge with a victory over Denver, Pittsburgh hosts Philadelphia, Minnesota is at Chicago, Detroit hosts New Orleans, Miami takes on Atlanta, Cincinnati is at Baltimore and Houston is at the New York Jets.

On Monday night, Los Angeles goes against the 49ers in San Francisco.

Steve Puckett and Bob Little paced Longhorns scorers.

Semi-finals will be staged Saturday morning with the winners advancing to the finals and the losers vying for third.

Gra-Y Playoffs

In Gra-Y flag first round playoffs played Saturday on Blankenship Field, the Stars upended the Sharks, 28-0, and the Shorthorns eliminated the Longhorns, 22-14.

Pete Venezuela's three touchdowns past the Stars. Billy Paul scored a TD on a pass from Venezuela. The Stars dominated the game with their brilliant passing attack.

The Shorthorns were helped by Mike Eggleston's two six-point scores. Bingo Martin surprised the Longhorns on the opening kickoff as he scampered for a TD.

Steve Puckett and Bob Little paced Longhorn scorers.

Semi-finals will be staged Saturday morning with the winners advancing to the finals and the losers vying for third.

Hogs Downed In SWC Match

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M's forgotten fullback Jerry Honore's 60-yard touchdown run put away the scrapping Arkansas Razorbacks in the fourth quarter Saturday, but that wasn't the biggest thrill of the day for the senior who had never scored a collegiate touchdown.

Honore, pressed into service because of an injury to starter Ronnie Hubby, also scored on a one-yard run in the first half as the Aggies downed Arkansas 20-10 to remain unbeaten in the Southwest Conference.

"Scoring the first touchdown was my biggest thrill because it was the first one ever for A&M," said Honore, a 219-pound one-year letterman from Lake Charles, Arkansas.

Austin, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Marty Akins sprinted for one score and threw his first touchdown pass of the season Saturday as Texas Tech won its first game of the season Saturday.

Akins raced 116 yards on 23 carries, the second straight week that the 200-pound junior has run for more than 100 yards.

But it was Akins' looping pass to Pat Padgett in the far left corner of the end zone on third and goal from the SMU eight yard line that sealed Texas' third straight Southwest Conference victory.

He also raced eight yards for the Longhorns' first score, overcoming a 3-0 SMU lead, handed off to freshman fullback Earl Campbell on a three-yard touchdown run and tossed a last-second pitchout to Raymond Clayborn for another score from the SMU one.

SMU scored its first touchdown on a 58-yard pass from quarterback Ricky Wesson to Freeman Johnson the first play after Texas' Terry Melancon fumbled a short punt at the SMU 42.

Brian Duncan capped a 75-yard drive by lunging over from the Texas four for another SMU touchdown.

Texas, winner of six consecutive conference championships, extended its conference record to 3-1, and SMU fell to 2-2. Texas A&M leads the conference with a 4-0 mark and meets Texas Friday after Thanksgiving Day in a nationally televised game.

A 22-mile an hour south wind held punts to short distances and SMU freshman John Dunlop, a non-scholarship player, used it to advantage in the first quarter by booming a 49-yard field goal.

O-State Flexes Muscle

Archie Griffin and Woody Hayes achieved personal milestones and the Ohio State juggernaut continued on its merry way with a 49-7 romp over Illinois as college football's powerhouses flexed their muscles against conference foes Saturday.

Hayes achieved the 200th victory of his coaching career and Griffin, the Buckeyes' sensational junior, rushed for 144 yards for his 18th straight 100-yard-plus game.

There was only one casualty among the Associated Press Top Ten. That was fifth-ranked Auburn, which suffered a 25-14 loss at Florida.

Second-ranked Oklahoma beat Iowa State 28-10. No. 3 Michigan scored a 21-7 Big Ten decision over stubborn Indiana and fourth-rated Alabama blanked No. 17 Mississippi State 35-0 in a Southeastern Conference clash.

Completing the Top Ten, No. 6 Southern Cal was tied by California 15-15. No. 7 Notre Dame came from behind to nip Navy 14-6. No. 8 Texas A-M beat Arkansas 20-10. No. 9 Nebraska topped Colorado 31-15 and No. 10 Penn State edged 15th-ranked Maryland 24-17.

Joe Washington scored his 10th touchdown of the season to lead second-rated Oklahoma over Iowa State.

The Sooners, 7-0, led only 7-0 after a hard-fought first half but capitalized on two Cyclone fumbles for touchdowns in a span of 25 seconds early in the third quarter. Grant Burget scored on a 10-yard run and, after an interception, Washington scored on a 30-yard pass from Steve Davis.

Third-ranked Michigan continued on a collision course towards a Big Ten showdown against Ohio State by beating Indiana 21-7.

La. "Coach (Dan) LaGresta kept telling me to have patience and to work hard and when I did get to play to do my best and that's what I did."

The 6-0 speedster broke through a pile of players in the fourth quarter on his touchdown run and outran Arkansas' defensive secondary to the goal. His production of 131 yards was more than he had compiled in all the previous games in his career.

Emory Bellard, the coach of the eighth-ranked Aggies, said, "I'm tremendously proud of Jerry Honore. He did an outstanding job. He ran with authority and he had a lot of effort."

The Aggies suffered numerous injuries in the hard-hitting game and Bellard said afterward in the dressing room, "everybody is hurt, it seems like. I thought I was going to have to play myself and that would really be the 12th man."

At one time the entire Aggie starting backfield was on the sidelines with injuries. Texas A&M All-American linebacker Ed Simonini said, "it was a real physical game. I thought both defenses did a lot of hard hitting."

Cooper Falls To Steers In District Upset, 12-7

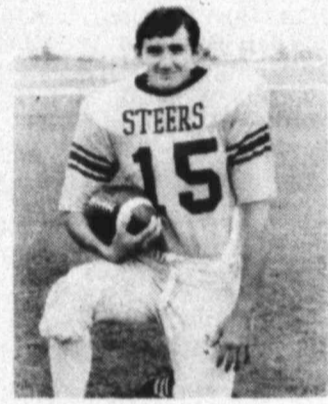

ABILENE — Final score: Big Spring 12, Cooper 7. This gridiron endeavor has to be considered one of the major shockers of Friday's 4A activity alongside Permian's loss to Lee, 34-7. A limited crowd watched Cooper take its knocks.

The Steers counted out the five straight contests and besieged with countless sickness and injuries carried the 5-4A tiff from start to finish.

Cooper's loss dropped the Cougars from any further district title consideration. The Abilene school is 5-3 for 1974 and 2-3 for 5-4A.

ODESSA — The Shepard brothers, Darrell and Woodie led Odessa High to a somewhat 5-4A 24-15 shocker win over Midland High here Friday night.

Darrell collected twin TD's on runs of three and 10 yards. Brother Woodie ran for an 88-yard six pointer.

Odessa scoring: first: 14; second-three: third-seven; Midland-third-eight; fourth-eight.

Bearcats Lose To Cougars

GARDEN CITY — The Klondike Cougars relied on the running of Jimmy Bradford and Jimmy Harris, to defeat the Garden City Bearcats 34-6 here Friday night in a District 1-B contest.

Bradford scored three touchdowns for the Cougars on runs of 44, 3 and 1 yards. Harris also scored on an 80-yard scramble and tossed a 12-yard touchdown pass to Bobby Saunders.

Garden City's only score came late in the final period when Norwin Bingham hit Mark Frysak on an 11-yard strike.

ON TO THE FIELD — Donnie Croft, Landon Soles and Tim Yeats lead Forsan teammates on the field just shortly before game time Friday night against Hawley.

Steer image could only move across the 50-yard line twice in the second half. The Cougars were limited to just three third frame plays.

Big Spring spotted Cooper seven points in the first, but from then on the Steers played heads up ball. Scott Ritchey scored on a one-yard TD for Cooper and Ricky Lewis kicked the PAT.

Doug Robison put new life into the Steers as he scampered 72 yards to Cooper's end zone following the home team's first and only TD of the night.

Big Spring gaining hold of the ball for only the second time the first half and from its own 37, set up the eventual BIG ONE.

Mark Moore, Steer quarterback, who is showing late flashes of brilliance heaved an eight-yard TD pass to 130-pound Ken McMurdy. McMurdy has become Moore's new target of prominence.

Drives by Jesse Doss and Andre Hurrington helped set up Moore's all-important aerial firework.

Big Spring had a drive in the second half stopped as the Steers failed to push forward from the 22-yard line on a fourth and five situation.

In the fourth, Steer Ed Pekowski showed his defensive prowess when he blocked a Cooper punt. Big Spring took possession of the ball on the 19, but Cougar forces held.

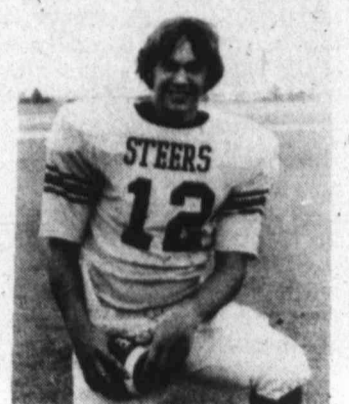

James Coffey tried a 31-yard Steer field goal, but the snap from center was bobbled and the kick failed to materialize.

Cooper trickery in the closing minutes of the fourth almost caught Big Spring. Trey Deen had completed a 49-yard pass to Rusty Hamlic. This moved the ball down to the Steer four. But the Steers defense held and Cooper was left there helpless and wishing.

Danny Ferrell led Steer rushers as he stepped 10 carries for 52 yards. He was followed by Doss with 37 yards and Hurrington, netting 26.

"We were ready to play and our two-platoon system initiated two weeks ago is paying off," said Bob Burris, Steer head coach. "You're always happy when you win."

Buffs Pound Out 24-6 3B Decision

By CLARK LESHER
FORSAN — Held scoreless the first quarter, the Forsan Buffaloes regrouped to pound out a hard-earned 24-6 3B victory over Hawley here Friday night.

Forsan unable to break into the latest state top 10 poll, should gain attention this week as the Buffs racked up their eighth straight win.

Bronte checked Jayton, 26-0 Friday. This puts both Forsan and Bronte as co-leaders with each showing 5-0 totals. Hawley is 4-4 for the year and 1-4 in 3B.

Forsan managed to shift into high gear in the second frame collecting 12 points. The Buffs added six each in the third and fourth frames.

Hawley midway in the fourth quarter found room to sneak across its lone TD of the night.

Forsan's quarterback

Turning quick attention to the Broncos, Burris added, "Odessa will be tough to contain. They have two real outstanding players in the Shephard brothers, Darrell and Woody."

The Broncos tripped up Midland, 24-16, Friday night in Odessa.

Big Spring still has its sights on a 500 season as the next two are "must" wins. The Steers tangle in their last road trip Friday with Odessa High and finish out the season at home, Nov. 15, hosting San Angelo.

sophomore Ralph Miranda was forced to leave the game late in the first quarter. He injured his left shoulder and was immediately taken to a Big Spring hospital.

The diagnosis of Miranda's shoulder was determined as a hairline fracture. He was to have remained in the hospital Friday and released Saturday.

Spirited by Miranda's injury, Forsan went to work.

Landon Soles filling Miranda's shoes fired a TD strike to John Medlin at 7:45 of the second. Extra point try was deflected. This involved a 20-yard drive in two plays.

Forsan picked up a well needed break just 1:20 after its initial six points. Gary Tidwell quickly drove on a Hawley fumble as a Forsan punt bounced off Hawley's Tony Pack's leg.

JV Stuns Cooper

Big Spring made it two in a row over Cooper this week as the Steer junior varsity clipped the Abilene JV school, 20-14, here Saturday afternoon on Blankenship Field.

Cooper was stopped short of a win when Phil Barber fired a Steer five-yard TD pass to Mike Harris. Only 30 seconds remained to be played in the fourth. This drive netted 87 yards on eight plays.

Cooper had taken an early lead on a 14 first score drive and a field goal in the third.

Big Spring picked up a second quarter TD on Ricky Morrow's three-yard run. The Steers JV bounced back in the fourth with a James Thompson TD run from the one. Jerry Marquez ran the PAT across.

Then Barber received the all-important call and Cooper lost out in the win column.

Trevino, Matson, Berry Elected To Texas Honor

DALLAS (AP) — Two-time U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino has been elected to the Texas Sports Hall of Fame along with 1968 Olympic gold medalist Randy Matson and former Baltimore great Raymond Berry.

Also named by a 20-man Texas Sports Writers Association committee was the late Bill "Jitterbug" Henderson, the most versatile athlete ever to represent Texas A&M, who won 11 varsity letters in five sports.

The four will be enshrined in the Texas Sports Hall of Fame at the annual luncheon here Dec. 31.

This luncheon, long a highlight of Cotton Bowl week, is co-sponsored by the Texas Sports Writers Association, which governs the hall of fame, and the Salesmanship Club of Dallas.

Trevino's rise from a $35-a-week gold hustler began when he scored a shocking victory in the 1968 U.S. Open.

Three years later, the Mexican-American's average monthly golf income had exploded to $35,000. Since joining the tour in 1967, he has established himself as one of the game's giants, twice winning the U.S. Open, twice taking the British Open and winner of 18 tour victories. He has banked more than $1,270,000 in golf purses.

He gave one of his most impressive and gritty performances in winning the 1974 PGA crown in a head-to-head duel with Jack Nicklaus.

Trevino has become a personal nemesis of the great Nicklaus, beating him in a playoff for the U.S. open crown in 1971 and also edging him for the British Open titles in 1971 and 1972.

"Trevino has the same underdog characteristics that endeared Arnold Palmer to golf fans," says Nicklaus. "Lee is great for golf."

Trevino won the U.S. Canadian and British Opens in the space of a month in 1971. Sports Illustrated named him sportsman of the year in 1971, saying: "He took the game of golf out of the country club boardroom and put it in the parking lot for everybody to get at."

Matson's fabulous accomplishments as a shot putter have never been matched. In 1964, as a 19-year-old freshman from Texas A&M, he took the Olympic silver medal at Tokyo, a scant 5/4 inches behind Dallas Long.

The next year, he set a world mark of 70-7. Randy rewrote that world standard in 1967 with a throw of 71-5/4 and was voted the coveted AAU Sullivan Award.

Matson won the Olympic Gold Medal at Mexico City in 1968.

WINNING SCORE — Putt Choate, (44), Bulldog fullback, waves a victory salute after scoring his team's winning fourth quarter TD against Hamlin Friday night. Choate's teammate, Randy Gee, (23), follows in the end zone celebration. The Bulldogs won, 13-7.

Bulldogs Keep Title Hopes In Limelight

HAMLIN — Coahoma kept its claim 6-AA title hopes alive here Friday night as the Bulldogs measured out Hamlin, 13-7.
 A capacity crowd of 3,500 watched the contest.
 Coahoma is now 3-1 in conference wars and 6-2 over-all for the season. Hamlin hosts its first 6-AA test and stands 3-1. For the year, the Pied Pipers are 6-2.
 Coahoma wasted little time in hitting the scoreboard. The visitors took hold of the initial kickoff and moved downfield for 71 yards.
 A 37-yard TD run by Putt Choate took only five plays. Time left: 10:26. Jody Bennett added the PAT with a kick.
 The Bulldogs kept the upper hand until 9:42 of the fourth. Daniel Willis raced nine yards for a Hamlin TD.

and Tracy Rowland's PAT kick deadlocked the game.
 The Bulldogs bulled their way back after the Hamlin score and scored the deciding TD with 7:37 left to be played on the fourth quarter clock. Choate moved into Hamlin's end zone from two. Bennett's PAT kick was wide of its mark.
 The 200-pound senior Choate spearheaded his own drive as he carried 14 of 18 plays which stepped off a distance of 69 yards.
 Hamlin's first of two late chances of knocking on Coahoma's TD doorstep was stymied as Bennett intercepted a pass.

The Pied Pipers utilizing three timeouts again gained control of the ball with 1:11 left. But the Bulldog defense held and Hamlin's overhaul chances were checked on the visitors' 44.
 Coahoma takes the week off and runs into its final regular season game Nov. 15. The Bulldogs will serve as hosts to Stamford.

Stanton Turns In Superb Win

STANTON — The Stanton Buffaloes, crippled but still game, turned in an impressive performance here Friday night, subduing Plains 26-14, in district play.
 On the first play of the second period, Stanton's Elvin Brown raced three yards around left end for a touchdown and QB Gordon Eiland kicked the PAT.
 With 3:06 left in the first half, Eiland went over from the one on a quarterback sneak and again booted the extra point.
 QB Weldon Nelms and end Steve Green hooked up on a 28-yard scoring pass for Plains to get the visitors back in contention late in the third period. Nelms also flipped an aerial to Green for two extra points.
 With 12 seconds left in the third, Nelms bruised over from the one and Plains' second TD and Plains was right back in the game. The try for point failed, however.
 In the fourth, Eiland broke loose on a 90-yard touchdown run to put the Buffaloes ahead to stay. Only 2:12 was showing on the clock at the time. The try for point failed. Plains took to the air with disastrous results. On the last play of the game, fullback Gary Hanson of Stanton intercepted a Nelms-thrown pass and returned it 60 yards across the double stripes. The attempt at the PAT went awry.

 A stout defensive stand by Stanton on its own five in the fourth helped determine the outcome. The score was deadlocked at the time, 14-14.
 Ronnie Dickinson, Bruce Stanley, H. A. Schuelke, Tim Glynn, linebacker Vernon Brown, Gary Hanson, Joe Hernandez, Eiland and Elvin Brown all played outstanding ball for Bill Young's Stanton team.
 Eiland picked up 127 yards in just seven carries. Vernon Brown gained 85 yards in 20 rushes. Elvin Brown had 66 paces in 17 lunges with the ball.
 Stanton stands at 5-3 overall and 1-1 in 5A play.

Tornadoes Lose Again

LAMESA — Hapless Lamesa lost another game here Friday night, yielding to Lubbock Estacado, 28-0.
 The Golden Tornadoes, powerhouse a year ago, could rally only four first downs and 102 total yards against the Matadors.
 Estacado scored in every period but the second and closed out with two touchdowns in the fourth.
 The entire game was marred by fumbles, interceptions, busted plays and aborted punts. Estacado could make only 99 yards rushing and 42 passing.
 Estacado's Rodney Moore accounted for the first touchdown on a ten-yard run, after which L. V. Hall kicked the PAT.
 Clarence White put the Matadors on the board again in the third on a 26-yard run, after which the try for point failed.
 Michael Phillips added to Estacado's margin with a 46-yard punt return in the final eight minutes of the game, after which Victor Hicks romped in for two extra points.
 Moore intercepted a Lamesa pass and sprinted seven yards for the Matadors' final tally. Hall kicked the point after.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas Ranger veteran infielder Larry Brown has been given his unconditional release and replaced on the major league roster by pitcher Larry Mohme.
 Brown, a 12-year American League veteran with Cleveland, Baltimore, Oakland and Texas, was signed as a free agent by the Rangers during spring training following his 1973 release by Baltimore.
 He has a lifetime batting average of .233, but hit 197 for the Rangers last season.
 Mohme, a 21-year-old righthander from Litchfield, Ill., is considered one of the top pitching prospects on the Texas club.
 He was purchased from the Spokane, Wash. farm club where his record was 3-6.
 BOSTON (AP) — Tony Petronelli of East Bridgewater, Mass., claimant to the U.S. junior welterweight championship, will defend the title against Benny Huertas of Puerto Rico in a 12-round bout Nov. 18.
 Matchmaker Sam Silverman said today the bout will be televised locally from the studio of Boston's WNAC-TV. Silverman said the fight is the first national title bout to be held in a TV studio.

"Drive a Little, Save a Lot!"
BIG SPRING, TEXAS • 500 W. 4th Street • Phone 267-7424

PRICE IS WHAT YOU PAY - VALUE IS WHAT YOU GET...

YOU BE THE JUDGE!

OH, BOY! I'VE GOT TO GET A NEW CAR AND 1975'S ARE PRICED HIGHER THAN 1974'S.

YES, BUT THE THING TO DO IS GET THE BEST VALUE!

FOR EXAMPLE - THE PRICE OF SUGAR IS UP 201% BUT IT ISN'T SWEETER OR DOESN'T LAST LONGER. SHOES HAVE INCREASED IN PRICE MORE THAN 97.6% - YET THE LEATHER IN THEM IS NOT ANY BETTER.

SO, YOU CAN GO RIGHT DOWN THE LINE AND COMPARE THE INCREASES IN PRICE WITH NO INCREASE IN VALUE - BUT, WITH CHEVROLET, YOU CAN COME OUT AHEAD. MORE VALUE!

SOME CARS HAVE AN INCREASE IN PRICE... BUT NOT IN VALUE. CHEVROLET, HOWEVER, GIVES YOU ADDED VALUE BY INCLUDING CERTAIN OPTIONAL EQUIPMENT AS STANDARD EQUIPMENT. IN CHEVROLET YOU GET THE CATALYTIC CONVERTER AT NO EXTRA COST (HELPS THE ENGINE RUN LEANER, CLEANER AND SAVES YOU MONEY EVERY MILE.)

ALSO, THE HIGH ENERGY IGNITION SYSTEM (40 POINTS OR CONDENSER TO REPLACE - 4 TIMES THE LIFE SPAN OF SPARK PLUGS - WHEN YOU CHANGE AT 22,500 MILE INTERVALS) AND STEEL BELTED RADIAL TIRES FOR BETTER RIDE AND TRACTION.

NOW, THESE ARE JUST A FEW OF THE VALUE INCREASES THAT GO WITH THE PRICE INCREASE OF 1975 CHEVROLETS. I BELIEVE THE INCREASE IN VALUE OFFSETS THE INCREASE IN PRICE. SO... YOU BE THE JUDGE!

WANT

AND ITS CRITICS, TOO Four-Day Work Week Has Its Supporters

By The Associated Press

It is, as an afterthought, a way to solve Monday and Friday absenteeism. It is, as an afterthought, a way to provide more telephone time between East and West Coast firms by having longer daily hours. It is, as an afterthought, a way to conserve energy, costs, commuting time. It is also a way to wedge two weeks into one. But ostensibly it is humanitarian, a way to provide almost as much time off the job as on. Yet somewhere, hidden in the concept, is the tacit admission that for most people, work is a bore. This is the four-day week, or less. It constitutes a pokey, indefinite trend on the American labor scene, but nevertheless a departure from the discipline of the calendar toward a more voluntary-as-you-like-it work ethic.

everyone likes it. But those who do are ecstatic. ONLY 188 DAYS For instance, at Group Health Insurance in New York City, the average worker with three weeks' vacation works only 188 days a year, and is off 177 — what almost amounts to an every-other-day work year. Fran Rissland, 22, a personnel employe at Group Health, has been working the four-day week for nearly six months. "It was one of the strongest reasons I left my old job — because the pay difference wasn't that much." Sure, she had to work longer days to squeeze the 35-hour week into four days, but that too played into the young married life of Mrs. Rissland, the wife of a Wall Street accountant. She gets up earlier than her husband and comes home later. "But this way there's no competition for the bathroom in the morning. And when I get home, he's already unwound with a cocktail or a beer. And he's read the newspaper."

She sees practically no disadvantages. There is less traffic when she goes to work and when she heads home. She spends less money on transportation and lunch. "But the most important thing is your frame of mind, the way you look at the days of the week. Wednesday isn't Wednesday anymore, it's almost the end." Blue Monday is a little less blue. By Thursday she's tired, but Friday she's off. That's the day she cleans her Brooklyn apartment, does her "Saturday work," which leaves her free for the weekend. NOT UNANIMOUS You'd think everyone would love the four-day week. Not everyone does. Sometimes the very system of work is against it. For instance, the Chrysler Corp. agreed with the United Auto Workers to look into the possibility of a four-day week, the first in the auto industry. The company couldn't see how it would work in a three-shift, seven-day operation involving 52,000 employes. But it agreed to try it in a limited parts depot operation. The target plant was at Tappan, N.Y. The workers agreed nearly unanimously at the beginning of last summer. By fall, they agreed overwhelmingly to return to the five-day week. They had lost too much in terms of working conditions and overtime pay to make up for the one day of added leisure. Even in a garden spot of the four-day week, Group Health Insurance, there are some people who hate it. Unlike the newlywed Mrs. Rissland, who lives only 15 minutes from work by subway, Anne Ridky, 48, the wife of a five-day-a-week police lieutenant, has to travel 90 minutes by train and bus. She's up in her suburban New York home at 4:30 a.m. and leaves for work an hour later. She gets off work at 5:30 and arrives home at 7. The new, longer hours "take me away from my husband... I don't get to see him except over the supper table."

Lack Of Party Unity Doesn't Worry Muniz

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — It is said that one of the problems of the Raza Unida party is that the "Raza"—Mexican-Americans—is not "unida"—united—but party candidate for governor Ramsey Muniz says that does not worry him. "I thought that every Mexican-American would vote for me merely because I am one. I wouldn't bother to campaign. I wouldn't have to," says Muniz, 31, of Corpus Christi. Muniz won 200,000 votes in 1972 running with the support of an unexperienced volunteer staff and with the Mexican-American label sticking out prominently. Now he says he and the party—despite the name—are trying to shed political and racial labels and address themselves to Texans of all races and persuasions.

and ethics in politics are some of the top issues. "We want to control campaign spending," says Muniz who maintains he has spent $15,000 in the past 11 months. "Money should not control politics; people should control it." He adds: "As long as we have the Briscoes, the Armstrongs, the Towers, the Connallys and the high Democratic hierarchy controlling politics and spending money to buy votes, the people are not going to have a voice or proper representation." On the question of education, Muniz says he would call for emergency legislation to reform the state's school financing system. "We know that school districts, especially in South Texas, are going through a financial crisis," he says. "Many have reported to the State Education Agency that they are operating on a deficit."

He blames the schools' problems on Gov. Dolph Briscoe and his refusal to call a special session of the legislature. "If I become governor, I will call for special legislation to provide quality education to each Texas child according to his needs," Muniz says. The party expects to win several county elections especially in South Texas. Party founder Jose Angel Gutierrez, who led the party to victory in city and school board elections in Crystal City, is now running for county judge and is expected to win. Gutierrez, whose shouts of "Chicano power!" and "radical-sounding blasts at the 'gringo' three years ago first attracted attention to the political organization, has played a low-key role in this year's campaign. Muniz refers to those early activities as the "entertainment stage" to attract the attention of the news media. Now the shock is wearing out and, also, Muniz and his organizers realize that many Mexican-Americans were upset by the radicalism of some of the leaders and by the stress on "Chicano power."

NO QUESTION "The question of my being a Mexican-American candidate and representing Mexican-Americans does not come up often now," he said in an interview. "We are talking about issues, problems that affect all Texans. It is no longer a question of a Mexican-American candidate, but of a candidate from an organized political party." The label, however, sticks along with some of the residual identification with the "Chicano movement" and its ideological clash with a considerable segment of the Spanish-speaking population. "We know that most Anglos will not vote for a Mexican-American," Muniz said. "That's why Mexican-American candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties never got beyond the primary elections. But we are trying to change that. We are appealing to all Texans and discussing issues which we think are important." Muniz, a graduate of the Baylor Law School and a former football player who retains his athletic good looks, says taxes, education and ethics in politics are some of the top issues. "We want to control campaign spending," says Muniz who maintains he has spent $15,000 in the past 11 months. "Money should not control politics; people should control it." He adds: "As long as we have the Briscoes, the Armstrongs, the Towers, the Connallys and the high Democratic hierarchy controlling politics and spending money to buy votes, the people are not going to have a voice or proper representation." On the question of education, Muniz says he would call for emergency legislation to reform the state's school financing system. "We know that school districts, especially in South Texas, are going through a financial crisis," he says. "Many have reported to the State Education Agency that they are operating on a deficit."

He blames the schools' problems on Gov. Dolph Briscoe and his refusal to call a special session of the legislature. "If I become governor, I will call for special legislation to provide quality education to each Texas child according to his needs," Muniz says. The party expects to win several county elections especially in South Texas. Liquor Vote Livens Up Martin Election

STANTON — A controversial mixed beverages vote in precinct two in Martin County has turned Tuesday's election into an exciting one.

Before this petition was submitted and approved, it looked as though election day would be a routine affair.

The liquor by the drink vote, called for by the Martin County Commissioners Court after it was presented with a petition containing 123 signatures, has been met with mixed emotions in the county.

A Martin County Citizens Against Liquor By the Drink Committee has been organized, and this group has circulated a petition urging voters of precinct two to vote against the liquor option.

Master Violin Maker Is Teaching Others

When invitations were sent out by the State Fair Association to artisans from across the state, Denver Pettitt, Big Spring, veteran violin maker, was one of the few invited to show his handiwork before the millions of people visiting the fair held in October.

Pettitt, who has been making violins since 1934 and has been judged the best in the state, was one of 20 artisans who displayed their handiwork in the Crafts Village at the fair and his quality violins were the hit of the village.

Musicians from the Dallas Symphony Orchestra and music teachers from the Dallas area had nothing but praise for his work.

"As far as I've been able to find out, I'm the first Big Spring resident that has been invited to display at the fair since an artist in oils was invited some 40 years ago," he said.

"I want everyone to know, though, that what I have been doing, anyone can do if they set their minds to it," he added.

J. D. Poe and a Midland attorney presented the petition, telling the court that R. O. Anderson of New Mexico plans to convert Stanton's old convent into an exclusive restaurant, should the option be approved. This does not open up precinct two for package stores.

Martin County voters will go to the polls in six locations around the county Tuesday. Voting box number one will be the Cap Rock Auditorium; number two in the basement of the First United Methodist Church of Stanton; number three at Grady School; number four, Lenora Baptist Church; number five at Flower Grove School and number six at the Brown Paymaster Gin.

High Incidence

TOKYO (AP) — A government survey said today 27 out of every 1,000 Japanese were suffering from respiratory diseases in 1973, apparently because of worsening air pollution.

Stanton; number three at Grady School; number four, Lenora Baptist Church; number five at Flower Grove School and number six at the Brown Paymaster Gin.

After Franklin Roosevelt took office as president in 1933, Ezekiel was named economic adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. In this role, Ezekiel acted to reduce and prevent farm surpluses and raise prices by paying the farmer through a processing tax that later was declared unconstitutional.

Gunmen Murder Irish Watchman

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A Protestant watchman died today after being gunned down outside a Belfast pub. He was employed to keep a lookout for would-be bombers from the Irish Republican Army.

Police said gunmen fired half a dozen shots at the bar late Friday night.

Most Belfast pubs post civilian security guards at their front doors in a bid to curb terrorists.

Ezekiel Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mordecai J.B. Ezekiel, 75, who was credited with fashioning much of the controversial farm legislation during the Roosevelt New Deal, died Thursday after a brief illness.

After Franklin Roosevelt took office as president in 1933, Ezekiel was named economic adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. In this role, Ezekiel acted to reduce and prevent farm surpluses and raise prices by paying the farmer through a processing tax that later was declared unconstitutional.

Ezekiel, a resident of suburban Bethesda, Md., was among the first to suggest paying farmers not to grow crops and that the government destroy, rather than buy, farm surpluses in order to raise prices.

It Depends On You

By JO BRIGHT

"The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center offers an extraordinary chance, an opportunity, to children who otherwise might never have known the excitement of running for a ball, the simple pleasure of a country hike, the satisfaction of speaking so that they can be understood, or hearing the sound of music."

But, like the center's beige brochure says, "It all depends on you."

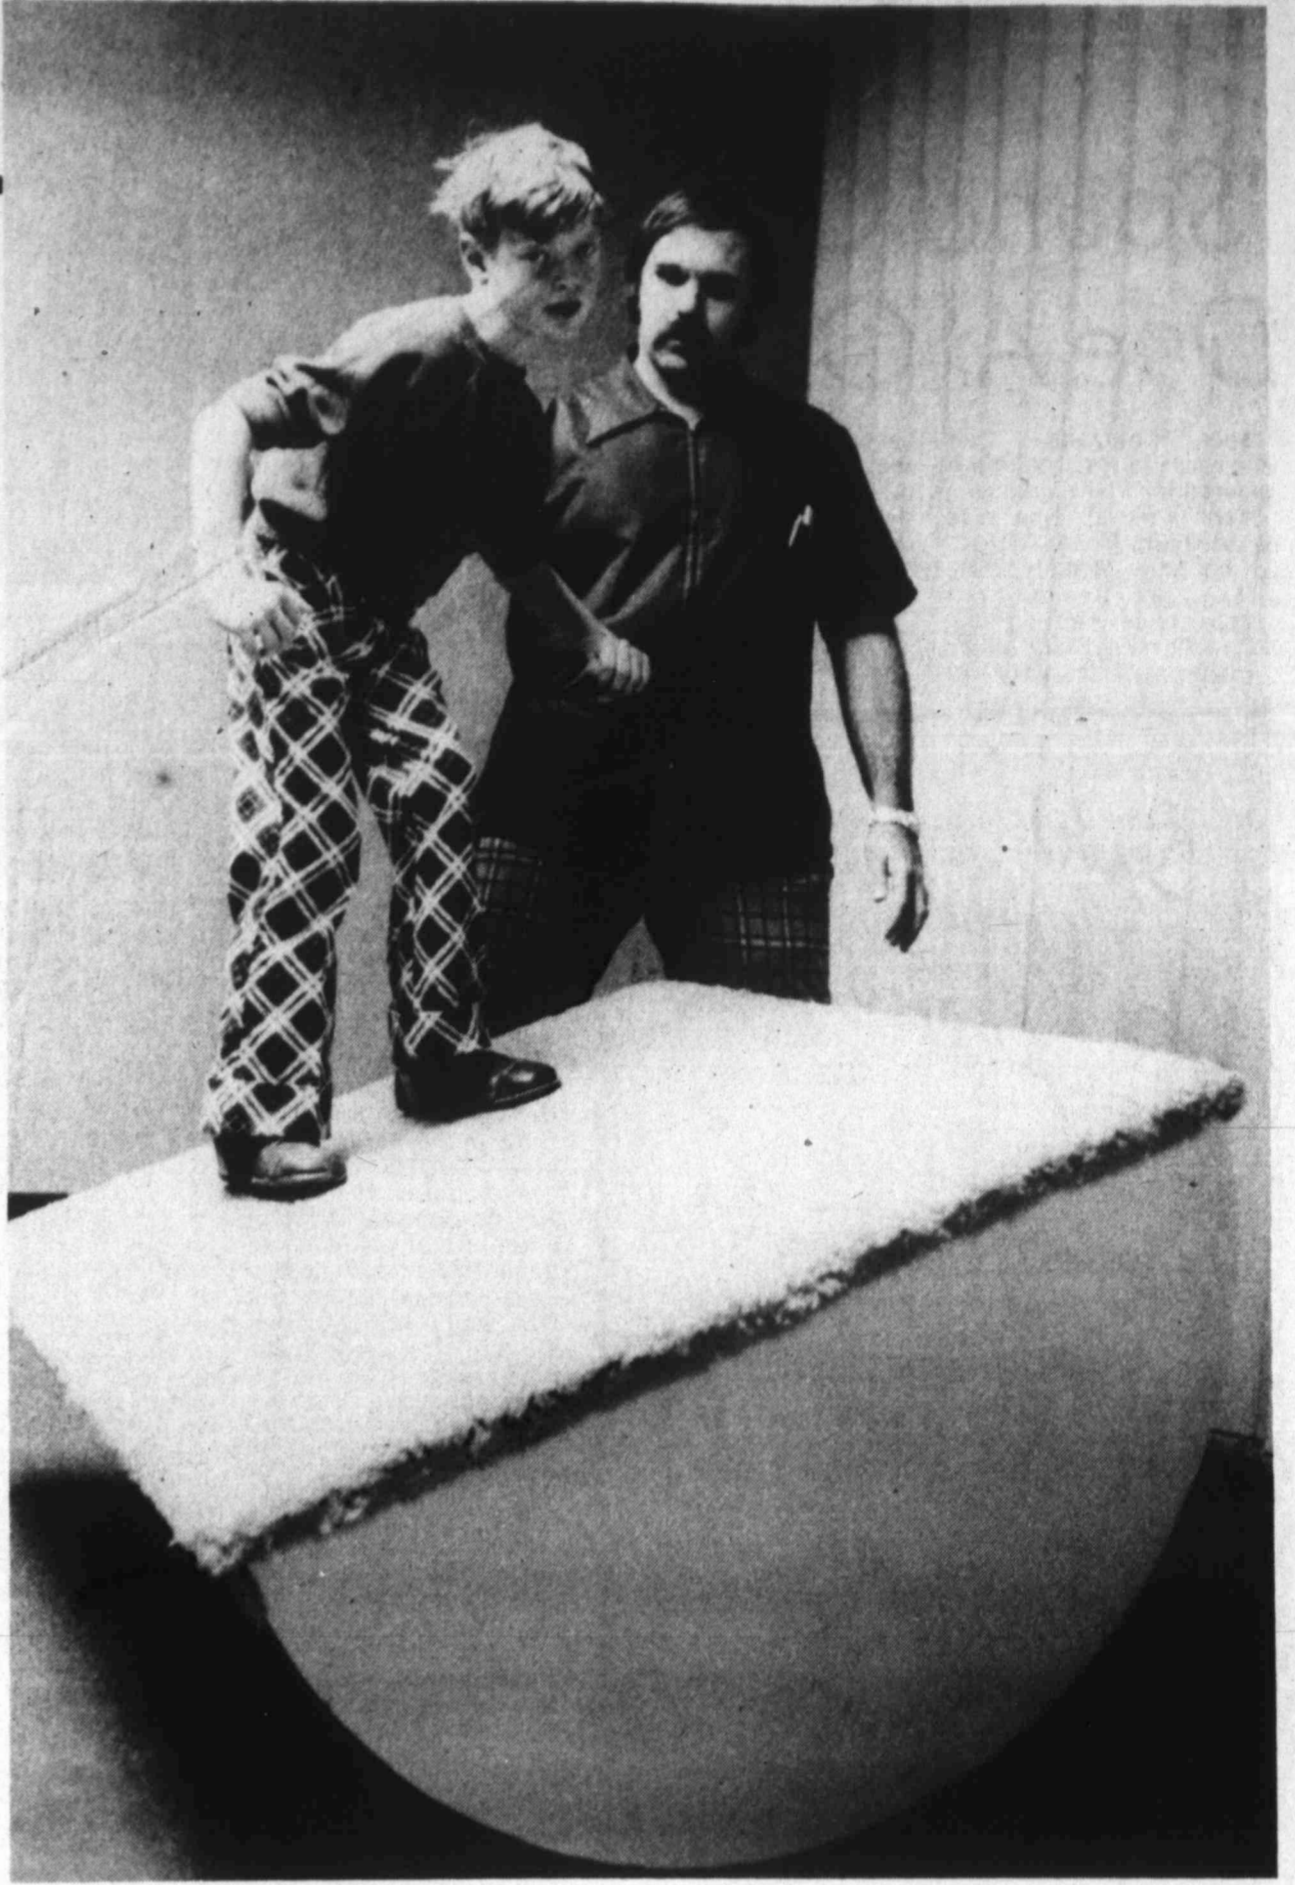

The center is a non-profit corporation, with an 18-member board of directors, as well as a medical advisory board, all of whom donate their time and services to the center. The services are available to all of the physically handicapped who can benefit from treatment — regardless of age, race, creed or financial circumstances. Through the program, many handicapped persons are becoming more self-sustaining and independent members of society.

Yet the center is not tax supported in any way. Its operations are financed solely by contributions from individuals, support from civic groups, United Fund, memorial gifts and fees from patients that are able to pay for part or all of their treatment. Easter Seals help provide some items for patients.

As a means of assisting the center, a "gala evening" is planned Thursday at the Dora Roberts Community Center, formerly Cosden Club. The black-tie affair is open to all residents, and those planning to attend should notify the rehab center (263-1062) prior to Thursday. Tickets are $25 each.

Bernie Howell and the Triolins will be featured during the cocktail hour and buffet. Highlighting the event will be a showing of exotic furs and diamonds from John Tauben of Dallas. During the evening, a ladies Brown Shadow, 27-inch mink shirt-jac will be given away.

Assisting in the host group will be Mr. and Mrs. Wade Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Will Edwards Jr., Mrs. Doris Chalk Cole, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, Mr. and Mrs. George A. McAlister Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lorin McDowell III, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meek, Gene MiKaska, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Don Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Turner and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Worthy.

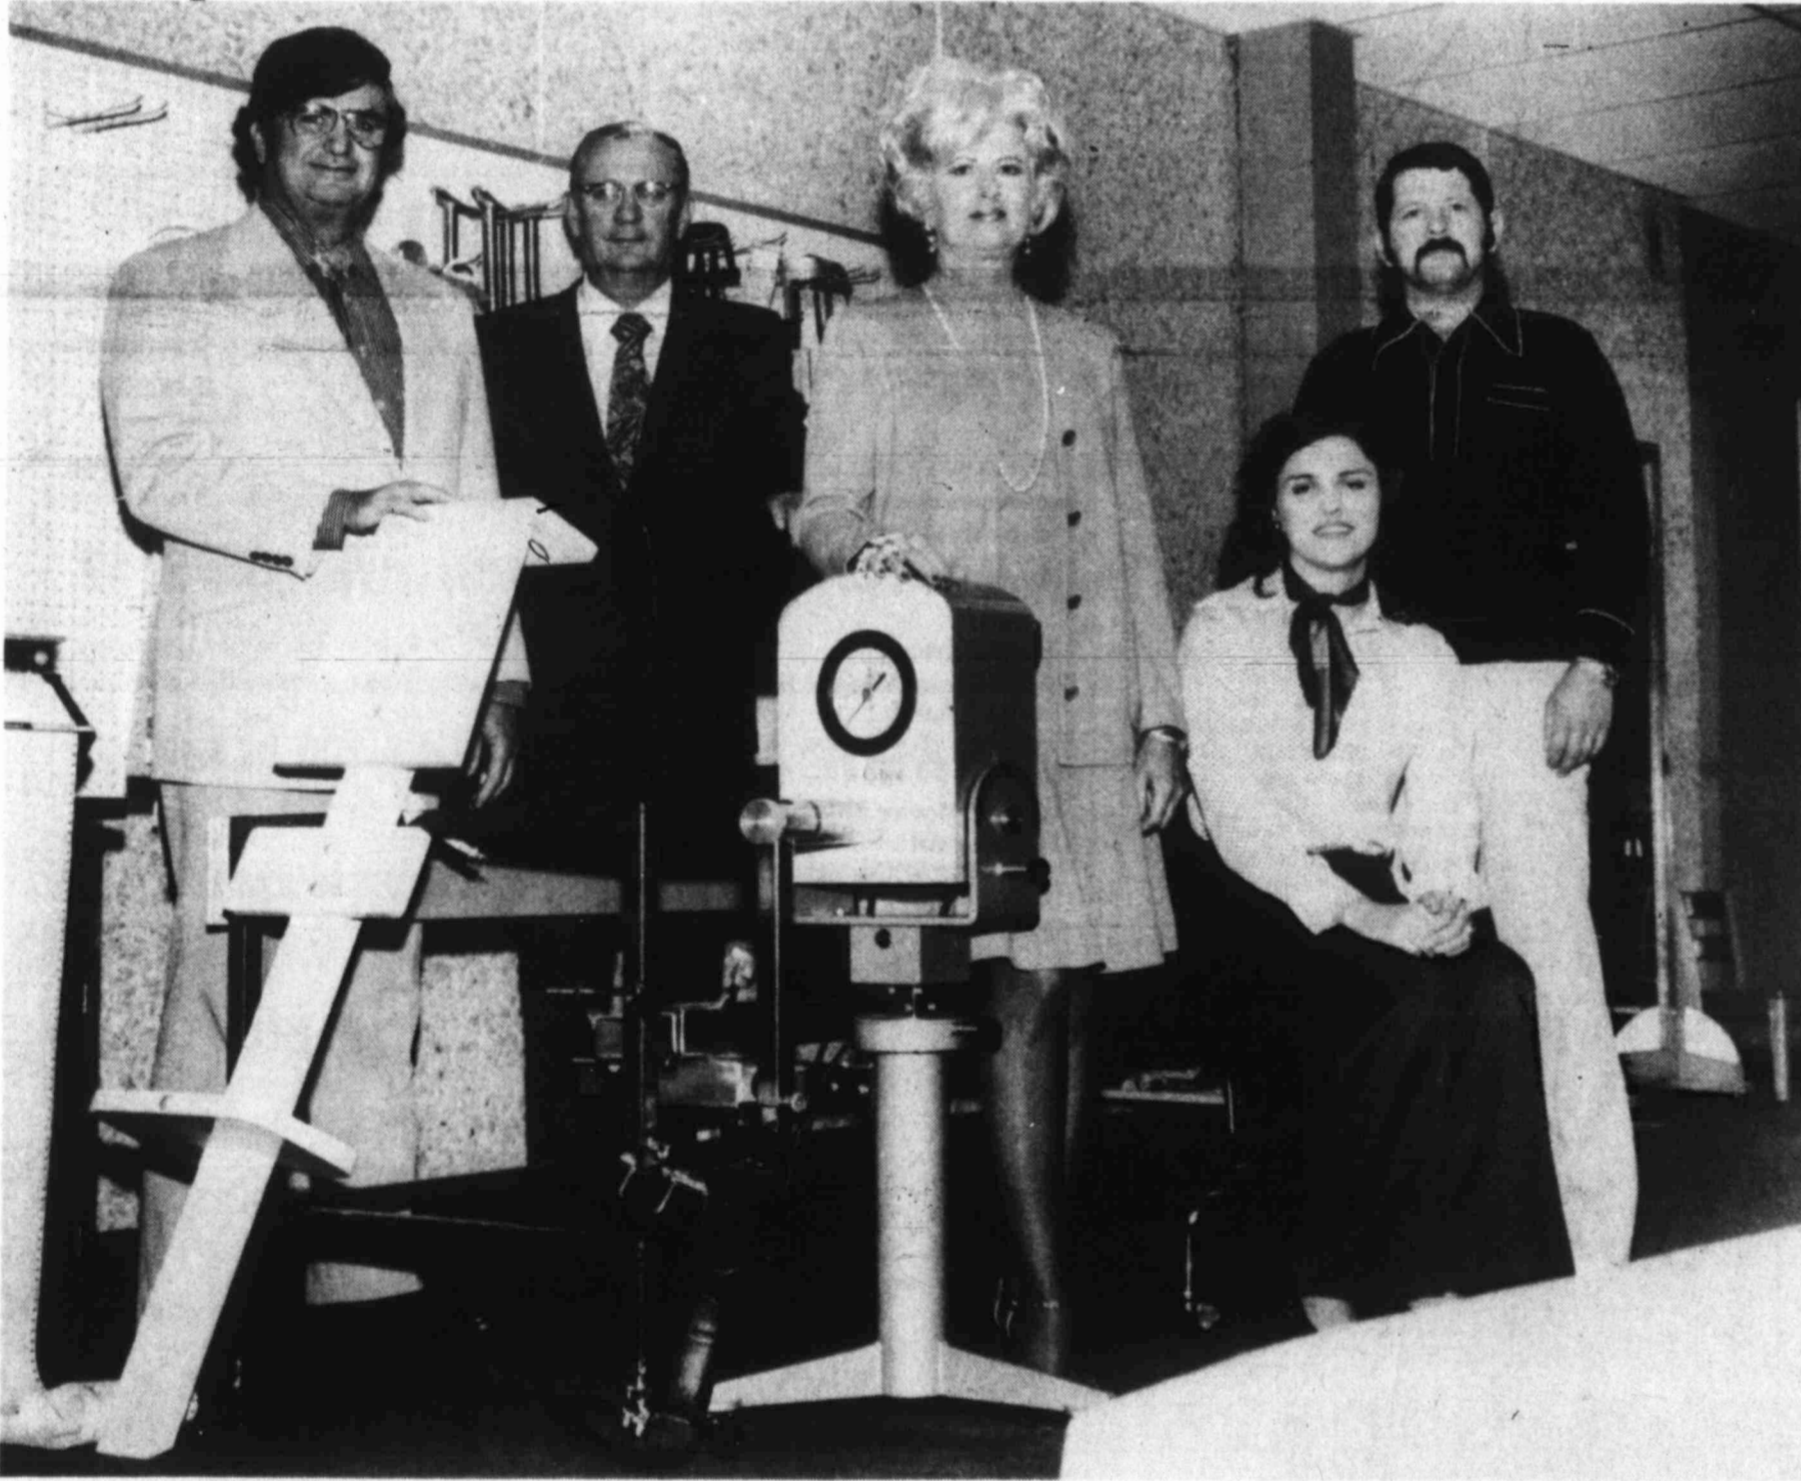

GETTING TO BE an expert in this balancing routine is Mark Roberts, 9, son of Mrs. Natalie Roberts, who has been a familiar face in the center's treatment rooms since he was 15 months old. With him is his friend, Kirby Horton, chief of physical therapy and assistant director of Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

EARLIER THIS WEEK, Jack Davis, director of Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, explained part of the center's equipment to some of the local people who are hosting Thursday's gala evening to benefit the center. Shown at left are Kent Morgan, Paul Meek, Mrs. Kent Morgan, Mrs. Gary Turner and Davis.

DECORATIONS will add to the festive air of Thursday evening's gala at Dora Roberts Community Center. Hundreds of colorful balloons and opera parasols will be used to carry out the party theme. Assisting with the planning are, from left, Mrs. Will Edwards Jr., Mrs. Lorin McDowell III and Mrs. Paul Meek.

FOR YOUR PLEASURE

'Sound Of Music' Is Due At Opera House

The Colorado City Playhouse has an ambitious undertaking in the staging of "Sound of Music" Nov. 11-16 at the Opera House. Tickets go on sale Monday (728-3491). Cast as the Von Trapps are Jo Lynn and John Mikow. Opening night will be a dinner theatre party ($7 per) starting at 6:30 p.m. in the Civic Center, progressing to the Opera House. Other performances ($2.50) are at 8 p.m. Tandy Curlee is directing.

The Tech Music Theatre will present an English version of Georges Bizet's popular opera, "Carman," Nov. 15-16 at 8 p.m. Featured are Theresa Treadway, Tech's affiliate artist, as well as John Gillas, Judith Klinger, William Hartwell and Kyung Wook Shin of the Texas faculty in leading roles. Reservations ($1.25 and $3.50) may be had from the Tech music department, P. O. Box 4239, Lubbock 79409

Works by Denice Teague, West Texas State University senior art student, will be on display in the Formal Lounge of the school's fine arts building today to Nov. 15. There are some 30 works of Miss Teague, a Big Spring resident, who has studied with Mary Jane Burd, also under Dr. Emilio Cabellero, Harold Smith and others. Some of the works are those Miss Teague entered in competition in the Big Spring Art Association shows and other shows. She is a member of two honorary societies and listed in Who's Who, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Teague, Big Spring.

Deadline for entering paintings in the annual West Texas Watercolor Competition and Exhibition at Lubbock is Nov. 8. Already, entries have come from as far as Florida and California. All artists over the age of 18 are invited to submit entries (forms are available from the Museum of Tech at 4th and Indiana in Lubbock). A nonrefundable fee of $5 per entry is required. The paintings must be received between Nov. 29 and Dec. 5 and will go up after Dec. 6. Winners will be posted Dec. 16.

Heritage Museum will be open again this afternoon, to 3 p.m., for those who have not yet viewed the H. W. Caylor exhibit. More than four score persons visited the collection of some 60 paintings last Sunday. Caylor was a frontier artist who came here in the early 1890's. Members added to the rolls last week were Mr. and Mrs. Hayes F. Stripling Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Swartz, also Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sparenberg, Houston. Visitors included Nancy Dawes, sister of William R. Daws, and Edith Nelson, both from Michigan.

Training Is Best Answer

Training is the key to developing a young child's concern for others, report National Institute of Mental Health scientists. Parents also must be responsive to their children's feelings, and point out to them in specific circumstances the desirability and best method for altruistic expression, say Dr. Marian R. Yarrow and associates, Dr. Carolyn Z. Waxler and Dr. Phyllis M. Scott. Too little is known about "pro-social" behavior, the NIMH investigators believe, and with 104 nursery school children between three and six, have begun a long-term study of the potentialities for altruistic responsiveness in the very young.

'Quotable Women'

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:
 "It's certainly not the glamorous, exciting life that most people think it is. It's a lonely life. It's not a free life — but it's a good life." Margaret Trudeau, wife of Canada's prime minister, discussing the problems that sent her to the hospital last month for psychiatric care.
 "First they said they were going to save us from China, and then they were the ones who became completely pro-Chinese." Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, in an interview before talks with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, visiting to mend U.S.-India relations.
 "I hadn't been on a bicycle in 40 years. People who recognized me couldn't believe it." Olivia deHavilland riding around on a bike in a mink and pearls." Olivia deHavilland, 58, speaking of a bicycle ride her 18-year-old daughter Giselle persuaded her to take in Williamsburg, Va.

"Isn't this marvelous? We just hope this will raise enough money so we can lay down a financial base for the organization and establish a bail bond fund." Margo St.

James, leader of Coyote, an organization of prostitutes, speaking at the first annual lookers Ball in San Francisco.

Tennis Elbow

A bad, or "poorly controlled," backhand may contribute to the acute inflammation of "tennis elbow," says Dr. Robert P. Nirschl, chief of orthopedic surgery, Virginia Doctors Hospital, Arlington, Va. Force overload appears to be the main cause, while age certainly plays a part in the condition, which is most common between 35 and 50, according to Dr. Nirschl. It is possible that estrogen, or the lack of it, also is a factor.

A LOVELIER YOU Fashion Briefing On Leather Boots

With stormy weather on the wing, a briefing on boots seems timely. Boots, always basic to winter footgear, are currently in close step with fashion. Boots coordinate smartly with clothes, day and evening. Crafted in leather, a boot is protective, hardy and handsome.
 For day wear, styles cover a broad sweep from elegant riding boots to casual western types. Here there is less sole treatment this year, with slightly higher heels and suppler leathers. Special linings offer dry warmth and foot ease. Leather colors favor polished black and burnished browns.
 This brings us to the occasion-minded boot. You will want a pair in the softest suede or crinkle, rising to the knee and crushed around the ankle. This sort accompanies big skirts, coats and capes.
 Boots with slim sleek lines offer distinction to slim-skirted costumes. Colors in both categories draw on shades of copper, wine and dark green. Luxe!
 Hovering around the ankles, boots will be partnering pants — longer skirts, too. Markings focus on light-grained textures of the glove variety.
 Comfort Tips: Be sure boots fit both your feet and legs. When wearing boots all day, dust the feet with talcum in the morning, and give them a foot bath and massage at night.

Meat Handlers Be Cautious
 Public health experts have this advice for homemakers: Wash your hands with soap and water after handling raw meat and poultry and before touching other foods. This reduces the hazards of transferring bacteria to other foods. Using an antibacterial soap for this important step is an added precaution because its mild, gentle suds inhibit the growth of many bacteria. It is also important to cleanse immediately any equipment that has been used to prepare the raw meat or poultry before preparing other foods with the same equipment.

Low Calorie Is Cry Of Women

NEW YORK (UPI) — What types of new foods would women like to see? Researchers commissioned by Abbott Laboratories found that the new foods women would prefer to see most in supermarkets are spaghetti and pizza that taste genuine but without calories, low or no calories pie crust, fruit and pumpkin filling and even calorie-free liquor. The researchers also found that the most popular of the low-calorie foods now available are liquid sweeteners, carbonated beverages, whipped toppings, salad dressings and soft drinks.

'Male Chauvinists' Won't Stand Chance

By TERRY GANEY Associated Press Writer ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The male chauvinist voter in south St. Louis hasn't a chance Nov. 5. Any way he casts his ballot, he'll send a woman to Congress.

Democrat Leonor K. Sullivan facing opposition from Jo Ann P. Raisch, a Republican, and Marie S. Nowak, an independent.

"I think it might be a more interesting race having all women," says Mrs. Raisch, a 38-year-old mother of two teenage boys. Politics is not new to her family. Her husband William is seeking his third term as a state representative.

"People are tired of the oldtime politician. People want someone refreshing; they want someone new; they want someone young," Mrs. Raisch says.

"That's the usual thing they (opponents) say," according to Mrs. Sullivan, who is Missouri's first and only congresswoman.

"If I can't carry on, you'll never see me run for Congress. I think you're as old as you feel," says Mrs. Sullivan, who does not look her 72 years.

She was first elected in 1952 to fill the seat of her late husband and has been returned to Congress for 11 consecutive terms.

"I think 22 years in office is too long," says Mrs. Nowak, a 54-year-old eighth grade mathematics teacher. "No one seems to believe anybody. It seems like there's such a lack of confidence and faith in the government. I think the only way to restore that is to get some ordinary citizens — those who don't owe anybody any favors," Mrs. Nowak says.

The district, which covers south St. Louis City and south St. Louis County, is populated mostly by middle-class whites.

For Mrs. Sullivan, it's the first time she's ever been opposed by one member of her sex, much less two, but the veteran Democrat contends it will make no difference. She says Mrs. Nowak, as an independent, will take votes away from the GOP candidate.

Mrs. Raisch disagrees, saying the independent will cut into Mrs. Sullivan's strength, while Mrs. Nowak contends that disenchanted or undecided voters will line up behind her, deserting both political parties.

Both Mrs. Raisch and Mrs. Nowak have two children each, while Mrs. Sullivan has none. Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Nowak are widows.

Mrs. Sullivan says she has budgeted between $20,000 and $30,000 for this year's campaign, which is relying on the mailing of literature.

The door-to-door methods employed by Mrs. Raisch will cost her $2,200, according to her estimates. Mrs. Nowak says she receives volunteer, after-school assistance from a core of about 25 of her pupils and that she expects her drive will set her back $3,000 or $4,000.

DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Linney of Stanton announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Debbie, to Robert Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Robinson, Rt. 1, Big Spring. The wedding date is Dec. 20.

Wash Away Smell of Fish

Whether you're prepping fish in your own kitchen, or on a campsite as the fish comes off the hook, you'd rather go without the fishy reminder on your hands. Wetting hands with cold water before preparing fish will keep them free of the fishy odor. Then, when the job is complete, wash hands with warm water and a deodorant soap. Its antibacterial action builds up an invisible shield that keeps many bacteria under control, so is an added protection against the cuts and nicks the fish scales or scaling knife might leave.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING Wooden Furnishings Deserve Good Care

Proper care of wooden furniture will keep it looking its best. If the manufacturer has provided specific instructions for the care of its products, always refer to them for guidance. Be careful of the spray products, many of them contain ingredients that will harm good wood over a period of them.

Routine care involves frequent dusting and infrequent thorough cleaning. To dust, use hemmed cloths. Unhemmed ones leave more lint. Consumers can make dust-absorbing dust cloths at a fraction of the cost of store-bought ones.

There are four preparation methods. Pour two tablespoons of furniture polish or liquid wax into a one-quart jar or coffee can. Rotate jar or can to completely coat inside surfaces. Pour out excess liquid to avoid getting too much on the cloths. Paste wax also can be used — by coating inside of the jar or can with a light film of wax. Then place two or three dust cloths in the jar or can. Let them stand a day or two. They will absorb the liquid or wax evenly.

Another method combines one-fourth cup lemon oil with one pint of boiling water. Then add six to eight cloths and let them absorb as much liquid as possible. When the water cools, wring out each cloth and hang it up to dry thoroughly.

For all dust cloths, use old, soft cotton cloths. Always store treated dust cloths in a covered glass jar or can to prevent a fire hazard. When they become soiled from use, wash in warm suds and treat them again if necessary.

A third method calls for one tablespoon of kerosene mixed with one quart of hot water. Dip squares of soft clean cloth into this solution, wring out, dry and store in covered jar or can.

PANTRY PICKUPS

It has been estimated that approximately 1500 new grocery items are added yearly to the shelves of the nation's supermarkets. Of these, some 500 survive. The average supermarket today stocks about 8,000 different items, including new products.

There are now about the same number of farmers producing food for this country as there were in 1875, a little over three million. They are feeding many more people more food of much higher quality and greater convenience.

For hot dogs or hamburgers, cooked inside or out, here's a tangy sauce that will give them plenty of spunk: to two tablespoons of lard or drippings, add one-fourth cup catsup, one tablespoon prepared mustard and one-half tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Heat until blended.

Sour cream is not really soured: it is cultured by the addition of lactic acid to pasteurized, homogenized light sweet cream for the product which adds delight to dozens of desserts, dips, sauces and gravies — including the popular Beef Stroganoff.

Ceremony Performed Saturday Evening

Miss Deborah Kay Dunlap became the bride of Walter E. Campbell in a ceremony held Saturday evening in the bridegroom's home at 2700 Larry.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. G. N. Walker, 1307 E. 19th, and Ray Dunlap, Midland; and Mrs. E. D. Campbell, 2700 Larry, and the late Mr. Campbell.

The Rev. Wayne Oglesby, step-brother of the bride, officiated for the ceremony as the wedding party stood before a fireplace decorated with greenery and candelabra holding purple candles.

Organ music of Bach and Brahms was heard in the background.

The bride wore a dress of candlelight Valentino satin with empire bodice accented by tiny covered buttons. The long, full sleeves were gathered to the wrists by wide cuffs that fastened with tiny covered buttons. The chapel-length train extended from the tucked bodice.

The bride carried a nosegay of purple asters, sweetheart roses, white spider mums and purple statice.

Mrs. Jon Martin was her sister's matron of honor and wore a floor-length dress of floral print in purple and green, styled similarly to that of the bride.

L. E. Burks attended the bridegroom as best man.

After a wedding trip the couple will reside at 2828 11th, Odessa.

SCHOOLS

The bride, a graduate of Big Spring High School, will graduate this spring from Hardin-Simmons University with a bachelor of music degree.

The bridegroom also graduated from Big Spring High School and studied two years at Howard College. He is presently affiliated with K-Mart in Odessa.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Campbell home where refreshments were served by Mrs. L. H. Barlow and

MRS. WALTER E. CAMPBELL

Mrs. Dave Kissell. The refreshment table was laid with an antique satin cloth and centered with a floral arrangement flanked by silver candelabra. Other appointments were crystal.

GUESTS

Relatives attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Barlow, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kissell, all of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Heflin, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Betty Oglesby, Westbrook; and Mr. and Mrs. David L. Curry, Fort Worth.

Fashion Scoreboard Counts Grace, Style

The new freedom in dress requires more attention than ever to posture, grooming, and stance. Whether you're permitted to wear barely there tanshons to work, school or parties, these tips can make all that "girl watching" worth-while for you! You'll add points to your personal fashion scoreboard if you:

1. Always take a long gaze in a full length mirror before leaving home. That's the last time you'll have to catch a drooping hem, snagged stocking, ripped seam.

2. Learn how to move gracefully. Instead of collapsing into your desk chair, let your leg muscles do the work gently bending them at the knee and sliding into your seat, rather than plopping yourself down low-end first.

3. When you sit, cross your legs at almost same moment. Remember to look "like a lady" regardless of your garments. Let the crossing leg sit high over the crossed leg so that your calf doesn't do a "spread out." Watch for blouses and pullovers that "pull out" of skirts and shorts—revealing more than you'd like! As you can see, there's an art to even the simplest of actions!

Packing Hints For Travellers

Now that Woman's Lib is being taken more seriously — by men and women alike — women are taking their place in the hectic world of executive responsibility. And this means more nerve-shattering business trips as well. When a woman travels she needs to remember those personal items that help her look her best (hair dryer, makeup, and other grooming aids). To really make business travel care-free, take only packable, washable knits, and color-coordinated accessories.

USE THE HERALDS WANT ADS

Grandmother, 69, Is Serving Subpoenas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gray-haired grandmother Blanche Butterfly didn't want to stay home babysitting, so she took a job where she can serve people. With subpoenas, eviction notices and other legal papers.

"It's not a job I'd recommend, but it pays a lot better than minding babies," the 69-year-old process server said in an interview Thursday. "There aren't too many things a person my age can do to support themselves. Besides, I like the challenge." The challenge includes coping with elusive and often angry targets for her summonses. One woman recently hit her on the head with a brick when Mrs. Butterfly handed her an unlawful detainer notice for being almost 12 months delinquent on her rent. "I've had to climb up ladders and rap on windows a couple of stories high with papers in my hand. I even had to deal with a nude man who was hiding under the water in a swimming pool," she recalled. Generally, though, Mrs. Butterfly, a short, plump woman who admits to tinting her gray hair, says she avoids chasing people or trying to fool them. "I go to the door like a lady, and I'm usually treated like a lady," she said. Mrs. Butterfly, a divorcee who worked for 38 years as a private detective's investigator, set up her Attorney's Beck and Call service nearly 10 years ago and has built up a clientele she estimates at 1,000 lawyers throughout the country. Working 17-hour days, she still has to refuse assignments. Whatever those she serves may think of her, Mrs. Butterfly said she is secure in the admiration of her employers. "The people out there may think I'm a bad person, but to my attorneys I'm a very dear and nice old lady."

MR. AND MRS. HENRY LEE WRIGHT

Golden Anniversary Reception Is Today

The golden anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Wright will be observed today with a reception at their home on Midway Road.

Hosts for the affair will be their children, Mrs. G. H. Wayland and E. M. Wright, both of Big Spring; Mrs. Oscar Carter, Amarillo; Mrs. Billie Lewallen, Tahoka; and K. L. Wright, Abernathy. All friends are invited to attend and calling hours will be from 3 until 5 p.m.

Wright and the former Miss Naomi Bigham were married Nov. 1, 1904, in Stephenville in Erath County. They moved to Roperville in 1925 and, later, to Brownfield, farming, for a number of years before moving to Big Spring where he was employed by the Big Spring Independent school District. He retired from the school job in 1972. The couple has 13 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

The great-grandchildren will present their grandparents with flowers for the reception.

Choate and the Rev. Schmitt, Mrs. GERALD Young and Mrs. Henry Carrasco will respond.

Roll call will be by Mrs. Jose Esparza, Imperial, and Mrs. Tihen will bring the president's message.

Mrs. Robert T. Foster, Big Spring, will report for the nominating committee, after which other reports will be heard.

Convention speakers are Mrs. John Moore, Waco; Mrs. John P. Roney, Mrs. Lee Eberhart and the Rev. Stephen A. Leven, Bishop of San Angelo.

Diocesan Council To Meet

The Rev. Reinhold Schmitt, San Angelo, will be the host moderator for the 13th Annual Convention of San Angelo Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, Monday at Sacred Heart Youth Center.

Theme for the convention is "Reconciliation — A Time for Healing."

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., and the opening session is at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Robert L. Tihen, Sweetwater, council president, will preside, and the Rev. Robert Kelly, council moderator, will word the invocation.

Welcome addresses will be by Big Spring Mayor Wade

Granny Requests A 'Prayer For Parents'

DEAR ABBY: Please reprint "A PARENT'S PRAYER." I have just become a grandmother and want to give it to my daughter. Thank you.

NEW GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY: With pleasure. It was written by Gary C. Myers, founder of Highlights for Children, a fine, wholesome and educational monthly magazine which I recommend highly.

A PARENT'S PRAYER

O heavenly Father, make me a better parent. Teach me to understand my children, to listen patiently to what they have to say, and to answer all their questions kindly. Keep me from interrupting them or contradicting them. Make me as courteous to them as I would have them be to me. Forbid that I should ever laugh at their mistakes, or resort to shame or ridicule when they displease me. May I never punish them for my own selfish satisfaction or to show my power.

Let me not tempt my child to lie or steal. And guide me hour by hour that I may do that honesty produces happiness.

Reduce, I pray, the meanness in me. And when I am out of sorts, help me, O Lord, to hold my tongue.

May I ever be mindful that my children are children and I should not expect of them the judgment of adults.

Let me not rob them of the opportunity to wait on themselves and to make decisions.

Bless me with the biggest to grant them all their reasonable requests, and the courage to deny them privileges I know will do them harm.

Make me fair and just and kind. And fit me, O Lord, to be loved and respected and imitated by my children. Amen.

DEAR ABBY: You advised women who were flat-chested and wanted silicone implants to consult their family doctors about which plastic surgeon to go to, so that's what I did. Well, I thought my doctor was going to throw me out of his office! He said I was "crazy and vain" and the way he carried on was enough to send me away in tears. I can't tell you now hurt I was. It had taken me three years to get up the courage to ask him.

I had talked it over with my husband, and he agreed that if I wanted to have silicone implants it was all right with him. Do you know of any reliable plastic surgeon in my area I could go to? If not, how can I find one?

FLAT IN N.J.

DEAR FLAT: Contact your County Medical Association, ask for a list of their board accredited plastic surgeons.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

'More Of Us, Darlings, -- And Less Of Them'

"There are more of us, darlings, and less of them," says the glamorous Eva Gabor.

That's Eva's way saying that she — and most other American women — are not tall, slender fashion-model types. Luis Estevez has taken her statement one step further and translated it into fashion.

The result is the new Fall collection of The Eva Gabor Look by Estevez, designed for the 35 million American women who fall somewhat short of fashion-model stature. They're between 5'2" and 5'6", "like me," says Eva, "they also enjoy being not exactly what you'd call skinny."

They can be exactly what you'd call feminine. Coty Award winning designer Estevez is a master at creating clothes that make a woman look as fine as she feels. He also creates the illusion that the woman is a little taller and a little slimmer than she actually is.

The collection for Fall offers long dresses and pants to wear at home, at someone else's home or anywhere at all. Estevez utilizes vertical panels of color, high waistlines, shapely shiftings, diagonal drapings and all sort of clever optical illusions to soften and slenderize silhouettes. Many of his designs have inner secrets. Built-in bust support and unique bodystockings, for instance, are used to control a woman's curves in total comfort. Estevez believes women want glamour that travels well. He chose fabrics for their easy-care, wrinkle resistant properties as well as for their soft, feminine look and feel.

The Eva Gabor Look by Estevez also is priced for the American woman's budget. The Fall fashions will be tagged from sixty to one hundred twenty dollars.

GIRL SCOUTS will be joining other national organizations in celebrating the nation's 200th birthday in the coming year. These Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts from the Big Spring area are among 20 who will serve on the West Texas Girl Scout Bicentennial Planning Committee. From left, they are Susan Bell, Valrie Barnes, Carol Davey, Lisa Lloyd and Pattie Hayes.

Bicentennial Group Includes Girl Scouts

Five Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts from the Big Spring area were among 20 Scouts selected to serve on the West Texas Girl Scout Bicentennial Planning Committee.

Mrs. Thomas Kim of Abilene presided over the committee, whose purpose was to formulate guidelines in which the Girl Scouts, within the sixteen-county council, will celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

The meeting, held Oct. 26 in Sweetwater, produced suggestions which will be presented to the West Texas Girl Scout Board of Directors Nov. 21, for approval. Upon approval, these guidelines will then be presented to service unit chairmen throughout the council, and then become available to troop leaders.

The girls on the Bicentennial Planning Committee were chosen on the recommendation of camp counselors and troop leaders. Those representing Big Spring are Valrie Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnes; Carol Davey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Davey; Pattie Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes; Lisa Lloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larson Lloyd; and Susan Bell, daughter of Mrs. Lin Bell. Girls that were selected, but were unable to attend were Jill Cunningham, Cassie Abernethy and Rehdien VanNess.

Adults representatives from Big Spring included Mrs. Preston Harrison, chairman of the Big Spring Girl Scout Bicentennial; Mrs. Larson Lloyd, program services committee; Mrs. John Hayes troop leader; and Mrs. Lin Bell, Girl Scout field director.

Parkhill, Runnels, Goliad, St. Mary's Episcopal and Immaculate Heart of Mary Schools; Mrs. William Reynolds (Mary) heading Airport and Marcy Schools, along with Webb Air Force Base; and Mrs. James VanNess, supporting the Coahoma and Sand Springs schools.

Bridge Game Held At Webb

Mrs. Roger Ward and Mrs. Vern Kooser placed first in bridge play sponsored by the Officers Wives Club Thursday at Webb Air Force Base.

Other winners were Mrs. A. E. Fallon and Mrs. Albert Smith, second; Mrs. Don Tokar and Mrs. June Dougherty, third; Mrs. Robert Simica and Mrs. Tracy Rhodes, fourth; and Mrs. Eddie Payne and Mrs. Connie Teetz, low.

The next session is scheduled at 9:25 a.m., Nov. 21 in the Officers' Club.

When the Busy Bee Hobby Club met Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. Bessie Smith, 1001 E. 2nd, it was announced that several of the members will present a program on Christmas decorations for the City Home Demonstration Club Friday in Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Mrs. Laura Duke, president, presided and introduced a guest, Mrs. Tommy Porter.

The club will meet Thursday in the home of Mrs. Edith Clark, 2800 Apache, for a "pattern swap."

First Lady Due Drug Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford, who lost her right breast to cancer five weeks ago, will undergo drug treatment to combat any undetected malignant cells that may have remained after surgery, the White House physician says.

Dr. William Lukash said in a statement Thursday that physical examinations and diagnostic tests have disclosed no signs of remaining cancer.

But he said the precautionary drug treatment, or chemotherapy, was ordered because two lymph glands removed from beneath Mrs. Ford's right arm during the Sept. 28 operation were cancerous.

"... One cannot be entirely certain that undetected microscopic malignancy has not spread to other areas," Lukash said, and chemotherapy was chosen "to insure more inclusive treatment against any possible remaining cancer."

Lukash said Mrs. Ford's progress since the surgery "has been excellent and her outlook for prolonged good health is extremely favorable."

The President's wife has followed a limited public schedule. She attended a Washington horse show with her husband last Monday and entertained seven youngsters in Halloween costumes who were trick-or-

Coats Shown

Mrs. Delbert Bardwell was a guest at the Pioneer Sewing Club meeting Tuesday in the home of Mrs. John Cardwell.

During the afternoon, members worked on Christmas gifts and were shown knitted coats, modeled by Mrs. T. R. Camp and Mrs. C. L. Gooch, and afghans. The coats were made by Mrs. Cardwell's sister, who resides in Abilene.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
You wouldn't believe how many of us tint our hair in our neighborhood. Once in a while we get the "tint" on our clothes or something. Do you have any solution as to how to remove this color from fabric?
South Side Bridge Club

Bet your boots I do, honeychile.
Try cuticle remover! And let's hope that you didn't ruin anything. Be sure the garment is washable and can withstand water 'cause you're gonna have to wash it later.

Heloise
P.S. A beauty operator told me about this and that's what they use when they get it on a customer! Great, huh?

Dear Heloise:
How lucky you are to have such a nice sweet and friendly mailman. All our mailman does is come late, show our mail to the neighbors and complain about our screen door.
Heloise's mailman, wherever you are, God bless you!!!
Ms. R.R.

Dear Heloise:
I save the plastic covers on the tube-shaped potato chip cans.

When I open a can of milk, I put one on the top of the can for a cover to store in the refrigerator. And I put one on the bottom of the can to keep the moisture off the refrigerator shelf. That keeps the shelf dry and won't rust it.
Mrs. Eleanora C. Whitby

Dear Heloise:
Many years ago I learned that if you got too much salt in the soup you could correct it by adding a raw potato (or piece of one), cooking only five minutes, removing it and it would have absorbed the extra salt. I imagine most cooks know this but... I wonder if you or any of your readers can tell me if there is anything you can do to something that is too hot with pepper?
We recently had some chili that all but set us on fire although it is the brand I always buy. I hope you can help me solve this problem.
Mrs. G.R. pulley

All right, gals, this should be a challenge to all the good cooks we know read this column. Do you have the answer to too much "fire" in the chili?
Heloise

Environment Troublemaker

Environmental stress has been linked to the development of hypertension by a Harvard Medical School Professor of Physiology. At a symposium in Houston, Tex., the physician, A. Clifford Barger, MD, described research that showed that persons in an occupation producing much tension developed high blood pressure at an earlier age than others in the same organization with less stressful positions.

He further reported that researchers have been able to produce high blood pressure in monkeys by putting them in special environmental control boxes. Dr. Barger said that "a multiplicity of factors affect people in different ways. Some people develop ulcers, some, coronary artery disease, and some, high blood pressure."

The physician spoke at a hypertension workshop sponsored by the Medical School and Division of Continuing Education of the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston. It was cosponsored by CIBA Pharmaceutical Company as part of its Medical Horizons Postgraduate Education Series.

Use Old Towel For Bath Toys

Make triple savings when you make soft, cuddly bathtub toys from worn towels stuffed with deodorant soap slivers, instead of buying plastic and rubber toys. First, round up all the ready-to-be discarded hand and bath towels. Then, with those towels, and a free-form pattern, cut a left and a right side for ducks, chicks, piglets, cats or dogs, just as you would for non-bath stuffed toys. Stitch right and left sides together leaving a small opening. Stuff with soap slivers, loosely baste the opening, and the bathtub barnyard is ready. Tiny tots will love being scrubbed, or scrubbing themselves with these cuddly creatures that become sudsier and sudsier as the bath continues. A bathtub barnyard saves money on toys, gets still more use from those worn towels, and gives protection right down to the last lather.

Dear Heloise:
This for schoolgoers who are tired of plain brown book covers. The solution is magazine covers.

The best kind comes from a large magazine that is stapled together. Just remove the staples and center portion and cover your book using the outside sheet just like a regular cover.

These different book covers cause as much talk as report cards.
Jacki Pease

Dear Heloise:
In helping my daughter plan for the 25th wedding reception for her in-laws, we used silver and pink as the color scheme. I sprayed white nylon net with silver paint to use in making up corsages and boutonnières.

I put the nylon net on newspaper outside, sprayed first one side, let dry, then sprayed the other side. The paint dries quickly and the job can be done in nothing flat.
She bought summer flowers from a local grower and used pink ribbon to tie them.

Duane H.

Dear Heloise:
Please warn people again about those oven bags.

The instructions always say to put holes in the bag before putting it in the oven. Today I forgot to do so.

The bag exploded in the oven, if I had opened the door at that time I would have been badly burned. As it was, I only had a dirty oven to clean up.

Those bags are great but you do have to take a minute for safety.

Your column, by the way, is great too.
Carol Doyle

This column is written for you...the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of The Big Spring Herald. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

See Blackheads "Wipe Off"

After a Single Queen Helene Skin and Beauty Treatment

INA LEE, Beauty Consultant

A leading New York dermatologist has developed a simple medicated-home treatment that rinses away blackheads and whiteheads in a matter of minutes.

I saw it demonstrated recently on five women and two teenage boys. The results were almost breathtaking. Blackheads really rinsed away. In fact, many could be seen on the cleansing tissues that finished each treatment. But this wasn't all! In the case of two older women, I saw enlarged pores reduced, and rough, muddy complexions made cleaner, clearer and smoother looking. In the case of teen-agers, I saw acne pimples improve after one application. After seeing these results, I can well understand why so many beauticians are now acclaiming this doctor's treatment as one of the most important beauty discoveries.

Floats Dirt off Face
The treatment starts with a thorough skin cleansing. A special laboratory-developed whipped cleansing cream is used that takes off not only surface dirt, but also softens and loosens pore-caked grime with its emollient action. It liquefies as soon as it is applied and literally floats the dirt right off your face.

After this is rinsed off, a delightful mint-scented cream is applied. Within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns this specially medicated cream into a plastic-like masque. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws on waste matter in the pores. In 8 or 10 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your tissue. And your skin feels clean — really clean — and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pore Sponging & Closing
The third step in the treatment is an exhilarating application of a unique anti-septic astringent — a facial "mint julep" that sponges and tightens emptied pores and leaves a protective invisible film that helps guard your skin against dust, dirt and bacteria for hours and hours.

Nothing Else Like It
Even after a single treatment, women who have been troubled by blackheads for years see a marked improvement. Many find it hard to believe their eyes. Some blackheads and whiteheads just rinse away. Others are softened and made ready to be drawn out by future treatments. Enlarged pores appear to be smaller. The skin looks smoother and firmer — feels fresher and more alive!

In short, after a single treatment taking only 15 minutes, you can expect to see results that normally you would not dare hope for even after many weeks... but don't expect everything at once. Damage done by years of neglect can't be undone in a day. Yet with 3 or 4 treatments a week, you may confidently look forward to startling complexion improvements within 30 days. Then one treatment a week — or every second week — will probably be all your skin will need to keep it clear, lovely and healthy looking.

The medically developed products used in this treatment are manufactured and quality-controlled by QUEEN HELENE. They are Queen Helene Whipped Cleansing Cream, Queen Helene Medicated Masque and Queen Helene Penetrating Astringent. The three items are sold as complete skin and beauty kit for $5.00. Quite a bargain when you think of what it will do for a person's good looks — and self esteem!

How to measure

For accurate results always use a metal tape to take measurements.

First, decide just where the rod is to be placed. Remember, you should extend the rod past the window frame for more light, best ventilation and a more pleasing appearance.

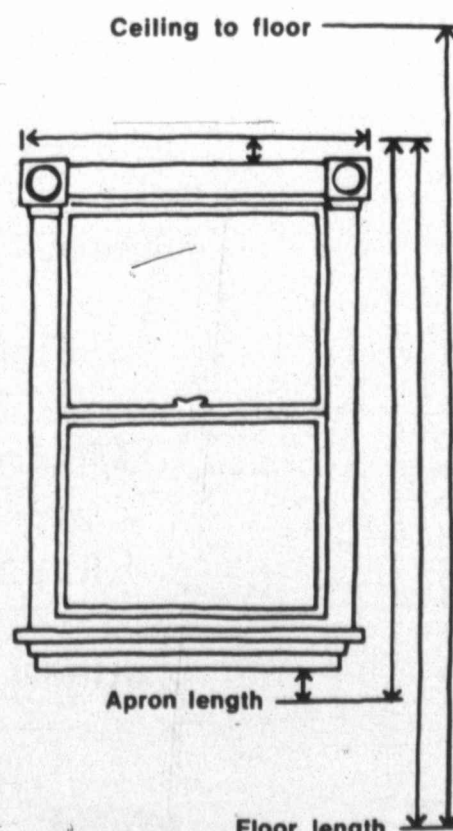

After you have decided on location of the rod, measure from one end of the rod across to the other. This is your bracket-to-bracket measurement. Now add 3 more inches for the right side return, another 3 inches for the left side return, and 6 inches more for the center overlap. This figure will be your finished measurement. Be sure your finished measurement includes all these measurements; the bracket-to-bracket measurement plus the two side returns and the center overlap.

Rods should be at least 4 inches above the window so that hooks and pleating can not be seen from the outside. A similar 4 inch allowance at the bottom will keep the bottom hem out of sight.

Apron length draperies: measure from top of rod to desired length, add 1 inch for finished length.

Floor length draperies: Measure from top of rod to floor or carpet. This is finished length, no allowance necessary.

Ceiling to floor draperies: Measure from ceiling to floor and deduct 1 inch for finished length. Repeat measurements at two or three places across the span. Remember to measure from the ceiling and not from the rod.

Freeze Main Dishes For Your Convenience

Home frozen main dishes are a boon to the busy homemaker, one nutritionist said this week.

"Frozen combination main dishes can add variety to our menu, offer quick meals for unexpected guests and provide appetizing, nutritious foods on busy days," Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, noted.

In spite of the variety of frozen prepared foods on market, Miss Reasonover pointed out that it is usually more economical to make your own. You can cook enough for several meals when you have time and then the family favorites even on busy days, she said.

"You can freeze all of the prepared food in meal-size packages or serve part of the food immediately and freeze the rest."

Turning to specific directions, the specialist said, "Place food to be frozen in the dish in which it is to be cooked, but first line the pan with heat-resistant freezer wrap.

"Press the food to the slope of the container to prevent air pockets. Pull the wrap over the food. Put edges of the wrap together and fold several times so the wrap lies directly on top of the food."

"Fold ends of the freezer wrap and seal with freezer tape. Label with the name of the food, date frozen and last date the food should be used for best eating quality. Freeze it immediately."

"After it has been frozen, it may be removed from the container and returned to the freezer. Then when you are ready to use the food, remove the wrap and return to the container to be cooked. Cook the food without thawing," the specialist said.

She suggested some main dishes that freeze well are baked beans, lasagna, meat loaf and chicken a la king. These dishes may be stored in the freezer for six months

NSA Seminar Opened To Office Workers

The upcoming seminar, "Understanding Human Behavior," was the focus of plans completed by the National Secretaries Association during last week's meeting at the Ramada Inn.

Registration for the seminar, which will be held Saturday at the Inn, begins that day at 8:30 a.m., with the program to begin at 9 a.m. The guest speaker will be Dr. Clarence D. Kron of the University of Texas, Permian Basin. The seminar is open to the public, and the NSA has issued an invitation for all office workers, men or women, to attend. The fee of $10 includes the noon luncheon. Those wishing to pre-register are asked to call Mrs. Mary Thomas, 263-4797. At the monthly meeting, the program was given by a guest speaker, Theron Lee, of the Howard College staff. Lee described the college's adult education program, stressing that adult education can teach a person how to make a living, can encourage them to continue their education in the liberal arts area and can help them become a contributing member of society.

Lee said there are four categories of adult education. These are special interest courses, business, trade and industrial, and pre-vocational.

"By 1981, there will be 12 million students of all ages enrolled in colleges," noted Lee. "About one-half will be from 18 to 21 years of age, and the other half will be 23 to 65 years of age. Right now, approximately 41 per cent of college enrollment is made up of women." In closing, he said the college plans classes in February and March on women and the law.

Mrs. Juanita Seitzler presided, introducing the speakers, Mrs. Fred Butler and Mrs. Sue Baker. The attendance prize was won by Mrs. D. W. Overman.

The next meeting, following the seminar, will be Nov. 25.

Big Spring Men Earn Degrees

Two Big Spring men were among those earning their bachelor of arts degree in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences at the end of the summer session at the University of Texas in Austin. They are Marshall Lynn Cauley, son of Dr. D. Mrs. Marshall Cauley, 534 Scott, and Donale Earl Hickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hickson, formerly of 2708 Crestline but now of San Angelo.

Martha Feared For Her Life

CHICAGO (AP) — Martha Mitchell says that she feared for her life when Richard M. Nixon was president.
"I was afraid of being killed," said the estranged wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Mitchell is now standing trial on charges stemming from the Watergate cover-up.
"Since Mr. Nixon cleared out of the White House, I don't have as much fear," Mrs. Mitchell said Thursday. But she claims that the Ford administration has her telephone tapped, checks her mail and assigns agents to follow her. She did not elaborate on the belief.
Mrs. Mitchell talked with reporters after an appearance on a Chicago television program.
Rumors that she had been drinking before she made some of her celebrated telephone calls were "part of the (Nixon) administration's policy to discredit women," she said.

Suspend Students

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eight Austin High School students have been suspended following disturbances earlier this week between racial groups, school officials said today.
Three students were suspended Tuesday after four white students were assaulted and one was taken to a private physician for treatment.
Wednesday morning before school about 40 students, including blacks, whites and Mexican-Americans, gathered across the street from the school in a vacant lot. Principal William Robbins said four men teachers talked the group back into classrooms without any violence. He said five boys, "those trying to agitate the others to fight," were suspended. Twelve parents, members of the adult human relations committee, remained at the high school the remainder of the day.
Robbins said there were no disturbances Thursday.
The eight students and their parents will appear Monday in a hearing before the school's faculty advisory council as provided by the discipline policy of the Austin school district.

DOROTHY BANKS

"HARVEY" — Jamie Petty, left, and Scott Sullivan rehearse a scene for the upcoming production of "Harvey," to be presented by the drama department of Big Spring High School. Jamie takes the role of Mrs. Chuvener, and Scott portrays Elwood P. Dowd. The play will take place Nov. 22 and 23 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Tickets are $2.00 for adults and $1.50 for students.

From Bra Burning To Political Aims Women's Lib

BY SUSIE RITZ

The cigarette slogan says, "You've come a long way, Baby". In the twenties, women were primarily concerned with the Suffrage Act. In the Seventies, women have become deeply involved in every field of endeavor.

Women's Libbers have been replaced by a new more sophisticated breed, "the Feminists" who no longer burn bras but aim their efforts to the political freedom of all people.

The Howard County Library has a large selection of works available to anyone interested in the political status of women throughout American History.

Some of the material available includes: Martin Gruberg's "Women in American Politics," which is an up to date history of the role played by women in American politics or William Chafe's "The American Woman," which documents the struggle against sexual inequality in the United States from 1920 to 1970.

The library also has "Movers and Shakers" by June Sochen. The book exposes the important women thinkers and activists of this century, Miss Sochen credits many women and singles out Fanny Hurst, Pearl Buck and Eleanor Roosevelt as outstanding.

Some other movement books at the Howard County Library are "The Feminine Mystique" by Betty Freidan, "Male Chauvinism" by Michael Kardas, and "The Female Eunuch" by Germaine Greer.

STUCK IN THE MIDDLE AND LOOKING AROUND — Miss Dorothy Baldrige, 20, can't decide whether voting for Republicans or Democrats would be best for Big Spring, which lies in the background. Like other residents, Dorothy has been bombarded with propaganda from all sides and has until Tuesday, Nov. 5, to decide. For state senator, there are two choices: Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Mary Virginia Kirchoff, R-Plainview. John R. (Rich) Anderson, R-Borden County, and Michael H. Ezzell, D-Snyder, both want to be state representative. Mary Joy Cowper, R-Big Spring, faces James M. Binion, D, for a seat on the State Board of Education. Bill Tune, D, Jerry Worthy, R, and incumbent A. G. Mitchell, write-in, all want the county judgeship. And Paul Shaffer, R-Big Spring, and Ike Rupard, D-Sand Springs, both are seeking to be county commissioner of precinct two.

Gould, Cookie Monster In TV 'Out To Lunch'

NEW YORK (AP) — Elliott Gould, the costar of "California Split," split from California last week to go before the cameras in New York. A bawdy spy story? A new caper flick? A civilian sequel to "M-A-S-H"?

Nope, it's a one-hour special produced by, ah, the Children's Television Workshop.

Gould, whose movies tend to have him cast as a delegate from the lunatic fringe, seems a quietly sane, basically decent guy. But his CTW show has a touch of lunacy, which may be why he agreed to do it.

Called "Out to Lunch," it concerns what might happen if Gould, costar Rita Moreno and some of CTW's "Electric Company" and "Sesame Street" gang took over ABC-TV while the network's executives were at lunch.

The execs will find out when ABC airs the show the night of Dec. 10.

Gould, who rarely appears on TV, had a reasonably logical explanation for appearing in the show.

"We talked about the material," he grinned, "and once they said that I could work with the Cookie Monster and Big Bird, I said, 'You got me.'"

The tall, 36-year-old actor, comfortably attired in sweater and baggy blue jeans, said his last big TV shot was in 1964, when he costarred with Carol Burnett in the musical, "Once Upon a Mattress."

He said the main reasons he agreed to do the coming special were that CTW does the "most refreshing and consistent work I've seen and because all my children" — he has three — "watch it and identify with it."

He was asked if he's had any offers to start in a TV series and if he'd ever seriously consider one.

"I haven't had any offers," Gould said, violating a show biz rule which says all in-demand movie actors shall grumble about a constant deluge of TV offers. "I would think about it seriously."

"But I think it's premature for me right now, since there are some films I've got to do."

And I want to make my own films. I think once I'm doing that, I'd be more interested

Political Foes Make Hay Over Dismissal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The University of Texas, one of this country's educational Goliaths, once again is watching apprehensively to see who moves through the revolving door to its president's office.

Nine times in 30 years a different chief executive has sat in that office. Since the recent firing of Stephen Spurr, the school has had a temporary head, Lorene Rogers, pending the selection of a permanent president.

Both major candidates for governor have called for public disclosure of the reasons for Spurr's ouster.

It is commonplace for Texas political candidates to comment on disputes at the university, a practice deplored by the academic community at the 41,000-student campus.

Chancellor Charles LeMaistre fired Spurr from his $49,000-a-year post Sept. 23.

TRUMPED UP

Spurr said it was done in LeMaistre's office and that LeMaistre privately listed several "trumped up" and "ludicrous" reasons for his unhappiness with Spurr's performance. These included his "political insensitivity" in paring politicians from the guest list at the school's cocktail parties before football games, Spurr said.

LeMaistre, 50, is a lanky, silver-haired, blue-eyed physician who rose through the administrative ranks of the university's medical school at Dallas and was appointed chancellor in 1970 because, among other reasons, he was a hardliner on student protest, calling it "one of the silliest ways to express yourself."

Spurr, 56, is a balding, soft-spoken forest ecologist who came to Texas in 1971 from the University of Michigan, where he was vice president and graduate dean.

The dismissal shocked Charles Alan Wright, former President Richard Nixon's principal lawyer in the early days of the Watergate investigation and a law faculty member.

"I would regard this as the darkest day in the 20 years I've been at the university," Wright said.

Spurr blamed Frank Erwin, the school's most influential regent, for his ouster. He said Erwin pressured the administration to admit a friend of Erwin to law school who otherwise was unqualified.

Erwin called Spurr a "goddamned liar."

LeMaistre accused Spurr of going over his head to the regents.

Spurr denied that charge in an uncharacteristically earthy statement to the Faculty Senate: "I'm not by nature a politician, but I don't run my office apolitically. I've tried to work within the system, but my philosophy has been that I wouldn't if I may say so, kiss anybody's ass."

Two days after the dismissal, the Board of Regents backed LeMaistre, 8-0, with Lady Bird Johnson abstaining. Mrs. Johnson said she lacked sufficient information to support the action, yet would not oppose it because "It's hard to be boss—I remember."

Five days later, the General Faculty voted approximately 500 to 50 to call for LeMaistre's immediate resignation. He refused.

LeMaistre also declined to go beyond his general statement to the regents that his confidence in Spurr had severely eroded.

CHARGES FLY

Spurr demanded public charges, Erwin said Spurr was trying to goad the administration into doing something that would allow Spurr to file suit in federal court.

Under federal law, Erwin said, the regents were safe as long as they said nothing that might damage Spurr's professional reputation.

"We can remove him from office and give no reasons and look like a bunch of dumbasses ... or subject ourselves to a lawsuit," Erwin said.

Gov. Briscoe demanded on Oct. 9 that the reasons be made public.

One of the governor's opponents in 1972, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, was strongly supported by Erwin.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill later ruled that the university must allow faculty members to see their personnel files. Whether this applies to an administrator-professor has not been determined and the issue could reach the courts.

Briscoe said the regents were like any other board and owed it to the people, who are stockholders of the school, to explain their action.

Under the Texas Constitution, the governor can call a hearing for removal of an agency head who fails to make such a report at the governor's request.

Spurr has tenure as a forest ecology professor at the university's Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs. He says he had not expected to last long as president because "there are two universities that are historically famous for their high turnover of presidents—the Universities of Colorado and Texas."

Politics has been the bad-breathed Siamese twin of the university since its birth.

Regents are appointed by the governor. The governors have been conservative and they have appointed conservative businessmen.

Conservative businessmen and the academic community perceive each other with as much objectivity as if from opposite ends of a telescope.

In 1915, Gov. James E. Ferguson demanded the dismissal of six professors who had opposed him politically. Failing that, Ferguson vetoed the university's appropriations.

Students and faculty angrily marched to the Capitol, six blocks from the campus. The courts restored the appropriations, and Ferguson was impeached and convicted two years later on charges growing out of his dispute with the school and also for misapplication of funds.

In 1944, the regents fired President Homer P. Rainey because he refused to fire three professors who taught New Deal economics. Other reasons for the dismissal were his refusal to fire the school's most famous professor, folklorist J. Frank Dobie, and his refusal to take a Dos Passos novel, "The Big Money," out of the library.

The American Association of University Professors censured Texas and for years afterward the school's faculty recruiters were as welcome as lepers.

Rainey's successors tipped from appointment to resignation: Theophilus S. Painter, James C. Dooley, Logan Wilson, Harry Ransom, Joseph R. Smiley, Norman Hackerman, Bryce Jordan, Stephen Spurr.

The regents created a chancellorship over the presidency in 1950, abolished it in 1954, recreated it in 1960 when they abolished the presidency, then changed their minds again and re-established the presidency in 1967.

Erwin was appointed regent by Gov. John Con-
